IS TAKEN TO SAN JACINTO BATTLE FIELD

WILL SPEAK TODAY AT SAN ANTONIO AND AUSTIN

BY H. HAROLD OLIVER, Associated Press Staff Writer. HOUSTON, June 11 (AP)—President Roosevelt, after a rousing reception in Houston, declared at nearby San Jacinto battle field today that "we as a nation desire no further expansion."

Speaking to thousands under a broiling sun on the historic spot where a century ago General Sam Houston defeated the Mexican army and opened the way for Texas independence, the President declared, however, that establishment of the Texas republic by force of arms seemed to have been justified "by the colonization of later years."

HOUSTON, June 11 (AP)—A rousing welcome greeted President Roosevelt as he arrived in Texas today to spend two days in helping the state celebrate its 100th birthday of independence from Mexico.

Thousands gathered at the station here and along the route to 75th street wharf where a yacht waited to take the chief executive 23 miles to San Jacinto battle field. There he was to make his first of three speeches on Texas soil today, the others coming at San Antonio and Austin tonight.

Governor James V. Allred and Mayor Oscar F. Holcombe, with an official committee of 17 prominent Houstonians, welcomed the President as automobile horns and whistles blared forth a carnival greeting. The city's anti-noise ordinance had been suspended for three minutes for the purpose.

The first cheers rang out as the train pulled slowly into the station and stopped at lines of naval reserves and national guardsmen.

Mrs. Roosevelt was the first of the official party to step from the train and get into the waiting air-cooled automobile.

A moment later the President stepped briskly from the train, raising his hat as he approached the automobile. After Mr. Roosevelt was seated Governor James V. Allred, wearing a 10-gallon hat, emerged from the train.

Governor Allred occupied the rear seat with the President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

The President, smiling broadly, chatted with the governor while a battery of photographers took pictures.

Then the big flag-draped machine moved under the station shed where the official reception committee greeted the party.

Thousands of persons crowded around as the train pulled away. They stood in the hot sun more than an hour before the train arrived.

After the brief reception, the parade of some 20 automobiles started for the downtown station. The parade moved rapidly, sometimes going as fast as 25 miles an hour, and through the business section, continuing to the turning basin in the ship channel.

There boats awaited to take the party down the channel to the battle ground.

Houston "closed shop" for the approximately three hours of the President's visit. Mayor Oscar Holcombe proclaimed the day "Holcomb's day" and asked that it be observed as a holiday.

Most of the public buildings and business houses were closed. Banks didn't open until after 10 a. m.

Parties on the train said the trip from Little Rock, Ark., to Houston was without incident.

Accompanying the President and Mrs. Roosevelt on their swing thru the southwest were many notables.

Running Mate Likely To Be Colonel Knox

CONVENTION HALL, Cleveland, June 11 (AP)—With the nomination of Governor Alf Landon conceded on all sides, the republican convention struggled into late hours today to compose its platform—but said cryptically "a ticket and get back home."

Platform Is Drafted To Suit Landon Ideas

Both Col. Frank Knox of Illinois and Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan were mentioned as most likely for the vice-presidential nomination; but Vandenberg has said repeatedly he would not accept.

He urged Knox. They and all the other erstwhile rivals of "the Sunflower candidate" decided not even to have their names presented for president.

Senator William E. Borah, who had been a big figure in all the proceedings, still would not say whether he would campaign for the ticket.

He seemed satisfied with the platform draft, as it stood before the debate, but said cryptically "the candidate is the platform."

The fifth session had to be recessed until mid-afternoon before the long-awaited platform was ready.

The policy subcommittee, worn from its long hours, finally left out any direct mention of the gold standard and made no recommendation for the constitutional amendment for state minimum wage legislation.

Governor Landon's views had been obtained to the last minute, but was overridden on the amendment suggestion.

Borah went out for a declaration against joining the League of Nations or the world court, and a pledge to attack the monopoly problem.

A prairie fire of Landon sentiment swept the fifth session of the republican convention, prompting predictions that the Kansas governor with Col. Frank Knox of Illinois as a running mate, would be nominated for the presidency, possibly tonight.

A prairie fire of Landon sentiment swept the fifth session of the republican convention, prompting predictions that the Kansas governor with Col. Frank Knox of Illinois as a running mate, would be nominated for the presidency, possibly tonight.

One after another of the Landon competitors withdrew their names while the great mass of yet footloose delegates joined up.

Whether the impending platform debate would be as harmonious was in doubt.

Col. Frank Knox released his delegates shortly after Senators Vandenberg of Michigan, Borah of Idaho and Dickinson of Iowa had done the same.

The tenor of their assertions was the same, in the words of Knox: "The crisis in national affairs demands complete harmony."

Again the floor proceedings were slow in getting under way as the weary delegates awaited the still-working platform builders.

It was learned that Governor Landon, who considered the subcommittee draft overnight, did not like the monetary plank omitting any mention of gold.

Landon Request For Wage Plank Finally Denied

Number of Changes Are Made in Platform

BY NATHAN ROBERTSON, Associated Press Staff Writer. CLEVELAND, June 11 (AP)—A platform designed to compromise "liberal" and "conservative" demands on economic issues was submitted to the republican resolutions committee today after a subcommittee had made last minute revisions at the request of Gov. Alf M. Landon.

The subcommittee complied with virtually all of Landon's suggestions except that for the inclusion of a plank advocating a constitutional amendment to permit state minimum wage legislation.

CLEVELAND, June 11 (AP)—The republican platform finally emerged at noon today from the resolutions subcommittee of the national convention, after a number of changes had been made at the request of Gov. Alf M. Landon, of Kansas, prospective nominee.

Members of the subcommittee said Landon had been given almost everything he asked in changes of the original compromise platform.

Some committee members said, however, that former Senator Henry Allen of Kansas, one of Landon's chief platform spokesmen, was satisfied with the form in which the document emerged from the subcommittee.

Lecture Tonight To Be Second in Colony Schedule

CANYON, June 11.—Two features of the Palo Duro school of art which are already adding to the popularity of the new school, are the art lectures and the science lectures which are given one evening of each week.

"We are going to tear things wide open," said Secretary Mark Dreher of the chamber of commerce. "You know—a regular oldtime home town celebration with plenty of noise and fireworks."

More than 700 railroad flares have been ordered to be ready when and if "the word is flashed from the convention."

To Build Bridge Altho Bid Is Above Estimate

AUSTIN, June 11 (AP)—John Wood, member of the Texas Highway commission, said today he expected the giant Neches river bridge between Port Arthur and Orange to be completed according to original specifications notwithstanding that the best bid on the superstructure was more than $200,000 above the estimated cost.

The Taylor-Fletcher Steel Construction company of New York submitted the low bid of $4,593,500.

"I feel sure that the contract will be awarded," Wood said. "The substructure is being built, and we can't quit now. The overrun was caused by recent advances in the price of steel. We will find the money somewhere."

The project is a joint undertaking by the commission, the Public Works administration and Jefferson county.

Low bidders had been determined also on three interstate bridges over the Sabine river. These would be at Burr's Ferry between Jasper, Texas, and Leesville, La.; at the Pendleton Ferry between Sabine Parish, Louisiana, and Sabine County, Texas, and between

HOOVER WAVES FAREWELL IN LATEST TALK

EMOTIONS STIRRED AT CONVENTION AS HE SPEAKS

BY BYRON PRICE, Associated Press Staff Writer.

CLEVELAND, June 11 (AP)—Strange and unfathomable must have been the reflections stirred within the breasts of the republican delegates last night by Mr. Hoover's fleeting return to political glory.

Many men, in one, stood at that moment under the convention's glaring spotlight. The 1920 Hoover, who once seemed almost persuaded to take the democratic presidential nomination which might have been his for the asking. The 1924 Hoover, a republican cabinet official. The 1928 Hoover, a first-ballot nominee on his way to overwhelming victory. The 1932 Hoover, bowed by adversity, destined for crushing defeat.

The "old Hoover." The "new Hoover." The aloof and unapproachable Hoover. The entertaining Hoover, most charming of companions beside an open fire. The engineer, the hero of Belgian relief, the guardian of his nation's food supply in wartime. The amateur in politics. The polished political orator. Herbert Hoover.

Of what Hoover were individual delegates thinking when he stepped into that circle of blinding light to speak a valedictory to party leadership? There can be no question that many saw him from many angles, and not a few wondered whether they ever really had known or understood him.

The invitation to him to speak, extended by the national committee, raised many questionings. Landon delegates, uncertain of his feeling toward their candidate, wondered what would come of it. The friends of Senator Borah, knowing well of the rift between Borah and Hoover, asked if some ulterior purpose lay behind the invitation. Even some of his own friends pondered whether it was wise for him to come.

Yet the welcome given him by the convention was unstinted and unquestioning, and it appeared that he went away leaving convention matters about as he found them. Any man, anywhere might have been proud of such a welcome, and Mr. Hoover did not attempt to conceal his pride. Plainly he warmed his heart again, after the long interval since he was a popular president, the center of cheering crowds wherever he went.

It is not likely, however, that he was deceived by last night's shouting and acclaim. He knew full well that the party was turning to new leadership. He had seen many a patriarch paid such a tribute before—in the days of his ascendancy, and to the good fight he had fought.

Mr. Hoover must have felt definitely that he was standing at one more momentous milestone. Whether he ever had any hope of renomination—and there is much dispute about that—he must have realized that here in Cleveland he was leaving behind the last visible possibility of such an event at the hands of his party; by 1940 he will be, according to the customary rule, too old to run for President.

Something of all this was evidenced in his words, his tone, his manner. He was saying goodbye to many things which had been dear to him in the past. And the convention, sensing that, made it all as easy and as pleasant for him as it could.

HOOVER FLAYS 'STARRY-EYED' DEMO LEADERS

'SHEER OPPORTUNISM' EX-PRESIDENT DECLARES

CLEVELAND, June 11. (AP)—Herbert Hoover sped toward New York today as the friends and admirers who cheered him last night voiced superlative praise of his speech calling on the republican party "to enter into a holy crusade for liberty."

Hoover won a half hour's ovation at the republican national convention when he assailed the new deal as a "muddle of a spoils system" and "reckless adventure."

Shouts and cheers, including some cries of "we want Hoover," rang through the hall after delegates had listened to his assertion that without the intervention of the Supreme Court "we would have been a regimented people."

Under a blaze of lights, and with his address often punctuated by applause and cheering, Hoover arrayed what he said was "evidence that the new deal is a definite attempt to replace the American system of Freedom with some sort of European planned existence."

Hoover said the new deal appeared to some people as "sheer opportunism, that it is a muddle of a spoils system, of emotional economics, of reckless adventure, of unctuous claims to a monopoly of human sympathy, of greed of power, or a desire for popular acclaim and an aspiration to make the front pages of the newspapers."

"To other people," he continued, "it appeared to be a cold-blooded attempt by starry-eyed boys to infect the American people by a mixture of European ideas, flavored with our native predilection to get something for nothing."

Moreover, he said "where we examine the speeches of Tugwell, Wallace, Ickes and others, we see little indications of repentance."

He said the new deal had hit upon the "striking solution that the way out is to produce less and to increase prices so the people can buy less."

While we concentrated most of his efforts in an attack upon the national administration, he pointed a way in which he thought the republican party might lead the nation.

"The immediate task," he said, "is to set the country on the road of genuine recovery from the paths of instability. We have enough inventions and enough accumulated needs to start the physical rebuilding of America."

"The day the republican party can assure right principles we can turn this nation from the demoralization of relief to the contentment of constructive jobs."

SHREVEPORT, La., June 11 (AP)—United Confederate Veterans prepared here today to elect officers for the coming year.

Sons of Confederate veterans, meeting in joint reunion with their elders, also prepared to select heads to guide their organization through the next 12 months. Remnants of Forrest's cavalry planned to ride horseback in the reunion parade tomorrow. The 10 or 12 veterans of the troop left alive said they would meet later today and select officers.

Paul Roy, secretary of the Pennsylvania commission for the joint reunion of the "Blue and Gray" presented a message from his governor inviting Confederates to the convention.

He presented General Harry Rene Lee, commander-in-chief of the Confederates, a gavel made of wood from the field of Gettysburg. In the gavel a bullet was imbedded.

Memorial services were planned for today.

CAPITOL JIGSAW

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL

AUSTIN, June 11 (AP)—Retirement of Senator Tom Deberry of Bogata from public office breaks a three-way tie for seniority of service in the legislature.

Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston, Rep. E. D. Dunlap of Kingsville and Deberry each have served 14 years.

Deberry was a member of the House of Representatives six years before moving to the Senate. Rep. A. M. Alkin, Jr. of Paris and R. H. Good of Cooper are running for the seat Deberry will vacate in January.

Captain J. D. Moffatt of the drivers' license bureau received a letter from an irate husband in South Texas who had "taken up" his wife's permit and forwarded it with a request that it be cancelled promptly.

The angry man alleged his spouse not only was a poor driver, but was reckless and frequently sought to pilot her car while "tipsy."

The license was returned with an explanation it could not be revoked unless formal charges were filed.

Capital police have declared war on posters of political posters with a notice than an ordinance against plastering pictures of candidates and other campaign propaganda on public property would be enforced strictly.

The situation is complicated somewhat by the presence of the University of Texas, where politics breaks out like a rash at unexpected moments and its effects sometimes overflow on the outside public.

The police have announced posters on public property will be removed summarily, that sound devices must conform as to prescribed hours and licenses and that political advertising generally must come within the limits of the law.

The Railroad commission has said repeatedly it has no fear that Louisiana will fail to cooperate in regulating oil production from the new Rodessa field.

Chairman Ernest O. Thompson has called attention unofficially to the fact that Louisiana has a new governor and legislature and "time necessarily must elapse before they can talk regulation with anyone."

"Their situation would be similar to ours if a new governor and legislature had taken office and there wasn't even a conservation law in Texas," Thompson said.

Not a few laughs were heard in capital corridors when at the last minute a Houston man filed as a candidate for the attorney general's office in opposition to William McCraw, seeking re-election.

McCraw's friends had anxiously watched as the June 1 deadline for filing drew near, hoping he would be one of the short list of unopposed candidates.

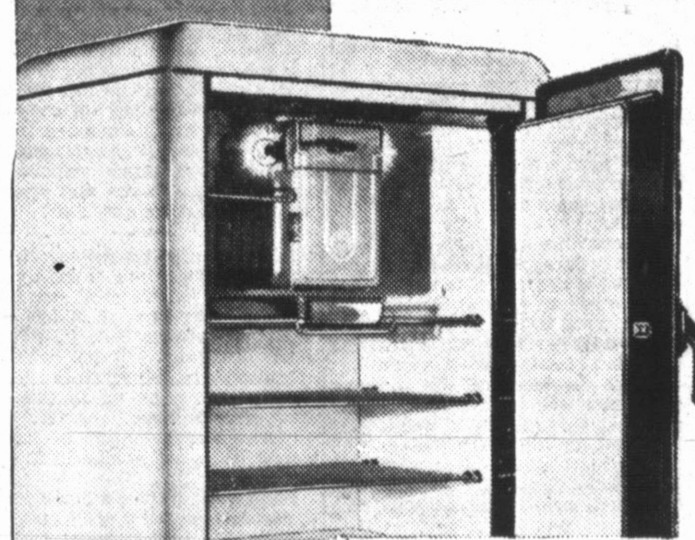

John O. Douglas threw his hat in the ring virtually as the bell rang, but the state executive committee promptly tossed it out again, ruling the attorney had not complied with filing requirements.

THOMAS TO RESIGN LONDON, June 11. (AP)—James H. Thomas, the former colonial secretary who was forced from the British cabinet by the celebrated "budget leak" scandal, told the House of Commons today he would resign from parliament at once. For the fifth time he denied he wilfully had disclosed any secret of the government budget.

F. O. CONTRACT AWARDED WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—The contract for construction of the post office at Big Spring, Texas, was awarded by the treasury today to Templeton-Cannon of San Angelo, Texas, on a bid of $90,250. The firm was allowed 240 calendar days to do the work.

BY GEORGE TUCKER. NEW YORK—There's one church in New York where nobody ever says a word and where not even the tones of the organ can be heard as the congregation joins in hymns.

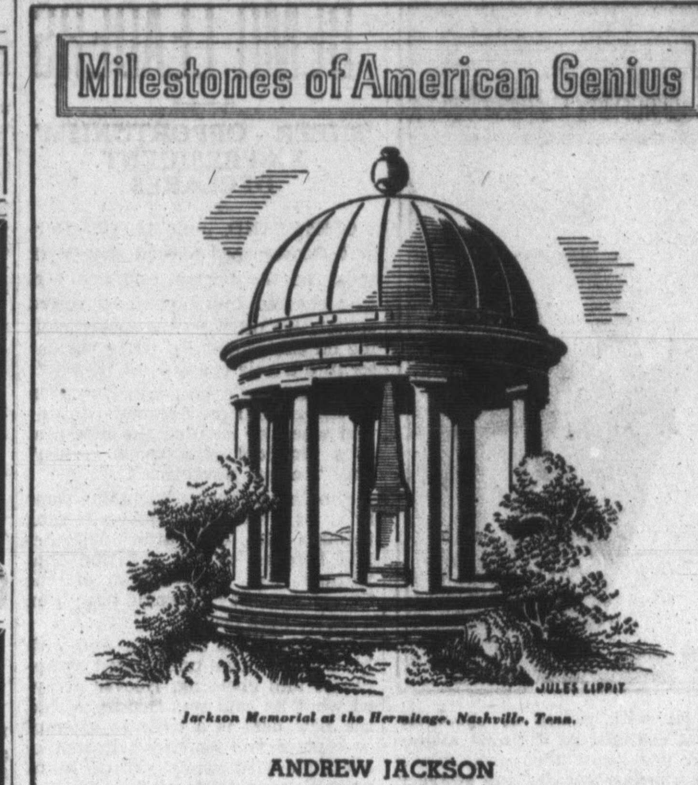

In fact, you can't hear the hymns not even if you sit in a front pew. This is St. Ann's Episcopal church for Deaf Mutes, and it is where some 500 worshippers go each Sunday for divine services.

Not only is St. Ann's a thriving Christian institution—it maintains missions in most of the outlying and suburban communities. They say that this church is wondrously equipped for social activities as well as the more serious joys of Christian teaching. It has spacious and completely modernized kitchens, club rooms, a print shop, and even a "lily theater" with 100 seats that is adequately supplied with the necessary properties for the presentation of plays.

The Rector at St. Ann's is the Rev. Guilbert C. Bradlock, who, like his followers, can neither speak nor hear.

The services in this Manhattan Temple of Science are all conducted by sign language. Prayers are by sign as well as the singing, the congregation taking its cue from the Rector.

"I'm told that St. Ann's is one of three such temples maintained by the Episcopal church. One is the famous All Souls Church for Deaf Mutes in Philadelphia. The other is in Chicago. You'll find the New York one at 511 West 148th Street. And in its recesses a symbolic painting of Christ healing "the one who was deaf." This is the central panel of the reredos and shows the Master standing before the kneeling figure of the afflicted one.

Milestones of American Genius ANDREW JACKSON

WHEN the rough-hewn, outspoken Andrew Jackson became the seventh President of our country, he represented a new phase in American life. He marked the coming of age of American democracy. His six predecessors in the nation's highest office had come from homes of culture and comfort. Jackson's life, on the contrary, had been one of poverty, hardships and self-education.

Deprived of the opportunity for formal education, Jackson nevertheless prepared himself painstakingly for the law and at twenty-one he was public prosecutor of the Western District of North Carolina, which is now Tennessee. His fearless championship of the common folk and his natural talents as an orator and leader enabled him to rise politically.

His role in the War of 1812, when he became the Hero of New Orleans, gave an additional impetus to his meteoric career. The whole West feted and honored him with the political preference that ultimately made him President, in 1828. He remained at the post for two terms.

President Jackson spent his last years at The Hermitage, the beautiful home he built in Nashville. The mausoleum in the sketch above is one that he erected himself for his wife. He joined her there after his death on June 8, 1845.

The impressive memorial stands in the garden of The Hermitage, which has been turned over by his heirs to the State of Tennessee as a national shrine. In the story of American democracy it represents a most significant milestone.

lions lurking in the alley, waiting to slip in with a forged check. Hal Kemp is authority for the statement that banks now keep a record of famous signatures. If the teller is handed a check bearing the name of a celebrated star, and if he has reason to doubt the authenticity of the signature, he furiously compares it with a copy of the real signature on file.

And if they don't coincide, he presses a little button and presently people are asking questions.

An authentic throw-back to the horse and buggy era is the old Ben Hur stable, which still has horses and mules for hire. But, like practically everything else, it, too, has gone Broadway. That's why any afternoon you may run into a couple of nags being led up to the stage door of a Broadway theater. They are rented to managers of theaters where horses are needed in the productions.

It costs $10 to hire a horse for one appearance on the stage, which, with six evening performances and two matinees weekly, runs his "salary" up to $60.

Sometimes, when the theatrical season is at its height, it isn't unusual for one nag to appear in two plays on the same afternoon. A special groom pilots the pony from one theater to the other.

Boy Shoots Self After Leaving His Mother's Bedside CROSS PLAINS, June 11 (AP)—Ten minutes after he arose from a three-day vigil at the bedside of his mother, Robert E. Howard, a young author, was found wounded today in his automobile, a pistol bullet in his brain.

Physicians said he had no chance of recovering.

The young writer asked a nurse if there was hope of his mother again recognizing him. She replied in the negative. He left the house and the nurse later heard a shot.

Howard attended college in Brownwood. He wrote fiction for detective and cowboy magazines.

LeFors Enters Team in Junior Baseball League

LeFors, through R. W. McDonald, proprietor of Mc'S boiler shop welding, entered a team today in the Junior baseball league.

The new team will play the Magnolia Peewees at Magnolia diamond, Sunday, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. The Peewees had been matched against Canadian's Cubs, but the game was cancelled when league officials were unable to learn whether the Cubs who have not been active for more than a month would be able to play.

Phillips will go to Hoover in a second game. Mr. McDonald who will coach and manage the team reported that his boys are rather large for their age. Six are 16 years old, one is 15 and three are 17.

though Landon had asked for its reinstatement.

John Hamilton, the energetic Landon manager, smilingly declined to talk about the vice presidential nomination.

The principal talk heard was Knox. His long-time friend and fellow newspaperman in youth, Vandenberg, remarked to reporters he "rather" thought Knox should be chosen.

Borah was understood to feel an obligation to the delegates pledged to him from Wisconsin and a few other states.

Some friends of Borah said they expected him to abide by the wishes of his delegates.

Former convention proceedings were delayed while the platform committee worked to meet Landon's views on some essential planks.

He was understood to be insistent on changes in the draft which he considered overnight. Details were not available; but the question of advocating an amendment to the constitution for minimum wage legislation was one understood to be causing trouble.

While the "favorite son" candidates were withdrawing, their states soon were joined by delegates from uninstructed southern states, Florida, in caucus, was the first to line up with the runner.

Every effort to line up the party solidly was being made by the leaders.

There was still chance for dispute, however, when the monetary and other major planks in the platform reached debate late in the day.

ed by the subcommittee last night had delayed presentation of the party program to the convention today. It was expected to reach the convention floor tonight.

Some of the platform rewriting asked by Landon was said by committee members to be chiefly a matter of phraseology, but among the significant demands were:

Inclusion of a platform pledging civil service status for all government employes below the rank of cabinet.

Re-instatement of a plank for control of interstate public utilities.

Revision of a plank condemning the new deal's reciprocal tariff law, and demanding that trade treaties be ratified by the senate.

A Landon demand for a "pay as you go" tax program to finance social security was accepted finally by the subcommittee after once being rejected.

As it was emerged from the subcommittee, the platform came close to conforming to the demands of Senator Borah of Idaho. Landon managers said it was near enough to the senator's views to win his support for the ticket in November. Borah refused comment on this claim.

No changes were made by the subcommittee in major platform provisions, including the following:

"A monetary plank calling for 'sound money,' but omitting mention of the 'gold standard.'"

A foreign affairs plank, pledging opposition to American membership in the League of Nations and the world court.

An anti-monopoly pledge strong enough to win the approval of Borah, who made it his chief campaign issue.

A farm plank stressing state's rights.

A strong state's rights trend ran through the entire platform. It was stressed in the social security, farm and unemployment relief planks.

William Allen White, Landon's representative on the platform subcommittee, said he would carry the battle for the minimum wage amendment to the full committee.

There was, however, no minority report from the subcommittee.

A meeting of the full committee, scheduled for this morning, was postponed until afternoon. Indications were that several hours would be needed for consideration of the subcommittee's report, before it would be ready for the convention floor.

Committee members said although Landon's desires on the minimum wage amendment were ignored by the subcommittee, some other changes asked by the Kansas governor were made.

One was restoration of a plank declaring for control of interstate public utilities.

Asks Revision

Landon also asked for revisions in planks dealing with the civil service, social security and the tariff. He demanded a "pay as you go" tax plan to finance social security, but this was meeting with opposition in the subcommittee.

Finance Minister John Thomas of Idaho, Borah spokesman on the subcommittee, left the meeting at 11

J. EVETT'S HALEY'S new book on Charles Goodnight is an example of the kind of writing that lives. It is about a man worthy of a book, personally and through his achievements on the plains. Goodnight was a pioneer in the broader sense. He would have been a leader in an older section. It is a book, too, written by a man who understood his subject and the time and conditions in which that subject lived. Haley is a West Texas cow man as well as a historian. His eloquence has been striking since early college days. His wit is matched only by his intense earnestness. . . It would be well if books were written only on so worthy a subject, by so worthy an author. . . And it is fully and vitally a book of this area. It was compiled over more than a decade, well pondered. It has a Pampa-flavor, as well it might, since a number of Pampans supplied some of the background.

MARKET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, June 11. (AP)—Late buying of steel shares gave added momentum to a rising stock market today and helped stiffen the list for gains of fractions to 2 or more points.

Industrial equities were quiet throughout the session as quiet bullish enthusiasm was generated by sharp gains in farm issues. The close was firm. Turnover totaled about 900,000 shares.

At the reception were several persons prominent in state affairs. Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Walker Woodul, Mrs. Alford, and several members of the governor's staff of colonels greeted the party.

State and city police, soldiers, naval reserves, national guardsmen, firemen and secret service agents surrounded the official party as it passed through the city. Guards were stationed every few feet along the route of the parade.

Coast guard ships and national guard planes were on duty at the water front. Another army of guards was stationed at the battle ground.

No disorder was reported.

Governor Alford boarded the train at Texarkana and planned to continue with the party to San Antonio, Austin, Dallas, and Fort Worth.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 11. (AP)—Late upswings of wheat values today much more than overcame previous setbacks.

Bullish behavior of spring wheat markets, Minneapolis and Winnipeg, served as a basis for buying here as the day drew to an end. This tended to discount optimistic reports of domestic winter wheat yields.

Wheat closed firm, 1/4-3/4 above yesterday's finish. July 84-85 1/2, Sept. 85 1/2. Corn unchanged to 1/2 higher, July 61 1/2-1/4, oats 1/2 off to 1/4 up, and provisions 2 cents to 12 cents advanced.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief Of Pain Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing. If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages with scanty amount which often smart and burn, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing. FDR 'LIKES TO THINK' OF DEAF SMITH DESTROYING BRIDGE

SIGNIFICANCE OF BATTLE IS TOLD IN TALK

FATHER ONCE VISITED SAM HOUSTON AT WASHINGTON

HOUSTON, June 11. (AP)—The text of President Roosevelt's address at San Jacinto battlefield today:

There are but few spots in the United States which have witnessed events in significance to that which took place at San Jacinto.

Here a century ago was a great frontier of our civilization. On the twenty-first day of April, 1836, General Houston and the small body of less than eight hundred men under his command held in large measure in their keeping the future of our country as it is constituted today.

The patriots whose memories we are honoring today were victorious in the same spirit that fired the colonists of 1776. I like to think of General Houston sending Deaf Smith back to destroy Vince's bridge, over which he had brought his army, so that neither reinforcements nor retreat were a possibility.

Most of these men had come across the Alleghenies from the settlements of Kentucky and Tennessee and Missouri into that vast virgin territory over which our now friendly neighbors, south of the Rio Grande, then held sway.

The spirit of independence lived in the air. Veterans of Concord and Lexington, or Saratoga and Yorktown still lived; the acquisition of the Louisiana territory and the second war for independence were events of recent history and, be it not forgotten, the people of Mexico themselves had won their independence from Spain but fifteen years before.

Oppressed People Rebelled. Venturous spirits were willing to meet the difficulties and dangers that came with carrying the civilization of the east into the further west—the land of unlimited promise. They were willing to comply with all the conditions required by the Mexican government when it gave to Stephen F. Austin permission to settle colonies in Texas and to grant to each settler a tract of land.

They rebelled, however, when their civil liberties were restricted, when trial by jury and public education for their children were taken away; but they did this, I am glad to say, only after a prolonged effort on their part to have Mexico modify its decision had failed. These efforts included two conventions, one in 1824 and one in 1832.

Another trip by Stephen Austin to the Mexican capital to plead the cause of the Texas colonists. I am glad that participating in these conventions and in these pleas were Mexicans living in this territory; the first convention, indeed, Appointee Dr. Manuel Manóla, a Mexican of Goliad, as a delegate to carry its petitions to Saltillo.

And so, when all else failed, the Texas declaration of independence, signed at Washington-on-the-Brazos, March 2, 1836, was as natural and inevitable a consequence as the earlier declaration at Philadelphia on July 4, 1776.

Discouraging Days. Such action could mean nothing short of a resort to arms, and the massacre at Goliad soon followed. Those were discouraging days for the Texans. The army of independence under General Houston could not immediately engage General Santa Anna, with his superiority in numbers and equipment. Delay and retreat were necessary, and Houston's sagacity in biding his time, notwithstanding criticism and opposition in his own camp, was rewarded at last here at San Jacinto. The story of the conflict of this field has often been told. When the day was ended victory was overwhelming—Texas had won.

The vast territory first set up as the Lone Star Republic, and later admitted to the Union as the Lone Star State, has contributed generously in its sons and in its resources to the development of our nation in these hundred years. Sam Jacinto opened another gateway for the westward sweep of the American people across the plains and the mountains to the shores of the Pacific.

It is easy, therefore, to share with you the pride which you take in San Jacinto—to share with you the fine thought of dedicating this field as one of the historic shrines of America.

SQUARE DANCE TO BE GLORIFIED IN FRONTIER CENTENNIAL SHOW

nightgown and nightcap, though it was past the noon hour, lay that splendid old man, who had been governor of Tennessee, liberator of Texas, president of the Republic, governor of Texas and senator from his state. There he was, holding a levee, transacting public and private business, and preparing for the session of the senate, which, in those days, did not commence until the late afternoon. His office and his home was his hotel room. It would seem that the manners and customs of the senators of the United States, like other manners and customs, have undergone a great change.

Cradle of Liberty. This and the eastern part of your great state, through which I came this morning, can truly be called the cradle of Texas liberty. I have been glad to revisit your beautiful city of Houston. Typical of American enterprise, you have brought the commerce of the world through your door by the ship canal through which I have recently passed.

And, to, I have seen a glimpse of the future, for I have in my office at the White House a model of the beautiful memorial you are to erect here as an everlasting reminder of the bravery of Sam Houston and his men.

Men fought here for principles they loved more dearly than their own lives. Liberty-loving people will always do battle for principle they believe to be right. Civilization, alas, has not yet made it unnecessary for men to die in battle to sustain principle. It is, however, my hope that in this generation the United States, by its own example, can maintain and help to maintain principles by means of peace rather than by means of war.

The pioneers and the liberators of Texas, looking down on us today, would, I am certain, say amen to that.

Chief Charley Ludwig, head of the Midget City Police Force at the Texas-Centennial Exposition, has a son over six feet tall.

FDR GIVES VEILED SLAP AT SUPREME COURT IN LITTLE ROCK

CONSTITUTION GOES BEYOND STATE LINES

'COMMON MAN' MUST BE PROTECTED, HE SAYS

ABOARD ROOSEVELT TRAIN ENROUTE TO DALLAS, June 11 (AP)—President Roosevelt rode into Texas today, pledged to continue of his efforts to solve economic and social problems under the "broad purposes" of the constitution.

The chief executive gave this message to the nation last night in Arkansas just before resuming a 4,000-mile western tour that called for brief addresses today in Houston, San Antonio and Austin.

Tomorrow morning at Dallas, the hub of Texas' celebration of its centennial of independence from Mexico, the chief executive will deliver the second set speech of his trip.

The third will be made at Vincennes, Ind., Sunday morning in dedicating memorial to George Rogers Clark, Revolutionary war hero of the Northwest.

Addressing an open air Arkansas centennial throng at Little Rock late yesterday, the President declared the constitution of the government extends beyond state lines and added:

"Under its broad purposes we can and intend to march forward, believing as the overwhelming majority of Americans believe, that it is intended to meet and fit the amazing physical, economic and social requirements that confront us this generation."

Declaring the "common man" must be protected from the "privileged few," he asserted the nation was "commencing to solve" the questions relating to prices, wages, hours of labor, conditions of employment.

"The new approach to these problems may not be immediately discernible; but organization to meet human suffering can never be predicated on the relaxation of human effort."

The crowd which overflowed the 30,000-seat Centennial stadium on the outskirts of Little Rock, cheered his statement that if local or state governments were unable to improve the economic position of their inhabitants "it would take a foolish and short-sighted man to say that it is no concern of the national government itself."

The President's first speech today was at San Jacinto battle-field, which he was to reach by boat after arriving at Houston.

He arranged to dedicate a monument being erected there to General Sam Houston, who in April, 1836, with less than 800 men captured the Mexican Dictator Santa Anna and paved the way for establishment of the Texas Republic.

Late in the day his schedule took him to San Antonio to place a wreath at the Alamo where two months before San Jacinto, Travis, Bowie and Crockett, with 178 men, died in the cause of Texas independence.

Fourth Trial of Richardson Will Be Held in June

VERNON, June 11. (AP)—The fourth trial of Charles B. Richardson, former mayor of Olney who is charged with murder in the death of his son, George, Jan. 1, 1924, at Olney, is included in the cases to be tried here during the June term of Forty-sixth District Court here.

In three previous trials, Richardson has been assessed a life term and sentences of 99 years and 10 years. The first trial was at Graham and the last two here. The three sentences were revoked, the last on April 8 last by the Court of Criminal Appeals.

WIRES SAVE LIFE
DIMITT, June 11. (AP)—Telephone wires and muddy ground are credited with saving the life of J. W. (Bill) Easter. Easter tumbled 24 feet from a windmill tower. The telephone wires broke his descent and he fell into the mud. He received only a slight fracture.

17-YEAR LOCUST IS EMERGING FOR ANOTHER FORAY IN U. S.

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 11.—In twenty-four States of the Union the 17-year locust is emerging. This creature, which is not a locust at all, but a cicada, has attracted the study of scientists for many years and has excited the superstition of many people. Years of observation have resulted in a fairly accurate charting of the appearances of the broods, making possible forecasts of the time and place of emergence.

With remarkable regularity, the broods appear at 17-year intervals. This year will see a widespread emergence covering most of the country to the Mississippi Valley but not extending farther to the westward. The Pacific Coast and the intermountain region will not be visited. There also is another brood which comes in a cycle but this one is not so numerous or important as the 17-year species.

This insect has been in the world a long time and has been the subject of many disquisitions, the most fascinating of which has an inaccurate Biblical background. It will be remembered that in the days of the Pharaohs there were plagues of locusts in Egypt which the Israelites interpreted as a judgment upon evil-doers. The facts that, on the wings of these creatures, are certain veins having a deeper pigmentation than the surrounding veins, and that these veins make a perfect letter W has caused some millions of people to believe that the W stands for war. If the coming of the cicadas does not foretell war between nations it does, so the bible runs, tell of the war which the locusts themselves make up on herbage, great and small.

As a matter of fact the damage the cicadas do is relatively slight. It is not to be compared with the damage done by the Japanese beetle, the gypsy moth, the Mediterranean fruit fly, or the boll weevil. Yet it can puncture fruit in such a way that it opens an avenue for diseases to enter and it has been known to kill young and weak fruit trees. This, however, is the exception. The regular appearance of the insect drapes it in an aura of superstition, enhanced by the curious nature of its wing markings. Second, there is something astounding about the sudden, overnight emergence of the creatures by the millions.

Life History Told
The Bureau of Entomology can tell the story in an authoritative and eloquent manner. It says: "Periodically the cicada appears suddenly during the last week in May in the northern states and during the last week in April or the first week in May in the South. The ground over limited areas is riddled with emergence holes from which the awkward, crayfish-like pupae emerge. Emergence usually takes place in the night and, in the morning, vast numbers of empty pupal cases are found on tree trunks, twigs, leaves, and almost every other available support. Shortly after the pupae emerge and its ground, the pupal case splits along the middle of the back and the adult works itself out. When it first emerges the adult is a small, bizarre-looking animal, being milky white with bright red eyes; it soon hardens, however, and assumes more sombre coloring."

City dwellers do not have so close an acquaintance with 17-year locusts as rural and pastoral folks, although they do invade suburbs. The forecast for the national capital was that they would appear in Brightwood, Chevy Chase, Georgetown, Piney Branch, Rock Creek Park, and Soldiers' Home—all near urban or suburban of Washington, and within the District of Columbia. Here is how the Bureau figured: The 17-year cicadas appeared in 1919—a period of exactly 17 years. Seventeen years have passed since 1919, so here they are again. Similarly, the 1936 appearances have been charted for all other sections.

A Fascinating Mystery
One of the reasons these creatures have been identified with the Egyptian plagues is that the first observation of them in North America was made by the Pilgrim Fathers in the Massachusetts Bay Colony. The insect does not visit England. These colonies were entirely unfamiliar with it, as something within their own native experience, but they were, as we all know, intensely familiar with the Scriptures. It was no more than natural that they should identify the sudden appearance of the cicadas with the Egyptian plagues. Had they consulted King Philip or any other Indians of New England they would have learned that the cicadas were well known in America long before Columbus left his card.

The earliest known publication which refers to the cicadas was not published until 1666, but reference was made to the locust emergence at Plymouth in 1634. It will be noted that the Pilgrims had, by a relatively short time, missed the prior emergence. They landed in 1620 and 1634 marked only the passage of 14 years. Three years before the Landing of the Pilgrims, the bleak and rockbound coast had unquestionably seen the same plague.

The presence, the regular periodic appearance of these insects, constitutes one of the fascinating mysteries of the world. They are not like grasshoppers which mow down fields of grain and do tremendous damage. They do not sting. They are harmless. They might be compared to an idea which, periodically, takes form, quivers with life for a brief space, and then passes into 17 years of forgetfulness—only to be renewed.

Rural folk suffer their worst ills from the cicadas because of their songs rather than their damage to plant growth. The females are lady-like and silent but the males snore off incessantly with two kinds of songs. There is, first, the unison in which a forest full of the cicadas joins. It is described by R. E. Snodgrass of the Smithsonian Institution as a burring sound, "the continuous hum of the multitudes." Snodgrass says that in all his investigations he never heard one cicada sing this song as a solo. The cicada solo is a different number. It is called the naturalists the Pharaoh song. It lasts five seconds and then after the high trills, ends on a falling and satisfactory note.

The life cycle of the periodical cicada is a short one. For the 17 years its inert ancestor remains in the ground, it has about 17 days on the earth's surface, the time being prolonged to as much as six weeks if the individual is lucky for the insect seems destined to what man would consider a violent death. The millions of them are exterminated by birds. The incidence of the cicadas is surprisingly local. While they will appear in a great many places in certain years, the colonies occupy but a few acres. There will be emergences only a few miles apart but each group will be a complete one. This means that the birds can come winging from wherever they are and descend on one group after another, obliterating them.

The Egyptians worshipped the beetle as a god and called him Ra, the all-powerful. This was a recognition of the fact that the patient insect can do enormous damage by its indefatigable efforts and its myriad numbers. There is a theory held by some philosophers that the destiny of mankind is destruction—not through wars of men's own making, not through the depredations of the greater

TEXANS GIVE HOOVER SPEECH DEMONSTRATION

November Election Day Plans Are Being Made

By DONALD A. YOUNG
Associated Press Staff Writer
CLEVELAND, June 11 (AP)—

Freshly-revived memories of 1928 stimulated Texas Republican today to new plans for this year's presidential campaign.

Inspired by a demonstration for Herbert Hoover, and his scathing attack on the new deal, Texas leaders commenced planning for next November's election day. Their campaign, they said, would begin as soon as they get back home from the Republican convention here.

Texas were in the midst of the Hoover parade and cheering. Almost as soon as the demonstration began Hugh E. Zuerch of Amarillo, the Texas standard and fought his way close to the speakers' platform.

When the former president, who carried Texas in 1928 had finished, the Texans stood on their chairs, shouted and waved their hats. E. B. Creager, national committeeman, Mrs. Lena Gay More, national committeewoman, and Carlos Watson of Brownsville, vice-chairman of the Texas Young Republican clubs, were among those joining in plans for the campaign.

Creager said the party's success in the general elections depended on the magnitude of a potential coalition with disgruntled democrats. Watson planned to organize hundreds of Landon-for-President clubs from El Paso to Texas. Mrs. More said she would be nominated. Mrs. More said she thought much of the campaign depended on the extent to which activities of women's organizations could be revived.

"It all depends on a crystallization of sentiment by the Democrats," Creager said. "We're not going to stick our necks out without them because there's no sense in wasting $150,000 to $200,000. The sentiment is there all right but unless it makes itself tremorously felt, we're fanning the air."

"What we need is a coalition such as we had in 1928."

WHAT FOREIGN TRADE MEANS

The United States News says that "lost foreign trade of the United States would have paid the federal relief bills." The observation is startling, and of value only when placed in the proper setting.

One might gather that loss of foreign trade was something preventable, and that the necessity of relief hastened the decline of foreign trade. But much of our post-war trade with other countries was based on foreign loans. There had to be an end to these loans, which in many instances transferred goods, not money, to other countries.

In 1934, value of exports of United States products to foreign countries was more than $3,300,000,000 under the record 1929 level—and the federal government spent over $2,300,000,000 on relief. In 1935, the relief bill was $3,188,000,000—and the loss in foreign trade from the 1929 figure was $3,252,000,000. Estimates hold that this year our foreign trade loss as compared with the greatest of the boom years will be about $3,000,000,000—almost precisely what the U. S. Treasury is going to pay out in relief.

Thus, for the three-year period, our lost foreign trade totals approximately $10,000,000,000—and relief cost the taxpayers of the country around $3,500,000,000 in the same period. Had we been able to keep foreign trade on the 1929 level during depression, we could have paid the entire cost of federal relief out of the receipts, and had the neat sum of a billion-and-a-half left over for other purposes.

Of course, nothing could have enabled us to maintain our trade at that level—the world-wide depression, coupled with general uncertainty in Europe, currency wars and fluctuations and other monetary disturbances, tariffs and embargoes, were responsible for most of the loss. The domestic AAA program is believed by some to have been a factor in reducing agricultural exports; officials of the AAA say that we couldn't have found markets for our surplus even if crop reductions had never been put into effect. But it is a fact that the welfare of a number of big industries, and a vast amount of employment, hinge on foreign trade.

In the latest years for which complete figures are available, Department of Commerce tabulations show that this country has sent abroad half of the cotton crop, two-thirds of all refined copper, one-third of farm machinery and lubricating oils, 40 per cent of air crafts, and a little less than 20 per cent of radios. These items are simply samples.

If, tomorrow, all our existing foreign markets were suddenly closed to us, industry and agriculture would be plunged into havoc. Assistant Secretary of State Sayre has published a booklet on just what foreign trade means to the farmer and worker—and the conclusions drawn are thought-provoking in the extreme. According to this authority, loss of our foreign markets would mean that we would have to retire almost 9,000,000 acres of wheat land, 23,000,000 acres of cotton land, 655,000 acres of tobacco land, more than 9,000,000 acres of corn land used for raising hogs, and 7,000,000 acres of land used for grazing hoes which work the other land. The total comes to over 40,000,000 acres which today support 3,200,000 people.

An even bigger problem, Secretary Sayre points out, exists in the industrial field. Conservative estimates place the industrial population directly dependent upon exports at 7,500,000. Add this to the farm population also depending on foreign buying, and you have close to 11,000,000 people whose economic security hinges on foreign trade.

Anyone with a workable answer to the question of how foreign trade may be increased, would certainly be a national benefactor—unfortunately, no one has the answer, and experts differ greatly in their theories. Certain things are obvious, however—such as the problem of tariffs, and the eternal question of how American workers are to be protected from cheap-labor foreign competition. The state department, under Secretary Hull, has sought to increase foreign business through reciprocal trade agreements with a number of powers, of which Canada is the most important, and some progress has been made. But it's still a tough situation.

The United States News points out something that is not generally realized—that imports as well as exports create jobs in this country. Many imported materials must be processed or serviced. All of them must be transported and distributed. This requires labor, and a lot of it. But Americans are so versatile, our resources are so varied that almost any imported thing is likely to displace some labor. The surest conclusion is that smart economic planning, both nationally and internationally, can alone tend to prevent, or at least to make less frequent, the cycles of depression which in recent years have been harassing to millions.

PIRATES AND CUBS LOOM AS BOYS TO BE PAIN IN NECK TO CARDINALS

DODGERS LOSE FOURTH GAME TO PITTSBURGH

CHICAGO TAKES THIRD IN ROW FROM THE PHILLIES

BY SID FEDER, Associated Press Sports Writer.

Any way you look at it, the bucking Bucs from Pittsburgh and the champion Cubs of Chicago seem to be the boys to supply whatever headaches come to Mr. Frankie Frisch and his St. Louis Cardinals in the current National League race.

The Pirates drubbed the Dodgers 6-3 yesterday for a clean sweep in their four-game series, and the Cubs took their third in a row from the Phillies, 4-3, in a major league program that found the weatherman getting most of the laughs by raining out half of the scheduled bill in each loop.

Their victories, along with the surprise walkout of Van Lingle Mungo, the Dodgers' number one speedball pitcher, from the Brooklyn temporary camp in Pittsburgh, featured the shortened program, in which Cleveland's 10-2 triumph over the Senators, and the Boston Red Sox' 4-3 win over Detroit, furnished the only other competition.

Although Mungo left the Dodgers without giving a reason, the talk popped up again that he isn't keen about the support of his teammates this year, and that he's still down in the mouth over the failure of recent trade winds which might have blown him across the river to the Giants.

And the Giants could use him most handily, for a pitching collapse, particularly on their part, by Clyde Claxton, and, of late, Harry Gumbert, has been largely responsible for the New Yorkers' skid.

Although they were rained out at Cincinnati yesterday, they slid from a second place tie all the way down to fourth place in the upward rush of the Pirates and Cubs.

Close scores featured games in the Pampa Playground ball league Tuesday afternoon as wins were chalked up by the Baptists, Texas company, Coltexo, Voss Cleaners, and Skelly Oil.

Skelly Oil, leading the league, was forced to go an extra inning before winning from Phillips, 11 to 10. Both Skelly pitchers, Mayo and Hayes, were hit hard. Dewey, Phillips hurler, was also liberal with base hits. On Monday night, Skelly had to go 12 innings to defeat Phillips of Berger in an exhibition game.

A home run by "Red" Weathered in the last inning gave Voss Cleaners an 8 to 7 win over Cities Service in a well played game. Morrison hurried for the winners, with Sheridan behind the bat. Halbig and Word was the battery for Cities Service.

Three errors were sufficient to defeat King Oil, 9 to 4. The batter, Stancil pitched the full game for Texas company with Atkinson and Covington dividing the receiving duties. McDaniel and Wagner performed for King Oil with McDaniel pitching winning ball although being charged with a loss. Coltexo took a 9 to 4 game from the Christians behind Phillip's pitching. Holt was behind the bat. McNairy went the distance for the churchmen.

The Methodists lost a 9 to 4 tussle to their fellow churchmen, the Baptists, who used two pitchers, Martin and Bennett and two catchers, McWright and Glazebrook. Shackelford and Dedman were on the mound for the losers, with Carley receiving.

The league standing, including games played Tuesday, is:

Only Longhorn Netters Remain In Waco Tourney

WACO, June 11 (AP)—It was an all-University of Texas affair today in the semi-finals of the Texas state tennis tournament here.

The four netters who emerged winners in yesterday's rounds wear the orange and white of the state university, three of them members of the Southwest conference championship team and the other a freshman.

Today's matches bring together Bobby Kamrath, Austin, the first-year student, and Gordon Pease, ace from San Antonio and victor over Doc Barr of Dallas and Lindsay Franklin, Texas company, and Edcoe Weller, Franklin is from Topeka, Kas., and Weller hails from Austin. Kamrath went into the semi-finals on the toss of a coin. He and Carl Smalley, Palestine, were forced to hold their battle in the third set with the score knotted at nine games each. They decided to toss a coin and Kamrath won.

Franklin disposed of Billy Byrd, San Antonio, 6-1, 5-7, 8-6, and Weller defeated Paschal Walthall, San Antonio sharpshooter, 6-4, 6-9. In the junior singles division Edcoe Brown, Waco, reversed the dope and defeated Maurice Fincher, Abilene, finalist in the state high school tournament, 6-3, 6-4.

Mungo Wants To Be Traded and Treated Right

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—Van Lingle Mungo, star Brooklyn pitcher who went on strike yesterday and quit the Dodgers cold in Pittsburgh said today he would not don a Dodger uniform again "unless they treat me right."

"I haven't been getting the right kind of support from the team or the proper treatment from the club, and the truth of the matter is I want to be traded," he said.

When Mungo failed to report to the Dodger dressing room at Forbes field, Pittsburgh, yesterday, John Gorman, business manager of the club, indicated Mungo would be fined or suspended, or both.

"I'm not fussy about which team I'm traded to. The New York Giants? That's a good club. I would not mind playing for it."

4 'NATURALS' FEATURE PLAY IN GOLF MEET

GOLDMAN ELIMINATED FROM TOURNEY IN OUST

SAN ANTONIO, June 11 (AP)—Four "naturals" featured matches paired today in the first flight of championship play for the Texas Gold association's 30th annual title.

A field of nearly 100 simmered to 32 through qualifying round eliminations which ejected David (Spec) Goldman, veteran Dallas tournament player, as a major upset and numerous others who had ranked well in pre-tournament appraisals.

Par 72 on the San Antonio Country club links was insurmountable for all but three of the aspirants for the crown won last year by Harry Todd of Dallas.

W. R. Long, Jr., the Austin banker who plays golf only on week-ends, sparked with a subpar 70 to cop the medalist honor. He trimmed par three strokes on the front nine but went one over on the back stretch.

Pairings pitted him against one of San Antonio's offerings to uphold the prowess of public linksman, Jack Thurmond, who qualified with three strokes on the second round. Thurmond, however, was out of the match between the medalist and the up and coming muncy ace.

Another of the "naturals" was the test between Don Schumacher of Dallas and his fellow townsmen, Jimmy McGonigill. Tired from a hard motor trip from the National Open with Todd, McGonigill spent 76 strokes with a pair of 38's to qualify. His tally was just one under that which forced eight players into a swiftest to choose six for the top flight.

With new shoes pinching pain into his feet, Schumacher cleared 18 holes to qualify at even par 72.

West Texas' bid for the title, Morris Norton of Wichita Falls, tiltist in that region, drew the colorful San Antonio clubber, Lieut. Ken Rogers, Bernard Shriver of Dallas, was paired with Leland Hamman of Paris, who was forced to the swiftest to qualify.

Reynolds Smith of Dallas, Walker cupper and one of the three subpar players, drew Elaine McNutt of El Paso. Jack Cameron, youthful shotmaker from Houston and the third subpar qualifier, had B. D. Moore of Galveston for the first match.

Other pairings:
Dick Turner, Edinburg, vs Buck Luce, Austin; O'Hara Watts, Dallas, vs Jack Fouts, Austin; Roy Sherrill, Temple, vs Bill Skeeters, Dallas; Lee Davis, Mission, vs Lafayette Franks, Dallas; Milnek Ward, Corpus Christi, vs Chuck Taylor, Dallas; Bill Welch, Austin, vs Gus Crook, San Antonio; Lutch-er Brown, San Antonio, vs Dr. Wald Robinson, Austin; Hack Williford, San Antonio, vs A. W. Smith, San Antonio; Lieut. R. Alan, San Antonio, vs Derald Lehman, Fort Worth.

Kingfish Rodeo Will Be Held in Freeport July 1-5

FREEPORT, June 11 (AP)—Mayor Charley Watson, general chairman of Freeport's kingfish rodeo scheduled here July 1 to 5, inclusive, says he has been assured of more than five hundred anglers to compete in contests, rules for which have been adopted and chairmen of committees appointed.

Waco, Dallas and Fort Worth will have more than two hundred representatives; Houston, Galveston, Beaumont and San Antonio probably twice that number.

Prizes will be given for highest scores of points based on length and kind of fish caught. A daily prize for the most unusual catch is offered.

Contestants are to be divided into two classes: Those fishing with pole and line and those from boats.

Dallas Swamps Galveston; Buffs Break Losing Streak

Tulsa Wins Fourth From Missions At Santone

(By The Associated Press)

Today's games:
Dallas at San Antonio.
Fort Worth at Beaumont.
Oklahoma City at Galveston.
Tulsa at Houston.

The Dallas Steers continued on their merry way at the top of the Texas league today while the Houston Buffaloes congratulated themselves on snapping a three-game losing streak.

The Steers laid to with a vengeance last night, thumping the Galveston seventh-place club, 10 to 0. The Steers scored three runs in the first inning and coasted along until the ninth and then ended the game with an eight-run barrage.

Don Padgett, Houston first-sacker, got his batting eye in focus again and slammed out two singles and a brace of triples against two Fort Worth pitchers. Padgett's blow drove in five runs and when it was over Houston had scored 13 tallies to Fort Worth's 4.

The Tulsa club won its fourth game from the Missions at San Antonio in the current series, 7 to 6. The Missions scored in five of their innings, but Tulsa moved ahead with a four-run spree in the sixth and added the winning run in the ninth.

At Beaumont the Oklahoma City Indians overpowered the Shipps, 8 to 6, scoring three runs in the fourth and a brace in the tenth. Archie tied the score for Beaumont in the ninth with a homer, his second of the game.

BY FELIX E. MCKNIGHT, DALLAS, June 11 (AP)—Off Texas' crowded municipal golf courses have risen such household names as Harry Cooper, Ray Mangrum, Ralph Guldahl, Byron Nelson, and Gus Morland, names that have plastered every sports page in the land at one time or another.

Yet, the Texas Municipal Golf association tournament, despite overtime work by its members, remains the tournament of "forgotten men" . . . Two week-end lances and the tourney will be staged again, this time at the Weeks park muncy links at Wichita Falls . . . The field is expected to be one of the largest in history, with Gordon Young of Dallas and Hack Williford of San Antonio, winner and runner-up last year, back again.

Municipal golfers got their first break this year . . . Open-minded executives of the Texas Golf association invited two many players from each city and village to participate in the association tournament.

The muncy tournament, 72-hole medal affair, will be held, June 27-28.

This and that: George Rotan, Houston veteran, held the state golf title five times—last in 1919 . . . R. H. Connerly, the Austin cross-hander, took the trophy home four times in succession—last in 1911 . . . Odds are better than even that Sam Nuckles, veteran racing official, will be Arlington Downs' new presiding steward . . . He's at Latonia now

Chapter 30 SINISTER CURRENTS "Would you know Fazzini from one of his brothers?" inquired Dirk. "From the chef, for instance?" "This was no chef," smiled the astute Dinwiddie. Dirk was silent and Logan said, "I have also the information regarding Merritt's Wonder Show. You asked me for it some time ago, but it took time. The show went broke, it seems, and disbanded, down in Rome, Georgia. Akin, an associate of mine in Atlanta, got the facts from the circus book-keeper before the troupe melted away. While he was not in time to find Merritt, the book-keeper told him all there was to know about Torrobin and the clown.

she may have had. He had not questioned Hope's account of herself, had not doubted that she was a parson's daughter—in need of work—and finding it for a day in the circus. The Rev. Silas Devine—if such a person existed—must be puzzling now over the telegram regarding a lady named Hope to whom he must speed at once. Or it might be that he knew indeed a Hope—a relative, a daughter, even—whom it had been safe enough at this distance for one in difficulties to impersonate.

Could not the circus have stopped in El Paso? Might not Leonor have learned there of one Hope Devine? Leonor, Carlo and Leonor, thought Dirk. Dirk knew now on which Fazzini Hope had called. Her visit had not been to Tony, but to Carlo, Tony's brother, the brother who had cleaned out the Araby, the brother who traveled with the circus. Carlo was in hiding in Tony's house and Hope had crept out to him by night, almost too ill to stand.

In hiring Logan and Dinwiddie Dirk had wanted her protected, not accused. Even tonight when these findings had proved so inexorably her place in the puzzle, he had not been willing to give them the key to that place. Logan and Dinwiddie had laughed at Martin's account of an intruder the night before. They believed it now only in the light of Hope's visit to Fazzini's house. He had come to her one night, and had almost been discovered. She had gone to him the next. That was what they believed. They did not know what he—Dirk—knew, that the man she had gone to see did not dare leave his room, would not risk discovery of any sort. Dirk knew more than this. He knew that Martin was overwrought. A man who imagines it his duty to shoot when no such duty has been assigned him, may also imagine other things. Martin, Dirk told himself, had never heard a voice at all. In any case, whoever, whatever was, Hope—he could not think of her by any other name—was un-

TERRORISM OF LEGION TRACED TO CAR PLANTS

Five Are Accused of Burning Home of Red Suspect

DETROIT, June 11 (AP)—The trail of Black Legion terrorism led into three large Detroit automotive plants today. Frank Rice, an investigator for the Packard Motor Car company, and foremen in two other automotive factories were among five men held as members of a Black Legion intelligence squad accused of burning the home of a suspected communist.

Matthew Smith, general secretary of the Mechanics Educational Society, a union of tool and die makers, said that Rice was discovered in a closed meeting of the society two years ago. "We searched him," Smith said, "and he had membership cards in the M. E. S. A., the American Federation of Labor, and the communist party. He finally admitted he was a member of some kind of an anti-communist club." Smith's disclosure recalled a recent assertion by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that the night riders worked closely with "labor spies." In custody in connection with the burning of the home of William F. Mollenhauer, in Oakland county, are Clarence Frye, a foreman in the Dodge truck division of Chrysler corporation; Elvis Clark, foreman for the Ternstedt Manufacturing company, makers of automobile fittings, and Albert Swanson, a gas meter reader. All were described as the door-bell rang. He heard Timothy, who had gone upstairs, come down again. Timothy's knock sounded presently on Dirk's door. "It's the Rev. Silas Devine," said Timothy. "He's just arrived, sir... by plane." Dirk pleads a difficult case, tomorrow.

Black Legion officers. A sixth man is sought. Frye said he was deceived into attending a Black Legion meeting, forced by threats against his wife and child to take the fearsome oath, and struck in the face when he tried to withdraw. The conference for protection of civil rights announced last night that 21 prominent men and women had accepted membership on a national committee to investigate the Black Legion. Among them are Prof. Irving Fisher, of Yale university; Dr. John Hayes Holmes, New York; Senator Elmer A. Benson (F.L., Minn.); Senator Gerald P. Nye (R., N. D.); Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, New York, and Bishop Edgar Blake, of Detroit.
