New Defense Secretary To Keep Moderate Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara will hand successor Clark Clifford a detailed program of military moderation expected to continue for some time even if Clifford disagrees with underlying policies. But there is constant pressure for a bigger effort to force an end to the fighting in Vietnam, and Pentagon observers believe the McNamara plan might not survive the long haul—say a year. Officials already have revealed that the plan calls for a 1968 draft of 302,000, compared to 383,000 in 1966 when the men they will be replacing were inducted. It also provides for slight decreases in total arms strength and aircraft production, along with only a moderate increase in Vietnam spending. McNamara will spell out the program in great detail in his annual book-length "Posture Statement" before the Senate Armed Services Committee, probably February 5 or 12, and to the House Appropriations and Armed Services Committees. Before leaving office to become president of the World Bank no later than March 1, McNamara will have the program so well under way that many of its provisions cannot be changed in a matter of weeks or months. Since the draft has been set at a total of 96,300 for the first three months of this year, his overall figure would call for inductions at a rate of 23,000 monthly for the rest of 1968. This would compare with monthly quotas averaging 30,000 in 1966 and 18,500 in 1967. Total military strength would drop from 3,488,000 July 1, to 3,475,000 on July 1, 1969. All of the 13,000 reduction would be from the Army. Spending for Vietnam would be virtually stabilized. It would rise from $24.5 billion for the year ending July 1, to $25.7 billion in fiscal 1969. Total military spending would go from $74.3 billion to $77.2 billion. Probably the touchiest parts of McNamara's plan are a slight reduction in aircraft production, which has been keeping only marginally ahead of U.S. losses in Vietnam, and a nine-month delay in installing the more advanced Minuteman 3 intercontinental missile.

Locke Quits Viet Post To Run for Governor

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Eugene Locke of Dallas left his troubleshoot post as Deputy Ambassador to Vietnam Saturday to run for governor of Texas with the obvious blessings of Gov. John Connally. The 49-year-old Locke, flanked by the governor's brother, Merrill Connally who will be his campaign manager, told a news conference he wants to continue "the effective, progressive, creative government based on sound principles which we have had under Gov. Connally." He said he hopes to have the backing of the governor, "although I will not ask him to endorse me." Connally has said he would not publicly support any of the candidates in the Democratic primary. Locke became the fifth person to announce for the Democratic nomination. But none of the others had the obvious backing of Connally. Locke said he did expect to have the help of the governor's statewide organization. He pointed out that he and Connally had been friends all their lives.

Huge Nuclear Test Set Off in Nevada

HOT CREEK VALLEY, Nev. (UPI)—Data from a nuclear explosion comparable to one million tons of TNT was fed into computers today as scientists pressed their search for a bomb with more bounce to the ounce. The blast Friday, detonated at a new site 3,200 feet below the sagebrush country of central Nevada, was 50 times more powerful than the bomb that was dropped on Hiroshima in 1945.

The earth shook 200 miles away from ground zero in San Francisco, while the tremor also rolled northward and rattled windows in downtown Salt Lake City. Government officials declined to give the exact magnitude of the device, but it was believed to be the largest U.S. explosion since 1966, when a similar project registered in the intermediate yield range. The test was conducted to aid in the acceleration of the U.S. underground thermonuclear explosion program.

The test, dubbed "Faultless," was conducted by the Atomic Energy Commission, which is looking for a suitable area to experiment with the biggest underground nuclear weapons ever tested by this country.

Stop Signs Will Go Up Along New Through Streets

Pampa's overall street improvement program last summer has brought a necessity for a major stop sign project along a half dozen new through streets. Heavier traffic on some of the major streets affected by the paving of approximately 140 city blocks has created some hazardous intersections if not controlled, City Manager Jim White said Saturday. The city commission at its regular meeting at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday is expected to approve an ordinance on first reading authorizing erection of stop signs at many intersections leading into five or six new thoroughfares to be designated as through streets. These through streets will include Tyng, Tignor, Crawford, Bond streets and 16th Ave.

Nixon Attacks LBJ On Economy, War

By United Press International
Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Saturday that President Johnson has "wrecked" the economy at home and lost ground to the Communists abroad in the world balance of power. Nixon predicted the Soviet Union would match the U.S. nuclear capability by 1971 and pass it by 1972 if the present Johnson administration policies continue. The former vice president, presidential nomination, said the major issue of the 1968 campaign will not be Johnson's personality, but the President's policies "in all affairs."

Ten Americans recuperating from war wounds were hurt and a South Vietnamese civilian patient was killed. The U.S. Command said seven other Americans were wounded at the highlands base 230 miles northeast of Saigon in the attack which began at 12:40 a.m.

Reports reaching Saigon said 122-millimeter rockets (about 5 inches in diameter) having a range of about seven miles hit the U.S. 71st Medical Evacuation Hospital, the Pleiku air field and South Vietnamese Army headquarters for II Corps. The headquarters of Lt. Gen. Vinh Loc, Vietnamese commander of the highlands zone, and the hospital were the key targets.

Race With Clock Won On Computer Trouble

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Engineers won a race with the clock Saturday and cleared the first Apollo moon lander for its launch attempt Monday atop the Saturn 1 rocket on which three astronauts died a year ago. The 16-ton lunar module, the ship built to land men on the moon, will be lofted unmanned into earth orbit for a realistic test of the engine's astronauts must rely on for a landing and takeoff from the lunar surface. Takeoff time for the Saturn and its bug-like Apollo 5 payload Monday hinged on how fast engineers could find the source of an elusive power failure in a ground computer, and when the final countdown begins. The countdown was set to start at 1:50 a.m. CST today and aim toward a 7 a.m. launch Monday, a space agency spokesman said both times remained in doubt Saturday night. The computer problem cropped up twice Friday during a countdown rehearsal and the second failure prematurely ended the test. Officials had hoped to trace the bug and correct the difficulty Saturday morning, but by early afternoon it was still unresolved. Friday night, before reversing itself, the space agency ruled out a Monday launch because of the computer problem and the delays it was expected to cause. A postponement of several days was said to be inevitable. But project officials later scrapped the ground rules that called for such a delay and decided anew to try for the original launch day. The lunar module, built by the Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp., is the only untested link in the chain of Apollo machinery built to get men to the moon and back this decade. Success on the Apollo 5 mission should clear it for manned flight late this year. The lunar module is the Apollo spacecraft section that will ferry astronauts from a three-man command module in orbit around the moon to a lunar landing. It also will serve as a rocket to launch the moon explorers from the moon to a rendezvous with the mother ship. For its maiden outing, the spacecraft will perform as if it were actually approaching the moon 240,000 miles away. Its landing engine will be fired a record 12 minutes to simulate a descent to the moon and then its takeoff engine will duplicate a moon landing. The lunar module's Saturn 1 rocket was the booster that was supposed to orbit the first team of Apollo astronauts last February, Roger Chaffee, Edward White and Virgil Grissom were killed last Jan. 27 in a fire in their Apollo 1 capsule which was mounted on the Saturn. The rocket was not damaged by the accident and was later moved to a nearby launch pad for the unmanned lunar module launch.

TOP SECRET? Board Minutes Not Available to Public

By WANDA MAE HUFF
It was learned during the weekend that minutes of the Jan. 16 executive session of the Pampa School Board, when Dr. John Damron was relieved of duties and salary as school superintendent, were not available to the public. There seemed to be a bit of confusion as to just when they would be available. First attempt to see the minutes was made in a telephone call Friday to acting superintendent McHenry Lane who said neither he nor school business manager Homer Craig had them in their possession. Lane suggested that board president H. Creel Grady Jr. be contacted. Grady, when called said attorney Bill Waters had the minutes and to check with him. Waters is the attorney called in midway during last Tuesday night's executive meeting to counsel with the board in the absence of the city of Arthur Teed, the board's regular attorney. When asked when the minutes would be open to the public, Waters advised they would not be available until read and approved by the school board. Asked when that would be, Waters said he didn't know and suggested that board president Grady be contacted about that. Contacted again Saturday, Grady said he wasn't definitely sure when the next board meeting would be. A meeting already has been set for Jan. 25 to take up unfinished business from the last regular meeting on Jan. 11. The school board president Saturday said he was not sure whether it would be held on that date or not. The next regular monthly meeting of the board is not scheduled until Feb. 8. When asked if a meeting would be held Jan. 25 (continuation of the Jan. 14 meeting), Grady said: "Right now, as far as I know, I can't answer that. There are too many people out of town." Asked if the previously announced agenda would be used at the next meeting, if it is held Jan. 25, Grady answered: "Yes, but I've not discussed it with anyone. I don't know definitely yet." When asked how many board members were required for the board president to call a meeting, Grady said he didn't know. A few minutes later, he called back and said requests were needed from two members to call a meeting. In answer to the direct question: When will minutes of the Jan. 16 executive session be made available to the public Grady replied: "I don't know, you'd better ask Mr. Waters about that." (Waters already had referred the reporter to Grady for an answer to the question.) "At this time I don't know when the minutes will be read and approved. As soon as I find out, I'll call you," Grady said. Grady said last Tuesday night, immediately following the executive meeting, that as soon as the minutes were typed they would be filed in the public records. It was learned Dr. Damron had asked Friday to see the minutes of the meeting, but they were not made available (See MINUTES, Page 3)

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The future of air travel was discussed here this week by the men who hold the key to aviation progress.

A meeting of aircraft designers? Don't be silly. Those guys couldn't hold the key to the washroom.

This was a meeting of the highway research board.

Yes, friends, far more than the men who design, build or fly airplanes, far more than Sandra Dee and others who star in the in-flight movies, the future of air travel is in the hands of the roadbuilders.

For what doth it profit an airline to possess supersonic jets of staggering dimensions, wondrous capabilities and stereoscopic movie screens if the passengers can't get to the airport?

Airport Access Critical

Speakers at the highway research board's convention warned that traffic jams aground will severely impede development aloft unless more and better roads are provided.

This problem becomes particularly acute when we consider that because of noise, air pollution and other factors, new airports must be located away from urban centers.

The Dulles International Airport, which the Federal Aviation Administration claims is in the Washington area, is a good example.

According to the FAA, Dulles is located west of Washington in the neighboring state of Virginia. But people who drive to the airport get the impression it is somewhere in Ohio.

It has been my experience that the best way to get to Dulles is to drive to Philadelphia and catch a plane south. As jets become bigger and noisier and step up their smoke output, the trend toward airport remoteness is certain to accelerate.

Center Wrap-Up

George Smith, Director
 Pampa Youth and Community Center

TEEN DANCES: The Center just received a phone call from the manager of Floyd and Jerry of Phoenix, Ariz. They are making plans to tour this area during the first of March and we are negotiating for their appearance here. Floyd and Jerry are professional entertainers of TV, radio and the movies. They finished their first picture this summer called "Without Getting" and has been a tremendous success. Their records "Dusty", "Summer Kisses" and "Without Getting" have all been top sellers. Also in April and May we will have other top attractions such King Midas and the Mufflers, Blue Things and the Derby Hallville Band. The Center is at present presenting some new talent mixed with the proven bands. Also on March 7 and April 11 special dances will be held. The current schedule is: Jan. 26 Willowdale Handcars; Feb. 2 Jekey and the Hydies; Feb. 9 Lilae Library; Feb. 16 Torrents; Feb. 23 Motifs.

SWIM LESSONS: The new year of swim lessons has started and will continue without interruption for the rest of the year. All classes are taught by Jackie Marlar, Red Cross Water Safety Ins. The Center uses the Red Cross plan of swimming which includes beginners, advanced beginners, intermediates, swimmers, Jr. life saving, Sr. Life saving and W.S.I. Courses are available to everyone with enrollment free to Center members and $3 for non-members. You need only come by the Center and enroll. Classes are:

 (This class will not meet April 12 or 15).

MEMBERSHIPS: The Center is operated on a membership plan and is not like most Youth Centers in that it is NOT tax supported. All operations at the Center are supported by donations, from individuals, companies and other businesses. By this support membership fees are kept below cost as compared to other YMCAs and recreation centers over the country. The Center offers two types of memberships. One, the individual membership, which is for persons 8 years of age or older including adults. This sells for $5 for six months and $8 per year. The reason for the lower age limit is that we do not allow children under 8 years of age in our swimming pool unless they have a chaperon. The other membership is the family one. This membership when purchased includes all members of the immediate family and sells for $12 for six months and $20 per year.

Hoffa, Officers Agree To Pay Defense Costs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Imprisoned James R. Hoffa, Teamster Union president, and his fellow officers have agreed to the demands of four rank and file members to repay $100,000 of more than $400,000 spent on his defense against mail fraud and jury tampering charges.

The union also agreed not to pay legal fees in the future for any of its officers, agents or employees accused of breach of duty to the union in the handling of its money or its property, or in matters unrelated to union activities.

A settlement agreement was filed in U.S. District Court here with Judge Spottswood W. Robinson, who must approve it before it becomes effective.

The suit was brought by teamster members Jesse Colpo, Benjamin Burnham, Louis Botone and John Regan of Local 107 in Philadelphia, in April, 1964, against Hoffa, other union officers and three bonding companies—Niagara Fire and Insurance Co., Resolute Insurance Co., and Citizens Casualty Co.

Hoffa, who is serving a 13-year sentence in the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., was re-elected to a five-year term as president at the union's 1966 convention.

Frank A. Fitzsimmons, the Teamster general vice president, is running the union in Hoffa's absence.

At its 1961 convention in Miami Beach, the union amended its constitution to allow union funds to be used for legal defense of officers accused of various offenses. The four dissident members claimed this was a breach of the labor-management reporting and disclosure act of 1959.

Committee Will Seek Abolition Of Border Development Commission

EL PASO (UPI)—Delegates to the U.S.-Mexico Border Cities Association meeting will be submitted a resolution asking that the U.S.-Mexico Commission for Border Development be abolished.

An association committee working on a proposed resolution to that effect, asking that the work of the commission be put into the International Bonardy and Water Commission. The move would eliminate the jobs held by Raymond Telles, former El Paso mayor, and Jose Vivanco, the commission leader in U.S. and Mexico, respectively.

Don Irvin, president of the Border Cities Association, said many members thought the Telles-Vivanco commission had done little and had no funds. "They have dodged questions that are important to us on the border but which do not seem important from the Washington angle," Irvin contended. "The IBWC, on the other hand, is already funded, has a staff... and has operated without political fanfare."

the Drama of DRUGS

Despite the marvelous results obtained by means of wide-spread free administration of the Salk anti-polio vaccine, the powerful crippling is still a long way from being wiped out as a menace to health.

The reason for this is that many parents have failed to do their duty through carelessness, negligence, or just plain ignorance. Children have not received their polio shots with the result that babies are still ending up in iron lungs and wheel chairs. Much of this could have been prevented if parents had known that polio strikes most frequently when the victim is under five years of age, that children not in contact with others can still get the disease, and that the age of four to six weeks is not too young for babies to begin their series of shots.

So, if your child hasn't received his or her immunization series, consult your physician.

A very vital guard for your health is your pharmacist, who always keeps fresh supplies of drugs on hand. This supply means that you immediately receive the medicines your physician prescribes.

In this weekly column, Citizens Bank & Trust Co. will seek to provide answers to questions frequently asked of us about banking practices and bank services. If YOU have a question which has been puzzling you, write us a letter and we'll get the answer for you!

Q. What is the meaning of the numbers which are printed as a fraction in the upper right hand corner of my checks and what are those funny-looking figures printed in the lower left hand part of the checks?
 —K.S.

A. The top of the fraction (the hyphenated number) is a Transit Number, identifying this bank by a numerical designation. The bottom half of the fraction is called the Routing Symbol; it identifies by number the Federal Reserve District in which this bank is located. This visual symbol has long been used by banks to provide for quick, efficient handling of checks. But, with America's more than 65 million checking account users now writing billions of checks annually, an even faster and more accurate method of handling checks has had to be developed by banks. The need for faster processing brings us to your question about the "funny looking figures" in the lower left hand part of your checks. Those figures are actually magnetic ink characters which contain a code incorporating some of the visual symbols mentioned above plus your own individual account number at this bank. The magnetic code permits electronic machines to "read" your checks and swiftly identify this bank's Federal Reserve District, the bank itself and your account number. It speeds-up the check handling process all along the line.

Week In Review

By JIM C. BARDEN
 United Press International
 A determined President Johnson, speaking before members of Congress and appearing to millions on television, this week promised new social progress at home and no let up in the Vietnam war without reciprocal military reduction by the enemy.

The President's comments on the war were brief compared to his domestic proposals in the State of the Union Message in which he outlined his programs for the nation and what he thought it would take to get them going.

This would include a budget for the coming fiscal year that would put government spending at a record $186 billion, up $10.4 billion.

To maintain the strength of the dollar, Johnson called on Congress to enact a 10 per cent surcharge on corporate and individual income taxes and to remove the "gold cover" backing for the dollar.

On the domestic front, Johnson said the real question was "How can all share in our abundance?"

Johnson's answers were proposals to increase the model cities program by $1 billion, the appropriation for the war on poverty by $2.1 billion, an increase in job training funds by $1.6 billion, and the start of a 10-year campaign to build 6 million new homes for low and middle-income families.

As for the war effort in the next fiscal year, Johnson said that would take $1.3 billion of a proposed $2.9 billion increase in defense spending.

Around the world:
 Saigon — South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu charged the United States with "working alone" for peace talks instead of allowing Saigon to play the central role. U.S. officials immediately assured the Saigon Government it would be consulted on all peace proposals.

Guatemala City—Two members of the U.S. Military Mission were killed and two other U.S. servicemen wounded in a shooting the government blamed on leftwing terrorists backed by Cuba's Fidel Castro.

Washington—Negro songstress Eartha Kitt, at a White House luncheon to discuss President Johnson's safe city proposals took Mrs. Johnson to task for her husband's Vietnam policy, telling her: "You send the best of this country off to be shot and maimed. No wonder the kids rebel and take pot."

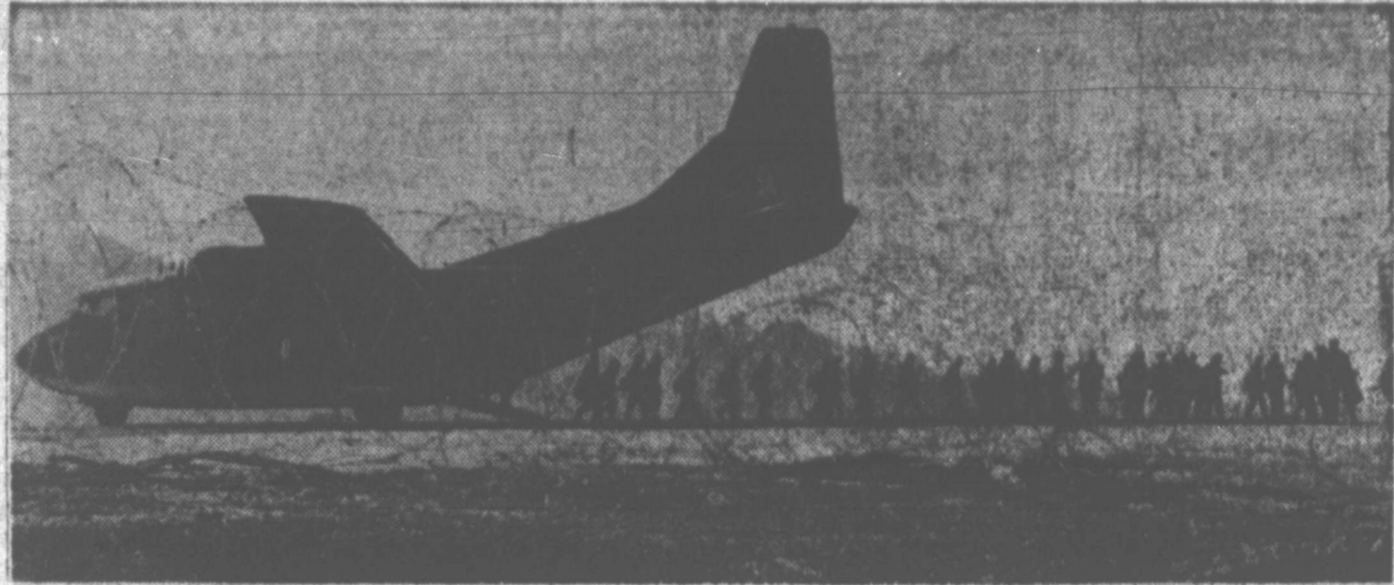

Geneva—The United States and the Soviet Union agreed upon a treaty to halt the spread of nuclear weapons and officials predicted it would be ready for worldwide signing by late spring or early summer.

Rome—Pope Paul named Frances James Cardinal Brennan of Philadelphia to the highest Vatican position ever given to an American—head of the Congregation of Sacraments.

Palermo—A succession of earthquakes destroyed or damaged several communities in the mountainous western tip of Sicily, leaving nearly 200 dead.

New York—Weeks of intensive stock market trading led the nation's three leading securities markets to shorten indefinitely the trading day by 90 minutes.

Washington—President Johnson, in another move to stem the flow of U.S. dollars abroad, ordered American embassies and other overseas agencies to cut their staffs by 10 per cent.

Mothers' March Set For Monday Evening

More than two hundred mothers will ring doorbells Monday evening in Pampa to collect funds for the March of Dimes 30th Anniversary. When the March of Dimes mother comes to your door, open your heart and give, for your gift may make the difference between life and death for a child with birth defects.

pa's 1968 Mothers' March, said. They added, "We know all working with us feel the same way. It's a privilege to serve so worthy a cause. Every year 250,000 babies in the United States are born with birth defects. Birth defects are the nation's second greatest killer. They destroy an estimated 500,000 lives before birth and kill 60,000 children and adults each year."

The march will take place between 6 p.m. and 8 p.m.

"Marching mothers are grateful that they can help a child, and are grateful if their own children are healthy," Mrs. Paul Howard and Mrs. Jake Osborne, co-chairmen of Pampa's 1968 Mothers' March, said. In 1916, Mexican revolutionary leader Pancho Villa killed 18 American mining engineers after taking them from a train in Santa Ysabel, Mexico.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Income Tax Questions, Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE — This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the Pampa office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published by The News as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—Is it true you can now deduct one-half of your medical insurance premiums even if you don't itemize your deductions?

A—No, that is not the way this provision works. One-half of the premiums paid for medical insurance up to a maximum of $150 may now be deducted without regard to the 3 per cent of income limitation on medical expenses, but only when the taxpayer itemizes his deductions. The balance is included with other medical expenses subject to the 3 per cent rule. Procedures for handling medical expenses are described in the 1040 instructions. Be sure to read them carefully before starting on your 1967 return.

Q—If I file my return now, how long will it take to get my refund?

A—The normal processing cycle for refunds is 5-6 weeks if the return is accurate and complete. Send your return directly to your regional service center for better service. To avoid delays, be sure your Social Security number is entered accurately, all W-2 forms are attached, and the return is signed. Both husband and wife should sign if it is a joint return. Where the wife has income, her Social Security number and W-2 forms must be included.

Q—Is there any tax on Social Security benefits?
 A—No, these benefits are not subject to Federal tax.

Q—What is the purpose of the gas tax tables in the 1040 instructions? I thought you could just deduct 10 cents a mile for use of your car.

A—The gas tax tables provide a convenient method taxpayers can use to determine how much they can deduct for state gasoline tax for the personal use of a car. The 10 cents per mile figure you mentioned only applies to the business use of a car.

Q—What should I do with the statement I got from my savings bank showing the interest I earned? Does it have to be filed with my return like a W-2?

A—The Form 1099 you received is the bank's report to you as to the amount of interest you earned. Use teamwork shown on the statement when you report your interest income for the year adding it to interest earned from other sources. You do not have to file your copy of the 1099 with your tax return.

Old Moscow Newspaper Office Becomes Underground Museum

MOSCOW — Moscow boasts an underground museum so far underground you have to go down a ladder into a hidden well to find it.

You also must enter a wholesale fruit store, then go through a trapdoor in the floor behind the pulpitlike cash drawer.

The casual visitor who enters the premises by the front door — and inadvertently rings an alarm bell in doing so — sees only a neat display of prunes, raisins, walnuts, cheese and rice.

But just over 60 years ago a daring band of four men and two women put out an illegal revolutionary newspaper here — on a single flatbed press and in a room hollowed out of the clay beneath number 55 Lesnaya Ulitsa (Forest St.).

They courted arrest and possible death daily in their underground printing shop. Only two doors from one of Czarist Russia's most feared political prisons. Across the street stood an army garrison.

But they were never caught.

Today the underground printshop is known as a "branch of the State Revolutionary Museum of the USSR, underground printing shop of the Central Committee of the Russian Social Democratic Workers Party 1905-1908."

Faded copies of the tiny, two-column party organ, "Rabochi" (Worker), hang in frames in a cramped rear room where the manager of the wholesale fruit "front" once lived with his wife and family.

The result is one of the most realistic museums in the Soviet Union — recreated as its original operators remembered it in 1923 and not as latter day Communists might have thought it ought to have looked.

Outside the ashgrey, three-story stucco house in a so-called street of Moscow's former Georgian quarter the store is marked much like any other of Czarist times. "Whole sale Trader, Caucasian Fruits, Kalandadze."

Inside one is immediately struck by the simplicity of things — and reminded forcefully how little the shop differs from some out-of-the-way retail stores in the Soviet Union today.

Two glass bell jars shelter the cheeses, one of them the "brinza" which Georgians make out of goats' milk.

Most of the nuts and fruits are placed in neat square boxes in front of the counter. A bag of downstairs.

The rebels who manned the printing press persuaded their landlord to dig a well in the cellar storeroom to drain off excess water in winter.

Six feet down the well they dug a horizontal shaft. And another six feet within that shaft they constructed a tiny room, about five feet square. There they placed their flatbed press made in Augsburg, Germany. It was capable of turning out 500 copies of their newspaper "Rabochi" per hour.

For one year the revolutionaries manned the press. Sometimes they soaked their legs in the well water to get to their work. They shut down the press when the bell signalled someone — possibly a police or soldier neighbor — had entered the shop overhead.

Other secret printing plants in Moscow were raided but this one, operating literally beneath the noses of the police, continued to function.

Conditions, however, were hazardous for health as well as for proximity to the police. One of the men came down with tuberculosis. The rebels decided not to press their luck and the printshop was moved, press and all.

In 1923 the rebel survivors persuaded the now-victorious Bolsheviks to re-constitute the shop as it had formerly stood.

The re-builders found wadded lumps of printing paper, a heavy chunk of decomposed ink, warped typefaces, and the hidden room. They moved the original press back to its former hiding place and placed an old box for movable type in a hollow "bookshelf" cut in the wall.

There the press stands today, a copy of "Rabochi" in handset type locked in its mechanical maw ready to print out the words of the revolution: "Old Russia is dying. New Russia is being born."

Onetime 'Kid Sparrow,' Wife Of Millionaire, Dies in Paris

PARIS (UPI)—Those who remembered mourned the death Thursday of Licienne d'Hotelle, a sidewalk flower vender who married one of the world's richest men and was once linked romantically with Rudolph Valentino.

But unlike the heroine of Shaw's "Pygmalion," Licienne spoke the slangy French of the working class until she died Thursday at the age of 63.

It was one day in 1925 that Licienne sold a flower to a fashion designer who turned out to be Paul Poiret. He hired her as a model and soon afterward, she began a singing career.

She became the toast of Paris, earning the nickname of "La Mome Moineau" (kid sparrow). The name stuck throughout her life.

Once, on a tour of the United States, she was linked with Rudolph Valentino.

She once told of how she met her husband, Puerto Rican sugar magnate Felicio Valentin Benitez-Reinach. Exhausted after a singing performance, she lay down for a nap in his Cadillac parked outside her theater. He wakened her.

Later they were married.

She promised her husband she would end her singing career and went with him to Puerto Rico and reigned over what was a sort of jet set of the 1930s.

Mumps Vaccine Is Now Very Effective

Many people who rightly fear the effects of mumps, evidently do not know how easily it can be avoided. Mumps are more dangerous than people thought in past years. If a man of reproductive age gets this disease, the possibility exists that it can settle in the reproductive organs and cause sterility.

Many adults have forgotten whether or not they had mumps as a child. There is now a positive action skin test which will tell your physician. For, if you have not had mumps then the mumps vaccine is a "Must." It can prevent much potential harm.

Florence Experts Hot on Trail Of Giotto's Tomb

FLORENCE, Italy — The tomb of the father of all modern painting may be disastrous flood which hit Florence in November, 1966.

Art restoration experts hope that the remains of the ancient church of Santa Reparata (The Protected Saint), which have been rediscovered under the city's cathedral during restoration work on its foundations, may contain the tomb of Giotto di Bondone, who lived from 1266 to 1337.

According to tradition he was buried there with the honor accorded members of the Florentine nobility.

When city engineers responsible for protecting Florence's civic monuments began their arduous task of checking the foundations of the city's churches after the floods, they decided to dig up the entire 15th Century pavement of the Church of Santa Maria del Fiore (Saint Mary of the Flower), the cathedral of Florence.

It was known the cathedral, begun late in the 13th Century, was built partially over the Church of Santa Reparata, which had been one of the city's main churches since the 3rd Century.

When digging reached the site of the ancient church, engineers discovered at least two ancient family tombs — those of the Donati and Pucelli. Both were leading members of Florence's Republican era which preceded the renaissance.

National Wildlife Federation To Meet

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The 32nd annual meeting of the National Wildlife Federation, the Nation's largest private conservation organization, will be held in Houston March 8-10. Convention headquarters and site of all meetings, business sessions, speeches, and other program activities will be the Continental Houston Hotel. All sessions of the Federation's meetings are open to the public without charge.

Representatives of 49 state-wide conservation organizations, associate members, and other citizens interested in conservation affairs will be attending the Houston meeting. In addition, representatives of other conservation organizations, many state and federal government officials, and Texas sportsmen are expected to attend the three-day meeting.

Preliminary registration of convention delegates, participants and guests will start Thursday evening, March 7. The resolutions committee also has scheduled its first meeting that evening. Formal opening of the meeting is scheduled for 9 a.m. Friday, March 8, with the president, Dr. Donald J. Zinn, of Kingston, R. I., calling the meeting to order. During the Friday morning session, the federation will be officially welcomed to Texas and officers will present their annual reports to the membership. Friday afternoon's program will be devoted to a report and discussion of resolutions, followed by meetings of various Federation committees.

The program for Saturday is to focus public attention on a wide range of conservation problems and issues. Climaxing the Saturday program will be the federation's third annual Conservation Achievement Banquet, during which individuals and organizations throughout the country will be honored for outstanding contributions to the wise use and management of the nation's natural resources.

The final business session of the meeting will be held Sunday morning. Included on the agenda will be reports from Federation committees, election and installation of officers and directors.

Conservation Stamps Give Colorful Preview of Spring

WASHINGTON, D. C. — A colorful preview of Spring — 36 portraits of American stamps, birds, mammals, fish, insects, and plants — are now being received in millions of American homes as the National Wildlife Federation starts distribution of its 1968 National Wildlife Conservation Stamps.

Carrying on a tradition started 30 years ago by the late J. N. "Ding" Darling, first president of the National Wildlife Federation and the designer of the first stamps issued in 1938, this year's sheet of stamps features true-to-life reproductions of a wide variety of native flora and fauna. They include such well-known and admired species as the Spring peeper, Canada warbler, deer mouse, white trillium and green-winged teal. To acquaint Americans with some of the less conspicuous forms, however, the 1968 Conservation Stamps also feature such species as the wolverine, red wolf, Bahama duck, yellow darter, and spot-breasted oriole. The team of artists, working under the direction of Federation art director, Roger Tory Peterson, who prepared the paintings from which the stamps were reproduced include such famous names as Maynard Reece, Don Eckelberry, Guy Colebeach, Louis Darling, Don Mallick, Charles Ripper, Robert Kusserow, and A. E. Gilbert.

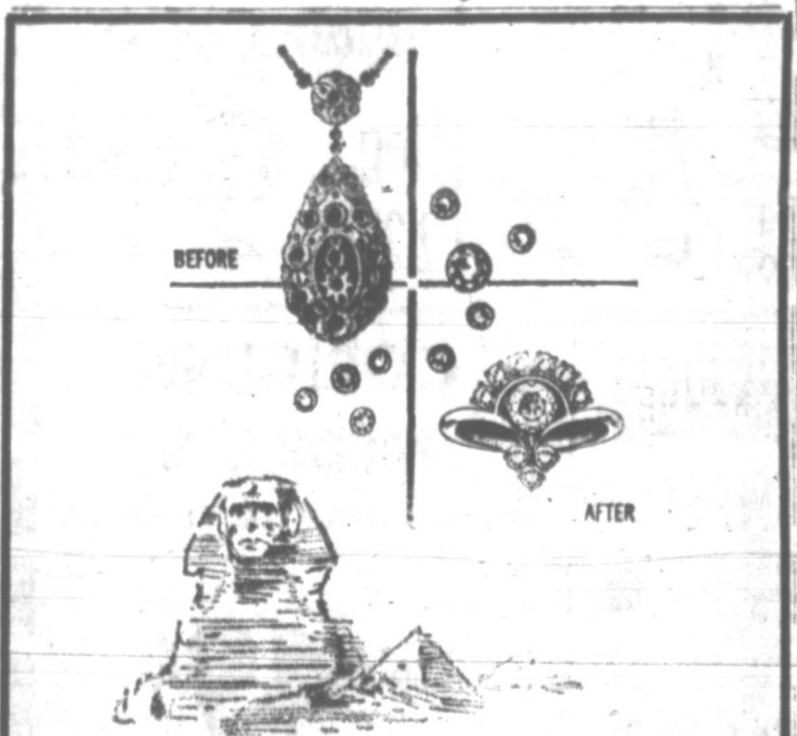

The Federation's world famous Conservation Stamps are designed for a wide range of decorative and educational uses. Many school children and teachers use them in nature study and save each set in special stamp albums produced for that purpose by the Federation. The albums contain complete descriptions and life histories of each species depicted on the stamps plus other educational articles about American wildlife. All proceeds received as voluntary contributions from persons receiving these stamps are used to support the National Wildlife Federation's far-reaching conservation education program.

Cong Announce Release of 14 South Vietnamese Officers

SAIGON (UPI)—A Viet Cong radio broadcast Friday announced the release of 14 captured South Vietnamese army officers ranging in rank from a second lieutenant to a major.

South Vietnamese military spokesmen in Saigon said they were unable to confirm the release of any prisoners, in guerrilla captivity.

The broadcast by the clandestine Viet Cong said the 14 captives were freed on the occasion of the seventh anniversary of the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the guerrilla insurgency.

It said the 14 were captured at different times and places in the northern part of South Vietnam in a period between early 1965 and later 1967. It did not say where or when they were released.

The report came on the heels of a disclosure that the United States had urged South Vietnam to release a group of North Vietnamese prisoners for Tet, the lunar new year beginning late this month.

Normally, South Vietnam sends a number of prisoners back to North Vietnam for "humanitarian reasons" during Tet. Thirty were released last year but three decided at the last minute to remain in South Vietnam.

Most Wanted US Criminal Nabbed by Canadian Police

TORONTO (UPI)—Richard Paul Anderson, 25, wanted in the United States for a double murder in St. Louis and a kidnaping in Mississippi, was captured here early today by Metropolitan Police.

Police said Anderson, one of the 10 most wanted criminals in the United States, was picked up for questioning in connection with three robberies and an abduction in Canada.

He was arrested while sleeping in a home where he had been staying in Toronto's downtown Leaside residential section. Police said he offered no resistance when they walked in and awakened him.

They said Anderson had been living here with an unidentified woman. The date of his entry into Canada had not been determined by detectives who questioned him.

A native of Buffalo, N.Y., Anderson was to be arraigned later today in Municipal Court on the armed robbery and abduction charges and on a count of illegal possession of an offensive weapon.

Police said they expected moves by U.S. authorities to precede to be given to extradite Anderson to St. Louis where he is accused of killing the parents of a girlfriend who killed him. The slayings occurred July 19, 1967.

Austin Men Start Defense Fund For Demonstrators

AUSTIN (UPI)—Four Austin men said Saturday they have organized a fund to help defend three protesters who were arrested while demonstrating against President Johnson at Killeen Dec. 12.

Sam Houston Clinton Jr., attorney for the three demonstrators, is attempting to test the validity of their arrests in federal court.

The three arrested were John Morby, a history instructor at the University of Texas; Zigmunt Smigaj, a graduate student at UT, and James Damon, a linguist who is working on a doctorate at the university.

They said they were attempting peacefully to display signs in opposition to the war in Vietnam during a Johnson speech when they were attacked by other spectators. Bell County sheriff's deputies arrested the demonstrators for disturbing the peace, but did not arrest the other spectators involved in the fracas.

Clinton has asked that a three-judge federal panel be convened to decide whether such use of a disturbance charges violates free speech guarantees.

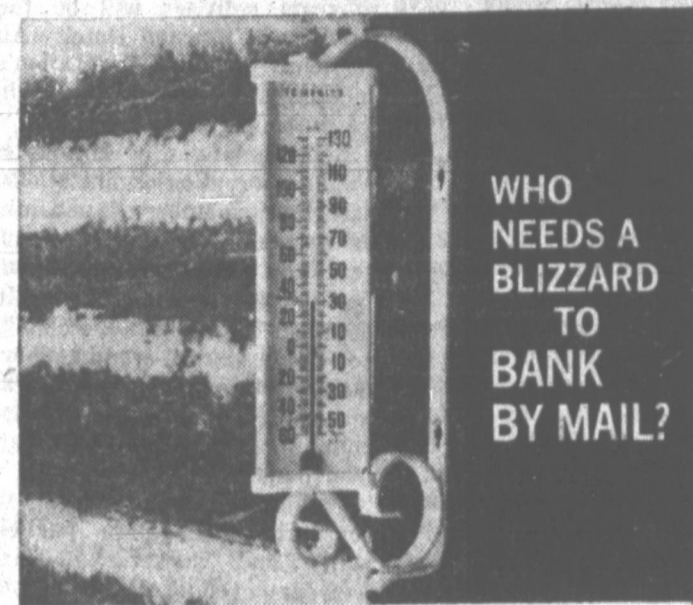

Co-chairmen of the defense fund are the Rev. Charles A. Howe, minister of the First Unitarian Church in Austin; Greg Olds, editor of the Texas Observer; Dr. Robert Palter, professor of history and philosophy at UT, and George Schatzki, a UT law professor and chairman of the central Texas chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Senator Launches Attack On Johnson's Viet Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., charged Friday that U.S. conditions for peace in Vietnam "demand what amounts to 'unconditional surrender' by the Communists."

Setting off the 1968 session's first major round of debate on Vietnam, Aiken accused President Johnson of trying to dupe the public into believing it is a "war against world communism."

LBJ May Cut Millions From Highway Fund

By JOHN LYNCH
WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson is considering slicing $600 million from the federal highway construction fund as part of an economy drive aimed at paving the way for approval of his tax increase. Highway construction projects planned by the states would be deferred to trim the $4.2 billion construction program.

In other highly visible belt tightening moves, Johnson Thursday ordered U.S. embassies and other agencies to cut overseas staffs by 10 per cent; the Atomic Energy Commission announced a cutback in production of nuclear explosives, and the Agriculture Department moved to trim about $213 million in new obligational authority.

Transportation Secretary Alan S. Boyd last November warned state governors that their highway construction programs might have to be reduced if Congress carried out threats to make deep cuts in government spending. Government sources said Saturday that as yet none of the states had been officially notified of a cut in federal funds.

A cut in federal highway construction would bring immediate reaction from Congress, where each lawmaker guards his state's share of the funds. The program is a boon to state highway construction. The government pays 90 per cent of the cost of the interstate highway system and matches primary and secondary road construction on a 50-50 basis.

The agriculture reductions would involve about $123 million in spending for items such as farm credit, watershed development, conservation payments and the school lunch program. The biggest pinch will be on farm credit. Officials say there will be a cut of about $50 million in obligations for direct loans by the Farmers Home Administration, affecting farm operating and ownership loans and soil and water loans. There will be a reduction of about $45 million for rural electrification and telephone program loans.

Germans Ignore Plea by Britain

BONN (UPI) — British Foreign Secretary George Brown appealed to West Germany Friday to detour around the European Common Market so Britain could cooperate more closely with Europe. His plea fell on deaf ears.

Brown made his plea during a half day conference with West German Foreign Minister Willy Brandt. Informed sources said Brandt refused to do anything except in concert with French President Charles de Gaulle.

It was Britain's second failure in an attempt to bridge the gap with Europe. Lord Chalfont, the British minister of state, visited Bonn two weeks ago on such a mission.

As evidence of Britain's intention to join Europe without reservation, informed sources said, Brown cited his government's decision this week to withdraw from the whole of Asia east of Suez except for Hong Kong within three years.

general of the Commonwealth, said Thursday.

Government Grows Immensely In 20 Years

Government in the United States has grown tremendously during the past 20 years. Taxpayers now support more than 90,000 different government units, ranging from local school districts to the federal government itself.

State and local governments are expanding most rapidly as they strive to meet the complex problems of modern society. But the cost of government has at least doubled at virtually all levels.

United Press International discussed this trend with government officials, foundations and other interested groups.

Then, to determine how the people themselves feel about all this, UPI reporters in 20 cities took a random sampling of public opinion.

They interviewed men and women, Negroes and whites, Republicans and Democrats, laborers and bankers, the well-to-do and the poor. Among other things, they found:

—Thirty-eight per cent of those interviewed felt government was trying to do too much. But 52 per cent believed it was doing too little or just about what it should.

—Social welfare is the most controversial area of government. Twenty-five per cent of those interviewed favored cutting back in this area while 25 per cent said too little is being done.

—Despite this country's commitment in Vietnam, 16 per cent called for military spending cuts. Five per cent wanted an increase.

TOGETHER AGAIN, some of the all-time greats of jazz get together in New York to mark the 30th anniversary of Benny Goodman's Carnegie Hall debut in 1938, a milestone in modern music. Lionel Hampton provides the accompaniment for Martha Tilton, perched on piano, as left to right, Bobby Hackett, Chris Griffin, Helen Ward and Benny Goodman listen.

In 1961, 28 men died when a tank in the Atlantic, 83 miles from Texas tower radar station southeast of New York. In 1922, the Irish free state was born.

Harvesters Start Second Half With Win Over Bulldogs, 77-61

By CURTIS MONTGOMERY
Daily News Sports Editor
Bo Lang gunned in 18 points in the second quarter to lead Pampa to a 77-61 victory over Plainview in a District 3-A second round opener in Harvester Field House Friday night. The first quarter ended in a knot at 16-16, but that was the last time the game was tied. Lang hit two quick jumpers in the first 20 seconds of the second round and a few seconds later stole the ball and fed Cornutt who sank a driving lay up, putting the Pampanos out front by 22-16. Tim Lane of Plainview, who may very well have the softest touch in the district, kept the Bulldogs in the game for awhile, but Lang's hot hand and an aggressive Harvester defense allowed the home towners to leave the floor at half-time with a 14-point cushion, 45-31.

Pampa hit 50 per cent of their shots in the first half (18-36) while Plainview could not find the basket (13-36) with 36 per cent. In free throws Pampa bettered Plainview (9-12) to (5-11).

When Lang went out with 1:30 to go in the third quarter, Pampa held an edge of 22 points at 60-38. The blond bomber led all Pampa scorers with 24, although playing only 15 seconds more than three quarters.

George Bailey missed more shots than he usually does but still managed to compile 19 for the evening followed by Beau Bond and Jim Hollis with 12 apiece. On any other team in the league Hollis would more than likely be a starter.

Coach Bob Clindaniel's Bulldogs beat the Harvesters in one department — rebounds 36-35. If they had hit some of those easy shots underneath, it would have been a much closer game. Bond snatched 15 rebounds and Lang had seven.

Lang Scores . . .

BO LANG (34) of Pampa, guns a jump shot in the second quarter for two of his 18 points during that frame which led to the downfall of the opposing Plainview Bulldogs, 77-61, here Friday night. The tenth straight victory for Pampa brought its season record to 20-2. Hollis Shewmake (33) tries in vain to block the shot.

There are always calls made by the referees which meet with disapproval by the home town crowd, but one call of charging was overlooked and ruled a foul on Hollis who stood as a statue in front of the basket. Kenny Redin, Bulldog guard, ran right into Hollis and was given a free throw for the infraction with seven seconds remaining in the third quarter.

The Harvesters hit 50 per cent for the evening (30-60) while Plainview had a frigid 36 per cent (27-74). Lane scored 32 for Plainview and made his district scoring total 215. Bailey's total is four points under that.

"Our defense was real good. They had 31 at the half. We were not going to let them score 50, but they did. They are quick," Pampa Coach Terry Culley said after the game.

Culley praised the play of the entire team and Lang and Hollis for their outstanding play.

Montgomery Word

BY CURTIS MONTGOMERY
Pampa Daily-News Sports Editor

One of the earlier observations made on arriving in Pampa last Sunday was the fact that it appeared as if Cool Hand Luke had been in town. I'm sure a large number of people caught the Paul Newman flick at the local movie establishment in which Newman played a lackadaisical type who on a boring evening in some small southern town got himself good and drunk and proceeded to twist off the heads of a number of parking meters with a railroad wrench, for which he was sentenced to a tour on the chain gang. I was more recently informed that the city commission members had concurred with a recommendation by City Manager Jim White to continue without the meters which were removed not by Cool Hand Luke, as had been my previous assumption, but by order of the city officials.

While riding a city bus into downtown Fort Worth the Friday before coming up here I met a lady who said she was from Pampa. After exchanging small talk about the weather, which at the time was worse in Fort Worth than it was here, I asked her what I thought was a silly question: "Have you ever heard of Randy Matson?"

With not so much as a trace of a smile she said, "No. What does he do?" Uncertain as to whether she was kidding me or not I said, "Oh, he's an athlete who used to live in Pampa." "Well," she declared, "if it has anything to do with sports, I wouldn't know anything about it but my husband would. He's a sports fan."

"She's beautiful"

Sports fans and art lovers in East Cleveland, Ohio, were given a special treat last week. They gathered to watch a nude snow woman melt. It seems that when the work of art appeared covered with flesh tones paint Wednesday it caused traffic tieups as motorists stopped to gaze upon her beauty.

"She's beautiful," one of the sculptors said. "Especially at night with the lights shining on her."

But the neighbors told police it was obscene and wanted something done about it. The sheriff, with the art lovers on one side and the "citizens against nudity and obscenity" on the other, decided to let the sun solve the dilemma. Temperatures of 40 degrees and upwards were expected for Thursday, and the lawman stated, "We'll let her stay 'til she melts."

Those folks who wanted the friends. "Texas will lose because they only have one play: They run from the 'I' formation and give it to the wingback every time."

That's how most spectators view Southwest Conference sports — big on football but a flop when it comes to basketball. The SWC sends its share of players to the pro football ranks but not one can be found on any NBA roster. Only twice in history has a conference club made it to the semi-finals of the NCAA championship.

The fact is, SWC basketball isn't as bad as its reputation. But there are several reasons why the teams and their players seldom gain national recognition.

One reason is lack of Negro players. Of the eight SWC schools, only Baylor and TCU currently have a Negro on the squad. Another is that Southwest teams play 70 per cent of their intersectional games on the road.

Perhaps the biggest reason is there are simply not enough outstanding players in the state to go around. Seven of the SWC schools are in Texas, plus major independents Texas (El Paso) and Houston and North Texas State of the Missouri Valley Conference.

Texas A&M coach Shelby Metcalf is aware of these problems but thinks the situation is steadily improving. The Aggies won a recent tournament in Washington, defeating Seattle University (the school that has sent the most players to the NBA) and the University of San Francisco.

"While it's true we haven't turned out any Chamberlains or Russells or Bradleys," says Metcalf, "we sometimes get some unfair press. We have made big strides in the past 10 years. Some fellows who were stars in the past would just be average now."

"The directors of the tournaments must feel we can compete because they're trying to sell tickets. In the past three years our team has been invited to tournaments in Oklahoma City, Seattle, Albuquerque and Kansas. We've done pretty well and haven't developed an inferiority complex."

"The SWC champion draws rough opponents in the NCAA regionals, against the winners of the Big Eight, Missouri Valley Conferences and independents like Oklahoma City."

"SMU has beaten the MVC champ the past two years in the regionals (including a win over second-ranked Louisville last season)."

Shelby says the simplest solution is recruiting out of state, which is becoming the trend. A lot of Texas junior colleges have gone to the East and Midwest for talent, some of which will eventually get to the Texas senior colleges. Three Texas junior colleges are currently ranked in the nation's top 10.

Texas (El Paso) and the University of Houston have already been following this process. The Miners won the national championship two years ago and the Cougars have been ranked second in the national polls this season. The achievements were made with mostly out-of-state players, many of them Negroes.

Zarley Finds Answer In A Month's Rest

NAPA, Calif. (UPI)—As far as Kermit Zarley Jr. is concerned, practice does not make perfect.

The bespectacled 26-year-old pro from Houston, disenchanted with his game during the late stages of the 1967 PGA season, took a month-long vacation from golf and came back like a lion.

Zarley, another of the many golfing products from the University of Houston, began sharpening his game for this year's tour only a few days before he left for the Bing Crosby Tournament.

"I read a magazine piece by Billy Casper and decided to follow his advice and quit playing for a month," he said after putting together a sizzling 33-34-67 second round Friday at the $125,000 Kaiser Open tournament.

"I hit a few balls and had my wife and Babe Hickey (ex-Houston teammate) take films," Zarley said. "The films really helped, they showed I was setting up wrong and coming up over the ball. I had no balance at all on my swing."

"I was playing quite badly last year so I laid off for about a month. After this brief work in Houston I felt confident I'd do well."

Zarley was so dismayed in 1967 that he went to Akron, Ohio to work on his game. He hit an average of 500 balls a day for two weeks.

"But I came away just as bad as when I began," he said. "I figured the harder I worked, the better I'd get. But it didn't work out that way."

One Time Super-Star Returns To Gator Bowl

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Fred Biletnikoff returns to the Gator Bowl Sunday where once he was a super-star. But this time he'll be waiting in the wings.

Fearless Fred, who caught four touchdown passes for Florida State in the 1965 Gator Bowl, isn't even starting for the Western Division American Football League all-stars.

But you can expect to see a lot of action from the Oakland Raider end when the favored West takes on quarterback Joe Namath and the East all-stars at 1:30 p.m. EST. The game will be nationally televised (NBC).

Lamonica's Prime Target

Biletnikoff is one of 11 Oakland Raiders on the West team—nine of them starters—and has been a prime target for starting quarterback Daryle Lamonica of Oakland all year. This could be a big factor in what is expected to be a passing battle.

If Biletnikoff is let down because he wasn't voted a starter by coaches around the league, he can always take a look at those old Gator Bowl films in which he and FSU quarterback Steve Tensi stood C.ahoma on its ear 36-9.

Biletnikoff will be playing behind split end Lance Alworth of San Diego, a perennial all-star, and flanker Al Denson of Denver. Rounding out the West backfield will be big fullback Hewritt Dixon of Oakland and halfback Mike Garrett of Kansas City.

West Favored

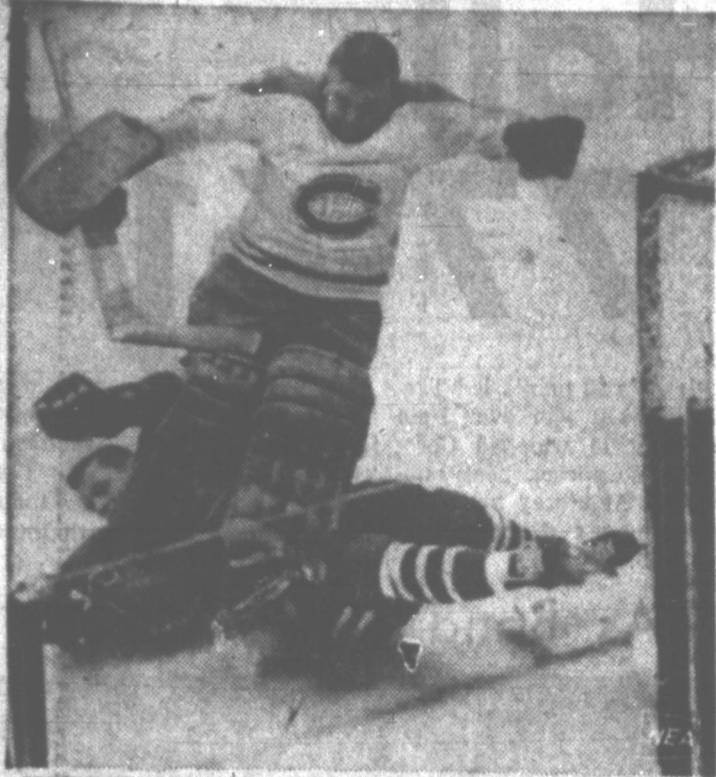

The experts say the Easterners haven't much chance of picking up the $1,000 each which will go to the winners unless New York Jets quarterback Namath has a prime day. Losers get $600.

Namath, the shaggy-haired sharpshooter who was paid a reported $400,000 to sign with the Jets when he graduated from Alabama three years ago, will be throwing to his three regular-season receivers. They are Don Maynard, George Sauer and Pete Lammons.

Both West coach Lou Saban of Denver and East mentor Joe Collier of Buffalo agree that the outcome could hang on Namath's versatile arm. Both also concede that Oakland's warmup loss to Green Bay in Miami gives the West a big advantage.

49ers Get New Coach From Dallas Cowboys

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Forty Niners launched their latest "five year plan" today for a National Football League title with Dick Nolan, Dallas Cowboys' defensive aide and player, the new head coach.

A brown-haired, quiet man of 35, Nolan came to terms with the Forty Niners Friday and ended a month-long search for a coach which started Dec. 20 when Jack Christiansen was fired on his birthday.

"Chris" ran the club from early in the 1963 season through 1967 and finished out of the money with an overall record of 26 wins, 39 losses and two ties.

Great Background

"Dick has a great background," club President Lou Spadina said of the sixth man in 22 years to try building a winner. "If he can't get the job done, I don't know who can."

"We made the change because I felt we needed better leadership and I think we have it," Spadina added.

Nolan's contract calls for five years with the salary undisclosed. Speculation was that it might run to $170,000 for the complete span.

Landy Praises Choice

The choice was hailed by Tom Landry, head-coach of the Dallas Cowboys where he had known Nolan as player and defensive coaching aide since 1962.

"He is an excellent coach and is well qualified. I wish him all the luck in the world," Landry said in Dallas.

Nolan was a star running back at Maryland and played as a corner back with the New York Giants and old Chicago Cardinals from 1954 through 1961. In 1962 he came to the Cowboys as a player-coach for Landry.

Sometimes 'Dome' Is To Be Built

DALLAS (UPI)—Clint Murchison announced plans Saturday to make a sometimes Astro-dome-type structure out of the new stadium he will build for his Dallas Cowboys.

The $8,000-seat stadium will be completed in suburban Irving, Tex., in 1970. Murchison's plans to move his football team out of the Dallas Cotton Bowl aroused bitter feelings among Dallas pro football fans.

"Our stadium was originally conceived as an open-domed facility with all seats under cover but with the playing field open to the sky," Murchison said. "The new proposal is a space-age device which will permit completely closing the open portion of the roof when desired."

The covering will be a translucent plastic bubble, which can be moved automatically over the roof opening in two to three minutes.

Garrett In Dumps Over Pro Bowl Date

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Mike Garrett, the stumpy Kansas City terror who runs around, over and under American Football League (AFL) opponents, is in the dumps.

He's taking a businesslike approach to the $1,000 he could pick up Sunday if his Western AFL all-stars beat Joe Namath and the East in the league's All-Star game at the Gator Bowl.

But the stimulating prospect of bruising East linemen with his talented muscles before a national television audience has been dimmed by Kansas City's failure to repeat as AFL champion this year.

Garrett takes pride in his spectacular performance over two seasons with the Chiefs. But he shows all that in locker when you start talking about the championship.

Criticizes Performance

"I don't know why we didn't do as well as in 1966 (when Kansas City won the AFL title) last year," said Garrett at a West practice session. "I guess we just didn't do well against Oakland—and maybe my performance left something to be desired."

Nobody but Garrett—who won the Heisman Trophy at Southern California in 1965 before he was drafted by the Chiefs—could say that and not smile. Only a very few of the greats can disdain personal performances in the light of a team performance.

In 1966, as a rookie, he finished No. 2 in the FL rushing race with 801 yards and a 5.3 yard average. He also caught 15 passes for 175 yards and was No. 5 in punt returns.

In 1967, the 5-foot-9, 195-pounder went one better all around. He picked up 1,087 yards (No. 3 in the league), caught 46 passes and scored 10 touchdowns—two more than the previous year.

Try Again

But Garrett, who was laughingly considered by many "too little" to play pro ball, brightens when he looks to next year.

"Oakland is a fine team and a young team too," he said. "But we're also a young team—and we can get back on top."

One of Garrett's backfield buddies will be playing for the West team. Quarterback Len Dawson, who had an off year compared to 1966, will be backup man for West starting quarterback Daryle Lamonica.

Lamonica and 10 other championship Raiders sprinkle the West All-Stars and make them a heavy favorite to send Jet quarterback Joe Namath and the Easterners home with the loser's share of $600 each.

Fighter's Fans Ready To Quit

ROME (UPI)—Some of Nino Benvenuti's most ardent fans were ready to throw in the towel today before the Italian middleweight even stepped into the ring for his third title bout with 160-pound world champion Emile Griffith in New York March 4.

Sporting a light beard and giving every indication he approved of styles in his recent trip to the United States by wearing hair unusually long, Benvenuti appeared out of shape Friday night in his 10-round victory over Charley "Bad News" Austin of Phoenix, Ariz.

The left that earned Nino the middleweight crown last April in his first bout with Griffith lacked its usual zip against Austin. Benvenuti's best south-paw swing opened a cut over Austin's right eye in the fifth round and counted heavily toward the Italian winning the decision.

Benvenuti lost his middleweight crown to Griffith last fall and now faces the champ in their rubber match that will help inaugurate boxing in New York's new Madison Square Garden.

Leo Is Alive And Living But Not In Argentina

NEW YORK (UPI)—I was a little worried there for awhile. Nearly two months had gone by and there wasn't any word from Leo Durocher. Not a word. I thought something happened to him. Something serious. He had me real worried there.

That's why I'm so glad he broke radio silence the other day. Good old Leo! When he finally comes through he comes through beautifully. Better than anybody you ever saw. The Green Bay Packers, Raquel Welch or Anna Maria Alberghetti.

The site Leo picked for re-entry was Omaha, Neb., a city where the people are more hospitable than in most other places, where you get one of the best steaks in the country and where Bob Gibson, the Cardinals' World Series hero, was born, raised and now lives.

Leo was attending a banquet there and Gibson was one of the honored guests.

There are two things you have to say about the dandy little manager of the Chicago Cubs. One, he's always thinking. And two, he's one of baseball's biggest spenders.

Big Spender

Leo has only one slight drawback. He spends his money or yours the same way. Lavishly. At times even recklessly. He always figured it cost only two bits more to go first class, and even if he did, that figuring in pre-inflation days, Leo still goes first class or he doesn't go at all.

Anyway when it came time to stand up in Omaha and say a few words, Leo had them all picked out.

He told his audience he has a tendency for saying "the wrong things at the right time" and a statement like that makes you wonder whatever in the world gave him that idea?

Leo then looked over at Gibson seated at the speaker's table and said:

"I hear you're asking for $100,000. If they don't give it to you, they're crazy. You are worth all of that."

See that! Turns out Leo Durocher is alive and isn't hiding out in Argentina. All you gotta do is give him a little time and you'll hear from him. Guaranteed. He's never missed yet.

The point here isn't whether Bob Gibson should get $100,000 or even $200,000 from the Cardinals.

What is the point is that Leo stuck his nose in something which isn't any of his business. It's not anything that's going to change the general shape of the world or even baseball because Leo Durocher always will be something about him that makes you accept him no matter what he says.

But for a guy who's always thinking, he should keep in mind how random, off-the-cuff statements can do a great deal of damage. He should remember how much it bothered him when one of his best friends said the parade had passed him by as a manager before he got the job with the Cubs. The remark hurt Leo a lot at the time.

Basically, there's nothing un-American about Leo Durocher getting up at a banquet and saying Bob Gibson ought to get $100,000.

How About Holtzman?

By the same token, there's nothing wrong with someone from another club saying the Cubs ought to pay Kenny Holtzman $100,000, and since Leo likes the young lefty so much, he should make up to him from his own pocket the difference between 100 grand and what the Cubs actually give Holtzman. Leo certainly would have some choice comment on that.

Eing Devine, the Cardinals' general manager, had the logical reaction when he heard what Leo had said about Gibson in Omaha. Devine has to sign Gibson, who already has returned one unsigned contract, and when he heard what Durocher said, his comment, jumped together and boiled down to one word, was: "Gulp!"

All of which recalls the classic story of the guy who sends his wife to Europe for two weeks and receives a trans-Atlantic telephone call from her after one week urgently informing him he needs another $1,500 immediately.

The unhappy husband keeps telling his wife they have a bad connection and he can't hear her at all.

"I can hear her perfectly," breaks in the telephone operator.

"In that case," the guy grumbles, "you give her the money."

Texas Snake Hunter Can't Wait For Spring

While other sportsmen are thinking of the day when the weather gets good enough to go fishing, boating or golfing, Cornwell has his own, separate desire.

The first two weeks of April each year, he and a friend from Tennessee go rattlesnake hunting.

Cornwell and George Hale of Whitehaven, Tenn., caught 84 snakes in two weeks last year. One year they caught 425, all in one day.

The two usually go out into the country for about a week, come home with a load of snakes, and turn them over to Cecil Fox, a former game warden at nearby Spur, Tex.

Eagles' Owner Goes to Court

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Jerry Wolman, owner of the Philadelphia Eagles and head of a far flung construction empire, took the witness stand in U.S. District Court today, while 300 creditors looked on, and asked for time to work out his financial problems to avoid bankruptcy.

Wolman submitted a 338-page statement of assets and liabilities showing his assets exceed his liabilities by $2.7 million but that he has only $24.09 in cash.

Wolman asked federal bankruptcy referee Joseph Kaiser for time to work out a plan to pay off his creditors. Kaiser commended Wolman and his attorneys for their effort in the case, because the statement of assets and liabilities was not due until Jan. 23.

Wolman's financial statement showed assets of $74.6 million and liabilities of $71.9 million.

Manager Praises Ace Pitcher Bunning

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—Larry Shepard, who will get his first crack at managing in the majors this year after a long apprenticeship in the minors, thinks his Pittsburgh Pirate obtained last year's top National League pitcher in Jim Bunning.

Shepard coached Bunning at Philadelphia last year. He described the lanky righthander as "a great competitor with lots of stomach." And said Pittsburgh's excellent defense and more powerful hitting "can't help but help him."

Bunning wound up 17-15 last year. But Shepard noted he lost five 1-0 games and appeared in three others in which the Phillies scored only one run.

Bunning was second in the league in earned run average and topped the league in shutouts with six.

Shepard obviously feels that Bunning could be the man needed to carry Pittsburgh to the championship this year, as they were picked to do by many experts ahead of the 1967 season.

He believes he now has a solid pitching staff to go along with the "best" double play combination in the league in Gene Alley and Bill Mazeroski, a good defensive team, and one that has always scored a lot of runs.

Although Shepard will be directing a major league team for the first time, running a ball club is nothing new to him, and more than half the Pirate players will be known to him.

He coached 15 of the Pirates when they were in the minors. Except for his coaching stint at Philadelphia last year, Shepard has been managing in the minors since 1962.

Yankees Getting In Shape Out in The Rain And Snow

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some guys don't know when to come in out of the rain.

Others don't know when to come in out of the cold. When it got down to two degrees below zero, Dooley Womack, the Yankee relief pitcher, quit throwing and came inside.

It happened only the other day at Yankee Stadium where Bill Robinson, Steve Whitaker, Joe Pepitone, Steve Barber, Charlie Sands and Womack have been working out regularly since New Year's Day.

"I enjoy it," says Womack, one of the Yankees' few bright spots last year. "I don't mind putting in some extra effort if it'll help me be a better pitcher next summer."

Dooley Womack is unusual on a number of counts.

He makes only $12,000 or thereabouts with the Yankees and naturally would like to make more, but doesn't go around griping about it all the time.

Nor does Womack buttonhole everybody he meets and go on and on about how he really should be a starting pitcher.

He put in eight years in the minors before the Yankees brought him up in 1966 but you never hear him beefing about that, either.

The dark-haired, 28-year-old native of Columbia, S.C., also is unusual in the respect that he has settled in New York now and thinks the people are as warm and friendly here as they are back home.

"My wife, Janella, and I sorta shook when we first thought about living up here," says the Yankee right-hander. "First of all there was this big difference in the climate and we'd heard about what to expect from New Yorkers. Well, we're used to the climate and we found out most of the tales you hear about the people here aren't true. They're been simply wonderful to my wife and me."

Hayes Tosses Win For Houston Ending UCLA's Domination

By DARRELL MACK
HOUSTON (UPI)—Elvin (Big E) Hayes, playing the best game of a tremendous career, made two pressure free throws with 28 seconds to go Saturday night to give Houston a 71-69 victory over UCLA, snapping the Bruins' 47 game winning streak before 52,000 fans. Hayes, who made 39 points and shot 68 per cent from the field, broke a 69-69 tie after being fouled in the corner by UCLA reserve Jim Nielsen. The crowd went wild at the end, mobbing the Cougar team on the floor of the $31 million arena at the game's end and chanting, "We're No. 1." Hayes completely outshone top-ranked UCLA's 7-1 1-3 Lew Alcindor, who scored only 15 points and made just three of 18 shots from the field, or 17 per cent. Hayes hit 17 of 25 shots, including 14 of 19 in the first half when he made 20 points.

Alcindor might have been still feeling the effects of his eye injury suffered Jan. 12, but he played the entire game. He also was outbounded by Hayes, 15-12.

Lucius Allen, shooting well over second ranked Houston's 1-3-1 zone, led UCLA with 25 points and Mike Warren added 13. But the two ended as goats on a misplay with 12 seconds to go.

New Mexico Beats UTEP

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI)—New Mexico State's Jimmy Collins poured in 16 points in the second half to lead the Aggies to a 76-64 upset win over the 12th ranked University of Texas at El Paso Miners Saturday.

New Mexico State held a slim 36-33 halftime lead, but pulled away from the Miners in the second half behind the shooting of its two guards, Collins and Bob Evans.

Collins was high scorer with 20 points and Evans had 19. Center Sam Lacey added 16.

The win was the 15th of the season for the Aggies against two losses. UTEP is now 10-3.

Mike Switzer, Willie Worsley and Nate Archibald scored 17 points each for UTEP, but a tight zone kept the Miners from scoring inside throughout the game.

Brewer's Error Ruins Him

NAPA, Calif. (UPI)—Gay Brewer, the 1967 Masters champion, was disqualified from the Kaiser Open Golf Tournament Saturday for an error he made the previous day—and which he called on himself.

About an hour after the completion of the third round, PGA officials declared Brewer was guilty of an illegal drop from a hazard on the fourth hole of the second round Friday.

Brewer, who was 10 strokes off the pace at 214—thought his tee shot landed in a section of the course under repair but officials claimed the lie was in a hazard.

Brewer reported his disqualification to officials after completing his third round. He told them he realized his error after a similar incident occurred near the same spot Saturday.

The violation occurred after Brewer's tee shot. He picked up the ball and moved it to the right of the spot from where he parred out.

Raiders Win In Overtime

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—Jim Nelson hit a 13-foot jump shot with seven seconds left in regulation time to tie the game 78-78 and Texas Tech went on to score a 93-83 overtime victory over the University of Texas at Arlington Saturday.

The victory was Tech's 4th against 10 losses and UTA is now 1-14.

Tech never led in the last half and its only tie was on Nelson's shot. In overtime, however, the Raiders never trailed.

Jerry Haggard was the leading scorer for Tech with 27 points, 15 of them coming in the first half. Vernon Paul followed with 20 for the Raiders. Eddie Stallings scored 24 for the Rebels and nearest to him was Joe Gary Smith with 14.

Two sophomores, Lee Tynes and Steve Hardin, sparked Tech's come-from-behind effort. Tynes scored 10 points and grabbed 11 rebounds after coming into the game midway in the last half. Hardin got four assists and five steals while playing approximately the same length of time.

UTA led 41-38 at halftime and held a 10-point lead, 57-47, with 14 minutes to go in the game.

More than 1,500 persons attended the banquet honoring the Southwest Conference champions. Alabama coach Paul (Bear) Bryant was the guest speaker.

The award, which is limited to a senior, was determined by a vote of the entire varsity football squad and is secret until the banquet. Allen is a three year letterman who was injured most of his career at A&M.

"Grady played better this past season than he was capable of performing," A&M coach Gene Stallings said.

Marr Leads Kaiser Before Final Round

NAPA, Calif. (UPI)—Dave Marr "blistered" Silverado's North Course with a five-under-par 67 and fought off a stiff challenge from George Archer and Gene Littler Saturday to maintain the lead in the $125,000 Kaiser Open Golf tournament with a 54 hole total of 12-under-par 204.

Archer, playing in the same threesome with Marr, carded a four-under par 68 for a 206 total while Littler shot an even better six under par 66 to trail Marr by three strokes with one round to go.

Littler's round matched an earlier 66 by young Lee Trevino who moved up to a contending position with a 211 total.

Ker Zarley shot a two under 70 and Jacky Cuiit had a four under 68 to tie with eight underpar totals of 208.

Thus, only four strokes separated the first five and set up a dramatic windup on Sunday. Marr, who hasn't won a tourney title since he took the 1965 PGA championship, was the Kaiser leader after two rounds with a seven under 137 total and he picked up five more strokes while taking dead aim on the $25,000 first prize.

En route, he bagged four birdies on the front nine for a 32 and came back with two more on the back nine for a 35. Marr, admittedly paying more attention to his game this year than last when he slipped down the money winning list, bogeyed only one hole and that was the par four 395 yard 14th.

Archer, the Gilroy, Calif., cowboy who moved up to eighth leading money last year while lowering his strokes average to just over 71, went out in 34 and came back the same way, picking up four birdies along the way.

Littler, who spends as much time these days restoring old autos as he does on the tour, played one of his best rounds in a long while. He had six birdies and no bogeys on his card as he went out in 34 and came home in 32.

Zarley had four birdies and two bogeys on his yard and even though he improved by two strokes, he fell farther back. Zarley started the day at 137, only one stroke behind Marr.

Pimentel Loses Chance To Fight

TOKYO (UPI)—The Japan Boxing Commission (JBC) said Saturday it had been informed by the World Boxing Association (WBA) that Mexican Fighter Jesus Pimentel has lost his chance to challenge world bantamweight champion Fighting Harada.

The 18-round title match had been scheduled for Feb. 27 at the Nippon Budokan Hall in Tokyo.

Kotai Kikuchi, executive secretary of the JBC, said Emile Bruneau, chairman of the WBA championship committee, had told him in a telephone conversation Friday to look for another challenger.

Pimentel, the WBA No. 1 contender, will no longer be considered as Harada's challenger because he failed to advise the JBC within the 72 hours he was given whether he would accept what Kikuchi described as a "clean" contract.

Kikuchi said the contract called for no options or a return match. It offered Pimentel a purse of $10,000 plus air transportation and living expenses in Tokyo for three persons.

He said the commission had previously looked with disfavor at the negotiations in which the Japanese promoters demanded that Pimentel make two title defenses in Japan, the second against Harada, if he defeated the blue match.

"But the new contract offered earlier this week was clean and fair and we had urged the commission to have the contract accepted by Harry Pimentel's manager," Kikuchi said.

Bowling 'Bread' Goes To Allen Once Again

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—Bill Allen of Orlando, Fla., captured his 11th Professional Bowlers Association tournament and second in a row Saturday with a 230-228 win in the finals of the $50,000 San Jose Open.

The six-foot, 160-pound Allen finished the 40-game qualifier in fifth place and had to go through four foes to grab the $7,000 first-place prize. The defending 33-year-old lefthander started by eliminating Billy Hardwick of San Mateo, Calif., 236-224 and Mike Limongelle of Babylon, N.Y., 220-181 to set up the title match with Sam Baca of Hayward, Calif.

As the 40-game qualifying leader, Baca was seeded into the championship match. He and Allen matched strike for strike for the first nine frames before a tottering 10-pin in the 10th stopped Baca. Allen won the match 239-228.

The first-place money raised Allen's earnings for two weeks to $17,000. He won $10,000 in last week's Las Vegas Open.

The PBA tour moves to Denver next week for the $40,000 Denver Open.

White Deer First Baptist Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Cynthia Ann Hubbard and Bruce Allen Wegman of Fleetwood, Pa., at 7 p.m. Saturday.

Double-ring vows were performed by Rev. Darwin Scott, pastor of the First Baptist Church at White Deer. Vows were exchanged in a setting of seven-branched candelabras entwined with garlands of lemon leaves and urns of white gladioli with a white aisle cloth leading to the altar. The rail

Pews of honor were marked with nosegays of white gladioli and white satin ribbon highlighted with candles.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Hubbard of White Deer. Mr. and Mrs. George Arnold of Fleetwood, Pa. are the parents of the bridegroom.

It featured a Sabrina neckline and flared bell-shaped sleeves with imported Chantilly lace and pearls. The controlled A-line skirt featured a detachable train of the satin peau de soie, edged with the French lace and pearls. The train extended to chapel length flowing from a soft trio of satin rosettes. Chantilly lace and pearls were secured to the veil of silk illusion which was held in place by a tiara of encrusted pearls.

Feminine Feet Step Backward For Style

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Shoe heels inch up again, ankle straps wind around and toes open up in the feminine foot wear for spring.

This step backward toward shoe fashions women were wearing in the 1930's and 1940's is just part of all of fashion's new love for an old look to clothes.

As the National Footwear Institute puts it, "The tough chic and the shocky looks have had their day. Fashion for spring is relaxed, assured, elegant . . . pretty. The woman in motion . . . has now become feminine . . . her angular A-line dresses have given way to fit and flare, to seductive shapes, to the high, young curve of a bosom, to a frolic of pleats above the knee."

And so the shoe styles must change with the clothes. But the changes for spring are by no means drastic. There are no spikes heels walking the scene.

To quote the institute, "Anything resembling a spike is out. But heels are inching up, no doubt about it, with the highest about two and one half inches now. At every height, they are sturdy and strong."

Although there are ankle straps, they are more of a harbinger than a sweep. And open toes just continue the spring-work that began last spring.

Typical of what all this promises shows in dress shoes from Mademoiselle, which makes them with toes cut out on the slant, heels about two inches high and sturdy, and ankle straps, closed with a big ornament on the side, just a continuation of the open heel look.

The institute, representing both manufacturers and retailers of footwear, was one of the 90 firms participating in a current series of spring fashions for visiting reporters. The shows will conclude Friday.

Astrological Forecast

By CAROL L. RIGHTER

FOR SUNDAY, JAN. 21
GENERAL TENDENCIES: A beautiful Sunday to first attend services and to deepen the affection that you have for those with whom you are able to get off with those you like the most to have a very happy time with recreations and out-lets that bring you peace, contentment and harmony. Rebuild your vitality for the coming week. Be happy.
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Those you wish to have allied with you in the days ahead are in a fine mood, so get in touch with them early this morning. The social world is fine for advancement, also. So, step out and be seen, heard.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Step out and purchase those new items for your home office, that will make it more efficient-running, comfortable. Read your newspaper carefully for ideas that are good. Don't neglect to run through business opportunities columns.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Joining important alliance, fine recreation as well. A change of scene is very good for you right now. You have been in a rut for quite a long time. Be charming and un-aided.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Do your utmost to be particularly charming and thoughtful with kin today. Invite friends into your home and show kin off to best advantage. Have a happy, relaxed time. Plan week's activities before you retire.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): A fine day to contact persons with whom you want to work out some fine plan. Be sure to get to services of your choice and gain wisdom. Drive with extreme care.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): You find right persons socially who can assist you in improving career today. Step out early and make this a day of activity. Show others that you have much ability and enthusiasm.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23): You are very magnetic right now and should be making new contacts and having a wonderful time. Have a positive attitude and you get what you want. Good friends of long standing are very helpful, also.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Realize that problematical affairs are but stepping stones to bigger things, if you handle them properly. Some study is necessary, though if you are to do just this. Be more sure of yourself.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Out socially and have a good time as you state your aims quietly to those who can assist you to reach them more quickly. Consider others who have done likewise for you and show that you are a grateful person. Be charming.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Out in the bustling world of activity and add much preliminary good with new contacts, added prestige with regular ones. Some civic duty helps to advance also. Be alert, intelligent with others.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Show new friends that you would like to deepen the friendship after you have attended services of your choice and are on a high level of consciousness. Good day to plan some trip soon. Be more style conscious.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): A fine day to sit down with some expert and attack over how you can make your life far more satisfying and successful. Tap your intuitive forces. Out in P.M. with one who admires you and has a delightful time.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he, or she, will be one of those charming young people who automatically knows how to get along with others so give an opportunity to have many playmates around early in life. The beauty field is ideal here, or selling, interior decorating, and the like. Fine partnership material here, also in marriage. Trade school best.
FOR MONDAY, JAN. 22
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until about 10 after noon those who are in official or executive position are in a pretty bad humor, so don't ask favors, but the remainder of the afternoon and evening are just great for anything that you wish to do that requires cleverness and investigation and in which your desire to "produce results" is used.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Take care not to annoy a high-up in A.M. You can cleverly get into whatever is of a far better credit rating for yourself. This is the best way to advance.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): After lunch is the best time to get into new outlets and to new scenes when you can build a firm foundation beneath you. The bridegroom's parents are more than sure to speed up. Be enthusiastic.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Although you have a great deal of work ahead of you, don't get confused but carry through in a methodical and quiet manner. You have to be more active if you are to get along well with a co-worker. Be courteous, too.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): You feel that you will not have time to enjoy the recreations you like, but if you schedule your time wisely, it will be quite easy. Take your choice of fun. Don't leave it all up to the others.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Do whatever will make your home more beautiful and harmonious. A new start is possible though it may seem difficult right at this time. Show that you have both ability and ingenious methods of operating.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Show associates that you have fine ideas for you time ahead faster and get them operating quickly. Be sure you have plans nicely worked out. Make calls, make out reports, etc.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23): Don't be forceful with others in A.M., but later go full blast toward your goals, especially the financial, and get much accomplished. Add to present abundance. Think big and you get big.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Impress on others that you are a most worthwhile associate and permit them to assist you where it counts the most. Be out socially in P.M. However, make sure you are with congenials and those of character.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Rid yourself of systems, etc., that have lost their usefulness, early, then sit down and enjoy whatever is pleasurable to you. You find that you are romantically charming. Become far more popular.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): If you are forceful with some one, you find that you will be sadly disappointed but later in the day all works out just fine for you. Do not work so hard for what you want. It is not necessary.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Find better way to get on the good side of higher-up A.M. and then you find yourself in a far better position in life. Use more modern methods in your operations and improve your career. Be happier.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Why keep whatever is no longer of use when you can replace with the modern and make bigger strides toward success. New situations will soon arise that you should welcome and be prepared for. Clear the slate for progress.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he, or she, will be one of those strange young people who, although seeming to be doing very little, is still accomplishing a good deal owing to the fast mind here and the ability to apply it at the right time. Be sure to inculcate the finest ethical ideas so that a great person can emerge during adulthood. Fame here, also.

POLLY'S POINTERS Try Unique Substitutes For Framing Pictures

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I am answering Anne who has several pictures of dogs and cats that she wants to hang but found it too expensive to buy so many frames. I suggest using just one large frame, which might be secured at a thrift sale, second-hand shop or junk store. Cut a piece of mat board to fit in the frame and arrange all the pictures on it in a suitable pattern. After the proper arrangement is determined, secure them on with rubber cement. Frame this mat as you would any picture.

If the pictures could be framed without glass, the mat board might be used without a frame around it. If glass is wanted for protection, cut it the size of the frame. Or use tape to hold the board to the glass and give the effect of a frame.

ager said he was forced to do this as tourists walked off with his good pictures. Of course, any size tile could be used and the sides which extend should be cut off.

ETHEL

DEAR POLLY—Oval paper platters and plates lend themselves to a project such as Anne has in mind. Paint the borders black, gold or whatever you like. Shells or fancy macaroni could be glued on to the plate border before painting. Fit the picture into the center of the plate or platter and glue with rubber cement. Glue a picture hanger on the back. I did eight for about 50 cents and my Cub Scout boys did about 30 of them.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I would like to know how to remove stains on a heavy linen dress caused by vegetable oil splashing on the part not covered by my apron while frying chicken. The spots still remain, even after laundering several times in hot water.

MILDRED

DEAR POLLY—and Anne—While staying at a plush wall-to-wall carpeted motel, I was intrigued by their unique pictures. They had been cut from slick magazines, pasted on 16-inch ceiling tiles and finished with clear varnish. The man-

Beta Delta Chapter Has Program on Adolescents

Beta Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma met in regular session recently in the City Club Room for a program on adolescent girls.

The program was opened by Mrs. Faye Dellis Adams leading the group in chapter songs. Mrs. L. B. Pennick introduced the program of the day, given by Mrs. Mary Lois Scott, member from Shamrock. Mrs. Scott gave findings from her thesis for a Masters Degree in Home Economics from Texas Woman's University at Denton.

Speaking on the topic "Values of Concern to Adolescent Girls," Mrs. Scott gave this quotation from Paul: "What I would, that I do not, but what I hate, I do."

Mrs. Scott continued "if one so great as Paul felt this lack of understanding for his actions—this conflict within himself—are we, the less devoted less dedicated—likely to escape similar self-doubt and conflict? Why should this be? Do we not know what we believe in?"

To find values of concern of adolescent girls and some probable reasons for these values formed the core of the study, she said.

"The study seems to indicate the age of the girl appears to exert a stronger negative influence on the values of home and family life and citizenship for students 15 or 16 years of

Sleepwear Adapts To 'Sporty' Look

By HELEN HENNESSY

NEW YORK (NEA)—Sleepwear today looks enough like sportswear, disco togs or evening gowns to give a girl pause for thought about whether to stay home or go out in it—especially the mini-length collections.

In one such group, cotton crinkle crepe in the hottest shades of green, pink, yellow, and blue turns up in minicom-pers, minishirts and minishirts with matching bikinis.

A quilted Paisley-printed cotton robe is paired with ruffled prancy pants that peek out below the mid-thigh hemline.

The school crowd will love the colorfully striped short knit shifts and the brief candy-striped, ruffled dormshirts in brushed tricot.

Another tailored sleep group is done in red or blue school-girl plaid cotton challis. And for cold climates the apron ski look is interpreted in floral flannel-ette.

For a fragile and romantic look there is a lace-lavished trio—a pajama and shift in permanent-press batiste are color-matched to wear with a pastel corduroy robe.

CASUAL TERRY PAJAMA in terry (right) is designed to be worn indoors or on the patio. The bell-bottom pants are made with a tailored, double-breasted jacket in an Aztec print. Multicolored top is in wild south-of-the-border colors. Cotton knit mini-sleep shift (left) can do double duty as daywear. Varied bands of bold colors circle the body. The sleeves are three-quarter length and the neckline a flattering V. These are matching bikini briefs. These designs are from the M. C. Schrank collection.

Pampa Honors The Pampa Jaycees

A Salute to Our Young Men of Action
NATIONAL JAYCEE WEEK—JANUARY 21-28

Their Thoughtful Concern and Forward Looking Action
Has Made Our Community a Better Place in Which to Live

The Jaycees — young men on the way up — turn their vigorous ability into creative action for the betterment of the entire community. We honor the Jaycees . . . and solidly back their effort to make our town even better to work in, live in, shop in and we pledge ourselves to aid them toward that progress.

— THE PAMPA JAYCEES —

Sometime between October 1929 and the summer of 1930 a group of young businessmen in Pampa undertook the organizing of a Junior Chamber of Commerce. Over the past thirty-seven years the Pampa Jaycees have done an outstanding job of serving the community with various need projects.

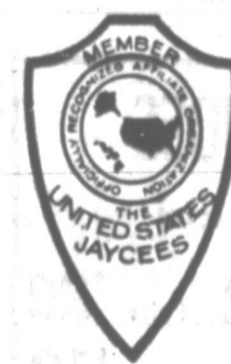

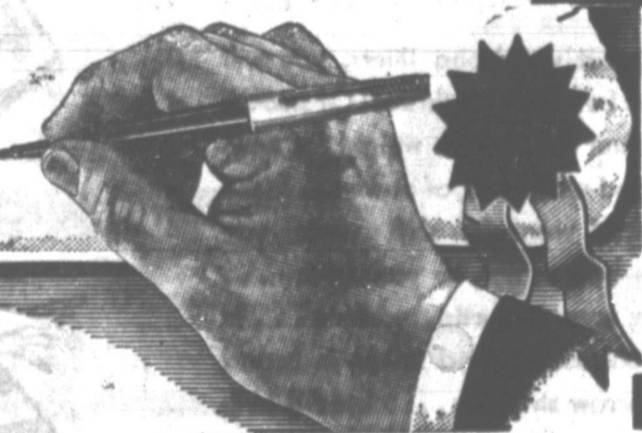

Energetic young leaders have been the bi-products of these projects and have provided the community with able civic leadership that has made Pampa what it is today.

The Jaycee Creed

We Believe:

- That faith in God gives meaning and purpose to human life;
- That the brotherhood of Man transcends the sovereignty of nations;
- That economic justice can best be won by free men through free enterprise;
- That government should be of laws rather than of men;
- That earth's great treasure lies in human personality;
- And that service to humanity is the best work of life.

The Pampa Jaycee-Ettes were chartered in March, 1962. Since that time the group has added the feminine touch to almost every Jaycee project, plus helping with many civic projects of their own.

The purpose of the organizations is to assist the Jaycees in community service; to offer friendship and sociability among Jaycee wives and to enlighten others as to the need for voluntary service.

At the 1967 State Convention, the Pampa Jaycee-Ettes were selected as the outstanding club in Division III. Mrs. Nathan Lancaster was selected as Outstanding Jaycee-ette in Division III. The Pampa Jaycee-ettes won first place in Ways and Means in Division III; Second Place in Aid to Jaycees in Division III; and second place in other Jaycee-Ette Activities in Division III.

The Jaycee-Ettes meet in the Southwestern Public Service Reddy Room on the fourth Thursday of each month at 7:30 pm. An invitation is always open to all Jaycee wives.

Large Corporations Using Texas Farms as Tax Dodge

By PRESTON McGRAW
United Press International
Jay Naman, president in Texas of the National Farmers Union, said today that he suspects out-of-state corporations are trying to gobble up Texas farms as an income tax dodge. Naman has asked the union's county organizations to make surveys so he can see whether they bear out his suspicion that out-of-state corporation takeovers of Texas farms are "substantial."
"We think there is a danger of corporate takeover of agriculture," Naman said.
At present, Naman has no figures on out-of-state ownership of Texas farms. Dr. Alvin B. Wooten, professor of agricultural economics at Texas A&M University, believes out-of-state ownership of Texas farms totals less than 10 per cent.
Most State Owners
William C. Wedemeyer, of Waco, education and research director of the Texas Farm Bureau, said there is a "very small percentage" of out-of-state ownership. He did not have a figure.
"I was recently in one county below San Antonio and I understand that some large acquisitions had been made there by out-of-state corporations," Naman said. "In addition to the acquisitions, I understand quite a bit of interest had been expressed by out-of-state corporations."

"Probably the conglomerate corporations are finding it more difficult every year to find new businesses. Agriculture is a good place to diversify. If they have profits on their other operations, they can take losses on farm operations."
"There are tax advantages. Our investigations show they manage to lose on these operations."
Cites Two Methods
Naman said there are two ways to prevent corporations from moving heavily into Texas farms. He said one is a bill before Congress that would prevent corporations from charging farm losses against income from other sources.
Naman said the Texas Legislature could pass a law making it illegal for a corporation to be chartered in Texas for the purpose of farming and ranching.
Dr. Wooten said his estimate that out-of-state corporations own not more than 10 per cent of Texas farms is from a survey of 26 sample counties.

Wedemeyer said the main problem of out-of-state ownership of farms is management. Do It Yourself "A person who owns a large block of land, as far as agriculture is concerned, will find that he has to run it himself or make a deal with a local person to run the farm or he will have to set up a complicated structure of management," Wedemeyer said.
"Most Texas farms are family farms. There are a few cooperative type farms."
A trend that Dr. Wooten has noticed is a growing ownership of Texas land by people who live in the state's towns and cities.
People who make more than 50 per cent of their income from a source other than farming own about 82 per cent of the land in Brazos County, Dr. Wooten said.
He believes that for the state as a whole, urban resident ownership of Texas farmland runs about 45 per cent.

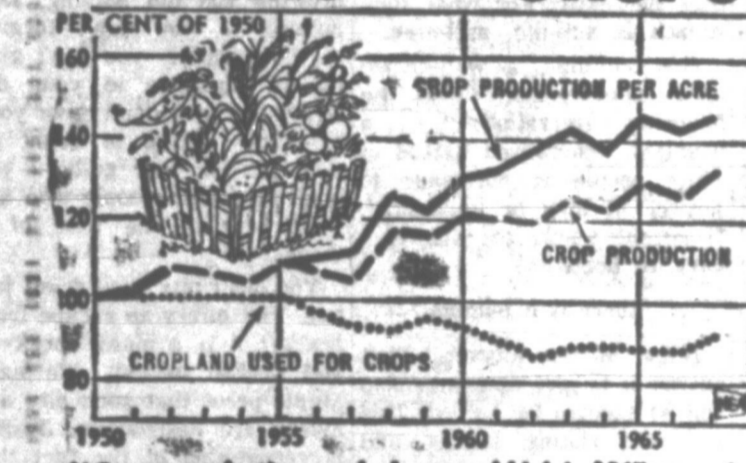

TEXAS A&M ECONOMIST SAYS

1967 Farm Record Was of More Output and Declining Prices

COLLEGE STATION — The agricultural situation in 1967 turned out to be one of record farm output and declining prices.
John G. McHaney, Texas A&M Extension economist, said that realized net farm income probably was reduced by about 10 per cent from the near-record 1966 level. The net effect of larger marketings and lower prices was to reduce cash receipts from marketings only slightly. However, he said, the uptrend in production expenses continued in 1967 and realized net income of farm operators dropped to a $14.8 billion annual rate in January-September, down from $16.6 billion a year earlier.

McHaney noted that production gains for livestock products were large in 1967, especially for hogs, poultry and eggs.

FARMS and CROPS

U.S. crop production reached a record high in 1967, according to Department of Agriculture estimates.

FARMS and PEOPLE

The nation's farm production in 1967, well above the previous year, keeps pace with increased population.

Conservation irrigation means just that — conserving of the precious Panhandle commodity of water.
Whether you irrigate by ditches, pipelines or canals, or a combination of any or all, you can still suffer excessive water loss.
Loss of water means fewer acres can be irrigated or crops suffer from lack of water.
Results from irrigation are greatly affected by the operator of the irrigation system. Knowing when to irrigate, and how much water to apply will help you to conserve irrigation water.
Limits of efficiency are set by the design of the irrigation system. But generally speaking, water should be applied at the time it is needed to prevent crop stress, but not so early that there is insufficient storage capacity in the soil to hold the water.
Pre-planting irrigation is usually desirable. This fills the soil to capacity in the root zone depths prior to planting. The application can be made as early as several months ahead of planting.

Normal irrigations are made to replace moisture used by growing crops. The irrigator must strive for proper timing of the application: before the crop goes into stress, but not before sufficient storage is available.
An irrigation system is essentially a piece of farm equipment designed to do a job.
But the operator is the primary determinant of whether it is going to do a good job or not. An irrigator must understand his soil and his crops and their needs before he can most successfully practice irrigation.
Being a very broad and complex subject, irrigation brings with it different problems on different crops. The technicians of the Soil Conservation Service will be happy to assist you with any problems which might arise with your system.

Panhandle Water District News

By FELIX W. RYALS
The Board of Directors of Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District met in a special meeting at the District Office in White Deer on January 15 to certify the director's election held on January 9 in Director's Precincts No. 1 and 5.
Stewart Purvines was re-elected to the board of directors of the district from Precinct No. 1 comprising the eastern portion of Potter County and the western portion of Carson County. James D. Skaggs was elected to the board from director's precinct No. 5 comprising the eastern portion of Gray County. The new directors will serve for a two year period.
Fred Vanderburg of Gray County is the new president of the board of directors of the district. C. Russell McConnell, of Carson County, was elected vice-president and Phil H. Hawkins of Carson County was elected Secretary. Other board members are Stewart Purvines and James D. Skaggs.
The Water Conservation Districts were brought into existence by the state legislature to formulate, promulgate and enforce rules and regulations for the purpose of conserving, preserving, protecting and recharging the underground water of the underground water reservoir or subdivision thereof and to develop comprehensive plans for the most efficient use of the underground water of the subdivision thereof, and for the control and prevention of waste of such underground water, which plans shall specify in such detail as may be practicable the acts, procedure, performance and avoidance which are or may be necessary to effect such plans, including specifications therefor; to carry out research projects, develop information and determine limitations, if any, which should be made on the withdrawal of underground water from the underground water reservoir or subdivision thereof; to collect and preserve information regarding the use of such underground water and the practicability of recharge of the underground water subdivision thereof; to publish such plans and information, bring them to the notice and attention of the users of such underground water within the District, and to encourage their adoption and execution.

water standards. These standards were established first in 1914 to control the quality of water used for drinking and culinary purposes on interstate carriers.
These standards have been revised several times, the latest revision having been in 1962 (U.S. Public Health Service, 1962), and adopted by the American Water Works Association as minimum standards for all public water supplies.
Howard Boswell, development fund manager for the Water Development Board, was named this week to replace Joe Moore as executive director Feb. 1. The Board decision was announced after Secretary of Interior Udall announced Moore's appointment Feb. 1 as commissioner of the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration. Boswell was executive secretary of the Board when it was only a financing agency, so is the Board's senior employe. Moore said his $28,000 Federal job, as he sees it, is a chance to tie local, state and federal water pollution control personnel into a unified team attacking water pollution problems. He also had a word of warning to Texans. The real danger to the revised Texas Water Plan is "the risk that its implementation will be delayed by regional differences."

Robin doesn't get into trouble and all our rooms stay warm and comfortable," she adds.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—E.F. Hutton & Co. indicates a "cautious attitude" for the present and feels that "preference should be given stocks with above-average prospects."
The firm notes that increased wages, automatic or newly-negotiated in 1968, would further depress pre-tax profits and tax surcharge, if voted by Congress, would force after-tax profits lower.
Hayden, Stone, Inc. feels that the general stock list shows no indications of having reached an important distributive top. Although the present cautious atmosphere will probably remain until the prospects for business this year have been evaluated, and until the State of the Union message has been analyzed, "there is nothing to suggest that last week's profit-taking setback in the averages represented anything more than a normal technical reaction," the firm said.

Clean Air Is Expensive But It's Not Impossible

NEW YORK (NEA) — "Clean air," says Jay Monroe, "is expensive, but it can be had. The average citizen, however, would rather run the risk of getting emphysema than part with the money to clean up the air."

Monroe, a 40-year-old inventor-engineer, is in a position to know what he's talking about. As former chairman of the technical subcommittee of the New York Advisory Council on Air Pollution, he has inhaled enough dirty air to pollute Pittsburgh. Monroe is in the lighting business (he manufactures Tensor lamps) and also in the news on occasion. He's for clean air and against Con Edison, New York's chief power supplier, which should make him something of a Gotham folk hero. It doesn't.

Because, when you get right down to it, Monroe admits that when it comes to his pet peeve, he doesn't like anybody very much.

Nobody has to spell out the effects of air pollution. It's there, everybody knows it, everybody complains and that's about it, Monroe does not think that's enough.

Breathing in a city like New York is getting to be a physical impossibility for more people every day. "But," says Monroe, "the people don't want to pay the price for clean air, so what can they expect?"

Monroe once helped draw up something called Public Law 14, which, he explains, "called for the upgrading of a great many incinerators in apartment buildings in New York. It would have done a lot to cut down on air pollution in the city, except nobody wanted it. The city was cool toward it and, of course, the landlords came out against it, since it cost an average of $5,000 to upgrade the incinerator in each building. But, the interesting thing is that the people themselves, the tenants, who stood to gain the most from the upgrading, didn't like the idea either."

As Monroe tells it, the landlords in question put the damper on the project by explaining that the upgrading of an incinerator would constitute an improvement in the building and call for an increase in rent. Economics defeated idealism.

The city denies being against anything that will help reduce air pollution, a project near and dear to Mayor John V. Lindsay, but Monroe cringes whenever anyone mentions the name of Samuel J. Kearing Jr., the former sanitation commissioner who resigned not long after Lindsay learned that Kearing wanted the city to build a huge incinerator on part of the former Brooklyn Navy Yard site.

Kearing opposed the improvement of the incinerators since those landlords who failed to meet the standards involved would be required to shut down their incinerators. He felt that if enough landlords padlocked their units the Department of Sanitation would be faced with an impossible job of garbage collection.

Upon his resignation, Kearing's job was temporarily taken over by James L. Marcus, who was destined to become involved in the biggest city scandal in decades.

"The most effective technique of the power companies — who are the biggest polluters in the land — is to call for a study," asserts Monroe. "The general public loves to hear about studies and everybody is happy. While the polluters are studying, they go right on polluting and the public goes right on breathing the polluted air."
