Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.
Hank offers some startling data about college graduates vs. skilled craftsmen! Study them with care. For they may explain why labor unions are growing conservative while many college students are so liberal they laud Castro.

CASE S-558 Hank J., aged 37, is a contractor.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "those young fellows with practical education seem to have the advantage nowadays, don't they?"

"For example, our Chicago Builder's Association made a striking comparison of the hourly income of Liberal Arts College graduates versus carpenters and even unskilled laborers.

"It assumed that 4 years at the university was the equivalent of a tradesman's apprenticeship.

"Now," notice the comparative hourly earning scales in 1971, as printed in our Chicago TODAY:

Laborer—$7.12 per hour
Carpenter—8.65 per hour
Crane Oprtr.—9.57 per hour
Cement mason—9.71 per hour
Liberal Arts Grad—4.00 per hour
Acc. grad.—5.00 per hour

"Dr. Crane, the men with trained hands are now in the saddle as regards earning power.

"Is it any wonder college students have lost much of their former motivation?"

"Do any of you readers think the laborers of Russia or Red China or even Cuba can compare so favorably with college graduates?"

The above figures for Liberal Arts graduates were based on 2,000 hours of work per year.

That's a 40-hour week.

Nixon Plans To Deliver Election-Year Message

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon plans to deliver his election-year State of the Union message to Congress on Jan. 20, and the Democratic majority is at work on a televised assessment of its own, to be delivered a day or two later.

The White House has advised Senate Republicans of the date but has not yet sent word as to whether the President will speak at midday or will make the speech in the evening on prime television time.

The expectation on Capitol Hill is that the Nixon message will offer no dramatic new proposals, but will concentrate upon urging a Democratic Congress to act on what he already has offered.

One Republican legislative tactician said Nixon won't get anything new out of Congress anyway. He said a Congress controlled by the Democratic party that will be challenging Nixon for the White House in 1972 will be in no mood to deal with new administration proposals.

But there is plenty of leftover business on the domestic agenda already presented by the President, with welfare reform, health care and insurance, and federal revenue sharing with the states and cities topping the pending list.

Maryland State To Celebrate Independence Day Next Month

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Stubborn Maryland will once again celebrate Independence Day next month as it has persisted in doing since 1784.

July 4th may be all right for most, but Maryland history buffs insist that the end of the Revolutionary War, not the beginning, marked U.S. independence from Britain.

The end came on Jan. 14, 1784, in the Maryland State House when the Continental Congress ratified the Treaty of Paris to end the war.

Although Cornwallis had surrendered to George Washington in 1781, British troops occupied several U.S. towns until 1784.

"It's one thing to want a divorce and quite another to achieve it," Gilbert Crandall of the state tourism division says in his annual argument to support Jan. 14 as the real birthday of the United States.

The Treaty of Paris arrived in Annapolis some days prior to Jan. 14, 1784, but Thomas Jefferson, chairman of the ratification committee, could not produce a quorum for a vote.

On Jan. 13, two delegates from Connecticut reached Annapolis. The following day, a delegate from South Carolina finally fought through driving snow to take his seat in the old Senate chamber.

With a quorum present, the Skilled craftsmen have wisdom in contrast to the theoretical (braintester) education of the Liberal Arts graduates.

And those skilled craftsmen are usually possessed of a higher I.Q. than many high school or college grads who are pushed along on the basis of chronological age, regardless of whether they can read or write!

And I'm not joking! For many high school diploma-holders are practically illiterate!

They can't even read the instructions on our trade and achievement tests for carpenters, cement masons et al.

There has been a widespread cry against the construction trades for not opening their membership more widely.

Alas, many of those who demand membership still can't read simple instructions or even tell time!

It is now imperative that we begin to stress achievement and skill, instead of color, race or religion.

The only type of bias that should be popular in America is that against stupidity, shiftlessness and dishonesty!

But many ethnic groups now carry chips on their shoulders and try to demand the frosting on the cake when they are unreliable, lazy and dishonest.

Good workers will always be in demand so let's stress merit, whether in the ghettos or the ritzy suburbs!

(Always write to Dr. Crane, Hopkins Bldg. Mellot, Indiana, 47958 enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien has speculated that Nixon may indeed post new tax proposals in 1972, suggesting the President may recommend a value-added tax, a form of national sales tax.

There has been speculation such a proposal might be advanced as a means of financing massive new federal aid to schools to ease the burden of local property taxes.

It could be an attractive offering in a campaign year, although the chances of approval in a Democratic Congress would be slim. But the administration might try to translate inaction on such a proposal into an issue with harried taxpayers during the campaign.

One certain Nixon offering will be legislation to confirm his devaluation of the dollar by raising the price of gold from $35 to $38 an ounce. Democratic leaders have pledged to seek prompt approval.

An annual assessment of the State of the Union by the party out of White House power has become a fixture at the opening of Congress.

The State of the Union message, on a Monday, will be broadcast live by the major television and radio networks.

treaty negotiated by John Jay, Benjamin Franklin and John Adams, was quickly ratified and the United States became an independent sovereign power.

As it has for years, a 13-star flag will fly over the Maryland State House Jan. 14 and the Treaty of Paris will again be on display in the rotunda, a few steps from where it was ratified.

And a group dressed in the scarlet and blue regimental uniforms of the "Maryland Line," the state's Revolutionary War unit responsible for Maryland's nickname as the "Old State," will perform close order drill while a fife and drum corps plays "Maryland, My Maryland."

Then Maryland will host a dinner of authentic Revolutionary War cuisine for delegates from the other 12 original colonies and toast that day 188 years ago when British troops withdrew from American soil.

CIVILIAN DISPATCHERS, DALLAS (AP) — Ever since the police radio was put into use there have been policemen to operate them, but now the Dallas police department is changing that. The department will recruit civilian men and women to be dispatchers, possibly as early as the middle of next year.

Television And Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — Since the demise of "Batman," network television has had few jolly criminals or merry masters of disguise. Thus Tuesday night's "Hawaii Five-O" on CBS was something of a surprise. And it certainly was an acting romp for guest star Hume Cronyn.

This is usually a tense, hardfisted action series in which unsmiling top cop Steve McGarrett cleverly brings the bad guys to book. This week however, a jaunty senior citizen outwitted Steve and his men at every turn except, of course, the last one.

Cronyn played a cool schemer who slipped out of prison and became engaged in a complicated plan that involved hoodwinking two sets of accomplices in his effort to make off with $4 million.

Cronyn changed disguises—wigs, beards and clothes, including women's—about every 15 minutes and was as handy with mechanical devices as Barney, the electronics wizard of "Mission: Impossible."

The dialogue was sprightly.

the action fast. In fact the only trouble with all the fun was that it didn't quite fit the sober frame of "Hawaii-Five-O."

"Cannon," which followed, also had an adversary who called all the turns except the last one. In this case it was a Cuban refugee trying to make off with a briefcase of free-Cuba funds contributed by hard-pressed fellow nationals.

Cannon and McGarrett caught their men in essentially the same way. McGarrett figured his man would call a messenger service to deliver an important package, so he checked messenger services. Cannon deduced that his would rent a certain make of automobile and waited for his man at the rental agency. Both were right so, twice again, crime didn't pay.

Tuesday night seems largely devoted to action shows, and so far this season, its audiences have not been kind to Glen Campbell, whose variety show was moved out of a more comfortable Sunday night spot.

This week, the program's emphasis was on sentiment as Glen and his guests celebrated the holiday season by putting their families in front of the cameras. Pat Boone, wife and four daughters were present for some singing. Dom de Luise, and his family were there, with Dom handling a couple of weak but good-humored sketches. Glen's wife and children were front and center.

It was not particularly exciting but the music was sweet and the kids cute so it was a pleasant way to relax after dinner.

Dear Abby

Non-Jews welcome in most synagogues

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Can you tell me why non-Jews are not allowed to visit Jewish synagogues? Don't tell me this is not true because I was personally turned away. A GENTILE

DEAR GENTILE: According to Rabbi Bernard S. Raskin, Temple of Aaron, St. Paul, Minn., never is anyone asked upon entering a synagogue whether he is Jewish. During the High Holy Days, [three days a year] all synagogues are crowded with congregation members and there are no extra seats available. In this kind of situation, as in an overcrowded theater, concert hall, etc., where there is simply no room, understanding and cooperation is expected.

Outside of these rare instances, all branches of Judaism cordially welcome non-Jewish visitors.

DEAR ABBY: My son is 15 and he thinks he is in love. The person he is in love with is two years younger than I am, and I am 34.

Would you put a stop to this romance, or would you let it go? My son said if I tried to put a stop to it, I might just as well forget him as a son.

I could press charges against the woman, but she has had her share of problems, and I don't want to put her thru any more. She left a very good husband for my son, and all I think she must be crazy to want a 15-year-old kid, she does treat him awfully good.

If you have any advice for me, please hurry it. NERVOUS IN LITTLE ROCK

DEAR NERVOUS: Unless you want to press charges against the woman, there is nothing you can do.

DEAR ABBY: A letter in your column signed "BUGGED" about the guests not eating, but taking the refreshments home prompts this letter.

Is it considered proper to take refreshments home? I'm sick of preparing [and buying] goodies for guests who ask if they can take some home to their husbands and children. It happens at parties and showers. It even happened at my wedding. Even tho we ordered the cake for 75 to 100 extra people, there wasn't even a piece left for me to taste!

How can this piggish practice of taking refreshments home from parties be brought to an end? ALSO BUGGED

DEAR ALSO: It probably can't. Some hostesses insist that their guests take home the leftover goodies. Not all are motivated by generosity, they just don't want the tempting stuff around.

CONFIDENTIAL TO F. D. J.: Beware of statistics! They can make a case for almost any point one wants to prove—depending upon a variety of factors. For instance: Statistics showed that Switzerland ranked Number One in the highest increase of unemployed over the last year.

Those statistics would indicate that the glorious little country which so many regard as the ideal place to live has suffered a tremendous economic blow. THE FACT IS: In 1970 there were 24 jobless men in Switzerland, and in 1971 the unemployment figure rose to a grand total of 51! Ha!

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Your Horoscope

By Jeanne Dixon

FRIDAY DEC. 31
Your birthday today. The impact now of results of many years' habits good, bad, or mixed tends to produce a major challenge—adventure in learning to live with an emerging, much more expressive inner self. Today's natives place great value on complete memory, at times concentrated on impressions, forms, shapes and proportions rather than words.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Year-end celebrations are almost an anticlimax, have a silly-season flavor. Where you can take yourself away from the crowd and do something intelligent.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Give serious thought to your way of life, habits, prospects. Celebrate a desire for real constructive change by making a sensible evening of it.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: You've got so many explanations to make you may as well skip them all and just have some fun.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: No great purpose is served by year-end celebrations—just go along for the ride.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: If you will maintain a good appearance and individual dignity, all the other helpful factors fall into place.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Finally, some of the petty tag ends of last week's movements can be cleared out. Take matters gracefully in stride.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: The challenge is to know when and where to stop, rather than take for granted other corrections. And, of course, some necessary actions are postponed.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Expect to endure a bit of personal responsibility which doesn't permit a full holiday. Carry on so you can be proud of your self-discipline.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Common sense remains a prime quality—live your share now as you prepare for a fresh beginning.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Your plans come to test—you have lots of company, wisdom to gain from the exercise of prudence and moderation.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: In the midst of social activity and shared experience, a sudden thought occurs which cannot be precisely expressed.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Among the people on the scene today are many strangers. And in addition, an odd streak shows up suddenly in those you know well.

Reality Of War Comes To Ayub

Editor's Note—Two weeks ago today U.S. newspapers printed an Associated Press picture of an Indian boy who lost an arm in war near the East Pakistan border. The picture epitomized the fate of innocent persons amid the fighting, and drew many inquiries about the boy. Here is a report from photographer Horst Paas and writer Santosh Basak of The Associated Press.

BONGAON, India (AP)—From his wooden hospital bed, 9-year-old Ayub watches the soldiers returning from the war. The soldiers laugh, talk and are cheered by the happy people on the roadside. For the soldiers the war is over.

For Ayub the war will last a lifetime. A razor-edged splinter of an artillery shell sliced off his right arm.

They had no electricity, never owned a book. Even today Ayub does not know what toys are. His village had no school. Ayub had not learned to read or write. He had never left the village and the paddyfield around it.

Almost every day he accompanied his mother to the fields. Mrs. Khatun said, "but with one arm... how can he help me now?" Ayub pushed back tears as he told what happened when he lost his arm.

"I was in the house with my mother when suddenly there were many shellings," he said in Bengali. "I cried when there was a very big noise very near us. My mother held my hand and we were running."

Dr. Dilip Mukherjee, 26, who is treating Ayub, reports the boy still suffers from loss of blood.

Can anyone help Ayub and those like him who became innocent victims in the war? Doctors at the hospital say that the Christian Agency for Social Action, CASA for short, is active in the field. Its funds come from two New York-based agencies, Church World Service at 475 Riverside Drive and Lutheran World Relief at 315 Park Avenue South.

The Season For Elegance

EMBROIDERY adds a touch of luxury to this season. Natural black ranch diamond mink coat (left) is accented with cascading woolen embroidery. Gray American Broadtail coat, trimmed with fox (center) is ablaze with woolen embroidery. The princess style is ideal for both day and evening. Red woolen all-over embroidery adds an exciting dimension to the bravo-stirring evening suit (right) in black American Broadtail. The bolero jacket stops short of the long skirt. These designs are by Oliver Gintel.

Kathy Kramer Is Honored

SKELLYTOWN (Spl.)—Miss Kathy Kramer, bride elect of Randall Curtis, was honored recently with a bridal shower in the Fellowship Hall of the Skellytown Community Church.

Hostesses were Meses Robert Bailey, Agnes Hall, Clay Dykes, Norvel Huckins, Bevy Harris, C.L. Helbert, A. B. Thomason, Herman Mayfield, Clifford Coleman, Claude Medley and Amos Cook.

Presiding at the guest register was Mrs. Robert Bailey.

Miss Kramer was presented a "Kitchen Gadget" corsage. Miss Joyce Pipes assisted the honoree by recording the gifts in the

Oranges Best

ORANGES ARE TOPS IN CITRUS FRUITS. Oranges top the list in popularity of all citrus fruits in U.S. households, report Extension foods and nutrition specialists at Texas A&M University. According to a nationwide consumer survey conducted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, none out of 10 homemakers reported using fresh oranges and orange juices in a one-year period. Seven out of 10 used fresh grapefruit and lemons during the same period.

Homemakers interviewed in the survey indicated that they thought oranges were the best of the citrus fruits for health, taste and family appeal. They considered grapefruits as good for health, low in calories and high in Vitamin C, and lemons as good for flavoring.

Sanders Tops All-Pros Again

By IRA BERKOW

NEW YORK—(NEA)—For the second straight year, Charlie Sanders of the Detroit Lions is the top vote-getter on the NEA All-Pro team as selected by the team captains and player representatives on the 26 National Football League teams.

Sanders, the 6-4, 225-pound tight end, has provided substantial headaches for opponents in his four-year career. But the feelings have been mutual. Sanders has had several concussions this season and several more times was knocked unconscious. He spends so much time being carried from the field that the Sealy Co. may begin making Posturepedic stretchers for him. But five minutes later, he returns to action.

He dives for passes. He burrows for loose balls. He hangs into defenders and walls with equal abandon. On one running play this season, he put a block on Aaron Brown that sent Brown to the sidelines for the rest of that game and for the game after. "The most savage block I've ever had," said Brown.

Of the 23 positions, the National Conference placed 12 players to the AFC's 11, in this the second year that the two leagues have had a joint All-Star team.

Minnesota led all teams with four selections. Two of them came from the so-called Purple People Eaters, the defensive front four: end Carl Eller and tackle Alan Page. Safety Paul Krause and offensive tackle Ron Yary are the other two Vikings.

Another top vote-getter was Bob Griese, Miami quarterback. Griese, who was second last year to John Brodie, beat out a surprise newcomer to pro football star status, Roger Staubach of Dallas.

This year's All-Pro running backs are a combination of the old and the new. Knight round out the first-team offense.

Cleveland's Leroy Kelly, pro star for several years, gained one backfield spot. His running mate is Green Bay's John Brockington, who gained over 1,000 yards in this his first pro season.

Another long-time pro star, Jim Otto of Oakland, is this season's No. 1 center. Bill Curry of Baltimore was a close second.

Two neo-acrobats are the wide receivers. They are Paul Warfield of Miami and Otis Taylor of Kansas City.

Bob Brown, Oakland San Francisco placed two men on the defensive team. Green Bay guard, Tom Mack, Los Angeles guard, corner linebacker Dave Wilcox and Washington kicker Curt Knox as did Dallas, tackle-

Bob Lilly and halfback Mel Renfro.

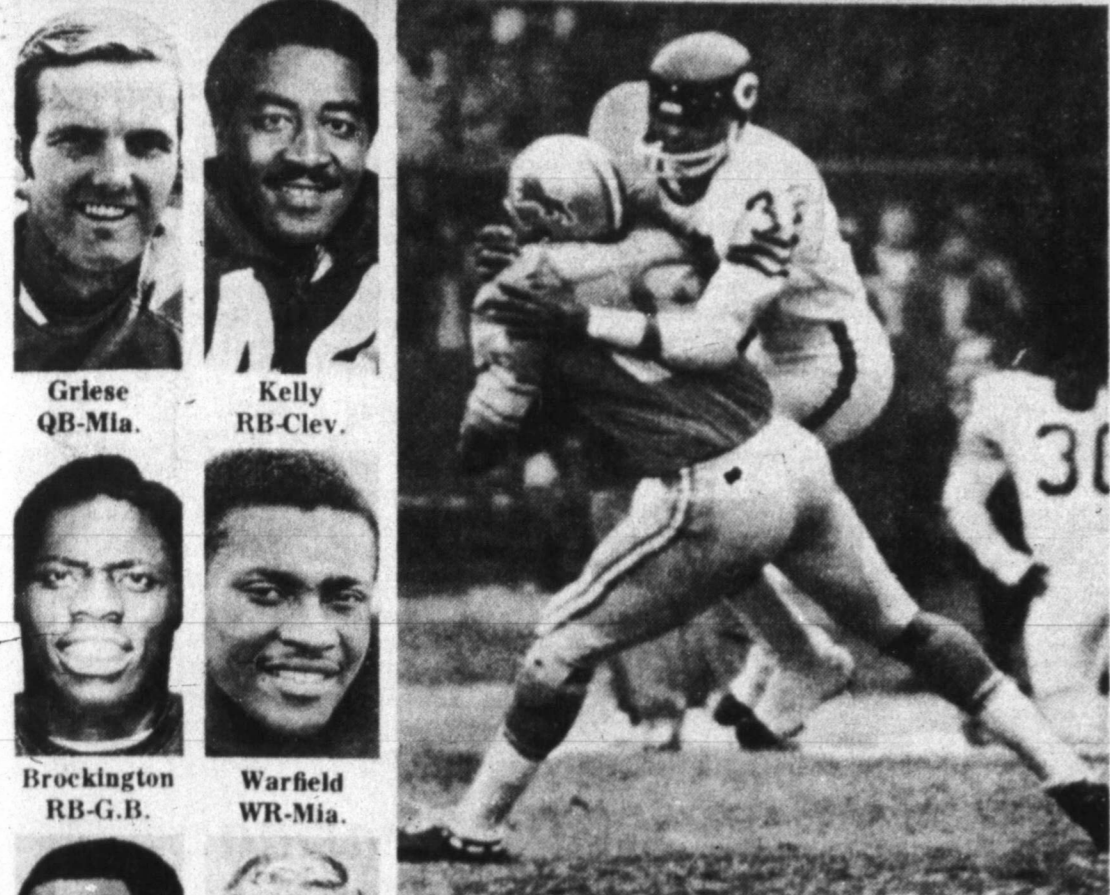

Atlanta's standout end, Claude Humphrey, rounds out the defensive team.

The NEA All-Players All-Pro team, selected with the cooperation of the NFL Players Association, will be honored at the annual presentation ceremonies in CBS Television City, Hollywood, on Thursday, Jan. 20.

The players will receive individual statuettes, sculpted by NEA editorial cartoonist Bill Crawford, to honor their selection to the all-pro team and will also be presented with engraved Bulova watches.

CHARLIE SANDERS, the Detroit Lions' premier tight end, getting crunched by the Chicago Bears' Charlie Ford (32), above, and slammed to the ground by Ron Smith (48) and Dick Butkus (51), below, spends a lot of time in a semidaze. But his rugged play has made him the leading vote-getter on the NEA All-Pro team for the second straight year.

Controversial Call

By BERT ROSENTHAL, Associated Press Sports Writer

Illinois' Fighting Illini knocked Florida from the ranks of the unbeaten and virtually kayoed the Gators' Tony Miller in the process. The battling Illini won the Gator Bowl Basketball Tournament championship Wednesday night with a hard-earned 76-75 decision over Florida, leaving Miller sprawled on the floor at the finish.

Miller, named the tournament's most valuable player and the game's top scorer with 31 points, was set up to take the final shot in hopes of pulling out Florida's seventh straight victory.

As he fired the ball toward the hoop, he was slammed to the court by two Illinois players. And to add insult to injury—Miller suffered a broken ring finger on his right hand during the fall—the officials ruled that he didn't get the shot off before the buzzer and he was not awarded any free throws.

"I knew I was fouled," said Miller, "but I have no way of knowing whether I got the shot off before the buzzer. There was so much noise I couldn't hear it."

Neither Florida Coach Tommy Bartlett nor Illinois Coach Harve Schmidt would comment on the controversial play.

While Florida was suffering its first setback, top-ranked, unbeaten UCLA rolled to its seventh blasting Texas 115-

65 in the first round of the Bruin Classic. It was the seventh game the Bruins have exceeded the 100-point mark.

Ohio State, the nation's No. 6 team, also posted a first-round victory in the Bruin Classic, crushing Arizona 90-47 as Allan Hornyak led the way with 27 points, 24 in the first half.

Fourth-ranked North Carolina, seeking its third championship in 10 days, beat St. Joseph's, Pa. 93-77 in the opening round of the Sugar Bowl Tournament. The Tarheels, led by Dennis Wuycik's 21 points, face Bradley tonight for the title. The Braves whipped Purdue 72-64 in the tourney's opening game.

North Carolina won the Big Four Tournament at Greensboro, N.C. and a tourney in Spain before playing in the Sugar Bowl Classic.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O TEXAS
 TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

The Economic Chain

Many Americans undoubtedly were cheered this week to hear that Washington office holders say how many jobs would be created by dollar devaluation. Director Donald Rumsfeld of the price-fixing Cost of Living Council estimated the number at a half-million to 667,000. That's nothing to be sneered at, if true. The stated logic behind the forecast is that the dollar devaluation has the tendency to lower prices of American goods in the overseas markets.

Before joining in any celebration, however, we think it is advisable to consider four other factors.

First, the dollar-gold ratio is only one of the elements that go to make up the final price of American goods. Another is the cost of production, including labor costs. It is possible that labor costs alone, because of the power of the union, can push prices on exported goods beyond the willingness of Europeans and Japanese to pay. A lower price doesn't mean much if it is still too high to move the goods.

Second, prospering Europeans and Japanese may choose to reduce their prices in order to meet the new American competition.

Third, with free-market gold selling at $43 an ounce it will take some persuasion to show that a government price of $38 will be effective. Inasmuch as the United States no longer has any reserve at Fort Knox, the theoretical price of $38 will not provide any additional means for redeeming paper dollars held by foreigners. In this respect the United States is much like the Kansas farmer who started to celebrate when wheat hit $2 a bushel, momentarily he had forgotten crops had been bad, and he didn't have any wheat to sell.

Fourth, the U.S. government may be authorizing new Federal Reserve dollars so fast as to increase prices at home and abroad, in spite of the devaluation. If so, the market for American products will continue to shrink.

By this dash of cold realism in the face of Mr. Rumsfeld's cheery note from Washington, we do not mean to say that the increase in the price of gold is a bad step. To the contrary, if accompanied by spending restraint in Congress and by union moderation, it could be a helpful step. That is to say, we have one link in the economic chain; it could be useful when and if we get the other two.

Do you think the union will let up in its campaign to raise production costs?

Do you think Congress will give up the pleasure of spending?

Unless you can answer "yes" to those two questions, you had better keep the salt handy when you read the glowing prophecies from Washington.

Aid To Marxists

A reader sent in a clipping from the November 1971 issue of Atlas magazine. It is headed "U.S. Planes For Chile." It states:

"With the blessing of the U.S. government, the Boeing Aircraft Co. has agreed to build a number of B-74 Superliners for Chile. The Allende regime is obtaining a loan from five U.S. banks to pay for the planes. As in the case of earlier Lockheed transactions with the banks, the U.S. government will guarantee the loan. This is in line with Washington's determination to maintain cordial relations with Allende's Marxist administration. Meanwhile, the DuPont Co. has closed a deal with Poland to build a plant in that country to manufacture Corfam, the fabulous new plastic that can be used to make shoes and practically everything else.

Sometimes we get a feeling that the U.S. government has declared war upon the people. It is supposed to protect American people, yet it is reluctant to set aside due regard for established authority, and we hope they never shall. But when that which formerly was government becomes essentially misgovernment, a person has to be cautious in his dealings with it.

The American citizen is in a very difficult situation. A complete breakdown of confidence in the government will help the communist cause. On the other hand, unjustified confidence in the misgovernment allows the politicians to run amuck. These are times when a person has to think and to proceed with care.

Inside Washington

Which House Lindsay Aiming For: White House or State?
 By ROBERTS ALLEN

WASHINGTON — You would never guess the real inside reason Mayor John Lindsay is seeking the Democratic Presidential nomination—despite the virtual certainty he won't get it.

It's to build himself up to run for governor of New York in 1974.

That intriguing secret was let out of the bag by one of Lindsay's closest henchmen. He was putting the touch on a wealthy liberal for a sizable campaign contribution, but to little avail. The millionaire was coldly skeptical of Lindsay's Presidential prospects.

"I like him well enough," said the businessman, "and I think he would make a top-notch Presidential candidate. But he isn't getting anywhere. He's either at the bottom of the polls or not even on the list. After his recent tour across the country, a poll showed him down to 4 per cent as against a very dismal 6 per cent in November."

The Lindsay aide conceded the polls were adverse, but contended they really don't tell very much at this stage of the race. He pointed out the New York mayor is planning to enter seven state primaries—Florida, Wisconsin, Massachusetts, Indiana, Oregon, California and New York.

"It's in these states that the real story will be told," he argued. "Our soundings and tests convince us Lindsay has excellent chances in all of them. If we can get the money to make the kind of race we have in mind, he can just about carry them all."

The millionaire liberal was still unconvinced.

The Lindsay fund solicitor switched to a new tack, as follows:

"Actually, in helping us now you would be making a double investment in this campaign and in the future.

"How do you mean?"

"Well," was the reply, "even if the Mayor doesn't get anywhere running for President, he's building himself up for governor in 1974. That race will be wide open, and Lindsay is a natural for it. He's very popular upstate."

"Maybe so," said the unpersuaded businessman, "but he sure is in dutch in his own city. I hear he is widely disliked there."

That ended the solicitation.

A Sad, Sad Story

Rep. "Pete" McCloskey, maverick California Republican spearheading the dump-Nixon grandstanding, has a distressing grievance against fellow GOPs.

They are "abusing" him.

That's what he is unhappily telling House colleagues—both Democrats and Republicans. From their accounts, he is getting little sympathy.

After relating in considerable detail his unusual woes to one California Republican Congressman, the latter coldly replied:

"Well, Pete, what did you expect? You started all you joined up with various anti-Republican elements, left-wing Democrats, militant

Your Health

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—If a person has taken amphetamines for a long time and then stops, can his memory be affected? If it causes psychiatric effects, what are they and how are they cured?

Don't say go to a psychiatrist. My husband won't let me because he doesn't think anything is wrong with me and he doesn't want the expense of a psychiatrist.

What can I do to help myself? I need help and know it.

Dear Reader—Yes, you do need help. Recognizing that fact is half the battle. Amphetamine belongs to the "speed-up" drug group. One of this group, technically known as methamphetamine hydrochloride, is commonly called "speed."

These stimulants are useful to combat depression, but that action wears off in a few days after the medicine is taken. They are also useful in combating narcolepsy, repeated sleeping at inappropriate times. Sometimes they are used to help people diet and in treating hyperactive children and senility.

Amphetamine releases a type of adrenalin from the nerve endings and stimulates the brain. This causes the heart to beat faster and harder, nervousness, irritability, insomnia and loss of appetite.

Weight loss is common. So are delusions, hallucinations and even violence. When the use of the drugs is discontinued after prolonged use, severe depressions can occur.

Yes, some researchers state that prolonged use can cause brain damage. Brain cell damage has been described in animal studies and in Japanese men. Japan had an epidemic of overuse of "speed" after World War II, with serious effects on the users. Loss of memory for recent events and other evidences of abnormal thought process occurs.

Some people begin taking these medicines to reduce, and continue them long after any usefulness they might have had in dieting.

I am at a loss to tell you what to do for your self. I don't know how much you take, how long you have been on the habit or how it has affected you. Obviously, the best thing to do would be to see a psychiatrist. If you have been on large amounts of the stuff for a long time, it might even be necessary to be withdrawn under supervision. If you do not have any evidence of severe difficulty and have not been taking them a long time, the best approach would be to taper off and then quit. Physical activity and support from your husband might help. I wish we had an organization like Alcoholics Anonymous for people like you.

If you can't do anything else, write to the National Clearinghouse for Drug Abuse Information, P.O. Box 1501, Washington, D.C. 20013, and see if they can suggest a community service in your area.

Bathtubs Dangerous... But Keep On Bathing

By PAUL HARVEY

In Atlanta a motorist, stopped for speeding and clocked going 80 m.p.h. on a wet city street, swore that he was on his way to a "health food store."

Wouldn't that be the ultimate irony, DOA at a health food store?

Like this motorist, risking his life on a wet pavement in order to purchase health foods, are the Ralph Naders sometimes rightly anxious about the wrong things?

Now that the government's products investigators suspect certain deodorant soaps, please, let's not stop bathing!

Where human health is hazarded, may those in authority always give you and me the benefit of any doubt. But there is a point past which news media, parroting FDA suspicions, may ultimately deafen you to more urgent warnings.

Here's this right now for instance.

The bold type caption says, HEXACHLOROPHENE DANGER. The Food and Drug Administration warns against bathing with soaps containing hexachlorophene. (Something about "brain damage.")

Immediately you look at the popular soap in your own bathroom and sure enough you read "PhisoHex"—another name for "hexachlorophene."

Without a careful reading of this report only certain words stab your consciousness: government, "hexachlorophene" and "brain damage."

So you bury the soap in the backyard. Stomp on its grave and go pour yourself a drink.

Now let's think. There is some indication, though only in the laboratory, that rats can ingest hexachlorophene through the skin into the blood stream sometimes resulting in damage to the white matter of the brain, causing weakness of the legs.

A lot of ifs, maybes and sometimeses — and so far only in rats. Even lab monkeys show no such effect. There is no understanding whatever of human tolerance.

Yet based on this evidence the FDA justifies itself and officially warns thousands of doctors and alarms the public.

You know that there is proof of ultimate brain damage to humans in drinking too much booze? We know that! Yet that government or other agency is presuming to suggest that you should be able to buy liquor only on prescription?

We know how deleterious alcohol is to your "gizzard" and your brain, and the evidence against cigarettes is substantial, so it would appear that warnings against deodorant soaps which have been used for 22 years by millions without any known harmful effects may be stomping ants while being lassoed by a boa constrictor.

And Ralph Nader, who has become an "instant expert" on an inordinately wide range of subjects, demands the FDA end over-the-counter sales of hexachlorophene products and make them prescription items.

Where is his righteous wrath in relation to the infinitely greater and positively proved menaces of which we continue to partake?

No, I am not in favor of shushing the warnings. Again, where there is lab evidence (certainly where there is clinical evidence) that any product may do more harm than good, you and I should be advised.

But damning products — sometimes bankrupting industries — with a premature and exaggerated scare over phosphates or cyclamates or hexachlorophenes tends to negate the more valid evidence against the acute health hazards. And I'm wondering if this is not why the newest surveys show young people have started smoking again.

Clearing House

Editor:

You would think that I personally coined the Federal Government's financial reports. Here is how my financial reports sound—

In the fourth quarter I had expected a "bottoming out" of expenses, and an "accentuation" of revenue. This, however did not happen due to unforeseeable conditions.

Personal arrangements for "floating capital" were disappointing "due to hard money developments."

"Extra appropriations" from the "money powered" interests did not work and "outstanding bonds" (debts) were closely scrutinized by any "prospective lenders."

Slower than usual "taxable entities" also worked a hardship on our already strained financial situation. (This means I didn't collect the $50 that was due me.)

There is a "bright side" of the "financial picture," however, as the agricultural interest predicts a "bumper crop" due to big rains and other moisture. This will accelerate "money circulation" next season. This should rebound to the "upswing of all."

However, since it is hard to distinguish between the "Bulls and the Bears" it is difficult also to determine just how the 1971 Christmas Season will be "funded."
