

Alabama House Ok's Legislation Aimed At Blocking School Busing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Alabama House has approved a law aimed at blocking busing to bring about school desegregation while courts in the South continue to issue new rulings in support of the controversial issue.

The latest action came as the first week of classes, virtually free from disruptions, winds up for some Southern schools.

Most of the schools open next week.

The Alabama House with some firm nudging from Gov. George Wallace, enacted the measure Thursday. It prohibits busing if parents determine it would jeopardize their children's health or education. The vote was 92-7. Approval by the State Senate is expected.

Another opponent of busing, Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia, declared Thursday he is willing to be imprisoned if that's what it takes to resist "the death grip which the federal police state has on public education."

But Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, in the meantime, didn't seem willing to carry the torch. Carter said he felt parents and public officials should press their opposition in an orderly manner regarding busing, but added he does not favor defiance of the law. "I'm not in favor of Southern governors going to jail," Carter said.

Florida Gov. Reubin Askew also spoke out on the issue, announcing Thursday he opposes calling a constitutional convention for the purpose of prohibiting busing.

Askew, faced with strong antibusing sentiments from the Duval County School Board, which is under federal court order to bus about 75,000 pupils, earlier called on Floridians to put aside "the emotions of the hour" and accept busing as a temporary way of halting racial discrimination.

Most battles over busing and integration plans were being fought in court or through political channels. Complaining school systems, however, didn't appear to be receiving much sympathy.

The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on Thursday ordered Norfolk, Va., to operate its schools under a new plan requiring the busing of 18,000 pupils.

Norfolk school authorities promptly postponed "indefinitely" the scheduled opening of schools next Tuesday, pending an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

In Tennessee, the loudest objections to federal integration orders were raised in Nashville.

ville, where a request by school authorities to stay a school busing order was denied by Supreme Court Justice Potter Stewart.

Austin, Tex., highlighted areas in which there were threats of schoolyard violence.

On Thursday, 11 high school pupils were arrested as black-white friction resulting from a new busing plan continued for the second day.

Police said two white youths and a black youth were carrying weapons and that eight other youths—six white and two black—were cited for disorderly conduct and use of abusive language.

Trouble first broke out in Austin, on Wednesday when black pupils reportedly attacked a football coach.

Under the new desegregation plan, a total of 7,000 Austin pupils, most of them black, are being bused to school.

Pembroke, N.C. Schools opened under heavy guard Thursday for the second consecutive day.

20,000 Parents In San Francisco Support Boycott Of School Busing

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco, the largest city in the nation under court order to integrate its schools, faces a massive boycott by thousands of parents opposed to busing.

Sheldon Toor, co-chairman of a citywide antibusing coalition, estimated Thursday that 20,000 parents support the boycott—and that between 20,000 and 25,000 children will stay home when schools open Sept. 13.

The integration plan ordered by U.S. District Court Judge Stanley Weigel involves 48,000 youngsters at 97 elementary schools. A total of 28,000 students will have to be bused in 130 vehicles making 1,118 daily runs.

Don Johnson, director of desegregation for the school district, said it is not attempting to estimate the possible extent of the threatened boycott.

Earlier this week U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas refused a plea by the San Francisco School Board to delay the busing program until its appeal of Weigel's order can be heard.

Toor, whose coalition is called WALK-for We All Love Kids—said the boycott is supported by whites, including Mexican-American, and blacks, Chinese, and Filipinos.

Astronaut Scott Will Be Honored At San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A festive round of homecoming honors awaited Apollo 15 commander David Scott today as he returned to his native San Antonio for the first time since setting foot on the moon.

The program for what some called "Great Scott Day" included a downtown parade, ceremonies at the Alamo, tours of military bases and a visit to his boyhood school.

One of his scheduled stops was the Edward H. White II Memorial Museum, an airplane hangar dedicated to the astronaut who died in a spacecraft fire at Cape Kennedy in 1967.

Scott and White were born in the same building at Ft. Sam Houston's old Station Hospital here. Their fathers both were Army Air Corps pilots who retired as Air Force generals.

Other activities included a luncheon in Scott's honor at the Convention Center with the showing of a motion picture taken on the Apollo 15 flight. More than 1,200 persons were expected to attend.

One of the rocks that Scott took from the moon was to be on public display at the Convention Center.

Scott grew up in San Antonio and took his first plane ride here at the age of 12—a birthday present from his father.

Economists Believe Measure To Defend U.S. Dollar Works

NEW YORK (AP) — Some bankers and private economists agree that international measures to defend the dollar have worked so far, giving them hope that foreign monetary and trade affairs may return quickly to a more orderly course.

This means that floating currencies with values changing from day to day would be ended. Therefore, an importer ordering 10,000 Japanese radio sets would know what he has to pay for them when they are delivered three months hence.

"Things are going very well indeed," said William Wolman, a First National City Bank vice president. "The critical point was the Japanese agreement to float the yen."

"The change in the British bank rate (equivalent to the U.S. discount rate) was another good sign."

This view was supported by Franklin R. Saul, former assistant secretary of the Treasury.

Saul said the International Monetary Fund, whose Sept. 27 meeting in Washington will be crucial, has been working on new currency values since 1966. That means that much of the staff work for a new lineup of money rates has been done. But negotiations are only starting. If they should be successful, the new rates might even come into effect by the end of this year.

This could be followed by a removal of the 10 per cent extra tariff on imports. The United States has indicated it will do so when satisfactory new exchange rates are fixed.

The change in the British bank rate was the latest evidence of success for the dollar defense. Defense consisted of cutting the dollar loose from gold to let its value float and in the surcharge.

One reason the British cut the bank rate, the interest charged on government loans to commercial banks, was to make investments in Britain less attractive. With interest rates lower, holders of dollars are less likely to send them into Britain but might keep them in the United States.

Wolman said that an added piece of good news for the dollar was that no other country has retaliated against the surcharge. There had been fears that American exports might face higher tariffs in reprisal for the higher rates imposed on imports.

Public Hearing On Ambulance Service Sept. 14

A public hearing on the city's contract with Metropolitan Ambulance Service of Amarillo has been set for 8:30 a.m. Thursday, Sept. 14 in City Hall.

City Manager Mack Wofford said today the hearing is required by law to listen to any protests and make final determination of the company's qualifications to provide the public with adequate service.

Convictions for accepting a bribe can carry a 10-year prison sentence and a $5,000 fine. Offering a bribe is punishable by up to five years in prison and a fine of $5,000.

The source said Osorio filed an annual National Bankers Life report when he was president of the firm with the Texas Insurance Board that listed a $250,000 loan made to South Atlantic Corp. in September of 1969. According to state evidence this was false, the source said.

This is the way the source described the loan procedure:

Osorio and his law partner, former Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr, borrowed $550,000 from City Bank & Trust Co. of Dallas in March of 1969 to buy stock in South Atlantic Corp. National Bankers Life later took over $250,000 of that obligation. Then, in October of 1969, Osorio and Carr borrowed $550,000 from Exchange Bank & Trust Co. of Dallas to pay off the earlier loan, given Exchange Bank a "takeout" letter guaranteeing that National Bankers Life would buy the note on demand. Exchange demanded it.

So the $250,000 listed in the financial report was not a loan to South Atlantic Corp. Instead it was an assumption of $250,000 worth of Osorio's and Carr's indebtedness to City Bank & Trust Co., the source claimed.

Conviction for filing a false report carries a maximum sentence of five years and a $5,000 fine.

The source said there was no evidence linking Gov. Smith, Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, state Democratic party chairman Elmer Baum, Mutscher aide Sonny Schulte or State Rep. W. S. Healy of Paducah to maneuvers alleged in the indictment drafts.

Baum, Schulte and Healy also made profits on National Bankers Life stock bought with Sharpstown bank loans, they have said.

Barnes repeatedly has denied any involvement in the stock-bank loan deals cited by the Securities and Exchange Commission. SEC investigators have questioned principals in the case repeatedly about Barnes.

None of the active politicians or their aides is a defendant in the SEC civil suit at Dallas.

Mutscher, Two Officials Named In Attorneys' Indictment Draft

By ROBERT HEARD
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Harris County district attorney meets today in Austin with his Travis County counterpart to discuss drafts of bribery indictment papers prepared against Texas House Speaker Gus Mutscher and two other state officials.

An informed source, who declined to be named, told The Associated Press Thursday that Mutscher, Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth and Mutscher's chief administrative aide, Rush McGinty, are named in the indictment drafts.

The papers have not yet been presented to the grand jury.

Also being prepared, the source said, is an indictment against John Osorio, former president of National Bankers Life Insurance Co. (NBL), charging that he filed a false report with the State Insurance board.

That paper has not been presented to the grand jury either. Dist. Atty. Robert O. Smith of Travis County (Austin) denied a report that the bribery indictments were in final form ready for the grand jury foreman's signature in event the grand jury votes to indict.

But Smith did say he has discussed with Dist. Atty. Carol Vance in Harris County (Houston) the question of where any bribery case should be tried. No action will be taken until that question is decided, Smith said.

Vance said in Houston he would meet with Smith and representatives of the attorney general's office Friday. Vance said he would begin an investigation of the bribery charges.

No Travis County indictments are likely to be returned before the final week in September, last week the current grand jury is in office, Smith said.

The informed source said rough drafts of indictments are not prepared unless the evidence is considered strong enough that the grand jury is likely to indict.

If the grand jury acts, the indictments will be the first major criminal charges growing out of a continuing investigation by state and federal officials of stock frauds in Texas.

Frank Sharp, a Houston promoter around whom the stock scandal centers, has drawn a three-year suspended sentence and a $5,000 fine for violating federal banking laws. A minor figure in the case has been charged in a federal perjury indictment.

The bills were vetoed by Gov. Preston Smith, who also made

Pay Increases For Federal Blue Collar Workers Ordered Deferred

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon has ordered that wage increases due 600,000 federal blue collar workers be deferred six months, effective at once. He has asked Congress to hold up other raises due Jan. 1 for nearly 1.4 million white collar workers and 2.9 million military personnel until next July 1.

"I regret the necessity of postponing pay increases," the President said Wednesday. "But our fight against the rising cost of living must take precedent." He predicted the deferments would save the government $1.3 billion the first six months.

The President's 90-day freeze on all wages and prices effective Aug. 15 applied also to federal employees. His action Wednesday extends that restriction but, press secretary Ronald Ziegler said, does not necessarily mean the wage-price freeze generally will last beyond its current Nov. 12 deadline.

"This should not suggest to you what steps we will take following the wage-price freeze," Ziegler said in response to a newsman's question. "The president felt that his was an appropriate action because of the number of federal employees."

When Congress reconvenes, it will have 30 days in consecutive session to act on the President's request to defer the schedule military and white collar pay increases. Either house alone can reject it. If Congress does not act, it goes into effect automatically.

The deferral would mean that two wage increases then will become due within an approximate three-month period next year. A periodic pay increase is scheduled for October of 1972.

"Since I am unable to predict whether two increases in such a relatively short time span will have a damaging effect on the economy, I am not prepared to make a decision with respect to the October 1972 increase at this time," Nixon said.

"After reviewing the economic situation during the first half of 1972, I will give serious consideration to the need for an alternative plan to that scheduled increase."

CAPE ELIZABETH, Maine (AP) — Actor Gary Merrill now is the proud owner of a lighthouse.

Merrill has signed papers giving him possession of one of the historic "Two Lights" of the rocky Cape Elizabeth shore. Merrill bought the so-called "West Light," which was abandoned by the government in 1924. He said he intends to remodel it into a year-round home.

The glass dome and the lantern were removed when the lighthouse went out of service. Merrill said he intends to build a glass walled bedroom at the top of the 54-foot tower, which stands 129 feet above the sea. It will have a 360-degree view sweeping the Atlantic Ocean and as far inland as New Hampshire's Mount Washington.

Rains Still Needed Throughout Texas

COLLEGE STATION, TEX. (AP) — Scattered rains over wide sections of Texas delayed harvesting the past week. However, the moisture is still needed in some areas and should help ranges and some late crops, said Dr. John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agriculture Extension Service.

The grain sorghum harvest approaching the midway point with yields short to average. Corn yields are only fair. The first rice crop harvest is nearly complete with good yields and quality.

Rain planting has started in the High Plains. Other sectors are preparing land for grains and vegetables. Cotton in the west needs hot, dry weather for boll development and rapid maturity, Hutchison said.

District agents reported: PANHANDLE: Some wheat is being planted. Army worms are damaging grass in some areas, and horn flies are bothering livestock. The guar crop near Wellington looks good. Livestock are in good condition.

SOUTH PLAINS (Lubbock): Cotton made rapid growth and needs hot, dry weather. Sorghum is doing well with prospects of good yields. Some sorghum is being harvested. Wheat and other grains are being planted.

ROLLING PLAINS (Vernon): Rains of 1.50 to 7 inches fell throughout most of the district but moisture still is short in 12 counties. Much cotton is improving and fruiting but insects are causing considerable damage. Some sorghum is being harvested. Ranges are making excellent growth and stock water supplies improved.

NORTH CENTRAL: Hay made rapid growth. Some cotton has been damaged by rain, boll weevils and boll worms. About 78 to 85 per cent of the sorghum is harvested with fair yields. Nuts looks good. Pastures are making good growth. Army worms are increasing.

NORTHEAST: Plowing is active for seeding oats and wheat. A bountiful hay harvest is in progress. Soybeans look good, sorghum yields are about average. Boll weevils are heavy in some cotton, vegetables are being planted. The watermelon and sweet potato harvests are active. Pecan prospects are bright.

FAR WEST: Fair weather helped cotton mature. Ranges are greening up, livestock are improving. Sheep and Angora goats are being sheared in the southeast. Moisture is generally adequate.

WEST CENTRAL: Cotton needs hot, dry weather. Insect damage has been light. Sorghum yields are average. The hay crop is good, ranges are lush, livestock are gaining weight, and goat shearing is underway.

CENTRAL: Moisture is generally adequate but rain will be needed soon. Some cotton defoliation is underway. Boll weevils and boll worms are heavy in some locations. The sorghum harvest is about complete with yields short. Peanuts are being harvested. The crop is being damaged by leaf spot and cornborers. Hay baling is in full swing.

EAST: Hay harvesting was active. Army worms are damaging some of the crop. The sorghum harvest is near completion with yields fair. Some peas are being harvested. The pecan and peach crops are short. Ranges are greatly improved and supplying adequate grazing. Stock water is still low in places. Moisture is short to adequate.

SOUTHEAST: Up to 3 inches of rain fell in isolated areas and moisture is short to adequate. Cotton is opening slowly with about one fourth of the crop harvested. Soybeans are pod-filled and need a good rain. So do peanuts. The corn crop is 40 to 80 per cent harvested with yields fair.

Anti-Technology Feeling Prevalent Among Students

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — Technology is relied upon to solve the problems of individual industries, such as chemicals, to solve social problems such as poor housing and pollution, and inflation through contributing to output per man-hour. But technology also is scorned by some of the same people who express concern for these situations. And so, Dr. Werner von Braun of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is concerned.

Calling the hostility "irrational," Von Braun unloaded himself in an article written for the National Association of Manufacturers, in which he said the anti-technology feeling was especially prevalent among college students.

"It is irrational precisely because those most vocal in their hostility toward science and technology are the very ones professing the greatest concern about poverty, poor housing, hunger and the quality of the environment," he said.

"All of these problems of society depend in varying degree upon our technological capabilities, and certainly on increased productivity, for their solutions."

Most concepts and scientific knowledge, he continued, "take years from the time a scientist formulates them and they enter the technology until some non-sense pragmatist comes along and turns the idea or knowledge into a product and a flock of new jobs."

But by that time, Von Braun lamented, "everyone has forgotten, if he knew at all, that it was the scientist who started it in the first place."

Nowhere else in the world, the space official said, are science and technology held in such low regard.

Gov. Wallace Planning To Make Second Bid For President In 1972

By REX THOMAS Associated Press Writer MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace, who says he hasn't decided whether to run again for president, nevertheless has cranked up the campaign machinery for another try next year.

An election law task force from his national third party headquarters is at work again determining just what must be done to get on the ballot in all 50 states. The group did the same thing in 1968, when Wallace carried five states as the candidate of the American Independent party.

The campaign staff is arranging fund-raising dinners—$50 a plate in most instances—in strategic cities to help pay expenses but primarily, says campaign director Charles Snider Jr., to find out how the political climate compares with 1968.

The first four "appreciation dinners" as the staff calls them, had Wallace in Dallas, Tex.; Nashville, Tenn.; Toledo, Ohio; and Jacksonville, Fla. Another is scheduled for New York the night of Sept. 25.

"Judging from the number of people who attend the dinners," says Snider, "the governor is a lot stronger than he was before."

Wallace apparently has singled out the dissatisfaction over school busing as the major issue even though he disclaims any political motive and says his only concern is for the health and safety of the school children.

He told a news conference last Thursday he would get out of the presidential picture "if the President will stop busing, go back to freedom of choice and restore neighborhood schools."

The governor has asked the state legislature to back him up in his continuing challenge of President Nixon's administration and the federal courts.

He urged passage of a state law to prohibit long-distance busing of school children when their parents determine it is harmful to their health or their education.

Earlier he issued executive orders directing school boards in three Alabama counties to disregard federal court busing mandates. A federal judge ruled Wallace had no authority to intervene and told the school boards again to do what the courts had instructed them to do.

The governor says a third party campaign next year would have "an excellent chance... and the least we could do is tie up the election and determine who is going to become the president."

Wallace bypassed the presidential primaries in 1968, but he says he may run in the Democratic primaries next spring in Florida, North Carolina and Tennessee.

At this point four years ago, Wallace was campaigning actively although he did not formally announce his candidacy until several months later.

Members of his staff say it isn't necessary to start so early this time for several reasons: He's better known, his Montgomery headquarters puts out a monthly publication which gives him a contact with the voters he did not have in 1967.

And, they say, much of the groundwork which required Wallace's personal attention four years ago can be handled now by others.

The governor says his third party movement is paying the bills but isn't overrun with financial contributions. One of his aides said: "It's hard to get money when the people don't know whether he's going to run."

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actress Raquel Welch, 30, has filed a suit for divorce from her press agent—movie producer husband, Patrick A. Curtis, 36.

They were married in Paris in 1967 and separated last March 11.

Curtis, who appeared in "Gone With the Wind" as a child, was a Hollywood press agent when he met Miss Welch. The couple has no children.

Austin Lawyer Will Be Appointed Honorary French Consul In Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — A Texas lawyer whose love for France goes back to World War II will be honored by the French government next Saturday in recognition of the goodwill between that nation and Texas.

The appointment of J. Chrys Dougherty, 56, as honorary French consul will be made in ceremonies at the 131-year-old French legation, the only foreign embassy ever built here.

Texas Gov. Preston Smith will speak prior to the uncoiling of French champagne on the legation lawn, several blocks east of the Capitol.

As a way of saying thank you to France, Georges MacClenahan, consul general of France in Houston, will be made an honorary Texas.

Dougherty, a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the University of Texas in Austin, was just four years out of Harvard law school when he went to France in December of 1944 as a captain in the U.S. Army.

He knew Spanish from growing up with many Mexican-Americans in Beeville, Tex., and spent his time aboard ship teaching himself French.

Dougherty served for more than 14 months in France examining war claims paid by the French government and charged against the United States under the lend-lease agreement. He also helped in drafting the French-American claims agreement.

At the end of his service, the French government awarded him the Médaille Française in February of 1945.

Since the war, Dougherty has corresponded with friends in France and visited there for two days in 1950 and two days in 1950. He also was in Algeria in May and brushed up on his French.

He has used the French language extensively since 1957 in doing research on the international law phases of tideland litigation with the U.S. government.

Dougherty even spent his two-week vacation in Colorado recently "curled up in a corner reading a hell of a lot of French."

in preparation for his acceptance speech Saturday.

Many of his associates call Dougherty a "lawyer-lawyer," or one who thinks nothing of working 70 to 80 hours a week. On a biographical summary, he once listed his hobbies as taking photographs and studying international law.

He quit the Army reserves, he said, to devote more time to practicing law.

Members of his law firm, one of the best known in Texas, include Dan Moody Jr., son of a former Texas governor. Another partner was Ireland Graves, his father-in-law, who was related to former Texas Gov. John Ireland.

Dougherty's position as honorary consul is primarily ceremonial, but he will be the first official representative of the French government in Texas since it became a state in 1845.

France, in 1839, was the first world power to recognize the Republic of Texas, and Alphonse Dubois de Saligny, 30, a schoolmate of Prince Ferdinand, elder son of King Louis Philippe, was appointed French chargé d'affaires in Texas.

Texas historian Nancy Nichols Barker compared the job to being a second lieutenant in the Army.

She recently edited two volumes of Dubois de Saligny's letters from Texas to France. "Quite obviously," she wrote, his mission in Texas "was an inglorious failure."

The first half of his mission "had been blighted by the lamentable 'pig war,'" she noted, and the French foreign minister "had noticed disapprovingly the agent's marked preference for Louisiana as a place of residence over Texas, and his inexcusable delays in obeying his instructions."

Worst of all the stories about him, she said, was that Dubois de Saligny "had become involved in an imbroglio over a lady in New Orleans, and had gone into hiding to escape a duel with the husband, meanwhile leaving the archives of the legation unprotected in Galveston."

Dubois de Saligny described Sam Houston, first president of the Republic of Texas, as a lazy vagabond with an "immoderate passion for strong drink."

Even though Gen. Mirabeau Buonaparte Lamar, the second president, was of French descent, Dubois de Saligny called him "small, ugly, awkward, ordinary."

But it was the "pig war," and "undignified horse opera that actually led to the rupture of diplomatic relations between France and Texas," Mrs. Barker wrote.

Dubois de Saligny said pigs belonging to a hotel keeper, Richard Bullock, and others had torn down his fences and even eaten linen and destroyed papers in his bedroom. Another time, he said, the pigs frightened his horses, who wrecked his stable and nearly trampled a servant.

He ordered a servant to kill any pig that came into his courtyard, he said, and five or six apparently were killed.

Bullock wrote President David Burnet that Dubois de Saligny owed him $282.50 for back rent and medicine, and that one of the Frenchman's servants had shot or stabbed with a pitchfork 15 to 20 hogs worth $100 as they fed in an "almost open lot."

The controversy mushroomed as Secretary of State James S. Mayfield of Nacogdoches County allegedly compared Dubois de Saligny to Edmond Genet, the first French minister to the United States who tried to draw the United States into war against Great Britain and Spain. President Washington requested his recall.

Dubois de Saligny also was angered when Texas Secretary of the Treasury John G. Chalmers stood bail for Bullock after he had been brought to court.

The French charged affairs later was accused of having attempted to arouse Texans against their government, of trying to spoil negotiations between Texas and Mexico, of lobbying for the concession of millions of acres of land for his benefit and of passing counterfeit money.

(The iron printing press on which he was supposed to have printed the bogus money is still in the legation, which was restored by the Daughters of the Republic of Texas, who have had custody of the building since 1945.)

Saligny eventually was relegated to the inactive list but served in the Hague and Mexico, where, Mrs. Barker says, he "identified himself with the most reactionary religious factions and harbored clerical enemies of the Juarez regime in the French legation."

He called the Mexican chief of police a "thief and highway robber" and finally was recalled by the French government in 1864. He retired to his estate in Normandy, where he died in 1888.

Dougherty, aware of his so-called predecessor's reputation, said, jokingly, "I will be much less conspicuous."

Actually, Dougherty said, his unpaid job will be to assist the French consul general in Houston and other duties.

Dubois de Saligny also was angered when Texas Secretary of the Treasury John G. Chalmers stood bail for Bullock after he had been brought to court.

For example, he said, if a Frenchman died here, Dougherty would be responsible for taking care of his goods.

He said he envisioned receptions at his home for French students at the University of Texas. But basically, he said with a laugh, "I'll just help lost, strayed or stolen Frenchmen."

News Brief

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Jacqueline Onassis used an empty streetcar to get away from a pushing crowd following the funeral of Prince Edmund Radziwill, brother-in-law of her sister, Lee Radziwill.

Thousands of Warsawians jammed the street outside the small cemetery Saturday and forced Mrs. Onassis to walk through a potato field following the funeral.

Pursued by a jostling crowd into the field, she then turned back and slipped into an empty streetcar immobilized by the throng. Aides and well-wishers held off the crowd and told the driver to pull away. Mrs. Onassis later changed for a waiting car.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The newspaper Al Nahar reports that Egypt's government is studying the possibility of a meeting between President Anwar Sadat and President Nixon in New York next month.

The paper said in a dispatch from its Cairo correspondent Sunday that the Sadat-Nix meeting would take place, held, at the United Nations during the forthcoming annual meeting of the General Assembly.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The word fan, referring to an enthusiast over sports or other entertainment is believed to be a contraction of the word fanatic, according to The World Almanac. Before 1900 the owner of the old St. Louis Browns referred to a man as a baseball fanatic. Newspaper headline writers shortened the term to fan.

Weekly Oil Reports

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The president of the American Association of Oil Well Drilling Contractors says his industry now is dominated by contractors operating offshore and in foreign areas.

"When we say dominate, we mean dollar volume," says H. B. (Hank) Harkins.

"Presently under construction around the world are $350 million of new rigs. No one would argue that domestic land rigs under construction would represent even a small percentage of such a figure."

Harkins, a South Texas operator, plans to emphasize the new trend at his association's annual meeting later this month in Los Angeles.

"When all these rigs being built are put into service, our emphasis on the dwarfing of the domestic land rig business will be more vivid," he said.

"We plan to extend special invitations to representatives of foreign-owned drilling firms to attend the Los Angeles meeting. We also plan enlarged representation of our United States companies operating internationally."

Harkins says it seems imperative the 31-year-old association must expand to serve both the domestic and international drilling industry.

Professor Says Some Students 'Overtaught'

AUSTIN (AP) — Dr. Frank Guzak, University of Texas professor, says there is a lack of reading skills today which "suggests great problems." Some students, he said, are "overtaught and under-practiced" where reading is concerned.

Guzak, speaking at an annual "Newspaper in the Classroom" workshop, said environments should be set up whereby students can develop reading skills.

He recommended that the "boredom drive" be broken by substituting getting "hooked on books" for the use of drugs.

Guzak said the newspaper "plays a very important part in the U.S.S.R. program which promotes uninterrupted, self-sustained silent reading."

"I am concerned that the television set does the whole thing he said, 'There is a chemical reaction between printing, pictures, and kids.'"

He said students put the picture and word together thereby forming a communication.

Dallas Mayor Seeks Delay In Court Order

DALLAS (AP) — Mayor Wes Wise asked President Nixon to delay a federal court order that calls for the busing of 7,000 pupils in the Dallas School District.

U.S. Dist. Judge William Taylor refused to grant a stay to the school district Wednesday on the busing portion of his desegregation order.

"The school district has buses on order and will receive delivery in February, 1972," Wise said in a telegram to Nixon.

"To either buy buses or re-schedule the Dallas Transit buses for this short period seems a waste of money and will cause needless disruption of the mass transit system."

"The city council strongly requests you to urge the Justice Department to intervene and ask for a stay order pending final determination by the Supreme Court."

The city-owned Dallas Transit system had told the school district it did not have the necessary buses. However, Judge Taylor said that if necessary he would order the transit company to provide the buses.

Officials from the transit company and the school district huddled Thursday morning to come up with the buses-by-the-time school starts next week.

Conflict between white and black pupils over Austin's new massive busing program resulted in the arrest of at least 11 pupils at two Austin high schools Thursday.

Ten were arrested at McCallum High School in northwest Austin, where numerous fights were reported Wednesday and several minor injuries were reported. There were no arrests Wednesday.

One youth was arrested at Crockett High School in southwest Austin for "trouble-making."

Officers said eight youths arrested were white and three were black.

One Negro pupil taken into custody at McCallum carried a sawed-off pool cue studded with sharpened nails.

Officers said one white youth arrested at McCallum was trying to hide a pistol, a hunting knife and a bull whip in his car.

The confrontations at McCallum, which continued sporadically throughout the morning, began about 7:30 a.m. with the arrival of the first bus of Negro pupils from Anderson High School, an all-Negro school closed under the new desegregation plan ordered in effect this week by a federal court.

A group of about 60 white youths were separated from the 55 black pupils by football coaches Jim Acker and Dean Hosea. The two men stood between the groups and averted a clash.

Students kept gathering in groups in the halls of the school despite efforts of the faculty to keep the halls clear. Finally Principal W. A. Sloan, acting on orders from Supt. Jack Davidson, told the entire student body over the school public address system to either go to their classes or go home.

Sloan told the pupils there were enough parents and policemen available to see that this was done.

FARMERS BRANCH, Tex. (AP) — The Keenan Cemetery in Farmers Branch, started in 1843, has received a Texas State Historical Foundation marker.

The cemetery was started when John Keenan, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Keenan, founders of Farmers Branch, was buried there. He was the first child born to settlers in that area which is now Dallas County.

John Plath Green, chairman of the Dallas County Historical Survey Committee, presented the marker recently.

Criminal Justice Project Underway At Austin School

NACOGDOCHES, Tex. (AP) — Organization of a criminal justice program is under way at Stephen F. Austin State University, directed by Dr. Leonard J. Hippchen.

"We hope to have the program organized by the fall of 1972," says Dr. Harold M. Clements, head of the Sociology Department. "Dr. Hippchen will teach only one course in the fall and the rest of his time carefully planning the criminal justice program."

Although the four-year graduate curriculum stems from the Sociology Department, essentially it will be taken from all departments.

"The interdisciplinary program will be planned and designed to meet the needs of the law enforcement agencies in East Texas," Dr. John T. Lewis III, vice president for academic affairs, said. "The staff will work in conjunction with law enforcement personnel in the area."

American Legion Endorses President Visit To Peking

By MAX B. SKELTON
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — The American Legion convention endorsed President Nixon's plans to visit Red China but reaffirmed Thursday its traditional opposition to diplomatic relations with the Peking regime and its admittance to the United Nations.

The resolution recognized the Republic of China (Taiwan) as the only legitimate government of all China.

"The record shows that Communist China is still an implacable enemy of the United States and is absolutely unpromising in its attitude toward the United States and the Republic of Free China," the resolution said.

The Legionaires cautioned that any discussions with Red China must not abandon or exclude the Republic of China as a friend or lend support to any move to oust Taiwan from the United Nations. The resolution also asks that the nation's closest ties with Taiwan be kept in mind at all times if the United States is to do business internationally with the Communist regime.

In supporting the Nixon visit, the Legion asked that no concession be made in trade or otherwise that could become a vehicle for expanding Communist subversion.

Also endorsed was Nixon's Vietnamization program as the best means of ending the Vietnam conflict.

John Geiger, 46, a Des Plaines, Ill., architect, was elected national commander by acclamation. He succeeds Al Alfred P. Chamie a Los Angeles lawyer.

In 1869, Maj. John Wesley Powell completed the first exploration of the Colorado River, having traveled through the Grand Canyon by boat.

Religion In America

By GEORGE W. CORNELL AP Religion Writer

From neat Midwestern churches to Brazilian barrios to Manhattan Pentecostalism today is the fastest growing Christian movement in the world.

Some of its characteristics, especially its emphasis on becoming "filled with the Holy Spirit," have spread widely in recent years among other Protestants as well as Roman Catholics.

"A rising tide of revival is evident," says the Rev. Dr. Thomas Zimmerman, general superintendent of the Assemblies of God, the largest of many Pentecostal bodies in the United States.

It concluded its biennial general council last week in Kansas City, after hearing reports of expansion and vigor that far surpass those of most major denominations.

But the church also is reaching a stage of organizational maturity and efficiency when its leaders realize some of the earlier, unprogrammed zeal could begin to wane.

An editorial in the denomination's monthly, Advance, notes that movements go through an initial burst of energy to formal organization, maximum efficiency, then formal institutionalism and decay, adding:

"The Assemblies of God is somewhere near the optimum in the delicate balance between spiritual vitality and efficient organization."

But the ensuing stages of institutionalism and stagnation can be reversed by internal reform and renewal, the editorial adds.

It suggests that Pentecostalism may be in a decade in which it either slows to rest or moves into the beginning of a new era of greatly increased vitality and impact.

This is a time of "refreshing and heart searching and surrender to the will of God" to "bring fresh anointing... on our needy world," says Dr. Zimmerman.

A five-year "Plan of Advance" has been launched to stimulate the process.

Statistics of the 57-year-old denomination reflect its surging growth—26 per cent in the last decade to 645,891 U.S. members and another three million overseas—while many major denominations have slipped into decline.

Instead of the financial squeeze reported in many churches, the Assemblies of God has doubled its assets in the decade, with annual income up 110 per cent.

Like other Pentecostals, the Assemblies of God stresses "baptism of the Spirit," a conversion experience marked by "speaking in unknown tongues," a sign first manifest among believers at Pentecost after Christ's ascension.

There are an estimated 20 million Pentecostals in the world, their numbers increasing in many areas 10 times faster than that of larger, mainline churches, particularly in Latin America, Africa, the Southwest Pacific and in Communist Eastern Europe.

The U.S. total exceeds two million, although over-all statistics are incomplete. Started early in this century, the appeal initially was mainly among the poor and underprivileged, as it still is abroad.

But in this country, the movement now involves a big proportion of the middle class, educationally and economically, wanting spontaneity rather than theological formulas for expressing faith.

While Pentecostal groups generally have remained aloof from ecumenical organizations, some lately have joined the World Council of Churches. A recent series of talks between Episcopal and Assemblies of God scholars produced what was termed unexpected accord on most basic doctrines.

But the movement, with its added stress on inner sanctification, empowerment by the Spirit, disciplined living and commitment to winning others to the cause, displays a fervor rare in larger, older denominations.

"Research has shown that these people recruit because they are convinced they're right," says Dr. Luther P. Gerlach, a University of Minnesota anthropologist who directed a study of the movement. "They are sure of themselves."

The Weekly Message of Inspiration...

BIBLE CHURCH OF PAMPA

GOD IS SOVEREIGN

by Rev. Jonathan S. Smith

I. What is sovereignty?
The word sovereignty means rule. In English we speak of the ruler of a certain country as its sovereign.

The Bible speaks of God's sovereignty:

(1) "The Lord hath prepared His throne in the heavens, and His kingdom ruleth over all." Psalm 103:19.

(2) "He ruleth by His Power forever." Psalm 66:7.

Thus we see from our own language, plus the language of the Bible, that sovereignty means rule. What is more, we learn from the Bible that God's rule or sovereignty is total and timeless. It is total or all inclusive — "over all." It is timeless or never-ending — "forever."

II. What proves God's sovereignty?

The apostle Paul, speaking in Athens, the university and art center of his day, gave at least three separate lines of proof for God's sovereignty to the intellectuals who were there.

(1) "God, who made the world and all things in it." Acts 17:24.

(2) God, "giveth to all life, and breath, and all things." Acts 17:25

(3) God, "hath determined by previous appointment: the times (historic turning points), and the bounds of their habitation (extent, and length of rule.)" (Literal Greek translation) Acts 17:26.

The fact that God created the world, the fact that God gives life, and the fact that God by previous appointment determined the extent and length of any one and all human governments, all unite to prove His sovereignty.

III. How does God's sovereignty affect me?

Once we have grasped the Biblical view of God's sovereignty there are many practical applications. Let us suggest several:

(1) Since God is sovereign, that means the responsibilities He has delegated to me have real meaning. He can only delegate responsibility if He possesses authority to do so. Thus, my responsibility as an individual, as a member in the home, in the church, and in government takes on a true meaning because HE has given me that responsibility.

(2) I can be a true optimist about the future because God is sovereign and has already determined what that end will be. God's triumph is certain — only the time is unknown to us.

(3) Regardless of the circumstances of life, I can take them as from a wise and sovereign God Who does all things well.

(4) God's sovereignty brings rest and peace to the heart because nothing is viewed as out of His control, not even evil, though it may seem to abound.

(5) If I do not know Him, then the fact of His sovereignty brings home to me a most important truth. He has ordered all men everywhere to repent, or to have a change of mind about Jesus Christ. Jesus Christ is God's Lamb for your sin. Belief in His death for your sin indicates you have had a change of mind about Jesus Christ. Upon this basis God will save you, and you will know Him as your true Sovereign.

Harvester Meet Vernon In Season's First Game

By RICKY WRIGHT
Staff Writer

The Pampa Harvesters will face the Vernon Lions in a scrimmage game tonight in Vernon.

Pampa will be running the wishbone T this season just as last year, and the defense will have few changes. "The secondary will be running the same thing, and the line will except for a little more moving around," said Head Coach and Athletic Director Robert E. (Swede) Lee.

good defensive workout. The fullback is a large boy, weighs in at about 235, and the two halfbacks who are experienced runners. Vernon also starts a good passer, which will prove a big factor in the secondary.

Playing for the Harvesters are some knowledgeable veterans such as John Roth, Terry Braddock, Garvin McCarroll, Bobby Owens, Tibby Rogers, Randy Stephens, Dale Ammons, Al Ferguson, Jeff Hogan, Billy Lemons and Mike Reddell.

The Scrimmage will allegedly start at 8 in Vernon; so get out there and support your home town team.

Old Fashioned Aggies Are Making Football Comeback

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Aggies are taking an old-fashioned approach to the 1971 football season—they're going back to high button shoes and a simplified offense.

Shying away from the trend toward such exotic sounding offenses as Texas' wishbone T and SMU's flying wishbone, Aggie Head Coach Gene Stallings is discarding pages of his playbook in favor of simplicity.

"The offense has changed as far as its functions is concerned," said Lex James, who is coming off a bout with hepatitis to quarterback the Aggies. "It's more of a big percentage, no high risk offense. It's simplified. We'll just run the I with a split and variation."

"I'm going to quit talking about the big play," Stallings said.

"We used to depend on the big play and work for those five or six a game. Last year the big plays never came. So this year every play is important."

Another change Stallings has started this season involves the workout schedule. They'll start at 3:30 p.m. sharp. In years past, the Aggies started work as late as 5:30 p.m.

"We're not going to handicap the whole team for a few who have afternoon labs," Stallings said. "When you're late getting to eat and late getting to study, it effects the whole program."

As for the high button shoes, Aggie backup quarterback Mark Green explained the Aggies have been wearing high top shoes with lead intersoles to strengthen their legs.

Most of the Aggies are trying to forget last year's dismal 2-9 season and others are using it as a spur.

"We're trying to prove to ourselves that we weren't that bad of a team," linebacker Steve Luebbehusen said. "We haven't forgotten last year. We want to make up for last year. It was kind of a disaster."

"We just kept going down in the Southwest Conference," James said. "I lost confidence, the team lost confidence, everybody lost confidence. Now we're just trying to forget last year. I really don't like to think about it."

Football Roundup

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dallas and Baltimore, last January's Super Bowl opponents, meet in an exhibition game tonight with a desire to keep their remaining players healthy high on the priority list.

With the regular season of the National Football League just two weeks off, both teams are riddled by injury and illness.

A national television audience and other below-average crowd in Memorial Stadium will get a chance to see more rookies and fringe players than usual for this late in the exhibition season.

In the only other preseason game on tap tonight, the San Diego Chargers will visit the Los Angeles Rams. Ten more games will be played Saturday night and another on Sunday.

The Colts, who won Super Bowl V by a 16-13 margin, will play without running back Tom Matte, safety Jerry Logan and cornerback Jim Duncan, with wide receiver Ray Perkins and safety Rick Volk considered doubtful.

In addition, quarterback John Unitas remains sidelined as he continues recuperating from an operation for a torn Achilles tendon.

Earl Morrall, like Unitas in his 16th NFL season, will see most of the action at quarterback for Baltimore as Coach Dan McCafferty tunes the offense for the season opener after going 3-2 in the first five exhibitions.

Coach Tom Landry of Dallas has announced plans to use Craig Morton and Roger Staubach about equally at quarterback.

The Cowboys, 4-0 in preseason games, have lost wide

Chris Evert and Jimmy Connors Lead U.S. Open

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Chris Evert and Jimmy Connors, two lean, lanky and light-haired teen-agers, scored their first-round victories in the U.S. Open Tennis Championships with the aid of powerful two-fisted backhands. "I learned mine from Pancho Segura," said the 19-year-old Connors after he struggled for 2½ hours on the grandstand court to overcome former Wimbledon winner Alex Olmedo 2-6, 5-7, 64, 7-5, 7-5.

"My father taught me to ply two-handed when I was six years old," said the 16-year-old Miss Evert after her stunning 6-1, 6-0 triumph over Edda Buding of West Germany.

Miss Evert, the surprise in the U.S. Wightman Cup victory over England last month, made her West Side Tennis Club debut on the center court where earlier in the day top-seeded Billie Jean King disposed of a stand-in opponent in just 30 minutes and Tom Gorman conceded his match after spraining his right ankle.

Maybe Cheap Thrills Have Come Back For Houston Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — "Maybe it was cheap, but I'll take it."

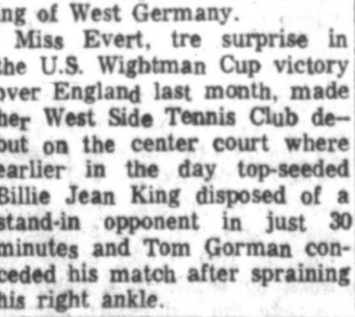

That's the way Houston outfielder Cesar Cedeno described his pop fly that wound up as a grand slam home run Thursday night to give the Astros a 9-3 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Two walks and a single had loaded the bases in the fifth inning when Cedeno popped the ball into short right.

It was estimated the ball traveled about 180 feet. Dodger second baseman Jim Lefebvre and right fielder Billy Buckner both went for the ball and collided.

The ball hit off the fingers of Lefebvre's glove, bounced into

Practice Rounds Open Top O'Texas Tournament

Practice rounds are being played today at Pampa Country Club in final preparation for tomorrow's opening of the annual Top O'Texas Invitational Golf Tournament.

The tournament runs through Monday, Sept. 6. The field for the TO'T has been filled since Aug. 11 and many names are on waiting lists if a golfer on the starting roster should have to cancel out.

The course is in great shape. The greens are in excellent condition with the fairways green and firm. Hart Warren, Pampa Country Club pro said, "We have been watering every day and every night getting the course into shape. I've mowed all our greens daily except for Sundays which amounts to a lot of work and care. We are pleased with the response being shown by everyone towards this year's tournament."

The action should advance at a rapid pace tomorrow as the defending champion, John Shepperdson of San Antonio will be facing some of the best amateur golfers in the state. Entries have been received from as far away as Louisiana.

Some of the top entrants in this year's tournament are Pamel winner Don Lackey of Borger, Amarillo's hard hitting John Zett will be playing in the two day tourney along with Texas State Amateur Champion Bill Holstead from Wichita Falls.

The number one Texas Tech Golfer Jim Whittaker will be playing and Jack Haynes, Jr. of Abilene should make impressions on tomorrow's play. Haynes has just completed a summer as caddy for professional golfer Charles Coody.

Some other top golfers entered in the TO'T are: Dick Adams and Loyd Hughes of Dallas, Dick Weston of Plainview, Scott Steiger of Odessa and John Farquhar and Gary Boeka will be playing if they fail to make the National Amateur cut.

Max Hickey is hoping he will not be able to play in the Top O'Texas because of making the National Amateur cut.

David Parker, another Pampa golfer, is planning on the upset win and his chances are good if he can manage to keep his hot streak going on the course.

Two College Boys Leading U.S. Amateur

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — A couple of steel nerved college boys, one who admits golf is his life and the other who isn't sure he wants the game as a career, led the way today into the third round of the 71st annual U.S. Amateur Golf Championship.

"I love to play golf, it's my life," said 19-year-old Eddie Pearce of Temple Terrace, Fla., after a two under par 69 and a 36 hole deadlock at 139 for the National Amateur lead.

"I don't know if I want to be a golfer; I would hate to travel every Monday," observed Jim McLean, 21-year-old Seattle native and University of Houston golfer. McLean carded five birdies and an eagle for a four under par 67 over the 6,872-yard, par 71 Wilmington Country Club course for his share of the 36 hole lead.

For Pearce, a sophomore at Wake Forest, golf has been a way of life since his dad cut a putter for him at the age of four.

"I'm going to turn pro some day," said Pearce, who posted 14 pars, three birdies and one bogey.

McLean too was weaned on golf clubs.

"I had a set of clubs when I was three," he said after posting the best score of the day in the second round of the 72 hole tournament. "I live on a golf course."

McLean is a calm, collected young man who admits to being somewhat on the phlegmatic side.

The only indication that he has another side to that cool exterior came when the name of Houston Coach Dave Williams was mentioned.

It seems Williams slighted McLean last June when he coach selected Houston's five-man team to the NCAA Championships and did not take McLean.

He indicated that he was looking for vindication by winning the National Amateur. "Winning this can prove a lot," he said.

Only seven players were under par for the 36 holes, nine even par. Sixty four qualified for the final 36 holes with the cut of 60 and ties at 152.

Trevino Troubled By Poor Practice Before Tourney

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — "Right now I'm in trouble."

Lee Trevino had just finished his play in the pro-am event, his only practice session before today's first round in the $110,000 Greater Hartford Open Golf Tournament.

"I ought to practice some, but I'm just dead tired," said Trevino, who is making his first start since an emergency appendectomy less than three weeks ago.

"It still hurts some and I can't get the club out, can't extend it, the way I want to."

"As a result I'm hooking everything. I always play a fade and now I'm hooking, so I'm in trouble here. Not much chance. Like I say, I should practice right now but I'm just too tired."

"So I think I'll go fishing," he said, and flashed a grin.

"There's nothing wrong with my fishing stroke."

Pot-Bellied Pitcher Wins For Detroit

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Billy Martin, Detroit's slender, witty manager, jokingly calls Mickey Lolich "the best left-hander pot-bellied pitcher I've got."

Lolich says, "I don't mind people saying that I'm pot-bellied or fat. People joke about it in the papers when I'm winning, but what I don't like is when I lose they sort of twist things around and make me look bad by calling me out-of-shape, a slob or things like that. I don't like that."

Lolich has not had to worry much this season about unkind remarks. Most of his press has been good. After all, he has won 22 games—only one less than major league leader Vida Blue of Oakland—and lost just 10.

Crack In Berlin Wall

"It was a sunny, warm summer day. Many people were out on picnics or excursions. It was a Sunday, the 13th of August, 1961."

Federal Republic Chancellor Willy Brandt reminisces in the West German magazine "Stern." On August 13, 1961, Brandt was mayor of a place called West Berlin.

"The mind did not want to accept what the eyes beheld," he writes. "A big military task force of the (East German) People's Army was sent into the eastern sector of the city. On the sector boundary, concrete stakes were rammed into the street, spiked chevaux-de-frise were installed, and the whole thing was linked up with barbed wire."

In the three days between the unrolling of the first stretch of wire and the laying of the first concrete block, the West, in Brandt's opinion, missed a chance to negotiate an agreement with the Soviet on the status of West Berlin and of the rights of West Berliners.

Be that as it may, after 10 years of the existence of the Wall and after recurring crises, such an agreement has at last been reached between the four one-time Allied powers of the United States, the U.S.S.R., Britain and France. "No one should forget those who have died at the Wall," says Brandt. "And no one should forget that there is still shooting at the Wall today. But protest against this should not become a moral alibi for turning one's back on responsibility for the much more difficult task: despite the Wall, of creating conditions through which the firing is ended."

The Wall will not disappear by itself, says Brandt, but only when the division of Europe, of which the Wall is the "absurd and unnatural" symbol, is ended.

The day when that division can end is still far distant, and will be so long as half the population of Europe has no voice in deciding the kind of political system it lives under.

Where We Stand On CO

Human activities, chiefly the driving of automobiles, spew some 200 million metric tons of carbon monoxide (CO) into the atmosphere every year.

That's bad? Not necessarily. Fortunately, and through no fault of mankind's, there has been no detectable build-up of CO in the world's atmosphere as a whole. There seems to be some kind of "sink" in nature which absorbs the deadly gas.

Three scientists with the Stanford Research Institute believe the explanation may lie in the metabolism of microorganisms in the soil. They conducted experiments in which sterile soil failed to take up carbon monoxide, whereas most normal soils absorbed it at an average rate of 8.44 milligrams per hour per square meter. Soil, they conclude, "must now be considered as a major natural sink for CO, that is released into the atmosphere by natural emitters or by the burning of fossil fuels."

That's good? Not necessarily. The sink does not act quickly enough to affect levels of carbon monoxide in such places as city streets or heavily traveled highways.

The scientists calculate, however, that the soil surface of the continental United States alone is capable of absorbing 569 million metric tons of carbon monoxide a year. This is more than 6.5 times the annual estimated production of CO in the United States and almost three times the estimated world wide production.

Now that's good. All animals are equal, but some animals are more equal than others. —George Orwell

Falsehoods Contribute To Snow Job

By MARILYN MANION

Where do you go to find the news? Newspapers, television, radio? Then you may not have found any real truth at all just a jumble of somebody's opinions, slickly packaged and passed off as "the facts."

A case in point is the controversial subject of What American Young People Think. You won't find out what they think by reading the papers. And you'll get a really false idea of their opinions if you believe what the press said about the White House Conference on Youth that took place this Spring in Estes Park, Colorado.

Dean Manion invited three young men who had attended this conference to talk about it over the Manion Forum microphone. The delegates were from Indiana University, and here is what one of them, John Von Kannon, had to say:

"When the Indiana delegation first arrived, students were seizing microphones to demand the resignation of the Nixon Administration. People were talking about the war in Vietnam as a racist act of aggression against the people of Vietnam. We started wondering, 'Is this really representative?' We had read polls that said that 56 percent of college students favored Nixon's policy in Vietnam."

"We found that the minority groups were over-represented at the conference by about 10 percent, and the people from the East were over-represented. No one seemed to know how the delegates were chosen. I was selected because I am a student at Indiana University. As for the other Indiana delegates, there were three members of the Job Corps, several people from Indiana high schools, and one person from Turkey who is a student at Indiana University."

"From the reports that I have read, the press was saying that conference was representative. I don't think it was. But the press went further. On Monday night of the conference there was a special meeting of the Indochina Caucus of the Foreign Relations Task Force, and they voted on several resolutions. The AP came out with a story that the delegates endorsed the Peoples Peace Treaty. Well, the facts are that only 248 out of 1,500 delegates voted on the 19 resolutions that were voted on. The Peoples Peace Treaty came in 5th, with only 69 percent of the votes. The thing that came in first was one of the resolutions that we supported that called for humane treatment of American prisoners of war, and that got 93 percent. That wasn't mentioned by the press."

Dave Tudor, another Hoosier delegate to the conference, added his comments about the proceedings: "One resolution that was passed suggested that the world population be stabilized substantially below the current levels. They didn't mention that they were going to eliminate people. Here is how part of that resolution reads: 'We resolve the world population be stabilized substantially below the current level. A steady state economy in which production of durable goods is constant should be achieved. We resolve that the world's resources should be shared equally among all people.'"

"That means that every person has an equal right to an equal amount of money whether they do nothing at all or whether they contribute a lot to their society."

David Schrist, another Indiana student delegate, told the radio audience something of the delegate makeup: "The youth delegates were made up of people 14 to 24 years of age, and there were 500 adult delegates. In my own Task Force, the youth delegates voted to deny the vote on subsequent issues to the adult delegates, yet they did grant the vote to the International delegates. There were 90 of them. Apparently they felt that an international student should have more to say about American foreign policy than an American adult."

And there you have it. A stacked conference, a prejudiced press, resulting in falsehoods labeled "factual." Don't believe anything you hear, and only half of what you see. —American Way Features

The Guy Who Was Yelling From The Grandstand

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. ORANE

Gus Jonas asked for a "smorgasbord" psychological menu when I was banquet speaker at his DPMA Ladies Night. But note the shocking comment by one of his fellow officers. Politicians are bribing continued terms in office by using our taxes to support a booming population of drones!

CASE R-553: It was to be Ladies' Night at the banquet session of central Indiana's Data Processing Management Association.

"Dr. Crane," President Gus Jonas began, "we want you to be the speaker. Our wives follow your column faithfully in the Indianapolis Star, so give us a varied talk about Human Relations."

During the dinner, I conversed with another officer of the group about the problems of operating computer machines. "Dr. Crane," he began, "we work for banks, insurance companies and factories, as well as department stores. In this age of computerized records, many firms thus call upon us to handle their vast amount of data. Recently we were asked to set up a branch office in a large southern state. And it was suggested that we should employ local people to operate our equipment."

"That seemed sensible enough, so we agreed. But to weed out the unfit applicants, we administer a standard test in advance."

"A score of 60 thereon rates a grade of 'A,' with 50 denoting a 'B' score and 40 a 'C.' The cut-off point is a score of 30 for anybody under that mark is not considered competent even to be trained by our organization. Among the applicants in that southern state were 3 graduates of 2-year Junior Colleges."

"Alas, one of them scored zero, another only 2, and the 3rd made a total score of only 4 points. So what does the Junior College diploma mean? We expect any normal senior high school graduate to approach at least the 30 cut-off mark or better!"

Debasing Diplomas This is a tragic evidence of the decay in our former competitive school system. Like other "free enterprise" organizations, our schools used to encourage rivalry for high marks. Then progressive education and "sight reading" vs. the phonetic variety, began polluting education.

Teachers were warned not to hurt the feelings of slow learners by awarding them low grades. In this coddling of the deficient, we meanwhile handicapped the bright, vigorous pupils upon whom we must depend for future development of science, business and the arts. This violates the pristine stress on "horse sense," as expressed by our Founding Fathers.

They stated that we are endowed by our Creator with certain inalienable rights, namely, life, liberty and the PURSUIT of happiness. Please note we were not guaranteed happiness itself! But many professional welfareists and politicians try to curry favor and win reelection by trying to lead the workers to support the drones. To avoid offending the shiftless.

The old term "charity" was even discarded as causing some shame, so now the welfare recipients are taught that they are "entitled" to relief checks, regardless!

And the drones are now tipping the scales in elections. Beware! Send for my booklet "How to Save Our Republic."

(Always write Dr. Crane in care of The Pampa Daily News, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

H. L. Hunt Writes

CONDITION OF THE SIXTH FLEET

Much has been said in recent months about the deteriorating condition of our naval forces. This important line of defense is being seriously neglected, while the Soviets continue to build up their own navy. For example, the U.S. Sixth Fleet, which cruises the Mediterranean, is aging rapidly. A great many of its fifty vessels were built during World War II and are thus nearly thirty years old. The equipment on the fleet is not up-to-date and replacement parts for much of the important electronic apparatus are not available. There are only 200 aircraft and 3,000 combat-ready troops.

Yet the Sixth Fleet is expected to counteract the Soviet Mediterranean naval force, only one percent of whose vessels are more than twenty years old. According to former U.S. Ambassador Henry Taylor, the high-ranking officers in the Sixth Fleet had grave doubts about its ability to defeat the Soviet Mediterranean fleet.

The strategic significance of this situation is obvious since the Soviets have been moving for some time to establish a sphere of influence in the Middle East and along the northern coast of Africa. Soviet ships are welcomed in ports in Syria, Egypt and Libya, and now have the use of the former French naval and air base near Algiers, less than 300 miles from Gibraltar. Greece, strongly anti-communist, is especially endangered by this increased Soviet strength.

Our deteriorating naval position is just one more example of our weakened defense posture. This situation must be changed for the sake of our country and other free nations throughout the world.

If war is unthinkable to us but not to them, the famous "balance of terror" is not a balance at all, but an instrument of blackmail. —Sen. Barry Goldwater

Your Health

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb

Do Not Discount Value of Faith

Dear Dr. Lamb—When I left the hospital, the doctor prescribed nitroglycerin tablets. Chest pains have been very rare, just occasional stabs at times that go away as they come. Shoulders and arm feel limp at times, as if I were punched with a boxing glove. I put a tablet under my tongue and that apparently helps out or is it my imagination?

Dear Reader—Who knows? This is one of our big problems in evaluating the effects of various medicines, or even surgical procedures. A doctor may be perfectly sure that the medicine he is giving his patient is doing a world of good when in fact it is the power of suggestion that is doing the trick.

This is why research studies are often designed so that some patients get sugar pills and others get a drug that is being tested. Even the doctor doesn't know which medicine the pharmacy gives the patient. Then, when the patient's response is evaluated and matched with which medicine he was actually getting, you can tell if it is all just in the mind or truly the effect of the medicine.

Don't discount the value of the benefit though that comes from the mind or from faith. Even the right medicine doesn't do as much for the patient who has no faith in it and is determined not to get well.

What you are describing is "angina" the type of heart pain that causes fleeting discomfort in the chest and arms. Short sharp stabs may not be angina however, but something else. Angina is relieved by nitroglycerin tablets. When one learns that certain events cause angina pain he can take a tablet before the event and often prevent the attack. Thus, if you know you will get angina by walking two blocks uphill and must do so, it is a good idea to take the pill before starting the walk.

Nitroglycerin tablets do "wear out" with age and you should be sure that you always have fresh ones available.

Another point for the many people who take nitroglycerin tablets under the tongue — if you have not had any need for tablets for several months and then start having chest pain, it is better not to take the tablet. Call your doctor instead. The onset of chest pain when you have been free of it for months can mean the start of a heart attack. Nitroglycerin tablets should not be taken if there is any possibility the pain is a heart attack or myocardial infarction. Under these conditions, the nitroglycerin tablet can cause shock and even death. Like many medicines, nitroglycerin is a wonderful aid to man but only when it is used in the right amounts in the right circumstances.

Soviet Plans For The U.S.A.

The average American owes it to his family and to himself to read the Soviet plans for the U.S. They were printed in the official Senate Document No. 48 of the 87th Congress, 1st Session. These Soviet plans are for the U.S. to surrender or die by 1975. Here they are in extracted form — proof enough for anyone to read:

SOVIET PLANS FOR THE U.S.A.—SURRENDER OR DIE BY 1975 (as extracted from official U.S. Senate Document 87th Congress-1st Session).

1) The traditional goal of Communism, the conquest of the entire world, is not only reaffirmed but is held far more strongly and hopefully than in the past. It is "unthinkable" that the Communists will abandon their goal of world domination regardless of the price they have to pay. They are willing to pay any price to attain their objective.

2) The Communists probably are honestly convinced that they are invincible.

a. because of the alleged predestination of history, b. because of their combined military-political strength, c. because of their anticipated military superiority and d. because of the anticipated demoralization of the free world.

3) Communist strategy has become more sophisticated than it was under Stalin.

4) The Communists believe that the final decision in the world struggle, and specifically the victory of world Communism, will be attained in the present era of history. In their conception, this era seems to extend to 1975, approximately.

5) Armed struggle is inevitable. Such specific forms of armed struggle as liberation wars, uprisings, and "pressure from below" also are inevitable.

6) A global thermonuclear war is not entirely inevitable. If the free world, and especially the strongest democratic countries like the United States, capitulate, then such a war may be avoided. However, while preferable, such a development is unlikely.

7) The Communist parties in the free world and their sympathizers must do everything in their power to facilitate nuclear blackmail by the Soviet Union and to prevent military resistance by the free world.

8) The Soviet Union and the Soviet bloc must not leave any stone unturned to increase their military power in order to fight the probable (albeit not inevitable) world war and to win a global thermonuclear conflict.

9) For the time being such conflict must be avoided. The turning point in history will come when the Soviet Union overtakes the United States, some time between 1965 and 1970. The great turning point in history will come when the Soviet Union, irrespective of per-capita production in industrial goods, achieves technologically superior armaments and attains a military force which, qualitatively and quantitatively, will be superior to the military forces of the United States. If necessary, this force will be employed in the second phase of the current era.

10) In the first phase, the armed struggle will mostly take the form of liberation wars and uprisings, plus deterrence by nuclear blackmail, on the part of the Soviets, of any military initiatives undertaken by the free world.

11) Also in this first phase the struggle must be intensified on the "active fronts in the underdeveloped areas." In particular, it must be pushed in Latin America.

12) In this phase, strong efforts will be made to improve the effectiveness of uprisings. Henceforth uprisings will be planned as major military undertakings. The insurgents will be properly trained and armed with strategic support and power by Soviet nuclear long-range forces under a coordinated strategy. International crises, such as threats of war and war alerts, may be exploited to launch insurrections.

13) The achievement of a military, political and psychological paralysis of the free world is a paramount objective of Soviet strategy.

14) This objective can be attained by such means as peace propaganda, Pavlovian conditioning, infiltration, threats and diplomatic negotiations.

15) Propaganda on disarmament, specifically nuclear disarmament and disarmament negotiations, are an integral part of the Soviet strategy aimed at paralyzing the free world and strengthening the power of Communism.

16) Soviet strategy is based, on the one hand, on achieving optimal military power and building and strengthening Communist political armies throughout the free world. On the other hand, Soviet strategy utilizes massive deception to bring about, through:

a. the unilateral military weakening of the free world.

b. the moral paralysis of free world governments, and c. the demoralization of public opinion, the capitulation of the United States.

17) Failing in this strategy, the Soviet intends to destroy the United States by nuclear weapons.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

"Metroliner" passenger service between New York and Washington was begun Jan. 10, 1969, making the 224.6-mile run with five stops in 2 hours, 58 minutes, averaging 75.3 miles per hour overall. U.S. Senate Investigators Checking Government Employees' Complaints

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators are checking complaints from government employees that they are being pressured into joining race relations group encounters that border on invasion of privacy.

Alice D. walked out on one such session because, she said, "it got her down to sex life and just downright uncalled-for vulgar language."

Her boss in an Agriculture Department agency insists the meetings are an earnest attempt "to carry out President Nixon's directives to end racial discrimination in government."

The official referred to the meetings as "workshops."

Although some people call them "touch and tell" or "conflict and confrontation" sessions, "We say it's sensitivity training," said a Senate constitutional rights subcommittee investigator.

"And whatever it's called, this is clearly over the line into a worker's personal privacy."

The government just doesn't have any business getting inside my head and certainly no business trying to change the way I think," he added.

Executive agency defenders of the program deny it involves formal sensitivity training. But they say the sessions are considered sensitive in the sense that they sometimes touch deeply rooted racial views.

Subcommittee Chairman Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., says it is "still not known how extensive it is in the government or the range of techniques being used by various agencies."

Complaints began coming in this year, the subcommittee staff reports, such as the case of Alice D.—not her real name.

"What they were trying to impress us with may have been necessary, which I doubt, but the way they said it was filthy," she said.

In describing a lynching, she said, "they discussed the anatomy quite frankly."

John McCormack, The Most Devoted Husband

WASHINGTON (AP) — Day after day he is there, moving silently about the modest room or slumped in uneasy sleep, that he may be near his frail, beloved Harriet.

It is the final scene of perhaps the tenderest, most enduring romance known to Washington, this vignette of John McCormack's.

In a sense, it is over already, for the doctors say his dying wife, while conscious, has slipped beyond the point of knowing him.

For 51 years they have been mates. Yet there was seldom an evening in which Speaker and Mrs. John William McCormack dined separately, and never a night in which they slept apart.

Now he is resolute that they shall not be apart at the end.

he often drops to his knees beneath the portrait of Jesus of Gethsemane, his white mane tumbling forward over his prayerful face. He is a devout Roman Catholic, once decorated by the Pope. Still, the gesture might seem odd to those more familiar with his rough and tumble reputation, his closed-door, close-crony politics, his penchant for poker and cigar smoke.

He is a man, after all, who gloried in the time-worn sobriquet "The Fighting Irishman of South Boston," and, after 4 years in Congress and eight as speaker, this lonely and serene picture of John McCormack seems strikingly amiss.

Those close to him say he harbors no bitterness in consideration of the cruel twist that hospitalized his 87-year-old wife 14 months ago just as he was about to announce his retirement from public office.

They had wanted to return to the same second-floor flat they had taken up as newlyweds in Boston.

John McCormack was only 13 when his father died and it fell to him to keep the family together. He dropped out of school, but managed to read law at night, paying an attorney $3 a lesson, and passed the Massachusetts bar at 21.

McCormack went into politics almost immediately, drumming up votes from the back of a horse-drawn peddler's wagon. He was a state senator when he met Harriet Joyce, a member of the Metropolitan Opera.

Since then he has served 21 terms in Congress.

back and give me my money," he said Monday.

District Court Judge William N. Blanton refused to temporarily restrain Selsky and his friends from picketing the dealer.

The judge said he could not see where Selsky and his friends were violating the law or were about to cause grievous harm.
