Four Men Sought For Mass Slaying

DETROIT (AP) — Homicide detectives sought four men and a motive today for the mass slaying of seven young persons in the bloodiest massacre in Detroit Crime history.

The victims—three men and four women 18 to 27 years old—were shot to death and another man was wounded critically about 4:30 a.m. Monday in what police believe was a narcotics center on the city's Near Northwest Side.

Four men were seen fleeing the two-story flat shortly after neighbors were awakened by about a dozen shots. Police found cartridges of at least three different calibers at the scene.

Investigators said they did not know whether the four men were involved in the mass killing or if they were fleeing for their lives.

Two women and one man told police they fled from the house moments before the shooting by diving through the glass of a back sunporch and running down an alley.

Inspector James Bannon, head of a 20-man investigating team, said the three reported to police voluntarily shortly after the shootings. He declined to furnish their names or details of their statements.

There was speculation that the slayings were the outgrowth of a gangland struggle over control of the lucrative narcotics trade in the Detroit area. Up to 550 killings in recent months have been linked to an alleged dope war, some investigators say.

Bannon expressed doubt about the gangland war theory but did not rule out such a possibility. He indicated the rash of slayings may be the result of holdups at known narcotics hangouts, where large sums of cash usually are kept.

"We don't know whether it was a robbery that went awry or whether something else, such as drugs, was involved," he said.

If the killers were seeking money, however, they overlooked $673 found on the seven slaying victims and the wounded man, Robert Gardner, 23. Police said the cash included five $100 bills.

Gardner, who occupied the flat in the predominantly black neighborhood, remained in critical condition late Monday. A heavy police guard was posted outside his room at Henry Ford Hospital. Doctors said he had about a 50-50 chance to survive the two gunshot wounds in his chest.

The murder victims were shot in the head at close range. All three women had their hands tied.

Police were mystified by what they described as the relaxed positions of some victims.

One man was found with an unlighted cigarette in his hand and some dollar bills in his lap. Two others appeared to have been sitting in almost a casual position when shot.

Albuquerque Riot Flares Anew; 15 Hurt, 250 Nabbed

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — A rash of fires, many of which city officials said were touched off by fire bombs, burned in widely scattered areas of Albuquerque early today after violence flared anew between authorities and crowds of young people.

Two days of disorders in this desert city of 300,000 left 15 persons wounded by gunfire, more than 250 persons arrested, police equipment destroyed and businesses looted and burned. Fire damage was unofficially estimated at almost $3 million.

The disturbances were touched off Sunday when police attempted to arrest some young people in crowded Roosevelt Park for public drinking.

At the height of the renewed violence Monday afternoon police, state troopers and National Guardsmen routed a cursing, missile-hurling crowd from the park.

Young people massed in the park hurled gasoline bombs and other missiles at the police and guardsmen, who responded with tear gas and a charge that sent most of the crowd in retreat. Police made 100 arrests.

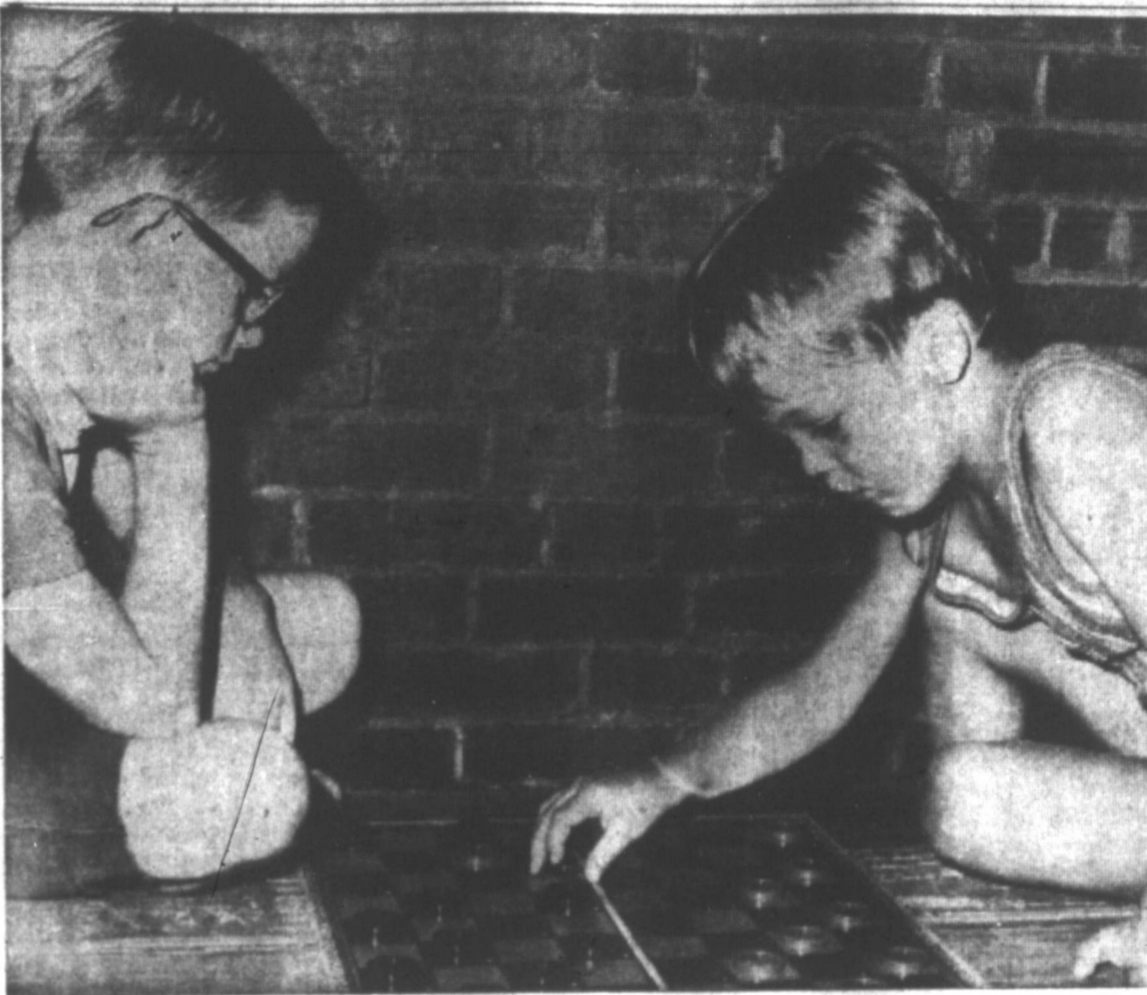

The confrontation came at Chicano Hill in the park. Chicano is the name given to Mexican-Americans.

Five persons, including two guardsmen, were injured during the clash at the park and a disturbance with marching young people earlier Monday on a corner of the University of New Mexico campus.

One young man was shot in the back by police in the campus area, police said. He was reported in serious condition.

"After the combined efforts of all law enforcement agencies, including the New Mexico National Guard, the park has been cleared," Deputy Police Chief Don Daniel said Monday night. "It is quiet."

Lt. Governor To Run For State Top Post

AUSTIN (AP) — Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes decision to run for governor was expected to set off political shock waves in Texas today, touching ambitious men all over the state.

By announcing for governor, Barnes, 33, stripped the Texas Democratic Party of its strongest challenger to Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., who is up for re-election next year.

And he could be diving into a free-for-all for governor, including Gov. Preston Smith, 59; former U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough, 68; and Uvalde rancher Dolph Briscoe, 48, who ran a strong fourth in the 1968 Democratic primary.

There has been speculation, however, that Briscoe would drop his fight a notch and contest Sen. Ralph Hall of Rockwall and William P. Hobby Jr. of Houston for lieutenant governor.

Barnes told a news conference at the capitol Monday that he "certainly had been interested in being U.S. senator" from Texas, but he thought that in 1972 he could make his "greatest contribution" to the state as governor.

Barnes, who will be 34 next April, could become the youngest Texas governor since Dan Moody was inaugurated in 1927 at the age of 33.

His election would also make him the first Texan to be elected House speaker, lieutenant governor and governor.

Former President Lyndon Johnson has stated publicly on several occasions that Barnes can be president if he wants the job.

Johnson and former Texas Gov. John Connally, now secretary of the treasury, are friends of Barnes and advise him politically. But Barnes said he had not discussed his candidacy with them, and "I have no idea what their response is going to be."

He said many Texans had urged him to run for governor, and "it has become increasingly apparent in recent months that our state must have new leadership in the governor's office and fresh, enlightened vigorous approaches to the critical problems of the 1970s."

Smith said Barnes told him he hoped "I did not run. I replied that no decision had been made on my part at this time."

Barnes said under Smith administration since 1969, "there has been a void in pursuing greatness."

He said the No. 1 campaign issue would be "the loss of faith and confidence in state government." He mentioned several times the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission's lawsuit involving Houston millionaire Frank Sharp, the Sharpstown State Bank of Houston and Naional Bankers Life Insurance Co. stock.

Smith made profits off NBL stock purchased with money borrowed from Sharpstown, depositions show, but the governor was not named in the suit.

Barnes acknowledged late in January that he had borrowed $60,000 from Dallas Bank and Trust Co., one of those named in the SEC suit, to buy 1,000 shares of National Data Communications stock at $60 a share.

He said Harold Hinn, a Plainview and Dallas businessman, took out the loan in his behalf, using the stock as collateral.

Barnes said the loan was paid off and transferred to another bank two months later where it was secured by Hinn's letter of credit.

Barnes said at that time the loan remained unpaid and the stock he purchased for $60 a share had dropped to $6.50 or $7 a share.

National Data Communication was not one of those companies named in the SEC allegations.

The SEC alleges loans were made to high government officials to secure passage of a banking bill favored by Sharp. Smith vetoed the bill.

"I visualize the role of governor as a much more aggressive role than it has been in the past," Barnes said. He has often criticized Smith for not pushing specific legislative goals.

Asked what he thought about Smith's remark that Barnes would be easy to beat, Barnes replied, "I don't think I'll be easy to beat. It would be a wrong assumption by anyone to take my candidacy lightly."

He also said he still thinks Dr. Elmer Baum, appointed by Smith as chairman of the State Democratic Party, "should return to the private practice of medicine (osteopathy)."

Baum was linked with the governor in making money off the NBL stock.

Barnes said he has hired the public relations firm of George Christian, former press secretary of President Johnson Christian and Tom Johnson, another ex-Johnson aide who is vice president of the Johnson family television station, KTRC-TV at Austin, watched Barnes' news conference in the Senate chamber.

OFFICIALS SAY

Communities Barring Housing For Poor Will Be Denied Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a toughened interpretation of President Nixon's open-housing policy, administration officials say communities barring subsidized housing for the poor will be denied federal aid, for such projects as water and sewer construction, planning, and renewal.

In other strengthening steps, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell announced filing Monday of a long-delayed federal suit against the St. Louis suburb of Black Jack, Mo., for allegedly rezoning a tract to exclude a racially integrated, townhouse apartment complex.

And Housing Secretary George Romney said subsidized housing projects planned in suburbs will receive clear funding priority — rather than limited priority as stated by White House officials last week — over developments that fail to break up racial concentrations.

In a joint news conference with Mitchell, Romney announced proposed regulations to insure minority groups equal access to subsidized suburban housing. The U.S. Civil Rights Commission accused the administration last week of condoning lily-white suburban housing and black inner-city dwellings under the major 235 mortgage subsidy program.

In addition, Romney announced an agreement with the General Services Administration giving the Department of Housing and Urban Development greater say, but not a veto, over location of many federal buildings and installations. HUD will determine if the community picked for the federal project has, or intends to build, an adequate supply of low-and moderate-income housing available on a nondiscriminatory basis.

The volley of administration initiatives on housing discrimination coincided with opening of three days of hearings by the Civil Rights Commission to examine government open-housing enforcement. Romney will be questioned today and Mitchell on Wednesday.

Reagan Attacks New Deal Demos And Reformers

FRAMINGHAM, Mass. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan of California assailed Monday night New Deal Democrats and reformers who have "been covering their failures with more failures."

Addressing a GOP fund raising dinner sponsored by the Massachusetts Republican State Committee, Reagan said the disenchanted young who are rushing down to the polls to register with the Democrats do so cause they mistakenly think it is the Republicans who represent the establishment.

That, he said, is due to a "lack of knowledge of history. They are not ignorant. They know too many things that aren't true."

For only 10% of the last 30% years, Reagan told some 1,300 persons at the $50-a-plate affair, has there been a Republican president.

PER MONTH

Social Security Benefits May Go Up To $1,300 For Retired Couple

WASHINGTON (AP) — The pending Social Security bill eventually will increase benefits to $1,300 a month for a typical retired couple, the Social Security Administration estimates.

By contrast, a 65-year-old man and wife retiring this year will receive $280.20 a month if the husband worked at the median wage each year of his employment.

Projections of benefits that could develop if the bill becomes law were made available in the wake of public attention given payroll-tax hikes written into the legislation on which the House may vote next week.

The maximum payment by an employee, matched by his employer, is $405.60 this year. The maximum, under the bill, will go to at least $754.80 in 1977, an 86-per-cent increase.

But Social Security mathematicians, using the man in the middle, developed figures showing a highly favorable benefit-to-contribution ratio.

The legislation introduces new variables into Social Security by linking future contributions and benefits to the cost of living and wage levels, so the calculations are based on estimates of what may happen in the next 30 years.

Here's an example:

Mr. A, a median earner, and his wife are 36 and will retire at 65 in January 2000. A will live to be 78 and Mrs. A will live three years after her husband's death.

At the time of retirement, the couple's monthly benefit, under terms of the pending bill and Social Security's economic assumptions, would be $1,042.50. Under present law, they would receive only $414.90.

By the last year of A's life—still under the new bill—the couple would be receiving $1,311.90 a month.

Times Continues Publishing Viet Study Despite Threat

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times said that despite the threat of injunction it "must respectfully decline" a Justice Department request to halt the publication of a secret Pentagon study of the Vietnam war.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell asked the newspaper in a telegram Monday evening to refrain from further publication of documents on the grounds that it will cause "irreparable injury to the defense interests of the United States."

The telegram arrived about an hour after Robert C. Mardian, assistant attorney general in charge of the internal security division, conveyed the department request to Harding F. Bancroft, executive vice president of the Times.

Mardian said that if the Times did not accede "the government would seek to enforce all applicable statutes, including seeking an injunction to stop further publication," a Justice Department spokesman said.

Secret Study Shows How United States Went To Indochina War

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times reported today that a Pentagon study of the Vietnam war says President Johnson decided on April 1, 1965, that American ground forces would take the offensive because a month of bombing North Vietnam had showed air power wouldn't win the war.

Johnson ordered that the decision be kept secret, the Times said, and be carried out rapidly but in ways that would minimize any appearance of sudden changes in policy.

The Times report today was the third in a series which the newspaper is publishing on a 7,000-page study made in 1967-68 of how the United States went to war in Indochina. The study was ordered by the defense secretary in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, Robert S. McNamara.

The Times report today covered the period, beginning in 1965, of increasing U.S. involvement in ground combat. It said:

Johnson's decision that U.S. troops would take the offensive was followed by another decision in mid-July to commit 44 battalions. The study said this decision was "perceived as a threshold-entrance into an Asian land war."

... The choice at that time was not whether or not to negotiate, it was not whether or not to hold on for a while or let go—the choice was viewed as winning or losing South Vietnam.

By the end of the year American forces in South Vietnam, which had numbered 27,000 on March 8, had risen to 184,315. Their mission was no longer defense of installations but offensive "search and destroy" operations.

Air attacks on North Vietnam began on a sustained basis on March 2, 1965, in an effort to break the enemy's will and persuade Hanoi to stop the Viet Cong insurgency in the South.

"Once set in motion, however, the bombing effort seemed to stiffen rather than soften Hanoi's backbone ... After a month of bombing with no response from the North Vietnamese, optimism began to wane."

"The U.S. was presented essentially with two options: (1) to withdraw unilaterally from Vietnam leaving the South Vietnam to fend for themselves, or (2) to commit ground forces in pursuit of its objectives. A third option: that of drastically increasing the scope and scale of the bombing, was rejected because of the concomitant high risk of inviting Chinese intervention."

The decision to change the role of U.S. troops in Vietnam was made at an April 1-2 strategy session at the White House, the study says. The President changed the mission of 3,500 Marines who had landed at Da Nang on March 8 to defend the Da Nang airfield. He also decided to send ashore two more Marine battalions and increase support forces in South Vietnam by 18,000-20,000 men.

The study says that after

Johnson met with Maxwell D. Taylor, then U.S. ambassador to Saigon, and other officials on March 31, the President responded to press inquiries concerning dramatic new developments by saying: "I know of no far-reaching strategy that is being suggested or promulgated."

"But the President was being less than candid," it continued. "... This issue greatly overshadowed all other Vietnam questions then being reconsidered."

Reporting on some of the debate within the Johnson administration, the study said Undersecretary of State George W. Ball was critical of the request of Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. Command in Vietnam, on June 7, 1965, for 44 more battalions.

"In Ball's view there was absolutely no assurance that the U.S. could with the provisions of more ground forces achieve its political objectives in Vietnam."

Another adviser, Asst. Secretary of State William P. Bundy, said: "Like so many others found himself in between Westmoreland and Ball," the study reports.

Of McNamara's views, the study says: "It is difficult to be precise about the position of the secretary of defense during the build-up debate because there is so little of him in the files ... From the records, the secretary comes out much more clearly for good management than he does for any particular strategy."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater says he suggested to former President Lyndon B. Johnson during the 1964 White House campaign they jointly tell the American people the Vietnam war would have to be widened with bombing and troops—no matter who won the presidency.

Goldwater, the 1964 Republican presidential nominee, said if Johnson had agreed, had "leveled with the American people" about the war, "he would have beaten me worse."

As it was, Johnson won in the nation's greatest landslide, with nearly 43 million votes to Goldwater's 27 million.

The commission meets Wednesday to set the statewide July oil allowable.

Area Youth Will Attend National Meet

David Haynes, state vice-president of the Future Business Leaders of America and member of the McLean High School Chapter, will leave the Amarillo airport Friday, for Miami Beach, to attend the twentieth annual FBLA National Leadership Conference.

David, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Haynes of McLean, will campaign for the office of national regional vice-president at the three-day meeting. If successful, he would represent Texas and several other southwestern states as a national officer.

David will be the only representative from the Texas Panhandle to attend the conference. He qualified to run for a national office by winning the state vice-presidency at the state convention in Houston this February. Members of the Amarillo Palo Duro parliamentary procedure team also qualified, but will be unable to attend.

Carl A. Dwyer, McLean principal, will accompany on the trip.

FBLA is the national youth organization for high school students who are considering careers in business or business education. McLean students have been very active in FBLA for several years. The McLean chapter consistently has been among the best in the state and has sent students to previous national conventions.

Approximately 1700 FBLA members and advisers from all over the United States are expected at Miami Beach this week. The major business of the meeting will be the election of national officers for the 1971-72 school year and a series of competitive events between chapters and between state delegations.

Robert Cummings, movie and television star, will speak during a general session of the conference and special entertainment will be provided by Gary Puckett and the Union Gap. Col. Harland Sanders will be present at the awards program.

proposal in an interview Monday after the New York Times published a report indicating the Johnson administration agreed Sept. 7, 1964—during the campaign—that it probably would be necessary to bomb North Vietnam early in 1964.

Among considerations in that timing, the study said, was that "the President was in the midst of an election campaign in which he was presenting himself as the candidate of reason and restraint as opposed to the quixotic Barry Goldwater."

Goldwater said he knew even before his formal campaign began that North Vietnam would be bombed eventually and at least 500,000 American troops would have to be sent to South Vietnam.

Goldwater, who left his Arizona Senate seat to run for the White House and was elected to the Senate again in 1966, said his knowledge of the outlook in South Vietnam came not from the Johnson administration, but from his own contacts.

"I knew that there were plans being made for expansion of the war..." he said. "By putting two and two together, we came up with pretty much of a scenario of what Johnson was going to do."

"I could have opened my mouth. I was being pictured as a bomb-happy, I was on the short end and I knew it. But to talk about it, I would have had to use secret information... And, frankly, who would have believed me? So I kept my mouth shut..."

Christian offered the local group assistance in bringing the matter to the attention of legislators and Wildlife and Parks Commission officials.

Bentsen Raps Nixon's Policy On Economy

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., says the Nixon administration "will find the going rough in the 1972 presidential race unless it improves the nation's economy."

The unemployment rate reached a nine-year high of 6.2 per cent last month, Bentsen told a news conference here Monday.

He charged that the administration "has not been effective in stopping inflation and in stopping unemployment."

He also charged that the administration "has accelerated the rate of inflation and made it increasingly difficult for the man making $5,000 to $15,000 to provide a decent life for his family."

Associated Press Writer

SEATTLE (AP) — As a boy, he once sailed a small boat across the Baltic Sea. Now 25-year-old James Brinton has been lost at sea, the victim of what his stepfather calls an obsession to be the first to cross an ocean in a kayak.

"I used to be a seaman, and I know the power of the sea on a little boat, but there was nothing anyone could do to stop him," said James D. Moore.

"Jim always loved the water, but he just got possessed with an idea, and once he got it, that was it."

Brinton's capsized 17-foot craft was discovered intact by a fisherman in the Pacific Ocean about four miles off Washington's Olympic Peninsula early Sunday, 24 hours after the Seattle youth left LaPush, Wash., for what was to have been a 7,000-mile, three-month journey to Japan.

Two aircraft, a Coast Guard cutter and a local fishing boat searched in winds to 29 miles per hour and six to 10-foot seas, but late Sunday Coast Guard spokesmen said there was little chance Brinton would be found alive.

Moore said he shared the official view, with some qualification.

"Jimmy was a marvelous swimmer; he always excelled whatever he did," he said. "He had a wetsuit and a lifejacket, and if he was in the suit and pointed in the right direction, he could have made it to shore."

The kayak, he said, was crammed with provisions for the trip. Special food had been collected by a Seattle dietician to save space, but Moore said the craft still appeared to be overloaded.

"He has been going out and practicing with the kayak, but never with all that weight," he said. "He should have tried the boat out in different conditions."

swamped sailboats. He was an Eagle Scout by 15.

At 16, during a European trip, he went on a sailing expedition through the Baltic to the North Sea. He served a tour of duty with the Army in Vietnam, and was a student at Seattle Community College with plans to become a teacher.

"He was an experienced sailor," Moore said, "but he hadn't spent much time with kayaks. But he was set on going, and that is what he did."

DALLAS (AP) — Eugene McElvaney, Dallas banker and oil man who was chairman of the Southern Methodist University board of trustees, died Monday night. He was 73.

Also widely known as a Methodist layman, he had retired several years ago as senior vice president and a director of the First National Bank in Dallas. He began his career in 1924 as a $2,800-a-year secretary at the Federal Reserve Bank.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration has awarded a $2,479,000 contract for construction of a control tower at the new Dallas-Fort Worth regional airport, Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said Monday.

Tower said the contract for the 180-foot high tower was awarded to the Cates Construction Co., of Dallas and that construction work will require 15 months.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The mother of a friend of mine is a lovely lady of 85. She is sweet, gentle, alert and is not ailing physically. She takes turns living with her children who love her dearly, but she is very unhappy. She feels that she is "in the way," but whenever she mentions going to a retirement home, her children insist that elderly parents belong with their families, not in "institutions with strangers." The little lady appreciates everything her children do for her but she says she would like a place of her own, however tiny. She wants to feel "independent." Her children are well-to-do and could afford to keep her in a very nice retirement home, but they refuse to consider it. Will you please comment, Abby? The elderly lady says her children read your column.

AN ADMIRER
DEAR ADMIRER: Aging parents who are in good health and sound mind "belong" where they want to be, if they have a choice. The children may be well-intentioned, but they are selfish. (They also may prefer to keep Mamma at home because they fear their friends will say, "they put the poor old soul in a home to get rid of her.") I hope the children reconsider.

DEAR ABBY: This is in reply to "FAT FANNY," who complained about chairs in restaurants being too small. I am also fat and have been for several years. Instead of complaining about the chairs being too small for big me, I am now trying to make myself fit onto chairs. After being a glutton, it suddenly struck me that there was more to life than food. Without the help of one diet pill, I lost 28 pounds in 10 weeks.

Fat people always have an excuse for overeating. They're lonely, unloved, depressed, etc. Well, I'm divorced and have two children whose father refuses to support them. I live on welfare, have no job and my future looks bleak, but I am determined to make it a bright, skinny future. "Fat Fanny" should shape up and slim down, and quit complaining about restaurant chairs that are made for the average person, not elephants. If I can do it, she can do it.

73 POUNDS TO GO
DEAR "73" Good for you! I want to hear from you 73 pounds from now. I have a hunch you'll make it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a shoplifter. I started out as a teenager. I always took small things and got away with it. I kept telling myself it would be the last time, but I just couldn't stop. I prayed to God to help me stop and I thought I had because I didn't take anything for over a year, then tonight it happened again. I just had to take something, and just as I was walking out of the store they came after me. They caught me with less than a dollar's worth, but I ended up paying a $40 fine plus the hurt to my family, myself and mostly to God.

I have promised God and myself that I will never again steal as much as one bobby pin, and I think now I can keep that promise.

This letter is for everyone who thinks it is not so bad to shoplift an item or two. Never Start! It can get to be a habit, or a game, and it's hard to stop. Please correct my mistakes in spelling, Abby, but print this. It may help someone. Thank you, Sign me.

SHOPLIFTER
FORMER
DEAR SHOPLIFTER: You have paid the price, so drop the label. There is a lot of good in one who wants to help others through his own sad experiences. Thank you for writing, God bless.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TOO MUCH PRIDE" IN EL PASO: You are being foolish. If he doesn't ask you — you ask him!

POLLY'S POINTERS

By POLLY CRAMER
Mother Seeks Help For Son's Mischief

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve concerns grocery carts. Why can't they pay young boys (and get them off the streets) to be "buggy boys" who would push the carts of groceries out to one's car and then return them to the store. A fortune must be spent on stolen and lost carts that litter up the parking lots and are often real hazards. The carts get filthy dirty from staying out in the weather and who wants to put their groceries in a dirty, beat-up cart with sheets that will not work. If the stores will not pay for this service they should have their carts steamcleaned and repaired.

—MRS. N.E.B.
Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY—I am having a serious problem with my 1 1/2-year-old son and really need help. His pet mischief is to turn on my kitchen gas range. I have tried everything I know of short of putting his hand to the flame (which I do not have the courage to do) or removing the control knobs. The oven control cannot be removed. He plays with the television set the same way, although I can see no real danger in that. So, please, someone let your suggestions be known as the life you save may be my son's.

—MARILYN
DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is with those persons who take grocery carts from the stores and never return them but leave them discarded and abandoned on streets and hills. Don't these people realize they are stealing?

—F.C.
DEAR POLLY—Do tell Dorothy that she should only use the lacquered wood coffee set that her son brought from Japan for "show and tell" and continue to use her own china for tea and coffee.
—JACQUELINE

DEAR POLLY—Dorothy wanted to know how to remove a varnish taste and smell from dishes that were brought to her from Japan. This winter I read an article that was a warning about the danger of lead poisoning from some imported dishes; so I advise her not to take a chance using something she is not sure of.
—ERMA

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is to try and take down, say, a jar of preserves that are stacked three or four high on the grocery shelf and the top one almost beyond my reach without having one or more come crashing down.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The bodies of an Oklahoma City man and woman were found in the woman's apartment Monday, and police termed the deaths a murder-suicide. Detectives Fred Weed and Aaron Clovis identified the two as Wilda L. McPherson, 58, and Jack Allred, 63. They said it appeared that the McPherson woman shot Allred in the head before turning the 410-gauge shotgun on herself.

Evidence Indicates Humans Endangered By Lead In Air

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
 AP Science Editor
 NEW YORK (AP) — A sick black leopard, his dead twin brother, and other zoo animals seem to be sounding an alarm bell that humans are endangered by lead in the air, pathologists cautioned today. The main source of this lead seems to be gasoline fumes and industrial operations, they said. The ailing leopard—nicknamed "Mr. Leo Pard"—is being treated at the New York Medical College to rid his body of high concentrations of lead for the second time in his 18 months of life. He was recently brought in again, suffering from convulsions, from the Staten Island Zoo in New York City, where his twin brother died last November. An autopsy found that animal "loaded with lead." Cats lick their fur, which can attract lead or other heavy elements in the atmosphere.

Johnson-Ruiz Dispute Labeled Preposterous

ANAHEIM (AP) — California Angels outfielder Alex Johnson was quoted Monday by the team's general manager, Dick Walsh, as saying teammate Chico Ruiz aimed a handgun at him in the clubhouse Sunday.

Walsh added that Ruiz called the account "preposterous."

Walsh called a news conference Monday after Bud Tucker of the San Gabriel Valley Tribune reported the alleged incident in his sports column. The writer said he learned of the incident from a reliable source.

Walsh said he spoke with both players before Monday night's game with the Boston Red Sox. Both were in uniform for the game, but neither was in the starting lineup. During the game, Johnson sat on the Angels' bench and Ruiz, a utility infielder, sat in the bullpen.

Johnson, Walsh said, told him that during the ninth inning of Sunday's game with Washington, after both he and Ruiz had appeared as pinch hitters, "Ruiz produced a handgun and aimed it in his direction while both were sitting in front of their respective lockers."

"Johnson said no verbal threat was made," Walsh said. "He also said Ruiz then put the weapon in the back pocket of his uniform and went back to the dugout."

The general manager quoted Ruiz as telling him, "It did not take place. If you think it happened, produce a witness."

Johnson had told him there was no witness, Walsh said. The outfielder told him he had notified a park security guard, who has not been questioned, Walsh said.

"There was no search and no weapon discovered," Walsh told reporters. He said police had not been notified.

The players were not available for comment.

Ruiz and Johnson, teammates at Cincinnati before coming to the Angels, almost came to blows during an argument last year.

Gary Player Cautious About U.S. Open Championship

ARDMORE, Pa. (AP) — South African Gary Player takes a cautious approach to the United States Open Golf Championship.

"You don't want to be too cocky going into something like this," the muscular little rancher from Johannesburg said Monday before his first practice round over the historic Marion Golf Club course.

"I am playing very well right now," said 34-year-old physical fitness addict added, then couldn't suppress a smile that crept across his handsome face.

And it's a story that makes the diminutive superstar with the powerful, sloping shoulders one of the prime candidates for the title in the most prestigious of all the world's golf tournaments.

ments, a 72-hole test that begins Thursday.

Player, one of only four men ever to sweep all four of the world's major professional titles, is enjoying one of his best years on the American circuit.

Carolyn Bennett Happy About China Swim Tour

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Carolyn Bennett, a 17-year-old national AAU diving champion said Monday she was delighted by the prospect of making a goodwill trip to Communist China, but added, "I'm not sure if I'm going."

Miss Bennett explained that the dates for the proposed journey, July 20 to Aug. 1, conflict with pre-qualifying trials scheduled July 31 and Aug. 1 for the senior national Olympic diving hopefuls.

One solution to the scheduling problems has been put forward by Carolyn's coach, Mrs. Betty Perkins. She and Hobbie Billingsley, coach of the 1972 U.S. Olympic women's swimming team, plan to ask fellow members of the Women's Diving Rules Committee to exempt Carolyn from appearing at the pre-qualifiers in North Carolina.

Mrs. Perkins indicated the committee's decision would be known in about a week.

Disclosure of the proposed China trip came from Mrs. Perkins Monday.

Carpenter Denies Sale

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Robert Carpenter, owner of the Philadelphia Phillies, has denied published reports that he will sell his National League Baseball club to a group of buyers headed by baseball entrepreneur Bill Veeck.

A story in Monday's Philadelphia Daily News said Veeck's group was prepared to offer a "blank check" for the team.

"The ball club is not for sale no matter how much money is involved," Carpenter said.

Phillies vice president Bill Giles said he had heard Veeck, former owner of the Chicago White Sox in the American League, was among the top names in the reported group of prospective buyers. Giles accused Veeck of trying "to get his name in the papers."

War Substitute?

It was a small step for sportsmen, but it may have been a giant step for mankind. In a little publicized series held in the Swiss town of Alstatten last month, members of West Germany's Bundestag, or parliament, played football (soccer) against teams made up of colleagues from Austria and Switzerland.

As they say on the sports pages, Switzerland and Germany tied 1 and 1, Austria edged Switzerland by a score of 3 to 1, and Austria blanked West Germany 1 to 0.

The Bundestag sports committee is trying to get contests going among more European parliaments with the aim of promoting international understanding. The French, Italians and Dutch are said to be interested. So are the British.

The latter have a saying that the Battle of Waterloo was won on the playing fields of Eton.

It would be the greatest development in history if future Waterloos were actually "fought" on the playing fields — if instead of young men being called to fight and die in old men's wars, the old men themselves met and settled their differences over a football.

Have A Care, Libs

An offshoot of the women's lib movement, but not directly associated with it, is a new magazine called, appropriately enough, New Woman. Its stated aim is to elevate the status of women in general.

Male chauvinists may want to take a peek at the current, first issue. A pictorial presentation, "How to Undress in Front of Your Wife," starring a sort of hairy-chested playmate of the month, has the temerity to poke fun at those interesting centerfolds in certain men's magazines.

Write on, girls, but don't go too far. American men did not fight two World Wars for democracy and mom's apple pie, only to have their pinups parodied.

New Crystal Ball

Like Vietnam, poverty and pollution, the computer is an easy target for criticism these days. Thus when man does not bite computer, that's news.

The greatest value of the computer lies in its ability to let men prepare for the future, says Marshall S. Armstrong, president of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

"In the past," he says, "when we engaged in planning the human labor required to deal with the interactions of just a few variables was monumental. Now we can provide as many combinations of as many factors as anyone cares to read and ponder."

The ability to play the game of "What If?" is essential, he points out.

What if the economy turns down, or up? What if the cost of labor or money changes? What if consumer tastes shift from product A to product B?

If we can specify these "What ifs," the computer can help us answer them, measuring and comparing the impact of one variable upon another.

The future. That, after all, is what human endeavor has always been directed toward.

What Is A Secretary Like?

Secretaries come in all shapes and sizes, colors and temperaments. Even the most crotchety boss ought to be able to find one to suit him.

A secretary must have a diplomat's tact, a mule's endurance, a salesman's enthusiasm, the sun's punctuality, a sister's loyalty, a rhino's hide, an elephant's memory, a mother's sympathy, and the patience of Job.

She must be purchasing agent (tickets, etc.), cover up (he's in conference), button sewer-on, cryptographer (to read his writing), accountant, and she must keep his appointments straight.

She puts up with Mr. Big's ego, his fuzzy thinking, his 4:30 p.m. dictation. To keep up his confidence she must flatter him despite his brushed-over bald spot, his afterlunch slouch, his 10-cent cigars.

She's nothing, and he is the boss of nothing. No wonder the recording angel smiles understandingly when secretaries apply to get into heaven!

Sure Cure For Pollution

Mini-editorial: "Any one of us could help reduce pollution if we would just drop dead. We would then no longer be consumers of valuable oxygen; we would no longer expel unwanted carbon dioxide, and our bodies would soon be supplying essential nutrients to the soil."

"I know this to be true, but somehow I just cannot bring myself to make the sacrifice. This is the dilemma in which many business organizations find themselves today."

"Try as we will, we are all going to do some harm to this world, and we must be sure to balance that harm with positive contributions to the quality of life."

"Now that we are starting even, let's talk about the role of business in the environment..."

From a talk before a recent White House seminar on the environment by Judd H. Alexander, vice president for environment affairs of the American Can Company.

SSIC Asks Revamp On Labor Cases

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A renewed call for action by Congress to take unfair labor practice cases out of the jurisdiction of the National Labor Relations Board and place them in federal district courts has been issued by the Southern States Industrial Council.

The Council proposed this action in a statement to the House Special Labor Subcommittee in Washington, D.C. The Subcommittee has been holding hearings on a bill by its chairman, Rep. Fred Thompson (D., N.J.) which would effect changes in NLRB procedures. SSIC opposed enactment of the Thompson bill, saying it would favor unions at the expense of interests of the employer and was a move in the wrong direction.

Under the Thompson measure, the NLRB would delegate its powers to make decisions and issue orders to its chairman, Rep. Fred Thompson, which would permit appeals to the Board, it would be optional with the Board whether to review the examiner's decisions, rather than automatic as at present, in case of appeals.

While the ostensible purpose of the Thompson bill is to lighten the load of the National Labor Relations Board, the SSIC opposed enactment of the Thompson bill, saying it would favor unions at the expense of interests of the employer and was a move in the wrong direction.

While the ostensible purpose of the Thompson bill is to lighten the load of the National Labor Relations Board, the SSIC told the subcommittee, it would do so by curtailing the right of employers in cases before the NLRB. Trial examiners have demonstrated favoritism toward unions in the past, the Council said, and making employers subject to orders issue by the examiners without review by the full Board would put them in an even more unfair position.

The SSIC also attacked a provision in the Thompson bill that would permit unions to sue employers for treble damages in cases of alleged discouragement of union organizing or discrimination against union members. This provision was described as giving unions another weapon to use in harassment of employers.

The SSIC urged the subcommittee to drop consideration of the Thompson bill and take up legislation which would strip the NLRB of all its functions except conducting elections on representation.

"As employers of approximately 3,000,000 people, the 300 members of the Council have had a great deal of experience with the act and its administration and enforcement under the NLRB," the SSIC declared in its statement filed with the subcommittee. "This experience has shown that the National Labor Relations Board has consistently decided the cases before it in the way more favorable to unions, even at the cost of subordinating the rights of individual employees as well as employers."

"The special privileges unions already enjoy under federal law have given them such a stranglehold on the economy as to cause a rising tide of public resentment. Any additional enhancement of union influence and power is completely unwarranted."

Promises, Promises

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Kim is a talented vocalist. And she rates being called a "pro." Notice how she answered her mother's anxious query. And how she sang so the rear rows could hear, though she had no microphone. Professionals live up to the motto: "The show must go on!" They also sing or speak LOUDLY!

CASE Q-5801 Kim Hayman, aged 9, had offered to sing a solo at the Fountaintown church where I spoke recently. Her parents live only 10 miles from our summer farm home, so they asked if Mrs. Crane and I would care to ride over with them to the church.

It was a 90-mile drive, during which Kim got a little car sick. Maybe I inadvertently contributed to it, for I gave her the Bible booklet mentioned below, so she could entertain herself en route. I didn't know she was inclined to get sick while riding. And reading often helps produce such nausea on automobiles and in planes.

Kim put the Bible booklet aside after a few minutes, and laid her head on her mother's lap. To distract her, I then told her I'd give the popular nicknames of various animals and she could try to identify them.

"This proved interesting, so I then gave various animal sounds and let Kim try to identify the creatures that would normally utter them. By the time we reached her grandparents' church, Kim felt better. "Do you feel able to sing?" her mother anxiously inquired. "Yes," Kim replied. "So don't you worry, I'm not so sick but what I can sing my solo."

She has been singing in public and on both radio as well as TV ever since she was a toddler, aged 3. As readers doubtless know, the rule among professionals is that "The show must go on."

Sick or well, we make our speeches or sing our songs or perform our magic stunts, for a pro doesn't let minor ailments deter him from his duty. I admired Kim's spunky attitude. Mrs. Gordon, director of the nearby Morristown High School Girls Chorus, had brought her group of teen-agers, attired in attractive long dresses, to sing a special number. And these coeds also joined the Fountaintown Church's choir, so 33 boys and girls put the congregation in the proper frame of mind by their vocal harmony.

Then Kim was announced by Pastor Clara Rippel. She showed no nervousness but calmly mounted the platform. Her mother played the piano for her accompaniment. And Kim sang not only beautifully but with enough loudness and volume so everybody in the rear of the packed auditorium could hear her clearly.

That is another trait of the pro! Amateurs THINK they are speaking or singing loudly, when actually their voices are blurred before the sounds get past the first few rows. This happens because the usual child, as well as adult, has been accustomed to a small room in his own house. When he thus doubles the loudness of his tones, he imagines that he is shouting. But in a large auditorium, his voice still seems like a whisper to those more than 20 feet away!

So test your voice in the place you are to speak or sing, remembering, too, that sound is dampened and absorbed even more when people are present.

Send for my booklet "How to Stimulate Bible Reading." (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Pampa News, Hopkins Bldg., Melliott, Indiana 47958, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

H. L. Hunt Writes

Constructive citizens can take heart as a result of recent gains with the public concerning law and order. Misguided left-leaning politicians had joined unwittingly with the destroyers who were deliberately trying to make law and order dirty words and to subvert the efforts of our nation's police departments, sheriffs and the FBI to protect us.

Before the recent turn in the tide, the criminals almost got a free hand to destroy this nation and our people, profiting on illicit drugs and subversion to finance their nefarious schemes.

Citizens of Philadelphia and Washington, D.C., are letting it be known in no uncertain terms that they do not consider law and order to be "dirty words" or aimed at the poor and disadvantaged. The poor and the black are, of course, the chief victims of crime and drugs. Heavy voting in favor of former Police Commissioner Frank L. Rizzo to be the Democratic Party nominee for Mayor of Philadelphia proves the point in that big, crime beset city. Rizzo ran on a strong law-and-order platform, based on his tough record against criminals and revolutionary subversives as police commissioner.

Police Chief Jerry Wilson is reaping massive praise for his forceful but restrained handling of 12,000 arrested protesters in our nation's capital. The good citizens are paying no attention to alarmists and leftists bemoaning the numbers caught up and detained. The few "innocent bystanders" had been warned repeatedly, along with the militants who were attempting to "halt the government," to disperse or face arrest. Good, working citizens and patriots are cheering the police and the victory over mindless attempts at violent disruption of the rights of all citizens.

Your Health

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb

COCONUT OIL TOPS

IN SATURATED FATS

Dear Dr. Lamb—You wrote a column on the best oils to use in cooking, but you didn't mention coconut oil. Could you indicate the saturated fat and polyunsaturated qualities of coconut oil and tell how it compares to other vegetable oils? This information is of great importance to millions of readers who are using imitation milk made with coconut oil.

Dear Reader—Coconut oil is almost all saturated fat. Natives with simple living patterns conducive to good health, who consume large amounts of coconut oil have a high incidence of heart disease.

Imitation milk, artificial creams or coffee whiteners, and imitation whipped cream often use coconut oil exclusively. The label will say, "vegetable oil." These products contain far more saturated fat than natural cream or whole milk. Anyone wishing to limit saturated fat intake would be better off using the natural products. Coconut oil is a favorite of the food industry because of its long life.

As long as the Food and Drug Administration refuses to require the actual contents of foods to be put on the labels there is no way the consumer can protect himself completely from such deceptions as labels that read vegetable oil and mean coconut oil.

I have no sympathy for the FDA's position on this matter and am shocked that an agency of the federal government would support a practice that deceives the consumer.

The American Medical Assn., the American Heart Assn., the American Diabetic Assn., all have protested the current FDA ruling that the amounts and types of fat need not be put on food labels. WE NEED A TRUTH IN CONTENTS LAW JUST AS BADLY AS WE NEED A TRUTH IN PACKAGING LAW.

I doubt that most Americans realize that the reason they have trouble finding out how much saturated fat, and polyunsaturated fat, is in the products they buy is because the FDA has taken a stand against so labeling foods.

One wonders just what influence has caused the FDA to take such a position. To me it is a bit like free speech. I am not nearly so concerned about whether people should or should not eat saturated or polyunsaturated fat in this instance as the suppression of information by the FDA. Whether I approve of what anyone says or not I defend the right to say it and whether a person should or should not eat saturated fat, I defend the right of the consumer to know WHAT he is eating.

In my judgment the FDA ruling is a gross and purposeful infringement on individual rights. If you agree, you could write your Congressman and insist the FDA ruling be changed.

WASHINGTON — Japan is giving the U.S. serious competition in still another export field — selling desalination equipment.

Until recent years Britain, France and Italy were the principal U.S. competitors. But now Japan has forged to the fore in this trade — particularly in the arid, oil-rich Arab countries.

Japan's share of that business has increased "remarkably." That's the characterization of John O'Meara, acting director of the Office of Saline Water. He voiced it at a private meeting with the House Appropriations subcommittee in charge of his agency's budget.

The legislators questioned O'Meara about disturbing reports of large Japanese inroads in this export field. He confirmed them, attributing the cause to two main factors — shipping rates and labor costs. In both, U.S. charges considerably exceed Japan's.

Kuwait, largest purchaser of desalination equipment, was cited by O'Meara as a graphic illustration. The tiny but immensely oil-rich country on the Persian Gulf is buying most of its desalination equipment from Japan. Kuwait already has plants producing 94 million gallons of fresh water a day and is installing others. The reasons it is purchasing them from Japan are:

The shipping rate for heavy machinery from Japan to Kuwait is $46.65 a long ton; New York, $66.36. Similarly, hourly labor rate in the U.S. special machinery trade is $4.45; in Japan, $1.17.

The higher U.S. shipping costs, O'Meara pointed out, are partly due to the law requiring goods shipped from American ports to be carried in American ships. The closed Suez Canal is also an important cost factor — in O'Meara's opinion, adding as much as 45 per cent.

BETTER PRODUCT — Despite these adverse price factors, U.S. companies are still selling desalting equipment.

It's asking for a $27 million budget for fiscal 1972.

A major undertaking will be the development of power and thermal resources of the Imperial Valley, Calif. If that can be accomplished there, the result would be an output of a billion gallons of fresh water daily in one of the driest regions in the U.S.

At present, the only U.S. city getting all its water supply from a desalting plant is Key West, Fla.

The cost — 85 cents per thousand gallons — is cheaper than laying a large new pipeline from mainland Florida, the only alternative source of water.

Soviet 'Lesson' To Czechs

Kremlin's Current Pattern

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Before the Soviet Union invaded Czechoslovakia in August, 1968, there were long discussions within the Kremlin and between Moscow and the East European capitals which were to cooperate in the action.

The story, as learned from a contact close to high-placed East European government officials, is that in these discussions the party secretary for the Ukraine urgently argued for the invasion, saying that if the Czechs were allowed to get away with democratization the "virus" would inevitably spread.

The same arguments were used by East Germany's Walter Ulbricht.

What they were arguing, of course, was the domino theory in reverse.

It was this argument, it is reported, which convinced Soviet officials they must act. Opinion began to grow in the West after the invasion that the Soviet Union had made a most serious mistake, that it later came to regret this blatant use of force in a friendly country.

It was argued in high places in the United States and in Western European capitals that the Czech invasion had brought new dissension and new divisiveness to the Communist world.

But an analysis by Kremlin watchers of the recent 24th Congress of the Communist party of the Soviet Union makes abundantly clear that in Brezhnev's eyes and in those of his chief party colleagues the invasion of Czechoslovakia was in retrospect a major success.

As these Soviet leaders view the invasion: It taught the world a lesson. It warned the West and dissidents within the Soviet Union and the Soviet bloc that Moscow would not permit divisions and would suppress any attempts with strong military force.

It helped establish the "class duty" of all Communist countries to socialist — in-

That is particularly true in the Caribbean market. There, this U.S. trade is doing very well. In the past several years, sales have actually increased. But in the expanding world market, O'Meara emphasized, percentage-wise the U.S. is losing ground — chiefly to Japan.

In fact, the only reason U.S. desalination equipment is still being sold in the booming Middle East is superior technology.

"We are definitely ahead in desalting technology," O'Meara told the committee. "That is the one reason U.S. industry has been able to maintain a competitive position in the foreign market. Its products are better than its competitors', but they can sell a lot cheaper. And where price counts, we lose out."

"The plain fact is, if we weren't ahead in technology, U.S. manufacturers would have no foreign market for their desalination equipment."

Dupont and other large companies have their own saline water research projects — in addition to those of the federal government and several states. O'Meara stated the Office of Saline Water is closing out some of its long-time operations and concentrating on new and more promising methods and procedures.

It's asking for a $27 million budget for fiscal 1972.

A major undertaking will be the development of power and thermal resources of the Imperial Valley, Calif. If that can be accomplished there, the result would be an output of a billion gallons of fresh water daily in one of the driest regions in the U.S.

All Work But Less Income

You will be working two hours and 37 minutes out of an eight-hour day this year just to pay your taxes, the Tax Foundation Inc. says.

That means that if you earn $10,000 a year, taxes will take $13.05 out of $40 daily wage.

The foundation, a private research organization, said that of this average daily bite out of your paycheck, $6.70 would go to the federal government and $4.35 to state and local governments.

The foundation's survey showed that work time necessary to meet the tax bill will be one hour and 34 minutes longer than the time required to pay for food.
