COUNTY VETERANS AWAIT $450,000 IN BONDS

TEX'S TOPICS
BY TEX DE WESSE

WORDS stepped out of this space Friday when Olin E. Hinkle, editor of The NEWS for nearly a decade, wrote "30" at the conclusion of his last column before starting for Lexington, Ky., where he goes to a broader field with his journalistic team mate, Gilmore N. Nunn.

The "30" he wrote is merely a dab of printer's ink. The departure of Mr. Hinkle and Mr. Nunn can be nothing more than physical. Monuments of their community service and of their social, civic and church relationships will stand in the hearts of Pampans for all time.

Olin Hinkle

In less than a week since the arrival in Pampa of the new conductor of this column, our associations with Mr. Hinkle have been such that we have sensed the sincere twinge in his heart as he goes about last minute preparations to leave his beloved Pampa. In front of the court house the other day someone asked Mr. Hinkle just how it felt to be "stepping out of a picture" in which he has so long been a familiar figure. WORDS said, simply: "I just can't explain—it gets me." These are words more expressive of real regret in parting with tried and true friends, than any he possibly could have chosen, had he been attempting to select them. To us it was a message from the very bottom of the heart of a man not given to the spilling over of sentiment.

Pampa will miss Mr. Hinkle. Pampa will miss Mr. Nunn. But Olin and Gilmore are going to miss Pampa. They have been too much a part of this community to allow time or distance to melt the weld from such a bond of friendship as that which exists between them and the people of this Panhandle metropolis.

Readers of WORDS are going to miss Olin's home-spun philosophy. Here it may be well to mention that he is taking the title of the column with him to Kentucky where we know he will continue to express his sincerity and his progressive thoughts among those who will learn to consider WORDS a vital part of their daily newspaper diet. Just as readers of THE NEWS have considered it in Pampa and the surrounding area, because he is taking WORDS with him we must rename the column. It is our sincere hope we can reach to a small degree the excellent content that has characterized it in the past. It is a goal that will be difficult to attain. We ask that you bear with us and invite your constructive criticism and helpful suggestions.

From the civic tribute paid to Mr. Nunn and Mr. Hinkle this week one senses that they had penetrated the mind of their community. They felt the needs in a progressive way, we had heard and accomplished the things that counted. They knew, as public servants, that their moral duty consisted in the observance of those rules of conduct which contributed to the welfare of their community and of the individuals who compose it. Many miss this goal entirely. Olin and Gilmore have scored a direct hit on the target of community service. Because of their rigid adherence to this simple rule of life they are bound to be successful as they step higher on the ladder.

As we view it from the sidelines—

Bonus Scene to Make Vets Register Satisfaction

In every Federal Reserve district, scenes like this were being enacted as preparation for payment of the World War veterans' bonus was being rushed. Close to $2,000,000 of bonds and checks were being registered for delivery beginning June 15. Every envelope in those long piles in front of the registry clerks at New York (top) contain some veteran's bonus claim.

HERO OF CRASH DIES OF BURNS; JONES ON SHIP

RFC Head Proclaims Bravery of Texas Plane Pilot

DALLAS, June 13. (AP)—Burns received in the crash of a burning airplane near Ferris yesterday, proved fatal today to Eugene Schacher of Houston, 32-year-old co-pilot.

Schacher died a hero, Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, ex-Gov. and Mrs. W. P. Hobby, and Joe Toomey, passengers, all proclaimed his bravery in battling the blaze which forced the ship down from a 7,000-foot level.

Ed Heffley, pilot of the plane, credited Schacher with the highest courage.

"When we smelled gasoline, the plane caught fire and we started diving. I ordered Schacher to warn the passengers of a hard landing," he said.

He went back to the cabin from our compartment and he could have stayed there, but he didn't. He came back into that blazing little space and fought the fire while I landed the ship.

"It's not hard to stand pain when you have responsibility, but when you're just sitting there with your clothing burning off, it's tough. He had what it takes."

Minimizes Part

Heffley minimized his own courage in diving the flaming ship at 275 feet an hour to the ground and bringing it to a rough but safe landing in a plowed field.

Mrs. Hobby described her husband as follows:

Officer Is Told Lake Contains Remains Of 6 Persons

ROSSELL, N. M., June 13. (AP)—A new tip from an unnamed informant spurred New Mexico state police to intensify their search of a little rock-bound lake near here today, in the hope its rocky bottom might yield the bodies of six disappearance victims.

E. J. House, chief of the constabulary, announced he had been informed that the tiny desert sink-hole might hold not only the remains of four missing tourists but also the bodies of two other persons.

Although declining to name the tipster or to hint at the identity of the other possible victims, Chief House said his new information had disclosed another disappearance mystery.

A similar tip given by a man held in state penitentiary, sent the police to the arid region north of here, where several days ago they began dragging the lake for the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. George Lorus and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heberer, Illinois tourists who dropped from sight a year ago last May.

E. P. Lane deep sea diver from Houston, Tex., returned to the lake with additional equipment, after his first descent into the waters yesterday ended in failure because his apparatus was not adequate for the 100-foot depths.

The bottom of the lake basin, carved out of solid rock, is littered with huge boulders and the abrupt banks becoming overhanging ledges below the surface, he said. A minute search will be necessary to determine the presence of bodies, if any, he said, although the lake is little broader than it is deep.

Inability of a small hand pump to supply sufficient air caused Lane to halt operations abruptly yesterday. He was brought to the surface pale and gasping.

Chief House expressed new confidence that he was at least near solution of the baffling Lorus-Heberer mystery.

"I am sure that the tip we received was a good one and I believe the lake we are examining is the spot indicated by our informant was the place where the bodies were hidden," he declared.

LOUISIANAN IS CHAMP SPITTER AT CENTENNIAL

Pack Is Disqualified For Using Snuff Mixture

BY SAM S. FARRINGTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

DALLAS, Texas, June 13. (AP)—Representative Leon Friedman, a darkhorse tobacco chewer from Natchitoches La., walked off with high spring honors at the Texas Centennial today after a furious juice squirting contest with the Texas champion, Captain Leonard Pack, Chief of Centennial Police.

Mingled with the amber spray from the long, curling shots of the contestants were charges and countercharges of unfair competition, all of which terminated in Governor James V. Allred's candidate being disqualified for using snuff instead of plain tobacco.

Rep. Friedman, who agreed to compete for Louisiana after Governor Richards W. Leche's hand-picked candidate, Rep. Leonard Sprinks of Hammond, failed to show up, was awarded the title while, after smugly viewing his best throw, which measured an even 12 and one-half feet.

The contest prompted some Texans to lift their eyebrows, since a number of unofficial candidates for the honor of being Texas representative had bragged that they could swamp a horned toad at 15 feet.

Topping the Louisianan's high mark was Captain Pack's high-arched spit of 13 feet, two inches, but a careful examination by the judges disclosed that he was using a mixture of snuff, which resulted automatically in his disqualification. Judge Towne Young and Grover Adams of Dallas found the evidence of snuff, while the Louisiana judge, C. P. Lifer of Baton Rouge, maintained Captain Pack used licorice.

MINISTER IS CONVICTED IN CHIEF'S DEATH

VERDICT STUNS TALL GAUNT PREACHER AT HOUSTON

HOUSTON, Texas, June 13. (AP)—The Rev. Edgar Eskridge, two-gun Baptist preacher, drew a five year prison term today for the shotgun slaying of Ed O'Reilly, Orange police chief, May 29, 1935.

A district court jury deliberated about two hours before finding the crime-crushing pastor guilty of murder without malice.

Apparently stunned by the jury's decision to follow neither the state plea for death in the electric chair nor the defense request for acquittal on the grounds of temporary insanity, Eskridge had little to say about the verdict as he followed bailiffs back to jail.

"I don't see how they ever reached a verdict like that," the convicted man commented.

The preacher received a degree in law before entering the ministry and had closely followed legal phases of the case.

"I do not think we will file a motion for a new trial," Tom Branch, member of the defense counsel, said. "We regard the verdict as a victory for the defense."

Eskridge's wife, who testified in his defense, and other relatives displayed no emotion and made no comment on the verdict.

O'Reilly was felled by a load of buckshot as he stood on an Orange street corner talking with a friend a day after he had disarmed Eskridge.

Eskridge had been pastor of the Orange First Baptist church five years and had carried on an active crusade against what he said were vice conditions at Orange. He also accused peace officers of laxity in performing their duties.

CHINA AWED BY MORE JAP SHIPS, GUNS

Warships Land Marines In South China; Resistance Asked by Cantonese

HONKONG, June 14. (Sunday) (AP)—Japanese warships and Japanese marines came to South China today.

While Cantonese, massed in the crooked streets of that city, asked anew for resistance to Nippon, Chinese reports stated a Japanese naval squadron had landed blue-jackets at Amoy, Fukien province, on the coast a few hundred miles to the north.

The marines, ostensibly, were landed to protect Japanese lives and property, but the commander of the vessels said they were ready to steam toward Canton at a moment's notice, if they are needed.

Dispatches direct from Amoy said one cruiser and six destroyers had anchored there, and that Japan apparently was watching the South China development closely. The Amoy advices also quoted unconfirmed reports of skirmishing on the southern Fukien border between Nanking (Central) government patrols and the troops of the Kwangtung (South China provincial) army.

From Foochow, the Fukien capital north of Amoy, other dispatches stated 15 light cruisers and gunboats of the Nanking government had dropped a practice cruise, and were proceeding northward under emergency orders.

(Nanking advices told of new central government troop concentrations in southern Hunan province, just north of the Canton territory. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, the national dictator, was represented, nevertheless, as still striving to keep the peace with South China.)

LONG-UGHT BONUS MONEY WILL ARRIVE

3,000,000 PACKETS TO START MOVING ON MONDAY

Doughboys of 1917, residing in Gray county, today were making plans to spend, or save, approximately $450,000 in bonus money. The first batch of certificates will reach Pampa tomorrow. The number is unknown to local postoffice officials, however.

From tomorrow until the last bond has been delivered, veterans will be watching for the yellow slip which will tell them their reward for fighting in France has arrived.

Of the amount to be received in Gray county, it is estimated more than $350,000 worth will come to the Pampa community. A recent survey conducted by THE NEWS revealed that a major portion of the bonds will be cashed. Paying of debts, purchasing of household equipment and clothing, buying homes and cars was found to be the major use to which Pampa veterans will put the money. A few plan to "hang on" to their bonds and let them draw three per cent interest.

The money was hard-earned, and veterans have been 18 years collecting it. They will stop to think before spending it. Some will "throw it away" but most of them will remember how it was made possible and spend it wisely, it is believed by officials of local veterans organizations.

An effort will be made to deliver some of the certificates here, but most of them will have to be called for at the local office. A yellow slip will be left in iron boxes or in postoffice boxes, notifying the veteran that his bonds have arrived and can be secured at the postoffice.

The veteran will have to call for the bonds in person and before receiving them he will have

President Talks To 25,000 Crowd For Sam Rayburn

DENISON, June 13. (AP)—President Roosevelt headed out of Texas today after asking a crowd estimated at 25,000 to relay his farewell to all of the state.

Declaring he and Mrs. Roosevelt would cherish the memories of two pleasant days in Texas, he said: "Now that I have broken the ice, I hope to return to your splendid state again soon."

The President said that through his conferences over a period of years with Congressman Sam Rayburn of Bonham, he was as familiar with the district's "biography" as those residing here.

Calling attention to the Red river survey now in progress, Mr. Roosevelt said that he hoped some day to see the Red river flood control project started.

Again attributing his information to Congressman Rayburn, Mr. Roosevelt said he understood that of 31,000 farms in this congressional district only seven or eight hundred had electric light. This is a condition that we propose to remedy before we are through," he said.

With Rayburn serving as master of ceremonies, Mrs. Roosevelt and Gov. and Mrs. Allred were also present.

The crowd which heard the chief executive was the largest which ever gathered here.

WOMAN DEAD 7 MINUTES, THEN LIFE RETURNS

Does Soul Leave the Body on Instant Of Death?

SHEFFIELD, Eng., June 13. (AP)—British Medical circles today heard the astounding story of Mary Deverport's seven minute interlude of "Death" in a dental chair, how she lost two dozen teeth and how she went back to work in a feel factory.

"The case poses a question for those who believe the soul leaves the body on the instant of death," remarked Dr. Alfred A. Masser of Sheffield. He described the case for the British Medical Journal.

"She remembers nothing about her strange experience," the doctor asserted today.

Dr. Masser reported the 20-year-old girl's heart stopped beating shortly after chloroform had been administered preliminary to having her teeth extracted by a dentist.

"The patient went suddenly white, breathing stopped and the pupils dilated widely. The pulse and heart sounds could not be detected.

"The head was immediately lowered, artificial respiration started, and strychnine was given hypodermically.

"While this was being carried on, I massaged her through the diaphragm from beneath the costal margin. No response of any sort occurred. So I decided to try an intracardiac injection of 'loral,' plunging a long needle into the left ventricle about the level of the fourth

Police Assigned To Pickpockets At Exposition

DALLAS, June 13. (AP)—The Austin police department came to the aid of the Centennial today when it added three detectives, selected for their ability to identify pickpockets. They were given quarters on the grounds at Centennial park and were ordered to co-operate both with Centennial police and Dallas detectives.

Austin's three-man detail included Detectives W. F. Flow, Ted Klaus, and F. L. Estep.

People You Know
(BY A. F.)

You have seen your neighbors become rich from oil, and you have already decided what you would do if you had lots of money. Several days ago a rich young man walked down Kingsmill. He splashed three little boys, poorly-dressed, dusty, singing, hill-billy songs to their own accompaniment on stringed instruments. The young man threw a half-dollar among the boys. "You can play all of them banjos, can't you?" he asked the youngest. The mile of a lad saw the coin, and solemnly fingered, and thumbed each "banjo." Another half-dollar flashed at the boys' feet. "Now sing 'Silver haired Daddy'."

Another four-bits. "Sing 'O Bury Me Beneath the Willows.'" Fifty cents again. That went on for a half-hour.

If you were rich could you spend your money more worthily than our rich young man?

Lewis O. Cox To Seek Office Of Commissioner

Lewis O. Cox yesterday authorized THE NEWS to announce his candidacy for commissioner of precinct No. 2, Gray county, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, July 25.

He was formerly commissioner of precinct No. 2 from 1929 to 1933, during much of the improvements of the district. He spent his full time on the work and plans, if elected, to spend his full time again on the work. He believes that the office requires the full time of the commissioner and does not plan to pay out taxpayers money to someone else to do the work.

He has been in Gray county since 1909 and has been active in civic affairs and affairs of the county as a whole.

Birth of Flag To Be Observed By Local Elks

Pampa's Elks club, 1573, will observe the birth of the Stars and Stripes today with a special 8 o'clock meeting. Frank Thomas, exalted ruler, has issued a call for all Elks whether in good standing or not to be present at the club rooms on Kingsmill avenue promptly at 6 o'clock this evening.

A special invitation is extended to members from other cities who are residing or visiting in Pampa to attend.

Arrangements have been made to present an excellent male quartet. One of Pampa's best known speakers will address the gathering, his subject being "Evolution of the Flag."

It is the wish of the Elks Lodge that Pampa citizens will cooperate to the extent of displaying every available flag from sunup to sundown.

Bank Will Be Closed Tuesday For Convention

The First National bank of Pampa will be closed all day Tuesday, June 16, while members of the staff attend the convention of the Panhandle Bankers association in Amarillo. Most banks in the Panhandle will be closed on this day.

DeLea Vicars, president of the bank here, is head of the bankers association. Other officers are Thom E. Noel, vice-president, Memphis; J. Ross Noland, vice-president, Tulsa; Arthur H. Ware, secretary Amarillo; H. R. Fritz, treasurer, Amarillo; and F. A. Paul, immediate past president, Panhandle.

PHILLIPS WINS FROM PARROTS IN 2-1 UPSET

BIG THREE WILL TAKE CLUB SERIOUSLY FROM NOW ON

A bomb, and a big one at that, was thrown into the Panhandle baseball circle on Friday night when Phillips 66 from the South Pampa field slipped quietly into Amarillo and defeated the Phillips Parrots of that city, 2 to 1.

The Phillips boys have not been taken seriously by the big three—Pampa Road Runners, Berger Black-faces and Amarillo Parrots. Phillips has been quietly adding strength and suddenly announced ready for a game...

A couple of lefthanders, Winkler and R. Dilbeck, proceeded to hold the rejuvenated Amarillo sluggers for a scattered hit and a single run. Lake Coburn hurled winning ball for Amarillo, allowing only six hits, but four juicy errors were costly.

LeFors scored in the second inning when Winkler shot a single and score Blue was on third following a hit and an error. The visitors made it two in the fifth when Christian scored on Fulson's error of Lister's grounder.

Amarillo's lone score was made in the fifth when Coburn singled to score Francis who had singled and advanced on two wild pitches by Winkler.

Phillips went to bat with Newsome, lf; Christian, rf; Blue, 2b; Filbert, 1b; Lister, cf; Fountain, ss; Romines, 3b; Bork, c; Winkler and Dilbeck, p.

Schmeling Looks Best in 5 Weeks

NAPANOCH, N. Y., June 13 (AP)—Max Schmeling turned in what was probably his best workout of five weeks of training today as he stepped out against his sparring partners in preparation for his 15-round match with Joe Louis in the Yankee Stadium arena Thursday night.

The German showed decided improvement with his left hand, rocking his sparring mates time and again with southpaw blows.

The former heavyweight champion plans to taper off training tomorrow, boxing only five rounds. His last workout will be staged Tuesday.

LeFors Boys To Make Debut Against Mags Here Today

New Phillips Club to Travel to Hoover For Game

Fans cannot expect the LeFors Junior baseball club to be at its best this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when it squares off against the Pee-wees at Magnolia park because it will be the first practice of the season for the boys from the banks of the North Fork.

The club was organized during the last week by R. W. McDonald, proprietor of Mc's boiler welding shop of LeFors. The boys had not previously practiced together. The only thing that is known of the team is that the boys are large for their age and that "Mc" believes they will be able to hold their own against any club in the Junior league.

A completely reorganized line will accompany Manager John Shannon to Hoover this afternoon. A drastically changed lineup is in prospect due to the fact that the rule requiring a boy's name on the team roster two weeks before he plays was temporarily lifted this week in order to make the LeFors and Berger clubs eligible. The rule will be placed in effect again when the second half of the season opens. Any of the clubs may place a player in the lineup on a minute's notice before now and June 20 and he will be eligible during the last week. Phillips has signed up several new boys during the last week. The only requirement for signing up new players is that he must have been under 18 years of age on April 21 when the league was organized.

Several new players may be holding down positions in the Pee-wees lineup this afternoon. Coach Roy Marshall has acquired a new pitcher who may and may not do the hurling for the Mags. It is rumored that Reed who walked out on the Pee-wees last Sunday when they lost to the Berger Christians may be in a uniform and ready to pitch.

The Pee-wees are hoping that Claude Heiskell who is capable enough will not have to do the hurling because when he is moved from first base, it is necessary to change the lineup of the entire team except behind the plate and in left field. The regular lineup has Audis behind the bat, Buckingham at second, Mills, third base, Foster, left field; Dull, center field; G. Heiskell, shortstop; Cassada, right field. The LeFors lineup includes Raymond Carruth, Ed Pierce, Ted Simmons, Cecil Cullum, Chris Walsh, William Twigg, L. E. McDonald, Howard Barnett, J. C. Oliver, T. Pinerson, Vaughn, Archer, Hext, and Bonner. One of the boys is 15, five are 16, and three are 17.

The Hoover lineup: Hogan, lf; H. Lewis, ss; L. Colvin, 2b; Turcotte c; A. Lewis, 3b; Cole, cf; Maddox, p; C. Hogan, lf; J. H. Johnson, rf; Rogers and C. Lewis will be ready to replace any of the regular lineup. Manager H. A. Colvin announced.

Shannon has had charge of the Phillips boys for a week, since Ben Romines, formerly manager and coach, began playing with the senior Phillips 66 team.

The probable lineup: Norman Cox, p; James Dewey, c; Seth Cox, lf; Fred Vanderberg, 2b; Isler, ss; Sam B. Haughton, 3b; Hall, rf; Dilbeck, cf; Elzey Vanderberg, lf; Ready on the bench will be Louis Rolerson, Joe Isbell, Robert Moddrell, Kenneth Kell, Jack Sharp, Melvin Turner.

WOMEN TAKE WIGHTMAN CUP FROM BRITISH

TITLE WON 6TH CONSECUTIVE TIME BY U. S.

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 13 (AP)—In a gripping contest that went to the concluding match for final decision a fighting American women's team marched uphill today to win the Wightman tennis cup from England for the sixth successive year. The margin was four matches to three.

Darkness almost had enveloped Wimbledon's famed arena and a crowd of 15,000 as Helen Jacobs, four-time American champion and team captain, beaten twice in singles, poised at the net and smashed a placement for the winning point in the deciding contest of the two-day, seven-match struggle.

That smash meant a return trip to the United States for the 14-year old trophy and a 1-6, 6-3, 7-5 triumph for Miss Jacobs and diminutive Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fryban of Brookline, Mass., over left-handed Kay Stammers and Freda James.

Moving into the final day, the Britons, as the result of yesterday's matches, led 2 to 1. Mrs. Fryban squared the standing by vanquishing Miss Tammer, 6-3, 6-4, in surprising fashion but England forged ahead again as Miss Jacobs dropped her second singles assignment. Yesterday she lost to Miss Tammer, 2 to 1.

Her brilliant play in yesterday's doubles match saved the United States from a shutout and today her 6-4, 4-6, 6-2 victory over Ruth Mary Hardwick, a newcomer in cup play, put Uncle Sam back in the running.

Mrs. Hill Wins Western Title

TOPEKA, Kas., June 13 (AP)—A rally befitting a champion late today won Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City her second consecutive women's Western open golf title.

Two down at 27 holes, she blazed a par trail down the home stretch of the 36 hole final match to defeat Mrs. Charles Denney of Lake Forest, Ill., 3 and 2.

The wispy Chicagoan, so frail in appearance it seemed she would wilt under the strain, gave the

SCHUMACHER BEATS SKEETERS FOR TEXAS AMATEUR CROWN

SAN ANTONIO, June 13 (AP)—Donald Perry Schumacher, stocky and easy-going, ascended the Texas amateur golf throne today with a sparkling eight and six victory over William (Bill) Skeeters in the Texas golf association's 30th annual tournament.

Association officials hailed Schumacher as a real Texas utility for Skeeters represented municipal linksmen, permitted for the first time to compete in the association's state tournament. Both are from Dallas.

Consistently stroking his way over the rolling San Antonio country club course in regulation figures, Schumacher led Skeeters one up at completion of the front nine and tightened even more to lead four holes at the turn of the 18th.

Cracking par for 27 holes by one stroke, Schumacher definitely removed by a five hole advantage

PHILADELPHIA, June 13 (AP)—The Athletics and Cleveland's Indians divided a double bill at Shibe park today. The A's took the opener 7 to 3, but were routed in the eight-inning nightcap, 19 to 1, as a parade of five Mack hurlers failed to halt the Tribe's 17-hit barrage.

NEWSPAPERS BOUGHT MARSHALL, June 13 (AP)—A. G. (Pat) Mayse, president of the North Texas Publishing company of Paris, today announced purchase of the Marshall Morning News and Evening Messenger from Mrs. Jean Herrin Winsborough and Joe Herrin. The new owners took control of the newspaper Saturday with Riley Cross, an officer of the North Texas Publishing company, as publisher and general manager. Mr. Cross for the past seven years has been advertising manager of the Paris News, of which Mayse is publisher.

A new principle in aviation will be tested starting June 12, when Monty G. Mason, aircraft corporation executive, and Clyde E. Pangborn, flying under the sponsorship of the Texas Centennial exposition, hop from Dallas for Paris.

WAGES AND WORKING HOURS MAY BE ISSUE IN CONVENTION

BATTLE OVER PLATFORM IS POSSIBILITY

PLAN TO ABOLISH TWO-THIRDS RULE MAY CAUSE STRIFE

WASHINGTON, June 13. (AP)—Democratic chieftains checked things over today and said they were just about ready for their party's national convention in Philadelphia which opens June 23 to renominate President Roosevelt.

As they worked long into the afternoon to make sure nothing was overlooked, Senator Barkley of Kentucky retired to his home to begin writing the keynote speech he will make as temporary chairman of the convention.

Surrounded by a corps of party workers and stenographers, Emil Hurja, assistant to Chairman James A. Farley of the national committee, and Charles Michelson, publicity director, sent out hundreds of letters and telegrams about seating arrangements and hotel accommodations.

They dispatched hundreds of other letters that had to do with such things as liberty bell souvenirs, a memorial breakfast for William Jennings Bryan, a prizefight, a scapple breakfast, an ice skating carnival, and the outdoor demonstration at Franklin park at which President Roosevelt will make his acceptance speech June 27.

The permanent chairman of the Philadelphia convention will be Senator Robinson of Arkansas who presided over the Chicago meeting in 1932.

To date 1,032 of the 1,100 delegates have been chosen. The others will be picked next Tuesday. All delegates thus far selected either have been instructed on record as favoring Mr. Roosevelt's renomination.

There was some speculation in the party's councils as to whether any real fights would develop over the adoption of a platform and over the proposal to abolish the two-thirds rule for the naming of the nominee. Both Farley and President Roosevelt have favored its abolition and adoption of the majority rule.

Chairman Ashurst (D-Ariz) of the senate judiciary committee said he thought it possible that the convention would consider proposals to amend the constitution so that wages and working hours may be regulated.

Senator Connally (D-Tex) said he was considering the advisability of urging a take-the-fights-out-of-war plank.

Landon Does Some Horse Trading

Business as usual was Governor Alfred M. Landon's motto as he remained far away from the tumult of the republican national convention in Cleveland. The governor is shown here as he talked to Sargeant Morris, after a drive to the latter's farm outside Topeka.

JUDGE DENIES LONE STAR'S GAS PETITION

ORDINANCE PASSED BY FORT WORTH IS UPHELD

DALLAS, June 13. (AP)—Federal Judge W. H. Atwell today denied an application by the Lone Star Gas company for an order restraining the city of Fort Worth from putting into effect an ordinance forbidding the dilution of natural gas.

Judge Atwell's opinion upheld the principal findings of Special Master Maurice Cheek, appointed to hear the controversy by Federal Judge James Wilson of Fort Worth, who had granted a temporary order.

L. B. Dedding, president of the company, announced an appeal would be taken to the fifth circuit court of appeals at New Orleans.

The ordinance prohibits addition of air or oxygen to natural gas served in its city except in such amounts as cannot be excluded.

Judge Atwell held the city had legislative power to take such action if it concluded the gas dilution was unsafe and liable to produce harm to the users.

The gas company erected a $500,000 plant at Joshua where gas from various fields is stabilized and made of standard grade by addition of nitrogen.

This, testimony by the city was intended to show, was an inert quantity, unless it was heating substance, but which registered on gas meters.

"The fact that the company has been serving gas with more than the heat units legally required does not excuse it for putting something else into it though it does not rob the customers of any heat value," the court ruled.

Denning said "It is still our belief that stabilization is necessary in giving Fort Worth the best possible gas service and we are not ready to take the responsibility for conditions which would result if stabilization was discontinued."

Mayor George Sergeant said after learning of the decision that he would seek immediate passage of an ordinance to forbid dilution of natural gas before it is distributed in Dallas. "I think it is time for the city to act," he said.

Adjournment by June 20 Sought By Congressmen

WASHINGTON, June 13. (AP)—An intensive drive for adjournment of Congress not later than June 20 was organized by leaders today as republicans drifted in from their national convention at Cleveland and democrats looked forward to their own convention in Philadelphia June 23.

Some doubt tinged the hopes of the leaders, however, as they prepared to take up their legislative burdens again Monday after a week's recess.

With the controversial issues surrounding the tangled tax bill still to be met, House and Senate conferees adjourned today until Monday, four days of deliberations having proved unproductive so far as an agreement of major disputes in the revenue measure was concerned.

The main point of difference between the Senate and House centered around the question of taxing undistributed corporate profits. The House approved a graduated tax ranging up to 42 1-2 per cent while the Senate voted for a flat 7 per cent levy.

DEADLINE FOR COUNTY OFFICE FILING PASSES

STATE POLITICS DUE TO PICK UP AT EARLY DATE

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL, Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Tex., June 13 (AP)—The deadline for thousands of candidates seeking certain county, district and precinct offices was drawn today.

It was the last day county and precinct candidates and those for district offices in districts composed of only one county could file requests to have their names placed on the ballot for the primary July 22.

How many candidates entered the lists throughout the state no one knew, but in view of the 254 counties with their many sub-divisions, the number admittedly was huge.

June 1 was a similar deadline for filing by candidates for state offices and district offices in districts containing more than one county.

With filing concluded, President Roosevelt's visit a thing of the past and the Centennial celebration setting into its stride, state politics was expected to pick up at an early date.

The tremendous interest in the President's swing through Texas and the opening of the Centennial exposition somewhat shaded other events in news columns the past week.

A number of state political leaders contacted Mr. Roosevelt during his visit, but the rapidity of his movement was a barrier to many others. Governor James V. Allred was with him throughout the tour.

Denying report that he would open his campaign at Waxahachie next week, a source close to the governor said the formal opening probably would be deferred until the end of June or early in July.

Although the President said the visit was non-political, some of his remarks at the San Jacinto battlefield, the Alamo and the Centennial exposition were interpreted as sounding opening guns of the national political war.

The Democratic state executive committee certified 35 names as candidates for state offices, throwing out two on grounds of improper filing. Those were John O. Douglas of Houston, who sought to oppose Attorney General William McCraw, and Jefferson T. Baker of Dallas, who wanted to run for commissioner of agriculture. Some talk of a court contest was heard.

Orville S. Carpenter, director of the pension organization, warned employees formally they would not be permitted to engage in any political campaign. The law prohibits any state employe from such action.

Arrangements were virtually completed for the Texas delegation to the Democratic national convention at Philadelphia to leave Dallas June 20 on a special train. Politics and Centennial advertising will be combined.

Clawing Cat Is Cause of Crash; Woman Is Dead

DALLAS, June 13. (AP)—The death in a head-on car crash of a woman and the injury of three others today near Duncanville, Texas, was traced to a rebellious cat.

Mrs. Dokes B. Carroll, 50, of Cedar Hill, was killed in the Collision. Joe Harrington, driver of the coupe in which Mrs. Carroll was riding, suffered head, nose and leg injuries. He lives in Cedar Hill. His daughter, Catherine, 18, suffered head injuries and Mrs. Harrington a cut on the hand and a bruised knee.

The Harrington coupe and a car driven by Raymond Coffman, 25, of Cleburne, crashed after Harrington attempted to throw a clawing cat from his automobile. While his attention was distracted, his car swerved and the crash followed.

A charge of negligent homicide was filed against Harrington. Coffman and his father, D. H. Coffman, suffered only minor injuries and shock.

The cat was not injured. Mrs. J. E. Haden left Pampa-Jarrat hospital yesterday afternoon.

LOOK high and look low throughout this smart and spirited Buick SPECIAL, and you'll find only one thing about it that's anything but big.

It's big in its inches, length and breadth—big in the ample, stretch-out space it supplies to driver and passengers alike.

It's big in its power—it hasn't found a hill it couldn't easily master, or a driver it couldn't thrill by the fervor of its quick response, the smoothness of its stride.

It's big in the measure of its quality, seen and unseen—every nut and bolt and strut and part is eloquent testimony to Buick's insistence that the best alone will do.

It's big in the pleasure it can bring you—pleasure that comes from handling a sparkling and superior performer—pleasure that's yours from owning a car so obviously better than mere transportation requires.

It's big in the satisfactions it yields—from the smartness of its valid streamline style, from the surety of its comfort, and your knowledge that the family couldn't be safer in a car. It's big in every way, until you reach for the tag that names the price—then you find that it's only a short step up from the lowest-priced field to the Buick of your dreams. $765* and up, list at Flint, the price tag on the Buick SPECIAL, Series 40, reads, and the terms are within anyone's reach.

Million-Dollar War Chest Fund Drive Started

TULSA, Okla., June 13. (AP)—The Women's Christian Temperance Union backed up its campaign against liquor with a drive for a million dollar "war chest" tonight.

The fund, sought complete by 1939, was decided upon at the organization's national convention today, to finance a youth educational campaign.

As originally proposed by Mrs. Ella B. Black of Pennsylvania the fund was for $500,000, but the convention voted to double the amount, with the state organizations raising half and the national body the balance.

It was agreed, too, that every member of the W. C. T. U. would contribute a penny to the expense of the world W. C. T. U. convention to be held in Washington next year.

"When a city permits a drug store, a grocery, a hotel, cafe or other place to have a license for the sale of alcoholic beverages it is time to plan a youth's temperance council in every neighborhood," said Miss Helen Y. Byrnes of Evanston, Ill.

Mrs. K. T. May was able to leave Pampa-Jarratt hospital Friday afternoon.

Intersectional Games Scheduled By SMU Ponies

DALLAS, June 13. (AP)—Scheduling of important intersectional football games for the next four years and appointment of a varsity track coach to succeed Victor Hunt, who has resigned from the local staff to take over the head coachship at Tulsa university, were announced today by James H. Stewart, business manager of athletics at Southern Methodist university.

This year the Ponies will play Fordham university in New York City Oct. 10 and Vanderbilt university at the Cotton Bowl here Oct. 17. Vanderbilt also returns from an October engagement in 1937. An addition to the schedule is a return game with U. C. L. A. at Los Angeles Nov. 20, 1937. The Mustangs also will go east to battle the Pitt Panthers at Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 12, 1938 and to play Notre Dame at South Bend, Oct. 14, 1939.

The new varsity track mentor will be Dr. Lee Brooks, a professor who was a former sport star at S. M. U. and who last fall served as football scout.

Craig Wood Wins Ontario Tourney

FONTHILL, Ont., June 13. (AP)—A record smashing as well as par smashing on 68 on the final round enabled Craig Wood of New York to come from behind and win the $1,000 first prize in the General Brook open golf tournament today.

The birnie better stormed down the stretch two strokes under par and one under the record set last year by Ray Mangrum of Dayton, Ohio, and finished two strokes ahead of Tony Manero of Greensboro, N. C., the United States open champion and winner of last year's Brook tourney. Wood's 72-hole total was 285; Manero's 287. In third place at 289 came Zell Eaton, the young Oklahoma City pro.

Ralph Gulda of St. Louis, who shot a final 70 to post an early 290, took fourth place while fifth money went to the leading Canadian, Bill Kerr of Toronto, with 292.

Mrs. Carl Benefiel was able to be taken home from Pampa-Jarratt hospital yesterday afternoon following medical treatment.

Pampa Mother's Plea for Penal Inmate Rejected

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 13 (AP)—As Ray Terrill, notorious Oklahoma bank robber, neared the end of a 20-year sentence today, his mother, Mrs. Rosa Patten, Pampa, asked the state board of pardons and paroles to release him 67 days early, but her request was turned down.

Fred Cunningham, state pardon and parole officer, said Mrs. Patten had asked in a letter that Terrill be released July 18 instead of Sept. 24, when his 20-year sentence would terminate, with time off for good behavior.

Mrs. Patten charged her son was in need of immediate medical attention, but Cunningham declared Terrill is a third-tymer with a record "so bad that we could not allow him time for the 67 days he was in jail before his trial."

Terrill, caught in the cross fire of guards when a group of desperate felons broke from McAlester penitentiary May 13, is in the prison infirmary with a bullet wound in one leg.

Efforts to locate a Mrs. Rosa Patten here were not successful last night. No person by the name of "Patten" is listed in either the city or telephone directories.

Baer Is Started On Real Comeback

SALT LAKE CITY, June 13. (AP)—Max Baer, dressed playboy style but stoutly denying he is still one, breezed about town today with the word for one and all that Monday-night will see him started on a "real comeback."

Baer will fight one Tony Souza of San Francisco in the main event of a mixed boxing and wrestling show.

Anil Hoffman, the ex-heavyweight champion's manager, reiterated the refrain sounded at all stops between here and the west coast: "Max is really serious this time."

The match here, Hoffman said, will mark the beginning of a barnstorming tour to build Baer up for another crack at the title Baer lost a year ago today to James J. Braddock.

Paavo Nurmi's Record Broken

PRINCETON, N. J., June 13 (AP)—Donald R. Lash, sturdy barrel-chested University of Indiana runner started the footracing world today by smashing the renowned Paavo Nurmi's world outdoor record for two miles.

Sustaining a burst of speed believed beyond the range of any American distance racer, the 22-year-old Big Ten champion reeled off the distance in the amazing time of 8 minutes, 58.3 seconds.

To make it all the more dazzling, Lash turned in this performance on a thoroughly drenched track and in a driving rainstorm.

A wildly cheering crowd of 30,000, saw Lash finish with a sensational last-lap drive to clip exactly one and three-tenths seconds from Nurmi's mark of 8:59.8.

Hurricane Swirls In Yucatan Waters

MIAMI, Fla., June 13 (AP)—A potential hurricane—the first disturbance of the season—swirled over the treacherous tropic waters to the south today.

The storm was charted by the weather bureau northeast of Yucatan, in the lower Gulf of Mexico, moving slowly northwestward causing extensive squalls.

Will Use Noose For First Time On Arthur Gooch

McCLESTER, Okla., June 13. (AP)—A grizzled executioner of 53 men reared in the cow country where horse thieves once were strung up summarily, will use the noose his first time June 19 when Arthur Gooch becomes the first Lindbergh law kidnaper to die.

But neither that experience nor another new one—the construction of the only scaffold he has ever seen—is bothering Rich Owen, who has thrown the switch at 53 executions, 50 in Oklahoma where the penalty for capital crimes is death in the electric chair.

The federal kidnaping law, under which Gooch was condemned, provides death by hanging.

"I'm not worried about it," Owen said confidently. "I know just how a man should be hanged because I have studied methods of the best hangmen and have talked to other Goochs, former Okmulgee butcher boy, was sentenced to hang for kidnaping two Paris, Texas, officers and taking them into Oklahoma to avoid arrest.

Gooch's last hope of escaping the gallows faded when Mrs. Mabel Bassett, Oklahoma's grandmother commissioner of charities and corrections, was unable to obtain an interview with President Roosevelt as the presidential special passed through Oklahoma.

'SYNTHETIC' IS FARLEY OPINION OF ALF LONDON

'Weakest Ticket Ever Nominated by Party'

NEW YORK, June 13 (AP)—Terminating Governor Alf M. Landon "a synthetic candidate" for President, Postmaster General James A. Farley, chairman of the democratic national committee, issued a statement tonight calling the republican selections "the weakest ticket ever nominated in the history of the party."

"The republicans," his statement said, "should adopt 'lost with Landon' as their campaign slogan."

"His (Landon's) nomination is a confession of guilt on the part of a bankrupt republican party. In effect, the American people are asked to perform the dangerous experiment of turning over the reins of government to a man whose record has been concealed, whose veins are a mystery, and whose career in public life is without a single achievement to indicate that he is equipped for the exacting duties of the White House."

"No one knows what he stands for, what he wants, or what he proposes to do."

Farley, declaring he wondered how the republican leaders "kept from laughing out loud," said that "first they denounce President Roosevelt... then they nominate a man who advocated policies far more drastic than the chief executive ever thought of attempting."

Charging the republican party with "dodging the issue," Farley said:

"Every single republican who had a part in shaping party policies for the past generation was passed over in favor of a man 18 months ago was unheard of by 95 per cent of the American people."

Phi Beta Kappa Of Chattanooga Making Success

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—Big Freddie Sington is Exhibit A in proof of the professor's old saw: "If you're a success on the campus, you'll continue to be so, more than likely, after you leave."

Sington starred in the classroom and on the athletic field while at the University of Alabama.

In sports he shone most brightly in football, earning all-America honors. But he was no slouch as a baseball player.

Scholastically, he was a gem. He was elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity.

As a lambasting outfielder for the Chattanooga Lookouts (Southern association club), he hit at a .422 clip for the first 36 games of the season. His fielding average was .965.

2 World Marks Are Lowered in Columbus Meet

COLUMBUS, O., June 13. (AP)—Two world records were equalled as Ohio State and Southern California battled through a track meet today, finishing in a deadlock at 7 1/2-all.

The events were run off on a "winner take all" basis, with credit for first places only.

Jose Owens, Ohio State's captain and No. 1 Olympic hope, wasn't even pressed as he crashed through in the two dashes, the broad jump and the low hurdles, equalling the world record of 9-4 in the century dash.

Roy Staley of Southern California led the way in the high hurdles winning in 14.1 seconds to tie the world record.

GARDEN CLUB ELECTS NEW PRESIDENT AND PLANS TOUR

Party Given For May Bride

MRS. WILEY REYNOLDS IS HONOREE ON THURSDAY

Mrs. Wiley Reynolds, bride who came here to make her home after dismissal of the term of West Texas Teachers college, where she was a student, was complimented Thursday afternoon when her three sisters-in-law, Mrs. J. P. Osborne Jr. of Miami, Mrs. Henry Reynolds and Mrs. Noel Reynolds entertained at the home of Mrs. E. E. Reynolds.

The honoree was Miss Jane Osborne of Miami before her marriage last month. Friends from Miami and Amarillo joined those from Pampa as guests at the party.

Pink carnations and baby breath decorated the rooms, and the pink and white color note was carried out in refreshments and in wrappings of the lovely gifts of linen presented the bride in a shower by the guests. A reading by Mrs. Earl Powell, a vocal solo and piano solo by Mrs. Ethel Powell preceded the presentation.

Guests were the honoree and Meses. C. T. Hunkapillar, G. D. Hunter, Bill Johnson, Robert Brown, C. C. Stockstill, Mrs. Baer, Frank Carter, Ethel Powell, and Earl Powell; Misses Margaret Stockstill and Dorothy Blumley of Pampa.

Mmes. J. P. Osborne, Ben Talley, and McCasland of Miami; Meses. J. F. Reynolds, H. B. Reynolds, R. C. Reynolds, and E. C. Reynolds of Amarillo.

Gifts were sent by Meses. Z. H. Mundy, Inez Carter, H. H. Heskell, Tom Clayton, Lon Blansett, and Miss Claudine Jeffries of Pampa; Meses. P. R. Saxon, J. W. Philpott, and Scott Corbin of Miami; and Mrs. Jess Ritter of Amarillo.

Peggy Ann's All a-Thrill

Shunning the spotlight, Peggy Ann Landon enjoyed to the utmost the thrills of the Republican national convention, as was evident here when she chatted with a companion. At one session she slipped quietly into a gallery seat and during the keynote address she sat on the stage back of the speakers' platform.

CHURCH GROUPS HAVE MEETINGS IN SKELLYTOWN

LADIES AID PLANS TO HELP SPONSOR BENEFIT

SKELLYTOWN, June 13.—The Ladies Aid of the Community church met Thursday afternoon for a business session and program with 15 present. The Aid will sponsor a program jointly with the Sunshine Home Demonstration club Tuesday evening, inviting the county candidates.

Miss Juliette Aaron of Wellington, teacher in the Borger schools for the past three years, and Lieut. John Riddle of Wilburton, Okla.,

PICNIC GAMES AND MEAL FOR CLUB ENJOYED

OUTDOOR ENTERTAINMENT INCLUDES FEW GUESTS

Outdoor games were more attractive to the Do-C-Do club last week than their favorite entertainment, square dancing. Club members and a few friends went to the Daly lease southwest of LeFors for a picnic.

Impromptu games gave the group splendid appetites for the fried chicken dinner and the campfire coffee. Mrs. D. E. Williams was presented an award for hitting the only home run in the softball game, and Fred Cullum for the tree-climbing championship.

In the party were Meses. M. A. Williams, Fred Cullum, Joe Lutz, Hup Clark, Hub Burrows, T. F. Smalling, B. S. Via, and Mack Harmon; Mrs. Lillian Treece, Mrs. Chilton, J. H. Cooper, and J. H. Vaughn.

Panhandle Clubs Send Delegates To BPW Meeting

Three delegates from the Business and Professional Women's club here, are among the more than 200 attending the annual state convention at Houston this week-end. Miss Clara Lee Shewmaker, state recording secretary, Meses Dee Polson and Adeline Brazel went from Pampa.

Miss Nell Adams of Shamrock, district director of the Panhandle, was accompanied by Mrs. M. Reynolds and Miss Blanche Adams from that city.

At the first general session Friday, Mrs. Faye Gordon of Amarillo, district chairman, reported new clubs at Crowell, Big Spring, Teague, Eastland, Midland, Paducah, Wichita Falls, and Dublin this year.

A trip to Galveston is on program among the convention entertainments.

Kingsmill Homes Welcome Guests

KINGSMILL, June 13.—Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Campbell of Canyon and Mrs. C. E. Sherrill of Seagraves spent last week-end with their brother, J. J. S. Smith.

Misses Elgin and Claudine Fraisher of Pampa were guests Thursday of Miss Leona Varnon.

Mrs. A. P. Murry and daughter, Jamye, left to spend a week with Mrs. Murry's mother at Houston and later will attend the Centennial exposition at Dallas.

Miss Maudine Woodworth has returned home from Worley hospital in Pampa after an operation.

Miss Letha Mae Harrelson left last week to spend a month with an uncle in Tucuman, N. M.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Pollock have returned from a short vacation trip.

Miss Louise Whitener of Hobart,

Queen's Designer Sends This

As a fashion fillip to the excitement about things British inspired by the Queen Mary's maiden voyage, Reville, dressmaker to Her Majesty Queen Mary, rushed this lovely evening ensemble in alabaster-white silk to America. The basque-type bodice is sun-ray pleated and the belt of self material is fastened with a dull silver Grecian dragon clasp. The full length cape in matching fabric is finished at the bottom with South African ostrich feathers, at the neck with a cluster of Parma violets.

CLUB'S CHOICE FOR PRESIDENT IS MRS. DAMON

POSTPONED VISIT TO LOVELY YARDS TO BE FRIDAY

Mrs. Edward Damon was elected president of the Garden club for next year, after the resignation of Mrs. S. A. Hurst, president-elect, was accepted with regret at a meeting Friday morning in city club room. Mrs. Hurst relinquished the office because of ill health.

Members decided at the business meeting Friday to conduct their annual yard tour next Friday. It was postponed this week after the rain Thursday. Plans announced for the tour will be followed.

It will start with a breakfast in Central park at 7 o'clock Friday morning. Visits will be paid to several of the most beautiful yards in Pampa. Each member may invite a guest. Any who have not arranged for transportation may call one of the tour committee: Meses. Damon, Sherman White, and Emmett Dwyer.

The program Friday was on use of commercial fertilizers, mulches, and water on Pampa soil. Mrs. Damon, discussing the topic, said the soil here is the clay type, and needs the addition of sand and humus, peat moss, or some other material to make it looser. It holds water well if cultivated properly on top. Use of various commercial fertilizers was discussed round-table fashion.

Members present were Meses. Glen Pool, Lynn Boyd, Ray J. Hagan, Paul Kasishke, F. E. Leech, P. C. Ledrick, C. E. Lancaster, N. P. Maddux, W. F. Puryance, M. F. Roche, H. C. Schofield, A. M. Teed, Lee Waggoner, Sherman White, W. P. Landrum, Frank Perry, Walter Dean, Fred Cullum, Bert Curry, R. F. Dirksen, and Damon.

Flag Display Is Urged Today by Legion Auxiliary

Display of the flag from every home in Pampa today is urged by Pampa unit of the American Legion Auxiliary. Today is the 150th anniversary of the adoption of the stars and stripes by the Continental congress and will be observed as Flag day throughout the country.

"The adoption of the flag took place on June 14, 1777, two years after the beginning of the revolution and nearly a year after the Declaration of Independence," said Mrs. Roy Sewell, president Pampa unit. "Previously a number of different flags had been used: colonial flags, the pine tree flag, the rattlesnake flag, and modified forms of the British ensign."

"The subject of a national flag came up in the Continental congress in session in Philadelphia, on June 14, 1777. A committee, composed of Robert Morris and George Ross, submitted recommendations for a flag and the congress adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, that the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; and that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

"Some historians state that the committee, with George Washington, called on Betsy Ross and engaged her to fashion the first flag from their design. The new flag immediately became popular throughout the colonies and was the emblem of patriots through the remaining years of the struggle for independence."

"To provide representation in the flag for Vermont and Kentucky, congress passed a new flag act in 1794, which gave the flag fifteen stripes and fifteen stars. For 23 years the flag remained in this form. It was this flag of fifteen stars and stripes that Francis Scott Key saw 'through the dawn's early light' over the ramparts of Fort McHenry. Five more states, Tennessee, Ohio, Louisiana, Indiana and Mississippi had not been admitted to the Union but were not represented in the flag."

"In 1818, congress took action to give these states representation and established the flag in its final form, restoring the number of stripes to thirteen and providing on star for each state. Flag day was established in a proclamation issued by President Wilson in 1915."

Troop One Will Picnic Tomorrow At Scout House

Girl Scouts of troop one will meet at the Little House Monday afternoon at 4. Each girl is asked to bring her lunch for a picnic there. A committee will be in charge of entertainment. All members and other girls of Scout age are invited.

This troop is sponsored by B. M. Baker Parent-Teacher association, which secured the troop charter. Mrs. Clarence Coffin is troop captain, Mrs. A. A. Day lieutenant, and Meses. Claude Lard, Roy Holt, L. B. Britton, and E. K. Douglas are on the troop committee. There are 14 paid members at present.

KEEPING FOODS IS IMPORTANT SUMMER TASK

Careful Buying Will Avoid Left-Over Problem

By MARY E. DAGUE, NEA Service Staff Writer

Carefully chosen containers go far toward keeping food in good condition despite summer heat. Whether food is to be stored in a mechanical refrigerator, an ice refrigerator or in a cold cellar, this is important. Covered glass or earthenware, enamelware or aluminum—all are splendid for storing both cooked and raw foods. Most foods keep better in covered containers that prevent exposure to air.

Some soft fruits like berries keep better if spread on a platter and placed in a cool place lightly covered with cheesecloth. If stored in the refrigerator, berries should be placed in the warmest place.

Avoid the possibility of leftovers by buying as little as possible. It's a good habit, too, to use left-overs promptly.

Changing Flavor of Leftovers Cooked vegetables that have been simply dressed with butter for the first meal can appear in a vegetable or combination salad or they may be reheated in a cream sauce or made up in a scalloped dish. This changes the vegetable enough to make it acceptable at the very next meal.

Vegetables and meats prepared in a cream sauce spoil very quickly. After the meal it should be cooled quickly and stored at once in the coldest part of the refrigerator. All creamed dishes should be used within twenty-four hours.

It's a wise precaution to reheat on the second day creamed foods, gravies, sauces and soup stocks that are kept more than twenty-four hours.

Monday's Menu

BREAKFAST: Stewed rabbit, cereal, cream, broiled salt mackerel, corn bread, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Green peas with hard cooked eggs in cream sauce, salad of cream cheese and olive balls on bed of cress, strawberry turnovers, milk, tea.

DINNER: Broiled cubed steaks, potatoes, au gratin, buttered green beans, shredded cabbage and green pepper and carrot salad, deep dish cherry pie, milk, coffee.

Changing temperature and humidity affect many foodstuffs severely. Bread molds quickly, pastry loses its crispness, sweets lose their firm consistency. Fruits and vegetables rapidly become overripe. This condition affects the tenderness, so vegetables often require extra time for cooking.

Crisping Damp Foods A short sojourn in a cool oven will crisp crackers that have been opened and left in their box for a few days. Ready-to-serve cereals respond to this treatment, too, and are as crisp as if freshly opened if you slip them into the oven for a few minutes before serving.

Don't let milk and cream stand in a warm kitchen. As soon as the cream comes from the table put it into the refrigerator. Use the milk you need and return the bottle at

SECOND WEEK OF REVIVAL TO START TODAY

Church Invites All To Hear Visiting Evangelist

This morning at 11:00 the revival being conducted at the Francis Avenue Church of Christ enters the second week, and under most favorable conditions according to announcements made by E. C. McKenzie, minister.

He further states: "The past week has brought to us countless blessings as our revival meeting thus far has been the most interesting and profitable of any similar effort heretofore undertaken by this congregation."

"Our audiences during the past week have far exceeded our fondest expectations. Visitors have been in attendance from four states and more than 30 towns and cities of the Panhandle of Texas and Oklahoma."

"Brother Hardeman, the guest speaker, is handling his part of the meeting in a masterful manner. His messages are all timely and appropriate in every way and they are being presented in that humble, scholarly way which is so characteristic of the man who is delivering them. His one great desire is to preach Christ and Him crucified. As a pulpit orator he has but few, if any equals, and it is doubtful if there are any who are superior to him in this regard. It has been said of him that he can do anything that can be done with the use of the English language. Those who have heard him have testified to the fact that the report has not been exaggerated."

"Every student of the Bible is urged and all others are cordially invited to hear him at every available opportunity. He will occupy our pulpit this morning at 11:00 and this evening at 8:15. The revival will close on Wednesday evening of this week."

Youth Forum Is Planned by P-TA

AUSTIN, June 13.—Mrs. M. A. Taylor of Bonham presided at the executive meeting of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers held in Austin this week. Important plans for the state convention, Nov. 16 through 19 in Fort Worth, were perfected at this regular June meeting.

One of the most interesting programs planned for the convention is a panel to be given by high school girl and boy, a college girl and boy, and a country girl and boy on "Youth in Modern Society." Mrs. J. K. Pettengill, national vice-president, will lead this panel.

P-TA Broadcasts From Centennial Begin Next Week

AUSTIN, June 13.—Beginning with a program on Tuesday, June 16, at 2 p. m. at the central exposition of the Texas Centennial in Dallas, the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers will present a broadcast of its work on the second Tuesday of each month throughout the summer in the Chrysler auditorium of the Transportation building.

The dates for these programs are June 16, July 14, August 11, September 8, October 13 and November 10. Mrs. Ella Caruthers Porter of Dallas is chairman of the Centennial committee for the congress and is assisted by Mrs. J. C. Vanderwoude, Mrs. Jack Little, Mrs. Norman G. Hardy, and Mrs. Burt Alken, all of Dallas.

The department of education of the Texas Congress, Mrs. J. J. Devold of Houston, director and fifth vice-president, will be featured at the first program. This broadcast will stress the work of the music committee with Mrs. F. L. Jaccard of Fort Worth, state chairman and Mrs. Lora Coston Bridges, Dallas, co-chairman.

Mrs. H. A. Taylor, state president, will preside at the June 16 meeting. Mrs. Porter will bring greetings; Mrs. Devoti will tell briefly how the department of education of the congress functions. Mrs. Helen Fouts Cahoon, director of the music department, and Mrs. E. F. Goddard, secretary, will be featured. Fort Worth will speak on "Educational Value of Music in Home and School."

Following the musical numbers presented by the "Mother Singers," combined choruses from all sections of the state with Mrs. Bridges leading, will be an informal reception. All members of Parent-Teacher associations in the state are invited to attend the reception.

After the first program three districts of the state organization will be featured at each succeeding second Tuesday of each month. At that time the district presidents will have fifteen minutes allotted to each of them for the programs which they have planned.

Lin meeting included: Mrs. Fred Porter of Temple, Mrs. A. C. Gorman, Post, Mrs. E. H. Becker, Houston; Mrs. E. H. Marek, Yoakum; Mrs. J. J. Devoti, Houston; Mrs. J. H. Emmert, Wichita Falls; Mrs. A. A SPIRIT FOR OUR DAY: Let all bitterness and wrath, and anger, and clamour, and evil speaking, be put away from you, with all malice: and be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you.—Ephesians 4:31, 32.

OLD AGE PENSIONS

Concern of certain office-seekers for the old folks is so strewn with crocodile tears that the public surely will wonder where these politicians have been through the years? They are crying for immediate and full payment of state old age assistance, as if a day's delay is a crime. Such attitudes are born of political expediency. If the payments had been started before proper preparations could be made, these same politicians would today be crying out against waste and haste.

Payments will begin July 1, the legal deadline. Because the legislature did not give the bill a two-thirds majority, the statute did not become effective until 90 days after passage. The Old Age Assistance commission could not be appointed until February 14. This commission then faced the task of preparing, printing, distributing and receiving and investigating some 200,000 applications — one of the biggest administrative jobs ever attempted in the state. Actually, the commission was named unofficially three months before the effective date of the law, by Governor James V. Alfred, so that it could make preliminary preparations. These men worked without pay during the period.

It is charged that there is no money available to pay the pensions. By July 1, according to the best estimates, there will be $2,146,000 in the state treasury for the purpose. This is a sum, matched by federal funds, which will suffice until the legislature, armed with dependable statistics, passes revenue measures permanently adequate.

Contrary to some claims, the Texas old age assistance plan is not limited to paupers. It allows a man and wife joint ownership of real estate up to $7,500 free of encumbrances, and personal property up to $1,000, or a total equity of $8,500, plus an annual income of up to $750. Applicants are not disqualified because they have relatives able to support them. Rather than being too strict, the assistance law leans in the other direction insofar as previously accepted ideas are concerned.

The average business man and thoughtful citizen are not likely to take seriously the claims that Texas is not "doing right" by the old folks.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—Even before a candidate was nominated, the Republicans raised $900,000 for the campaign. This is revealed by William Brown Bell, chairman of the party's finance committee and president of the American Cyanamid company, who is touring the country to collect funds.

Sixteen thousand people have contributed so far, according to Bell.

"Do you agree that another term of Roosevelt would bankrupt this country?" the white-haired industrialist was asked.

"We would be exposed to a great danger," he replied. "We have been a prosperous country, but I doubt if we could stand that."

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace's forthcoming book, to be entitled "Whose Constitution?" will refer to the supreme court justices as "Elder Statesmen," which may make some of them sore, because it implies they are politicians rather than strict interpreters of the Constitution, as they profess to be.

Wallace will insist that the court has become a super-political body, in the sense that it divides fundamentally on conservative-liberal lines.

He will dwell on the extent to which the court has freedom of choice in making what it calls judicial reviews and point out that its real power comes from public affection and admiration, which it might easily lose.

Wallace has been foremost at cabinet meetings in urging that Roosevelt make anti-New Deal decisions and the supreme court conservative majority a campaign issue.

Emil Hurja, who runs the Democratic National committee organization for Jim Farley, hopes no more newspapers will refer to him in headlines or otherwise as a "seer."

Past instances of that arise from Hurja's reputation as a political election forecaster. He has an elaborate system of checks and charts which in the 1932 and 1934 elections proved astonishingly accurate.

People have begun to write him for "readings" of their futures. Most of the letters are pitiful, some desperate. Some writers enclose money, but most can't afford it.

QUAINT REMEDIES AND SUPERSTITIONS
Among the curious superstitions held by the early settlers of Texas was their belief in mad stones, a kind of light-colored, porous rock out of the stomach of a white deer. Applied to a hydrophobic wound, the stone would stick on for twenty or thirty minutes and then drop off, showing that the poison had been extracted from the wound. For indigestion, the sovereign cure was made by boiling the dried lining of a chicken gizzard. The early settlers always planted sunflowers around the house as a preventive of fever; and when the fever sometimes came despite the sunflowers, they administered the bark of a red-bud tree as a substitute for quinine. The panacea for warts was to steal a neighbor's dish rag and rub the warts with it and then bury the rag under a peach tree.

For sties, the rhyme "Sty, sty, leave my eye and catch the first person who passes by" was in universal use. For stammering, the best cure was to rub the victim's face, especially near the mouth, with the lights of a freshly-killed hog. And all of our ancestors wore jumps of asafocida around their necks to ward off diseases in general. This along with red flannel underwear—the color was thought to be especially conducive to good health—undoubtedly laid many an evil spell. The settlers believed in joint snakes, many an old settler declaring that he had seen snakes unjoint and then join up again. Here is the testimony of one concerning a hoop snake. "He curls himself into a hoop, takes his tail in his mouth, rises up like a wheel, and here he comes hell-raising." It was the belief that the snake would straighten himself with his tail foremost, which he drove like a spike into his victim. He was so poisonous that if he drove this weapon into a tree, the leaves of the tree would begin to wilt and the tree would soon die. "Why, I was hoeing one day," continues the older, "and here came a hoop snake rolling down the row at me. I hid behind the hoe handle and he drove his tail into the seasoned wood. That hoe handle swelled up and bust right jumps of asafocida around their out of the hoe."

Q. Why are some people called Little Englanders? T. P.

A. The term came into prominence at the time of the South African war of 1899-1902 and was applied to Englishmen who preferred to see England small, contented, and self-contained, rather than a world empire with all the attendant dangers.

Q. What is the name of the priest who celebrated mass on the Hinesburg? E. R.

A. Father Paul Schulte. He is planning a missionary flight to Hudson Bay this summer.

Q. What is the new device, that makes carbon monoxide gas harmless? J. T. W.

A. It consists of a blower, mounted on the engine, and a gas chamber, mounted on the exhaust manifold, to mix free oxygen with the carbon monoxide at the point where the poisonous gas leaves the engine. In a test conducted by the safety engineer of the Detroit Department of Street Ways, a group of persons remained in a tightly closed garage in which a car with the device was run at high speed for an hour. No ill effects were suffered.

Q. Why is the Book of Matthew so often used as a source of texts for sermons? W. M.

A. This book, more than any other, reports verbatim the words of Christ. In Matthew, particularly, the rules for guidance of a Christian life are laid down by the Savior, Himself.

Q. Has the Cabinet of the President of the United States any joint authority? C. L.

A. It has none. It acts as an advisory committee. Each member, however, is the head of an important department of the government.

Q. How much does the carao tree yield in a year? W. H.

A. The yield is usually from two to three pounds of cured carao. Under favorable conditions a tree may yield from fifteen to twenty pounds annually.

Q. Is William Randolph Hearst, the publisher, supposed to have a large fortune? H. F.

A. Mr. Hearst is credited with having the second largest personal fortune in the United States.

Q. When was the oxy-hydrogen blow torch invented? F. J. B.

A. The first reference to the art of cutting metals with a combination of gases and a torch was made in 1888 by Thomas Fletcher of England. In September, 1906, a United States patent was issued to Felix Jottrand, a Belgian, for a process for using a mixture of oxygen and hydrogen together with a jet of oxygen. It is claimed that John Harris of Cleveland cut pieces of steel by this method as early as 1894.

Q. How large is Lake Mead? M. W. S.

A. Lake Mead the reservoir created by Boulder Dam on the Colorado river is the largest man-made body of water in the world. It contains 6,000,000 acre-feet of water, is 89 1/2 miles long, and 333 feet deep near Boulder Dam.

Q. Are Edison Scholarships being offered again? R. T.

A. A living memory to Mr. Edison is being established by a foundation which will award each year 100 Edison grants of money to educate promising Americans who are sixteen years old or more. The foundation will help both young men and women who show special aptitude in industrial science and in scientific pursuits. Candidates are to be passed upon by regional councils representing geographic areas. When selected they will be examined by the national qualification board. The project is the result of Mr. Edison's example in establishing the Edison scholarship shortly before his death. Owen D. Young is national chairman of the foundation. Associated with him is a national committee of industrialists, scientists, and educators.

Q. How long is Chesapeake Bay?

R. A. D.

A. It is about 200 miles long.

Q. How many lawn bowling clubs are there in this country? E. H.

A. There are about eighty organized bowling clubs in the United States. Also there are many public greens that have no clubs and an increasing number of private greens.

Q. What was the name of the medal awarded to Helen Hayes? E. W. C.

A. For her role in Victoria Regina, the actress was awarded the Della Austrian Prize by the Drama League of America. The medal is named for an early member of the League.

Q. Where did the idea originate of having the blind use white canes so that motorists might distinguish them? H. M.

A. The plan originated in Colorado Springs, several years ago when the Lions club presented white canes to the blind of the city.

BLACK LEGION IS EXAMPLE OF SECRET SOCIETY'S BIG APPEAL TO MANY PERSONS

Ancient Social Principle Is Involved—Other Nations Have Similar Bodies

By FRERERIC J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 13.—Once again there has appeared upon the American scene a secret society which has, in some localities, adopted terrorism as a political and social policy. By a secret society, no one knows how extensive the membership of the Black Legion may be or in how many communities it is organized. The outstanding fact, however, is that such an organization does exist within the United States but not of the United States, within local communities but not of them.

The desire of mankind to organize secret societies is well-nigh universal and is older than history. A philosophical psychologist could write an entire treatise on the impulse. It exists in the child in point of years and in the child in point of historical evolution. A part of the play of children has always been secret organizations with mystic passwords and countersigns, and before the dawn of civilization primitive people had the same urge.

The Black Legion is but a manifestation of this ancient social principle. Various types of secret organizations have existed with widely different purposes. The high school and college fraternity may be regarded as wholly social, while the order of Freemasons is largely religious with added social and eleemosynary features. To be sure the Masons have entered American politics and, centuries ago, they occupied an important position in European affairs.

The Black Legion appears to resemble the Ku Klux Klan rather more than any other American organization in the reconstruction days in an effort to bring order out of the chaotic political and social conditions which the disturbed times had created. As they were taking the law into their own hands and also because of the desirability of vesting their actions in an air of mystery, they appeared disguised in striking costumes, their features covered in hooded masks. These secret nightriders performed a valuable service as recognized by historians. That some serious offenses were committed by some of them, under the cloak of the order's secrecy, has to be admitted.

Mention also should be made of the Vigilantes, especially those who operated in San Francisco in the hectic period following the discovery of gold. They were not a secret order in quite the same sense and they did not invariably mask their faces. They resembled secret orders, however, in that their operations were swift and without warning. It is especially interesting to recall that the last operation of Vigilantes took place in New Orleans in 1891. A vigilante committee took from the jail a group of Italians believed guilty of murder and understood to be members of the famous secret order, the Mafia, and lynched them.

Strong Foreign Societies

The Mafia came into existence in Sicily at the time of the Napoleonic wars and became a secret society of the utmost danger. The members were opposed to the public order. They preyed upon landowners, merchants, and any other likely victims. An attempt was made to establish the order in the United States and this led to the action at New Orleans. The Mafia had murdered Chief of Police Hennessey.

Another Italian secret society was the Camorra which first became known about 1820 in Naples. The members were criminals who worked singly and in gangs. The order had a secret language and system of signals. Taking part in politics, the Camorra became dominant for a period, terrorizing the whole country. Princes and persons of high station became members, often, it is said, because they were forced to escape attack. It has been reported that individuals have been forced, in much the same manner, to join the Black Legion in this country. The Camorra was finally stamped out in 1911, but the Mafia continued to exist in secret until the Fascist regime took charge following the World war. It is probable that there are still skeleton organizations which hope to reestablish themselves after a change in political conditions in Italy.

Africa is notable for the number of its secret societies among the natives. Not only in the Congo but in other sections of the Dark Continent secret orders have been in existence from the earliest times. They usually have some religious connection, but not always. For example the Human Leopard society—as the name is translated into English—is an organization of cannibals. There seems to be and to have been no people immune from the impulse to organize secret societies. Although there were never more than 3,000,000 Indians in North America at any one time with, therefore, no problem of crowding or domination of congested regions, they had their secret societies.

Underlying Principles
The secret society with the largest membership in the world is Chinese. It is the Hung or Triad and has been in existence for 1,500 years. This organization was founded in A. D. 386 by a Buddhist patriarch named Eon. It appears that, originally, the chief purpose of the organization was to spread the Buddhist doctrine. It changed from being primarily religious to a semi-political organization because of the effort of Chinese emperors to stamp it out. When a secret order is well established and especially when its members are of high social standing, eradication becomes practically impossible.

The effect of the persecution of the Triad society was to intensify its secrecy with mystic rites of great solemnity. Authorities say that there is a fascinating analogy between the Buddhist-Taoist rites employed by the Triad and those described in the Egyptian Book of the Dead. Moreover, it is stated, there is a close connection between both the Chinese and the Egyptian rituals and portions of the ritual of Occidental Freemasonry.

It is probable that the impulse to organize and to join secret societies springs from an inferiority complex. The individual does not feel strong enough in his own personality to accomplish what he desires. He feels that, in addition to being illegal, some of his exploits would appear ridiculous. To throw the mantle of a mysterious secret society about himself and those with whom he is joined seems, temporarily at least, to put a different aspect on the matter.

Just as a child at play puts on a false face and feels quite important when he jumps from behind a door and cries "boo!" at someone, so the member of the type of Ku Klux Klan which was organized after the World war and took part in politics as well as pranks, or the member of the Black Legion, feels that he is not like other men. He can patronize the entire community because he knows the mumbo-jumbo of passwords and countersigns and, while cloaking his own real identity, can bring terror to persons who are not of the elect.

Borah to Ponder Landon Case for Several Weeks

CLEVELAND, June 13. (AP)—A "breathing spell" to delay for several weeks Senator William E. Borah's answer to whether he will attack, support or be indifferent to the presidential candidacy of Governor Alf M. Landon was forecast today by mutual friends.

This will permit the Idahoan to watch the activities of the Kansas governor for a while, to give more mature consideration to the platform issues on which they hold antagonistic views.

Friends of the presidential nominee hope that time will bring the Idahoan into the Landon camp although he refused to support Herbert Hoover for reelection four years ago.

No decision was expected until after Landon's speech when he is notified formally of his selection to head the republican forces in the 1936 hostilities. It may be delayed longer.

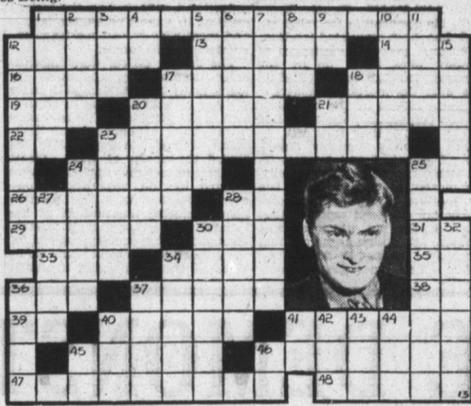

Landon aides are known to have made conciliatory gestures toward the Idahoan. No direct contact was made with Borah in Washington but third persons have been enlisted for diplomatic activities.

A new type ultra-short wave radio telephone has been developed by the United States forest service for airplanes used in fighting forest fires.

Chapter 32 CURIOUS VISIT

Devine laid the hat and coat he had picked up on the table again. Dirk went upstairs, where he found Mary in the Hall. Mary said that Mrs. Joris was awake.

Dirk assured her that Mrs. Joris must be prepared. "Say to her, 'Your father, the Rev. Devine, is here.' Just that. Then if she wants to see him, he may go in. Tell her that I telegraphed him. Not because she is terribly ill, but because I thought it would do her good to have him here. You see, if it won't do her good, if she doesn't want to see him, there'll be no sense in his going in."

Mary looked so mystified at Dirk's insistence on this tautology (Mrs. Joris wasn't so ill that she needed to be reminded who her father was) that Dirk added: "Perhaps I'd better tell her, myself."

"Oh, no, sir!" said Mary. "Of course she wouldn't tell Mister Dirk, but Mrs. Joris had asked that very afternoon that he be kept out of her room."

She repeated the words to Hope a moment later. Hope lay a passenger atom in the great bed. The shadows beneath her drooping eyes were blue as bruises. The eyes flew open, dark, incredulous.

"Who?" "Your father, Ma'am. The Rev. Silas Devine."

Hope sat up. "Dirk did this," she whispered. "He telegraphed."

"Mister Dirk wired him that you were ill. Hope, sitting up in bed, appeared to be thinking, thinking fast. "I'll see him," she said. "Please say to Mister Dirk that I'll be glad to see him. Glad. Do you understand?"

Mary admitted him to the room, and withdrew.

She said to Dirk in the hall: "I'll fix the south room, shall I, sir? Mr. Devine may wish to stay the night."

Dirk-asserted, and Mary prepared the room. She was sleeping in Rupert's room now, occupying a cot that had been placed in the passage between that room and Hope's. The door was closed to-night, but Mary, making ready for bed, could hear faintly the voices of Hope and the visitor.

She would not undress yet, she decided, because she must show the Rev. Devine to his room. She would do, however, what she could, like washing her face and saying her prayers. . . . Poor Mister Rupert! . . . there was something sad in using his wash-bowl, and not knowing if he would ever come back to it any more!

Mary, having washed her face, had just sat down in Mister Rupert's leather-covered chair beside the lamp when she became aware that the blur of conversation in the next room had become clear, disturbingly clear.

Hope had said something—Mary could not tell what, because she had not been listening—and now the Rev. Devine something said in his voice sounded as if he had risen, as if he stood beside the outer door which was not far from this door here.

He said: "I will not be party to any such thing. What wonder that you are ill? Your cure lies only with yourself."

Again the blurred murmurs—Hope speaking, the Rev. Devine speaking. (Mary could have heard that, too, if her ears hadn't been so poor.) Then an audible parting word from the Rev. Devine as if he had risen, as if he stood beside the outer door which was not far from this door here.

Hope was sitting up in bed, her wide, dilated eyes on the other door. "See where he's gone!" she cried to Mary. "See what he's doing! . . . Don't let him go to Dirk!"

Mary went out into the hall in time to see the Rev. Devine finish the descent of the stair, take hat and coat from the table near the door, and depart—all very sternly, very quietly.

"He's gone," she said, returning to the room. Hope lay back on the pillows with closed eyes. Mary felt the small quick pulse, rubbed the cold hands. Her thoughts were profane. She drew the covers about Hope's shoulders and raised a window to air the room. . . . How would she ever tell Mister Dirk that her prescription had acted like this? . . . She needn't.

"There now, it's not worth it. It's not worth worrying over." Mary patted the shoulder underneath the cover. "Go to sleep, poor lady. It will all be right in the morning. I've seen many a hard father in my day."

Mary wanted to add, "But this is the worst of the lot." Instead, she said, "They all lived to be sorry. They did, indeed."

Hope's dark gaze moved up to her face. "What do you mean? Why do you say that?"

"She don't want even me to know," thought Mary, and answered soothingly: "His leaving so soon, Ma'am. And I'd got the south room ready for him."

"He had to go," said Hope. "If Dirk asks about it, please say that he had to go. I'm not so . . . very ill. I've had these . . . these illnesses before. I always get well. He knows that. It was nothing to come on for. Dirk shouldn't have wired him."

Mary looked away before the searching eyes. "She wonders if I heard him," thought Mary. Treacherous ears with their half-sleeping nerves! Often they woke at just the wrong moment, and captured what was not intended for her ears.

"I understand, Ma'am. I had just come in my room, and heard him go out. He hadn't been here half-an-hour, but that was enough. "It was indeed," thought Mary. "I didn't want him to disturb Dirk," added Hope more quietly. "I really feel better. . . . now that it's over. Now that I've seen him, I mean."

Mary hoped this was true. She removed the bed-jacket from her patient's shoulders, took away all the little pillows except the big soft one that immediately engulfed

GOP LEADERS MAP VIGOROUS BALLOT DRIVE

'FIGHTING CAMPAIGN' IS FORECAST BY HAMILTON

CLEVELAND, June 13. (AP)—Plans for a militant and whirlwind opening of the republican campaign to defeat President Roosevelt, possibly within the next ten days, tonight were mapped here by members of the party's high command.

Among the rear guard remaining here after the republican national convention it was tentatively decided that the spearhead in the earlier campaigning would be John D. M. Hamilton, energetic vice chairman of the national committee.

Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas, the standard bearer, also will take a hand and become increasingly active in behalf of his own call for a "fighting campaign" as the election nears. Landon men said both he and Hamilton would travel extensively and turn to the radio frequently.

Friends on the Kansas governor, disclaiming that they spoke for him, said they expected him before long. "I didn't want him to disturb Dirk," added Hope more quietly. "I really feel better. . . . now that it's over. Now that I've seen him, I mean."

Mary hoped this was true. She removed the bed-jacket from her patient's shoulders, took away all the little pillows except the big soft one that immediately engulfed to invade the east as well as the far west. They spoke of a Landon "pilgrimage" to spots in Pennsylvania he knew as a boy. A possible swing into other eastern states on the same journey was mentioned. Final plans, including an elaborate itinerary for Col. Frank Knox of Chicago, the vice presidential nominee, will not be made until Landon, Knox, Hamilton and some members of the republican committee meet at Topeka next Tuesday.

Knox already has made plans for going into New Hampshire, possibly soon after his departure from Topeka. He has a home in Manchester, and republican leaders there have named a reception committee to welcome him.

Any immediate directing of republican fire against the new deal would open up the campaign before the democratic forces have finally mapped the course of their own. The democratic national convention, at which the re-naming of the Roosevelt-Garner ticket is scheduled, will open ten days from today in Philadelphia.

Plans were formed here today to place the principal republican headquarters in Chicago. Hamilton will start many of his travels from there. Other headquarters will be opened in New York, Washington, Kansas City, and in some far western city, under present plans.

TEXAS' FIRST RODEO HELD IN CANADIAN IN SUMMER OF 1888

STEER ROPING CONTEST WAS EVENT OF DAY

CELEBRATION ONE YEAR BEFORE RAILROAD WAS BUILT

J. Ellison Carroll of Big Lake, Texas, is responsible for the statement that the first rodeo held in Texas was at Canadian in the summer of 1888. It was in the form of a two-day celebration with steer roping contest as the main event, and the other events that bordered around celebrations in that day.

When Canadian holds its fourteenth annual rodeo the week of July 4, it will do so against a background of celebrations and demonstrations which were representative of the evolution of the west's "national" sport and which in themselves influenced to a certain degree that evolution.

To Hemphill county belongs the distinction of innovating a rodeo and was among the first of such "reunions" to be staged as a community undertaking anywhere in the southwest.

The "Cowboys Reunion" held in '88 at Canadian, although little heard of by the present generation actually marked one of the first evidences of a move toward establishing the vanishing west in an impregnable rally ground—its typical rodeo.

Cowboys Concealed Idea. While natural primitive western contests as staged in every range camp were indulged in by cowboys on the Laurel Leaf ranch located east of Canadian to conceive in 1888 the project of holding a public celebration with a steer roping contest as the main feature.

The resulting festivities staged at Canadian for two days in the summer of 1888 are remembered still by residents of the region as unique and the first of any consequence.

It will be recalled that this was just one year after the arrival of the Santa Fe railway. Canadian did not have many citizens at that time, but all of them from far and near came to engage in the festivities and celebration. The report by residents that lived here at that time was that there was "roping and tying down," horse racing, tournament races and dancing indulged in by the multitudes.

This celebration conceived in the minds of the residents of the Panhandle of the early days stands today as the first true forerunner of the western rodeo in the state of Texas.

Anvil Park rodeo, this event stands as an unmarked memorial to the persons who settled this region. Entirely lacking were the carefully evolved rules which govern the rodeos of today. Absent also was the carefully constructed rodeo grounds and imposing grandstand.

Old Timers Present. Lining the main street of the lively cow-town of Canadian stood hundreds of old timers who had settled this area of the Panhandle who even then were carrying on the progress of the region. There in the dust filled frame shack lined streets were turned loose the enterprising riders who elected to risk the perils of attempted conquest of infuriated outlaw horses. No ready referees were nearby to halt the plunging ride as a timer's gun blasted an end to 10 seconds in the leather. Contestants rode until either horse or man was proved the better and risked hazards of plunging into buildings, railings or spectators.

Negro George Washington was quite a noted bronk rider for those days. On one occasion he rode a bucking horse down the main street of Canadian, and the horse was bucking in the vicinity of the Santa Fe tracks. Negro George was asked why he did such a good job of bronk riding, and his answer was: "I had a ride at hoss there if I ever rode one, because I tucked off, my head would be in the middle of dose steel rails."

Space had been provided on grounds adjacent to the Santa Fe stockyards for the contest but on every day the streets of the town were closed for horse races, tournament races—in fact all the strenuous pastimes practiced peculiarly by the west.

Second day events closely paralleled those of the opening day, with the festivities formulating into the allegedly more refined pastime of dancing at night. Despite the supposed hilarity of the occasion accidents were few and street fights and drunken brawls entirely absent. Apparently the early population was feeling the taming influence of the approaching civility.

Serious Accident. The most serious accident on that occasion happened to Billie Nation, now living at Pampa. He was engaged in the steer roping contest, and as he roped the steer, the rope got under the stirrup leather, and as the steer made a run, it threw Billie off his horse on his head, and he was unconscious for a period of about two hours. His injury proved to be quite serious, and to this day has felt the effects of the injury sustained on that occasion.

Evidently, however, all present enjoyed the carnival for the crowd remained to jostle itself, to cheer, jeer, laugh and sing until the last day of the celebration. Then wearied ranch folk and their more prepossessing town brethren climbed aboard creaking buckboards, dusty buggies and faithful horses and scattered to resume the tasks which make up so large a part of western life.

Thus bloomed and faded into the past a pioneering attempt to carve for the old west a niche wherein its traditions and its spirit might exist against an effacing progress. But conceived as it was principally in easy joviality and a desire for passing entertainment, the measure failed to imbue with desire to preserve it a strong enough majority. With the scattering of the few who had inaugurated the occasion the spirit weakened and celebrations returned to the ranch round-ups which had preceded it.

Roping Was Issue. The first celebration and contest was primarily to settle a question of superiority of roping between Ellison Carroll and Albert Phillips, a negro related to the Mose Anderson family. There were numerous other ropers as well as these two. The Laurel Leaf cowboys matched the two, and J. Ellison won the match by easy odds. A collection was taken up for the prizes, and numerous side bets were made. J. C. Studer a comparatively young man, and one of the spectators, made the statement that "men could be seen frequently in the crowd with hands full of money, and this was more money than I had ever seen up to this time."

July 4th became a day of celebration and entertainment in years following, the principal forms being music, speeches and horse racing. Tournament races also were quite popular at that time. For the benefit of the younger generation and those that have never seen them, they may be explained as being held on a straight-away track, with poles erected a given number of yards apart, each of which had a bar extending out with a clip that held a ring. The rider, equipped with a spear, would run at full speed down the course, and those picking up the most rings in the shortest time were considered the winners.

It was not until the nationally rising tide of colorful fads and chamber-of-commerce-sponsored exposition had carved a firm financial footing for themselves that the western rodeo began to exist as an established community project. Canadian's 13-year-old Anvil Park rodeo is a product of this evolution.

A second contest was held the year following. The main participants were Ellison Carroll, Sid Davidson, and Poke Stewart. Josh Hopkins, now deceased, was a heavy bettor on this occasion. Jim Mabon of Canadian was the principal stakeholder. Ellison Carroll was employed by the J. Buckle outfit south of Canadian in what is now known as the Wheeler county country. Three-year-old steers were used in the contests.

Even after the first contest was over, a number of the boys stayed around several days and worked off a number of side bets. Money changed hands then. As one cowboy said, "Why the danged cowboys'll stay there till all the money they got in the show is gone just to prove to the other feller that they can beat him a split second."

Old Timers to Meet on July 4

LIBERAL, Kans., June 13—Of special interest to early day settlers of the great Southwest will be the announcement of the meeting and museum that is being arranged as a part of the Liberal Free Fourth of July celebration.

A large store building has been secured by the committee for this purpose. Lee Larabee, himself an "old timer," is in charge of this feature which promises to be one of the outstanding attractions on the free celebration program.

Many valuable arrowheads, firearms and other types of collections have already been secured, as well as other interesting displays. A long lounging room for "old timers" is being provided in the building, where they will be made comfortable and have an opportunity to visit and swap stories of frontier days.

Other free Fourth of July attractions will include a big street parade, band concert, amateur hour broadcast, free baseball game, terrapin derby and stupendous fireworks display.

Wandering Cattle Penalized. WINK, Tex. (AP)—Cattle at large in this city will be placed with a poundkeeper and a dollar a day charge for sleeping quarters and meals will be levied upon them, city officials have ruled.

A very powerful short-wave broadcasting station, giving worldwide transmission, is to be constructed near Nanking, China.

HOLC LENDING IS COMPLETED; REPORT MADE

NO MORE LOANS WILL BE MADE BY THE CORPORATION

In accordance with provisions of the Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933, refunding of distress mortgages by the Home Owners' Loan corporation ended at midnight, June 12, three years from the date the act was signed. No more loans will be made by the corporation.

Up to May 28, the corporation had closed 1,016,142 loans throughout the country and its territories to a total of $3,081,893,559. Practically every eligible application for relief received has been completed as a loan. The original past-due mortgages of borrowers were taken up by the corporation through exchange of its bonds with the mortgage holders.

To some 290,000 of the borrowers work of the corporation, the arrival of June 13 means that they will be required to make monthly repayments of principal and interest on their loans instead of interest only. Their mortgages were made in the early months of the corporation's work before Congress repealed that portion of the act which allowed borrowers an optional moratorium on principal payments until June 13, 1936. These borrowers will have a period of 12 years in which to pay off their loans and own their properties free of debt.

Loans made to the remaining 726,000 borrowers extend over a 15-year term and are repayable at the rate of $7.91 monthly per thousand dollars of loan, including principal and interest at 5 per cent. This amounts to about $24 per month on the average loan, which was $3,023. The long terms and the low rate of interest make these loans the most liberal and convenient ever granted to American home owners up to the time the corporation began its activity.

HOLC mortgages give the borrowers an annual saving of nearly $60,000,000 in the reduction from the interest rates they had paid on the loans taken over, and in the elimination of renewal charges.

Under pressure of acute need to stop the wave of foreclosures which in the summer of 1933, had reached the record of 1,000 a day, within less than three months after the act was passed the corporation had set up state and district offices in all parts of the country, established its procedure and embarked on the task of creating in a short period the largest and most wide-spread mortgage institution in the world.

The branch offices were immediately swamped by applicants for loans, many of them ineligible under the law or with a mistaken impression of its purposes. The necessary investigation of hundreds of thousands of ineligible applications retarded the closing of loans. Great numbers of ineligible applicants were assisted by the corporation, however. Working with the member home-financing associations of the Federal Home Loan Bank system throughout the country, agents of the corporation directed many thousands of these applicants to financial institutions where they obtained the necessary refinancing, usually at interest rates less than they had been paying.

By December 31, 1933, over 720,000 applications had been filed with the corporation, and over 37,000 loans had been closed. United States guarantee of the bonds of the corporation by Congress in 1934 increased the volume of applications, which totaled more than 1,000,000 in that year. The crest of lending activity was reached in the last half of 1934 when 381,241 loans were made.

As lending tapered off in 1935 the corporation developed its liquidation organization to which gradually the majority of employees have been transferred. This organization is responsible for the billing and collection of the 1,000,000 monthly installment accounts, for litigation and for the management and sale of such properties as the corporation is compelled to acquire to protect the interest of the government.

Congress authorized HOLC lending at a time when it was obvious that existing financial institutions were important to check the ruinous deflation of all real estate values then moving even faster. Continuation of the course of foreclosures, distress sales of homes and the paralysis of home-financing institutions of all types would have brought utter disaster to American industry.

The effects of HOLC financing were immediate and far-reaching. Mortgage holders whose loans the corporation took over were saved from great loss. Thousands of banks, life insurance companies and building and loan associations shared in the disbursement of more than $2,500,000,000 in highly liquid HOLC bonds and were thus better able to protect the deposits, investments, and insurance policies representing the savings of over 30,000,000 people. Included in this total is nearly $400,000,000 thus made available to depositors and creditors of closed banks.

These new funds, pouring into financing institutions in the place of frozen assets, in a large measure have permitted them to resume more normal activity in making new loans for the construction, purchase, and refinancing of homes, as reflected in the present revival of residential building.

Refinancing by the corporation also has had a strong influence on the real estate market. It is estimated that the value of urban home properties in America has increased by $12,000,000,000 since the depression low.

The financial improvement of municipalities through payment by the corporation of some $225,000,000 in back taxes on the homes mortgaged. Increased activity in the building trades. The corporation made direct expenditures of almost $79,000,000 for necessary repairs of about 400,000 of the homes mortgaged. These latter two amounts were included in the loans and are now being repaid to the corporation.

Encouragement of economical home ownership. The large-scale example of the corporation in granting an improved type of loan, which provides greater safety to both lender and borrower, is effectively leading the way to the permanent reform of American mortgage-lending practice and the elimination of the short-term mortgage, the old hazardous and costly second mortgage and such unsound practices as excessive bonus charges and renewal fees.

ELECTRIC REFRIGERATORS ARE BUILT FOR HOT WEATHER

In hot weather you really need good refrigeration. The demand for ice cubes increases because hot weather promotes thirst. Frozen desserts and salads become more delectable and are served more often, if they can be made properly. And, it is in summer time that the danger from tainted food is greatest.

During the past ten years various manufacturers have designed and built millions of electric refrigerators. At first food preservation was paramount to the American housewife. Then she became impressed with the necessity for fast freezing of ice cubes and desserts. To these were added beauty, convenience, much lower prices, increased efficiency, and unquestionable dependability.

The new electric refrigerators were built to satisfy the demands of the American housewife, no matter how hot the weather.

CONCEDE EIGHT BERLIN EVENTS TO AMERICANS

AMERICA EXPECTED TO WIN BUT MAY STUMBLE

By GAYLE TALBOT
BERLIN (AP)—Even if America manages to send a complete, full-course team to this summer's Olympic Games at Berlin, it is doubtful that the star-spangled brigade will be able to repeat its almost overwhelming triumph of the last Olympics at Los Angeles.

Naturally, the Americans will be expected to win. They always do, and their superiority in a sufficient number of track and field events is acknowledged freely on this side. But a survey of European possibilities by The Associated Press indicates the gap is being narrowed steadily.

European nations, particularly Germany, Poland, Austria and Turkey, are becoming more seriously sport-minded every year; the same is true of Japan in the Far East. They are hiring American instructors, and really working at it. Some of the results are bound to be in evidence at Berlin.

America, for the time being, is considered unbeatable in certain events—the 100-, 200- and 400-meter dashes, both hurdles, the pole vault, high jump, pole—but outside of these things is conceded. In all races from the 800-meter to the marathon, the American squad can look for plenty of opposition. That's the case, too, in every field event except the pole-vault.

Heavy With Weight Men

Germany and the Scandinavian countries are loaded down with fine weight men and distance runners. Sievert of Germany is the press deathlon record-holder. Janusz Kusociński of Poland proved a distance runner at Los Angeles and is said to be as good as ever now. Zabala, the Argentine marathon champion, has been training in Germany for the past year and knocking records right and left.

The only distance event in which America is conceded much chance is the 1,500 meters, but the consensus is that Jack Lovelock, the transplanted New Zealander, will be able to take care of that, too, if he gets himself in top condition. Jack at present is taking himself seriously as a student at St. Mary's Hospital London, spending hours every day on his feet watching operation—and they say that takes speed out of a man's legs.

America's women athletes, as well, are not promised the field day they enjoyed at Los Angeles, where Babe Didrikson practically became an odds-on threat overnight. Germany, since that time, has developed a group of short-haired Amazons who are little short of terrific.

In the last European meet in London they came near sweeping the boards, setting up times and heights and distances comparable to Olympic records. Germany, not so happy about its men, expects its women to make up any deficit.

BOSS-ISM MAGNIFIED MANY TIMES IN NAZI ACTIVITIES

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 13.—"Take the Tweed Ring in New York and Tammany at its worst and multiply them a hundred thousand times and you have a portrait of Nazism at work."

This characterization of Germany under the Brown Shirts may seem theatrical and bizarre. But, as John L. Spivak in his book, Europe Under the Terror, goes on to explain: "There is not a business house in Germany, foreign or domestic, which does not pay tribute. Most of them are afraid to talk, figuring it better to pay a reasonable tribute than be forced into bankruptcy. They simply charge it to running expenses and jack up the price a bit for the people." Much of the anti-Nazi news which has appeared in American newspapers has had to do with the persecution of the Jews. That persecution has caused the slaughter of thousands and the exile and imprisonment of tens of thousands, but that is but an aspect and, if anything in this picture can be called minor, a minor aspect. Edmund Burke said that "you cannot indict a nation," but the Nazi party, a decidedly minority party, has visited a not wholly dissimilar persecution upon a nation of more than 60,000,000.

The American goes to a movie and sees gangster films. There have been such films as that which depicted the horrors of the Georgia chain gangs. The average American shudders and goes safely home, little menaced save by other automobile drivers. He thinks he has seen a fanciful picture of something which really does not happen—can't happen. Mr. Spivak shows that it is happening every day in Germany, probably to a more intensive degree than it is happening in Fascist Italy. Hitler copied his regime largely from Mussolini, but he bettered the instruction. Teutonic torture can be as ingenious as Latin, Mr. Spivak was told.

In every business office of any size in Germany there are dictaphones—not clumsy ones readily detected by an observant person but dictaphones so ingenious that no one dares talk. The telephones were all fixed so that every conversation was overheard at Nazi headquarters. Business learned this and stopped telephoning. So new telephones were put in so delicately adjusted that, whether one used the telephone or not, every word spoken in the same room with a telephone was heard at headquarters. An ironical fact Mr. Spivak notes, is that these instruments are made by a branch of the largely American-owned International Telephone and Telegraph company.

The People Starve
Mr. Spivak notes that the Nazi racket is modeled somewhat after Al Capone's racket in Chicago, save that, in Germany, an entire nation is subjected to tribute. The rewards are farmed out. A small or large business man is visited by a Nazi minor official and told that he must pay for protection. If he refuses, he is blacklisted, boycotted, and his business is ruined. He, himself, may be subjected to unnamable indignities, possibly ending in a concentration camp or on the headsman's block. German branches of American concerns or other foreign concerns enjoy no immunity. They pay tribute too. Mr. Spivak was present at an interview where such an arrangement was made. The bigger men, Hitler, Goebbels, and the like have bigger rackets. When Hitler came into power, the newspaper he controlled increased its advertising fifteen times over at greatly increased rates. If a business did not advertise, it found itself blacklisted. Hitler is so fabulously wealthy that one of his gifts to a favorite was a country house worth $500,000. That is pocket money for him. Many of the people starve.

A business, even a small farmer, is told that he must discharge such an employee, and he must or else—He is told that he must hire such an employee—or else. Women can not obtain work unless they consent to accept the attentions of Nazi officials. One representative of an American house told Mr. Spivak of how he had been forced to discharge a young employee for incompetence. He could scarcely read or write. When Hitler came to power, the same young man, turned Nazi, appeared as an official of the education department with a big house and expensive motor cars. The people starve.

Many of the Nazis are engaged in smuggling their marks out of Germany, feeling that the carnival cannot last much longer. Inflation, they fear, is the next step, and they want to get their wealth into dollars, francs, pounds, or any currency which they regard as all stable. The people starve.

A curious situation, almost impossible to understand, is that, in some cases, representatives of foreign commercial houses, including Americans, have at first refused to comply with the Nazi shake-down racket. They have felt the blasting boycott of the Nazi Party and have actually gone to their commercial attaches begging to be put in touch with the right Nazi lieutenant so that they may arrange to pay tribute and keep in business. Mr. Spivak submits evidence of such practices.

To go into details of the terror is far too great a task. Millions of newspaper columns would hold the evidence gathered by this Connecticut Yankee reporter. But it is clear that Germany is under the heel of a minority party, heavily armed and utterly ruthless. On the latter point, it is illuminating to note that an American business man in Germany, and others, pointed out that the Nazis are always surprised at any expression of surprise at their methods. They think all people are naturally that way if given an opportunity, and foolish if they do not take the opportunity. American newspaper readers may recall how, at his trial, the gangster, Al Capone, expressed amazement that anyone should think there was anything really wrong about his methods. He said he treated his friends well. So do the Nazis!

Like the Communist Party in Russia and the Fascist Party in Italy, the Nazi Party in Germany is greatly in the minority. The two big groups are the Communists with their sympathizers and the monarchists. The supporters of the Hohenzollerns yearn for the freedom of speech and press, the personal liberty they enjoyed under the old Empire, and, even, Communist leaders now feel the collapse of the Hitler regime likely will mean the return of the old dynasty or some monarchist dynasty. Hitler's ambitions are to take Austria and then move against Soviet Russia. The alarms of France are idle. Hitler wants to move eastward.

The Communist Party in Germany now has only 50,000 active members, and every one risks his head or imprisonment the moment his identity becomes known. There are some 200,000 Communists in prison, with another 100,000 in concentration camps. This, as always in case of intense persecution, results in the strengthening of the movement under the surface. They rather hope for war. None now but the Nazis are armed. In the event of war, it would be necessary to arm the whole man power. It is usually realized that had it not been for the World War, the old regime in Russia would have lasted another fifty years because the peasant communists had no arms.

With world communications what they are, in spite of censorship, what is going on in one nation becomes the concern of all other nations. One diplomat after another told Mr. Spivak he writes, that a major war in Europe is inevitable and the latest date mentioned to him was 1939. How much of the conflict will be between nations and how much will be civil war is a question of the first concern to the American people. American diplomacy and American trade will feel the repercussions, and the owners of the billions in American investments abroad must keenly study all aspects of all developments as a corporation stockholder must read his company reports or a landlord his income records.

Four big prairie schooner wagons, a rare antique stagecoach, several ox carts and an old time carriage are included in the rolling stock of "Cavalcade of Texas," spectacular historical drama at the Centennial exposition in Dallas.

OIL NEWS - From Panhandle and Other Southwest Fields

16 LOCATIONS ARE MADE IN PLAINS AREA

NEW ACTIVITY PEAK FOR RECENT WEEKS REACHED

Sixteen new locations were made in the Panhandle last week to reach a new peak for the last few months. Gray led the list with seven. Wheeler had five, Hutchinson had three and Moore had one. The locations were in widely different parts of the various counties.

Intentions to drill were filed as follows:

Alma Oil company, Stanollind-Johnson No. 2, 330' from the south and west lines of N 1-2 of N E 1-4 of section 47, block 24, H&GN, Wheeler county.

C. A. Lupton, Stewart No. 1, 330' from the north and west lines of section 73, block 13, H&GN, Wheeler county.

Harry Stekoll, Dial-Martin No. 4, 330' from west and 2250' from the south of section 36, block M-23, TC&RR, Hutchinson county.

Timms-Robinson Oil Corp., E. J. Moore No. 2, 386 1/2 from the north and south and 1610' from the west of N W 1-4 of section 21, block M-21, TC&RR, Hutchinson county.

Texas Interstate Pipeline Co., Brown No. 1, Senter of section 36, block 6-T, T&NO, Moore county.

Skelly Oil company, D. E. Johnson No. 22, 330' from east and 990' from the south of SW 1-4 of section 47, block 24, H&GN, Wheeler county.

Skelly Oil company, (Henry) Schafer Fanch No. 76, 1265' from the south and 2170' from the west of S W 1-4 of section 172, block 3, I&GN, Gray county.

Skelly Oil company, (Henry) Schafer Ranch No. 76, 1265' from north and 1265' from the east of S E 1-4 of section 172, block 3, I&GN, Gray county.

Skelly Oil company, Cal Merchant No. 1, 330' from the east and 990' from the north line of section 39, block 47, H&GN, Hutchinson county.

Smith Brother Refining company & Hanlon-Buchanan, Inc., D. E. Johnson No. 6, 330' from the north and 2970' from the west of section 34, block 24, H&GN, Wheeler county.

Pampa Production Co., Lee Harrah No. 7, 330' from the east and 990' from the south of section 150, block 3, I&GN, Gray county.

Gulf Oil Corp., S. Faulkner "A" (Tr. A) No. 1, 330' from the north and 990' from the east of S 1-2 of section 33, block B-2, H&GN, Gray county.

Gulf Oil Corp., E. G. Barrett No. 4, 990' from the south and 330' from the east lines of S W 1-4 of section 128, block 3, I&GN, Gray county.

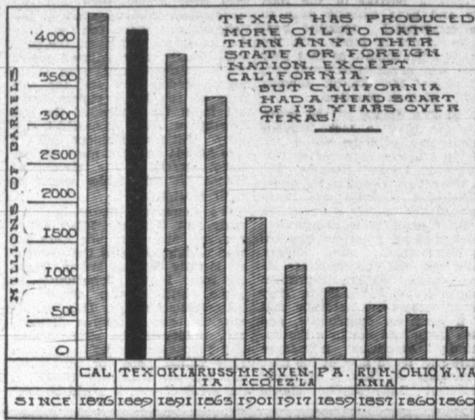

Smith Bros. Refg. Co. & Hanlon-Buchanan, Inc., R. L. Harlan C-2, 330' from the north and west lines of E 1-2 of S W 1-4 of section 49, block 24, H&GN, Wheeler county.

Champion Refining Co., D. J. McLaughlin No. 11, 330' from the south and 990' from the east of section 33, block B-2, H&GN, Gray county.

Gardner Bros., E. G. Barrett No. 3, 300' east of the west line and about 340' from the north and south lines of section 128, block 3, I&GN, Gray county. (This is the south 85 acres) 2,022 1/2 west of well No. 2.

Oil: Monument to Pioneers

By H. J. STRUTH, Petroleum Economist

If all the oil produced in Texas to date was placed in barrels of 42 gallons each, and stacked in a single perpendicular column, it would make a monument 2,800,000 miles high! Such is the imaginary monument that stands in Texas today as a tribute to the hardships and courage of the "wildcatter" who made it possible for Texas to lead the world in oil production.

Analysis of the world's oil production statistics, by the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association of Texas, shows that Texas has, with one exception, produced more oil than any other state or foreign nation. Since 1889, Texas has produced 420,000,000 barrels of crude oil, which is 15 per cent of all the oil produced in the history of the world! Only California has produced more, and there oil was found 13 years before the first well was drilled in Texas. The accompanying chart shows how Texas' cumulative oil production ranks with other major sources of the world's oil supply.

The black column on the chart may well be termed a monument to the courage and determination of the pioneers of the Texas oil industry. It signifies the pioneering spirit so colorfully written in the pages of Texas history. For the "wildcatter" is truly the pioneer of the oil industry; the "Independent" oil producer, who often stakes his all in the possibility of obtaining an oil well, and accepts his fortunes and misfortunes with the spirit that has characterized the empire builders of this great state.

While the efforts of the "wildcatter" have undoubtedly been the "back-bone" of the Texas oil development, yet the uncertainties of that method imposed such great cost upon the industry that the field of geology and geophysics was called upon to help determine the financial hazards. Today, all over this state, these technical men are making scientific study of surface formations in an effort to locate more accurately hidden oil deposits. Even with these modern methods, this scientific study involves a heavy constant overhead cost against the industry—often times the discovery of a new oil pool follows years of intensive preliminary study, frequently involving the expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Today, there are more than 4,000 "Independent" oil operators in Texas, in addition to the co-called "Major" companies; all of them still pioneering to maintain the continued leadership of Texas as the world's principal source of oil supply. Much more oil may yet be discovered in Texas in many counties where the drill has not yet penetrated the "pay" sand. More and more Texas farms are being leased for such development in practically all sections of the state, with rebounding benefit to the landowners—to say nothing of the benefits that accrue to the state, the counties, the schools, the cities, and the people, when the oil is brought into production. Yet, there are some unthinking individuals who would discourage these pioneers and empire builders of Texas by threatening to increase the tax burden of this principal industry of our state, which already pays sixty per cent of all the taxes collected in Texas.

Today, after having produced nearly two and a quarter billion barrels of oil, Texas still has a proven reserve supply, yet to be produced, amounting to five and one-half billion barrels; half of the prospective production of the United States. This, too, is credited to these hardy pioneers who had the courage to drill for oil where the chances of opening up new underground reservoirs of oil were dimmed by previous records of failure after failure. In fact, many of the existing oil fields in Texas, including the now famous East Texas field, were discovered only after repeated failure of the "wildcatter's" drill to penetrate the "pay" sand. These reserves will continue to be developed with increasing benefits to Texas and its people, if unreasonable, discriminatory tax schemes are discouraged by the sane-thinking citizens of Texas.

SEVEN WELLS ARE TESTED IN PLAINS FIELD

FIVE PRODUCE CRUDE OIL; TWO GOOD GASERS

Seven more wells were tested in the Panhandle field last week, five of them being oil wells and two gasers.

Oil wells added 1,950 barrels to the daily potential production of the field. Gas wells made 98,432,000 cubic feet of gas daily. Four of the five oil wells were in Gray county.

Of 16 first announcements for the week, 7 were in Gray county, 5 in Wheeler, 3 in Hutchinson, and one in Moore county.

The completions were as follows, as tested by the Railroad commission:

Gray County

Kewanee Oil & Gas company No. D-5 Morse, section 16, block A-9, H&GN survey, tested 284 barrels daily. Total depth was 3,393 feet in line, with pay at 2,535-73 feet. A shot of 400 quarts was used.

John J. and W. J. Moran No. 2 L. Holmes, section 86, block 3, I&GN survey, tested 587 barrels daily. Total depth was 3,190 feet, with pay at 3,095-3,100 and 3,183-89 feet.

Shell Petroleum company No. A-1 Geisinger, section 14, block A-9, H. & G. N. survey, tested 358 barrels daily. Total depth was 2,742 feet in line, with pay at 2,634-2,740 feet.

Dyck Oil company No. 3 L. C. McConnell, section 187, block 3, I. & G. N. survey, tested 383 barrels daily. Total depth was 2,291 feet, with pay at 2,210-18 and 3,181-85 feet.

Hutchinson County

Texas company No. 11 Lewis, section 18, block L. E. L. & R. R. survey, tested 328 barrels daily. Its total depth was 2,980 feet in line. Pay was shown with 500 quarts from 2,890-2,980 feet.

Gas completions included Palmer et al. No. 1 Smith, section 126, block 23, H. & G. N. survey, Wheeler county, which did 72,672,000 cubic feet daily with 265 pounds per square inch, and Huber Petroleum company No. 2 Sanford, section 75, block 46, H. & T. C. survey, Hutchinson county, which did 25,760,000 cubic feet daily with 195 pounds per square inch.

The results which the departments of petroleum engineering, geology, chemistry and physics are accomplishing in the matter of equipping young men of Texas for positions in the various phases of oil operations are attracting widespread attention on the part of men connected with the industry, it is stated by persons who are familiar with what has been and is being done along these scientific lines at the university.

The new scholarship is available for the 1936-37 long session.

'Town Boy' Has Fine Wheat Crop

CANYON, June 13 (AP)—A "town boy" who moved to a farm in May, 1935, boasts one of the Panhandle's finest growths of wheat in his first crop.

It is Irvine Doss, 29, who farms on a Randall county ranch owned by an uncle, P. P. Doss of Weslaco. "He had never even planted a row of beans before moving to the ranch last year," said Doss' father, B. M. Doss, of Amarillo, who advised his son in the farm operations.

Doss' wheat yield is expected to average more than 20 bushels to the acre.

The young farmer said he took over a place that had not produced a crop in five years. He attributes his successful first crop to deep plowing, early planting and use of high grade seed.

"We paid a premium to get the best seed on the market and gave it the mercury treatment for rust," Doss said. "I had my crop planted before September 15."

Ex-Premier Sells 'Mixer' CHATELON, France (AP)—Pierre Laval, ex-premier, has formed a company for bottling the water of a spring here in Chateillon, his home town. The water is recommended for the itch, Laval says, and also goes well with whisky.

CONSERVATION OF GAS SAID TO BE CHALLENGE TO WHOLE STATE—FUTURE IS INVOLVED

Waste May Be Regarded In Future In Same Light As Devastating Flood

BY ELMER H. JOHNSON, Industrial Geographer Bureau of Business Research, University of Texas

For a period of several years Texas has been the leading producer of natural gas. Not only has natural gas production in Texas been high but waste of this non-replenishable natural resource has been great. And though production and waste in the world's largest gas field, that of the Texas Panhandle, have attracted wide attention, it should not be forgotten that other oil producing fields in Texas also produce natural gas and that in them waste also occurs.

The important point to note, however, is that large natural gas reserves occur in Texas; and if properly conserved, these resources will be of great significance in the further growth of Texas industrialization.

Too much emphasis can hardly be put upon the economic significance of natural gas in Texas to the future of the State. For instance, though natural gas as a fuel is highly prized by many industries it is particularly prized by certain ones such as glass and ceramics. Had it been possible to conserve the natural gas blown into the air in Texas during the past few years such fuel could have been used to support an appreciable portion of power-using establishments in the Middle West and the Northwest. To conserve properly this natural heritage constitutes a challenge to Texas citizenship. To use economically this great fuel resource in the future constitutes likewise a challenge to Texas industry. For natural gas is unmistakably one of the basic features upon which a substantial part of future industry can be developed. The time will come when we will regard the great waste of natural gas in the same light as we regard the destructive action of a great flood. To what extent will the people of the future regard such waste as controllable?

Because of the critical importance of natural gas to Texas it is deemed advisable here to include a more extended statement regarding this natural resource and fuel of the future.

The peak year of marketed natural gas production in the United States was 1930. Marketed natural gas in 1934 over that for 1933, however, there occurred an increase of 14 per cent over the output of 1933. This gain in consumption of natural gas for industrial purposes, interstate and export movement of natural gas increased 29 per cent in 1934 over that for 1933.

Great variations occur in the prices of natural gas as received as well as in the costs of natural gas to consumers. In 1934 the average value of natural gas at the wells was 6 cents per 1,000 cubic feet; producers in some states such as New York, Pennsylvania and Indiana received more than 20 cents. The average value at the wells in Texas was 2.2 cents; in California, second in rank as a producer, 7 cents; in Oklahoma and Louisiana, more than 3 cents; and in West Virginia, which ranks fifth in production, 17.6 cents. Illinois leads in average value at point of consumption with 69.1 cents per thousand cubic feet; other Middle West and Middle Atlantic States rank comparatively high in this regard.

Of the distribution of consuming groups of total natural gas used in the United States in 1934, that used for field purposes for drilling etc. accounted for 31 per cent; 16 per cent was used for domestic purposes; 13 per cent was consumed in the manufacture of carbon black; 7 per cent at electric utility power plants; 5 per cent at petroleum refineries; and 2 per cent at cement plants, thus leaving 21 per cent which was used for "other" industrial purposes.

By far the chief producer of natural gas in Texas, which in 1934 furnished nearly 35 per cent of the total marketed natural gas of the nation, The Gulf Southwest States, including Kansas, furnished nearly two-thirds of the total for the United States. California furnished 15 per cent in 1934, the Middle Atlantic group 11.4 per cent and the Middle West 5 per cent.

The producing states of the Gulf Southwest and California account for about 95 per cent of the

EXCESS LAND LAW SOUGHT BY RANCHMEN

RELIEF FROM LITIGATION WOULD BE PLAN

SAN ANGELO, June 13. (AP)—A land law giving the owners of original railroad land the right to purchase excesses would give many West Texas ranchman relief from land litigation, in the opinion of H. L. George, San Angelo surveyor and civil engineer. Many ranchmen are actively interested in the problem of acquiring their excess acreage, but under present laws such acreage cannot be bought or defined if it is an original railway survey, which constitute a large volume of ranch lands in the state.

"Years ago when Texas granted pioneer railroads sixteen sections of land for each mile of road constructed little importance attached to the accuracy of survey," George said. "In return for these land certificates the railroads were to locate two surveys under each land script, one of the company and the other for the school fund. The railroad sections are all old numbers while the school sections are even numbers. Soon after these lands were located many were not actually surveyed on the ground. They were what is known as 'office surveys' and the railroads received patents for 640 acres."

After appropriating 3,000,000 acres to build the Capitol at Austin, the legislature passed a law that the state never again could give away any of its property.

"The combination of these conditions has brought a serious situation so far as the present holders of these original railroad sections are concerned," George said.

Since there is some excess land in nearly every survey in West Texas, it would go far toward solving the difficulty if the legislature should pass a law authorizing a survey of West Texas lands and give owners right to purchase excess acreage at the original price, plus about 2 per cent interest, George said.

"In this manner the excess could be purchased in the original railroad sections and the school sections alike, and the titles of thousands of West Texas land owners would be cleared," George said.

The Texas Centennial Midway is considered the finest ever built for a World's Fair. It has a total valuation of about three and a half million dollars.

Poor cables and wearing slings which wished to take profits on the week's advance started the market off around 25 cents a bale lower. But activity dried up on the decline and a slow point by point recovery to previous final levels made up the remainder of the two hour trading period.

July closed at 11.69, October at 11.09 and both December and January at 11.03. New crops dipped under the 11 cent level at one time, but ran into good buying interest on the decline.

Reports of more rain in the eastern part of the belt did not cause a ripple on the trading surface. Obviously the trade believed that more rain was needed in the droughty sector before the new yield would benefit materially.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON NEW ORLEANS, June 13. (AP)—The usual week-end profit taking sales ran into good support on the cotton market today and prices closed within a point or so of the previous closing levels.

The original cost of the stabilization treatment according to preliminary figures, is less than that of a gravel treatment. Maintenance costs are extremely low—far less than for gravel—and successive oil treatments add to the thickness and permanence of the roadway.

Low-cost, farm to market roads would also go in relieving the hazardous congestion on our limited system of main highways. "Highway congestion," the association says, is simply the result of too many cars on too few highways. Congestion can be eliminated, our farmers relieved of their mud and dust menace and the value of farm property increased tremendously by expanding our system of rural roads.

Such a program would also tend to reduce the burdensome gasoline taxes and license fees and remove the temptation to divert those funds to other purposes than road building.

Hundreds of Jewish farmer families, driven from their homes in outlying areas by the harassing tactics of Arab marauders who roam the countryside to wreak vengeance in their persistent race war, seek sanctuary in Jerusalem. Carrying their few belongings, a group of women and children refugees are shown on arrival at the Holy City, shepherded by a British soldier.

club attended the luncheon held Monday noon at the Miami Servant hotel.

Nomination of officers for the next year was made from the floor as follows: W. L. Russell, president; M. M. Craig, Jr., 1st V. P.; R. L. McDaniel, 2 V. P.; W. M. Byers, secretary-treasurer; Joe E. Boyd, tall timer.

Hail Destroys Wheat
That ever grim threat to the wheat farmer, a hail storm, claimed a total of from two to three hundred thousand bushels of wheat from Ochiltree county wheat farmers last Thursday afternoon. The area covered by the hail storm ranged south and west from Parnsworth, dipped down through the McMillen section and on into the south central part of the county. The storm tore through the best part of the wheat in the Perryton territory and took out at least a third of the limited crop that will be harvested this year.

Canadian Centennial
Plans are being made by the Centennial Celebration committee of the Canadian chamber of commerce for a gala day in Canadian for Old Timers on Friday, July 3.

The day's program, though not yet entirely complete, will consist of registry at the City Hall between the hours of 9 and 12 a. m., of all Old Timers having resided here 40 years or more, that is, all persons living here in 1896 or an earlier date.

An old fiddlers contest is being planned and the committee says they are already having letters of inquiry about this feature of the program from many neighboring points. Old fashioned square dances are planned. Short talks will be given by Old Timers. It is planned to serve a free lunch at noon.

Arrangements have been made to have the city decorated for July 2, 3 and 4. Preparations are being made to entertain a large crowd. Members of the committee in charge are L. A. McAdams, Jep Todd and John Isaacs.

Olympic Scene Destined To Be Radiator Town

BERLIN, June 13 (AP)—Funniest thing in Nazi Germany—where things, as a rule, are not so funny—is the radiator situation in Olympic Village, where 3,500 athletes will be quartered next August.

The place, unless this observer misses a guess, is destined to be known among members of the American delegation as "Radiator Village" long after its original title has been forgotten. Nobody ever saw so many radiators before anywhere barring possibly in a factory.

Some super-salesman, who must have known somebody of importance, simply sold the village contractor his entire radiator output—lock, stock and barrel. And, rather than admit that somebody made a slight miscalculation, the contractor has installed every last one of them. It must have been a lousy job, but he did it. In all the principal buildings, radiators actually occupy nearly half the wall space in every room and hall. In some rooms there is a generous eight or nine feet between them; in others a scanty four feet. The distance was measured.

A visitor to the village first is startled at the ranks of radiators, because the Berlin climate is not so severe, anyway. Then, as the tour continues, it begins to get funny. He asks very leading questions, and he gets simple shrugs and laughs himself. By the time the visitor leaves the place he finds he can't concentrate for worrying about the radiators.

There even are radiators in the kitchens at the big dining hall.

If names mean anything one of the naval officers at the Texas Centennial Exposition should go far in his profession. He was christened John Paul and his surname is Roach. He is a lieutenant, junior grade and executive officer of the Texas Bluejacket company, Paris, Texas is his home.

Scenic backgrounds on the stage of "Cavalcade of Texas," huge spectacular production at the Texas Centennial Exposition in Dallas, are so realistic that the man-made rocks and mountains appear in photographs and under the performance lights as actual landscape.

Electricity used to illuminate the grounds at the Texas Centennial Exposition is sufficient to supply power for the lighting of the commercial and residential areas of America's busiest city of 100,000 population!

More than one hundred head of livestock, including fifty fine saddle horses, are used in the production of "Cavalcade of Texas" at the Centennial Exposition in Dallas. Other animals in the cast include a herd of genuine longhorn steers, prize whiteface cattle, burros and work oxen.

Landon Out for 'Constitutional'

Shoulders squared, Gov. Alfred M. Landon is shown as he moved with brisk, swinging stride down a shade-dappled street in Topeka, his schedule unvaried by the momentous events at the Republican convention 750 miles away.

POLITICS at Random

BY BYRON PRICE,
Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington.

Time changes all things—except national political conventions. The 1936 model is as unexplainable as unbelievable, as full of noise and lovely fictions as was its predecessor a generation ago.

Those who try to follow convention proceedings from a distance never will know what a sense of unreality hovers over them. Words cannot describe, nor can the ether waves convey, the weird and wholly irrational spirit of the occasion.

The republicans have met at Cleveland, marching and cheering. Soon the democrats will meet at Philadelphia, cheering and marching. All to what purpose?

Presumably, to perform as solemn and sacred a duty as ever falls to the lot of American citizens—to choose party nominees and lay down pledges of policy for the highest offices in the land. Actually, to carry out, with as little solemnity and as much ballyhoo and hysteria as possible, the decision the respective leaders have made for them. The platforms are written by a few men. The nominees either are selected beforehand, or chosen finally at conferences small enough to be held in hotel bedrooms. Ninety-five per cent of the delegates who have come great distances for the event might as well have stayed at home.

Delegates Abroad.
Except, of course, that they do have a wonderful time—measured by the special standards of enjoyment which apply at national conventions, and nowhere else.

They listen enraptured to blaring bands which, under ordinary circumstances, they would not cross the street to hear. They howl themselves hoarse at oratorical bromides too feeble to stir a town meeting.

They rush hither and yon on errands which sound screwy, and usually result in nothing. They whisper meaningless gossip as they stand propped against one another in teeming hotel lobbies at those small hours of the night when, at home, they never would dream of being out of bed.

Of course all of this can be explained on the theory that each great party is entitled, once in every four years, to forget its manners and its inhibitions, and go night-club in a big way. Only it does seem a strange moment to choose, in view of the responsibilities of a national convention, for making whoopee.

And another strange thing about it is that, by and large, most of these adventures turn out very well. More often than not, capable men are nominated, and commendable platforms are adopted. That is because the real work has been done in advance, or else in quiet seclusion somewhere nearby after the riot started.

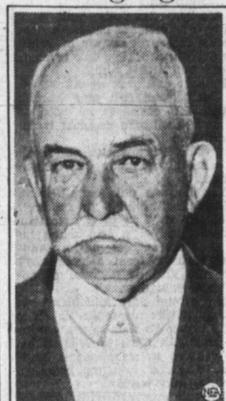

Nice For the Writers.
This general system of convention procedure, adhered to year after year by republicans and democrats uniformly, does have the virtue of making things a little easier for the newspaper reporters.

After attending a few of the quadrennial parties, any good newspaper man knows most of the story by heart. He could have written the above about Cleveland or Philadelphia, about 1936 or 1916 or 1906, and had it ready beforehand. He would be familiar with the atmosphere and the decorations. That is because the real work has been done in advance, or else in quiet seclusion somewhere nearby after the riot started.

So far as the Cleveland convention is concerned, it also has followed the well-established republican precedent of developing differences between the old guard and the liberals. How serious this schism will turn out to be in the campaign no one ever knows, and no one knows now. Likewise, Cleveland has reproduced that time-honored bit of republican drama, centering around differences over the farm relief plank and a few other parts of the platform. This is according to Hoyle, and a republican convention hardly would be complete without it.

World tin consumption continues to gain steadily, consumption in this country advancing 45 per cent in the last year.

'Tieless Joe' Is Battling Again

"Tieless Joe" Tolbert, who also might be called tieless, because he usually is in the thick of the fight over delegate seating in Republican national conventions, is shown here as he arrived in Cleveland, ready for another tussle. Tolbert led in his South Carolinians as the advance guard of the confested delegates. His group was unseated in the 1928 conclave.

left arm. He has previously had four arm breaks and a broken collar bone.

Oil In Hole
Finally succeeding in their efforts to shut out water which had been hampering development for some time, drillers at Porter No. 1, Wheeler oil test well 6 1/2 miles south of Wheeler, uncovered a small deposit of oil Tuesday. A negligible amount of gas was found with the oil, which rose about 800 feet in the hole.

Hail Destructive
One of the most devastating hails in the memory of the oldest inhabitant of Hansford county, accompanied 4 inches of rain Thursday of last week, and in less than two hours harvested practically 85 per cent of the county's potential wheat yield.

$300,000 In Bonds
The Adjusted Certificate Bonds for Hall county World War Veterans will probably reach Memphis the night of June 15, or the morning of June 16, according to Postmaster J. Henry Read. There will be over $300,000 received in bonds in the county.

Dr. Bruno Remembers
Dr. Bruno never forgets his friends: five years ago Dr. Bruno came into the LeFors News office, paid to have the paper sent to Bruce Bull, Black Lake, N. M. Tuesday of this week the Dr. came to the editor and said "See here, how is Bruce Bull's subscription coming along?" The editor replied, "I think it has expired."

Taking a bill from his bill fold the Dr. said, "Get it going again." In this brief conversation we felt the atmosphere of true friendship for both Mr. Bull and the paper. Thanks Dr. Bruno.—LeFors News.

S. D. Shelburne added to his laurels recently when he started east on No. 66 and picked up a hitch hiker who rode with him to the county line, and before letting the man out of the car had made an appointment with him for the next day, when he sold him a car.

SPECTACULAR SHOW BOAT TO START TODAY

IRENE DUNNE WILL STAR IN PICTURE SHOWING MISSISSIPPI

"What river is this?" The question was asked of a fellow sitting on the pier, whose clothing proclaimed him a riverman. Nearby, Universal was filming a scene for "Show Boat," the picture now at the La Nora theater.

"It's the Doublin' river," he answered. "I never knew there was such a stream near Hollywood," the inquisitive one interposed.

"This one has been camouflaged as other rivers so often that it's come to be called the Doublin' river. Changes its nationality overnight. When it's not masquerading, they name it the Louisiana. Sit down and I'll give you a tale the likes of which ye never heard before. And it's true in the bargain," the talkative old man said.

"I call to mind a picture about Ireland. After I read the script, I dreamed I was on the River Shannon, saints be praised. When I went on location the next day, there was the River Shannon flowing past me eyes, looking just as it had in my dreams. It was this same stream you're gazing at now."

"Recently, it was the Sacramento river, for 'Sutter's Gold.' I've seen it when it was the Thames and the Seine; the Rhine and the Congo; the Yukon and even the Yangtze Kiang, Chinese pirates and all. But not a single one of them could equal the Doublin' river when it made up its mind to become the Mississippi."

"Father of Waters they call it. Well, when it was all dressed up for 'Show Boat' it was easily the grandfather of waters, and no mistake. Now I'm not going to tell ye that the river was changed by a pack of leprechauns or banshees. This is a true story, mind ye. But it was far magic the way they brought the Mississippi to Hollywood."

He stopped to light his pipe. Then he resumed, full speed ahead. "First they dammed up a part of the Los Angeles. Then they dug out the earth with huge steam shovels, a channel almost a mile long and over a hundred feet wide. They opened the dam and the water rushed in, floating the show boat that was tied to a pier."

"A Mighty Task. They also built a town, making everything match photographs of the Mississippi shore. Ye'd swear Natchez or Memphis is just around the bend. A mighty task it all was, but when it was finished, it would fool the best river pilot that ever heaved a lead."

Two boats were brought from the Mississippi itself, taken apart and shipped in sections. They joined everything watertight again, right there on the Doublin' river.

"Thousands of sandbags were heaped up to build the levees. Bales of cotton and barrels of molasses were brought in by the carload. Why, they had more than 1,200 people for that scene when the show boat comes to town."

"The old paddle wheels churned, the field hands sang and then the show boat captain's daughter came on deck. Man, it was magnificent. The old Mississippi swirled and rippled in the sunshine. But it was the Doublin' river on the job again, and making good."

Glory Ride With Her. Irene Dunne passed the garrulous fellow on her way to the next scene. She waved to him.

"There," he said, "there goes a girl with a thousand thrushes singing in her throat and a million stars glowing in her eyes. Glory rides with her. But I'll be after taking the next boat, for I'm in this scene."

The patient listener asked one of the people standing near, "Who was that man talking to me?" "Why," came the answer, "he's J. Farrell MacDonald; played in more than 400 pictures. They just made him professor of acting at the University of Southern California."

"Does he come from Ireland?" "No, Ansonia, Connecticut."

NOW AT THE REX.

Margaret Lindsay and Warren Hull. If friends of Margaret Lindsay are awakened some night by the sound of a twanging guitar and a feminine voice in a throaty English accent singing "Home On the Range" they need not be at all surprised. It will just be the motion picture actress trying out her newly acquired "folk music" education.

Miss Lindsay, who came from Iowa, and came a long way from that corn state in the matter of notes and creeds, has just begun taking lessons on the guitar. And she's specializing, oddly enough, in folk songs of the prairies.

"Maybe it's a throw-back to the prairies atmosphere in which I was born," Margaret said on the set of "The Law in Her Hands," now showing at the Rex theater.

"Or it may be an Emersonian compensation for the fact that I nullified my native tongue with an acquired English accent. At any rate, I seem to have an almost uncontrollable affection for cowboy ballads and simple songs of the soil."

Years ago, as a school girl in a smart New York boarding academy, she was a member of the "Glee Club."

They Took Mississippi to Hollywood

The Mississippi was taken to Hollywood for the making of "Show Boat," the picture now at La Nora theater. Irene Dunne has the feminine lead.

COLONEL KNOX FOUGHT UNDER FAMOUS TEDDY

WAS 'ROUGH RIDER' IN SPANISH-AMERICAN FRACAS

CHICAGO, June 13 (AP)—Col. Frank Knox, Chicago Daily News publisher selected yesterday as republican vice-presidential nominee, is a former Rough Rider devotee. Like "T. R." Roosevelt, the idol of his youth, to "the strenuous life."

Knox has been a soldier, a business man, a political leader, and a crusading editor. He went to Cuba in the Spanish American war with a regiment famous for reckless daring. In the World War, his chosen job was commanding an ammunition train, dealing with mules and explosives.

His first political success was similarly strenuous, when as a young editor in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., he "put over" the campaign of Chase Osborn for governor of Michigan.

Knox then made his bow into national politics in one of its most turbulent scenes. He was one of "Teddy" Roosevelt's right hand in the stormy "Bull Moose" campaign of 1912.

Since August 12, 1931, Col. Knox has been editor and publisher of the News. He came to Chicago from Manchester, N. H., where he is the proprietor of two papers, the "Leader" and "Union."

Knox is 62, but his appearance and manner belie his age. A stocky, powerfully built man slightly over medium height, he has a ruddy face and an air of brimful good health. His hair is sandy and was red in his youth.

He was a halfback at Alma college, Mich., and still puts himself through the exercises he used to lead as the school's physical training director.

His voice is aggressive and positive, and his manner hearty and informal. When he was put forward as a presidential candidate his followers hailed him as a "typical successful business man" who had made his way to great success in the newspaper business from a poor boy's start and also as a "man of action" and a fighter.

Many of the tales told about his fighting nature centered in "The Soo." Going to that upper peninsula Michigan town in 1902 in his first venture as newspaper publisher, "The Soo" then was booming, brawling, and lawless.

Its streets swarmed with lumberjacks, sailors, trappers, Indians, floating laborers and construction crews. Knox recalls there were 100 saloons for 10,000 population.

Knox immediately launched a crusade with his new "Evening Journal" for law and order. Strenuous action ensued. As a warning, someone shot the windows out of his office. At least once Knox had to back up his editorials with his fists. He knocked a drunken saloon keeper down his office stairs, when the invader stormed in to thrash the editor, and won new respect for the "clean up" campaign.

SUCCESS OF HINDENBURG BRINGS HOPE FOR NEW HELIUM DEMAND

Miss Lindsay started strumming the ukulele, she admits, that instrument having succeeded the mandolin in the pennant sorority houses. At that time, she was given a rare old Cuban guitar as a Christmas present an instrument dating back to Colonial days and possessing an age-mellowed tone.

"I picked up the old instrument a couple of weeks ago and started strumming a few chords," she told fellow members of the cast of "The Law in Her Hands" in which she's playing the lead.

"Much to my surprise," she continued, "I remembered some of the tunes I used to pick out by ear while in school. One of my friends told me about a good guitar teacher, and so I've started taking lessons."

Yankee Recruit Will Not Forsake College for Ball

WINTER PARK, Fla., June 13 (AP)—Ed Levy, the New York Yankees' recruit, doesn't intend to give up his collegiate career for baseball. A sophomore at Rollins college, Levy says he will attend winter classes at the institution until he earns his sheepskin.

Levy walloped the ball at a 300 clip in the past spring at Rollins, besides using his six feet and six inches to good advantage stretching for wide ones on the initial sack. Few balls got past him. The youngster is a product of Asheville (N. C.) sandlots and was tutored by Earle Holt. Holt has sent such stars as Wesley and Rick Ferrell, Ray Hayworth, and Jackie May to major leagues.

Approximately 7,000,000 trees have been set in Kentucky by the federal soil conservation service.

SCOUT NEWS

Enjoyed Centennial Four Boy Scouts of Troop 7 were included in the guard of honor for Governor Alfred during his recent visit at the Pampa Centennial celebration.

Those included were: Scott Schmalhorst, Richard Saxe, George Measley, and Victor K. Aubrey. Neal Nichols was chosen from Troops 7 by the council for the presentation of the Boy Scout plaque to the governor during his stay.

The local scouts also participated in the battle of Adobe Walls which was portrayed by all scouts in a very realistic manner including guns and cannons. Mrs. Billy Dixon, wife of the Texan whose fame is connected with this battle, made a special trip to the Boy Scout camp to compliment the boys for their wonderful display.

Reports from Pampa reveal that the Scouts enjoyed themselves in many ways. They were given free swims, a big barbecue, whereby they had all they wanted to eat, free shows, and numerous other entertainment.
