500,000 Telephone Workers Strike

Walkout Expected To Last Two Weeks

WASHINGTON (AP) - A strike by some 500,000 workers in the Bell telephone system began this morning with the prediction it would last for at least two weeks. There was little public inconvenience at the start of the action.

Pickets were up early at many Bell plants and Western Electric facilities, many even before the 6 a.m. (EDT) deadline.

Cumbersome union ratification procedures guarantee the strike, expected to involve 500,000 workers, will last two weeks after any tentative agreement, which is not in sight despite a last-minute contract offer Tuesday by management.

Because telephones are so highly automated, calls will continue to go through until lack of maintenance causes breakdowns.

In strike-affected areas most new telephone installations ceased, as did repair service on all but government-operated telephones essential for national security.

The strike by the AFL-CIO Communications Workers of America and allied unions is over wages and fringe issues, including the CWA's demand for an agency shop and the company's alleged "antifeminist" job policies.

Last May 23, the union rejected a three-year wage and benefit package the company said amounted to a 30-percent increase, including a 17-percent boost in wages alone.

Current pay ranges from tops of $118 for operators to $193 for craftsmen.

Bell's parent company, American Telephone and Telegraph Co., said Tuesday it had a new offer. Terms were not released, but in a statement the C & P Telephone Co. of Washington said it was presenting a pact for consideration.

More than 30 percent in wages and fringes" over three years.

A C & P spokesman said the offer provided for a 16-percent boost in the first year, but he did not give full details.

Two and a half hours after AT&T announced it had a new offer, Joseph A. Beirne, CWA president, dismissed it as a scandalous public-relations trick.

Wildcat strikes spread from Virginia to California even as he spoke.

Pacific Telephone Co. said 2,500 workers were off the job early Tuesday night in San Francisco and East San Francisco Bay communities.

In Miami, an AT&T spokesman said, striking telephone company employees walked off the job and cut cables, knocking out some circuits that were repaired later by supervisors.

Some 200 CWA members in Middletown, Ohio, went off the job early "tired of waiting," they said, for the morning's deadline.

At Nashville's Western Electric plant, an arm of the Bell system, all 70 workers walked off the job just before midnight in protest of the suspension of 12 workers the company said had slowed production.

The plant was forced to close. Beirne said the strike would last at least two weeks because it can only be stopped under new union by-laws, by a mail referendum of the entire union membership.

Each member must receive a printed copy of the contract proposal by mail. The union said the strike at first would idle 400,000 CWA members and 100,000 members of other unions expected to observe picket lines.

Beirne said the national IBEW had said no plans were afoot for a walkout. Non-Bell systems were not County.

Horses In Texas Under Quarantine

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) - Texas horses were confined on their own farms and ranches today under a strict quarantine imposed by the Texas Animal Health Commission in an effort to stamp out a spreading strain of sleeping sickness.

The embargo allows only those horses that are individually identified and have been vaccinated against Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis (VEE with TC83 vaccine for at least 14 days to be moved.)

The U. S. Department of Agriculture earlier made the experimental vaccine available and embargoes the shipment of horses from one county to another and out of state.

New Mexico, Louisiana and Oklahoma closed their borders to horses from Texas.

Dr. H. Q. Sibley, executive director of the Texas Animal Health Commission, said the quarantine is "an emergency situation that will stop all rodeos, horse shows, race meets and other activities involving horses."

A spokesman for the 90-member state and federal VEE task force said Tuesday the number of horses with "clinically observed" symptoms of the disease passed the 100 mark. The cases are in South Texas, but new counties are added to the list daily.

Counties where the VEE symptoms have been sighted are Matagorda, Refugio, Calhoun, San Patricio, Aransas, Nueces, Cameron, Hidalgo and Starr. There were reports, although unconfirmed, of the disease in Harris County near Houston.

The disease, a rare strain of "sleeping sickness," strikes the central nervous system of horses and is spread by three or four varieties of common mosquitoes.

Task force officials say the disease has killed thousands of horses during the past two years as it spread northward out of Central and South America into Mexico.

The disease can spread from horses to humans if a mosquito first bites an infected horse and then bites a human, task force spokesmen say.

Dr. Thomas A. Fashinell of the U. S. Public Health Service Center for Disease Control, Atlanta, Ga., said Tuesday VEE is milder with humans than with horses.

Dr. James Peavy of the Texas Health Department said seven persons have been hospitalized at Brownsville with VEE symptoms. A hospital spokesman said a total of seven persons have been hospitalized since the start of the outbreak, but only three remained Tuesday.

"VEE is a very mild disease for humans. They usually recover in a couple of days," Dr. Fashinell said. "I hope it continues mild," he added.

Dr. Fashinell, who has worked in Mexico where the disease has killed horses and hospitalized small children in the Tampico area, said "We don't know everything, we need to know about this disease, but we think we know about 90 percent of it."

Dr. Peavy, who toured the Lower Rio Grande Valley Tuesday where most of the cases have been "clinically observed," said the U. S. Agriculture Department has asked the Bureau of the Budget for additional funds to expand the current in the state after 14 days. This would allow sufficient time for the rodeo stock to be moved to Pampa, since the rodeo opening is 20 days away.

"We feel sure the Pampa rodeo will go on as scheduled," Gray said. "We should have the final word in a few days."

Don Jones, executive secretary of the American Quarter Horse Association, Amarillo, said today there is little likelihood the disease will spread as far north as the Panhandle because of a vaccine that has been released and due to the strict controls on horses in the Rio Grande Valley area where the disease is centered.

The vaccine, which had been used only on an experimental basis, now has been made available through the USDA to the Texas Animal Health Commission, which is distributing the vaccine to licensed local veterinarians.

The vaccine will be free, but individual veterinarians will charge for the inoculations.

The quarantine will apply to all unvaccinated horses which may not move even within the county in which they are kept.

Jones said in making the announcement, horses vaccinated may move inter-county and interstate after a 14-day period, which is considered sufficient time for the vaccination to take effect.

WHEELER CANCELS RODEO Pampa Hopeful TOT Show Will Be Held

Officials of the Top O' Texas Rodeo Association were biding their time today to see what effect, if any, the current State of Texas quarantine of all movement of horses within the state will have on Pampa's upcoming RCA Rodeo scheduled for Aug. 4-7 at Recreation Park.

The quarantine was ordered in an effort to curb the spread of Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis, a sleeping sickness, which also affects humans. The annual rodeo at nearby Wheeler, scheduled to open tomorrow and run through Saturday, was cancelled today by Gerald Johnson, president of the Wheeler Riding Club.

The state quarantine order was given as reason for the cancellation in a radio message from the Wheeler County sheriff's office to the Gray County sheriff's department.

In a long distance telephone talk this forenoon with Tommy Steiner, Austin, who will furnish stock for the Pampa rodeo, rodeo association officials learned Steiner is hopeful the Pampa show will go on as scheduled.

Holly Gray, president of the local rodeo association, reported Steiner said he was vaccinating all of his stock today.

Steiner added that the quarantine order says animals vaccinated now may be moved

Congress Asked To Delay Funds For N-Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) - Declaring the nation must not deploy new weapons while trying to limit old ones. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., asked Congress today to delay all funds for the multiple-warhead system called MIRV.

Humphrey told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee the total cost of equipping all land- and sea-based missiles with MIRV tips may exceed an estimated $12 billion. He said in prepared remarks such "enormous expenditures" have not been justified by the Nixon administration.

Employing such a system now, Humphrey said, could unbalance what he called the parity between U.S. and Russian missile forces and distort arms limitation talks under way with the Soviet Union.

Pampa Boy Reported In Good Condition

Steven Counts, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Counts, 1109 Darby, was listed in satisfactory condition at Highland General Hospital shortly before noon today following a near-drowning incident at the Municipal Swimming Pool about 11:30 a.m.

The boy reportedly was swimming with a group participating in a special summer recreation program when the incident occurred.

Bob McAllister, director, reportedly pulled the boy from the water and administered artificial resuscitation before an ambulance arrived.

PICKET LINE GREETING - Mrs. Janice Taylor, 1225 Darby, Southwestern Bell Telephone operator, was not relieved of duties this morning as Bell operators refused to cross picket lines formed by Western Electric workers at 5 a.m. today. Pickets included Gary Edwards, left, and West Hunter, right, both of Amarillo. Sixty-five operators including Mrs. Taylor, and seven inside men are affected by the picket. Company officials said today supervisory personnel would man the boards in the office. (Staff Photo)

Local Telephone Operators And Switchmen Honor Picket Lines

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. operators and switchmen and toll board personnel honored picket lines put up at 5 a.m. today at the Bell facility by employees of Western Electric, subsidiary of Southwestern Bell.

Personnel going off duty at 5:30 a.m. were not relieved as a result of the lines.

Pampa area manager George Newberry this morning issued a statement concerning the picket which said:

"The present strike of the Communications Workers of America is against the Western Electric Company - not Southwestern Bell.

"The contract between Southwestern Bell and the union remains in effect and negotiations between company and union are still in progress.

"We regret that the CWA had seen fit to take this action against the public interest. We don't want a strike and we know the public doesn't want a strike."

"However, we do have pickets at several locations, resulting in some work stoppage. Meanwhile, the company is doing everything possible to see that the public continues to receive good telephone service.

Switchboards are being manned and vital equipment is being maintained.

"Local calls and customer-aided Long Distance calls are going through pretty much as usual."

"We think we can continue to give customers good service and speed their calls through if they will: Dial their own local and Long Distance calls; Look up numbers in their directory, rather than calling the Directory Assistance operator and Delay move or installation requests until the work stoppage is over."

"Callers who require the assistance of an operator may encounter some delays. Often a man may answer. He will do everything possible to complete the calls, though it may take a little longer than usual."

Newberry said the present picket affects 65 operators and seven inside men. No outside personnel are affected.

Supervisory personnel has been called into continuous service for the company.

Western Electric based in Amarillo, supplied switchboard and inside equipment for Southwestern Bell.

Newberry pointed out that offices in Shamrock, Canadian and Borger were not affected by the walk-out here and in Amarillo and Hereford.

Union negotiators are presently meeting with Southwestern Bell Telephone spokesmen in St. Louis to work out agreement for an ensuing contract.

The present telephone company union contract expires July 18.

Head Of County Schools To Resign

Gray County Superintendent of Schools L. E. Penick, has submitted his resignation, due to health reasons, to the County Commissioners Court.

County Judge Don Cain said this morning the resignation would be effective July 30.

Commissioners will appoint a successor for Penick, elected in Nov., 1970.

The county superintendent position involves overseeing Texas - Education Agency programs in the Grandview, Hopkins and Alanreed schools.

The county superintendent also acts as superintendent of Grandview School, District 17.

Action on the matter is expected to be taken when commissioners meet Aug. 2.

Gray County Equalization Board Expected To End Meeting Today

Gray County Commissioners, sitting as a Board of Equalization yesterday for industrial, oil and gas and utility tax roll representatives, concurred with representatives of professional evaluators.

Jack Back also advised commissioners had planned consultation with valuation consultants in the near future as an initial move to oversee employment of personnel to carry out the commission authorization to begin revaluation.

The court is in session again today as an Equalization Board. County Judge Don Cain stated early today the board would probably conclude its work by noon.

Commissioners and the tax assessor agreed yesterday to complete revaluation and equalization of properties within the county before the roll for 1972 is completed. Taxes for 1971 will see a 15 percent increase, based on the present valuation.

Approximately 40 representatives of oil companies, and industrial concerns attended the session yesterday.

Jack Back also advised commissioners had planned consultation with valuation consultants in the near future as an initial move to oversee employment of personnel to carry out the commission authorization to begin revaluation.

The court is in session again today as an Equalization Board. County Judge Don Cain stated early today the board would probably conclude its work by noon.

Commissioners will reconvene Aug. 17 at 9 a.m. as a Board of Equalization to hear rural and city property owners' questions.

House Kills Contempt Citation Against CBS

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House has indirectly killed the CBS "Selling of the Pentagon" contempt citation without cutting to the constitutional heart of the subpoena dispute.

"The 1st Amendment towers over this proceeding like a colossus, and no esprit de corps or tenderness of one member for another should cause us to topple over this monument to our liberties," House dean and Judiciary Committee Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said Tuesday during the debate.

But instead of going to a direct floor vote that could have forced a court fight between broadcast journalists and legislators, the House laid the case to rest with a parliamentary maneuver that avoided outright rejection of a committee recommendation.

"I feel that this is a sad day for the American people," Commerce Committee Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., said after the House, by a 226-181 vote, returned the citation to his panel. That committee had urged contempt action against the Columbia Broadcasting System for refusing to supply untelvised material from the news documentary.

Staggers pronounced the citation dead. "We could do a lot of things, but I don't see any sense in it. It would just be a futile effort." Staggers said he plans no new effort to cite CBS for contempt.

TO FIGHT DEFICIT

U.S. Appears To Be Returning To Tough Yankee-Trader Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States appears returning to the tough-Yankee-trader stance as an answer to the record trade deficit American industry is expected to suffer this year at the hands of Japan.

Although the Tokyo government has liberalized import restrictions on American products in recent months, the United States will come up more than $2 billion short in its 1971 trade with Japan, according to administration predictions.

Results include a near nonexistent U.S. trade surplus, of extreme concern to an American government increasingly worried about the political impact of a troubled economy.

While details of the Nixon administration's course are under study and publicly unstated, their direction—including economic saber-rattling—is becoming increasingly clear.

One administration expert said there is no longer reason for not having full reciprocity in trade with Japan, a tougher U.S. attitude.

Suggestions under consideration include more quotas on Japanese goods imported here, enforcement of old laws aimed at unfair trade policies and a tighter use of legislation to prevent the so-called dumping of Japanese goods on the American market.

Also being studied are proposals to impose countervailing duties—additional charges on imported products subsidized by a foreign nation—and restrictions on foreign capital investment in the United States.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers pointing out that Japan has recovered from World War II to become an economic and political world power, said recently:

"It goes without saying that Japan must act with the sense of responsibility appropriate to its new position. Its economic policies, for example, must be subject to the same criteria as those of other major developed countries. In our bilateral economic relationships Japan can not expect privileges in the United States which it is not itself prepared to extend."

The secretary said this year's deficit with Japan probably would double the $1.2-billion figure of 1970 and will exceed the record $1.9 billion set in 1969.

Two Astronauts Give Depositions On Stock Case

DALLAS (AP) — Moon astronaut Charles Conrad Jr. was just back from the Apollo 12 venture and still in quarantine when he first learned that Houston financier Frank W. Sharp wanted to sell him stock in the National Bankers Life Insurance Co., it was disclosed here Tuesday.

New depositions filed by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission in the court of federal judge Sarah T. Hughes included one from Conrad and another from his fellow astronaut, James Lovell.

Conrad was quoted as saying that he had known Sharp, whose complex financial dealings play a role in the SEC civil suit alleging stock manipulation, for "probably quite a few years."

Two Pampa Men Injured In Separate Car Mishaps

Floyd N. Smith, 232 Canadian, city of Pampa employe, was slightly injured shortly after 8 a.m. today in a tractor-car collision near the intersection of Rham and Hobart. Smith was taken to Highland General Hospital by a city vehicle.

Police reports stated the city-owned tractor driven was northbound on Hobart when a car driven by Phyllis Kay McGahen, 16, 1044 S. Faulkner was in collision with the rear wheel of the tractor.

Miss McGahen was cited by investigating city police officers for failure to control speed to avoid an accident.

Alfred Chester Oxley, 17, 918 S. Sumner, was transported to Highland General Hospital for emergency treatment last night following a car-motorcycle collision at the intersection of Nelson and Alcock. Police said a car driven by Ronny Lee Stokes, 405 N. Nelson, was southbound on Nelson. The automobile reportedly stopped before proceeding across Alcock where the collision occurred.

Oxley was westbound on Alcock.

Stokes was cited by police for failure to yield right-of-way as a result of the incident.

TOKYO (AP) — The Kawasaki Kisen Kaisha ship company said a poll of 3,000 crewmen gave ports at Sydney, Australia; Hong Kong, and San Francisco the best ratings for cleanliness.

Speaker Reported He Won't Repay Debt To Sharptown State Bank

HOUSTON (AP)—The Houston Post said today it has been told by an unnamed source that House Speaker Gus Mutscher does not intend to repay his debt to the Sharptown State Bank.

This information came in testimony Mutscher gave to Securities and Exchange Commission investigators in Austin Friday, the newspaper said its sources revealed. The testimony has not been made public.

The Post said it also has learned that on the day a $200,000 interest payment was due to the bank, Frank W. Sharp, the bank president, agreed to loan Mutscher the needed funds. However, the Post source quoted Mutscher as saying he had no record if the loan as "it was an oral note."

The newspaper said its source reported that the four-hour session in Austin revealed that Mutscher's lawyers have notified the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. that Mutscher will not repay the loan. The FDIC has taken over the now defunct bank.

The Post said it believes Mutscher's stated reason for refusing payment is that he contends he was defrauded.

Mutscher would not confirm or deny any of the reported testimony. He referred questions to his lawyer, Al Curry in Houston.

"I don't want to state anything one way or the other about what I told the SEC," Mutscher told the Post. "I think this bears out the fact that in all of these transactions I very definitely lost money."

Curry declined to comment on the matter.

"I personally am not handling that matter and don't know the situation," Curry said. "I have to decline comment because I'm not really representing him relative to that note."

Testimony taken by the SEC in January put the amount of Mutscher's total debt to the bank at $332,008. Mutscher indicated that he was trying to repay the loan and had put up some real estate as collateral.

Previous testimony showed that on July 22, 1968, Mutscher bought 10,000 shares of National Bankers Life Insurance Co. stock, borrowing the needed $130,250 from the Sharptown bank July 28. The loan was repaid Sept. 11, the same day that Mutscher sold 7,500 shares of NBL stock to the Jesuit Fathers of Houston at $20 a share for a profit of $52,500.

mosquito spraying operations in Texas.

The spraying of Malathion, an insecticide, over the valley is being carried out by three U.S. Air Force planes from Elgin Air Force Base, Fla., and Langley Air Force Base, Va. The huge C123 "providers" began spraying Malathion last Saturday.

A. U. S. Air Force entomologist said the Malathion, to be effective for such a mosquito eradication program, must be sprayed when the temperatures ranges from 60-80 degrees and when the wind is blowing at than 10 miles per hour. Spraying operations in the semi-tropical valley must be completed by about 10 a.m. each day, the spokesman said.

Two Pampa Officials Attend Water School

Jerry Harris, city utilities director, and Tony Anderson, water superintendent, are attending the water school in Amarillo being sponsored by the Texas A&M Extension Service.

The school is offering a 16 week course in water and waste water operation and laboratory analysis.

The two Pampa officials attended sessions yesterday and today and will continue to attend interspersed sessions through October.

JIMMY LEE EVANS

Funeral services for Jimmy Lee Evans, 30, of Amarillo, were scheduled for 10 a.m. today at the Grantham Funeral Home Chapel in Ryan, Okla.

John Baker, minister of Ryan Church of Christ, officiated. Burial was in the Ryan Cemetery.

Mr. Evans was born in Ryan and lived in Borger and Pampa before moving to Amarillo about two years ago.

Mr. Evans was found dead about 1:15 a.m. Saturday at his home.

A .22 caliber pistol was found nearby.

Potter County Justice of the Peace, Cliff Roberts pronounced Mr. Evans dead at the scene and ordered an autopsy.

Chamber Member Strike ... Total Pushed To 800 By Drive

York, Massachusetts and North Carolina and Western Electric installers in New York.

Pickets took stations in Texas cities today as a nationwide strike of telephone employes began.

Spokesmen for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and the Communications Workers of America said picketing generally began on schedule at 5 a.m.

There was no word of any disorder.

Company officials had said in advance that supervisory employes would replace striking absentees. They suggested that long distance customers dial direct wherever possible to avoid possible delay.

It was estimated the walkout could affect about five million telephones in the state.

The recent membership drive of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce added 146 new members to the rolls, according to a final campaign report at yesterday's monthly meeting of chamber directors.

Addition of new members brings the total membership to approximately 800, according to Jerry Sims, chamber finance director.

Awards to winning teams in the membership contest were made yesterday as follows:

First place award, consisting of a week-end fishing trip, went to Newt Secrest and his team made up of Gene Barrett, A. B. Conway, and Harris Brinson. The top salesman award, an engraved wall plaque, went to Gene Barrett of the winning team for signing up 36 new members.

Second place award, fishing rods and reels, went to Al Easett's team composed of Frank Culberson, Floyd Imel, and Jim Casey.

Third place team, headed by Jerry Sims with John Gikas, John Maxwell and J. C. Roberts, received spinning rods.

Several reports on chamber activities were made, including the up-coming Tri-State Senior Golf Tournament, Miss Top O' Texas Pageant, Independence Day Program, and others.

The annual membership meeting was scheduled for October, with the executive board authorized to plan the program.

It was announced that the Santa Fe Railroad Co. had agreed to perform switching services on the newly acquired Industrial Park trackage, formerly the old Fort Worth and Denver property.

Regular monthly membership luncheons will be resumed Sept. 27 after a recess during the summer months.

Red Cross To Hold Life-Saving Class In Water Safety

Instructors are Tat Homer and Mrs. James Bailey.

City Tax Office Employee Resigns

Mrs. Jo Ann Burch, clerk in charge of collections at the City Hall tax office, has resigned effective July 30, City Tax Collector Aubrey Jones announced today.

Jones said Mrs. Burch is moving from Pampa to Plainview where her husband is employed with the Plainview Herald.

She had been with the city tax department three years.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: May I use your column to offer some advice? Girls, never accompany your husband to his class reunion unless you went to the same school and know some of the same people. I just returned from attending my husband's 25th high school reunion and I've never had a lousier time. Ralph was (and still is) a handsome fellow, and he was popular in high school, so when we walked in everyone fell on his neck. He introduced me around and I never saw him again until it was time to go home. I didn't know a soul, so while Ralph was laughing and talking with his old school chums I sat alone in a corner like a bump on a log, bored to tears. Everyone was showing pictures of their children and grandchildren and talking about "old times."

I'm not faulting Ralph. I know he hadn't seen these people for 25 years and had a lot of catching up to do, so I couldn't expect him to see that I was entertained.

So, girls, stay home and let your husbands go to their class reunions alone, unless you enjoy sitting in a corner, talking to yourselves.

BEEN THERE DEAR BEEN: Your letter makes a lot of sense. But some wives would rather go and sit like bumps on a log than send their husbands to such affairs alone.

DEAR ABBY: I read the letter from "Mule's Wife," who said her husband refused to wear a tuxedo to their son's wedding, but if you, Dear Abby, would say the word, he'd rent

POLLY'S POINTERS

Poor Phone Manners Are Her Pet Peeve

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve concerns telephone manners. Parents allow their small children to answer the phone and then take their own sweet time about coming to get the call. I also resent teenagers who answer the phone by saying, "Who is this?" "What do you want with her?" Also, to say nothing of those men who say to women callers, "State your business" or "What's your business?" or "Who are you?" Why can't people be polite on the phone?

MRS. G.S.H.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — I would like some suggestions from the readers for inexpensive games and other ways of entertaining children, ages 9, 6 and 2, while we make a 2,000-mile trip by car.

MRS. C. H.

DEAR POLLY — Do tell Mrs. E. C., who wanted help with improving the looks of her worn metal kitchen cabinets, that almost two years ago we painted over ours with a good-quality hard enamel, using a four-inch roller, and they still look great.

DOROTHY

DEAR POLLY and Mrs. E. C. — When we bought an older house, we could not afford to replace the worn white metal cabinets so we used a commercial wood-graining kit, which is applied like antiquing. Next, we applied a coat of high-gloss varnish for protection and then a coat of flat varnish for a more realistic wood-finish look. This has been quite durable by using reasonable care and they do look like wood. The kit for doing this cost less than $5.

FREDA

DEAR POLLY — I want to tell Dot that when we redecorated our kitchen we removed the old, worn, metal cabinets, cleaned them off with trisodium phosphate and then my husband sprayed them with a borrowed paint sprayer, using epoxy paint. We even changed

PEP AT MSCW — Among the 17 high school students enrolled in the Pre-College Enrichment Program this summer at Mississippi State College for Women are, from left, Candy Hinkle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Hinkle, 2326 Aspen, Robin Engle of Bernardsville, N.J., Vicki Abernathy of Kingston, Tenn., Cindy Burch of Caruthersville, Mo., and Mae Claire Welch of Houston. one and wear it. (You said the word, so I assume he wore one.)

Well, last week my granddaughter was married at a formal wedding. Everyone in the wedding party wore tuxedos—except the bridegroom's father. He wore a dark business suit. Nobody cared, and few even noticed it. All eyes were on the bride and bridegroom.

Isn't it better for the father of the bridegroom to feel comfortable in a business suit than to put on a tux and feel like a monkey?

"Mule's Wife" shouldn't let a little thing like that upset her. She should thank God she still has her "mule." Mine passed away 12 years ago, and the tears I shed at my granddaughter's wedding were because my "mule" couldn't be with me to witness his only granddaughter's wedding.

GRANDMA NOVAK

DEAR GRANDMA: I agree with you, but if I hadn't said "the word," the other "mule" wouldn't have worn a tuxedo to his son's wedding, which probably would have spoiled the occasion for his wife. I try to prevent trouble, when possible.

Air Travelers Need Carry-On Luggage

NEW YORK (NEA)—Frequent air travel doesn't enhance the look of expensive luggage. From plane to truck to conveyer the bags take a beating.

"You're far better off when you can take your bags with you on the plane," said Michael Gordon, president of a handbag firm. And he has designed a handsome group of carry-ons for men and women. These pieces are crafted in status materials such as crushed calfskin, sueded boar-hide and cut-velvet that has been Scotch Guarded for protection. The sets consist of a handbag, the old "doctor's bag" and a shoulder bag. And they have such intriguing features as three-position handles and secret compartments.

The firm has long been the ranking handbag firm in the United States. Even the handbag union has tagged it the "king" of manufacturers.

Gordon is a top designer and responsible for many innovations in the field. He holds patents for special hand-grip bags that convert into shoulder straps with the flick of the finger; unusual locks that are also whistles for calling a cab—or a policeman if necessary.

The bags have always been well-made as well as expensive. And Gordon searched for a long time to find a method that would satisfy both ends. Today he has the answer that pleases all. He owns the exclusive rights to a synthetic called Koretta which looks and feels like leather and enables him to sell high style at reasonable prices.

Budapest-born Michael Gordon is a talented musician. He plays five instruments. But his father didn't think there was a future in the arts and got him a job in a handbag shop. And Michael became a star in that field. In his late teens, in Hungary, he was already a successful handbag manufacturer.

When asked how he gets new design ideas, he laughed and said, "I'll show you."

He reached into a desk drawer and brought out magazines of all sorts. In pen and ink he had marked off dozens of new shapes and gadgets for bags on models who were pictured in the ads. Sometimes his ideas are sparked by the fabric print on a bikini, sometimes the belt of an outfit. In one case he had even drawn a new handbag shape around a big pair of sun specs.

He has maintained the quality and the expensive look that gave his firm its excellent reputation in past years but has added many young, kicky designs to the collection—even Hot Pants bags.

Michael Gordon has a healthy respect for America's tanning methods and American workmanship. And he believes American man-made leather fabric is the best you can buy. He gets impatient with what he terms the preoccupation of the American fashion press with European goods.

College For Women Offered This Summer

COLUMBUS, Miss. — Mississippi State College for Women is offering this summer a Pre-College Enrichment Program where 17 outstanding high school seniors will earn college credit.

"Designed to supplement and enrich with college-level courses the education experience of academically superior young women," PEP students are earning up to 14 hours of college credits before high school graduation, said Dr. Ellie Mae Sowder, director of the Honors Program at MSCW.

Students in the program include those from New Jersey, Texas, Tennessee, Missouri and Mississippi.

Paula Thompson, a PEP student from Jackson, said, "You never realize how much you are spoon fed in high school until you get to college. I think I have writer's cramp permanently."

Miss Thompson feels that everyone should have the opportunity to pre-adjust to college life, which is done quickly in "the hectic atmosphere of the 'W.'" This is giving me a chance to get some idea of where I'm going and what I want to do," she said.

Many of the girls, all of whom must have completed their junior year of high school and CHARLOTTE AMALIE, V.I. (AP) — Yoko Ono, wife of Beatle John Lennon, has filed suit in U.S. District Court here seeking custody of her daughter from her first marriage.

Mrs. Lennon claimed that her former husband, Anthony Cox, has had custody of Kyoko, 7, since January 1969. She said Cox has taken Kyoko with him during extensive travels in recent years, but has had no fixed income, employment or home.

Mrs. Lennon also said that despite an agreement to the contrary, Cox refused to allow her rights of visitation or grant her temporary custody.

The motion was scheduled for hearing July 26.

Mrs. Lennon's attorneys told the court that Cox and Kyoko recently left Spain for the United States, but cannot now

Pampa Man Wins Honors of SPSCVTS

Lonnie G. Richardson, 2404 Rosewood, has been named as one of five outstanding trainees for the 1970-71 term of the Southwestern Public Service Company's Vocational Training School.

Richardson, who is a first year apprentice lineman for the electric company, won the honor for earning a 96.5 grade average in a basic match course and Orientation and Basic Line Skills Fundamentals. He had a perfect attendance record for 88 classroom hours on his own time and outside of his work schedule. The perfect attendance record is more exceptional because of the fact that it required a weekly round trip to Amarillo to attend the vocational school, Larry Simms was the instructor for the courses.

Richardson will join the four other outstanding trainees on a tour of his company's service area in late July as a reward for his accomplishments and will, in addition, receive a certificate for his record.

AGELESS ATHLETES

Rainmakers Say Cloud Seeding Works

Editor's note: Men have beat war drums, set off explosives, unleashed mystery gases and resorted to all other devices they could conceive in an effort to milk moisture from the skies. History records few successes. Now comes cloud seeding. It is considerably more sophisticated. And the rainmakers say it works.

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer
SAN ANGELO (AP) — It is a ritual of sorts, a daily gathering of research scientists, pilots and weather experts in a colorless old airplane hangar at Mathis Field.

They hover over telephones, chat with a computer, study maps and scan the skies for a buildup of billowing, cauliflower-shaped clouds.

Their target sighted, visually or by radar, a fleet of especially-equipped planes sweeps down the runway and begins thesereal chase across the thirsty ranch and farmland of Southwest Texas.

Although the missions complex, one goal is simple: induce rainfall.

These are professional rainmakers, roaming the sky and firing flares of silver iodide or other materials into the white, puffy cumulus clouds. They've been working here since mid-April.

Called "Project Teacup," the program goes beyond simply making rain. It is a three-year experimental project designed to develop warm cloud seeding technology. What is learned here could be applied to arid areas anywhere in the world.

Financed by the Bureau of Reclamation and administered by the Texas Water Development Board, Teacup was part of a big South Texas rainmaking program which combined the efforts of the Air Force and the Reclamation Bureau.

The latter program, coded "Project Teardrop" and based here and in San Antonio, was created by presidential order last spring to bring relief to drought-stricken South Texas. Teardrop ended its efforts June 30.

Teardrop in effect was an operational program, challenged to produce rainfall, while Teacup generally concentrates on research, exploring the technology of cloud seeding.

Through the years, rainmakers have used cannons, balloons, explosives, witchcraft, dancing Indians and a wide array of devices to make it rain. They have simulated battle conditions, assaulted clouds from land and air, unleashed colored gasses in the atmosphere and spent a lot of time pounding war drums.

Attempts at weather modification in this country date back to the 1800s, but generally there has been more ballyhoo than rainfall.

Not so with cloud seeding, although much remains to be learned.

"We're not doing any magic or wizardry," said the project coordinator at San Antonio, Lt. Robert Sax.

He explained that the release of silver iodide causes water droplets in a cloud to freeze. This in turn releases heat. The heat makes the cloud more buoyant, and "hopefully it makes the cloud grow large enough to create rain," Sax said.

"The bigger the cloud, the more chances of producing rain."

The Teardrop project was ruled a limited success. "We feel we brought an awful lot of moisture to regions of Texas that otherwise would not have received it," said Ray Telfer of Denver, a member of the San Antonio-based team.

Likewise, Dr. Alan Weinstein of Altadena, Calif., project manager for the San Angelo phase, feels the cloud seeding sorties produced significant results.

"There is no question about the fact that weather patterns have gotten wetter since Teardrop was organized ...," he said.

"There is also no question that precipitation would have increased whether Teardrop was here or not, to some extent ... But we know enough about the clouds we've been fooling with to be able to make qualitative judgments.

"There are certain distinct cloud reactions that do occur in response to seeding and we have seen these cloud reactions."

While "satisfied" with the results, Weinstein, a research scientist with Meteorology Research Inc., the subcontractor running Project Teacup, said that "in all honesty, we can't claim credit for all of the precipitation that has occurred."

But he pointed across the runway to a distant field, where water could be seen standing, and said: "How long has it been since you've seen that in San Angelo?"

Weinstein noted that there are different types of clouds, some "cold" some "warm," and they must be seeded differently. In cold cloud treatment, elements such as silver iodide are introduced into the formations. Warm clouds can be seeded with a "hygroscopic" material, such as salt, that readily absorbs moisture.

"If you just go out and treat every cloud that comes along the same way," Weinstein said, "You stand a chance of decreasing precipitation rather than increasing it."

"Right now, in this area, that's something we are being very careful to avoid."

JEANE DIXON Your Horoscope THURSDAY, JULY 15

Your Birthday Thursday: What you are in the world concerns you this year, so that you do a great deal to improve your position. New situations are more interesting than consolidating what already exists. Much work, long planning are needed for big changes that come abruptly. Thursday's natives get into all types of professions... what they have in common is an adventurous streak which leads them to try being different.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (AP) — With little in the news background provide incentive, the stock market skidded sharply today as profit-taking set in. Trading was slow. The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 7.15 to 896.25.

The Pampa Daily News
PAMPA, TEXAS 65th YEAR PAMPA DAILY NEWS
Wednesday, July 14, 1971

By KEN RAPPOORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
DETROIT (AP)—After eight years of All-Star frustration the American League finally found the silver lining...and it came like a bolt out of the blue.

Reggie Jackson's bolt, not Vida Blue's.
While the fans came to see the sensational Blue pitch, they all went home talking about Jackson's really-sparking home run that helped the Americans stop an eight-game losing streak with a 6-4 victory over the Nationals in Tuesday night's 42nd All-Star Game.

That ball really took off and I thought it was going to knock the light tower down," said National League catcher Johnny Bench about Jackson's gigantic, two-run pinch-hit wallop that highlighted a four-run third inning.

Jackson's blast off National League starter Dock Ellis, estimated at close to 600 feet since it hammered against the facade over the upper deck of Tiger Stadium's right-center field, League power spree.

Frank Robinson delivered a two-run shot later in the inning and Harmon Killebrew followed with the clincher, another two-run smash in the sixth.

Trevino Hopes Wheels Stay On Victory Wagon

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—"I just hope the wheels don't come off."
Streaking Lee Trevino was talking about his phenomenal string of golf championships, capped by victory in last week's British Open.

I don't know what's happening, but I hope it doesn't stop," Trevino said today as he prepared for Thursday's first round in the $150,000 Western Open.

"I just hope it keeps going," Trevino said today as he prepared for Thursday's first round in the $150,000 Western Open.

Defeating Groom Crucial To Pampa

The American Legion team will be meeting Groom tomorrow night in Groom for a crucial game. If Pampa's team is victorious it will place the Rebels in a tie for second place and a chance to play in the district tournament.

The berth in the District clash would be decided with a play-off game against Dumas in Potter Co. Stadium Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m.

Rick Harris will be the starting pitcher in tomorrow's game against Groom.

All-Stars Are Downed 14-13 By Dumas

The Pampa 13-year-old All-Star team was downed by Dumas last night in Stinnett 14 to 13. The young All-Stars had won their first game Monday against Stinnett 8 to 1 behind the pitching of Clyde Patrick.

Then light-hitting shortstop Luis Aparacio hit a sharp single in the third and Jackson came in to bat for Blue, his Oakland teammate.

Jackson, a last-minute replacement for injured All-Star Tony Oliva, had two strikes on him before he knew it.

The next pitch sailed off Jackson's bat like a bullet and was greeted by a thunderous ovation as the home fans applauded the American League's first two runs.

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Nixon's Red China Flip-Flop

The Administration's determination to sell out our Taiwan ally by easing Red China into the United Nations proceeds apace. But President Nixon consistently opposed such a policy when he was wooing the voters in 1968.

Candidate Nixon, for instance, managed to say such things as: "I would not recognize Red China now, and I would not agree to admitting it to the United Nations, and I wouldn't go along with those well-intentioned people that said, 'Trade with them,' because that may change them. Because doing it now would only encourage them, the hard-liners in Peking and the hardline policy they're following. And it would have an immense effect in discouraging great numbers of non-Communist elements in Free Asia that are now just beginning to develop their own confidence."

The President was equally opposed to Red China's entrance into the United Nations when he wrote his book Six Crises back in 1962. Indeed, Nixon made a special point in that well-known volume to stress how he vigorously opposed the idea when he was debating John Kennedy for the presidency. Wrote Nixon at that time:

"I then brought up an issue which I told him (Kennedy) was one on which I had particularly strong views—the recognition of Red China and its admission to the U.N. I did so because just the day before, Sen. George Smathers had told me that Chester Bowles and some of Kennedy's other foreign policy advisers were urging him to reappraise our position on that issue.

"Kennedy said that he was opposed to recognition of Red China. He indicated, however, that strong arguments had been presented to him in favor of the so-called 'two China policy.' Under this policy, Nationalist China would retain its seat on the Security Council, and Red China would have only a seat in the Assembly.

"This would mean that Red China would have only one vote out of about a hundred in the Assembly and would not be able to block U.N. action by veto. Kennedy said that proponents of this policy were contending that Red China could not do any damage in the U.N. under such circumstances.

"In expressing my strong opposition to this policy, I pointed out the issue wasn't whether Red China had one vote in the Assembly, or even the veto power. What was really at stake was that admitting Red China to the United Nations would be a mockery of the provision of the Charter which limits its membership to 'peace-loving nations.'

"And what the most disturbing thing that it would give respectability to the Communist governments in that area."

Richard Nixon as candidate appears a lot better to old Asian hands than Richard Nixon as President.

Hippie Hoffman

Abie Hoffman's latest, Steal This Book, is distributed by Grove Press. The book is complete with diagrams on how to make Molotov cocktails, lessons in getting the right gun to do the job, and other suggestions for living in "Pig Empire" this "prison that is America. It shows you where and exactly how to place the dynamite that will destroy the walls."

In his concern for the people, Mr. Hoffman offers lessons on how to kill people or kick cops in the groin. He urges his readers to steal from retail stores. He ignores the fact that shoplifting accounts in large measure for the rise in retail prices.

Undoubtedly Mr. Hoffman will accept the royalties coming from the sale of his book, availing himself of all the privileges of that capitalist system which he is so intent on destroying. Such illogic should come as no surprise to those who recall his occasional appearances on national television during the trial of the Chicago Seven, when he gave viewers the distinct impression of being mentally deranged. The moral question raised by Mr. Hoffman's book is this: How can publishers legitimately exploit mental and moral illness for financial profits, especially when the material published endangers the lives and property of Americans? If a publisher turns out books offering lessons on how to kill people and destroy their property, he is responsible in part for those readers who take his books seriously and put them into practice. An unbalanced Mr. Hoffman is only partially responsible for the consequences of his book. Whatever death and destruction such literature helps produce also finds its origin in the publishers who promote these ideas.

Watch Your Language

The National Association of Laymen, a Roman Catholic organization founded several years ago to help carry out the reform program of the Second Vatican Council, has already been overtaken by changing times.

At its recent meeting in New York, the association voted overwhelmingly to change its name to the National Association of Laity—in order to "display concern and sensitivity" toward women.

"We need to be sensitive to the little things in our lives," explained retiring president William Caldwell, referring to the countless semantic slings and arrows and little putdowns women are subjected to every time the English language is spoken.

Women obviously are sensitive about being called "laymen." Fortunately in this case there was an alternative, neutral word to hand. The solution is not so easy with regard to words like "chairman" or "foreman" and hundreds of others which reflect the fact that men have been in charge of things for so many centuries.

"Chairwoman" or "fore lady" merely serve to sexually categorize the titleholder and thus in a way are even worse than the words they replace.

This job of rooting out all vestiges of male chauvinism from our society promises to be a long, long process. It's hard enough to get people to change their attitudes and practices, much less the language they use.

What the National Association of Laity did may have been a big step for them but it was really just a small step for man—oops, humankind.

Major News Media String Has Run Out

By JESSE HELMS
Walter Cronkite, who understandably enjoys his highly profitable posture as the great Teddy Bear of CBS television news, emerged recently as a sort of hysterical crybaby when, in a highly unctuous speech in New York City, he proclaimed that the Nixon Administration is "conducting a program to reduce the effectiveness of the free press..."

Mr. Cronkite would be well advised to take care where he tries to peddle this line. It may be swallowed along with the martinis on Madison Avenue, but the American people are more discerning. They're likely to view Mr. Cronkite for what he now appears to be—a fellow who can dish out but can't take it.

For years, Walter Cronkite, no doubt a pleasant gentleman, has nevertheless been a participant in—a vast ultra-liberal mechanism tirelessly dedicated to brainwashing the American public. Mr. Cronkite and the other television networks need to rerun some of their news shows of the past, to examine how his and the other networks have distorted, contrived and slanted the news. They need to review the vicious portrayal of the major news media's attacks upon the South, the exaggeration of racial matters, the inflaming of hostilities, the encouragement given militants, the agitation, the false portrayal of all those with whom the major news media disagreed.

Mr. Cronkite and all the rest need to look back in shame. If the effectiveness of the "free press" to which Mr. Cronkite alluded is indeed being reduced, it is not the handiwork of the Nixon Administration—it is the doing of the shrill chorus of Walter Cronkites who, night after night, have peered into the camera and sneeringly condemned the South, and conservatism, and the police, and the National Guard, and anyone else who has tried to stand in support of the fundamental principles of the republic.

The growing public distrust of the major news media was bound to come. Abraham Lincoln offered a little saying about the impossibility of fooling all the people all the time. The major news media's string, simply said, has run out, and now Mr. Cronkite chooses to dangle in self-pity on the end of it, crying that the Nixon Administration has conspired to destroy the "free press" in America.

The "free press" has virtually destroyed itself by refusing to be a fair press. Examples abound. The coverage of protest movements in which mobs were portrayed as heroes by the news media; the glorification of a communist dictator as he rose to power in Cuba; the constant attacks upon every voice speaking out against communism; the sarcastic sneers aimed at Spiro Agnew; the slanderous falsehoods broadcast by Mr. Cronkite's own network against Barry Goldwater.

Mr. Cronkite's network, it should be emphasized, is no worse than the other major letting news media. Neither is it better. They all read out of the same philosophical rulebook. Each has a stable full of ultra-liberal reporters, all clamoring to be more extreme and further to the left than the rest.

Where, one may ask, is the balance in Mr. Cronkite's news department? Who are his conservatives to match his gaggle of liberals? When has his or any other network presented a telecast advocating the preservation of the free enterprise, capitalistic system in America?

NBC and ABC have been scarcely different. Neither have The New York Times, The Washington Post nor the other dominant forces in the nation's major liberal news media. Now they weep, as did Walter Cronkite, that the people are beginning to distrust the "free press." What else did Mr. Cronkite expect? What else does he think he, and others like him deserve for years they have been asking for public distrust. Now they're getting it.

"It's Our Peace Offer, Just Sign Here!"

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Eileen shows how the threat of divorce can demoralize children, even when they are of college age. So resolve to PREVENT divorce, which is one of the main reasons I launched this "Worry Clinic" newspaper column. For newspapers are the major educational force in modern America? They bring science into your homes!

CASE R-509: Eileen B., aged 20, is a Minnesota coed majoring in political science.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "I am worried about my parents! In fact, I can't study properly because of this fear that they are going to get a divorce. I love them both but they are beginning to fight like cats and dogs."

"Why does the divorce rate strike so many marriages of people in their middle 40s?" "Mr. Morris Hursh, our Minnesota State Welfare Commissioner, predicts our welfare costs will run over $800 million for the next two years, starting this month.

"And he says the biggest slice of that $800 million goes for aid for dependent children. He argues we need an extra $71 million for that purpose and says 58 percent goes to families broken by divorce, legal separation and desertion.

"So PLEASE keep on showing married couples how to stay happily married! It will save us children much heartache and actually reduce taxes!"

Thousands of would-be divorces have been stopped by this clinical newspaper column in practical psychology!

We have the letters to prove that fact!

So be grateful that the modern newspaper has stepped into the breach and helped prevent divorce, separation, delinquency and school dropouts.

It requires frank medical and psychological counsel to do that.

"Divorce usually starts in the bedroom," I have warned you repeatedly.

And then I remind the so-called grieving and ostensibly 100 percent innocent wives that they are 50 percent to blame for straying husbands!

This often arouses the ire of female readers, who then attack me via letters to their local editor.

But if they would take a detached, scientific view and carefully analyze the advice given herein, they'd save their marriages.

For the odds almost always favor the wife if she will simply fight fire with fire and out-siren her husband's paramour!

Figuratively, the schools and colleges have fiddled while Rome burned, as regards the divorce and delinquency records of America.

But your newspaper does not fiddle! It offers you sound, surefire sexual and moral advice by which to salvage your marriage and thus reduce the emotional trauma to your innocent

Your Health

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb

When I have taken polls of children, even of grammar school age, they have shown a desire for their parents to remain together, despite the cat-and-dog feuding between papa and mamma.

But that bickering can soon be stopped if you parents will start the "Compliment Club" project, even for 30 days.

And especially if you will learn the proper facts about the sex differences between the male vs. the human female.

So send for the booklet "Sex Differences Between Men and Women." "Dr. Crane," many divorces have mournfully admitted, "if I had read that booklet early in my marriage, I'd never be divorced today."

Dear Reader—That is a good question. A related question is frequently asked, "Now that I have stopped having periods can I still get pregnant?" The answer to these problems is the same, if you still produce ova, whether or not you menstruate, you can get pregnant. Ovulation can and does occur in persons who do not menstruate.

Ovulation usually persists about two years after the menses disappear.

The best way to approach the problem is to have a doctor, usually a gynecologist, do some tests to find out if you are still ovulating or not. The characteristics of the mucus from the cervix changes at time of ovulation. Studies of the mucus helps identify if ovulation still occurs.

Another helpful method is to study the oral temperature daily. The temperature should be taken the first thing before getting out of bed or doing anything that disturbs the basal or resting state. During the complete menstrual cycle the daily temperature falls reaching its lowest point at the time of ovulation. Then the temperature rises sharply about 0.8 degrees F and stays at that level until menstruation begins. If the woman who has stopped menstruating still has a temperature curve of ovulation it is likely she is still ovulating and can get pregnant. To be certain about such an important matter, though, tests should be studied by the doctor.

The pill of course prevents ovulation. As long as one is on the pill the temperature guide won't help in determining if you will get pregnant or not AFTER stopping the pill. In this case you could stop the pill and take daily temperatures a few months to see if the temperature curve changes.

Don't throw caution to the wind, however, while you are off the pill unless you have your doctor's O.K. Incidentally, many good gynecologists feel that continuing "the pill" after the menopause will prevent undesirable menopause symptoms. A pill combination of two hormones maintains a near normal cyclic variation in hormones and continued menstruation. This may be better than treatment with a single female hormone (estrogen) or a synthetic substitute.

H. L. Hunt Writes

OUR REPUBLIC CAN SAFELY RELY ON ITS YOUNG PEOPLE. Our Republic can safely rely on its young people. The noisy few who receive excessive TV coverage of their drug abuse and anti-patriotism antics must not blind us to the "basic goodness of the overwhelming majority of our young people."

It was this 95 percent I had in mind 12 years ago in the Alpaca Constitution, which I intended for consideration by peoples expected to emerge into nations during the 1960s.

It is people young in heart and spirit who build new nations, just as our nation was built. The enemies of Freedom have tried their best to capture the youth of our Republic and of the world. But Truth and Freedom will defeat these efforts by the enemy.

"Every citizen age 18 years or older, 2 votes." This is the opening line of the provision for suffrage in the Alpaca Constitution. The left-siders tried to defame this Constitution but it was translated into many languages and its impact can never be calculated.

Despite every advantage, the communists have had an exceedingly difficult time taking over completely in most of these new nations which have been exposed to the Alpaca Constitution.

About four years ago it became apparent in our own country that the proposals by seasoned patriots to give young people greater responsibility might soon gain success.

It was a bit of a surprise when uniform suffrage at 18 years became the law of the land on June 30 when ratified by Ohio, but we can rely upon our young people if we give the good majority of our love and support to save our Republic hallicinating and addictive and its Constitution and avoid the left-wing trap of drugs.

Inside Washington

Robert White

Footnote To Court Ruling
—Prosecution of All?

WASHINGTON—Certain high-placed newspaper executives may be in for a jarring surprise.

Their jubilant "victory" hurrahs over the Supreme Court's ruling (examples: "complete joy and delight"; "extremely gratified") could prove to be unhappily premature.

It's very possible the press heads may find themselves up against basically the same kind of criminal charges facing Daniel Ellsberg, who boasts of leaking the world-reverberating top-secret Pentagon documents.

ACE JUSTICE Department criminal lawyers are intensely examining the practicability and likely legal bases for prosecuting newspaper publishers on the ground of deliberately violating criminal statutes prohibiting the disclosure of classified material. That's the real significance of Attorney General Mitchell's cryptic statement:

"There will be prosecution of ALL those who violated federal criminal laws and 'review of the Supreme Court's opinions indicates there is nothing in them to affect this situation.'"

Such a potentially far-reaching crackdown centers largely around the Espionage Act, passed in 1942 to deal with spies, and four federal criminal statutes—Section 18 of the United States Code 641; Section 18 of the United States Code 2071; Section 19 of the United States Code 371; and Section 18 of the United States Code 793.

Penalties are jail sentences up to 10 years and fines to $10,000. The Supreme Court's edict allowing newspapers to publish the stolen Pentagon papers is predicated entirely on the First Amendment—proclaiming the constitutional right of freedom of press.

Tip-off on action against the publishers will be the empanelling of a grand jury in either Washington or New York.

Ellsberg was indicted by a federal grand jury in Los Angeles, which is still hearing testimony. Whether a second grand jury is convened has yet to be definitely determined. An investigation being made by the FBI is still underway and will require additional time. Nothing will be done until it is completed.

KNOCKDOWN—BUT NOT KNOCKOUT—Since the Supreme Court's eventful ruling, media and other authorities have been intently studying it and have reached some disconcerting conclusions—that have not been fanfared and are little known to the general public.

This unpublicized analysis of the "fine print" of just what the Nine Old Men did has produced the following profoundly significant findings:

(1) The 6 to 3 decision is basically narrow and shallow. It is limited entirely to the First Amendment. It consists of a brief three-paragraph pronouncement, known in legal terminology as a "per curiam" opinion. It was unsigned and merely stated a majority judgment. Major and historic degrees are not handed down in such a corsory manner.

Example: The 1954 school desegregation verdict was signed by all the justices, and explained how and why it was reached.

(2) There were nine separate opinions; one by each of the nine justices. As the supreme tribunal, the Court said absolutely nothing about the value of a free press or an informed public to a democratic society. Similarly, it said nothing about constitutional limits on presidential power, or the ever-prevailing struggle between rights and powers.

(3) While the Court held 6 to 3 that under the First Amendment the New York Times and Washington Post could resume publishing the stolen secret documents, five of the nine justices (a majority) declared (1) there is nothing in the Constitution to prevent criminal prosecution for publishing the papers, and (2) Congress has the power to enact a law authorizing the President to censor newspapers.

These five justices were—Chief Justice Warren Burger, Harold Blackmun (both appointed by President Nixon), John Harlan and Potter Stewart (named by President Dwight Eisenhower), and Byron White (appointed by President Kennedy).

White went so far as to suggest prosecution, under the Espionage Act, saying sharply, "Such prosecution might serve as a good example for its deterrent effect on the irresponsible press... I would have no difficulty in sustaining convictions under sections that would not justify the imposition of prior restraint (on newspapers)."

Joining in this tough declaration was Justice Stewart who, like White, voted with the six to allow publication.

Also being noted as highly significant in Justice Department and congressional quarters is an equally pointed statement by Justice Blackmun, as follows: "The First Amendment, after all, is only one part of the entire Constitution."

EGGING THEM ON—Illustrative of such congressional reaction are the vigorous statements of a Republican and a Democratic leader—Rep. Louis Wyman, R-N.E., and Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y.

Wyman, World War II Navy veteran, former state attorney general, and one-time chairman of the American Bar Association's Standing Committee on Jurisprudence and Law Reform, is a member of the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Defense—one of the most powerful panels in Congress. Stratton, also a World War II Navy veteran, was formerly mayor of Schenectady and is third-ranking member of the House Armed Services Committee, one of the most influential bodies in Congress.

Both legislators bluntly denounced the publication of the stolen secret documents, and urged criminal prosecution of those responsible.

Said Wyman: "It should not be overlooked that the Supreme Court did not hold unconstitutional provisions of the United States Code making it a felony to willfully publish classified material. The act of willfully publishing top-secret documents remains a crime, and serious offense. I am convinced prosecution for this felony will result, and rightfully so."

Stratton asserted: "The purloining and publishing to top-secret documents was unconstitutional in the very literal sense of that word, and can only damage our country, at a time of war, and give massive aid and comfort to the enemy. The publication of these stolen documents, and the attendant denigration of American leaders both past and present, can obviously only complicate and possibly jeopardize the safe withdrawal of some 200,000 American troops still in South Vietnam, the prompt release of some 500 prisoners of war, and bringing this third most costly war in our history to an honorable end."

Those guilty of violating criminal laws should be criminally prosecuted."

SKILLING THE PARIAMMENTARY CAT—Rep. Alvin O'Konski, R-Wis., 30-year congressional veteran, has given a new twist to the old axiom, "Where there's a will there's a way."

He did that circuitously, but at the same time unmistakably, in rapping the knuckles of both the Senate and a much-publicized fellow Wisconsinite for piling up a debt of more than $500,000 in restaurant costs.

In his derisive rapping, O'Konski carefully did not mention the fact that the House also went some $300,000 in the red on restaurant expenses.

Officially, congressional records list the Senate Restaurant debt as $497,000. Where O'Konski got the $900,000 figure is not known. It could have been part of his unusual dream!

Operation of the House restaurant is undergoing a drastic shake-up under Rep. Wayne Hays, D-O., now head of the subcommittee running it. Under his forceful controls, the deficit has been cut to $300,000 and Hays says flatly the restaurant will be self-supporting by the end of the year.

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Among the least known units of the insurance industry is the Medical Information Bureau, which gathers, controls and disseminates medical information on 12 million applicants for life policies.

The bureau functions in a manner similar to a credit agency. Its 700 member companies contribute personal medical information obtained from applicants, and they also draw on the data to aid their investigations.

The stated purpose is to protect the companies against inaccurate applications and thereby prevent individuals with higher than average mortality prospects from obtaining a company's profits and rates.

Its value to the industry can hardly be overestimated. Not only do some applicants forget to list ailments that could cost the insurer money but fraudulent applications are common.

It also plays a critical role in the lives of thousands of individuals, affecting not only their security but their finances as well. But many of those affected have little idea that the MIB played a part.

This is partly by design. Although it traces its origins to before the turn of the century, its executive director stated in a speech to physicians two years ago that, "We have seldom gone out in the world to publicize or explain our work."

In recent years, said Joseph O. Wilberding, the director, the MIB has tried to be more open and frank. But, he told the doctors:

"This meeting today is the first time that I have talked generally about the bureau outside the confines of the insurance world."

The MIB is also controversial. Some agents, anxious to earn commissions, feel it is a blacklist. Some critics feel it prejudices an individual's ability to bargain freely. Others question the sharing of information by companies supposedly competitive.

Wilberding, and quite likely almost all the industry, feel the MIB's role is not only essential but eminently fair.

"It permits the industry to avoid putting a burden on honest policyholders," said Wilberding in an interview, explaining that if higher risk applicants were insured it would result in higher rates.

"All the MIB does is warn company, but it on notice regarding the medical history of the person. We do not report that the person was rated or declined insurance. We're not in that business," he said.

"Our information is provided by code and only when an application is made. Each company makes its own investigation. Our information cannot be used alone to turn down or rate an applicant."

Worst Drought In 15 Years Has Held Farm And Ranch Industry In Its Grip For 10 Months

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

DALHART, Tex. (AP) — One of the newest nightmares for government farm officials is this: Drought burns the pastures and turns the water holes to powder; crops needed to feed livestock are lost; and bankers, watching a region's assets shrivel, cut back on credit.

It is happening, in Texas and Oklahoma, mainly, where the worst drought in 15 years has held the farm and ranch industry in its grip for almost 10 months.

There is no massive breakdown yet, as in the 1930s when this part of the Texas Panhandle was the heart of a Dust Bowl covering 50 million acres.

In the '30s, depression combined with drought to put U.S. agriculture on its knees, and drought federal aid programs that set the tone for production controls and subsidies that persists to this day.

Nothing of that magnitude exists now, but a combination of drought, tight credit and spiraling costs is forcing southwest agriculture to the wall.

John White, Texas' commissioner of agriculture, calls the drought a disaster that has already cost the state's farmers and ranchers $300 million this year.

White asserts that President Nixon has not responded with enough aid. "You have to be in bankruptcy before you can get assistance," he said.

Nixon ordered drought relief in mid-April in loans and sale of government-owned feed at reduced prices to stockmen and farmers in designated counties of Texas. Later similar relief was extended to adjacent parts of Oklahoma and New Mexico.

Except for the loans, the total federal expenditure for drought relief in the area is difficult to pinpoint. A Department of Agriculture official guessed the value of all direct assistance for the three-state area as of July 1 probably did not exceed more than $100 million. Of that estimate, $88 million was accounted for by FHA loans to 9,000 farmers and ranchers.

White says more direct help is needed to save the Southwest cattle industry and crop producers from wholesale bankruptcies. The ranchers are particularly vulnerable.

As the drought persists, herd liquidations are increasing, even to double the normal rate of breed cow sales on Southwest markets at this time of year. If continued, this would mean a temporary glut of beef on the market, and lower prices to consumers. Then beef would suddenly become in short supply, and retail prices would soar.

Farmers and ranchers throughout the drought area, and in other pockets of trouble, are hard pressed for credit, their principal source of operating capital.

Already caught in an inflation-induced squeeze between low prices and rising production costs, the drought has stretched the thin line of profit to the breaking point.

President Nixon has the authority to proclaim an area eligible for massive disaster assistance, as when a hurricane or earthquake devastates an area, but "presidential disaster" aid has not been extended to the Southwest.

"The main reason it hasn't been done," an Agriculture Department spokesman said, "is that a presidential action assumes that businesses, municipal services, utilities, everything have been ruined or impaired by a disaster. This is not the case in the drought."

White contends that is a "judicial position" in view of cattle herd liquidations and near-bankruptcy for many producers.

Relief programs operated through Farmers Home Administration and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service "cannot be termed anything other than a failure to meet the needs of our agricultural community," White said. But without direct presidential action, he admitted, there is little more that Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin can do. "He's working under a severe handicap," White said.

Interviews with farmers and ranchers throughout the drought area indicate credit is becoming harder to find.

In Washington, Secretary Hardin and others are talking about new legislation to provide easier credit from the Farmers Home Administration and give a freer hand to the Farm Credit Associations.

The FCS is owned by farmers themselves. There is no government money involved, but cooperative credit agencies such as the "federal land banks" are subject to regulation by Congress. Proposals in both the Senate and House are aimed at tending the system loan more money to agriculture, particularly to younger farmers and to those hit by disasters.

The cooperative banks nationwide have $11 billion in loans outstanding to farmers and ranchers, nearly a fourth of the loan money currently in circulation to them.

Much of it is short-term money to help farmers buy machinery, pay fertilizer and seed bills, and to keep operating from year to year. The rest is in long-term loans on property.

Federal land bank associations account for half the total FCS loans, and land bank officials say there are signs that the Southwest drought will put heavy pressure on farmers and ranchers to refinance long-term loans.

"Every year they pray for rain and another call, but for many out here it's getting to a point of survival," said William S. May, vice president of the Federal Land Bank of Wichita, which serves Oklahoma, Colorado, Kansas and New Mexico.

"At this particular point," May said in an interview, "we have not felt an increase in delinquencies. But our loan payments are just beginning to come due, after crops are harvested. We'll know more in the fall."

Land borrowers already are refinancing loans, many of them sacrificing old contracts bearing 1 per cent interest rates for new money at 7½ per cent. "We're not a give-away outfit, we can't make grants, forgive loans or use government money," May said. "We have to be competitive."

A new proposal in Congress for removing restraints on land bank lending pegged now at 99 per cent of land value, will help farmers, particularly young operators, he said.

By removing the lid, a young man with a good management record could qualify for 40-year loans of 80 or 90 per cent, possibly 100 per cent, for land purchase, leaving him free to concentrate on other expenses.

"Unless we solve the credit problems for agriculture," he said, "eventually the man who owns the land will not be the man who sits on the tractor."
