Protection From Loans Is Provided Majorities In Both Houses Will Make It Effective At Once

AUSTIN (AP)—The senate passed the compromise bill 21 to 10 to protect Texas insurance from heavy withdrawals on policy loans and cash surrender values. The house already had adopted the measure as reported by a free conference committee. Majorities in both houses were sufficient to place the law in effect immediately upon being signed by the governor.

It Is Stagnation, Not Proration, Declares Josh Cosden After Buying In Property Of Oil Company At Receivers Sale Held Here

It is stagnation, not proration. That is the term insisted upon by J. S. Cosden, nationally known oil man who Tuesday bought in properties of the Cosden Oil company at a receivers sale here and prepared to resume personal charge of the company he started in 1925. "You've had worse conditions in the oil business ever since proration was devised. You have had conditions today, you'll have them in 1934 and 1935—just the same thing over and over again so long as this thing called proration is continued," he declared here Tuesday night. "If the government cannot hike the price of wheat by legislation what can you expect of a lot of people who do not want to play the oil game right?" he asked. Then he put it this way: "If you had a crop of calves and the government told you that only a portion of the crop could be sold you'd try to get them across the state's line and sell them if you needed the money, wouldn't you?"

Novel Musical Program To Be Given Sunday 'A Day With The Indians' Arranged By Mrs. Frazier

Mrs. Bruce Frazier and her voice pupils get away from the stereotyped program Sunday 4 p. m. when they present a characteristic production, "A Day With The Indians." Clad in colorful Indian costumes, singers will be grouped in an Indian tribal camp stage setting. Curtain goes upon a sunrise call of the Indians, and part one is given over entirely to ceremonial and primitive songs of the tribes. There are presented exactly as the Indians sang them. And thereby hangs a tale. Thurlow Leurance and Charles Wakefield Cadman, two American composers, had to live among the Indians and be adopted by them before being allowed to hear these ancient tunes. Leurance obtained the chants used in part one by means of a dictaphone.

To add to the atmosphere, flutes and tom-toms will be employed during the program. Indian songs popularized by Americans will constitute the second part. Among them will be "Pale Moon," "Land of the Sky Blue Water," and "By the Waters of Minnetonka." Part three is given over to well known Indian classics, while the last part goes one better to excerpts from Indian operas by Leurance and Cadman. With chanting of the sunset call the affair will end. Only students of Mrs. Frazier will participate in the presentation, she said. They have been practicing for more than a month on the

Soul-Winning Sermon Topic

Rev. Ashford Reviews Conversion Of Peter By Brother

Rev. W. C. Ashford preached his second sermon in the revival at the East Fourth Street Baptist church Tuesday evening on "The Most Effective Method of Soul-Winning." He used John 11:40 as the basis for his sermon. He stressed personal work in soul-winning. Rev. Ashford spoke in the main as follows: "This scripture relates how that Andrew led his brother Peter to Jesus—that impetuous, high tempered Peter. Andrew never preached a sermon that was worthy of recording but he led Simon Peter to know the Master. Andrew was preaching through Peter, yonder at Pentecost when thousands were brought to a knowledge of Jesus. That Sunday school teacher that labors with the boy, makes troublesome and hard to manage, is planting the seed that in the future may germinate and a harvest of a thousand fold may be reaped therefrom. "Anybody can be a soul-winner. We can not all preach but every Christian can be a soul-winner. There is no art nor technicalities in the matter of soul-winning. The most unlearned can win souls for the Master. The Lord can use our most humble efforts in leading people to Jesus. "Soul-winning can be done at any time, night or day. Paul, admonishes Timothy to be 'instant in season and out of season.' "Soul-winning can be done at any place." Here the speaker gave instances of leading people to Jesus, in street cars, on trains, in the crowded cities, on boats or wherever he might come in contact with a man unacquainted with Jesus. "Personal soul-winning reaches all classes. The business man who shuns the presence of the minister may be reached by his fellow business men. The personal appeal of a man to one of his own station in life or business or profession may be the most effective. "Personal soul-winning is the most effective. Had I only a limited time to live and had my choice of service I should choose the personal method of soul-winning to that of preaching." Here the minister appealed to his congregation to renew their vows as related to the matter of soul-winning. A great host of Christians responded to his appeal. Two people, a man and wife, united with the church on profession of faith. Services are held each morning from ten to eleven, and at the evening hour open at eight o'clock. His discussion on Wednesday evening will be on "Backsliding."

America Fights For Revival Of Business And Obtains Results

New Enterprises Started With Millions; Speed And Energy Of New Administration Echoed In Whirl Of Factories, Survey Discloses

(Copyright, 1933, By United Press) NEW YORK (UP)—America is fighting for a business revival and getting results. The economic pickup was reflected today in a nationwide survey by the United Press, showing that: 1. Millions of dollars are pouring into new enterprises. 2. Thousands of new jobs are being filled and many more are opening up in the new beer industry. 3. The speed and energy of the new administration at Washington is being echoed by the whirl of factory wheels in many cities. Preparations for sale of legal beer are playing a major role in new business and industrial activity.

The big brewing centers provided perhaps the most striking signs of new business. Here are a few substantial bright spots from that field. The York Ice Machine Corp. of New York received orders for $100,000 worth of refrigerating equipment. The Mengel company received orders for 100,000 beer cases for Anheuser-Busch company, which took an option on another 100,000. A new issue of 17,000 shares of common stock of the Falstaff Brewing Corp. of St. Louis was offered here at $7 a share. The Magazine Steel said beer requirements developed inquiries from Milwaukee for 2,000 tanks; Ohio Fabricator has taken prices on 50,000 tons of plates and a Milwaukee brewery has ordered 1,000 tons of structural shapes.

In St. Louis, legalization of beer resulted in direct or indirect employment of about 10,000 men drawing a weekly payroll of $250,000. The Illinois Glass company rehired 100 men; Cooprage industries reported a 50 per cent business increase and more than 400 former bartenders are renewing licenses. In New Orleans, four breweries are working on beer and one is installing new machinery, employing hundreds of men directly or indirectly. In Milwaukee, about 1,000 men were given jobs by brewers last week, while about 700 others have new jobs in nearby breweries. Pabst spent $2,000,000 for supplies and equipment. George J. Meyer Manufacturing company claims to have $2,000,000 in orders for bottling machinery and has added 235 workers. In Chicago seven operating breweries and 19 new plants are spending $10,000,000 on equipment and supplies.

At Natchez, Miss., the national box company employed 800 men to work day and night shifts. In the northwest Arkansas Ozark about $12,000 a day is going into work of making staves for beer kegs. Stave mill plants near Clarkdale and Greenville, Miss., need about 300 more men. The price of cottonwood went up 25 per cent. At Charleston, W. Va., the Owens Illinois Glass Co. reopened a large bottle plant employing about 1,000.

At Waterloo, Iowa, the Hinson Manufacturing Co. received orders for the covers—advertising a Milwaukee brew—to keep 70 employees working full time for two months. The Berghoff Brewery, Fort Wayne, Ind., is adding 100 men April 5, and ordered 30,000 bottle caps and 7,000,000 labels. More than 200 men were employed by lumber mills in southeastern Oklahoma to meet the demand for beer barrels.

Practices Of Some Bankers Are Criticized

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt asked congress Wednesday to provide federal supervision of investment securities. In his sixth special message the president declared the public had sustained "severe losses" because of methods practiced in the past and proposed invokin' the power of the federal government in interstate commerce traffic to control new securities. The president informed congress he would propose soon legislation "relating to better supervision of the purchase and sale of all properties dealt in on exchanges."

He also spoke of legislation he had in mind "to correct unethical and unsafe practices by officers and directors of banks and other corporations." Preparations already are under way in the house to expedite the newest administration legislation. Chairman Rayburn of the house interstate commerce committee said hearings would start possibly Thursday. He endorsed the proposals and introduced the bill when the message was read. WASHINGTON Outlook—
The Hoover business chart shows a decline for February and March. That fool-proof collection of business statistics, founded by the former President for his personal use, discloses this month just how hard the financial situation hit business and trade. It does not peer into the future. But those who make it do. They think the immediate problem in business is to release the 10 to 15 per cent of the nation's bank deposits still tied up in closed banks. They are confident the miraculously better feeling engendered by the new administration will show in figures soon. The business chart is shown at the bottom of this column.

The figures are official only through February but the unofficial statistics for March indicate the banking situation forced us still lower that month: Improved confidence during the last two weeks of March could not offset the complete stagnation earlier. There are two bright spots the figures do not show. They are textiles and foodstuffs. The cloth output in March was better than February. Hoarding in foods lifted that line. It was also helped by the president's order permitting withdrawals from banks for purchase of necessities. Everything else is down. In automobiles there has been almost a complete shutdown. At 18 building contracts are less than one-fifth of what they were in 1929-32. Cotton exports got down to the level of 1904.

The improvement in department store sales means thirty being. The latest from New York is that stores here now are running about 22 to 23 per cent below the level of last year. Their ratio of trade is generally slightly higher than the rest of the country. Prospects for Easter buying are not rosy due to the banking situation in certain communities.

Security—
Behind all these recent Federal banking maneuvers is the gradual approach toward unified banking. You can get an even money bet from officials now that it will come naturally within the next few years. Nobody wants to advertise it for fear of frightening the small banks. Yet it is quiet clear that events of the past two years have given state banks a blow from which they will not soon recover. That was an unstated purpose of the Robinson Bank bill just passed. On the outside it looks like a generous effort of Federal Re-

The Federal Reserve will make no loans to state banks without first conducting a thorough examination of them.

Add to this the fact that nearly every high official in Washington is in favor of unified banking but afraid to say so.

The tendency is clear; the result inevitable.

Money—Banking figures continue to improve. That national phase of the emergency is over.

Conditions remain very bad in a few states. It is only a question of time until they are rectified.

Latest public figures indicate half the money hoarded since February 1 has been returned up to last Wednesday.

The strain was so swiftly relieved that the Treasury stopped printing the new bank notes.

NEW YORK By James McFadden Utilities—Floyd Carlisle's hastily telegraphed agreement with Governor Lehman's utility program stirred both amusement and resentment here.

Most utility companies are prepared to swallow whatever does Lehman or the Federal government prescribe without making a face.

Investigation of utility groups will deal in part with the rackets paid to investment bankers for floating security issues.

The chief remaining hope of the utilities is that the reform program will not expand to include rate cuts but their hopes are slim.

Some of them have already started advertising campaigns to prove that taxes and fixed interest charges make rate reductions impossible.

Plans are also afoot to mobilize security holders in defense of the embattled companies.

Full-Grown Lion Loose In Houston Neighborhood

Bill Seeking To Divorce Present Commission From Oil Regulation Beaten In House After Long Debate

AUSTIN—A proposal to shear the Texas railroad commission of its authority to deal with proration of oil and gas production and enforcement of conservation laws was defeated Tuesday in the house 81 to 57.

Opponents of the commission sought to divert it of its duties in the regulation of oil and gas matters and place control in a combined public utilities and natural resources commission.

The bill adopted an amendment to the public utilities commission bill that eliminated the provision for a new commission and set up a public utilities division under the railroad commission.

The entire proposal then was tabled subject to call.

Much of the opposition to the bill came from members opposed to the establishment of any additional state agencies.

Throughout a day of heated debate the commission's efforts to ward enforcement of proration alternately was attacked and defended.

Long charged the commission with "purposely writing invalid orders" while Representative Gordon Burns of Huntville asserted the plan to establish a new commission was "an unholy war on the part of the major companies" to oust the existing agency and "obtain control of the oil industry through establishment of a new commission."

Representative O. F. Chastain asserted the personnel of the railroad commission was "honest and courageous" and the move for a new board was a "pre-connected scheme of those who could not control an honest commission."

Unmercifully Abused Representative B. F. Vaughan of Greenville, a leader of the opposition to the new commission, said the "railroad commission has been unmercifully abused and harassed because it would not be dictated to by the major oil companies."

Long predicted that unless conservation of natural resources was placed under a new commission the price of oil would be forced down to ten cents a barrel and would stay there for two years.

He also predicted failure to pass the bill would force Governor Miriam A. Ferguson "to follow in the footsteps of R. S. Sterling and declare martial law in the East Texas field."

Senate Fund Bill The senate substituted its eleemosynary appropriations bill for the house version and the senate approved it as drawn by the finance committee with a few minor exceptions.

The senate bill appropriated approximately $8,440,000 for the biennium for support of eleemosynary institutions, about $575,000 in excess of the house total. It was expected the bill would be sent to a conference committee.

The senate began consideration of its departmental appropriation bill. Both houses had finally passed the judiciary bill. The house was in the midst of consideration of its departmental bill when it side-tracked the money proposal to take up the utilities bill.

The senate sent to the house a bill that would appropriate $374,750 for the support of summer schools this year in the state colleges. The colleges also would be permitted to retain students' fees equal to five dollars per student for a six weeks' term, plus all laboratory fees.

Summer School Funds Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston, chairman of the senate finance committee, said the summer school appropriations were about 30 per cent under last year's allowance.

The senate state affairs committee voted out with recommendation that it pass a bill that would prevent oil companies from owning and maintaining their own pipelines. The house committee voted an adverse recommendation on the same bill last night.

The house committee on public lands and buildings voted a favorable report to a bill to withdraw from the market all unsold public free school lands, except those on which a preference right to purchase existed.

CHAPTER XX

When Jeff spoke the words were not in the least what Janet had expected. He said, "You know I almost joined up with a circus once. I was 16 and they were going to give me a job with the tent crew. Lord, but I wanted to go! I told my uncle about it and he said if I'd stay at home and finish high school he'd see that I got a job in a circus then—providing I still wanted it. So I finally agreed. I can still remember how I felt, though, when the circus train pulled out of town. Talk about disappointment!"

Janet said, "It must have been hard."

"Hard? Say—nothing's ever struck me harder. I have a theory that the disappointments a kid gets about some trivial matter are just as serious for him as the way a grown-up feels about something really important."

He went on to tell Janet about his childhood in the little town where his uncle owned a hardware store. Both his parents had died while he was still too small to remember them. He had lived with his uncle and aunt until he was graduated from high school. Then, instead of joining another circus he had decided to go to college to study engineering. He had worked to earn part of his expenses, borrowed the rest and paid it back. For the last year now he had been strictly "on his own."

Janet told him about the little town where she had lived, too. So long ago it seemed since she had left there and come to Lancaster! She told him about her mother's death three years before. Janet had been eight years old when her father was killed in the war.

They lingered over the coffee and dessert. The exchange of confidences seemed to establish a real friendship. When they finally rose to go both of them were laughing over a story of Grant's school days. Half an hour later, tired but happy, Janet said good-night.

She saw Jeffrey Grant half a dozen times during the next week. She went to dinner with him twice and once to the movies. She called him "Jeff" now, just as naturally as he called her Janet. And she learned almost immediately that Jeff Grant was not given to making sentimental advances. If she thought once or twice that something he said or did was of deeper interest he was sure to follow it with some casual remark.

He was different from Rolf Cartye as a night from day. Rolf had paid her pretty compliments the second time he met her, had given her to understand that he was in love with her the third. Jeff Grant, on the contrary, talked about steel mills, the news on the sport page and funny things that happened at the office. Mrs. Silvani nodded toward him and said to Janet one evening, "You're a lucky girl to have a young man like that one!"

Janet protested, "Oh, but it isn't like that! We're—were only friends!"

The older woman continued smiling. "Sure, I know! And you'll make a fine couple, too. Oh, it's a fine thing to be young! Times have been hard for us, of course, but I can remember when Pat and I took the prize for being the best dancers at the St. Patrick's Dai ball. We used to dance every Saturday evening."

Thinking about it afterward Janet shrugged. What difference did it make what Mrs. Silvani thought too long as Jeff Grant understood? There were no sentimental notions in Jeff Grant's mind. He wasn't that kind.

She was surprised the next evening when he knocked at her door. Janet opened it and said, "Oh—hello! Won't you come in!"

He had stopped at the door to talk to her once or twice but he had never entered the apartment. Now he came inside. Janet dropped into a chair and motioned him toward one.

"There's something I thought maybe you'd help me with," Grant said hesitantly.

"All right. What is it?"

"Well—I wondered if you'd help me buy a present for a girl."

"What kind of a girl? I mean what's she like? Do you have any idea what kind of a present she'd especially like?"

Of course it hadn't been jealousy that flamed up in Janet's heart. That was ridiculous. Of course it couldn't be anything of the sort. Why should she care how many presents Jeff Grant bought for other girls? What difference could it make to her?

He answered all her questions in the negative. She was—well, just an ordinary girl. He didn't know how old she was. About Janet's age, he thought. He didn't have any idea what she'd like. What kind of presents did girls like? Hadn't Janet any suggestions?

He was so helpless about it that she laughed. "Why, yes, of course, I could suggest a dozen things. It depends partly on how much you want to spend. You could get a vanity case or perfume or something for her room. A vase, a candy box maybe or a piece of pottery. Maybe she'd like a handbag."

I saw some beauties in Marsh's window today. They were on sale at $5. Really lovely ones—!"

"Do you think she'd like a handbag?"

Janet smiled again. "Well, of course I don't know. I'd like one of them myself though."

"I think that's a good bunch," Jeff announced. "Would you be willing to go with me to buy it? I'm pretty dumb at things like that. I'd probably pick out the worst in the bunch."

She agreed to meet him at Marsh's department store next day at 12:15. They could buy the purse and then have a sandwich somewhere together. He stayed a little longer and then departed. "Twelve-fifteen" he called over his shoulder as he closed the door. "Don't forget!"

At exactly 13 minutes past 12 o'clock the next day Janet entered the main door of Marsh's department store. Jeff Grant was there before her.

"Hello," he grinned. "I was wondering what in the world I'd do if you didn't show up. These places give me the willies. Too many women around!"

He didn't seem in the least uncomfortable, though, five minutes later when they stood before the purse counter. The young woman behind the counter who wore her blond hair in an amazing ringlet smiled at him as she drew several purses from the case. She spoke with a marked southern drawl that Janet felt sure was affected.

"Now heah's a little numbah," she said, "we've been sellin' at $10.85. It's a real bur-gain—"

Jeff turned to Janet. "How about it? Do you like that?"

She shook her head. "Those clasps never hold. I know because I had one once."

The young woman behind the counter was still smiling. "What colsh would like? Black or brown?"

Jeff looked down and saw that the purse Janet was carrying was black. "Why—ahem." He cleared his throat. "Black, I think. Will you let us see that one in the second row?"

It was an attractive handbag which they finally chose—a soft black leather envelope with a distinctive metal trim. The girl with the blond curls sent it to be wrapped in a gift box.

"I'm sure she'll like it," Janet said. "I think any girl would. It's

Banking Institutions Receive Half Of Loans Issued By RFC

By RICHARD L. GRIDLEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Banking institutions have received half of the $2,083,750,000 loans made by the government's Reconstruction Finance Corporation in its 12-1/2 months of operation.

More than a billion were poured by the federal government into banking channels in a vain attempt to stave off the banking difficulties which culminated in the nationwide banking holiday earlier this month.

The R.F.C.'s report on loans from Feb. 2, 1932, to March 31, 1933, showed that total advances to various organizations like banks, railroads, agricultural relief organizations and states, municipalities and political subdivisions amounted to $2,083,750,000. A total of $407,388,772 of this amount has been repaid.

Banks received total cash advances of $1,013,020,640 and repaid $207,242,968.

Demand for bank loans have dwindled with the passing of the crisis and a firmer policy in advances is expected now that the R.F.C. has decided to take an active part in the management of reorganized banks under the authority granted by the emergency banking act.

Instead of being merely lender, the R.F.C. now is permitted to purchase preferred stock in banking institutions to supply necessary capital. In this manner it is hoped that constructive reorganizations can be worked out in other cities along the lines of the new Detroit bank, owned 50 per cent by the R.F.C.

The R.F.C. showed that railroads have received $328,592,115 and repaid $20,175,958; states for relief needs $186,275,745 and repaid none; insurance companies, $23,457,317 and repaid $11,474,181.

Other cash advances were $64,204,503 for 1933 crop loans; $19,682,000 for self liquidating projects; $29,920,000 to the secretary of treasury for purchase of stock in home loan banks; and $79,851,890 for regional agricultural credit corporations.

"What Big Teeth You Have, Grandma!"

AUSTIN—The shroud of darkness that has robbed Texas of $4,000,000 in tax revenues yearly and permitted development of a tremendous "racket" in the gasoline business, has been torn away by the teeth in the new gas tax enforcement law, in the opinion of close observers at the capitol.
 The bill, passed by both houses, was signed by the governor last Tuesday. It becomes effective immediately as an emergency measure, and repeals all previous legislation on the subject. It was sponsored by Rep. Penrose Motcalf of San Angelo and Rep. Harmon.
 The new law makes deliberate evasion of the gasoline tax a felony, with fines of from $100 to $5,000, jail sentences of from one to six months and penitentiary terms up to two years.
 It creates a motor fuel tax division under the state comptroller, with two lawyers and a full force of investigators, auditors, chemists, etc., yet at no new cost to the taxpayers, for a fraction of one per cent of the gas tax is set aside to pay them. Their activities are expected to recover at least $4,000,000 a year.
 The new law sets a chemical standard for gasoline. Provisions of the law dealing with manufacture, transportation and marketing of gasoline are regarded as "thief-proof" as possible. Complete sets of interlocking records must be kept, from the run of crude oil until the gasoline goes into a motorist's car. They must be open to inspection at any time. Books must also be kept on kerosene, naphtha and other tax-free fuels commonly blended with gasoline, and retailers may be checked to see if they sold such fluids under their proper names. This will be a serious check on blending, the commonest form of tax evasion, by which a retailer mixes tax-free fluids with tax-paid gasoline, and collects tax on the entire amount.
 The old familiar answer of "I don't know" to official questions is now outlawed. The records must show. Every dealer must post the gas tax separately from the price of gasoline, so that a motorist with average intelligence can draw his own conclusions. And every dealer must show the name of the firm which paid the tax.
 Even trucks, tank cars and all other vehicles that transport motor fuel must be ready at all times to give proof that the tax has been paid. Every truck driver must carry a manifest showing the type and amount of his cargo, its origin, destination and the amount of tax paid. In addition, every dealer must record the number of any truck bringing him motor fuel.
 The Texas Good Roads Association, which favored the new law, pointed out the fact that every peace officer in Texas is empowered to stop and investigate any carrier, and urged them to do so. "Only by general interest and by widespread public education can this $2,000,000 be recovered for the motorists, $1,000,000 for schools and $1,000,000 for the repayment of county bonds," the Association's statement said.

Matsuoka Says Japanese Harbor 'American Menace' As Strongly As American The 'Yellow Peril'

NEW YORK (UP)—Japanese people fear an "American menace" quite as much as the United States is disturbed by the shibboleth of a "yellow peril," Yosuke Matsuoka, chief Japanese delegate to the recent League of Nations session, believes.
 The forceful, blunt little Japanese cast, aside the usual barriers of diplomacy to clarify the position of his government and people concerning American-Japanese relations in an interview published today in the New York World-Telegram.

Editor's Note: A short, outspoken little statesman, Yosuke Matsuoka, is spreading a new kind of oriental diplomacy through the western world. Now, on an epochal visit to the United States, he is presenting Japan's case in the Manchurian conflict with a reverse outlook on many long-standing American ideas. Today, in an interview published by the New York World-Telegram, Matsuoka gives Americans a striking and perhaps surprising outlook on relations between two great Pacific powers. It follows:

Cancer Control Society Presents New Information

Editor's Note: The American Society for the Control of Cancer has prepared a series of short articles dealing with symptoms, causes and curative methods for presentation to the public in newspapers. Here-with is the first of the series:
THE RISING TIDE OF CANCER DEATHS
 According to statistics the fate of more than one in ten of the adult population in the country is to die of cancer. This means that the cancer mortality is expected to be over 115,000 in 1933. In the last 30 years cancer has increased 32% and has jumped to second place as a cause of death, exceeded only by heart disease.
 This increase is not due, however, to inadequate methods of treatment; for methods of treatment have improved tremendously; but it is due partly to the fact that more people of the so-called cancer age are now living, and that the diagnosis of cancer is more accurate.
 What can be done about it? How can this menace be controlled?
 In the first analysis the control of cancer lies with the public. Unless the public is familiar with the suspicious symptoms of cancer and ACTS upon these symptoms immediately, the medical profession cannot hope to effect many cures.
SUSPICIOUS SYMPTOMS which should serve as a warning of the possible presence of cancer are as follows:
 (1) any lump or any sore which is slow to heal.
 (2) abnormal discharge from any of the body cavities, especially if it is tinged with blood.
 (3) any change or inflammation of moles or warts on the surface of the body.
 (4) any progressive abdominal discomfort or digestive disturbance. Such symptoms may not be cancer, but they demand immediate investigation.
 Early diagnosis and treatment of cancer is essential for cure.

David Crockett's Grandson Editor Grandbury Paper

GRANBURY, (UP)—In a thin, frame building near the city square here a 76-year-old editor-printer, the only surviving grandson of David Crockett, busily sets type for his weekly newspaper.
 Ashley W. Crockett is one of Texas' few living echoes of the tragic battle of the Alamo when David Crockett, frontiersman from Tennessee, forfeited his life with his Texan comrades.
 A few miles from the print shop is another memento of those historic days. In an old cemetery at Action is the grave of Mrs. David Crockett. Above it rises white stone shaft. On top is the figure of a woman, her left hand shading her eyes against the sun, facing westward, watching for the return of a husband.
 As early as 1876 this woman's grandson, Ashley Crockett, became associated with a weekly newspaper then known as the Grandbury Vidette, meaning "outpost." Later the paper's name was changed to Grandbury Graphic, finally to the Hood County Tablet. Crockett has edited the Tablet since the '90s. Now, bent and grey, he still edits the copy, set the type and sends the paper to press on Thursday afternoons.

Tulsa Fans Watch Manager Assemble Club For Texas League

Oil Capital Fans Eagerly Await Opening Of Town's First Season In Lone Star Loop

By GEORGE GOODALE
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 TULSA, Okla. (UP)—Tulsa baseball fans, eagerly awaiting their initial season of Texas League baseball are wondering what kind of a team President-Manager Art Griggs will assemble. They are confident it will be a winner.
 Fans remember last year when Griggs brought the nucleus of a club here and added strength here and there until it excelled in the Western League. And such is the status this year—a good nucleus with promise of needed player strength because of connections possessed by the manager.
 Two star pitchers, three regular infielders and a star outfielder comprise the "red ink" column insofar as loss of last year's team is concerned. However, the ace hurler remains, as does the best outfielder and the same two catchers.
 Ralph Birkofer, left-handed speedball artist and the Western League's leading strikeout pitcher, and Charley Wood, left-handed curver, are the pitchers who have gone their way. Floyd Young, shortstop, is now with the Pittsburgh Pirates, and so are Kirkfer and Wood. Cecil Stewart, second baseman, was owned by Dallas and Bobby Hipps, first baseman, belongs to Hollywood. Stanley Schino, slugging outfielder, is with Kansas City.
 But since then Griggs has obtained replacements which may fill the gap. He bought Max Harrod, first baseman, from Omaha and Chuck Hostettler, outfielder, from Wichita, both of the Western League. Each man was a star in Western League company. Sammy Hale, former Athletic third baseman, has been signed and Elmer Eggert, present third baseman, will probably be shifted to short stop or second base.
 Purchase Hal Stoveen, last year's Denver first baseman; Frank Osborn, experienced right hand hitting outfielder came to Tulsa from the Coast League.
 Roy Hudson, brilliant Michigan university player, is also available for the first base duty. Leo Najo, former Texas leaguer; John Stoneham, the club's leading batsman; Leo Nonnenkamp is a holdover of outfielders. Brown was only with the club a short while last year but showed promise. Nonnenkamp was the rookie sensation of the summer until he broke his leg about six weeks after the season opened.
 For the utility role, Tony Malinowsky, who held down the job last year, is still with the club. He may fill the shortstop berth if his hitting improves. Orace (Pudge) Powers, rookie, and formerly with Dallas will be one of the other men behind the bat. Powers did exceptionally well during the latter part of the season.
 Andy Badner, who won 25 games while losing only four last season, was late signing a contract. He is a righthander. Bill Posedel and having a splendid twirling corps. Youngsters who may be ready for greater things this year on the mound are Tyler Robinson and Ed Selway, with the club part of last year. Robinson revealed great form. There also is Kirby Higby, the boy wonder of the South Carolina American Legion junior champions of two years ago. Higby was with the team half of last season but was too young to work successfully. Griggs believes another year of age and experience will work wonders with him. Francis Blair, John C. Connolly and Lester Peterson are semi-pros who have been signed.

 The club reported for spring training at Ada, Okla., March 15.

Business Failures In State Less Than 14-Year Average

AUSTIN, (UP)—The number of business failures in Texas during February was below the average of that month for the last 14 years, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. There were only 71 insolvencies in Texas last month, the bureau report quoted from F. G. Dun and company. This is 13 per cent under February a year ago. Since 1920, the report said, there have been seven months of February which have had a greater number of business failures than the last one.
 Total liabilities were $1,421,000 during February, a decline of 18 per cent from the $1,734,000 total liabilities reported in February a year ago. The report said. The average size of bankruptcies was also smaller than in February a year ago, as is shown by the fact that the average liabilities per failure this year were $20,014 as compared with $21,146 in February, 1932.

 Better That A Town Realize Its Opportunities

 somewhere in the shopping center:
 One purseful of opportunities . . .
 THE opportunities, to which we refer, are the daily bargains to be found in every shopping area. Some people find them quite by chance . . . stumble over them blindly . . . and acquire them with astonishment. Others never seem to be in the right store at the right time: If there's a 25% marked-down sale of shoes at Smith's, they are buying at Brown & Co. . . If a grocer three blocks away is clearing out his canned goods at half price, they are at the corner store making routine purchases.
 But—there are some people who always find these opportunities. Their money buys them more—and better—merchandise than their neighbors'. Why? Not through good luck, you may be sure; but simply because these people read the advertisements in their daily newspapers.
 This advertising is NEWS. It tells WHAT . . . It shows WHERE. Those who read it every day are informed. They save themselves time, trouble, and DOLLARS . . . And their homes are always up-to-date, their clothes stylish . . . their meals fresh with seasonal variety . . . all through the opportunities that advertising gives them.
