Four Perish In Brush Fire

(AP) — Four fire fighters were killed and two others injured when caught in the vise of merging flames at the edge of a two-day-old brush fire.

The towering flames engulfed the men and their three bulldozers Thursday night "in what must have been a matter of seconds," said U.S. Forestry information officer Packy Wassel. Another information officer added, "It was a firestorm and they were caught."

Wassel said the men were carrying a fire line on a ridge in the hills behind the coastal resort to try to block the eastern advance of the blaze, the state's worst this year, which has blackened more than 3,500 acres and destroyed seven expensive homes.

Wassel said embers, apparently carried by an unexpected wind, set fire to the brush-covered slopes below the men, then flashed uphill in fiery waves that came together at the ridge "like a vise's grip."

The tragedy occurred on the east corner of Santa Monica Canyon about 10 miles east of Santa Barbara and 2½ miles from the ocean.

It was described as the first mass deaths of state fire fighters since November 1966 when 14 men—four Marines and 10 firemen—died while fighting a fire in Angels National Forest.

The men caught in the inferno on the ridge were part of a 1,400-man force that by early today had 70 per cent of the fire blocked on three sides. There were no predictions of containment or control, however.

Seven homes valued at $60,000 or more burned near suburban Montecito and Summerland and seven persons were injured Wednesday night before the flames shifted east toward the unpopulated Los Padres National Forest.

The flames, fanned by dry, gusty winds, had charred 3,510 acres of scrub oak, manzanita and chaparral by today.

Joblessness Down And Employment Up In September

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment dipped slightly last month while total employment rose substantially, the government reported today.

Most of the gain, however, was among part-time workers and millions of Americans suffered a drop in weekly earnings because of a shorter average work week, the Labor Department said.

Total unemployment edged down by 221,000 to 4.8 million and the jobless rate inched down from 6.1 to 6 per cent of the nation's work force and the Bureau of Labor Statistics called it "virtually unchanged."

Total employment actually fell 1.4 million, but on a seasonally adjusted basis but on a figured it at an increase of 300,000 because it usually drops more as youths working for the summer return to school.

The report said average weekly earnings of some 45 million rank-and-file workers dropped 27 cents to $128.76 because of the shorter working hours in many industries. A drop in the length of the work week usually signifies lagging business and production.

The average pay check was $7.03, or 5.8 per cent, above a year earlier but after deduction for the 4.5 per cent in living costs over the period the gain was cut to $1.59 per week.

The bureau said average hourly earnings rose three cents to $3.48, but that this was almost entirely a technical increase because many youths with lower paying jobs quit to go back to school, thus raising average pay for full-time and part-time adult workers. The bureau said that after allowing for this technicality, average pay was figured down one cent per hour.

The bureau said, however, that the total employment in the third quarter of the year ending in September rose 520,000 to 79.2 million on a seasonally adjusted basis for a record quarterly job peak. Total employment had been on a virtual plateau over the previous year, the report said.

New Boards To Curb Wages, Prices, Rents

SELECTED FROM THOUSANDS — Mrs. Robert J. Fuxa of Pampa was the writer of one of four letters quoted on national television last night by President Nixon. She is shown here as she arrived at St. Mathews Day School this morning to deliver two of her children, Jane, four year old, and Bryan, three. Mrs. Fuxa is holding one-year-old Brand. Her letter was selected from many thousands written to the President after his wage-price freeze order of Aug. 16.

President Nixon Sets Goal Of Phase 2 Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has outlined a second-phase attack on inflation, based on wage-and-price controls and "voluntary cooperation of the American people."

There will be no ceiling on profits. But Nixon said his administration will call for cancellation of price increases that might result in profit windfalls.

The President wants standby power to control interest rates and corporation dividends—but only "as a safeguard." He will ask Congress shortly for that authority and for a one-year extension of the Economic Stabilization Act under which he froze prices, wages and rents on Aug. 15, and on which he is basing Phase 2.

He announced in a nationally televised address Thursday night that he will appoint two new quasi-independent bodies—a 15-member Pay Board with three representatives each from labor, industry and the public, and a Price Commission of seven public members to administer price-wage-and-rent controls when the current 90-day freeze ends Nov. 13.

The President's anti-inflation goal, said the White House, is to hold consumer prices to a 2-to-3-per-cent annual rate of rise by the end of 1972.

Some economists said that could mean a guideline of 5 to 6 per cent a year for average wage increases, but the White House did not confirm that estimate.

Nixon's address disappointed many who had hoped to hear from him the new guidelines for permitted wage-and-price increases. Officials explained: The guidelines don't yet exist. The new boards still must draft them.

The Cost of Living Council headed by Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally, will keep the top-level supervisory role it is exercising over Phase 1. The two new boards will be "quasi-autonomous," a White House official said, but the council can overrule their price or wage criteria if it feels they would not meet the anti-inflation goal.

Reaction to the presidential message generally was restrained. Economists said they found his battle plans encouraging but probably hard to administer. The U.S. Chamber of Commerce said the President "has done what he feels he had to do," but it called for return to "a free economy without inflation," as soon as possible.

Labor's reaction was almost nil. AFL-CIO President George Meany and many other top union leaders simply refused to comment. Even so, Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans said he is confident Meany, a persistent critic of Nixon's economic policies, will be asked to serve on the Pay Board.

Members of Congress indicated they plan some rewriting of the stabilization law, instead of granting Nixon's request for a simple extension. But some indicated there was a scarcity of Capitol Hill comment on Phase 2 because the lawmakers didn't see much to comment about.

"The President's announcement is a step in the right direction," said Sen. Edward M.

OTHER STRIKES GO ON

West Longshoremen Back To Their Work

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Dock union leader Harry Bridges has ordered 15,000 West Coast longshoremen back to work Saturday in compliance with a court order obtained after President Nixon invoked the Fair Labor Act.

A strike by 45,000 dock workers in East Coast and most Gulf ports entered its second week today and spread Thursday to Puerto Rico.

Also going into its second week today was a soft coal strike by more than 100,000 members of the United Mine Workers as negotiations continued in Washington, D.C.

The West Coast strike, the longest walkout on Pacific docks in history, has cost it estimated $1.7 billion since it began July 1. Losses in the East Coast and Gulf walkouts are estimated at $17 million daily.

Bridges, president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, sent telegrams to all 20 Pacific locals between the Mexican and Canadian borders, telling them to instruct their men to return to work with the first shift Saturday.

His telegram said the ILWU strike strategy committee voted unanimously to respect a restraining order issued here Wednesday night by U.S. District Court Judge Spencer Williams.

At the request of both union and management, U.S. District Court Judge William T. Sweigert postponed from today to Oct. 15 a hearing to convert Williams' 10-day temporary restraining order into an injunction for an 80-day cooling-off period under terms of the Fair Labor Act.

In granting his restraining order, Williams, a recent Nixon appointee, said the strike was threatening the "national health and safety" and was having a "devastating effect" on the nation's economy.

The Pacific Maritime Association, representing 120 employers, said 249 ships were tied up in 24 ports. Estimates of how long it would take to clear the cargo varied from a month to six weeks.

Bridges noted that work will be done under terms of the five-year contract that expired June 30, including the "freight station container agreement," a separate accord under which the PMA gave the ILWU jurisdiction over containerized operations. The Teamsters union also seeks jurisdiction over this work, and the PMA's refusal to renew the container agreement with the longshoremen's union was a key issue in the strike.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The 15,000 West Coast longshoremen on strike for 100 days have had some severe strains on their pocketbooks.

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union pays no strike benefits, but members could generally count on one day of work per week handling military cargo, mail and passenger vessels.

To fill the gap between their normal weekly pay, which dropped from about $150-$180 to less than $40, many bought food stamps, put their wives to work, borrowed or used their savings.

Two Dead in Highway Crash Identified as Canyon Men

Three men died Thursday morning when a car attempting to pass a truck hit a pickup truck head-on two miles west of White Deer.

Dead were Bobby Brock, 23 and Virgil Cox, 22, both of Canyon and Harold Crow, Paxton, Neb.

Cox, a bridegroom of two months, and the driver of the out-of-state car, died instantly. Brock was taken to Highland General Hospital after rescuers freed him from his pinned position in his vehicle. He died as he was being readied for transfer to an Amarillo hospital.

Brock, owner of a Canyon plumbing firm, and Cox, his employee, were east-bound when the accident occurred. The Nebraska car was headed west.

Funeral arrangements for Brock are pending with a Canyon funeral home while rites for Cox are pending in Amarillo. The body of the Nebraska man was at a Panhandle mortuary awaiting arrival of relatives.

Price To Make Three Speeches On Weekend Trip

Congressman Bob Price of Pampa, in the Panhandle for three weekend speeches, made a quick trip to Pampa last night and attended the PHS Shockers - Robert E. Lee Rebels football game.

Price was the guest of Jim Campbell who had a son playing on each team. The Rebels lost 7-0. Campbell said he remained neutral most of the game but switched to the Rebel underdogs late in the final quarter.

The congressman, he said, took a non-partisan view of the game.

Price left Pampa for Perryton this morning to take part in the Ochiltree County Soil and Water Conservation Tour.

After the tour, he was to speak in Fellowship Hall of the United Methodist Church there on farm credit needs. Price has several proposals for changes in the bill now before Congress governing operation of the Production Credit Association and the Federal Land Banks.

In Berger tonight he will speak to the Bosses' Night banquet of the Berger Desk and Derrick Club. The GOP congressman plans to discuss legislative objectives for encouragement of oil and gas exploration and encouragement of secondary recovery.

Saturday he will be in Hedley for the annual Hedley Cotton Festival.

President Quotes From Pampa Woman's Letter In TV Speech

By TEX DEWEESE

Many persons write to President Nixon to back him up or complain about this or that government policy, but not many are given public acknowledgement as was the case of a Pampa woman whose letter supporting his wage-price freeze order was read by the President on national television last night.

The letter was written by Mrs. Robert J. Fuxa, 2416 Comanche, the day after the President issued his freeze order last Aug. 16.

She had dismissed it from her mind until last night when the President broadcast Phase 2 of his economic policy to millions of radio listeners and television viewers across the nation.

Mrs. Fuxa said she did not hear it on the first broadcast at 6:30 p.m., but her mother did.

"Mother called me and said the President had just read a letter from a Pampa woman—and it sounded like me."

"She asked if I had written to him and I told her I had. I didn't hear it until a rebroadcast later last night."

Mrs. Fuxa, wife of Robert J. Fuxa, a meat grader for the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and the mother of three children, explained why she wrote the letter supporting Mr. Nixon's wage-price freeze order.

"Being an average housewife, I had been going to the markets and stores and watching prices go up and up," she said.

"Each time I would go into a food or clothing store there would be an increase of a penny or two here on food items and a hike in price on children's clothing."

She said she felt people on fixed incomes were being "eaten up" by inflation.

Then she heard the President's Aug. 16 speech freezing prices.

"What he said that night," Mrs. Fuxa said, "represented what I thought, so I wrote him a letter expressing support of the action he had taken."

She said she had written other letters to Mr. Nixon and did not always agree with him.

"But this time I thought he deserved the support of all average American consumers, so I wrote to tell him so," Mrs. Fuxa added.

She said evidence of her original feeling that the President was right in his decision had been borne out since the freeze went into effect.

"My food and clothing prices have been stabilized," she said, "and we no longer find an increase of a penny or two on items bought the week before."

Mrs. Fuxa said she is neither a Republican nor Democrat.

She prefers to describe herself as an independent voter and she doesn't know yet whether she will vote for Mr. Nixon in the 1972 election.

That decision, she said, will be based—on what happens between now and then.

Mrs. Fuxa had a busy morning today, answering telephone calls, getting two of her children off to kindergarten school and appearing on a local radio talk program.

The Pampa woman was one of four letter writers quoted by the President in his Thursday night speech.

The other three writers quoted by Nixon were identified as James L. Griffith of Waukegan, N.Y., William F. Speers of Klamath Falls, Ore., and Mrs. Virginia Jones of Woodbury, N.J.

American POW Freed By Reds

TAY NINH, Vietnam (AP) — An American serviceman, held prisoner by the Viet Cong for more than two years, was set free early today and walked barefoot to safety at an allied base camp 70 miles north of Saigon.

The man's identity was withheld by military authorities pending notification of his relatives. Senior U.S. officers said he was in fairly good physical condition although his face was "a little drawn" and his feet were cut and sore.

They quoted him as saying he reached the camp at Loc Ninh, just south of the Cambodian border, with the aid of a crude map drawn for him by his captors.

Tax-Cut Bill Facing Revision By Senate Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two powerful critics of President Nixon's tax-cut bill say its thrust should be toward increasing consumer buying power, not boosting purchase of more plants and equipment.

Sens. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma and Vance Hartke of Indiana joined two other Senate Finance Committee Democrats in announcing Thursday they'll try to revise Nixon's bill to give a bigger break to individuals.

Harris and Hartke said there already is a big idle plant capacity in the nation.

Harris urged $6 billion in tax benefits in the $15.4-billion tax cut measure be diverted to cuts in lower-income-bracket payments.

Hartke pushed for a 20-per-cent boost in Social Security benefits and a $1,000 personal income tax exemption.

They were joined by committee Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., and Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., in the call for revision of the bill.

They announced their objections to Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally as he appeared to open the committee's public hearings on the House-passed bill.

Group Of State Employees Files Suit Challenging Wage Freeze

AUSTIN (AP) — A group of state employees filed suit Thursday to do something Gov. Preston Smith couldn't break the grip of the presidential wage-price freeze on their salaries.

The suit, filed the same day President Nixon outlined Phase II of his anti-inflation program on nationwide television, alleges the government pay is not subject to the freeze.

Smith issued a proclamation August 15 saying state employees would receive the pay raises scheduled for Sept. 1. But Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin blocked the move by saying Smith had no legal authority to contravene a presidential order.

A petition filed in the suit alleges the U. S. Economic Stabilization Act—the authority for Nixon's wage-price freeze—did not apply to state governments.

Named as plaintiffs are the Texas Public Employees Association, Benjamin Knight, a Health Department employee, Vincent Ortiz, an employee of the Texas Rehabilitation Commission, Mr. Carolyn Harris, who works for the State Welfare Department, and Homer B. Johnson, an employee of the Texas Board of Control.

Defendants include the President's Code of Living Council and the U. S. Office of Emergency Preparedness, which administers the freeze.

The suit alleges that since Gov. Preston Smith signed the general appropriations bill—which includes a 6.8 per cent pay raise for state employees—June 20, the raises were in effect before Nixon froze wages and prices Aug. 15.

The measure appropriated funds for the fiscal year beginning Sept. 1.

The plaintiffs seek a court order that the appropriations bill is "unaffected by the wage and price freeze."

"The outcome of this action will have a vital impact upon the living standards of some 63,000 employees of the state of Texas," according to the petition.

The suit alleges that applying the freeze to the state of Texas is "contrary to law, for the reason that the Economic Stabilization Act and the regulations promulgated thereunder, are not applicable to the states as a matter of law."

World Is House Being Remodeled While Occupied

RAY BAXTER NEWS STAFF WRITER

"Living in the world today is like living in a house while you are remodeling."

This was Dr. John Furbay's terse description of global conditions for the first Kite and Fork Club meeting of the new season.

Dr. Furbay had been "billed" as an authority in this area since he had circled the globe 33 times and had worked in every country in the world but one — Red China. G.K. Reading, in his introduction of the guest speaker, told the packed dining room Forbay's travels made Marco Polo and the legendary Gulliver "come on like pickers."

The speaker warned his listeners at the outset that the person who thinks all the news is in the headlines does not realize he is living in the most exciting age the world has ever known. His point was illustrated with the focus today on Viet Nam. He said it obscured the fact that more of the world is at peace today than at any other time in history.

He also noted that news emphasis on riots, strikes and turmoil we are experiencing clouded the truth that the United States is the most imaginative — most creative — most productive nation in the world. He noted the health or sickness of a person or nation is not measured by the problems they have but the way they are met.

He confessed to being a revolutionary, but not of the spurious type carrying signs and burning buildings. He cited the revolutions in agriculture, medicine and transportation as fields in which his revolutionary friends were concerned. He noted that, until this present generation, man had not come up with anything that could beat the horse.

Sam Houston, new home of the combined Fourth and Fifth Armies. The money stays with Ft. Sheridan. The House had objected to the transfer.

—Ft. Bliss, El Paso. Conferees agreed to accept amendment transferring 20 acres of Ft. Bliss to the Texas National Guard in exchange for 18.4 acres adjacent to the base. No money is involved.

—Ft. Hood, Killeen. Approval of $4.8 million for tactical equipment shop and facilities. The House had deleted the funds.

Not disputed, and in the final bill is the largest Texas project, $18.6 million for an uncompleted men's barracks at Ft. Hood.

—Brooks AFB, San Antonio. Rejection of $2.8 million for a Human Resources Research Laboratory. The House had objected to the funds. Senate conferees won insertion of language promising that Congress would provide these funds next year.

House-Senate Conferees Approve $77 Million Texas Base Projects

WASHINGTON (AP) — Construction projects costing $77 million at Texas military bases were approved Thursday from House and Senate conferees.

They discussed only the items on which both houses had not agreed.

These details were given by Sen. John Tower of Texas, who headed the Senate's Republican conferees group.

—Goodfellow Air Force Base, San Angelo. Approval of $2.2 million for a cryptology laboratory. The House had approved the money but the Senate had objected to the request.

—Verona. Maintenance Corps. Approval of $4 million for two turbine engines, test cells and $4 million for a pipe and paint shop. The House had cut out the test cell authority and had trimmed a $3.3 million shop request to the $4 million accepted.

—Randolph AFB, San Antonio. $257,000 request for a non-destructive inspection facility was rejected. A similar request for a $250,000 facility at Laredo AFB was approved. The House had deleted both projects.

40 Boston Area Meat Inspectors

BOSTON (AP) — Forty government meat inspectors in the Boston area are under indictment on charges of bribery, conspiracy and perjury in an alleged scheme to give meats better grade ratings than they deserved.

The indictments returned Thursday in U.S. District Court after an investigation which began in 1969, include a charge that one inspector took $54,500 to $70,500 in bribes.

U.S. Atty. Herbert F. Traverser, Jr., who outlined the indictments, said there was no allegation that unwholesome meats were allowed to reach the consumer. The inspectors allegedly took bribes to put higher quality grades on meat products.

In addition to the 40 inspectors, three meat processing companies and six company officials in the Boston area were indicted on the same or related charges.

The punishment for bribery begins at fines of $1,000 to $10,000 plus one to three years imprisonment and discharge from office. It goes up to fines of $20,000 or three times the value of the amount received, whichever is greater, and imprisonment up to 15 years.

For conspiracy the punishment on conviction for a felony can be a fine of $10,000 or five years imprisonment or both.

Agriculture officials in Washington said the bribery charges involved in part the payment of overtime claimed by the inspectors.

dividends. And while the Phase 2 controls will be backed up by the strong court-enforcement provisions which have prevailed during the freeze, Nixon said, "We will rely primarily on the good faith and voluntary cooperation of the American people."

"But we will not hesitate to take action against any part of the economy that fails to comply," he added. Another top official said privately: "We think the possibility of sanctions is the thing that makes voluntarism work."

The price-wage control plan will, in effect, divide the economy into three segments. Each will be subject to a varying degree of control, the government will announce standards before Nov. 13, so that each company and union will know its category.

Business and unions that officials consider "of critical importance" would have to give advance notice of proposed wage-or-price increases. The board or commission would have power to reject, approve or delay the increase. There would be no appeal to the Cost of Living Council.

Some other firms and unions would be required to file prompt reports of increases, but not in advance. The board or commission would review them and could order action if it feels they violate the standards.

A third group—the great bulk of businesses—will be subject only to spot checks, less frequent reporting, and the investigation of complaints.

The Internal Revenue Service will continue to be the main enforcement agency. Two small auxiliary committees will operate in special fields. They are: —A Committee on the Health Service Industry, to devise ways of slowing the long and rapid rise of doctor and hospital bills and other medical costs.

—A Committee on Interest and Dividends, to be headed by Chairman Arthur F. Burns of the Federal Reserve Board, to administer continued restraints on interest rates and dividends—voluntary curbs, but backed up, if Nixon's plan is supported by Congress, by standby power to impose ceilings.

Economist John Kenneth Galbraith, who has long advocated stiff price-and-wage ceilings, called Nixon's plan "not bad on the whole" but criticized the absence of profit controls.

Walter W. Heller, a former chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, said, "The President will have to go to the mat with violators" if the plan is to succeed.

The National Association of Manufacturers pledged "the wholehearted cooperation of the industrial community" to Nixon's anti-inflation effort.

Four Letters Read By Nixon During Speech

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Virginia Jones missed hearing President Nixon read parts of her letter to him during his network television announcement of economic plans. She was busy listening to her boyfriend-propose marriage.

Mrs. Jones, a widow who lives in Woodbury, N.J., was one of four persons whose letters was quoted by the President Thursday night in his speech on Phase 2 economic policy.

She told newsmen later that she had been set to watch the President when her boyfriend, George Krajewski, offered her a diamond ring. She accepted.

Mrs. Jones, 42, a high school teacher and mother of two teen-aged sons, said she wrote the President "I would be losing about $100 a month because of the freeze. But I am willing to sacrifice that $100 if it is for the good of the country."

Mrs. Jones, a political independent, said she also wrote to AFL-CIO President George Meany and Texas Gov. Preston Smith, chiding them for criticizing Nixon's wage-price freeze.

"I told them it was a shame they didn't give Nixon a chance to see if the freeze would work," she said. "I thought he really had something good in mind and I wanted to give him a chance to see if it worked."

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Bobby's case shows the value of early training in good music. Shakespeare said that the person who hath no music in himself is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils! So encourage your child to play some musical instrument. Rarely do musicians become criminals or school dropouts!

CASE R-583: Bobby Speaker, aged 9½, intrigued my interest. It was on a Sunday last Spring when I had delivered the address from Dr. William Thompson's Presbyterian pulpit at Indianapolis.

At noon we drove to the delightful Hansel and Gretel restaurant for dinner.

Bobby was seated at the organ, playing for the assembled diners.

He isn't very large for his age. And to see a boy operating the various keyboards of an organ and moving his feet around so skillfully on those many pedals, astounded me.

"Who is the organist?" I asked.

"So I was promised an introduction to Bobby after our dinner was over.

We went over to the organ where Bobby graciously acknowledged the introductions to Mrs. Crane and me.

But meanwhile he kept playing, without any interruption. He even turned halfway around on the organ seat to talk to Mrs. Crane, but his nimble fingers raced across the various keyboards without missing a note.

"Bobby," I asked, "how often do you come here to entertain the dinner guests with your music?"

"Well, Dr. Crane," he replied, "I usually am here only on Sunday but a few times I have played during the week."

Later we learned that Bobby regards this Sunday organ task as a happy diversion.

For he may dine for a little while on the soup or salad course and then stroll back to the organ for a few minutes of music. So I complimented him sincerely on his unusual hobby. And reminded him of John Erskine's remark, namely: "Music is the only language in which you cannot say a mean or sarcastic thing."

There is also an old Scottish proverb that says: "Everything will perish save love and music." And Auerbach has neatly stated: "Music washes away from the soul the dust of everyday life."

But my primary purpose in citing Bobby's musical skill is to contrast him with the lazy modern hippie guitar strummers who learn a few chords in an hour and then try to compose innat lyrics to accompany them.

Obviously, such juvenile attempts at music will fade rapidly. Like many of the salacious "best sellers" among novels, they will be forgotten within 5 years. For those permanent contributions to art, music, literature and science, must be the product of many years of diligent study and toil.

Beethoven and Bach, Chopin and Wagner, didn't attain fame from merely an hour's drill on 3 or 4 chords played on a guitar!

True musicians should take heart, for juvenile music will not last. And a reversion to jungle rhythms may please those of low I.Q. but will soon disappear, like the miniskirt and other bizarre fashions.

Sigmund Freud, father of psychoanalysis, said he won world acceptance of his new medical innovation just by "outliving my opposition."

In Chapter X of my college textbook, "Psychology Applied," I describe the psychological experiments that proved the greater lasting qualities of good music.

Both types were played over and over (25 times) and the observers suffered less boredom or dislike from classical than from the jazz records.

So encourage your kiddies to produce good music!

ATLANTIC BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Julie Nixon Eisenhower has returned to her apartment here to greet her husband, a Navy ensign who returns today, after a 2½-week training cruise aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Albany.

David Eisenhower is stationed with the Albany at the nearby Mayport Naval Station.

While her husband was on the Caribbean exercise, Mrs. Eisenhower was recovering from a broken toe suffered when a book cart toppled at the Atlantic Beach Elementary School a month ago.

Mrs. Eisenhower, who had planned to teach at the school, resigned the position after the accident, but she later became a voluntary teacher's aide and tutor.

Far from Home waters, a Soviet advanced antisubmarine helicopter, above, hovers over the calm mid-Pacific off Hawaii. Below, the 'copter's base—a guided missile cruiser of the modern Kresta class. 'Assassination Of Christ' To Be Theme Of Movie

ROME (AP) — Film director Franco Zeffirelli, shifting from romantic to spiritual themes, plans a work called "The Assassination of Christ" to follow a life of St. Francis.

"The time is ripe for a factual film on the death of Christ, from Palm Sunday to Crucifixion," he says. "Let's forget about religion for a while and try to explain Christ, the man."

To Zeffirelli, Christ's death was "a political assassination of a very powerful man who became too disturbing to those in power."

The film will be in black and white. Zeffirelli has summoned an international jury of Biblical experts to go through volumes of conflicting material. They are to try to come up with a script.

"If there is no agreement on what happened to Christ," Zeffirelli says, "Then we will show the different versions. The main thing is the inquest, in a documentary form rather than in a glorified style."

The director shot to fame with "Romeo and Juliet," which grossed over $25 million on an investment of $1 1/2 million.

But the 45-year-old director says he is through with such films because romantic films are through.

"Love Story," he says, "was the beginning of the end for romance and cinema. This decade should be one of spiritual reawakening—of Jesus revival and long-haired youths who may look like hippies but are probably more like saints deep inside."

"This is the trend—and not even a movie director should ignore it."

His current film on St. Francis, called "Brother Sun, Sister Moon," portrays the saint as a dropout. Like many of today's young people, he had problems of identity and found fulfillment in "spiritual things," Zeffirelli believes.

Smith Asked To Call Special Session To Remove Mutscher

AUSTIN (AP) — Members of the "Dirty 30" House coalition urged Gov. Preston Smith Thursday to give them a method of removing Speaker Gus Mutscher, by calling an immediate special session of the legislature.

Smith was noncommittal.

"I will take the matter under consultation later with those who represent me legally," Smith said.

"Can you give us any idea when we might have some reply?" asked Rep. Tom Moore of Waco.

"Our legal people are here and we will meet with them this afternoon," Smith answered.

Meeting with Smith in the governor's reception room were Moore and Reps. Lane Denton of Houston and Dave Alired of Wichita Falls.

They handed Smith a letter saying the "reputation of our government is at stake" because of Mutscher's indictment by the Travis County grand jury on bribery charges.

"Before any confidence can be restored, we feel that some decision must be made about the speakership of the Texas House of Representatives," the letter said.

The group also presented a list of 41 House members and three senators whom they said had sent letters or telegrams endorsing their plea for a special session.

The "Dirty 30" is a coalition of Republicans and liberal Democrats, who have opposed Mutscher and called for what they call "reforms" in House rules.

Airport police used force to herd the blacks—3 men, 5 women and 10 children—onto a KLM jet en route to New York, the state radio said.

They arrived Wednesday and were held at Lod International Airport overnight following an Interior Ministry decision to refuse them entry.

A ministry spokesman said the blacks were turned away because they are not bona fide tourists... they have no money and would be a burden on the state.

"Our policy from now on is to turn away any tourists who have no visible means of support... not only blacks, but others as well." The spokesman noted that several persons from England and West Germany had also been barred recently.

The leader of the robed and turbaned blacks, who identified himself as Kolahyah—"the voice of God"—said his group wanted immigrant status.

Kolahyah, a 27-year-old community worker from the Chicago-area who refused to give his English name, claimed he had $2,500.

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israel today deported 18 self-styled "black Israelites" from the United States who had demanded "to live in the country of our forefathers."

the dolls known as Kewpies were the rage of the country. And like so many other mementoes of America's crowded past, in the current craze for nostalgia, the Kewpie is coming back. Texas-Oklahoma Students, Fans And Friends Will Intermingle In Dallas' Annual Riot

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — You can feel it in the air almost. The annual fall mania is about to descend on Dallas. Police tighten their belts and turn grim. Storekeepers board up windows. Street sweepers set their alarm clocks hours earlier. For this is the eve of the Texas-Oklahoma football game at the Cotton Bowl, otherwise known as the night of the scheduled riot in downtown Dallas. Happens every year. Police Chief Frank Dyson says there isn't going to be any riot this year. Chiefs before him have said the same. Still, it sure does look like a riot, although generally no one is hurt and property damage doesn't amount to much. What happens is that several thousand young people begin jamming into the intersection of Akard and Commerce at sundown, and start parading, drinking, shouting and otherwise upsetting sober-sided people. Not long after, police begin hauling some of the more outstanding celebrators to the jail. The affair started as a genuine football pep rally years ago—no one recalls how far back. Students and the exes celebrated, largely by voice and bottle. This was when the Adolphus and Baker Hotels, which face each other at the intersection, were about the only big convention centers. In the last decade or so, the schools' celebrations have moved elsewhere, largely to small private parties all over town. And moving right in behind the students as fast as they moved out were other persons, largely high schoolers. Annual figures on arrests—largely for being drunk and disorderly—difficult to pin down.

The figure the morning after was 650 arrests last fall. Officers later scaled this down to 408. Of this number, only 25 were students at Texas and 12 from the University of Oklahoma. The remainder were from other colleges and high schools, police said. Chief Dyson has organized more than 700 officers to keep the peace. They comprise uniformed policemen, detectives, state patrolmen, and deputy sheriffs. The arrestees will be shuttled to Tommand posts and then to jail. Around noon Saturday, the last one will have passed through the courts, paying a fine or making bail. Rarely is anyone injured in the affair, although by midnight the intersection is ankle deep in broken liquor bottles and beer cans. By the time the sun begins peeping over the horizon, the street sweepers have disposed of all evidence that here thousands celebrated.

U.S. Diplomats Believe Russia Has Motive In Troop Cut Talks

BRUSSELS (AP) — U.S. diplomats believe the Soviet push for a European security conference may be a propaganda move aimed at strengthening Moscow's position in Eastern Europe. The Soviets have agreed to talk troop cuts with America and its allies and proposed a security conference as the forum. But the diplomats believe the Kremlin may have an ulterior motive: gaining international recognition for the Communist government of East Germany and maintaining the division between East and West. Their argument runs like this: The Soviets have been pushing for a European security conference since 1967. They have suggested two subjects for discussion—renunciation of the use of force and better economic cooperation. U.S. diplomats see little importance in either topic as a way of keeping the peace in Europe. All members of the United Nations have renounced the use of force by signing its charter. West Germany, which is not a member, has done the same in its pending treaty with the Soviet Union. Economic cooperation between East and West is going ahead about as fast as it can. It is limited primarily by the lack of anything much in the Soviet Union or Eastern Europe that the West wants to buy. Read The News Classified Ads

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Harvard President Derek C. Bok says he favors admitting more women to the university but fears "serious adverse alumni sentiment" if there were a substantial reduction in the number of male freshmen to make room for women. Bok said in a policy statement Tuesday the university could suffer financially. In his statement, Bok proposed a compromise under which the Radcliffe freshman class would be increased from 300 to 450 and the number of incoming men be reduced from 1,175 to 1,150. The goal, he said, is a 2½-1 ratio of men to women instead of its current ratio of 4-1. St. Paul, Minn. (AP) — A 12-year-old St. Paul girl, barred from her school swimming team for a second year, has filed a complaint with the St. Paul Human Rights Department, alleging she is being discriminated against because of her sex.

Kathryn Stiebel, a student at Murray High School, alleged the rejection violated a new city ordinance requiring equal treatment for men and women in education, employment, housing and public accommodations. Her mother, Dr. Charlotte Stiebel, an associate professor of mathematics countersigned the complaint. Minnesota State High School League rules limit participation in interscholastic sports to males.

U.S. Asks North Viets To Supply Information On American POWs

By DAVID MASON
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) —The United States asked the Vietnamese Communists today to supply information on the number of American prisoners known to be dead.

U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter made the request at the 11st session of the Vietnam peace talks.

"Surely you can provide without harm to yourselves information concerning those of our men you know to be dead," Porter said. "Are you disposed now to say how providing this kind of information could possibly harm you?"

Recalling last Monday's unanimous vote by the U.S. House of Representatives demanding human treatment of American prisoners and immediate repatriation of the sick and wounded, Porter called on the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong to give the resolution "your most careful consideration."

There was no immediate reaction from the Communist side.

Last December, the North Vietnamese issued a list of 339 prisoners they hold. They also included the names of 20 who had died. The United States feels the listings are short of reality. About 1,360 Americans are listed by Washington as missing in Southeast Asia, mostly in North Vietnam.

Porter called on the Vietnamese Communists to bring "a peaceful dialogue with your fellow Vietnamese for the benefit of your people. If you can bring yourselves to that, it would rekindle the hopes of all men of goodwill in the future of these talks."

While agreeing to sit at the same conference table with the South Vietnamese, the North

Net or gross? he was asked. He grinned. "I guess what you're getting at is that we used to use the same formula before people had big deductions for taxes, Social Security, insurance and so on," he said.

"How much life insurance should a person own?" an insurance agent was asked.

"How can I say without knowing the individual," he replied. "But as a rule of thumb he should have a minimum of four to five times his annual income."

"The fallacy of such a generalization, as the insurance man knew, is that a young family may need more than that and a retired couple less, and that a family with few debts may need less than the family with a mortgage on the house."

"How much should a family have in savings?" a banker was asked.

"Twenty-five per cent of net income," he answered.

Vietnamese and Viet Cong insist on dealing with the United States in seeking an end to the war. They constantly write off the South Vietnamese as "U.S. puppets."

The conference session turned largely around assessments of Sunday's presidential elections in South Vietnam. In which President Nguyen Van Thieu running unopposed claims he received a 94.3 per cent vote of confidence.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegates blasted the elections as a "horrible farce" and "a hundred per cent impudent deception."

Porter told the Communists that they claimed that the South Vietnamese were "fiercely resisting" the elections, and asked: "Who were all those people who voted? Since you usually don't like to answer questions, I will: They are the great majority who once again did not bow to your threats." Nguyen Minh Vy, deputy chief of the North Vietnamese delegation, asserted the South Vietnamese election and the recent U.S. bombing of North Vietnam illustrated the failure of Vietnamization. He urged the United States to accept the Communists' peace proposal as "the only logical way out of the war."

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Bill XVII, the 9-year-old, white-haired goat who had served as naval academy mascot since 1963, has died.

Cause of death was not immediately determined, but Bill's last two predecessors succumbed after munching on grass laced with weed killer.

Bill's successor is King Puck, an 8-year-old jet-black native of Ireland who was donated by the Class of 1927. A goat has been the academy's mascot since 1893.

Alaska state government also would be jeopardized, for its annual budget now relies heavily on the money it received for the oil leases and its future plans anticipate rich royalties from North Slope production.

Alaska Gov. William A. Egan said Wednesday "there is no question in the state's mind that tentatively approved land is legally tantamount to final approval."

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Lydia and Thomas Dowell have marked their 76th wedding anniversary.

They grew up together in Breckinridge County, were childhood sweethearts and got married in 1895.

Family and friends gathered for an anniversary dinner party Monday.

A daughter, Dora Schultz says they love to eat out, and like any kind of food, unless it's too spicy.

"Daddy hasn't seen a doctor in eight years and last time he went in was for a checkup," says Mrs. Schultz.

The Dowells have the same birthday, Nov. 12. He will be 88 this year. She will be 94.

Eskimos Lay Claim To Oil Field Already Leased To Private Firms

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alaskan Eskimos have laid claim to the entire 76,000-square-mile North Slope of their state, including 413,000 acres of oil field already leased to private companies by the state government for almost $1 billion.

In a suit filed here Tuesday, the Arctic Slope Native Association asked the U.S. District Court to invalidate the state government's claim to North Slope land and the Interior Department's approval of the state land selection there.

"All leases, sale, conditional leases and conditional sale made under the authority of such tentative approvals are invalid," the suit said.

In addition to the $912 million oil companies paid the state for their North Slope leases, the companies have invested millions more in exploration and initial development.

Furthermore, a group of seven oil companies in partnership as the Alaska Pipeline Service Co. has been seeking Interior Department permission to build an 800-mile pipeline across Alaska at a cost of $2.5 billion to help bring North Slope oil to market.

If the Eskimos' claim to the land is upheld in court, the

Business Mirror

NEW YORK (AP) — The most automatic and unrealistic rules under which people conduct their financial affairs are the rules of thumb. Like folk-lore medicine, such rules offer some help but often fail the big test.

While the origins of some rules of thumb may be self-serving, many people adhere to them as they would hold to a life preserver. As they explain, "They may be poor guides, but what else do we have?"

A banker was asked for a rule of thumb on how much mortgage debt a working person could assume. Quickly he replied: "Two and one-half times his income."

Net or gross? he was asked. He grinned. "I guess what you're getting at is that we used to use the same formula before people had big deductions for taxes, Social Security, insurance and so on," he said.

"How much life insurance should a person own?" an insurance agent was asked.

"How can I say without knowing the individual," he replied. "But as a rule of thumb he should have a minimum of four to five times his annual income."

"The fallacy of such a generalization, as the insurance man knew, is that a young family may need more than that and a retired couple less, and that a family with few debts may need less than the family with a mortgage on the house."

"How much should a family have in savings?" a banker was asked.

"Twenty-five per cent of net income," he answered.

"Impossible," the questioner replied. "Any family capable of saving that much each week or month or year is either performing a miracle or unnecessarily depriving itself of the finer things of life."

"You must remember," he explained, "that I define savings not simply as an account at the bank but additions to the cash value of insurance, increases in home equity and the build-up of pension values."

"That's still a lot," he was told. "How much of that should be in liquid savings, such as savings accounts and savings bonds?" he was asked.

"Probably one-third of the total," he said, which might sound right to a banker but seems an astonishingly high figure to millions of Americans.

Another rule of thumb for savings: You should have savings equivalent to six months of income. Such an amount is needed, it's said, in order to assure yourself of a minimum standard of living in case of job loss or other emergencies.

Now Many Areas In Texas In Need Of Dry Weather; Rains Cause Damage To Crops

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — In an ironic twist, most of the state is in need of dry weather so that harvest operations and small grain planting can resume at a normal pace, says Dr. John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Fields are wet in many areas and heavy rains have damaged the winter vegetable crops in South Texas, he said. However, some sections of East Texas still need moisture.

Cotton continues to battle weather conditions across the state. On the plains, the crop is maturing slowly due to cool, wet weather. In west central areas, some farmers are shredding the crop since it has produced all stalk and no bolls due to continued wet weather over the past two months. Boll weevils and bollworms also continue to inflict damage on the cotton crop in many areas, Hutchison said.

Yield prospects for grain sorghum, corn and soybeans look good on the plains and small grain prospects are good over much of the state. Some pecans are beginning to fall and the crop is expected to be light, he said. The brightest note on the agricultural scene appears to be the range and livestock conditions, noted Hutchison. Ranges are in top condition in western areas and cattle prices are at their highest level in several years.

District agricultural agents report the following conditions in their respective areas:

PANHANDLE: Scattered showers have delayed farm activities. Wheat planting is 50 to 90 percent complete. Corn and dryland grain sorghum are being harvested. Some cotton is beginning to open but warm weather is needed. Soybeans are also beginning to mature. Hay harvesting will continue as weather conditions improve. Livestock are in good condition and are beginning to move to wheat pastures. Stocker calves are moving into the area with moderate to heavy death loss of light calves.

SOUTH PLAINS: The recent cool, wet weather is bringing on early defoliation of the cotton crop in northern portions. The crop is in dire need of warm, sunny weather to reach maturity. Wet weather is delaying the harvest of grain sorghum and soybeans. Yield prospects for both crops are generally good. Small grains continue to make excellent progress, and livestock and ranges are in above average condition.

ROLLING PLAINS: Showers brought up to two inches of rain to the district and field work has been limited. Cotton is opening slowly and is being damaged by the cool, wet weather and by boll weevils and bollworms. Small grain plantings range from 5 to 75 percent complete with early growth being good. Guar prospects are also good.

2 Pampa Youths Join WTSU Fraternities

Two WTSU students from Pampa have given up independent status by joining fraternities on campus at West Texas State University in Canyon.

Jeff Haas, freshman, son of Mr. and Mrs. E.W. Haas, 1048 N. Wells, has pledged the Kappa Alpha Order.

Michael Cooper, freshman, son of Mrs. Betty Cooper, 1145 Terrace, has joined Lambda Chi Alpha. To be eligible for pledging these national fraternities, men students must have a minimum "C" average.

good. Ranges are in excellent condition over much of the area.

NORTH CENTRAL: Heavy rains of up to six inches caused some flooding and brought field work to a standstill. Harvesting of cotton and small grain planting will resume as fields dry. The early planted small grain crop is making good progress but armyworms are causing some damage. Hay baling and the application of fertilizer will also be major farm activities when weather conditions improve.

NORTHEAST: Moisture is generally short over the district with more rain needed for pastures and ranges. Wheat is up to a good stand. Hay baling is continuing and some corn is being harvested. The cotton crop is short with below average yields. The potato harvest is in full swing and some pecans are beginning to fall. There is a heavy movement of calves to market.

FAR WEST: Rains continue to hamper harvest operations. However, ranges and pastures are in the best condition of many years, and livestock will go into the winter in excellent condition. Irrigated small grains will provide some grazing as fields dry. Pecans are beginning to open and dry weather is needed to harvest the crop. Calves and lambs continue to be marketed.

WEST CENTRAL: Prospects are dim for the cotton crop. Boll weevils are present in large numbers and some farmers are shredding their crop which is all stalk and no bolls. Armyworms are damaging some small grain crops and some hay has been damaged by recent rains. Pecans are beginning to open with prospects for a light crop. The peanut harvest will get into full swing as weather conditions improve. Rangelands are in near perfect condition in some sections and cattle prices are the highest in several years.

Antique Toys Reproduced In Sears Catalog

The "Sears, Roebuck and Co. American Toys" recently donated to the Smithsonian Institution, is the inspiration for four pages of antique toy reproductions in the company's Christmas catalog, according to Aaron Penland, local Sears manager. The book is now being distributed to 13 million families across the nation.

The eight reproductions of yesterday's vehicles are hand-crafted, cast-iron replicas of the originals, which date from about 1870 to 1900. They are being offered to toy and antique collectors in a limited edition — only 250 copies of each will be sold. Toys from the original collection will be displayed by the Smithsonian in Washington, D.C., and major cities around the country, the company said.

The 1971 "Wish Book" opens with 180 pages of toys, including the new "Wonder of Growing" for children up to age three, a 26-piece collection of colorful, inventive educational playthings designed by the late Dr. Esther P. Edwards of Tufts University. Also new this year is "Gramma," a grandfather doll who joins the "Gramma" collection.

varieties just beginning to hull. About 50 per cent of the small grain crop is planted with some early plantings being damaged by armyworms.

EAST: Hay making continues and winter pastures are being planted for grazing. Small vegetable gardens are now in production but need rain. Insect damage is also heavy. Pecans are beginning to fall but some scab damage has dampened crop prospects. Pastures are in average condition and armyworms are causing some damage. Livestock are in fair to excellent condition but stock water remains low in many sectors.

SOUTH CENTRAL: Rains fell over most of the district during the week and soil moisture is generally adequate. However, the wet weather has damaged some crops and has delayed vesting is finished. The peanut harvest will begin soon in most areas although in Waller County the crop is 80 per cent harvested with good yields. The first crop of rice is in and the second cutting is expected to get underway soon. Hay baling continues and land is being prepared for winter pastures. Livestock are in good to excellent condition.

SOUTHWEST: (a new district with headquarters at Uvalde): Heavy rains have fallen over much of the area and soil moisture is generally adequate. Small grains are making good progress and ranges and pastures are in good condition due to recent rains. Heavy rains have damaged some winter vegetables and have prohibited planting in other areas. Peanuts will be ready for harvest as field conditions improve.

SOUTH: Soil moisture continues to be surplus in this area of the state. Many winter vegetables have been damaged by heavy rains and planting has been hampered due to wet fields. The citrus crop is in generally good condition although some groves are being damaged by standing water. Ranges and pastures are providing above average grazing. Mosquitoes continue to be a nuisance to both people and livestock.

Dear Abby

By Annal Van Curen

DEAR ABBY: You probably think I am putting you on, but I swear this is true. My wife can predict the weather better than any weather forecaster you ever heard of. No matter what the weatherman says, Dolly will say, "well, we are going to have rain tomorrow," and sure enough we have rain!

Dolly not only predicts rain, but she can tell you if there is going to be a change in the weather 24 hours in advance. She says when her collarbone aches (it was broken once) it means we are going to have a change of weather, and when her ears start to hurt it means we will have rain or snow.

The guys who forecast the weather on the television are wrong every once in a while, but my Dolly's predictions are never wrong. Tell me, Abby, is she just a good guesser of an I married to some kind of witch?

predict the weather accurately by their aches and pains.

DEAR ABBY: We sent our children to a Christian camp about 70 miles from home. They were there for one week, but here is the problem. While they were there, their uncle went to the camp and took them out for an evening without asking us first. Well, I told him that I thought he had a lot of nerve to take our children out of camp without our permission and now his whole family (except my husband) are up in arms because I rebuffed this uncle.

Was I wrong or was this uncle?

MAD IN MAINE
DEAR MAD: Unless you disapprove of this uncle, or have good reasons to believe that your children would have been better off in camp, I think you are needlessly over exercised.

PARTY IDEAS

New Ideas for Tailgate Party

FALL MEANS football, and traditionally, football means tailgate parties and friends. For an interesting kick-off to the new season, host the first tailgate party of the year with a "New Faces, New Food" theme.

Most of us have a regular group of friends we see at each game, but they old classmates or friends from the "copation." This year, get the season off to a roaring start by inviting 3 or 4 couples from your regular circle of friends, asking each to bring another couple they think you might like to meet. The informal setting is perfect for meeting new and interesting people.

While guests are nibbling on egg rolls, kick warm in an insulated serving dish. Heat the coils warming in a hibachi for the luncheon entrée unique to many a tailgateer—shish kabobs, Oriental-style.

Preparation is easy when the skewers are filled with chunks of chicken, green pepper, tomato, water chestnuts and pineapple. Just set them on the grill and cover with your favorite marinade sauce. Individual pieces of meat and vegetable on the skewers are small enough so knives are not a necessity.

Bring along plenty of hot coffee in an insulated party perk that keeps beverages at serving temperature for hours, without electricity.

IF IT TAKES a student to know what's best for students, William Lynch of Bremerton, Wash., should make a name for himself in education circles. The 18-year-old, a 1971 high school graduate, upset a 60-year-old incumbent school board president in a primary contest. Lynch, who describes himself as a "progressive conservative," is unopposed in the final election for the seat.

22 AND LONELY
DEAR "22": Don't waste too much more time in an "isolated" office. Even if you have to work for less, get to where the action is.

Have you looked into young adult groups? Evening classes in art, religion (church groups), politics or where ever your interests lie? How about volunteer work?

I never met a person, young or old, who didn't get more than he gave when he volunteered to help the helpless.

Shirt Dress
There are so many things that can be done to the patterned shirt dress. Layer it with a turtleneck turtleneck underneath, a tank top belted over it and it won't look like the same dress you wore last week.

Step Into Fall

Step into fall this year in a shirt dress with licorice disk buttons, belt and school girl collar. The new emphasis is on skinny sleeves and small waistline. This design by David Crystal. Instamatic camera for fall tourists is sleek enough to be a fashion accessory.

Mrs. Farmer Is Named To Represent PTA City Council At State Convention

Mrs. C.L. Farmer was elected to represent the Pampa Parent-Teacher Association City Council at the state convention, slated for Nov. 17-19 at the council's meeting Thursday in Carver Center.

Approval was given to the "parent and family life" educational program, which is under the direction of Mrs. Paul Howard.

During the social period, coffee and rolls were served by the Baker School representatives.

Next meeting will be at 10 a.m., Nov. 2, in Carver Center.

El Progreso Club Takes Ranch Tour

"Let's Beef It Up" was the title of the Texas Day program Club, which met at the J.G. Morrison ranch near Pampa.

The program included a tour of the ranch, followed by a talk by Mrs. Morrison in which she gave the ranch's history and explained the operation of a Texas cattle ranch.

During the business meeting, led by Mrs. J.F. Malone, president, members were reminded of the district fall board meeting and workshop, to be held Oct. 11, in Panhandle. A club "Look-Listen" TV survey will be conducted by each member.

A cowboy luncheon was served during the social period. Next meeting will be at 2 p.m. Oct. 12, in the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas company.

Members present were Mmes. Richard Bray, J.F. Curtis, Glenn Dawkins, O.K. Gaylor, F. Hagan, Charles Lanehart, J.F. Malone, Roy McMillen, J.G. Morrison, Ralph Palmer, A.D. Pickett, Glenn Radcliff, Quentin Williams, John Gill and Bruce Riehart.

"Quotable Quotes" By Today's Women

"Sometimes being a woman helps when I have to order corrections. The man in charge of the company aren't apt to lose their tempers and tell me off as they might a man."

Peggy Reiff, an engineer with the Toledo Board of Pollution Control.

"I'm a charge-hell-with-a-bucket-of-water kind of person. I'm the kind of person who plays red-light, green-light with my children. When my son asks how I climb a tree, I put on my tennis shoes and go out and show him."

Luci Johnson Nugent, in an interview.

"People who say nonviolence has failed and have resorted to violence have resorted to what they felt was safer. I would say that nonviolence has never been understood any deeper than technically. It is a process Baez.

Up and Down
As the hemlines gets higher for even more coverage. The clingy long-sleeved turtleneck changes a basic skirt into an appropriate evening outfit.

Vests are brighter and shorter than ever before. Usually made of knit fabrics, the vests can be worn with just about anything.

Colorful Tux
A new faddish style is the imitation tuxedo. It's styled after men's evening wear but it's done in colorful corduroy.

Lip colors are bronze, rust and plum. Vibrant colors to go with the wind clothes come in the same fashion colors.

Your Horoscope

SATURDAY, OCT. 9
Your Saturday horoscope is a process of individuality and personal freedom in spirit—as well as—mountain facts so much of the year ahead is surprise by nature, fresh farmers explored without maps. Today's natives are alert to metaphysics, abstract justice and take them into account in everyday life.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): No more an about making changes, corrections. TAURUS (April 20-May 20): As if your own affairs didn't require full time, there's more to take into account. Look around early, spread and share both burdens and rewards. GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Expect some plan to fall short of perfection. Make no seaplanes, even when you think you know where responsibility lies. CANCER (June 21-July 22): Prepare for a lengthy project, overtime, in which some of your regular activities are displaced. This weekend and its follow-ups should with adventure. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Much depends on how you deal with obligations. Loose ends are not to be left to drift. You may associate a good and permanent or set yourself onto a casual course. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Money flows fast and perhaps you can get some before it goes. Keep your eyes on the balls and demands either very early or quite late. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21): Do all that you can about your own welfare while the going is good and relatively simple. When you find the chance, put it together for as long a run as conditions permit. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Variety becomes a staple of week-end like and perhaps you can get some before it goes. Add earnings may follow soon. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Whatever you've been doing, much of it comes to general view. Make the best of it. PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Any in decision or lastly move may bring on a new beginning—your own—rather than a decision to stop what comes of strong purpose and deliberate action.

PSA Sorority Has Study On Religion

Texas Delta Alpha Chapter of Phi Sigma Alpha met recently in the home of Mrs. Hugh Peoples.

During the short business meeting, Mrs. Fred Symonds, president, reported on the club's Community project and Mrs. Curt Griffin reminded club members of the rummage sale to be held late in October or early in November.

Mrs. Harry Cook, program moderator, prefaced the program with a short statement of this year's study aims, followed by a prayer.

Mrs. Bonnie R. Kenney presented the first program in the comparative religions series, Mrs. Kenney's principle source for this program on Judaism was Herman Wouk's "This Is My God." After a brief statement of the historic beginnings of the Jewish people, she described the major festivals and observances of Judaism and their origins and purposes. She followed this with a listing of food customs and Sabbath customs peculiar to Orthodox Jews. A discussion of Judaism as a precursor to Christianity followed. A question and answer period concluded the program.

Mrs. Symonds presented a gift from club members to Mrs. B.F. Dorman for her recently-married daughter. Also attending were Mrs. Felton Webb, Mrs. Marvin Shilman and Mrs. Bernard Organ.

Fashion In Figures

By MARY SUE MILLER
(First in a series of five special columns: "Beauty Boutique: Shop Here.")

The recent-fashion revolution is now in a state of evolution. Exaggerations taper off. Handsome classic dresses, suits, skirts, jackets and coats trend upward.

The look has great quality and, to carry it off, a lovely requires a poised figure and carriage. For the needy, a diet makes a good starting place. You can lose up to 10 pounds within a month by following the DO and DON'T regimen below. If, that is, you are not more than 10 pounds overweight.

DO hold your count to 1200 calories daily. Count carefully. DO eat 1 egg, 1 pt. skim milk, 1 cup cottage cheese or yogurt, 1 slice whole grain bread (2 melba-thin); 1 tsp. butter or equivalent in oil; 3 oz. lean meat, fish or fowl; 1 serving non-starchy cooked vegetable such as string beans; 1 salad lettuce and raw vegetables; 4 oz. unsweetened juice; 1 portion raw fruit; black coffee, plain tea, no-cal beverages.

DO have these extras: 1 small baked potato, 1 portion rice weekly; 1 cup hot beef bouillon at lunch, as desired; twice weekly plain dessert—angel cake, jelly.

DON'T fail to eat 3 meals daily; to take advantage of special dieter's foods, such as salad dressings and sweetener; to avoid fried foods; to drink 6 glasses of water between meals.

Reducing Tip. Make an all-day exercise of standing and sitting tall. Head erect, shoulders down. Chest up, tummy in, hips under. The pose molds contours, looks graceful and marks a Beauty.

Tomorrow: Boutique of Spot Reducers.

Soft Colors
Whatever colors you choose to shadow and highlight the eyes be sure they're well blended. Do this with a brush of finer tips. The effect should be soft, never harsh.

Boot Look
Boots designed to be worn especially with pants are cut just above the ankle. These boots are particularly good under stove-pipe or straight-leg pants since they keep the slim line of an outfit.

Soccer Look
For the very short tunic over a leotard, add pair of bold-colored, thigh-high socks over textured tights with laced shoes. It's a soccer player look but it just might appeal to you.

Here's Fur
Fur is coming out all over winter coats. Whether fake or real, the fur will be seen on collars, cuffs and—or hemline of coats this year.

Texas Church Group Plans Religion, School Consultation

AUSTIN — Former U.S. Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark will head a list of distinguished speakers who will discuss the place of religion in the public schools during the Texas Consultation on Religion and Education at Austin Nov. 7-9.

The Consultation, to be at the Joe C. Thompson Conference Center, will bring together some 250 selected educators, clergymen, legislators and laymen from all parts of Texas for talks aimed at improving public understanding of the issues of teaching and learning about religion in the schools.

Roy J. Cates, executive director of the Texas Conference of Churches sponsoring the Consultation, announced that the three featured speakers will be former Associate Justice Clark, a native Texan, the keynote address, Sunday, Nov. 7. The Rev. Robert F. Drinan, S.J., Roman Catholic priest, lawyer and congressman from Massachusetts, (former dean of the Boston College Law School) Monday evening, Nov. 8. Dr. Philip H. Phenix, professor of philosophy and education at Teachers College, Columbia University, author of books and articles on religion in the schools, Nov. 8.

Chairman of the Consultation is the Rev. Dr. John R. Hendrick, pastor, Westminster Presbyterian Church, Beaumont.

Although many people seem to think that religion was barred as a subject by Supreme Court decisions banning prayer and Bible reading in public schools, the opposite is true, Dr. Hendrick pointed out.

Dr. Hendrick was referring to a 1963 Supreme Court opinion written by Justice Clark. The Court declared it is unconstitutional for schools to require the devotional recitation of prayers and the reading of the Bible.

But a less-publicized part of the same opinion gave encouragement to the study of religions in the schools. "It might well be said that one's education is not complete without a study of comparative religions or the history of religion and its relationship to the advancement of civilization," Justice Clark wrote.

Sponsoring Committee members joining the Texas Conference of Churches in planning the Consultation are from the Institute of Religion, Texas State Teachers Association, Southwest Texas State College, American Jewish Committee, Texas Christian University, Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, Texas Association of Non-Public Schools, Texas Catholic Conference, University of Texas at Austin, National Conference of Christians and Jews, Rice University, Hogg Foundation for Mental Health at the University of Texas at Austin and the J.M. Dawson Studies in Church and State at Baylor University.

Zion Lutheran Church

Members of the Zion Lutheran Women's Missionary League (LWML) will go to Dumas Sunday to take part in the LWML fall rally to be at St. John Lutheran Church. Registration begins at 2:30 p.m. The Rev. Tom Malone, Lutheran port chaplain, Houston, will speak on the Rally theme, "Christian Endeavors Within-Without".

The Christian and His Money" is the sermon theme for the 11 a.m. worship service at Zion Lutheran Church with the Rev. M.G. Herring conducting the service. Mrs. Linda Herring, organist, will offer as a prelude, "Come Thou Almighty King" by Martin Steinhorn, "F Minor Passacaglia" by Andre Raison for the postlude and "My Song is Love Unknown" by John Ireland for the offertory.

The Senior Lutheran Youth Fellowship meets at 7 p.m. Sunday. The first year junior confirmation class meets at 4 p.m. Tuesday, with the second year junior confirmation class meeting Thursday at 4 p.m. An Adult instruction and information class continues to meet each Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. The Sunday school and Bible class teaching staff will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Church Page deadline has always been 12 noon Wednesday. For some time church news has been coming in later and later until it has become necessary to enforce — without exception — this deadline. Copy turned in late WILL NOT appear. This is due to a dictatorship of machines that cannot be impeached. It requires so much time — no less — to mechanically translate church news from typed copy to type to newsprint.

First Baptist Church

First Baptist Church will hear the pastor, Dan B. Cameron, preach for both worship services Sunday. In the eleven o'clock morning worship he will continue preaching the series of sermons from the Book of Leviticus.

David Campbell, minister of music, will direct the sanctuary choir in the choral worship, "Saviour, Like a Shepherd Lead Us" (Arr. Beck). The special solo will be by Mrs. Harold Craddock, soprano. Miss Eloise Lane, organist, will play

"Andante" by Chaminade for the offertory. This service is broadcast from radio station KPND and televised on channel 12, cable TV.

The pastor will announce his seven o'clock evening worship sermon topic. The men's chorus will occupy the choir loft and sing "Trust, Try, and Prove Me" by Leech for the choral worship. A men's quartet will furnish special music; the selection that they have chosen is "Wandering Child, O Come Home" by Bottorf. "I Love to Tell the Story" by Fischer will be the organ offertory.

Visitation begins Tuesday morning at 9:30 for the ladies and at 7 p.m. for the men.

Members of the Spanish Crusade team will leave Wednesday morning for Spain. They will be working with two churches in Madrid, Spain in revival for two weeks. The pastor will preach for the Buen Pastor Baptist Church in Madrid. In his absence, Dr. C. Gordon Bayless will lead the Prayer Meeting service Wednesday evening at 6:15.

Latter Day Saints Church

Music is an important part of the religious life of the Latter Day Saints — usually referred to by non-members as Mormons — and there are thousands of choirs, choruses, singing and instrumental groups as well as singing congregations throughout the nation. These are comprised of young and old alike.

Most famous of these is the Mormon Tabernacle Choir of Salt Lake City. It had its beginning shortly after pioneers first came to the Salt Lake Valley in 1847. The choir first gained prominence in 1911 with a concert in New York City followed by an invitation to sing for the President in Washington.

Today the 375 voice choir under the baton of Richard Condie is featured coast-to-coast on the CBS network continuing a tradition begun in 1929. It is the oldest continuous nationwide music series on American radio. "The Spoken Word" by Richard L. Evans is a part of every program.

NEW ROMAN POLICY

American Bishops Go Along With Retirement At 75-Years

By GEORGE W. CORNELL, NEW YORK (AP) — American Roman Catholic bishops, in most cases, are going along with a new Church policy of retiring from office at the age of 75. It is intended for the good of the Church. It also seems to be good for them.

"They're living longer. The average length of their lives has been going up recently since the change," said Bishop Francis P. Leipzig, 76, the retired bishop of Baker, Ore., and an expert on episcopal longevity.

"They're freed of the stress and difficulties of their position in their later years," he added. "Since the Church's origins in this country, the average age to which Roman Catholic bishops have lived is 69. But the figure started going up for the first time in 1968, averaging about 74 since then, although many bishops live far beyond that.

It was in 1966 that Pope Paul VI introduced the new retirement practice into the Church, requesting that bishops after their resignations at 75, except in special circumstances mitigating against it.

Since then, in steady succession, 38 American bishops have stepped out of office, turning over their jobs to younger men.

"It means a tremendous change for them," of course," Bishop Leipzig said in a telephone interview. "But it's a change for the good. There might be some who would like to carry on, but most of them have been ready to sit back and turn the work over to others."

Prior to the new policy, bishops ordinarily kept their posts until the end often into their 80s, sometimes beyond that.

It is not formally required that bishops submit their resignations at 75 — the Pope only requested it, leaving room for flexibility in various situations. He himself reaches 75 a year hence, with recurring speculation over whether he will take his own advice and quit then.

At present, the Catholic Almanac shows there are 12 bishops still in office in the United States at 75 or beyond. Four are 76, three of whom will be 77 by the year's end, and three are older than that.

Asked what bishops do when they retire, Bishop Leipzig said some continue serving as diocesan consultants, while others write, travel or simply relax, read and take care of their yards.

'Spiritual Spectacular' Planned For Astrodome

A seven-day evangelistic blitz on Houston-area college campuses will precede an historic, interracial "spiritual spectacular" expected to draw 50,000 persons to Houston's Astrodome, 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 27.

The joint meeting will bring together representatives of six Baptist conventions representing more than 90 percent of white, black, and Mexican-American Baptists in Texas. They represent a membership of some 3,000,000.

The Weekly Message of Inspiration...

LAMAR FULL GOSPEL ASSEMBLY

REV. GENE ALLEN IS TROUBLE GOD'S PUNISHMENT?

Read Luke 13: 1-5 Heb. 2:10
Many feel that when trouble comes, it is God's punishment upon them for some sin. This attitude makes victory impossible.

We must confess that this is a world of moral consequence and that sin does bring trouble. But in Luke 13, 1-5, Jesus repudiated the idea that calamity and sin were always connected. In his comment on the fall of the Tower of Siloam and on those whose blood Pilate had mingled with their sacrifices, the sufferers "were not sinners above the rest," Jesus said.

We should look on trouble as an opportunity for us to show what stuff we are made of.

Someone has said, "the darkening clouds may only serve to quicken your pace toward home." An Indian proverb says, "The bursting of the petals says the flowers are coming." So when your heart bursts with pain and grief, the bursting is only the bursting of the cramping sheath-petals to let the flowers out. The heart-break of Gethsemane was the bursting of the sheath that let the Passion Flower out. And the world is filled with its wonderful perfume. As someone has said, "It is wonderful what God can do with a broken heart if He can get all the pieces." Let the Lord put your broken life together again, perhaps in a new and glorious pattern. He had to break it to make it.

In the Mission Agricultural Farm at Allahabad India, they have found that when the tops of the eggplants are withered by the frost, that the plants give a second crop. The frost made them discover something. Now, after the plants have given one crop they cut them back and they then harvest the second. So the cuts that you receive from life may not be God's punishment, but may be God's prunings in order to greater fruitfulness.

Let us pray this prayer, "O Lord, we know that every branch in Thee that beareth fruit Thou prunest it that it might bear more fruit. Prune me this day for I would be fruitful. Amen."

Washington Redskins Picked By AP Writers

NEW YORK (AP) — The Washington Redskins will remain unbeaten and the Pittsburgh Steelers will experience the rare feeling of being alone in first place.

That's how it will be Sunday after the Redskins run their perfect record, the only one in the National Football League; to 4-0 by beating Houston and the Steelers defeat Cleveland to take undisputed possession of first place in the American Conference's Eastern Division.

At least that's how it looks to this predictor who was not exactly unbeaten in his first start of the season last week. The record read 7-5-1.

Having gotten the feel of the picking business, here goes: Washington 20, Houston 10—The Redskins have the right running-passing combination to win again. They will have to guard against a letdown after big victory over Dallas but chance for victories in first four games—something a Washington team hasn't done in 28 years—should be enough incentive.

Pittsburgh 24, Cleveland 20—Terry Bradshaw's continued improvement and a chance to break a first-place tie with an arch-rival will spark the Steelers past the Browns who are coming off a tough loss in a Monday night game.

Detroit 24, Green Bay 13—The Lions are banged up on offense but their defense is healthy and should mean the difference in another battle of arch rivals.

Baltimore 27, Buffalo 14—The Colts, who played a 17-17 tie and then won a 20-14 squeaker with Buffalo last year, have the defense to stop Dennis Shaw and O.J. Simpson of the Bills while their own Don Nottingham and Norm Bulach pound out yards. Bulach sat out last week with a bruised knee.

San Francisco 20, Los Angeles 6—The two clubs are pretty closely matched on defense but Los Angeles can't match the 49ers' scoring punch built around the passing of John Brodie and Ken Willard's running.

Kansas City 27, San Diego 7—Kansas City led the Chargers 14-0 at halftime in the season opener at San Diego and they lost 21-14. Len Dawson and Chiefs' defense won't let it happen again.

Oakland 23, Denver 16—Darley Lamonica will get Oakland an edge in touchdowns while George Blanda will kick Denver's Jim Turner to a standstill in a field-goal battle.

Dave McNally Will Start For Baltimore In Series

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dave McNally, a winner in five of six postseason decisions, approaches Saturday's World Series starting assignment with characteristic calm.

"It makes no difference to me who I face," the Baltimore pitcher said. "All I can do is win or lose."

In recent years, McNally has mostly been winning. During the past four regular seasons, the 28-year-old left-hander has won 87 and lost only 31 while topping the 20-game mark each time.

He has won a game in each of the last three American League playoffs and his record in World Series competition, dating back to 1966, is 2-1. The loss was by a 2-1 score to the New York Mets in 1969.

The Pirates, who hit .274 as a team during the regular season, will start five right-handed batters with averages ranging between .271 and .341 against McNally.

"I really don't think about all right-handers I'll be facing," McNally said, "because that's what we (lefties) always get. There must be four times as many right-handed as left-handed batters."

Minnesota 27, Philadelphia 7—Philadelphia has a new coach but the Vikings have the horses and the result will be the same for the winless Eagles.

Chicago 23, New Orleans 17—Kent Nix will start at quarterback in place of injured Jack Concannon as the Bears celebrate the season debut of running back Gale Sayers with a victory.

Dallas 38, New York Giants 17—The Cowboys have more to go with in reactivated running back Duane Thomas than the Giants have with running back Ror Johnson, scheduled to return from injury.

Injunction Against NCAA Prevent Okla. Blackout

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A Tulsa judge eyed a state map showing communities near Tulsa where football fans could watch Saturday's televised Oklahoma-Texas clash and ruled that Tulsa County was "a veritable island in a sea of television viewing" of the annual classic.

Therefore, said District Judge Raymond W. Graham, Tulsans should have the opportunity to see the contest televised live over a Tulsa station, KTUL-TV, Channel 8, immediately announced it would televise the game barring further NCAA legal action.

But the NCAA warned that additional action may be taken—including possible sanctions against OU and Texas.

Judge Graham's order, coming after a three-hour hearing Thursday night and a day of chasing after a federal judge, made permanent a temporary injunction he issued Tuesday prohibiting the National Collegiate Athletic Association from holding a television "blackout" of the game here.

The suit was filed by three Tulsa sports fans, one of whom is hospitalized with a broken leg and didn't want to travel some 40 miles to pick up the game televised over an Oklahoma City station. He couldn't go to the downtown Civic Assembly Center for a closed-circuit presentation of the game.

Roger Scott, a young Tulsa attorney and another of the sports fans filing suit, said he didn't think it was his responsibility to go to Oklahoma City to view the game and added he didn't think he could get back in time to see Tulsa University host Virginia Tech Saturday night.

He holds season tickets to the OU game, and told Judge Graham he had assumed until the time he filed suit that the game would be televised.

The three charged the NCAA "blackout" rules are "capricious and arbitrary" and they were especially angry at the NCAA's announcement Wednesday that the total ban was being lifted, and KOCO-TV in Oklahoma City could broadcast the game but a Tulsa television station could not.

The announcement also said the game could only be seen in Tulsa on closed-circuit TV, and tickets were to cost $4.

Basically, the NCAA rules prohibit the televising of a game in the hometown area unless other college football games in the same vicinity are sold out, and they prevent the importation of TV signals of the game to another community in the same state within 120 miles.

Other games were declared sell-outs and Norman is about 20 miles from Oklahoma City so it was decided KOCO-TV, an ABC affiliate, would broadcast the game. The network holds a $12 million contract with the NCAA to televise college football games.

The three fans went before Judge Graham again Thursday to seek a permanent injunction against the NCAA but the association won permission from the judge to have a federal judge hear the case.

OU-UT May Face Suit If Clash Televised

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A National Collegiate Athletic Association official said late Thursday sanctions could be invoked against Oklahoma and Texas if the OU-Texas game is televised in Tulsa under a court order barring the NCAA from stopping it.

Dist. Judge Raymond Graham issued a permanent injunction against barring a live telecast after a Tulsa hearing Thursday.

Tulsa Station KTUL-TV then announced it would carry the telecast. Earlier, the NCAA had approved a live telecast in Oklahoma City, but it prohibited live Tulsa coverage because Tulsa is not the home of either team. For television purposes, Oklahoma City is considered OU's home.

But the NCAA may be planning to take stern measures against the two schools.

"We've made it plain to both institutions that they would be in violation if they would grant any additional release of television coverage and would be subject to the regular enforcement proceedings of the NCAA," said Tom Hanson, NCAA public relations official.

"We asked the University of Texas to make it abundantly clear to the station in Dallas that if it feeds the television signal to any station or outlet not authorized to receive it, we will bring legal action against that station."

He also said legal action would be taken against KTUL if it televises the game and said both OU and Texas could be held fully accountable.

"OU and Texas would be subject to full enforcement proceedings which could include sanctions against them being eligible for post-season football competition, appearance on television and appearances in any NCAA event."

Upsets May Mark Top College Meets

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

If Columbia can upset Princeton after a quarter of a century as the Lions did last week maybe Oklahoma will surprise Texas in the Cotton Bowl on Saturday.

The battle of the two unbeaten, untied teams highlights the college football card this weekend. Texas is third-ranked nationally, Oklahoma No. 8 and their annual meeting usually is referred to as "a war."

The Sooners' hopes of an upset were brightened by news that Eddie Phillips, No. 1 quarterback for the favored Longhorns may not start because of a hamstring muscle he reinjured.

"We've got problems," commented Darrell Royal, Texas coach, "but we're delighted to go to war with Donnie Wigginton."

Wigginton is the No. 2 QB for Texas. "He's not a choker," Royal said. "He'll fight to the last drop."

Sharing interest with the Oklahoma-Texas clash in Dallas is the battle between second-ranked Michigan and unranked Michigan State at East Lansing. The Spartans are primed to upset the favored Wolverines in this nationally televised game over the ABC network.

Nebraska, No. 1 in the Associated Press rankings, is expected to have an easy time against Missouri for its fifth straight. Likewise No. 4 Auburn against Southern in Mississippi and No. 5 Colorado against Iowa State.

In other games involving teams in the AP Top Ten, No. 6 Alabama is at Vanderbilt, No. 7 Notre Dame at Miami, Fla., No. 9 Penn State entertains Army and No. 10 Georgia plays Mississippi at Jackson. The Alabama-Vandy and Notre Dame-Miami games will be played Saturday night.

Among the AP Second Ten, No. 11 Washington hosts No. 19 Stanford, No. 12 Arizona State is at Colorado State, Georgia Tech is at No. 13 Tennessee, No. 14 Duke takes on Clemson at Norfolk, Va., No. 15 Ohio State is at Illinois and Florida is at No. 16 Louisiana State in a night encounter.

TCU-Okla. State To Knock Heads Saturday Night

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Oklahoma State and Texas Christian meet here Saturday night, both smarting from sound defeats by Arkansas, ranked 17th in this week's football poll.

Both can score high and will use the non-conference contest to try to get their defenses working better. Arkansas scored 49 points against TCU and 81 against Oklahoma State.

Texas Christian in particular has been working on a way to stop kickoff returns. Two Horned Frog boots have been run back for touchdowns in this young season.

Oklahoma State has a green defensive corps hit by injuries. But the Cowboys have had an extra week off to prepare for the Frogs and to allow wounds to heal.

Texas Christian can go with two outstanding quarterbacks, Steve Judy and Kent Marshall. But OSU has faced two of the three top passers in the nation this year, losing to Joe Ferguson of Arkansas but beating Dave Strock of Virginia Tech.

Judy, a senior, needs only 98 yards passing and seven pass attempts to break the baffulou record of Sammy Baugh who went on to professional greatness.

Texas Christian also has been giving all candidates a shot at punting after short kicks in the Arkansas game last week and with Marshall averaging only a moderate 35.4 yards per boot.

Oklahoma State has won two and lost one, while TCU has lost two while winning one.

A crowd of 22,000 is expected for the 7:30 p.m. CDT kickoff.

Shockers Have Double Win In Inter-City Battles

The Pampa Shockers will keep their perfect record for the season as they chalked up two inter-city wins yesterday at the expense of Pampa Junior High School and Robert E. Lee Junior High School.

The Shockers won their first match against the PJH Reapers with a 38 to 21 margin.

Both teams ran the ball well with size being the big difference.

In the Shocker-Rebel clash size was closer to being even and so was the score. The Rebels looked good against the more experienced Shockers as they held the Junior Varsity team to a mere seven points.

The single score of the 7:30 p.m. game came when David Nipp tripped over the goal line after jumping a pile of Lee defenders.

The game was a hard defensive battle all the way with the Shocker score coming after a 15 yd. penalty awarded them a first and ten from the Lee 7 yard line.

Scoring threats were constant by the Rebels but they couldn't seem to maintain control long enough to place the winning combination on the scoreboard.

Harvesters Will Travel To Buffalo Bowl Tonight

The Pampa Harvesters will be on the road tonight meeting the Canyon Eagles in the Buffalo Bowl at 8 p.m.

Both schools have an outstanding record while the Harvesters dominate the field with both size and experience.

The Harvesters will be going into the Eagle game with a big psychological edge as they defeated the best in Oklahoma (Lawton) 14 to 9 last Friday.

According to coach "Swede" Lee "We are going to play a lot of boys in tonight's game that haven't seen a lot of action this season. We are in real good physical shape."

The pick between the two has to go to PAMPA by 21.

In area action the Golden Sandstorm should have a good night against the Hereford Whitefaces with a favor margin of 3 pts.

Caprock will continue its undefeated ways with its defense keeping Lubbock under control in a Saturday game. CAPROCK by 6.

Palo Duro another 4A school should keep surprised looks on Coronado's faces as they trample the Lubbock team. PALO DURO by 18.

Tascosa will be facing another Coronado, only this will be in El Paso. The southerners will be kept down by the Rebels, this game could go either way if Tascosa can't keep consistent though, TASCOSA by 3.

Plainview and Borger will be mixing it up with a hard fought battle as both teams are beginning to jell. BORGER by 6.

The Panhandle Panthers should be able to rebound from a defeat by the White Deer Bucks to capture the win from Quanah. PANHANDLE by 10.

A real battle is shaping between Canadian and Wheeler. Both teams are tough on the gridiron but Canadian seems to have a little greater depth behind their new coaching staff. CANADIAN by 5.

White Deer is rated number four in state and Claude is fully aware of their power. The Mustangs barely tapped Lefors for a win last week and will be slaughtered by the Bucks this week. WHITE DEER by 30.

McLean has size and speed plus a big quarterback while Groom is alighting for their chance of an upset.

McCrummen Lands 4 Lb. Pike

Mike McCrummen, 4315 Mesa Circle, Amarillo, Texas, was fishing Lake Vincent in Oklahoma Saturday, Sept. 18, when he caught this 4 lbs. Northern Pike while fishing from his water wagon. He was using a Black Bomber as a lure.

This fish was reported to the Pampa Text and Awning Company, the official weigh-in station for the Sports Afield in Texas and Oklahoma.

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Police And Anti-Gun Laws

One of the difficulties of appraising groups is that groups are all made up of individuals, and individuals never always represent the groups.

And it goes without saying that groups don't represent the individuals.

The latest unfortunate example involves the nation's policemen. The News is always sympathetic with the "terrible responsibility police officers have," and we think most of them perform well. Most "good citizens" support the police.

But "New York's" Chief of Police, Patrick V. Murphy recently made a speech that is certain to create some unfavorable reaction. Chief Murphy wants tighter gun control laws.

Of course, we do not know for how many police officers Chief Murphy speaks, but because of his high position he most likely will be considered as representative of the whole nation's law enforcement fraternity.

And this is going to lose some friends for the policeman. We can certainly understand Chief Murphy's concern over the killing of police officers, but we cannot understand why he believes gun prohibition would solve his problem.

Criminals are not concerned with prohibition laws. It has been argued many times that the criminal will get a gun when he wants one.

The tight controls Chief Murphy calls for will only put a further burden on those who want guns for sport and for their own individual protection. Further, the passage of the laws the chief asks will put further burden on the tax payers to provide the machinery to administer them.

We suggest a better way to move toward elimination of the killings of police officers and others is for the police to clamor for strict judicial handling of criminals.

Putting the whole society in a strait jacket is an unrealistic remedy for the evil caused by a small percentage of America's 210 million people.

If the argument for retributive laws is that they provide a deterrent to further crime, then let the punishment be swift and certain, but leave decent folks alone.

Make Your Own Comment

Melvin, 39, and Lorraine Stewart, 40 fed up with Indiana because it's a "lousy" state for welfare benefits, packed up their $10,000, air-conditioned mobile land cruiser and returned to California where they really take care of folks on welfare." According to a news item in the Indianapolis Star, the Stewarts packed and should be back in California by now. Hooked to the land cruiser was the family's 1966 Pontiac Bonneville and trailer. Inside the trailer was the Stewarts' two children, a handsomely clipped poodle, four television sets, an upright deep freeze, a king-size, six position vibrating recliner and two elegant parlor chairs in red velvet.

All were bought in Indiana at taxpayers' expense except the mobile land cruiser, purchased during palmy days when the Stewarts enjoyed life on California's welfare rolls.

The Star's story of the Stewarts touching plight as longtime welfare recipients included the news that Mrs. Stewart had resigned from the Owen County (Ind.) Citizens Advisory Council on welfare, saying the group was useless.

"People have complaints," said Mrs. Stewart, "but they're afraid to talk for fear of getting kicked off the rolls. Why, if a welfare person has to go to the doctor they're (welfare department) supposed to send a cab and pay the fare, but they won't. We're entitled to it, but they don't treat you right here." she continued. In California, she claimed, the family income (with Social Security and food stamps) should rise to well over $500 per month.

"We bought the mobile cruiser out there — brand new — two years ago, and had a ball," she told the Star. "We joined a camper club and traveled all over California — it was really fun."

So help us, we can't even think of a comment.

Where Will Hanoi Try Next Punch?

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The first test of Hanoi's military intentions in the approaching dry season will be whether assault is made upon South Vietnam's highlands in Military Region 2, well north of Saigon.

The odds for an attack this time are not rated heavy. But the territory is very vulnerable, and North Vietnam's forces have the necessary capability to make serious trouble.

For one thing, Region 2 is lightly defended. Any major attack bent upon wide occupation of the land would almost surely compel the South Vietnamese to shift substantial forces northward from the heavily populated Saigon and Mekong delta areas.

Secondly, in Region 2 the Viet Cong's troublesome substructure has never been ripped out. There is nothing Hanoi likes better than to "prepare the battlefield" by directing saboteurs and other VC helpers to rise up against both the harried defenders and the civilians loyal to Saigon.

On the surface, Region 2 has to be put down as the least important part of South Vietnam. Thinly settled and markedly unproductive economically, it is in theory no great prize.

Yet a successful big move there by the North Vietnamese would be a television spectacular in the United States and a clear shock to Saigon's military and political stability.

These consequences probably would not be minimized by the reality that the taking of Region 2 would be just about the cheapest main-force victory Hanoi could hope to achieve at this stage.

Qualified sources here do not believe the North Vietnamese are presently capable of decisive inroads either in northern Vietnam just below the DMZ, or in the truly crucial zones from the Saigon area south.

This does not mean that an NV attack straight across the DMZ from North Vietnam would be easily dealt with. But there are sizable Saigon armies in that region, as well as the only two full U.S. ground combat divisions left in the country—the 101st Airborne and the Americal.

As for the southern sectors, Hanoi cannot hope to have large military effect until it has moved well-equipped, well-supplied manpower back into Cambodia's Parrot's Beak and other sanctuaries along the South Vietnamese border. The Reds make incursions there, but they have not reoccupied in force. Nor could they easily or quickly build the supply depots required to support an offensive against the delta.

Nevertheless, the experts here think Saigon and the whole delta would be imperiled if Hanoi slashed into Region 2 and thus flanked both the populous southern areas and the well-fortified northern lands.

Why, then, is the prospect of Region 2 assault not rated strong?

Our specialists say Hanoi is genuine trouble over two things about Red China, its northern neighbor and supporter. One is what President Nixon's impending visit to Peking really means the other is what truly is going on in China these days. The surface indications of ferment are still largely unexplained.

Also, Hanoi may easily figure that waiting another year, for the 1972-73 dry season, will enlarge its chances of success, since presumably far fewer U.S. troops — and probably planes — will be left in Vietnam.

Furthermore, if reaction to Saigon's Oct. 3 one-candidate presidential election is seriously adverse within the country, the South Vietnamese army's morale, cohesion and capacity to resist attack may be greatly diminished by November of 1972.

So the odds look good for Hanoi waiting. Meantime, we watch — uneasily.

DISTURBING REPORT

Congressional Concern Over Defense of The U.S.

By CONGRESSMAN JOHN G. SCHMITZ

"This country is in greater danger today than it was at the time of Pearl Harbor or at any time, in my judgment, since the 18th century, but the danger isn't generally recognized."

General Bruce K. Holloway (Commander in Chief, Strategic Air Command)

Just prior to the August Congressional recess, more than eighty Congressmen took the floor in the House of Representatives to demonstrate their concern about the rapidly declining defense capabilities of the United States. The week before, a number of Senators had voiced similar sentiments.

There is now little doubt in the mind of any informed person that the United States is inferior to the Soviet Union in practically every aspect of military power. What is worse, this disparity in strategic forces is growing worse due to a combination of executive restraint in hopes of progress at the SALT talks, Congressional criticism, and growing pressure from numerous disarmament lobbies chanting about "re-ordering priorities."

Congressman F. Edward Hebert, Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, spoke about the U.S. failure to acknowledge repeated warnings from the House Committee responsible for our defenses.

That our military forces are being seriously depleted. He then inserted into the Congressional Record the entire foreword from the 1971 edition of the authoritative English publication, Jane's Fighting Ships, so that all those interested might grasp the extent of our Naval decline.

Jane's reported that "by any standard the Soviet Fleet now represents the super-navy of a super-power," while "the size and relative capabilities of the United States Navy continues to decline at what many authorities consider to be an alarming rate." Jane's also pointed out that the Chief of U.S. Naval Operations considered our naval force to have fallen below a "prudent level."

It stated: "The Soviet Navy has already exceeded the United States in active surface ship and submarine numbers," while at the same time "in some respects the characteristics and capabilities of the Soviet ships obviously are superior to those of their U.S. Navy counterparts."

Information brought to light during this Congressional colloquy relating to other areas of our nation's sagging defenses was as disturbing as that concerning the state of our Naval forces.

Dr. John S. Foster, Director of Defense Research and Engineering, testified before the Senate Armed Services Committee in April that the former estimate that the Soviets would not be able to destroy an unprotected land based Minuteman missile force until 1975 had been rendered "obsolete" by Soviet construction of what appears to be two new generations of intercontinental ballistic missiles at a "high start rate" (read — unexpectedly rapid pace) should put to rest any assertions that they are building strategic forces simply for purposes of deterrence.

U.S. deterrence of the Soviet Union has been based on being able to deliver 300 warheads on target after absorbing a Soviet strike. The Soviet Union is now able to deliver many times that number on the U.S. even if we decided to strike first.

The sorry state of our strategic bomber force was also a subject of comment. In 1961 we had 1500 aircraft in our manned bomber inventory. Today, with a force level of 435 B-52's, we have one-third that number. By the time the B-1 advanced strategic bomber comes into the inventory — if it ever does — we will probably be reduced to a bomber force consisting of 235 B-52's due to the necessary retirement of older models in the meantime. While as our bomber force decreases, the number of Soviet nuclear ballistic missile submarines which pose a threat to our bomber force is rapidly increasing.

Small wonder many citizens are not aware of the dire peril into which our nation is drifting when despite the unusual number of Congressmen participating in this effort, covering 104 pages in the Congressional Record, and despite the startling nature of the facts brought forth, News Perspective International reports that "not one national television news show featured this story; not a line of it appeared in the New York Times nor the Washington Post, and so far as the Congressmen could immediately determine neither the Associated Press nor United Press International carried it on their national wires."

If this news blackout on the danger our country faces continues, we will not respond adequately or in time. When the Soviet Union wants to start a war, it will not be deterred by weakness.

Your Health

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb

Exercise Can Help Bust Line

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am sure this question is of general interest to a lot of women. I asked my gynecologist about it and he just scoffed at me and said to be thankful I was healthy. My problem is I've gotten a bust increase plan and am not sure it's safe to use. I'm 5 feet 2 and 110 pounds, 33-27-35, healthy but thin and my chest is practically flat.

Of course, I want bigger breasts but safely if possible. I don't want "large" breasts, but just enough. I understand about cream, hormone injections, etc., and don't want to "take" anything. However, this plan is a series of exercises. Are exercises harmful to the breasts?

A part of their plan is hydrotherapy to tone the breast. You bathe the breast in hot water, then alternate with a cold compress about 20 times before retiring. Is it wise to do this?

They also claim irregular functioning of the adrenal and thyroid glands can have an adverse effect on bust size. In my yearly checkup wouldn't my gynecologist know if I have this problem? Also, in order to gain weight is it safe for me to take protein additive? This plan also suggests that one purchase some tablets to amass fat and improve bust measurement.

Please help me surely you can understand how horribly embarrassing this is for a woman to talk to a doctor in peereason about.

Dear Reader — I sometime think all the women in this world either want more or less—and to think at one time these breasts were to nurse babies. However, you are right it is a major concern of a lot of women. Personally I think a woman's personality, intelligence and overall appearance are far more important than her bust line measurements.

Let's not even talk about injections, pills or hormones. True, if the thyroid or adrenal gland was the problem your doctor would know it because that would cause a lot more than just small breasts.

The contrast baths for your breasts won't hurt them (unless the water is too hot) but I doubt it will do a lot to increase their size. The tablet you mention won't hurt you but it won't do anything for your breasts either. If you were on a deficient diet than vitamins, minerals and essential nutrients would be required. A proper diet will help maintain normal breast size.

The right exercises do improve the bust line. The best exercises are those that increase the strength and tone of the muscles that cover the chest wall and are underneath the breast. A simple one is to place the palms of the hands against each other, with the hands held in front of te breasts and push. Use swinging and rotating exercises of the arms.

Inside Washington

Fulbright in Reverse on Bill To Bar USSR Chrome Shipments

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Consistency may be a jewel — but there are all kinds of jewels.

Observe, for example, what is currently transpiring in the U.S. Senate during the tortuous wrangling and haranguing over the $21 billion military procurement authorization bill.

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), acerbic dove and interminable clamor for stripping the Presidency of excessive power, is vigorously pressing a proposal to expand Presidential authority in one important particular — the importation of strategic crucial metallurgical chrome from Russia.

Reason for Fulbright's bald inconsistency is the Senate's 46 to 36 approval of a provision by Sen. Harry Byrd (Ind.-Va.) and a bipartisan group of other Senators that would free the U.S. of dependence on the Soviet Union as the principal supplier of chrome ore vital in the production of jet aircraft, missiles, nuclear submarines and other major weapons.

Fulbright wants to water down this measure by giving the President the power to determine whether Russia's domination of chrome imports shall continue.

Frankly admitted purpose of Fulbright's stratagem is to avoid a direct attack on Byrd's anti-Soviet provision — in the certainty such a move would be decisively rejected. So Fulbright is trying to accomplish this aim by indirection — even if it puts him in the embarrassing position of being blatantly inconsistent.

"This is not my first choice as a procedure," Fulbright explained defensively. "In offering this amendment my hope was to make it more palatable for some of those who would vote against the motion to strike the (Byrd) provision relating to Rhodesia."

Significantly, Fulbright avoided any reference to this country's highly vulnerable dependence on Russia for chrome supplies, or the reasons for that. Instead, the test chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee declared about the need to uphold the authority and prestige of the United Nations, particularly at this time.

"The effect of the (Byrd) provision is simply to undermine and show further a lack of confidence in the United Nations," said Fulbright sternly. "It could get come at a worse time since the UN is getting ready to consider great problems, such as the admission of mainland China. I think to have it widely advertised in the lack of support for the embargo on Rhodesia will be most unfortunate at this time."

Sen. Byrd, jellily twisting Fulbright on his glaring inconsistency, pointed out that the only reason the U.S. is now largely dependent on the Soviet for chrome ore is because of supporting the UN embargo against Rhodesia.

Prior to the imposition of those trade sanctions, the U.S. got most of its chrome from Rhodesia. Since then, upwards of 60 per cent. of this strategically crucial ore has come from Russia — which has hiked the price 188 percent; from $15 to $72 a ton.

Byrd read a telegram from William J. Hart, director, District 19, United Steelworkers, strongly supporting the anti-Russian provision passed by the Senate.

The Pennsylvania labor leader sharply warned that unless it becomes law, "There will be no specialty steel industry in my state, or in the United States and thousands will be thrown out of work."

"One of the great problems facing our country is unemployment," Byrd pointed out, "the urgent need for jobs. Here is an opportunity to strike a blow for jobs."

To Fulbright's obvious discomfiture, Byrd hammered away at his inconsistency.

"I am amused," said the Virginia legislator, "that the Senator from Arkansas, who has been perhaps the foremost advocate of trying to have the Senate take back some of the power it has given to the President, now is sponsoring an amendment giving additional power to the President. What the Senator from Arkansas is proposing is to say that in this particular case we do not want Congress to act, but to turn over to the President the authority to do whatever he wants to do."

"That is completely contrary to everything the Senator from Arkansas has been arguing for many years. It's a complete about-face of everything he has been advocating. The Senator from Arkansas agrees that we have given too much power to the President except that when Congress will not do what the Senator wants it to do, then he says to reverse himself and say, 'In this case, we want to turn it over to the President because the President wants to do what I want to do.'"

Byrd is waging a daily battle against Fulbright's circuitous amendment.

The Virginia Senator has reserved time at each session to fully discuss the issue. In these detailed talks, he challenges Fulbright to argue the merits of his maneuver. So far, the Arkansas hasn't shown much stomach for that.

What the outcome of his hassle will be is conjectural. Byrd is confident he has the votes to defeat the Fulbright device.
