Washington, Disappointed In Past, 'Hopeful' About Hanoi Offer

Connally, Senator Fight Seen

By United Press International
A potential fight for the favorite son position loomed on the Texas political horizon today with Gov. John Connally in one corner and U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., in the other.

And the head of the George Wallace for president campaign in Texas predicted Wednesday the former Alabama governor would carry the state in November.

In the governor's race, the candidates spread out across the state in their search for votes and even baseball became a political subject.

Connally, who spent a large part of his news conference Wednesday attacking Yarborough, said he did not consider himself a serious potential contender for the nomination and had not decided to accept the favorite son role.

Ready for Scrap
But he said any attempt by his old foe Yarborough to take the role for himself "certainly will have an effect on my decision."

Both men said they were considering the situation and would make their answers known in a few days.

Tom Turnpseed, Wallace's campaign manager in Texas, said in Dallas Wednesday at the opening of the Wallace campaign headquarters in the city:

"Texans see George Wallace as the only man on the national scene who speaks out on the issues—the man with virility in his stand."

Enters Baseball Picture
Lt. Gov. Preston Smith said Wednesday he "will lend the full power and influence of the governor's office" to get Dallas-Fort Worth a major league baseball franchise if he is elected.

He made the comment in a letter to the sports department of the Dallas Times Herald in support of a column advocating assistance of the political leadership in Texas in getting such a franchise.

Smith said in Liberty Texas want their governor "qualified" for the position. He said qualifications are as essential for a governor as for an airline pilot. He pointed to his experience as an indication of his qualification.

74 Accidents Reported In Last Month

Seventy-four motor vehicle accidents and 17 injuries on Pampa Streets were recorded during March, according to an official report released today by Police Chief Jim Conner.

The figures compare to 46 accidents and 11 injuries during the same time last year.

For the first three months of the year, 210 accidents and 47 injuries were recorded, as compared to 129 accidents, 49 injuries and 1 fatality during the same period last year.

Most accidents occurred between 3 and 5 p.m.

The largest percentage of accidents during March involved drivers under 20 years of age. The teenagers had 27 accidents. The 20-24 age group was second high with 19 accidents. Involved in the accidents were a total of 83 males and 43 females.

The two main causative factors were failure to yield right-of-way and speeding, according to Chief Conner.

Property damage was estimated at $23,762.

'Winter' Weather Chills Texas As Crops Threatened

By United Press International
Winter-like weather stabbed through Texas today, setting off thunderstorms and hail ahead of it. Freezing temperatures that could damage spring crops and fruit trees were expected tonight as far south as the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

No immediate estimate of crop damage in the Panhandle was available.

Freezing weather probably caused extensive damage to fruit trees. Gray County Agricultural Agent Foster Whaley said, but their economic importance to the area is small.

Whaley said no "accurate determination of damage to the wheat crop could be made at this time."

"We'll have to wait about 6 or 7 days before we can be sure what — if any — damage was done," he said.

The Amarillo Weather Bureau issued freeze warnings tonight but forecast mild weather Friday. Low tonight is expected to be near 20, but temperatures are expected to rise to near 60 tomorrow.

Massive thunderstorms to the east, in Arkansas and Tennessee generated tornadoes that killed 12 persons and injured 40 others. None was even reported injured in two days of stormy weather in Texas.

A Pacific cold front that went through Texas Wednesday passed out of the state to the east. A Canadian cold front that brought overnight temperatures as low as 24 degrees to Dalhart drove to the Texas coast.

As the Canadian front pushed south, hail the size of marbles (See WINTER, Page 3)

Massive Allied Thrust Nears Fort At Khe Sanh

By JACK WALSH
SAIGON (UPI)—While diplomats began pushing for peace, a massive allied thrust drove today toward the relief of the surrounded Marine fort of Khe Sanh on South Vietnam's northern frontier. U.S. spokesmen also reported a record 3,386 American troops wounded last week.

In Saigon despite private grumbling, the South Vietnam government proclaimed support for President Johnson's effort to carry North Vietnam into negotiations that could lead to peace talks.

Record Number Wounded
American spokesmen in the capital said 3,386 Americans suffered wounds in combat last week, surpassing the previous record of 2,766 set in the week ending March 9.

The spokesmen said 330 U.S. servicemen were killed in combat last week, far below any record. But last week's combined killed-wounded toll of 4,215 formed America's longest weekly casualty list of the war. However, 2,637 of the wounded did not need hospital treatment, their wounds were so minor, the spokesmen said.

Relief Moves Forward
In Operation Pegasus launched Monday to end the 75-day Communist siege of Khe Sanh, American officials said the North Vietnamese forces dodged any major conflict with the more than 10,000 allied troops driving along highway 9 and leapfrogging by helicopter toward the Marine bastion.

The 6,000 Leathernecks inside the plateau fort dispatched patrol forces into the surrounding hills to harass the 10,000 Communists that U.S. intelligence reported is all that is left of a 20,000-man Hanoi army that has been pounding Khe Sanh.

American commanders already have told newsmen they consider the battle of Khe Sanh won although the Communists were capable still of launching major attacks from the 11-foot-high elephant grass through which the allied relief force was moving on foot and in tanks.

U.S. helicopter gunships and jet strike planes hammered the Communist positions with the ferocity credited by American commanders with doing much to shrink the North Vietnamese siege force.

President Johnson prepared today to fly to Honolulu to discuss Vietnam peace moves with top U.S. officials from Saigon and South Korean President Park Chung Hee.

Park, whose troops are fighting alongside U.S. forces in South Vietnam, apparently will be the only foreign chief of state taking part in the week-end strategy conference.

South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu was not scheduled to take part in the Pacific meetings.

The United States, having swiftly accepted Hanoi's unexpected agreement to "establish contact," was seeking further information through diplomatic channels on a possible time and place for a meeting.

Likely Place
Geneva, site of the 1954 conference that ended the French Indochina war and a traditional international meeting ground, was considered a likely place. There were reports in London that the meeting might be held in Moscow.

Johnson already has said his prime negotiators would be Ambassador-at-Large W. Averell Harriman and Llewellyn E. Tompson, U.S. envoy to Moscow, two veteran cold war negotiators.

Top American officials from Saigon were to meet in Hawaii with the President, Defense Secretary Clark M. Clifford and Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Secretary of State Dean Rusk was expected to join them toward the end of the week; he has been attending a Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) meeting in New Zealand for the past several days.

President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam was not expected to take part in the Pacific meetings, according to the White House. But Rusk told newsmen at Wellington, N.Z., early today that if and when the war moved from the battlefield to the conference table, the government of South Vietnam will play a very large and important part in any negotiations.

Balloonist Is Thwarted In 3rd Attempt

LAS PALMAS, Canary Island (UPI)—Francis Brenton's high-flying hopes of crossing the Atlantic by balloon were dashed again today. He was tipped into the sea only yards from the start.

But the bedraggled British adventurer waded ashore vowing: "I shall never surrender."

His third attempt at a Jules Verne-style voyage was thwarted in a misunderstanding with the tugboat that was supposed to tow him 10 miles offshore to pick up the stronger breezes.

Finding Brenton missing from the balloon's basket when they reached the 10-mile point, the tugboat crew returned and moored the balloon at a dock.

Meanwhile, Brenton, like shore-based observers, thought the balloon had broken loose and set off riderless for the Bahamas.

Soaking wet but uninjured, Brenton immediately began making plans for a fourth attempt to cross the Atlantic.

The first attempt by the former Chicago, Ill., resident to fill his balloon with homemade hydrogen ended when it blew up in his face, sending him to a hospital for a short time. His second attempt, with commercial hydrogen, opened a gash in the fabric, destroying the gas bag. He then obtained a new balloon from Texas.

Attorney Proclaims Death Penalty Is 'Cruel And Unusual Punishment'

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—A Philadelphia, Pa. attorney told a three-judge panel of the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals Wednesday the death penalty should be abolished because "it was a cruel and unusual punishment forbidden by the constitution."

Anthony Amsterdam, an attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc., argued the death sentences of Leon Brent of Baton Rouge, La., and Leon Spencer of Beaumont, Tex.

Brent was sentenced to death for the alleged rape of a secretary in a Baton Rouge office building in 1963. Spencer was sentenced to die for the murder of his wife.

Wednesday's appeals were from denials of habeas corpus petitions by district courts.

Amsterdam said the appeals court should remand both cases back to district courts for evidentiary hearings on such questions as the systematic exclusions of Negroes from grand juries in the Brent case. He said there were also certain points in the Spencer case which required an evidentiary hearing.

"We feel that evidentiary

'I Hope It's True' Is Comment In Official Circles

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Cautious from bitter disappointments in the past, the U.S. capital was more hopeful than optimistic today that Hanoi's offer to discuss arrangements for negotiations would lead to peace in Vietnam.

Over and over again hawks and doves alike followed up expressions of hope with "if..." or "but..."

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., summed up the mood of Washington officialdom when he put it: "It looks good. I hope it's true."

Candidates Comment
Both Democratic presidential candidates welcomed North Vietnam's announcement.

"We have a long way to go with many pitfalls and difficulties," said Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y. "But it is a step."

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., campaigning in Indiana, said President Johnson's partial bombing halt and Hanoi's offer brought both sides "closer to peace talks than ever in the last two years."

Financial circles responded with enthusiasm, breaking a two-day-old record for trading volume on the New York Stock Exchange and ending the session with a 5.15 points gain in the Dow Jones Industrial Average.

The pessimism that tempered Washington reaction centered on two points:

Note Two Points
—Hanoi's offer was not to start peace negotiations, but only to meet with American representatives to discuss setting up the machinery for such negotiations. Hanoi repeated that all "acts of aggression" against North Vietnam would have to be halted before those negotiations could begin.

—The start of negotiations, if it came, would not necessarily mean the end of the fighting. America suffered its heaviest casualties—12,000 deaths—while two years of peace talks dragged on in the Korean war, and the French defeat at Dien Bien Phu came during peace negotiations with the Vietnamese Communists.

Nevertheless, the Hanoi broadcast was the first offer to meet with the United States while the bombing of the north, even though curtailed Sunday night, went on.

Shadow Is Cast Over Apollo Mission

Saturn 5 Rocket Fails In Prime Objective . . . Restarting Engine

By AL ROSSITER Jr.
CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The second unmanned Saturn 5 rocket failed a prime objective today when its orbiting top stage refused to restart its engine and fly toward an imaginary moon.

The failure, which followed engine trouble suffered on the Saturn's way into orbit, cast a serious shadow over the ability of the Apollo 6 mission to qualify the nation's moonship launcher for manned operations.

The primary goal of the flight was to achieve orbit and then shoot off toward a point representing the moon 320,000 miles deep in space. Full success would have accelerated the nation's Apollo moon launch timetable.

The third stage, with its robot-controlled Apollo spacecraft still attached, soared into a preliminary orbit and circled earth twice. Then, at 9:13 a.m. CST, the orbiting rocket was to have restarted its engine to zoom toward a point in space where the moon will be some other time.

"We did not have ignition of our third stage engine," a spokesman at the mission control center reported. This was considered a very important flight objective.

The Apollo spacecraft then separated from the misfiring top stage and fired its own engine to increase its altitude to about 13,820 miles, close to what was planned.

The spacecraft was to return to a Pacific Ocean recovery fleet later in the day.

Before the third stage engine failure, Apollo Program Director Samuel Phillips said it would take a number of days of examination of tracking data to see whether the rocket could be "man-rated." It was not known immediately what effect the

Powerful Storm Sucks Asphalt Off Roads

Tornadoes Kill 12 Persons

By ROBERT L. GILMARTIN
STAR CITY, Ark. (UPI)—Tornadoes so powerful they sucked asphalt off road beds and uprooted trees three-feet thick tore through Arkansas and western Tennessee Wednesday, killing at least twelve persons.

Five persons were killed on highway 81 between Star City and Monticello in southern Arkansas. Another man was killed in Paragould, Ark., near the Missouri border 175 miles from Star City. The Tennessee highway patrol said four persons died at Atoka, Tenn. Two more dead were found at Owensboro, Ky.

Twisters touched down in Hernando, Miss., Soco, Mo., and Millington, Tenn., causing minor damage.

In addition, several funnel clouds were sighted over Iowa, but there were no reports they struck populated areas.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said the tornadoes apparently were caused by the same storm system that sprawled across Arkansas.

—M.B. Socia, a powerman for the Arkansas Forest Service, said he saw 30 feet of highway where the blacktop had been ripped away and blown into the woods. He said trees, some up to three feet in diameter, were strewn across the highway.

"The path of the tornado was not wide but it pretty well cleaned up where it went," Socia said.

The first tornado touched down on the flat farmland near Star City and skipped along the ground for nearly 25 miles.

Hits Farm Area
Lincoln County Coroner Grant Griffin said the area was lightly populated, mostly cotton and rice farms.

"A number of cars were blown off highway 81, south of Star City, into the woods and a search is being made for people that may have been blown or sucked out of cars," Griffin said.

As the first tornado was dispersing near Star City, other twisters were reported in northeast Arkansas. At least one person was killed there. The body of P.E. Pillows, 67, was found 200 yards from his partially destroyed home in Paragould.

A tornado ripped through the L. A. Darling Co., a plant which makes mannequins, and caused an estimated $1.5 million damage.

Communication and power lines into the damaged areas were severed. An Arkansas Power and Light spokesman said at least 10 communities in the state lost power.

GOP Asks For Detailed Law Enforcement Study

The House Republican Task Force, of which Panhandle congressman Bob Price is a member, was on record in Washington today calling for a detailed study of the entire Federal law enforcement system before what was labeled "ill-conceived and premature" reorganization plans are approved by Congress.

While endorsing the concept of consolidation of similar functions in selective areas of law enforcement, the Crime Task Force expressed reservations concerning the Administration's proposed transfer of the Bureau of Narcotics, presently in the Treasury Department, and the Bureau of Drug Abuse Control, presently in HEW, to the Justice Dept.

Rep. Price urged that "top priority be given to careful examination and restructuring of the entire Federal law enforcement system rather than merely one small part of it." He noted that 25 to 35 Federal agencies now share investigative and law enforcement responsibilities.

The Panhandle Congressman charged that Congress has been asked to approve this reorganization on faith alone. Insufficient study has been given to the question of where a combined drug enforcement agency should be located, they warned, and "too little attention has been paid to the effects such a specific transfer would have upon overall Federal law enforcement."

LBJ (Continued From Page 1) nesday to establish contact with U.S. representatives "was extremely limited in scope, but it raised peace hopes around the world because it marked the first sign of willingness on the part of Hanoi to meet on any terms short of a complete halt to the U.S. bombing of the north."

The Communist statement, broadcast in Vietnamese and in English by Radio Hanoi Wednesday morning, was in response to Johnson's Sunday night speech in which he disclosed that he had ordered an end to bombing attacks north of the 20th parallel. This freed about 90 per cent of the North Vietnamese population and a good part of its territory from the threat.

Officials here were guarded in their assessment of the possibilities for real progress toward an end to the war. Some believed that the contacts could mark the beginning of a process - a "littledly long and tortuous" - that would eventually lead to full-scale peace talks.

Door Kicked In A Pampa man, complained to police yesterday that someone had kicked in a locked door at his residence.

The door, which was nailed shut, was kicked in between 11 and 11:53 p.m.; according to a police report.

Investigating officer S. R. Belt said the incident appeared to stem from domestic trouble.

Saturn (Continued From Page 1) second failure would have on those plans.

The engine trouble developed midway in the Saturn's climb to its preliminary earth orbit. Two of the five engines on the rocket's second stage quit nearly two minutes too soon.

The fact that these two engines shut down certainly makes this less than a perfect mission," Phillips said at a news briefing two hours after launch.

Had the Apollo 6 space machine been a manned flight to the moon, Phillips said that objective would have been called off and an alternate mission devised. There was nothing to indicate, however, that astronauts would have been endangered had they been aboard.

3 Accidents Are Reported A small rash of accidents occurred Wednesday afternoon and night, one of them sending a Pampa man to Highland General Hospital for treatment.

Robert Dale Lowrie, 38, of 1145 N. Starkweather, was treated and released after suffering slight injuries.

Lowrie was involved in a one-car collision shortly after 8 p.m. at Ballard St. when he lost control of his vehicle, causing it to strike the curb on the west side of Duncan St. Damage to his 1965 auto was estimated at $350.

Another accident at 3:57 p.m. involved Alonso Madrid Gomez, 18, of 919 E. Gordon, and Ronnie Keith Parsley of 621 S. Tignor. Both vehicles involved suffered light damage when one struck the other from behind at the intersection of Harvester and Hobart streets.

The other accident happened at 6:41 p.m. at Brown Street near its intersection with Cuyler. Vehicles driven by Louis Christian, 39, of 932 E. Gordon, and Rickey Lynn Fritsche, of Star Route 2, were traveling west when the collision occurred as a result of one of the vehicles changing lanes.

Teachers Slate State Convention

Four Pampa teachers, Mrs. Hazel Poole, Mrs. Helen Warner, Lewis Rogers and Mrs. Bill Potts, will represent the Pampa Classroom Teachers Association at the 12th annual state convention of Texas Classroom Teachers in San Angelo Friday and Saturday.

The teachers will consider resolutions for legislation on salary, classroom size and teacher sick leave. Delegates will vote on resolutions to raise teachers' salaries to the national average. Resolutions include a state index salary scale request which guarantees an annual $1,000 salary increase.

Speakers will be Mrs. Dorothy V. Meyer, coordinating vice president of National Council of State Education Associations; Judge Jack Pope, associate justice of the Texas Supreme Court; and Dr. Donald Roush, dean of the college of education at New Mexico State University.

Winter (Continued From Page 1) was reported at San Marcus in South Central Texas. Lockhart, lashed by a thunderstorm, reported hail an inch in diameter.

SARDINIA (UPI) — Police charged a Sardinian man today with mistreating his sister by keeping her locked in a room of their home for 41 years. Pietro Chironi, 65, told police he "isolated" Serafina Chironi, 61, when she came down with a "serious illness" in 1927.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stanley Heller & Co. feels the "technical and fundamental ingredients for a sustained uptrend over the coming weeks are now present." An intermediate term improvement in investor psychology may now be underway, the firm offers, after the combined events of the past few days.

"Peace is bullish in 1968," declares Amott, Baker & Co., Inc. The change to a more conciliatory U.S. posture towards the war in Vietnam, as well as the progress in Stockholm towards Special Drawing Rights which would provide a new form of international money, are highly favorable, the firm says. The actual initiation of peace negotiations on Vietnam and their progress will have a major effect upon the future course of the market.

Lamb shanks, purple plums combine well.

Serve Lamb with Plums

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food Editor

Lamb shanks have in their favor economy, flavor and ability to braise well. Their meat cooks evenly, particularly when moist heat is used. This recipe for canned plums and lamb shanks is recommended particularly for those who enjoy fruits with meat. The lamb is cooked in a wine sauce with plum syrup and orange peel. Later, toward end of cooking, the plums are added.

PLUM-SAUCE LAMB SHANKS
1 (1-lb.) can or jar purple plums

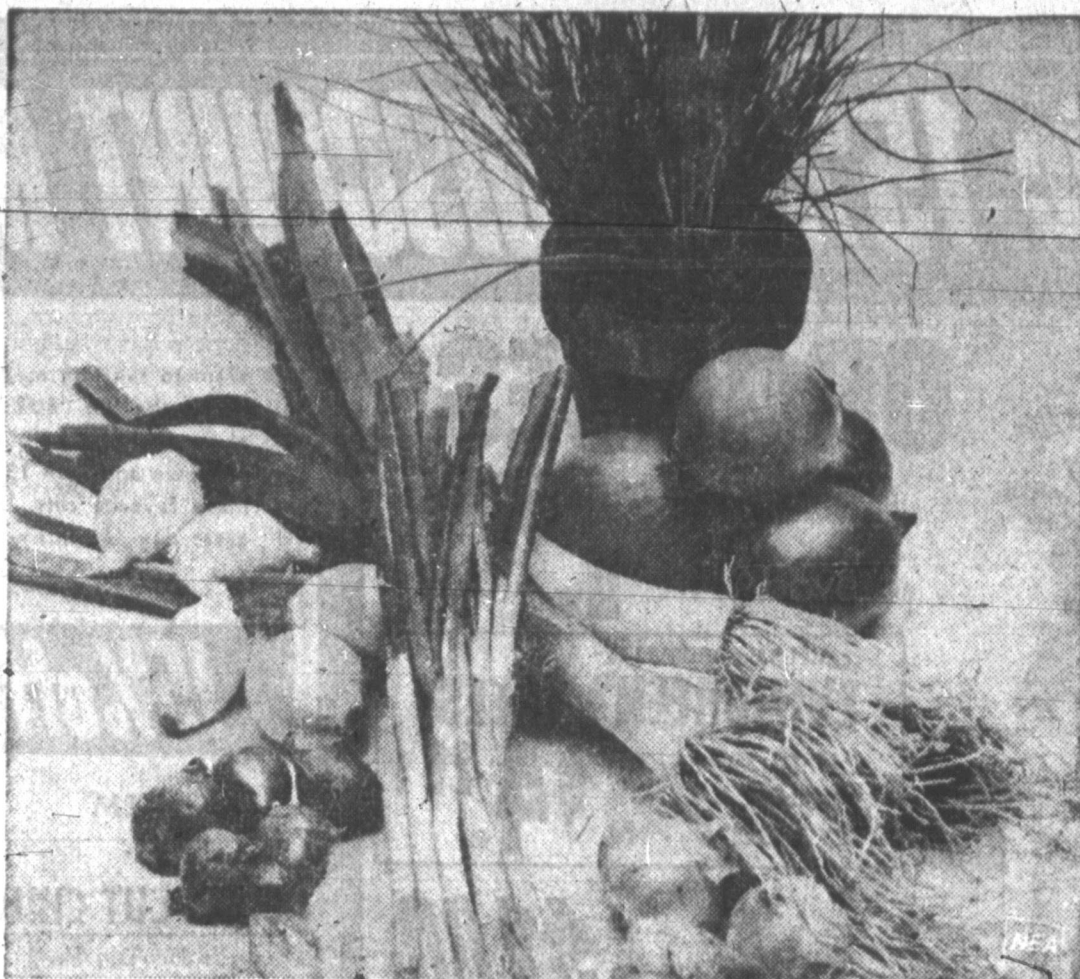

1-3 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 medium lamb shanks
2 tablespoons shortening
1 cup sauterne wine

1/2 cup plum syrup
1 teaspoon grated orange peel. . . .

Drain plums, reserving syrup. Combine flour, paprika and salt. Coat lamb shanks with seasoned flour. Melt shortening in heavy skillet or dutch oven. Brown shanks slowly on all sides. Combine sauterne wine, purple plum syrup and orange peel. Pour over lamb shanks, cover and simmer for 1 1/2 hours or until lamb is tender. Add plums, cooking until heated through. Serve plums with lamb shanks and sauce. Makes 4 servings.

NOTE: Orange juice may be substituted for sauterne if desired.

Cooks Make Kitchen Duty an Art

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food Editor

You don't have to sit on the Left Bank in Paris to enjoy a piece of cheese and a glass of wine, according to M. F. K. Fisher, one of the world's great gastronomes.

"We have some fine cheese here and many excellent wines," Mrs. Fisher said in her home in St. Helena, Calif. in the grape-growing Napa Valley.

Author of many books and articles on the joys of the table, including "How To Eat a Wolf," "Serve it Forth" and "The Art of Eating," she added, "Today I am convinced we should try to slow down a little. We live too fast and frantically. We need to learn to eat long and happily together. Yes, as a family. We should try to enjoy the pleasures of the table, to think of food more as food, not just as something to eat and run."

We have spiritual needs which we are ignoring, she believes. About to prepare dinner for one of her married daughters and her granddaughter visiting her, she paused to glance across the vineyards. "One of those spiritual needs is the desire to cook for someone dear to you. Yes, I call it the innate urge to please, the urge to keep the family together. That desire, fulfilled, adds a sense of graciousness to living. Too many Americans lack graciousness today," she added.

M. F. K. Fisher has just written "The Cooking of Provincial France," together with the editors of Time-Life Books. Having lived in Aix en Provence, Dijon and Strasbourg and many other French towns and cities, she stresses the difference between "haute cuisine" and provincial cooking. Provincial food is nearby food, grown in the garden, from the fowl and cattle nearby, from the sea and rivers not far away. These are unlike many American foods raised thousands of miles away and transported to our local supermarkets. "I still find it hard to believe an apple off the tree outside the door or a potato dug fresh from the back garden are not a little better," Mrs. Fisher says. "But then — well — they tell me I am wrong." "The Cooking of Provincial France" is illustrated in color. The author hopes it gives "the true feeling of what people eat in the provinces. The secrets of their cooking are time, care and simplicity. I hope my book will persuade more American cooks to take more time and care."

Ham, Pineapple Are Appetizers

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food Editor

Hors d'oeuvres, appetizers, tidbits — call them what you will — are very pleasant before dinner. They can be as simple as raw vegetables in a bowl of ice. Celery, radishes, cucumber sticks, and finely sliced raw turnip are some. Olives, of course.

Canned chickpeas make delicious and somewhat unusual hors d'oeuvres. Make a marinade of oil and lemon juice, garlic, salt and pepper. Worcestershire sauce and a drop of cayenne pepper. Marinate for several hours before eating.

Small canned mushrooms, marinated in oil and vinegar and spices, are always welcome. Combine chopped cooked ham and crushed pineapple in pastry shells for a de luxe appetizer.

HAM AND PINEAPPLE SAVORIES
Pastry (basis 1 cup flour)

1 (8 1/2-oz.) can crushed pineapple
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons finely-chopped green onion
1/4 cup finely chopped celery
1 cup finely chopped cooked pineapple. Heat butter with ham
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon curry powder
3 tablespoons mayonnaise. . . .

Roll pastry 1/8-inch thick; fit into 24 (2-inch) tart pans. Drain curry powder until bubbly. Add onion, celery and ham, cooking a few minutes until vegetables soften. Remove from heat and stir in mustard, mayonnaise and pineapple. Spoon into pastry-lined shells. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees) 10 to 15 minutes until crisp. Two dozen.

Serve ham and pineapple savories.

College Student Draft Stirs Controversy

'Scholars' Are Pushing For Changes In Regulations

EDITOR'S NOTE: It is drafted in the 12 months starting in July and that virtually all of them will hold one or more college degrees. Projects Consequences And these are a few of its projected consequences, based on knowledgeable estimates and, perhaps, as General Hershey suggests, fretful thinking: —There will be a 70 per cent drop in the number of college men entering graduate school next fall and a 40 per cent drop in overall enrollment. —Newer and weaker graduate schools may not survive as older institutions find room for students who would normally be turned down by the prestige universities. —Undergraduate college enrollments will have to be cut because of a shortage of graduate students who, as teaching assistants, assume most of the burden of teaching freshmen and sophomore classes at many big schools. Michigan State University, for example, employs 2,000 teaching assistants. —Junior colleges have been opening at the rate of one every four days in the United States, part of an astonishing democratization which now makes higher education available to one out of every two American youths. But junior colleges will be "unable to find adequate staffs for next year. In the years ahead, as the supply of new teachers emerging from the educational pipeline slows to a trickle, the situation will be even more serious, and will be felt at all levels from the elementary school through college."

By MIKE FEINSILBER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "I couldn't quite hack Canada," says college senior Wes Hauze, 21, who is about to join the Army to avoid the draft. "But sir, there is going to be hell to pay."

College students who go to jail—or to Canada—to avoid military service "will not be placed in double jeopardy as long as I am dean," says Dr. Colin Pittendrigh, dean of graduate students at Princeton University, ordinarily no school for scandal or jailbirds. "If many intellectuals leave the country when the going gets rough," he adds, the resulting reaction "will make the McCarthy era seem like chicken feed."

"Right now, we're not selecting, we're just taking," says Gustave O. Arlt, president of the Council of Graduate Schools in the United States. "It's not a Selective Service at all." "The lame, the halt, the blind and the female" will be left in graduate schools unless the rules are changed, says Nathan Pusey, president of Harvard.

Won't Go

Hell, no, we won't go, say 38.4 per cent of the men at Yale, according to a survey.

All of which prompts Lt. Gen. B. Hershey to observe that he can criticize General Motors for making cars with doors that squeak, but they can't deny that GM makes cars. They can also criticize the draft system, he says, but: "We got 'em. We got 'em."

While he's been draft director, Hershey has gotten 14 million of 'em for three wars—World War II, Korea and now Vietnam.

These comments are all aroused by a fact that is very likely very quickly to have a profound effect on the United States, its Army, its universities and its young men.

The fact: It is entirely likely that 288,000 young men will be all graduate students not now in their second year of study except those in medicine and dentistry. They decided not to reverse the order in which young men are drafted so as to take the youngest rather than the oldest first.

The effect of those two decisions was to put at the top of the draft barrel 764,000 young men in graduate schools. Eliminating over-age students, veterans, exempted divinity students, men who were fathers before June 30, 1967, medical students, reservists and the 25 per cent who normally flunk pre-induction physicals, about 316,000 of these are subject to callup first. The Defense Department budget for the fiscal year which starts July 1 indicates a callup of 288,000 men.

The National Security Council left occupational deferments to the discretion of local draft boards, based on a judgment of "essential community need." The effect of that action is not predictable, depending as it does on the individual judgments of 4,088 local draft boards.

Feared Evasion It was out of fear that young men were dallying in graduate school to evade the draft that Congress authorized the President to abolish deferments for grad students. But it retained deferments for undergraduates. The elimination of undergraduate deferments was recommended by the President's National Advisory Commission on Selective Service, headed by Burke Marshall, former assistant attorney general. But the commission wanted to reverse the order of call "so that the youngest men, beginning at age 19, are taken first."

The commission reasoned that if a young man got through his 19th year without being drafted he could expect not to be called and could plan his education and his life on that basis.

It also reasoned its plan would remove the inequity of deferments being extended so long they became exceptions. This would eliminate the privileged status for the college generation.

Plans Changed One young man who is about to become one of the Army's reluctant recruits is Wes Hauze. A senior in international relations at Washington's American University, he had planned to go on to Columbia University Law School with the idea of entering the foreign service.

Wes Hauze may or may not speak for his generation, but what he has to say about his generation is interesting. He opposes the war, and demonstrated against it last October in front of the Pentagon. "I was one of those in a suit and tie," he says with a touch of bitterness, "who didn't get on television."

The National Security Council has changed his life. "Being 21 put me at the top of the draft pool," he says. "I would hate to get that little notice in the middle of a semester and when I talked to my draft board in Gainesville (Fla.), they were pretty pessimistic. "So the choice was to be drafted, there's no telling where alternative is Canada—but I couldn't quite hack that. I can't see coping out of the system."

CAMDEN, N.J.—Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, explaining his drive for the presidency: "I want to be president because I think we can do better. We'll move this country and the world."

WASHINGTON — President Johnson, saying he will announce later who he favors as his successor in the White House: "When the time comes to take an active part (in politics), I will make my announcement. I don't want to get into that now."

NEWARK, N.J.—Essex County Sheriff Ralph D'Ambola, explaining how a convicted murderer was able to escape from two guards in the courthouse. "We have an awful lousy security system here"

DA NANG, Vietnam—Capt. Charles Robb, President Johnson's son-in-law, speaking to newsmen on his arrival in Vietnam: "I'm very happy to be here, but I wish you'd leave me alone."

FUERTH, Germany — Pvt. Roy R. Jones, the first U.S. soldier to flee to Sweden, explaining why he returned to his unit in Germany: "The Swedes have a natural prejudice against black men and know nothing about Negroes."

If you run, you're out of the system and you can't get back in it. I'm foolish enough to like it.

Going To Enlist "I'm going to enlist. For three years. If I waited to be drafted, there's no telling where they'd put me. The war is the big hangup. I hope to get into something like the Medical Corps; I realized I'd still be part of the system that's spewing out bullets but at least I won't be the one pulling the trigger."

Did he think he and his fellow students would carry their antiwar sentiment with them into war? "Well, sir, there's going to be hell to pay. There are going to be a great many bitter people in the Army. A man with some intelligence who is very bitter is not the best soldier in the world, let's face it."

Leaving the country to avoid the draft is a criminal offense, punishable by five years' imprisonment, but not extraditable under international agreement. Returning to the United States subjects the draft evader to prosecution.

Which is what makes somewhat startling the pronouncement of Princeton's Dean Pittendrigh. "As long as I am dean," he promised, students who—in their term—cop out of the draft will not be denied readmission upon their release from jail.

Harvard and Yale indicated they would follow suit—a demonstration of the extent of the division between the nation's colleges and the nation's capital. The end of deferments succeeded in reuniting those campus factions which have been at odds for so long: students, faculties and administrations.

Equally startling was the result of a poll taken among 1,242 students at Yale. It showed that 38.4 per cent say they would refuse induction, a criminal act, if they receive a draft notice in tomorrow's mail. Thinks Figures Exaggerated After hearing college and manpower experts testify before a special House subcommittee

Quotes In The News By United Press International NEW YORK—Standard and Poor's Vice President William Jiler, explaining the abrupt rise in the stock market following President Johnson's announcement that he is deescalating the Vietnam war: "Sunday night a show of fiscal responsibility came and the market responded dramatically."

SAIGON—President Nguyen Van Thieu, saying South Vietnam should be strong enough by year's end to let some American troops go home: "We do not want the Americans to withdraw their troops from Vietnam. But if the U.S. government wants it, we can begin to relieve some of the American troops with our new effort at mobilization of the people."

CAMDEN, N.J.—Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, explaining his drive for the presidency: "I want to be president because I think we can do better. We'll move this country and the world."

solve problems in a hurry if we have to." Out of Mrs. Green's hearing emerged a proposition that could allieviate the campus crisis without requiring new draft legislation from a Congress that is not anxious to reopen the issue in an election year. Simply put, it would involve the creation of three draft pools instead of one. The first would contain 19-year olds, the second, college dropouts who lost their deferments and the third, graduate students. Draft quotas would be divided among all three groups. In effect, a limited 19-year-old draft, advocated by the President, the Marshal commission, the colleges and other reformers, would be initiated. Mrs. Green's subcommittee promptly and unanimously petitioned President Johnson to adopt it.

Coat, Suit Styles Swing into Spring

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — Coats and suits with the look of spring are soft and swinging, but always well-tailored and carefully constructed. Because tough chic is out, yet no one is ready for a flourish of ruffles and frills. Suits have floppy skirts and body fit. Jackets are straight short-stops, best with flared skirts. Or they are mini-flared, worn over mini-flared skirts.

The Bonnie and Clyde look is a designer's favorite this season, too—the long, fitted jacket, pleated skirt and shirt.

A dress often look like a coat and can be worn as one—and vice versa. A sleeveless coat over a dress doubles as a jumper.

The ensemble — or costume is indispensable. A suit becomes a chic dress when the jacket is slipped off. Coats have dress-maker details, slotted belts with brass buckles and Mao collars. And capes are new in graceful cocoon shapes.

Anglo wools and worsteds are stars of designer collections. There are gabardines and worsteds with refined surface interest. And satin weaves, failles and bengalines join the spring march.

Much of the success of these fashions for spring is the result of imaginative use of supple wools and worsteds.

League Sets Dates For Annual Clinic

Pampa's Junior Service League will sponsor its annual Hearing tests and Speech screening at First Presbyterian Church, 525 N. Gray, April 23, 24 and 25, for pre-school children.

Buddy Stephens, director of Amarillo Regional Hearing and Speech Center, and his trained staff, will administer the tests, which will include vision screening for the first time.

Junior Service League's Speech and Hearing Committee with Mrs. Bill Arrington, chairman, will make arrangements for appointments with parents.

Offered for the third year as a community service project, the clinic is financed by the league's annual Charity Ball, Mrs. Arrington said.

Letter's were mailed today to parents of pre-school children planning to enter Pampa schools, public or private, in the Fall. Tests are by appointment only. Parents who want their child to have the tests should return the appointment cards to the league.

Anyone not receiving a letter, but desiring an appointment should contact Mrs. James Evans, 2100 Charles, or Mrs. Arrington, 2111 Dogwood, before April 19.

"We will use standard vision screening for five- and six-year olds. Children over six will be tested by an electronic vision screener, which checks acuity and hypermetopia. The electronic device was developed by the Massachusetts Department of Health," Mrs. Arrington said.

The hearing test uses four automatic audiometers. Testing hours are 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily. About 500 children are to be tested.

Speech and hearing committee members are Mrs. Arrington, Mrs. Jack Curtis, co-chairman, Mrs. James Evans and Mrs. John Warner.

POSTING LETTERS TO PARENTS — Mrs. Jack Curtis, left, co-chairman of the Junior Service League's annual Speech and Hearing Clinic, watches Mrs. James Evans, assisted by Mrs. Bill Arrington, chairman, center, mail letters to parents of pre-school children. The letters, mailed today, announce the clinic, slated April 23, 24 and 25, to test children's speech, hearing and vision.

Garden Club to Decorate Banks with Arrangements

Pampa Garden Club voted in a meeting at the Courthouse Annex recently to place arrangements in Pampa banks the week of April 21-27.

The club has ordered 100 flowering Red Bud trees to be planted along Red Deer trail in time for Arbor Day April 10.

Mrs. Thelma Bray was appointed to help organize a new garden club.

A tour of several lighted gardens is being planned for August. Mrs. Lottie Hall took an arrangement of forsythia made in a crescent shape to the meeting for members to discuss.

Corporation Court Judge John Warner spoke to the 26 members attending on the "Greatest Treasure in the World — Giving of Yourself for Others."

"The wealthiest people in the world are those like Will Rogers, Helen Hunt and Abe Lincoln, who have given their lives for others. Three steps for happiness are to be interested in others, to serve others and to concentrate on abilities instead of disabilities. To be really rich you have to have ability, desire and interest," Judge Warner said.

Mrs. Floyd Watson, formerly a member, has rejoined the club.

Mrs. Melvin Stephens was hostess.

Club members also met recently with Mrs. V. N. Osborne and Mrs. Bray as hostesses. Mrs. Stephens, president, reported on the district convention in Hereford in February in which the Pampa Garden Club received honorable mention for its year book and president reports. Ten members attended the convention and reported the scrap book and flower show schedule received second place.

Mrs. Ruth Spearman was named as a new member.

Members celebrated March as Texas state garden club month as proclaimed by Gov. John Connally.

Mrs. Holly Gray presented the program "Captured Expression of Beauty" and showed slides and pictures taken by members of flower arrangements, national parks, gardens, special horticulture specimens, unusual scenes and Pampa gardens.

Two pot plants were evaluated for exhibition by the 26 members attending.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a madman. If I fix him breakfast maybe he'll eat it, and maybe he'll throw it at me. If I don't fix him breakfast, he runs down the street, cursing a blue streak. He gets raving mad over nothing and throws the patio furniture 100 feet over the fence. Then he runs out of the house and hides in alleys.

Don't tell me to call the county authorities. I did and they said, "He sounds sick. Bring him in sometime."

And don't tell me to take him to a psychiatrist. He's too heavy to carry and too big to push. And have you ever tried driving a car with a man who is trying to jump out? You steer with one hand and hold onto his belt with the other and pray he won't jump out into the traffic when another car is near.

Abby, this is the FOURTH time I have written to you and have drawn three blanks, but you are supposed to give advice, so I am going to keep on writing until I get it. I suppose I could just kill myself to get away from this cursing man, but I have no such intentions. For God's sakes, Abby, help me! I am tired of hunting for a crazy am tired of hunting for a crazy flashlight at 2 a.m.

MARGARET
DEAR MARGARET: Your letter gives no last name or no address, so the only "help" I can give you is to urge you to call either your family physician or your local police department. If you don't want to do that, identify yourself, and I will have your case investigated at once and keep it confidential.

DEAR ABBY: My sister has two big, strong, healthy daughters, ages 15 and 17. She also has a very beautiful home, but if you ever walked into the girls' room you would have the shock of your life.

It looks like a tornado hit it. Stacks of clothes thrown every which way, more clothes on every chair, one laid right over the other. Shoes all over the floor, the desk piled high with magazines, books and records. And enough cosmetics around to fill a store. The bed wasn't even made.

I asked my sister why she permitted this and she just shrugged her shoulders and said, "I am thru eating my heart out. I've tried everything and it's hopeless, so now I just close their door and pretend that room isn't even there."

Abby, don't you think my sister is wrong to take that attitude? Shouldn't lazy girls be made to clean up their room and keep it that way?

Please don't print my name or city as I have already been told it was none of my business. I would like your opinion.

(FOR FRIDAY, APRIL 5)

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Many delays and obstacles can dog your path today and tonight but there is pleasure and benefit for you through the artistic, the spiritual, the imaginative, the musical and whatever depends upon your sixth sense in order to handle the problems that do now arise to cause you some consternation if you rely strictly upon the intellectual, practical.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Step out into the business world early or you can have some trouble start at home over some unguarded word. Plan some time for enjoying the ethereal, the artistic. Charm one you like very much.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) — You have to be most careful in matters, driving or in conversation with others, but take the time to buy charming items as gifts, perfumes, etc. Be sure that you make out reports accurately. Be thorough.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — You may not have all the abundance you desire, but you can easily now set the right outlets for your particular talents. Sit down and talk to some seasoned business person. Then you get the right idea.

MOON CHILDREN (June 2 to July 2) — You must be very considerate of good friends or they can turn against you very quickly now. Some thoughtful little gifts can go a long way. However, don't be extravagant. Take it easy tonight.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 23) — Secret anxieties make it necessary that you go very slow in handling these problems. Don't be overconfident. Listen to what experts in such matters have to say. A new plan of action needs more study before being in operation.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 23) — Don't rely on partners for assistance with that personal aim you have in mind. Use your own good judgment and do right ahead with it and show others you are a person of real ability.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — You have much that is important to handle in the outside world, but you can only get wheels rolling today, so be patient. Show leniency in taking care of some worldly aim. Some prior study is necessary.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 23) — Although the ideas you have are good, study them further before you present them to higher-ups. Look into the right sources of information. Make this a day for planning and working assiduously.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Attending to responsibilities in a most conscientious way is vital now. Take your rightful position in life. Showing male true affection can now bring about that rapport that is so vital to your well-being.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Forget talking about that problematic

You'll be thrilled by the new easy way science has discovered for you to become Suddenly Slim and yet completely comfortable. If you're more than 15 pounds overweight, or your waistline is larger than 35 inches, then this idea is not for you. If your weight problem falls within this range, then you can realize a new, smoother figure today, without diet or exercise.

Suddenly Slim is an all-new kind of 4-oz. girle constructed of science fibers. One startling innovation is the sheer nylon front panel. This is permanently stiffened by a science process and cannot give or sag. It's surrounded by a slimming action border. A featherstitched panel down each side of this girle will contour your hips if they are a problem.

The girle itself is of a "wonder" Lycra spandex blend. It's a new power net consisting of nylon, acetate and spandex. It is so comfortable, but has such slimming strength, it gives your figure everything that's possible with a foundation.

"Suddenly Slim," in both girle and panty versions, is the peak achievement of the California designer-genius, Olga. They are available at

REMEMBER THIS

If you work for a man, in Heaven's name, WORK for him. If he pays you wages which supply you bread and butter, work for him; speak well of him; stand by him and stand by the institution he represents. If put to a pinch, an ounce of loyalty is worth a pound of cleverness. If you must vilify, condemn and eternally disparage . . . resign your position, and when you are outside, damn to your heart's content, but as long as you are a part of the institution, do not condemn it. If you do that, you are loosening the tendrils that are holding you to the institution, and at the first high wind that comes along, you will be uprooted and blown away, and probably will never know the reason why. — Elbert Hubbard

QUARTERBACK CLUB

Meeting To Discuss Name Change Slated for PHS Cafeteria On Tuesday

By CURTIS MONTGOMERY Sports Editor

A meeting to discuss changing the name of the Quarterback Club in Pampa to the "Harvester Booster Club" and discuss the upcoming basketball banquet will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday April 9 in the Pampa High School Cafeteria.

The basketball banquet at which former Pampa all-star Jim Bond will speak is slated for April 29. Everyone interested in the Harvesters may purchase tickets at any one of a half a dozen local business firms: Thompson's Parts, First National Bank, Barney's Pharmacy, Richard Drug, and the business office at Pampa Junior High.

The prices quoted from Monroe Rogers who is the president of the Quarterback Club are $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for students.

The major concern of the April meeting, however, is the discussion of the name change from Quarterback Club to another name such as Pampa Harvesters Boosters Club.

Rogers says he wants to emphasize the over-all support which the Quarterback Club gives all Harvester sports programs — not just football. A name change, he thinks, might bring more Harvester fans into the supporting organization and help Swede Lee put across his program, but more than that — give the boys in the Pampa school system a feeling that their efforts are appreciated.

The mothers and fathers and anyone else interested in making plans for the banquet are invited to the meeting, according to Rogers who said, "Especially the ladies."

Pros May Not Make Wimbledon

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—National Tennis League promoter George MacCall said Wednesday he may pull his touring pros out of the first Wimbledon Open championships in June.

"The amateurs still want to control the game even though the pros are supplying the money," he said.

MacCall expressed displeasure about the International Lawn Tennis Federation's sanctioning of open tennis because of a clause that permits amateurs to compete as registered players.

Registered players can receive expense money as long as they do not make their living solely from the game.

"A registered player is a pro because he can still receive money under the table," Mac-

Call explained. "I thought open tennis was going to bring the end of something like this," he continued. "That's one reason why I'm in the pro game now. At least it's an honest game."

"Everybody knows where the pros stand when it comes to how much money they make."

MacCall said he wouldn't make a decision about Wimbledon until he studied the complete report on the ILTF meeting.

The NTL has six men and four women under contract. They are Rod Laver, Ken Rosewall, Fred Stolle, Roy Emerson, Pancho Gonzales, Andres Gimeno, Billie Jean King, Rosemary Casals, Ann Haydon Jones and Francoise Durr.

JOE LOUIS, the "Brown Bomber," had his hand raised in victory (left) after a first-round TKO over Max Schmeling in June, 1938, in a heavyweight championship fight. Louis (right) has risen to a legend in his own time, and still takes an active interest in the fight game.

It's Just Like The Titanic Sinking

By MILTON RICHMAN UPI Sports Writer

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (UPI)—This is what it must have been like when the Titanic was sinking.

Everybody running for lifeboats. Everybody looking to abandon ship.

Seldom before in either maritime or baseball history has there been such a wild stampede to get off anything as there is now to get off the Boston Red Sox.

Nobody likes them anymore. Nobody except Dick Williams and things really would be a mess if he didn't like them. He's picking them to win again and that not only makes him pretty exclusive, it also makes him a minority of one.

Nobody Likes Sox.

Nobody, but nobody, tabbed Boston to win this year in UPI's annual pre-season survey of the nation's baseball writers.

Things like this do not bother Dick Williams at all.

"They did the same thing last year," he says, like some proud sea captain standing fast of a windswept deck. "How did they make out?"

Dick Williams dies hard but it is a fact that his Red Sox didn't exactly make off with the whole crate of grapefruit in Florida this spring. Next to the Mets, they have the worst exhibition record among the 20 major league clubs.

They started with a disadvantage in not having Jim Lonborg, their 22-game winner. Carl Yastrzemski looked as if he had forgotten something between last fall and this spring and now it develops Tony Conigliaro still isn't seeing the ball right. Dick Williams refuses to panic.

"We had the best ball club in the league last year and I think we still have," says the Red Sox manager. "I'd trade with nobody when it comes to our infield or outfield. And we have a lot stronger pitching than we had a year ago."

Even with Lonborg out?

"Even with him out," insists Williams. "I go by a plus and minus system. We were plus 22 games last year. In other words, we were 22 games over .500. Lonborg was 13 over .500. Santiago was 8 over, Wyatt 4 over and Bel 4 over. That adds up to 29. We only won it by 22 over so the rest of my staff was a minus 7. I see great improvement with the addition of Culp and Elsworth, and having Waslewski for a while this year. Stephenson also has looked very good down here. I can't worry about a 22-game winner. I got two guys who can make up for that. Besides, Lonborg's not gonna be out all year anyway. So I can't see how we've been hurt that much with our pitching."

Williams also has his own ideas about the kind of year Yaz will have. When you ask the Boston manager whether he thinks his $100,000 left fielder will have the same kind of year he did last year, the answer comes out loud and clear.

Yaz Won't Be As Good "No," says Williams. "because I've never seen anybody have a year like that before. He did everything exceptionally well. Running, throwing, fielding and hitting. But I do think he's at a plateau where he's gonna be a consistent .300 hitter, drive in around 100 runs and hit around 30 home runs, which is good on anybody's ball club."

Dick Williams doesn't say so but it's rather plain he's a little disillusioned.

Colonels Feel A Foul on Wes

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—The Kentucky Colonels of the American Basketball Association feel they have been fouled in contract talks with University of Louisville All-America Westley Unseld—but they're not brooding.

The Colonels turned the other cheek Wednesday and offered the 6-8 Unseld a $500,000 contract for the next four years. At the same time they called for an all-out campaign by the city's basketball fans "to help keep Westley at home."

A native of Louisville, Unseld was the first round draft choice of the Colonels and the Baltimore Bullets of the rival National Basketball Association. The Bullets pledged "to leave no stone unturned" in their efforts to sign him.

But it will take a lot of rocks to top the offer made by Colonels' owner Joe Gregory.

"I doubt seriously if the NBA offer will top ours," Gregory said.

Bill Boone, the Colonels' legal advisor, said Unseld's attorneys broke off negotiations Tuesday, shortly after a $400,000 agreement had been reached. He said the Colonels have been unable to schedule another appointment.

Unseld was unavailable for comment Wednesday, but a source close to the two-time All-America said, "Westley has just about made up his mind to play in the NEA."

Pete Joins Trials Today

By PETE HERRERA

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—Louisiana State's Pete Maravich heads a brigade of talented college sophomores who today will try to fill the gap on the Olympic basketball team brought on by the absence of some older, established stars.

Maravich, who set a single season scoring record this year as a sophomore with a 44.9 point average, is among the 88 players who will appear at the Olympic trials. Other sophomores in the group include 5-10 Calvin Murphy of Niagara and Purdue's Rick Mount.

But missing from the list will be such stars as Lew Alcindor of UCLA, Elvin Hayes of Houston, Westley Unseld of Louisville, Dayton's Don May and North Carolina's Larry Miller.

Academic responsibilities and injuries were the main reasons these players said they could not try out. Hayes has signed an estimated $400,000 professional contract so is ineligible. Without them, the burden of keeping the United States undefeated in Olympic play falls on the sophomores and others like Jojo White of Kansas, Merv Jackson of Utah and Rich Travis of Oklahoma City.

Players from 10 major college conferences and 29 schools will compete in the trials. The top 18 players will be chosen after Saturday's finals.

The 18 chosen Saturday will train in Alamosa, Colo. later this summer where the list will be narrowed to the 12 players who will represent the U.S. in Mexico City next October.

The players are divided into eight teams — three NCAA university division teams, one NCAA college division entry, one armed forces team, one AAU all-stars team, one junior college all-stars team and a team from NAIA small college stars.

The junior college ranks are headed by Spencer Hayward of Trinidad Junior College, the nation's top small college rebounder this season.

The trials will feature four games each day, starting with the NCAA red team meeting the armed forces all-stars in the inaugural game today.

Hank Iba, Oklahoma State University mentor, will oversee the coaches of the various teams. Iba has been selected to coach the U.S. team in the Olympics.

Cronin Ain't Prognosticating

BOSTON (UPI)—American League President Joe Cronin doesn't make flat pennant predictions. But he sounds like he's going to have all his Red Sox bleached white very shortly.

Cronin, making his annual home office visit between a tour of spring training camps and a round of opening games in various AL cities, discussed each of the 10 teams during a news conference Wednesday.

When he was through, it sounded like the White Sox, Tigers, White Sox, Red Sox and White Sox are the teams to beat in his league this season.

Hope's For Tight Race Cronin went on to voice the hope that the American League can have another multi-team pennant fight in 1968 similar to the one which pushed league attendance to a record high a year ago.

Pampa will be the site of the fourth round of the District 3-AAAA golf chase to be played starting at 9 a.m. Friday at Pampa Country Club.

Monterey is still number one in the standings with a 14-stroke lead over Tascosa who is leading third place Borger by one little putt.

In fourth place now is Coronado four strokes behind Borger followed by Plainview 21 off the pace of the fourth place team—and 40 off the lead to the Plainsmen in the top spot.

Next is Amarillo High 61 off the pace and pretty well out of it for the top honors with just two left to play.

Pampa is next on the list, followed by Lubbock, Palo Duro and Caprock.

Steve Grady is leading the Harvesters with a total of 245 for four rounds which is about 25 off the pace of the leader Mike Knight of Monterey, according to Coach Eural Ramsey. Pampa's second man on the links is Tim New, Harry Aureli, Tommy Rose, Steve Walls and Greg Gunter.

The final round to decide the final standings in the district will be played on the Ross Rogers Municipal Golf Course Friday.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Guns To Spawn Sorrow, Trouble

A vague anxiety, compounded and violence or the threat of violence on the part of whites. As for crime, this, too, is in great part a matter of Negro against Negro. The fact that law-abiding Negroes "now feel they must arm themselves says more about the failure of the police to protect the ghetto dwellers from the criminals among them than it does about any plan to make war on the whites.

Homeowners, housewives, businessmen, cab drivers, people who have never owned a gun and don't know how to handle one, are buying revolvers, pistols, rifles, shotguns and ammunition. Few states or municipalities have any sort of restrictions governing the sale of guns, and what laws exist are easily circumvented.

Soviet Headache: Five-Day Week

After 50 years of promises to its citizens, the Soviet Union has caught up in one more respect with those beastly, worker-exploiting capitalists in other countries.

As a present to the people during the celebration of the golden anniversary of the Revolution last year, a five-day week was instituted. Actually, it is a 41-hour week and applies to only 75 per cent of the Russian work force.

Nevertheless, the result has been a mess, according to the official party newspaper Pravda, which charges that the "excessively hasty" changeover has caused waste, confusion and damage to production in some industries.

Though the five-day week has reportedly raised worker morale and increased productivity

Self-Starter for Progress

Preseason publicity is ballyhooing the latest advance in lawnmowers — key-operated self-starters, no less.

Here, as with automobiles and so many other things, the credit can probably be given to the women's influence. Anyway, it is one more small example of how competition in a free enterprise system spurs progress.

Some may complain that manufacturers' sole interest in introducing annual and sometimes meaningless model changes is simply to make us discontented with last year's product, and that last year's product is deliberately engineered to wear out at a precise rate that will

Those Unfulfilled Promises

The season of the unredeemable pledge is at hand again. Let the citizen be wary, lest he be unduly influenced by promises that cannot be kept.

Since we don't indulge in Russian roulette, this is said outside the framework of partisan politics. History records that aspirants for the presidency and lesser office, from all parties, have, more often than not, indulged in the temptation to promise things that cannot be delivered — not, at any rate, unless they happen to be lucky.

It is in a like non-partisan spirit that we illustrate with a recent case in point. Richard M. Nixon, an election day in the New Hampshire primary dived for, was quoted in press dispatches as saying this to an audience in the town of Hampton, N.H.: "I pledge to you the new leadership will end the war and win the peace in the Pacific."

Editor:

I have been approached by numerous people, who seem to be interested in our school system, as to why I filed for a position on the Pampa Independent School Board. This question is not as simple to answer as it may seem. The first impression that people seem to assume is that a candidate files for this position because of some negative attitude toward one phase of the system or that he is displeased with the overall program. I can truthfully say this certainly is not the case, and I hope it is not a factor with any candidate.

Since I have no axes to grind nor complaints of our overall school curriculum, then why did I file? Well, why go to Church? Why belong to a civic organization? Why support service organizations? Why give to charities? There could be several answers, but the primary reason has to be that you believe in them. This is my reason for filing. I believe in our youth.

I believe we have a good school system and that we have dedicated personnel that deserve board members who will share their interests. I believe a board member should give the necessary time it should take to serve on this board. I believe that all people of our school district should be represented.

I would like to see our school system have a set of clearly defined written policies available to anyone wanting to see them. I would like to see Pampa join the rest of our state and secure a seven-man school board.

This is a non-paying service. It certainly cannot help a person financially in any way. I know from experience that it invites criticism. To serve as a board member takes time away from his family and his work. A board member has nothing to gain except satisfaction in performing a service for a cause he believes in. I served on the Pampa School Board from 1959 to 1962. In those three years we had 45 meetings. I missed two of them, one being a called meeting.

A board member is obligated to the citizens of our school district to show an interest in school affairs and discharge the public trust and confidence they put in him when they elect him to serve. Serve — yes, that is just what the word means. If the people of Pampa want a person willing to do this, if elected I will serve to the best of my ability.

Elmer D. Wilson

Things will work out, of course — as soon as the bureaucrats who decreed this onset of leisure decide what, where, when and how to tell the Russians to cope with it.

Finished goods pile up at Saturday-closed factories and delays in unloading parts and raw materials have been experienced. People have also complained about the weekend closing of stores and curtailment of bus, train and other services.

in general, Pravda laments that many factories, are loafing along during most of the month, then racing at the end to fulfill production quotas, with accompanying sacrifice of quality. In some cases, the shortened work week has been nullified by the need for overtime to make up lost output.

Colonel Nicholas Markarev, a minister in the new military government, says, "Everyone in the army was disgusted with the way things were going. We were worried about the future because Greece was systematically headed toward Communism."

Soviet Russia is now making a big play for the Middle East. Producer of almost 30 per cent of the world's oil. While we go all-out for Israel, Nasser delivers the Arabs to the enemy. If the Middle East goes Communist and if the Mediterranean should become a Communist lake with Greece in its southern anchor, then the ball game would be over. The Communists would then take the rest. And that means us.

Our "liberals" cry "dictatorship." I saw none of the usual trappings of dictatorship. No pictures of leaders on any billboards or in any public places, or even in their own offices. No haranguing of the mob. No propaganda. No blackshirts. No "youth corps." No excess of policemen. No soldiers. No earmarks of a regime which wants and plans to hold power permanently. One feels completely safe walking the streets here at night, which is more than can be said for any large American city.

The new regime is for private initiative, for a free economy, for NATO, for the West (and particularly for the USA) and against the Communists. Our aid has been almost all military, most of which has been withheld since the colonels' coup. Greece is surrounded by Communists. The new government has reaffirmed support of NATO and of our war in Vietnam.

Every Greek I talked with prefers this government to the former one. The people were fed up with inefficiency, disgraceful behavior, bribery, theft and the Papandreu regime. The people obviously prefer military rule, if necessary, to the brutality, intrigue, corruption and subversion of left-wing political rule.

"I don't like any kind of dictatorship — left or right," a native told me. "but I must say that our present military dictatorship is a better government in every way than the corrupt and inefficient 'democracy' it replaced."

Campaign pledges in this last respect have been conspicuous by their absence.

Straight Talk

By TOM ANDERSON

Well, sir, President Johnson kept talking against foreign travel so much and the "Liberal" press and networks kept talking against the new Greek government so much, that I felt a compulsion, as the hippies say, to "take a trip." It's the lying "liberals" who've gone to pot, and not Greece.

Greece's troubles go back, not to April 21, 1967, when the colonel's coup occurred, but to 1830 when, having won independence from Turkey, Greece, the cradle of democracy, became a kingdom. King Constantine's father, Paul, was a strong-willed king, determined to govern and not merely reign. Constantine's troubles began immediately after his father's death in 1964 and were brought on mainly by his own anti-monarch Prime Minister George Papandreu. Spearheaded a conspiracy to overthrow King Constantine and set up a leftist "democracy" similar to that of Egypt's President Nasser.

Twenty-seven year old King Constantine, self-exiled in Rome is honest and well-meaning. He is not a playboy. He is a hard worker. But he didn't have enough power either to prevent the chaotic situation, or to take over, or to prevent a Communist takeover.

Colonel Nicholas Markarev, a minister in the new military government, says, "Everyone in the army was disgusted with the way things were going. We were worried about the future because Greece was systematically headed toward Communism."

Soviet Russia is now making a big play for the Middle East. Producer of almost 30 per cent of the world's oil. While we go all-out for Israel, Nasser delivers the Arabs to the enemy. Senate Subcommittee Probing Reports F-111A's Flew Vietnam Missions With No Defense Guns

By Paul Scott

WASHINGTON—The Senate Preparedness subcommittee is investigating reports that the F-111A is being used in Vietnam without any defensive armament.

Several top military authorities have vigorously complained to Senator John L. McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Permanent Investigating Subcommittee, that the controversial Air Force bomber has had all its guns taken off it.

According to the military complaints, the 20-millimeter "galling" guns were removed from the F-111A after one of the guns became overheated and "blew up" causing the plane to crash.

Senator McClellan, who has been the chief critic of the F-111A program, has ordered a full-scale investigation of these and other charges involving the combat readiness of the controversial fighter-bomber.

In addition to probing why the armament was removed from the aircraft, McClellan's investigation will cover why the fighter-bomber was ordered into combat at this time.

Its use in Vietnam, which has already resulted in the loss of two F-111A's, came after several of these aircraft crashed during test flights in the U.S.

The government men were assigned by President Johnson to find out who leaked the stories that the F-111A had been ordered into combat in Vietnam and whether any of the crashes in the U.S. were caused by sabotage.

Meanwhile, top defense department authorities have been told by the White House to put a tight lid on all information covering details of how the two F-111A's were lost in combat operations in Southeast Asia.

The highly controversial hearings are saving the lives of U.S. fighting men in Vietnam and making U.S. bombing of hidden enemy targets much more accurate.

Rep. Cornelius E. Gallagher, D-N. J., chairman of a House Government Operations subcommittee, received this welcome news from top U.S. military command in Vietnam recently after Air Force B-52s knocked out a hidden North Vietnamese artillery post that was bombarding the Marine base at Khe Sanh.

The big U.S. bombers dropped their giant payload on the enemy's mountain post after U.S. intelligence reported "hearing hundreds of voices in the area." The voices were picked up by tiny marble-sized listening devices which had been dropped on the mountain by a small U.S. plane, although no enemy troops had been spotted there.

Crimes Against Humanity: Hardly anyone who can read is unaware that last year—1967—was the 50th anniversary to the Bolshevik Revolution in Russia.

Our papers and magazines were filled with accounts "50 years later." It is no coincidence that "progress" was the theme of most of these articles; for it was the theme of the entire Communist anniversary propaganda.

The image thus projected by the Soviets was glamorous — and untrue. Conveniently unmentioned, for instance, were the millions of lives, the scores of nations, that have fallen prey to Red bestiality since 1917.

Thanks to Young Americans for Freedom and Twin Circle—The National Catholic Press, however, some of us have had a chance to hear about the other side of Communism's "progress" through these years. The two above-mentioned groups helped organize and produce a moot trial last month, in which international Communism was tried for its innumerable crimes.

The trial took place in Washington, at Georgetown University's Hall of Nations. Five well-known judges—one of whom is the former president of the United Nations Security Council—presided. Although 20 national Communist parties and 12 American Communists had been served with "summons," they did not reply. So the court appointed a defense counsel to act on their behalf.

This was Communism put on trial for "crimes against humanity." The evidence brought forth at this occasion is enough to move even the most lethargic persons from their apathy.

One witness after another took the stand to tell of personal experience with the crimes of Communism. Spectators and the battered shoulders and back of the Rev. Richard Wurmbrand, who suffered torture and imprisonment under the Communists in Rumania. They heard the chilling testimony of Dr. Stefan Possony, lecturer and faculty advisor at the National War College, who warned that the Russians have two space weapons which could be employed in the near future, giving the United States, in some cases, little more than three minutes warning.

The three days of testimony were filled with agonizing, first-person accounts of torture, persecution of Christians and Jews under Communism, and infiltration taking place today within the United States.

The court, of course, could not officially "sentence" the guilty individuals. But it can—and we hope it will—convince the American people of the brutal horror that is the reality of Communism.

We are glad to report that a one-hour documentary film is being prepared, using the video tape on which the trial proceedings were filmed. For those Americans who could not be in Washington last month, this film is "must" viewing. For more information, contact Young Americans for Freedom, 1221 Massachusetts Avenue, N. W., Washington, D.C. 20005.

Indianapolis News: A recently released State Department report confirms what congressional critics of foreign aid have been saying for several years now: Widespread waste and corruption prevail in the program.

An investigating unit of the State Department has picked up evidence of waste which is, by itself, disturbing but becomes particularly serious in view of the country's current balance-of-payments deficit.

The investigators discovered, for example, that 18 large crates of tool kits intended for the Paraguayan army had been sitting on docks in Buenos Aires for nine years. They found 10 tons of chains, bound originally for Pakistan, had been lying on docks in Weehawken, N. J., since 1965. In Brazil, stores of expensive electronic equipment, more than the country wanted or needed, were discovered unused.

The report cites chapter and verse on similar instances which, taken together, are a serious indictment of foreign aid administration. The findings surface just as the White House is wrestling with the nation's foreign-exchange crisis, and it is obvious that unjustified foreign aid spending has contributed to the dollar drain.

The Johnson administration is asking the American people to keep their travel dollars at home this summer and proposing a punitive travel tax. First, we think, it should curtail foreign aid spending and keep its dollars in Washington.

Wit and Whimsy: A father told his teen-aged daughter that he wanted her home by 11 p.m. Molly — But Father, I'm no longer a child. Mr. Jones (her father) — I know. That's why I want you home by 11.

We like the youngster who claimed to have the smartest dog in the world. "All I have to say to the dog," the boy explained, "is are you coming or aren't you?, and he either comes or he doesn't."

Mrs. Diggs — Can you imagine, my dear! Just as the bride was coming down the aisle in the altar, he turned and ran out and left town. Mrs. Diggs — Lost his nerve? Mrs. Diggs — No — found it. Don't worry if a rival imitates you. While he follows in your tracks he cannot pass you.
