

Tired Of State Legislature, Wilson To Seek Seat In Congress

LUFKIN, Tex. (AP) — Charles Wilson, a veteran of the Texas Senate, says he wants to go to Washington as a congressman because the legislature "is such a mess I don't care about going back to Austin."

"It (the legislature) has become, to a certain extent, indecent," Wilson said in an interview.

"The legislature is increasingly receptive to lobbyists and special interests. It is responsive to the insurance and utility lobbies, but nobody cares about the filling station man and the clerk."

Wilson says he is "modestly confident" of gaining a seat in Congress despite opposition from Mrs. John Dowdy, wife of the Athens congressman convicted of taking a $25,000 bribe, and three other opponents.

The Lufkin state senator and his aides concede that Dowdy was a strong figure in conservative East Texas but Wilson believes Dowdy's conviction lost "at least half of his support."

Wilson styles himself "moderate liberal" in state politics but "a little conservative nationally."

Opposed to school busing, he said, "I think it polarizes communities, make radicals out of moderates and doesn't make good sense."

He thinks the abuses in child welfare—and those he calls the chiselers—should be removed to help the "senior citizens."

"But you can't repeal child welfare just because there are chiselers," he said. "You can not let children starve."

Wilson objects strongly to what he claims is a misrepresentation by Mrs. Dowdy of his age. "I'm 38 and they tell me she is going around saying I'm 53," he said grimly.

Mixing with students on the campus at Sam Houston State, Wilson easily could have been mistaken recently for one of the upperclassmen. A graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy, he stands 6 feet and 4 inches and weighs a slender 170 pounds. He has an often-used good grin that shows white teeth in a lean, tan face topped by an unruly shock of hair.

Wilson dresses modishly and says his chief recreations are sailing with his wife, the former Jerry Carter of Arlington, Tex., and walking in the East Texas piney woods. They live in a modernistic house and like to entertain when he has the time.

The Lufkin senator said he would not underestimate any of his opponents, but mentions Mrs. Dowdy oftener than the other three—retired Air Force Maj. Norman Birdwell of Hempstead; Thomas Porter, a Vidor electrician, and Lewis McIntire, an Orange chemist.

"One of the things that bothers me in the race," he said over coffee in Huntsville, "is running against somebody as rich as the Dowdys."

"During the Justice Department's investigation of the congressman, the government said they had from $230,000 to $240,000 in cash in 23 separate savings and loan banks scattered around the country. I'm afraid Mrs. Dowdy will spend it to get elected."

Two other things, however, apparently bother Wilson. One is a DWI charge that was changed to "driving under the influence of drugs." The other was the Sharpstown banking legislation, which these days bothers most legislators.

The DWI charge came after a 1969 party in Austin for state Sen. Don Kennard of Fort Worth.

Although Wilson paid a fine, he maintains: "I was not convicted of DWI, and I was not guilty. I pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of anti-histamines and allergy shots. My doctor cautioned me not to drive. It was a stupid thing to do."

On Sharpstown, Wilson said that Sen. Bill Patman of Galveston quoted his father, U.S. Rep. Wright Patman, as saying that "the bill had merits."

The bill was presented to him, he said, as one that would provide supplemental deposit insurance. "I made the motion for a vote and the bill carried 20-6 in the Senate. It was a political mistake."

What does he want to do in the U.S. Congress?

"I am going to continue to be a thorn to Southwestern Bell Telephone until we get a utility commission. I want any state that doesn't have a utility commission to have its utilities regulated by the Federal Communications Commission. "There is just one company in town, and everybody damn well knows it. I want more money for FCC investigations, and I want to see a utility panel formed for consumers."

Of his 11-year record in the legislature, Wilson said he is proudest of his work for his district. "Taking care of your district is the most a legislator can do," he said.

The Senators likes to mention in talking to constituents and voters work he has done for such institutions and projects as the State Home at Corsicana, Rusk State Hospital, the Alabama-Coushatta Indian reservation, Stephen F. Austin State University and other schools, a state park on Lake Livingston, Trinity River legislation and laws helping sportsmen.

Senior citizens he takes a special interest in, he tells voters. "You need all the chiselers out of welfare in order to have more money for our older people." He said he wanted tax laws and IRS regulations changed to give retirees a "chance to make more money without penalties."

Utility regulation is upmost in his mind, it appeared. "There are no unregulated utility monopolies anywhere in the world except in the State of Texas."

He says he campaigns on savings of his and his wife's plus contributions from widely scattered and diverse people with independent incomes.

One, he said, was Arthur Temple, head of Temple Industries of Diboll, but he said he planned no timber legislation.

Wilson said he supports the Texas Rangers, a 100,000-acre Big Thicket National Park and other ecological movements but at the same time believes Congress has gone far enough with anti-pollution laws until present laws are better enforced.

"I find myself at odds with ecologists in their opposition to Trinity River development," he said, "but I have a perfect conservation voting record."

Nixon's May Trip To Moscow Includes Review Of Russ Military Role In Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — Preparations for President Nixon's May summit conference in Moscow include a thorough review of the Soviet Union's military activities in Cuba, according to Pentagon sources.

The review centers, the sources say, on the continuing series of Soviet ship movements in the Caribbean. Soviet ships have been using the Cuban port of Cienfuegos for vessel-servicing and crew recreation.

Nixon has said publicly Cuba might be a subject at the Moscow talks. He has come under pressure from some Democrats and from some officials within his administration to take a stronger stand against the Soviet military presence in the Caribbean.

Some U.S. officials say the Soviet presence is more important to Moscow for political and psychological reasons than for its military implications, although the latter also is recognized.

There is some speculation here that the Kremlin would like to see the United States and Cuba move toward a more nearly normal relationship.

It is said the Soviets believe that only through a U.S.-Cuba detente would the Fidel Castro regime be able to expand its diplomatic contacts within the hemispheric community because the area is still basically U.S.-oriented.

A major obstacle to Moscow's reported goal of encouraging broadened Cuban representation in Latin America may be Castro himself, many believe.

Castro made it known last year he is no longer inflexibly opposed to moving toward a normal relationship with the United States, but in recent weeks there has been a marked increase in the level of anti-American propaganda disseminated by Cuba's official media.

One source suggested the reason is that Castro may have realized "the impossibility of a thaw in relations during an election year in the United States."

Super Bowl Film To Be Presented On TV Sunday

DALLAS (AP) — Ten miles of film was boiled down to 938 feet of crisp action in the NFL Films Production of Super Bowl VI won by the Dallas Cowboys 24-3 over Miami.

The world premier of the film has been shown in Dallas with viewing slated for Sunday over National television (CBS).

The film shows the series of heartbreaks the Cowboys had to go through before they won their first world title.

U.S. Agency Files Anti-Trust Suit Halting Acquisition Of Texas Banks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department filed an antitrust suit today to prevent the acquisition of four independent banks in El Paso, Tex., by Trans Texas Bancorporation an El Paso-based bank holding company.

Acting Atty. Gen. Richard G. Klienclaus said the defendants named in the suit included Trans Texas Bancorporation Inc., El Paso National Bank, First State Bank, Northgate National Bank of El Paso and Border City Bank.

He said the suit was filed in U.S. District Court in El Paso. Under the 1966 Bank Merger

Act, the suit halts the acquisitions pending court action.

The suit charged that the proposed acquisition of the four El Paso banks by Trans Bancorporation would violate the Clayton Act by eliminating actual and potential competition and substantially increase concentration in commercial banking in El Paso County.

The justice department said that El Paso National is the largest commercial bank in El Paso County with about 35.5 per cent of total county bank deposits. It also said that First State is the Fifth, Northgate is the sixth and Border City is the 13th largest commercial banks in El Paso County. It said that they hold about 3.3, 2.5 and 2 per cent of total county bank deposits respectively.

As of June 30, 1971, El Paso National had total assets of about $27.3 million. On the same date First State, had total assets of about $20.8 million. Northgate had $159 million and Border City had $1.7 million.

The suit seeks a permanent injunction against the proposed acquisitions or any similar plan to merge or consolidate the defendants' business.

Dispute Over Ownership Of Texas Tidelands Before Supreme Court Again

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The question of ownership and control of the Texas tidelands—a dispute laid to rest at least four times—is before the U.S. Supreme Court again.

This time, the federal government claims Texas has no right to keep foreign fishing vessels outside its 10.35-mile limit.

The fight began two decades ago after the discovery of billions of dollars worth of oil under the tidelands. The federal government said it owned the tidelands, and the Supreme Court agreed that "paramount rights" rested in Washington.

Gov. Allan Shivers led a revolt of the state's Democrats in 1952 when Dwight Eisenhower promised he would work for state ownership. The Democratic candidate, Adlai Stevenson, refused to make the same promise.

In 1953, the first year of the Eisenhower administration, Congress passed the Submerged Lands Act, giving the states their tidelands out to three miles or out to their historic boundary. That settled the question the second time.

But the federal government fought against claims by Texas, Florida and Louisiana that their historical boundary extended three leagues—10.35 miles—from shore.

Texas said it offered its public lands to the federal government in 1845 when it joined the union in exchange for assumption by Washington of Texas' $10 million public debt.

Washington told Texas to keep its debt and its public lands.

Florida also was able to show that the three-league mark was part of an agreement with the federal government when it joined the union. Louisiana could not.

The Supreme Court ruled in 1960 that Florida and Texas owned their tidelands out to three leagues. All other states owned their tidelands out to three miles. That settled the matter for the third, and surely the final, time.

Not exactly. In 1967, the federal government said the shoreline had eroded away in many places from where it was in 1845, and Texas was entitled to claim a 10.35-mile limit only from the present shoreline.

But the reverse was not true. In a few areas where the shoreline had moved farther out into the gulf, Washington said the limit should be measured from the inland spot where the shoreline was in 1845.

"It was 'heads we win, tails you lose," says Texas Asst. Atty. Gen. Houghton Brownlee.

The federal government also contended that Texas had no right to claim its limit should be measured from the ends of piers and jetties, which the state claimed it had a right to do under the 1953 act.

The Supreme Court ruled against Texas on both counts.

Florida seized three Cuban fishing vessels inside its waters in February 1971, claiming fish were part of the natural resources of the tidelands granted to the states by Congress.

The federal government asked the Supreme Court in December to let it contest this position. The high court agreed last Monday to hear the case.

"They brought Texas in for good measure," Brownlee said.

No foreign ships have been seized by Texas, he said.

Does Texas have any ships with which to capture foreign vessels?

"No," Brownlee laughed. "I don't believe the Battleship Texas (whose ballast tanks are filled with concrete) can get out of the ship channel down there."

The federal government

takes the position that Florida and Texas can regulate fishing out to 10.35 miles for American citizens but not for foreigners, Brownlee said. To allow them to interfere with foreign ships between the three-mile and the three-league marks would disrupt foreign policy, Washington says.

Congress extended national fishing rights out to 12 miles several years ago, according to Brownlee, so it would seem that the State Department is trying to stop Florida and Texas from protecting fishing rights out to 10.35 miles at the same time the Interior Department is charged with doing the same thing out to 12 miles.

Is it a case of one federal agency not knowing what another federal agency is doing?

"I don't think so," Brownlee said. "They're too smart for that. I really have a sneaky feeling they are trying to roll back the tidelands on us again."

But that could get to be a big political issue again, as it was in 1952. Surely President Nixon would remember what happened then.

"I think he ought to," Brownlee said.

The case will be set for the Supreme Court's October term at the earliest, he said.

HONORED FOR WORK—Sam McClelland, a 27-year-old photography major at Los Angeles Trade-Technical College, receives a letter of recognition from college president Dr. Fred J. Brinkman. A 1962 graduate of Pampa High School, McClelland recently won the George Washington Honor Medal from the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge, Pa., for his photo essay entitled "The Price of Freedom." His work consisted of 27 different pictures submitted in lieu of a written essay. The son of Mrs. Richard Kastein, 1807 N. Sumner, McClelland was listed on the dean's honor roll for the fall semester with a 3.8 grade point average on a 4-point system.

Vine-Covered Apartment May Attract Scientists

By JOY STILLEY
NEW YORK (AP) — With our apple-poinsettia plant—a product of my husband's original approach to gardening—as the drawing card, any day now the world's scientists should be beating a path to the door of our vine-covered cottage.

Only it's not a cottage—it's an apartment—and it's not vine-covered. The vines are all on the inside, along with other assorted greenery in planters, clay pots, coffee cans, muffin tins, paper cups, painted tea canisters, aluminum foil pans and cut-off milk cartons.

Our piece de resistance of the moment is a small apple tree and a large poinsettia plant, compatibly sharing a flower pot, rainwater baths and the loving attention of the gardener in residence.

Originally the pot was solely the property of a poinsettia we received for Christmas, which continued to bloom defiantly for two months after the holiday. Even then, though the red leaves finally fell off, new green ones started sprouting.

Since in our household no member of the plant kingdom can be discarded until a panel of three horticulturists has certified that it is no longer capable of photosynthesis, this particular pot retained a place of honor on the dining room window sill.

No little plot of land, even one already occupied by an out-of-date yule plant, goes wasted in our house. Thus my Johnny Appleseed utilized the extra space for the beginnings of an apple orchard, and the poinsettia-cum-apple-tree is already the talk of local botanical circles.

GREEN THUMB THERAPY Horticulturist Makes A Prison Bloom

BELMONT, Calif. (NEA)—The 60 years of Herbert S. Frank have not all been placid, despite the ubiquitous pipe he puffs contentedly.

He was once earmarked for the gas ovens of Auschwitz. He escaped the Germans by skiing through the Brenner Pass into Italy and getting on a boat to Shanghai. He lived out World War II under the Japanese occupation, a stateless alien.

And now, among other things, he teaches convicted thieves and murderers how to make things grow.

Herbert Frank has, for the last 18 years, taught landscaping to the felons of San Quentin and other California prisons.

Frank is a professional horticulturist, trained in the meticulous German manner at the Gartenbauschule Ahlem in Hanover. He has practiced his trade in his native Neurnberg, at Hangchow in China and, since 1947, in the San Francisco Bay area.

He has employed excons in his own landscaping firm, and now a half-dozen of them have their own companies; another became supervisor of the Horticulture Fair in Fairfield, Calif. Meanwhile, San Quentin, for all its grimness, has pockets of bucolic splendor, wrought by the hands of Frank and his prison students.

He was first appointed to set up a horticulture training program for inmates in 1954 and became chairman of the trade advisory committee for San Quentin landscaping. "In little sections," he says between tobacco puffs, "it is like a Golden Gate park."

The work, which is voluntary without remuneration, was motivated by Frank's own deep-rooted interest in rehabilitation.

As a Jew in the Germany of the 1930s, his marriage to an Aryan was dissolved by official decree. His wife, receiving a report that he had been killed in Poland, remarried. His daughter was sent to the concentration camp at Theresienstadt. She came into Berlin in the spring of 1945 riding atop of a Russian unit which liberated her, hair snow white at the age of 16. Frank's daughter now is a judge in East Berlin and he flies over to visit her every other year.

When Frank arrived in China in January, 1939, aboard an Italian liner, the Bianco Mano, he was the only landscaper among 20,000 displaced Jews in the Shanghai area. He became the groundskeeper for the Hangchow International Golf Club and was also employed to supervise the estate of a wealthy Englishman, Sir Victor Sasson. Later he became the landscape architect for T.V. Soong, the brother of Madame Chiang Kai-shek.

After Maoist China, he fled to the United States with his family—he had remarried to a girl from Vienna—and a whole new life. His first job was with a seed company on Market Street. He had been a customer of the company in his China period. Then he started his own landscaping firm in suburban Belmont and has since won 22 national awards in horticulture, was voted California Man of the Year in 1965 in that field and served until a year ago as president of the Landscaping Association of California.

So no one knocks America as a land of opportunity to Herbert Frank, who has graduated 100 convicts into useful roles in society.

"I know all about the turmoil of the last two years," he says of San Quentin. "But there are good things in the institution. Show me another place in the world where an inmate can learn a trade."

He says only two of his excon landscapers have ever been returned to prison. He has also promoted a furlough program for inmates to spend time on jobs outside the prison walls.

IT'S LOVELY and it's a prison. A corner of San Quentin beautified by Herbert Frank's landscaping students.

"Landscaping," he says, "is changing. People don't want to wait. Why, we're moving 75-year-old trees. And spending a quarter of a million dollars to landscape condominium projects."

Really Enjoy Roughing It? Forget It For Now

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer
Remember when all you had to do to go camping was throw a couple of bedrolls into the back of the pickup truck, toss some canned beans and tomatoes on top of them and take off into the wilderness. Well, an organization called the Texas Recreational Vehicle Association is dead set on changing that—putting a little glamour and comfort into the great outdoors.

The outfit held its annual show in Dallas a few weeks ago. If you think the bedroll-campfire bit is popular today, you should have seen the would-be outdoorsmen pouring into the acres-sized hall to see the latest in nifty camping.

About 20,000 adults paid a buck and a half each in two and a half days just for the privilege of window shopping—and often buying on the spot.

What is available these days? You can start with a single enclosed bunk attached behind the cab of a pickup. After that come trailer types or those attached to the cab of trucks.

And from there you can go up to a 28-foot self-propelled job that, depending on its luxury, can cost as much as $22,000 and sleep six persons in bunks and a dozen more on the floor if they believe in togetherness.

One of the first things a non-camper must learn is that a "recreational vehicle" is not a "mobile home." A mobile home is to be moved only rarely and then only with a professional driver.

Yet you can roar around the country 365 days a year at the wheel of a recreational vehicle or towing one. The ingenuity of man is not demonstrated at its best in wiring a pinball table or designing a space capsule. Its ultimate is the recreational vehicle.

Into these the makers have placed sinks, cookstoves, ovens, lounges, beds, showers, bathtubs, toilets, dinettes, and lounge chairs for the driver if it is a self-propelled item.

Also, refrigerators, sundecks, wardrobe closets, carpets, garbage disposals, popup TV aerials, built-in vacuum cleaners, water heaters, water purifier.

Not all the vehicles have all the frills but they each has the basics for independent living. Each has different extras.

Almost all have wood paneling in the interiors, one even has a split-level bedroom with a staircase.

There is even a line of vehicles for those who want luxury with the myth of roughing it. This is a trailer only four feet tall as it sits on the highway.

Park it, raise some hinged iron pipes and you have a tent right where you sit. And inside, you have all the basic comforts of life—beds, stove, refrigerator, toilet and a rigid ceiling to keep the rain out.

The big trend now in recreational vehicles is to make them independent like a ship at sea. This is done with batteries and special generators.

But they also provide hook-ups whereby the traveler can drive into special camps and tie into the city water and electrical systems.

Recreational vehicle sales are so terrific, officers of the Texas group note, that the industry's growth is outstripping the establishment of campgrounds.

So hotel and motel chains are getting into the campground business as are major oil companies.

AMONG RELATIVES

Breast Cancer Danger Greater Than Supposed

CLEARWATER BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The danger that breast cancer may run in families is greater—in some cases by nine times—than has been generally supposed, a scientist said today.

It has been postulated that female relatives of mothers, sisters or aunts who had breast cancer face a two to threefold higher risk of getting such cancers than do unrelated women, said Dr. David E. Anderson of the M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston, Tex.

But, a new on-going analysis of families is finding that the risk can be far higher and even nine times greater for some women, Anderson told an American Cancer Society seminar for science writers.

The defense is for high-risk women to have frequent checkups using all available techniques to spot breast cancers early when they might be easily curable, the researcher said.

And such a more intensive screening program might well turn up clues as to why different types of breast cancers develop and how to prevent them, he said.

The revision in estimating the risk for relatives is based partly upon evidence about differences between breast cancers that occur before or after a woman's menopause, said Anderson, a geneticist and professor of biology at the University of Texas.

The risk for relatives is about three times higher than average if a woman had a breast cancer before menopause, Anderson said.

The risk for relatives is less than two times higher than average if a woman developed breast cancer after menopause.

If a woman's cancer develops in both breasts after menopause, the risk to relatives is 5.4 times higher. If this happens before menopause, then the risk is nine times higher.

The genetic or hereditary factors seem to play a much more important role if women relatives had breast cancers in both breasts before menopause rather than in only one breast, he said.

Over-all, women are generally considered to have a 5 to 7 per cent chance of developing breast cancer during their lifetime, he said.

But, for some women, he said, the chances could reach a 45 per cent chance if they are related to women developing cancer in both breasts before menopause.

Texas Vagrancy Laws Ruled Unconstitutional

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The chief sections of Texas vagrancy laws are unconstitutional because they make it a crime to be unemployed or poor, the State Court of Criminal Appeals ruled today.

"The status of being unemployed and without visible means of support is not a sufficient ground for criminal sanctions," the court said.

Judge Wendell Odom wrote the unanimous court's opinion.

The decision reversed a 90-day jail sentence assessed Daniel Dean Baker in Lubbock on charges of carrying a switch blade knife. Police found the knife while searching Baker after he was arrested for vagrancy.

According to case records, Baker and another youth were arrested early on Aug. 14, 1969, walking away from an automobile on a well-lit street. Both were shabbily dressed, barefoot and had "extremely long hair," the court said.

"While it may be desirable that the state be enabled to anticipate, and then prevent, future criminal activity, the price of doing so under this statute is to brand as present criminals both persons who might in the future commit an overt criminal act and those who may not," Odom wrote.

He also said the "inherent defect" in the law was that "the legislature has made the mere status of being able-bodied and unemployed a crime."

Odom also said the law makes "the status of poverty a crime without qualification" and "impermissibly places unfettered discretion in the hands of the police" since it gives no guidelines for enforcement.

The court did not rule on other sections of the law dealing with such things as prostitutes and gypsies.

Women's Group Hosts Four School Candidates

By JANE KADINGO
The Top O' Texas Republican Women's Club hosted the four candidates running for election to the Pampa School Board at a recent meeting. Mrs. Scott Nisbet, club president, introduced each candidate, who told the group of his qualifications and his concerns. A question-answer period followed, during which the women asked each candidate about his views on various issues.

George McCarroll stated he has been a Pampa resident since December 1966 and is offering his services "to give the voter some alternatives." He said he considered himself a conservative in fiscal and personnel matters, with his main concern being the "handling of funds in a responsible fashion."

He told the women he felt his business experience has given him the "know-how" to control costs and in selecting personnel to implement the educational program. He pointed out he is an employee of Celanese, and has children enrolled in the school system.

Rev. Raymond Van Amber told the women that as a minister of the Gospel he was interested in other people, experienced in working with people and concerned with people's problems. He pointed out he had a special interest in textbooks and would rather see higher taxation and remain independent than see the federal government take over the schools.

He stated, also, that he felt a long-range study was needed about the school-building problem. Rev. Van Amber said he has been a Pampa resident for two years, has two children in the school system and is pastor of the Bethel Assembly of God Church.

Rev. Sam Hulse of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church explained he has lived in Pampa six years and has children in the school system. He stated he had "no particular axe to grind," but is excited about some of the things that have been done in the area of curriculum. He said he believes in a school system based on the "needs, strength, concerns and potential" of the students.

He pointed out he felt there was no need of separation of problem areas; that school board matters should be considered as a whole. He said he was for "more openness and better communication" concerning school board matters.

He said he felt many programs could be added within the present system at no extra cost. Paul Simmons explained he has been a Pampa resident for 27 years, has been in business here for 16 years as owner of the Southwell Supply company, and has two children in the school system. He said he felt the school board should operate as a business entity, operating on sound business principles, adding that he was opposed to deficit spending.

PHS Students Will Present One-Act Play

The Pampa High School drama department presents an evening of one-act plays, at 7 p.m. April 6. The plays are "Riders to the Sea," with Cara Thomas as student director; "Sorry, Wrong Number," student director Sara Walker; "The Little Foxes," Mrs. Rochelle Lacy, faculty director.

"Riders to the Sea" concerns an old Irish woman and her acceptance of tragedy as the sea takes her final son. The presentation becomes an image of unchanging human experience. "Sorry, Wrong Number" is a suspense story. It involves an invalid woman who overhears a murder plot on the telephone, but is unable to prevent it. This play builds to surprising climax.

"The Little Foxes" is a character study in greed and ambition. The play centers around Regina Hubbard Giddens and her brothers and their attempt to establish a cotton mill. This play was previously performed at the ENMU Drama Festival in Portales, N.M. where Retha Jordan won an excellent acting award. "The Little Foxes" will be presented for the UIL District One-Act Play Contest in Canyon April 7.

Marijuana Cultivation
BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The City Council has voted to endorse a proposed statewide initiative to legalize the cultivation and possession of marijuana for personal use. A coalition of liberal and radical members voted 8 to 1 Tuesday night for the measure. It would continue to make illegal the sale or large scale cultivation of the drug.

The council rejected a later resolution offered by its three avowed radicals to end the enforcement of antimarijuana laws in the city. The vote was 5 against, 3 yes and 1 absentee. The initiative approved, called the California Marijuana Initiative, must have 330,000 valid signatures by May 1 in order to qualify for the November ballot.

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph.D., M.D.
Mrs. William Wrigley offers the two formulae used by her famous husband in his public speeches. She says she prefers the second one! But notice the superb psychology which has made the Wrigleys such outstanding pillars of "free enterprise." They stress "horse sense" psychology!

CASE T-540: Mrs. William Wrigley cleverly describes her famous husband's two standard public speeches. As recounted in the weekly QUOTE MAGAZINE (on which orators and writers now rely for ideas and anecdotes) she says Mr. Wrigley has a short speech and also a long speech. "Thank you," is his short address. "Thank you, very much," is his long one. "And I like his long one," she humorously added.

Wrigley's Psychology The Wrigley family has been noted for several gems of Applied Psychology. "When two men in a business always agree," stated William Wrigley, Jr., "one of them's unnecessary." In my lecture tours around the U.S.A., I often recite that remark, for smiling women will come up to me at the conclusion of my address and say: "Dr. Crane, I read you all the time. But I don't always agree with you!" Then I quote that Wrigley adage and remind them that I don't try to stampede readers into 100 per cent agreement. For it takes opposing views (and even opposing rollers in threshing machines) to sift the grains of wheat from the chaff. Since I obviously attack "sacred cows," many devotees of those sacred cows blindly rush to the defense of such defiled bovines and thus violently criticize me. But the function of a good newspaper is to arouse debate; not 100 per cent acquiescence!

Often I would also cite the Wrigleys when I taught my classes at Northwestern University on "Sales and Advertising Psychology." Many of you younger readers may not recall that the Wrigley Company was originally formed to sell soap. But as a bonus for large orders, it then offered dealers a box of chewing gum.

The demand for the gum finally became so great that the Wrigley's decided to sell chewing gum as its main line. And it has even reversed things by offering soap as a bonus for big chewing gum orders! That alertness to the trends of the times is an index of every business firm that uses Applied Psychology. But every good psychologist needs to employ "horse sense." Change, just for the sake of change, is not necessarily wise. You older folks will remember that the Packard automobile thus was the most distinctive car in America.

Dear Abby

No one proposed this proposed marriage

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: About a week ago my boy friend and I finally set our wedding date. Nobody was surprised because we had been going together nearly three years.

My mother asked me how he "proposed" to me, and I told her I didn't think he proposed at all. She looked at me like I was crazy, and asked, "YOU didn't propose to HIM, did you?"

Then we got into a big discussion, and I told her that nobody proposed to anybody, we decided a long time ago to be married. My mother insisted there had to be a "proposal." I still can't remember any.

I have since asked my married friends, and they can't remember their "proposals" either.

Can it be that proposals have gone out of style? Please put your answer in the paper. My mother still thinks I'm crazy. And sign me "GETTING MARRIED WITHOUT A PROPOSAL", or SALLY J.

DEAR SALLY: You're not "crazy." I'll bet that nine out of ten couples who have gone together for a long time have no recollection of a "proposal." [If any of you readers can recall the time, place [and words] of YOUR proposal, I'd like to hear from you.]

DEAR ABBY: I do not want to go to my funeral! I have devised the following plan to avoid it:

While my funeral service is being preached at the church, I have instructed the undertaker to take my body to the cemetery and bury it. Should anyone care to look at my grave after the services have been concluded at the church, they may do so.

It is grief enough to lose a loved one without having to follow a closed box in and out of the church, and then slowly to the cemetery. And then have to stand there and watch it lowered into the ground.

Not for me! Some of my family thinks I am nuts. What do you think? I'd like the opinions of others, too.

MRS. M. B. B. GREENWOOD, S. C.

DEAR MRS. B.: I am with those of your family who do NOT think you are "nuts".

DEAR ABBY: Our 12-year-old son is our problem. He refuses to participate in any sport. My husband says his coordination is good and he could do well in sports if he tried. My husband was an outstanding athlete and it kills him to see his only son shy away from it.

Our son is interested in sports as a spectator, however; he begs to go to the games with his father, and he gets his homework done ahead of time so he can watch sports on television.

How can we get him to participate? He's been this way since he was very young.

HIS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: As I see it, the problem is your husband, not your son. In his eagerness to have his son become an outstanding athlete, he's turned the boy off.

Your son, rather than fall and disappoint his father, is protecting himself by refusing to participate.

Perhaps if your husband emphasized the fun and exercise of playing rather than the importance of winning, your son would become a participant instead of an observer. I hope so.

CONFIDENTIAL TO DECATUR DREAMER: Don't tell your husband about your dream. You may give him ideas he never dreamed about.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Couple's Garden Club Elects New Officers

New officers were elected at the meeting of the Mr. and Mrs. Garden Club in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Mitchell.

Chosen were Mrs. Agnes Morgan, president; Bill Ballard, first vice president; L.B. Studebaker, second vice president; Mrs. Ellen Hagerman, secretary; and Mrs. Senie Colby, treasurer.

During the business session, led by Melton Burns, president, Mrs. Nina Spoonmore reported on the progress of the club's spring project.

The program was given by Bill Ballard who told of trip he made through parts of the United States and Canada following World War I, as well as a trip he and his wife made by bus in 1937.

Punch and cake were served during the social period. Next meeting will be Tuesday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hale, 637 N. Nelson.

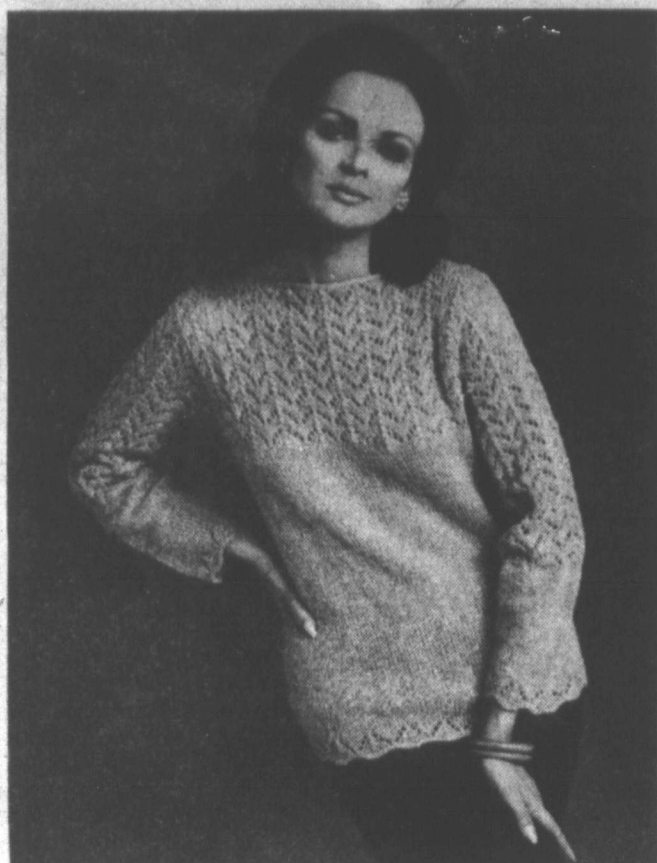

Attending were Messrs. and Mmes. L.B. Studebaker, Bill Ballard, Melton Burns, Bill Morgan, Aubrey Ruff, Lenard Hagerman, Jay Mitchell; and Mmes. Leola Higginbotham, Nina Spoonmore and Senie Colby.

BOAT-NECKED PULLOVER—This boutique-type sweater is made with a simple stockinette stitch, with an unusual open pattern on the yoke sleeves and edging.

Boutique-Style Sweater

By JUDY LOVE

It's open season on sweaters, and here's a winner in every sense of the fashion. This boutique-type sweater is a combination of simple stockinette with an unusual open pattern on the yoke, sleeves and edging.

You can knit it up to size 18, and the results remains a flattering, soft line sweater.

It has a number of custom features, such as a wide, boat neckline and sleeves flare slightly at the wrist, finished with a row of pattern stitch that also completes the bottom edging of the sweater. The bulk of the body, from bottom edging to bustline is a simple knit series of smooth stockinette. The same simple stockinette is repeated from below the elbow to the flare edging of the pattern on the sleeves—right up to the patternst.

You'll finish the neckline, sleeves and bottom edging with a crochet hook, size 0, working a simple sc.

The entire sweater is knit, both stockinette and the pretty pattern, on size 5 needles. The pattern is a multiple of 8 sts plus 1. Directions are clear and easy. You'll need either five or six balls of Bear Brand, Fleisher's or Botany Souffle yarn, depending on the size.

Directions are available from The Pampa Daily News for this pretty, open work sweater, for sizes 12 to 18. Simply send fifty cents to Slitchin' Time, care of The Pampa Daily News, Radio City Station, Box 503, New York, N.Y. 10021. Ask for Slitchin' Time leaflet S338 and don't forget to include your name, address and zip code.

KNIT KNACKS

Dear Judy—If it is convenient, could you send along instructions for washing a crochet tablecloth. It was in our paper some time ago, along with a sweater made with a ribbon stitch, but someone used the paper before I had a chance to cut it out. Gratefully yours, Mrs. H.C.P., Belleville, Ill.

Dear Mrs. P.—You have an excellent memory. Mrs. P. The Judy Love you're referring to was in your paper last August—the washing instructions were for placemats and doilies, but the same instructions are applicable to tablecloths, of course.

NOTICE

Presidents of Pampa women's clubs who have not had their pictures taken for the special edition, "It's a Woman's World," are asked to come to The News office between 4 and 5:30 p.m. Friday to have their pictures taken. This will be the last time pictures for the edition will be taken.

FRIDAY, MARCH 31
Your birthday today: Begins a year of continued, repeated efforts to cash in on what you can produce, what you have developed in the past, with fair to good returns. There are often periods of too much to do and too little time. Emotional experience tends to be dramatic. Today's natives opt for the unusual, may deal in metals, powerful machinery, new equipment by preference.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Excess of any sort is defeated quickly and drastically. Help pick up the pieces as something around you collapses.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Teamwork is the only sure path out of today's predicament. Meet your match in good faith and humor but keep money out of the discussion.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Speed and rash words tempt you. You'll be glad you did a double-take, realized the true story before speaking out.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: You may have to find a delicate balance between family life and career with its demands and compromises. Bring in technical advice where it's useful.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Don't mix love and money. Spend time, money and effort on those you care for, but do business with those

It's Dandy To Be Handy

By MARY SUE MILLER
Hands are among the most appealing attributes, if they are graceful. Could be that more lovelies should give thought to the grace of their hands.

Perhaps you are already hand-conscious. Toss write that their hands often feel awkward, especially when they wear sleeve-date and party clothes. Women seem to be more aware of hand grooming than grace. Both attitudes lead to awkwardness.

When you feel clumsy you are clumsy. You dribble the soup and drop the saucer. The very notion that your hands are ungainly causes them to stiffen further. Tension mounts and your performance grows increasingly inept.

HAIR CONDITIONING
Nothing will cure split ends, except a haircut. But the best way to avoid them in the first place is regular use of a creme rinse or conditioner. A creme rinse will prevent tangles which make it difficult to comb the hair when wet. And the conditioner will help prevent dry, brittle hair.

UNIQUE HOT SALAD--Hot apple salad is a unique and special treat, loaded with flavor. It is excellent for a light lunch or for Sunday supper and great for using up left-over ham. Corn toasties compliment the dish, as well as hot bean soup as the entree.

Hot Salad Perfect For Sunday Supper

Something special to serve for lunch or for Sunday night supper--hot salad, that is pretty to look at and packed with flavor. Unpared red apples lend bright color, crisp texture and the tartness needed to spark the taste of the entire combination--apples, pink cubes of cooked ham, cooked white potatoes cut into cubes, and coarsely chopped hard-cooked eggs.

with piping hot bean soup. Serve corn toasties with the salad and wind up with one of the canned or frozen puddings available in several flavors and packaged cookies. No one will go hungry--everyone will be pleased.

HOT APPLE SALAD
3 tbsps vegetable oil or bacon drippings
2 cups cubed cooked ham
4 coarsely chopped hard-cooked eggs diced

4 hard cooked eggs, coarsely chopped
4 unpared red apples, sliced thin
Heat oil or drippings. Cook ham and potatoes in hot oil over medium heat until very hot but not brown. Stir in eggs and apples. Heat to serving temperature. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

Note: Serve with hot mayonnaise if desired.

Bacon and Eggs
Fruit Cocktail Muffins
Beverage
FRUIT COCKTAIL MUFFINS

A great way to use a pantry-shelf fruit.
2 cups sifted flour
3 tbsps baking powder
1 tsp salt
1/4-cup sugar
1/4-cup butter
1 egg
3/4 cup milk
1 cup well-drained canned fruit cocktail

Topping, see below
In a medium mixing bowl sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. With a pastry blender cut in butter until particles are fine. In a small mixing bowl beat egg slightly; add milk and beat to combine; add to flour mixture with fruit cocktail. Stir only until flour mixture is moistened. Turn into medium muffin-pan cups (1-3 cup capacity) filling 2/3 to 3/4 full. Sprinkle with Topping. Bake in a preheated 425-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean--20 to 25 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 12.

TOPPING: Mix together 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind and 1/4 teaspoon mace.

Tart-Sweet Ham Dish

NEA Food Editor
Ham is a favorite of many families for Easter or other special-occasion dinners with a touch of spring. Fruit makes a colorful and tart-sweet accompaniment to this tasty bit of pork. Especially good are orange-glazed pears filled with tiny mandarin orange segments. When serving, border a handsome baked ham with the pears for an eye treat. The glaze for the fruit is of orange marmalade, pear syrup, honey with lemon and spice and also is used to glaze the ham. The filled canned Bartlett pear halves cook quickly. Serve with scalloped potatoes and asparagus.

ORANGE GLAZED PEARS AND HAM

1 (20-ounce) can Bartlett pear halves
1/4 cup orange marmalade
1/4 cup honey
Juice of 1/2 lemon
Dash of salt
1/4 tsp. ground cloves
1/4 tsp nutmeg
1 (9 1/2-ounce) can mandarin oranges, drained

Drain pears, reserving 1-3 cup syrup. Combine syrup with marmalade, honey, lemon juice, salt, cloves and nutmeg. Fill pears with orange segments. Bake at 325 degrees 15 minutes, basting several times with marmalade glaze. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

BAKED HAM

Bake ham 15 minutes per pound in 325-degree oven. Thirty minutes before serving, remove from oven and discard drippings. Score ham fat in diamonds and stud with whole cloves. Continue baking 30 minutes, brushing several times with orange marmalade glaze.

Pineapple Cakes

2 cups sifted cake flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2-teaspoon salt
1/4-cup butter
1-3 cup sugar
1 egg
1 can (about 8 ounces) sweetened crushed pineapple, undrained

On wax paper sift together the cake flour, baking powder and salt. In a medium mixing bowl cream butter and sugar; beat in egg thoroughly. Add flour mixture and undrained pineapple; stir only enough to moisten dry ingredients. Fill greased medium muffin-pan cups (each about 1-3 cup capacity) about 3/4 full. Bake in a preheated 425-degree oven until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean--15 to 20 minutes. Serve hot with butter. Makes 12.

ORANGE DAFFODIL CAKE--A marbled-angel food cake, covered with orange butter frosting and garnished with orange slices, adds a special spring-time effect to Easter dinner.

Top Easter Dinner With Daffodil Cake

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

If you like Angelfood Cake you may enjoy Orange Daffodil Cake even more. The latter boasts a marbled effect because it alternates white angelfood cake batter with a batter that uses egg yolks along with grated orange rind and a little orange juice.

The following recipe for Orange Daffodil Cake has a delicious Orange Butter Frosting and it's a great addition. You may want to follow our suggestion and serve the cake with fresh orange sections.

ORANGE DAFFODIL CAKE

10 egg whites (1 1/4 cups)
1/2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. cream of tartar
1 1/4 cups sugar
1 1/4 cups sifted cake flour
6 egg yolks
2 tbsps. grated orange rind
Orange Butter Frosting, see below

2 cups orange sections
In large bowl of electric mixer beat egg whites, salt and cream of tartar until whites form soft peaks; gradually beat in sugar; continue to beat if necessary until whites form stiff straight peaks.

Divide beaten egg whites into 2 equal portions. Into half of the egg whites fold in 3/4 cup of the flour.

In a small mixing bowl, without washing beater, beat egg yolks until thickened and lemon color; beat in orange rind and juice. Add beaten yolks, with remaining 1/2 cup flour, to second half of beaten egg whites; fold in gently but thoroughly.

Spoon the yellow and white batters alternately into an ungreased 10-inch angelfood cake pan.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven; on rack below center, until cake is golden brown and springs back when touched lightly--45 minutes; if cake browns too much toward end of baking, place a sheet of foil over it. Cool cake upside down in pan, placing tube over the neck of a tall heavy bottle so cake doesn't touch any surface.

ORANGE BUTTER FROSTING

1/2 cup butter, soft
4 egg yolks
1 tbsps. grated orange rind
1 box (1 pound) confectioners' sugar

In a medium mixing bowl beat together the butter, egg yolks and orange rind until smooth and fluffy. Gradually beat in enough of the confectioners' sugar to make a good spreading consistency.

"Met" Soprano Likes Zucchini Con Pasta

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Elinor Ross is an American-born, American-trained dramatic soprano. Her initial appearances for the Metropolitan Opera were right out of movie scripts, the understudy, so to speak, waiting in the wings steps in for the star and... Her first "sub" role was for Birgit Nilsson in Puccini's "Turandot." Next she stepped in for Regine Crespin in "Tosca." A favorite in Italian opera houses, Elinor Ross started her career in Tampa, Fla., and sang for school assemblies and churches. Although she still enjoys preparing Cuban foods learned in Ybor City (Tampa) for her teen-age son and watches her diet, she loves Italian dishes. One of her favorites is Zucchini con Pasta.

ELINOR ROSS' ZUCCHINI CON PASTA

12 very ripe fresh tomatoes--cup up
6 young zucchini--chopped
1 pound macaroni
8 garlic cloves--mashed
5 tablespoons freshly grated Parmesan cheese
1/2 teaspoon oregano
1 tablespoon olive oil

New Bear Breed

There's a new breed of bear rivaling the traditional Teddy for children's hearts: guitar-strumming, bluegrass-singing grizzlies, starring in the "Country Bear Jamboree" at Walt Disney World in central Florida. The 20 bears in the Pepsi-Cola, Frito-Lay sponsored Jamboree do such paw-stomping favorites as "Blood On The Saddle" and "Mama Don't Whip Little Buford." They owe their down-home growls to "Audio-Animatronics," the Disney patented combination of lifelike sounds and actions in three-dimensional animated figures.

Tracksters At Andrews Meet

Coach Ed Lehnick took the Harvester track team to Andrews today to compete in Friday's 15th annual Mustang Relays. The meet should provide good competition and good times, considering the teams entered in Pampa's division. Lehnick is not taking a full team to Andrews and is entering runners in only six events; the 440 and mile relays, the 100, 220 and 440-yard dashes, and the 880-yard run.

Pampa's spring relay team, consisting of Rick McGuire, Garvin McCarrell, Chuck Reeves and Richard McCampbell, owns a season best time of 42.2 and there is a good chance that the mark will be lowered.

Reeves, McCampbell and McCarrell are also scheduled to compete in the 100-yard dash, with McGuire, McCarrell and McCampbell entered in the 220.

Bobby Owen, Terry Riddle, Dennis Stowers and Larry

Marlar comprise the mile relay team.

Mike Reddell is entered in the 880, and Owen and Marlar will run in the 440.

Other area teams entered in the meet are Borger, Plainview and Hereford. They, along with Pampa, will compete in Division IV.

Odessa Permian, Lubbock High, Midland Lee, Midland, Odessa and Big Spring complete the list of teams entered in Division IV. Odessa Permian is favored to take the team trophy home.

Pampa has the best time of all the sprint relay teams entered. Borger (42.8) and Hereford (43.9) should help make it an interesting race.

Plainview has a season best of 3:21.3 in the mile relay with Pampa (3:23.0), close behind.

WINS OUTDOOR PRIZE

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP) — "My Pal, My Son," a 27-minute 16 mm color film featuring Jerry Chiappetta and his son, Jerry, 10, on a fishing excursion into the Canadian wilderness, won first prize in the 1971 National Travel-Outdoors Film Festival.

The film is available without charge by writing Solano Studios, 4365 North 27th Street, Milwaukee, Wis. 53216.

COUNT ON GUZMAN

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Manager Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals figures Santiago Guzman, 22-year-old native of the Dominican Republic, has a good chance to be one of his starting pitchers this season.

Guzman had a combined 15-7 record last year with St. Petersburg and Little Rock. In the final series against the New York Mets last fall, Guzman struck out 10 batters in eight innings.

AIR FORCE CO-CAPTAINS

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — Center Orderia Mitchell, a junior from Elkhart, Ind., and Gene Ogilvie, a junior defensive tackle from San Jose, Calif., will co-captain the 1972 Air Force football team.

BROTHER WRESTLERS

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Junior Jim Callard, a 150-pounder from Lansing, Mich., and his younger brother Jeff, a 158-pound freshman, are both college wrestlers. Jim is one of the Air Force varsity stars while Jeff is on the University of Oklahoma team.

WISHNICK RETIRES

NEW YORK (AP) — The physical and financial demands of campaigning racing boats on two continents has forced Bill Wishnick to retire from ocean powerboat racing.

Wishnick, however, will still be involved with ocean racing as the offshore vice president of the American Power Boat Association.

He announced his retirement after accepting the Sam Griffith Memorial Trophy which is presented annually by Jas. Hennessy of Cognac, France. Wishnick set a record of 75 world points with five victories and five second place finishes in 1971.

FISHER TO MANAGE

MOUNT VERNON, N.Y. (AP) — Jack Fisher, an 11-year veteran in the major leagues who pitched four years for the New York Mets, will manage the Mount Vernon Generals in the Atlantic Collegiate Baseball League.

Fisher, 32, replaces Jack Lyons who is assistant baseball coach at Fordham under former Yankee Gil McDougald.

ACK ACK IS PRIZE

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Ack Ack, thoroughbred racing's horse of the year in 1971, will be one of the three stallions whose services will be available to the owner whose horse wins the Matchmaker Stakes to be run here later in the year.

Raise A Native and Delta Judge were the other top stallions made available.

Ack Ack, now at Claiborne Farm in Paris, Ky., won 19 of his 27 starts and was out of the money only twice. He earned $636,641 in four years of racing.

Band Game Set Tonight

Tonight is the night of the game between the Pampa Band basketball team and the well-travelled KGNC Four-Flusers of Amarillo.

The Amarillo team has made itself available for benefit games throughout the Panhandle area this spring. Enjoyment, both for the participants and the spectators is promised to be had during the evening's events.

Tickets for the game are 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for children and students. All proceeds from the game are earmarked for the band fund.

Tickets for the tilt are available either from band members or may be purchased at the door.

Bud Allin Set At Greensboro

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — He's freckled and looks frail. He's got a shy, boyish smile and a mop of auburn hair and, while perhaps a face in the crowd to the rest of the country, he's an authentic hero in Greensboro.

Bud Allin, who could play the part of the drugstore delivery boy, belies his appearance.

The former artillery officer who won four decorations in Vietnam is a serious, sober-minded 27-year-old who takes a no-nonsense approach to his business—pro golf.

"Realistically, I don't expect to win again," Allin said today before setting out in defense of his title in the first round of the $200,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament.

"First of all, I'm not really playing that well right now. And, second, how often is it that a player successfully defends? Not often."

Still, the skinny, 135-pounder was one of the gallery favorites in an extremely strong field—including Lee Trevino, Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper and Gary Player—arrayed for this 72 hole chase that ends Sunday on the 7,034 yard, par 71 Sedgefield Country Club course.

Allin, then a rookie, won the hearts of the huge Greensboro galleries when he rallied from an opening 75 and eventually rolled in a 30 foot birdie putt for a playoff victory last season.

He's one of the most popular players in his field. He's pressed for autographs and greeted with calls of "There's Bud Allin," when he appears on the course.

"It's nice, of course, and I enjoy it," he said, but wondered aloud if his victory last year might not have hurt him.

"In my case, people are thinking mine was a kind of a fluke. I don't feel I know everything there is to know, but I do think I can win again."

Allin, however, has been in a slump—he's missed the cut in three of four tournaments—since finishing fourth in the rich Jackie Gleason earlier this year. He has about $17,000 in winnings.

"I'm not playing that well right now, but my attitude is good. It'll come," he said.

NBA Playoffs Continue Tonight

BOSTON (AP) — "It's been a long time coming," Coach Tommy Heinsohn said after the Boston Celtics returned to the National Basketball Association's playoffs for the first time in three years Wednesday night. They did it in true Celtics fashion, calling on a team effort in racehorse style to stampee the Atlanta Hawks, 126-106.

"That's what we've been looking for," Heinsohn said of the Celtics performance in the opener of the NBA first round best-of-seven eastern conference playoffs.

To be sure, it was only an opener and only one victory, but it was a first step and it was taken in the fashion so common here only a few years ago when players Heinsohn, Bill Russell and Bob Cousy directed the Celtics to 11 titles in 13 years.

They accomplished the victory mostly with their patented fast break, spurring in each of the last three quarters to first overtake the fast-starting Hawks and then clinch the 1-0 playoff advantage.

In Western Conference playoff action, the Los Angeles Lakers seek to extend their 1-0 lead at home tonight against the Chicago Bulls, while the Milwaukee Bucks, down 0-1 to the Golden State Warriors following an upset Tuesday, try to tie up their best-of-seven series at Milwaukee.

In the other eastern conference semifinals the New York Knicks travel to Baltimore Friday night to open their series against the Bulls. With Lou Hudson ramming home 17 points, the Hawks led 30-28 at the end of the first quarter.

Then the Celtics came out running, with John Havlicek, Jo Jo White, Dave Cowens and reserve Steve Kuberski leading the pack, and within two minutes it was 40-32 Boston. Kuberski had eight points and as many rebounds in that period.

After the Hawks closed to 62-57 early in the third, Havlicek and White cranked up the Celtics again and Boston raced to an 87-67 advantage in five minutes. Havlicek, who had a game high 32 points and 10 assists, contributed 10 points in that stretch.

And if the game needed clinching, another Celtics spurt, which widened the gap from 12 to 23 points early in the fourth quarter, did the trick.

White backed up Havlicek with 25 points, while Cowens, who paced Boston's 62-46 edge on the backboards with 16 rebounds, added 23 points. Hudson led the Hawks, who have yet to defeat Boston this year, with 29, and Walt Bellamy had 20.

ABA Playoffs Begin Friday

It took the Virginia Squires their entire 84-game schedule to clinch second place in the American Basketball Association's East Division.

"Hopefully, we have found the right toughness to go into the playoffs with," Virginia Coach Al Bianchi said after his team defeated Memphis 123-99 Wednesday night.

"We finally started playing defense, plus we had movement on offense. It came at a most proper time since we had to have this one to finish second," he said.

The Squires were an up-and-down club during the season, once leading New York by 8 1/2 games, but slipping to just a half-game lead going into the Memphis contest.

The Squires suffered the loss of Charlie Scott to Phoenix of the National Basketball Association, but still held on to their position as the ABA season came to an end. Scott was the highest scoring in the ABA at the time of his departure.

Virginia led at halftime 66-54 but rolled up a heavy lead in the third quarter, facing no challenge from the Pros.

Bernie Williams paced the Squires with 32 points and teammate Julius Erving scored 24. Randy Denton had 24 for Memphis.

In other ABA games, Indiana topped Pittsburgh 128-113. Kentucky topped the Floridians 117-109 and Utah beat Denver 112-109.

In the NBA's East Division best-of-seven semifinals Boston defeated Atlanta 126-108 for a 1-0 lead.

The ABA playoffs begin Friday night with Virginia hosting the Floridians in the East and Denver playing at Indiana in the West.

Baylor Holds 1st Scrimmage

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Baylor's first offensive unit rolled up 289 yards and four touchdowns in a scrimmage Wednesday that wound up the first half of spring training.

Coach Grant Teaff's No. 1 offensive unit ran 83 yards and scored one TD against the No. 1 defensive unit for one quarter.

Teaff said the defense should be ahead at this stage of training, "but I am not sure that they are as far ahead as they should be."

Teaff used three quarterbacks in the workout with Randy Cavender being complimented for the top job "for he had good poise, threw well and ran well."

"Neal Jeffrey did not throw quite as well today, but his total execution was good," he added.

BOXER'S DREAM FADES Jimmy Elder Is Dying

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — Fourteen times he crawled through the ropes in pursuit of the heavyweight championship of the world. But now that dream is fading. Barring a miracle, Jimmy Elder is dying.

The hand that sent 10 professional opponents crashing to the canvas cannot lift a fork.

In a memorable bout the youthful son of an oilfield roughneck faced and defeated three-time champion Phil Paris, now a professional fighter himself.

After high school Elder entered the service but boxing was in his blood. Soon he was a member of the Navy boxing team and before the end of his first year he ruled as all-Navy and all-Serve heavyweight king, a title he held until his discharge two years later.

Elder was gaining experience and next came the National AAU where he won the heavyweight title in 1970 and carried the banner of the United States to victories over the champions of the Soviet Union, Germany, Canada and Italy without a loss. His record showed 50 victories in 57 amateur bouts.

With the confidence he had developed as an amateur, Elder made his way to New York City, traditional starting point of ring careers. Immediately the new comer began to make a place for himself. "He was a very introverted, quiet boy," says his former manager, Jimmy Iselin. "He was a real country boy from Texas and I didn't get to know him too well while I managed him. But when he got into a ring in the gym, he seemed to unleash all the fury stored up."

Elder's short, two-year career showed a 12-1-1 record. The only loss came on a split decision to Charles (Emperor) Harris in a brutal vicious bout in July of 1970. Elder suffered a broken hand in the second round but would not let the fight be stopped. In March of 1971, he favored Harris again and sent him sprawling for the 10 count in the sixth round.

The only other blemish on the record was a technical draw which was ruled after Elder was butted in a fight at Omaha. There were two decisions and the rest were knockouts.

Jimmy's last fight was May 26, 1971 against Kenyatta Hockenhill, a giant of a heavyweight. The Texan disposed of Hockenhill in only four rounds. It took several minutes for attendants to revive Hockenhill but he wasn't the only fighter hurt that night. For the second time, Elder had broken his hand.

It was time to look ahead and time to push toward the top of the heap. Elder's contract was sold to Abe Margolis for $13,000. "Margolis told us Jim would fight six times this year and that if he won all six the last one would be against Joe Frazier for the title," says Sharron Elder, Jimmy's wife who now works as a legal secretary in Odessa.

The dream was within reach. Just five steps remained until he would have the chance to fulfill his life's ambition. The Elders moved into the City from upstate New York and Jimmy began serious training at Bobby Gleason's Gymnasium.

But there were these headaches. Ever so slight but more and more frequent and each seemed more painful than the last. Finally, in late October, Sharron convinced Jim that he should see a doctor after he had awakened one morning, his head throbbing with pain and nausea keeping him bedfast.

The diagnosis was immediate and on Nov. 4, 1971, brain surgery revealed a malignant tumor. The prognosis... terminal... five to six months.

By Christmas, Jim had responded to radiation therapy enough to fly home to Texas but after a few days with his family his condition worsened and Sharron took him to Big Spring to the sprawling Veterans Administration Hospital.

They gave Jimmy a room on the corner of the east wing of the building at the end of a fastidiously clean hallway with a floor that sparkled in the winter sunlight. His fellow patients were all older veterans of America's wars, now come to fight their personal Armageddon.

Every other day Sharron sweep for the Air Force Wednesday night with a victory in the men's three-meter diving. It was his first AAU title.

Don Dunnfield of the Santa Clara, Calif., Swimming Club was second and veteran Jimmy Henry of Dallas was third.

The top 12 finishers in the men's three-meter diving qualify for the Olympics trial this August in Chicago.

King Captures 1-Meter Title

DALLAS (AP) — Air Force Capt. Micki King, the 27-year-old veteran America's younger diving darlings call "Mamma Max" because of her age, served notice Wednesday night at the 1972 National AAU Indoor Diving Championship that she is rounding into Olympic form.

Miss King, who suffered the heartbreak of a fourth place finish in the 1968 Olympics at Mexico City when she broke her arm in the three-meter diving, overcame two of her younger rivals Wednesday night to capture the one-meter title—her first since 1967.

All total, Miss King, who budgets non-appropriated funds for the Air Force in Los Angeles when she is not diving, has now won nine AAU titles in her 17-year career.

"You might say I am a late bloomer," said Miss King. "The girls are doing dives at 15 that I did not try until I was 20."

Miss King came from behind to unseat defending champion 21-year-old Cynthia Potter of Houston, who was first after the preliminary round.

The one-meter event is not on the schedule for the summer Olympics this August in Munich, Germany, but Miss King said it is an advantage for Americans to compete in the event.

"The Europeans do not do it (the one-meter dive) and I think it gives our divers an edge," said Miss King.

"It is a great warmup event and helps us get ready for the three-meter and platform dives."

Lt. Phil Boggs of Colorado Springs, Colo., made it a began to make a place for himself.

"He was a very introverted, quiet boy," says his former manager, Jimmy Iselin. "He was a real country boy from Texas and I didn't get to know him too well while I managed him. But when he got into a ring in the gym, he seemed to unleash all the fury stored up."

Every other day Sharron drives from Odessa to be by his side and on days when she is not there, other members of the family drive the 100 or so miles from Levelland.

There is no false hope. They speak in matter-of-fact voices and don't try to grasp at straws.

"Jim knows he is dying," says Sharron.

A few days ago, Jimmy told a reporter. "I loved fighting. The doctors don't blame boxing for what happened to me and neither do I. The night Ali fought Frazier I fought too, and I said, 'Someday, it's going to be me.' I wish I could get back to New York one more time but I don't think I will."

Jimmy can't see the letter sent by a priest he once met at Joe Frazier's training camp. "You're in training now for your future life with the Lord," wrote the Father.

"Get well, I'm sorry you're sick. I'm nine years old, reads another.

One man, out of work, sent a five-dollar bill.

Another fan sent Jimmy his Saint Christopher's medal and there are cassettes for the tape recorder from others. Get well cards from hometown folks and fans alike fill a drawer next to his bed.

"He is such a clean young man, devoted to his family and strong in his faith. He's so cooperative and he never complains," says the nurse.

There are phone calls from the people in the boxing world back East. Emperor Harris has called twice, and former managers and trainers have voiced their concern.

NHL Roundup

By The Associated Press

Phil Esposito and Bobby Orr, the National Hockey League's leading scorers are hurting, but their coach, Tom Johnson of Boston, doesn't appear too concerned even though the NHL playoffs begin next week.

Esposito, who injured his right knee last weekend in a game against Montreal, reinjured it Wednesday night against Toronto in his first shift on the ice.

Orr, injured Tuesday night in a collision with Detroit's Larry Johnston, took only one turn on the ice in Boston's 4-1 setback to Toronto.

Esposito remained in the game long enough to score his 66th goal of the season—tops in the league—at the 18-second mark of the second period, but did not play thereafter.

An injury to either player could seriously damage Boston's playoff hopes. With them, the Bruins, who have clinched their second straight, East Division title and are the league's highest scoring team, would be the favorites in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Radio And Television

NEW YORK (AP) — Medical science has made it possible for most people to be born and to die without needless pain. Now science and medicine are trying to find ways so we can live without it. That was the message of NBC's excellent documentary Tuesday night, "Pain: Where Does It Hurt?"

The program, probing an area previously untouched by television, showed the operation of the unique "pain clinic" of the University of Washington in Seattle. It recorded conversations with physicians, psychiatrists, psychologists, therapists and patients. The result was an engrossing exposition of techniques being used to help chronic sufferers.

Pain, it was explained, may be organic or psychological, but one doctor said, "Psychological pain can hurt as much as cancer or broken bones." Another noted that "it is impossible to judge how much other people hurt"—but the researchers are trying to find out.

Efforts to relieve pain take many forms including acupuncture, hypnosis, exercise, psychiatric treatment, surgery and, of course, medication. Many of these were explored on the program.

It was beautifully organized, clear and—above all—helpful. It is a program that would bear repeating.

Earlier NBC presented a well-intentioned sugar-coated editorial on ecology and conservation. Called "Arthur Godfrey's Portable Electric Medicine Show," an assortment of talented performers—Ken Berry, Jack Cassidy, Carol Lawrence and Arte Johnson among them—were given unimpressive material through which to convey the message.

Burt Reynolds, taking over "The Tonight Show" on Johnny Carson's regular Monday night off, attracted the largest audience of any guest host in the history of the program. According to an overnight Nielsen survey in metropolitan New York, the show had twice the audience of its closest competitor, the CBS movie.

Reynolds, of course, is currently the center-fold muscle man of Cosmopolitan—and women outnumber the males in "The Tonight Show" audience.

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — Comedian Charlie Chaplin was resting at a small hotel here before going to New York for a series of appearances early in April.

The silent film star, who will be 83 next month, flew in from London late Monday night accompanied by his wife Oona. He planned to do some sight-seeing later in the week.

OREGON, Wis. (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie says he's not bragging about his birthday. "When you get to be my age, it's nothing to cheer about," Muskie, 58, said at a birthday party thrown by his aides Tuesday.

The Senator from Maine was here campaigning for Wisconsin's April 4 Democratic presidential primary. He said he had forgotten about the birthday until his aides mentioned it.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Edward G. Robinson's son will be permitted to contest his mother's will even though he was four months past the deadline after the will was entered in probate.

Superior Court Judge Norman Dowds ruled Tuesday that Edward G. Robinson Jr., 38, was mentally incompetent and was undergoing psychiatric treatment after his mother's death and up to the deadline.

The younger Robinson was left only a tea set, a baby chair and a painting of himself as a baby in the will admitted to probate last July.

Gladys Lloyd Robinson, 75, former wife of the actor, died last June 6. Her will said her son was cut out of her $756,000 estate "because of his unbearable misconduct towards me, which has caused me great mental anguish."

Her son said relatives had "poisoned" her mind against him.

The bulk of the estate was left in trusts to two granddaughters and a great-granddaughter.

JUDAS

For Jesus, the most bitter experience of all must have been to see a friend and follower become a plotting deceiver. Jesus chose Judas as one of the Twelve for his leadership qualities and good sense in money and business affairs. Yet his growth was stunted, his vision distorted. Judas yearned for an earthly kingdom that had power, influence and popular acclaim. Instead he found a declining audience and hostile criticism of the Master.

Grasping the Good Friday mood that would bring Jesus a crown of thorns instead of an imperial throne, Judas sold out for thirty pieces of silver. The Gospel writers add that Judas tried to call off the deed when he realized the full impact of what he had done. The priests rebuffed him and proceeded to the imprisonment and trial. In the end, Judas threw the silver into the Temple area and hanged himself.
