Rockefeller Strongly Optimistic on Strike

NEW YORK (UPI)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller was "optimistic" today for early settlement of the eight-day sanitationmen's strike that has left 180 million pounds of garbage strewn on sidewalks, in streets and at makeshift dumps.

Rockefeller met throughout the night with representatives of the city and the 10,000-member Uniformed Sanitationmen's Association, which struck Feb. 2 for higher pay.

Lindsay's representative at the meetings, Deputy Mayor Robert Sweet, left the talks early today to report to Lindsay at his official residence at Gracie Mansion. Sweet rejoined the talks at the governor's New York office 90 minutes later, but had no comment on a possible solution.

Mayor's Plea Rejected

Rockefeller has been rejecting Lindsay's pleas to summon National Guard units to collect garbage and help the city out of its "hazardous state." The governor said Friday one of his reasons he hesitates to call the guard is that such a move would be a serious blow to organized labor.

"I can call out the National Guard, and, if necessary, I will," Rockefeller said. But he warned of "very real risks as far as the stability and structure of organized labor and organized community life" are concerned.

Lindsay, who has been virtually cut out of efforts to solve the strike since appealing for the governor's help Thursday, went on another walking tour of the city Friday and said: "It's as bad as I thought it would be. I still think we should have the guard in and end this illegal strike."

The gulf between the state's two leading Republicans widened when Lindsay rejected Friday the Rockefeller-backed solution to the strike.

Lindsay called the proposed solution, including $425 annual raises and fringe benefits for the garbage collectors, a "blackjack" settlement and said he would not "give away the treasury."

AFL-CIO Vetoes Strike Of New York Garbagemen

National Guard May Not Be Called Out

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said Saturday night New York City's nine-day garbage men's strike was "very close" to settlement without any use of the National Guard.

His statement followed a threat by union leaders to hit the nation's largest city with a general strike if the guard were mobilized.

"We will not tolerate the use of militia against any workers," the council's secretary, Morris Iushewitz, declared. The council has at least one million members in the city.

Iushewitz said the board voted at a three-hour emergency meeting "to empower a special committee to take any action necessary—including a strike—if National Guardsmen are called in."

Mayor John V. Lindsay asked Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller Thursday to call out the guard to meet the health and fire emergency created by the 90,000 tons of garbage left uncollected on city streets since 10,000 members of the Uniformed Sanitationmen's Association walked out Feb. 2.

Rockefeller, reluctant to take the step even before the Central Labor Council's ultimatum, tried instead to settle the strike by appointing his own mediators.

The tons of putrifying refuse has piled up on sidewalks and vacant lots, clogging gutters and spilling into the streets in some neighborhoods, since the walkout began over a new contract for the sanitationmen, whose union is a Teamsters affiliate.

Iushewitz said Peter Brennan, president of the Building Trades Union, would head the special AFL-CIO committee. He will meet later with Teamsters officials, who are not members of the council.

The council also urged Lindsay to accept a proposal by the governor's mediators Friday for a $425 million settlement of the strike. The mayor rejected the contract proposal as union "blackmail."

Rockefeller led marathon negotiations from Friday night until midday Saturday in a drive to end the strike. Lindsay sent an aide to act as his liaison but did not himself attend the talks.

It was clear that the split between the two Republican officeholders, both national poli-

LBJ Messenger Flies to Korea On Serious Errand

SEOUL (UPI) — President Johnson's special envoy, Cyrus R. Vance, flew to Seoul Sunday morning on a troubleshooting mission amid reports South Korean leaders would demand a hard guarantee of a firm U.S. response to any further Communist aggression against their nation.

Vance was arriving at Seoul's Kimpo airfield Sunday morning. He was then flying by helicopter to the United Nations Command in downtown Seoul for an intensive briefing by military officials.

The presidential envoy, who last fall mediated the Cyprus crisis, will meet with President Park Chung Hee and other South Korean leaders on what President Johnson called a "grave threat" to South Korea.

Tough Demands

Authoritative South Korean sources said Vance would be presented with a series of tough demands designed to reaffirm and strengthen American-Korean defense arrangements in the face of North Korean provocations.

The sources said the secret U.S.-North Korean negotiations being held at Panmunjom for the release of the intelligence ship USS Pueblo and its crew also would be discussed in the talks between Vance and Seoul leaders.

Informed South Korean sources said earlier that U.S. and North Korean representatives met Saturday in another secret session at the Panmunjom truce village. There was no official confirmation of the reported meeting.

Shell After Shell Explodes in US Base

SAIGON (UPI)—Shell after shell exploded in a blazing ammunition dump today, forcing back troops of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division, trying to get at Viet Cong who had set up positions near Tan Son Nhut Air Base.

"Every time an ammo bunker explodes, we have to pull back," said Maj. Richard Peiffer of Davis, Calif. "I guess the Viet Cong do, too."

The explosions confused things and the troops were unsure how many casualties they had taken or given.

The dump contained four bunkers where artillery shells and other explosives were stored. One bunker caught fire and the artillery rounds began exploding, throwing shrapnel hundreds of yards.

The U.S. troops, reinforced with armored cavalry and supported by air strikes and helicopter gunships, killed 278 Viet Cong 10 miles northwest of Saigon in two separate fights Friday near Hoc Mon.

In the first encounter, three companies from the 2nd Brigade killed 178 Communists and lost four Americans killed and 45 wounded.

Viet Cong units attacked an airborne company near Go Vap, just west of a runway at Tan Son Nhut Air Base, hitting the paratroopers with salvo after salvo of E40 rockets, the hand-held weapon that has reduced much of Saigon and its suburbs to rubble.

Despite the ferocity of the attack, the company held until arrival of two battalions of airborne. U.S. helicopter gunships and AC47 Dragonships dropped flares and provided rocket and machine gun support.

The presidential envoy, who last fall mediated the Cyprus crisis, will meet with President Park Chung Hee and other South Korean leaders on what President Johnson called a "grave threat" to South Korea.

Political Storm Clouds Again Rising in Dominican Republic

By FRANCIS L. MCCARTHY, UPI Latin American Editor

Political storm clouds are rising again over the embittered Dominican Republic.

Not the least of the problems facing President Joaquin Balaguer, a political moderate, is the whereabouts of Col. Francisco Caamano Dena, the man who led the so-called constitutionalist forces in the 1965 civil war.

Caamano has been "missing" for nearly four months. He disappeared into thin air last October from his post as military attaché in the Dominican embassy in London. He had been "banished" to London from Santo Domingo after the end of the civil war—as were also leaders of the so-called loyalist forces—to enable a return to normal political life.

With Caamano, and Gen. Elias Wessin, leader of the loyalists, in virtual exile, Balaguer in the past 20 months has made impressive strides forward in restoring political and economic stability in the country.

go, Balaguer said bluntly: "It can be said that the United States, taught by the drama of Cuba, will never permit another similar (Communist) regime to install itself in the Dominican Republic."

Demands Clarification

The opposition, leftist-dominated Dominican Revolutionary Party (PRD), the country's second largest, promptly demanded that the United States embassy in Santo Domingo "clarify" the meaning of Balaguer's flat statement.

The U.S. ambassador, John R. Crimmins, replied Feb. 1.

U.S. interest in the Dominican Republic is confined to aid for the "Democratic regime" of President Balaguer, the ambassador said.

So far there have been no political repercussions from Crimmins' diplomatically-worded reply to the PRD, which represents the country's leftists. And Balaguer continues lining up his volume countrymen behind him.

Until Caamano emerges from obscurity, however, there can be little relaxation of political tension in the country.

Ford Denies He Has Job With Government

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A spokesman for Henry Ford II denied Friday that the board chairman of Ford Motors planned to join the government in any official capacity.

Ford's public relations office here said it issued a statement "in answer to repeated queries from media representatives." There have been reports that Ford might step down from his post to join President Johnson's cabinet, perhaps replacing Commerce Secretary Alexander Trowbridge.

Ford's denial of the reports came as the White House disclosed what appeared to be a hastily scheduled late afternoon meeting Friday between Johnson and Trowbridge.

Trowbridge, 38, who suffered a serious heart attack in August of 1966, was hospitalized two weeks ago for chest pains.

It was while he was away from his desk that the reports began that Ford might replace him.

Amarillo Hospital To Be Dedicated

The $6.1 million High Plains Baptist Hospital will be formally dedicated this coming Saturday by Dr. Milford O. Rouse of Dallas, president of the American Medical Association.

The first patient will be accepted Feb. 20.

The hospital will feature medical and dental staffs and will open with 72 beds and 160 employees. A spokesman said 241 beds would be available within the next 9 to 18 months.

Built on 25 acres of land at the Amarillo medical center, the hospital has six floors. Two more floors will eventually be added and the number of rooms will increase to a maximum of 450.

Patient rooms feature modern furnishings and push-button controls. Private rooms will be $35 a day while semi-private rooms will be $29. The hospital has four patient suites, with prices ranging from $45 to $60 daily.

Administrator of the hospital will be Emmett Johnson.

The hospital is under the auspices of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

DAMRON SALARY PAID

Pampa School Crisis Finally Reaches End

The month-long crisis of Pampa School trustees and Ex-School Superintendent Dr. John Damron ended Friday afternoon by the board paying Dr. Damron $9,375, or one-half his annual contract of $18,750.

According to Bill Waters, counsel for the board, "a settlement was concluded Friday afternoon with Dr. Damron, whereby Dr. Damron received payment of his salary for the balance of this current school year; that is, through June 30, 1968."

Waters also explained, "in consideration thereof, Dr. Damron has released all claims, demands and causes of action of every kind, including dismissal of his pending appeal to the state Commissioner of education. He also recognizes and accepts termination of his contract effective Jan. 16."

By agreement of the two lawyers in the case, Waters and J. C. Hinesley of Austin, Damron's counsel, Waters mailed Dr. Damron's announcement of his dismissal of his appeal to Dr. J. W. Edgar, state commissioner of education, and to the state Board of education.

The letter to Dr. Edgar states "Please be advised that all matters of controversy or dispute between John D. Damron and Pampa Independent School District and the board of trustees thereof have been fully and finally adjusted, compromised and amicably settled."

Pampa School Crisis Finally Reaches End

It further states "John D. Damron hereby moves to dismiss his appeal to the state commissioner of education, and state board of education from the action of the board of trustees of Pampa Independent School District made Jan. 16. Dr. Damron requests that such appeal be dismissed with prejudice against refiling of any appeal by him from any action of the Board of trustees of Pampa Independent School District taken up and including the date thereof."

A breakdown of the financial settlement shows Dr. Damron's net take home pay to be $7,161.10 with an allowance of $600, and deductions of $1,613.90. In the settlement the board paid Dr. Damron compensation checks totaling $9,375, according to the notarized document stating the terms of settlement.

Pampa's school trustees met "in executive session Jan. 16, and acted to accept the resignation of John D. Damron as Superintendent of Schools effective immediately pursuant to letter of resignation dated Jan. 11, 1968. Alternatively, the board, having found that good cause

Uneasy Calm Settles On College Town

ORANGETOWN, S.C. (UPI)—An uneasy calm, enforced by more than 1,000 South Carolina National Guardsmen and police, returned to this college town today following three days of racial violence.

Gov. Robert E. McNair imposed a dusk-to-dawn curfew after three teenage Negro students were killed and 36 other persons wounded.

Guardsmen and police stood watch throughout the night — primarily at the campuses of South Carolina State College and adjoining Claflin College.

It was at these two schools the students were killed and wounded. Rioting broke out Tuesday after Negro students were refused admittance to a bowling alley.

Guardsmen began enforcing the curfew as the sun set Friday, sealing off roads near the SCSC campus and placing two armored personnel carriers near the school's entrance.

Spray guns loaded with crowd-dispersing chemicals pointed toward the campus from atop the armored vehicles.

The deaths of two SCSC students and one high school student in a battle between police and Negroes marked "one of the saddest days in the history of South Carolina," McNair said earlier Friday as he announced the "state of emergency" and curfew.

President M. M. Nance Jr. urged the 1,500 students at State to take a "cooling off" weekend and go home. Most did. Bus stations reported a heavy demand by students buying tickets home.

City police, assisted by National Guardsmen, stopped the few persons who ventured out, permitting on the city's streets only those going to and coming from work.

Another armored vehicle stood near the All-Star Bowling Lanes in a shopping center where Negro students first clashed with police Tuesday night during a second night of protesting the facility's alleged segregation policies.

McNair blamed "black power advocates" for sparking the clash.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., blamed "outside agitators" with "coming in to arouse our people to do acts they would not do otherwise."

Russian-Built Bombing Planes Poised on Airfields in Vietnam

SAIGON (UPI)—Soviet-made jet bombers capable of hitting U.S. positions in South Vietnam's northern provinces are poised on North Vietnamese airfields, U.S. spokesmen said today.

Their 1,000-mile range would permit raids against the U.S. troop positions south of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) where North Vietnamese troops are massed for an expected attack.

Today, however, the Communist forces sent only harassment patrols against the vital Marine fortress at Khe Sanh. Their gunfire sent a giant C130 transport exploding into the base runway, military spokesmen said.

The pilots said their bombs landed "on or in close proximity to" one of the bombers, and two similar planes were seen nearby. The spokesmen said they believed the North Vietnamese possessed six of the bombers.

and to Meet the Artist

G. Harvey's work has gained him acceptance numerous times by the juries in the highly competitive Eastern exhibitions. He was honored with the New Masters Award in the Grand National Exhibition in New York City. Very recently the Austin artist received a life membership in the Grand Central Galleries in New York City. To become a participating artist member of Grand Central, an artist must have recommendations before his work is reviewed. While the art jury reviews works of as many as 500 artists, only 2 or 3 may be selected for life membership yearly. Grand Central Art Galleries is a non-profit institution. Its rolls list such distinguished members as Sargent, Remington, Russell, Waugh, Ryder, etc. G. Harvey's works have also been exhibited with the American Artists Professional League at the Lever House, New York, Allied Artists at the National Academy Gallery, New York; and the Academic Artists Association, Springfield, Massachusetts.

The artist's canvases hang in the White House, L. B. J. Ranch, Connally Ranch and in many art patrons' homes across the Southwest who have helped spiral his work to National prominence. Gov. and Mrs. Connally selected four of his painting and presented them as gifts to the Governor of Mexico. Other paintings by the artist will be on display.

Center Wrap-Up

George Smith, Director
Pampa Youth and Community Center

SWIM LESSONS: The Center is now in the second session of the new year's swim program and are taking enrollments for future sessions. Lessons are taught the year-around on a regulated plan a feature the Red Cross swim program. This is for beginners, advanced beginners, intermediates, swimmers, junior and senior life saving and the water safety instructors' course. Added to this program by the Center is the polylog class which includes pre-beginners from age 4-6 not in school and who measure 33 inches to the chin. All classes are taught by Jackie Marlar from the Red Cross office. Classes are taught on a 2 1/2 week basis with 10 meeting days each session. Classes meet from 4-5 and 5-6 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Courses are available to everyone with enrollment free to Center members and $3 to non-members. The Schedule:

- Feb. 19-March 6
 - 4-5 p.m.—Beginners.
 - 4-6 p.m.—Swimmers.
 - March 11-27
 - 4-5 p.m.—Beginners.
 - 4-6 p.m.—Adv. Beginners.
 - April 1-19
 - 4-5 p.m.—Polywogs.
 - 4-6 p.m.—Beginners.
- This class will not meet April 12 or 15.

MEMBERSHIPS: The Center is operated on a membership plan and is a privately operated recreation center. Funds come from donations and memberships. No tax money is used at the Center. By these donations they supplement the membership fees and keeps them actually below costs as compared to other recreation Centers around the U.S.

The Center offers two types of memberships. One, the individual membership, which is for persons 8 years of age or older, including adults. This sells for $5 for six months and $8 per year. The reason for the lower age limit is children under 8 years of age are not allowed in the swimming pool unless they are chaperoned. The second type of membership is for the entire family. This membership includes all members of the immediate family and sells for $12 for six months and $20 per year.

TEEN DANCES: The Center is continuing the sponsorship of teen dances on Friday nights from 9-11 p.m. after the basketball games and from 8-11 p.m. on nights when no athletic contest is scheduled. There has been competition from private groups on dance nights but we feel the parents would rather have their children at the Youth Center instead of going out of town. However, in order for the teen dances to continue, we will need the support of the young people. The Center has always brought in the best bands available to give a variety of sounds. In order to do this, we have had to maintain good crowds to pay the bands. Your support will insure good bands throughout the year. The present schedule is: Feb. 16 Torrents; Feb. 23 Motifs; March 1 The Links; March 7 Jekyl and the Hydys; March 8 Tiaras.

BASKETBALL LEAGUE: The league divisions head into the last week of regular competition this week with First National, Curtis Well Service and Cock O' Walk leading. Divisional playoffs will consist of each respective finisher in each division to play each other. RESULTS this week:
Curtis Well Serv., 61, Celahese 50; Cock O' Walk 67, Richard Dreg 26; First Na'al Bank 69, Mecco Constr. 35; Gibson Discount Center 80, Coca Cola 46.

Connally Says Government Takes Lead in Crime Fight

DALLAS (UPI) — Gov. John Connally said Friday Texas state government has taken the lead in a united front against crime in the state.

In a speech prepared for a meeting of United Press International editors, Connally said the state is leading the war on crime, but support of law enforcement by the general public is essential before increasing crime rates can be stopped.

"Effective law enforcement will become a reality only when law-abiding citizens are prepared to become involved with their responsibility. Even then the situation of the moment does not directly affect them," Connally said.

He said problems of crime and disorder will be solved "only if the people want them solved."

Connally told the UPI editors "we must repeatedly come before groups such as yours in the hope that you will carry the message to the people."

Awakening the Public
"This we have been doing."

Enforce the Law
"The DPS service commanders were instructed to enforce the law in local jurisdictions if local authorities fail to act against offenders. And they were instructed to make this policy known in their respective areas," Connally said.

He added that the Texas Liquor Control Board this week instructed its employees to call upon local authorities to assist in "investigating complaints and reports, gathering evidence and in conducting surveillance."

He said these moves are designed to bring about a more united front in combatting crime, and "they are bound to bring results."

PAINTING TO BE UNVEILED TODAY — President Lyndon B. Johnson is among the admirers of the work of G. Harvey, the noted artist who is in Pampa today and whose huge western painting will be unveiled at the First National Bank this afternoon. The President is shown with four of the G. Harvey oils which he purchased while he was home for the Thanksgiving holidays. The western scene at the bottom of the picture and the landscape which he is holding will go in his White House office. The others will be placed in his Texas ranch house. The President has commissioned Harvey to paint other scenes of his ranch and boyhood home. Before any of the paintings were begun, President Johnson personally conducted the artist on a tour of his ranch to discuss points of interest. The public is invited to attend the reception from 3 to 5 this afternoon in the lobby of the First National Bank, Harvey will be present at the unveiling.

Heart Specialists To Leave for Venezuela

HOUSTON (UPI)—A team of heart specialists headed by Dr. Michael E. DeBakey, will leave today to spend a week in Caracas, Venezuela, where they will lecture and perform operations.

The group was invited by the U.S. State Department's Bureau fairs to make the medical goodwill trip at the request of the North American Association of Venezuela.

The Houstonians were asked to visit Venezuela in connection with the 400th anniversary of the founding of Caracas.

Dr. DeBakey, professor and chairman of the surgery department at Baylor University College of Medicine, and nine other members of his heart surgery team at Methodist Hospital will make the trip.

They will take 1,500 pounds of equipment including a heart-lung machine, oxygenator, artificial tubes, drugs and other items necessary for all kinds of cardiovascular operations.

Essentially, the same group made a similar lecture and surgery demonstration tour of Yugoslavia and Italy last August at the request of the State Department.

Dr. DeBakey is presently in Europe and will fly directly to Venezuela Sunday to meet the other team members. They will return to Houston Feb. 18.

In this weekly column, Citizens Bank & Trust Co. will seek to provide answers to questions frequently asked of us about banking practices and bank services. If YOU have a question which has been puzzling you, write us a letter and we'll get the answer for you!

Q. When my husband and I were married a month ago, his parents gave us a $100 checking account as a wedding gift. We just received our first statement and my husband says it's my job to "reconcile" it. I don't know how and he can't explain so that I can understand. How do I do it as I'm supposed to do with this statement?
—Mrs. J.A.

A. "Reconciling" the bank statement means "comparing" the bank's record of your account with your own figures to make certain there's no error on either side. Assuming that you filled out check stubs or your check register each time that you wrote a check (and that is the ONLY way to keep track of your checking account), follow this simple procedure: Step 1: from the balance (or remainder) of your account as shown by your last checkbook stub or check register entry, SUBTRACT any service charge shown on the bank's statement. Step 2: total-up any deposits you may have made—by mail or in person—which do NOT appear on your bank statement and ADD this total to the final balance as it appears on the bank's statement. Step 3: arrange your cancelled checks (which came back to you with your statement) in order, either by number or by the date you wrote them. Step 4: compare your cancelled checks with your checkbook stubs or check register and determine which checks have not been paid by the bank. (While you are doing this, compare the amount on each stub or check register entry with its matching cancelled check to make sure you entered the proper amount in your checkbook record.) SUBTRACT the total of unpaid checks from your last figure on the bank statement. Your checkbook total and your bank statement total should now agree when they are compared. If there is any difference, retrace all your steps and examine your figure work for errors in addition or subtraction.

New Wheat Variety NOT Recommended

By FOSTER WHALEY
County Agriculture Agent

A slick trick in selling a new variety of seed to farmers is to publish a feature story in all the area and local news media that relates some sensational claims about yield and quality under very adverse weather conditions.

The next step is to establish the fact there is a shortage of the seed.

The next step is to ask an unreasonable price per bushel for the seed.

Then make the farmer agree to give the seller of the Utopian seed the option to buy it back at a high price.

If a good job is done on each step as outlined above, you can sell worthless seed at an unheard-of price.

Many of you will remember when farmers in a five-state area in the early 1950s fell for a grass seed that turned out to be of less value than Johnson grass. The exact procedure as outlined above was followed in the promotion of the grass that is a laugh today.

Recently, you might have read a feature story about a Spring wheat variety that claimed to produce close to 75 bushels of wheat per acre on one inch of moisture.

According to Dr. Kenneth Porter, agronomist, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Bushland, under Progress Report No. 2174, "Returns from Spring-seeded wheat have never been profitable in Texas."

The Crop Quality Council, an industry-state-federal service on wheat says:

"Based on evidence available from this first year of tests, we conclude that the processing qualities of the wheat in question are not acceptable.

Economically important deficiencies in milling, processing, and blending characteristics of the wheat in question revealed in these tests, suggest to us that the commercial baking industry will seek alternate sources of wheat supplies because of the extent of the undesirable characteristics of the Spring wheat in question."

L. M. Atkins, small grains researcher for the Texas Experiment Station, says:

"Texas has a good quality short-strawed wheat for irrigation on high yield level acreages called Sturdy, so why grow a poor quality, spring-type wheat that may be winter killed."

The first thing most reputable seed companies do when they believe they have an outstanding new seed variety is get some of this seed in the hands of your local Texas Agricultural Experiment Station for testing.

I would recommend that before you jump off the deep end and purchase any high-priced seed, to check and see what our Agricultural Experiment Stations think of the seed.

Don't forget it was the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station that developed hybrid milo that has returned hundreds of millions of dollars of extra profits to the milo producers in the nation.

It was at one of the Texas Experiment Stations that the male, sterile screwworm fly was produced that eradicated the screwworm from Texas and saved Texas livestock producers an estimated 100 million dollars a year.

Research work at our nation's Experiment Stations have reduced the amount of feed required to produce one pound of pork to as little as three and one-half pounds of feed.

It was our Agricultural Experiment Stations that have revealed how to produce one pound of broiler with only one pound of feed even though it is not economical. The only reason you, as a consumer, can buy broilers in your supermarket today for 29 cents a pound is because of agricultural research.

In many cases this research was done at one of our Agricultural Experiment Stations with no strings attached on results. Some reputable company did preliminary research and then turned the product to the agricultural research scientist for further testing and improvements.

There are lots of different opinions by farm organizations on farm policy. But one thing they are all agreed on is that agricultural research, under the unbiased guidance of Experiment Station personnel, is a good deal for all farmers and ranchers.

Agricultural research by our Federal and State Experiment Stations has made this nation one of the best-clothed and best-fed nations this world has ever known. It costs the average American less than 18 cents of each spendable dollar for food in America. In many Communist nations, it costs as much as 50 cents per dollar and more.

Had it not been for the vast stockpile of Agricultural Research information on production in Agriculture in the United States, there would be many empty shelves at the supermarkets and no doubt we would be spending close to 50 per cent of our income for food. We would have fewer second cars and boats and all the other luxury items that make us the envy of the world.

The number ONE benefactor to Agricultural Research is not the farmer but the urban and non-rural consumer.

Economist have shown many times that a one-per cent increase in supply causes as much as a 3 to 5 per cent decrease in price to the farmer. Look what last year's 8 to 8 per cent increase in feed supply did to the price of corn in Iowa.

Grain Sorghum Performance Is Released by HPRF

A yield of over 8,000 pounds of grain sorghum on one summer irrigation in West Texas seems almost impossible.

But it happened at the High Plains Research Foundation (HPRF) in the limited irrigation variety performance test in 1967.

Yields ranged from 5,587 lbs. to 8,006 pounds per acre on 28 different grain sorghum hybrids. The yields were brought about by a total of 17.34 inches of rainfall between May and October, with much of this rain falling at very appropriate times.

The test, conducted by Loyd Lanford, associate agronomist, was planted May 18 at a five pound per acre seeding rate and was harvested on Oct. 12, 1967.

Each variety received 125 pounds of Ammonium Phosphate (11-48-0) at planting time and 50 pounds of Nitrogen from an application of Anhydrous Ammonia when the plants were approximately 18 inches tall. A pre-plant irrigation and a summer irrigation of 4.83 inches on July 26 were applied to all varieties. Protein percentage of the grain ranged from 8.81 to 11 per cent.

The later maturing hybrids performed better in the 1967 test, but in the two previous years the early maturing varieties were superior. It is thought that the difference in rainfall was responsible for this reaction.

This test should be of particular interest to those farmers who have limited underground water or who might be interested in water conservation practices on their farm. The complete results will be reported in the annual Research Report of the Research Foundation for 1967, which will be mailed to all supporting members in March.

Rainfall Across State Causing Lag In Farming

COLLEGE STATION (UPI) — The Texas Agricultural Extension Service said Thursday outdoor work schedules are far behind in many sections of the state as a result of almost an entire month of rain.

The service said drying conditions are greatly needed to enable farmers to fertilize land before planting time.

Soil moisture was in good supply almost everywhere in Texas and stock tanks were running full. Grazing prospects are good for the spring. Open weather boosted small grain growth, but grazing from those grains was cut by the soggy fields.

Dryland wheat in Northwest Texas got a boost from the weather and prospects improved greatly for grazing and grain. Ranges and pastures greened in open weather and stockmen should be able to cut down on the supplemental feeding of the past several days if the good growing conditions prevail.

The extension service said some cotton was still in harvest, but a waning amount.

When land dries enough for work, planting preparation will be full speed ahead, the service said.

Stockmen reported livestock in good condition generally.

SCOTCHES RUMORS — PARIS (UPI) — Brigitte Bardot denied rumors circulating in Europe and the United States that she would separate from her third husband, Gunther Sachs.

Feb. 15 May Be Tax Deadline for Texas Farmers

DALLAS (SpI) — Texas farmers who did not file a declaration of estimated Federal income tax by January 15 may have a tax deadline in February.

Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue, said if you earned at least two-thirds of your 1967 gross income from farming or fishing but did not file an estimate by Jan. 15 you must file your 1967 Federal income tax return, Form 1040, and pay any tax due by Thursday, February 15, 1968, to avoid penalty for underpayment of estimated tax.

DIG FOR MINERS — JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — Rescue teams struggled to reach five African miners trapped 1,800 feet underground at a gold mine near Klerksdorp. Four Africans were killed and 46 other miners injured Thursday when a severe tremor shook the mine.

County Panhandle Water District News

By LYNN MCDANIEL

Curtis Schaffer has just returned from Dallas where he represented the Gray County Soil and Water Conservation District at the annual National Convention of Soil and Water Conservation Districts. Mrs. Oma Schaffer accompanied him on the trip. Schaffer also attended the meeting of the National Great Plains Conservation Program Committee meeting as a representative of this area.

There seems to be a lot of activity going on at the present time. Moody Farms, Rex McAnelly, W. F. Shepard, Roy Kretzmeier, M. L. Henderson, Taylor Estate, J. T. Trew, Tony Smitherman, Peb Everett, Bob Gordon, Walter Ollinger, Ralph Britten, Abe Lewis, and Floyd Franklin have been or are getting ready to install underground pipelines.

We are scheduling assistance to farmers and ranchers as soon as we can get to it, but with this rush, I would appreciate it if you would contact us the week before you need assistance and we can better schedule our time and provide you with the timely assistance you need.

By FELIX W. RYALS
The West Texas Water Institute held in Lubbock last Friday was a very important milestone in the overall effort to solve the water problem of West Texas.

A number of experts, as well as influential people, appeared on the program. Dr. Edward Teller, the atomic physicist, spoke to a packed audience during the noon luncheon. He is currently working with and assisting in "Operation Plowshare". This is the federally sponsored project to develop peaceful uses of atomic energy.

Among his many endeavors, Dr. Teller is on the staff of Texas Tech as a consultant. Texas Tech is fortunate to have him. Those who heard him speak on the West Texas effort to import water from the Mississippi River came away feeling thankful for having him in our area.

He stated emphatically that the effort to bring water to our area would be successful. Dr. Teller feels that the cost, to produce atomic energy, to be used in moving water would be much cheaper 10 years from now. He recommended that we make an "all-out effort" to get all of the research completed as quickly as possible to get ready for the final stage of building the necessary canals, pipelines and lifts to move the water.

We have carried two portions, in past weeks, of a talk made by C. Wayne Keese, Agricultural Engineer of Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The talk was on "Irrigation Wells—Construction and Testing". Last week he discussed "Selection of Well Screen or Perforated Casing". Space did not permit the carrying of the final portion of this section. We will finish that section as follows:

PERFORATIONS

Where perforated casing is used, the material is normally the same as used for the blank casing. Where corrosion resistant material is required, manufactured screens made of bronze, brass, stainless steel, and other alloys are available. Many Texas ground waters used for irrigation contain minerals which may cause encrustation on the perforated section of the well screen. Generally heavier screen or casing is recommended to withstand acid treatments which might be required to control or remove this encrustation.

GRAVEL-PACKED WELL CONSTRUCTION

A gravel-packed well is constructed so that the aquifer immediately surrounding the screen is made more permeable by removing the natural formation material and replacing it with coarser material from another source. Gravel-packed construction is recommended where the natural formation consists of fine, uniform sands and—where the formation is extensively laminated, that is, consists of alternating fine, medium or coarse layers that are thin and difficult to locate precisely.

Gravel-packing may be more expensive than "naturally developed" wells. The added cost is caused by the larger hole size required and the purchase and delivery of specially graded gravel for the pack material. However, if a well is drilled by the reverse rotary method, the extra size hole required is actually little more expensive than a smaller hole. Increased diameter may be considerably more expensive when the cable tool method of drilling is used.

District Attorney Says Testimony 'Helpful'

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Asst. Dist. Atty. James Alcock Thursday called the testimony of Mrs. Marina Oswald Porter "helpful" in connection with the assassination of President Kennedy.

"Her testimony was well worth the effort," said Alcock. "I think she contributed something positive."

However, Alcock said Mrs. Porter would not be called back today and indicated that she and her husband, Kenneth, would return to suburban Dallas, Texas, Thursday night.

The Russian-born widow of presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald was closeted with the Orleans Parish grand jury for more than four hours.

Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison had subpoenaed Mrs. Porter "because she could tell about Oswald's associations when the two lived in New Orleans, in September 1963."

Kerry Thornley, of Tampa, Fla., a former Marine Corps buddy of Oswald, spent several hours with the grand jury Thursday morning.

Thornley denied Garrison's claim that he was associated with Oswald in the summer of 1963. He said he did not see Oswald after June of 1959.

Foreign News Commentary

In New Delhi through the next six weeks, representatives of 132 nations will be seeking the answer to a problem which noted scientists have declared equals or transcends in importance the danger of an atomic war.

It is the growing gap between the rich and the poor nations, the danger of mass starvation and resulting violence and what Gunnar Myrdal, a Swedish economic and social scientist of world repute, calls a "refusal to think of the unthinkable."

The meeting is called the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development. It is not a glamorous meeting since it deals with the dull figures of international economics and of starvation in terms of numbers instead of people.

Attract Little Interest

It is unlikely to attract wide popular interest which in itself is illustrative of the "apathy" of which the rich nations are accused.

Out of it the under-developed nations hope to obtain from the industrialized country duty-free entry of some of their manufactured goods, stabilization of prices for their raw materials and an increase in development aid at interest rates they can afford to pay.

It is a subject which has occupied the attention of world governments since the end of World War II and the emergence of newly independent nations, of the members of GATT, the General Agreement on Tariff and Trade, and of the United States which more than all others has distributed millions in foreign aid.

It is not all the fault of the rich nations, since the have-nots frequently are charged with doing nothing for themselves. But the figures themselves are frightening:

Population Explosion

After millions of years, the world population in 1968 stood at 1 billion. By the year 2,000, it will stand at around 7 billion.

Today, there are more people hungry in the world and more illiterates than there were at the end of World War II.

More than four million people each year die of starvation.

Against the slow progress of the under-developed nations, Israel and Nationalist China on the island of Formosa have been bright exceptions.

FRIENDLY RELATIONS

RAWALPINDI (UPI)—Pakistan's information minister, Khwaja Shahabuddin, said Pakistan attached "great importance" to its friendly relations with Communist China. Speaking at a welcoming ceremony for a visiting Chinese song and dance troupe, Shahabuddin said Sino-Pakistani relations were built on "solid foundations."

disappointment.

But the greatest disappointment of all is world failure to recognize that it isn't always a war that leads to slaughter of the innocents.

Selective Service Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE —Below are questions now being asked at draft boards. The answers are by Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, state selective service director, 209 W. 9th St. Austin, Texas 78701. He will welcome your questions.

Q—What changes in status must a man report to his local board?

A—Each classified man must keep his board currently informed of any fact that might result in his being placed in a different classification. These are facts such as, but not limited to, any change in his occupational, marital, family, dependency, and military status, of his physical condition, of his home address. He must report the change to his board within 30 days after it occurs. The report should be in writing.

Q—I was told that each component of a Selective Service number has a meaning. Will you identify these for me?

A—The number consists of four elements. The first identifies the state in which the man is registered; the second is the number of the local board; the third is the last two digits of his year of birth; and the fourth is the relative position, according to the sequence of dates and birth, of the man among other men of his board who were born in the same year.

Q—What is the organizational structure of the Selective Service System?

A—As a permanent, independent agency of the executive branch of the federal government, the Selective Service System, through its director, is responsible directly to the President. The system extends into all counties of the U. S. and its possessions through 4,067 local boards. These boards are co-ordinated by the respective state directors.

Nine Soviet-made tanks rumbled down a dusty road from Laos this week to spearhead a North Vietnamese assault that overran a U.S. Special Forces camp near the Marine stronghold of Khe Sanh.

The 400 defenders, mostly Montagnard tribesmen, at Lang Vei, just a half-mile from Laos and four miles from Khe Sanh, destroyed four of the tanks but couldn't overcome the superior firepower. More than 300 of the defenders were killed or wounded. The rest escaped.

More important than the loss of the camp, said U.S. officials, was the presence of tanks. It was their first appearance in North Vietnam and officials said it meant the opening of still another phase of the war.

Massive Assault

The tanks made their appearance one week from the day Viet Cong guerrillas began their assaults on some 35 cities and communities, Jan. 31, the start of the Lunar New Year. The attack at Lang Vei was another of the probing assaults around the giant Marine base the U.S. Command says will soon be hit by the 20,000 North Vietnamese troops surrounding it.

The 5,000 Marines at Khe Sanh will defend it at all costs, the U.S. Command reaffirmed Friday.

As North Vietnamese troops continued what they hope is a softening up of Khe Sanh with artillery and mortar shells, Viet Cong guerrillas battled tenaciously to hang onto their footholds in the capital of Saigon and in the former imperial capital of Hue. The cost was dear to the Americans, allied forces and guerrillas.

Allied spokesmen said 26,621 guerrillas had been killed in the fighting. The allied toll was reported as 2,295 killed, including 810 Americans, and 9,399 wounded, including 4,117 U.S. troops.

Around the world:

Washington: British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, guest of honor at a White House state dinner, dramatically broke precedent by advising President Johnson in forceful terms not to heed "impatience and exasperated demands" for stepped-up fighting in Viet.

Washington: A new North Vietnamese bid for peace talks, this one from Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh, made it clear Hanoi still seeks an unconditional halt to U.S. bombing raids in the North before sitting down to negotiations.

Chicago: Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., claimed there was no prospect for the U.S. forces achieving a military victory in the Vietnam war. His the administration's policy in Vietnam.

Orangeburg, S.C.: Violence that erupted at a segregated bowling alley in this college community early in the week brought death to three persons and injuries to scores of others by the weekend.

Washington: Members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen struck the Seaboard and the Missouri-Pacific railways over the number of crewmen on certain runs.

New York: A strike for higher pay by the city's 10,000 garbage collectors that started on Feb. 2 had left close to 100,000 tons of garbage piled on city sidewalks and streets by the weekend.

Washington: President Johnson proposed to Congress a set of taxes on foreign travel that would include a 5 per cent tax on the cost of a traveler's ticket and a percentage on the amount he spent above $7 a day while on his trip.

Washington: President Johnson, in other messages to Congress, asked for a $3.04-billion foreign aid bill, an eight-point consumer protection program, and a series of measures to deal with crime, rioting and illegal drugs.

Q—My wife died two years ago and I was paid the lump sum death payment. Cash payments were not made to our young children because my wife has not worked for many years. Has this been changed?

A—Yes, the 1967 Amendments provide for payment to children, under 18 or disabled (or ages 18 to 22 if in school), of a female worker who was insured at the time of her death, disability, or retirement, even though she had no recent work experience. A new application is necessary as well as the birth certificate for the child.

Q—Will prescription drugs now be covered by social security health insurance?

A—No. However, the Congress is studying this matter further.

Social Security Questions Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE —The following questions and answers on Social Security and Medicare benefits were prepared by the Pampa Social Security Office in the Hughes Bldg. and are published by The Pampa News as a public service:

Q—I plan to apply for social security retirement benefits in 1968. What information about my earnings will I need?

A—If you were employed in 1967, bring your 1967 Wage and Tax Statement, W-2, showing your 1967 earnings. If you were in business for yourself, bring a copy of your 1967 Income Tax Return, if it has been filed. Of course, also bring with you your birth or baptismal certificate; if you have neither, bring the oldest records that show your age or date of birth.

THE BALL ESCAPES the grasp of Pampa's Beau Bond (52) and Jimmy Cornutt (22) along with Richard Black (31) of Coronado in Friday night's loss to Coronado, 57-55.

FIVE-WAY TIE Mustangs Upset Harvesters by 2; Monterey Derails Tascosa by 8

By CURTIS MONTGOMERY
Sports Editor

Pampa's Harvesters lost but so did Tascosa, leaving the district race in a five-way tie for first place and again gives coach Terry Culley's team a chance to take the crown without a play-off by winning their two remaining games.

Pampa lost in the last five seconds to Coronado by 57-55 and Tascosa fell before the only other team to beat Pampa in the district, Monterey by 63-55.

Pampa, Tascosa, Plainview, Caprock and Monterey all are tied atop the District 3-4A, second round standings now, all with two losses.

Pampa is on the road for the last two ball games after losing their only home game of the year to a fighting bunch from Lubbock Coronado led by the hot shooting Dan Gobin who had 30 for the night. The Harvesters play Tuesday night against Borger and Friday close out the regular season with a visit to Palo Duro.

George Bailey broke two PHS scoring records in the game. The senior set a season mark for PHS and a two-season mark for scoring. He hit 27 for the night, two coming at the charity line which put the Harvesters out in front with seven seconds to go by 55-54.

With 4:22 to go Dave Marcell tied the score for the Mustangs at 50-54. Bo Lang missed a free throw and Beau Bond blocked a shot a few seconds later leaving the score tied.

But Gobin drove in for two at 2:20 for Coronado. Lang came back with a jump shot at 2:02 to tie it again, 52-52.

Gobin drove and his shot was short with Bond gobbling up the rebound. Pampa called time with 1:30 to go. Lang hit a free toss with 1:02 putting the Harvesters on top by one. Culley advised the boys at time out, "We've got one time out left. Be smart!"

With 40 seconds to go Tom Malone hit a five-foot set shot for a 54-53 advantage for Coronado. Pampa then used its last time out.

Bailey and Jimmy Cornutt shot and missed and a series of tips resulted in a foul with Bailey going to the charity line.

With 17 seconds on the clock Bailey hit the first shot. Coronado then called time out. They called two more time outs before Bailey went back out to hit the second free shot to put Pampa out front by one.

Coronado rushed the ball down the court, passed to Malone who put in the five-footer with five seconds to go making it 56-55. A double foul followed with Jimmy Cornutt coming out of it with a bloody mouth.

Gobin was fouled at the buzzer and after a celebration on the court hit one of the tosses.

The lead changed hands nine times and was tied five times. "B" Team Wins

The Shockers won by 77-54 over the Coronado "B" team Friday. Jim Gallman hit 16 for Pampa and Billy Thomas added 21. Edward Moultrie added 10 for Pampa. Chris Byler had 16 to be high for Coronado. The "C" team victory went to Coronado by 71-66.

Ponies Crush Tech by 85-68

DALLAS (UPI)—Bill Voight netted a career high of 31 points to lead the Southern Methodist Mustangs to a 85-68 Southwest Conference victory over Texas Tech Saturday.

Voight also pulled down 15 rebounds. The Mustangs held a 49-38 halftime lead.

Jim Nelson scored 18 points for the Red Raiders and was followed by Jerry Haggard with 12.

The victory tied SMU with Tech in the SWC standings with a 2-6 record. The Mustangs are 3-15 for the season and Tech is 6-12.

SMU was outscored from the field, 28 field goals to 26, but the Mustangs sank 33 of 42 four shots, compared to only 12 of 17 for Tech.

Montgomery Word

BY CURTIS MONTGOMERY
Pampa Daily News Sports Editor

It's like something straight out of Charles Dickens. You could honestly call it "Oliver Twist-a-go-go." That's the closest we can get to describing the scene at the Pampa Junior High School Gymnasium.

Pictures say more than words any day of the week. Billy Shakespeare would even agree to that so give a little look see at staff photographer Bill Martin's art work on the subject of the decaying athletic facilities at PJHS.

It has been said by some that the gym floor has a few dead spots while others comment that there are a few live spots.

The ceiling of the gymnasium looks as if a course in anti-aircraft were taught with live shells. Some of the holes are a yard in diameter.

Dressing room facilities are archaic. Many of the youngsters don't even have a wood plank to sit on while dressing, as many of the bigger boys do. One side under the stands serves as the dressing room for some and there is no heater to warm the floor. Under the other side of the stands there is another dressing room which is strictly "uptown" with a heater.

With such facilities as these it is difficult to see how the coaches are able to get as many boys out for sports as they do.

In the coaches' office a keg of nails (estimated weight: 40 pounds) sets, a testimony to a shabby clean-up job of the playground next to the field house. One of the coaches had one of his PE classes pick up a few nails on the grounds and put them in a keg, leftovers from a demolished building.

It really wouldn't be a bad idea to sell the present Pampa Junior High to some business and build a whole new junior high. It is a sad indictment against the people of Pampa that they allow such a situation as the rotting gymnasium at PJHS go untended.

Don't spend the rest of the day looking for the pictures of the Pampa Junior High Gymnasium. None were taken. McHenry Lane, acting superintendent of schools stated yesterday "I don't feel that there is any need for any such pictures at this time."

There may not be any need for any pictures but there is a need for a raw gym. That we guarantee!

Fleming Takes First Gold Medal for US

GRENOBLE, France (UPI)—Peggy Fleming of Colorado Springs, Colo., America's dark-haired darling of the ice, gave the United States its first Gold Medal at the 10th winter Olympic Games Saturday night by sweeping through a daring routine of leaps, loops and spins for an overwhelming triumph in women's figure skating.

Twice world champions and sixth in the 1964 Olympics, the elegant 19-year-old Colorado College sophomore who was born in San Jose, Calif., dazzled the judges with her all-out free skating as she had in the five dull but critical compulsory figures earlier in the week in the Stade de Glace.

Superb Effort

Pretty Peggy averaged 5.8 on content in her four minute routine to music before a crowd of 11,000 but then the judges gave her a straight series of 5.9's—with 6.0 being perfect and unheard of—as her marks for her superb performance.

The victory by Miss Fleming, gorgeous in a chartreuse costume honoring the Chartreuse mountain range above Grenoble, climaxed a fabulous American comeback after an airplane crash in Belgium in 1961 wiped out 18 top U.S. skaters and coaches.

The third American girl to win the Gold Medal in the last four Olympiads, she ran up a total of nine ordinals and 1,970.5 points to 18 ordinals and 1,822.3 points for Gabriele Seyfert of East Germany who won the Silver Medal.

Hana Maskova, a beauteous Czech, was third with 1,828.8 points and Albertina Noyes of Arlington, Mass., finished fourth with 1,797.3. Fourteen-year-old Janet Lynn of Rockford, Ill., scored 1,698.7 for ninth place in a field of 31.

"This was not the best I've ever skated and I thought after the first jump I would have to go a little more cautiously and not flat out," said breathless Peggy after her scores were flashed.

"But this was the moment I have been waiting for all my life."

She clutched her mother, a widow, who said, "This is just fabulous, honey."

It wound up a day that began with American disasters on the Alpine ski slopes and speed skating oval.

American girls trailed in the prestigious women's downhill ski event in which 20-year-old Tyrolean beauty Olga Fall led Austria to the first, third and fourth places in dramatic assault against French favorites.

Eighteen-year-old Kiki Cutler of Bend, Ore., was the best of the Yanks way back in 17th place. The top U.S. hope didn't even reach the starting gate.

Karen Budge of Jackson Hole, Wyo., an 18-year-old ace high up in the seedings, went off the slopes with a dislocated shoulder 90 minutes before the start. She crashed into a tourist on skis while making a warm up run on the practice track and became the fifth U.S. ski team casualty of a nightmarish week.

New Mexico Whips UTEP

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—Ron Sanford and Greg Howard scored 18 points each to give the fifth-ranked University of New Mexico its 19th victory, a 64-58 win over the University of Texas at El Paso Saturday.

Sanford grabbed 12 rebounds and sank 10 of his 18 points in the second half as the Lobos rallied from a 51-51 tie with five minutes to play. He boosted the Lobos to a seven point lead before fouling out with 1:24 to go.

Willie Cager, the leading Miner with 15 points, tied the game at 51-51 then added a pair of free shots on Sanford's fifth foul. But from that point the Miner offense stalled until Mike Switzer sank a 20-foot jumper as the buzzer sounded to give UTEP its closing basket.

Reserves Leonard Lopez and Keith Griffith sank two free shots apiece in the closing two minutes to bolster the Lobo margin.

The Lobos moved to a 19-1 mark, while the Miners dropped to an 11-5 overall record.

Nicklaus, Gieberger Catch Weiskopf in Golf Tourney

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—Al Geiberger and Jack Nicklaus caught young Tom Weiskopf in the third round of the 72-hole, $150,000 Andy Williams San Diego Open to throw the tournament into a three-way tie after 54 holes Saturday.

Weiskopf, 25, like Nicklaus a former Ohio State University golf team captain, went into the next-to-last round with a one-stroke lead. He shot a one-under-par 71 on the Torrey Pines course while Nicklaus checked in with a 69 and Geiberger had a 68.

Their 54-hole totals were 205, 11-under par, with one more round to go Sunday. Par is 36-36—72.

Weiskopf had earlier rounds of 66-68—134. Nicklaus shot 67-69—136 and Geiberger 68-69—137. Dave Hill, the Evergreen, Colo., veteran who was in second place one stroke behind Weiskopf at the 36-hole mark, had a third round 72 and a 54-hole total of 207.

One stroke ahead of him in fourth place was young Bob Lunn of Sacramento, Calif., who shot a 66 and had a total of 206.

At 208 were Marty Fleckman, Port Arthur, Tex., with a third round 69, and Ray Floyd, St.

Andrews, Ill., also with a 69. The husky Lunn, 22, who won the National Public Links title in 1963 just after graduating from Lincoln High School in San Francisco, shot consistent golf

Anthem Gives Peggy Bumps

GRENOBLE, France (UPI)—It wasn't the golden Olympic medal that gave American figure skater Peggy Fleming goose bumps—it was the sound of the U.S. national anthem being played for the first time to herald a winner at the Winter Games in Grenoble.

"That really got me," the pert, 19-year-old Colorado Springs, Colo., star confessed a few minutes after winning the women's figure skating event and giving the United States its first taste of gold.

"It was nice having the medal hung around my neck but I got goose bumps when they played the anthem," she said.

Peggy said completion of the free-style part of the program—and the knowledge she had finally won the gold—"came as a bit of a letdown to me."

"This is something I have been building for all my life... all these years of practice and now it is finally over," she said. "It's bound to be a let-down."

"But this is still the most wonderful day of my life," she added.

with his third round 66. Two of his birdie putts rolled in from 15 feet.

"I got a new set of irons three weeks ago and since then I've been hitting the ball good," he said.

Arnold Palmer, who has this tournament twice, shot a one-under-par 71 in the third round after starting off with a double bogey six on his first hole. His 54-hole score was 215, one-under-par.

Defending champion Bob Goalby also had a 71, putting him in the 210 bracket. Billy

Rains Postpone Tennis Matches

EDINBURG, Tex. (UPI)—Steady rains Saturday washed out the scheduled quarterfinal and semifinal rounds of Pan-

American College tennis tournament.

Tournament officials said they planned to try to complete the tournament on Sunday despite the postponed rounds. That means the finalists will have to play three singles matches Sunday and also take part in the doubles competition.

Top quarterfinal matches will find first seeded Vincente Zarza of the University of Corpus Christi playing Sherwood Stewart of Lamar Tech and second seeded John Pickens of Rice taking on teammate Fritz Schunck.

Casper, the 1966 champion, was another 71 shooter, landing at 211 for 54 holes along with Gay Brewer, the Masters champion, and Doug Sanders, who shot a 67 in the third round.

UCLA Nearly Upset

By United Press International
UCLA's rtp-roaring road show nearly rolled to a halt in sleepy Corvallis, Ore., while a carnival in tiny Hanover, N.H., almost detained Columbia.

Both the second-ranked UCLA Bruins and the seventh-ranked Columbia Lions were happy to escape with their lives Friday night in those peaceful hamlets, staying off the two biggest upsets of the college basketball season.

UCLA, a toser only once in the last two seasons, overcame a pesky zone defense and a methodical Oregon State attack to eke out a 55-52 victory over the Beavers. Columbia, undefeated since mid-December, had to go into two overtimes to edge sophomore-dominated Dartmouth 76-70 during the school's annual Winter Carnival.

The Bruins were bothered by the Beavers' tough zone and Lew Alcindor, UCLA's celebrated 7-foot-1½ inch center, was matched almost point for point by 7-foot Vic Bartolome, a sophomore. Lew finished with 20 points and Bartolome 17, the measure of difference between the two teams.

Dartmouth, 4-12 prior to the game, shocked Columbia by opening up a 13-point lead with four sophomores doing the damage. But the Lions, victims of repeated turnovers in the early stages of the game, regained their poise and tied the score 54-54 at the end of regulation time.

They had to rally again for a 61-61 standoff in the first overtime; but six free throws by reserve Bruce Metz in the second extra session clinched Columbia's 10th consecutive victory.

Columbia's victory left the Lions in a tie for first place in the Ivy League with Princeton, a 69-62 victory over Yale, UCLA's only challenger in the Pacific Eight, Southern California, defeated Oregon 79-69 to remain a game back of the Bruins.

In other Pacific Eight games, California defeated Washington 79-66 and Washington State held off Stanford 74-71. Cornell edged Harvard 83-79 and Penn tripped Brown 61-53 in Ivy League action.

Elsewhere, New Mexico State whipped Arizona 93-75, Loyola of the South battered Air Force 86-69, Loyola of Los Angeles bumped San Jose State behind Rick Adelman's 33 points and Santa Clara crushed Pacific 98-83.

BEAU BOND snares a rebound in Friday night's game between Pampa and Coronado. The visitors from Lubbock won by 57-55. Dan Gobin and his teammates look as if they want no part of Bond. Gobin was high for Coronado with 30.

Grenoble a Go-Go

GRENOBLE, France—There is supposed to be a mountain at the end of every street in this fourth-century bastion of the Dauphin, an Alpine region of southeastern France. There is also a gendarme, French version of cop, and a taxi-driver with a cigarette dangling from the end of his mouth—and now, more likely than not, a pretty young thing in a red bunny fur packet and tight stretch pants.

She's one of the 350 official hostesses gathered unto Grenoble for the 10th staging of the Winter Olympics, all properly trained in the etiquette of the program by Mlle. Solange Castry, chief stewardess of Air Force on detached service to the cause of international good will.

Staging an Olympics is perforce an exercise in organized chaos because anybody who's got the idea that Grenoble is where the action is better get reoriented. It's only where Mademoiselle Hostesse hangs her miniskirt.

Actually, Grenoble is a little industrial city tucked into the Alps, where the rivers Isere and Drac meet and where the locals are still prepared to evacuate quickly to the crumbling fortresses that dot the hillside over the old part of town to ward off the hordes of invaders.

It has been called a French Peoria—no disparagement intended, because it has a big university (more than 15,000 students), a fine reputation for scientific and industrial research, and is a good place to buy the little lady gloves.

There is one go-go joint a couple of blocks from the Place Victor Hugo. There is also a Place de la Bastille and a Place de Verdun, so you can't quite forget you're in France.

The miniskirt gawking is not too good. Find a miniskirt and you will find a Parisienne. The locals are much too modest and sedate for such ostentation. Almost all of Mlle. Castry's hostesses have been imported for the Games and speak many languages. No-

Jacques, there is no universal language—at least, for the duration, which is two weeks. Solange has knelled curfew for 10 p.m.

Of course, it's different at the ski resorts in the environs, where the greatest attention centers, and the biggest diversion is watching the stretch pants squiggle. It's worth the many hairpin turns up the mountains to Chamrousse for the Olympic downhill and slalom events or to Alpe d'Huez for the bobsled. Both are to the east. On the western side of Grenoble lies St. Nizier, the ski jumping site.

All also specialize in apres-ski activities.

In Grenoble, the concentration is on ice—ice hockey, figure skating, speed skating. If a man's taste runs to Scotch on ice, he's well-beeled. It also runs to three bucks a shot.

Bustling Grenoble, with its quarter of a million inhabitants, is also the touch-off point for the party, in the temporary stadium seating 60,000 for the opening day ceremonies, with 2,300 contestants from 33 nations on parade.

There weren't one-seventh that many athletes on hand for the first Winter Olympic Games in Chamonix, France, 44 years ago. In fact, the number has more than doubled since the last snow and ice fiesta in Innsbruck, Austria, four years ago, when 1,111 competitors paraded.

The whole concept of the Games has changed since the Baron Pierre de Coubertin, also a Frenchman, laid down the modern Olympic creed: "The important thing in the Olympic Games is not winning but taking part."

For this version, Roger Vadim has been hired as chief of protocol for the Olympic Village. "To ensure," the French government tourist office tells us, "that the athletes enjoy the leisure so important to them."

M. Vadim, it should be noted, is a specialist in entertainment. He was once married to Brigitte Bardot and is currently the husband of Miss Jane Fonda.

FORT WORTH (UPI)—Rick Wittenbraker scored a basket with two seconds left to give Texas Christian University a 77-75 Southwest Conference victory over Arkansas Saturday.

Arkansas trailed by as much as 12 points 62-50 midway through the second half but came from behind and tied the game with 38 seconds left on Gary Stephens' basket.

TCU stalled the game until James Cash shot with seven seconds left. He missed, but Wittenbraker picked up the rebound and scored.

Both teams are now tied for second place in the SWC with 5-3 records.

Football Players
Donate Blood

DALLAS (UPI)—Forty-two football players from Howard Payne College will arrive in Dallas Monday to make the football team's sixth annual donation of blood for the Texas Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children.

The custom of Howard Payne football players' donating blood for the hospital started with a trip to replace blood used by the son of J. H. Shelton, the track coach.

The last game of the season for coach Bill Potts' team is Tuesday at 4 p.m. in Lee Junior High's gym against Lee.

More Problems Hit Houston

HOUSTON (UPI)—The University of Houston, whose top-ranked basketball team had trouble finding a place to practice, is now having the same trouble with its baseball, track and golf teams.

The baseball team, which was runnerup in the College World Series last spring, has been working out on the football field. The university had a diamond last year, but it was torn up and a new one started near a new $7 million sports complex.

Coach Lovette Hill said today he was afraid it would not be ready for his first game March 1 against Nicholls State. He has not decided what to do if it isn't ready.

The team started working out on Nagels Field in nearby MacGregor Park, a city park, but the high school teams and city league teams have taken over there.

Coach John Morris is in the same position in track. He started working his team in Jeppesen Stadium, which is owned by the city school system. But the high school teams have needed it so much recently that the university practice time has been extremely limited.

This is the same position the Cougar basketball team was placed in at Jeppesen Gymnasium, where girls volleyball and junior varsity teams pushed them out frequently.

The stadium schedule was so crowded Houston could have only one home track meet, university officials said. They are considering buying the stadium because the new sports complex does not include track facilities.

The golf team, the perennial NCAA champions, also does not have a home course. Coach Dave Williams takes them to whatever course he can use.

Boat Industry Welcomes LBJ's Safety Message

CHICAGO (Spl)—A spokesman for the recreational boating industry and sport welcomed President Johnson's boating safety message and agreed that better enforcement of our boating laws is the key to reduction of boating accidents.

Fred B. Lifton, executive director of the Boating Industry Association and its affiliated consumer groups, said that the attitude of the Presidential message—that boating accidents are not yet a major problem and should be attacked before they become one—reflects the view of both the manufacturers of boating equipment and the people who use it.

"As the President pointed out, boating has experienced an enormous growth over the past two decades without a corresponding rise in number of fatalities. Boating is proud of this record and has long recognized its responsibility to cut the accident rate even further," Lifton observed.

"This new concern on the part of the Federal government should enable all of us to do a better job of keeping boating safe and enjoyable. Federal grants to states for better enforcement of boating laws, to volunteer agencies for boating education, and to industry for further research and testing will help boating keep its place as America's top family sport," Lifton asserted.

"Boatmen themselves have long recognized the need for the type of education recommended by the President, and they have been providing it for many years through organizations like the U. S. Power Squadrons, the U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, the Red Cross and the Outboard Boating Club of America.

"The industry, too, is going all-out to produce safe products. Our own research and testing programs have already produced dramatic safety breakthroughs in such areas as flotation, stability and load capacity. The new BIA safety certification program—requiring in-

New Look Arrives Minus Icicles On It

By WM. T. McKEOWN
NEA Boating Editor
MIAMI (NEA)—The new look for summer boating, 1968, has just arrived without icicles on it.

Usually a wintry exhibit in New York City launches the season afloat with snow in the air ashore and slush underfoot.

This year, Florida's boat show came first. The trend for the 300 craft on display along Biscayne Bay looked like less action, more leisure on the water.

Small hulls are using the latest version of the beamy old sea-sled. Multikeels are floating a wide firm foundation for the careless guest who steps on the rail. He's likely to get aboard this year without rocking the boat and an accidental swim.

Larger craft are also spreading sideways. Hulls built like barges now mount house cabins made like mobile homes. Latest to break with tradition and introduce a boxy houseboat is Chris-Craft—the country's largest pleasure boat builder.

Ocean racer Merrick Lewis, whose Thunderbird, Formula and Maritime powercraft are famous for offshore wins, even entered two of his houseboats in last year's Bahamas 500-mile marathon. They proved the comforts of home can also take on open seas at water-ski speeds. One of the 40-footers later cruised 6,000 miles from Florida to Canada and back.

Bertram Yachts, the innovators of the high performance deep-V hull, have fitted more space in a new 35-foot Caribe model to combine sea-kindly cruising with sleeping for six at 25 miles an hour. Modern comforts? How about an all-electric galley, deep freeze, air conditioning (to also keep out bugs) and automatic icecube makers.

The flying bridge, for easier fish spotting and boat handling, is gaining favor as well.

The Sports Parade

One segment insists he left town in self defense and says if he's smart he'll never come back.

Seldom in the history of this city has an athletic commissioner exposed himself to as much criticism as Dooley did when he gave the forthcoming Joe Frazier-Buster Mathis bout New York's official sanction as a world heavyweight championship fight.

Dooley hasn't heard the end of it since.

Only the other evening, a noted sportscaster, all worked up, publicly called on Gov. Rockefeller to replace Dooley "peremptorily" for his show of poor judgement in recognizing the match.

Why Mathis?

All those who find fault with Dooley generally use Mathis as their primary argument.

Whom did he ever beat, they want to know? What entitles him to meet Frazier? And who says the two of them are worthy of meeting for the world heavyweight championship?

These are intriguing questions.

Teddy Brenner comes up with some equally intriguing answers.

For the benefit of those out in left field who don't know Brenner, he's the promoter for the Madison Square Garden Boxing Club which is putting on the Frazier-Mathis fuss at the new Garden on March 4 along with the Emile Griffith-Nino Benvenuti middleweight title scrap.

As the promoter and man who made the match, Brenner can not put his hand on the Bible and swear he's a completely unbiased witness.

He has a definite stake in the fight. But he's also a fellow who generally levels, who isn't afraid to tell the truth, who is no Johnny-Come-Lately to the boxing business and who makes some interesting points.

Public Acceptance

"I'll tell you what makes this a world heavyweight fight," he says. "Public acceptance. That's what does it."

"Tickets for the fight went on sale Monday. By the end of the day all the $10 tickets were gone. Completely sold out. Those were our cheapest tickets and they're always your best guide to how well any fight will do. This one fight will attract more paying customers than all the WBA heavyweight elimination fights have so far."

"Ability-wise, everybody in boxing says Frazier and Mathis make the best match there is. Whadd'ya mean 'what do the people in boxing know?' You may as well say what do the people in football know. Gary Beban was the Heisman winner, right? He's supposed to be No. 1 in the country, ain't he? How come he wasn't the first one drafted? The pro football people know why."

"Look, everyone admits Frazier is the leading heavyweight around today after Clay. So now some people ask how come Mathis rates a shot at Frazier? Well, how does anybody know how good Mathis is when he has never been beaten?"

"I know, I know, they ask who has Mathis ever beaten? Everybody—he's ever fought. Who did Leotis Martin, Jerry Quarry, Jimmy Ellis and Tad Spencer ever beat? They never even fought a heavyweight in the top 10 rankings and yet

BUSTER MATHIS prepares for title bout against Joe Frazier.

Despite Compromise USTFF Attacks AAU

LOS ALTOS, Calif. (UPI)—Despite a compromise evolved by a senate group, the United States Track and Field Federation kept up its attack today on the austere Amateur Athletic Union in their battle for control of track and field athletes.

The Rev. Wilfred H. Crowley, president of the USTFF, said Friday that the arbitration board's ruling of Feb. 1 could be neither accepted or rejected by his group until certain questions were answered.

The board ruled that the AAU should sanction all track and field meets except those limited to American students. The AAU also received power from the board to sanction open meets "under carefully limited and confined conditions."

Ryun Runs in Final Madison Garden Mile

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jim Ryun, the methodical miler from the University of Kansas, got excited by the crowd for one of the few times in his brilliant career and the lanky middle distance runner responded with his best indoor performance.

Ryun, who usually races obliviously to the crowd and noise, was all ears Friday night as he made his Olympic year debut and the old Madison Square Garden farewell with a smashing 3:57.1 clocking in the mile.

Billed as the "Last Garden Mile," Ryun made the occasion one to remember as he made a runaway of the glamor contest in the final track and field meet staged in the arena.

While a capacity crowd of 15,002 roared its approval the 20-year-old Kansas business administration student beat runner-up Dave Patrick of Villanova by 40 yards. Little Sam Bair of Kent State, who was expected to challenge Ryun for first place, finished third.

Besides being the fastest indoor mile of his career, it was the fourth sub-four-minute mile indoors for Ryun and the third best indoor mile on record.

The indoor mark of 3:56.4 was set by Tom O'Hara of Loyola of Chicago in 1964.

Ryun, who holds the world outdoor record in the mile at 3:51.1, decided to set the pace rather than run in the middle of the pack before opening up. The strategy worked beyond his expectations.

"I was real surprised by the time since I haven't done any speed work yet," Ryun said. "I figured the man to beat was Bair and I thought I'd better take some of the sting out of him early."

Ryun, whose best previous indoor mark was 3:58.6, overtook Bair on the second lap and never trailed as he cracked the meet record of 4:00.6 set last year by Patrick.

"The crowd got me excited. It wasn't a grudge race. I'm very good friends with Dave (Patrick) and Sam (Bair)," the 6-foot, two-inch, 170-pound Ryun said.

His performance was the obvious highlight of the meet sponsored by the U.S. Track and Field Federation.

Three other meet records fell in the games which attracted top collegiate stars from across the nation.

Earl McCullough, the star flanker on the Southern California football team, won the 60-yard high hurdles in the record time of seven seconds, eclipsing the old mark of :07.1 set last year by Erv Hall of Villanova.

Larry James of Villanova won the 500 yard event in 56 seconds, bettering the old mark of 57.6 set in 1966 by Nick Lee of Baltimore. Villanova's mile relay team also set a new mark of 3:17.8.

The new arrangements will hold for only the next two years, because prior schedule commitments will have one of the other of the schools playing elsewhere on the open date.

Randy Takes Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)—World record holders Randy Matson and Bob Beamon must find it comforting to know they can be a little off the top of their game and still dump first place trophies into the sack.

Both did just that Friday night in the eighth annual Will Rogers Indoor Games.

Matson climbed out of bed with a fever of 102 brought on by the flu and tossed the shot 65-34. Beamon, seemingly displeased with his early jumps, came up with a leap of 96-3 1-2.

Each of those performances was good enough for a win and for Beamon, it was his eighth straight victory without a loss since the indoor season began.

His jump Friday night, however, was well underneath the sensational sophomore's indoor record of 27-1 he set this year at an NAIA meet in Kansas City. A record crowd of 8,500 persons filled the Will Rogers coliseum for the only indoor meet to be held in Texas this year, and it was only because of the large attendance that Matson bothered to show up at all.

Matson, competing unattached now that he has no more eligibility at Texas A.&M., was not up to his usual form.

His best toss of the night was his first.

A former University of Texas miler tried his best to steal the thunder from Beamon and Matson.

Preston Davis, now in the U.S. Army, had said before the meet he was going all out for a four-minute mile. If it had come off, it would have been the first ever run at a Texas indoor meet.

But a slow third quarter dashed his hopes, and he had to settle for a 4:02.6.

It was a disappointing evening for two veteran performers, Ralph Boston and John Thomas. Thomas was trying to be the first person to beat Beamon in the long jump this year. He settled for second place with a leap of 25-4. He redeemed himself slightly with a win in the 60-yard high hurdles.

John Thomas was beaten in the high jump by Ron Tull of Oklahoma, with a leap of 6-10, while Thomas could do no better than 6-8.

In other events:

—Richard Romo, running unattached, won with a 2:11.2 clocking in the 1,000-yard run.

—Dalton LeBlanc captured the 60-yard dash with a time of 6.0.

The University of Texas James Means pulled away in the 300-yard dash to win in 31.9.

James Hardwick edged teammate Dennis Cotner of Oklahoma in the 600-yard dash with a clocking of 1:11.3.

The University of Texas and the University of Oklahoma were awarded first place medals after the mixup over where the finish line was.

USSR Did Not Invent Hockey--Just Seems So

GRENOBLE, France (UPI)—The Soviet Union didn't invent hockey. It just seems that way. The red-helmeted Russians, playing with the finesse of the Montreal Canadiens, proved again Friday their professional class by tearing apart the United States 10-2 in a rough, tough Olympic battle.

The victory was the third lopsided win in a row for the defending Olympic and world champions, moving them within sight of a sixth consecutive world title—a record run set by Canada in the 1930s.

Sweden and Czechoslovakia, who finished second and third behind Russia in the 1964 games at Innsbruck, today had an opportunity to move into a three-way tie with the Soviets in the eight-team class A tournament.

Sweden, which eked out a 5-4 victory over West Germany Friday, met East Germany and Czechoslovakia tangled with Finland, the team which upset Canada 5-3 earlier in the week.

Crisp, precision passing and smooth stickwork by the Red efforts look shoddy by comparison although the Americans did score two picturesque goals after a horrid first period marred by penalties.

Until Don Ross, 25, of St. Paul, Minn., and John Morrison of Minneapolis banged in shots in the second period after Russia led 7-0, Soviet goalies had not yielded a goal in the tournament.

The Russian win kept alive a win streak over the Americans that began in 1961, one year after the U.S. whipped the Red skaters at the Squaw Valley, Calif., Olympics.

Almost everyone, including U.S. coach Murray Williamson, concedes the Russians are sure bets for the Gold Medal.

"They're not good," Williamson said after the match, "they're great. I don't see anything beating them."

The U.S., with a record of three losses, plays Canada in a feature match Sunday. The odds say Canada, a Bronze Medal winner at last year's world championships, will win.

Frog-Mustang Games Changed

DALLAS (UPI)—The traditional season-closing football date between Texas Christian and Southern Methodist will be switched to mid-season for the next two years, the schools said Saturday.

This year's game, originally set for Fort Worth Nov. 30 will be played there the night of Oct. 12. The 1969 game, originally set for Dallas Nov. 29, will be played here Oct. 11.

Both new dates coincide with the Texas-Oklahoma football weekend in Dallas and in 1969 will set up a day-night double-header in the Cotton Bowl.

Officials of the two schools indicated the changes were made to try and improve attendance and get away from playing during the long Thanksgiving Holiday when many students are off campus.

The new arrangements will hold for only the next two years, because prior schedule commitments will have one of the other of the schools playing elsewhere on the open date.

Finn Beats Reds

GRENOBLE, France (UPI)—Kaija Mustonen, a bright-eyed Finnish secretary, Saturday broke the Russian grip on women's speed skating to win the 1,500-meter gold medal in an Olympic record time of two minutes, 22.4 seconds.

Miss Mustonen, 26-year-old secretary for a Helsinki construction firm, also upset two Dutch rivals, Carolina Geijssen and Christina Kaiser. Miss Geijssen, fastest girl in the 1,500 meters this season, took the silver medal with a time of 2:22.7 and Miss Kaiser, two time world champion, won the Bronze in 2:24.5.

The United States, which made history on Friday when three girls tied for second place in the 500 meters, was nowhere in contention in the 1,500. Dianne Holm of Northbrook, Ill., finished 13th in 2:28.5. Jeanne Ashworth of Wilmington, N.Y., was 16th in 2:30.3 and Jeanne Ashworth of Wilmington, Mich., was 25th in 2:35.5.

Girl Gas Station Attendant Wins Iron Curtain Teams Pro

GRENOBLE, France (UPI)—Olga Pall, a 20-year-old Austrian gas station attendant, today won the women's downhill race of the 10th Winter Olympic Games on another day of tragedy for the United States ski team.

Miss Pall, who has won every major downhill on her first season as an international competitor, clocked a fantastic one minute, 40.87 seconds to edge hometown favorite Isabelle Mir of France. Austria also claimed the bronze medal as defending champion Christl Haas finished third.

The heart-rending injury streak that has hit the American ski team struck for the fifth time in six days as Karen Budge of Jackson Hole, Wyo., the main U.S. downhill hope, dislocated her shoulder in a freak accident.

The 18-year-old racer collided with a tourist who was skiing in a restricted area just an hour before she started in the downhill race. Officials said she was then allowed to return to Olympic Village.

U.S. coach Bob Beattie, after seeing the fifth member of his ski team carried off this week, said, "The whole thing is like a nightmare, a bad dream. We had hoped she would place in the top group. She was our best in the downhill."

Without Miss Budge, the rest of the U.S. squad finished far out of contention. Suzanne Chaffee of Rutland, Vt., who also was seeded among the top 15, placed 26th with a time of 1:48.7s.

Miss Mir, a husky 18-year-old, had a time of 1:41.33 for her silver medal and Miss Haas, who didn't round into shape until a couple of weeks ago and had talked of quitting before the Olympics, was clocked in 1:41.41.

Two other members of the U.S. team were hurt earlier this week training for a downhill race. Robin Morning of Santa Monica, Calif., broke a leg off Monday and Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., sprained an ankle on Wednesday. Kidd, however, was able to compete in Friday's race, finishing 18th.

Jim Barrows and Jere Elliott, both of Steamboat Springs, Colo., were injured seriously during the downhill. Barrows breaking his right thigh and Elliott suffering a possible cracked collarbone.

NEW YORK (UPI)—A man here who knows a pro when he sees one says that's how come we're off to such a great start in Grenoble.

He's talking about the opening event of the Winter Olympics in which Czechoslovakia's hockey team shellacked the United States, 5-1.

"They're out-and-out professionals," says this man. "The players on the Iron Curtain teams don't do anything else but play hockey 12 months a year. Whaddya mean am I sure? I'm positive. I've seen all their teams. Russia's, Czechoslovakia's, Poland's—and the rest."

The man who says all this is Emilie "Cat" Francis.

Francis is Canadian by birth, hockey-oriented by upbringing and general manager-coach of the New York Rangers by occupation. He's also something of a miracle man because he took a last-place club and had them in first place for half a season last year. One thing he isn't is naive.

"Naturally I'd like to see the U.S. and Canadian teams win over there in Grenoble, but I don't think the Americans have anything to be embarrassed about losing like they did to the Czechs," says Francis.

Oilers Will Play In Astrodome

HOUSTON (UPI) — Bud Adams, owner of the Houston Oilers professional football team, announced Saturday that all other home games next fall will be played in the Astrodome.

The Oilers have played the last two seasons in Rice University stadium. No terms were announced for playing in the Astrodome.

"I am deeply grateful to Rice University for allowing the Oilers to play in the stadium," Adams said. "They took us in when we needed them most."

Adams said the agreement between the Oilers and the Houston Sports Association, which controls the Astrodome, "culminates many months of sincere and diligent conferences between the Oilers and the sports association to work out numerous problem areas."

"I believe we will have the Superbowl between the AFL and the NFL champions in 1969," Adams said.

The Oilers were Eastern Conference champions in the NFL last year but never drew more than 25,000 spectators at home games.

The air-conditioned, completely enclosed Astrodome will hold 56,000 spectators.

Bradley Wins Over N. Texas in Overtime
DENTON, Tex. (UPI)—The Bradley Braves overcame an 11-point deficit in the second half Saturday to whip North Texas State 98-97 in overtime and stay in contention for the Missouri Valley Conference championship.

North Texas, relying on superb outside shooting, stunned Bradley early and stayed in front throughout most of the game. But after building up an 11-point lead late in the game, a Bradley press began taking its toll.

The Braves shot back on the outside shooting of L.C. Bowen, who would up with 33 points, and the close in shots of Joe Allen, who finished with 23.

New Players Sign Contracts

DALLAS (UPI)—Dennis Homan of Alabama and David McDaniels of Mississippi Valley, who will be battling to bench the likes of Bob Hayes and Lance Rentzel, signed three-year Dallas Cowboys pacts Saturday.

Both Homan, who was the Cowboys' No. 1 draft choice, and McDaniels, who was No. 1, have never been bench-warmers in their careers and said they had high hopes that they could keep that string unbroken with the National Football League's Eastern Division champions.

Neither the Cowboys nor the two star pass receivers would disclose the financial terms of their contracts, but they echoed each other in saying, "I'm satisfied."

Homan, an all-America end for Coach Bear Bryant's Crimson Tide last fall, was no surprise as the Cowboys No. 2 choice, but selection of McDaniels from the little-known Mississippi Valley College at Ita Bena, Miss., as the No. 2 selection raised a few eyebrows. Sipplan has fine credentials. He is 6 feet 3 1/2 inches tall and weighs 200 pounds, has large

Authorities Become Concerned About Narcotics Smuggling

By United Press International
 Authorities are becoming concerned at the number of young persons caught trying to smuggle narcotics across the border between the United States and Mexico. And the numbers are spiraling.

Mexican officials report an increase of arrests on their side of the border on the order of 35 per cent in 1967 over the previous year.

And the numbers are also alarming on the American side. The Customs Bureau at Laredo, one of the hot-spots in the smuggling game, reported three arrests in January of 1968.

And this January, when they closed their books shortly before the end of the month, they reported 76 to their headquarters in Washington. More than that were arrested.

Mostly Young Involved
 What worries some officials is that the increase seemed to be coming mostly among young persons — college students, college drop-outs, service men and in some cases high school students.

The possible extent of marijuana use in high schools was revealed last November when the Corpus Christi police department announced that a member of the force had been working as an undercover agent among the high schools.

When the undercover agent, 23-year-old rookie policeman brought with him the names of more than 200 youthful users of the drugs.

Eventually, some of these were indicted by a grand jury.

Boggs, at that time, told United Press International the world of high school narcotics scared him.

"As far as the kids go, they devote all their time to it. If they had a hobby, they forget it. Their studies go down the drain."

Numerous Servicemen
 Another area that worries officials is the high number of servicemen arrested with narcotics at the border points.

In January, 11 servicemen and more than 20 students were arrested at Laredo alone.

Oran Pugh, customs agent in charge at Laredo, said recently the Army was "very concerned" about the numbers of servicemen being arrested. He said a program to combat this problem was being set up at various military bases.

Pugh said the numbers of students and military personnel being arrested were about comparable and a possible tie-in was age.

Pugh, who blames the news media in part for the increase, said the use of narcotics has been glamorized too much.

He said that while marijuana may not be habit forming in the physical sense, it does create a psychological dependence.

Effects More Serious
 Pugh said research was underway into the effects of marijuana and the results, although not ready for presentation now, indicated its effects were more serious than many persons believe.

"All you ever hear is the user's story," Pugh said.

"Would you talk to an alcoholic and take his word for it that alcohol isn't hurting him?"

"This I know," Pugh told UPI, "steady use of marijuana will make an imbecile of a man in time."

Vandalism Charge In Rail Violence

The Missouri Pacific Railroad said striking trainmen disabled two ammunition trains and delayed another today by faking an emergency stop signal.

The outbreaks of vandalism and harassment were reported by the railroad in the fourth day of a strike called by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (BRT) against the Missouri Pacific and the Seaboard Coastline.

In Washington, administration officials kept a close watch on the strike and its effect on the movement of war supplies to Vietnam.

Seeks Intervention
 W. Thomas Rice, president of Seaboard, urged White House intervention and asked President Johnson to appoint an emergency board. Rice said the walkout "seriously impaired" the shipment of military needs.

A MOPAC official said a 22-car freight train carrying ammunition from Texarkana, Tex., to the West Coast was knocked out of action for several hours near Fort Worth.

He said strikers jumped onto the train, cut air hoses, pulled coupling pins and "otherwise damaged equipment, causing a delay of several hours" while repairs were made.

A group of strikers boarded a slow-moving freight train on a rural stretch in southeast Missouri, the MOPAC official said, and delayed an ammo train for two hours by inflicting similar damage.

The spokesman said a striking party drove alongside a moving freight train in the Fort Worth area. One man jumped from the car, boarded the caboose and yanked the emergency stop

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bache & Co. feels that "the key factor over the near term will continue to be the ebb and flow of events in the Far East, including the fate of the Marine outpost at Khe Sanh, the securing of major Vietnamese cities from the Viet Cong, and the outcome of the Pueblo incident."

The company says it might anticipate a drifting market phase immediately ahead as investors await some resolution of more immediate Far Eastern problems.

Thomson & McKinnon thinks that "the odds appear to favor an eventual drop below the support area, but the market's currently oversold condition should mitigate against any wholesale break at this time."

In noting that the market has to contend with "an inordinate amount of unpleasant international and economic news," the firm says that in the last week only four of the 15 most active stocks managed to post gains.

BERRY'S WORLD

 GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI)—A shortage of doctors and nurses in Africa has become critical, an emergency report by Dr. Alfred Quenum, regional director for Africa of the World Health Organization, said. He said the main problem is that Africans trained to be doctors and nurses are leaving their native countries.

DISCUSS WAR
 NEW DELHI (UPI)—U.N. Secretary General Thant called on Consul General Nguyen Hoa of North Vietnam Thursday for a 20-minute, private talk about the Vietnam War, the U.N. Information Service said. It described the talks as "useful" and gave no details.

A FIRST
 BUDAPEST (UPI)—Hungary's first nuclear power plant will be built beside the Danube at Paks, about 60 miles south of Budapest, the news agency MTI said.

No Emergency
 Administration officials said the harassment tactics have not yet created an emergency in the movement of war supplies.

SENDS ASSURANCES
 SEOUL (UPI)—President Johnson sent a personal letter to President Park Chung Hee of South Korea in the present crisis over the Pueblo and Communist infiltrators, the newspaper Hanook Ilbo said. The newspaper, quoting informed Foreign Ministry sources, said the letter confirmed U.S. determination to preserve South Korea's security. U.S. and South Korean officials would neither confirm nor deny a letter was delivered.

LEADERS MEET
 PARIS (UPI)—President Charles de Gaulle and President Abdul Rahman Aref of Iraq were holding their third private meeting before calling in their aides to help draw up specific provisions of a Franco-Iraqi friendship document. The document was expected to include French oil exploitation rights in the rich Iraqi oil fields.

the Drama of DRUGS

People generally refer to some climates or geographical locations as more healthy than others. In the past this was true as man was protected by his geography. He learned to live in his environment and built up immunities to give to the native diseases.

It was in moving to strange locales that gave him great trouble. Any military history involving the long-range movement of troops will bear this out.

However, in our modern jet-age, while man has conquered geographical limitations, he has also rendered himself more vulnerable to foreign diseases.

Disease - carrying germs now circle the globe just as fast as man and for this reason such agencies as the World Health Organization deserve the whole-hearted support of all men.

Treatment of wounds and diseases depends greatly on the care with which prescriptions are compounded. Proper care is one of our assets.

Cotillion Sponsors Guest Day Coffee

Mrs. J. W. Campbell, 1330 Williston, was hostess for the Twentieth Century Cotillion Guest Day coffee recently. Members and guests were served refreshments in a Valentine setting.

Speaker was Mario Zoratti of S. Daniele, Italy. Mario is one of Pampa's foreign exchange students and is making his home this year with Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Epperson, 1900 N. Nelson.

He described his hometown at the foot of the Alps, and said his biggest adjustment had been adjusting to the flatness of the Texas plains. When he received word the elevation of Pampa was over 3,000 feet, he expected a mountain town. He told of different traditions and customs of a town over 1,000 years old in contrast to those of Pampa—only about 70 years old.

In explaining the system of government in his country, he said "Italy has a Parliamentary Republic with the leader of the majority party serving as Prime Minister. The present majority group is made up of a coalition of the Socialist and Christian Democrat parties."

Mario discussed problems Italy faces because it must import more than it exports and said, in the past, the country has been saved by loans from the European Common Market and the United States.

Mario compared the school systems of Italy and the United States. In Italy formal education begins at age three and students are required to attend school until age 14. At 14 they decide on the profession they wish to follow and enter one of perhaps a dozen different kinds of high schools depending on the profession they have chosen.

Mario, a tall, red-haired young man who speaks fluent English, said he learned to speak English from the American G. I.'s who maneuver near his home.

He described the typical Italian—short, dark, warm and friendly people who live in Southern Italy and of the taller lighter Italians who live in Northern Italy as he does.

The measure of his success was that he accomplished so much in one term in areas of treasury reform and boundary agreements, which led to the annexation of the present continental boundary territories. Although he received little contemporary glory, he saw the vision of a nation from border-to-border and sea-to-sea. He died shortly after his retirement from the presidency," she concluded.

By GAY PAULEY UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Is fashion taking women back to the 'fig leaf'?

Well, Rudi Gernreich's "naked" fashions for spring lead her in that general direction. But the Los Angeles-based designer, an undisputed leader of the fashion avant garde, defends his daring clothes with some convincing arguments.

First, he defines the avant garde—"It challenges the established order, but it also arises out of the established order . . . the old guard thinks that women should be dressed to the teeth. The avant garde thinks they should be naked. That's all."

Gernreich, whose fashion leadership landed him the cover story in a national news magazine recently, then delved into matters of modesty.

"There's natural modesty and no one can challenge that," he said. "Then there's unnatural modesty and that's gone! Sex appeal is one thing; body appeal is another. Thanks to the avant garde we are beginning to make the distinction . . . fashion can be therapeutic. It can teach people what bodies are really all about. When you mix sex appeal and body appeal, then—that's vulgar."

Having said his say on the old and new guards, Gernreich, who shocked the world several seasons ago with the topless bathing suit, then went ahead in his new fashion collections to demonstrate what he believes about body appeal.

The clothes are just loaded with see-through vinyls, bikini bottoms under conventional, but very short dresses, and-with fabric cutouts that leave little to the imagination.

Swimsuits he designed for Harmon Knitwear, for instance, include the classic, one-piece maillots in jersey knits, necklines high at the front, the backs slashed out below-waist depth, and the sides over the hips with big oval cutouts. The only decoration: Contrasting color ties straight across the pelvis.

Gernreich brought his collections East to participate in the current series of fashion shows for reporters from across the country. The occasion was the semiannual "Press Week."

Area School Has Assembly Program

SKELLYTOWN (Spl) — Milton Morris, project director of The Opportunity Plan, Inc., of Canyon, was guest speaker at a junior-senior assembly in the White Deer High School auditorium recently.

Morris presented a detailed sketch of the program, its benefits, and ways it could aid the high school student who plans to enter college or trade school.

During his program, Morris said the project has helped more than 700 students receive a degree, and has another 200 on the way. Last year the plan sponsored 250 students at West Texas State University, and 27 in other colleges.

Morris stated, "The purpose of the program I am sponsoring is to see that the number of students who don't further their education after high school decreases."

While building the project into a workable plan, Morris received statewide and nationwide attention. The State of Texas has written into law a similar plan to make funds available to students on other campuses.

THE LONG AND THE SHORT OF IT belongs in your wig boutique because one hair style is not enough for today's fashionable beauty. There's nothing like using two or more hairpieces for a quick switch in coiffure and now a girl can change her hairdo with her mood. The layered look can start the day with the razor boy cut (a wig) (right) and end it in an aura of pure romance by adding a fall and perky ribbon. Hairpieces need grooming to keep their fresh, natural look and one company has a trio of aids to do it at home. There's a spray-on cleaner that only needs brushing to restore loveliness. The sheen, when sprayed on adds lustre that makes it gleam and the clear, nonflake spray puts the finishing touch to your hairdo.

EASY-PACKABLE KNITS are ideal for spring travel. In double knit (left) this dress comes in hot pink and poppy with a piped trim-white hem band. Cellofite costume (center) combines a pants skirt with dark ground and an attractive short-sleeved shirt. These are James Kenrob designs. Chenille in all wool (right) has three pieces—cardigan, striped sleeveless shell turtleneck and color co-ordinated skirt. All are by Dalton of America.

Season Spotlights Narrow Silhouettes

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor
NEW YORK — This season spotlights the new look in junior coats. Never before has there been so much excitement in coat fashions.

Fresh shaping, striking fabrics and the rich touch of fur all add up to the young look so important today.

One collection leads the way with the high, narrow silhouette making the big news. Often double breasted, the new demifit shows up highlighted with rows of buttons from collar to hem.

Flatter fabrics make the scene, with shetlands and gabardines the most popular.

Fur trims have special importance, both in coats and suits. These turn up on collars, cuffs and hems.

Long-hair fox and opossum prove the perfect accent for these swinging designs.

Belts take a giant step into the fashion picture, especially on coats.

You will find them banding the back, lowered onto the hip or circled widely just under the bosom with heavy bold buckles in dark pewter creating a new effect.

The new side closing, discreetly hidden at the seam, takes off this time as a real fashion winner.

Equally important is the dress-coat ensemble combining solids and plaids.

It's a good year for handsome styling in coats. They are perky, pretty and charmingly feminine.

Designs Lift Bath Decor

By AILEEN SNOODY
NEA Home Editor
NEW YORK — The bathroom is becoming a showplace of decorating freshness. No longer does the bath look antiseptic and clinical in stark whiteness. Color and pattern make the room more than utilitarian.

One major advance in bathroom design involves molded, one-piece construction in glass fiber. Tub, walls, floor, toilet cover and double vanity basin merge in a smooth unitized design molded of glass fiber-reinforced plastics. Many visitors to Expo '67 saw the units in Habitat. Those fortunate to stroll through the decorating center on Fifth Avenue saw a molded bathroom in a model apartment set up in the showroom.

New approaches in architectural design will mean much to future decorating of baths.

What is a person to do, though, with his standard unit in a house or apartment until something new comes along? Redecorate.

Many have found walkoverings a perfect answer to give a new look to the family and guest bath or powder room. The vinyl products with paper or fabric backing may be sponged, not scrubbed, clean and offer a variety of color and pattern choices.

Designers who work with the wallcoverings suggest getting strippable wallcovering and using the vinyl rather than paper in family baths where steamy baths or showers can cause the paper to peel.

Select patterns carefully since most bathrooms are small. For example, use wallcoverings on all walls above the tile or wood dado and on the ceiling. If you select a single pattern for ceiling and wall, get a non-directional design that is easily matched.

Take care, too, with how the pattern is used. A trellis effect with a climbing vine is all right for the wall but confusing when used on a ceiling. Caning patterns, with or without floral imprints, make good bathroom wallcoverings. Often you can buy matching fabric and use this with a plastic liner for a shower curtain.

Paisleys and striped papers make excellent bathroom designs but don't overlook plaids, silk textures, grass cloths, geometrics, tile patterns and even flocked papers that often are in more formal scroll or medallion designs.

If you select a solid color scheme you may want to add a decorating filip with a new shower curtain. In patterns, the florals are rampant in daisies, poppies, tulips and thistles, Roses are out and geometrics are in. Colors that catch the eye include yellows, reds, browns and deep blues. There is a continued interest in the metallic look for those following the wave of psychedelia.

Refreshments were served from a table covered with a white lace cloth over blue and centered with an arrangement of white daisies. About 55 attended and sent gifts.

Custom Touches Style-Up Bedroom

By JOANNE SCHREIDER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Every woman needs an elegant, restful bedroom, especially when the rest of the house is full of youngsters.

This is the decorating philosophy of Mrs. Betty Tomasulo, one of the most energetic and creative homemakers on the eastern seaboard. The glowing, redheaded mother of two teenage boys and a tiny blond daughter, Betty is a talented decorator and a skilled seamstress.

She just finished decorating the master bedroom with a color and design pace set by the medley of orange-gold-avocado tones in a bedspread. Betty lightened the Paisley with sunshiny-gold walls and carpeting, softened the crisp fabric with pale orange velvet for the covered headboard and armchair.

Isn't it difficult to cover a shaped headboard? Not at all, according to Betty, who has made a number of slipcovers for various chairs around the house. "It's no harder than making a shaped cushion cover—the only trick is in getting enough covered cording made."

If a shaped headboard is part of your bedroom, you can give it real design impact by covering it yourself to make the most of the silhouette. For matched headboards such as these, each the 40-inch width of a single bed, select upholstery fabric in a 48- or 54-inch width to avoid seaming. Each of these headboards can be covered in less than two yards of fabric, plus another yard if you are making your own self-cording.

Use the pin-fitting construction method for maximum accuracy. With fabric wrong side out, thumbtack lower edge in place, then smooth fabric upward till it covers headboard smoothly. Rough-out silhouette, leaving at least three inches seam allowance. Make edging strip, and apply wetting to both edges. Lay edging strip along top of shaped edge, wrong side out. Pin backing fabric (muslin or broadcloth) to back edge of strip. Then pin facing to front edge of top strip. Mark seam lines with dressmaker's chalk; trim to one-half-inch seam allowance. Baste, turn, and check for close fit. Turn again to wrong side and machine-stitch. Secure with tacks at bottom and back.

Like most women who sew, Betty takes special pride in sewing items for her home. "Custom-made items can be terribly expensive," she points out, "and often not worth the price. The trick of decorating is to use the best of the ready-made items and do the rest yourself."

A TALENTED HOMEMAKER covered these matched, shaped headboards with orange velvet, picking up one of the colors in the Paisley-print bedspread. A sewing machine, a few tacks and less than two yards of fabric for each headboard did the decorating trick.

Today's Woman Develops Beauty Blueprint

By PATRICIA KING
NEA Beauty Editor
NEW YORK (NEA) — It's no secret that American women are widely envied for their leisure time and much admired for their smart personal appearance and attractive homes.

However, any of your friends will tell you that at least four fifths of her time goes into caring for her family. And this leaves her with only a few hours a day for her own personal interests.

It's the shortage of personal time that leads to a constant search for homemaking shortcuts and quick beauty aids.

A profile of the average American woman—stolen from statistics of the U.S. Bureau of the Census, reveals that she is about 30 years old, is married, has two children aged 6 and under and lives in a city or the suburbs. One out of every three adult women works at least part time for salary and the others are usually active in one or another volunteer group. What does this busy career gal do with her time?

Childcare accounts for about 50 per cent of it, the family household gets about 30 per cent of her attention, her husband about 10 per cent and she has about 10 per cent of her waking hours left for herself. Only about 5 per cent is activity or interest outside the home.

Into these hours she hopefully crams exercise, reading, television, recreation and social activities apart from her family. Also shopping for her own personal needs, hobbies such as making her own clothes, gardening or painting, in addition to the essentials of bathing, make-up, wardrobe care and grooming.

Of all these girly activities,

A new gourmet cookware set consists of combination sauce pot and casserole, a crepe souffle pan, a chafing dish, and a cheese fondue pot. The set also includes a stainless steel warming stand unit with an alcohol burner and a stainless steel tray.

hair coloring and hair care consume the largest portion of your time, almost one-fifth of it. Hair preparation time can be reduced by eliminating the necessity for setting your hair each night by using a firm setting lotion. And more time can be saved by using products that function dually.

With many precious hours consumed in caring for your hair and hair color, you can eagerly seize the best available means to lighten your hair care chore. One company has introduced a new 60-second post-shampoo treatment which not only puts hair into silken condition but has super-setting qualities. Young of Clifton, Kans., and Bryan C. Wilkerson, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilkerson of Morganville, Kans. were united in marriage Jan. 9, 1918, in Clay Center, Kans.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilkerson made their home in Clay Center, Clifton and Morganville until moving to Skellytown in 1943. They made their home in Skellytown until 1965 when Mr. Wilkerson retired from Northern Natural Gas Co. after 30 years of service with the company.

They have four living children, Mrs. J. R. McKernan Sr. of Skellytown, Mrs. Ralph E. Pailey, Bellingham, Wash.; Bud Wilkerson, Midland, and Bill Wilkerson, Odessa. They have 10 grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Mr. Wilkerson is the brother of Mrs. Florence Thornton, Mrs. Lily Deetjen and Mrs. Alpha Pitman, Torrance, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilkerson are members of the First Presbyterian Church of Pampa.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My wife is very careless about her appearance in the privacy of our home. She gets breakfast barefoot in her nightgown with her hair uncombed, which is not very pretty. She knows better and can make herself strikingly beautiful if we're having guests or going out. It hurts to know she won't care to make herself presentable for me.

Divorce is out because of the children, but believe me, it's crossed my mind. I start off my day in anger and disgust.

Attending the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Wilkerson, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wilkerson and children Mitchell and Stacey of Odessa, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Franks, Jamie Kay and son Joel Dean of Lubbock and Don St. Clair of Skellytown.

and my mind (and eye) have begun to roam. She reads your column, Abby, so maybe if you print this, she'll see it, recognize herself and take the hint. Thank you.

HER HUSBAND
DEAR HUSBAND: I'll print it, but don't expect miracles. When something as important as one's marriage is at stake, the man who waits for his wife to read something in a newspaper column, "recognize herself and take the hint," may need more help than his wife. Lay it on the line, man, lay it on the line. Maybe she thinks YOU don't care how she looks.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I recently were guests for dinner at the home of some well-to-do friends. There were five couples altogether.

The hostess called us to the table with this remark, "Soup I have only for the gentlemen." For dessert they served only coffee and some small squares of commercially-baked cake.

When I complained later to my host about the inadequate meal he replied, "In America it is customary for the guest to be satisfied with what the host offers him." I would like your opinion of such "hospitality."
CONFUSED FROM LUGANO
DEAR CONFUSED: To be "satisfied" with whatever is offered in the way of hospitality is universal—not "American." I would be more critical of a "complaining guest" than an inadequate dinner. I happen to believe that it is what's on the CHAIRS, not what is on the TABLE that makes a successful dinner party.

DEAR ABBY: I am 52, but nobody takes me for a day over 40. After 27 years of marriage my husband decided he wanted a divorce, so I gave it to him. It was a blow to my pride, but the kids were all married and on their own, and I lived through it.

Children love me and pets adore me. There isn't a dog I can not make friends with. Older men find me fascinating. I can get any man over 70 by snapping my fingers, but I can not seem to attract a man my own age. I have money in the bank, nice clothes, and a steady income. To get to the point, I want a man. What's wrong with me?

WANTS A MAN
DEAR WANTS: The only thing "wrong" with a woman who wants a man is that everybody knows it—especially the men she wants. Be yourself, act your age, and broaden your contacts if you want to change your luck.

DEAR ABBY: What happens to a girl who dreams of being kissed passionately, but when a fellow tries to kiss her she will not let him?

DREAMER
DEAR DREAMER: Nothing.

Femininity Gets a Head Start

By PATRICIA KING
NEA Beauty Editor
NEW YORK — (NEA) — Dreamy, entranced and purely romantic is the look we'll be anticipating.

Gone with the wind is the boldness of tough, chic, hard cut hairstyles of past seasons. In fact, in Paris everything is so girly that Alexandre now advises his international clients to give up wearing their heirloom clips and pins on their clothes and weave them instead into party-headpieces.

On this side of the ocean the smart money is on a collection of completely American-made (how refreshing to see "made in U.S.A.") hairpieces and wigs, not the jewels that adorn them.

The wig company is making sure that the woman of 35-plus and the silver-tressed grandmother are no longer neglected. Unfortunately, the beauty and ease of handling is not fully understood by the older woman. It is in this age group that the ravages of over-dyeing, tinting, rinsing, permaning, teasing and time have taken the heaviest toll.

Since grooming time and money are major factors among older women, hand-washable, drip-dry hair designs that brush into style at your dressing table are the most practical. A froth of curls eliminating the flat-top look at the crown and covering thinning areas are the most popular. The fill out the head and uplift morale.

This dream of a wig-wearer never needs setting and will hold its style in wilting weather. However, the curl must dry thoroughly before you brush it back into style. The 29 shades available sparkle with quiet glints which come from the many color mixtures. Honey-beige blonde, for example, has hints of ash and golden tones. Auburn, blond and amber tints highlight some of the darker colors.

So that all may enjoy the beauty benefits a versatile group of hairpieces is available to deal with all sparse hair problems. Each design is ounces light for comfort in heated rooms or under tropical sun. Incidentally, they are fade-free.

Women's Club Attends Program

The Pampa Credit Women's Club met in the home of Mrs. C. L. Warner, 1617 N. Duncan, recently.

Mrs. Glen Day, president, presided over the business. Members decided to have a Bridge Benefit in March. The lesson was given by Mrs. C. J. Bryan who spoke on "How to think like a leader." Mrs. Bryan said "thoughts to achieve aims or goals requires support and cooperation of others. Success and the ability to lead others go hand in hand. If we cannot claim a rapport with others we will fail as a leader. Let your actions show that you put others first. Be Human." Mrs. Bryan is a charter member of the Pampa Credit Women's club, and has served as president and on many committees. Members present were the ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Focus your time and attention on home and family and pleasing those who dwell beneath your roof today. Clean up that widening situation that prevents your having harmony there. Use diplomacy.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get that shopping done and keep whatever business or professional appointments you can on this day. Get finest results. Evening is then fine for being with relations, good friends for recreation.

When Are Children Too Sick for School?

Each child has his own pattern of illness. There should be no absolute rules, but the usually healthy child should stay home: 1) if feverish; 2) if symptoms such as headaches, drowsiness, runny nose, nausea, diarrhea, are sufficiently severe to be disabling; 3) if he is likely to disturb others in the class; 4) if it is impossible due to his ailment, for him to profit from school.

There is no reason, except for rare medical contra-indications, for a child to be in school without immunological protection from the available vaccines.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Qualities of Survival

Ever since the advent of "modern merchandising" and the entrance of chain stores into the retail distribution field, concern has been expressed over the ultimate fate of the independent merchant. It is true that high volume sales at minimum prices as pioneered and practiced by the chain stores is the backbone of the nation's mass-distribution system. It is also true that both chain and independent stores continue to prosper.

One of the most thoughtful commentaries on the current position of the independent merchant was contained in a release from the National Retail Merchants Association. It pointed out that negative ideas seemed to dominate thinking about smaller independent stores; that it is harder today for independents to succeed; that competition is stiffer; that costs of doing business are greater and profit margins are smaller, etc.

The greatest strength of the independent merchant lies now, as in the past, in the development of a store personality, and in personalized service. Our retailing system needs the independent merchant just as it needs the chain store. And because of the unique services which it can render to customers, the independent store will continue to prosper on its own merits.

An Inherent Public Advantage

News reports recently told of the collapse of an apartment house near the Kremlin in Moscow. The reports appeared to indicate that a gas leak and explosion caused the collapse, but Soviet authorities never confirmed this. Quite a contrast to the official treatment of such an event in Russia and the treatment accorded by U.S. authorities to any event out of the ordinary in our publicly-regulated, investor-owned utility industries.

public fully informed on issues and proposals. Moreover, representatives of the gas industry, an industry that has a remarkable safety record, have extended their fullest cooperation to appropriate authorities and the Congress though many felt safety regulation was already adequate. In this way, there is the greatest assurance that new federal regulatory authority will be in line with realistic safety procedures and not so restrictive as to hinder progress.

During the last session of Congress, legislation was passed by the U.S. Senate tightening up safety regulations over the U.S. gas industry. The House will consider its own version of the bill in the current session. From the time federal regulation was first proposed and during congressional consideration of it, the press has kept the

Family Budget Help

Automated accounting systems using high speed, computerized techniques have ushered in the golden age of the credit card. If your credit is good, you can charge anything from a trip to Europe to a toothbrush at the local drugstore. Outstanding consumer credit now totals some $95 billion and installment credit accounts for $75 billion of this amount.

ers, business, labor and consumer organizations were brought together to finance a study of the problem of over-extended credit. Sponsors included such diverse organizations as the American Bankers Association, the AFL-CIO and credit unions as well as retailers.

Consumer credit has become an essential part of the American economic system and the financial planning of every family. It is a matter of concern, however, that a great many young families are piling up more debt than they can handle, often through no fault of their own. Because of this, there is a growing need for sound financial counseling to be made available uniformly throughout the nation. Under the leadership of one of the nation's major retail-

The study, now completed, is a landmark effort. Specific recommendations were made for financing and organizing a national organization to vastly expand, improve and coordinate family financial counseling services set up as nonprofit, community service operations throughout the nation. This is a massive undertaking and one deserving of board support. It has great potential for contributing much toward the financial security of millions of families and the long-run stability of the national economy.

The Wrong Medicine

As the question of increasing taxes to stem inflation rises again, a fundamental consideration should be faced—should the power to tax be used as an economic regulator?

by unprecedented levels of federal spending.

In the words of The Wall Street Journal, "It isn't especially difficult...to construct a logical case against using taxation to manipulate the economy." The Journal then cites the findings of Walter A. Morton, professor of economics at the University of Wisconsin, who concludes that taxes as a means of influencing economic trends are not only inefficient but capable of doing much more harm than good. For example, if a worker had his pay effectively reduced by higher taxes, "he may respond by a demand for additional wages." No one wants their take-home pay reduced in these inflationary times.

Increased taxation won't stop inflation so long as the nation's economic fires are fed to excess

Although glaciers cover an eighth of Iceland's 39,768 square miles, the island's name is misleading because warm waters carried north by the Gulf Stream mitigate winter temperatures, making them similar to those in New York City, says The World Almanac. Much of Iceland's soil is non-arable, causing 90 percent of the wealth to be derived from fishing.

Country Editor speaking: "You realize the years have caught up with you when you try keeping up with the young folk."

Pull Up A Chair

By FRANK JAY MARKEY

You can discover, how little you really know if you watch those whiz kids on any Sunday afternoon on TV's College Bowl." The speed with which they answer tricky questions correctly astounds us. In a flash they can switch from detailing Admiral Farragut's naval exploits to identifying a line of Byron's poetry or outlining how Hannibal crossed the Alps and why. The program is one of TV's better efforts... Portraits of former Presidents adorn nine of the dozen bills used in U. S. currency. The likeness of Alexander Hamilton, first Secretary of the Treasury, is found on the familiar $10 bill; that of Benjamin Franklin appears on the $100 bill; and Salmon P. Chase, Lincoln's Secretary of the Treasury, is pictured on the $10,000 bill, which most of us are unlikely to see or own.

Today's smile: A lawyer was examining a witness in an accident case and asked: "When you saw this young lady driving toward you why didn't you give her half of the road? Then there would have been no collision." The witness replied: "I would have done that gladly if I could have figured out what half she wanted."

The well-known Swedish toast, "Skål," is said to derive from these initials: S for Sandeh (meaning Health), K for Kaerlighted (meaning Love); A for Alderdom (meaning Long Life); and L for Lykke (meaning Good Luck). So, here's to you: SKAL!

Thoughts while shaving: George M. Cohan wrote more than 400 songs during his star-studded career as actor, playwright, song writer and producer. He once told us that his inspiration for "Over There" was an Army bugle call, but the others were plucked from the carpet or the ceiling after long hours of concentration. When memory popped into mind, "I read that the entire catalogue of Cohan songs had been sold to the E. B. Marks music publishing firm. There's an ironic twist there for Edward B. Marks, the founder, was the first person in the music publishing field to recognize Cohan's talent as a songsmith and published his first song. Incidentally there is a musical comedy titled "George M.," based on Cohan's career, due in New York in April that will include 30 of Cohan's songs. If it has nothing else to recommend it his tunes alone should make it a big hit.

Ever hear of diabetic retinopathy? Well, a noted eye specialist says it's the fastest-growing cause of blindness and accounted for 15 per cent of the cases reported last year. He predicts that half a million Americans will go blind in the next decade unless an intensified eye research program is conducted. That's frightening.

Although New Englanders claim they originated the fish chowder, it is a fact that it was invented centuries ago by French fishermen in Brittany. It was the custom then "for everyone in the village to bring a contribution for a common meal, which they added to the local cauldron. The name chowder comes from the French name for their cauldron, which was "chaudiere."... The Grand Forks (North Dakota) HERALD reported in a story: "Mrs. Johnson, daughter Lynda and Mrs. Humphrey were there, too. Five photographers were on hand for a two-minute pitcher-talk session. Then Mr. Johnson answered questions." We'll bet Lynda fielded those questions after the pitchers were taken.

Country Editor speaking: "You realize the years have caught up with you when you try keeping up with the young folk."

NATIONAL NECROPHILIA

I'm not entirely certain what is doing it to us; but something has happened. Back in World War II days, which are still vivid to me, the daily reports from the front gave information as to occupied villages and towns; the general location of allied lines, and positions occupied by Nazis. Even in the island warfare in the Pacific, or in the CBI theater, geography was the big item. People used to get out their maps to try to pinpoint the sites which were not familiar.

Once in a great while there would be an atrocity story. Every war brings them out. Usually the good atrocity stories which blossom in a given war are dusted off and used again. A really colorful atrocity yarn is good for almost indefinite replay. The locale changes, the weapons employed may differ, but men are men, and a good yarn can be reweaved into a thousand fabrics.

Anyway, it was only on those occasions when atrocity stories made the news that we became conscious of the terrible loss of life being caused by the war. Every now and again there'd be a horror story or a retaliation report and the corpses would be strung up before newspaper readers, evoking gasps of dismay and shudders of revulsion. I guess we've become calloused. We've been hit with atrocity stories for so long that the daily Vietnam news sounds increasingly like a butcher-shop inventory. We hear the name of a location pinpointed in a battle. But there aren't any lines or battle fronts as such.

We hear about planes downed, as we did in World War II. We hear of enemy bridges and ammunition dumps. But no one keeps a Vietnam war map. There's no point to it anymore. The only real effort at keeping track of the ebb and flow of combat is in the casualty count. If I had small children, I'd keep them away from radio and TV when the grisly statistics are marshaled and compared. There's something really sad, if not sadistic, about it. The reporters make it sound exciting when we killed more of them than they killed of us. Murder is laudatory, if only one can keep a queasy stomach silent. And we always kill more. Even so, we haven't dented their birth rate and, the way we are spending money promoting magnificent mayhem, it's costing us about $100,000 per corpse. As one commentator, momentarily face to face with the reality of the situation, candidly observed, "We could probably have bought them off for a lot less than that."

It's Up To You

The Will To Win
The policy of placating the enemy and refusal to win the struggle against communism has already placed our country in great jeopardy. The strengthening of the communist bastion in Cuba proceeds at a rapid pace. At the Bay of Pigs it could have been eliminated with only a minor gesture — now I will require a major effort. Likewise, because of our refusal to win in Vietnam years ago when it would have been easy, we are facing an increasingly difficult situation there.

Our unwillingness to deal decisively with brush fires wherever they break out has convinced many nations of the world that there is no safety in depending upon an alliance with us. As that conviction spreads we shall progressively lose not only our allies but our friends, and will eventually be driven back to the concept of "fortress America."

Building up our defenses, keeping a crushing lead over the Kremlin in nuclear power, and developing an anti-missile system, while resolutely putting down communist aggression wherever it appears, as we did in Greece and Lebanon a few years ago, would insure not only the safety of this country but of the freedom loving people around the world.

The alternative to this course is continued rapprochement with communism on a basis that will gradually substitute their system for ours. Some of our leaders in high places have been working toward that end for many years. The bulk of the American people have not yet awakened to the significance of this great change that is taking place. The Fabian socialists have so softened the self-reliance of the American people as to appear to make it doubtful if they are capable of rallying strongly in defense of their freedom.

Put a frog into hot water and he will immediately jump out unharmed. But by dropping him into cold water and then ever so gradually raising the temperature, he can be boiled without stirring a muscle. That is what's happening to the American people. We continue to hope, to pray and to work that something will shock them into a realization of this tragic situation before it is too late.

ashamed of this business? In World War II, and even in Korea, we disguised the dreadfulness by talking real estate. Now we are all necrophiliacs, and it shows.

And you can see the callousness and indifference growing as you watch the blank faces and see the shrugs and the apathy develop. I'm told that the mind tends to grow insensitive to horror when horror becomes commonplace. Nerves tend to lose their vitality when exposed to repeated pain. Judgment is warped and principles of culture, virtue, and goodness are buried in a welter of blood.

Is the human race insane? Come off it. We are, if we insist on perpetuating this gory Golgotha.

The Doctor Says:

By DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT
Diagnostic X Rays Not Radiation Hazard

Most of us are familiar with X-ray films without knowing much about the rays that make them. X-rays cannot be seen, felt, tasted, heard or smelled, but their presence can be easily detected by using a sensitized film. When they are directed toward the human body, they readily penetrate most of the soft tissues but not the teeth, bones or various contrast media used to study the stomach and other hollow organs. The images projected on film may reveal a great deal about the changes in the body produced by disease or injury.

In order to prevent damage to tissues exposed to X-rays, the duration of exposure, size of the beam of rays, distance of the body from the source of the rays, amount of shielding, strength of the current used and other factors must be carefully controlled. The effectiveness of the protective measures used is under continual study and improved methods are still being discovered.

Diagnostic X-ray examinations are only one source of radiation to which the human body is exposed. The average dose of radiation to the reproductive glands (testicles and ovaries) from the atmosphere in which we live, not including radioactive fallout, is twice as great in the course of a year as the average dose from X-ray examinations. This natural background radiation comes from cosmic rays, radioactive minerals in the water and the earth and radioactivity within the body itself.

Luminous clock and watch dials give off only 1-100th as much radiation as this natural background. Home television units give off about 1-50th and radioactive fallout about 1-60th. Public health authorities, after a comprehensive survey, concluded that diagnostic X-rays, as currently used in this country, do not constitute a radiation hazard. Meanwhile, researchers are continuing to improve both the equipment and the technique used to give patients maximum protection: X-ray examinations are far too valuable a diagnostic tool to be allowed to fall into disuse because of potential hazards that can be eliminated or controlled.

Viet Cong Suicide Squads Are Serving Double Purpose

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) —Asian contacts who have worked with Ho Chi Minh in the past have told this reporter they believe the suicide attacks in Saigon and other major South Vietnamese cities were part of General Giap's program for reorganizing the Viet Cong underground organization in the South.

That underground political structure had deteriorated in the past two years as the VC invested heavily in a military attempt to bring down the Saigon government and discourage the Americans.

In the process of that deterioration and as a result of American and Vietnamese counterintelligence efforts, considerable numbers of the Communist underground had become known to the U.S. authorities. In intelligence terms, numbers of these Red agents had lost their cover. Others had become ineffective.

In preparation for the long underground war they now see ahead (negotiations or no negotiations, coalition government or no coalition government), the Communist Viet Cong higher command has now apparently decided it must rebuild its shadow government to rule underground in those populated city areas in which the South Vietnamese government is strong "aboveground."

propaganda and guerrilla agents, administrators and organizers. There must concurrently be a cleanup of all old Red agents and operators who have bumbled badly or who have been compromised by the espionage programs of South Vietnamese and American counterintelligence groups. Otherwise, the bunglers and those who have lost their cover could be used to lead the South Vietnamese and Americans to the new underground leadership now being organized in the cities.

At the same time, those who are genuine nationalists and not hard-core Communists must be eliminated from key leadership posts in both city and rural undergrounds.

To Ho's strategists, this all added up to a cleanup in the Viet Cong underground.

The traditional Communist technique for eliminating men who have outlived their usefulness is to murder them, report them to the enemy for disposal or use them in suicide missions aimed at promoting the over-all objectives of the party. In the suicide role the men are told they will die as heroes.

Castro and Ho-in their early days consistently killed comrades who were in their way. But Castro as frequently reported his useless men to Batista and Ho quite often reported his rejects to French intelligence.

But suicide squads make more sense in Communist theory. The men who died in Saigon, for example, terrorized many city folk and made them uncertain of South Vietnamese government or U.S. protection.

According to Communist reasoning this terrorism should have made the average city dweller less willing to endanger his family by co-operating with South Vietnamese government officials or the Americans. He therefore won't report on VC infiltrators, even if he had had a mind to before. Some who had been wavering, now impressed by the VC show of force, may co-operate with the Communists.

Those among the Saigon officials, merchants, officers and teachers who had been co-operating with the Viet Cong but who had been tiring with making a break, may now be afraid, too. They'll not be certain which night the VC will come again or where. Saigon businessmen who had been slow in paying VC-assessed "taxes" may hurry up their payments.

Thus, the Viet Cong have set the base for their continued underground buildup in the cities.

To that end, new men and women of considerable ability have been quietly groomed by the VC over the last 8-to-12 months for major shadow-government roles in the cities.

The underground organization will, if possible, gradually be built so strong that its orders will prevail even where South Vietnamese and American military forces control the terrain militarily, as in Saigon and Hue.

To achieve an effective shadow government, however, it is not enough to bring in better underground political, economic,

ANSWER: There is no such thing as a "right" to strike. An individual has a right to quit a job. He has no right to quit working and contend that the job is still his to control. He has no more right to claim ownership of the job than an employer has a right to claim ownership of the time of the employee.

Politically-minded union officials and union-favoring politicians have tried to imply that union members have a "right" to leave their place of employment and keep others from working at the jobs they leave. However, while it may be legal there is no moral principle which gives such a "right" to anyone.

We know of no good and moral accomplishment from a strike. It is only a coercive measure designed to compel an employer to pay a greater wage to employees than they could earn in a free competitive market, and more than other workers who do not favor such coercion.

When Gustav Maber conducted the premiere performance of his Eighth Symphony, the ensemble totaled 1,003 musicians and singers.

Question Box

QUESTION: What is the right to strike? Where did it come from? How did the donor get it to give? What does it accomplish that is good and moral?

ANSWER: There is no such thing as a "right" to strike. An individual has a right to quit a job. He has no right to quit working and contend that the job is still his to control. He has no more right to claim ownership of the job than an employer has a right to claim ownership of the time of the employee.

DECEIT OR DISDAIN?
Abraham Lincoln said, "You can fool some of the people some of the time but you can't fool all the people all of the time."

So it is with the Leftists who attempt to cover their pinkish pasts in order to palm themselves off on unsuspecting citizens as patriots. Real patriots are not of a chameleon nature; they don't change colors to suit their environment.

Prominent among freedomist ranks today are some chameleon-types who have been startlingly successful at covering themselves with printer's ink, slick paper and an intellectual image and palming themselves off entertainingly as prophets of wisdom on the freedom side.

When they are caught with their color-guard down, and exposure appears imminent, they immediately don sackcloth and ashes and an uncharacteristic persecution complex in an involved ruse to get public opinion back on their side. These are the wily, skilled deceivers of whom it was undoubtedly written, "Oh what a tangled web we weave when first we practice to deceive."

However skilled his camouflage and maneuverings, the leftist who has been sailing under false colors as a freedomist eventually creates doubt about his sincerity. There is too wide a span between the beliefs and ideals of a leftist and a freedomist for one to very long emulate the other, successfully. Our freedom was too hard-won and is too precious to risk it on these deceivers by simply writing them off as gigolos flirting with both sides of the political spectrum.

Wit and Whimsy

Hugh Newton contributes this bit of Washington lore:

The metal strips used to band birds are inscribed: "Notify Fish and Wild Life Service, Washington, D.C." They used to read "Notify Washington Biological Survey," abbreviated to "Wash. Biol. Surv." This was changed after a farmer shot a pet crow the other day and the U.S. Government:

"Dear Sirs: I shot one of your pet crows the other day and followed instructions attached to it. I washed it and boiled it and served it. It was terrible. You should stop trying to fool the people with things like this...."

Don't be fooled by the calendar; there are only as many days in the year as you make use of.

There is nothing wrong about having nothing to say; just don't say it out loud.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Although glaciers cover an eighth of Iceland's 39,768 square miles, the island's name is misleading because warm waters carried north by the Gulf Stream mitigate winter temperatures, making them similar to those in New York City, says The World Almanac. Much of Iceland's soil is non-arable, causing 90 percent of the wealth to be derived from fishing.

Losers Don't Go Unnoticed Here

By VERNON SCOTT
 UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—All you hear about this time of year are the good pictures, the Oscar contenders, the great performers. The losers go unnoticed. Of the 288 movies eligible for Academy Awards this year, 250 of them are unknown to the great mass of the American public.

Or did you see "Riot on Sunset Strip," "The Brides of Fu Manchu," "Doctor, You've Got to Be Kidding," "The Fiendish Ghoul," "Horrors of Spider Island," "Mother Goose a Go Go?"

Most of these and a hundred others were made on modest budgets with casts that will never make the world forget "Gone With the Wind."

They are also living proof that the "B" picture still lives; indeed, thrives.

Attempt Made
 Happily they will not be among the chosen April 8 when the Oscars are handed out to the more deserving. However, those least deserving, too, should be given some recognition for having at least made an attempt at art-or-entertainment.

It is therefore incumbent that someone honor the biggest bomb of the season; that is, an award of some kind for the greatest waste of money, talent and time devoted to celluloid.

The outstanding bomb of the year, beyond question, must be "The Countess From Hong Kong." It stands alone.

For decades they've called Charlie Chaplin a genius. And perhaps he is. It takes some special celebration for a man to drop Chaplin in as producer-director with stars Marlon Brando and Sofia Loren and come up with a second Hiroshima, cinematically speaking.

Even so "The Countess From Hong Kong" was a masterpiece compared to "Tarzan and the Great River," "The Tennessee

Gourmet Might Starve Without Petroleum

By FRED LANKARD United Press International The gourmet of the 21st century won't have a bowl of crude oil for breakfast, but without petroleum he just might starve to death. As the world strains in a losing effort to feed its hungry billions, scientists are probing the complexities of oil to find new food sources. The research is underway in the United States as well as in laboratories from China to Czechoslovakia and one of its products is a bland powder designed to supply protein in animal feed and food supplements for humans. Adequate protein supplies are necessary to stave off famine, but because of cost and scarcity, the properly balanced proteins found in meat, fish, milk and eggs are already beyond the reach of much of the earth's population. Raising Food Quickly At least part of the answer may be found in single cell protein or SCP, the fine, white, protein-loaded powder recently termed by the Imperial Oil Review as possibly "the fastest food raising program in the world." The publication reports that SCP is a well balanced protein with nutritional value greater than the proteins in most cereals and vegetables and similar to that of the animal-type proteins. The process is based on feeding micro-organisms of yeast or bacteria on the hydrocarbons found in petroleum deposits. In well-fed, affluent societies like that of the U.S., little demand for the new products is anticipated in the near future. One expert, however, feels the petroleum proteins could be available in some of the world's more undernourished areas by the early 1970s. Reserves Not Hurt The researchers also indicate the hydrocarbons needed to fill anticipated protein shortages would make only a small dent in the earth's crude oil reserves. Texts have indicated the laboratory-produced protein would have no ill effect on man or his animals, but before refineries begin doubling as food factories, such substances as SCP will have to crack legal, religious and economic barriers. Marketing may also present a problem since even hungry people might hesitate over a menu featuring something made out of oil and bacteria.

Uranium Drilling Tests Are Now in Progress

FALLS CITY, Tex. (UPI)—The Susquehanna-Western Corp. today was making drilling tests in the Falls City area with the idea of tripling the size of the oil big uranium mining and milling operation in Texas. Susquehanna - Western now strip mines 1,000 tons of sandy ore a day. Each ton of ore is refined in a nearby mill to four pounds of uranium oxide, commonly known as "yellow cake," for present total production of 4,000 pounds a day. Further refining and treatment, some by secret government process, is necessary before the uranium can be used to fuel nuclear power plants, a boom in which has stirred the interest in uranium mining to almost unprecedented pitch. R. C. Schenk of Chicago, president of Susquehanna-Western, said in an interview that his company plans to move a mill to Falls City from Riverton to Wyo., if the drilling tests show there is enough uranium. He believes the tests will show there is.

Russia Penetrates Middle East Oil

DALLAS (Sp) — Russia has successfully penetrated Middle East oil operations after 67 years of trying, states PM Report, a Petroleum Engineer publication, in the Feb. issue. The recent USSR-Iraq oil pact covers southern Iraq and gives the Soviet a permit to explore and help market oil. Pay will be in crude oil. If the Soviet develops and markets Iraqi oil it will run into competition with itself. Biggest customer right now for both Russian and Iraqi oil is Western Europe, according to Ernestine Adams, editor of PM Report. Since the time of the Czars, Russia has made an effort to get Middle East oil. It interferred with the D'Arcy Persian agreement in 1901, the first oil concession negotiated. Because of Russia's southern part of Persia (now Iran) was not included in the D'Arcy concession, later owned by British Petroleum Co. Ltd. In 1916 Persian ministers gave Russia an oil grant in this area but the Red Revolution came and that fell through, states the PM Report article. Thirty years later, after World War II, with Soviet troops occupying Iran, the Soviet-Iranian Oil Co. was formed. When Russian troops were forced to withdraw, the Iranian parliament rejected the oil agreement. Then Mussaddiq came along, seized power in Iran and nationalized the oil industry. The Soviet backed him but failed to save him. Another Mid-East country, Syria, might be exporting oil today if it had not appropriated the fields discovered a decade ago by Western companies and contracted with Russia to develop them. So far the state refinery still depends on oil from the Western-owned pipeline that crosses Syria. Iraq has been cozy with Russia for years. Oil nationalization has enticed successive leaders but there was the income from Iraq Petroleum Co. (estimated $400 million in 1967). Back in 1960, states the PM Report, a contract with USSR included oil exploration work. The next year the Iraqi government expropriated 99.5 per cent of Iraq Petroleum Co.'s concession area. Part of this is now in the new Soviet contract.

Skelly Earnings Reported Higher

Skelly Oil Co., reported earnings for 1967 which were the highest in their history. It was the fifth consecutive year in which Skelly has shown net income. Earnings for 1967 were $42,016,000 or $3.48 per share, an increase of almost 14 per cent over the prior year. Earnings for 1966 were $36,962,000 or $3.04 per share, not including extraordinary items of $16,241,000 or $1.34 per share. In releasing the record 1967 earnings, Skelly Pres. Don H. Miller observed that the amount was almost double the earnings of 1965. He predicted continued growth in 1968. Skelly reported sales and operating revenue of $423,000,000 in 1967, up 16 per cent from 1966. Volume increases over the prior year were reported in production, manufacturing and marketing, all of which operated at record levels. Production of crude oil in 1967 was 8 per cent higher than in 1966. Miller stated that about two-thirds of the increase came from Skelly's share of Alaskan production and the remaining one-third from other states. Natural gas production was also up 8 per cent.

Phillips Finds New Guinea Gas

Phillips Petroleum Co., as operator for a four-company group, has discovered gas in an exploratory well in the Gulf of Papua, New Guinea. Initial drill-stem tests of the well, the Uramu No. 1-A, flowed at a daily rate of 22.4 million cubic feet of natural gas through a small choke. Condensate was tested at a rate of 1.2 barrels per million cubic feet of gas. The gas discovery is on acreage held by the four companies, totaling 13,000 square miles of offshore permits. It extends 250 miles Northwest from Port Moresby. The group is composed of Phillips, Sunray DX-Oil Co., Canadian Superior Oil and Atlantic Richfield Co. The gas flow was from the top five feet of a reef reservoir encountered at 6169 feet. Present total depth is 6174 feet. The well will be drilled deeper to explore for the possibility of an oil reservoir and to determine the thickness of the gas pay zone.

Merryman To Speak At AIME Meet

Jim Merryman, district petroleum engineer of Sun Oil Co., at Midland, will discuss SPE Paper No. 1892, "Fundamental Testing and Production Surveillance" when the Society of Petroleum Engineers of AIME meets at 6:30 p.m. at the Coronado Inn. Members are requested to make reservations with John Gill, MO 4-4686 in Pampa, or with Alan Evans, BR 4-1331, in Borger. Guests are invited. CLASSIFIED ADS GETS RESULTS PHONE MO 4-2525

Cities Service Slates Merger

NEW YORK (Sp) — Cities Service Co.'s subsidiary, Columbian Carbon Co., and Akron Equipment Co. have reached an agreement in principle whereby Columbian Carbon would acquire through merger the assets and business of Akron Equipment. It was announced by E. B. Brooks, president of Columbian Carbon and R. C. Quine, chairman of Akron Equipment. The proposal, which has been approved in principle by the board of directors of each company, is subject to the approval by the stockholders of Akron Equipment and appropriate tax rulings. Under the terms of the agreement Cities Service common stock would be exchanged for the stock of Akron Equipment, valued in excess of $6 million.

Make Mistake? IRS Computer Will Catch It

Only 651 blushing Northern Texas taxpayers were caught with their errors showing by the IRS computer during January, according to Ellis Campbell Jr., District Director for Northern Texas. Campbell says that 27,779 taxpayers' returns were processed by the computer. The 651 errors represents a small 2.4 percent as compared to the 6.6 percent error rate by taxpayers from this region last year. Taxpayer slips were: 37 failures to send statements or schedules required; 57 omitted, incomplete or erroneous Social Security numbers; 64 missing forms W-2; 84 missing signatures; 157 math errors (teachers take note); and 252 wrong tax table, line or column. It appears that North Texas taxpayers are continuing their effort to prove what last year's errors showed — that they can't add and subtract and that they can't seem to get the correct tax from the right tax table and put it on the line it is supposed to be on. Campbell said unfortunately none of these errors should have been made and could have been avoided by a careful check of the tax return before mailing it. The early filer's goal — an early refund check — was the reward for 9,724 North Texans who received refund checks amounting to $1,570,666.79. The Internal Revenue Service requires six weeks or longer to process most tax returns. However, IRS advises taxpayers that being accurate and avoiding errors is even more important than filing early in getting your refund.

Publishing Firm Changes Owners

DALLAS (Sp) — Officers of the Petroleum Engineer Publishing Co., Dallas, today revealed a change in ownership of the 39-year-old firm. Abbott Sparks, president and publisher, and Larry F. Ferguson, Dallas financier and investor, have purchased all assets of the company from Sammons Enterprises, Inc. The latter group had owned the publishing property since 1953. Sparks, a veteran in the oil and gas magazine field, including publishing and advertising sales, will continue in his present position. Ferguson, who has served as financial counsel, will continue in that capacity and serve as a member of the board of directors. Sparks stated, "This is a healthy climax to an eventful year for a highly respected group of magazines and for the staff which is responsible for our success. Our future plans include further expansion into the unlimited field of energy communications. They will also provide for participation of key personnel in the rewards of growth."

GET LIFE SENTENCES

HAMBURG, West Germany (UPI)—Three former Nazi SS officers were sentenced to life imprisonment for murdering Polish and Russian slave workers so they could never tell how they had been forced to open mass graves containing victims of Nazi brutality. The defendants, Max Kraher, 83; Otto Goldapp, 76; and Otto Drows, 66, showed no emotion when the sentences were read.

High School Teen News

By DAVID WEBSTER
Next week at Pampa High School will probably be one of the busiest and most exciting weeks that takes place during the school year. One finds it hard to explain what is in a teenager's mind with all the excitement and eagerness of attending the Career Clinic.

Career Clinic
Some will be disappointed as usual, but most students really appreciate the opportunity to attend the clinic.
This year's Career Clinic will be hosted by Mrs. M. G. (Dolly) Ware, wife of a Ft. Worth businessman. She speaks to more than 150 audiences each year and has a philosophy of "happiness as a way of traveling—not a destination."

Tri-Hi-Y
Tri-Hi-Y's Sweetheart Banquet will be held Feb. 10 at 7 p. m. at Jackson's Cafeteria. Members, their escorts and parents will attend the affair.

Members voted the last two weeks for Best Citizen and a sweetheart. Nominated for Best Citizen were Rosa Hobbs, Jennifer Benton, Connie Yeager, and Vickie Elsheimer.

The Best Citizen and Sweetheart will be announced at the banquet.

Truteens
Truteen Service League will sponsor a March of Dimes Dance Feb. 17 in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn.

The Chosen Few will provide music, and all proceeds will go to the March of Dimes.

Truteens are now undertaking a project to landscape the Pampa High School campus. The money for this beautification program will be donated from other school clubs. A map will be placed in the hall so students may see the plans.

Girls interested in joining the Truteens Service League have an opportunity for membership during the next few weeks. There are openings for 16 sophomores and two juniors. Applications may be obtained from any Truteen member.

The Quill and Scroll Society, International honor society for high school journalists, will initiate seven members in March.

Spring initiates, all seniors, are: Dennes Elliott, Debby Rogers, Beverly Walls, Sylvia Graham, Martha Myatt, Betty Supina and Sandy Wright.

To be eligible for membership, a student must be at least a junior, have an 85 or above average for the preceding year, and have had a year's experience on either the newspaper or yearbook in editorial, business, art or photography.

Basketball
A writer usually finds it hard to say the wrong things the correct way, but when you look at Pampa High School's basketball team, you find it hard to say anything.

You take a round ball and a net strung on a hoop and organize a sport. You can get some players and a coach and you have a team. Add a few spectators and you have the crowd, but what is missing?

The missing ingredient is enthusiasm. This one little factor makes a team a winner. Without it, everything would be lost.

The boys on this year's team have enthusiasm. They have the will to win, the will to win state. They are putting all they have into the sport and living it night and day.

Their enthusiasm isn't enough though. It also takes enthusiasm on our part. If they live basketball four to six hours a day and then dream of it at night, is it asking too much of us to go to two games a week to give them the extra boost they need.

Crowds at home games have been tremendous and so have the Harvesters, but there will be no more home games. The Harvesters are on their way to state. Are they on it alone?

You can go into nearly any barber shop and hear some local yokel telling how he would coach the team, but you won't see this fellow at the games.

It seems it would be more honorable to say "I backed the team, all the way" than to say "I could have done better if I had been coaching."

The difference in winning and losing may lie in our enthusiasm. Will we go to the out-of-town games, give a little boost and see some state champions, or will we complain because the team didn't suit us?

blined service territory for funds and volunteers met in Pampa with members from 6 counties guests of Gray County chapter. Jack Skelly, greeted the group and turned the meeting over to Claud Payne, field representative, who introduced Mrs. Ruth Harris from Wichita, Kansas, who spoke to the group on the "Need for More Volunteers." She told of ways to interest community leaders in Red Cross services and spoke of having a volunteer with office training to work in the Red Cross office to take care of records.

Mr. Harold Gallarneau, a volunteer on the fund committee spoke to the group on the SOS program for servicemen. Mr. Gallarneau said, "These are your boys and girls who are in the service of our country and they need our help and assistance now. The Red Cross needs your help now! Coffee and cookies were served by Mrs. C. J. Killgo, chairman of volunteers, Miss Margaret Wilkerson and Mrs. Molly Butts. Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor registered the guests. The following were also registered: Mrs. Ruby Pemberton and H. M. Nicholls from Panhandle; Mrs. Martha Biglow and Mrs. Virginia Simmons from Borger; Sam Pakan from Shamrock; Mrs. A. D. Two first aid classes are being held this week; Mr. Manny Holden is teaching the Civil Air Patrol members who have not had their standard first aid course. Mr. Ray Fisher is teaching a Boy Scout Troop from the First Presbyterian Church their junior first aid. He showed a film of first aid to the boys and their leaders Monday evening.

Celanease safety department is being shown a Red Cross film on burns during this month. Various departments see the film once a week. The Red Cross has a nice catalogue of films and our community can use them by calling the Red Cross office and reserving a date to see them.

Linville, nursing service chairman; Dr. Julian Key, membership and finance; Christine Kilgo, chairman of volunteers; V. E.
