ROME (AP) — The richest nations of Western Europe respond today along with Canada and Japan to a U.S. proposal to resolve the worst international monetary crisis since World War II. Initial French reaction was that Washington had offered nothing new. The United States offered

Monday to drop the 10 per cent import surcharge President Nixon imposed Aug. 15 if the other nations of the Group of Ten revalued their currencies upward by an average of 11 per cent, including 20 per cent for the Japanese yen, 15 per cent for the West German mark and less for the other currencies.

The U.S. proposal was presented by Paul A. Volcker, treasury undersecretary for monetary affairs, at a preliminary meeting that opened the three-day conference of the non-Communist world's strongest trading powers. Finance ministers of Britain and the European Common Market were meeting first today to chart a response to the American proposal. Then in the afternoon U.S. Treasury Secretary John B. Connally was to preside at what could be a crucial session of the finance ministers of the Group of Ten: the United States, Britain, France, West Germany, Japan, Italy,

Belgium, the Netherlands, Sweden and Canada. It was the first time in 3½ months of deadlock that an American settlement package containing specific figures was on the table. There was no indication of any softening of the U.S. refusal to devalue the dollar in terms of gold, a key demand of the Europeans and the Japanese. But the U.S. delegation was reported to view the proposal as a reasonable compromise since it retreated from earlier suggestions for higher revaluations averaging 15 per cent. In most cases the figures proposed are still higher than those the nations involved have indicated they would find acceptable. For them revaluation means higher export prices and lost foreign trade. They are willing to make smaller upward adjustments if the United States contributes by devaluing the dollar—a politically unpopular step the Nixon administration refuses to take. All agree exchange rates must be realigned and the import surcharge removed to stabilize the monetary system and avert a trade war. The arguing is over who does what and who appears to be giving in.

Confirmation For Rehnquist Recommended

WASHINGTON (AP) — A majority report of the Senate Judiciary Committee terms "totally unfounded" charges made by opponents of William H. Rehnquist's nomination to the Supreme Court.

In recommending his confirmation by the Senate, the committee said "the prime prerequisites for service on the Supreme Court are professional competence, open-mindedness and a sense of fairness." The committee said in its opinion Rehnquist has these qualities.

The committee report also recommends the confirmation of Lewis F. Powell Jr. to the Supreme Court and terms him "thoroughly qualified."

Rehnquist, an assistant attorney general, and Powell, a Richmond, Va., lawyer, were named by President Nixon to succeed retired Justice John M. Harlan and the late Justice Hugo L. Black. Powell has run into virtually no opposition, but Rehnquist has been strongly opposed by labor and civil rights leaders in testimony before the committee. The panel has 16 members—nine Democrats and seven Republicans.

The committee unanimously approved the nomination of Powell last week but divided 12 to 4 in support of Rehnquist, a former Phoenix, Ariz., lawyer.

The four Democrats on the committee who voted against Rehnquist's nomination are preparing a minority report to be filed later. They contend he has failed to demonstrate a commitment to civil rights and civil liberties.

Senate leaders plan to bring the nominations up for debate Thursday and hope for a vote before the end of the week.

The committee majority report, drafted for submission to the Senate, said charges that Rehnquist is insensitive to the civil rights of minority citizens are "utterly without factual or inferential support." It said that, although he opposed a public accommodations ordinance adopted by Phoenix in 1964, he had testified he no longer is against such measures and does not question the power of Congress to enact civil rights legislation.

Also, the report said, attempts to picture Rehnquist as opposed to school desegregation on the basis of a letter he wrote in 1967 were refuted by his testimony at committee hearings.

The position of his 1967 letter, "the report said, is much narrower than his critics suggest. Specifically, his remarks in the letter and before this committee indicate he feels it would be undesirable to destroy the neighborhood school solely to achieve racial balance.

Dowdy Jury Hears Tape On Bribery

BALTIMORE (AP) — Prosecutors in the bribery-conspiracy trial of Rep. John Dowdy, D-Tex., have submitted as evidence a scratchy tape recording of an alleged conversation between the Texas lawmaker and the man who claims to have given him $25,000 to quash a federal probe of his now-defunct Maryland home repair firm.

The 10-minute tape was played for jurors hearing the case Monday as testimony in the trial entered its fourth week. It came despite strong objections from defense lawyers. They pointed out that the government was using the tape in attempts to support the testimony of Nathan Cohen, who earlier told the trial that he bribed Dowdy and that the FBI had equipped him to record the conversation in the congressman's Capitol Hill office after he revealed his alleged part in the conspiracy.

Cohen, the defense pointed out, had already pleaded guilty to fraud and misrepresentation in connection with the operation of his home repair firm, the Monarch Construction Co. of Silver Spring.

But Stephen Sachs, special prosecutor in the case, argued that "possible perjury was involved" and that the jury should listen to the tapes "under the best possible conditions" by following it with a transcript.

U.S. District Judge Roszel Thomsen denied the request for a transcript, but did allow the jurors to listen to the recording. He added, however, that he might change his ruling later and offered the defense a chance to show where the manuscript might be incorrect.

The tape, which the government said was marred by the sound of Cohen's coat rubbing over two hidden microphones, begins with a voice purported to be Cohen's saying Dowdy "got the key in 1965."

He is then supposed to have said that he got a call from a friend in the Justice Department indicating the probe of Monarch was still under way.

"There's only six months before the statute of limitations runs. That Monarch thing never seems to go away," a voice described as Cohen's says.

He purportedly continues by saying that "the $25,000 in 1965 has done the job, as far as I'm concerned."

"I have $5,000 more now, if you can do anything."

According to Cohen's earlier testimony, he was to offer Dowdy an additional $5,000 during their January, 1970 meeting, and tell him Justice Department probe had been reactivated.

Nixon's Historic Trip To Peking Set Feb. 21

—AND DON'T LET IT HAPPEN AGAIN!—"Cutting" through driveways of corner properties such as drive-ins and service stations is a violation of the law and Pampa police have orders to strictly enforce it. In this simulated situation, Officer Kenneth Keith is issuing a citation to a violator to emphasize to Pampa motorists that officers will be making an all-out effort to curb this violation. The location shown here, Hobart at Francis streets, is the scene of possibly the most frequent violations because drivers cut through the drive-in property there to "beat" the traffic light. ## FBI Still Hunting Elusive Skyjacker

WOODLAND, Wash. (AP) — An airplane hijacker has vanished with two parachutes and $200,000, and the search for him has ended for all but the FBI.

A University of Washington sociologist calls the sky piracy an "awesome feat in the battle of man against the machine." Dr. Otto Larsen said the skyjacker apparently has won public admiration as "one man overcoming, for the time being anyway, technology, the corporation, the establishment, the system."

Thus, Larsen said, the hijacker "comes off as a kind of curious Robin Hood, taking from the rich—or at least the big and complex. It doesn't matter whether he gives it to the poor or not."

FBI officials in Portland, Ore., and Seattle say they will continue their pursuit of the man who apparently bailed out of the hijacked Northwest Airlines jetliner last week as it flew from Seattle to Reno, Nev.

But local law enforcement agencies have turned to other chores.

There's nothing new and we've taken our men off unless something else turns up," a spokesman for the Clark County, Wash., sheriff's office said Monday of the search for the hijacker in the brushy, timbered Cascade Mountain foothills of southwest Washington.

The FBI continued questioning dozens of persons who believed they recognized a composite sketch of the hijacker, but the investigators reported no success in finding a definite lead.

Officials said they had concentrated the search around Woodland because the jetliner's flight recorder had indicated small shifts in the plane's air position as it passed over the area.

Law enforcement officers searching for the hijacker were faced with three major disadvantages—surprise, piecemeal evidence and the meticulous planning which apparently went into the deed, the first involving the escape of a hijacker by parachute.

Senate Rejects Bill To Limit Wage Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate rejected 74-14 today a Democratic attempt to limit the extension of President Nixon's wage and price control authority to two months.

The outcome appeared to make it certain the President would win the full year's continuance, to April 30, 1973, that he has asked.

Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., offered the amendment to limit the extension to June 30, 1972. Harris said he believed it would be madness for a Democratic Congress to grant such broad powers to a Republican president for a period running through and beyond the presidential election next November.

But only 13 Democratic colleagues joined the Oklahoman in supporting the shorter extension. Also rejected 74-15 was a Harris amendment to require that antitrust actions be brought against a number of large corporations in an effort to make the national economy more competitive.

He estimated that, if the suits he sought were filed, price cuts averaging 20 per cent would result. Nixon was set back Monday when the Senate gave near-unanimous approval to a 5.5 per cent pay raise for all federal civilians and military personnel, effective Jan. 1.

Pampa Police To Eliminate 'Cutting Corners' Practice

"Cutting corners" has variously been the life-style of a hurried generation, an economic necessity for family budgets, a danger to life and property and now—in Pampa a violation of state law and sure route to a traffic citation.

If the crack-down on this violation seems strict and sudden, there is good reason for it according to Pampa Police Chief Jim Conner. Locally, there has been a growing number of hit-and-run "fender-benders and door-dingers" growing out of this traffic practice and a greater number of complaints of "near-misses" by vehicles darting across corner properties and back into the legal lane of traffic.

However, the drive for enforcement lies equally strong in a state law referred to as section 188:

"No person driving a vehicle shall cross a sidewalk or drive through a driveway, parking lot or business or resident entrance without bringing the vehicle to a complete stop. No person driving a vehicle shall cross, drive in on or such sidewalks, driveways, parking lots or entrances at an intersection for the purpose of making either a right or left turn from one street or highway to another street or highway."

Chief Conner said he sees this statute in two parts: 1) to protect life and property from unexpected, dangerous or, at the very least, harmful traffic, and 2) to make certain that every driver is subject to such traffic controls as traffic lights so that the law-abiding motorist is neither delayed nor damaged by the "short-cut" artist at the wheel.

The law is one of many that have come out of the creation of a uniform traffic code across the nation which must be enforced under threat of severe loss to the state and, ultimately, the average motorist. The uniform traffic code was created to benefit rather than harass the motorist. Knowledge of its provisions and requirements will lessen a vacationing motorist in a strange state to comply with regulations even down to the city level.

Failure of states and their cities to comply with enforcement of this traffic code can result in loss of federal aid for highways and other road and street traffic benefits. When the code was adopted, Texas was one of eight states placed on probation until compliance in certain areas could be achieved. Hence the necessity to enforce section 188 in Pampa.

Enforcement and compliance should ultimately benefit in reduced damages and injuries and resulting lower insurance costs.

Line Of March Set For Santa's Parade

Plans were completed today for Pampa's annual Santa Day Parade at 3 p.m. Thursday afternoon.

The parade will form at 2:30 p.m. at the intersection of S. Cuyler and Craven streets where a group of out-of-town judges will have an opportunity to view all parade entries.

The parade route will be north on Cuyler to Francis, west on Francis to Ward, north on Ward to Hobart, and north on Hobart to Coronado Center where the parade will disband.

The line of March will be as follows: Pampa police patrol cars will lead the parade. Pampa Junior High School Band will line up on E. Craven. All organization entries will line up on East Craven immediately behind the Robert E. Lee Junior High School Band line up on W. Craven. All commercial entries will line up on W. Craven immediately behind the Robert E. Lee Junior High School Band. All decorated bicycles, motor bikes, uni-bikes, etc. will line up on W. Craven behind the commercial entries.

The Pet Section will line up on W. Craven behind the Bicycle-Motor Bike Section. (Any small children in this section who feel they cannot walk all the way to the Coronado Center may drop out at the Pampa Junior High School building where their parents can pick them up.)

The Pampa High School Band will line up on E. Craven and will be followed by all riding club and other horse-drawn entries.

Santa Claus, riding aboard the city's big red fire truck, will join on W. Craven to climax the parade.

Santa will be in downtown Pampa between 1 and 2:45 p.m. at Santa's House with candy for all little boys and girls. He will also be at Santa's House at the Coronado Center immediately following the parade with candy for the children.

California Woman Arrested For Stabbing Two Teachers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Terrified kindergarten youngsters watched as a woman who had entered their classroom stabbed two teachers several times with an ice pick.

The woman surrendered to police and complained that one of the wounded instructors earlier had made her daughter cry, officers said.

Rosemary Hardy, 34, was booked for investigation of two counts of attempted murder Monday afternoon, officers said, when she surrendered several hours after the stabbings at Hillcrest School in the Portola Heights district.

Inspector John Lanther said Mrs. Hardy told him she had written to one of the stabbed teachers, Joan Hoskey, last week "asking that her child be treated better." He said the mother complained that "the teacher made her (the child) cry."

Both teachers were reported in serious condition. Miss Hoskey, 39, the teacher whose class the assailant invaded, underwent surgery for stomach wounds and also had been stabbed in the neck, chest and back.

Shirley Bayerle, 35, was treated for wounds in the left eye, face, neck and back, which police said she received after she rushed to Miss Hoskey's aid.

Principal Jerome Kennedy said he entered the classroom in response to word there was an emergency.

"There was a heavy-set black woman bending over Mrs. Bayerle," he said. "She had Mrs. Bayerle down on the floor. She, the black woman, was on her knees."

"I pulled the woman off Mrs. Bayerle. She said, 'You leave me alone.'"

"I said, 'You leave her alone.'" Kennedy said the woman then ran off.

County Solons Will Review Hospital Budget At Meeting

The 1972 budget for Highland General Hospital will be the first consideration on the agenda when Gray County Commissioners Court meets tomorrow.

the hospital and inspired a meeting of employees of the hospital Tuesday night to seek means of letting the public know that patient costs, insurance and medicare supported the hospital.

Judge Cain went on to state he was for salary increases for all county employees when possible but cited two difficulties: 1) Phase Two controls limiting wages to a 5.5 per cent increase and hospital services (along with other such costs) to 2.5 per cent.

Auditorium Gets Space In Magazine

Pampa's M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium was given prominent display in the current issue of "This Is West Texas" publication of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Under a half-page picture spread of the civic center now under construction, the magazine stated:

"Pampa's $1.2 million civic center, due to be completed by next April, will make that city one of the Panhandle's favorite convention spots."

The auditorium made possible by residue from the estate of the late M.K. Brown, Pampa philanthropist, is located in northwest Pampa just off Highway 70 and adjacent to the city's 100-room Coronado Inn.

The M.K. Brown Foundation gave $400,000 in cash, and Pampa voters approved an $800,000 bond issue (to be subsidized over 15 years by Brown Estate income) to make the civic center possible.

The auditorium project will be under municipal operation with supervision by a city commission-appointed board of directors."

Dec. 1 Petit Jury Session Cancelled

The session of the petit jury set for Dec. 1 has been called off, according to Judge Grainger McElhany.

All jurors called for service on this petit jury panel in District Court on that date are excused until further notice.

'Aladdin And Lamp' To Be Shown Here

The National Children Theater's production of "Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp," being sponsored by the Pampa Fine Arts Association, will be presented at 4:30 p.m. Thursday, following the Santa Day Parade.

Both season tickets and individual tickets are still available, according to Mrs. Jack Miller, 1615 Grape. Season tickets are $1.50 for three plays to be presented during the year, including "Aladdin." Individual tickets which may be purchased at the door, are 75 cents for each play.

Season tickets may be purchased at the door Thursday, or may be obtained from Mrs. Miller.

Accident Victim In Good Condition

Mrs. Marilyn Martin, 708 N. Gray, is reported in satisfactory condition at Northwest Texas Hospital, following an automobile accident last night at Amarillo.

Her husband, Lloyd, reportedly driving the car at the time of the accident, and a young son were injured.

Ochiltree County Solons Discussing Redistricting

PERRYTON-Ochiltree County commissioners were to resume discussion at 1 p.m. today on redistricting of the county's four voter precincts recently ordered by 84th Judicial District Judge Max Boyer.

Judge Boyer handed down his decision in a court suit filed by Charles Taylor of Perryton who charged present boundaries did not provide equal population representation in Ochiltree County.

The commissioners spent most of yesterday discussing the matter but came to no decision. Taylor's suit had charged that Pct 4 in the county, which includes the City of Perryton contains 77.2 per cent of the county's population, while Pct 1 has 16.1 per cent, Pct 2 has 2.6 per cent, and Oct. 3 only 4.1 per cent.

No Place To Hide In Volcano Land

RABAU, Papua-New Guinea (NEA)—In 1937 this tiny town in the South Pacific was readying itself to be the capital of its emerging Melanesian territory. Perched on the westerly tip of the island of New Britain, high up the Solomon Sea, its emerald harbor beckoned weary trading ships enroute to Australia and promised an important port in an otherwise unimportant part of the world.

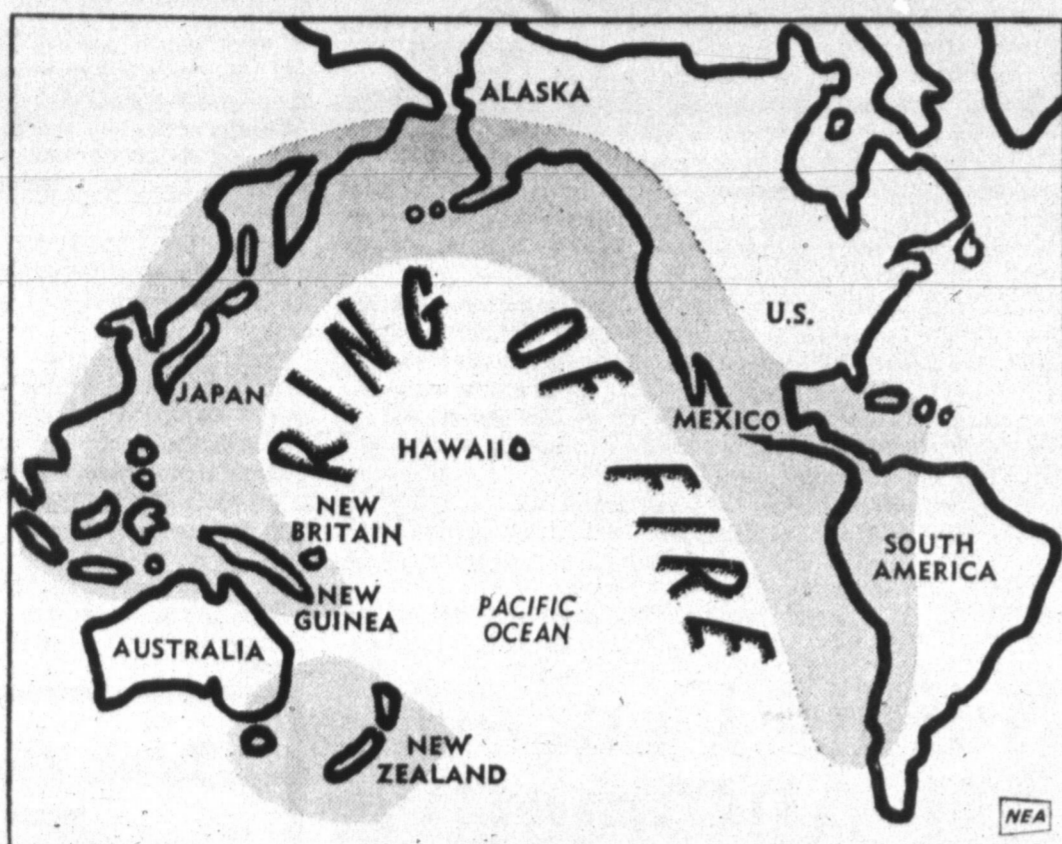

One afternoon the ground began to rumble, the air began to cloud, and a mostly ignored dot in Rabaul harbor became the fastest growing volcano in recorded history. In five terrible days the harbor dot, now known as Vulcan, grew from a 15 foot speck to a 230-foot roaring inferno. Ships could not escape through the pumice-clogged port, people were trapped by the jungle barrier surrounding town and inside a week 500 men, women and children died in the violent eruption.

Rabaul emptied quickly afterwards. People fled by the hundreds. Even the territorial administrative headquarters was shifted to firmer earth on the mainland.

Yet, in retrospect, there is no really safe place to run in this tropical, trembling region. Papua-New Guinea has long been the shakiest place under the sun. The land is situated on the Southern curve of the Pacific "Ring of Fire," it is home base for at least 100 volcanoes and nearly two dozen cones are active even now.

In addition to the volcanoes, Papua-New Guinea also has more earthquakes per inhabitant than any place on earth instruments annually record some 400 "lillik gurias" pidgin English for little shakes which, last year, amounted to eight per cent of all the quakes on the globe. Rabaul alone records an average of five quakes a day, ranging from bitsy things which nobody feels to the 7.9 (Richter scale) jolt last July which created a tidal wave and $1 million in damages.

In terms of frequency and danger, of course, the New Guinea earthquakes are the population's biggest peril. They come constantly, and totally without warning. Yet to the natives here, still superstitious, volcanoes are the most ominous fright. Some of the indigenous people, little out of cannibalism, still worship the cones near their homes. And almost everybody, immigrant or aboriginal, lives with the dread that some mountain somewhere will again blow its top.

Scientists here scoff at the volcano fears. Occasionally, they admit, the live cones do blow (one, call Ulawan, exploded in January of 1970) but the eruptions are today entirely predictable. Volcanologists have moved into Papua-New Guinea in force since the 1937 holocaust, and the official policy is that "unblinking, unfailing eyes" are being kept on the really dangerous mountains.

In Rabaul, which incidentally is once again a fairly thriving town, volcanologists keep round-the-clock surveillance on no fewer than three active cones. There are six volcanoes which ring the harbor, but only three are considered potentials. Some 22 men are employed at the Rabaul volcano observatory station, which is itself rooted atop an inactive alp. The observatory is stuffed with tilt meters, seismographs and other paraphernalia of a sophisticated early warning system.

Much of the Rabaul defense mechanism is intellectual: squiggly lines on paper, or rows of figures from calculators. But at least a small bit of the system is physical—that is a weekly inspection of the volcanoes themselves.

The inspection is hardly romantic. Nobody walks into a crater to see if the base is trembling. Rather, each of the closely watched volcanoes is routinely measured for temperature variance. But even this lackluster procedure has its moments. Deep inside one cone here, as example, there is a circle of endless, ground-searing heat. This soil, a few inches under the surface, is an almost constant 100 degrees centigrade—the temperature of boiling water. Standing on the ground is difficult, touching it can produce blisters and only some curious red ants live amongst the sterile, sulfurically steaming stones and sand.

Despite the hot spots, however, despite the sulfur gas and the ever-present ground quakes, Rabaul volcanologists are forever assuring the natives that everything is dandy. W. D. Palfreyman, the Rabaul observatory director, says it would be "almost impossible" for one of the harbor's craters to erupt without warning.

Economic Controls

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. William Proxmire said today it apparently would be futile to try to deny President Nixon the year's extension of his power to impose wage and price controls which he has asked.

The Wisconsin Democrat had planned to try to knock the extension out of legislation on which the Senate opened debate today.

But he said, in his opening speech on the bill, that after talking with Democratic leaders he had become convinced such an effort would be futile. He noted nearly all Republican senators favored the full extension.

Proxmire said that, in view of this situation and of his belief that the bill contains some of the most sweeping powers ever granted a President, he would vote against it on final passage.

The present wage and price control authority runs through next April 30.

Nixon Peking Trip Date Set For Feb. 21

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon's historic journey to Peking will begin next February 21, the White House announced Monday.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told newsmen that additional information—such as the length of the Nixon visit to Communist China and the stops to be made en route—will be disclosed "within the next 24 hours."

In personally announcing on July 15 that he planned to become the first American President ever to visit Mainland China, Nixon said his purpose was "to seek the normalizations of relations" between the two countries and to exchange views on questions of mutual interest and concern.

The formal announcement of the date for Nixon's arrival in Peking was released simultaneously here and in the Communist capital.

Ziegler said the February date actually had been decided upon in October when Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's assistant for National Security Affairs, made his second visit in four months to Peking to prepare for the President's journey.

Since Kissinger's return in late October, Ziegler reported, American and Chinese officials have been busy "tying down the surrounding details."

"Playing In Dirt" ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—A 19-year-old coed from Cornell University who says she would rather play in the dirt than study, found that "playing in the dirt" paid off. She is now rated the top intercollegiate soil judge in the Northeast.

President Threatens To Veto Tax-Cut Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon declared Monday he will veto the pending tax-cut bill unless it is stripped of both a check-off plan to finance presidential campaigns and a set of "budget-busting Senate amendments."

Nixon's warning was relayed by his chief Capitol Hill lobbyist, Clark MacGregor, as a conference committee met to settle differences between House and Senate versions of the bill.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., discounted the threat, telling reporters:

"It's not the first time a statement like that has been made. It's a polite way to put pressure on the conference."

Mills, who heads the House conferees as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, refused again to state his position on the Senate-approved provision to finance presidential campaigns. It would permit taxpayers to allot a dollar of their income tax to a special fund.

Mills has said that if Nixon vetoes this bill it will be impossible to pass this year a tax-cut measure which is a major part of the presidential program for stimulating the economy.

MacGregor and other aides met with Nixon for three hours Monday. Afterward, White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon "concluded that should Congress fail to remove from the tax bill the budget-busting Senate amendments and the political check-off rider, he will be unable to give his approval to this particular legislation."

Both MacGregor and Ziegler said they are optimistic Congress will pass a bill acceptable to the White House before its Christmas recess. They would not say whether the President would call Congress back into special session if it quits without doing so.

Nixon proposed the $26-billion tax-cut bill Aug. 15 when he announced Phase I of his new economic program. The legislation cleared the House in a form reportedly acceptable to the White House—but it underwent major revisions on the Senate floor.

White House Will Cut Down Yule Season Social Activities

WASHINGTON (AP)—Social events at the White House for the Christmas season will be cut down a bit because of President Nixon's busy calendar of summit meetings.

But plans were going ahead for the traditional yule decorations as well as evening candlelight tours for the public between Christmas and New Years.

Mrs. Nixon's press secretary Constance Stuart said the family will all be on hand at the White House for Christmas day.

The Christmas tree for the President's house, a 35-foot fir from North Carolina, is due to arrive Dec. 8 and that will start the holiday decorating.

The White House will be closed to the public on Friday and Saturday, Dec. 10 and 11 for the decorating and will be reopened in all its Christmas finery Tuesday, Dec. 14.

The main tree, usually placed in the Blue Room, is coming from the Christmas Tree Plantation of Kermit

Johnson in Crossnore, Avery County, North Carolina.

Decorations will be in charge of Henry Callahan of Saks Fifth Avenue department store in New York City, and the White House florist, Rusty Young J. Lidden Pennock, a Philadelphia horticulturist, floral designer and consultant, who helped with the decorations for Tricia Nixon Cox's wedding, is advising on the Christmas arrangements.

President and Mrs. Nixon have already picked out their annual Christmas greeting card, which will be sent out to their Christmas list of some 40,000 persons during the week of Dec. 13.

Press secretary Stuart said there was no definite social calendar for the Christmas season at the White House as yet.

Mrs. Nixon is not going along on the conference visits Nixon has announced with six foreign heads of state.

Oil Companies Hire Detective

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Oil field drill bits may not seem like particularly big business to many persons. But they do to two groups: Drilling companies and to the thieves who are taking them steadily.

Oil field supply companies have begun hiring detectives with a clear, but so-far difficult, mission. The loss is running into the hundreds of thousands of dollars annually.

Companies have few leads, and when they do it's hard sometimes to make a case.

One supply company spokesman said Texas Rangers recently caught a suspect with stolen bits in his possession. No arrest was made, however, when a drilling contractor declined to say if they were stolen from his location.

Most bits are taken from warehouses. One supplier said bits were taken from a pad-locked cache inside a larger cache in a locked shanty within a large locked warehouse.

The firms agreed to the possibility of inside jobs but play them down. They term the operation organized and professional.

It isn't too difficult to carry bits away. Weights vary from about 30 pounds to 400.

All types have been reported stolen — mill tooth, tungsten carbide insert, or button, and tri-cone rock bits.

An Oklahoma supplier said he had 74 bits worth about $18,000 taken by someone who broke a hole in a warehouse wall.

Some suppliers offer a cash reward, no questions asked, for information resulting in the recovery of stolen rock bits or other oil field products in new condition and conviction of any person or persons guilty of stealing such products.

One year ago Soviet Communist party Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev said in a speech he was hopeful that there would be settlements of the Middle East and Berlin issues.

Insurance Board Sets Meet Date

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Insurance Board set a Dec. 8 hearing on proposed rules limiting the right of companies to cancel automobile and home insurance policies.

The rules also would require 30 days notice to the policyholder if a company decided not to renew a policy.

An insurance company could cancel a family automobile insurance policy after it had been in effect for 60 days only for failure to pay premiums or suspension or revocation of a driver's license or vehicle registration.

Companies would have to provide at least a full year of a automobile coverage—meaning they could not refuse to renew shorter term policies to cover a full 12-month period. But after 12 months—even on policies written for longer periods—the companies could cancel.

The rules cover homeowners, farm or ranch owners, fire policies, inland marine policies insuring personal property, comprehensive personal liability, theft policies, and property or casualty policies insuring state and local governments.

They would take effect Jan. 1, 1972.

There's nothing sick about health service occupations for a carter, as studies by the Bureau of Labor Statistics reflects.

For example, a comparison of the projected annual openings for physicians — 20,000 — indicates that each year medical schools will have to graduate, on the average, more than twice as many physicians as in 1969 to meet annual manpower requirements. There were 295,000 physicians in practice in 1968, and projected 1980 requirements show 450,000.

Business Mirrors

NEW YORK (AP) — Steel producers and auto makers announced price-hike moves this past week amid some of the most important adjustments yet in Phase 2 of the Nixon administration's new economic program.

The Justice Department obtained injunctions in 12 cities in efforts to force a break in the crippling East and Gulf coast dock strikes. Other major business news of the week saw the Reading Railroad file for bankruptcy reorganization.

The Price Commission granted price increases of more than 7 per cent on tin-plate products of Bethlehem Steel Corp., the nation's biggest steel firm, and National Steel Corp. There was immediate reaction from container makers, the principal tippers.

Continental Can Co. said it was applying for a "directly proportional" increase on its prices. American Can and National Can said they too wanted price hikes.

Builds Fences A-1 Automotive

A fenced yard is a beautiful yard. Your yard can be as beautiful as anyone's if the right people build it. A-1 Automotive and Boat Center is the right place, because they have the folks who can truly build a beautiful fence be it wood or wire.

The gates can be any size one desires as A-1 customers build all their gates. Also there is hardly any limit on the height of the fence to be built. The company that manufactures the wire used at A-1 enables them to construct a fence from four to 20 feet high.

The all around handy crew at A-1 can do almost anything, from auto mechanic work, body work to major and minor boat repair. They also have a salvage service with 24-hour wrecking call, along with the fine fencing.

A-1 Automotive has a large selection of used parts and cars and if they don't have the needed piece of equipment, they will go to pains to get it for you.

For the finest in boating repairs and sales contact A-1 Automotive. The boat you own is just as good as the attention it receives and with A-1 on your side the boat will be in "A-1" condition.

Trained mechanics are always on duty to repair any type of automobile on the road. A fast estimate by one of the mechanics will prove to the dubious customer that A-1 is the place to deal.

Obviously if you have an auto boat or fencing problem the place to go is A-1 Auto. Talk to Joe Edd Mackie or Joe Luper Co-owners for the fairest estimate you will probably find. Remember A-1 Automotive and Boat Center at 1317 S. Barnes, the do all folks.

PLENTY OF FENCE HERE—Co-owner Joe Luper is inspecting the new shipment of chain-link fencing material that was recently driven in from Tulsa, Oklahoma by A-1 employee G.L. Williams. The fencing material will be used to construct fences for many Pampans. A-1 Auto is ready to build you a fence, so go by 1317 S. Barnes and visit with Joe Luper or Joe Edd Mackie about your fencing problem. (Staff Photo)

Sale At Bill's Campers

The 1972 Huntsman and Ideltime campers and the Starcraft and Holiday Sport trailers are now on the market and the 1971 models at Bill's Campers must be sold.

Be you a hunter, skier, or just the type of person who likes to spend a vacation with the family in the back woods, now the best time to buy the camper or trailer that is desired is now.

"The best time to buy a camper is in the winter instead of during the summer mark-up period that is common among camper salesmen," said Bill Johnson. "Also with the Income Tax Inventory coming up in January, a good deal can be made on a fine camper because we need to clear out our lot."

Imagine the thrill possible if a new camper or camp trailer is sitting on the front lawn Christmas day as a gift for the whole family.

Johnson can make you a fair deal in the modern concept of vacation camping.

Picture your family with all the comforts of home and just outside your window, the rugged beauty of nature.

One will find the friendliest service at Bill's Campers where a member of the "Big happy family" is waiting to show you the home away from home that is ready to be given an owner.

"Maybe a person doesn't like any of the trailers or toppers in stock at Bill's. In that case all he will have to do is let one of the Johnsons know and he will order exactly what you want from the factory or custom build it for you right in their own shop.

Trades are the going thing at Bill's Custom Campers as Johnson comments, "We will trade for anything of value."

Visit Bill's Campers at 930 S. Hobart and look at the beauties that are now in stock. Chances are you won't be able to resist the camper beauty or the friendly service of Bill Johnson, his wife Jean or either of their sons Joe Dale or Jimmy.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband [I'll call him Norm] has taken an interest in a co-worker. [A buddy-type friendship he says.] She's divorced and has a child and lots of problems. For some reason, I don't trust her.

Norm says she's a good girl who dates occasionally, but if she has nothing to do on weekends, she gets bored and lonely. Anyway, Norm told her she was welcome to drop in at our house, when she wanted company. [So far she hasn't taken him up on it.] He even offered to tune up her car and change her oil.

Last Saturday he suggested that instead of just the two of us spending the evening alone, we invite this girl over to play cards with us. When I told him I enjoyed being alone with him, and didn't particularly want her, he became upset.

Abby, I am sorry this girl has problems, but we didn't cause them, and I don't think it's our place to entertain her. Also, Norm is not a garage mechanic, and I don't see why he should be tuning up her car.

Do you think I am being unreasonable?

NORM'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Unreasonable? No. Shortsighted? Yes. Since your husband has a buddy-type friendship going with this girl, make her your buddy, too. Why not invite her over, and ask a single man? [They may like each other.]

If you don't trust her, it's better to have her in your home where you can watch her. You may discover that she's a good girl who's had a lot of bad luck. Give her a chance.

DEAR ABBY: I read only two things in the newspaper. The obituary column and Dear Abby. [And in that order.] Why on earth did you print that cheap barroom story about the man pinning $2 to his wife's pillow, and she gave him a dollar bag saying she never charged anybody more than a dollar?

That story has been around since World War I. Can you honestly say you didn't know you were being had?

TIM IN WIS.

DEAR TIM: If I had known I was being had, he wouldn't have had me.

DEAR ABBY: With regard to that minister who was tempted by other women because his marriage had grown cold:

Following a family crisis, I took my problems to my pastor only to find that I left my heart with him. Double trouble.

I feel there is a real need within the church for women counselors. It would give the ministers more time to be with their wives and families, instead of having to devote so much time to troubled [and in some cases, conniving] women.

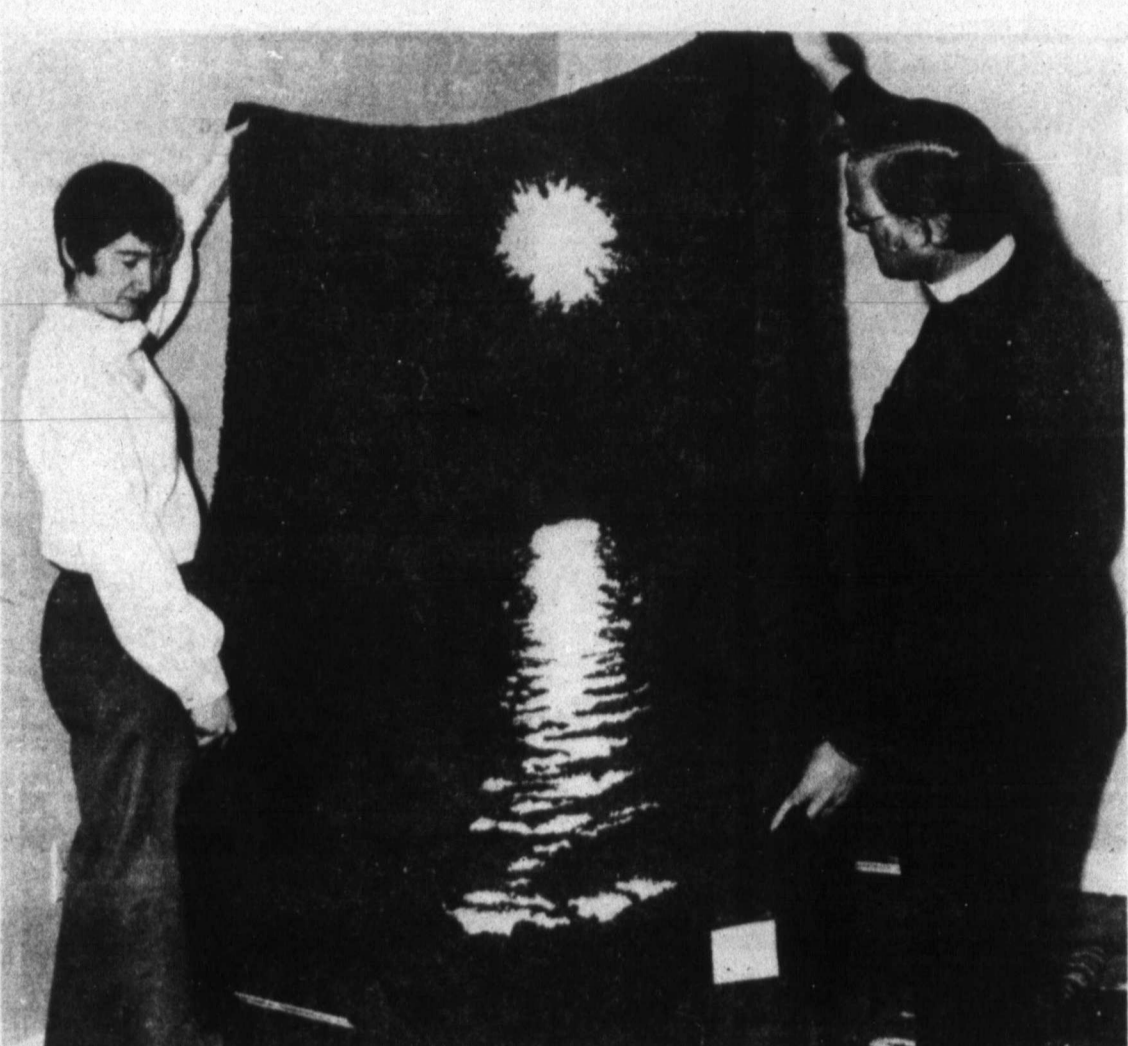

NOT TALKING

DEAR NOT: Your suggestion makes so much sense, I'm surprised it has never been suggested before. [Or has it?]

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to WISER NOW—"Never answer an angry word with an angry word. It's the second one that makes the quarrel"—was just beautiful!

Those words are the answer to many problems. I was so impressed with it that I am embroidering it on cloth and shall frame it! And every time I look at it I will be glad for all the times I kept my mouth shut, and no longer will I feel wishy-washy for not having spoken up. Thank you. Sincerely, LARAINÉ

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

WTSU EXHIBIT—Mrs. Bob Lincecum and Rev. Sam B. Hulsey, both members of the Fine Arts Association, inspect a handwoven rug made by Starla Sanders of Pampa, student of Dr. Emilio Cabellero at WTSU, Canyon. Approximately 50 students of the university's craft classes are exhibiting some 100 pieces in Pampa this week at the Fine Arts building on Kingsmill. The exhibit will be open to the public from 2-4 p.m. weekdays, and from 1-5 p.m. Saturday, the final day of the showing.

Will "Naked Back" Follow Mini Skirt?

NEW YORK (AP) — After the braless look and the micromini skirt, can the naked back be far behind?

Designers are selling their backless look in couture clothes, but it is getting stiff competition from the popular covered-up evening dress for spring. Both are selling in long lengths.

"If you cut an arm hole lower, they freak out," says Chester Weinberg, whose best seller is an ankle length dress with modest white collar and cuffs.

Weinberg has seen some store buyer resistance to the halter dress. So have Pauline Trigere, Donald Brooks, Stan Herman and Oscar de la Renta.

However, some designers feel that the bare back look will become stronger.

"Everyone's hollering about the strapless back. What is so terribly wrong about a bare back when they've worn dresses up to their behinds?" asks Victor Joris.

"On most women the back is good. It's about the last thing to go," he said.

"I've never heard of a woman having her back lifted," added Bill Blass. "The backless in the 70s will replace legs."

He's selling his black jersey halter dress right along with a turtle-neck jersey with ruffled skirt.

Donald Brooks' strapless ruffle dress is selling well, and most designers can name one or two bare evening styles which have sold. But the more modest bodice, often long-sleeved, still tops many best seller lists.

"The covered look, I thought it was finished but not at all," said Pauline Trigere.

Her backless dresses are not best sellers. Instead they like her long pink and green print dress with scarf.

At Oscar de la Renta, a Chinese patterned chiffon satin stripe gown has pleased store buyers. So has his Chinese kaftan. But halters haven't done as well. Those which have sold are covered with small capes.

At Pierre Cardin, the covered organzas with flowing sleeves are a big success.

Molly Parnis' clients are going for a multicolored satin on yellow organza dress with a low scooped neck.

"The buyers are looking for no problems with bras," says a spokesman. With the backless dress there is little room for foundation garments. For the very full chested, this is a problem.

Whether a woman covers up or bares her back, she is in for a very glamorous look for spring evenings. Ruffled tafetas are selling. Sleeves with long romantic dresses will turn up. The more formal ball gowns are selling.

Cotillion Club Is Presented Book Review

"Bride of Fortune" by Harnett T. Kane was the book reviewed by Mrs. Jerry Kotara at the meeting of Twentieth Century Cotillion Club, in the home of Mrs. Jim Campbell, 1330 Williston.

The program was part of the study, "A Woman Invincible."

The book is the story of the life of Mrs. Jefferson Davis, wife of the president of the Confederate States. Mrs. Kotara reported how Varina Howell Davis met her husband and married him when she was seventeen years old and he was 35. She went on to tell the story of the triumphs and tragedies of this remarkable woman's life with a great statesman.

The business meeting was led by Mrs. Ben Sturgeon, president.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 1

Your birthday today: By year's end of 1972 you'll see you've tried about everything, gotten results in most of your serious efforts, and have learned more than you thought possible. Today's natives attack life zealously, often with great energy, in several directions simultaneously.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Take nothing for granted today or for the whole month to come—it's a time for random incidents of surprise. Finances are subject to your immediate decisions.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Delay the morning's commitments if you can, as afternoon brings added information, further invitations, second thoughts.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: With just a pause for communication it all comes up roses in your world today. There's a news to celebrate, loved ones to cheer up.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Altho no clear direction is established and you must proceed on faith and intuition, take the initiative.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Surprise resources, new information come to light. Learn first, plan some applications after you've thought it over a while.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Whatever arrangement you and your own people settle for must include something for everybody, represent a real consensus.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Seemingly nobody is going to come right out and say what they'll do for you and your projects. Proceed alone.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Select work which needs no close collaboration. Put your brightest talents to use alone and take all the credit or blame.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: The optimum result of anything is beyond reasonable expectation for the moment. Settle for what your daily living brings; nourish your spirit with prayer.

Capricorn [Dec. 21-Jan. 19]: It's difficult to resist the temptation of organizing people, sorting out a crew for some favored venture. Wait another day.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: New combinations of familiar people pop up all around. In most cases you wonder where and when to make your decisions known.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: A favorite project now gathers momentum as you apply yourself to working out an orderly adjustment.

PALE BROWS

If you like the pale-browed look, but don't want to get drastic and bleach them, do it with make-up. First apply a thin coat of eye glaze, then lightly dust them with transparent powder. And there you have the no-brow look.

Peking Delays Talks On Thant's Successor

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — With U Thant out of the hospital but still ailing Saturday, the Red Chinese delegation was reported delaying bigpower talks on who should succeed him as U.N. secretary-general.

Thant, 62, returned to his home in New York City after his release from Leroy Hospital where he had been treated for a duodenal ulcer since Nov. 2. A U.N. spokesman said he probably could return to work part time on Dec. 6.

One diplomat commented that Thant's illness made it "physically impossible" for him to accept any extension of his term as secretary-general. Thant has said he will not serve beyond Dec. 31, when his second five-year term expires.

The General Assembly has until Dec. 21, closing day of its current session, to name a new secretary-general. It can only name a man who has the recommendation of the Security Council—a person none of the five permanent members will veto.

The 10 nonpermanent members of the council have asked the five permanent members — the big powers — to start discussions on Thant's successor. The five permanent members are China, the United States, the Soviet Union, France and Britain.

Diplomatic sources said France has sounded out the other four permanent members about beginning the talks and the United States has asked the Soviet Union to enter into bilateral consultations.

They said Communist China told France that because it has only been in the United Nations since Nov. 15 it needs more time to make up its mind. The United States and Britain are understood to be for Finnish Ambassador Max Jakobson. But if they announced it, that might lead the Soviet Union to oppose Jakobson because it would suspect him of being pro-Western, informants said.

The other announced candidates are Ceylonese U.N. Ambassador Hamilton Shirley Amerasinghe, Chilean Banker Felipe Herrera and Ethiopian Minister of Communications Endalkachew Makonnen. Mentioned as available for the post is Austrian U.N. Ambassador Kurt Waldheim.

Diplomats consider Herrera has been eliminated by open opposition from the United States and Makonnen by his failure to attract broad African support.

$400-Million Error Cause Of Big Fright

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $400-million clerical error by the Federal Reserve Board was acknowledged Monday as the cause of a big fright in the government securities markets last week.

The financial community found money so tight in the banking system that the market sagged for Treasury securities, until the Federal Reserve's money managers became aware of the problem last Friday.

The first victim of the error was the system's own open market committee, which governs the flow of money into the banking system by its buying and selling of federal securities.

Thinking there was $400 million more cash in the vaults of the banking system than was there, the committee was stingy about adding funds to the money supply. The result was a sharp rise in the interest rate which banks pay one another for short-term funds, and a general scarcity of investment money available for the purchase of about $8.1 billion worth of bills being offered by the Treasury during the week.

The Treasury therefore had to pay more interest than it otherwise would have done. No estimate was immediately available on the ultimate cost to the government.

A Federal Reserve spokesman said the error was not a misjudgment in estimating, simply a clerical error in reporting the estimated "vault cash" in possession of banks which is counted among the reserves of the banking system and governs the volume of funds they can lend.

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In their conversations, in speeches and in the letters they write, businessmen today seem uncertain and concerned. Cold, calculating, cautious, they don't see much fun ahead and so they don't make big plans.

Every observer of business knows that such moods change from depression to manic as events, or the interpretation of them, take on different shapes and patterns. But uncertain and concerned is the current mood.

UNCERTAIN. A new economic program has been adopted and nobody is at all sure that it will work, or even whether it is temporary or permanent. Prices, wages and profits are hard to forecast. One company watches the other, hoping that the inevitable errors will be their competitors' rather than theirs.

Seldom have more eyes scrutinized more intently more economic statistics and indicators. Slight fractional changes receive exaggerated examination. Signs and portents are sought.

Not helping the situation is the tendency for the statistics to be a bit unreliable. The index of leading indicators is announced and later revised. What are you to make of a preliminary index that shows a decline and a final index showing an advance? It has happened.

The Federal Reserve made a similar error last week. With many businessmen worried that the money supply would be contracted too sharply, the Fed made the untimely mistake of underestimating the supply by $400 million.

That error was a clean one. But how do you find a trend in statistics that fluctuate on either side of plus or minus, or which change by a tenth of one per cent or are in conflict with a whole set of other figures? With uncertainty prevailing, one company watches for the other to move, hoping thereby to profit by its mistakes. It should be the other way around, with the rewards going to the risk taker.

President Nixon, Treasury Secretary John Connally and Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur Burns have repeatedly expressed their confidence in the future, hoping thereby to supply the spark that lights the fire.

Past experience has shown, however, that assurances repeated too often can have the opposite effect when sown in worried minds. "Things must be bad indeed," the listener says, "if they feel compelled to talk it up."

The impasse more likely can be broken by assertive action by the risktakers, the companies which, despite doubts, feel that the potential rewards are worth going after. There are examples to be followed in this regard.

In recent weeks, with Wall Street brokers reinforcing their doleful outlook by picking each other's brains, the market dropped. One day a big institutional buyer said it thought some bargains were reappearing and therefore was prepared to buy. The next day the market spurted.

CONCERNED: Many businessmen seem genuinely concerned about the ability of the United States to compete, forgetting that competition was what helped the country to its position of economic leadership. They see their products being successfully challenged by high-quality, low-priced foreign goods.

They view with alarm the continuation of the U.S. balance of payments deficit, the threatened loss of entire industries, the inability of the world to quickly settle its monetary problems, the possibility of dollar devaluation.

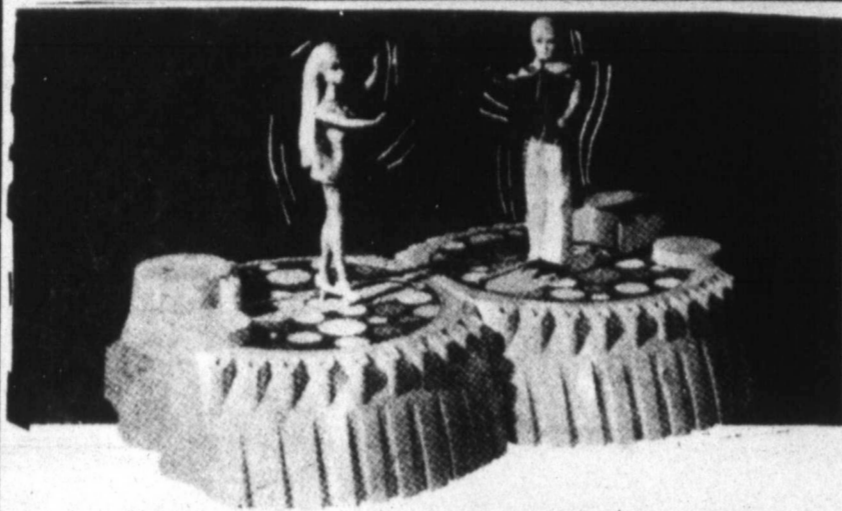

And while seeing all this power abroad and weakness at home, they still express the contradiction that a worldwide recession is approaching. Overwhelmed with concern, they view the clouds instead of the sunshine.

Psychologists have an explanation for such attitudes—inaction. And history seems to show that the way out is action.

Corporation Set Up To Make Living Easier For The Dying

By JAMES CARRIER
Associated Press Writer
NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — A corporation has been established to make living easier for the dying.

Hospice, Inc., is an organization dedicated to the terminally ill. Originally a "home on the way," a hospice is a place where—it can't be denied—most patients will die.

"We are trying to make dying more human and meaningful," says Florence S. Wald, a research associate at Yale University School of Nursing, who serves as vice president of Hospice, Inc., a group of clergymen and medical professionals.

"It's a period of life that can have a lot of meaning. It can be content, full of joy, with lots of reminiscing," she says.

"There is no place in the general hospital for a dying patient," says Dr. Ira Goldenberg, a member of the hospice steering committee and professor of surgery at the Yale School of Medicine.

He explains: "The pace of the general hospital is set toward getting patients out of the hospital, to get them to a state of good health. And the dying patient sort of clutters up the place, that's what it boils down to."

"In a general hospital the dying patient—who everybody knows there is no hope for—is the one the doctors visit last, if at all, on rounds. This is the patient the nursing staff finds that it just doesn't have the opportunity to get the bed bath as the patient who had an appendectomy the day before."

Goldenberg says hospices in England, notably St. Christopher's in London, have demonstrated that bringing the family into the picture a little more, and working with the family and the patient and the staff can bring a rejuvenation, psychologically, for the patient.

Life in a hospice is flexible to conform to the wishes of the patient, who helps prescribe his own life. Emphasis is on making the patient comfortable, free of pain and nausea.

If the patient needs another pain pill 3 hours and 59 minutes after the last one, he doesn't have to wait another minute, as he would in a general hospital, says Goldenberg.

But the patient isn't doped out, either, he says.

"We hope to have a staff that will work together, support each other, a group of patients who will come to know each other," says the Rev. Robert Canney, director of Catholic chaplains in Connecticut.

"To me, at least, it will be dying among friends, and people who care," he says.

Hospice is appealing for $3 million to build a facility in New Haven's suburbs. It would house 70 terminally ill patients, and provide outpatient care for another 70 who are well enough to live at home.

The cost, according to Hospice President Edward Dobihal, director of the Department of Religious Ministries at Yale-New Haven Hospital, would average 69 per cent of a general hospital's room rate. Dobihal is hopeful that the fee could be covered by insurance.

The dying may actually look forward to life in a hospice, according to Pastor Fred Auman of New Haven's Trinity Lutheran church and a member of the hospice committee.

Pastor Auman said the purpose of the hospice would be:

"To give that individual an opportunity to be able to participate in every possible kind of device, to be given comfort, to be given, perhaps, his mind back, to be able to participate as a human, to receive friends, to be able to sit up because the pain has been controlled."

Hospice is several years from a building of its own, but already the staff is thinking of what should be written over the door.

One suggestion is "Alpha and Omega House," the beginning and the ending and the rounding out.

Another is, "Let's celebrate life together."

TV And Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS's weekly "60 Minutes" and NBC's monthly "Chronolog" are network television's only surviving actuality programs on a regular schedule. Comparisons are inevitable, particularly since both use a "magazine format"—the television term for a single program containing an assortment of unrelated features.

"60 Minutes," which has been kicked around the schedule like a pigskin during the height of the football season, was back in its regular late Sunday afternoon spot this week with a lively hour. There was a second installment in its expose of techniques of the automotive repair gyps, a sketch of Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, and an interview with a clergyman who had recently visited Red China, the weakest item in the hour.

"Chronolog," which goes on for two hours in the course of its monthly appearance, has a tendency to be more ponderous and to linger too long on segments it considers important or unusual. On Friday night the program devoted much time to the conflict in Pakistan, which was helpful, and to showing the shocking suffering among refugees. Film taken in refugee camps show the starving, the sick and the dead.

There was also film of a university experiment on the psychology of imprisonment, with student volunteers playing the part of prisoners and guards. Interviews made later, much more than the pictures taken by concealed cameras, indicated that some of the "guards" became bullies; some "prisoners" were filled with hate. Both groups knew the environment was simulated.

The experiment probably was significant. As a visual feature, however, it failed to make points.

Neither series can be counted as a successful commercial television project. Both inevitably are somewhere near the bottom of the ratings no matter how much effort and talent are invested in them. The mass public which watches television demonstrates consistently that it seeks simple entertainment from its sets.

ABC's Sunday night movie was a new made-for-TV feature, a particularly well-done science fiction thriller, "Earth II." The story, set in a new nation established in space, centered on a space accident involving a nuclear warhead. It was no better or no worse than all those bomb-squad stories where the lethal weapon is disarmed in the nick of time.

The stars of this two-hour show were the special effects, the expanse and drama of space, and the simulation of machines that men take into the void. They and camera tricks made the efforts of earlier television shows like "Star Trek" and "Lost in Space" seem like crude cartoons.

RANKIN INLET, N.W.T. (AP) — A team of seven explorers says it has found the frigate Albany, lost more than 250 years ago in Hudson Bay, on a trading and exploration expedition.

Eric Disley of Toronto, a spokesman for the team, said the group found the frigate intact in 27 feet of water and is confident the sloop Discovery is nearby.

The ships left England about 1718, equipped for a three-year search for a northwest passage, and sank a year later during a storm on Rankin Inlet on Hudson Bay, about 900 miles north of Winnipeg.

I KNOW! LUCKILY, I CHECKED OUT THE MESSAGE BEFOREHAND--BUT NEVER MIND THAT--WHAT'S YOUR NEXT MOVE, EASY?
THE PAPRE AT THE JUNGLE HOSPITAL TOLD ME ABOUT A PLASTIC SURGEON HERE IN RIO-- HMM... SUPPOSE KIRK REED IS HERE... AND DOESN'T WANT TO BE IDENTIFIED!

LISTEN TO THIS WONDERFUL PATRIOTIC SONG I JUST WROTE...
FORTY-SEVEN CHORUSES OF ROUSING, EXCITING, PULSE-STIRRING MUSIC!
MAYBE I SHOULDN'T HAVE TOLD HIM ABOUT THE FORTY-SEVEN CHORUSES.

ALL MY LIFE I'VE WANTED TO BE SOMEBODY!
YOU ARE SOMEBODY!
I MEAN SOMEBODY SPECIAL!
OH!

I WAS FORCED TO COMPETE WITH QUITE A FEW LADS FOR YOUR MOTHER'S HAND.
WOW! AND YOU WON OUT OVER ALL OF 'EM!
NO, I LOST.

I SEE A MAN COMING INTO YOUR LIFE!
AND ANOTHER AND ANOTHER AND ANOTHER AND ANOTHER...
IT'S WORTH IT TO FIB A LITTLE WHEN THEY WALK AWAY HAPPY LIKE THAT!

HEY ELMER, SOMEBODY'S AT THE DOOR!
BRARD
KNOCK KNOCK

MY NEW NEIGHBOR!

ALL RIGHT! I'LL SEE WHAT THEY WANT!
THEY SAY THEY'RE FROM THE SHERIFF'S OFFICE, SIR!
HERE'S A LIST OF THE CHARGES, ALDERMAN!
AND HERE'S THE WARRANT FOR YOUR ARREST!
RIDICULOUS!
WE ALSO WANT TO INFORM YOU OF YOUR RIGHTS!
OH, SHUT UP!

MUST YOU ALWAYS BE LATE, NUTCHELL?
LATE FOR WORK! LATE WITH REPORTS!
LATE FOR CONFERENCES!!!
I'M NEVER LATE FOR COFFEE BREAK!

OH, DAGWOOD... I JUST FOUND THE CUTEST LITTLE BABY PICTURE OF YOU!
LOOK AT YOU AT SIX MONTHS LYING THERE NAKED AS A JAYBIRD ON A BEARSKIN RUG!
BUT HOW COME YOU HAVE YOUR EYES CLOSED?
I WAS TOO BASHFUL TO LOOK!

YOU AND THAT TAVANAK GUY DON'T EXACTLY HIT IT OFF, DO YOU, ZAN?
HE FORCES ME TO BE WATCHFUL, MR. BOOM...
NOW WOULD YOU PUT THESE ON, PLEASE?
WHAT IS THAT THING?
IT'S A DEVICE TO GIVE ME AN IDEA OF YOUR INTELLECTUAL RANGE AND INTERESTS!
YOU WANTA FIND OUT IF WE'RE DUMMIES OR NOT, IS THAT IT?
MWW... WHAT'S A TRUNNY, MR. BOOM?

THAT SETTLES IT! I'M TAKING BABY-PUSS TO THE VET TOMORROW!
HUH? IS SHE SICK?
NO-- BUT, FOR A CAT, SHE HAS LOUSY NIGHT-VISION!

HE SAYS HE'S LUCKY TO LIVE IN THIS NEIGHBORHOOD...
I'LL SAY!
I WOULDN'T WANT TO LIVE ANYWHERE ELSE!
HAVING A MILKMAN LIKE ROWLAND SURE PUTS A HUSBAND'S MIND AT EASE!

DOCTOR... IS HE... ALL RIGHT?
YES! HE'S RESPONDED... AND THAT'S WHAT WE WERE HOPING FOR!
THANK GOD!

JESSE HELMS

The 'Golden Age'

The rich nations of the world have been put on notice by the poor nations that "indefinite co-existence between poverty and affluence is no longer possible."

The warning came in a preamble to the "Declaration of Lima," adopted by delegates of 80 nations meeting in Peru a few weeks ago.

Not only does the gap between rich world and poor remain, it is widening.

While average per capita annual income increased by $650 in the developed nations during the 1960s, it grew by only $40 in the developing countries, the Lima conferees were told.

The developing nations' share of world exports fell from 21.3 per cent in 1960 to 17.6 per cent in 1970.

Unemployment in the underdeveloped nations is running three times population growth and is chiefly among young men under 25. This is creating an explosive world situation.

The figures are discouraging. Even more discouraging is the growing conviction among students of the problem that the gap can never be closed. If anything, the rich nations may eventually have to reduce their standards.

We may be living in a golden age, thinks Jay W. Forrester, a pioneer in the development of the digital computer and a professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. That is, the quality of life in the rich nations may be better than it ever has been or ever will be again.

The underdeveloped nations probably can never reach our standard of living, he says, because the pollution and natural resource load of each person in an industrial nation is 20 to 50 times greater than in a nonindustrial nation.

Forrester is echoed by the head of the Swedish International Development Authority.

It would take 10 billion preindustrial people, says Ernst Michanek, to generate the wastes which only 200 million Americans produce. Put another way, if the current total energy production of the world were distributed using American standards, it would be enough for fewer than 600 million people, or one-sixth of the present world population of 3.6 billion.

As another example, if India were to match Sweden in number of cars per person, India would have to build 150 million new cars.

"The additional investment, the additional consumption and environmental pollution this number of cars would bring are almost beyond our power to imagine," says Michanek.

Anyone who advocates narrowing the gap between rich and poor nations, while at the same time envisioning a continued 3 to 5 per cent increase in real income in the former, is supporting two irreconcilable policies and is either ignorant or mendacious, he charges.

In the face of such statistics-backed pessimism, a report just made by a committee of the National Academy of Sciences, under the chairmanship of Roger Revelle of Harvard University, appears positively Pollyannaish.

The report, based on a comprehensive, three-year study of world population growth, states optimistically that "the natural resources available to present technology are sufficient to allow a vast improvement in the standard of living of all the people who will inhabit the earth 20 to 30 years from now."

The committee estimates that all those people will number 7 billion, about half a billion less than expected on current trends.

Who is right? Who are the realists and who the dreamers?

According to Forrester, we have until 2050 to find out. That is the "year of crisis" toward which the lines on all his graphs converge.

Stepping Stones to Glory

U.S. Retreat In Asia

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN

The Nixon administration's abandonment of a policy of containment of Communist China has enormous, though little noticed, strategic implications. In urging that the Peking regime be seated in the U.N., and thereby setting the stage for the expulsion of Taiwan, Mr. Nixon enhanced the world role of Mao Tse-tung's government and altered the balance of power in Asia and the Pacific.

The effect of these developments, almost certainly will be to consolidate Red China's power over Asia, including South Vietnam and South Korea and to push America's defensive line back to the Central Pacific. In other words, the de facto recognition of Red China as the No. 1 power in Asia entails an abandonment of the power position in Asia which the U.S. won in World War II and which it maintained for a quarter century thereafter. Such are the fruits of the Asian policy devised by Mr. Nixon and Dr. Henry Kissinger, the President's principal foreign policy adviser.

With Red China recognized and accepted and Taiwan rejected and humiliated at the U.N., the rationale for America's role in South Vietnam and South Korea is shattered. It seems only a matter of time before those anti-communist countries are abandoned.

Already the left-libs in the United States are talking about leaving the future of Taiwan to Peking and the Taiwanese. The notion being cultivated is that the U.S. should look the other way while the Free Chinese are captured by Peking's forces. Perhaps the means of settling Taiwan's future will be discussed when President Nixon visits Peking.

Quick Quiz

Q—Who gave the name of "Old Glory" to the American flag?

A—Capt. William Driver of Salem, Mass., in 1813. The flag is preserved in the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C. It has 24 stars and an anchor.

Q—When were women first admitted to the honorary college fraternity, Phi Beta Kappa?

A—In 1875.

Q—Which U.S. president rode to his inauguration on horseback?

A—Thomas Jefferson. However, he returned from the capital in a carriage, setting the precedent for inaugural parades up Pennsylvania Avenue.

Q—What desert animal never drinks a drop of water?

A—The kangaroo rat. For water, it eats small, juicy tubers that grow in the desert and can be found an inch or two below the surface of the ground.

Q—During which war did the United States occupy Canada?

A—American forces captured and held for two weeks the city of York, now Toronto, during the War of 1812.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Enclosed is a recent article from a trade publication from the egg industry. Can you please comment on it? You have stated many times the importance of not eating too many eggs. After reading this article, what do you say?

Dear Reader—The article you enclosed is very misleading and full of half-truths.

To illustrate the misleading nature of the article, consider the statement that eggs contain a 2-to-1 ratio of unsaturated fat to saturated fat and that this ratio has been proved to be effective in lowering cholesterol in the blood. The intent here is to lump all unsaturated fats together. The American Heart Assn., and indeed the Inter-Society Commission for Heart Disease (reporting December, 1970), has pointed out that, of the unsaturated fats (monounsaturated and polyunsaturated), the polyunsaturated fats are the ones thought to be beneficial in lowering cholesterol—not monounsaturated fat. The Scandinavian government issued a national policy on diet similar to the position of the American Heart Assn. several years ago.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture analysis of eggs proves that eggs have only 5.5 per cent of their calories in polyunsaturated fat, all the rest of the 63.9 per cent of the calories from fat is saturated and monounsaturated fat. Neither of these fats is beneficial in lowering cholesterol.

Whole eggs are high in fat and low in polyunsaturated fat. They are the only common food that is exceptionally high in cholesterol. Careful studies have demonstrated that fairly high intakes of cholesterol will increase, at least to some extent, the level of cholesterol in the blood.

There are several gimmicks used to confuse the consumer. A common one is to refer to unsaturated fat content versus saturated fats without any reference to polyunsaturated fats. There are a number of foods with reasonable amounts of unsaturated fat that are poor in polyunsaturated fat content. Still another ruse is to say a food is a low-fat food on the basis of the per cent of fat by weight, not calories. Thus, a piece of meat that is 10 per cent fat by weight is actually a high-fat food, because a lot of the weight of the meat is water and the fat contains a lot more calories per weight than protein. Remember, you can measure foods in weight, volume or calories and, unless you know which means of measuring is being used, you can be badly misled. The best way to be sure what a person is talking about is to ask for the percentage in calories.

Regarding eggs, the problem is strictly with the yolks. The whites are an excellent source of protein. Many recipes that call for a whole egg work just as well with two egg whites. Using two egg yolks for baking and other recipes for each whole egg actually uses more eggs. Thus, it is not necessary to eliminate eggs entirely.

Debts a Factor in Democrats Backing Election-Fund Bill

By ROBERTS ALLEN

WASHINGTON—There was a lot more than even the glittering lure of $20 million of taxpayer-provided electioneering money behind the Democrats' furious steamroller drive to ram through the Senate their "Treasury raid" campaign fund bill.

Two other key factors were millions in unpaid 1968 political expenditures and increasingly blunt threats of legal action to collect them.

Understandably, the Democrats were completely silent regarding these highly embarrassing matters. Throughout the rancorous Senate debate, they expounded a variety of arguments in defense of their "slush fund" measure. But never a word was said about their millions of unpaid obligations.

To hear the Democrats orate and declaim, these big long-standing debts don't exist—or have anything to do with their frantic scrambling to enact their "Treasury raid" electioneering fund bill. But the stark realities are indisputable.

The Democrats still owe more than $12 million from the 1968 campaign.

Further, they are on emphatic notice that unless they start paying up, they are headed for disconcerting court action.

Following are major items in the Democrats' red-ink ledger.

—$9.3 million owed by the Democratic National Committee, much of it in the form of long delinquent notes, defaulted loans and overdue bills.

—of the latter, $1.451 million is due the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. for local and long distance phone service.

—Another $1.700 million owed large and small airlines, including American, United, Eastern, Johnson Flying Service.

In effect, such massive electioneering debts actually amount to campaign contributions.

That's the forceful contention of Rep. Samuel Devine, R—Ohio, ranking member of the Administration Committee which held extensive hearings on the problem of campaign expenditures—and the Democrats can't deny it.

Says Devine: "As a result of such unpaid political obligations, the involved industries and concerns are in effect contributing to election campaigns. Political contributions by corporations are illegal under the law, so what is happening is that corporations are being put in the position of doing indirectly what they are prohibited from doing directly."

Pay Up—Or Else!

Graphic illustration of the duns barraging the Democrats is a recent letter received by National Chairman Lawrence O'Brien from Alexander Stott, vice president and comptroller of AT&T.

Stressing that the giant corporation has been waiting since 1968 for payment of the $1.451 million owed, Stott forebodingly concludes:

"We will appreciate receiving from you by December 1, 1971, a plan for paying all these bills, showing the amounts and dates when we can expect to receive payment." In other words, this is the last notice before legal crackdown.

Stott's letter also reveals that "representatives of the Democratic National Committee" made various settlement proposals, but "none have materialized."

"We therefore believe it imperative," says the AT&T official, "that a schedule be developed that will result in clearing all these debts prior to July 1, 1972. A debt of nearly a million and a half dollars presents a most serious problem to the Bell System Companies and their customers."

Examination of this big debt disclosed that approximately one-third—$457,000—wasn't incurred by the National Committee at all.

It was run up in the pre-convention campaigns of Vice President Hubert Humphrey and Sen. Robert Kennedy—with the latter piling up most of it, $408,000. Humphrey's share is $49,000.

In other words, these unpaid pre-convention obligations were later dumped on the Democratic National Committee.

Significantly, quite a bit of the National Committee's red ink is due to such debts. Even former Sen. Eugene McCarthy got in on this debt unloading. But the records show Bobby Kennedy and his brother Sen. Ted Kennedy (Mass.) dumped the most.

One major example: $415,000 owned American Airlines for providing Bobby with transportation in his 1968 electioneering.

On the Way Out

Political insiders are offering bets that Sen. George McGovern, strident New Leftist militant dove and in general the most far-out of the Democratic Presidential scammers, won't last out the course.

Significantly, the bettors are Democrats.

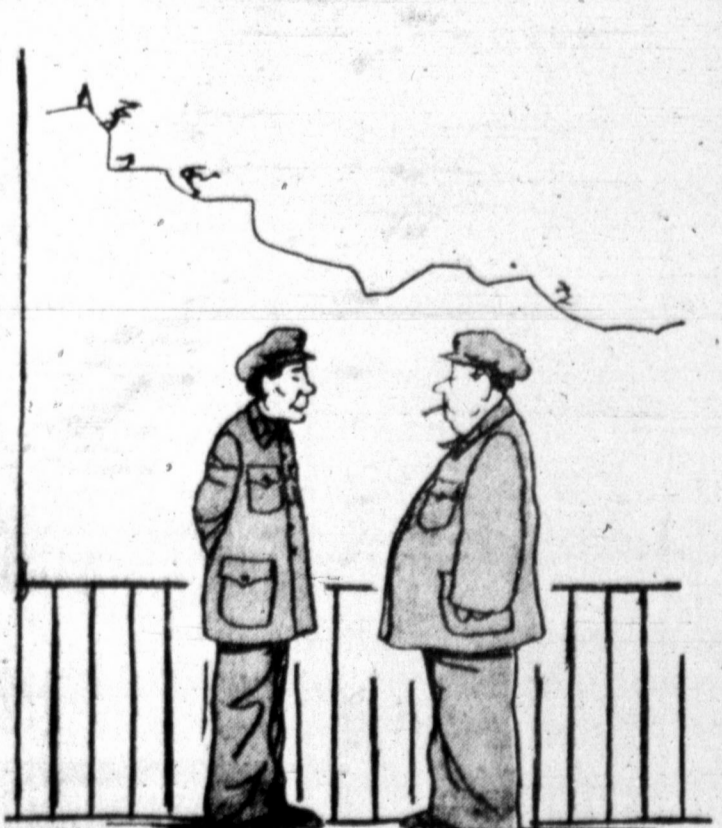

They are convinced that despite the South Dakotan's clangorous electioneering and strenuous publicity grandstanding, he will throw in the towel by spring.

Reason is the growing conviction that McGovern will be soundly trounced in the key state Presidential primaries, including Wisconsin where he is supposed to have considerable strength in the rural sections. But the latest poll there reveals him lagging far behind Muskie, Humphrey and Kennedy. Even Sen. Henry Jackson tops him.

McGovern's campaign lieutenants, almost all ex-Kennedynes, vehemently insist "George is in to the end, come what may."

That may well be his intention. But it takes money to run a high-powered campaign, and McGovern already is operating on short rations. And they are certain to become shorter as his prospects become dimmer and dimmer—as they steadily are.

Mexican Government Enforces

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Texas merchants and Mexican officials agree Mexico has enforced custom regulations at the border, but disagree on the reasons for the recent action.

MRS. C. W. BURCH
Mr and Mrs Cecil Eubanks spent the holiday with his mother in Arizona.

Galmor and attended church services to hear their granddaughter play for the services.

However, this is a complaint which occurs each year prior to the Christmas holidays when Mexico reinforces its vigil at the border to prevent a giant influx of contraband.

Customs administrator Salvador Cabal de Alva at Nuevo Laredo emphasized the program is to stop the flow of pesos out of the country.

Mr and Mrs Ray Prather, Wheeler visited Thursday with Mr and Mrs C. V. McCraw.

Feelings north of the border are that this is a reprisal

If merchants on the other side of the border are doing less business with Mexicans it is only because the big smugglers are no longer buying large quantities of goods for illegal sale in Mexico because the smugglers know they will probably get caught.

Almost all Mexican workers receive Christmas bonuses called aguinaldos which are sometimes spent on quick shopping to San Antonio, Laredo and other shopping areas in Texas.

Mr and Mrs Bill Harvey visited Thursday night with Mr and Mrs C. V. McCraw.

President Luis Echeverria has called on Mexicans to have pride in and purchase Mexican-made products rather than imports.

Those Mexicans who live within 20 kilometers 12.5 miles of the border legally can and do purchase much of their daily necessities on the U.S. side. However, such items as electrical appliances cannot be purchased without paying stiff import duties.

For example, many a school child will complain of stomach ache at breakfast time.

Mr and Mrs C. V. McCraw visited Saturday at Briscoe with Mr and Mrs Zane Francis. The McCraws have bought the Sedid place at Wheeler but it will be a while before they move.

Ronnie Stuart was home the weekend visiting his parents, Mr and Mrs Calvin Stuart. Ronnie is in college at Borger.

Because such commodities as toys and electrical appliances are more expensive in Mexico than in the U.S. and quality of these Mexican products is below that of their neighbor much money is to be made by smuggling in huge quantities of these sought-after items. In the past, this has been accomplished by paying bribes to Mexican customs agents.

To combat this, Mexico has doubled salaries of customs agents at the border and increased the number of agents in employ. Newly-appointed supervisors are in surveillance to see that Mexico's strict customs laws are obeyed.

Stephen Rector, Amarillo, spent part of last week visiting Mr and Mrs C. W. Burch, Melody and William. They took him home Friday and stayed the night with Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Rector and family.

Smith OK's State Grants

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith approved Monday, a $61,559 regional planning assistance grant to the East Texas Council of Governments.

The state grant, for use in 1972, is set up as general assistance support for a variety of council programs, the governor's office said.

Past activities of the council have included water and sewer studies, criminal justice planning, land use planning, transportation planning, determination of regional goals and objectives, technical services to member governments and the coordination of federally assisted programs.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Grange spent Thanksgiving with their daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Carl McAdams at Farris, Okla.

"Dad," our son Daniel began, "she would vomit at the slightest pretext."

"In fact, I decided she even did it on purpose, just to attract more attention from her mother and us doctors."

"But I was a Senior student and felt I should let the Professor handle the matter."

"So I called him to the chair and the very next time that Linda began to vomit, the Professor stuck his thumb under her chin."

"Then he firmly pushed upward, till her lower teeth were against the uppers, saying: 'Now you swallow it!'"

"Well, Linda did so! "And never attempted to vomit again while in my dental chair!"
