US Marines Strike Out From Khe Sanh Outpost

By THOMAS CHEATHAM
SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. Marines who seized Hill 471 near Khe Sanh and held it against human wave charges struck out Saturday against a second peak in North Vietnamese hands. Allied reinforcements landed freely at the Khe Sanh airstrip for the first time since the Communist siege began 77 days ago.

At least 43 killed and about 300 wounded. Pegasus included a leapfrog assault into hills by helicopter-borne cavalrymen and a march up Highway 9 by American and South Vietnamese troops behind tank spearheads. UPI correspondent Perry Young reported seeing a Russian-made SAM fired from just west of Khe Sanh Saturday in what could be the first use of the deadly anti-aircraft weapons by the Communists in South Vietnam. Young said the telephone pole-shaped rocket hurtled from the ground behind a blast of smoke and shot skyward at a 45-degree angle. Young said the missile was apparently aimed at American planes bombing supply lines in Laos, but there was no indication it had hit the target. Khe Sanh commanders told Young U.S. Air Force pilots had reported earlier SAM sightings in South Vietnam's northwest corner.

Deny Report
In Saigon, the U.S. Command "emphatically denied" that any of the powerful SAMs had been sighted in South Vietnam below the Demilitarized Zone. Reporting on the Hill 471 action, UPI's Young said the American air cavalry troops landed atop the small mountain at 10 a.m. aboard three (See MARINES, Page 3)

Troops of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Division replaced the Marines on Hill 471, moving into the deep Communist-built bunkers and trenches which had sheltered the Leathernecks from North Vietnamese suicide attacks. The Marines moved in sullen silence past the newcomers and the bodies of 70 or more North Vietnamese still impaled on Hill 471's barbed wire.

Ominous Note
Khe Sanh fortress, 15 miles north of Hill 471, was firmly in the hands of the Allies, but reports of a Communist surface-to-air missile (SAM) added an ominous note to the lifting of the long siege.

U.S. commander said Operation Pegasus, the relief mission for Khe Sanh, had killed at least 353 North Vietnamese regulars since it began last Monday. American losses were placed at

Pampans Take Titles At Fair

Pampa had two first place winners in the Panhandle Science Fair at the Fair Grounds in Amarillo Saturday. Dick Donaldson, son of Dr. and Mrs. Joe Donaldson, took first in medicine and health, and Sandra Mangold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Mangold, first in chemistry.

Out of seven entries allowed for the senior division, Pampans placed in six. Pat Corcoran won third place in boys' zoology, and was named alternate for the Navy cruise award given each summer.

Senior high second place division winners were Mike Ruff in boys' chemistry; Debra Pipes, girls' botany, and Kathy Lewis, girls' medicine and health.

Duncan McCarroll took third place in boys' chemistry, senior high division. From Robert E. Lee Junior High School, Patsy Kelley was awarded second in girls' zoology, and Paula Homer, honorable mention in girls' chemistry.

Other Pampa winners were Russell Felts, an Austin Elementary School student, second in physics, and Jane Shaw, Sam Houston Elementary School student, an honorable mention for her botany project.

15 Are Killed In Indiana Blast
RICHMOND, Ind. (UPI)—A thunderous explosion in a sporting goods store spread flames and destruction through downtown Richmond Saturday. Authorities said at least 15 persons were killed.

Indiana State Police placed the death toll at 15. National Guard Capt. Charles D. Myers said eight bodies were counted at the makeshift morgue in the Guard armory. It was reported that the remaining dead were at local hospitals.

Local Student Helped Form Scholarship
Dee Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Denver Allen, who live west of Pampa, is one of a group of West Texas State University students who have spearheaded the establishment of a scholarship fund for a graduate of Boys' Ranch.

Allen, a senior biology and agriculture major at the university, said the WTSU Rodeo Association had raised $1,500 for a 4-year scholarship for an outstanding senior at Boys' Ranch. A scholarship committee had been set up, Allen said, to select a recipient. The scholarship will be awarded on the basis of outstanding scholarship, personality, leadership and interest in promoting rodeo activities.

Allen, a former president of the WTSU Rodeo Assn., is currently serving on the advisory board of the association. Most of the money for the scholarship fund, the first ever sponsored by the WTSU Rodeo Assn., was raised through solicitation and through the cooperation of a number of Sheriff's Poses throughout the Panhandle, Allen said.

Allen said the WTSU Rodeo Assn. hoped to perpetuate the scholarship fund each year through money-raising rodeo activities.

President Johnson Says Congress' Most Urgent Job Is 'Rights Bill'

By FRANK ELEAZER
WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson, in a foretaste of his emergency message to a joint session of Congress Monday, told lawmakers Saturday their most urgent job is to send to his desk next week long-pending legislation to ban discrimination in most housing.

Speaker John McCormack made public the President's plea and reaffirmed plans to put the open housing issue to an up-or-down vote in the House on Wednesday. The Senate already has approved it.

Working under Marine guard, lawmakers who drove through renewed fire and looting in Washington streets to reach their congressional offices speculated that continued violence could jeopardize prospects for the bill's passage.

Tipped Scales
Earlier, there had been almost unanimous agreement that the assassination of Martin Luther King in Memphis Thursday had tipped the scales in favor of the bill's final enactment. In addition to its open housing provision, the measure would provide fresh legal protection against intimidation of civil rights workers on the one hand, and against

Grady Finishes Fourth Hasse, Thompson Win Posts On School Board

Warren Hasse, radio station owner, and Jimmy Thompson, attorney and former chairman of the Gray County Democratic Executive Committee, were elected Saturday to the Pampa School Board.

Hasse led the field of 12 candidates with 1,446 votes. 502 more than Thompson, who garnered 944 votes.

A total of 3,140 persons went to the polls in one of the largest turnouts in Pampa school election history. There were 147 absentee ballots. Mutilated ballots not counted totaled 33.

H. Creel Grady Jr., current school board president, finished fourth in the race with 900 votes. He was topped by Bud Hogan in third place with 912. Thompson beat out Hogan by only 32 votes.

Elmer Wilson, a former school board member, finished just behind Grady in fifth place with 834 votes.

The other seven candidates finished in this order: Joe Y. Rogers, 244; Joe Pafford, 241; Bill Watson, 233; Bill McDonald, 108; Jessie Middleton, 104; Tom Dunham, 52 and Obed L. Slatery, 38.

It was Hasse's first bid for public office and he came out with flying colors. Thompson is a school board incumbent who was appointed to the post last Jan. 11 to fill the unexpired term of Gene Steel who resigned when he was transferred out of the city.

Grady is ending six years' service on the board. He was first elected in 1962 when 3,808 votes were cast to elect two trustees.

In previous elections, the number of votes cast was 3,808 in 1962, when Grady and Floyd Watson were elected. In 1963, when Dr. Raymond Hampton, a current member of the board, was elected, 855 votes were cast. In 1964, when E. E. Shelhamer and John Gikas, who is still on the board, were elected, 4,408 votes were cast.

Troops Moved Into Riot-Scarred Areas

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL
New waves of fire-bombings, looting and racial attacks hit Chicago, Washington and Pittsburgh Saturday. Heavy troop reinforcements poured into riot-scarred Chicago and the nation's capital.

Lesser racial outbreaks erupted in several other cities across the troubled nation. But in many the tide of violence ebbed and order appeared restored.

Paratroops and Marines moved into Washington and 12,000 troops were expected to be patrolling the streets by today. The force of national guardsmen trying to restore peace to Chicago climbed to 7,500.

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley imposed a partial curfew on Chicago. Pittsburgh Mayor Joseph M. Barr ordered all bars and liquor stores in his city closed until Wednesday.

Death Toll
The toll of dead across the country reached at least 20. Chicago had 10 dead, Washington 5, the Detroit metropolitan area 2, and Minneapolis, Memphis and Tallahassee, Fla., 1 each.

Seventeen of the victims were Negroes. In the bitter wave of violence that followed the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., more than 3,000 persons had been injured and at least 4,200 arrested in about 50 cities across the nation.

A determined show of force by Guardsmen and police forces working around the clock restored order to dozens of cities that had been hit by disorders Thursday night and Friday.

In contrast to the rioting in Chicago and Washington, police in Los Angeles reported that "nothing is happening at all" in the Watts area, scene of violent rioting in 1965.

In a report given Saturday, Washington police counted 2,530 arrests and Chicago reported nearly 800 had been taken into custody. More than 730 persons had been injured in Washington, more than 200 in Chicago.

Fresh Fires

Texas Troops Are Airlifted To Chicago

KILLEEN, Tex. (UPI) — Troops from the 1st armored division were airlifted to Chicago Saturday night to help police fight the outbreak of racial violence that cost at least 10 lives in the nation's second largest city.

The soldiers were conveyed from Fort Hood to Bergstrom Air Force Base in Austin, and then flown aboard giant transport planes to Chicago on orders of President Johnson.

The White House had placed the Texas troops on the alert as early as 4:30 p.m. CST, and they were airborne three hours later.

A spokesman at Fort Hood declined to say how many troops were taken from Fort Hood, but the defense department in Washington said a total of 5,000 were moved from the Texas base and Fort Carson, Colo.

"We have been instructed to pass all queries to the chief of information in Washington," the spokesman said. The Defense Department confirmed that the Texas troops were members of a brigade of the 1st Armored Division.

Top Soloists To Perform Here In The 'Requiem'

The listening audience of Pampa will hear the soprano voice of Mrs. Eldena Reed of Berger at the Oratorio Chorus presentation of Brahms' "German Requiem" (Opus 25) April 21.

She is no newcomer to Pampa as she gave "If God Be For Us, Who Can Be Against Us?" in the 1967 Pampa Oratorio Chorus presentation of Handel's "Messiah."

The presentation, sponsored by the Pampa Fine Arts Association, is to be directed by Dr. Richard P. Condie, director of the Mormon Tabernacle Choir of Salt Lake City, Utah, who directed the 1967 presentation. Dr. Condie chose Mrs. Reed to be alternate soprano soloist in the 1968 presentation. Mrs. John Garcia has been chosen as the soprano soloist.

Born in Whiting, Ind., Mrs. Reed, a lyric coloratura soprano, studied under Mrs. Carol Lynn, head of the Amarillo Musical Arts Conservatory Voice Department, and continues studies under Mrs. Lynn.

She has also studied voice under Howard Dill of Amarillo Junior College, and in the Chicago studios of Manuel and Williamson. She has sung as soloist with the St. Louis Municipal Opera Company under Edwin McArthur and with the Amarillo Symphony under A. Clyde Roller and later Dr. Thomas Hohstadt, the present director of the Amarillo Symphony.

Mrs. Reed has been a soloist in the Tri-City Community Chorus' presentations of the "Messiah" for several years, and was Brahms' "Requiem" soloist when this work was given by the Magic Plains Oratorio Society in 1964. She has appeared in many area churches as soloist, including St. Vincent's Roman Catholic Church here.

Mother of three children, one of whom is singing in the 1968 Pampa Brahms' "Requiem," Mrs. Reed is part time organist in St. John's Roman Catholic Church of Berger, where she has been a resident for the past 17 years. She will appear in a voice recital in Amarillo May 32.

Jerry Whitten, Pampa, will be organist for the "Requiem," which will be given at 3 p.m. (See SOLO, Page 3)

Backstairs At The Whitehouse

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI-White House Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Backstairs at the White House: President Johnson's surprise announcement last Sunday of his decision not to seek reelection showed the wisdom of planning ahead, even in the uncertain world of politics. Take the sad case of a man who had invested in thousands of "dump Johnson" bumper stickers on the theory that scads of Kennedy and McCarthy supporters would snap them up for display in the spring primary states. Quite obviously, it does not pay to hit a man when he's up. The unfortunate bumper sticker tycoon might hunt around in the various state gubernatorial races for a candidate named Johnson and try a cut-price sale to his opponent. Or sell the stickers to teams which have scheduled football games next autumn with Johnson High School, and there must be several of these.

Then there are the indelible words of Senator Robert F. Kennedy in the new issue of Look Magazine dated April 16: "If I stand aside, I still count for something, and Lyndon Johnson has to listen somewhat—perhaps only to moderate his course, but still that's something. But if I challenge him and lose—thus he's been vindicated, there are almost no more restraints, just Johnson and Nixon..."

"Everything else is incredibly complex and complicated, but in the end, it boils down to you either beat Lyndon Johnson or he beats you. You win or you lose."

And consider the case of 1,672 federal employees who, with quite some advance planning and effort, affixed their names to a full-page newspaper advertisement calling for a shift in Vietnam policy. "We call upon our Chief Executive to change his policy in Vietnam, to end his reliance on military force, and to seek instead a genuine political settlement to bring peace to Southeast Asia," said the ad which, as a result of careful advance planning, appeared in last Monday's Washington Evening Star—only hours after Johnson, indeed, had announced quite a change in Vietnam policy looking toward a political settlement which hopefully would bring peace to Southeast Asia.

Deadline April 15 For Automobile Safety Sticker

AUSTIN — The Texas Department of Public Safety reminded motorists today that less than two weeks remain for obtaining the 1968 inspection sticker with more than two million cars still in need of being inspected. "Lines are already beginning to form," a DPS spokesman said, "and they will get longer as the final date approaches. Many drivers may find it difficult to obtain necessary repairs if they continue putting off the inspection until the last minute." The DPS pointed out that only about 3,500,000 vehicles have been inspected for the 1968 sticker through March 31, and that estimates indicate more than six million vehicles will be registered during 1968.

CAMBERLEY, England (UPI)—Two little boys, 10 and 11 years old, were fined two pounds (4.80) each Friday for "wantonly discharging a missile."

A few days earlier they brought traffic to a crunching halt on a main highway here by shooting a pea in a toy pop gun at the driver of a passing semi-trailer, who braked, causing two other large semi-trailers and two passenger cars to pile up in a concertina-type collisions, behind him.

USS New Jersey Is To Rejoin The Fleet

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The mighty 45,000-ton battle ship USS New Jersey, taken out of "mothballs" to provide fire-power support in Vietnam, rejoined the fleet at tightly guarded recommissioning ceremonies at the Philadelphia Naval Base. Peace groups had threatened a "land and sea" demonstration.

Some anti-war pickets milled outside the main gates and a few small boats carrying others churned in circles in the Delaware River in sight of the New Jersey, but under the watchful eyes of crews manning Coast Guard, Navy and Philadelphia police motor harbor patrol boats. A limited state of emergency, declared Friday night by Mayor James Tate to head off a threat of racial violence, may have dampened the peace demonstrators. The proclamation banned gatherings of 12 or more persons.

Police Commissioner Frank Rizzo, acting under the proclamation, first warned then ordered the arrest of some 30 peace demonstrators as they sat in a circle in League Island Park located outside the naval base but far removed from the commissioning ceremonies. Several of the pickets had to be carried to waiting police vans. Two other peace demonstrators in a small canoe on the river were taken into custody when their canoe, moved into

THE LIGHTER SIDE Gambling On Capitol Hill

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The heat is on at the Capitol. But that may only mean that the furnace is working. It doesn't necessarily mean that organized gambling on Capitol Hill has been curtailed. I only said "The heat is on" to get your attention. When you're writing about organized gambling you always use cliches like that. Otherwise, you lose your license to practice journalism.

Anyway, I spent several hours Thursday trying to contact a gambling ring that is reported to be operating in the halls of Congress. It was a frustrating experience. Claims Gambling Widespread According to Rep. John Kyl, R-Iowa, "the numbers racket, sports pools and similar gambling" are "well organized." He told the House Wednesday that such wickedness penetrates

Talent Show Set At White Deer

WHITE DEER (Sp) — All White Deer High School, Skellytown and White Deer Elementary students who are "literally bursting with talent" are invited to audition for the Annual Coronation and Talent Show to be held April 8-9, starting at 6:30 p.m. in the White Deer High School auditorium, talent show officials said today. "So if 'Show Biz' is your bag, dust off your ballet slippers, polish up the soft shoe routine, stretch those vocal cords—and try out," show representatives said.

"every building" and involves employees "in almost every department." Well, gee whiz, if gambling is all that rampant it should be easy to find. My failure to do so could indicate three things: Either (1) Kyl's speech has made the gamblers wary or (2) I went about it the wrong way. Or (3) both.

The first thing I did was call up Rep. Jackson E. Betts, R-Ohio. I had no reason to suppose that Betts knew anything about the gambling ring. It just seemed like the logical thing to do.

No Pool Betts wasn't in his office so I tried calling Rep. Joe R. Pool, D-Tex. I couldn't reach him either.

Then I began approaching elevator operators, doormen, lobbyists, janitors and a few newspapermen who looked like the sporting type.

"Where can I get a bet down?" I inquired of each. Some smiled knowingly but none imparted any information except one janitor.

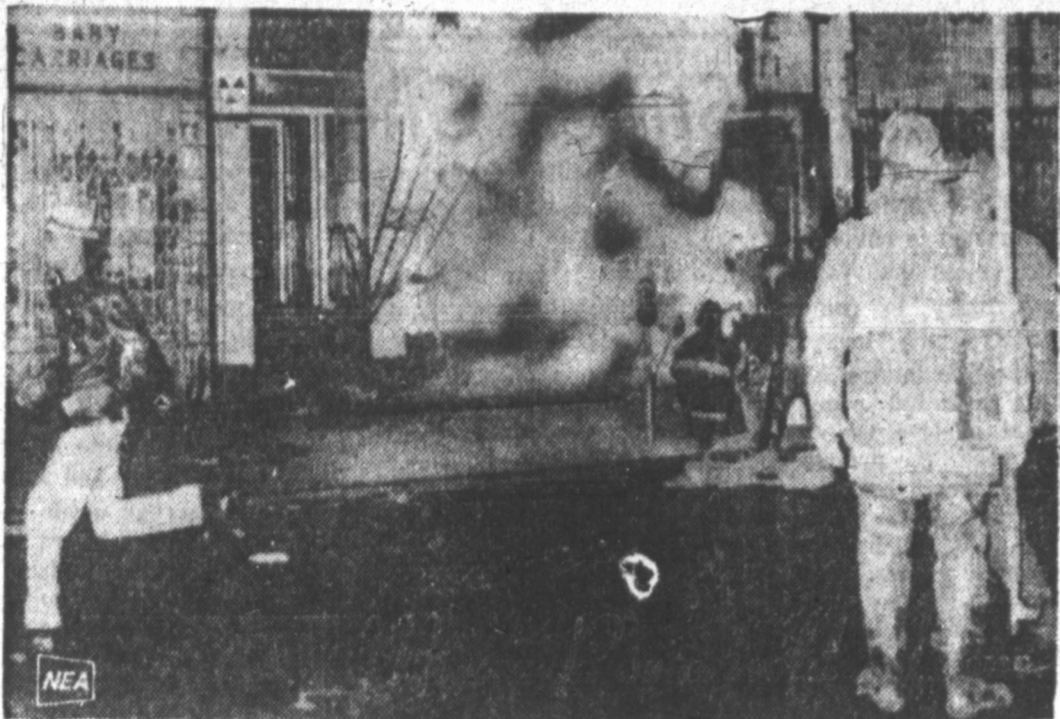

"Everybody is still playing," he told me, "but you would have to be a regular customer to get any action today." My investigation would have been a total flop had not I finally persuaded a page boy to match me for a coke. I lost.

New drugs and recently acquired scientific knowledge are making it tough on one of mankind's most stubborn and ancient ills. Yes, "motion sickness"—an inclusive term referring to air, car, and sea sickness, and related disturbances—can now be pretty well controlled. It has been long realized that motion sickness originates within the organs of balance, located near the ears. So, one of the rules for avoiding upset is to bend the head back and hold it still when there's danger of motion sickness... you should also be able to see the horizon. Watch your diet while traveling—too much or too little food—can be a contributing factor. If all else fails, new drugs readily available, have proven very effective. ## Mrs. King Asks Husband's Followers To Pursue Dream

ATLANTA (UPI)—The widow of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said Saturday her husband died in pursuit of nonviolence and begged those "who loved and admired him to join us in fulfilling his dream."

In a clear, soft voice, Coretta King said her assassinated husband "knew this was a sick society, totally infected with racism and violence. Nothing hurt him more than violence," she said.

Source in King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference said the White House asked Mrs. King to make a plea for an end to the violence that has wracked the country following her husband's killing in Memphis.

But she did not specifically ask for an end to the rioting in her brief statement, made in the sanctuary of Ebenezer Baptist Church, where King often preached.

"I have consented to appear publicly because thousands of people have asked how they could carry on my husband's work."

She said King "gave his life for the poor of the world, the garbage workers of Memphis and the peasants of Vietnam. Nothing hurt him more than that men could attempt no way to solve problems except through violence."

"He gave his life in search of a more excellent way, a more effective way, a creative rather than a destructive way."

"We intend to go on in search of that way," she said. "The day that the Negro people and others in bondage are truly free, I know my husband will rest in a long-deserved peace."

She said King "knew that at any moment his physical life could be cut short, and we faced this possibility squarely and honestly. My husband faced the possibility of death not with bitterness or hatred. He knew that this was a sick society, totally infested with racism and violence that questioned his integrity, maligned his motives and distorted his views, which would ultimately lead to his death, and he struggled with every ounce of his energy to save that society from itself."

Dressed in black, seated on a thick wooden cross with a worn wooden chair before a flickering orange light bulb over it, Mrs. King gazed at the television cameras and said "our children say calmly

"Daddy is not dead. He may be physically dead but his spirit will never die."

She praised the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, who succeeded King at the helm of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

"My husband always said that if anything ever happened to him, he would like for Ralph Abernathy to take his place," she said.

Abernathy, sitting beside her, looked into the cameras and said "Even though you may have been able to stop the heartbeat of Martin Luther King, you cannot stop the movement he led."

City Election Results In Area Towns

In area political elections, citizens went to the polls in Panhandle, Miami, Canadian and Lefors to elect new city officials.

Richard Nunn was re-elected mayor of Panhandle while a possible run-off shaped up in the race for city councilmen where three places are to be filled. R. F. Floyd, an incumbent, was re-elected, while a possible run-off shaped up between Dee Henry, Bobby Skidmore and Floyd Scott for the other two posts. Only four votes separated the three.

Carl Walls was elected mayor of Lefors and R. B. White, R. O. Wells and Leonard Cain won places on the city council.

Three councilmen ran unopposed in Canadian. They were Gordon Hill, Vernie Farrington and J. C. Clark. Fourteen other persons received a total of 20 write-in votes.

Miami's new city councilmen are Royce Bailey, S. L. Moore and Sid Talley.

President

Johnson, in a letter to the speaker, said open housing legislation had been under active consideration in Congress for more than two years, that the Senate now had passed it, and that "the time for (House) action is now."

Johnson said King's assassination had caused all good men to ask themselves, "what more can I do to achieve brotherhood and equality among all Americans?"

"There are many actions the Congress can take on its part," the President said. "The most immediate is to enact legislation so long delayed and so close to fulfillment. We should pass the fair housing law . . . at the earliest possible moment."

In advance of Johnson's scheduled address to the nation and a joint session of House and Senate at 9 p.m., Monday, the lawmakers had little hard information on what other steps the President will propose for dealing with either big city riots or their causes.

In his letter, written Friday, Johnson did not refer to the wave of arson and looting that has swept Washington and other cities in the wake of King's death.

Renew Plea

Speculation was that he will renew his plea for national unity, and urge prompt passage and financing of measures he recommended previously to relieve big city crises in housing, jobs, and education.

He certainly will make a fresh pitch for his stalled tax bill. And there was some feeling he may also report on latest efforts to negotiate a settlement of the Vietnam war.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford called on the President to include in his recommendations passage of a plan favored by many Republicans, and some Democrats as well, to enlist private industry in the fight to create and fill jobs in the ghettos.

The GOP plan, also favored in principle by a presidential commission that studied last night's riots, would offer tax credits and federal subsidies to companies willing to undertake this employment role.

Ford, in an interview, indicated he is reassessing his opposition to immediate house passage of the Senate's open housing bill, without change, as recommended by Democratic leaders. Ford has been pressing an alternative plan to send the civil rights package to a House-Senate conference committee for consideration of amendments.

(Continued From Page 1) 115 votes cast, Hampson was re-elected. In 1967, when John Spearman and John Gikas were elected, 2,622 votes were cast.

Saturday's election included one write-in vote for Mrs. Pernie Fallon, who ran for a place on the board in 1967 and received 420 votes.

Here are brief background sketches on the two men elected Saturday:

Hasse filed for the office March 5, a day before the deadline. A native of Wisconsin, he has been owner of KPND since 1962. In 1965 he received the Key Club Adult Leader of the Year Award. He is a former Kiwanis lieutenant governor. He is a member of First Presbyterian Church, and resides at 1704 Christine. He has two children in school, John, a high school senior, and Mary Sue, a ninth grade student at Robert E. Lee Junior High School.

Thompson, who resides at 1912 Dogwood, was third to file for the office. He had been chairman of the Gray County Democratic Executive Committee since 1966, but resigned after his appointment as a school trustee became effective. In previous elections, 1962 and 1967, he received one write-in vote.

Hasse and Thompson will be installed as board members after the trustees canvass the ballots and organize the board Thursday in the next regular trustee meeting.

A spokesman at the state headquarters in Austin said no formal alert has been issued, but "the people have been informed to stay close to their phones."

"Once an alert is put out the troops can be ready in 2 hours," the spokesman said.

"We're watching the situation, but no definite action has been taken to call out troops," he said.

Guard officials have not received any reports of serious trouble, although several demonstrations have been held across the state as a result of the killing of civil rights leader Martin Luther King.

"All of our people are aware of what's going on," the spokesman said.

Many of the guard officials are in Fort Worth for a statewide guard convention Saturday.

National Window

By WILLIAM THEIS WASHINGTON (UPI)—Of all the 1968 presidential figures, only two can possibly be out of a job come January: President Johnson and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

The others are either in elective offices or professions from which they need not depart.

Johnson, by act of what even his critics have called "personal sacrifice," has announced he will not accept another term as President.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Indicator Digest, Inc. feels that although the market is obviously carried away emotionally and peace is not likely to come "just like that" in a hurry, nevertheless the foundations are being laid for eventual peace and this could achieve reality by early next year. The present market performance, the firm feels, is a "good dress rehearsal" of what will happen when peace really comes.

In light of the events of the past few days Goodbody & Co.

indicated a strong disbelief in the market's strength.

WASHINGTON — President Johnson, calling once again for unity in the face of unrest triggered by the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King:

"Men who are white—men who are black—must and will join together now as never in the past to let all the forces of division know that America shall not be ruled by the bullet but only ballot of free and just men."

prize cattle, writing memoirs and maybe doing some selective teaching.

Some, though, think LBJ would like to return to the Senate where he was a power as Democratic leader before becoming vice president. He would, however, have to wait until 1970 or 1972 to be elected. (But don't be surprised if someone revives that old legislative proposal to make ex-presidents non-voting members of the Senate.)

Sens. Robert F. Kennedy of New York and Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota still will have their Senate seats in 1969 if they fail in the race for the Democratic nomination or in the presidential election.

Same True The same would be true of Republican Sens. Charles H. Percy of Illinois and Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon. And Republican Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Ronald Reagan of California also would still have their statehouse jobs.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the GOP favorite, has a lucrative New York law practice which he is not leaving except to campaign.

Even Alabama's George Wallace probably will never miss a state paycheck between now and January.

That leaves one man without a real fallback position—Hubert H. Humphrey. Not that he would have any worries about demands upon his talent and energy.

Humphrey, one-time pharmacist, ex-mayor of Minneapolis, former college teacher and veteran lawmaker, probably could have his pick of university and foundation presidencies.

County Red Cross News

By LIBBY SHOTWELL, Executive Secretary ARC
 The Red Cross Board will meet Tuesday morning at 7 in the Terrace Room at the Coronado Inn. Jack Skelly, Chapter chairman, urges all members to be present at the meeting. A report of the nominating committee will be given to the board, and plans for the Annual meeting will be completed.

Below is a report from Polly Wagner on High School Activities:
 Five of our Red Cross Youth of Pampa High School were able to take a program and dinner to the St. Ann's Children's Home in Panhandle March 22. The 42 children at the home seemed to enjoy a program of games which were conducted by Patrick Homer, one of the RC Youths.

Others who attended were Dana Shepherd, Jeanne Turner, Betty Supena, and Polly Wagner. Transportation was furnished by Mrs. Fred Ammeter, Mrs. Juan DeLeon, and Mrs. Lynn Boyd. After the games, the RC Youth served the supper of sandwiches, potato chips punch and cookies. This was such a rewarding experience—seeing the children who get along so well with their peers. Though this becomes a necessity, it is a pleasure to see how these children care for each other. It is unequaled even in a big family—for you see here it's not always cheaper by the dozen but with the fine supervision of the Sisters a wonderful spirit of love exists among the children.

In addition, this weekend April 5th, 6th and 7th, five of our youth from Pampa High will attend the Youth Conference at Ceta Canyon Methodist Camp. They are Patrick Homer, Betty Supena, Dana Shepherd, Mary McBride, and Polly Wagner. Mary is a candidate for the office of secretary for the Panhandle Youth Conference. This weekend promises to be a good one, full of programs to enlighten our youth to the different phases of Red Cross Youth. Ted Gikas will furnish transportation for the boys and girls.

Bud Bradley will be in Pampa Monday morning through Friday morning in the Red Cross office to teach a First Aid Instructor Class during the day. He goes to Perryton in the evening to hold another FAI class in the Ochiltree Community Building.

Bud is on the national staff as an instructor trainer for Red Cross from St. Louis. Bud works throughout the midwestern area which includes six states and it is not unusual for him to teach both day and night classes in First Aid or Water Safety. Persons who are 18 yrs. old or who hold an advanced first aid card are eligible to take the instructor course. Time is 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Greater Amarillo Chapter invites Pampa Red Cross workers to a dinner meeting Wednesday, April 10th at the Villa Inn—Interstate 40 and Grand.

Libya Is Now World's 7th Largest Producer

By FRED LANKARD
 United Press International
 In the past ten years Libya has come from nowhere to rank as the world's seventh largest producer of oil.
 Before another decade passes there is every indication the country will become the free world's top producer outside North America.
 That's the conclusion reached in a recent Oil and Gas Journal review of the African nation's phenomenal growth in the world petroleum market.
 Examples of that growth are numerous.
 Libyan oil first went to market in 1961 and reached only six consuming countries. Last year Libyan fields supplied oil to 72 free world countries.
 Government predictions for this year call for production of 2.5 million barrels daily, an increase of 43.6 per cent over the 1967 figure.
More Gains Expected
 Many of the 41 companies in Libya have shown or are forecasting production gains ranging from 50 per cent to over 100 per cent ahead of present output.
 For example, Occidental Petroleum Corp.'s new fields are expected to be producing 800,000 barrels daily by the end of May. The firm's stated goal is one million barrels daily by early next year which would make it the nation's biggest single producer.
 Much of Libya's success can be traced to its geographical location on Africa's Mediterranean coast. This advantage was brought sharply into focus last June when closure of the Suez Canal emphasized Libya's position as the closest major oil source to the expanding West European energy markets.
 The longer the canal remains closed the greater will be the European demand for Libyan oil. This factor, combined with the country's political stability, can be expected to enhance the competitive situation that will bring more exploration and more new oil fields.

High-gravity Oil
 Still another growth incentive is the country's oil itself. In a time when world demand is growing for low-sulphur oil many Libyan fields are noted for their sweet, high-gravity, low-sulphur-content petroleum.
 Realization of its 1968 production goals would put Libya past Kuwait and into the world's No. 6 production slot before year's end.
 Although Libya cannot expect to maintain its 1967-68 production pace, the Journal estimated that production could reach 4.6 million barrels daily by 1975, a percentage increase of 163.8.
 That sort of jump would put Libya at the top of the free-world production chart outside North America and in third place behind the United States and Russia in world production figures.

Petroleum Short Course Slated For April 18-19 At Texas Tech

LUBBOCK — The 15th annual Southwestern Petroleum Short Course, scheduled for April 18-19 at Texas Tech, will cover a wide variety of topics relevant to the petroleum industry, program chairman Robert H. Gault of Midland announced Saturday.
 Halliburton Services representatives William C. Carille, of Odessa, John A. Knox of Duncan, Okla., and Bill R. Brogdon of Midland will discuss "Preparation and Stimulation of Water Injection and Disposal Wells."
 Carille, a division chemist; Knox, a sectional supervisor; and Brogdon, chemical services superintendent, will show how two similar but somewhat different problems exist in preparing old producing wells to be injection wells and stimulating injection wells currently in use.
 Jack F. Fletcher, station manager for Cardinal Chemical in Hobbs, N.M., will talk on "Choosing a Fracturing Fluid."
 His paper will delve into the mathematics of cost of fracturing fluids.
 "A New Approach to Selective Stimulation" will be the topic of Cardinal district sales engineer J. D. Kemp of Monahans. Kemp will show how recent work, utilizing a temperature

J. N. Muscovalley, division sales manager in Midland Loffland Brothers Co., will discuss "Procedures for Bidding and Supervising a contract Drilling Operation." Active in the field for the past 12 years, Muscovalley will cite problems encountered in training drilling personnel in the 15-20 years since most oil companies stopped operating their own drilling rigs.
 Pool Co. president Frank M. Pool of San Angelo will highlight changing patterns in methods of management by the oil producer in his talk, "A Solution to Well Servicing and Rig Productivity."
 Pool is expected to point out that these changes make it necessary for the contractor to assume new responsibilities in the services he offers. A graduate of Texas A.M., Pool saw service as a tank commander in World War II and was associated with Humble for many years.
 Cities Service production engineer John B. Heck of Odessa, a University of Oklahoma alumnus, will present "A Discussion of Cities Service Oil Company's Cummins CD&W San Adres Waterflood." Success of the project is attributed to close spacing of water injection wells (See PETROLEUM, Page 11)

Petroleum Marketing Will Undergo Many Future Changes, Oilman Says

OKLAHOMA CITY — Petroleum marketers are facing some revolutionary changes in the years ahead, both in consumer needs and in the overall marketing environment, an executive with the nation's leading energy company said here recently.
 Paul W. Edge Jr., manager of Humble Oil & Refining Company's Western Region, said that three basic factors are having a dramatic impact upon the selling of gasoline and other petroleum products.
 These factors, he said, are (1) growth in the demand for energy, (2) innovations in marketing methods and changes in the marketplace itself and (3) the expanding role of govern-

Panhandle Water District News

By FELIX W. RYALS

Two state Universities and a state College are taking the lead in doing something to protect the water resources that the state of Texas is now blessed with.

The University of Texas is offering two short courses during April to assist in water quality management for government personnel.

Part One of the course will handle the engineering aspects of water quality management. This course will present information on the latest developments in water quality management, with special emphasis upon water pollution control. It is designed to be valuable particularly for technical planners and managers in public government service with planning agencies, development and control boards, and legal agencies.

Description

An understanding of advanced technology in water quality management and of how this technology can be applied to the solution of water quality problems is essential to persons in government regulatory, planning, and advisory agencies.

The course will present technological aspects of water quality in context with the broader concerns of the overall field of water quality management, in which computer applications together with economic and legal considerations will be studied.

Classroom presentations, laboratory demonstrations and group discussions will be used. The five-day course will include four and one-half days of classroom work, one afternoon of laboratory instruction and demonstration, and one optional evening field trip to plants employing several types of wastewater treatment systems.

Topics

Topics are effect of wastewaters on the aquatic environment; physical, chemical, and biological effects of waste on receiving waters; Waste characteristics: the physical and chemical characteristics of waste and their measurement; Primary treatment of sewage and industrial wastes; Secondary treatment of sewage and industrial wastes; Tertiary treatment of sewage and industrial wastes; Determination of the assimilative capacity of natural waters and thermal pollution; The economics of sewage and wastewater treatment; Computer applications in water quality management; Economic considerations in water quality management; Sludge handling; sludge, deep well and ultimate disposal of wastes.

Management Aspects

The second part of the course will be held April 29 through May 1 and will present managerial aspects of water quality in context with the broader concerns of the overall field of water quality management.

Marketing Order Is Spotlighted In Rio Grande

By KENNETH R. CLARK EDINBURG, Tex. (UPI)—A proposed marketing order designed to ride herd on the quality of cantaloupes now nearing harvest in the Lower Rio Grande Valley has been turned down by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Melon growers and shippers from Cameron, Willacy, Starr, and Hidalgo counties attended a three-day USDA hearing on the matter of a referendum for the marketing order in December last year.

Today attorneys for both proponents and opponents of the measure confirmed that the USDA has announced it will not call for the referendum which would be necessary to put the marketing order into effect in the four-county area.

USDA stated that "evidence heard (at the December hearing) failed to support a finding as required by the agricultural marketing act that the production area is the smallest practical area consistent with carrying out the act."

This said Sid Hardin of Edinburg, attorney for growers who opposed the order, means the USDA has decided a marketing order, controlling quality of fruit and method of shipment to market, "cannot work to the benefit of valley melon growers who would have to compete with uncontrolled produce in adjacent areas."

Farmers Are Making Most Of Good Weather Conditions

COLLEGE STATION (UPI)—

For a change, last week's weather was favorable for outdoor activities and Texas farmers made the most of the opportunity.

Corn and grain sorghum planting made real progress from Central Texas south and cotton planting was heavy in southern areas, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service said today.

Small grains, pastures and ranges also made rapid improvement as grazing became more plentiful. But rains, hail, high winds and turbulence in some areas, again spread across the state, beginning over the weekend, and brought most outdoor activities to a halt.

Some fields of corn and grain sorghum in central and south central counties speedily came up to stand and with the abundance of soil moisture should make rapid progress provided warmer temperatures and open weather prevails, the service said.

Cotton planting is expected to start in central counties as fields dry and soil temperatures reach recommended levels for good seed germination. Up to 80 per cent or more of the cotton acreage in South Texas has now been planted, the service said.

Small grains across the state continued to make good growth but greenbugs continue to pose a threat in northwestern areas. Topdressing was heavy last week in central and north central counties, the service said.

Prospects for a good grain crop continue to hold and oats are providing an abundance of grazing in many areas. Livestock feeding is tapering off and livestock are improving along with pastures and ranges.

Statewide, the soil moisture situation ranges from adequate to surplus with only the northern counties of the Panhandle reporting a shortage of moisture. Rains this week have been heaviest in the northern sections of the state and have further delayed outdoor activities over the wide area, the service said.

Warmer and open weather is needed over the entire state, the Service emphasized.

In Our Time

A KNOCK OUT

DARTFORD, Kent (UPI)—The "At Last" pop group's sound was a knock out. It sent the 200 fans at a local dance hall wild...and the group's drummer to hospital.

Peter Phillips, 21, spent Wednesday in bed nursing a sore head after the reverberation caused the group's amplifier to fall on his head.

SEIZE AMMO

MUNICH, West Germany (UPI)—West German border patrols seized 200,000 rounds of pistol ammunition Saturday and said it was being smuggled to Iran via Austria and Yugoslavia. A spokesman said the 7.65 caliber cartridges, in crates marked "machine spare parts," were to have been sold for $125,000.

Texas Water Development Board Warns Of Possible Colorado River Pollution

By ROLAND LINDSEY

AUSTIN (UPI)—Continued municipal and industrial growth in Texas' Colorado River basin will complicate waste disposal in the stream system, the Texas Water Development board said today.

In a study of the chemical quality of surface waters of the Colorado River, the board said two areas of the lake already are facing pollution problems.

First of these is in the upper part of the basin where salty inflow from oil-field operations pollutes the water.

Some Alarm

The second is in the Highland Lakes where there is concern over bacterial contamination from septic - tank effluent in areas of housing developments, and waste discharges from pleasure boats.

Compounding the problems of increased burdens caused by municipal and industrial growth is the impounding of water, which reduces the streamflow now utilized for assimilation of municipal wastes, the board said.

The board's report said impoundment of water in chain of lakes on the Colorado River has both good and adverse effects.

Beneficial effects include a reduction of turbidity, color and coliform bacteria, as well as an evening-out of the variations in chemical quality and the entrapment of sediment.

On the other hand, the report cites as harmful effects increased algae growth, reduction of oxygen, and an increase of dissolved solids as a result of evaporation.

The board said continued study will be necessary to maintain quality of water in the river basin.

Among projects receiving careful study is the salt-water alleviation program planned for the area above the Robert Lee reservoir site.

The Colorado River basin, which catches about 6 per cent of the state's total runoff water, has 21 major reservoirs existing or under construction, the board said.

LWF Assembly

Agriculturally Speaking

By FOSTER WHALEY

Gray County Agriculture Agent Four extension specialists have been scheduled as speakers at a special field crops meeting slated at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the meeting room of the Agriculture Building.

Dr. Frank Petr, area agronomist of the Extension service, will present the latest production techniques of grain sorghum and wheat.

Dr. Robert Berry, Extension plant pathologist, will discuss area disease problems concerning grain sorghum and wheat. He will give information especially helpful on grain sorghum.

James Valentine, Extension soil chemist from Lubbock, will discuss the economics of fertilizing dryland and irrigated milo and wheat.

Lyndon Almond, Extension entomologists, will discuss insect problems of milo and wheat.

All area farmers from Gray and surrounding counties are cordially invited to attend. There will be a drawing for PCA dollars and refreshments will be served.

Parity Prices Occasionally someone will ask me what the effective parity price is on different agriculture products.

Parity price for farm products is that price that is considered fair for a given farm product in relation to all other products sold, based on a five-year period of prior years. A recent release showed what a given number of products should be bringing if they were on parity. We thought you would be interested in knowing some of these figures. Wheat should be selling for $2.60 per bushel; barley, $1.34; grain sorghum, $2.60 per CWT; hogs should be bringing $24.50 per CWT; and all beef cattle should average $29.30 per CWT.

PCA Annual Meeting The Canadian PCA meeting is scheduled for next Saturday, April 20. The Annual meeting will be held in Canadian at the high school auditorium. All PCA members are urged to attend.

SEEK DECLARATION

JAKARTA (UPI)—East Java officials Saturday asked the Indonesian government to declare the area a disaster zone in the aftermath of catastrophic floods which have left more than 50,000 people homeless.

DOWN ON THE FARM things have changed and it's no longer necessary to brave inclement weather to keep an eye on a cow ready to calve. Mrs. Jerry Litton checks on old Bossie via closed-circuit television from the comfort of her Chillicothe, Mo., home.

King To Be Mourned by Sports World

By United Press International
America's national pastime, which proceeded on schedule through two World Wars and several smaller ones, will alter its traditional course for the first time this week to mourn the death of Dr. Martin Luther King.

Since President Taft started the tradition of "Presidential" openers in 1910, baseball officials have never postponed the gala event in Washington except when it rained.

Put in mourning for the slain civil rights leader, Washington club officials Friday decided to postpone the traditional opener which was scheduled for Monday. The officials first announced it would be played Tuesday, but since the funeral for Dr. King now is set for Tuesday, it most likely will be postponed again until Wednesday.

Dramatic Changes
The postponement was the most dramatic of the several changes made in the scheduling of various sports because of Dr. King's death.

The other traditional opening day game in Cincinnati, with the Chicago Cubs this year, was also postponed. It will be played Wednesday and the game scheduled Wednesday night in Cincinnati will be shifted to Thursday afternoon.

The Houston Astros, who got permission this year to play on the same day as Washington and Cincinnati, were planning to go ahead with their Monday night game against the Pittsburgh Pirates. Unless the Astros relent, they will not play the first game of the 1968 season.

The Astros, however, did cancel an exhibition game against the Minnesota Twins on Sunday, set aside as a national day of mourning for Dr. King. The Detroit-St. Louis exhibition game scheduled on Sunday was also canceled.

for Thursday night and the fourth game on Easter Sunday. There was no immediate decision on the fate of Sunday night's San Francisco-Los Angeles game.

More than 50 per cent of the players in the NBA are Negro and all five starters on the champion 76ers team are Negro.

The National Hockey League has a playoff game scheduled in New York Sunday between the Rangers and Chicago which is to be nationally televised. Officials of the league said they wouldn't decide until today whether or not to go ahead with the contest on the national day of mourning.

HARVESTERS LOSE AGAIN — The Pampa Harvesters lost the fifth in a row in District 3-AAAA yesterday to the Borger Bulldogs by 5-1.

Cronin Statement
Joe Cronin, the president of the American League, issued the following statement in Boston on the postponement in Washington:

"The American League regrets most sincerely the events of recent days and, out of deference to the memory of Dr. King, concurs most wholly in the postponement of the game in Washington."

Bill Giles, Astro vice president and director of public relations who is also the son of National League president Warren Giles, said, "Our fans are counting on it," when asked to explain why the Astros decided not to postpone.

The National Basketball Association also decided to postpone Sunday's second playoff game between the Philadelphia 76ers and the Boston Celtics, which was to be nationally televised. It will be played Wednesday night with the third game set

Shockers Win
The Pampa Shockers won two over Liberal, (Kan.) by 9-1 and 15-14 yesterday on the PHS field.

The second game was a comeback victory with the Harvesters falling behind 8-0 in the second inning.

Lefors Runs Second To Groom Team

LEFORS (Sp) — Lefors lost by some margin to Groom in Lefors yesterday with the Groom thincads scoring 172 1-3 points to Lefors' 127 1-6.

Third place was Allison with 91, followed by Briscoe, 38½; Hedley, 26; Miami, 20 and Moebette, four.

Glen Richardson of Allison had the high point individual performance.

President, American League
Written for UPI

BOSTON (UPI)—I would like to say at the outset of this annual pre-season story that we in the American League feel extremely elated over the high caliber of managers we have in our league this season.

I have spent much time in each and every camp this spring around our league and the incentive and competence of these 10 men had to impress everyone.

With such outstanding leadership, I feel certain we are going to have another good race. Some of my friends in the news media chuckled last spring when I mentioned that the American League race looked as if it might be one of the tightest we've had for some years. Well, the way it turned out, we had the best pennant race in the league's history.

And now they are asking me if I can predict another race as tight. Why not? We have a balance in the American League that I feel assures us of another knock-down, drag-out battle.

thought Detroit showed as much confidence as any team I saw. Boston's defending champions, naturally, are going to miss such a standout pitcher as Jim Lonborg. It remains for the Red Sox to find several pitchers to take up the slack until Lonborg is ready. I hope that Jim doesn't try to rush himself back into action because I've seen too many players in the past who injured their arms by trying to return too fast.

Carl Yastrzemski is our most valuable player. He earned the title, no doubt of that, off his tremendous performance in 1967. He has arrived as a true star and should be equally effective this season.

Cleveland, under Al Dark, should be improved. Indians have some very fine pitchers in Sam McDowell, Sonny Siebert, Steve Hargan and Luis Tiant. This team can be the sleeper team in our league. Washington, too, has some fine talent. I like particularly their young second baseman, Frank Coggins. He's a comer, as is first baseman Mike Epstein.

California has a fine double play combination in Jim Fregosi and Bobby Knoop. Pitching will be a key with the Angels who did so much to determine the winner in our hectic race last season.

Oakland's A's have some of the finest young talent around. If this team reaches maturity under Bob Kennedy, then we're going to see something.

Club Stoppers
We have so many outstanding pitchers in the American League that every club has a "stopper." By a stopper I mean a pitcher who can go out there and shut out any team on a given day.

In short, there are no teams in the American League who cannot beat the other team. This is what constitutes great pennant races. It means balance.

Tiger Confidence
Mayo Smith has had a good opportunity to study his personnel this spring. A year ago he was taking over a new team and necessarily had to learn about his newcomers. Al Kaline and Jim Northrup and Ed Mathews and Bill Frehan provide the Tigers with plenty of power and defense. Their pitching can be outstanding. I

Yanks Experiment
The Yankees have been experimenting a lot this spring. An outfield of Tresh, Whitaker and Pepitone is good. Mickey Mantle is still the king and shows remarkable resilience as he prepares for another season. Minnesota strengthened its catching with John Roseboro. He is a true workman behind the plate. I thought the Twins hadn't jelled when I saw them in the spring, but I expect Cal Ermer will have them ready for the opener against the Senators. Baltimore's problem is pitching. If Phoebus and Hardin can take up some of the slack for Hank Baier, the Orioles will be formidable indeed.

Any reason I shouldn't think of another torrid race?

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sports of all sorts:

Several foreign tennis stars got a pleasant surprise the other morning when they arrived for their opening matches at Madison Square Garden's international tournament and had to push through some 5,000 fans waiting at the box-office in five-abreast ranks extending for more than a city block.

"I didn't know tennis was so big in New York," one of them said in a happy daze. Then came the unpleasant surprise.

It was a throng of hockey fans hoping to snare a pair of tickets each for the Stanley Cup playoffs. The tennis crowd was inside, all 300 of 'em.

Tennis attendance picked up during the week and the Garden still hopes to make their international an annual fixture.

My wife can't resist a bargain but it seemed a bit much when she asked the date of the annual "spring clearance sale" on major league baseball players.

I told her all clubs had to cut down to 25 men on opening day but that we really didn't need any bargains like that around the house. "Oh, it's for a friend of mine," she said.

"Okay, that's different."

National AAU says the showing of 16 foreign athletes in 17 indoor track meets in the United States this winter indicates plenty of hot competition at Mexico City in the 1968 Olympics. Ralph Doubell of Australia won all six of his middle distance starts. Russia's Valentin Gavrilov was 4-0 in the high jump. Ulf Hoegberg of Sweden won three of four mile races.

Offensive center is one of the toughest positions to fill on football these days since the center snap now is employed on so few plays mostly on kicks.

Kansas City Chiefs are going to give veteran linebacker E.J. Holub a shot at it next season.

Holub, a center in his college days, has been back-up center for seven years while linebacking was his major trade.

George Allen of the Los Angeles Rams and Bart Starr of the Green Bay Packers will be honored at a pro football dinner at St. Paul, Minn., April 24. Allen was National League's coach of the year, Starr everybody's player of the year.

We hate to miss this one but did you know the Second International Chess Grand Prix of Monaco is scheduled April 3-17.

NAIA All-Stars Win Big Game

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—Dwight Durante, a 5-8 guard from Catawba College of North Carolina, stole the ball with three seconds left and sank a pair of free throws to lead the NAIA All-Stars to a 73-69 win Friday over the Junior College All-Stars in the semifinals of the Olympic trials.

In losers bracket games earlier in the day, Charlie Scott of North Carolina hit 24 points to lead the NCAA white team to a 95-82 win over the NCAA reds and the NCAA blue team edged the NCAA College Division Stars 97-92.

By winning, the NAIA All-Stars advanced to the finals on Saturday.

Durante, was the spark behind the NAIA victory as he sank 15 points in the second half and ended the night with a game high of 19.

Jasper Wilson of Southeast Louisiana college hit a long jump shot to give the NAIA the lead for good at 55-53 with six minutes left and the closest the junior college could come was 70-69 with 1:10 left. Spencer Hayward with 17 points led the losers.

Tournament Scheduled By Lawn Association

By MICHAEL RABUN
DALLAS (UPI)—The head of the United States Lawn Tennis Association said Saturday the USLTA would hold a national open tournament this year at a site to be decided later this month.

USLTA President Robert Kelleher said he had received an application for the event from the West Side Tennis Club in Forest Hills, N. Y., and from the Longwood Tennis Club in Forest Hills, N. Y., and from the Longwood Tennis Club in Boston. He said a site decision will probably be made April 22 by the group's seven-man executive committee.

The USLTA approved the recommendation made last week by the International Tennis Federation that open tournaments be held by the federation member organizations.

The federation had limited the number of open tournaments to be held in any one country to four. Kelleher said he did not know if four open tournaments would be held in the U. S. this year.

"It is conceivable we would have only one open tournament," Kelleher said.

Representatives from both Forest Hills and Longwood were at the meeting Saturday to present their cases.

Kelleher said cities had until April 15 to make applications for an open tournament.

He said it was possible that no more than four applications for open tournaments would be made, although he understood a group in Cleveland, Los Angeles, Milwaukee, Houston and Palm Springs, Calif. were considering applying for an open event.

Kelleher said some people might be disappointed if they did not receive an event but that he approved of the theory of limiting open events—at least for the time being.

"This is a new situation," Kelleher said. "We want to make sure we can crawl before we walk. We do not want any bad events, so we will rule out some who want to have a tournament. That means someone will be unhappy."

Kelleher said the fact the USLTA would be holding a national open this year did not mean the annual National Amateur Championships would be canceled.

He said if the USLTA did decide to have the maximum quota of four open tournaments this year, geographic factors would be involved in selecting their locations.

"We would be under some criticism if we could not spread them out," he said.

Kelleher did not indicate how much prize money would be at stake in the open tournament, but pointed out that the open event to be staged this year at Wimbledon in England would put up $620,000 in total money.

He said the Longwood representatives had indicated that they could provide a $40,000 prize figure for the combined men's singles and doubles event.

Morton's 45.0 Takes Mile For University of Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Freshman Dave Morton's sizzling 45 seconds flat anchor lap carried the host University of Texas to a division record 3:07 mile relay for the day's only major standard revision in the 41st Texas Relays Saturday.

The victory gave Texas two relay titles alongside Kansas and Kansas State in the university division, while perennial track power Southern University of Baton Rouge returned to the meet after a year's absence to grab three of the six college division relays.

Sam Walker, a husky Dallas Samuel youngster, lofted the meet's high school division shot put record more than eight feet with a toss of 68-4 1-2, but was shy of his year's best marks above the 71-foot level.

In contrast, world champion shot putter Randy Matson of Texas A&M could do no better than 66-5 1-2 in an exhibition series—his first outdoor appearance of the season.

Southern's Harvey Nairn equalled the relays 120-yard high hurdles standard of 13.8 seconds with a favoring nine-mile wind that spoiled acceptances of the clocking as a record time.

Texas and Morton were voted the outstanding team and individual in the university division, while Southern and Nairn won the same accords in the college class.

Southern's foursome of Webster Johnson, Anthony Gates, Bob Johnson and Oliver Ford, matched Texas' 3:07.0 in the mile relay, but both were short of the overall meet record of 3:04.7 set by Southern two years ago when the Louisiana team won five of the six relays and set records in each one.

Morton's fine anchor gave Texas a five-yard edge over an excellent 45.5 closing effort by the Owls' Dale Bernauer.

Kerry Pearce of Texas-El Paso, who had set the meet's only overall record Friday night with a 13:23.1 three-mile run, tried to pull off the same feat in the featured Jerry Thompson Mile, but finished a poor sixth in 4:15.3.

Pampa Junior Has Two Records Broken In Track Meet In Borger

Pampa Junior High had two track records broken when Allen Keeton and Richard McCampbell left the cinders yesterday.

Keeton made it easy on the bookkeepers when he won four events—the 50 and 100 yard dashes in 6.2 and 11.1 respectively running with a wind, but still outstanding for a seventh grader, and two more blue ribbons in the high jump and broad jump with 5-0 (a new record for Pampa Junior High) and a 16.10 leap.

McCampbell heaved the shot a distance of 35-6 for a PJH record. Keeton leaped 18-4½ in a meet earlier in the year at Dumas. John Snow put the shot out there some 35-6 for PJH for fourth.

In the overall totals Lee Junior High ninth grade had a last place finish while the Pampa Junior High had 34 in second behind the winning team from Borger Austin with 95. Houston was third with 30.

Lacking adequate depth and balance, Robert E. Lee's eighth graders were held to only 11½ points, while Pampa Jr. High's Reapers were close behind the Rebels with 6 points.

Denied the Championship trophy for only the first time this season, the speedy and talented Lee Seventh Grade Rebel tracksters returned home from Borger having to settle for the runner-up position to Perryton in their division. Lee scored 32½ points to the Rangers' 35, both teams having to scramble in the last two events to edge PJH Seventh with 29.

Lee's undefeated 440 relay team was victorious again as Larry Marlar was added to their fine team, joining Jerry Sims, Rick McGuire and A. J.

Brewer. Their time of 51.7 seconds was probably the outstanding performance of the day, even eclipsing the best time recorded by the winner of the eighth grade sprint relay.

This was the first time Lee had been able to cross the finish line ahead of Perryton's 880 relay team. The next meeting of these teams will be at the district meet to be held at Borger on Apr. 27, ending the track season for the Panhandle Junior High Athletic League.

SMU Whips Tech

By United Press International Southern Methodist's Dave Davis saved both ends of a doubleheader Friday to give the Mustangs 7-2 and 4-2 wins over Texas Tech and move them by slumping Baylor in the Southwest Conference baseball race.

Mickey McCarty, who is also scheduled to pitch today, went five innings Friday to pick up the win in Texas Christian's 9-5 victory over Rice.

The win kept TCU in third place but allowed them to pick up a half game on league leading Texas who was idle. SMU evened its league record at 5-5 and moved into fourth place. Baylor, which was idle after losing three in a row to Texas, slumped to fifth.

SMU's Bob Flint was the winner in the first game although Davis had to put out a ninth-inning Tech rally. Mike Richardson led the Mustangs attack with two hits and two RBIs.

Davis saved Randy Moseley's win in the second game by striking out the SWC's leading hitter Jerry Haggard on three pitches with the tying run on base. Richardson again had two hits.

McCarty moved to left field after the fifth inning holding a 5-1 lead. Ronnie White and Jim Levering homered for the Owls. Rice now stands at 4-7 while Tech is 1-7.

Rice will get another chance against McCarty today and Tech ends its series with SMU. In the only other major Texas baseball action Friday, Pershing of Nebraska beat Houston 4-2. Brent Estee was the winner, gying up only five hits, and Jim Topping took the loss. The two teams meet again today.

CORLETTI WINS

Batthey Keeps Cool Head & No Violence

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer
DOBES FERRY, N.Y. (UPI)—Earl Batthey had a reputation when he was in baseball. He was one of those cooler heads.

If there was an argument in the clubhouse, they'd go to Earl Batthey a lot of times to settle it. It didn't matter that those who were squabbling were white and Earl Batthey was a Negro. They knew he was fair. And they knew he'd call it the right way.

Batthey no longer is in baseball. He put in his final day with the Minnesota Twins last Oct. 1. That was also the final day of the season and the day the Twins lost the pennant to the Boston Red Sox.

catcher is an athletic specialist and supervises a recreation program for emotionally disturbed children. These kids range in age from 9 to 17 and come in all sizes, races, colors and creeds.

Earl Batthey no longer is in baseball but he's still one of those cooler heads.

On His Own
His normal working hours are from 9 to 5:30, so he was more or less on his own Thursday evening when he was refereeing a basketball game among the kids in the gymnasium.

Suddenly word came in that Dr. Martin Luther King had been shot in Memphis. Further word was brought in shortly that he was dead.

"The children realized what it meant to some extent," says Batthey. "Naturally, they couldn't comprehend it entirely. But they knew it was bad, very bad."

The boys congregated around Earl Batthey and wanted to know what he thought. He explained as best he could to them what Dr. Martin Luther King stood for. Non-violence.

On Friday there was a special program in honor of the slain Negro leader at Children's Village. A Protestant chaplain and a Catholic chaplain each made comments.

Earl Batthey attended the program and then went back to his duties with the children. He did his work Friday but he also did a lot of tinking.

Not In Vain
"I met Dr. King once in 1963," Batthey recalls. "It was shortly after that church was bombed in Alabama. Now he's gone and all I hope is that he didn't die in vain. I hope people will sit down and realize what has happened simply because of an inability to understand each other. It's funny how so many other boundaries have been broken—in this world but this one boundary still prevails. It's funny and it's tragic."

Earl Batthey believes in the things Dr. Martin Luther King stood for. He says so.

"I'm a firm believer in non-violence," he says. "Especially on a mass level. On a personal level, naturally I'd retaliate if I was provoked physically. I hope it will never come to that. There's no reason why it ever should."

Earl Batthey no longer is in baseball, but he's still one of those cooler heads.

Pampa Loses To Borger

Pampa's Harvesters lost the fifth straight to a determined Borger Bulldog team yesterday afternoon by 5-1 in a District 2-AAAA baseball game.

Hal Clabaugh lost the game on the mound but scored the lone run for the Harvesters in the seventh inning when he got on a walk, moved to second on afielder's choice and moved around to home on an error by the center fielder.

The winning pitcher was Lynn Kelley for the Bulldogs. He lost the first encounter with the Pampa team back in March in Borger when the Harvesters won by 9-2 with Dick Henley on the mound for Pampa.

Pampa managed one hit from Alvin Achord with a double in the fifth, but that was all. The opposition put across only two of the five runs with "earned" marked on 'em.

Pampa committed three errors, struck out six times.

Pampa's next game is Friday against Palo Duro, who is a leading contender for the title. Pampa's record is now 2-5.

Havlicek Paces Celts

NBA Playoff Roundup
By United Press International John Havlicek, the man who has everything in the way of shot assortment, was chief gunner for the Celtics again Friday night as he scored 35 points in Boston's 127-118 victory over Philadelphia.

Boston, having waited a year for a chance to avenge the 1967 playoff ouster by Philadelphia, led by 15 points during the fourth quarter of its opening Eastern Division final round encounter.

The second game of the series was to have been played in Boston Sunday, but a day of mourning for the late Dr. Martin Luther King set the game back to Wednesday.

Lakers Win
On the West Coast, Los Angeles beat San Francisco 133-105 in the opener of a best-of-seven Western division final. Elgin Baylor led the Lakers with 29 points, a total matched by Jeff Mullins of the losing Warriors.

Havlicek was deadly from the floor with 12 field goals and near perfect from the foul line with 11 of 12 free throws.

Boston took a 34-31 first period lead, extended it to 65-56 at halftime and made it 10 points, 97-87, going into the final quarter. Philadelphia pulled up with three minutes left in the third period when the 76ers trailed by only 87-83.

Supporting Cast
Sam Jones, with 28 points, and Bailey Howell, 24, provided Boston's supporting cast. Chamberlain was high for Philadelphia with 33 points, but was matched in rebounds by Russell. Chet Walker netted 31 points for the 76ers and Hal Greer added 27.

Aristotle Said It, Not Us . . .

'Woman May Be Said To Be Inferior Man'

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI)—In the battle of the sexes, Aristotle threw down the glove by saying: "Woman may be said to be an inferior man."
Ever since, women have tried to prove him a liar. They cut their hair, raised their skirts to minilength, and otherwise got what they thought were equal freedoms all around.
But Aristotle, if you like to pay attention to research, wins the argument.
Oh, sure. Write him off as a zero because he was male. But contemporary research proving him correct is based on women, so there's hardly a point to pick a bone.
Defender
To Aristotle's defense is Philip Goldberg, egghead who explored the battle of the sexes with the cooperation of females—140 college girls selected at random.
The associate professor of psychology at Connecticut College in New London found that women seem to think that men are better at everything.
Not only that. He also learned that woman's deadliest foe is not the beleaguered male. Rather, it's other women.
His fortress in the face of assault at these deadly findings is the words of women involved in research aimed at answering the question—who's top: male or female.
A report on his research, in "Trans-action," a social science journal published by Washington University in St. Louis, describes research testing women about their feelings about male-female greatness.
As one part of the study, the collegians were given articles about serious subjects. Some were authored by John T. McKay; others by Joan T. McKay.
At testing time girls didn't know the articles were similar. The testing was manipulated in a way to make them believe Joan and John were two different people.
The idea: rate three articles by female authors; three by male authors.
Invariably, according to research findings, they gave better ratings to the articles under the male bylines. The articles were exactly the same. This indicated, in the crunch, that the females placed more faith in male bylines—and males, per se.
The girls felt that the John articles were definitely more impressive, and reflected more glory on their authors, than did the mediocre offerings of the Joans.

FOREIGN NEWS COMMENTARY— Latin American Students

By PHIL NEWSOM,
UPI Foreign News Analyst
It doesn't take much to stir up volatile Latin American university students. And it doesn't take much to turn a student protest demonstration from its original purpose to one violently anti-United States.
So in Rio De Janeiro student protests against higher prices in their cafeteria quickly turned anti-U.S. and became a full-blown demonstration against the Brazilian government of President Arthur da Costa e Silva.
A student died during police suppression of the Rio demonstrations which then spread quickly to 11 of Brazil's 22 states, including the industrial city of Sao Paulo and to Brasilia, the nation's inland capital.

Skelly Plans Construction Of Pipe Line

Construction plans for 190 miles of pipe line and a petroleum products terminal in Kansas have been announced by W. H. Nichols, vice president in charge of Skelly Oil Company's Supply and Transportation Department.
Two 70-mile lines connecting Skelly's El Dorado refinery with the Mid-America Pipe Line Company system at Conway, Kans., are planned by Skelly Pipe Line Company, a wholly owned subsidiary of Skelly Oil Company.
One, a four-inch line, will move an ethane-propane mix to Conway to the Great Bend, Kan. line in Clinton, Iowa, location of the Chemplex Company, a joint venture of Skelly Oil Company and American Can company.
The second, a six-inch pipe line, will carry LPG products for further distribution to mid-west markets over the Mid-America system. These lines should be in operation by June, 1968, according to Mark D. White, Skelly Pipe-Line manager.
Plans also call for a four-inch products line running from Conway to the Great Bend, Kan. area, where a petroleum products terminal will be built. This system will be constructed by Skelly Oil Company and should be operational next fall.

It was just four years ago that the Brazilian military ousted the weak, leftist-leaning regime of President Joao Goulart and installed the late Humberto Castelo Branco as head of a government dedicated to stamping out "communism and corruption."
Politicians and students chafed under the restrictions and austerity of the new regime. Businessmen and labor later joined the dissenters as bankruptcies and unemployment mounted.
But the regime stood firm, and the economic growth rate, which in 1963 had fallen to 1.6 per cent, climbed back to 3.5 per cent in 1966 and to 5 per cent in 1967.
Inflation Drops
Inflation which in 1964 had sent the cost of living soaring skyward by 84 per cent, fell back to 24.5 per cent in 1967.
When the administration lists its accomplishments today, its battle against inflation comes first.
But it did not satisfy the students chafing under government restrictions and lack of educational facilities.
Harsh measures were necessary to bring Brazil back from the depths to which it had fallen.
Brazil is beginning to fulfill its economic promise. And Costa e Silva has promised that its "revolution" will remain bloodless.

Pampans In Industry Meet Attendance

Chamber of Commerce President Harold Barrett and Manager E. O. Wedgeworth attended the Governor's Industrial Expansion Conference in Austin Wednesday, which attracted more than 1,000 civic and business leaders from throughout the state.

Governor Connally declared the state's future depended on a broadened industrial base, but cautioned the industrial leaders that they must concern themselves with other problems such as education, air and water pollution, mass transportation, and the use of leisure time in order to provide the type of industrial climate now demanded by industry.

The governor presented industrial expansion awards to the Hicks-Ponder Company of El Paso, an apparel manufacturer; Kaspar Wire Works, Inc., of Shiner; Ling-Temco-Vought of Grand Prairie; Tracer, Inc. of Austin, manufacturers of scientific instruments; and United Ammunition Container Corp. of Atlanta.

The "Volunteer Industrial Developer of the Year" award was presented to Robert Cargill of Longview, an oil and real estate operator in the East Texas area.

Ray Horton, of Houston, Chairman of the Texas Industrial Commission, presided over the general session.

Annual Texas Cowboy Reunion Slated For July

STAMFORD (Sp1) — The 38th annual Texas Cowboy Reunion, one of the most colorful western events, will be held in Stamford on July 2, 3 and 4 this year, according to Eugene Swenson, president of the organization.

The rodeo parade and first performance will be held at 4 p.m. Friday, July 2. The parade will wind its way through downtown Stamford with numerous riding clubs, floats and bands in addition to hundreds of authentic, working cowboys participating.

There will also be an official meeting of the old time cowboys for their annual get-together to honor their "almost gone" profession.

A big chuck/wagon feed is held twice daily during the Rodeo. Competition in western events will be held nightly at 8 o'clock with a matinee performance on the afternoon of the Fourth. The show attracts the largest number of amateur cowboys in the southwest and provides plenty of excitement for thousands of visitors from all over the nation.

An official American Quarter Horse show is held each year in conjunction with the Reunion and draws some of the top registered quarter horse breeders in the United States.

Added attractions are being planned this year for the great influx of tourists expected in Texas for the Hemisfair Exposition at San Antonio, as well as other events of national interest which will be held in the Southwest this year.

Income Tax Questions, Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE — This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the Pampa office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published by The News as a public service to taxpayers.

Q—My buddy says you can deduct all your medical insurance premiums this year and I say only half of them can be deducted. Who's right?

A—In a way, you both are. Premiums paid for medical insurance have always been deductible as a medical expense by taxpayers who itemize their deductions. For 1967 however, one half of these premiums up to $150 may be deducted without regard to the requirement that medical expenses be reduced by three per cent of the taxpayer's income. In effect, the new rule on medical insurance premiums, allows a deduction for part of these premiums even when the taxpayer's other medical expenses don't exceed three per cent of his income. Any excess premiums are included with other medical expenses. The 1040 instructions explain this in detail.

Q—I'm expecting a refund but don't have one of the envelopes you're supposed to use to mail the return. What should I do?

A—Mail your return to the Internal Revenue Service center for your area. You can obtain the exact address by checking page 10 of the 1040 instructions or by calling the local Internal Revenue office.

Q—I've been supporting my mother since she retired last fall. Can I claim her as a dependent?

A—If your mother had gross income of $600 or more last year you cannot claim her as a dependent. Check the 1040 instructions for full details on the dependency tests.

Q—My losses from stock transactions were greater than my gains last year. Can I carry over any of my unused capital losses from 1967 to offset 1968 profits?

A—Yes. Unused capital losses may be carried over from year to year until they are used up.

Q—I got married last year. Do I need another Social Security number since my name changed?

A—No, continue to use your same number but notify the Social Security Administration that your name has changed so they can bring their records up to date.

"Speaking of change as our way of life or the status quo, change should mean improvement and should be a challenge to each to see that it does bring improvement." Miss Sims also said "Those who believe in nothing, do nothing. Delta Kappa Gamma does believe in change and in change for improvement."

MISS DEB

... answers questions about Junior Miss etiquette, grooming and interests.

Q—I'm not a nail nibbler—but my nails look like it. Every time I let them grow, they split and peel and look a mess! What's my problem?

A—Could be your diet! Eat lots of calcium-rich foods, such as milk and cheese. Gelatin also helps make strong nails. A weekly manicure is essential. If in the growing process, one of your nails starts to break, reinforce it with a tiny piece of white Kleenex tissue placed over the broken spot. Then apply polish over the nail and tissue. No one will notice your nifty handiwork! and the nail will be saved until it grows out.

Q—Two summer job possibilities have come up, one as a junior counselor at camp, the other here in the city. I'd like the counseling job best, but what do I say if the other is offered first?

A—Lucky you! Summer jobs are hard to come by. Write to the camp director as a follow-up to your conversation. It's unlikely you'll be offered the city job on the spot, but if you are, level with your prospective employer. Tell him the job sounds just wonderful—but you've been wanting to work for the camp since you were eight. Then tell him you'll be in touch with him in a couple of days. Summer is still many weeks away—and you'll have plenty of time to make the right decision!

Q—Believe it or not, I have 10 best friends, and we're all turning "sweet 16" this year! That means an important birthday—AND a present—at most every month of the year. But what about my budget?

A—The best gifts are those with more thought than money poured into them. For the writer in the crowd, take an empty tin can and cover it with Marvalon adhesive covering in a bright, feminine pattern. Voila—a penholder! Top off the gift, with a feather-topped ballpoint pen. Or, cover a wastebasket, box for rollers, hair spray can, and notebook for a roomful of accessories. The possibilities end only where your imagination does!

NOVEL IDEA—Cotton fabric transforms an ordinary kitchen into a homemaker's dream. It's used on the ceiling and for a scalloped border trimmed with ball fringe. The same print is repeated in tieback draperies and in a cover for the back of the cabinet.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What is a widow to do? I'm not ready for a rest home — yet, being only 41 years old, I have two attractive, well-behaved children, a nice home, no debts, and a good steady income. No worries, except where to find a decent man who wants a decent woman.

I've been a widow for two years and have been told that I am "desirable." I started to date a year ago, and every man I go out with hands me the same line. ("What's one more slice off a loaf of bread that's already been cut?" — or words to that effect.) If that doesn't work, I'm told that it's emotionally unhealthy for a woman who has been accustomed to a normal sex life to go without sex. Then they try to save my mental health by volunteering to provide me with a normal sex life. (Now it's therapy.)

Then there are men who want female companionship, but they tell you on the first date that they don't want you to get "serious" as they don't want to get that involved. Have men always been this way, Abby? Or is this a new breed?

POPULAR WIDOW DEAR POPULAR: No, it's not a new breed. Such men have always been around, but your luck is unusually bad to have encountered them all the first year. There are plenty of decent men in the world. You need new friends.

DEAR ABBY: I am 26 years old and wear dentures. My problem is having people (strangers) come up to me and say, "My, but you have beautiful teeth. Are they your own?"

Abby, I consider this a very personal question for a stranger to ask, so I say, "Yes, they are." (Then I say to myself, "Well, after all, I DID pay for them, so they ARE my own.") Then I feel awfully guilty because I lied.

Isn't there some way I can answer these people without telling them the truth, and still keep from lying?

EMBARRASSED DEAR EMBARRASSED: Yes. When someone comments on your "beautiful teeth," say, "Thank you," and ignore any subsequent questions regarding same. Then change the subject. If the person is so rude and insensitive as to repeat the question, say, "If you'll forgive me for not answering, I'll forgive you for asking."

CONFIDENTIAL TO "H" IN ORANGE COUNTY: Don't ever be ashamed to admit you were wrong. It's one way of saying you're smarter today than you were yesterday.

SKELLYTOWN MAN Honored at Party
 SKELLYTOWN (Sp) — J.C. Jarvis, Skellytown longtime resident, was honored with a surprise birthday coffee here recently by Mrs. Red Norris, Mrs. Guy McKenney and Mrs. A. Lane as hostesses.

Small Colleges in US See Few Industry Recruiters

By PATRICIA McCORMACK NEW YORK (UPI)—Recruiters from big companies swarm over the larger college campuses today, hoping to interest qualified seniors in positions with their firms.

But on campuses of smaller colleges, according to a brave band of students from Riker College in Houlton, Maine, things aren't that good. The recruiters from giants of industry are seldom seen.

So really eager students from such small schools, enrollment less than one thousand, are urged to do what the eight members of the marketing club from Riker did recently: come to the big city for a marathon of job interviews.

Week-Long Session
The Riker students allowed themselves one week. Two of the eight got job offers—not bad, considering most are eligible for the draft.

An analysis of questionnaires the job-seeking students completed for United Press International showed the following: —As with a date, it pays to put your best self forward when grooming for a job interview. Have shoes shined, suitpressed, hair cut.

—Be prepared for a polite reception but don't be thrown if, as one student reported, the interviewer demoralizes you with his introductory remarks.

—For the best chance, you should be married, have your service obligation filled, have a masters degree, know exactly what you want in life, ask questions and relax.

The Davids meeting Goliaths of industry here agreed that the hardest part of a job interview is "having requirements they want."

Salary Average
The job offers for these students whose college education cost around $10,000, carried salaries of $7,200.

But the students, asked to name their dream salaries, at the peak of their earnings, most often mentioned $50,000 a year. One aimed at $100,000. And at a lower level, one hoped for $15,000 a year as his topmost earnings.

One rough part of a job-seeking expedition in New York, the seniors said, is getting to the interview.

It's a big place. The job hunters said getting lost and found again added up to the most amusing part of their New York trip.

Vietnamese Speaker For Area Meeting

SKELLYTOWN (Sp)—Thack, an 18-year-old Vietnamese civilian from Saigon who is making his home in Amarillo during his senior year of high school, spoke at a recent meeting of the White Deer Lions Club.

Thack was born sixty miles from Hanoi in North Vietnam, but managed to escape with his parents to South Vietnam. His father was a school teacher and textbook writer and eventually became principal of a Saigon high school. This made an education available to Thack and his brother and sisters.

He told the club that rural South Vietnamese are largely uneducated and are influenced more by food than anything else. They have very little interest in winning the war in their country which they cannot fully understand. They gladly follow the last person who gives them food, he said.

Thack ended his talk with the comment that war is a part of life in Vietnam. He is 18 years old and the war is over 25 years old.

Thack is a Foreign Exchange Student with the AFS, and lives with the Fred Martin family in Amarillo. He is a senior at Amarillo High School and states he is "fascinated" by football.

Burglars Strike Two Businesses

Burglars struck two businesses on N. Hobart St. Friday night or early Saturday morning but failed to get any cash or merchandise.

Break-ins at both places, Pampa Glass and Paint, 1431 N. Hobart, and the Spudnut Shop, 1423 N. Hobart, were reported within an hour of each other. A night watchman and a police officer on patrol discovered the break-ins.

Entry was gained in both places by smashing the glass in doors and then unlocking them.

SFN -- Most Dangerous Drug

A lot of folks around the county are upset about LSD and some other three-initial hallucinogenic drugs. But there's another three-initial drug (SNF) which is "the most character-deceiving, hallucinogenic drug of all," according to Fred G. Clark and Richard S. Remanovic in their monthly "Economic Facts of Life" published by the American Economic Foundation, 51 E. 42nd St., New York. Here is their discussion:
 "LSD, STP and POT — the escape-from-reality drugs — have attracted an enormous amount of attention because they are undermining the character of a small fraction of our young people.
 "Unfortunately, the most prevalent, pernicious and destructive of all escape-from-reality drugs — SFN — is destroying American character on a much wider scale, almost unnoticed and unmentioned.
 "The full name of SFN is something for nothing. For most people, its temptation is almost irresistible. It is habit-forming to a frightening degree. In almost every human heart there is a spark of larceny which, fanned by the insidious influence of SFN, burns away the two cardinal virtues of man — self-respect, and self-reliance. Psychologically, it has the guilt-producing impact of receiving stolen goods — even if these goods are legally stolen.
 "Nothing corrodes the human spirit as deeply as subsidized idleness. As proven by the rioting and looting, it leads to the desire for illegally stolen goods. The experts say that many people on SFN reach the point where they are virtually beyond rehabilitation.
 "Dr. M. Harvey Brenner, a sociologist at Yale University, has just completed a statistical study of mental health in the United States, covering the period from 1910 and 1960. He reports that 'doctors can forecast the general state of mental health with a glance at society's unemployment figures.'
 "Dr. Brenner's study deals, primarily, with people whose behavior requires them to be admitted to mental institutions, but common sense tells us that, for every case that reaches this extreme, there are hundreds that approach it.
 "The use (acceptance) of SFN is encouraged by the world wide fundamental weakness of the mass mind — ignorance of the simple fundamentals of how man produces and exchanges goods and services. There is no such thing as something for nothing. Every economic good has a source, a destination, and a cost that must be paid. And the man who pays nothing pays the highest price of all.
 "The tragic irony of SFN is in which it is dispensed. The truth is that nothing is more inhuman than destroying the fabric of character. To the normal man who wakes up in the morning with nothing to do, and nowhere to go where he is needed, life becomes a nightmare out of which he must make some sense or lose his senses.
 "This 'sense' is that he is one of those special persons to whom the world owes a living. And if it is not a good living, or as good as he thinks he deserves, his resentment against society knows no bounds.
 "LSD, STP, and POT are frightening, but SFN is worse.
 "No economy, however strong, no system, however dynamic, can long avoid its deadening influence on the national character.
 "In every society there is useful work for every able bodied citizen. For the mental health of the nation, it must be arranged and provided."

'White Mule' Still Kicks

America's longest running feud, that between the moonshiners and the "revenooers," goes on.
 According to the Licensed Beverage Industries, Inc., government statistics show that approximately 55.7 million gallons of illegal liquor were produced in 1966. This represented an estimated loss in public revenue of $74 million.
 A total of 17,774 illicit stills were seized by federal, state and local lawmen that year.
 While moonshine production was down by more than three million gallons from 1965, production per still was up nationally by the interesting figure of 3.2 per cent. In the "moonshine belt" of 12 Southeastern states, production increased by 6.9 per cent.
 The trend is toward larger, better concealed stills and big-business-type systems of production, wholesaling and retailing — modern in everything except quality and purity. Better law enforcement methods and stiffer punishments are sending the illegal operators farther underground, literally.
 One still was found in an abandoned coal mine in Alabama. Another was discovered at the newly built Georgia Raceway in Peach County. A trapdoor in a dummy ticket booth opened in a 125-foot tunnel that led to the bubbling still.
 The State Alcoholic Beverage Commission of Tennessee has purchased a twin-engine plane to help ferret out above-ground operations. Some moonshiners have countered by renting helicopters to check on their camouflage.
 The feud goes on, for as long as people continue to buy the rotgut, there will always be someone around willing to take their money.

The Spiraling Tax Take

Even without an income tax surcharge, Americans will be paying more in taxes this year than they did last year.
 According to Tax Foundation estimates, the total federal, state and local government tax take will be $217 billion in fiscal year 1968 (July 1, 1967 to June 30, 1968). This would be an increase of $10 billion over fiscal 1967.
 Federal tax collections are expected to rise to $148 billion in 1968 from $143 billion in 1967. State and local collections will climb from $64 billion to $69 billion.
 It all figures out to about $3,550 in taxes for each American family in 1968 — up $134 from the previous year and nearly double the amount 10 years ago.
 Economic growth of the country explains the rise in federal income. The federal tax rate has remained unchanged since it was cut in that long-ago, halcyon year of 1964. It's on the state level that taxes have both increased in rate and multiplied in scope.
 Seven new state income and retail sales taxes, plus 49 increases in existing sales, income, gasoline, cigarette and selected excise taxes were enacted by the several states last year. Thirty states now levy both general sales and income taxes.
 On the local level, property taxes supply seven-eighths of county, city and village income.

The Never-Give-Up Guys

Sleet and snow and gloom of night may give the postal carriers to be occasionally, but literally nothing seems to deter the junk mailers.
 There was the California woman while back who stuck a notice on her mailbox to the effect that "No person named 'Occupant' lives here." It didn't work.
 An Atlanta citizen recently tried a more devious, but just as useless, stratagem. He began writing "Decayed" across all junk mail envelopes and returned them to the sender. It didn't work.
 "In due course, his 'widow' began receiving junk mail from people trying to sell her tombstones for her husband's grave."

Sex: Future Spectator Sport?
 NEW YORK (NEA) — It should come as no surprise that two weeks after publication, a book called "The Naked Ape" by Desmond Morris has installed itself firmly as the nation's No. 1 best seller.
 It should come as no surprise. But it does, this sort of recurring event always comes as a surprise to us.
 For some reason we have never understood at all, there is simply no topic more appealing to people than the scientific study of their sexual behavior. And the more scientific, the more best selling it is.
 Last year it was courtship rites as studied by Konrad Lorenz. The year before, it was the Masters investigation into the sex mechanism. The year before that — well, suffice it to say that we have been astonished annually since the Kinsey report.
 Just what the scientists are trying to discover in their pursuit is hard enough to explain. But what the average reader hopes to learn from these carloads of research data is impossible to figure out. As far as we can tell, the wholesale market in this commodity has very little bearing on the retail trade.
 The scientific theory seems to be that the creative, intelligent creature called man is the product of a long evolutionary process of selective mating.
 To find out how this selecting has been accomplished, scientists go out and observe the mating habits of some species related to man, such as the rat, the goose or the college student. This year, science is observing the mating habits of the ape. And average readers, as usual, are reading about it as fast as they can. But what they expect to learn about themselves remains a mystery.
 For our part, we have read through the current studies of the ape and his mating behavior. Moreover, we have spent as much time as is humanly possible in the zoo, observing real live apes.
 And we can report from both our reading and looking that the wonder is not how apes mate, or whom they select for the job. The astounding thing is that they can bring themselves to mate at all.
 But even if they do, as science claims, it is hard to see how they are getting anywhere with it. From what we have been able to find out, apes today are not any more creative or intelligent than they were, say, at the end of World War II. In that regard, the human is not doing so well, either. According to a recent study at the University of California (Los Angeles), in nine out of 10 cases Doris Day ends up with Rock Hudson rather than George Bernard Shaw.
 So, as we said, why people persist in this observation of mating behavior is very hard to understand. It would be much more reasonable if the apes were observing people's habits. But that is not the case.
 Quite the contrary. You cannot read a book of any sort nowadays, or go to a movie, play, university or park without being made to observe sexual behavior in every variation and tedious detail.
 And now, it appears, television has joined the trend with a documentary telling more about conception than anybody really wants to know.
 Whether all of this means that sex has become just another spectator sport, it is too early to tell.
 But we notice, according to a scientific study conducted by the Bureau of the Census, the American birth rate is dropping.

WHAT DOES THE VIET CONG WANT?
 By Murray Rothbard

How is it that the overwhelming majority of the people of South Vietnam support the National Liberation Front, the "Viet Cong"? A look into this question will help Americans who are bewildered at seeing so much of the world's population supporting what we simply regard as "Communist totalitarianism." If it were as simple as all that, the Communists would find precious little support, and precious few members.
 It is no coincidence that the mighty drive of 1967-68, which has established the Viet Cong in the position of winning the protracted war, was preceded by the adoption of an extremely important new political program; a statement of policy for the present and future NLF regime in South-Vietnam. The policy statement was adopted last September 1, and was reprinted in full in the New York Times of December 15.
 First, we should realize that the NLF are not simply communists, but a broad national coalition of numerous groups, including Buddhists, Catholic abbes, and middle-class parties; and in this coalition the communists play a leading role. Secondly as a witness to this broad coalition, there is not a word in this lengthy political program about the establishment of a socialist society. On the contrary, the NLF platform is no more socialistic than those of the Democratic or Republican parties in the United States — and maybe a good deal less. Not only that; the major thrust of the program is the guarantee of the private property of business and especially of the peasantry, who are the vast bulk of the Vietnamese population. In addition, the program proclaims and guarantees the freedom of religion, of national minorities to have their own language and autonomy, and of speech, press, assembly, association demonstration and forming of political parties, as well as "inviolability of the human person," freedom of residence and movement, and the secrecy of the mails.
 On property rights, the NLF program promises "to protect the right to ownership of the means of production and other property of the citizens." It adds that "the state will encourage the capitalists in industry

ACCEPTANCE OF EVIL

During World War II, the people of the U.S. clearly detested Adolf Hitler's regime. His slaughter of millions of innocent people was unequivocally condemned. Today, some of our young people born after that war hold an altogether different view.
 Recently, some college students were asked their opinions of Hitler. The answers reveal that they have been given neither a proper appreciation of history nor the ability to distinguish between good and evil.
 "I don't have any feelings... because I don't know that much about him. I know things about concentration camps like Dachau and just little things about the terrorists and inhuman things that went on." Another said: "I think he was a nice guy. It's just that he did everything wrong in history."
 A young girl answered: "I guess at the time he thought what he was doing was right. He may have been a good person and everything like that... but you can't really judge. I mean, I'm not a person that can judge another person, because I don't think anybody has the right to do that." And a young man replied: "Well, it's not for me to say... He may have been off his rocker, but then again he may have had a good idea."
 These comments are frightening to those who value our young people. Perhaps the tolerant attitude toward communism so widely held has influenced these young people to think that tyranny might be "a good idea." Giving our young people the standards they need to recognize and condemn evil is just one of the many things Youth Freedom Speakers do so well.

It's Up To You

Individual Initiative, Not More Government
 According to the Tax Foundation, Inc., between 1956 and 1966 the number of state and local government employees increased at a rate about four times as fast as the population, and the cost of paying them increased at a rate nearly nine times the population growth rate. The foregoing figures do not include the very large increase in the number of employees of the Federal government.
 During this ten-year period, state and local government employees increased from 5.3 million to 8.6 million, or 63 per cent.
 The monthly cost of paying them (based on October payroll figures) increased from $1,566 million to $3,808 million, or by 143 per cent.
 Meanwhile, the population of the country rose from 168 million to 196 million, or 17 per cent. The figures would be much more startling and ominous if, to this increase in numbers and cost of local and state employees, were added the increase in numbers and cost of Federal government employees.
 We have asked the question many times before, but we ask it again. At the present rate how long will it be before we are all working for government — that is, living in some sort of totalitarian state like the U.S.S.R.? We need not think we can go on increasing the number of public employees and the cost thereof at a rate four times the growth of the population, and costwise nearly nine times the population growth rate, without eventually arriving at that unhappy destination.
 We have seen these figures

Sugar Diabetes, Inborn Error of Metabolism

Q—What is sugar diabetes? How does it start? How does one get it? Why do some people lose a leg with it? If you have it, do you have to be on a rigid diet for the rest of your life?
 A—Sugar diabetes or diabetes mellitus is an inborn error of metabolism as a result of which the body cannot utilize the blood-glucose derived from the sugars and starches in the diet. The victim's blood sugar level rises high above normal and some of the sugar spills over into the urine.
 Early symptoms, when the onset occurs in childhood, are inordinate thirst, increased appetite, frequent urination and loss of weight. When the onset occurs after age 25, the only symptoms may be loss of weight and weakness. Both types are hereditary. Eating a diet high in sugar and starch is an aggravating factor.
 Complications of the disease may occur in any part of the body due to interference with the circulation (diabetic lesions of the blood vessels and nerves). The complications strike where a weakness already exists. When the lower extremity is the target, gangrene of the toes occurs. This may progress upward and necessitate amputation of a leg.
 A fairly rigid diet is an important part of the treatment. Since the disease can be controlled but not cured, the treatment must be continued for life.
 Q—What is meant by sugar in the vessels of a diabetic's eyes? What can be done for it?
 A—Diabetes may cause changes in the blood vessels of the retina, leading to blindness. The progress of this complication can sometimes be halted by destroying the pituitary gland either through surgical removal or deep X-ray treatments.
 Q—What is diabetic neuropathy? Is there any cure? What kind of doctor should a person with this disease go to?
 A—This is a complication of

Soviets In Peace Role Not Realistic

By LEON DENNEN
Foreign News Analyst
 NEW YORK (NEA) — From now until the Democratic and Republican conventions presidential aspirants will offer varied remedies for the critical problems facing the United States.
 But on Vietnam, the crucial issue, only one person—President Johnson—must make agonizing decisions, however unpopular they may be.
 Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, an exceptionally attractive personality on the American political scene, is for peace in Vietnam but vague on how to achieve it. According to one poll, some voters even cast their ballots for McCarthy in the mistaken belief that he is a "hawk" on Vietnam.
 Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, the Democrats' tough hawk, and Richard Nixon, the Republicans' mild hawk, claim that they have the key to peace in Vietnam. But they are as vague as the other candidates on how they would bring Hanoi to the negotiating table.
 They have hinted that, among other peace moves, they would try to induce Russia to serve as a peacemaker in Vietnam.
 Kennedy also suggested that the Communists, who do not like President Johnson, are more likely to negotiate with a "new leader" in the White House—such as Sen. Kennedy.
 Most Americans agree that no channel must be left unexplored in the search for peace.
 Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk have long been aware that Moscow does not want peace in Vietnam. The Russians face a hostile Red China along a frontier of 4,000 miles. It is in their interest to keep Mao Tse-tung busy in Southeast Asia as long as possible.
 Nor is there any reason to assume that the Communists will negotiate with a "new" American leader. Marxist-Leninists regard any American president as a capitalist enemy. Their great hope is still to confuse and divide the American people.
 But they are realists. If anything, should they finally decide that they cannot win in Vietnam they are just as likely to negotiate with Johnson as with Kennedy.
 In the revolutionary strategy of the Marxist-Leninists, non-Communist leaders—however conciliatory or appeasing they may be—are to be used and discarded when they no longer serve the Reds' purpose.
 Kennedy would thus do well to consider the current plight of Cambodia's Prince Sihanouk, the Communists' latest victim.
 The unfortunate prince also believed that he could appease Peking and Hanoi. He hoped to buy Cambodia's security by helping the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese.
 Yet even while messages of friendship speed, back and forth among Sihanouk, Mao Tse-tung and Ho Chi Minh, guerrillas, trained and armed by Hanoi, are stepping up subversive and revolutionary activity in Cambodia.
 Sihanouk even threatens to turn his government over to pro-American generals if the Communists persist in provoking civil war in Cambodia.
 His experience with the Communists—like the experience of neutral Laos and other individuals and nations—is a fact of life. It must not be obscured in the din of campaign oratory.
 Dissent and a free debate are the heart of the democratic system. But in time of crisis especially, it is well to remember George Santayana's warning that people who forget history are doomed to repeat it.

EAGLE ROCK—I must be getting old. I can remember when nobody but foredoers wore foredoer pants.
 I can't tell you why ostriches bury their heads in holes. But have you noticed how much their faces look like Bertrand Russell's?
 I'll tell you one thing, the British Empire did not last long after it started picking on George Raft.
 George Romney has proved that the age of the Babbitt is over in American politics. And that the candidate who tries too hard to be affable soon becomes laughable. George's old political buddies are saying he's a "great American" and a "great Republican." Maybe he has been. But he didn't prove it in New Hampshire. At a time when his country was engaged in a losing war in Asia and near civil war in its city streets, Romney sought to prove his qualifications for the Presidency by making an ass of himself. He flooded the country with pictures of himself patting a snowman in the nose, washing a shopkeeper's windows, and buttonholing embarrassed citizens while he laughed it up. It was a silly and frivolous response to his nation's needs. It proved that Romney wasn't the man to lead his country. OR TO ADVISE IT. When George got around to reading his own publicity, even he saw how bad it was and he counted himself out.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)
QUESTION: What are the causes for gold leaving the U.S.? And what is the result?
ANSWER: The cause of gold leaving the country is that, the people in other nations believe that our unit of money is going to depreciate and become worthless and less. That's the reason they want to get it into gold value in relation to paper money. And it can be readily transferred into other money that is not depreciating so fast.
 The cause of money depreciating, of course, is that the government spends more than rise and rise through the years that we have been warning the American people against. The burgeoning state and pleading for less government and more individual initiative. We shall keep sounding the alarm as long as we have strength and the means of making ourselves heard.

Television Picking Oscar Winners Is Hard In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The assassination of Martin Luther King may provide the final impetus needed to compel the television networks to deal more intensively in prime time with Negro-white relations.

The shock of Thursday's national tragedy in Memphis may at last force the networks to realize that their full resources are required to establish desperately needed links between the two communities.

There can no longer be casual, tweedy, pipe-smoking satisfaction in executive offices that this greatest of domestic problems is adequately handled in evening news broadcasts, sporadic documentaries or occasional spot coverage.

It is time for the networks to stop kidding themselves that racial barriers have fallen sharply just because Negroes appear in shows, or star in a few series. Even the most narrow-minded observers would have to admit that this is barely more than tokenism because the Negro as an everyday human being is hardly ever on display in prime time.

Moments of national disaster on the domestic scene may be closer than we like to think, and the networks must decide which is more important to them: offending a few viewers, or the future of the United States of America.

Otherwise, their golden financial statements may turn out to be mere adornments for a society resting on quicksand.

This is a time for corporate greatness, perhaps for the Sarnoffs and Paleys and other network leaders to lead the way in taking the pressure off their managerial executives, who must ordinarily be concerned with maximum profits and ratings, and solidifying their positions. Leadership toward a significant Negro-white dialogue is surely worth a few dollars in dividends.

Need Frank Comment
The networks must be more frank, more outspoken in prime time about this racial problem. Only when Vietnam seemed headed toward disaster was there large-scale outspokenness on the networks by numerous top newsmen. It was needed commentary, and it was effective. Surely the crisis at home is as pressing.

But this is not a soothing age. Television can do enormously worthwhile things for whites and Negroes in dealing with them openly in prime time—in reality programming, and in needed confrontations. And what is also needed is less of the tweedy, middleaged, olympian approach, and more of the down-to-earth smell of flesh and blood—and maybe even sweat-of people who must learn to live together, or will surely sink together.

Predicting "Oscar" winners is as hazardous as venturing an opinion on a professional football game.

For no matter what the so-called "experts" claim, history proves that the "Oscar," coveted gold statuette awarded annually for artistic achievement by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, seldom runs true to form.

Honors bestowed upon "Broadway Melody," "The Great Ziegfeld," "An American in Paris," "Gigi," "West Side Story," "My Fair Lady" and "The Sound of Music" refute the claim that musicals never win awards, and the "Oscars" were presented to James Cagney ("Yankee Doodle Dandy"), Yul Brynner ("The King and I"), Rita Moreno and George Chakiris ("West Side Story"), Rex Harrison ("My Fair Lady") and Julie Andrews ("Mary Poppins") negate claims that performers in musicals are automatically eliminated from consideration.

The fact that westerns and mystery-suspense pictures, often said to be overlooked in the voting, have had their share of honors over the years proves that there are no set rules on which "Oscar" predictions can be based.

A western, "Cimarron," was voted the best picture of 1931, while no less than five actors have won awards for their performances in outdoor epics. There were two of them in the best performance by an actor category, Warner Baxter ("In Old Arizona") and Gary Cooper ("High Noon"), while Thomas Mitchell ("Stagecoach"), Walter Brennan ("The Westerner") and Burl Ives ("The Big Country") was supporting "Oscar."

Claudine Longet Is Gold Mine who Escaped Charlie

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — General Charles de Gaulle may be attempting to hoard the world's gold, but he allowed something even more precious to escape postwar France — Claudine Longet.

Claudine is an entirely feminine creature with long dark hair, luminous eyes, petite mannerisms, a childlike singing voice and a unique beauty. She is exquisite and married to singer Andy Williams and has two children, Noelle, 4, and Christian, 2.

Claudine fairly glows with the stuff of which stars are made, as one can see in her first movie, "The Party." When she is on screen one finds it difficult to watch Peter Sellers or anyone else.

Alpert Signed Her
Claudine's French accent, sparkles like vintage champagne when she speaks. "It was Andy's suggestion that I sign with A.M. Records," Claudine said. She was perched in an A.M. office (Herb Alpert's outfit) in the old Charlie Chaplin studio.

Barely Audible But... Alpert knew what he was doing. Since that day a year and a half ago Mrs. Williams has cut three albums for the company. The first, "Claudine," sold 450,000 copies. The second, "Look of Love," 300,000, and now there's a new one, "Love Is Blue."

Claudine's sound is hauntingly feminine, low key, sometimes barely audible but always sexy.

Some people insist that comedy is always ignored by Academy voters. The records prove, however, that five comedies have been named best picture: "It Happened One Night," "You Can't Take It With You," "Going My Way," "All About Eve" and "The Apartment."

What about comedy performances? Well, the list of winners is so long that it is almost impossible to name them all. Clark Gable, Marie Dressler, Loretta Young, James Stewart, Judy Holliday, Audrey Hepburn, Lee Marvin, Charles Coburn, Barry Fitzgerald, Edmund Gwenn, George Sanders, Josephine Hull, Jack Lemmon, Martin Balsam and Walter Matthau have been rewarded by Academy members for comedy performances.

From the above, it's obvious that the only rule that means anything is the one that says there are no rules you can depend on. And this is almost certain to be demonstrated again when the motion picture industry's most coveted awards are presented for the 40th time on Monday.

Bob Hope will emcee the exciting, star-studded program which will be presented in its entirety over ABC-TV, beginning at 5 p.m. CST.

Children Maturing Earlier Physically; No 'Responsibility' Gain, Group Says

By United Press International
Maturity is overtaking children at an earlier age now than when parents of 11 and 12-year-olds were growing up, but the phenomenon is not coupled with a corresponding increase in responsibility, several Texas specialists feel.

The situation is problematical, medical doctors say, because children are exposed to more and more freedom, but lack the controls of adulthood, particularly in matters of sex.

Dr. Lawrence E. Lundgren, a Houston obstetrician and gynecologist, said girls mature physically earlier now than 15 years ago, perhaps because of better nutrition. The physical development also is accompanied by magazines and movies that develop the intellect, but responsibility is not maturing, Dr. Lundgren said.

Go Steady Early
He also said 11 and 12-year-olds go steady now, a practice unheard of among their parents. Another doctor, Joseph Lucci, said a 10-year-old child knows more about the human body than he did at age 20. Lucci called it the "psychosexual" development in which dietary progress produces generations that successively get a little taller.

Dr. Renet Caillet of Dallas, a teen-age counselor and pediatrician, does not believe that children are necessarily more mature than they used to be. Dr. Caillet said children are given more leeway today than 35 years ago and to a "mild extent" are able to absorb more knowledge than they used to.

Problems Still There
Dr. Jean M. Matheson of Dallas said that whatever maturity children achieve earlier than they used to does not help them solve their problems. And Dr. Matheson noted that the "mark of maturity is solving problems."

"Girls and boys are maturing six to eight months earlier than they did 10 or 15 years ago but I don't think there is any great difference in the ages of maturity," Dr. Maurice Maynier, president-elect of the Harris County Medical Society, said.

"It has more to do with prenatal care, and good nourishment."

Sun, Sunray DX Merger Is Nearing

PHILADELPHIA — Sun Oil Company has reported that a favorable ruling by the Internal Revenue Service had cleared away another stipulation in the terms of the agreement to merge with Sunray DX Oil Company.

Earlier, the company received satisfactory indications that "pooling of interests" accounting treatment in giving effect to the merger on Sun's books would be permitted.

Also, steps have been taken to list on the New York Stock Exchange the new convertible preferred stock to be exchanged on a one-for-one basis for outstanding shares of Sunray DX common stock. A spokesman said the company had every reason to expect that the listing would be approved.

Qualified nurses will be in charge of the project and students will be typed during their study hall hours. A fee of 25 cents will be charged to cover the costs involved and in exchange persons will receive a durable card relating not only the individual's name and blood type, but also the date and RH factor.

"Since this is the first time for this activity the cooperation of the students is needed," said Mike Hawpe, science club president.

Ex-Pampan To Receive Doctorate

Mrs. Mary Lynn Miller Johnson, honor graduate from Pampan High School in 1955, will receive her Ph. D. degree in Fuel Science from Penn State in June. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Ray Miller, former Pampan, now living in Wheeler.

In addition to completing the requirements for doctorate she has been doing research in fuel combustion for the Ethyl Corporation of America on campus since last Sept.

Mrs. Miller's husband, James J. Johnson Jr. of Midland, received his doctorate in Art Education from Penn State last June and has been doing research on campus correlating the aesthetic value of art in relation to air pollution.

Mrs. Johnson presented a paper at the Atlantic regional meeting of the American Chemical Society in Philadelphia recently.

The paper, co-authored with Dr. Robert Essenhig of the fuel science section at Penn State, was entitled "Carbon Oxides Conversion in the Afterburning Region of a Hydrocarbon Flame at Atmospheric Pressure."

Mrs. Johnson holds a fellowship in air pollution studies and has been conducting research in the Combustion Laboratory under the direction of Dr. Essenhig.

Choir Featured In Conference Of Mormon Church

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—The acclaimed Salt Lake Mormon Tabernacle Choir, anticipating a 1968 concert tour to Texas and Mexico, will be featured on television and radio during Annual World Conference of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints April 5, 6 and 7.

Conference sessions will be carried through the facilities of Bonneville International Corporation, over an expanded coast-to-coast network of more than 200 radio and television stations. The programs in Salt Lake City will be carried by KSL radio and KSL-TV. The 100-year-old Tabernacle on Temple Square in downtown Salt Lake City will be site of the 138th annual convocation.

The 121-year-old Choir has given concerts across the United States and Europe. Last year the 375-member group under the direction of Richard P. Condie appeared at the Canadian Expo '67 and in Omaha, Detroit, Boston, Saratoga Springs and Chautauqua, New York; and Tulsa. The 1968 tour will include stops at Dallas on July 22, HemisFair '68 in San Antonio July 23, 24, and Mexico City July 25 and 26.

Organists are Alexander Schreiner, Robert Cundick and Roy M. Darley.

PIE IN THE SKY? There's something to the irreverent nickname of the statue symbolizing the new Rotterdam, risen from the ashes of World War II. Things have never been better for those who live and work in the world's largest port.

Selective Service Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE: Below are questions now being asked at draft boards. The answers are by Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, State Selective Service Director, 209 W. 9th St., Austin, Texas 78701. He will welcome your questions.

Q—Can a person be deferred from service for a traffic violation?

A—A record of traffic violation has nothing to do with deferment. A man could be rejected for service by the Department of Defense if the offense were serious enough. A man is not required in his classification questionnaire to list convictions for minor traffic violations.

Q—Suppose a man turns in his draft card, then has a change of heart, and wants to enlist. What does he have to do?

A—A person does not necessarily have to have a "draft card" to enlist, but his failure to have in his possession his "draft card" (either his Registration Certificate, or his current Notice of Classification) is a violation of the law. Any man who has abandoned either of these and wants them back should request his local board to return or replace them.

Q—May a person classified in Class I-Y try to enlist in the National Guard?

A—Yes. It's possible he may be found acceptable by the National Guard, but not likely.

Q—I entered law school in the fall of 1967. I've been told the draft board can only give me this one year of deferment. Is that right?

A—Yes. A student entering training in this profession for his first year in the fall of 1967 can only be allowed one year under present regulations.
