Dr. James F. Malone

Kilgore Man Named As Schools Superintendent

Dr. James F. Malone, superintendent of schools at Kilgore for the last six years, today was named superintendent of the Pampa Independent School District under a three-year contract effective July 1.

The announcement was made at this morning's regular session of the Pampa School Board. The board has been seeking a successor to Dr. John Damron whose services as superintendent were terminated in mid-January. The vacancy has been filled since then by McHenry Lane as acting superintendent. Lane announced his retirement, effective May 30, several weeks ago. The date was extended today to June 30. Salary called for in the new superintendent's contract is $20,800 a year with a stipulation that discussion of contract renewal be set for the end of the second year of the three-year agreement.

Dr. Malone's appointment became official in today's meeting when board president John Gikas entertained a motion which was made and unanimously approved.

Following the formal appointment, Dr. Malone who attended today's meeting, was introduced as the new superintendent.

An executive session was then set for 4:30 this afternoon at which time Dr. Malone was to meet with board members, the acting school superintendent and school business manager for a briefing on school matters for the rest of the current year.

Dr. Malone told the board he was ready to come to Pampa, work with the board in every way and expressed his appreciation for being chosen for the post.

"I consider it a signal honor," Dr. Malone said, "to have been selected from among so many outstanding applicants."

Storm Warning System Suggested For Schools

Formulation of an alert and warning system to protect the lives of school children against approaching tornadoes and storms was urged today by school board member Jimmy Thompson.

Thompson suggested at the board's regular meeting today that study be given to some plan to coordinate school warning systems with Pampa's Civil Defense program.

Thompson told board members he thought some immediate study should be given to the alert program in the schools. The suggestion was made, he stated, as an aftermath of last Monday's tornado which hit the Miami school, 23 miles northeast of Pampa.

The board today approved the following teachers for posts on the high school summer session faculty:

English — John English and Bill Haynes; History — Myrtle Norman and Vernon Graham; Math — J. L. Spencer and Lewis Rogers; Typing — Mrs. H. F. Hoepner; Health — Pete Irwin and Miss Lynn Prysock; Home-making — Mrs. J. L. Colville and Mrs. Don Hufstetter and the following driver-education instructors — Aubrey Noncaster, Melvin Cardwell, Harold Moore, Bobby Stephens, Don Hufstetter, Carl Miller, Bob McAllister, Marvin Lay, Albert Thomas, Roy Simmons, Bill Clemmons and Arien Kaiser.

Approval was given by the board for continued participation with the Texas Department of Public Welfare for the receipt of United States Department of Agriculture commodities for the school lunch program at a fee of 36 cents per capita.

US, North Viets To Start Talks In Paris Tomorrow

Large Areas In Saigon Ablaze

By JACK WALSH SAIGON (UPI)—Large areas of Saigon were in flames tonight as the Communists pressed a bloody spring offensive on the eve of the Paris talks between the United States and North Vietnam. Thousands of refugees were caught in the fighting and watched their homes burned before their eyes.

The United States threw 2,000 reinforcements into the growing battle and sent in more tanks and helicopter gunships. But the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese also reinforced, and Saigon was ringed by a series of battles that lit up the sky and deafened the senses with the thunder of explosions.

U.S. military spokesmen said a band of 200 Viet Cong had penetrated allied lines and swept into the city, setting fire to whole blocks of houses as they went.

Street fighting broke out in at least five areas of Saigon while allied planes, artillery and helicopters strafed the enemy and started more fires.

The spokesman called the Red offensive a "murderous Communist publicity stunt" tied to the Paris talks which open Friday.

They said more than 3,000 Communists have been killed in a five-day-old nationwide Red offensive. 2,540 of them in Saigon. U.S. spokesmen said 53 Americans were killed and 487 wounded. South Vietnam lost 202 men killed and 719 wounded. Hospitals said at least 75 civilians had been killed and 1,759 wounded in Saigon.

About 200 guerrillas slipped through Allied lines and put torch to residential blocks nestled among U.S. military warehouses. Allied divebombers and rocket-firing helicopters blasted these and other Communist forces in battling that turned whole areas into infernos.

Men, women and children stumbled and ran through Viet Cong sniper fire and sought shelter in the downtown area, amid hotels and government offices, battered down by fortresses.

The mayor of Saigon advised his 2 million citizens to dig bomb shelters. Allied ships in the river harbor uncased their guns to join the battle of Saigon.

An American official said the Communists aimed "to penetrate the city in an inexpensive attempt at publicity" to aid Paris. "They are committing a minor number of forces," a U.S. military spokesman said.

Nowhere in the urban warfare did Red forces defeat the allied forces hunting them from house to house. Mostly the guerrillas hit and ran, sniping from second story windows.

The biggest battle erupted when a Viet Cong battalion (See SAIGON, Page 3)

Hanoi, Viet Cong Already Agreed On Government

By K.C. THALER

PARIS (UPI)—Hanoi has agreed with the Viet Cong on the nucleus of a Communist-aligned government for South Vietnam in advance of the forthcoming Paris talks, according to latest diplomatic reports.

This arrangement implies a firm commitment by the North Vietnamese negotiators to push for the earliest participation of the National Liberation Front (NLF)—the Viet Cong's political arm—once full dress peace negotiations get under way.

This demand will be one of the key problems in the Paris discussions since the United States is unwilling to recognize the NLF as a negotiating party. The United States, however, does not oppose the NLF's inclusion in Hanoi's conference team.

The prominence of the issue has been spotlighted by a formal statement from the NLF on the eve of the Paris talks welcoming Hanoi's decision to go to the conference table with United States representatives.

"This will be the powerful and authentic voice of the victors," the statement said.

The NLF, it appears, is running its own show, with its own ideas about the future of South Vietnam. These views are not necessarily identical with Hanoi's ambitious plans for an outright takeover of the South, if the Communists were to succeed in gaining a foothold in the government of Saigon.

But the NLF has given Hanoi a mandate to "probe" in its name at the forthcoming first round of the Paris discussions.

Meantime, everything possible is being done—and will continue to be done during the initial stages of the Paris talks—by Hanoi and the Viet Cong to undermine the Saigon regime, with the aim of wrecking it, preferably before the serious negotiations for a settlement start.

Delegations Arriving To Begin Conference

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnam's chief negotiator Xuan Thuy delayed his arrival for more than three hours today for further strategy talks with Kremlin leaders in Moscow on Vietnam preliminary talks which begin Friday.

U.S. Envoys W. Averell Harriman and Cyrus B. Vance left Washington today for the talks voicing hope that "progress can be made toward a peaceful settlement" of the Vietnam War. Harriman said the American delegation was going to Paris "in a spirit of hope, sincerity and good will."

Although U.S. officials were skeptical and the Hanoi men were silent, the French predicted the preliminary talks might well expand into a full dress peace conference in Paris and lead towards an end of years of bloodshed.

On the eve of the talks the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese put the torch to large areas of Saigon in their spring offensive apparently called to strengthen their hand in Paris. But the U.S. and South Vietnamese troops still held control in fighting that almost ringed Saigon.

Hostile To Talks Thuy spent Wednesday night in Moscow after an earlier stopover in Peking where he conferred with Chinese Communist officials. Peking is known to be hostile to any peace talks, but the Soviets were reported to be giving the Paris meeting their blessing.

Experienced diplomats predicted long weary weeks, perhaps even months, of frustrating negotiations before a breakthrough towards a peace settlement could be hoped for.

U.S. officials felt that failure in Paris could mean resumption of full scale bombing of North Vietnam and even heavier fighting in the South with all the attendant risks of possible involvement with the Soviet Union and Communist China.

Before leaving Washington, Harriman said the U.S. delegation hoped to hold its first meeting with the North Vietnamese Friday but said no time had been set. He said the U.S. principal objective in the talks is to "preserve the right of the people of South Vietnam to determine their own fate without any outside interference."

And he said if the other side also has a spirit of hope, sincerity and good will "progress can be made toward a peaceful settlement which is what the people of the United States hope for."

More Rain Falls In Pampa Area As Crop Prospects Get Brighter

Prospects for a possible record wheat crop brightened again today as spotty showers fell throughout Gray County last night and this morning. Other crops and grass also had bright prospects, farmers said. More rain was forecast for today and tonight.

Rainfall generally ranged from half an inch to an inch. Pampa officially recorded .10 of an inch, according to the Amarillo Weather Bureau, but greater amounts were unofficially recorded. Lefors had about .70; southwest of Pampa, about an inch; north of Pampa, from .65 to 1-inch; 19 miles east of Pampa, .90; 10 miles south of Pampa, .80.

The Amarillo Weather Bureau

forecast an 80 per cent probability of more thundershowers today and a 60 per cent probability tonight and tomorrow. High temperature today was expected to be in the low 60s, low tonight was expected to be near 50, and high Friday was expected to be near 70. Winds will be from the east at 15-25 m.p.h. and gusty near showers.

Campus Trouble Now In Illinois

By United Press International The center of campus disturbances shifted violently to Illinois Wednesday as campus police clashed with students at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale and Chicago police arrested 22 demonstrators at Roosevelt University.

Two students were injured and two others arrested after some of a group of 500 students tried to storm the offices of SIU President Delyte Morris Wednesday night but were repulsed by a handful of campus police.

The attempted storming came after a meeting of the student coalition, a newly formed group which is seeking student control of the campus newspaper and radio station and a bigger student voice in the affairs of the 18,000 student university.

Arrest Roosevelt Students

At Roosevelt University in Chicago, police Wednesday night arrested 22 students who attempted to stage an all night sit-in in front of the president's office. There were no reports of violence and 50 other students who agreed to move to another floor of the building were allowed to remain overnight. They were supervised by 16 teachers.

School President Rolf A. Weil had earlier warned the students sitting-in at his office that they faced suspension or expulsion unless they cleared out of the building by 10:30 p.m.

The attempted sit-in culminated two days of picketing by students protesting Weil's refusal to change the status of former Yale historian Staughton Lynd from part-time to full-time professor. Lynd, a pacifist, made an unauthorized visit to Hanoi while on the Yale faculty. Jack Harrison, a leader of "Students for a Quality Education" the group sponsoring the sit-in said the issue was not only Lynd's status, but the matter of giving the students a voice in school policy.

Faculty Supports Students More than 400 students at Stanford University near San Francisco voted to end their three day sit-in in an administration building after receiving faculty support for their cause. The academic council voted 284-245 to ask President Wallace Sterling to withdraw the suspension of seven students who demonstrated against the Central Intelligence Agency last fall and requested that no action be taken against the students involved in the current sit-in. The faculty also asked the students to end their sit-in and expressed confidence in the administration.

A threatened hunger strike by the 24 Negro students at Wellesley College, an exclusive girl's school near Boston, was averted Wednesday when school officials agreed to admit more Negro freshmen next term. The college, which has a total enrollment of 1,775 agreed to admit 20 Negro freshmen in the

SBA Loans Are Now Available For Roberts County Businesses, Homes

Robert E. West, area administrator of the Small Business Administration, Dallas, announced today that the Administration had issued a declaration making disaster loan assistance available in Roberts County as a result of the tornado which occurred May 6.

Under the disaster declaration, home owners and businessmen will be eligible for disaster loans from the SBA. SBA has authority under its Disaster Loan Program to make either direct loans or loans in participation with banks and other lending institutions. There is no dollar limitation on the size of disaster loans, and these loans have a maximum maturity of 30 years. The interest rate for SBA disaster loans is 3 per cent.

West said that any person affected by the tornado should contact the temporary SBA office located in the First State Bank of Miami or the regional office in Lubbock.

It would be helpful if persons seeking disaster loans to rebuild their homes or places of business could bring with them whatever financial information they have available for discussion of their loans.

Special entertainment will be presented and door prizes will be awarded.

New members of the Chamber will be recognized at the meeting. Reservations will be accepted until Monday at 10 a.m. Directors of the Chamber will meet at 11 a.m. prior to the luncheon.

Roberts County Named 'Disaster Area'

U.S. Congressman Bob Price wired from Washington yesterday that Roberts County has been declared a "disaster area" by the federal government.

The designation means that federal assistance will be available for reconstruction and repair following Monday's disastrous tornado.

Monday's unusual weather, which resulted in thousands of dollars in damage at Miami, also left a considerable amount of damage in rural areas in the Top O' Texas.

Law enforcement agencies, tracking the heavy clouds, said one was dipping toward the earth "every four or five minutes." As many as four were reported on the ground at one time during one period.

Members of the McLean fire department were following a twister, described as a "big one," northwest of McLean, which finally blew itself out someplace near Lake McClellan. One was reported heading "straight for Mbeetie," and still another, at the same time, had struck the Harnley farm northeast of Pampa. That one was perhaps the same which struck Miami. Some 30 minutes earlier, a cloud had dipped toward earth near Pampa, where officials sounded the storm siren.

Shortly after that, suspicious-looking clouds were sighted in the Moody Farms Feed Lot area, east of town.

Meanwhile, twin twisters struck east of Lefors, near the Webb, Gething, Seitz, Franklin and Morse ranches.

Perhaps some of these were the same clouds, reported as slightly different times by different law enforcement officials.

In addition to the damage at the Harnley farm, where the house was damaged and an elevator destroyed, a steel barn at the G. M. Walls farm, half a mile east of the Harnley place, was lifted from its foundation, according to Lefors Constable W. R. Combs.

Combs and Mrs. Fred Drum reported that apparently two twisters struck near the Gething Ranch, about 10 miles east of Lefors. Two different trails

Stereo Items Stolen

A Pampa High School student, Chris Caldwell of 2108 N. Dwight, reported to Pampa police yesterday that a car stereo and stereo tapes valued at $180 had been stolen from his auto while it was parked at the high school parking lot.

NYERI, Kenya (UPI)—An Australian widow told today how she was saved by a white hunter who shot an elephant that attacked her near the Treetops Game Lodge in the Abo Dare Forest 100 miles from Nairobi.

Mrs. Rae Hedley, 74, Princess Hill, Victoria, said hunter Kenneth Levett dropped the elephant Tuesday less than 12 feet from her. Levett said the cow elephant became enraged when she could not free her baby which had become stuck in thick mud beneath the lodge.

Teacher Group Votes Increase For Scholarship

The Pampa Classroom Teachers Association decided in an executive board meeting Tuesday afternoon to increase its scholarship funds.

For the past several years the organization has entertained the Chamber of Commerce, Board of Education, and other friends of education with a picnic. It was decided that a more worthwhile public relations project would be to increase the scholarship funds.

Three students are now being aided in college through Classroom Teacher's Kenneth Walter's Scholarship. Sheila Given Heil is a freshman attending West Texas State University. In Hardin-Simmons is Roena Rudick, another freshman. Venita Turcotte in Texas Tech is a second year scholarship recipient.

In high school assembly Tuesday Lewis Rogers, recently-elected president of Pampa Classroom Teachers, presented Cheryl Porter with the $300 scholarship. Miss Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Porter, 1616 N. Hobart, plans to major in foreign languages and become a teacher.

Saigon

The battle of "Y" bridge, a 1,800-foot span less than two miles south of Saigon's heart, turned a guerrilla infested shanty town on the south bank of two adjacent canals into an inferno. Thousands of men, women and weeping children ran under fire and over barbed wire into U.S. lines for protection.

Some civilians did not make it. Viet Cong bullets cut some down in a garbage dump just behind American lines.

Despite their five days of agony, the population of Saigon showed far more confidence than during the Communist February Tet offensive invasion of the capital. Boy Scouts braved Communist fire to reach the wounded. College students pinned red crosses to their sleeves and bicycled through flaming streets in search of victims.

Food prices jumped 100 per cent. But government spokesmen said there was more than enough rice to feed the capital.

Lee Choir Sings For Rotarians

D. D. Lofton was named junior Rotarian for the month of May. A member of the Harvester football team, he is also a home room president and a member of the Key Club.

The United States' newly appointed ambassador to France, Sargent Shriver, arriving here Wednesday evening to take up his post, expressed hope the talks will be remembered "as the first step on the road to peace in Vietnam."

Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville of France told the French cabinet if agreement could be reached to end bombing of the North, the preliminary talks could merge at once into a full peace conference.

Bombing Roadblock
But experienced diplomats predicted the question of halting all bombing would prove an immediate major roadblock on which the talks could bog down or even collapse.

Hanoi has declared repeatedly the United States must end all bombing of the North without any strings attached before full peace talks can begin.

Harriman was expected to insist on some Communist concessions in return—perhaps a pledge to cut down the infiltration of North Vietnamese troops and supplies or even to withdraw some North Vietnamese troops from the South.

Sponsors Sought To Send Retarded Children To Camp

Sponsors are being sought locally to help send eligible Pampa retarded children to a summer camp near Amarillo, June 16-23.

Camp Wigwam, eight miles northeast of Amarillo, is a summer camp for mentally retarded boys and girls of Region V, Texas Association for Retarded Children.

Storm

Purpose of the hearing, according to State Rep. George T. Hinson, chairman of the House Education Committee, will be to determine existing programs offered in the Panhandle area, existing facilities and needed improvements, and more specifically, local and area interest, including existing willingness for industrial participation.

In his report to the board, acting superintendent McHenry Lane suggested that the board do some thinking about a new plan to make a combined application for federal aid funds. Lane said heretofore applications for federal aid have been made separately.

Business manager Homer Craig reported that 98.1 per cent of tax collections have been made for the current year, a figure considerably in excess of the state average.

April bills totaling $89,965.39 were approved for payment.

Peace Officers In Meet Today

Gray County Sheriff R. H. (Rufe) Jordan and Texas Ranger Bill Baten are attending the United Peace Officers convention being held today at Boys Ranch.

Sheriff Jordan will act as master of ceremonies for the one-day meeting.

Law enforcement officers from the Panhandle, New Mexico and Oklahoma are expected to attend.

Parents or guardians of children are requested to provide the camp fee of $70 for each child. However, it is hoped that no child is refused admission because of inability to pay the fee, according to three Pampa radio station representatives who are heading the campaign to provide the camp for local mentally retarded children.

Earl Davis and Doris Wilson of KPBN and Jim Hughes of KGRO are active in the campaign.

Civic groups, auxiliary organizations, individuals, foundations and businesses are requested to help in sending the children to the camp, the three said today.

The camp staff is drawn from a responsible, experienced, professional people, they added, and are given special camp training preceding the camping season.

Individuals or organizations interested in helping finance the project are requested to contact one of the three named above.

Jury Rules In Civil Case

A jury in 31st Judicial District Court yesterday ruled on special issues in the civil case of Gene L. McPherson vs Aetna Casualty and Surety Company that McPherson had suffered injuries and was entitled to disability payment amounting to $2,660.

McPherson sustained the injuries in July, 1967, while employed with the Chevron Oil Co. in Gray County. He alleged in his suit that because of severe injuries to his left hand he was unable to obtain or retain employment and was entitled to maximum workmen's compensation.

The Industrial Accident Board of Texas made a decision, but McPherson appealed the case through 31st Judicial District court, asking for compensation amounting to $3,360 and asking for payment in lump sum, contending that payment in installment would result in a hardship on him.

McPherson had asked for 100 per cent disability on four fingers. The jury decided in the special issues that he was entitled to 70 per cent disability on three fingers and 90 per cent on another. Damages were computed on the basis of percentage of disability of the fingers.

Mini-Organisms Are Targets For Biologist Project

DENVER (UPI)—Mini-organisms hoping to hitchhike to distant planets aboard space ships will have to change their plans if a project under way at the Martin Marietta Corp. in Denver is successful.

New sterilization techniques are being refined by biologists at the Denver plant so that germ-sized living organisms will not contaminate the vehicles.

Sterilization is one prerequisite to planetary exploration's primary goal—determining whether life forms exist on other planets, a Martin spokesman said.

Scientists want to be certain that life-detecting experimental equipment is not "misled" by the presence of organisms carried into space from earth.

Required are designs and procedures which guarantee a probability of no more than one in 1,000 that a single microscopic organism would reach a target planet.

Two recent investigations, performed in Denver, involve:—Sophisticated packaging techniques designed to maintain sterility during operations prior to launch.

—A novel method of assembly by sterilizing each of the elements of the battery separately, before final assembly in a sterile box.

DALLAS (UPI)—Directors of Atlantic Richfield Co. recommended a two-for-one stock split Tuesday to be submitted to shareholders when they meet in Philadelphia July 15. The board action was taken before an annual meeting of shareholders in Dallas.

The battery assembly is done by sterilizing each of the elements of the battery separately, before final assembly in a sterile box.

Chiffon Tarts for Mother's Day

By GAYNOR MADDOX

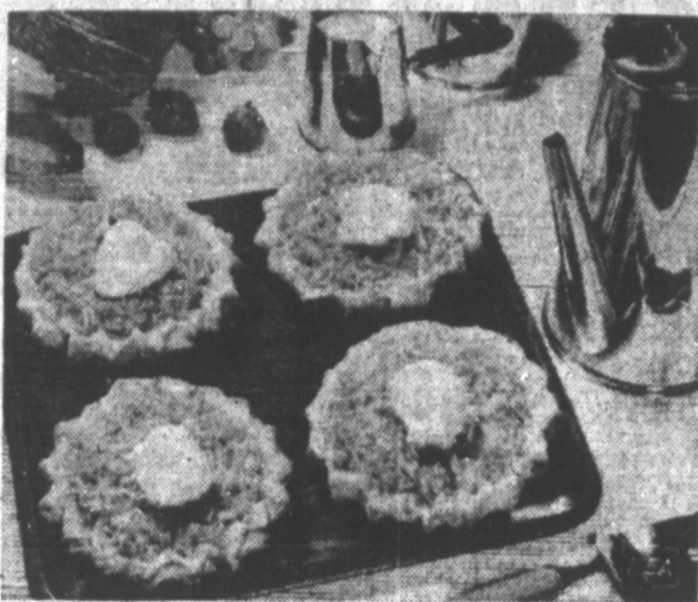

NEA Food Editor

Keep your Mother's Day surprise simple. She will enjoy it more and you'll avoid disappointment.

Ask a few of her close friends in for tea or coffee. Then bring your perfectly baked tarts garnished with whipped cream and mace.

LEMON-MACE CHIFFON TARTS

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 1/4 cup cold water
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- 1/2 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
- 6 baked 4-inch tart shells. . . .

Chiffon tarts for Mother's Day.

Soften gelatin in cold water. Set aside. Mix 1/2-cup of the sugar, lemon juice, salt and beaten egg yolks in top of double boiler. Cook over hot water (not boiling) 10 to 12 minutes or until of custard consistency. Stir in softened gelatin, lemon peel, coconut, mace and vanilla extract. Cool over ice water until custard begins to thicken. Beat egg whites until they stand in soft stiff peaks. Gradually beat in remaining 1/4-cup sugar. Fold into the mixture. Turn into cold baked tart shells. Chill until ready to serve. Top with whipped cream and garnish with ground mace, if desired.

An Easy-Cook Dinner For The Young Bride

Oriental slant-gingered pork roast.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food Editor

Here's a gift for your kitchen hope chest—a delightful dinner with oriental overtones. The young bride can prepare it easily.

A pork loin roast gains added interest if you baste it by combining ginger, garlic, soy sauce, sherry and honey together. It gives the pork a beautiful glaze, a subtle flavor. With the roast serve Chinese snow peas now available frozen. Cook them very briefly.

GINGERED PORK ROAST

- 1 pork loin roast, about 3 1/2 pounds
- 1 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1 clove garlic, crushed or finely minced
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons soy sauce
- 2 tablespoons Sherry
- 2 tablespoons honey. . . .

Place roast on rack in shallow pan, fat side up. Mix remaining ingredients and brush this sauce over the pork. Roast in 325-degree oven 3 hours or until meat thermometer registers 185 degrees. Baste every 45 minutes. Eight servings.

Answers To Food Questions

The following guide to the nation's food buys for the weekend was prepared by the Departments of Agriculture and Interior for United Press International.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service reports that weekend shoppers can make their selections from ample supplies of meat and poultry and good stocks of some fresh vegetables and fruit in food stores and supermarkets.

Broiler-fryer chickens and turkeys continue to hold the spotlight as the most abundant meats. Bacon is in the abundant class in most areas with chops, porkroasts and spareribs in this category in some areas. Shoppers should also find ample displays of beef from which to make their choices, especially roasts, steaks, and ground beef. North Pacific halibut steaks and fish filets are fish buys to watch for, according to the U.S. Department of Interior.

Cabbage, carrots and lettuce are the most abundant fresh vegetables. In some areas celery and radishes are in abundance. Fruits in the abundant class are strawberries, bananas, oranges and apples, with grapefruit joining them in some areas.

Save Money—Buy Nonfat Dry Milk

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Q—Isn't it true that non-fat dry milk contains Vitamin A and D?

A—No, it does not contain Vitamins A and D. These are present in whole milk and fortified fluid skim milk. But non-fat dry milk does contain all the protein and other vitamins of whole fluid milk.

Q—Can you tell me any way I can save money on milk. I use a great deal of it for my family.

A—Use as much of nonfat dry milk as possible. It is the most economical form of milk. When reconstituted with water, it costs from one-third to one-half as much as fresh fluid whole milk. Another way to save on milk costs is to buy whole milk in multiquart containers. Usually milk in 1/2 to 1-gallon containers cost less per quart than single quarts.

The calorie count of a quart of whole fluid milk is about 160 calories, the nonfat reconstituted milk contains about 80 to 85 calories.

CLEANLINESS KICK

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa. (UPI)—Two Westminster College freshmen today began an assault on the world continuous showering record, attempting to surpass the reported 91 hours set by a Princeton student last week.

The Westminster students, aged 18 and 19, said they would take their meals and sleep under showers in their dormitory in an attempt to break the 100-hour mark.

Woman Physician Boosts 'Jogging' For Your Health

By GAY PAULEY
 NEW YORK (UPI)—Dr. Anna Jerene Robbins is physician for the St. Peter's College championship basketball team so she should know whereof she speaks when she talks of physical fitness.

"I spend my life begging parents not to give young people cars," said Dr. Robbins, who calls walking a "nearly perfect" exercise. The new jogging cult amuses the physician, whose specialty is thoracic surgery.

"I was jogging long before it became fashionable," she said of the current crop trotting the ground to lose a pound.

Dr. Robbins endorses exercise on a lifetime basis period. What is the perfect exercise? "I doubt if any one is perfect," she answered. "Swimming is good . . . it gives beauty of muscle without bulkiness. Walking is nearly perfect if you carry yourself well and step briskly. Golfing is marvelous if you walk the course instead of riding the cart."

Try All Sports
 "I tell parents to expose children to all the sports they can," she said. "If they don't like tennis, then maybe they will enjoy hockey or riding or ice skating. But build an interest they can continue through the years."

"Don't go into a sedentary job and stop all physical activity. No wonder men have heart attacks while shoveling snow . . ."

The physician also believes in dancing for conditioning and coordination. The day I interviewed her she was in black leotards and about to take an hour of jazz ballet at the International Dance Studio in Carnegie Hall.

"Standing at an operating table isn't exactly a conditioning exercise," she said. "I was getting some flab and needed to get into condition for summer." The doctor is a sailing expert, teaches it to teens, and edits a sailing magazine.

"I read about what jazz ballet can do while I was in a dentist's waiting room," she said. "Now I try to work in at least two sessions a week around lunch time. It does everything they say . . . an dit's better than lunch."

The Only Doctor
 Miss Robbins, who lives in Bayonne, N.J., just across the Hudson River from New York, became physician for the basketball team at St. Peter's, in Jersey City, by chance. She and friends were at a game one night when one of the players took a spill and lacerated his scalp.

"I was the doctor in the house," she said.

She volunteered to become the team physician and now spends three months each year in that role, including travel with the players. As far as she knows, she is the only woman doctor in such a capacity. She since has added other duties at the Jesuit college, as director of health services for the whole student body.

She said St. Peter's has a daytime enrollment of about 2,100, plus 1,700 night students. It went coeducational last year but still has a predominantly male student body.

Astrological Forecast

By CAROL RIGNER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: One of your best days to come to a better understanding with everyone with whom you have any sort of contact whatever, so make sure you do get in touch with every available ally or partner and come to a new awareness of what each of you desire from the other. Fine for entertaining and all social, romantic interludes.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)—Ideal day to get in touch with associates and coordinate ideas, as well as have arrangements made to reconcile with others important in your life. Have a little celebration in p.m. Go to some charming spot.

AURIGUS (Apr. 20 to May 20)—You are able now to buy the gadgets that make daily work more pleasant and easy, especially around the house. A co-worker, who has been acting erratically lately, will now do his utmost to assist. Be kind.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Focus your attention on important outlets during the day and then give yourself over to pleasure you like. If close ties have special talents, show appreciation instead of criticizing them. Be big.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)—Talk over with kin now and when to make the improvements around the house that are important, necessary. Put through that plan that can give you more success, as well, do so in a positive fashion.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Contacting those individuals with whom you wish to be allied in the days ahead brings just the right results now. Be sure to improve your current media operation. Show that you are a person of real talent.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Come out with true figures and exact facts and you can do much to have a greater abundance, and back others in ideal and practical fashion. Get that budget improved, too. Let it be more in tune with what is current.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Getting busy at duties that please you most is wise since you get much done and then can be with congenials for a happy time. Be precise in stating your aims. Then you get the backing you need for them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—If you do not confide in others what advisors have to suggest you become more successful. Do not take any chances having the good will of others. Take time for the recreation that you need.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Doing whatever will mean getting together with good pals is wise today since you can have a good time and improve conditions for the future. You find the social life is best way to get ahead now. Be exact.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 30)—You find that you are in the good graces of higher-ups now, so state your aims and they help you to get them. Act in such a way that public in general will respect your move. Be basic in your approach.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 31 to Feb. 19)—Contact persons far away and state what your aims are for the days ahead. Use the telephone where possible. Get your trips arranged nicely for whatever is really necessary. You need a change of environment.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)—Others want you to come through with promises made more quickly and it behooves you to do just that now. Add to prestige. Making sure to see that mate is pleased is wise before dashing out to new interests.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY: he or she will be one of those delightful youngsters that others will follow to the nth degree, so teach early to use such qualities for constructive purposes.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have been receiving financial help from a married man who happens to be my boss. He is also my Number One boy friend. He says he loves me, and the only difference between our relationship and marriage is that he has to get up and go home.

I love him in a way, but a girl gets awfully tired hiding all the time. I would like to be able to get dressed up and go out with my man where I can see people and they can see me. And I would eventually like to be married.

Other men have asked me out, but I don't dare accept because it might get back to my boss. What can I do?

Am I destined to be stuck with this man behind closed doors for the rest of my life because I have accepted financial help from him? How does a woman get off this kind of merry-go-round?

TRAPPED
DEAR TRAPPED: She walks out of his office and out of his life and finds another job. Then she supports herself without "help" like millions of other self-respecting women do. And if she's wise, she moves out of the city and leaves no forwarding address. All a girl gets from the kind of merry-go-round you're on is a brass ring. Try for a gold one.

DEAR ABBY: I am a junior in college and my parents have been divorced for over a year. I am an only child and I live with my father. We get along fairly well with one minor exception.

My father used to come home from work at 5:30 p.m. Now he doesn't get home until 10 p.m. or even later. I am glad he is going out socially, but I think he should tell me how late he intends to be and where I can locate him in case he gets a business call.

Dad says he is a big boy now and can take care of himself. I realize that, but I still think he should let me know where I can reach him at all times. Dad says it isn't necessary, and I want to know his whereabouts more out of nosiness than anything else. This is not true, Abby. Don't you think I'm right?

WORRIED DAUGHTER
DEAR WORRIED: No. Obviously your father prefers his privacy to any possible advantages of being located during the evening for business reasons. It's his privilege, so don't press too hard.

DEAR ABBY: How important is a wedding ring? After many years of happy married life, I noticed my husband stopped wearing his wedding ring. I let it go for several weeks, hoping he would start wearing it again, but he did not. I finally asked him about it.

He said he didn't like to wear it to work. Even if that were the reason, shouldn't he afford me the courtesy of wearing it on week-ends when we are with friends, and relatives? I have reminded him several times, but it hasn't done any good.

I thought of leaving my wedding ring off, too, thinking "What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander," and vice versa, but then I decided, "What's rotten for one is also rotten for the other." Got any suggestions?

DEBATING
DEAR DEBATING: You don't say what kind of work your husband does, but if he works around machinery, he has a legitimate reason to leave his ring at home. And as for his doing you the "courtesy" of wearing a wedding ring at other times, if you have to remind him repeatedly, it's not so much a "courtesy" as a "command." If I were you, I'd wear mine and skip it.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — The cheapest "turn-on" in town costs 15 cents.

For that you get "The East Village Other," a psychedelic underground paper that tells it "like it is" in Hippieland. Flights of fancy come in great waves, especially when the orbs race over letters and classified ads.

Under the heading, "Wheel and Deal," the letters cover, uncover and include everything from God, mother, country, humane society and assorted personality types. Tid-bits from a recent issue:

—Dial-A Demonstration. I dialed the number on a Monday and the recorded message told me the Saturday before I should have gone to a certain place to show my support on behalf of striking students at Columbia University. Half of the message was giggles.

Got A Problem?
—Problem-Solver. You send in your problem, then send back the price of a solution. Game? You send half the price and they send the solution. You don't like the solution you get your half-price back. You like it, you keep it and send the other 50 per cent of fee? Simple. And bound to keep the mailman busy.

—Lost Children. A touching one begged son to return to nest as family was moving. If he has typical boy's room, a mess full of untouchable and misunderstood collections, this ad's bound to send him springing homeward. The mover may make a worse mess and then, even boy won't understand it. A Mr. Poon also signed that ad. We only can conclude that he's a featured player in boy's teddy bear collection.

—Fed up with Uncle Samland? Here's an ad telling you Australia wants and loves you. For $1, you get information about government-assisted passage and unlimited opportunities.

Lost Dog. Find this white shepherd answering to "Puppy Love" and you get $100.

Lonely Cat. Dial the sitter service and pay an amount. Your cat's guaranteed a daily visit.

Lonely Human. Every other ad offers help the companion-ship way to you, the adventure-some, the uninhibited way.

Some ads are pure fun. Sample: "Snoopy for President" and "Lucy for First Lady" buttons.

The hippie-oriented paper catering to the long-haired, sandaled bare-footed, prints pan as well as puff letters.

Tells off Editors
A pan letter from John B. Underhill, of Cresskill, N.Y., urged the editors to "put this in your trash can for some of your readers to digest."

Then he went on to say he believes in:

—"Two sexes, each distinguishable from the other by clothing and hairdo; soap and water and shampoo—and regular use of all three.

—"I believe while clothes do not make the man, genius does not necessarily come clothed like a litter basket.

—"I believe that courtesy is not corny, loyalty is not square, and God is not dead, although He must get awfully sick."

Amen.

New Physical Fitness Program Is Being Tested

PLAINVIEW, Tex. (UPI) — A new physical fitness program being tested in 14 schools in Texas may have a direct bearing on citizens of the future.

C. E. Simmons, principal of Highland Elementary School in Plainview, said the school is one of 14 participating in a Texas Education Agency program being tested in an attempt to get away from the emphasis on major sports, which tend to limit the number of children involved.

The program which began last fall is balanced, emphasizing fundamental muscular skills and presenting games, tests and contests. The games stressed are "lifetime" sports such as golf and tennis.

Coach Cliff Ozmun of Wayland Baptist College said Highland is the only school in the program using college students to assist teachers.

Wayland physical education students help with the training to add variety to the sessions and to get practical training for their careers.

"We are trying to develop an attitude toward physical exercise so that they will get out and enjoy it," Simmons said.

Elementary students are in class six hours per day and "80 per cent of it is sitting," he said.

"Because of enthusiasm caught from instructors and playmates," Simmons said, "the children now get out and organize themselves on the playground after school and on weekends."

Ozmun said many students "couldn't be successful in sports, so they didn't like them and wouldn't participate."

"Some of them who get to college don't even know how to walk properly," he said.

Ozmun said students who have no background in exercise find a college physical education program such drudgery they become disinterested.

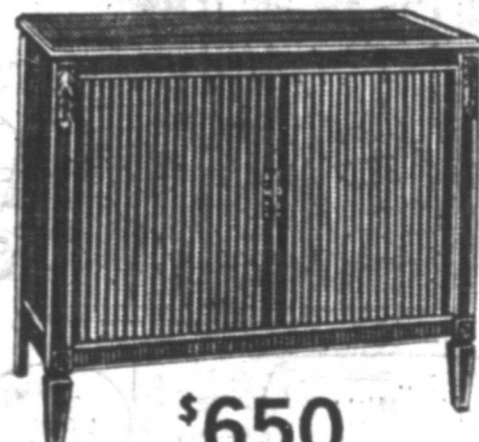

Simmons and Ozmun visualize the day when men and women who have learned basic skills and techniques in their formative years will continue to use them and to enjoy life more.

Dancer's Image Set For Preakness Race

By WARREN CARLSON
BOSTON (UPI) — Dancer's Image, the come from behind horse who won the Kentucky Derby only to be disqualified, prepared for the Preakness today, his status and the Derby winner still clouded.

Peter Fuller, wealthy Boston automobile dealer and Dancer's owner, said Wednesday night he had received word "as of now there is no Derby winner."

Fuller said statements Tuesday from Churchill Downs President Wathen Knebelkamp that Dancer's Image was disqualified were the result of a "misunderstanding and misinterpretation" of the rules. It was announced that the horse was disqualified and placed last because samples of a pain killing drug, phenylbutazone, were found in his urine. In Louisville, one of the stewards at the track said such an announcement never came from them.

Leo O'Donnell said he and his fellow stewards "never said Dancer's Image was not the winner of last Saturday's Kentucky Derby. 'All we did was send the rule governing drug administration around the world. That should be plain enough for anyone to understand,'" O'Donnell said.

The steward said Knebelkamp never should have made the statements about the disqualification.

"We have a hearing with Mr. Fuller on Monday," O'Donnell said. "We wanted to have it sooner but he (Fuller) asked for a postponement. He has been making a lot of statements up there in Boston and has not been acting in good faith."

At a news conference in his car dealership showroom, Fuller said his trainer, Lou Cavalaris, on a ruling from Maryland racing officials, could train Dancer's Image for the Preakness a week from Saturday, but could not saddle or harness him.

But "the horse will not run in the Preakness unless Lou saddles him and harnesses him," Fuller said.

"My horse is not last in the 94th running of the Kentucky Derby and as of now there is no winner," Fuller said.

Hunter Hurls Perfect Game Over Twins, 4-0

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

There was a span of 46 years between the last two perfect games in the American League—but now the question is whether 46 days will elapse between the next two.

"Jim Catfish" Hunter of the Oakland A's, whose previous claim to fame was the dubious one of being the losing pitcher in last year's All-Star game, pitched the first perfect game in the American League Wednesday night since Charley Robertson of the White Sox did it on April 30, 1922.

But there was a sense of inevitability rather than awe over Hunter's feat in the 4-0 victory over the Minnesota Twins at Oakland.

In a season in which the pitchers are dominating the game to such an extent that there are only seven American League hitters batting over .300 this early in the season, a perfect game wasn't surprising. It'll now be interesting to see if it happens again this season.

Second No-Hitter

This was the second no-hitter of the young season: Baltimore's Tom Phoebus pitched the first one on April 27th. The last two perfect games in baseball were pitched by National Leaguers—Sandy Koufax in 1965 and Jim Bunning in 1964. The only perfect game in baseball since Robertson's was Don Larsen's World Series feat in 1956.

In the other American League games, Detroit edged Baltimore 3-1, Boston nipped Washington 3-1, California topped Chicago 3-2 and New York stopped Cleveland 2-1.

In the National League, Chicago topped Los Angeles 7-6, Pittsburgh nipped Atlanta 4-3 in 14 innings, Philadelphia beat Cincinnati 6-2, San Francisco edged Houston 3-1 and St. Louis blanked New York 2-0.

A crowd of only 6,298—the second smallest home turnout this season in the inaugural year at Oakland—saw Hunter strike out 11 batters en route to his perfect game. The Twins, who've scored just four runs in their last six games, got only six balls out of the infield and only two were more than routine plays.

Hunter, who threw 107 pitches, said "I just tried to throw strikes, control is the name of the game. My fastball did it, it felt good but I didn't have much luck with my breaking ball, sometimes it wasn't really good."

Northrup Saves Win

Jim Northrup homered in the first inning for the Tigers and then saved the game in the eighth with a spectacular diving catch of a Brooks Robinson drive with the bases loaded and two out. The loss cut Baltimore's lead over Detroit to a half game. Earl Wilson got the victory.

Pinch-hitter Jerry Adair singled home the tie-breaking run in the eighth as Boston beat Washington. Adair's hit came after winning pitcher Dick Ellsworth laid down a perfect bunt hit.

Andy Kosco opened the ninth with a double and rode home on Jake Gibbs' one-out single as the Yankees snapped Cleveland's six-game win streak. Bill Monbouquette and Joe Verbanic teamed up on a three-hitter for the Yanks with Verbanic getting the win.

Don Mincher slugged his first homer of the season in the sixth inning to snap a 2-2 tie and give California its victory over Chicago. The blow knocked starter and loser Cisco Carlos out of the game. Clyde Wright, with relief help from Jack Hamilton in the ninth, picked up the victory.

Giants Edge Houston, 3-1

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

A four-hitter doesn't seem exciting in this season of elegant pitching but catcher Tim McCarver of the St. Louis Cardinals gets excited almost every time Steve Carlton pitches.

He has a chance to win 20 games this season—in fact, he ought to win 20," commented McCarver after Carlton beat the New York Mets 2-0 on a four-hitter Wednesday night. "He has a good fast ball and curve and needs only to stay ahead of the hitters to be great."

A 6-foot-4, 210-pound lefthander from Miami, Fla., who had a 14-9 record for the world champions last season, Carlton says he is concentrating on better control this year. He walked 62 batters in 193 innings in 1967.

"I keep saying to myself, 'don't walk anybody... don't walk anybody,'" he said. "I feel strong and I should continue pitching well when we get into the once-every-fourth-day groove."

Stduces Mets

Carlton blew down the Mets, allowing one hit for six innings and getting out of his only serious jam when third baseman Mike Shannon speared a line drive by Jerry Buchek and converted it into a double play after Greg Goossen's single and Jerry Grote's double in the seventh inning.

The Cardinals, who lead the NL by 3½ games, scored their runs off former teammate Al Jackson in the third inning on singles by Dick Simpson, Dal Maxvill, Carlton and Julian Javier.

The San Francisco Giants defeated the Houston Astros 3-1, the Philadelphia Phillies stopped the Cincinnati Reds 6-2, the Pittsburgh Pirates shaded the Atlanta Braves 4-3 in 14 innings and the Chicago Cubs beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 7-6 in other NL games.

In the American League, Jim Hunter pitched a perfect game to give the Oakland Athletics a 4-0 triumph over the Minnesota Twins, the Detroit Tigers defeated the Baltimore Orioles 3-1, the Boston Red Sox beat the Washington Senators 3-1, the New York Yankees nipped the Cleveland Indians 2-1 and the California Angels topped the Chicago White Sox 3-2.

Sadecki Takes Win

Ray Sadecki of the Giants doubled to start a two-run rally in the ninth and received credit for his fourth victory with the aid of relievers Frank Linzy and Joe Gibbon when the Astros threatened in the bottom of the inning. Willie Mays singled home the tie-breaking run with a grounder through the drawn-in Houston infield.

John Callison's solo homer and Bobby Wine's two-run homer were the bigblows of a five-run ninth inning rally which gave Philadelphia relief pitcher Dick Hall his second win. The Reds had taken a 2-1 lead in the eighth inning on a single by Tony Perez and doubles by Alex Johnson and Lee May.

Roberto Clemente, who didn't start because of an ailing shoulder, drove in Maury Wills with a sacrifice fly in the 14th inning to give the Pirates their victory. The Pirates fell behind 3-0 in the first inning but three wild pitches by Phil Niekro helped them tie the score with one run in the fourth and two in the eighth.

Homers by Billy Williams and Ron Santo and a two-run double by Adolfo Phillips sparked the Cubs' 13-hit attack which dealt Don Sutton the loss. Rocky Colavito hit two homers for the Dodgers, including a three-run drive off former Dodger reliever Phil Regan in the ninth.

NBA Grabs More Small College Cagers

By STEVE SMILANICH
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Taking part in a college player draft for professional basketball is getting to be like buying merchandise from a mall order house or fighting for a grab bag at a basement store sale—there are always the elements of risk and surprise.

Such was the case Wednesday when the National Basketball Association completed the final 11 rounds of its 12-round player draft.

By the time coaches and owners reached the bottom of the player pool they were looking at each other with blank expressions and wonderment as some of the players names were announced by Commissioner Walter Kennedy.

While expansion and competition from another league continue to shrink the supply of available players, the increased demands failed to discourage the bargain hunters who hope to come up with a find such as Earl Monroe, a small college All-America at Winston-Salem for the Baltimore Bullets and won NBA rookie of the year honors during the recently-concluded season.

That might explain why the NBA clubs went heavily to the draft. Others drafted at that Diego Rockets signed Elvin Hayes, player of the year from Houston and Baltimore inked Westley Unseld of Louisville to a contract.

They were signed following the April 1 first-round telephone time who signed included Shaler Hallimon of Utah State, by the Philadelphia 76ers and Skip Harlicka of South Carolina by Atlanta.

A total of 162 players were drafted in the 12 rounds with John Trapp of Nevada Southern the first choice in the second round. He was picked by San Diego.

Also drafted in the second round were Art Harris of Stanford (Seattle); Loy Peterson of Oregon State (Chicago); Bob Quick of Xavier (Baltimore); Ron Dunlop of Illinois (Chicago); Manny Leaks of Nagara (Detroit); Dick Cunningham of Murray State (Phoenix); and Gene Moore, St. Louis U. (Milwaukee).

Water Safety

With the approach of summer and the increasing number of backyard swimming pools some emphasis on water safety and first aid techniques seems to be indicated. Drownings appear to be on the increase and children, apparently, are the major victims.

According to an accident prevention pamphlet, passed on to us, annual drownings in the United States now number in excess of 7,000 representing the fourth leading cause of accidental death. Most of the fatalities occur, the report noted, in the preschool age bracket and to both children and adults who have never learned to swim. A full half of drowning victims are under 10 years of age, three-fourths of them boys.

The pamphlet listed some recommendations which, if followed, should reduce the drowning incident rate. Here, in abbreviated form, are some of them:

Children should be taught to swim and how to float at as early an age as possible. This, we might add, is the responsibility of the parents, rather than the school, as are other safety precautions.

Children, especially those who have not learned to swim, should be supervised by adults when near bodies of water.

Good water conduct (no roughhousing or dangerous pranks) should be encouraged at all times. Swimming should be avoided just after meals and when overtired or overheated; these are times when attacks of "cramps" usually occur.

Adequate safeguards should be provided for unguarded pools and other bodies of water.

All family members should be encouraged to learn first aid resuscitation techniques because, the pamphlet emphasized, they are usually more available than trained public officials when help can be most effective.

These recommendations, it strikes us, consist primarily of applying old-fashioned, everyday, common sense. We heartily endorse them and suggest that they be taught and applied with generous portions of emphasis on the importance of an individual sense of responsibility and respect for the rights of others—for children and adults alike.

Pollution By Man Knows No Bounds

Consider the poor petrel. It hasn't been given much consideration, along with many of man's other co-inhabitants of this planet, which is why it is in such a tough spot today.

The petrel is a rare bird that spends most of its life on the wing over the North Atlantic, approaching land only when necessary to continue the species. Its breeding grounds are rocks fringing Bermuda.

Long threatened by extinction, the petrel population is down to a hundred or so today. And it now looks as though man is well on his way to finishing the job.

Reporting in Science magazine, Dr. Charles F. Wurster Jr., an American biologist, and David B. Wingate, of Bermuda's Agriculture and Fisheries Department, say examination of the increasing numbers of unhatched eggs and dead petrel chicks has revealed apparently ly lethal residues of manmade pesticides.

Since the petrel's habitat is distant from any area where the chemicals are used in quantity, the poisons must be reaching it indirectly. Wurster and Wingate conclude that pesticides used liberally for the past few decades by farmers far from Bermuda have been washing steadily into the oceans, to find their way into the oceans, to be absorbed by the small sea life upon which the petrel feeds.

The petrel is of small moment in the world's affairs. Its demise would likely go unmentioned and unnoticed by all but a relatively few naturalists. But its plight points up the serious consequences of man's effect upon the common environment. Pollution is not localized. Its effects are worldwide. And in poisoning the petrel's habitat, man is also fouling his own nest.

The Barroom Bookshelf

Barroom barristers and dram-shop debaters in Chicago may soon be able to imbibe a little knowledge along with the usual refreshments, reports the National Observer.

"People are always calling the library and the newspapers to settle their arguments," says Ralph G. Newman, chairman of the city's library board. "They want to know what Ty Cobb's lifetime batting average was or what poet said what. So why not give them their own neighborhood reference libraries in their favorite hangouts?"

He suggests that reference works like the Bible, the World Almanac and Bartlett's Quotations could settle a lot of the disputes that have been known to arise in such surroundings. The public library has already placed books in neighborhood welfare offices. Newman would now like to stock not only taverns but police stations and other places where people gather.

"People spend hours and hours in these places," he says. "Often they don't have anything to do while they wait. I'd like to have them fill that time by reading."

It's hard to fault the idea. Not only could it advance culture but it might very well help promote marital harmony.

What wife could complain if her husband called her and said, "I'll be a little late tonight, dear. I have to stop in at the uh, local reference library to look up something in the almanac."

He's Got Reason To Holler

From reading some baseball facts, we have learned a lesson in economics.

Back in 1931 George Herman (Babe) Ruth received a salary of $80,000 for playing baseball. This year the great Willie Mays is receiving $125,000 for ably patrolling centerfield for the San Francisco Giants.

It sounds as if Mays has it all to the good, until a little analysis is done.

Lawrence W. Ritter, a New York professor of finance, did the analysis. He pointed out that Babe Ruth paid $11,500 in federal income taxes on his $80,000 salary in 1931. That left him a net salary of $68,500. But, Ritter said, Mays must pay $73,000 of his $125,000 earnings this year, leaving him a net salary of $52,000.

But that isn't all. Because of inflation, Mays' salary will buy him a lot less than in Babe Ruth's day. Prices are now 2.2 times as high as they were in 1931. Willie's $52,000 net salary will buy goods that $23,600 would have purchased in 1931.

To have a salary that would buy as much as Ruth's $80,000, Mays would have to be paid $454,000, on which he would have to pay $303,300 in income taxes. That would leave him a net salary of $150,700 with about the same buying power as Ruth's net of $68,500.

It seems to us if Willie Mays were anything except one of the greatest guys in the business, he'd be doing a whole lot of hollering about injustice—and with reason.

PINE TREE FEATURES

SOLUTIONS WITHOUT REVOLUTIONS

Whenever an existing establishment or a ruling hierarchy is confronted with open rebellion, there are only two ways in which that establishment or hierarchy has acted in the past. It has either acceded to the demands of the rebels and complied with their requests, or it has opposed them with armed might.

At the moment, certain rebellious forces in this country—including communists, socialists, anarchists, and black power advocates—are challenging the status quo. Their challenge has passed through the vocal stages and the exhortation stages to the point where mass demonstrations, marches, and riots are the order of the day. This is much the same route followed in Russia in the days immediately preceding the two revolutions in that country, both of which occurred in 1917.

In Russia, the czar listened. He did no more until open force confronted him. Then a state of martial law ensued, which finally reached such a height that the czar abdicated, the country was torn by revolution, and there emerged a new ruling power-group.

In prior centuries when mobs clamored for bread and circuses in Rome, and finally swarmed into the forum demanding more and more subsidy, the Roman senate tried placation. Larger and larger portions of grain and public goodies were handed to the masses. The ferment was not eliminated by this process, and the Roman culture was rent asunder, making it the pallid victim of invading barbarians.

History thus gives us two prime examples in which a challenge to the establishment and the ruling hierarchy were confronted unsuccessfully. Placation didn't work. Neither did armed resistance.

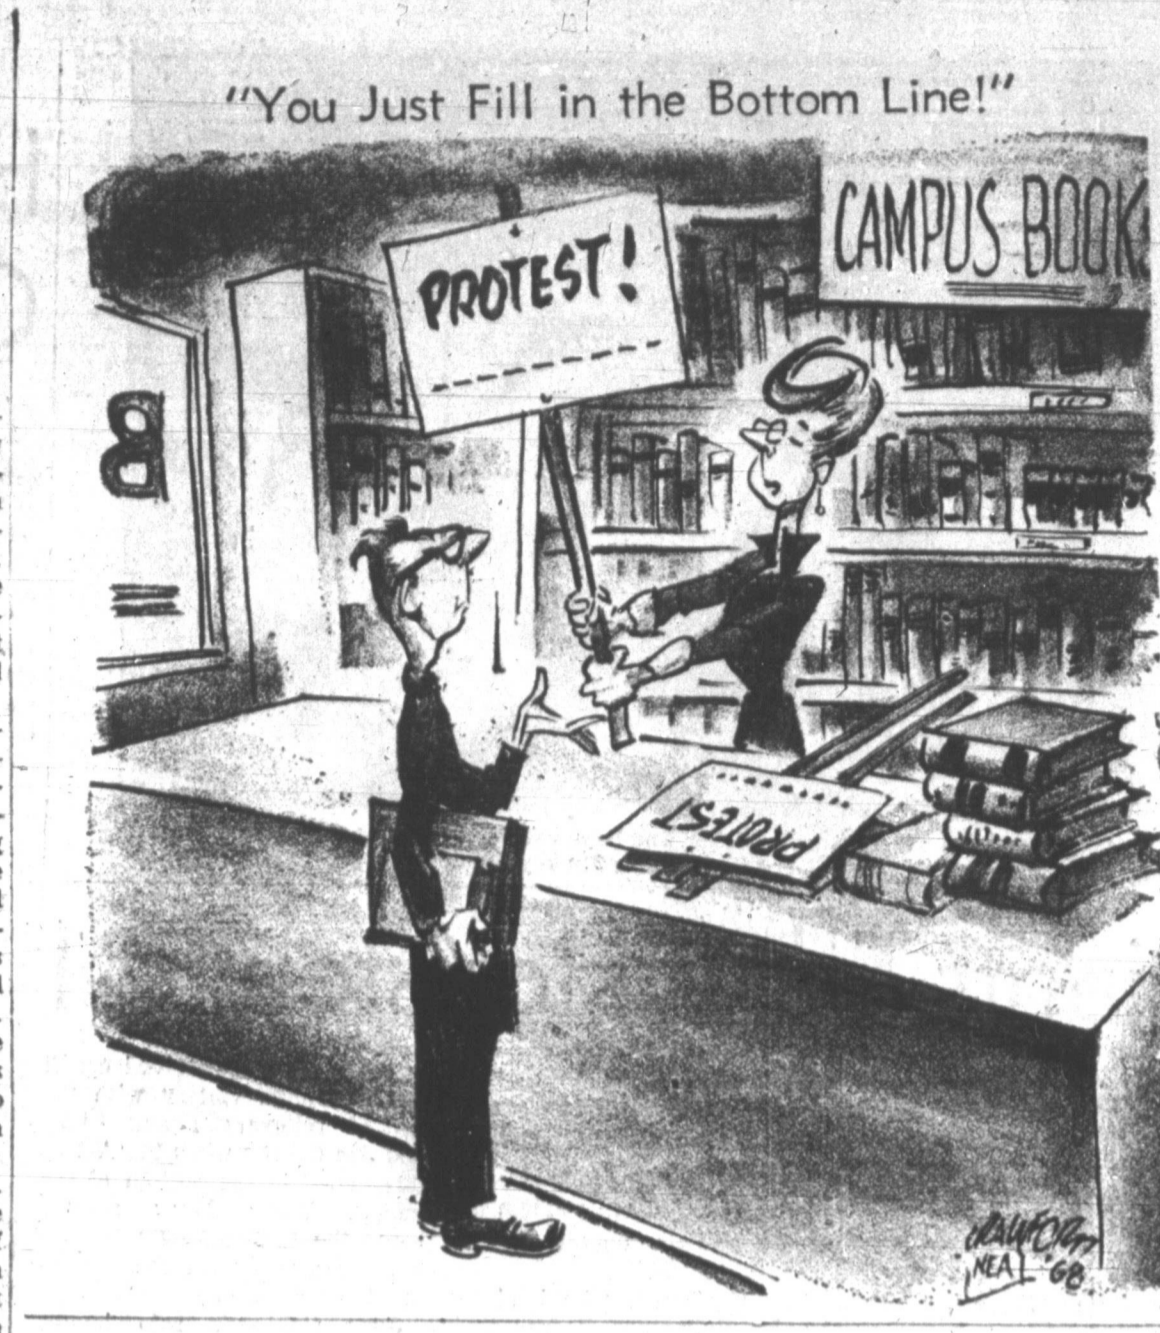

In this country, we are apparently attempting to deal with the problem by employing both methods. We are meeting demands for bread and circuses with enormous outlays of tax money. And we are calling out the troops to stand guard when rioters appear and seek to gain the upper hand. It's predictable that both methods used in combination will have no better result than either used singly.

If present policies are continued, the government either will fall and a new power clique will emerge to rule, or, if sufficient power is evoked, the government may be able to retain its grip, but it will do so by the processes of total regimentation and the conversion of the existing state to one of total dictatorship. In either case, the fundamental ideas and ideals of human liberty and the dignity of individual men will be wrenched loose and we shall be a people with a smashed economy, a gutted culture, and the future will contain the economic and social factors both of fascism and feudalism.

Is there anything that can be done to prevent this dreadful denouement? Yes, there is. It is unlikely that there exists at the moment the will to change, but if we assume that the will to change could be formed, then it might be possible to avoid this complete devastation.

The basic change would consist of two parts. There must be an immediate repeal of all laws which seek to regulate the economy in favor of some to the detriment of others. In this category I place all tariffs, all economic subsidies, all taxes upon transportation, and all regulation of the means of production, distribution, and communication. If this major step were desired by the ruling hierarchy, it might indeed preserve its own claims to prestige and influence. The economy could be preserved; taxes as well as government spending could be reduced by as much as one-third, and this would comprise a "shot-in-the-arm" in the area of free decision-making and in favor of more production and higher standards of living for all.

The second step would be the simultaneous recognition that real and lasting changes can only occur through educational methods, and not through placation or force. This would mean a complete rejection of government-run or government-supported educational institutions. The existing educational structure at all levels, primary, secondary, and higher, would have to move into the unsubsidized

The Doctor Says:

By DR. WAYNE BRANDSTADT

Q—What is the cause of cirrhosis of the liver? What are the symptoms? Is there any cure?

A—Cirrhosis is a replacement of liver cells by scar tissue. It is a gradual process and in the early stages there are no symptoms. When about 80 per cent of the normal liver cells have been destroyed, the victim begins to complain of loss of appetite, easy fatigability, loss of weight and a swelling of the abdomen which is caused by an accumulation of fluid in the peritoneal cavity. Bleeding from the stomach and esophagus may also occur. The cause is not thoroughly understood. In some victims, a combination of chronic alcoholism and an inadequate diet appears to be the cause. Other causes include hepatitis and poisoning with chemicals that have a special affinity for the liver. Since cure is difficult, avoidance of the causative factors is your best protection. For some forms of cirrhosis surgery is helpful. In others, cortisone, glutathione or a combination of vitamin B and folic acid may be of benefit.

H. L. Hunt Writes

"RUBBER STAMP"

Congress has more power to curb the Supreme Court than it has used. Confirmation has been a "rubber stamp," the power of impeachment rarely used, never on a Supreme Court justice.

The Constitution provides another avenue of relief, which Congress could take by simple legislation: Article III, Section 2, establishes authority for Congress to limit jurisdiction of the court in any field it chooses. In effect, Congress could say to the court: you shall not adjudicate in the fields we have designated.

In some cases, Congress can overcome the effect of particular decisions by statutory enactment, especially when spelling out the intent of Congress. Also, in the opinion of many constitutional lawyers, Congress could by simple statute establish an age limit for mandatory retirement. Such a limit would not necessarily affect the court's philosophy, but it would open up fresh opportunities for control by confirmation.

Other controls would require constitutional amendments. One such amendment could set additional qualifications for Supreme Court justices, such as a requirement that candidates have at least five years service in the highest trial court in a state or on a court with appellate jurisdiction. This would limit membership on the Supreme Court to experienced judges and prevent purely political appointments.

Constitutional amendments also would be required to limit the term to a set period or to require periodic reconfirmation of justices. Constitutional amendments can also be drawn to protect specific rights, such as in the fields of school prayer or legislative reapportionment.

market, there to survive or fall on the basis of its own merit.

It's quite unlikely that the will exists for these drastic revisions. However, desperate times require radical changes in policy. And if there now emerges those individuals who could and would champion such alterations, this nation could yet avoid a blood bath.

Will This Page of History Repeat Itself?

Although the youngest generation may not believe it, Vietnam is neither the first nor the worst war in which our nation has fought.

One particularly violent war was World War II; one especially horrible battle of the war was the Battle of the Bulge, which produced more than 80,000 American casualties.

Would you believe that the Battle of the Bulge need not have been fought?

A recent guest on the Manion Forum radio program suggested just that possibility. Dr. Anthony Kubek, Chairman of the University of Dallas, and author of "How The Far East Was Lost," discussed the Battle of the Bulge in relation to the Morgenthau Diaries for the Internal Security Subcommittee of the United States Senate.

The Morgenthau Plan, of course, was one which envisioned the de-industrialization of Germany, making it a nation of farmers. "The idea behind this," says Kubek, "was that Germany had been responsible for two world wars, and that if she could be destroyed as an industrialized nation, this would bring about world peace."

That may have been SOMEBODY'S idea, but one can imagine the reaction of Germany to such a proposal. "Militarily," states Kubek, "it is possible that when the Plan was leaked, the Germans made a last-ditch effort in the Battle of the Bulge, trying to defeat the West rather than face being controlled under the Morgenthau Plan."

To understand how such a plan could emerge from our own government, it is necessary to know a bit about Dr. Henry Morgenthau, Jr. He was the Secretary of the Treasury from 1934 to 1945. "Morgenthau's background," says Kubek, "was in the field of agriculture. He was not well versed in the field of international finance or in monetary problems. This is important, because he had to depend a great deal on his advisors."

One of his prime advisors was Harry Dexter White, who became the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury during this period. White was later identified as a Soviet agent.

What were the motives behind the Morgenthau Plan? "It's very difficult to analyze them," observes Kubek, "but we can take some guesses. If you could weaken Germany, this would benefit the Soviet Union. So as far as motives are concerned, we must remember that White was identified as a Soviet agent."

The moral of this story applies to our situation today. "Our government's check and balance system just does not work," charges Kubek, "because what we have is administrative agencies that carry out — and even formulate — our policies. Many times it is difficult to identify who actually makes policy. This is the weakness in our whole governmental structure — having, actually, government being run by administrative agencies."

Crimson, Harvard's symbolic color, might have been blue, green or some other hue if it were not for a quirk of fate. Back in 1858, just 110 years ago, Charles W. Elliot, destined to be Harvard's president, but then an undergraduate, got the bright idea the oarsmen in the Harvard crew should wear some distinctive badge in their upcoming race with Yale. He visited a Boston store and found there a newly arrived supply of Chinese red silk handkerchiefs. He bought them and presented them to the crew.

The Harvard lads wore them and that's how Harvard acquired its college color.

The vending machine industry in this country dispenses just about everything from candy to cigarettes to sandwiches to toothpaste, but there's one in Japan that goes even farther in giving service. It loans money. Yep, you don't have to see your friendly finance officer and hock the family jewels for a little cash. Just insert a coded card, issued by a credit company, into the money-lending machine and out pops the equivalent of $55 in Japanese yen. The machine records the transaction and it won't make another loan to the card holder until the first loan has been repaid. Sounds like an excellent way to tide you over until pay day.

Straight Talk

To the Graduates of 1968:

The "over 30 and out of it" commencement speakers are now sanctimoniously pronouncing their cliches, trying to tell it like it was to the NOW generation. And many of you are not listening because you have contempt for my generation. The old squares are telling the young squares how lucky they are. You're not lucky. You are terribly unlucky. Unlike most of you, most of us were happy. Most of us were interested in sports, food, parties and girls, in no particular order. And we considered ourselves lucky if we could get a job within a year or so after graduation. There were no serious world problems. No bomb. No impending civil war in the land. But if most of your generation proves to be interested only in the same things most of us were—having a good time—I have some advice for you: Learn to speak Russian. And Chinese.

And now the old garbage pontificate the stupid redundancy that "you are our future." You are not our future but our NOW. The young want to change things. They can and they should. I hope I never get so old I won't want to change things—for the better. Some things we can change and should change and some we can't and shouldn't. You can raise a pig in your parlor. It won't change the pig—only your parlor. Rats are just graves with the ends removed. The most inevitable thing in life is change. In government and in life be sure you have something better before you agree to change. Some of the "progressive" ideas, such as Socialism to replace Capitalism, humanism or modernism to replace Christianity, would set us back almost 2,000 years. For it was that long ago that Socialism, humanism and modernism were politically passionate pu-

There will never be a perfect system until there are perfect people. No society and no city is better than the individuals in it. No nation advances except as the individuals who comprise it improve.

Now, for the first time, America has a large revolutionary youth movement resembling Europe's. They are against the system, against the Establishment. They plan to take over, if necessary by force.

Some are not militant. They are willing to settle the issue by peaceful and legal means. All we turned-off dopes over 30, we Capitalists and puritans need to do is surrender to their politically passionate publicity.

The hippies are trying to replace "dog eat dog" with "dog love dog." Both are animalism and can only return us to the jungle.

"Freedom without discipline is an uncivilized absurdity. 'Freedom now!' In a civilized society freedom without discipline is impossible. Those who cannot discipline themselves cannot for long be allowed to run free. We must discipline ourselves. Individually, else some government must do it. If the prevailing government is too decadent to do it, then some other government, from outside or within, will replace it by force if necessary. Thus, individual violence is replaced by slavery. There is little individual violence and crime—and little freedom—in any Communist country. All looters in Communist countries are executed. Hence there is little looting.

Does it really matter, after all, for whom you vote? trace that to the non-elected policy makers. We have this repeated in Cuba, and then we have the Morgenthau Plan."

And even if the distillery was overstocked with eight-year-old whiskey it would have to pay Uncle Sam his tithe before it could legally pour the stuff down the drain. . . .
