Diplomacy

These visits of foreign premiers were cooked up on the inside in a peculiar way.

The Hull-Lindsay conferences were put out a guarded statistic statement were being issued but they did not disclose the truly difficult situation encountered by the State Secretary and the British Ambassador.

Mr. Roosevelt would have invited Premier MacDonald but certain sounding out had to be done first. Norman Davis did that in London in a cagey way.

Mr. MacDonald did not personally care to make the trip because of his health. However he agreed it was probably the only thing to be done.

The remaining nations were invited through sheer politeness. They are not expected to play an important part.

There is more than social diplomacy involved in the present negotiations were worked out. It showed clearly that Mr. Roosevelt assumed the initiative and responsibility.

It will be impossible for him to avoid discussion of debts, but that phase will be soft-pedaled. Europe is not worried particularly about tariffs, exchanges or prices.

An agreement will probably be reached. The situation is ideal for

Next Basic Task Facing Roosevelt Is To Lift Prices; Pressure Comes Strongly In Form Of Inflation Talk

By RAYMOND CLAPPER United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The next basic task facing President Roosevelt is to lift prices.

Pressure for action to this end is crowding in from all sides in the form of talk for inflation. Officials are struggling with the problem.

They recognize frankly measures are necessary to counteract the drastic deflation which has continued through the first few weeks of the new administration as a result of locking up of billions of dollars of bank deposits and in the drastic curtailment of government expenses and veterans' payments.

They are as yet uncertain how to proceed. Congress may force the issue at any moment. Inflationists in the senate are talking about testing their strength through amendments to the pending bill.

They are as yet uncertain how to proceed. Congress may force the issue at any moment. Inflationists in the senate are talking about testing their strength through amendments to the pending bill.

WASHINGTON (UP)—The next basic task facing President Roosevelt is to lift prices.

Roosevelt's drastic gold order, aimed to gather in all hoarded gold by May 1, would place the government in position to take such action if it were decided to devalue the dollar. President Roosevelt is opposed to "printing press" money. Many inflationists also oppose it. They say there is sufficient money. There is more currency in existence than in 1929.

Of 2,000,000,000 in new money authorized under the recent emergency bank act, only $15,900,000 has been put into circulation.

Money is lying idle. The need universally recognized is to get it in action, increase the speed of turnover.

Velocity of money circulation is a sure index of prosperity. At the peak of the boom in 1929 money deposited in banks was turning over 45 times a year. Early this year it was turning over only 16 times a year. Following this bank holiday this speed is believed to have declined still lower.

Says Her Husband Lost 16 Pounds In 4 Weeks

WASHINGTON, (AP)—A treaty between the United States and Mexico for rectification of the Rio Grande river in the El Paso-Juarez valley was approved Wednesday by the senate foreign relations committee.

"I have never found a medicine that 'peps' you up like Kruschen Sals and better still, leaves you 'pepped up.' I take it two or three times a week—not to reduce but merely to feel good and clean. My husband took it to reduce, he lost 16 pounds in 4 weeks." Mrs. E. A. Ferris, Washington, D. C. (December 29, 1932).

To lose fat and at the same time gain in physical attractiveness and feel spirited and youthful, take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning.

A jar that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle at Collins Bros. or any druggery in the world but be sure and get Kruschen Sals the SAFE way to reduce wide hips, prominent front and double chin and again feel the joy of living—money back if dissatisfied after the first jar.—adv.

The Next Phase

The work of the Roosevelt Administration thus far falls into two grand divisions. In the first thirty days the foundations have been laid for a restoration of confidence in the Federal government...

The achievement of the administration in the first month may be summed up in some such way as this: The President brought us into the government...

All of this clearly a first, a necessity but a preliminary phase of reconstruction. These measures had to come first because the first thing that had to be done was to restore the authority and credit of the government...

The moves that are being made in the international field follow logically, therefore, upon the moves which have been made in the domestic field...

This is a sound objective, and of the highest importance. But the opinion may be ventured that it can succeed only if it is accompanied by powerful measures designed to raise the world price level...

The world price level, which is what determines finally the level of domestic prices in all countries, is, therefore, the central problem to be dealt with...

It is clear, for example, that when the United States was asked to suspend gold payments, it obtained a freedom of decision which it did not have before...

Treasury, the United States today has all the disadvantages of being on the gold standard without the advantages. Instead of allowing the dollar to find its own level in relation to sterling...

The time is at hand, therefore, when the United States should assume control of its own monetary policy so that when the moment comes to stabilize currencies internationally...

The execution of such a policy requires financial leadership of great courage and wisdom. A large part of such a policy would have to be carried out by the Federal Reserve System, and Mr. Roosevelt might do well to make it his immediate business to find men to manage the system who can and will carry it out...

The execution of such a policy requires financial leadership of great courage and wisdom. A large part of such a policy would have to be carried out by the Federal Reserve System, and Mr. Roosevelt might do well to make it his immediate business to find men to manage the system who can and will carry it out...

Sweetwater 'Boys' Hailed To Court For Slaying Ducks

ABIENE—Five prominent citizens of Sweetwater came to Abilene Tuesday to make bond in United States district court on charges that, last fall, they violated the federal migratory bird treaty act.

Defendants are: John M. Hendrix, manager of the board of city development; Sam Southwell, city manager; C. E. Paxton, chief clerk at the Gulf refinery; R. M. Landon, refinery superintendent; and Ben Roberts, branch manager of International Harvester company.

Facts learned: Last October 25 the five men went out to inspect Lake Sweetwater, newly filled from fall rains. They had a gun or two in the boat, and shot seven ducks. Under the state game law, duck shooting had become legal the week before, on October 16; but the federal migratory bird act, falling for the first time to coincide with the Texas law in setting season on dates, fixed the open season as beginning November 1.

When the men landed their boat, they were met by W. T. St. John, state game warden, who happened to be patrolling the lake. When they protested the season had been open a week, St. John recited the federal act and told them he would have to refer the case to the federal authorities.

St. John told the News: "In November I referred the case to the federal warden in Houston, as I was uncertain about procedure, since it was the first case of the type I had handled. I got his reply in December in which he told me to pass it along to Washington. I did so, and then lost track of it."

Last Friday, evidently on instructions from Washington, the federal district attorney in Fort Worth instructed that information be filed against the men in the Abilene district. That was done last Friday, and late Monday the defendants were instructed to appear Tuesday before Mrs. Ida M. James, U. S. commissioner. They did so with counsel, each making bond for $200 for appearance next Monday before Judge James C. Wilson.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT—W. H. Hildreth was charged Wednesday in county court with aggravated assault. He was taken into custody Tuesday by the sheriff's department.

Sammy Sain Appeals For Support In Plans For Formation Of League

Sammy Sain, skipper of the Big Spring Cowboys, informs the Herald that the baseball league being formed here can be a genuine success from the Big Spring standpoint if the merchants and populace will give their support.

This year playing equipment and uniforms are sadly needed. Sain expressed the hope that Big Spring would appreciate his efforts to the extent that enough financial aid would be given to insure the boys a good start in the pennant race.

WHAT ABOUT BEER IN TEXAS?

WE HAVE BEER IN TEXAS NOW! BUT NOT LEGAL BEER. IT IS STRONG, IMPURE AND TAX FREE

A NEW DEAL TEXAS CAN HAVE THIS, TOO, BUT HOW?

On Monday, March 13, 1933, only six working days after he was inaugurated, President Roosevelt delivered this message to Congress.

"I recommend to the Congress the passage of legislation for the immediate modification of the Volstead Act, in order to legalize the manufacture and sale of beer and other beverages of such alcoholic content as is permissible under the Constitution, and to provide, through the manufacture and sale, by substantial taxes, a proper and much needed revenue for the Government. I deem action at this time to be of the highest importance."

On March 22nd, 1933, only six working days later, a bill legalizing beer was signed by President Roosevelt. The matter was simple—the mere amending of the Volstead Act to permit manufacture and sale of 3.2% beer and other beverages.

NON-POLITICAL ASPECT

We are not here concerned with the political aspect of prohibition. Our objective, like that of our President, is to secure much needed revenue for the State and Federal Governments. Legalized beer will afford a source of revenue that will not only reduce the Federal deficit, but will provide substantial tax relief running into millions and will lift the burden now resting so heavily on farmers, home owners and business men of Texas.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT DEMANDS IT

The manufacture of beer was discontinued as a war measure to conserve grain. Now we have a surplus of grain and have had for years. President Roosevelt has demanded the restoration of legal beer as an emergency paralleling conditions prevailing during armed conflict. We must uphold our President if we are to bring this country out of chaos and despair. He can not do it all.

HERE'S HOW!

IT'S SIMPLE, BUT NEEDS ROOSEVELTIAN ACTION

There is a bill before the House now which has been reported on favorably by the State Affairs Committee. This bill simply amends the Dean Law to legalize 3.2% beer as recommended by President Roosevelt. It will be brought to a vote in a few days. Communicate by wire, letter or postcard with your Senator and Representative asking them to vote for it and the supporting bill regulating revenue, manufacture, distribution and sale.

You Do Not Need A Poll Tax Receipt

No special election or extra expense is necessary. It can be done now in Austin.

Therefore:

We recommend to the Legislature the passage of legislation for the immediate modification of the Dean Law, in order to legalize the manufacture and sale of beer and other beverages of such alcoholic content as is permissible under the Constitution, and to provide, through the manufacture and sale, by substantial taxes, a proper and much needed revenue for the government.

We deem action at this time to be of the highest importance.

ACT NOW — THE TIME IS SHORT

NO POLL TAX NEEDED

Send a wire, write a letter or postcard to your Representatives of both the House and the Senate and tell them to Legalize Beer Now!

They can do it—that's all there is to it—but they won't—unless they hear from you!

COMMUNICATE WITH THE REPRESENTATIVES AND SENATORS AT AUSTIN WHO REPRESENT YOUR COUNTY — LISTED BELOW FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE:

- Duggan, Arthur P., 30
- Lamb, Bailey, Hale, Floyd, Motley, Cottle, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Dickens, King, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Garza, Kent, Stoneval, Gaines, Dawson, Borden, Andrews, Martin and Howard.
- Metcalfe, Penrose, Tom Green, Howard, Sterling, Reagan, Irion, Glasscock.

MOST IMPORTANT THING OF ALL IS TO TELL YOUR REPRESENTATIVE IN AUSTIN WHAT YOU WANT

This page is paid for by patriotic citizens who believe in President Roosevelt and are pledged to aid him in carrying out the Democratic platform and lead our country out of chaos and despair.

TO (Fill in name of Senator or Representative)

I believe that 3.2% beer should be legalized in Texas to provide employment, tax revenue and to improve business in Texas.

I request that you vote "Yes" on the Anderson-Mathis bill.

CHAPTER XXXII

The man stepped back. Janet said, "Oh, I'm sorry," and then her eyes lighted. "Why, Mr. Silvan! you exclaimed, "I didn't recognize you."

"Pat's straw hat was off in an instant. "I didn't recognize you either, Miss Hill. How are you? Just the other day Rose was talking about you. She said she hadn't seen you for quite a while."

"Oh, I'm all right," Janet assured him. "And I've been meaning to get out to see Mrs. Silvan and the children for a long time. Somehow something always comes up at the last minute. How are Rosie and Tommy?"

"Fine!" the father assured her. "They're a couple of lively kids all right. At least Rosie is. Tommy can make his share of the noise too. Rosie's brown hair, and I think their mother takes them down to the public playground as often as she can. There's no place else for them to play except the street. You know, Miss Hill, those kids are still talking about that circus you took them to."

Janet laughed. "I'm glad they are. I think about it myself some times. I'm sure I enjoyed it just exactly as much as they did."

They talked a little longer. Pat explained that he was down town early today because he'd heard of a sale of second-hand furniture. If he could find anything cheap that was worth having he'd like to buy Rose a couple of chairs. They'd make the house look better and Rose was a great one for always wanting things to look nice. Might find something, Pat said, that with a little work he could turn into a pretty fair piece of furniture.

"I hope you do," Janet told him. "And be sure to tell Mrs. Silvan that I'm coming out to see her. I'll be there sometime this week."

Pat said he would. They'd be awfully glad to have her come. A moment more and he was on his way down the street and Janet went on toward the motion picture theater.

She told herself reproachfully that she should have gone long ago to see the Silvans. It had been almost three weeks since she had been there. She knew the children liked to have her come and besides she had promised. Well, this week for sure she would go.

But Janet did not. The heat wave continued and nights as well as days were breathless and stifling. Mrs. Curtis complained of sleeplessness, canceled two dinner engagements and spent the evenings quietly at home. Sometimes she asked Janet to read to her and sometimes they played cards. There were other times when they merely sat and talked.

Janet suspected it was more than the heat that was troubling Mrs. Curtis. She did not look well and she seemed restless. When Janet suggested calling Doctor Roberts, however, Mrs. Curtis objected. She talked of a trip to the lake where she usually spent the summers but postponed it. The weather might change, Betty and Rolf were to remain in town and she did not like to leave them. Always before Mrs. Curtis and Betty had gone away together.

Janet came into the house one afternoon and hurried into the little room off the library. She had been down town and, returning on the bus, had suddenly remembered that there were several checks in her desk. Careless to leave them there, she had hurried to the bank and mailed them off at once.

"They must have come in from the lawn back of the house where there were deck chairs and a huge sun umbrella, Mrs. Curtis was speaking.

"—and Rachel Thornton's going next week," she said. "Oh, that reminds me. You and Rolf like to use my tickets for the concert Tuesday night?"

"A concert in this weather? Good heavens!"

"It's for the milk fund," Mrs. Curtis explained. "And Rachel's on the committee. It's really going to be rather nice, I think. That Russian singer—I never can remember her name—is going to sing. And Obernier is conducting."

"Well, there's no use in my taking the tickets. I couldn't get Rolf to a concert unless he was drugged first!"

Janet moved uncomfortably. Mrs. Curtis and Betty didn't know she was there and she didn't like to overhear their conversation. There was no escape, however, except the door leading directly into the library where they were. Perhaps they would leave in a moment.

But Mrs. Curtis and Betty did not leave and their next words held Janet speechless.

"Then if you don't want the tickets," Mrs. Curtis said, "I'll give them to Janet. She can invite some one."

But Betty's voice interrupted, angry and crackling. "Give them to Janet! Well, you certainly won't. I can find better use for them than that! Mother, isn't it about time that girl learned her place? Why, you'd think she was a guest here the way you treat her!"

"But, Betty—"

"I tell you I think it's the limit. Why does she have to have meals sent to her room? Why can't she eat with the other servants? Going to a concert! And sitting down in the front rows, I suppose. What would our friends think?"

"But it's a charity performance, Betty. I'm sure I don't see any reason why Janet shouldn't go."

"Well, I do and I tell you she's not going. I'll take the tickets—yes, if I have to tear them up! I won't have the girl putting on airs the way she does!"

"She doesn't, Betty. She's a very nice girl."

"Nice girl!" There was a sneer in the tone. "She's a common little stenographer—that's what she is!"

"No, Betty," Mrs. Curtis spoke with sudden dignity. "You're mistaken. Janet doesn't put on airs. She's been very helpful and considerate and I really can't have you saying such things about her."

The ringing of the doorbell interrupted and in a moment Lucy came to announce an arrival. There was the sound of footsteps and then the library was quiet. Both Mrs. Curtis and Betty had evidently gone to greet the newcomer.

White-faced, Janet finished addressing the envelopes, inserted the checks and then, taking her hat, slipped out the rear door of the house. There was no real reason why the letters should be posted immediately but she walked six blocks to the nearest postbox, dropped in the letters and then walked slowly back to the house.

So Betty felt sure that about "Common little stenographer" was what she had called her. She had said Janet put on airs and didn't know her place!

The girl's face was still pale but her eyes were burning. Her chin raised defiantly, "Common" was she? She thought of Betty's noisy, half-tipsy guests, of parties ending at daylight. Common!

"I don't care what she thinks about me," Janet told herself. "I don't care!"

But she did care. The fierce declarations were to quiet the wounds in her heart. Even Mrs. Curtis' quick defense did not make up for Betty's sharp-edged comments. The words had cut like a knife.

There was nothing Janet could do about it. She had been guilty of eavesdropping—quite unintentionally—and this was the result. She must never let anyone know that she had overheard the conversation.

Wiley Says Akron Crew Did Not Err

LAKEHURST, N. J., (AP)—Lieutenant Commander Herbert Wiley, completing his story of the Akron disaster at the naval inq... Tuesday, said officers and crew of the ship did their duty to the best of their ability before the craft burst through lightning to destruction.

"If any errors were made, he said before he left the witness stand, they were beyond the 'ill and experience existing today.'"

Wiley told the board he now believed the shock caused by "the severe gust of wind" a few seconds before the dirigible crashed was caused by her tail striking the water.

Norris Introduces Tennessee Valley Project Measure

WASHINGTON, (AP)—A bill to carry out President Roosevelt's vast Tennessee basin project, including government operation of Muscle Shoals for power, nitrate and fertilizer production, was introduced Tuesday by Senator Norris of Nebraska.

The bill authorized "all necessary funds."

The measure created a "Tennessee Valley Authority," a corporation of three to be appointed by the President to supervise the project, and authorized a bond issue to defray costs of constructions of plants and dams.

Chairman McSwain of the house committee introduced a bill with the same objective.

Revival Service Open On West Third Street

An invitation was issued Tuesday by J. Ollie Hux to the public to attend revival services on West Third street, next to Owl tourist camp.

His announcement follows: "War declared on the devil and his work, in a campaign beginning tonight on West Third street, where you will hear Bible messages on prophecy of present-day conditions. We are living in an age of trouble and sorrow when we are perplexed and are crying peace, peace when there is no peace. We are treading a thin crust that hides volcanic fire which may break forth any moment to engulf our civilization. Our greatest statesmen and Bible students agree that we are fast approaching a serious crisis in the world's history and that the breaking point is near at hand. So the sleeping Christians should awake and prepare for the approaching storm."
