HOUSE DEBATE SET

State Redistricting Plan Draws Strong Criticism

AUSTIN (UPI) — The latest plan for redrawing the state's congressional district is being met with almost unanimous criticism including one legislator who said a "6-year-old halfwit blindfolded with crayon" could have done a better job. The most radical feature of the plan is the dumping of five Gulf Coast congressmen into one at-large district. As expected, the only rural district represented by a Republican is virtually eliminated, but the bill protects all rural-oriented Democrats. The cities are getting the short end of the deal under the plan since the edges of the rural districts carve into corners of the cities. Don Kennard, D-Fort Worth, panned the redistricting job. "To tell the truth, I really believe a 6-year-old halfwit blindfolded with crayon in hand could have done a better job, a more realistic job and a job that would have been upheld in the courts, than the job that was done by the House committee," Kennard said. Kennard predicted the Senate will change the bill to give urban areas more representation. The plan was approved Wednesday by the House Redistricting Committee and is tentatively scheduled for House debate Monday or Tuesday. The chairman of the committee, Rep. Clyde Haynes, D-Vidor, promised the bill would be rewritten by conference committee before it became law. Haynes, who has admitted he would like to run for Congress, has reported out a plan that would put him in a district now represented by Democratic Rep. John Dowdy who is under indictment for bribery and is in poor health. The bill lumps all the congressmen from Harris, Fort Bend, Brazoria, Galveston, Jefferson and Chambers counties into one at-large district that has a population of 2.2 million and four incumbent congressmen. It creates a new district between Dallas and Fort Worth and divides San Antonio into three districts, one which would represent the heart of the city and two which would be dominated by rural voters. It puts Republican Bob Price into the same rural North Texas district with Democrat Graham Purcell but no other incumbents would oppose each other.

$280 Million May Be Cut From New Taxes

AT AUDITORIUM SITE — Work is moving along as scheduled on Pampa's new $1.2-million civic auditorium just west of Coronado Inn. Workmen are shown here building forms for the concrete foundation. At right is the start of construction on a storeroom for orchestra instruments. Directly in front of the opening will be the orchestra pit in the 1500-seat auditorium. Work is expected to be completed next spring. (Staff Photo)

Legislature, Smith Trying To Reach Agreement On Bill

By ROLAND LINDSEY AUSTIN (UPI) — Gov. Preston Smith's refusal to sign a pending multi-million dollar tax package apparently will save Texas taxpayers $280 million if a compromise now being worked on is acceptable to the governor. Speaker Gus Mutscher and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes have agreed to delete a controversial two cent per gallon increase in the gasoline tax from the tax package in hopes Smith will sign it without forcing the legislature to reopen its tax deliberations. Both Barnes and Mutscher are apparently concerned any reopening of tax debate will lead to a fight, led by Senate liberals, to tack a corporate income tax onto the tax package. But it is uncertain whether Mutscher and Barnes are also willing to give Smith the broad authority he seeks to transfer funds from one agency to another during the next biennium. The governor is seeking the authority, he says, to enable him to avoid such crises as the welfare fund shortage which has required legislative action to transfer funds to avoid cuts in assistance payments. Barnes has expressed reservations about giving the governor such authority. Rep. John Traeger, D-Seguin, and Rep. Delwin Jones, D-Lubbock, introduced legislation in the House to cut the gasoline tax hike and a one-half cent per gallon increase in the diesel fuel tax. That measure would reduce the tax bill by $280 million but still leave enough money in it to fund the state for the next two years and possibly avoid a special legislative session this year. Traeger predicted the measure will come to a vote by the end of this week in the House, which must originate all tax bills. "This (the gasoline tax) seems to be the most obnoxious thing to the governor and this bill is the only thing we can do besides call the tax bill back and start over," Traeger said. He said he had no assurance Smith would sign the tax plan even if the gasoline tax was removed. Mutscher also declined comment Wednesday on whether Smith will agree to the compromise plan. "It would be directed at meeting one of his objections," Mutscher said. "The most important thing we've got to do is keep the lines of communication open. I think sometimes communications get clouded by political feelings." Gov. Preston Smith indicated today he will sign the pending $904 million tax package if the legislature will do away with the proposed 2 cent per gallon gasoline tax hike. Smith said he would "take a long, hard look" at the measure if house and senate leaders are successful in a current attempt to pass special legislation rolling back the gasoline tax and leaving it at current levels. The governor Tuesday gave Speaker Gus Mutscher and Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes until May 21 to either trim about $300 million out of the tax bill, or have it vetoed. Deletion of the gasoline tax would trim the bill by $287 million.

ON ATHLETIC ROW

Lee Wants Hearing Opened To Newsmen

By TEK DEWESE A closed meeting of the Pampa School Board was scheduled for 3:30 p.m. today at Carver Center to hear Athletic Director Swede Lee's charges against Robert McPherson, high school basketball coach. Lee said this forenoon he planned to ask that representatives of the news media be allowed to attend the meeting. "It concerns me," Lee said, "that an executive meeting of the board would exclude the press. If that happens, any report of what took place at the meeting would be second-hand and hearsay." Lee went on to say he believed "the public should know what is going on." In a statement yesterday, Lee reported he had recommended resignation of McPherson to a junior high coaching job and would have recommended dismissal if he had had the authority. Lee charged that McPherson had repeatedly violated athletic department policies and Intercollegiate League rules. Dr. James F. Malone, school superintendent, ruled, however, Lee did not have the authority to reassign Coach McPherson to a lesser job, and said McPherson's present status as head basketball coach at the high school would remain unchanged. Lee asked Dr. Malone yesterday to call a meeting of the school board to hear his case. Coach McPherson, in a statement issued yesterday, said he was hired to be head basketball coach and would let his record and the success of winning the 3AAAA district championship speak for itself.

SST Plan Facing Senate Challenge

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The supersonic transport (SST), revived in a close vote in the House, faced a more hostile Senate today whose leader said the issue might inspire a filibuster. President Nixon urged the Senate to approve $85 million in funds for the 1,800-mile per hour airliner voted Wednesday by the House, which reversed a stand it had taken in March. But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he would be in no hurry to call up the House bill. When it did come up, he said, he expected a filibuster. The House resurrected the controversy by converting an $85 million appropriation to terminate the contract for the futuristic plane into a sum for further research and development. In a roll call vote, it passed the bill 201 to 197. Because the vote was close, House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford had to throw in his reserves, including six Republicans who changed their votes at the last minute. In March the House defeated an SST appropriations bill 215 to 204. House members who switched their votes cited as reasons the smaller appropriation this time and the fact that the project would produce jobs. Nixon, in a statement issued shortly after the vote, pledged the SST would not be committed to production until "all environmental concerns have been thoroughly satisfied." Some of the most effective opposition to the SST has come from environmentalists. In Seattle, the Boeing Co. said a new contract would have to be negotiated and signed if Congress decides to revive the SST. The company's old contract with the government to build and test two SST prototypes has been canceled. By a conservative estimate, it would take at least $300 million more to get the first two test planes into the air.

Battlefield Deaths At Lowest Ebb In Three Months

SAIGON (UPI)—American battlefield deaths in Indochina fell to their lowest level in more than three months last week. The U.S. command said 34 GIs were killed during the seven-day period, half the number slain the week before. American wounded for the same period totaled 281, well down from previous weeks when the figure ran above 500. It was the lowest wounded figure since the week ending April 17, when 195 uniformed Americans were injured. The toll brings to 45,121 the number of U.S. servicemen killed in Indochina fighting since Jan. 1, 1961, while war wounded stood at 299,102. Allied spokesmen reported 360 South Vietnamese and 2,028 Communists were killed in fighting last week. The ceasefire marking Buddha's birthday that started Saturday apparently did not lower the casualty figures. The 34 American dead was the lowest figure since the week ending Feb. 6, when 24 GIs were killed. There were 65 dead for the week ending May 1. Non-combat deaths of American servicemen last week from such things as traffic accidents and drug overdoses totalled four, the U.S. command said.

Lubbock Police Nab 40 Persons On Drug Charges

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—Police today conducted the largest drug raid in Lubbock history, arresting 40 persons on charges of selling and using marijuana, LSD and other drugs. Those arrested ranged in age from 15 to 35 and all were quickly released on bond. "This swoop resulted in the largest operation of this type ever attempted in Lubbock," said Lubbock District Attorney Blair Cherry. Cherry said undercover work which led to the raid had been in progress for seven months. The district attorney's office had issued 58 arrest warrants, and Cherry said a search would continue for those who had been indicted, but not yet arrested.

Nixon Nominates Dr. Duval Jr. As Top Health Officer

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon today nominated Dr. Merlin K. Duval, Jr., dean of the University of Arizona College of Medicine, as the government's top health officer. Duval, 48, was chosen to succeed Roger O. Egeberg, 67-year-old former dean of the University of Southern California Medical School. Egeberg was named a special consultant to the President and a special assistant on health policy to Secretary Elliot L. Richardson of Health, Education and Welfare.

U.S. House Unit Okays Package Of Social Security, Welfare Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Ways and Means Committee has approved a $9 billion package of Social Security and welfare reforms after rejecting another across-the-board increase in Social Security benefits for 26 million Americans next year. The House was expected to pass the bill in June, since it usually rubber-stamps bills from its tax-writing committee. But last year a Social Security-welfare bill died in the Senate. While the committee rejected an across-the-board Social Security benefit increase, it did vote for $3.3 billion in improved social security and medicare benefits for selected groups such as widows, disabled persons, working retirees and others. And it approved higher payroll taxes to pay for the hikes. The tax on workers and employees this year is 5.2 per cent of the first $7,800 earned, or a total of $405.60. The committee voted to raise that next year to 5.4 per cent of the first $10,200 in wages, or a maximum of $550.80. The most controversial provisions of the House bill deal with welfare reforms, including a variation of President Nixon's family assistance program. The bill would give a family of four with no other income a basic federal annual payment of $2,400. Adults, including mothers with young children who comprise most of the welfare roles, would be required to sign up for work or job training—or lose benefits. Also, the working poor would get supplements to their incomes for the first time. A poor working family would get federal payments up to a cutoff point of $4,140. Last week the speculators used unwanted dollars to buy up more than $2 billion worth of German marks before the central bank stopped supporting the dollar. Finally, the central bank allowed the mark to float free. The mark promptly increased to from 3 to 3.5 per cent over its previous value in relation to the dollar. Switzerland and Austria revalued their currencies upward. The Netherlands allowed the guilder to float up with the speculative pressure, which eased accordingly. But though the dollar crisis was over, the speculators were still betting that eventually, the mark would go to 5 per cent or more above its previous exchange rate in relation to the dollar. West German Chancellor Willy Brandt was betting it would not. He said the mark would float free for months if necessary. But he insisted it would eventually drop back to its old official rate of 3.58 to the dollar. That would be bad news indeed for the speculators. And in the meantime, they were holding onto their huge holdings in German marks without earning any interest on them—thanks to an antispeculative measure ordered by the German government at the height of the crisis.

State Senators Rap House For Refusing To Act On Bills

AUSTIN (UPI)—Senators are complaining the House is being "childish" by refusing to act on bills the Senate sends the lower chamber. "I don't know what kind of games you're playing over there," Sen. Joe Bernal, D-San Antonio, told a representative who happened to be in the Senate chamber when the topic came up for discussion. "But if we wanted to get ugly we could hold up some of the House bills." Sen. Mike McKool, Dallas, said the House kept his voter registration bill on standby for more than a month and then completely disregarded it in favor of a bill by Rep. Jim Stroud, D-Dallas. Protocol dictates that once the House or Senate passes a bill, the opposite body works on that bill and amends it to suit its own taste. Differences are then worked out in conference committees. If one body passes a bill and the other chamber doesn't consider it, the legislature is stalemated. McKool said it was "ridiculous" for the House to pass a voter registration bill when it should have been considering the Senate version of that bill passed a month earlier. "I don't feel that this represents the type of courtesy or cooperation that should exist between the Senate and the House," McKool said. The Dallas Democrat said the extra bookwork required because two different voter registration bills were introduced will cost the state between $1,500 to $2,000. "It's not only expensive, it's frustrating and it's childish," Bernal said. The Senate approved in early February Bernal's bill to lower the voting age in Texas to 18 but the House has yet to consider it.

Britain Might Be Permitted To Join EEC By Jan., 1973

BRUSSELS (UPI)—Britain and the six Common Market nations made a major breakthrough early today in their negotiations, opening the way for Britain to join the European Economic Community by Jan. 1, 1973. "We are now definitely in," said one jubilant British official when the meeting ended at dawn. To toast the success, French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann, who chaired the 10-hour final negotiating session, broke out bottles of scotch for the participants. Geoffrey Rippon, Britain's chief negotiator, was asked what chances were for overall approval to join the market. "I would bet on success," he said. The breakthrough came on three key issues that had kept the market members and Britain apart during the lengthy talks. They were: Britain's contribution to the Common Market budget; safeguards for Caribbean Commonwealth sugar trade; and aligning Britain's cheaper food prices with those of the market members. With those major problems apparently out of the way, Britain could—after ratification by Parliament—become a full member of the market by Jan. 1, 1973. The other members are West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. It was third time lucky for Britain. Two earlier bids to join the market in 1963 and 1967 were vetoed by then French President Charles de Gaulle.

Monetary Crisis In Europe Narrows To War Of Nerves

BONN (UPI)—Europe's monetary crisis narrowed today to a war of nerves between West Germany's central bank and international speculators. Last week the speculators used unwanted dollars to buy up more than $2 billion worth of German marks before the central bank stopped supporting the dollar. Finally, the central bank allowed the mark to float free. The mark promptly increased to from 3 to 3.5 per cent over its previous value in relation to the dollar. Switzerland and Austria revalued their currencies upward. The Netherlands allowed the guilder to float up with the speculative pressure, which eased accordingly. But though the dollar crisis was over, the speculators were still betting that eventually, the mark would go to 5 per cent or more above its previous exchange rate in relation to the dollar. West German Chancellor Willy Brandt was betting it would not. He said the mark would float free for months if necessary. But he insisted it would eventually drop back to its old official rate of 3.58 to the dollar. That would be bad news indeed for the speculators. And in the meantime, they were holding onto their huge holdings in German marks without earning any interest on them—thanks to an antispeculative measure ordered by the German government at the height of the crisis.

HUMBLE LEADS STATE

NEW YORK (UPI)—Humble Oil & Refining Co. led Texas in crude oil production during 1970, according to the annual Petroleum Information report. Humble produced 175,912,681 barrels of crude—14 per cent of the state's total production.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY:
Your answer to "L" was funny and quaint. An authority on geese You certainly ain't!

For a goose was a "him" You seemed to infer, And the gander you spoke of Like "he" was a "her."

At your mix-up in genders I was amused, But some of your readers Were, no doubt, confused.

A drake for a duck. In the realm of the barnyard I'm loathe to meander, It's plain, I don't know, My goose from my gander!

(Edgar Allan PoePo)

DEAR ABBY: My story is as old as the hills. I am a fairly attractive woman and the mother of three children. I became bored with the housekeeping routine and decided to get a job. That is when my troubles began.

I met a man at work. (I'll call him "Charley.") We were very much attracted to each other. I enjoyed having something to get dressed up for every day, and this new excitement did a lot for my ego. My car was laid up for about a week, and Charley offered to drive me home. One thing led to another, and we started meeting secretly. I got hooked on him, and told my husband I wanted a divorce so I could marry Charley. It broke my husband's heart, but he said he wouldn't stand in my way if that's what I wanted.

Abby, I was so wrapped up in Charley, I couldn't see the people I was hurting. My husband moved out and I could see as much of Charley as I wanted to. After a few months I realized how foolish I had been. I began missing my husband and Charley suddenly looked less attractive to me.

Now I am so ashamed of myself I could die. I realize it's my husband I really love, but what can I do now? I don't deserve a second chance, but do you think my husband would take me back?

ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: You'll

DEAR ABBY: I was nominated for an office in a club (don't mention the office or the club please) and I really wanted this office. When the results of the election were announced, I lost by one vote. I was really heartsick because (as you have probably guessed) I voted for my opponent, who voted for himself!

Was it stupid of me to have voted for my opponent? I felt it would have been egotistical to have voted for myself. Two of my friends said they thought I did the right thing in voting for my opponent. Another friend said he thought it was stupid. What do you think? Sock it to me, Abby.

DEAR LOST: You should have voted for the person who in your opinion would have made the best officer. If you didn't, then you were stupid (or perhaps impractically humble).

Your Horoscope

FRIDAY, MAY 14
YOUR BIRTHDAY FRIDAY: You begin a period of personal adventure, seeing yourself and life in sharper, more political terms. You occasionally must cope with a sudden incident, just as likely fortunate as otherwise, and move Friday's natives are usually gifted with a strong sense of humor, courage, and the knack of developing commonsense solutions in public issues, where called upon.
ARIES (March 21-April 19): Patience beyond that you are accustomed to is required. Fairness demands that you realize and wait for other people's problems and limitations.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Tradition almost requires some little deviation or experiment. Diversify your activities; expand a bit. Later hours offer social interest.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Conciliation is the key to success now. Explain and apologize where you need to, then proceed with fresh plans, additional approaches toward the things you most want to achieve.
CANCER (June 21-July 21): Stay busy on a first things first basis. Your talent for observation leaps forward if you cultivate it. Intuition rises bright and clear according to how well you have been listening to yourself.
LEO (July 22-Aug. 22): Strive for harmony. Let others have broad shares in the good. Some things awaited will be the better for it.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your shopping eye is much wider than your savings account as major purchases come to consideration. In nearly all activities, a moderate course works out most effectively.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Large promises abound, but take nothing for granted. There might be truth in some of the smaller pledges. You must look carefully.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Go along with pragmatic reality for the moment rather than forcing issues nor accepting promises too readily. Most questions can wait a while longer for complete answers.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Relationships warm up. It's a grand day for politicking and patching up past disagreements. Find or give a modest party in the evening.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Begin very early and get a fast start, as Friday dwindles in the promise as it wears. Actual and complete realities while you wait for more important matters.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You must decide what to do and supply most of the energy and resources to make things happen. Under such conditions, concentrate on projects that fit your own goals and wishes.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Influence comes to bear on your what, take full advantage while it exists. Expect to carry heavier responsibilities along with the rewards.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—It's uneasiness over the dollar's overseas problems knocks stock prices downward. Investors may be offered an unusually attractive buying opportunity, Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis believes. The company says domestic economic developments are "constructive" and adds the only unknown is the "rate" of economic recovery. "Therefore, any significant decline in equity prices...should provide a buying opportunity for investors—or a selective basis," the firm observes.
"The most dangerous course for investors at this point in the market cycle is not to own stocks and to be waiting for a significant dip before making purchases," according to Eastman Dillon, Union Securities & Co. The company believes the 1000 level on the Dow Jones industrial average "will be penetrated over the next few months" and says it "would not be surprised if this were to occur before a major correction."
May is a "normally choppy month," TPO Inc. warns. The firm says some backing and filling may appear after a minor recovery. "But regardless of the need for the major averages to consolidate further, the pattern of rotation throughout the list is still predominant," TPO believes.

Orioles Not Concerned About Cuellar's Games

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

The Baltimore Orioles weren't really concerned over Mike Cuellar's slow start this season but they were happy to see the two-time 20-game winner heat up Wednesday night along with the weather.

It was 73 degrees in Baltimore Wednesday night and Cuellar responded to the type weather he likes with a one-hitter as the Orioles downed the Kansas City Royals 6-0. Jerry May's bloop single in the third inning was the only hit off Cuellar and Bob Oliver, who walked in the seventh, the only other baserunner.

"My good control," explained the 3-year native of Santa Clara, Cuba who is not noted for lengthy interviews, "warm weather makes me better pitcher."

"He didn't have super stuff but he was throwing better than in any previous game this season," said catcher Elrod Hendricks. "He was throwing until the fifth. After that he was pitching."

The Oakland Athletics beat the Cleveland Indians 8-1, the Chicago White Sox swept the Washington Senators 5-0 and 9-5, the Minnesota Twins shamed the Boston Red Sox 1-0, the Detroit Tigers defeated the California Angels 8-1 and the New York Yankees topped the Milwaukee Brewers 3-0, in other American League games.

In the National League, it was Houston 5 New York 4, San Francisco 7 Cincinnati 2, was Houston 5 New York 4, San Diego 2 Pittsburgh 1, and Los Angeles 5 Atlanta 0. St. Louis at Montreal was postponed by rain.

Bert Campaneris drove in four runs with two homers and a single and Chuck Dobson pitched a seven-hitter for his first victory for the Athletics. The A's ripped Sam McDowell, for whom clubowner Charles O. Finley has been making big offers, for six runs and 12 hits in 5 2-3 innings and saddled the fireballer with his fifth loss against one triumph.

Rick Reichardt had seven hits, including a tie-breaking single in the sixth inning of the second game, as the White Sox made it six in a row over the Senators. Reichardt, who had two hits in the first game as Bradley pitched a five-hitter, singled home Rich McKinney in the sixth inning of the nightcap to give the White Sox a 6-5 lead.

Bert Blyleven pitched a seven-hitter and struck out 11 to win his third game for the Twins and hand Boston's Ray Culp his second loss. The Twins scored the only run of the game when Rod Carew led off the fourth inning with a triple and scored on Jim Holt's single. The victory broke a four-game losing streak for Blyleven.

Ike Brown went 3-for-3, including a three-run homer and a sacrifice fly, as the Tigers routed Rudy May in 5-1 3 innings. Joe Coleman, obtained from the Senators in the Danny McLain trade, went the distance with an eight-hitter and raised his record to 3-0. Al Kaline and Aurelio Rodriguez had two hits each for the Tigers.

Mel Stottlemyre pitched a three-hitter and struck out six to win his third game for the Yankees. Stottlemyre also singled home a run in a two-run fourth-inning uprising which helped tag Skip Lockwood with his third loss against two triumphs.

Phils See Instant Replay By Chicago

By JOE CORNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

It must have seemed like instant replay to the Philadelphia Phils but it was just some of that Chicago lightning striking again.

Ron Santo, Billy Williams and Johnny Callison, who hit homers the previous night to spark Chicago to victory, did it again Wednesday night as the Cubs ripped the Phils 9-4.

Santo had a three-run shot in the fourth to give Chicago a 3-0 lead and Callison followed with a solo homer to make it 4-0. Glenn Beckert's three-run double sparked a five-run burst in the seventh and Williams followed the hit with his 299th career homer.

It was the 20th loss in 29 games this season for the Phils, who now have the worst worst percentage in the National League and are mired in last place in the East.

Elsewhere in the NL, San Francisco cruised past Cincinnati 7-2, Los Angeles blanked Atlanta 5-0, San Diego downed Pittsburgh 2-1, Houston edged New York 5-4 and the St. Louis-Montreal game was rained out.

In American League play, Chicago swept Washington 5-0 and 9-5, Baltimore shut out Kansas City 6-0, Oakland whipped Cleveland 8-1, Minnesota edged Boston 1-0, New York blanked Milwaukee 3-0 and Detroit tripped California 8-1.

Hal Lanier's bases loaded double highlighted a six-run second inning outburst that carried San Francisco past slumping Cincinnati. Ron Bryant, supported by four double plays, went the distance for the victory, his third against one loss.

Johnny Bench homered for the fifth place Reds, who dropped their third straight to San Francisco and slipped 12 1/2 games behind the first-place Giants in the West.

Richie Allen and Jim LeFebvre hit home runs and Don Sutton pitched a five-hitter for his first victory of the season as the Dodgers beat Atlanta.

Pampa Third For All-Sports Honor

The basketball team finished first in District 3-AAAA, Track and Baseball came in third, Football fourth Golf last and Tennis tied for last to give Pampa High School a total of 20 1/2 points towards the District 3-AAAA All-Sports trophy for the 1970-71 school year.

The winner of the trophy went to the Tascosa Rebels who sewed up two first place finishes in tennis and baseball, two seconds with track and golf while finishing fourth in football and basketball. The minor sports however gave the Rebels enough points to grab the trophy.

Second to Tascosa's 28 1/2 points was Palo Duro with a first, two seconds two fourths and a sixth to tally 24 points. The Dons were dominate in track, football and basketball as point gatherers.

Pampa did finish above Borger, Amarillo and Caprock with only a 1/2 point edge over the Bulldogs, who had 20 points.

Six points are awarded for a first place finish, five for

Utah Stars Overcome Nerves To Record 3-2 Edge In ABA

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The Utah Stars overcame a case of second-half jitters and a melee Wednesday night to emerge with a 3-2 bulge over Kentucky in the final series for the American Basketball Association title.

The teams head back to Louisville for the sixth game Saturday. If necessary, a seventh game will be played Tuesday at Salt Lake City.

Utah, which hit 49 per cent of its floor shots, rode a 75-point first half to a 137-127 win over the Colonels Wednesday night before a sellout crowd of 13,260 at the Salt Palace. But the Colonels kept shaving away at the 19-point deficit and finally whittled it down to 10 points at the final buzzer.

Kentucky outscored the Stars 71-82 in the final two periods but missed a couple of layups to clinch the contest for Utah.

"You just can't slow down in the pro leagues, even with a 19-point lead," said assistant Stars coach Larry Cregger. "That's why they almost caught us."

Kentucky closed to within 87-73 with 6:02 left in the third period when things began to happen.

The intense pressure brought tempers to a high pitch and a scuffle broke out under the Utah basket between Star Willie Wise and Kentucky's Cincy Powell.

Utah's Ron Boone charged off the bench and took a few licks at Powell to trigger a free-for-all involving officials, coaches, players and fans alike.

After a 10-minute quieting down period, the action resumed with a technical called on Boone, Powell going to the dressing room for minor medical treatment and Wise taking two free throws.

That punch-in climaxed an evening-long physical battle that saw Kentucky's Jim Ligon suffer a severe back strain in an under-the-basket collision with Red Robbins and Zelmo Beaty.

Kittle Handles Astros Much Like His Children

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Hub Kittle is the fatherly type. He should be.

The 54-year old Houston Astros' coach has four sons and three daughters of his own, has managed young men in his players like members of his own family.

One night last June in Oklahoma City when Hub Kittle was managing that club for the Astros, he called one of his ballplayers, Cesar Cedeno, to his hotel room.

By a Man

"You're going to Houston, Sandy," Kittle said, addressing the 19-year-old outfielder from Santo Domingo by his nickname. "I called you here to congratulate you on the promotion. Go up there and do a good job. Keep your eyes and ears open. Learn all you can. The one thing you don't wanna do is be afraid. Be my macho. You understand? Be a man."

Cesar Cedeno nodded. There were tears in his eyes. He felt badly about leaving Okie City where all he was doing was hitting .373 with 61 RBIs and 14 homers in 54 games.

Cesar Cedeno didn't do half badly for Houston either. In no time at all he was being compared with Willie Mays, Hank Aaron and Roberto Clemente.

Cedeno put together four hitting streaks of seven, seven, nine and 14 games and so far 17 bases in 21 tries...Three weeks after coming to Houston he took away Jim Wynn's job in centerfield... He wound up with a .310 average, 42 RBIs and seven homers in 90 games and the Astros wound up thinking they had themselves baseball's newest superstar.

Stark Reality

But alas, as must to all men, stark reality has come to Cesar Cedeno. He isn't hitting now. His batting figure is .184 and the Astros are wondering what gives.

Harry Walker, Houston's manager, has this to say about Cedeno's troubles: "I'll tell you one thing, it's not the second year jinx. There is no such thing. With Cedeno I think it's his mental approach that's different. He's gonna have to start digging and scratching from the beginning all over again. I think when everything didn't fall into place this spring it shook him up and confused him. Now he's jerking and swinging his head like mad up there at the plate. Whenever you get into one of these situations you start fighting it and it's like being in quicksand. The more you fight it, the worse you get. But I think he's a darn good ballplayer with a chance to be one of the best." So does everybody else who has ever seen Cedeno play.

"He's aggressive in everything he does," says Hub Kittle. "He swings aggressively, runs aggressively and throws aggressively."

Cedeno is so aggressive that a few among those who don't really know him have suggested he might be a "hot dog."

No Truth

"There's no truth to that at all," says Doug Rader, Houston's third baseman. "People term a ballplayer a 'hot dog' if he appears flashy and colorful—and Cesar is. That's merely part of his personality. He's just young and enthusiastic. When you're young, you're young."

Cedeno's present trouble is due to over swinging.

"I'm trying too hard," he says.

He feels that maybe a little too much was expected of him too soon.

"A lotta people compare me already to Roberto Clemente," he says. "I can not be compared to him now. Maybe one day, but not now. If I'm ever like Roberto Clemente in any way I'll be very proud. He's my idol."

A little while back I asked Clemente which young ballplayer around today, if any, reminded him most of himself when he first broke in.

He said: "Cesar Cedeno."

API Tournament Draws Large Field Of Area Golfers

A field of around 175 golfers will compete in the Fifth Annual American Petroleum Institute Golf Tournament at the Huber Golf Course in Borger Saturday and Sunday.

Play will be 18 holes each day. Scoring will be blind bogey handicap except for the Championship flight which will be medal play. Tournament chairmen are Pete Blanda and A. D. Pickett, both of Pampa. Tee-off each day is before 1:00 p.m. with 7:00 a.m. open for early birds. Entrance fee is $7.00 for two rounds of golf, a special hour and a banquet Sunday evening, with tickets being available at the registration desk. There will be prizes for each of the 15 flights. The tournament is open only to members of the API, but memberships will be available at the course for $2.

Proceeds from the tournament are used each year to provide a scholarship to a deserving Petroleum Engineering student at Texas Tech.

8—Hitting Behind The Ball

A common fault of middle- and high-handicapped players is hitting too far behind the ball, with fairway irons more than anything else. There frequently is one very simple reason for this.

You probably are dipping with your body as you come into the ball, in an attempt — perhaps without realizing it — to help the ball up into the air. The remedy is to maintain a good posture throughout the swing. Stand tall to start with, and don't let yourself dip as you approach the ball.

Remember that the iron you're swinging is designed to send the ball high into the air — if you hit down on the ball and don't try to scoop it up. Odd as it may sound at first, the harder you hit down on the ball, the higher it will go. That's due to the spin imparted to the ball by the grooves of the clubface.

I can't tell you exactly where to hit on the ball to get it up. It happens too fast to know. I remember my dad, who was a fine coaching professional, told me to try to hit the ball and the ground simultaneously. If the ball were square instead of round, you'd hit it on the bottom edge nearest the clubface. Try imagining that you're striking a square ball and see if that helps.

Highland Hospital Administrator Lists Factors Leading To Increases In Health Care Costs

EDITOR'S NOTE: In observance of National Hospital Week, which began Monday and ends Saturday, The Pampa Daily News is publishing a feature article on hospital services, prepared by Wes Langham, administrator of Highland General Hospital. How would you like to go to a hospital for treatment only to find a world of machines? You could explain your symptoms to a computer and receive a diagnosis in seconds. Your room assignment would be automatic and you'd be conveyed there by a remote-controlled cart. The room would be spotless when you arrived — having just been cleaned ultrasonically. If you needed something, you would press your buzzer, allowing your computer-nurse to appear on the closed circuit television screen in your room. If it couldn't handle the problem, it would call in the computer doctor. All laboratory tests would be evaluated by another skilled machine, and still others would plan and serve your meals. "The system probably can't be beat for efficiency, but some disadvantages remain. Computers can't seem to cope with a patient whose heart suddenly stops. And a rather callous attitude is taken toward the patient who is still in pain after they prescribe medication. Surgery by computer also presents some unique problems," Wes Langham, Highland General Hospital administrator, said.

It seems that as long as the patient's illness fits into the computer's program, the treatment is adequate. But failure of one treatment or unusual complications can't be programmed. Computers also can't be programmed to care about patients, even the most seriously ill. In some ways it's unfortunate that computers can't replace the hospital's doctors and nurses, dietitians and therapists, personnel directors and administrators, pharmacist and lab technicians. If they could, your hospital bills would be more than cut in half because you wouldn't be paying people's salaries. But if you were the patient, how would you like recovery to depend on a computer? "Here at Highland General Hospital, we're certainly introducing automation in areas where it can be used effectively to save the patient's money and time, Langham explains. "But most hospital care depends on judgements and personal services. These simply can't be automated — at least not in the foreseeable future." Why does it cost so much to rely on human employees rather than mechanical ones? Unlike machines a person can't work 24 hours a day — in fact, hospitals sometimes have to hire five people for one job in order to cover three eight-hour shifts, seven days a week. People also have to be given coffee breaks, vacations, sick leave, and other benefits which the less demanding machines never insist upon. Without round-the-clock staffing, hospitals couldn't be prepared as well as they are. Expensive equipment and facilities, and the people to operate them, are ready any all the time. This costs money, but anyone who has an accident at 3 a.m. appreciates the fact that hospitals don't offer their services only during "prime time," he said. Two-thirds of a hospital's total costs are in payroll, while business and industry devote only one-third of their budget to salaries. In addition, payroll is frequently higher in the hospital field because so many skilled employees are needed. (In the hospital field, one in three employees is highly skilled and trained, while in the auto industry the average is one in six.) Salaries of all hospital personnel must be competitive with those of business and industry in order to keep all hospital (See HOSPITAL, Page 13)

Japanese Automakers Want To Make 1970s Decade When They Become Leading Importer Of Cars In United States

By DAVID W. CHUTE
DETROIT (UPI)—Six years ago Japanese automakers sent 17,000 autos into the United States. Last year Japanese cars sold in the United States to the tune of nearly 300,000, a five year increase of 1,800 per cent.

Now, the Japanese automakers have launched a campaign to make the 1970s the decade when they become the leading importer of cars in the United States, overtaking the European makers.

It's an ambitious goal. Just one maker, Volkswagen, last year outsold all the Japanese makes combined more than 5 to 3. VW alone sold more than 500,000. But that doesn't disturb the Japanese.

Five years ago not a single Japanese make was in the first ten in the list of imports. Today, two of them, Toyota and Datsun, are in second and third places. They've outstripped all other European makers except VW.

The Japanese have a carefully worked out plan. Both Datsun and Toyota established initial beachheads in the West Coast markets, principally California. Then they set up strong footholds on the East Coast from Maine to Florida.

Logistics dictated the strategy. Japan could supply only a certain number of cars to the United States because of the long distances over which they had to be transported. Setting up dealerships everywhere would have taxed supplies, thinned out car sales and weakened their dealer body.

Toyota and Datsun now have their own fleets of ships to bring cars to this country.

They're building dealer networks inward from both coasts and have their eyes on the profitable midsection of the country.

Toyota last year sold about 38 per cent of its cars in California, Oregon and Washington, 35 per cent on the East Coast and only about 3 per cent in the populous Great Lakes states of Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Wisconsin. Datsun was 42 per cent West Coast, 29 per cent East Coast and 16 per cent lake states. Each sold only 10 to 12 per cent in the other Midwest states. It is these areas, plus the Southwest including the big Texas market, that the Japanese are eyeing.

They expand step by step. Toyota, which sold about 250,000 cars in the U.S. last year, hopes to boost that to over 300,000 in 1971. Datsun, under 200,000 last year, is shooting for 250,000 this year.

Earlier year sales indicated both Toyota and Datsun have good chance of hitting their targets. If they do, and expansion continues, the Japanese could dominate the U.S. import market by mid-decade.

HAAS ON TRIAL
FORT WORTH (UPI)—Jury selection is underway in the murder trial of Charles Edward Haas, 30, one of two men charged with the killing March 31, 1970 of an Arlington, Tex., widow. Police accused Haas of entering the home of Mrs. Bessie Jane Adwell, 67, with another man, binding her with tape and then beating and stomping her to death.

Hog Quarantine On 38 Counties In Texas Can Be Lifted By May 29

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (UPI)—Federal inspectors who slapped a hog quarantine on 38 Texas counties because of a cholera outbreak say they are optimistic the quarantine can be lifted by May 29.

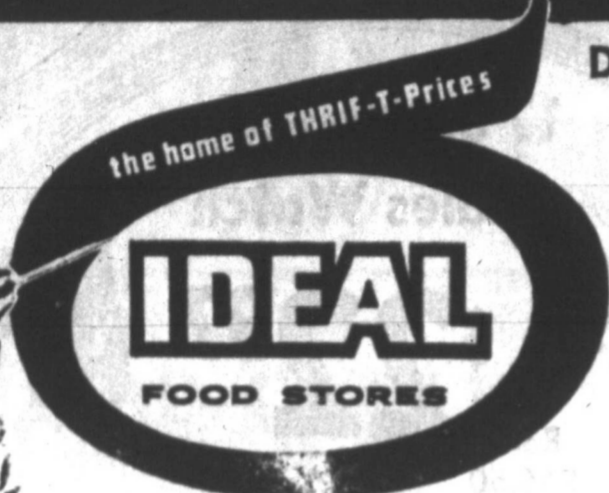

"We can see the end of the quarantine," Dr. Donald E. Torkleson, federal coordinator with the Cholera Eradication Program office in Waco, said. "Until it is lifted, slaughter swine cannot be shipped out of any of the 38 counties, and state officials have imposed a statewide quarantine on shipment of feeder and breeder swine."

The state quarantine will be lifted whenever the federal restriction is removed.

IN APOSTOLIC LETTER

Pontiff Condemns Birth Control, Abortion And Women's Liberation

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Vatican sources said Wednesday that Pope Paul VI's apostolic letter updating Roman Catholic Church teaching on modern social conditions is one of the most significant documents of his nearly eight years as pontiff.

The letter deals with subjects ranging from women's liberation and the generation gap to race conflict, pollution and urban sprawl. It will be officially released Friday but a copy was obtained by United Press International.

The Pope calls in the letter for a new form of democracy that will involve all men without imprisoning them with totalitarianism.

The 73-year-old pontiff again roundly condemns any membership by Roman Catholics in Communist movements but allows church members some leeway in joining socialist movements that are not avowedly atheistic.

One of the worst modern problems, according to the document, is urbanization.

The Pope says "new proletariats" are being born in the "disordered growth" of big cities—referring to the takeover by the poor of downtown areas and the ring of shantytowns surrounding many cities in a "belt of misery."

The pontiff appeals to city leaders to tackle housing shortages first.

"It is the weakest who are the victims of dehumanizing living conditions, degrading for conscience and harmful for the family institution," he writes. "The promiscuity of working people's housing makes a minimum of intimacy impossible..."

However, he warns that society leaders should not attempt to solve city problems by pushing artificial methods of birth control or abortion.

The Pope speaks of many specific problems—the generation gap for example. "... Here we have a source of serious conflicts, division and opting out even within the family... which strikes at the deep roots of society," he writes.

On women's liberation, he condemns "that false equality which would deny the distinctions laid down by the Creator Himself..."

He supports labor unions, but suggests that strikes have a limit "beyond which the harm caused to society becomes inadmissible." He deplores racial bias.

The pontiff's 66-page letter updates Pope Leo XIII's encyclical letter "Rerum Novarum" (of new things) released 80 years ago next Saturday. It dealt with the condition of the working classes and was intended as the church's answer to Das Kapital of Karl Marx.

Blount Discloses Reorganization Of Postal Service

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Postmaster General Winton N. Blount announced Wednesday a major reorganization of the 750,000-employee U.S. Postal Service, eliminating 10 of 15 regional headquarters offices.

Capitol Hill sources said the reorganization would eliminate 3,500 white collar jobs and wipe out jobs of many political appointees.

But, a Postal Service spokesman said, "Nobody knows, there is no way that anybody could possibly say that 3,000 or so people are going to lose their jobs because no determination has been made."

The "streamlined organization structure" announced by Blount will create five regional headquarters—in San Francisco, Memphis, Chicago, Philadelphia and the New York City metropolitan area. Each will be headed by a regional postmaster general.

Eliminated will be regional headquarters in Denver, Seattle, St. Louis, Wichita, Dallas, Minneapolis, Atlanta, Boston, Cincinnati and Washington. Each now employs between 179 and 311 persons.

"A lot of people who are ready for retirement probably will retire," a postal spokesman said. "It is being announced locally that the Postal Service will abide by Civil Service Commission standards and enable employees to bid for jobs in the new regional headquarters or in the new metropolitan and district offices."

Five Canadians Attend Area Meet

CANADIAN (Sp) — Five representatives of Canadian Production Credit Association participated in the Fieldmen's Conference held in Lubbock May 11-12.

The 34 PCA's of Texas sponsored the meeting which featured latest information on extending agricultural credit to Texas farmers and ranchers.

Area participants were Larry E. Albin, president, Canadian; George L. Cook, vice president and Secretary, Canadian; D. Gene Hanks, vice president, Pampa; John H. Beasley, vice president, Perryton; and James M. Verden, vice president, Wheeler.

Albin said that need for the conference stemmed from agricultural operations becoming more complex, loans larger and money management more critical.

"This complexity and increase in loan dollars is evident when considering that the average size of a PCA loan in Texas was $52,000 in 1970," the PCA President pointed out. "We feel PCA must maintain a high level of professionalism among its credit specialists and keep abreast of the latest agricultural credit information available."

Canadian PCA makes agricultural loans in Gray, Hemphill, Lipscomb, Ochiltree, Roberts and Wheeler Counties. The Association loaned almost $73 million to Texas farmers and ranchers in 1970.

Hospital...

(Continued From Page 10) services operating. Other factors contributing to rising health care costs are expense of supplies, the cost of doing business with Medicare, and keeping up with new and needed equipment for patient care. But these elements are secondary compared to the personnel, or people factor, Langham said.

Salary expense can't be pared down or eliminated because "personal" services to patients must be administered and only "personnel" can provide them. Because of this, the advances in medical technology have improved patient care but haven't replaced people. In fact, more personnel are required; almost twice as many today as two decades ago.

"As health care becomes more complex, more trained people are needed to staff hospital," Mr. Langham said. "And as this happens, care becomes more expensive. Health care costs more pay day in 1971 than it did in 1961, but the length of a hospital stay is usually shorter. If a person must enter the hospital, he would prefer a five day hospital stay at $50 a day to ten days at $25 a day," he commented. "Everyone agrees hospital costs are high," explains Langham. "everyone would like to have the same quality care at bargain prices. But if the hospitals were to give a 20 per cent discount, where would they find the money to meet payroll and other expenses?"

"Cutting back on services would result in an immediate cut in costs, but this would be unacceptable for both the community and the hospital," Langham said. "What is needed is a total effort to develop new ways of delivering and financing health care, and an increased understanding by the community of the factors contributing to increases in health care costs."

COMPTON, England (UPI)—Because he is a skilled bricklayer, Piddy O'Shea, 24, Wednesday refused "on principle" to cut the lawn outside the factory where he works. Factory management fired him—and all 200 employees walked off their jobs in protest. "We told the unions that we intended to distribute the work of mowing the lawn throughout the general maintenance work force and there were no objections. Mr. O'Shea's work is general maintenance."

EVER STRIVING FOR 'THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE
Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

The Hardship Cycle

In 1547, the city fathers of London became concerned for the poor of that city. In order to mitigate the extreme hunger, they levied a compulsory tax to finance welfare. In 1572 Queen Elizabeth extended the London experiment to a national scale. Four years later, local authorities were mandated to provide raw materials to give work to the unemployed. This was followed by the Statute of 1601 that ordered Overseers of the Poor in every parish to buy "a convenient stock of flax, hemp, wool, thread, iron and other stuff to set the poor to work."

The central argument was that the relief would help to keep beggars from turning into robbers.

By the end of the 1600s, more than one million persons, then nearly a fifth of the entire English nation, were in at least occasional receipt of alms. The amount of relief provided to an individual was often up-to-three times what a common laborer could buy for himself and family.

A writer of the times noted that the recipients "seldom drink other than the strongest alehouse beer, or eat any bread save what is made of the finest wheat flour."

In the year 1785, England took another leap toward "progress." The authorities of Berkshire voted to supplement below-standard wages.

In light of these and related experiments, the cost of poor law administration rose from two million pounds in 1785 to eight million by 1817. Buckinghamshire village reported that it was spending eight times in 1832 what it had been in 1795. The village of Cholesbury declared bankruptcy.

By 1830 and 1831 riots were breaking out and the towns were plagued by fires.

So Parliament appointed a royal commission. Surprisingly, the commission looked at the problem squarely and reported:

"It appears to the pauper that the government has undertaken to repeal, in his favor, the ordinary laws of nature; to enact that the children shall not suffer from the misconduct of their parents — the wife for that of the husband, or the husband for that of the wife: that no one shall lose the means of comfortable subsistence, whatever be his indolence, prodigality or vice. In short, that the penalty which, after all, must be paid by someone for idleness and improvidence, is to fall, not on constitute government, then it follows that the government cannot decide either to lower taxes or raise them. Of itself, it has the power only to follow the course on which it has been set.

By this, we do not mean to say that the direction of government never changes.

Some change might come about from outward force acting on the government — like an abrupt change in the economy. Or it might come from a dominant individual in the government, although typically the individual within the government does not have sufficient clout to make much of a dent. Or it might come from a group within the government that has its own predetermined course on a collision path.

But all these possible means of altering the direction of government usually proceed not from thoughtful decision, nor from advice given to decision makers. They are merely the products of events, the consequences of which cannot be pre-calculated with precision.

The moral, we suppose, is nothing more than that we tend to demand too much of elected and appointed authorities. We tend to expect results that they are incapable of effecting. In short, to petition for a tax cut has about the same chance as any other request made to an inanimate object.

DRUGS ARE DANGEROUS

A legislative committee studying the drug abuse problem in Vietnam reported recently that approximately 60 percent of U.S. servicemen there have used blackmarket narcotics. If the estimate of the group is correct, we face a dangerous situation on the drug front in Indo-China as we do on the battle front.

The investigation showed that the bulk of the offenses involved marijuana, but this is not to be taken lightly for marijuana is dangerous itself. It has a hallucinating effect and while there is no concrete medical evidence that its use permanently disturbs the mind, experts in the field of law enforcement say that users frequently graduate to more dangerous drugs.

Direct William Frazier of the Dallas police department's vice-control section says the pattern that he and his detectives have found in their investigations is one of gradual evolution from marijuana and barbiturate use to heroin.

"And heroin, it should be remembered, is the most deadly of drugs," Director Frazier said. "There are very few cases that we have come across where a heroin addict is permanently cured." He warns that drug arrests are on the increase but those figures that are released mostly by police can be as dangerous as an iceberg.

"I would guess that for every one person we arrest there are seven to ten others that we don't catch or don't even know about," he said.

If this sounds frightening, it is meant to be. Law enforcement agencies with limited manpower can do just so much. It is up to the citizenry to give them help and provide mass education that will slow down and eventually crush the menace of illegal narcotics.

With Some Reservation

By INJUN WOODY

Well, it seems somebody else is going to try and come to the rescue of the befuddled taxpaying public. That Sen. McMathias is going to try and have the IRS tax forms simplified again.

You guessed it—another commission will be set up. However, he might have something this time as he insists the commission will be limited to only two attorneys or accountants. Not only that, he would bar all "federal employees!"

Instead, the commission would be composed of different tarpaying, age groups, job categories and regions of the country. And the new tax forms would be submitted to a panel of average taxpayers before the materials are printed by the millions.

It would be a relief to view the old 1040 without feeling like you didn't know beans when the bag's open. In my case, I never was much on figures. The thing is—I've got the figures, but where do you put them—on line 15 (b) in Schedule T or on Schedule R—(see declarations and instructions on related forms).

Now that demonstrations have become a regular feature of Spring and Summer, it is incumbent on everyone to be forewarned of coming events. A press release reminiscent of a theatrical program summarizes the main events of the Spring of 1971.

Demonstrators for a number of causes have been converging on Washington in efforts intended, first, to end the Indo-China war; second, to improve welfare programs, and third, to lower taxes. There are such organizations as the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice, the National Peace Action Coalition and the National Welfare Rights Organization.

Included in the program this year are tax protests, hunger marches, fasts and teach-ins, as well as many other activities.

One organization announces that its demonstrators will be disobedient. One wonders how long this mockery of self-government can continue without ending in dictatorship.

THE WORRY CLINIC

'Agenda' Plan Great Ally For Those Weekend Chores

Debby decided to adopt my "Agenda" plan in order to finish more chores over the weekend. It is an excellent method for saving time and also increasing your output of work, whether you are a student, housewife or business executive. Try it for one week and see for yourself!

By GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE Q-351: Debby, aged 9, is one of our granddaughters. She is troubled by failing to get all of her household chores completed on schedule.

"Mamma," she announced one Saturday morning, "I guess I'll write down my Agenda, the way Grandpa does."

"Then I can see all the things that I must finish."

"And I'll cross off each one as soon as it is done."

The use of a written list (Agenda) is a great ally of efficiency engineering.

I make up my own monthly agenda and keep it on my desk. Debby and her brothers (Matthew and Peter) often sit around my office, peering in with questions while I am frantically trying to type, my day's chores as per my Agenda.

So they may then peruse the Agenda to see if I am falling behind in my output.

For I make a separate line for each week's batch of these "Worry Clinic" columns.

This means 4 and sometimes 5 entries for the month.

But I also produce a syndicated Quiz Column, so I list 4 or 5 more entries, since it requires a full day's typing to complete just one week's quota.

I list the 3 or 4 magazine articles that I must complete, making each one a separate entry.

And each lecture trip also gets listed on a separate line.

Since I must dictate many "sleeves" of letters on my dictating machine, I list them, too.

Plus a few extra chores, such as cutting wood for the fireplace or painting the garage, etc.

My monthly list thus contains 25 to 30 major items, most of which are a full day's quota of work.

When I complete any item on the list, I cross it out with a thick red marking pencil!

an hour or two wondering "What should I do next?"

Students, too, can make a daily or weekly Agenda and list the hours of study for various courses, or the themes they are to write.

You'll find it is a great joy to cross out each completed item.

And after a few months, you'll feel restless if you don't accomplish something definite every day, even on your vacation!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Pampa News, enclosing a long, stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Poor Choice, Either Way

If you have not made up your mind which side you're on in the great draft debate, the following is not calculated to help you.

On the one hand, as Roscoe C. Born notes in the National Observer, debaters favoring an end to the draft contend that it is unfair because only the poor, who can't get college deferments, are drafted.

But, on the other hand, others contend that an all-volunteer Army would be unfair because only the poor, who can't get an education and good-paying jobs in civilian life, would volunteer.

Maybe we ought to turn things around and just draft everybody into college.

Another Breed Of Defector

This is a first: An East German watchdog recently "defected" across the border to West Germany, where he was granted asylum.

Police say the shepherd dog apparently broke out of a pen and crossed the mined and guarded "death strip" between the two Germanys and was found by a West German border patrol. East German authorities turned down an offer for the return of the dog and he was taken to an animal shelter.

After all, if a dog is no longer politically reliable, what good is he?

Worth Repeating

It's so incredibly impressive when you look back at our planet from out here in space and you realize forcibly that it's a closed system — that we don't have any unlimited resources, that there's only so much air and so much water.

—Astronaut Edgar D. Mitchell.

Clearing House

Got something you would like to "get off your chest"? That's what the "Clearing House" is for. It has been suggested there should be more letters to the Editor, that people should speak their minds, write to the Editor and "get it off their chest."

Editor:

Now Lake Meredith is built. It was a giant political boondoggle, and a political pork barrel. Also now the filter plant is assured, another method for a few people to make some money.

Pampa has lost several thousand population since these ambitious projects were conceived, and Lake Meredith is a boon for recreation, with only five cities to pay the bill for the dam.

If the hot fingers would now let us have a rest. They have what they wanted and the taxpayers have been skinned. Why can't we just nail boards over the windows of the filter plant and then forget it?

The water is not fit to drink, as was predicted by late Citizen Lynn Boyd, and no one dares mention the salt content and cost of the chemicals. We have all been "had," so why not leave the polluted water out of the City mains, and get such pleasure as may be had from having a place to fish and camp.

One pleasure we might get in such a case would be to go to Palo Duro Creek, and watch the three million gallons a day of Amarillo sewage pour into the lake and be thankful that Pampans will not have to drink it.

When you hire a new city manager, the present one accepted, he must have a "project." Like some of our preachers. When one goes to a new church, he immediately discovers that many things need to be changed, a new auditorium, a bigger church, or something that will keep the brethren under a "burden."

Now that cities are broke, with most going to Washington for handouts, why must we look around for another pork barrel and find a new way to increase taxes?

Have just talked to Mr. Bozeman of Amarillo, and he says that the Lake water is right now at the top of State allowable salt and Chlorides. It is getting worse.

Quick Quiz

Q—Why is the phrase "as long as grass shall grow and rivers run," important in Oklahoma history?

A—The Five Civilized Tribes—Cherokee, Choctaw, Creek, Chickasaw and Seminole—received their Oklahoma land from the federal government in the 1820s for "as long as grass shall grow and rivers run," in return for their eastern lands.

Q—in American financial history, what was "Black Tuesday"?

A—Oct. 29, 1929, the date of the stock market crash.

Q—in Japanese, what does "kamikaze" mean?

A—This is Japanese for "divine wind."

Soviet Arms To Egypt Traffic Nearer Normal

WASHINGTON — The much publicized priority airlift of modern arms from Russia to Egypt has tapered off into a more nearly normal arms traffic between the two nations. The last phase of the airlift was completed in late March, according to experts here. Among other modern arms, the airlift is believed to have supplied Egypt with about 30 new Russian aircraft.

It is now estimated in the intelligence community that six or seven of the largest Russian cargo planes were included in the Soviet Union's spring bonanza for Egypt. It is therefore theorized that six or seven of the most modern supersonic Russian fighter planes may well have been unloaded.

None of the three new-model Soviet fighters—called Foxbat, Flaggon and Flogger in Pentagonese—have been officially sighted, as of this writing, flying patrols in Egypt. Experts here say the new planes could well be in the assembly and test process, however.

In any event, it does not now appear to U.S. analysts that Moscow has greatly altered the Middle East power balance by the airlift, though it served to back up Cairo's diplomatic initiatives with respect to the reopening of the Suez canal.

Russia, in the eyes of the experts here, is doing what is necessary to maintain the Kremlin's franchise as friend, supplier and big brother to Egypt and the Arab world. The airlift is viewed as one highly visible incident in that continuing effort.

SABRY "SNEAKY" — the word in intelligence circles here is that Ali Sabry, the Egyptian vice-president who was ousted by President Anwar Sadat, is not considered to be a very nice fellow. "Sneaky" is one of the words used to describe the 53-year-old Sabry.

His long-time reputation as an ambitious, selfish loner, has apparently served him poorly in a power struggle within the military elite which was won by former Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser. Sabat became president after Nasser's death last fall.

As a charismatic national leader and after-figure for the Arab world, Nasser was able to use Sabry's ambition to serve his own purposes, according to his sources. Sabat, however, has not been able to establish

More Cities Taking Second Look At Growth Syndrome

By PAUL HARVEY
Now it's Birmingham, Ala., a Southern city, that's threatening to suffocate its citizens in the name of "progress."

Sen. Ed Muskie is not a Southern favorite, but he does have a concern for ecology which precludes that of most of his colleagues. And he has been stunning Dixie with a warning that Southern cities must learn from the experience of decaying cities of the North, and avoid all forms of urban blight now.

In recent years you and I have watched the economic renaissance of our own nation's underdeveloped areas. We shared the excitement of the new gold rush to the South, the Southwest, the Northwest.

Now some of those cities have prospered past the point of what's good for them. They are taking a second look at the growth syndrome and its secondary effects.

Several states are backing off on their self-promotion efforts. Oregon's governor is asking outsiders please to stay out.

State-aided Arizona Highways magazine, which has attracted millions to that state, may not be perpetuated. Phoenix and Tucson are too smoky already.

States which heretofore offered fat tax incentives to attract any industry have become highly selective.

Federal government now gives big cities until 1975 to reduce pollution to acceptable standards, however costly and whatever changes are required. Big city industries will be shopping for relocation in place of less pollution so that they can get away with more.

But the hinterlands are increasingly alert to the potential any such relationship with his former rival. Recently Sabry has been trying to expand his influence within Egypt's only political party — the Arab Socialist Union. It was the party executive committee which insisted on amendments before government ratification of the new federation linking Egypt with Syria and Libya. Sabry is also believed to have been seeking a more influential role among young army officers.

Under those circumstances, Sabat is believed to have moved to limit Sabry's power and influence.

Sabry has long been considered the Kremlin's closest friend among the leaders in Cairo. He has, in addition, been a leading exponent of a "military solution" to Egypt's quarrels with Israel. In those contexts Sabry's ouster might be welcomed, but indications here are that the man and not the ideas have been put down.

SADAT'S IMAGE — With respect to the new Arab federation, experts here note that Arab nations have tried over and over to promote unity — or even a look of unity — in the Middle East. There is a natural tendency to view the new federation as another such effort with a questionable future.

In that connection, it is important to note that the changes in the federation structure, on which Egypt insisted, tended to loosen the federation itself. The amendments require unanimous decisions and thus give Egypt a veto over federation actions.

It is even suggested here that the federation came about as a result of a bit of image-making for Sadat. Compared with Nasser (and, inevitably, he is constantly compared with Nasser) Sadat has not come off as a towering figure in the Arab world.

Even during his rather adroit peace initiatives, it has been suggested that Sadat is not a leader of pan-Arabism — that Sadat wants to abandon that role in which Nasser was often cast — and that Sadat wants to turn his regime inward and focus on Egypt's problems as a nation.

The new federation emerges, in this speculation, as an attempt to endow Sadat with virtues as an international as well as a national figure — an able successor to Nasser in all fields.

Then there is the most frequently mentioned justification for growth and economic increase: The one-most-used excuse for small towns to grow big has been "to increase the opportunity for our young people."

They've insisted that "if our town fails to provide economic opportunity, our young people will move away and our town will stagnate, atrophy and decline."

The Now Generation is turning around.
Today's young people have discovered objectives more worthy than the sterile economic goals of their fathers. In the asphalt jungle that the bright lights have lost their luster, that the bluebird of happiness is where every philosopher that the bluebird of happiness is where every philosopher before and since Voltaire finally rediscovered it — right in their own backyards.
