Romney Upsets GOP's Comfort

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Gov. George Romney of Michigan has jolted the GOP out of its comfortable waiting game by bowing out of contention for the Republican presidential nomination five weeks ahead of schedule.

He also nudged Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York into the foreground as the hope of the liberal or moderate wing of the GOP.

At first glance, Romney's surprise withdrawal Wednesday, even before the first presidential primary contest, seemed to improve the chances of Richard M. Nixon to win the nomination. But second thoughts suggested that the loss of his only major active competitor might complicate Nixon's problems.

One of those problems was the course to be followed by Rockefeller and those already pushing him as a substitute for Romney as the candidate of the liberal or moderate wing of the party.

The big question was: Would Rockefeller become active in quest of the nomination or maintain his stance as a non-candidate and see what his friends could stir up?

Rockefeller himself said only that he regretted Romney's decision but that his own position was unchanged—he was not a candidate for the nomination.

But Rockefeller partisans were divided. Some said he should become an active candidate. Others said he should lie back and wait.

Romney's candidacy had not commanded the support he had hoped. He praised Rockefeller and Gov. John A. Chafee of Rhode Island for supporting him but did not indicate whom he would support beyond saying he would back anyone the governors could unite behind.

He also announced he would hold another news conference in Manchester, N.H., Friday.

Romney was matched against Richard M. Nixon in the New Hampshire Primary March 12, Wisconsin April 2, Nebraska May 14 and Oregon May 28. Gov. Ronald Reagan also is entered in the final three tests but not—at least yet—as an active candidate.

Non-candidate Reagan told a news conference at Sacramento, Calif., Wednesday that the choice in the GOP presidential race had narrowed down to Nixon "or a non-candidate. Then he remembered that Harold Stassen had announced his candidacy so he added the former Minnesota governor to the choices.

Nixon Considers Drastic Changes In Campaigning

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI)—Richard M. Nixon huddled with his staff today, trying to determine if his presidential campaign strategy will have to be drastically changed.

The former vice president was touring five cities Wednesday, when his chief rival for the GOP nomination, Michigan Gov. George Romney, withdrew from the race.

Today, Nixon planned afternoon stops in Hanover and Lebanon. He planned to fly from Lebanon to New York tonight.

The Romney withdrawal faces Nixon with the prospect of possible battle against a stronger opponent, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Nixon led Romney in all polls estimating the outcome of New Hampshire's March 12 primary. Nixon declined to be drawn into a debate over "the important issues" with Romney, and toured the campaign trail with the theme that we can't pull out of Vietnam just yet and the country needs "new leadership."

Rockefeller was an early and strong supporter of Romney, but last week said he would accept a draft if it was offered at the Republican National Convention. There is a write in campaign in New Hampshire for Rockefeller, which is getting stronger every day. The governor doesn't endorse the movement.

Nixon issued a brief statement after learning of Romney's withdrawal, calling the Michigan governor a good campaigner. He said he was sure Romney will play "a major role in Michigan and the nation in assuring a Republican victory in November."

REVERSE CHASING — Today being officially Leap Year Day, it is altogether fitting and proper that girls chase men, instead of the more traditional boy catches girl approach. Lifting of Monsoons Permits Major Hits

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. planes bombed the nerve center of North Vietnam's anti-aircraft defense in the Hanoi area Wednesday and struck heavily in the Vinh area where the Communists were reported building MIG and bomber bases for use against the south. Communist reports said Hanoi was bombed again today.

Heavy ground fighting tapered off but in battles last week 470 American servicemen were killed—second only to the record 543 Americans killed the week before. The Communists lost 5,769 killed and the South Vietnamese and other allies lost 453 dead. American losses for the entire war stood at 18,709; Communist losses climbed past the 300,000 mark.

Lifting of monsoon weather in the North permitted major strikes against targets in the Hanoi and Haiphong areas but most of the 70 missions were flown against the Vinh area, 150 miles south of the DMZ where the North Vietnamese were enlarging an airstrip to put Khe Sanh and other southern targets within the range of MIGs and bombers.

U.S. Navy planes using radar hit for the second time the Hanoi radio communications center 10 miles south of Hanoi which controls anti-aircraft defenses. Air Force Phantoms hit the Chuc Son barracks, 12 miles southwest of Hanoi for the first time as it came off the White House restricted list. And other U.S. Navy planes struck the Haiphong railway 1.7 miles from the city center for the third time in four days.

An Air Force F105 Thunderchief was shot down by ground fire in the Vinh area, the 302nd U.S. plane reported downed over the North. The pilot, Capt. Gene I. Easel, 31, of Lakeside, Calif., was hauled out by a Jolly Green Giant rescue helicopter—the 1,000th U.S. flier saved by this method.

Two other U.S. aircraft were shot down Wednesday. The Communists shot down a troop-laden Marine CH45 helicopter near Khe Sanh, killing all 19 men aboard. Ground fire destroyed a C130 transport as it was landing at Song Be, near the Cambodian border 65 miles from Saigon, but the crew escaped.

Reporting war losses, the U.S. spokesmen said that last week 2,675 Americans were wounded, compared to 2,547 the previous week. Half the wounded needed hospital treatment, the spokesmen said.

Blank Expressions On Faces of Staff

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI)—There were no tears just blank expressions on the faces of the Romney staff in the governor's presidential campaign headquarters.

Friday Deadline For City Filing

Deadline for filing candidacies in Pampa's April 2 election is 5 p.m. tomorrow.

Two city commission posts are to be filled in the balloting. Terms of the mayor and two other commissioners do not expire until next year.

Seats to be filled April 2 will be the Ward 1 and 4 commissioner posts.

There are only three candidates so far. Hugh Eurdette is seeking re-election in Ward 1 and Earl D. Hilton and Clyde Carruth have filed in Ward 4.

The office of City Secretary Stanley Chittenden, where city candidates must file, will be open until 5 p.m. tomorrow, Chittenden said today.

Absentee balloting will run from March 11 through March 29.

LBJ Asks Governors' Aid in War on Crime

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson asked the nation's state governors today to enlist in his campaign to get Congress to enact his anticrime, health, welfare and other key domestic programs.

Speaking to 43 governors—both Republicans and Democrats—in the White House movie theater, Johnson stressed the need for greater cooperation between Washington and the statehouses in putting across needed expansion of basic domestic programs.

Some of his proposals face an uphill battle in Congress.

Johnson's speech—a text of which was released by the White House—opened the annual meeting of the National Governors' Conference. The governors also were due for briefings at the State Department before going into their own sessions.

According to the White House, seven governors were missing at the opening session. The absentees were listed as the governors of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, California, Nevada, Kentucky and Ohio. Florida's Gov. Claude R. Kirk was due to arrive later in the day.

Before coming here, the governors, replying to chief mentioned crime as their chief concern, and Johnson arranged to have a panel discussion on the subject at the White House (See JOHNSON, Page 3)

Run Bachelors, Run—Theme For Leap Year Day

Today was the day bachelors were supposed to take to the hills if they weren't in a mood to be pursued.

According to tradition, today is "Leap Month the 29th" or "Leap Day"—the one day when mads are free to propose to lads who come their way.

It's Feb. 29, a date which falls only once in every four years. It won't happen again until 1972 when another Leap Year rolls around.

So, girls, you have only a few hours left to capture your heart's desire and head him altar-bound.

Midnight tonight is the deadline.

Joe Rogers Files

Rogers, who resides at 1226 E. Harvester with his wife Patty and two children, Jodie and Sandra, filed his candidacy late yesterday afternoon.

Two school board seats will be filled. They are now held by H. Creel Grady Jr. and Jimmy Thompson, whose terms expire April 5. Grady has been on the board for six years. Thompson was appointed in mid-January to serve out an unexpired term. Both Grady and Thompson are seeking re-election.

School Board Race Continues to Widen

The race for the two vacancies on the Pampa School Board at the April 6 election continued to widen today as the name of Joe Y. Rogers, production superintendent at Cabot's Skellytown carbon black plant, was entered.

The four other candidates are Elmer Wilson, a former board member; Tom Dunham, a real estate broker; Joe B. Pafford, regional manager for Cabot's carbon black accounting department, and Bud Hogan, owner of Hogan Construction Co.

Rogers said today he was entering the school board race because of his "interest in the youth of the community and their education."

Rogers, who has been a Pampa resident for 14 years, is current committee chairman for Cub Scout Pack No. 109 and is active in affairs of the First Presbyterian Church.

Deadline for filing in the school board election is next Wednesday, March 6.

Texas GOP Leaders Surprised by Romney

By United Press International
Texas Republican leaders were surprised Wednesday that Michigan Gov. George Romney withdrew from the presidential nomination race only two weeks before the first primary of the year.

Albert Fay, national committeeman from Houston, said he expected Romney to drop out of contention "somewhere along the road but not quite this soon."

Romney announced at a news conference Wednesday in Washington he was withdrawing. He was there attending the national governors' conference.

State GOP chairman Peter O'Donnell of Dallas said he was surprised because of the nearness of the New Hampshire primary but added he had learned the governor's campaign was not going well last week at a national committee meeting in Washington.

O'Donnell said he thought Romney's announcement would accelerate whatever plans New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller might have. Rockefeller recently said he would accept a draft if such were forthcoming at the GOP national convention.

GOP National Committee woman Mrs. Tobin Armstrong of Kingsville said she was surprised Romney dropped out of the race before the New Hampshire voters had a chance to record their opinions of him.

One of the reasons Romney gave for withdrawing was that he had not received the acceptance he had anticipated among Republicans.

Pope Paul Orders Retirement Age For Roman Curia

By RAY MOSELEY
VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI today ordered most high-ranking officials of the Roman Curia to retire at age 74 and lower-ranking officials to step down at 70.

Cardinal prefects heading the Sacred Congregation of the Curia, the Roman Catholic Church's central administration, were excluded from the new policy.

The retirement ages were instituted in a Papal document ordering sweeping reforms in the Curia to give it a younger, more modern outlook and to streamline its operations.

The Pope outlined his reforms last August. Originally they were intended to take effect Jan. 1 but his illness last fall and subsequent prostate operation pushed the deadline to March 1. The reforms take effect Friday.

In August Pope Paul announced a limit of five years on Curia terms of office. Until then, most Curia appointments were for life.

Liberals in the church regarded the Curia as a bulwark of conservatives impeding the church's advance into the modern world. One source of their complaint was that the Curia was dominated by older Italian cardinals entrenched by their lifetime appointments.

Pope Paul has been internationalizing the Curia in recent months by appointing several non-Italian cardinals to top posts in its congregations.

Tears Well in Eyes of Prisoner Now Known Not To Be Murderer

UNION S.C. (UPI)—Tears welled in the eyes of the long-term prisoner, shifting uneasily in the unaccustomed softness of a sofa in the guards' quarters of a small prison camp in upstate South Carolina.

"My son is all I have left now," said Roger Z. Dedmond quietly.

Emotion and hope, dormant since the 28-year-old convict entered the camp almost a year ago to begin serving an 18-year sentence for manslaughter of his wife, burst forth Wednesday.

Dedmond had been told that "new evidence" indicated that he was innocent of the killing and that he would be freed soon, maybe today. The "Gaffney strangler" authorities said, apparently killed Mrs. Lucille Dedmond.

"The greatest thing of all will be being able to sleep again," Dedmond said. "I don't get much sleep at night."

The tears came when he talked of his son Roger Jr., 2, living with relatives in Charlotte, N.C.

"I hope to go back to my son," he said. "And I hope to make a life in Charlotte for the present."

The nude and strangled body of Dedmond's wife was found last May 8 on a rural road in Union County, and authorities said. Dedmond later admitted choking and undressing her after a domestic fight. Police said Dedmond repeatedly confessed to the slaying and it came as a "complete surprise" when he repudiated the alleged confession at his trial. He was convicted.

That ended the case until managing editor Bill Gibbons of the Gaffney Ledger received a telephone call earlier this month. The caller, a "soft-voiced man," told Gibbons he had committed three killings and would kill again unless he was caught.

He told Gibbons where to find the bodies of two missing women and said that he also had killed Mrs. Dedmond and "something must be done to free the boy who is serving my time." Using directions supplied by the caller police found the nude and strangled bodies of Mrs. Nancy Parris, 20, and Nancy Rinehart, 14, in a wooded area.

The caller became known as the "Gaffney Strangler" and kept the nearby town of Gaffney in a virtual state of terror for about a week. A 15-year-old Negro girl later was kidnapped and her body found in woods. Two weeks ago, police arrested Lee Roy Martin, a 30-year-old textile worker, and charged him with the murders. Officers said Martin led them to the personal belongings of all of the victims, including car keys Mrs. Dedmond had the night she was slain.

Dedmond's attorney, James Arthur, said "the character of this man is amazing.

"He's so humble, he's not displaying bitterness. He's taking it like a man."

Pittsburgh Teachers On Bargaining Strike

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—About one-third of Pittsburgh's 3,100 public school teachers went on strike today to back demands for a collective bargaining election. It was the first such strike in the city's history.

Officials hoped to keep the city's 112 public elementary and high schools open with the help of substitute teachers and supervisory personnel.

The striking teachers, members of the Pittsburgh Federation of Teachers (PFT), walked out despite a last minute plea from the governor's office and a court injunction issued Wednesday night.

The rival Pittsburgh Teachers Education Association, representing about 1,900 teachers, told its members to cross the picket lines.

The Catholic school system was not affected by the walkout.

Teachers who participated in the strike could be fired under Pennsylvania law but no school board in the state ever has enforced the law.

The PFT claims to represent 1,000 of Pittsburgh's 3,100 teachers and seeks a bargaining election to determine whether it or the rival Pittsburgh Teachers Education Association will represent all of the teachers.

"We feel that the attitude of the Board of Education toward collective bargaining is incredible in the very city where collective bargaining was born," PFT President Albert Fondy said. "Teachers have the right to represent themselves in other major cities, we will not be denied the right here."

Salaries for Pittsburgh teachers range from $5,900 for beginners to $9,800 for teachers with 11 years experience and a master's degree. They run between $1,000 and $2,000 below those in comparable cities, such as Detroit, where teachers start at $7,500.

Police Chief Issues Warning On Signal Lights

Turn only with the arrow, go only in the direction of the arrow, Police Chief Jim Conner warned Pampans this morning about the traffic signals at the intersection of N. Hobart St. and Coronado Drive.

The warning followed several days of violations at the traffic signals which have been in operation since Feb. 21.

"We've been having people turn every which way when they're not supposed to," Conner said.

"The arrow is the cue. If it points to the left you can only turn left; if it points right, you can only turn right; if it points straight ahead, you should only go straight ahead and not turn left or right, he said.

'No Smoking' Signs Posted In Gray County Court Room

"No Smoking" signs have gone up in 31st Judicial District Court Room and the Gray County Court Room for the first time in many years.

No records are available, but old-timers say the ban on smoking in the court rooms is the first in about 30 years.

The decision to ban smoking was made by County Judge S. R. Lenning Jr. and District Judge Grainger Melhany following the installation of new tile in both the courtrooms.

"The old floors were scarred and dirty from so many cigarettes and cigars and pipe ashes," Judge Lenning said, "and we decided we wanted to keep our new ones clean and white, so that's why we've banned smoking."

The new tile vinyl floor in the courtrooms was part of a recent program of improvement at the Gray County court house, which included air conditioning and the construction of several new rooms for jurors and clients.

Although the ban on smoking has been in effect for a number of weeks, "No Smoking" signs were not put up in the district courtroom until yesterday. The action was prompted yesterday, officials say, because some people still didn't realize that the no smoking ban was in effect despite efforts of the court bailiff to enforce the ruling.

Six Sentenced In District Court

Six persons were sentenced yesterday in 31st Judicial District Court following their arraignment, pleas of guilty, and waiver of trial by jury.

Four of the cases involved driving while intoxicated, second offense.

Those sentenced for DWI were Donald W. Mason, 3-year probated sentence; Jerry Anton Gordzelik, fined $250 and costs; Tommy Allen Kent, 3-year probated sentence; and Carmon Thomas Ferrell, fined $250 and costs.

Glenn Ray McCarter was given a 3-year probated sentence for burglary of a coin-operated machine and Albert Young Jr. was given a 5-year probated sentence for theft.

Two cases were dismissed on motion of the state because of insufficient evidence. One involved bigamy and the other illegal sale and disposition of mortgaged property.

Trial for six of the arraigned cases has been set for March 11.

At Pampa High School, first and second period tests were given Tuesday, fifth and sixth Wednesday and third and fourth today.

Robert E. Lee Junior High School students were tested Wednesday and today. Pampa Junior High School students take tests today and Friday. Elementary students are being tested all week.

Pampa Rotarians Name Directors

Pampa's Rotary Club elected seven members to comprise their board of directors at the organization's weekly luncheon meeting yesterday in the Coronado Inn.

Named to serve are W. T. Atkinson, Milo Carlson, Bob Curry, Kay Fancher, Rev. Sam Hulsey, Paul Payne and Jimmy Thompson.

Cameron Marsh, Pampa High School principal, gave a talk on "The Tin Lizzie," in which he described the development of Henry Ford's famous "Model T" automobile.

The era of the "Model T" began in Dearborn, Mich., in 1903 and culminated with the advent of the "Model A" in the early '30's.

No Incidents Reported

No incidents were recorded yesterday by the Gray County sheriff's office.

"It was quieter than a tomcat's feet on a padded mattress," Sheriff R. H. (Rufe) Jordan said.

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Spring festival time signifies Shrove Tuesday, Lent and Easter to the Christian world, Purim and Passover to the Jewish faith, and a variety of celebrations to other religious and secular groups in the West and the East.

Most such holidays have their own special food customs. Pancakes and fritters have been traditional for Shrove Tuesday since pre-refrigeration days when housewives made them to use up fat, eggs and butter before the beginning of the 40-day Lenten fast.

Lenten tradition calls for many meatless dishes. For Easter, ham is accepted widely as the usual main dish in America, but roast lamb still is favored by many Europeans.

Purim, which falls this year on March 14, is a happy holiday that marks the escape of Persian Jews from destruction plotted by Haman, a Persian prime minister many centuries ago. A traditional food for this holiday is named for him—hamantasch. It is a small triangular pastry with sweetened poppyseed filling.

The Jewish Passover, which commemorates the escape of Jews from Egyptian slavery, is celebrated with many symbolic foods, including matzoh, or unleavened bread.

And in India, the Moslem population of this Hindu nation follow their 40-day fast of Ramadan with Ramzan-Id, a time for attending religious services at mosques and for feasting at home and exchanging gifts of confections with families and friends. Birianis are the traditional main dishes and they have dozens of variations. Make biryani with pigeon, duck, chicken, lamb or fish, cooked with rice and whole spices such as cinnamon, cardamom pods and green ginger.

A spokesman for the India Government Tourist Office here says birianis also are served for VIP feasts throughout the nation. Cooks make ornate patterns atop the food with almonds, pistachios, cashews, raisins, flower petals or fresh mint leaves. A dessert traditional for this holiday is called senvenia or seviyaa. It's a sort of noodle pudding, made with fried or toasted vermicelli finished in caramelized sugar syrup and sometimes also containing nuts and/or raisins.

Northern and central India also celebrates a secular holiday called Holi whose festivities sound like a combination of New Year's and Hallowe'en. People dance and sing in the streets and pelt one another with water and powder colored with vegetable dyes. The dyes are supposed to tarnish the old year and give everyone a fresh start.

Foods for Holi include saeo or saez—a spicy, cracker-like snack made with chick pea flour and gujia, which is a deep fried pastry shaped like a half moon with milk and almost paste filling.

Confections called barfi are served for still another Indian festival, Teej, which is celebrated in Rajasthan. It marks the coming of the annual monsoon, or rainy season. A westerner might liken barfi to fudge—a very sweet fudge. Like many other festive Indian foods, OAK BROOK, Ill. (Sp) —Sausage chowder turns a simple supper into a hearty meal. When served piping hot at the table, the family can watch the chunks of browned sausage, tender lima beans and creamy soup being ladled into individual bowls. The satisfying blend of flavors belies the ease of preparation.

One reason the cooking time is short is that the brown and serve sausage in the recipe is purchased fully cooked. The homemaker browns the sausage quickly to suit the family's preference and adds it to the vegetables in the chowder mixture.

The flavorful chowder is seasoned with onion and celery. It's neither time-consuming nor difficult to make. The trick is to be sure the flour is well dispersed in the milk before the bouillon and other ingredients are added.

Brown and serve sausage is best known at breakfast time. Because it browns in the same length of time it takes to make toast or fry an egg, a satisfying breakfast is possible in a matter of minutes.

It often is served with a covering of tissue-thin edible gold or silver or a sprinkling of rose water.

The hostess faced with preparing hot appetizers for a crowd also turns to brown and serve sausage. A quantity of the sausage links cut in thirds and arranged in a jelly-roll pan browns quickly in a hot oven with a minimum of attention. The hot tidbits are transferred to a chafing dish and topped with a zippy sauce. It could be a cheese, a sweet and sour sauce or a peppery tomato-horseradish combination. Guests help themselves by spearing bite-sized pieces of sausage with fancy wooden picks.

SAUSAGE CHOWDER
8 ounce package brown 'n serve sausage, cut in thirds
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1-3 cup chopped onion
3/4 cup chopped celery
1 cup milk
1/4 cup flour
1 cup hot beef bouillon
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 cup cooked cubed potatoes
1 cup cooked lima beans...

In a large kettle or Dutch oven brown sausage pieces according to package directions. Remove sausage. Add butter. Sauté onion and celery until soft. Meanwhile, pour milk into a jar that has a tight lid. Add flour. Add bouillon, milk, flour tightly, and shake well to make a smooth mixture of milk and flour. Add bouillon, milk-flour mixture, browned sausage, and remaining ingredients to the Dutch oven. Mix well. Simmer 10 to 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Serve piping hot and garnish with chopped parsley if desired. (Yield: 6 to 8 servings).

Food-Buying Guide
WASHINGTON (UPI) — USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service reports that abundant supplies of meat and poultry and good supplies of some fresh fruits and vegetables will be available to weekend shoppers in food stores and supermarkets.

Broiler-fryer chickens and turkeys continue to be the most abundantly available meats. Pork cuts are again on the abundant lists and these include bacon, chops, roasts and hams. Beef cuts that should be readily available in some areas. Fish filets and steaks, fish sticks and portions, and canned tuna are fish buys to watch for, according to the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Combine Seafood For Appetizers

Hold court in your own dining room this winter with this delicious recipe for seafood—Seafood Ala King Arthur.

Seafood Ala King Arthur is an exotic combination of two of the most popular seafoods, shrimp and crabmeat, blended with crackers. The recipe was the main course at a recent press party hosted by a company in Boston. It can also be used as an appetizer.

SEAFOOD ALA KING ARTHUR
1 inner pack crackers
2-3 cup milk
1 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
1 1/2 cups (6 1/2 oz. can) flaked crabmeat
1 cup (4 1/4 oz. can) shrimp
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash of cayenne
Dash of salt
Finely rolled cracker crumbs...

Crumble saltines coarsely and add to milk. Cook celery, green pepper and onion in butter or margarine until tender. Combine with saltines and milk. Add remaining ingredients except finely rolled saltines. Mix lightly; place in 4 individual seafood shells; sprinkle with saltine crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees, 20 minutes until lightly browned. (Recipe serves 4).

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the woman who said she wished mothers would teach their daughters how to do a laundry prompted me to write.

There is nothing in the world I would like better than to teach my 19-year-old daughter just that. Three times in the last 6 years I have been able to get her close enough to the washer to explain how to sort clothes and operate the machine. She just stood and watched for a while, then her mind wandered off in a dreamworld of her own.

In other words, she couldn't care less. I have begged, pleaded, and tried to drive home the importance of knowing these things for the day when she'll have to do them herself.

So what do I do in a case like that? You can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink.

MRS. A.: Your daughter is not a horse, but if she were, nothing could be gained by "making" her drink unless she was thirsty. When she gets "thirsty," no one will have to "lead" her to water. She'll go looking for it. In other words, when she needs the know-how she'll get it.

DEAR ABBY: Since my son was going to be out of the city, I asked my daughter-in-law and her 13-year-old son to have dinner at my home after church on Sunday. She accepted graciously.

On Saturday I made an apple pie, and I got up early Sunday morning and fried chicken. I planned to have whipped potatoes, buttered beans, salad, and hot rolls. I also had ice cream on hand.

After church, as we were walking to the car, my grandson asked what I was going to serve. I told him fried chicken and lots of good things.

He made a wry face, then turned to his mother and said, "Aw gee, Mom, I want steak! Let's eat out!"

I longed to hear my daughter-in-law say, "No, grandmother has dinner all prepared, we'll go to her house." But instead she hurt me deeply by saying, "Steak DOES sound good. Let's eat out! It will be my treat."

Then she whispered to me, "Mother, I know my philosophy is different from yours, but we all must learn to give and take in this life."

Abby, what do you think of this so-called modern philosophy?

HURT GRANDMOTHER DEAR HURT: It's difficult to believe that a grown woman could be so insensitive—unless of course, she is simply ignorant. Perhaps one day she will elaborate on her "give and take" philosophy. It sounds to me as if she likes to "give orders" and "take" charge of all the decisions.

DEAR ABBY: I am 59 and have gone steady with Percy for 2 years. He is 60. We both love to dance. Last evening we went dancing and the place wasn't very busy. The music was good so Percy asked me if I cared if he asked one of the waitresses to dance with him. (He had never seen her before.) I said O.K. BUT I didn't like sitting there alone while they danced. Later on the husband of the waitress came in and she brought him over and introduced him to us. Then he went and sat at a table in the corner by himself.

Pretty soon Percy said to me, "Why don't you go over and ask the waitress' husband to dance?" So I went over and asked him, and he said the number they were playing was too fast, but if they played a waltz he'd dance with me, so I went back to my own table, and Percy was gone. He was dancing with that same waitress again.

What I want to know is this: Do you think Percy was treating me with proper respect? OR am I old fashioned to be offended? Should I break off with him?

HURT DEAR HURT: Percy was out of line and you should tell him to cut it out. He may cut YOU out instead, of course, but a woman has to be desperate for male company to put up with the likes of him.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

FOR FRIDAY, MARCH 1: GENERAL TENDENCIES: The day starts on a pretty sour note and it is advisable that you do nothing whatever to cause any friction or to stir up any animosity with any other person. However, by evening much more pleasant aspects are in effect and you can gain most anything you wish by a new attitude which has an element of charm.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Don't give in to that temptation to light into one who has disturbed you; be diplomatic and you get along fine. Be poised and you win out. Evening can then be particularly happy for you.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Don't be frustrated over some situation during day, but keep busy all day work and the evening can be very delightful for you. By evening whatever was troubling you will pass, have faith.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — A friend who is too blunt can give you an amusing time, so avoid. Get out with some social group and forget tensions quickly. Evening is best time to clear up any personal matters that are bothering you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) — Take care you are directed in all you do during day otherwise a higher-up could take you over the coals. Strive to impress instead. Make those improvements that you think are necessary.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Day hours are not good for getting into new arrangements, but in p.m. you can make fascinating new plans. That you should be decided in the evening, also. Don't permit a lesser person to change your mind.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Forget those debts in a.m. when you are apt to get overly upset, but later in the day some expert gives right advice regarding them. Avoid arguing with mate and evening can be most happy and romantic.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Don't make changes where associates are concerned or be a nagging person during day, and by evening all will straighten itself out. Many rather trying situations arise during day. Be calm and all is fine.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Get your work done without endeavoring to blow it off on another, and conciliativeness brings fine benefits. Work at a good rate of speed, but don't overdo. Take health treatments you may need in p.m.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Refusing to do anything that would make trouble between you and your mate is important, and then you can be happy together for fun. Labor to make your finest hobby work nicely. Be efficient.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 30) — Kin is in a strange mood and it behooves you to not criticize or make remarks that could start trouble. Be patient in business, also. Show that you are painstaking during day. Take it easy tonight.

Public Whippings Proposed for Youth

By KENNETH R. CLARK BROWNSVILLE (UPI) — If parents, schools, and the rules of society in general make no impression upon certain segments of today's youth, maybe public whippings would.

That's the opinion of Dr. Earle Griffey, a Brownsville city commissioner—and he said this week he is investigating the possibility of adopting just such an ordinance.

Griffey is one of several civic leaders in Brownsville who recently was shocked by the revelation that a growing number of young people are using marijuana on a fairly steady basis. Griffey said he is thinking of an ordinance which would prescribe "ten good whacks with a leather strap" for any youngster caught with marijuana or liquor, or convicted of malicious mischief or vandalism. Griffey thinks such punishment should be administered in front of the police station in public, "with the child's father getting the first whack."

Under Griffey's proposal, if the parent refused, then a member of the police force would be called upon to mete out the sentence.

"I have written to State Sen. Jim Bates, asking him to check the legality of such an ordinance," Griffey said. "I want to find out if Texas has a corporal punishment law on the books. If it does, then I don't see why we couldn't adopt a local ordinance along this line."

Griffey—himself the father of six children said he remembers his own upbringing well. "When I was a kid," he said, "it wasn't respect for the law, or love of parents, or anything else that kept me in line quite so much as papa's razor strap. I feel many of our kids are getting into trouble today simply because that strap is not used any more."

Columbia University Out Of Cigarette Controversy

NEW YORK (UPI)—Columbia University wiped its hands of the controversial Strickman cigarette filter but its inventor said he still will give Columbia some of the profits from licensing of the filter.

At the same time inventor Robert L. Strickman announced that the Imperial Tobacco Co. of Canada has become the first manufacturer licensed to use the product and expects to have it on the market next summer. No American firm has shown enough interest in the filter to put it on the market.

The filter became a hot potato for Columbia after Strickman assigned 51 per cent of the patent rights to the university with the provision that profits, expected to run in the millions, go to its medical college. Dr. Grayson Kirk, university president, hailed the filter as an invention that would dramatically reduce health threats associated with smoking.

Later, however, other scientists attacked the filter and tobacco company spokesmen expressed doubts about its efficiency. Columbia was also criticized for entering a commercial venture connected with anything as touchy as cigarettes. Many Columbia alumni were reported to have protested the decision.

'America the Beautiful' Not Always Accurate Term in Cities

By JOAN HANAUER
United Press International

"Thine alabaster cities gleam, undimmed by human tears..." That is the patriot's dream in "America the Beautiful" as sung by schoolchildren, but last summer—as in other recent summers—the United States was given a nightmare view of its cities.

The desperate ghetto dwellers illuminated the gap between the ideal and reality by setting fire to slums in which they felt trapped.

Block after block was ravaged, as these other children of America sang "burn, baby, burn" and practiced their own brand of slum clearance.

They taught their lesson well and few Americans today doubt the need for urban renewal. No one is in favor of slums, but neither has anyone come up with an ideal solution for their eradication.

Focus On Slums

The focus of urban renewal today is in the slums, but it also is being applied to dilapidated or overcrowded downtown areas and in some cities renewal programs have been limited to this.

Urban renewal can mean replacing decayed slum buildings with public or limited profit housing, or rehabilitation of existing housing. It can mean revitalization of downtown areas, building of commercial structures or government offices.

It also can mean bulldozing slums to make way for luxury apartment dwellings, a practice which has given rise to the cry by civil rights groups that urban renewal means Negro removal.

It can mean uprooting people from their homes and neighborhood businesses, with personal tragedies resulting if relocation projects are not carefully worked out. Or it can mean new hope and a new life if they are.

400 Completed

About 400 federally-aided urban renewal projects have been completed throughout the country and some 1,500 more currently are being planned or carried out. Every state in the union is participating except Louisiana, where political opposition has included charges the program is a federal plot against the state, or a Communist conspiracy.

Other states have been less reluctant. In fiscal 1967, the federal government committed $797 million to help cities finance 228 new projects involving 14,250 acres of slum land.

In fiscal 1968, ending June 30, 1968, federal grants of $850 million were allotted to 250 projects involving 16,700 acres. President Johnson's budget for fiscal 1969, which begins July 1, 1968, calls for $1.25 billion to help pay for 318 projects covering 20,500 acres.

The President also asked Congress for advance authority to commit $1.4 billion for urban renewal in fiscal 1970.

Among the most widely hailed of the federal government's recent efforts is the "Model Cities" program, but not because it offers at this time anything approaching the money needed.

Congress has appropriated $11 million to be shared by 63 cities in the planning phase of the program, and later they will become eligible for another $300 million to be divided among them. Another 70 cities are expected to begin preliminary Model Cities programming now, some of which might be ready for action by the end of the year.

The President has asked congress for a $1 billion Model Cities appropriation in fiscal 1969. But New York City, with three Model Cities projects in hard core slums, already has allocated $50 million of its own money for these areas.

New York, in fact, is spending in its own money 16 per cent of the total federal government is investing in all 63 cities.

Red Tape Blamed

Federal red tape frequently has been a whipping boy in the slow progress of urban renewal. Because the concept of urban renewal was broadened from the earlier "slum clearance" approach and now is recognized as being related to such non-construction areas as education, creaky and unwieldy. The nation's largest cities have been those most troubled by riots, and the most concerned about urban renewal and other methods of clearing their vast ghettos. But as 1967's riot patterns showed, smaller cities' house equal discontent that can spill over into violence.

Pistol Pete Short By Five Setting Record

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pete Maravich, Louisiana State's marvelous point-a-minute man, stands only five minutes away from a prominent spot in college basketball history.

That's about how long it should take Maravich to surpass Frank Selvy of Furman as the most proficient single-season scorer in major college annals Saturday night.

The slim 6-foot-5 sophomore needs just five points against Tennessee Saturday night or Vanderbilt Monday night to establish the highest average by a major college player. Selvy averaged 41.7 in 1954 and Maravich is currently popping at a 45.0 pace according to NCAA statistics released today.

Although the jump-shooting youngster has two games to play and already has become the only soph to score more than 1,000 points in one season, Selvy's point total of 1,209 in 1954 appears out of reach. Selvy played in 29 games that season and Maravich has 1079 in 24.

Maravich no longer holds the major college singlegame high. His 59 point performance against Alabama was tops until Elvin Hayes scored 62 against Valparaiso last Saturday. Hayes' top-ranked Houston team rolled up 158 points in that contest, erasing Furman's major-college mark of 154 set in 1955.

Controversial Coach Calls Discrimination

By United Press International

Frank McGuire has evened the score. The controversial basketball coach at South Carolina suffered the indignity of having his star player, Mike Grosso, legislated out of the Atlantic Coast Conference before he played a single varsity game and he made no bones about the fact that it was a slight against Hayes who has moved into second place among career scorers ranks third in scoring and rebounding and 11th in field goal percentage. He has scored 36.7 points per game through last Saturday, Feb. 24, has snared an average of 18.4 rebounds and has connected 57.9 per cent of his shots.

King said he felt that the ice and paper cups also were thrown by either adults or drop-outs.

"Our students had been warned not to step out of line in any way," he said. The principal said he was expecting firm action by the UIL.

"I don't see how it could be any other way under the circumstances. We are just sick and embarrassed over what happened. This is our first season in the UIL after trying for many years to gain admittance . . . and now something like this has to happen."

Dallas police reported that the violence did not stop in the gym. Officers said several cars flying Jefferson's streamers had their tires slashed and antennas snapped off.

The UIL rules state that all schools are responsible for the conduct of their fans.

"From the reports I've heard I can tell you that there will definitely be a thorough investigation," said Williams.

Local Bank Faces Borger

The First National Bank meets Borger in the Top O' Texas Basketball Tournament at the Youth and Community Center Gym tonight at 7:15 p.m. in the semi-finals.

At 8:30 p.m. Cock O Walk takes on Perryton in another semi-final match. The finals are Monday night.

Last night in quarter-final action

Cock O Walk outlasted Richard Drug by 85-53 despite the brilliant performance of George Bailey who pumped in 37 points for Richard Drug — one point shy of the Center record of 38 points set by Gene Mullins in 1967.

Cock O Walk led by eight at the intermission, 36-24. Pat Carter hit 21 and Warren Tipton chucked in 19 for the winners.

Celanesa was nipped by Perryton by 44-41. Bill Corman hit 13 for the losers and for the winners Jerry Garrison and Ken Castleberry had eight each.

Perryton led by nine points with 3 minutes to go but Celanesa started a desperate comeback and cut the margin to two points with 30 seconds to go. Three turnovers in the last 15 seconds kept them from coming any closer.

Cock O Walk 36 85
Richard Drug 24 53
C. Pat Carter 21, R. George Bailey 37.

Celanesa 20 41
Perryton 19 44
Bill Corman 13, P. Jerry Garrison 8, Ken Castleberry 8.

Terrell principal Haymon King said in Fort Worth he was certain the bottles were thrown by adults "but we know that these were our supporters so we will have to face the consequences."

By United Press International

Sophomore Randy Peschel, who played his share of half-back for the University of Texas football team last fall, is obviously ready to play more than his share of right field for the Longhorns' baseball team.

Peschel, who picked up four hits in Texas' win over Sam Houston Tuesday, went four-for-four Wednesday as the Longhorns beat Sam Houston again, this time 9-1.

The slugging outfielder came up with a home run, a triple and two singles in driving in four runs.

It was the fourth Texas victory in five games this year, the Longhorns only loss was to Oklahoma.

James Street, the first of three Texas pitchers, picked up the victory.

The game between Austin College and SMU, scheduled for Dallas, was canceled because of wet grounds.

"Blue Power" was the motto of the L.D. Bell Blue Raiders and a big sign glued on the wall of the Abilene High School Gym said so. Bell socked it to the Pampa Harvesters with Ken Krieger, radical Blue Power advocate, leading the raid for Bell over Pampa in the overtime 44-43 bi-district win Tuesday night.

Pampa just lost the ball too many times carelessly—14 turnovers for the evening. Also the Harvesters missed five free throws which would have meant the difference and a chance to go to the state tournament in Austin by way of a date with Odessa Permian which beat El Paso Jefferson by 58-54.

Krieger, a 6-6 postman who finished the evening with 19 points, hit the decisive bucket for Bell with 1:56 remaining in the three-minute overtime period. It was a 10-foot jumper which set Bell on top by two 44-42.

Pampa threw the ball in and had it swiped by Krieger who took the shot for Bell and missed with Bo Lang rebounding for Pampa. With 59 seconds left in the 1967-68 season for the Harvesters Johnny Carlos stepped to the charity line with a one and one opportunity. Carlos hit the first but missed the second.

Beau Bond snatched Carlos' rebounding shot and Pampa's hopes soared for a brief instant. However, Bond fell to the floor and was called for traveling.

Bell's Terry Corbin shot and missed. Pampa took it and worked it around with the advantage on their side because a bucket would have given a win to Pampa.

Alvin Achord, who had been substituted for Jimmy Cornutt in the overtime, attempted a high pass to Bond which was swatted out of bounds and declared a jump ball with 15 seconds to go. Carlos was jumping against Krieger and the Bell Blue Raiders controlled the tip, holding on until the buzzer sounded the end of six Pampa High School basketball players' careers.

The Blue Power mob staged a demonstration after the game.

with upwards of 600 people on the court. It made the Armistice Day parade in New York City after the war seem serene in comparison.

Bell plays Permian in the regional title match this weekend. Actually L. D. Bell would have had trouble taking a third place finish in Pampa's district. They play a good zone defense, but they won't stand a chance in the state tournament.

The lead changed hands five times and tied three times in a game which saw Pampa lead by as much as 11 points. That was midway in the second quarter. The Harvesters maintained the advantage until 1:57 remained in the 3rd quarter when Krieger hit a five-foot jump shot to put Pampa behind 36-37.

In the first 10 minutes of the second half Pampa scored only two field goals and made three of seven free throws. In the final nine minutes Pampa scored five points.

Actually Bell only outscored Pampa in two of the five periods in the third (13-6) and in overtime (2-1). That one little point kept Pampa from going "all the way to state in '68."

COCOA, Fla. (UPI)—Infielders and outfielders reported to the Houston Astro spring training camp Wednesday, but three key players stayed on the hold-out list.

Outfielders Rusty Staub and Jim Wynn, along with third baseman Bob Aspromonte, did not appear with their teammates.

"I have informed them," said general manager Spec Richardson, "that I have made my final offer. And I have warned them that for every day they miss training camp from March 1, their salary will be cut."

Yanks Get Glory

GENEVA (UPI) — Russia's Ludmilla Elousova and Oleg Protopopov skated off with the gold in the pairs competition of the World Figure Skating Championships but the United States' Cynthia and Ronald Kauffman got the glory.

That was the unusual verdict of the world's figure skating aficionados following a pairs competition marked by some of the finest skating ever seen but marred by a Russian judge's unaccountable scoring and a suspicion that sentiment was a major factor on the Soviet pairs' fourth straight world title victory.

The Protopopovs, who are expected to retire, easily took the title Wednesday with a brilliant display of free skating after running up a big lead in the compulsory figures but the crowd's heart clearly belonged to the Kauffmans. It showed it beyond question when it booed the Russian judge's low scores for four minutes and then accorded the Kauffman's a bigger ovation than it gave the winning team when the medals were presented.

The Kauffmans couldn't have won the title no matter how the Russian judge voted but they almost were deprived of third place. Second place went to Tatiana Zhuk and Aleksander Gorelik of Russia, who also indicated their displeasure at the scoring for the Protopopov team.

"It was the best performance of our lives," said the young U.S. pair who refused to join in criticism of the Russian judge. "We had no complaints with the scoring."

The Protopopovs got 315.9 points, Zhuk and Gorelik 311.5 and the Kauffmans 304.3.

Tim Wood of Michigan took a slim lead over Austria's defending champion, Emmerich Danzer, in the final two compulsory figures of the men's singles and was rated "even money" when the two finish their competition in Friday's free skating.

Hayes, Hill High in Stats

NEW YORK (UPI) — Elvin Hayes and his University of Houston teammates represented Texas well today in the collegiate basketball statistics released by the NCAA. The University of Texas and Simmie Hill of West Texas State were also near the top in various categories.

Hayes was ranked as the third top scorer in the country behind Pete Maravich of LSU and Calvin Murphy of Niagara.

Hayes has scored 917 points this season, or 36.7 a game. The "Big E" also is third in rebounding, having pulled down 18.4 a game, and has made his team the top rebounding club in the nation. Houston has averaged 61.7 rebounds in 25 games. The Cougars rank third in total team offense, having averaged 94.3 points a game—placing them behind UCLA and St. Peter's—and are listed as fifth in field goal shooting percentage.

Simmie Hill of West Texas State, is the seventh leading scorer in the country thus far, is averaging 27.4 points a game.

The University of Texas ranks a spot above Houston in the field goal shooting percentage column. The Longhorns are fourth with a 50.2 per cent average of successful field goal shots.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Ready To Cool Long, Hot Summer

If there is a long, hot summer in 1968, it will not be for want of preparedness on the part of those who will have to deal with it. Statements by any number of local and state and federal authorities make one wonder whether what is being talked about is the United States or South Vietnam, Chicago or Saigon. But if the Viet Cong's offensive in Vietnamese cities caught the government off guard, the only thing that will surprise it here is if our hometown guerrillas remain relatively quiescent come warm weather.

The Army, for instance, has announced that it is stockpiling riot-control equipment in some half-dozen strategically located depots across the country. It's also prepared to airlift aid to any city where civil disorders break out. So extensive is the planning that everything from maps of subway, sewer, water and electrical systems in potential trouble spots to the daily menus of National Guardsmen have been assembled.

Los Angeles police have created 15 four-man "Special Weapons and Tactics Teams" and are forming 30 more to deal with snipers and fire bombers. They will SWAT Watts if it rises again. Nor is the planning confined only to the immediate future. Writing in National Guardsman magazine, Col. Frank B. Rigg (USA, ret.) foresees guard units being required to be in action for months and even years in protracted urban guerrilla warfare — "one of the nastiest forms of warfare known to mankind."

He visualizes such pleasant prospects as the roads into cities being blocked off, forcing soldiers to parachute into "skyscraper jungles" to fight their way down through buildings. Helicopters will make sudden landings with assault troops or hover overhead dropping smoke bombs on mobs of rioters.

In Illinois, the sheriff of Cook County began enlisting volunteers in a 1,000-man civilian vigilante force (half white and half black), until his plan was stalled by court action. In Ohio, the state legislature is debating a law that would exempt police and military personnel from any criminal liability for actions taken to quell a riot, though strenuous objections by civil libertarians make its passage doubtful. All that is lacking to complete this dismal picture is for the government to announce that pacification teams will be sent in after urban "seize-and-hold" operations "to win the minds and hearts of the people" so that we may achieve peace in our time.

And who is this fearsome "enemy" who is throwing the country into the greatest panic since the Millerites awaited the end of the world in 1844? Evidently, only a handful of loud-talking, hard-core black powerists. According to a report made for the President's Youth Opportunities Council, a survey of 11 cities found the dominant mood of the majority of Negro youths in city ghettos to be one not of anger but of tragic apathy. The report charges that summer programs in the past have been inspired out of fear of a minority of angry youths and "administered in a vain attempt to 'cool' the ghetto and thus maintain the status quo."

It all begins to sound just too much like Vietnam to be comfortable. In America, as in Vietnam, is this country's ultimate answer to everything to be nothing but raw force?

Friendliness — With Interest
Are you, too, slightly overwhelmed by all the offers of ready cash and instant credit thrust upon you? Do you marvel at how many friendly folks urge you to live up a little on their money — available to you at, oh, so easy terms?

Remember when it was really tough to get a loan? How the borrower would nervously explained that he was — temporarily, of course — in need of a few bucks to tide him over? And how the lender would fix the borrower with a stony stare and sternly inquire just why the borrower needed the money, and how come he didn't have it in the first place?

Seems funny now, doesn't it? Nowadays, we're SUPPOSED to live today and pay tomorrow — just like Uncle Sam!

Cannel At Bay

By Ward Cannel

A Life of Clear-Cut Definition
NEW YORK (NEA) — Having driven up to Boston for the weekend, it occurred to us on the way home that it always seems to take a lot longer to get to someplace than to get back.

We mentioned this phenomenon to the wife, who explained it quite easily. "Well, of course," she said. "That is known as the Law of Diminishing Returns."

Naturally we pulled over to the side of the road as soon as we could, and under the pretense of checking the tires, we wrote the definition down in the little book we carry for just that purpose.

Writing these things down, we find, is not only good for mental health, but also prevents Excedrin headaches, nagging backache and coughs due to colds.

So, as a public service, we have copied out below some of the more cogent definitions from the present notebook—which is now full and must be thrown away.

BLACK POWER: A universal principle meaning violence, destruction and bloodshed. See: Cleveland, O. See: Gary, Ind.

DETERRENT: A secret ingredient used in products made by Proctor & Gamble, Lever Brothers, Dow Chemical and others.

GAP: The space between two impossible positions. See: Missile Gap, Credibility Gap, Generation Gap, Tourist Gap.

HOST: (Obsolete: One who extends hospitality.) One who extends hospitality for a salary of $2 million annually. See: Guest.

GUEST: One who receives hospitality at minimum scale ($320 per appearance).

ILLEGAL: A violation of the law, punished in antiquity by fine, imprisonment or other penalty.

IMMORTAL: A dead person.

METROPOLIS: (1) A melting pot. (2) A ghetto. See: Urban Crisis.

URBAN CRISIS: A gold mine operated by scholars, experts and other officials. See: Crime Rate.

CRIME RATE: A rising figure, calculated by police to be $25 for sergeants, $30 for lieutenants, $100 for captains.

PATRIOTISM: (Rare: Love of country.) Now used chiefly by barons of industry and motion pictures who have not paid their taxes or live outside the United States. See: Law of Diminishing Returns.

PUBLIC: An extinct mammal, known by fossils found in parts of North America.

PUBLIC SERVANT: An independent small businessman with a guaranteed annual income and pension, among other things.

Straight Talk

By TOM ANDERSON

Yes, Virginia, Santa-Bird Lives! Dear Virginia:

Outlaw the Communist party? No, Virginia, you might as well try to outlaw Santa Claus.

Our leaders like Communists. Franklin Roosevelt told Congressman Dies that some of his best friends were Reds. Harry Truman said he liked old Joe Stalin.

John and Jackie entertained Communists royally in the White House and loved them, among other things. Lyndon Johnson and Walter Jenkins, Senators Morse, Gore, Fulbright, Teddy and Bobby, Cyrus Eaton, the Rockefeller—they don't hate Communism. And they're running our country, and the world dear. So why be a silly girl and not show proper respect for our national leaders?

You foolish children who advocate that we quit trading with the Communists obviously do not own any stocks on the Big Board! What would happen to the Blue Chips without an enemy for them to sell to? Oh, I agree that most Fatcats are like Woolworth's—they put nothing above a dollar. But don't hate the Fatcats, dear. Throughout history, most of them have stayed neutral or lined up with what appeared to be the winning side. They stayed neutral during the Russian Revolution; they played ball with Hitler; and they are in Johnson's pocket. Note what the Bible says: "The love of money is the root of all evil." So those whose lives are rooted in lust for money, power and position will destroy themselves trying to protect themselves. Feel sorry for them, Virginia.

Smile at your nation's enemy be charming. Some of our anti-Communists are so kooky that they couldn't get people to come to their fall-out shelter during a nuclear attack. Some "conservatives" are so contrary they do everything ver-sic and entertain a new idea as if it were an in-law. We shall overcome that!

We always have something to be thankful for, Virginia dear. Just think, in another few weeks, George Romney will be out of life forever—if he isn't already. In a trade to get him to abandon his quest for the Presidency, the Republicans are going to name a town for him: Marblehead, Mass. Romney's brainstorming campaign produced only a slight drizzle. But remember, brains aren't everything—in his case they are practically nothing.

Romney reminds me of the American in a French sidewalk cafe, looped on wine, who saw a huge wedding party drive by. He asked a Frenchman: "Who's that?"

"Je ne sais pas."

"He didn't last long, did he?"

Members of the "power elite" are convinced that the government, the unions and the cartelsists can plan and direct people's lives better than the people themselves can; therefore people should surrender their liberties to the state.

Remember, in a nation of sheep, either follow the shepherd or the wolf will get you.

As President Johnson told us in his recent Boast to Boast fire-side chat regarding "the state of the nation," there's nothing wrong with us that more of your taxes can't cure.

So instead of hating him, just remember: He's DOING you the best he can.

Williams Plans Show-down on Vietnam Fiscal Responsibility in March, on Surtax, Travel and Economy Issues

WASHINGTON — The Senate is going to be given a chance in March to vote on a scaled-down version of President Johnson's long-stalled 10 per cent surtax proposal.

Foreign travel and economy measures to reduce the nation's growing balance-of-payments problem and the government's mushrooming budget deficit also will come before the Senate at the same time.

Senator John Williams, Del., ranking Republican on the Senate Finance Committee, is setting the stage for these show-downs in a campaign to force Congress to face up to the nation's growing financial crisis.

Williams' maneuverings are designed to touch off the big Vietnam debate on who should pay for the continuing $30 billion-a-year war.

He believes Americans not fighting the war should share more of the burden and plans to raise the tax, travel and economy issues when legislation extending federal excise taxes on cars and telephones comes up next month.

Under Williams' proposal, an 8 per cent surtax would be imposed on corporations, effective Jan. 1, 1968, and a 6 per cent surtax on individuals, effective April 1.

THE FISCAL PACKAGE — In addition to the proposed surtax and extension of excise taxes Williams' Vietnam "fiscal responsibility" package calls for Congress immediately to enact the following five-point program:

—Mandatory reduction in spending for fiscal 1969 from $186 billion to $178 billion, an $8 billion cutback.

—A freeze on federal civilian employment at the July 1, 1968, level of 2,738,047. Under this proposal no employees would be discharged, but reduction would be achieved through attrition.

—A moratorium on all new public works and government construction projects for the duration of the war. The freeze would be similar to one ordered by President Truman during the Korean war.

—Reduction from $100 to $25 of the amount of duty free goods which U.S. tourists can bring back into the country.

—Authorization of the Treasury Department to sell to American tourists $1.4 billion in U.S.-owned excess foreign currencies at a 10 per cent discount.

Under Williams' strategy, each of these proposals will be offered as amendments to the administration's excise tax extension bill when the $2.7 billion revenue measure reaches the Senate floor next month.

SHARING THE BURDEN — Senator Williams, one of the most influential Republicans in the Senate, received the GOP Policy Committee endorsement of his proposals after dramatically outlining their purpose in a ringing speech behind closed doors.

"My position is that we on the home-front can tighten our belts and make some sacrifices in order to pay for the added costs of the Vietnam war," declared Williams. "I do not think that we should pass all of this load, in the form of taxes in later years, on to our grandchildren and onto those of the ones fighting the war."

"The half-million boys in Vietnam are the ones really making sacrifices," continued Williams, and challenged: "Should we charge those boys when they come back for the luxuries of freedom which we are enjoying today?"

After pausing for a loud chorus of hoos, Williams pointed out, "While my proposals will not produce a balanced budget, they will drastically reduce the expected $23-billion budget deficit for fiscal 1969 and help halt inflation."

With Senate Minority Leader Everett Dirksen taking the lead, the GOP senators gave Williams a standing ovation as he finished his 30-minute talk.

HOUR OF DECISION — Williams' decision to force the Senate showdown on Vietnam fiscal policies next month will put President Johnson and the Senate Democratic leadership on the spot.

If the administration opposes Williams' proposals, especially his surtax amendment, the Republicans can accuse the President of bad faith in making his urgent appeals for passage of this emergency revenue measure.

Since last fall, the President has repeatedly told Congress that enactment of a surtax was desperately needed "to reverse the trend toward ruinous inflation."

If the Senate adopts most of Senator Williams' fiscal package, the chances of winning House approval now appear exceedingly bright.

Representative Wilbur Mills, chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, is on record as saying that if the 1968 fiscal budget is cut by $8 billion he would support a surtax similar to the one Williams is proposing. So far Mills has been the big obstacle to the tax in the House.

Williams, who has a gift for gentle irony, has notified the White House that if President Johnson will support his package a bipartisan approach to financing the Vietnam war can be adopted in Congress. Otherwise, Williams' proposals could become key issues in this year's presidential campaign.
