A medium security prison, La Tuna lies at the foot of the Franklin Mountains, near El Paso, and within rifle range of the U.S.-Mexico border.

him from self-employment or any promotional activity. A jury convicted Estes in 1963 of getting farmers and others in an 11-county West Texas area to sign mortgages on non-existent fertilizer tanks.

Until his arrival here last year, Estes, now 46, had been confined first in the maximum security prison at Leavenworth, Kan., and then the minimum security facility at Sandstone, Minn.

Governor Announces Approval Of 3 Safety Action Projects

AUSTIN—Governor Preston Smith revealed today another step in his program designed to control the number one traffic safety menace in Texas, the abusive drinker-driver.

Governor Smith announced that he has approved three Texas Alcohol Safety Action Projects (TASAP) and authorized the submission of the applications to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration for federal funding approval. The three projects, one in Harris County, one in the City of Dallas, and one in the six-county Central Texas Council of Governments (COG) region, are to be funded on a fifty-fifty state-federal matching grant.

"These three projects are another approach to finding solutions to the problems created on Texas streets and highways by abusive drinker-drivers," said Governor Smith.

"Through these projects a number of innovative countermeasures will be undertaken," the governor commented.

In general, the projects seek to identify the problem drinker-driver, apply a variety of possible solutions, and to evaluate the possible solutions for their overall effectiveness.

"Last year in Texas, abusive drinker-drivers were responsible for the deaths of at least 1,700 people on our streets and highways. Alcohol related traffic deaths cost Harris County at least $32 Million, Dallas County at least $23 Million, and the Central Texas COG area $7 Million last year," the Governor said.

"The importance of these projects toward finding a solution to our traffic safety problems cannot be over emphasized. I have repeatedly stressed my intention of making Texas a safer place to drive. And I have stressed the importance of getting the drunk driver out from behind the wheel. These projects approach this problem on a scientific basis and they will provide a base for future action throughout the state," Smith commented.

The three Texas Alcohol Safety Action Projects are due to run for a period of three years. First year funding will be approximately $350,000 with a similar amount anticipated for each year of the projects. First year funding for Harris County is for $311,200, Dallas is for $239,300; and, the Central Texas COG program will cost $300,700.

Governor Smith said that he hoped that federal approval of all three projects would be given soon, as the traffic death situation in Texas is so critical.

Thirty-one boys from the Starr Commonwealth home in Adrian will be the Solomons' guests for lunch and a matinee performance of Pinnocchio at the Fisher Theatre.

FLYING GOVERNOR — Dr. T. Paige Carruth, governor of Rotary District 573, which includes Pampa, believes he can cover more territory and visit more clubs in an airplane than he can traveling by automobile. He is shown here with his plane in which he will fly into Pampa for a visit with local Rotarians next Sept. 8.

District Rotary Governor To Visit Clubs In 47 Cities In Four Months

CANYON — How do you administer to 2,500 Rotarians in an area larger than half of the 50 states and at the same time serve the needs of 7,900 college students?

"Get your own airplane," says Dr. T. Paige Carruth, vice president for student affairs at West Texas State University and new governor of District 573 of Rotary International.

Carruth, 40, took office July 1 and within a week was off on a flying tour of his 56,700-square-mile district that will take him to 47 cities in 41 states during the next four months. He will visit with the Pampa Rotary Club on Sept. 8.

His territory covers from the top of the Texas Panhandle south 330 miles to Odessa-Midland and from the New Mexico border on the west to Childress on the east, about 172 miles.

"I knew I would need an airplane to make all that distance," he says.

In his visits to the Rotary membership, Carruth says he will stress the 1971-72 theme of international president Ernst G. Breitholtz of Sweden, "Good Will Begins With You."

Carruth feels that many civic organizations are full of apathy. "They meet, eat, burp and go home," he says. "Members feel it is easier to just write a check instead of grabbing a project and really making it go."

That is one of the reasons for his fly-in visits with all the clubs in his district.

Carruth, who flies a Cessna 150, was born at Vernon, Texas, and was graduated from West Texas State in 1952, after a year of military service in Korea, he returned to WTSU and obtained a Master of Education Degree in 1955.

He was a social studies teacher at Kemit High School for three years, and then received a teaching fellowship at Texas Tech University, where he obtained a Doctor of Education Degree in 1959.

Carruth became an assistant professor of education at West Texas State in 1959 and two years later was named associate dean of men.

SWIM TEAM WORKOUTS
The Pampa Dolphin Swim Club, sponsored by the Youth Center, is working daily in preparation for the final summer swim meets. They are meeting daily at the Center from 6:00 to 7:00. The Dolphins will be competing in four more meets during July and August in the West Texas area. The summer meets are scheduled so that each swimmer will be swimming against other competitors within his age group and ability classification. Currently there are 20 active swimmers participating in this competitive program.

Swimmers are needed in all age groups to complete relay teams so that we can have relay representation at the summer meets. All interested swimmers are urged to contact George Smith at the Youth Center or Jackie Marlar at 665-1965, and come out for practice. All that is required is the ability to swim and the desire to compete.

MEMBERSHIPS
Our method of operation financial wise is through a membership plan. The Center is not tax supported in any way and must sustain its own operation by means of a charge for membership and use of the facilities. The cost for memberships though are so economical that everyone can afford them.

The Center offers two types of memberships for those interested, the limited and unlimited. The limited membership is for those who like to play in the gym, swim, or use the recreation hall, but does not want to use the health facility. This membership for an individual costs only $5 for six months or $8 per year. For a family no matter how many the cost is only $12 for six months or $20 per year.

The unlimited membership gives you the same privileges as the limited, but in addition allows you full use of the new health facility. The health facility houses all the exercise equipment such as the vibrator belts, bicycles, exercor, treadmill, barrel rollers, weights, sit-up boards, etc. 2 handball courts and a sauna room. The cost for an individual is $65 for six months or $118 per year. For a husband-wife combination the cost is only $90 for six months or $160 per year.

SWIM LESSONS
The summer swim lesson schedule is listed below and these are the only classes that will be taught during the remainder of the summer. Parents should make plans to enroll their children as soon as possible.

All classes will meet during the morning hours either from 9-10, 10-11, or 11-12 a.m. Each class session last for one hour and meets for 10 meeting dates, Monday thru Friday. Classes are taught by competent Red Cross Water Safety Instructors. Enrollment is free to Center members while a pool fee of $4 for each child per session is charged non-members. Members may call in and enroll over the phone while non-members should come by the Center and enroll.

Issue On Massive Crosstown School Busing Looked More Chaotic Than Ever Last Week

By GODFREY ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer
The emotionally charged issue of further desegregating Texas schools by massive busing of children across town to achieve uniform mixing of the races looked more chaotic than ever last week.

Black-robed federal judges ordered solutions to the problem, knowing their rulings could be possibly please everyone.

Government officials and school boards submitted often conflicting plans for court consideration. Some boards just wouldn't agree on a plan; others added their arms in an attitude of virtual non-cooperation.

Whites, crying, "We won't as," signed petitions to show they meant it and sent out their kids on a door-to-door hunt for signatures. They packed halls for local indignation meetings and carried their protests to city councils.

Blacks, calling the proposed closing of some of their neighborhood schools "a rape of the black community," demanded that white children be bused into Negro communities as they claim theirs have been out of their neighborhoods for years.

Mexican-Americans protested loudly at being "lumped" with whites under some plans for working out new racial ratios.

And worried city officials asked themselves: "If we bus, where will we find the buses and who will pay?"

At end of the week, here is the way things looked in the Texas cities most in the spotlight—Dallas, Fort Worth, Austin, Corpus Christi, Amarillo and Midland.

DALLAS: The situation is a virtual standoff, which U.S. Dist. Judge William M. Taylor Jr. will somehow have to unravel when he starts hearing a suit brought by Dallas Legal Services (DLS) against the school district Monday.

The DLS lawyers argue that a white racist attitude helps support continued vestiges of the old dual school system in Dallas.

The Texas Educational Desegregation Technical Assistance Center (TEDTAC) has proposed a controversial plan to achieve further desegregation by gerrymandering the boundaries of existing school attendance zones, closing some mainly black schools and busing many pupils around.

Dallas schools' attorney Warren Whitham, voicing objection to the TEDTAC plan, said it would be opposed in "any way, shape or form."

"They can assume we don't like anything about it," he said. He told Judge Taylor at a pre-trial hearing that school officials have no other desegregation plan to offer.

Outside the federal courtroom, individual citizens expressed their concern. More than 150,000 signed petitions against having their children bused. Protest letters poured in to newspapers. A few carried their protest to Washington.

James T. Maxwell, 39-year-old engineer and father of four, got leave to intervene in the court suit. He protested that the TEDTAC plan would require him to drive 200 miles a day to transport his children to different schools. He reckoned that would cost him $40,000 over the next 14 years.

Indignant citizens packed the Dallas City Council chamber to voice their views, for or against busing. Some of the language used was obscene.

The councilmen, after first voting to intervene in the pending lawsuit, backed down when City Atty. Alex Bickley warned that such action risked adversely affecting the school board's case.

Meanwhile the Roman Catholic Church, fearing a stampede of white pupils seeking a haven in private schools if large-scale busing is ordered, suspended registration of new pupils at parochial schools.

Some white parents threatened to move away from Dallas rather than "let them take our children away." A demonstrator outside the Federal Building left out economic considerations when she said: "If the blacks want to go to schools near me, they should move into that neighborhood."

The Dallas Morning News, noting the rising feeling in the city, called for calm.

"This is no time for rumor-mongering, rash action or hysteria," said its editorial Thursday. "It is a time to prove that we mean what we say about due process (of law) and the democratic procedures for resolving conflicts. It is a time to demonstrate that all of us who have called for the preservation of law and order are willing to practice it as well as preach it."

FORT WORTH: Here the decision is up to U.S. Dist. Judge Leo Brewster. The school board, 4 to 3, rejected a proposal from Supt. Julius Truelson which called for busing pupils in 22 elementary schools. The majority said it objected to the principle of compulsory busing.

Fort Worth school officials want, like Dallas, to keep the concept of neighborhood schools.

They are submitting a watered-down plan to the court, which may not be accepted in view of Chief Justice Warren Burger's ruling in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg case that there must be a substantial mixing of pupils from different ethnic groups.

Fort Worth also has one all-Negro high school, I. M. Terrell High, and the board vetoed Truelson's proposal to close it. Meanwhile lawyer Clifford Davis, representing the NAACP, accused the school board of being "unable or unwilling" to come up with an integration plan that the federal court could accept.

Judge Brewster can accept the watered-down plan, reject it, override the board's veto on Truelson's proposals, or call in TEDTAC or some other agency to provide an alternative.

Meanwhile he has ordered the school board to submit its desegregation plan by July 16.

AUSTIN: The state capital was picked by federal officials last month as the scene for the first test case aimed at enforcing busing as a means of desegregating the public schools.

During a lengthy hearing, Austin School District lawyer Donald S. Thomas tried to show the Nixon administration was using the suit to embarrass the city.

Dr. George Sanchez of the University of Texas here charged that the city school system deliberately located school buildings to segregate Mexican-Americans.

Competing plans were filed by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the school district.

It ended with U.S. Dist. Judge Jack Roberts ordering both parties to have further talks and try to write a plan "minimizing busing."

But the judge's final word is yet to come.

CORPUS CHRISTI: U.S. Dist. Judge Woodrow Seals, ordering massive busing of 15,000 pupils and total integration, rapped the local school board for what he said was failure to cooperate.

The decision was the first definite one in a major school district since the Supreme Court came out in support of busing in April. The school board will appeal it.

Judge Seals accepted most of the recommendations of HEW officials and chided the school board for not producing an alternative of its own.

School Busing...

did not develop a unitary plan which was constitutionally permissible even though the burden is theirs and not the plaintiffs," the judge said. "That they did not is unfortunate, for the court lost the experts it needed the most."

AMARILLO: Here the school board failed to make up its mind over which to choose among 16 different plans. With the deadline for deciding passed on Wednesday, it is seeking an extension of time from HEW in the hope of producing something. Schools Supt. Bob Ashworth said he thought a plan could be ready in another two weeks.

The NAACP says current plans "integrate the poor and leave the rich segregated. "Whatever the reason, whites seem to be moving out of black neighborhoods or sending their children to private schools because white enrollment in Amarillo's few mainly black schools is sharply down.

MIDLAND: Midland School District has been ordered by the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals to implement a pupil assignment plan complying with the latest Supreme Court decisions. The school board must file reports with the district court twice a year.

The problem remains for school officials all over Texas: how to find the buses and pay for them when busing is ordered.

Rep. Roman G. Pucinski, D-Ill., predicted in Washington that busing buses and hiring drivers for them will eat up most of the South's share of the proposed special aid—$1.8 billion—that President Nixon proposes to give.

Corpus Christi alone is estimated to need 96 more buses costing $1.7 million to move its 15,000 bused pupils.

Dallas hasn't nearly enough buses and reckons it could take six months to a year to get them delivered.

"If, all of a sudden, a school district has to have buses I don't see any chance of getting them delivered in time for the opening of school this fall," said Dallas County Schools Supt. C.T. Tilman, who added: "I've had 54 buses on order since February and we haven't received them yet."

Bill Lynch, an Austin lawyer, formed an anti-busing league which has Mexican-Americans and blacks among its members. He carried a petition signed by 20,000 Texans to Washington last week, explaining: "We're vocating peaceful non-compliance."

In the nation's capital, Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., blasted proposals for massive cross-town busing in Corpus Christi, Austin, Dallas and other Texas cities.

"This money could be far better spent in improving the quality of education for Corpus Christi children," Tower said of the ruling by Judge Seals.

He added that he intends sponsoring a Senate resolution which would "help re-direct the federal court decisions on this matter."

"It is not really busing which Americans find objectionable but what is at the end of the bus line," observed Judge Seals in his desegregation judgment.

Walter Rostow Rejected Twice For A Top University Position

AUSTIN (AP) — Walt Rostow, the eloquent defender—possibly originator—of Lyndon Johnson's Vietnam policies, was rejected twice for a top university post because professors believed he was a war hawk.

Otherwise he probably would have become the first dean of the new LBJ School of Public Affairs of the University of Texas here.

The rejection and the reasons have just come to light through correspondence of a blue-ribbon university faculty committee named to advise on selection of a dean.

Rostow is a professor in the university.

"Among many academicians he (Rostow) is viewed as the principal architect of a grossly erroneous policy, perhaps of the most serious foreign-policy miscalculation of our time," the special committee wrote in a letter to the school's administration three years ago.

The committee's appraisal of Rostow, Johnson's assistant for security affairs in 1966-69, was kept secret until The Associated Press learned of it recently.

Rostow, 54, is mentioned frequently in stories on the controversial Pentagon papers as a major Vietnam policy maker.

New York Times columnist James Reston once wrote that Rostow "even acquired the reputation of being a kind of Svengali who was supposed to have had great influence over the President."

Rostow described his role to The University of Texas student newspaper, The Daily Texas, as "not very important."

But he claimed in a lengthy interview with the Texan that the Times had misled readers in its analysis of the Pentagon papers, that it had used "limited evidence to draw conclusions which are in no way warranted by the evidence itself."

The university committee which studied Rostow as a possible dean said it was "not trying to judge his (Rostow's) policies or take sides between him and his critics, but it is a fact that there is widespread distrust of Mr. Rostow's judgment among American social scientists which we think cannot be ignored."

Rostow, a former economics professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was not invited back to MIT reportedly because so many professors there opposed his views on Vietnam. He insisted later that "MIT had no obligation to invite us."

but he admitted, "they kept me on hooks longer than most universities do."

A friend of Johnson's said the former president made a strong personal appeal for Rostow to join the University of Texas faculty, and Rostow and his wife accepted teaching jobs in February 1969. His salary was $35,000, his wife's $15,000.

One of Rostow's jobs was to sort out the presidential papers for the LBJ Library, part of a multi-million dollar complex including the LBJ school. He also was to help Johnson write his memoirs.

Dr. William Goetzman, a Pulitzer Prize winner who was man of the History Department, considered it a "distinguished appointment."

"While many people didn't agree with his Vietnam policy, we thought we ought not close our minds to his qualifications as a scholar," said Goetzman.

But, in considering Rostow as a possible dean a few months before, the committee said a private report to the school administration that "in judging his academic qualifications we must consider how those qualifications would be viewed by the academic world. . . . The committee . . . believes unambiguously that there is a real risk that Rostow's appointment as dean would have seriously adverse results, for both the (LBJ) school and the university. And accordingly we do not feel we can recommend it."

The committee also said because Rostow had been "much closer to the presidential power center than anyone else" who had been considered as dean "we fear—indeed we believe—that his appointment as dean would be regarded by too many people as basically a political appointment."

"If that is so, then the appointment would seriously impair faculty and student recruitment, both in the (LBJ) school and elsewhere, and have serious effects upon the university's standing in the world of higher education."

It was more than a year later in September 1969, that Dr. John A. Gronouski, former postmaster general and U.S. ambassador to Poland under Johnson, was appointed at $40,000 a year as the first dean of the LBJ school.

A select group of fewer than 20 students were in the school's first class in 1970-71. About 50 are expected this fall.

Rostow is one of the teachers.

Your Horoscope

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: A long season of spiritual harvest and reality. Power and initiative to leave behind old habits come into your hands. Material security becomes less of an issue. Today's natives have broad opportunity to guide and influence local history, the welfare of their communities. Most possess a latent gift for responsibility, leadership.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): On this Sunday away from regular work, reflect on what your career really is. For some it's a good day to organize a search for a better job.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Friskish strokes of work, specificity, and indifferent luck characterize the day. It is better to be at play where the influences have a natural outlet.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You meet personal competition unexpectedly on issues you hadn't anticipated. Beware of people who don't ordinarily disagree.

CANCER (June 21-July 20): Taking people at their word is not always easy, but has to be tried. Open discussion of differences among associates, family brings results.

LEO (July 21-Aug. 22): There is no argument or quarrel you can win, or that is worth "winning" today. Avoid confrontation.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): If you know what you want, specifically, reach for it. Frustration leaves you waiting half-way.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Let Sunday be a day of peace, with no particular push. Visit old friends, bring yourself up to date on family history, distant relatives.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Explanations are almost certain to be taken in contexts other than you intend. Find simpler ways of expressing yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Assume nothing, accept serious approaches along with lively, natural informality. Ceremony are quite worth doing this Sunday, in full.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Despite your independence of spirit and belief in systems, you may need cooperation to achieve personal objectives. Act early, instead of dallying.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Limited goals are more readily fulfilled; as expected help is late or diverted. Be prepared for more expense and work than planned.

MONDAY, JULY 12

Your Birthday Monday: Material security improves with no more than normal diligence in the next two years and is no major problem. Emotionally, your life now is apt to be stormy, with strong moods. Most natives are fond of study and frequently attain mastery in world specialties.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Don't be surprised at having to start all over again in a fresh direction with a different mission. Monday changes promise abrupt results in midweek.

CANCER (June 21-July 20): It dawned on you that somebody you've been watching thru tinted glasses isn't quite that way at all.

LEO (July 21-Aug. 22): Triumphant moods prevail in your view of life. Where others are faring less well, have the grace not to offer comments or comparisons.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): There's a great brightening of your potential gains. Plan today, begin work early Tuesday for the long pull upward.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Questions challenge most people vex others. Let plain routine sense for a focus-point.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Expect a day of steady routine and fairly heavy chores as follows your thoughts with flash-back reviews.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Some situations are more complicated than first sight indicates. Get a second opinion, preferably from a technically competent, wherever the discussion runs into unfamiliar materials.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): As the week opens with an overabundance of details and more coming, pace your efforts. This every day.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): People, ideas, merchandise from distant exotic places enter your environment and create considerable stir, perhaps "the need for some important but slight adjustment."

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): "Changes come in bristly with the beginning of the week. Go along with them in good humor for the best results."

Senators In Nation's Capitol May Be Looking For Diamond

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Sports Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Baseball fans in the nation's capital haven't enjoyed a pennant in years. Now, there is a strong possibility they won't even have a team, albeit a losing one, in the city after this year.

Owner Bob Short, beset with financial problems, hints strongly that he will move the club if the special investigating committee of the American League doesn't come up with some solution to his plight.

"The outlook for baseball in Washington... is dimmer than dim, bleaker than bleak," Short said. "I didn't buy it to move, but I didn't buy the team to go broke either."

Short claims he's lost $3 million on the Senators since he purchased them for $9.4 million three years ago. He owes $161,000 in back rent and will have to come up with $2.4 million by Oct. 31 to pay off some debts.

The Minneapolis businessman, who served as treasurer in the Democratic Party when it went $9 million in the hole in 1968, has battled with the D.C. Armory board, his landlord at RFK Stadium, for a new rental lease under which, he says, he can make a profit.

He wants a lease that will not require him to pay any rent until the Senators draw one million fans, give him revenue from all concessions and parking and require the city to pay for the special investigating committee.

It is doubtful the board will give him what he wants. Despite the owner's pronouncements in the past that he would make the club both a financial and artistic success.

Much of the on-field trouble also can be traced to Short who engineered what one team source described as "the worst trade he had ever seen. It set the team back three or four years."

In Washington, The Trade is the one which brought pitchers Denny McLain and Norm McRae, third baseman Don Wert and outfielder-infielder Elliott Maddox to the Senators from Detroit in exchange for the left side of the infield, third baseman Aurelio Rodriguez and shortstop Ed Brinkman, and pitchers Joe Coleman and Jim Haman.

Senators Manager Ted Williams said at the time, it wasn't his deal. He cringes when he discusses it now.

Short also lured outfielder Curt Flood back from Copenhagen with what he described as a $160,000 package. Flood, who sat out of baseball for years while suing the game, couldn't cut it and has since departed for Europe.

As for McLain's acquisition, Short says he has no regrets, although the righthanded pitcher going into Saturday's game.

"We wound up last season losing 14 games in a row, didn't we," says Short. "And I lost a million dollars. I had to do something and here was the greatest active pitcher available."

"I wasn't happy about trading Rodriguez and Brinkman. I would have paid a million dollars in cash for McLain with no complaint if I could have kept my infielders."

"I go first class," he said. "Look at Frank Howard. He's costing two or three times as much as I first met him."

Howard, the league's top home run hitter last season with 44, was paid approximately $140,000 this season. He had hit only 15 homers at the end of the week.

"Howard is over the hill," one team source said. "He should have been traded last year when we could have gotten something for him."

"That's the trouble with this team," he continued. "They're either one year too late, or one year early."

Those described as one year too late were Howard, infielders Tim Cullen and Bernie Allen and catcher Paul Casanova.

The Senators, obviously out of the race (if they were ever in it), have turned from the most part to youth, most of whom have come up from the Denver farm club.

Mired in last place in the American East, Williams has chosen to with the youngsters whenever he can. Shortstop Toby Harrah, second baseman Len Randle, third baseman Dave Nelson, outfielders Larry Bittner and Maddox and Dick Billings, who has caught and played third and the outfield.

As for pitching, the rotation includes veterans Dick Bosman and McLain but also has young Pete Broberg, straight out of Dartmouth for whom Short paid $150,000, Bill Gogolewski, Jackie Brown and Jim Shellenback.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, American League President Joe Cronin and Short, the committee established to investigate the financial plight of the Senators, are expected to make some kind of report next Wednesday to the owners during the All-Star break.

Whatever the solution to the Senators problems, Short may not be around to see them put into effect. He has said the team is for sale, but for $12 million, which includes the money he paid for the club plus what he lost on it.

"I didn't buy the club to move it, or to lose," said Short. "But the problem of keeping baseball in Washington is not Bob Short's. In fact they ought to pay me to play ball here."

Royal And Ancient Chairman Has Ideas About Changing Golf Isles

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — The Royal and Ancient Golf Club, staging the most successful and exciting British Open Championship in years, is looking along the fairway to greater glory.

Charles Lawrie, chairman of the R. and A. S. Championship Committee, said: "It may not happen for 10 years but what we've got to have in these golfing isles is a course to match the champions."

"You have to think along the lines of creating a course that the R. and A. can run completely with all the best conditions possible."

That's revolutionary thinking even by today's swinging standards of the world's oldest governing body in golf, a club founded in 1754.

"I'm still in favor of the format under which the open is played at different courses throughout Britain," Lawrie said in an interview.

"Royal Birkdale has done a marvelous job providing viewing facilities for all the thousands of fans who are crowding the course every day.

"But wouldn't it be splendid if we could construct a special course for many of the great title battles—perhaps a links type with not so many bunkers as you find beside the seaside but more water hazards of the kind featured on many fine American courses."

Lawrie said the sentimental idea might be to construct the course in Scotland, the home of the game, but the realistic thought would be to put it near a large center of population.

Rosenbloom Will Keep Colts Unless Son Becomes Unhappy

BALTIMORE (AP) — Owner Carroll Rosenbloom says he won't sell the Baltimore Colts football team unless son Steve, the new president, "becomes too unhappy."

"He has been brought up all his life as a Colt," Rosenbloom said of his 27-year-old son. "All he wants is to be in football and he wants to stay (in Baltimore)."

The elder Rosenbloom made the comments Friday in answer to a published story from Los Angeles that he would sell the Colts this year and attempt to buy the Rams.

According to the story by Melvin Durslag of the Hearst Headline Service, one of three prospective buyers for the Colts would buy the Rams and then trade them for the Colts.

Durslag said if Rosenbloom sold the Colts outright, he would have to pay a sizable capital gains tax on the National Football League team he has headed since 1953.

Under a trade, the story said, "the law presumably would permit him to forestall the tax payment until such time as he disposed of the Rams."

Rosenbloom stepped out as Colts this year and turned the operation over to Steve, although he retains the stock and is chairman of the board.

Tee-Off Tid-Bits

By HART WARREN

Glad looks, sad looks, nice looks and bad looks — emotion runs high, especially since you have 49 junior golfers with only six receiving trophies, such was the case Friday at the Pampa Country Club. The scores ran all the way from Amarillo's Allen Williams' 30-37-67 to a not so fortunate 126 for another young lad.

Pampa's Juniors could muster no better than 2 third place finishes — Wiley McIntyre shot a 47-40-87 for third in the 12-13 year old division, which was won by Canyon's Bryan Garner with an 81. Randy Watson shot his best round ever, a 38-38-77 for third in the 14-15 year old bracket, two strokes behind Jal, New Mexico's David Pender.

Steve Rogers had Pampa's best in the 16-17 years old, a 78. The tournament was co-sponsored by the West Texas PGA.

Dottie Freeman using a Titleist Ball dropped a hole-in-one on the fifth hole Par 3 in play Saturday afternoon. In the group were Ava Warren, Marge Gipson and cheers were heard throughout the fairways. Rumor has it the ball will be retired and placed in the Freeman trophy room. Keep swinging Carlton, maybe you'll be able to play next time.

SHORT STROKES
Frankie Gates shot a 49 — good. Somebody pinch Calvin Whately — wake him up — 41-39-80 — Strong? — Yes!

Betty Ellis shot her best round at the Pampa Country Club — a 89 — Congratulations. Dr. Harbord Cox, Dentist partner of the "Red Baron," put the hooks on his opponents the other day with a fine 42. Anybody seen any horses crossing the highway wearing a Lincoln fender? 81 shots for an 18 handicapper? Ask Wayne Brown how it feels.

Bill Arthur had a 72 — not bad for a 9 handicapper — is tax season over — Wayne, Bill?

Bill Monroe had a 38 the other day — Tom G. did he cut you up?

W. A. Morgan shot a 79 — seems like that pipe would bother him!

Pro-Am Monday at Dimmitt — Don't forget your tee-off times.

Let's Legislate Against Crime For A Change

Editor's Note: Taken from American Rifleman Magazine for July 1971. Sorry, friends, this is no season to relax. The opponents of legitimate gun ownership are at it again. This time their pretext for attempting to take guns out of the hands of law-abiding citizens is that policemen are being shot down at an increasing rate. It is tragically true that more policemen are being killed with guns. The rate is increasing faster than the general homicide rate. The FBI says 100 policemen were murdered last year. Fifty-one were killed in the first five months of this year. Not all were shot, but most were. From President Nixon on down, all decent Americans, including a million NRA Members, are deeply concerned at the vicious attacks, the calculated ambushes, the senseless slaughter, of law-enforcement officers as they go about their duty of protecting two hundred million men, women and children from a murderous riff-raff numbering less than a quarter of a million. As usual, the "Nice Nellies" of the anti-gun set have rushed forward with a "solution." It is a weary, hackneyed and impractical one — the same old one — that handguns be prohibited and that all guns and gun owners be registered. Such proposals not only miss the mark widely, they trifle with the lives of policemen and of law-abiding citizens who feel entitled to own self-defense arms at a time when, everyone agrees, crime is soaring. What the new proposals would do to prevent the slaying of policemen is hard to see. Certainly anyone who would kill a policeman is not going to register his gun first. Surprisingly enough to many, House Judiciary Committee Chairman Emanuel Celler, 83, the canny "elder statesman" who heads one of the most powerful committees in the Congress, emerges as the leader of the new movement for tighter gun controls. Until now, Rep. Celler chose to enforce an uneasy peace in the field of gun legislation. Nearly all such House bills have been referred to his committee and not one, pro or con, has emerged from behind committee doors since the 1968 Federal Gun Control Act. Now, however, Rep. Celler is one of the three New York City Congressmen who have rushed forward with gun control bills of their own. Disarming the American public is not the answer, for it is not the American public that has mercilessly killed law officers at the rate of 10 a month across the country. What needs controlling is not guns but criminals, a point that some anti-gun lawmakers persistently miss. And stiffer sentences for gunmen and ambushers seem like the very thing to take them out of circulation. The National Rifle Association has long favored mandatory imprisonment for violent crime. Among the bills stranded in Rep. Celler's committee were 49 for mandatory imprisonment. The situation in the Congress is one that every gun owner might well consider, and also consider making clear to his Representatives and Senators. Speaking at the NRA Annual Meetings in April, Rep. John P. Saylor (22nd Dist., Pa.), one of the Congressional leaders in the defense of firearms ownership, pointed out that NRA Members had become "one-shot Charleys" who contacted their Congressmen only in times of crisis. Rep. Saylor suggested constant, steadfast contact instead. This might well be the time for NRA Members to heed this sound advice. (See The American Rifleman, May, 1971, p. 56.) For what the gun world faces now could be the most serious threat certainly in 1971-72, and perhaps in a long, long time, in the opinion of veteran lawmakers. What the new gun bill backers propose is a law that could make half the people in the United States, the gun owners, criminals for the high crime of failing to sign a piece of paper. Simply for neglecting or refusing to register a gun, you could go to jail for as much as five years. Some shooter language has become accepted American slang. For a precise approach to any subject, we say "rifling," for a broader approach, "shotgunning." For a law that would make half a nation potential criminals, however, we must make a nuclear-age adjustment.

Still Fishing Can Be Strenuous Sport

Which method calls for the most skill--bait fishing (sometimes called still fishing) or artificial lure angling? Surprisingly, bait fishing requires more expertise and better knowledge of fish habits than does most forms of artificial lure fishing. In fact, many experienced anglers who have considerable success with artificials don't use bait because they can't catch fish with it! This is not strange when you consider the fact that bait—whether minnow, worm, crawfish, or insect—must appear on the hook exactly as it would in natural settings, while artificial lures can look and act like anything imaginable. Also, fish take live bait because they're hungry, but they often strike artificial lures because they are agitated, aroused or somehow excited. And, like most animals, they'll do things under pressure which they wouldn't normally do. If you're not a bait fisherman the angling experts suggest you give it a try, for quite often it's the skilled "worm dunker" who makes the best catch. Natural baits are best used with a spinning rod, fly rod, or cane pole. The idea is to get the bait into the water as near the fish as possible with the least disturbance. Don't use much weight to sink the bait, as this restricts your lure's movement, making it appear unnatural. If you use a float, make it as small as possible to better signal action when a fish takes the bait. River fishermen like to drift bait with the current. They'll launch a boat, float downstream letting the bait—usually live minnows or shad—drift into likely places. If they get a strike, and miss the fish, it's easy to motor back upstream and drift through the same area, alert this time for another hit. Minnows and crawfish should be allowed to move around. But be sure to remove pincers from crawfish; otherwise, they'll crawl under a rock where fish can't reach them. Minnows should be hooked in the "collar" and allowed to stream out in the water, or several can be ganged on one hook. Crawfish are hooked through the tail. It takes practice to make a hooked bait appear natural, but the fishing experts know that constant attention to the bait, and continuous changing of technique, will soon teach anyone the tricks of bait fishing.

Wildlife Commission Stalls On Decision

AUSTIN (AP)—A group of Panhandle hunters have opposed a proposal to turn the Canadian River bottoms into a state operated wildlife refuge. The hunters appeared before the Parks and Wildlife Commission in opposition to a commission rule closing all state owned river beds, streams and railroad rights of way to public hunting. Commission Chairman Pearce Johnson suggested the refuge idea for the Canadian. This would allow public drawings for the privilege of hunting there. Robert Carp, president of the new Canadian River Sportsmen Organization, said it seemed to him it would be impossible to operate a refuge over the 170 mile area of the Canadian because of the migratory habits of deer and quail. Doyle Doggett of Pampa said a drawing for hunters would eliminate working men who could not get off work on the days they drew to hunt. Under the commission's rule closing river beds, "Only the landowners will be able to hunt," Carp said. "You will favor a privileged few."

Stargell Ties A Record With His 10th Home Run

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Willie Stargell, the top power hitter in the majors, tied a record with his 10th homer against Atlanta this season, a two-run shot in the eighth inning Saturday that carried Pittsburgh past the Braves, 5-4. Stargell's 30th homer of the season and 86th and 87th runs batted in came after Vic Davalillo beat out a slow roller to open the inning and Al Oliver sacrificed. Stargell had been tied with Clarence Gaston of San Diego with the record of nine homers against one club in a season. The victory was the sixth in a row for the Pirates who have pulled away to a big lead in the East Division of the National League. Hank Aaron drove in two of Atlanta's first three runs with sacrifice fly and his 24th homer. Stargell doubled and scored on Bob Robertson's single in the second off loser Phil Niekro, 9-8. Olivir singled in two runs in the third.

Rookies Open Spring Camp For Cowboys

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP)—Sixty-six rookies showed up for the opening of the Dallas Cowboys preseason training camp at California Lutheran College. The Cowboys' top three draft choices were absent. A team spokesman said Tody Smith of Southern California, Ike Thomas of Bishop College and Bill Gregory of Wisconsin were in Chicago practicing for the Al-Star game July 30. The Cowboys planned to hold their first full scale practice session today after devoting Saturday's session to conditioning exercises. Veterans will join the squad July 16.

Joey Bishop Will Broadcast Frazier Fight In Austin

Joey Bishop, a frustrated fighter, but one of the nation's top entertainers, will be executive broadcasting coordinator of color commentary for the Muhammad Ali-Jimmy Ellis fight in the Astrodome Monday, July 26. Bishop, who appears regularly on NBC's Tonight Show and in Las Vegas nightclubs, also attends virtually every major boxing event anywhere in the world. Bishop has had a deep interest in boxing since his youth when he did some amateur boxing in South Philadelphia. He is a good friend of heavy-weight champ Joe Frazier, as well as Ali and Ellis. His commentary will be on the closed circuit television which already is committed for transmission all over the world. There won't be any home television of this fight.

Rodeo Money Winners Counting Their Profits

DENVER, Colo.—The Fourth of July was a rich weekend for professional rodeo cowboys, the Rodeo Cowboys Association said here today. Four of the biggest rodeos, out of 25 held around the Fourth, paid winners nearly $100,000. The top money-winner was Barry Burk, Duncan, Okla., who won nearly $2,000 in calf roping and steer wrestling at New York City, Cody, Wyo., and Springdale, Ark. The wins jumped Burk into the number ten spot in calf roping with winnings of $6,337.

So far this season Burk has won $8,650 in his two events. A native New Yorker was the biggest winner at the Madison Square Garden rodeo in New York City, where $34,458 was at stake. Dennis O'Rourke, Brooklyn, finished first in steer wrestling, the richest event at the rodeo, for $1,817. Another big winner there was Bill Stanton, Oakdale, Calif., who was first in bul riding for $1,533. The win jumped Stanton into second place in the event with $8,593. The richest cowboy to leave the Greeley, Colo., rodeo was Ernie Taylor, Hugo, Okla., who was first in calf roping for $1,657. His time on two calves was 20.5 seconds. The total payoff at Greeley was nearly $30,000. A record $16,050 was up for grabs at Cody, with 220 cowboys entered. A Colorado cowboy left with the biggest check, Lennard Raines, Colorado Springs, won $995 by wrestling a steer to the ground in 41 seconds. Nearly $13,000 was paid to winners at Springdale, where Jack Ward, Odessa, Tex., collected the largest share, $1,340 in bul riding and steer wrestling.

Sharon Sue Frashier became the bride of Larry Lynn Taylor in a double-ring ceremony in the First Baptist Church, The Rev. Dan B. Cameron, pastor, officiated for the 8 p.m. service July 10.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil G. Frashier, 1949 N. Sumner. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Taylor, of Athens, Tex.

For the candlelight ceremony, the church was decorated with tall spiral and tree candelabra entwined with garlands of salal foliage. Candles and cascading greenery trimmed the choir rail. Traditional nuptial selections and a variety of popular selections were played by Jerry Whitten, organist.

HUNTER-OXLEY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: There is a young married woman (she is also a mother) who I feel is damaging the reputation of a fine young bachelor minister in our community.

This woman goes to his house daily to do his house cleaning, and she stays most of the afternoon to do the bookkeeping for the parish. I know this minister is above doing anything wrong, but you know how people talk.

This woman's staying around to work on the books makes it difficult for anyone else to come and talk with the minister when they need his help. How can she be told she should do the book work at their own home? It would be much better for the pastor's reputation, and it would at least give some others a chance.

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: I doubt that anyone who needs the minister's help would be discouraged from seeking it because the bookkeeper was under the same roof. Are you honestly concerned about the minister's reputation? Or is it "the others" who aren't getting a chance?

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of parents who allow their children to ask guests for money?

While visiting recently, my host's three-year-old toddled out with her piggy bank and requested a donation. When I said I had no pennies, she peered into my open purse and said, "OK, then give me a dime or a quarter."

Chicken-hearted, I gave her some change while her parents smiled indulgently, and the mother said, "Isn't that cute? She always does that when we have company."

Abby, I like youngsters, but I disapprove of their begging. Or am I just an old fogey?

IRRITATED IN ANAHEIM
DEAR IRRITATED: I'm with you. Too bad you are so chicken-hearted because you aren't helping the child by complaining to me. Her parents should be straightened out.

DEAR ABBY: I've been having a real battle with myself. I've been married for 10 years, but I had two babies and I have completely lost my figure. My body is so flat and saggy I just don't look at myself in the mirror.

My husband hasn't shown any signs of being dissatisfied with me the way I am, but what man wouldn't appreciate a round, firm, fully-packed wife? (I never was very big up there, but now I don't have a thing.)

I know a good plastic surgeon who does silicone implants and I would like to have it done. Should I surprise my husband and have the operation when he is out of town on one of his business trips? (He's gone for five days every six weeks.) I have my own money.

FLAT AND TEMPTED

DEAR FLAT: Don't "surprise" your husband. Better yet, take him to the surgeon so he will know exactly what is involved. Many surgeons refuse to perform that type of surgery without the knowledge and consent of the patient's husband.

DEAR ABBY: Don't you think it is extremely rude to ask a 40-year-old bachelor why he has never married?

FRISCO
DEAR FRISCO: Yes. Especially if you think you know.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — President Nixon's brief stop in Kansas City Tuesday included a telephone call to former President Harry S. Truman.

White House aides said Nixon asked the former president about Mrs. Truman, who has been undergoing tests at Kansas City's Research Hospital for more than two weeks.

The President was here to speak to news executives from Midwestern states.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Wants Ways To Salvage Photos Pasted In Album
By POLLY CRAMER

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY:—So many of the pictures my parents have collected during the past 86 years have been pasted or glued on black photo album paper. Many of the oldest ones have writing on the back—names, dates and places—we would like to know. I want to make a new album for them and then write such information under the pictures but cannot remove them from this black paper without damaging the pictures or removing the writing. I would greatly appreciate any suggestions.

DEAR POLLY:—I save all the elastic bands from the tops of my discarded panty hose and use them in the summer shorts I make for my children. This works well as the bands are never worn when the hose get runners.

—MRS. H.H.

DEAR POLLY:—The children wrote all over the wood paneling on the lower walls with colored crayons. I discovered that liquid furniture polish with lemon oil removed not only the marks but the dirt as well and it looks beautifully polished.

—MRS. D.B.

You will receive a dollar if Polly uses your favorite homemaking idea. Pet Peeve, Polly's Problem or solution to a problem. Write Polly in care of THE Pampa News.

DEAR POLLY:—I do appreciate all the manufacturers have done and are doing to aid the housewife but my Pet Peeve is the changing of labels (colors and designs), making it more complicated to find our old reliables. I do thank you for listening to our Pet Peeves.

—MRS. R.R.

DEAR POLLY:—Mrs. W.N. wanted to know the difference between loose lining for a dress or skirt and a sewn-in lining. A lining is joined to the garment at the neck and armholes, and at the waist for a skirt. A lining saves inside wear to the garment, prevents stretching and keeps raw edges from showing. A sewn-in lining is an underlining that is stitched to the outside fabric thereafter. An underlining adds body and prevents wrinkling. A garment could have both an underlining and a lining and the fabric itself determines which one, or perhaps both, may be needed.

—MARY T.

DEAR POLLY:—We should all be interested in cleaning up and beautifying America so I have an idea for picking trash up off the ground without touching it and getting polluted myself. Saw the head of an old mop or broom, then nail a 16-penny nail up into the center of the circle for about one inch, file off the nail head and sharpen the end to a sharp point. Put on canvas gloves and you are set to pick up scraps and garbage without bending over or even touching it.

Summer Shorts Aid Traveling

NEW YORK (NEA)—Young women on the move this summer are traveling light. They're taking short-cuts everywhere. Summer shorts, city shorts, romper shorts, short-shorts. Girls are legging it again to the delight of onlookers.

The trend started in Paris with Hot Pants and quickly hit the New York shore. From there it was just a jump across the country and now short stuff is an eye-catching attraction on the American scene. It's part of the multiple-levels game girls have been playing with their wardrobes. From the pants-point-of-view leg lengths now vary from long-pants to gauchas to knickers to supershorts.

Summer's newest short-cuts are naturals for the sunset. Young trend-setters have returned to nature in everything from organic foods to hand-drafted accessories. And there's a whole new ecology philosophy on the fabric front, too.

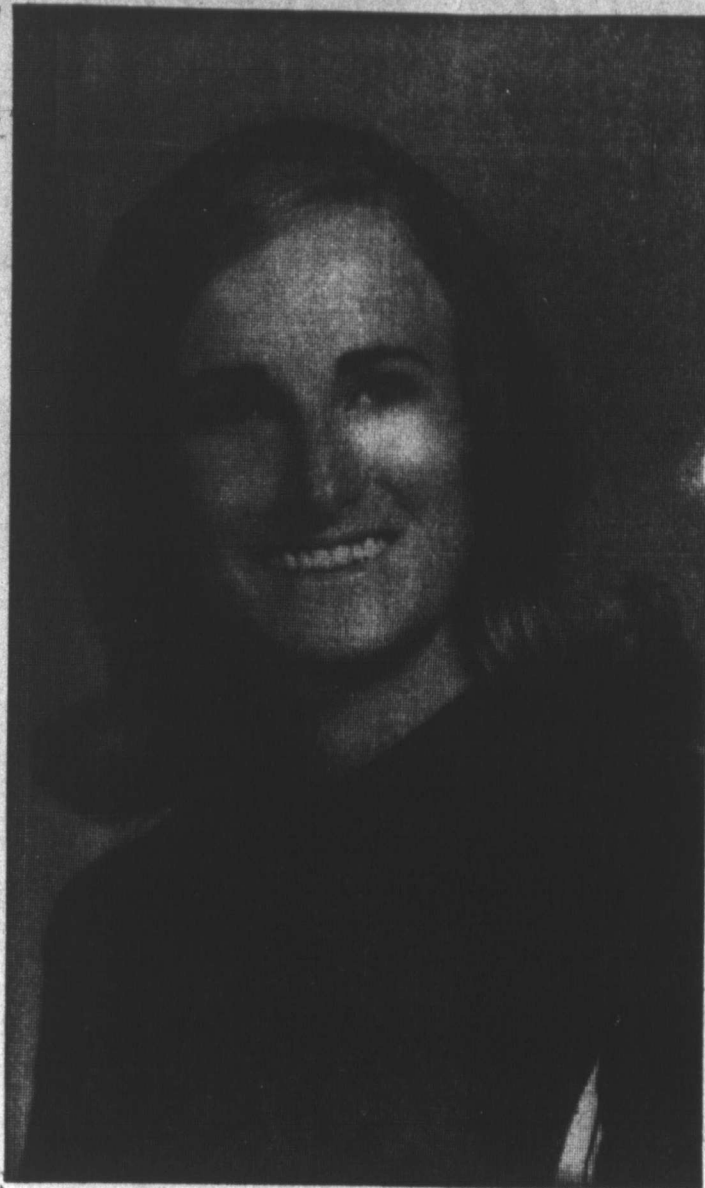

Softened earth tones and sky-blue denim shades lead the crusade for clean-color. And natural-fabric looks in synthetic fibers blend the best of both environments. Acrilan acrylic can give the rugged denim look a hand-knitted softness in Alvin Duskin's T-Short Set. Or it can take on a slubby linen look as in Snapdragon's striped bodyromper. But the best bonus of the summer season is the easy-care, get-up-and-go anywhere benefits that only quality knits can offer.

Summer's the season for moving out. Whether you're a day-tripper, weekend wanderer or long-distance traveler, freedom to move means natural, packable knits.

While you're picking places to see, plan to take a few short-cuts.

Follow a shortcut and you'll find yourself almost anywhere: Acrilan knit basic bodyromper (left) by Snapdragon is in new, clear sky tones. Play it lean and leggy with a natural body and lace-up espadrilles. Alvin Duskin's T-Short set (right) is thin-down-to-earth denim look in Acrilan acrylic knit. Both designs are Wear-Dated by Monsanto.

Quotable Quotes From U.S. Women

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some quotable quotes from women during week:

"My morals are a private matter. When I'm a member of Parliament, I represent a political program." —Bernadette Devlin, Northern Ireland's Roman Catholic representative, who expects a baby in the fall, according to a Dublin newspaper.

"There is no real value in learning for the sake of learning. Your goal should be to help someone instead of resting on your laurels as a learned person." —Lucretia Taylor, who graduated from Western College in Ohio this June and has been chosen one of the Ten Outstanding College Girls of 1971.

"One thing I am thinking about every day is to beware of what you want, because you just may get it." —Actress Elinor Andersen, in an interview.

"Show business has been awfully good to me. I had an awfully good nine years financially on the 'Hillbillies.' My business manager made some good investments. I have no relatives. So I thought why not give it to a business that has been so good to me." —Actress Irene Ryan, who has set up a foundation to provide scholarships for aspiring actors.

"As for the drug problem, we all know it's there, but education is the basis for solving it. Kids have to start learning exactly what drugs are about, so they'll know what they're playing with and how to deal with it. Fortunately, so many who have been there are coming out now and telling the truth about it and that may help." —Arlene Stens, America's Junior Miss, in an interview.

"We've found that the more attractive you are, the better shape you are in, the more interested you are in taking care of yourself." —Anne Marie Benstrom, who runs the Sanctuary, a health club in Hollywood.

"Any president who vetoes educational funds and calls them inflationary and fights for obsolete weapons systems and calls them progress, should be held accountable." —Helen Bain, president of the National Education Association, commenting on the Nixon administration education policy.

"I make it a point to include the woman in the conversation and keep it on a professional level. As long as the wives can see that I'm only interested in selling cars, there's no problem." —Joan Leonard, a lady car salesman in Miami.

"I don't know quite how yet, but I must continue on, of course." —Sheila Scott, British aviatrix grounded twice with mechanical problems while on an attempted solo flight around the world over both poles.

"I have this wild sense of humor and I have this imagination, and I thought I'd let it out. Some people sing. Some people play tennis. Me, I write." —Lolah Burford, who wrote six books within a year.

Janice Holley, Andrew Wilks Repeat Vows In Houston Church

The Gettysburg Methodist Church of Houston was the site of the wedding of Miss Janice Lynn Holley and Andrew V. Wilks. Double-ring vows were exchanged June 5, at 7:30 p.m. with the Rev. Don Goodwin officiating.

MR. AND MRS. ANDREW V. WILKS
 ... nee Janice Lynn Holley

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Holley of Houston and Mrs. Herschel Wilks of Pampa, and the late Mr. Wilks.

Two seven-branched candelabras with yellow candles, flanked by large baskets of yellow gladiolas decorated the church.

Background music performed by Mrs. Janet Scarcella, included the selection, "To Each His Own" which was also the musical selection at the bride's parent's wedding.

BRIDE
 Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal-length gown, fashioned in white organza and Chantilly lace. The high rise empire had a sheer laced bodice and high collar. Sleeves were long and lacey. Appliques decorated the skirt front and a built-in train gathered at the shoulders to form a sheer chapel-length train. Her bridal bouquet featured yellow roses surrounded by daisies.

Appliques Add Fashion Motifs
 This is the year of the put-on. Appliques are everywhere — jeans and jumpsuits, sweaters and sweat-shirts, pants, ponchos. Anything itself, appliques you design and motifs such as peaperry or flange sold ready where none sewed on pocket can even were intention technique that choose the — fusing, iron-on suits mentioned sew-on. The or dibles are thermoplastic which melt under heat and can to create a permanent, andry-proof bond between two fibers. This material may also be used to attach facings and interfacings, to turn hems, to reinforce buttonhole areas, to construct belts and straps and to prevent raveling. Here are three approaches to the put-on story.

Crochet Summer Bathing Beauties

Beach beauties in crocheted bikini actually swims in cover-up poncho never goes style and the near water.

Work this pair of bathing beauties in crocheted bikini actually swims in cover-up poncho never goes style and the near water. Incidentally, if you're not brave or whatever enough for the bikini, this beach cover-up will move just as smartly into any situation where you want a frothy toss over your summer costume.

By JUDY Last they are. This is a new and last word in set. Crochet fun for them in no time. one of them is an easy puff pattern, and goodness there's not enough there require too much time to make it. You work the surprisingly light little puff pattern on a No. 1 steel crochet hook. You'll like the way the top and leg edging is worked, because it's just snug enough for a good, smooth fit.

Work the bra top just as quickly; again, the edging of both the halter top and bikini bottom have the same careful edging pattern for good fit. The tie for the halter top is a clever cording made from 32 strands of matching Knit Cro Sheen; you simply cut lengths of the yarn, then twist the strands tightly in two different directions. The easy-to-follow instructions tell you how, of course.

Save Wardrobe Cost By Clothes Variety
 NEW YORK—(NEA)—If you've got the fashion blues you can revitalize your wardrobe without spending a small fortune. The secret is to screen the clothes you have and shop carefully for those you need. Today women are less inclined to buy new clothes, but they are more inclined to buy what they like and what looks right. This is the opinion of Evelyn E. Corning, fashion executive of nationwide specialty shop. She is designed a money-saving plan that helps to organize what you have and to figure out what you really need. Here's how it works: Set aside some free time to go through your wardrobe. Start by listing recent activities you've engaged in during the last month. Include casual social events such as dinners, cocktail parties, PTA meetings, etc. Jot down the type of clothes worn and those you need for these occasions. Try on everything in your closet and determine if your clothes are in good condition, fit, and most of all, whether or not you're tired of them. Make a list of each item in your wardrobe, including coats, suits, dresses, jackets, blouses, sweaters and skirts and list next to each item how often you wear it. Weed out what you never wear or haven't worn in months. List the clothes you are keeping and accessories that could be purchased to update

 Mrs. A. F. Union, N.J.

DEAR MRS. A.F. — Yes, a number of craft books are available with directions for adorning most anything. Look for them on decorative yarn ideas.

Here's a suggestion for using odds and ends of yarn that will enhance your favorite summer tote — or brighten your little girl's blue jeans, too. Make yarn pom-poms like this: using extra or odd lengths of yarn, wrap yarn around your fingers. Turn several times — at least six times. Slip yarn from fingers and tie tightly in the middle with a 4-inch piece of yarn. Then cut all loops. Separate the yarn and comb very gently with a wide tooth comb. Then mold your pompon and glue on tote, bag or pants. Here's the rough proportion

DPS OFFICERS — Larry Dunham, left and Phil Altman, check out the Gray County-based Breathalyzer. The electronic analyzing equipment allows officers to determine blood alcohol content of suspected intoxicated drivers. Altman joined the Pampa unit July 1 after serving four months in the Amarillo division. He is a native of Amarillo and joined the DPS in September, 1970.

Breathalyzer Discredits Claim Of 'Only Two Beers, Officer!'

By ALETHA DAVIS
Texas Department of Public Safety — broadly stated and as provided by Texas Law, lists it objective as preserving the social order by protecting the lives, rights, privileges, property and well-being of the people of Texas, so states the biennial report over the signature of Wilson E. Speer, Texas Public Safety Commission.

The DPS Academy headquartered in Austin is skilled at turning out highly-trained fit young men instructed in the best methods of carrying out the department's aims.

A six-county area, including Gray County, is worked by 12 patrolmen, four in Pampa, two in McLean, two in Shamrock, and two in Perryton and two in Canadian.

Relatively new equipment aids officers in performing duties required by the DPS.

Modern radar is one of the added benefits of Texas DPS units, and the Pampa station equipment includes a Breathalyzer. The Breathalyzer, an intricate electronic device, was designed and put into use determining intoxicated drivers in Texas in 1968. Ten of the 12 patrolmen in this district are qualified and certified Breathalyzer specialists, having completed 40 hours of special training in the analyzer operation.

The basic principal of the machine operation is to determine the amount of blood alcohol in a suspected intoxicated driver's blood stream. The State of Texas and the American Medical Association agrees that .10 per cent constitutes intoxication.

The quick test with the Breathalyzer permits the DPS officer to judge the feasibility of filing a charge of driving while intoxicated against a suspect in a matter of minutes. The only other compatible test to check blood alcohol, an alcohol-tual test of a blood sample, may necessitate waiting several days for test results. The whole process is speeded up by using the Breathalyzer, yet the degree of accuracy doesn't waver. Patrolman Larry Dunnam, stated that a Breathalyzer reading and a blood test will be the same in every instance.

In the state of Texas, 1,263 DPS officers have been trained to operate 254 breath testing instruments in 230 counties. As a result of this program, Highway Patrol arrests for driving while intoxicated increased from 11,970 in 1968 to 20,735 in 1969, and 29,422 in the calendar year of 1970.

Texas still has only half as many Highway Patrolmen as recommended by nationally recognized standards.

Despite manpower limitations, the DPS has been able to assist local authorities during emergencies, investigate most of the traffic accidents on rural highways, recover stolen vehicles, and other stolen property, apprehend many persons wanted by other enforcement agencies and provide assistance to motorists who find themselves in distress.

Tour Of Water Projects In California Scheduled

A tour of the California water project sponsored by water, incorporated, is scheduled in mid-August. Reservations are now being accepted for the four-day trek designed to give the entourage a close-up look at the multi-billion dollar project designed to satisfy that state's water needs until 1990.

Departing Lubbock and Amarillo August 22nd, the tour group goes first to Sacramento for a look at the Oroville Dam complex on the Feather River, then follows canal and other conveyance facilities south to Los Angeles with stops at Fresno, Bakersfield and Los Angeles. Included is inspection of the Tehachapi Mountain Lift at which huge quantities of water are carried almost 2,000 feet up the side of the mountain.

The tour group will be limited to 70 persons and reservations are being accepted on a "first-come, first-serve" basis. Cost of the tour is $300 per person which includes air transportation to and from California, air conditioned bus transportation in California, lodging and a portion of the meals. Interested persons should contact Water, Incorporated in Lubbock.

TEXAS STILL NEEDS GENERAL SOAKING RAIN

Stock Water Supplies Becoming Critical In Some Areas

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — The Texas agricultural outlook for the coming week is the same old story: Rain is needed badly on crops, pastures and rangelands of the state.

Stock water supplies are becoming critical in some areas and livestock are still being fed in others, said John E. Hutchison, director of Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

It's the type of situation when an awful lot depends on a missed shower or on the difference between a shower and a good rain, Hutchison said.

Here is the way the district agricultural agents summed up the situation in their respective areas of the state for the week.

PANHANDLE: The wheat harvest was complete with fair to good yields reported for irrigated acreage. Poor to moderate yields were listed for the dryland acreage. Last week's rain supplied needed moisture for dryland grain and forage sorghums. Irrigated corn and grain sorghum are making good growth. The second cutting of alfalfa has been completed and chiseling wheat stubble is active. Ranges are short but greening up. Much more rain is needed to keep forage growing.

SOUTH PLAINS: Irrigated-cotton made rapid progress under the hot and sunny conditions but dryland growth is slow due to the lack of moisture. Rain is needed for growth of both dry-land cotton and grain sorghum. Some areas have not yet established any crops due to the lack of planting moisture. The onion harvest is underway and yields are generally good. Ranges responded to recent rains but more moisture is needed to maintain range plant growth. Livestock generally are in good condition.

ROLLING PLAINS: Showers fell in a few Rolling Plains counties last week but moisture is badly needed throughout the district. Cotton planting is complete and growth has been poor to good depending upon the soil moisture. Some guar and grain sorghums are still being planted. Ranges need moisture. Stock water is short and feeding and marketing of livestock are continuing.

NORTH CENTRAL: Spotted showers failed to relieve the critical need for rain. Stock tanks are low and even dry in some areas. Cotton and grain sorghum still look pretty good but all need rain now. Insect damage so far has been light. Peanuts are beginning to bloom and need rain. Pastures and ranges are short on grazing and hurting. The quality of peaches has been good but yields are down. Hay yields have also generally been light and rain is needed for regrowth.

NORTHEAST: Few scattered showers continued but soil moisture is generally very short. Hay yields are light and unless it rains there may not be any second cuttings. The tomato harvest is near peak and the weight of early watermelons is less than half of normal. Cucumber yields were listed as fair. The pecan crop has possibilities only if the rains come. Some peaches are being harvested. Peas and gardens need rain. Pastures and ranges are below average. Livestock are in good condition considering the dry and hot weather.

FAR WEST: Very hot and dry. Few showers in the El Paso area but all areas need rain. Range conditions vary from poor to good and livestock from fair to good. Dryland crops could be a failure. Irrigated crops are making good growth. The small grain harvest is complete. Calf and lamb shipments are on the increase.

WEST CENTRAL: Scattered showers and rains up to 5 inches in Bandera County fell last week but generally all areas are still waiting for a good general ground soaking rain. Only Bandera County has adequate soil moisture and crop prospects are good. Cotton growth was listed as average and grain sorghum as promising. Some hay is being baled. Ranges and pastures are greening in the rain areas but livestock are still being fed in the drier areas. Livestock are in fair to good condition. Web worms have hit pecan trees in Menard County and most counties report poor prospects.

CENTRAL: Drought and hot weather are terrible and have taken and continue to take a heavy toll in crops and livestock production. Corn yields have been drastically reduced, maybe by 50 per cent. Some grain sorghum fields have been baled, some shredded and some plowed. Projected yields in Bell County are expected to average about 1,000 pounds an acre. Cotton continues to hold up fairly well but needs rain. Some increase noted in boll weevil activity. Boll worm infestations have been on the light side. Fleahoppers continue to cause some damage but beneficial insect populations appear to be good.

State Will Suffer $500 Million Loss From Agricultural Products In 1971

Editor's Note: The outcries are not as great as they were a few weeks ago about the lack of rain. But that isn't because the drought has ended. A situation for mid-July.

By ROBERT HEARD
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) — There have been some recent rains in Texas. Some were spectacular. Did they end the searing, crippling dry conditions? Hardly.

The heavy, cloudburst June 26-29 rains in Southwest Texas helped a lot but did not break the drought even in that area, says Robert Orton, state climatologist for the National Weather Service.

The same is true of recent 2- to 4-inch rains on the High Plains, he said.

Today's drought is classified as extreme yet still falls short of the severity of the drought of the 1950s, which Orton says was the worst on record.

A drought scale devised by Wayne C. Palmer, federal drought specialist, shows the current dry spell has worsened in North Central Texas in the last two weeks, dropping from minus 4.5 to minus 4.7. Zero normal.

The rains in Southwest Texas raised that area from -4.4 on the Palmer scale to -2.7.

Anything below -4 is considered extreme, and the -2.7 reading is classified as a drought of moderate intensity.

The worst reading in Texas during the 1950s was recorded in North Central Texas in September 1956: -6.5.

At the other extreme, the High Plains region registered the highest reading on the Palmer scale in Texas history: 10.6 in October 1941, the state's wettest year.

"All the cactus rotted on the High Plains that summer, it was so wet," Orton said.

State Agriculture Commissioner John C. White says the Southwest Texas rains came too late to do any good for crops.

On the other side, "The livestock men are pretty happy about it," he said. "It recharged the surface water and improved pastures."

The state wheat crop this year will hit only 24 to 25 million bushels, compared with the average yield of 55-60 million bushels," White said.

"And the cotton situation is just nil," White added.

The state will suffer a loss of $500 million from its average $2.7 billion income from agriculture products, he said.

White hesitated a moment when asked about statements made last week by U.S. Undersecretary of Agriculture J. Phil

Purebred Boar Presented To Texas Tech

LUBBOCK — A purebred Hampshire boar has been presented to the Texas Tech University swine breeding program by Ted Treider of Lazbuddie.

The animal, named Coverage, has been officially accepted by the university, and swine specialist Dr. Leland Tribble of the Animal Science Department faculty said the boar would be put to use this fall in the breeding program.

The value of the three-year-old animal has been appraised at $500. He weighs 600 pounds or more, Tribble estimated.

"Texas Tech now has three purebred Hampshire boars and 20 purebred brood sows," Tribble said.

Threshing Bee Recaptures Farm Life Of Yesteryear

In a time when Americans are turning to the nostalgic past and the simple pleasures of life, the steam threshing bee of yesteryear has become a special attraction in the agricultural belt. One of the "grand-daddies" of them all is the Waukomis, Okla., Steam Threshing Association, which holds its 17th annual bee Friday through Sunday, July 23-25.

The three-day event is held on the Harry Landwehr farm three miles west of U. S. 81 at Waukomis. It features a daily grand parade of mammoth antique steam engines used to help break the sod and harvest the crops around the turn of the century. Also on the program each day are a steam engine race, a Baker Fan test, steam wood sawing and other events.

The daily grand finale is actual threshing of 30 acres of grain (barley or wheat), followed by an old-time farm meal in an old cook shack.

Begun originally as a one-man show by the late Harry Landwehr, the Waukomis Steam Threshing Bee is now sponsored by the non-profit Waukomis Steam Threshing Association, organized in 1966 to accommodate the ever-growing crowds. A $1 admission fee is ANTIQUE STEAM ENGINES featured at the annual Waukomis Steam Threshing Bee July 23-24-25 will include 1916 Case steam engines similar to this one. In a 16-hour farm day, these machines can use 1500 gallons of water and 1 1/2 tons of coal. The event, in its 17th year, is held on the Landwehr farm 3 miles west of U.S. 81 at Waukomis, 8 miles south of Enid, Okla. It is sponsored by the non-profit Waukomis Steam Threshing Association.

The huge steam engine huffs and puffs, belts and gears whirl and grain pours out of a chute at one end of the conveyor belt while straw and chaff whirl out of a pipe at the other end. Threshing crews range in size from 12 to 25 men.

For those who wish to recapture a bit of the past, or show their children farm life as it was in days gone by, the Waukomis Steam Threshing Bee offers an interesting, informative and relaxing afternoon in the country.

PLANT SPECIALIST — Plant specialist, Robert Berry, visited Pampa this week to conduct a diagnostic clinic to determine plant disease and insect infestations prevalent in the area. Pictured with Berry, center, are Mrs. C. N. Hughes, and Quintin Williams, right, County Agent Foster Whaley indicated this week another clinic would be held in August if interest was sufficient.

Agriculturally Speaking

By FOSTER WHALEY

The Ornamental Clinic held last week at the Court House Annex was a big success. Dr. Robert Berry, Extension plant pathologist, Lubbock, Texas, and Dr. Bill Clymer, entomologist, Extension Service at Amarillo, worked feverishly some 5 or 6 hours with individuals as they brought plants and parts of plants to have identification made of disease and insects.

This is an annual affair we have in Gray County. Should the demand justify, we might have another day in August. We would like to hear from any individuals that feel like they could use the services of these two very fine specialists.

Bill Clymer is new to Extension District I, which comprises some twenty-two Panhandle counties. The new entomologist is an addition to the Area Extension staff in Amarillo. For some time we have needed an entomologist for this area. We now have him and we are very lucky. Clymer is a very fine entomologist.

Speaking of insects, there are a lot of grain sorghum producers that are spraying their milo for greenbugs and corn leaf aphids that should take the second look. We observed several fields last week. We also had Dr. Bill Clymer to look at some of these fields. . . we did not find a one that Dr. Clymer would recommend spraying. What is bothering most people is the corn leaf aphid which feeds in the whorl and the upper leaves. Research has shown that little increase in yield could be obtained by trying to control corn leaf aphids. Sometimes it is a different story on greenbugs when they are bothering milo in the five to seven leaf stage. The greenbugs usually affect the lower leaves. The rule of thumb, by our Extension entomologist, Dr. Bill Clymer, is that spraying should be done when the two lower leaves have been severely damaged. If you have a question on your milo and would like to call, I would be very happy to take a look at it with you.

DISTRICT 4-H HORSE SHOW

On Thursday and Friday I worked with officials of the District I 4-H Horse Show in Amarillo. I've never seen as sharp a looking bunch of 4-H'ers as I did at this horse show, nor have I ever seen as good horses as they had at this show. It was a real fine show; a lot of real good sportsmanship was shown. I can't think of a finer activity to have your children in than a 4-H Horse project. I believe if you had seen these young folks at Amarillo, you would have agreed with me.

MILLO CONDITION

Most farmers have up to good stands their 1971 milo crop. I believe we have up the largest acreage of dryland milo that we have had for some time. We don't have much sub-soil moisture but we did have enough moisture to get the milo up in most cases. The irrigated milo, in spite of rather adverse conditions, looks the best it has looked in years at this time of year. I predict, unless the weather gets a great deal worse, that you will see some of the highest yields this fall that you have seen in many years.

Irrigation farming is growing up in Gray County. I can remember a few years back when there was lot of question on just how irrigation should be done. Several of our farmers have made trips to other areas to see some of the mechanics of irrigation farming. We have had numerous educational meetings on the subject of irrigation. We believe these meetings are now paying off in improved yields. Last year we had a Result Demonstration that taught the irrigation farmers of this area that it requires a five thousand pound crop of milo to break even. I believe most farmers set their goals at seven thousand pounds and above and I believe a lot of them will attain this goal in 1971. We have had some increased activity in irrigation development.

Panhandle Water

By FELIX W. RYALS

This writer returned to the arid high plains of West Texas on Monday of the past week from a week long vacation at Dumas and McGehee, Arkansas. These two cities are located in Desha County. The Arkansas River crosses Desha County and enters the Mississippi River. The Mississippi River forms the eastern boundary of the county. This area is in a high rainfall belt. The annual precipitation is 50 to 60 inches. Here on the High Plains, we think we have had a rainy year if we get 20 inches.

The Desha County area in Southeast Arkansas has received nation-wide publicity in recent months as the result of a Reader's Digest article on catfish farming near Dumas, Arkansas. During my week visit in the area, I spent the best part of two days visiting the Edgar Farmer Catfish Farm and the Co-Op Catfish Processing Plant in Dumas, Arkansas. I was amazed at the progress that has been made in the raising, processing, and marketing of catfish. I made a number of photos, both stills and slides, of their operations and will do a story on this later this summer.

The past week has very busy one for the staff of the Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District. The entire week has seen a constant stream of people coming to the District Office with water problems or making applications for test hole permits and irrigation well permits. The Hoerner clan from Iowa and Kansas were among those visiting to check on underground water situations. Many inquiries have been made in recent weeks concerning the spacing of irrigation water wells. For clarification, we are listing the following regulation which is an excerpt from the Rules of Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District No. 3:

"A well to be equipped with a 4-inch or smaller pump shall be located at least 200 yards from the nearest existing well or authorized well site and at least 100 yards from the nearest property line; a well to be equipped with a 5-inch pump shall be located at least 250 yards from the nearest well or authorized well site and at least 125 yards from the nearest property line; a well to be equipped with a 6-inch pump shall be located at least 300 yards from the nearest well or authorized well site and at least 150 yards from the nearest property line; a well to be equipped with a 8-inch pump shall be located at least 400 yards from the nearest well or authorized well site and at least 220 yards from the nearest property line; a well to be equipped with a 10-inch or larger pump shall be located at least 600 yards from the nearest well or authorized well site and at least 300 yards from the nearest property line.

"It is contemplated that the pumps of the respective sizes set out above shall refer to the inside diameter of the pump column pipe and shall produce water at the ordinary or usual pumping rate of pumps of such sizes.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic National Committee has formally approved Miami Beach as the site of its 1972 national convention. Democratic national chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien said Friday the convention will begin on Monday, July 10, 1972.

Soil Conservation Official Here Notes Natural Pollution Control

Grass is one of the most effective pollution control and air conditioning devices that nature has to offer.

"One acre of grass releases about 2,400 gallons of water on a summer day through evaporation and transpiration," according to Mickey Black, head of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service office in Pampa.

"This much evaporation equals the cooling effect of a 70-ton air conditioner," Black continued. "And grass is ideal for erosion control, beautification, and animal forage."

Black said grasses vary widely with individual species. There may be dozens of strains of one species, for example, growing within an area of a few counties. These variations are caused by differences in climate, soils, elevation and other factors.

SCS conducts a constant search for superior strains of grasses and other plants, Black said. "What we're looking for are strains of grasses that will help solve some specific environmental problems," Black explained. "In Texas, we need grasses that will thrive on several drouthy soils; cool season plants that will extend the grazing season; and plants that will provide forage for livestock while also providing better food and cover for more kinds of wildlife."

Black added that conservationists also need salt tolerant grasses that will grow on a wide variety of problem sites, forbs and woody plants useful to wildlife and livestock that can be planted in range seeding mixtures, and water-tolerant plants that will curb wave action on earthen dams.

To help coordinate the search for better plants, SCS operates 20 plant materials centers in the United States. One is located in Texas at Knox City. Scientists at these centers grow and evaluate plants from all over the world to help find strains that will solve specific problems.

The most recent grass selected and put into use by SCS plant materials work in Texas is Selection 75 Kleingrass. Released in 1968, the plant is a leafy, highly palatable grass that is now grown widely in Central Texas. It is used mostly in tame pastures where high rates of fertilizer are used.

NEW YORK (AP) - The FBI has arrested two New Jersey men in connection with the robbery of Italian actress Sophia Loren at gunpoint in her Manhattan apartment last Oct. 11.

Three gunmen entered the apartment and took $2,000 in cash, personal jewels which Miss Loren valued at $50,000 and jewelry she had borrowed from a New York dealer.

Miss Loren and her infant son, Carlo Ponti Jr., were not injured, but her secretary received a scalp wound when one of the robbers hit her with his weapon.

Part of the loot was found by two boys in West New York, N.J., several hours after the robbery and turned over to police.
