CONCERT MEMBER — Mrs. Rufe Jordan, left, was one of the first to take out a membership for the Pampa Community Concert Association's 1968-69 season when membership drive headquarters opened this morning in the Southwestern Public Service Co. lobby. Issuing the membership card are Mrs. Aubrey Steele, center, co-chairman, and Mrs. George Snell, chairman for the campaign which will continue this week with the aid of 150 volunteer workers. The workers were to be honored at a dinner tonight in Coronado Inn. (See story, page 3).

Price Of Gold Drops On European Bullion Market

Speculators Begin 'Unloading' Move

PARIS (UPI)—The price of gold dropped sharply on the Paris bullion market today—the first decrease since speculators began a buying spree that threatened the world's money system and the American dollar.

Gold, which reached $44.36 an ounce on Friday, slipped to $40.01 today. The official price, maintained unchanged by the Washington central banks conference this weekend, is $35 an ounce.

The speculators, who Friday battled with their fists in a rush to buy gold, today began unloading the yellow metal by the hundreds of pounds.

They were disappointed by President Johnson's refusal to devalue the dollar, an action that would have meant fat profits for gold buyers.

For the first time in two weeks the prices of gold ingots, bars and coins began dropping.

Today's session grew hectic. Friday the rush was to buy. Today the speculators lunged to sell.

The ingot-2.2 pounds of gold—fell from Friday's all-time high of $1,400 to $1,266.

Twenty-five tons of gold worth $30.7 million were traded today, a sharp drop from last Friday's turnover of 30.5 tons worth $43.8 million.

The experts predicted that, unless the Soviet Union and South Africa defy the United States and begin unloading their gold stocks massively on the free market to keep the price of the dollar, the floating price of the yellow metal is bound to slump.

They said that when all calculations from today's regular 60-minute market session are in, the price of an ounce of gold will be about $40. That, for the speculators, would be a far cry from predictions earlier that today's trading might even rise above Friday's record rate of $44.36 an ounce.

A squad of policemen still had to be called into the Bourse building to keep order. But unlike Friday when the dollar plunged to its lowest legal limit the speculators were struggling to get in to sell, not to buy.

Britain took the heat off the American greenback, closing the gold market for two weeks to give the dollar a respite from new onslaughts by gold speculators.

The overheated London gold market, scene of a wild stampede for the metal last week, was ordered to remain closed until April 1 in the wake of Sunday's agreement by central bankers in Washington to set up a two-price system to help both the dollar and the pound.

When it reopens it will be strictly for business between private speculators only. The

Dien Bien Phu Tactics Fail Reds At Khe Sanh

SAIGON (UPI)—Dien Bien Phu tactics failed the Communists today at Khe Sanh. Overwhelming U.S. artillery and fire by South Vietnamese Rangers smashed the third North Vietnamese attempt to break into the surrounded northern border fort even before the 400 attackers reached the barbed wire defenses.

Using the strategy that helped bring them victory against the French 14 years ago, a North Vietnamese battalion surged out of zig-zag trenches and dashed for the fort American generals have vowed never will fall.

The Communists had unleashed their heaviest barrage in a month Sunday to prepare the attack. The Leathernecks in Khe Sanh area said the shell, rockets and mortars fell on them at a rate of one of every three minutes—more than 500 throughout the day.

But in the pre-dawn darkness today, the charging Communists failed to get the break through denied them twice before by allied firepower. Marine artillery at nearby Camp Carroll boomed. American strike planes sprayed bombs and fiery napalm.

The North Vietnamese battalion fell back, racing back to the twisting trenches dug the past month to within 100 yards of Khe Sanh. The allies in Khe Sanh, where 6,000 Marines faced what U.S. intelligence said were 16,000 North Vietnamese around them, reported "light casualties. The Communist losses were said to have been "distinct." Marines reported the main body of attackers never reached the barbed wire. Two did, and the Leathernecks after sun-up found the two bodies dangling on the wire. There were no American losses, U.S. spokesmen said.

In other action, U.S. spokesmen said two American jets were shot down Sunday during raids against North Vietnam. The two men aboard an Air Force F4C Phantom were rescued off the Communist coast. But the two-man crew of a Navy A6 Intruder downed near Hai-phong were listed as missing.

American spokesmen said 767 Communists have been killed in the first week of Operation Resolved To Win, the record 50-battalion allied anti-guerrilla sweep around Saigon. U.S. losses have been 31 men killed and 263 wounded and South Vietnam units suffered "light" casualties.

In nearby Thailand, chief launching site for the air raiding of North Vietnam, the U. S. Air Force poised six F111 swing-wing jets for their crucial combat test. The flights to decide if the controversial all-purpose craft is America's greatest warplane or a multi-

Cabot Receives Army Certificate

Cabot Corporation, Boston, Mass., has received the Army's coveted Certificate of Appreciation for Patriotic Civilian Service.

Colonel Arthur H. Sweeney, representing the Commanding General, U. S. Weapons Command, made the award to Henry Donohue, General Manager of Cabot Corporation's Machinery Division, Pampa. At the ceremonies in Boston, Colonel Sweeney cited Cabot for its part in the development of a new method that cuts the cost of producing cannon tubes by 20 per cent.

In making the award, Colonel Sweeney said that Cabot had "demonstrated in an extraordinary manner a willingness to invest time and talent with no guarantee of return to test and prove an experimental idea advanced by Watervliet Arsenal as

Man Kills 7, Wounds 2 In Rampage

IRONWOOD, Mich. (UPI)—A 56-year-old woodcutter who "moonlighted" as a janitor faces arraignment today on charges of killing seven persons and critically wounding two in an unexplained orgy of violence.

Police say Eric Pearson ran amok with a high-powered deer rifle Saturday night. He killed five persons in homes near his secluded cabin and two in a tavern, according to the official count. A woman and a 12-year-old girl were wounded.

Saturday night, Pearson left his cabin, apparently on the way to his night job as a janitor at the Big Powderhorn Mountain ski resort.

He never arrived at work. According to police, he stopped at the home of Mrs. Vienna Gustafson, a widow who lived a mile and a half short of Big Powderhorn.

When he left, four persons lay dead, shot in the abdomen with a .30-06 deer rifle, police said. A girl was wounded.

Then Pearson doubled back to the home of Raymond Hautala, owner of a service station where he often picked up orders for cordwood. There, police said, he called Hautala to the door and shot him. Hautala was killed and his wife was shot in the back.

Pearson walked on to Hautala's Tavern, 150 yards away. After another barrage of gunfire, a construction worker lay dead and a woman was fatally wounded.

Fog Hinders Search For Survivors

POINT A LA HACHE, La. (UPI)—Thick fog shrouded the coastal reaches of the twisting Mississippi river this morning, plaguing the search for seven men missing after Saturday's flaming ship-barge collision.

Samuel Brown, 48, a crewman from Baltimore, Md. died Sunday of second degree burns, bringing to eight the number who have died since a giant fire ball rolled over the deck of the Australia-bound freighter African Star.

The seven who died on board the ship were finally identified Sunday night. They were: Irvin Viltz, 30, of Lafayette, La.; Peter J. Henebery, Jr., 33, of Isle of Palms, S.C.; Cornelius Jones, 37, of Baltimore; Willie Latten, 29, of Houston; Dryn McDonald, 54, of New York City; Paul Thompson, 40, of Ansonville, N.C.; and Mrs. Courtney Fowler, 64, of Lake Charles, La.

The seven crewmen still listed as missing are Justin Burdo, 39; Paul M. Hanly, 19; Alfred S. Hay, 45; Douglas C. Naegle, 19; James Quirk, 48; Stephen T. Smith, 19; and Philip H. Whitman, 37.

African Nationalist Guerrillas Hit Rhodesia Along Zambian Border

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI)—African nationalist guerrillas armed with Chinese Communist-made weapons have invaded Rhodesia and are battling government troops along the Zambian border, the government announced today.

The guerrillas were believed to have attacked across the border from Zambia to avenge the execution of several Africans by the government of Prime Minister Ian Smith. Execution of the convicted murderers was condemned throughout the world and brought warnings from Zambia that such attacks might come.

A government statement said nine guerrillas have been killed so far plus one wounded and "others" captured.

One Rhodesian was reported killed and two wounded in the fighting.

Announcement of the fighting followed reports reaching Salisbury that about 200 guerrillas had crossed into Rhodesia from Zambia.

The reports said the guerrillas paddled across giant Lake Kariba in canoes.

Explosions Hit Firms In France

PARIS (UPI)—Explosions today rocked two American banks and a U.S. airline office.

Police said the blasts—less than 24 hours after rioting in London protesting American Vietnam—did serious damage to the fronts of the buildings housing the local offices of the Chase Manhattan Bank, the Bank of America and Trans World Airlines.

All three buildings are near the Paris opera house.

Possibility Is Seen For Reserve Callup

By DARRELL GARWOOD

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The "moderate" troop buildup in Vietnam expected to be ordered soon by President Johnson has raised the strong possibility that some Reserve forces will be called to active duty.

The anticipated troop buildup also could mean that some Air National Guard units will be sent to Vietnam or Thailand, according to highly informed sources.

Although the increase in manpower at present, that Johnson will call for a general mobilization of Reserve forces.

The President was reliably reported over the weekend to be ready to order a moderate increase in the number of American troops for Vietnam, but sources quoted him as calling some reports of a possible 200,000 man increase as "dove scare tactics."

The sources said the increase would be higher than the presently authorized 525,000 man level, which will be reached within a month. But other sources said Johnson may be thinking in terms of an increase of only about 10,000 men.

Speculation immediately pointed towards the 82nd Airborne, stationed at Ft. Bragg, N.C., which still has about that number of men available. About 4,500 Airborne personnel were airlifted to Vietnam after the start of the Communist's Lunar New Year offensive on Jan. 29.

The reason the two remaining 82nd Brigades at Ft. Bragg seem most likely to be sent is that Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of American troops in Vietnam, is known to want seasoned combat troops from major units. He is reported to have specifically mentioned the 82nd.

But it is argued in some military quarters that sending the rest of the 82nd to Vietnam would leave the United States without a major paratrooper unit for use in possible emergencies at home. The paratroopers were used last summer to help quell the Detroit riot.

The 101st Airborne Division, the nation's only other paratrooper outfit, is already in Vietnam. Formation of a new airborne division would take several months.

Other possible sources of manpower for any Vietnam buildup include the 1st and 2nd Armored Divisions at Ft. Hood, Tex.; the 5th Mechanized Division at Ft. Carson, Colo.; the 6th Armored Brigade at Ft. Meade, Md.; or a brigade from Ft. Ord, Calif.

The prescription was for cold tablets, her suit says.

Gray County To Reach $9,784,000

Increase In Amount Of Income Taxes Seen

By JOEL R. COMBS
Pampa News City Editor

Taxpayers in Gray County will become shockingly aware, on or before April 15, of just how much they will have to pay this year toward the cost of operating the federal government.

The cost is running high and the likelihood is, with the war in Vietnam showing no sign of a letup, it will get still higher.

What part of the $67.7 billion in personal income taxes that the government expects to collect by April 15 will be coming from Pampa and Gray County residents?

Last year, the figures show, they turned in approximately $8,854,000 in such taxes to the federal coffers.

That is the amount, in round numbers, that was collected in the local area, as determined from income distributions and from a breakdown of the statewide receipts announced by the Treasury Department.

They show that the amount collected in personal income taxes throughout the State of Texas totaled $2,504,000,000. Some 0.34 per cent of it was paid by Gray County residents. The size of the current payment should be even larger, according to government expectations. It looks for an increase as a result of the improved rate of employment and the higher incomes that prevailed through most of 1967.

From preliminary figures on personal income levels during the past year, the forthcoming tax returns from the local area will be close to $9,784,000, a rise of $894,000.

The Administration's budget for the next fiscal year, which was submitted in January, counts on a continued expansion of the economy during 1968. It expects the personal income of the American people to increase by $48.7 billion, reaching a new high of $675 billion.

Many people, under those conditions, will find themselves in new and higher tax brackets. All told, individual income taxes are budgeted at $80.9 billion for the next fiscal year, which is $13.2 billion more than at present. This assumes that Congress enacts the 10 per cent surtax proposal.

Personal income in Gray County will have to rise by "about 19 per cent during 1968 for local residents to meet their share of this increase without belt tightening.

United States and its six international gold pool partners agreed not to feed it any longer with metal from their reserves.

The agreement and the two weeks' closure of the market appeared to have the intended effect. Both the dollar and the pound surged back, the pound regaining its $2.40 level.

LBJ Calls For 'Belt-Tightening' Program In US

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—

President Johnson today called for a "national austerity" program in a total effort to win the Vietnam War and to complete his domestic program.

Johnson flew here from the LBJ Ranch in Texas to make a surprise appearance at the opening of the National Farmers Union convention.

He said in his prepared remarks that despite the nation's economic prosperity "the time has come when your President must ask you to join in a total national effort to win the war, to win the peace, and to complete the job at home."

"I ask you to join in a program of national austerity to ensure that our economy will prosper and our fiscal position will be sound," he said.

The President pledged to intensify administration efforts to curb U.S. spending—both private and public—abroad.

Hitting hard on the theme of a national interest, Johnson coupled his pledge for overseas spending cuts with an appeal for a tax increase.

"I ask you to bear this burden in the interest of a stronger nation," he said.

Johnson and his wife, Lady Bird, arrived at Minneapolis International Airport after a two-hour flight from Texas and were greeted by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Minnesota resident, and Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn.

He rode in a driving rain to the Leamington Hotel where he spoke to the farmers' convention.

He called on them for their help and "your patriotic support for our men who are bearing the burden of battle in Vietnam."

"We seek not the victory of conquest, but the triumph of justice," he said, and added "We will win."

He said he was deeply aware of the "yearnings in our country for peace" and added "We are a peace loving nation."

Johnson said there is none who desires peace "more than your President."

"We hope to achieve a just peace at the negotiating table," he reaffirmed. "But if the enemy continues to insist—as it does now—that the outcome must be determined on the battlefield, then we will win the peace on the battlefield."

These were much the same pronouncements Johnson made before 1,000 businessmen in Washington on Saturday.

He said that he was consulting with Congress on proposals for savings in the national budget.

"If it is the will of Congress," he said, "we shall make such reductions. They will postpone many needed actions."

The President made his brief visit to Minneapolis before returning to Washington.

Crime On Increase In Major Cities Of Texas

By United Press International Serious crime, reported to and known by the police, increased 16 per cent in 1967 when compared to 1966, figures prepared by the FBI indicated today.

And in Texas, crime in most categories increased in all major cities. Houston reported 244 murders in 1967, compared with 201 in 1966. The city also noted an increase in forcible rape, robbery, burglary and breaking and entering, larceny over $50 and automobile theft. Houston figures showed a decrease in the number of aggravated assault cases.

SANDRA TACKE

Her Readings Really Speeding

Seventeen-year-old Sandra Tacke can read a page just about as fast as most people can turn one.

And her reading comprehension doesn't seem to suffer from her whirring speed.

Sandra, who completed the Optimization speed reading course in May, 1967, was invited to The Times Herald in Dallas to display her talent — specifically to read 4,500 words a minute.

She was presented with three books, just off the presses, and told to choose one.

The field was immediately narrowed down to two. Speed readers must do a lot of reading.

"I've already read this one," said Sandra, pointing to a book titled "Shakespeare: Time and Conscience" by Grigori Kozintsev.

"And this one — 'The Unique and the Universal,' by J. L. Talmon, doesn't look very interesting," decided the Thomas Jefferson High School senior.

Her choice was "The Women Incendiaries" by Edith Thomas. The 244-page book deals with women of Paris Commune who took up arms to fight for liberty and equality.

"May I survey it first?" she asked, explained that surveying isn't really cheating. It's a process of simply reading the index and table of contents to get an idea of what the book is about.

Less than two minutes later she announced that she was ready to read.

To the untrained observer, Sandra's reading technique looked as if she was flipping through the book looking for something she'd lost.

It wasn't lost long. "I'm through," announced Sandra, 21 minutes later.

She had read each page of about 300 words in six seconds. Her average was roughly 3,500 words a minute. It is usually 4,500.

Sandra, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David B. Tacke. "It would have taken me five hours to read this book."

"I was really slow," she added. "And I had a lot of trouble understanding what I'd read."

"We practice on a little machine called a pacer," explained Sandra. "You set it on a speed and a little arm covers the words as you read along."

If you don't read at the set speed, you just don't read," she said.

By the time Sandra finished the course the "pacer" was only a memory. She had read 50 books and says her reading comprehension is better than she'd dreamed.

She even developed a new method of turning pages.

"I used to rest my chin in my hands and read," she said demonstrating the method which looked like she was staring at the page.

"Now I keep my fingers on the page corners. If you stop to pick up the page and turn each time it will slow you down," she added.

Benefits The Optimization Course is a 24-hour course taught in eight three-hour meetings. Classes meet once a week. The average person reads about 250 words per minute, and the average Optimization graduate reads about 5,000 words per minute.

Guaranteed Results The Optimization method of reading is so effective that results are guaranteed in writing. Optimization guarantees that you will be able to read at least 1,000 words per minute or one book per hour with good comprehension, or your full tuition will be refunded.

Free First Class Optimization invites anyone who may be interested in the course to attend the first meeting as a guest; there is no obligation. You will be able to see how the course is conducted, and get all of your questions answered.

First Class Schedule Free first classes will be held at the Coronado Inn on Monday and Wednesday, March 18 and 20. Two classes will be held each day — 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. and 8:00 to 10:00 p.m.

Crime On Increase In Major Cities Of Texas

By United Press International Serious crime, reported to and known by the police, increased 16 per cent in 1967 when compared to 1966, figures prepared by the FBI indicated today.

And in Texas, crime in most categories increased in all major cities. Houston reported 244 murders in 1967, compared with 201 in 1966. The city also noted an increase in forcible rape, robbery, burglary and breaking and entering, larceny over $50 and automobile theft. Houston figures showed a decrease in the number of aggravated assault cases.

Nationally, crimes of violence were up 15 per cent, led by robbery up 27 per cent, murder up 12 per cent, forcible rape 9 per cent and aggravated assault 8 per cent.

Asked why crime was on the increase, Herman Short, chief of the Houston Police Department, said:

"Why has it increased all over the United States? Answer me that. I really don't know." Population Up But Short blamed at least part of the rise on the "increase of population."

Jesse Gunterman, chief of the Waco Police Department, could offer no concrete reasons, either.

Crime in his city increased in all areas except aggravated assault, burglary and breaking and entering.

He said he did not know any reason the two categories should have dropped but crimes "vary from year to year."

Gunterman said his department had not put special emphasis on the areas of crime which decreased. "We've been doing the best we can on everything."

A city by city breakdown of the areas of increase for cities of more than 100,000 population in Texas follows:

Ableen Murders and non-negligent manslaughter increased by 2 from 1966 to 1967 and aggravated assault, burglary and breaking and entering and larceny over $50 increased. The city showed decreases in forcible rape, robbery and auto theft.

Amarillo: Murders decreased in Amarillo in 1967 by four cases and aggravated assault and burglary dropped by almost 100 cases each. Other major types of crime showed an increase.

Austin: Murders decreased by eight cases in 1967 but all categories showed increases.

Beaumont: Murders decreased by four cases in 1967 and forcible rapes dropped from two cases in 1966 to one reported case in 1967. All other types of crime were up.

Some Decrease Noted Dallas: Dallas showed a decrease of two cases in forcible rape during 1967 but all other types of crime increased during the year.

Corpus Christi: Murders decreased by 10 cases during the past year in Corpus Christi, but the city recorded increases in all other types of crime.

El Paso: Murders dropped by

Pampans Sweep Cycle Races

By CURTIS MONTGOMERY Sports Editor

The Pampa Two-Wheelers swept through the motorcycle races yesterday south of town at the county gravel pit and took home most of the honors with an estimated crowd of 1,800 looking on.

Preston Pool took top honors in the big motor class for Pampa, riding a Harley Davidson followed by Howard Foster in second and Bruce Garrett, both from out of town.

Alvin Sharp on a Montesa 250 won two out of three heats on the 22 and a half mile course but broke his chain while in second place in the final heat and had to settle for third in the 201-325 cc class behind Ronnie Meers, a Pampa High School boy who straddled a Bultaco in first with two second places and a first. O. Petterson, of Amarillo, took second.

Each heat was seven and half miles and there were three heats which totaled 22 and a half miles.

Other results: small motor class — Max Patton first; Junior Casswell, second and Marvin Allison third (all of Pampa.)

In the 126 cc — 200 cc class — Johnny Down (Pampa) first; Eddie Brasher (Amarillo) second; Ira Hutcherson (Pampa) third.

Cindy Clark finished first in a special event — the powder puff race.

MOTORCYCLE RACER — Eddie Brasher of Amarillo zooms by enroute to a second place finish in the races south of Pampa yesterday where a crowd estimated at 1,800 witnessed some 60 cycles race over a rugged 2½ mile course. The Pampa Two-Wheeler ran off with the honors.

Two Holdouts Wield Big Bats

MIAMI (UPI)—The last two holdouts of the spring could conceivably wield the biggest bats in the National League.

Although neither Judge Roy Hofheinz of the Houston Astros nor Bob Carpenter of the Philadelphia Phillies has ever hit .300, they apparently hold the key to the most perplexing problem facing the NL right now.

That would be whether to expand to 12 teams in time for the 1969 season in order to match a similar move by the American League or sit back and let the AL gain the initiative again as it did in the expansion to 10 teams in 1961.

Walter O'Malley of the Los Angeles Dodgers, the NL's cleanup hitter, already has convinced seven other owners that immediate action is the best course. On Tuesday, he will try to convince Hofheinz and Carpenter as well.

The NL owners will hold a special meeting that day to thrash out their problems and study three schedules presented by the AL for the 1969 season. Under major league baseball rules, the leagues must approve each other's schedules before it can be adopted. Before NL owners approve a schedule, however, they must agree on their own plans.

The AL already has stated its intention of dividing into two six-team divisions, known as the Eastern and Western, and conducting a championship playoff between the two winners to determine a representative for the World Series.

Despite a published report from Pompano Beach, Fla., to the contrary, the AL cannot make a formal move until the NL agrees to the scheduling change. One of the three provisional AL schedules drawn up calls for 12 clubs with divisional play. A second has 12 clubs without divisional play, and the third contains an orderly divisional set-up which would work in conjunction with a similar NL divisional schedule.

Should the NL put off expansion until 1970 or 1971, it would create an imbalance between the two leagues, conceivably both in financial matters and fan interest. A divisional playoff in the AL would likely overshadow the closing stages of a 10-team NL pennant finish.

These are some of the matters which will be discussed at the meeting. No announcement, however, will be forthcoming after the meeting as to the disposition of the NL and any new clubs which might be franchised. That will come later.

ASPEN, Colo. (UPI)—Canada's Nancy Greene won the Roch Cup giant slalom to take a commanding lead in the women's World Cup ski competition.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Keating

In the North a man learns not to expect too much of March. It's less the first month of spring than the last month of winter. But saltwater fishermen are impatient with anything that stands between them and their sport—especially the weather.

So each year we hope that the summer flounder fishing will start a little earlier, and we try our luck before the books say the time is ripe and the newspapers tell about the "big catches." Winter flounder fishing, of course, does start in the North in March, but the big summer flounder, or fluke, appears much later. Farther south, anglers are luckier.

Fluke spend the winter in the deeper offshore waters at depths of about 30 to 85 fathoms, where they're caught by the commercial boys. But when the water gets sufficiently warm, in they come—and they stay throughout the spring, summer and early fall. During these months, sport fishermen go after them avidly from New England to northern Florida, with the greatest concentrations from Cape Cod to Cape Hatteras.

During the early part of the fluke season, fish will not average much more than two pounds. But as time goes on bigger fish are caught, until late in the season. These big flatties often reach 10 pounds, and specimens up to 30 pounds have been reported.

The rule in choosing your tackle for fluke is go as light as circumstances permit—bearing in mind that most fish you hook will run much smaller than those ten-pound doormats. The matter of the sinker must also be considered. A very light-action rod becomes difficult to handle when you're using two or more ounces of lead. Probably the best all-around outfit, advises Tom Paugh, Salt-Water Fishing Editor of Sports Afield Magazine, is a medium-action boat rod equipped with a conventional reel that can hold about 200 yards of 20-pound-test line. With this gear you can troll, drift or fish on the bottom.

For surf or bank fishing you will want a surf-rod—either conventional or spinning, your preference. Again, medium action will be about right. If you think this is too heavy, remember that you don't always catch what you are fishing for. Strippers, bluefish and other strong fish may go after your bait, and it would be a shame to lose one.

Houston Heads Toward UCLA Showdown in LA

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI)—Mighty Houston, within two games of a perfect season, steered its basketball magic toward Los Angeles today and the long-awaited rematch with UCLA.

The Cougar-Bruin clash this Friday night in Los Angeles will headline the NCAA semifinals.

"We're looking forward to playing UCLA again, said Houston Coach Guy Lewis after his tall Texan smashed Texas Christian 103-68 to win the Midwest Regional Saturday night.

"If we're going to win this thing we've got to beat UCLA and they're a real big challenge."

Lewis' powerhouse, now 31-0 and riding the crest of a 32-game winning streak, handed the UCLA's their only loss of the season, 71-69, in the Astrodome in January.

The Cougars have been untested so far in the NCAA playoffs, bombing Loyola of Chicago 94-76 March 9 in a first-round game and crushing eighth-ranked Louisville 91-75 in the Midwest semifinals Friday night.

"Our club had more talent last year but we didn't play together," Lewis said. "This year we've played together. We're always looking for assists. I believe in being up for every ball game."

Big Elvin Hayes, the 6-8 All-America and Player of the Year, was again the sparkplug Saturday night, pouring in 39 points and grabbing 25 rebounds. Theodis Lee and Ken Spain added 16 points each.

"They're great, just great," said TCU Coach Johnny Swain.

Whitworth Wins Womens Golf

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—A ten-foot putt for a birdie on the last hole gave Kathy Whitworth of Dallas the championship in the $12,500 Orange Blossom Open Sunday.

The putt gave the blonde Texan a one-over par 72 in the final round for a par 213 total, one stroke better than Sandra Haynie of Fort Worth, Tex., and Judy Kimball of Sutton, Mass., who were tied for second at 214.

Last year's top winner on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, Kathy picked up $1,875 for the Orange Blossom win, the first stop this season.

The two second place finishers got $1,350 each.

Starting Sunday's round in a tie with Miss Haynie, Miss Whitworth bogeyed three of the first five holes to go three over par, and added another bogey at 11. But she picked up birdies on seven and eight before dropping the final birdie on the 18th.

One under par on the front nine, Miss Haynie took a double bogey six on the 10th and a bogey on the 13th.

Sikes Takes Citrus Loot

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI)—Atorney Dan Sikes has no intention of practicing law on a full-time basis as long as he can keep on winning all that money on the golf course.

The 37-year-old Sikes, who has set his sights on a second-straight $100,000-plus year, picked up $23,000 of that Sunday when he shot a 6-under-par 66 in the final round to win the Florida Citrus Open by a single stroke over young Tom Weiskopf. Sikes had a 14-under-par 274 for the four rounds.

"Someday, I plan to settle down to a law practice," Sikes said. "But not until the day comes when I can no longer make it on the golf tour."

Weiskopf, leading money winner on this year's tour with $66,345 after earning $13,000 Sunday, overshoot the green the previous week at Doral and lost by a stroke to Gardner Dickinson.

Tournament favorite Jack Nicklaus, who held or shared the lead through the first three rounds, had a closing 66 Sunday—good enough for only third place at 276.

Nicklaus was tied with Sikes and Weiskopf with only five holes left to play. But he went into the water on the 14th hole and took a bogey while the other two were both getting birdies.

Miller Barber shot a 69 Sunday to tie for fourth place at 277 with young Englishman Tony Jacklin who had a 68.

The Panama Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Shivers Is Improving

Several months back, we took a few potshots at Allan Shivers, former governor of Texas and current president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, for fogging up the intellectual atmosphere in an address before a gathering of businessmen.

In a demonstration of fence-straddling par excellence and apparent sanctioning of Marx's "from each according to his abilities, to each according to his needs" via the back door, Shivers let it be known that the "right of the individual to keep half of what he earned" was in need of defense.

Giving him credit for being precisely fifty per cent accurate, we asked how he proposed to defend such a "right" after having established the premise that someone else had a "right" to the other half of what the individual had earned which, of course his proposition, if accepted, would certainly do. If it is once established that some persons have a "right" to any part of what other persons have earned, there is no logical stopping place from there on, we pointed out.

Actually it was like shooting fish in a barrel and we didn't really expect a response from the former governor: we did get a letter from another chamber official. Nevertheless, we are delighted to note that the Shivers thought processes have apparently undergone considerable improvement since then.

Addressing a dinner meeting of the Association of Stock Exchange Firms board of governors in Dallas on Feb. 5, Shivers, according to a news release of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, told the gathering:

"In using crises as excuses for excessive government spending, the United States is limiting other countries that have ruined themselves.

"We're coasting down the road toward a managed economy in the typical European pattern," he continued. "It hasn't worked for them. How can it work for us? It would be a different matter if we were in some catastrophic mess, as European countries have been, and had no other choice. But we don't have to spend ourselves into ruin."

The Chamber of Commerce president then went on to list a wide range of problems—debt, inflation taxes, imbalance of payments, trade restrictions, pressure against the dollar and loss of gold, commenting, "They all stem from the same root; federal deficits; and they would all respond to the same treatment; fiscal prudence."

(He might also have mentioned that federal deficits are increased by businessmen and others seeking special privilege legislation.)

Amn to all that! But, noting and commanding the vast improvement in Mr. Shivers' reasoning power, may we modestly venture to offer one further thought for his consideration?

If it is admitted—and who will question it?—that the government has nothing except what it TAKES from individuals, and if "take" as used here being involuntary as far as the TAKEN FROM are concerned, is obviously synonymous with theft, then does it not follow as night follows day that any spending by government is ipso facto, "excessive?"

And, if that be so, is not the root cause of the "catastrophic mess" the world finds itself in at this moment in time?

Who Decides What's True?

RESOLVED: THAT NEWSPAPERS SHALL BE ALLOWED TO PRINT ONLY TRUTHFUL ARTICLES.

"We're having a debate in school," the bright young man said, "and I would appreciate having some of your views about newspapers. I'm taking the negative."

We may have missed some of his comments right there, because the audacity of the resolve had stunned us.

"That is an unfair wording for debate," we finally managed. "It implies that the newspapers deliberately print untruthful articles and it begs the question: 'Who is to determine what is a truthful article?'"

When the young student explained the subject chosen for debate in his class it mounted to a question of a free press or a press controlled by political government.

Apparently the discussion in his class centered around whether newspapers should be permitted to express editorial opinion and have columnists, or merely report straight news stories, the truthfulness of which would be determined by a "citizen review board."

It was so incredible that there is a good chance we failed to provide him with real ammunition for his debate.

We insisted first that he brand the resolve as unfair. He asked if we thought such a proposition would get voter support if placed on the ballot.

We had to answer that it would stand a good chance if worded as his debate subject is worded. After all, who could object to having newspapers print only "truthful articles?"

We hope we got through to our young visitor, because his mind obviously was doing some work on its own, and what a golden opportunity this was to encourage him along.

What we wanted him to know and understand is that we have either a free press or a press controlled by politicians. If "truth" is that which is dictated by a group of politically appointed individuals—a citizen review board—then "truth" will be that which enhances the power of the politicians in control. The public will get only the version the politicians want released. When such a condition of control evolves, freedom of the individual is gone.

We grant that some newspapers and newspapermen may deliberately lie or distort the truth. They are not to be defended. But most newspapers and newsmen are trying to the best of their ability to report truthfully and accurately the news as they see it. Any failure is more likely to be natural human error than intentional misrepresentation.

We wanted one young man also to know that a "citizen review board" already exists in every community where newspapers are sold. It exists in the marketplace, we explained. No one spends a nickel for The News, we told him, unless they do so of their own free will. The opposite of this is a politically controlled press which everyone would pay for whether they wanted to or not.

"Oh, yes," he said. "You mean the government would pay for all the papers?"

"No," we countered. "Don't ever let anyone tell you that the government pays for anything. The government has no money except that which it takes from you and all the rest of us."

We thought we spotted a glimmer of recognition in his young eyes. We hope so.

CONFLICT AND PROPERTY

Every conflict in the animal kingdom stems from property rights. The territorial imperative, as Robert Ardrey describes in his book of that title, seems to be the most important innate characteristic of all living creatures. Ardrey writes: "This place is mine; I am of this place, says the albatross, the ptarmigan, the green sunfish, the Spaniard, the great horned owl, the wolf, the Venetian, the prairie dog, the three-spined stickleback, the Scotsman, the skua, the man from La Crosse, Wisconsin, the Alsatian, the little-ringed plover, the Argentine, the lungfish, the lion, the Chinook salmon, the Parisian." And throughout the animal kingdom every creature will go to the extreme to protect his own; his property.

Man in recent years has been trying to evolve a society that looks upon property as evidence of the unjust, aggressive, practical accumulations of "princes of entrenched greed." Throughout the world, man has turned to organized society, and nebulus accumulation of power called government, to use this power to redistribute property "for the good of all." And conflict is all around us.

Students are in revolt on the campuses. Riots seem to be a part of city life. Big and little wars have become the universal way of life. And all relate in one way or another to property of some kind.

On the campus of San Francisco State College, a member of the faculty led a mob through the broken plate-glass door of the administration building to confront the college president with an ultimatum regarding the suspension of some other students who previously had beaten up the editor of the college paper, smashed valuable equipment, and destroyed other property. On a television interview, this professor said, with a perfectly straight face, that he and his student mob were not using force and violence, but were simply resisting the force of the administration for its failure to come to terms with the demands of the mob. And this character is teaching international relations!

San Francisco State College is owned and operated by the taxpayers of California and to the extent of federal funds paid to the college, by all U. S. taxpayers. Whether the tax-paying citizen likes it or not, he owns a share of every tax-supported educational institution. The students are subsidized by the taxpayers. Members of the faculty are paid by the college's tax-paying owners. An implied contract exists at all levels of college operations to use the various facilities for advancing the acquisition of knowledge.

The serious student who hoped to improve himself by utilizing his contract of admission is forcefully deprived of his property when the violence of others closes the classrooms, and the research laboratories, and the libraries.

The administrator who fails to protect the rights of peaceful students and the property rights of the public, whose tax dollars have made the college their property, has broken his contract.

The same professors and administrators who are so careless about protecting the "property of others" are usually vigorous defenders of academic freedom, which is a property right. They do not seem to realize that the failure to defend any property right will result in the final destruction of all rights.

They should re-study history in the light of the territorial imperative.

To the Infernal Revvy-Anew Snareus

You Sir:

I would like to know more about this here depreciation gaff. A feller told me he was taking it on his machinery. I would like to take some of this depreciation on my Blouse & Skirt.

The Blouse & Skirt rocked along pretty good for 20 yrs. or so, but now she ain't produc'n as cheaply as before and there is a sneakin suspicion she is becoming obsolescent.

I oll her up every pay day, but she keeps squeaking and groaning just the same. She says your name with every breath she takes.

You fellers have been takin more than half of her production in taxes and with the state bite on top of it why, it comes to about 56 percents. Well, it has finally caught up with the old girl so that now she has got a wheezy diaphragm and a leaky pump.

Now I ain't got any out as far as gettin a new model is concerned, especially since I have got a face that only a love could mother and I figur I am lucky to come out as good as I done did.

I know you have been allowin me about 600 dollars per annum, but for 20 yrs. that only comes to $12,000 and the Blouse & Skirt has become more de-flated than that.

I can tell you for sure she has lost at least $20,000 worth of zip and she won't even Indian wrassel with me no more. So I would like to put in for $8,000 worth of that depreciation everybody is talkin about.

That might not take care of all the de-fishet, but it might prop the old girl up enough to get her on the production schedule again.

Other SDS documents point out that the kinds of "political resistance" being advocated by this militant group cover a wide range of illegal activities designed to disrupt the functions of all forms of government, universities, and public services.

FORMING UNITED FRONT

In a series of organizational meetings around the country, King has advocated the same type of tactics, stating that "to dislocate the functioning of a city without destroying it can be more effective than a riot, because it can be longer lasting and more costly to society."

Evidence gathered by the Senate Permanent Investigating Subcommittee, which is planning a hearing later this month on King, indicates that two of the compelling reasons for the link up of protest groups now are money and manpower problems.

One informant told the Senate probes, "King has turned to recruiting trained agitators from black power, student, and anti-war groups in order to fill out his ranks, save money, and time. All his hard-core protesters will be professionals drawn from other militant groups."

The subcommittee, headed by Senator John McClellan, D-Ark., has gathered information showing that King has also established an alliance with SANE, the Washington-New York-based anti-war, anti-draft organization. This group has agreed to provide money, housing and communications for King's "poor people's" army.

THE BIG ISSUE—Still unresolved is the question of whether the Johnson Administration plans to accommodate King during his "second coming."

He has asked Interior Secretary Stewart Udall for permission to set up tents in public parks in Washington, including the Mall, which extends from near the west front of the Capitol to the Washington Monument.

Congressional leaders led by Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., are vigorously urging President Johnson personally to order Secretary Udall to bar King from using any government land or facilities.

They appealed directly to the President because of a decision the Interior Secretary made in 1966. Without consulting congressional leaders, Udall granted a permit for several thousand anti-war protesters to use the mall in their march on Congress.

Before that demonstration was broken up, more than 300 of the protesters were arrested as they tried to battle their way onto the Capitol grounds.

What disturbed the Senate-House leaders was that Secretary Udall gave his permission for the march despite the fact that the Federal Bureau of Investigation had circulated advance information the protesters planned to try to take over the House of Representatives and hold a mock session in its chamber.

King's Delayed Washington Demonstration In April Tied To Militant Plans of Other Protesters; Money; Manpower Reasons

ROBERT ALLEN
PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Dr. Martin Luther King's decision to delay his "poor people's" invasion of Washington until April 22 is linked closely to the demonstration plans of radical student and anti-war groups.

Congressional investigators, probing the growing protest movement in the country, report that King is timing his militant campaign of civil disobedience here to coincide with the "Ten Days of Resistance" being planned by the Communist-infiltrated Students for a Democratic Society.

The SDS, which has established close liaison with King's Washington staff, plans to launch its 1968 anti-Vietnam protests in the national capital and other major cities during the April 21-30 period.

A "battle plan" being circulated by SDS leaders to its key agitators states that the "Ten Days of Resistance" in April will be used to surface a whole series of new militant protest activities and form alliances with other groups including Dr. King's protesters.

As outlined in this document, the SDS objective is identical with King's — the formation of a broad-based coalition with other protest groups for the launching of a nation-wide campaign of "political resistance" this year.

"In the past year the movement has come from dissent to resistance," states the SDS memorandum. "What we now need is a new dimension in the movement which will enable us to confront the power structure in a political way with the assistance of other militant protest groups."

Other SDS documents point out that the kinds of "political resistance" being advocated by this militant group cover a wide range of illegal activities designed to disrupt the functions of all forms of government, universities, and public services.

Question Box

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is another in a series of Question Box answers to Leo Westmyer, a reader of the Santa Ana, California Register (sister paper of The Pampa News). Mr. Westmyer directed his questions to R. C. Hoiles, co-publisher of The Register.

QUESTION: Why is it that all the articles (well, virtually all) that appear in your letters to the editor are of the same type — whacking away at government? Are you trying to make us believe that nine out of ten people who read your paper hate government? Or are you trying to influence people in your own sneaky way by using selected letters that support your consistent editorial policy? Leo Westmyer, Santa Ana, Calif.

ANSWER: Perhaps the reason is that more Register readers are concerned about what the politicians are doing to them in the guise of doing for them. We do not believe that most of the letter writers "hate government." It appears to us that most of them are trying to change the personnel in government, futile as this may appear to us.

We do receive other letters which are — like Mr. Westmyer's questions — bitterly critical of The Register. When they sign their names and give addresses which we can verify, we publish these with our responses, frequently a asking questions of the letter writers. Some of them have told us they resent this. However, we believe in answering questions ourselves, even when they are couched in sneer terms like Mr. Westmyer's. We also believe others should be willing to answer questions about what they are advocating.

We would ask Mr. Westmyer what he is advocating, other than those of sneer tactics against those who seek to discover and to stand on universal principles?

Hunt H. L. Writes

No. 9: If you (Mr. R. C. Hoiles, co-publisher of The Register) think government is so bad, why is it that your senior son (Mr. C. H. Hoiles, also co-publisher) is always so active in political activities? Haven't you had any influence over him?

ANSWER: We have explained that The Register is not opposed to government, but that we believe individual self-government is superior to political government of the affairs of humans. If Mr. C. H. Hoiles is "so active in political activities," he has kept it a secret from his associates at The Register. Will Mr. Westmyer cite evidence to support his allegation?

Both Messrs. Hoiles have become increasingly disenchanted with political action as a means of solving human problems, just as a great many sincere students in recent years as they have seen the squeeze put on individual freedom by persons in power with the growth of government, local, state and national. And there has been little change in the trend, regardless of those in power and regardless of whether they call themselves "conservative," "liberal" or "moderate."

REMOVAL OF GOLD BACKING

From 1880 to 1927 the United States had one of the world's strongest economies. Business was free of government restriction, the dollar fully backed by gold. Subsequently, the government increased direct interference with the economy, and it has been steadily expanded.

In my book ALPACA. In 1960, I presented ideas for a workable Constitution for the people of nations which were to emerge. I took a dim view of the dependability of gold as a basis for the monetary units, and instead of gold I presented a currency redeemable in wheat or rice, whichever most desired. In 1968 in ALPACA REVISITED, I was conscious that other metals had replaced usages of gold, and its desirability to support the monetary issue was far less than ever before. Edible commodities are more dependable than ever.

With gold as a basis, economists and students should consider the possibility that the pound may be further devalued and the dollar further cheapened. The U.S. may withdraw the gold reserve to back 25 per cent of its currency, and if a free market on gold is instituted, the price might start at $50 per ounce or $70 per ounce.

Inflation would necessarily follow, but a panic might follow inflation as in Germany after World War I. Prices may tumble during rather than after inflation. The best students of government and finance have subjects worthy of their study. If there is sufficient wisdom to save our Republic during the next five years, it is safe for the foreseeable future making nearly everything else which happens of minor consequence.

Scout Troop In Court Of Honor Here

Boy Scout Troop 24 of St. Matthews Episcopal Church held a court of honor last week for the purpose of making awards to those scouts who had advanced in rank. The rank of Tenderfoot was awarded to Steve Buchanan, David Huntsberger, Keith Eastman, Joe Curtis and Danny Gillis. Chuck Reeve received a Second Class award, Wayne Holland received a First Class Award and Paul Fisher was the recipient of two merit badges. Bill Walker, Adobe Walls Council scout executive, was on hand to give the awards and deliver a short talk on rank achievement. An active troop, the boys learn and practice scout craft and plan outings at their Wednesday night meetings. Any boy between the ages of 11 and 16 who is interested in scouting should contact Ed Wilson, scoutmaster of Troop 24.

Teachers Attend Local Seminar

Pampa public schools were dismissed at 2:30 p.m. today to permit administrators and teachers to attend an In-Service Seminar at Robert E. Lee Junior High School. Dr. Beatrice Cobb, professor of psychology and director of the Rehabilitation and School Counselor Training Program at Texas Technological College, Lubbock, addressed the group. Theme of her talk centered around the shifting nature of the culture in which youngsters of today are being reared, and the need for understanding and preventive measures in the area of mental health. Acting school superintendent McHenry Lane presided at the session, and the speaker was introduced by Mrs. Essie Mae Walters, Lee Junior High counselor.

New Books

New books on the shelves of Lovett Memorial Library this week are: "Harvest of the Sea" — John Bardach; a scientist looks at the oceans, their past, promises, and prospects. "The Banker's Bones" — Margaret Scherf; the author's observations of the Arizona locale, together with her wry interpretation of life have produced an extremely funny and clever murder mystery. "The President's Plane Is Missing" — Robert J. Serling; a suspense tale involving Air Force One, the President of the U.S., and the interruption of what was to be a routine flight from Washington to Palm Springs. "Missile Base Beneath the Sea: Story of Polaris" — J. J. DiCerto; a description of the

Quirks In The News

By United Press International BAGEL BAIL. CHICAGO (UPI)—In honor of St. Patrick's Day, Suburban Highland radio station WEEF distributed green bagels at a shopping center. Disc jockey Chuck Collins was handing out the delicacies when he was arrested and jailed as a public nuisance. The station manager outballed Collins out—with two bags of green bagels. SAFETY BELT. BELLEVUE, Mich. (UPI)—Police Chief Paul Sadoski "bucked up for safety" when he went out on patrol. It was a good thing he did. He curbed a car for a traffic violation and one of the occupants fired a gun at him. "It didn't hurt me," Sadoski said. "The shot hit me in the (safety) belt buckle." LONG HEIST. CAMBRIDGE, England (UPI)—A thief broke into the Cambridge sausage firm of Winton-Smith over the weekend and escaped with 26 miles worth of sausage skins. Butchers in the area have been put on guard. "Some people 'will steal anything,'" a company spokesman said. When he discovered the Hawaiian Islands, Capt. James Cook named them the Sandwich Islands after the Earl of Sandwich.

DEAR ABBY: That guy who said his "eye had begun to rove" because his wife made breakfast every morning for him in her nightgown, barefoot, with her hair uncombed, had better find a better excuse. My wife has been getting my breakfast in her nightgown with her hair uncombed for 20 years, and to me she's beautiful. I know lots of husbands who fix instant coffee and grab a store-bought donut and call it breakfast because their wives are too lazy to get out of bed. My doll prepares a breakfast for me that's fit for a king. It's either fresh juice, French toast and maple sirup, or pancakes and sausages, or eggs and bacon and home-made biscuits. And plenty of REAL coffee. So she doesn't comb her hair? Who needs Elizabeth Taylor at 6:30 in the morning? LOUIE IN FLATBUSH. DEAR LOUIE: Richard Burton, maybe?

DEAR ABBY: I would like to answer that husband whose big complaint was a wife who got up every morning and fixed his breakfast in her nightgown with her hair uncombed. If a woman can't be herself in the privacy of her own home at 6 o'clock in the morning, when can she? And do YOU get showered and shaved and all dressed up on YOUR day off to have breakfast with your wife? Or do you eat in your pajamas with your hair not so snazzy? HAPPY HUSBAND. HASTING, NEB.

DEAR ABBY: I am torn between my duty as a wife and my duty as a mother. I am 59 and my husband is 63. I recently received a letter from my daughter who lives 1,800 miles from here. She said she was leaving her husband after 14 years of marriage and she wanted me to come at once to stay with her kids and run her household so she can go back to work. I don't think it's fair to leave my husband alone, but I hate to turn my daughter down. She didn't say for how long she wanted me to stay, but she has always been a very selfish girl, and I know once she gets me there I will have a terrible time getting away. Please help me. TORN.

DEAR TORN: Write to your daughter and tell her that if she plans to go back to work she had better make permanent arrangements right now for running her household because your place is with your husband, and that's where you intend to stay. DEAR ABBY: Please tell your friend Amy Vanderbilt to include a line or two about elevator etiquette in her next book. I become so provoked when I wish to get out of a crowded elevator, and several "gentlemen" in front of me stand rooted to the floor, refusing to get out of the elevator ahead of ladies who are in the rear, struggling to get out. Someone should tell those stupid men to just get out of the elevator and ease the congestion. And while I'm on the subject, please add that it is not necessary for a gentleman to remove his hat for a lady in an elevator. I caught an elbow in the eye the other day when some gallant "gentleman" reached for his hat. UPS AND DOWNS. Everybody has a problem. What's yours? FOR TUESDAY, MARCH 19
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until noon you would be wise to sidestep any social or domestic interests for they could be unsatisfactory but then the remainder of the day is excellent for a fresh new slant on your longtime ambitions that mean a great deal to you, and which you are aided in attaining by older and more experienced persons.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't get shrew into such a dither. Leave things until you are better equipped to handle them. Go after your own aims quietly. Out to the social in-jam, and make it a point to be very charming with important persons.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Avoid re-trying to find best way to lead to income intelligently. Take time to plan some additional or repair to your home. Keep busy and all goes fine for you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Real friends can give you quite a hand with wise arrangements you are making, but avoid a high-up who is working angles right now. Go after personal aims, also. Diplomacy will see you gain the time.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Keep busy at your duties without any feelings of resentment and avoid a new contact who does not comprehend you at all. Look to higher-ups for backing you want. Get it in every diplomatic way.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A new beginning towards advancement is possible now, particularly in new and untried fields. Prove to be most successful. Keep rooted to the practical and forget the romantic for now. Be satisfied with yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) You have certain personal aims but can reach them only if you keep promises you have made religiously. Don't try to get others to change their ideas, or you get into trouble. Tend to own killing.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21) Get busy with associates and discuss views, agreements etc., instead of going off on some tangent, or when he diplomatically if you want really fine results. You are now able to get the backing you have long wanted.

SMOG CONTROL. TOKYO (UPI)—To cut down the air pollution in the world's largest city, Tokyo ordered 836 factories and large buildings to switch to a more expensive oil that puts out less sulphur fumes. The city said today that among those refusing to cooperate were 30 federal offices including the National Railway, 12 telephone exchanges, the Weather Bureau, the Tokyo high court, the National Library, the House of Representatives, two government hospitals and the official residence of Prime Minister Eisaku Sato.

HARLECH'S VIEWS. LONDON (UPI)—Lord Harlech, whose name has been linked romantically to Jacqueline Kennedy's, said Sunday Sen. Robert F. Kennedy would be a tougher presidential opponent for the Republicans than President Johnson in November. Harlech was ambassador to Washington when President Kennedy was in office.

BACKACHE & TENSION SECONDARY TO COMMON KIDNEY IRRITATION. Common Kidney or Bladder Irritation makes many men and women feel tense and nervous from frequent burning or itching urination, night and day. Secondly, you may lose sleep and have headaches. Backache, burning or itching urination, frequent urination, usually brings relaxing comfort by catching irritating germs in acid urine and quickly easing pain. Get CYSTEX as drugstore.
