Manufactures Hydraulic Equipment

Firm Planning Expansion Here

An expansion program is in the books, some of it to be centered in Pampa, by the Harnischfeger Corp. of Milwaukee, Wis., a sub-contractor of the Cabot Corp. Machinery Division.

James A. Mezera, vice president of construction and mining for Harnischfeger, told an audience at the April membership luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce in Coronado Inn Tuesday noon that his company, which has been operating here with Cabot for four years, is fast moving into the hydraulic equipment area and is expecting to take rapid steps forward within the next two years.

Mezera stated the manufacture of the hydraulic equipment, a replacement for mechanical devices, so far has been chiefly centered at the Pampa plant, although the company has other operations in the United States and in 11 foreign countries.

In an illustrated lecture, Mezera explained the company's operations world-wide and locally and many of the products it manufactures, including electric motors, panels, welding equipment, overhead cranes, hydraulic equipment, backhoe and other industrial equipment.

He said the company presently is manufacturing in the Pampa plant two models of backhoe equipment and two of truck cranes.

The company's expansion program calls for ten new hydraulic models to be introduced within the next two years, Mezera said a projection calls for increasing its sales of hydraulic equipment to $29-million in 1971. It was $2.3-million in 1966.

Presently the company's main production at the Pampa plant is the backhoe excavation digger.

Mezera was introduced to the luncheon group by Henry Donohue, general manager of the Cabot Machinery Division here.

Charles V. Hill, Pampa's new city manager effective May 1, was introduced by Mayor Jim Nation.

Jim White, present city manager who has resigned effective May 1, and his wife Sylvia, were honored. Mrs. White was presented a bouquet of roses, and White was given a plaque of appreciation for his services as city manager for the last three years. The presentations were made by Fred Thompson, chairman of the chamber's highway committee. White also was made an honorary Top O' Texan with a certificate presented by chamber president Harold Barrett, who presided at the meeting.

Congressman Bob Price was introduced and spoke briefly.

Marines In 'Heaviest' Single Loss

By JACK WALSH
SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. Marines suffered their heaviest single loss of the Khe Sanh campaign Tuesday—89 men killed, wounded and missing—when a patrol ran into a heavily entrenched North Vietnamese unit in the mountains four miles to the southwest, a spokesman said today.

"We attacked, we lost, but we lost only as much as they did," the spokesman said.

The renewed ground fighting came as U.S. B52 bombers struck the main Communist supply route into South Vietnam with one of the heavier raids of the war—1.8 million pounds of bombs on the A Shau Valley just below the Khe Sanh area, a (See MARINES, Page 3)

Five Die In Prison Riot

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI)—Guards on rooftops fired shotguns into 400 rioting convicts in a courtyard of North Carolina's Central Prison today, killing five prisoners and wounding 78 more.

Other guards fought hand-to-hand battles with the convicts, who were hurling torches and homemade spears at the officers.

Eight extra doctors were rushed to the prison hospital at dawn, after guards on roofs and walls unleashed the deadly crossfire. Authorities said some of the wounded convicts were in serious condition.

Public Hearing On Paving Slated

A special meeting of the Pampa City Commission has been called for 9 a.m. Friday to conduct a public hearing on the city's 1968 street improvement program.

Approximately 75 to 80 blocks in the city's residential areas are included in the proposed $500,000 summer paving project.

Friday's hearing will provide an opportunity for persons owning property on the streets to be paved to be heard from concerning the program and to ask questions.

'Why Don't They Just Make Us The 51st State' Say Britons

N. Vietnamese Have 15,000 Troops Near Hue; New Attack Anticipated

PHU BAI, South Vietnam (UPI)—U.S. intelligence officials said today the North Vietnamese have 15,000 troops in the Hue-Phu Bai area who could launch another major attack against Hue at any time.

But the officers expressed confidence any new Communist offensive could be thwarted.

"We've got a lot more troops in this area now so let them try it," a spokesman for the Army's 101st Airborne Division said. "We'd welcome this fight."

Hue, the former imperial capital of Vietnam, was the scene of the most bitter fighting of the Communist Tet offensive in February. Since then, allied troops strength in the area has been greatly increased. Wedged in a tight ring around Hue are troops of the airborne division, the 1st Marine Division, the 5th Marine Division and the 1st South Vietnamese Division.

Intelligence officers estimate there are more than 15,000 main force Communist troops in the

Four Are Found Dead Near Del Rio

DEL RIO, Tex. (UPI)—A man, two women and a baby were found stabbed and beaten to death today north of here. Two other children were found alive. Law officers set up roadblocks for a suspect in the killing.

The Val Verde County sheriff's office at Del Rio said the bodies were discovered strewn over a pasture near a lonely road at the entrance to the Whitehead ranch about 58 miles north of Del Rio shortly before 8 a.m.

One of the surviving children was taken to a hospital at Del Rio and the other to Sonora, Ariz.

At the Val Verde Hospital at Del Rio, nursing director Mrs. Marjorie Baker said the child brought there was a Mexican-American boy about 4 to 5 years old. No diagnosis or condition was immediately known.

At the Sonora hospital, officials said a child 1 to 2 years old was brought in about 9:30 a.m. in critical condition. But authorities said they were not sure this was the same child found at the scene of the multiple deaths.

Law officers from the Department of Public Safety and three counties—Val Verde, Sutton and Edwards—converged on the scene after the discovery was made about 8 a.m.

At Austin, a DPS spokesman said:

"All we have is that there is apparently a mass murder. Two females and one male and one very young child around two years old."

"They are scattered over an area of two miles, south of Sonora some 32 miles, generally alongside the highway."

"Apparently it happened some time last night. Some of them had stab wounds and some beating signs."

Officers said the site was about 32 miles north of the scene.

McNAMARA TESTIFIED THAT Repetition Of 'Pueblo' Incident Is Possible

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Robert S. McNamara told Congress a week after North Koreans seized the USS Pueblo that there was no practical way to prevent another such incident.

In secret testimony given Feb. 1 and made public Tuesday, McNamara, then secretary of defense, suggested the United States must be ready to take the risks and bear the consequences if it wants to keep getting the important intelligence gathered in such mission.

"We do not have the means today of preventing a recurrence of this kind of incident in many of the situations in which we find it necessary and to our advantage to carry on similar collection efforts," McNamara told the Senate Armed Services Committee.

McNamara agreed with a suggestion from some committee members that the United States should "point out to the U.S. embassy last August his actions in the city of Chuguyev, which were incompatible with his diplomatic status," it said.

Izvestia said Jacobson and Matson boarded a bus in Borisov and ignored the driver's announcement that the bus was entering a military area closed to anyone without a proper pass.

The bus drove into the army camp, it said. When the guard demanded their passes, it said, Matson and Jacobson instead took out notebooks—"after persistent demands"—which contained "notes of an intelligence character." One note had been made just before the bus reached the camp, it said.

Izvestia said Matson and Jacobson claimed they got on the bus by mistake, that they did not speak Russian and that the bus driver had not announced the closed area.

The newspaper brushed off this aside as a "pretext... to stall for time."

On Handling Of Mass Urban Violence Some Agree, Some Disagree With Daley

By RON YOUNGBLOOD
CHICAGO (UPI)—Mayor Richard J. Daley's order to have looters and arsonists shot on sight today fanned the national controversy raging over how to handle mass urban violence.

The order was greeted with condemnation and no comment. Guard commanders tended to some support was evident in a random sampling conducted by United Press International.

Mayors of the nation's largest cities, many of them communities hit by riots and racial disorders in recent years and months, for the most part played it close to the vest. Police officials and National Guard commanders tended to some support was evident in a

Strike Ends In Memphis

By JAMES EVANS
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—City sanitation department officials said a "high percentage" of the 1,300 predominantly Negro garbage collectors returned to their jobs today, ending a 10-week-old strike that led to the death of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

"It'll take us a month to get the city as clean as we had it," said supervisor Charles Woodall.

A "memorandum of agreement" hammered out by negotiators for the city and the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, was approved by both the striking workers and city council within hours Tuesday.

The negotiating teams, working under the guidance of Undersecretary of Labor James Reynolds and former federal mediator Frank B. Miles, included Mayor Henry Loeb and Jerry Wurf, president of the international union.

The pact, covering a period of 14 months, provided a form of recognition for local Union 1733 as representative of laborers, truck drivers and crew chiefs in the sanitation department.

'Intelligence' Attempt Near Base Is Cited

MOSCOW (UPI)—Five American military attaches have been caught trying to gather intelligence data near a Soviet army camp and shipyard, the government newspaper Izvestia said tonight.

A tall Royal Canadian Air Force attache also was caught acting as a lookout for the Americans at the shipyard in Leningrad, Izvestia said.

The Canadian embassy received an official protest from the Soviet Ministry today and it was believed a similar protest went to the U.S. Embassy. A Canadian spokesman called the charge "unfounded."

Izvestia said Lt. Col. Gerhard L. Jacobson and Lt. Col. Hugo Matson, both assistant Army attaches at the U.S. embassy, were stopped April 9 while trying to ride a bus into an army camp near Borisov, in Byelorussia. Soviet guards who questioned them found "notes of an intelligence character" in their pockets, it said.

The previous day, it said, guards at the Leningrad shipyard caught Lt. Col. Wayne E. Richards, Cmdr. Robert R. Haner and Lt. Cmdr. Ralph N. Channell, all assistant naval attaches, and Wing Cmdr. J. V. Watson, an air force attache at the Canadian embassy.

Jacobson, it said, had been the subject of an earlier protest. The foreign ministry "pointed out to the U.S. embassy last August his actions in the city of Chuguyev, which were incompatible with his diplomatic status," it said.

Izvestia said Jacobson and Matson boarded a bus in Borisov and ignored the driver's announcement that the bus was entering a military area closed to anyone without a proper pass.

Elderly Patients Rescued After Oklahoma Storm

GUTHRIE, Okla. (UPI)—A tornado ripped off the roof and caved in a wall at a nursing home in this old Oklahoma territorial town Tuesday night. Five of the 83 elderly patients suffered minor injuries.

"I just don't know how we got all of those people out without having someone killed or some serious injuries," said Charles Woody, owner of the home.

Only two of the 83 patients—all past 65—were hospitalized overnight for observation. They were expected to be released today.

Three others were treated. All 81 were shifted to four other nursing homes around the city.

Woody said every room in the 90-bed, frame building was "loose up" when the tornado struck without warning, tearing down power lines, breaking water pipes and shattering gas lines.

"Most of the patients were settled in last night," said James S. Petty, one of more than a dozen physicians who helped treat the injured. "They were wet, cold and in shock when we arrived, but otherwise they suffered only minor cuts and bruises."

Woody said it was the first tornado ever to dip down in Guthrie, about 40 miles north of Oklahoma City. The town was the territorial capitol and Oklahoma's state capitol until 1910.

School Board To Meet On 'Problems'

Pampa school trustees will meet at 7 p.m. today at Pampa Junior High School to discuss juvenile problems with city and county officials and Cameron Marsh, Pampa High School principal.

Officials attending the open meeting will be County Judge S. R. Lenning Jr., Police Chief Jim Conner, County Juvenile Officer Bill Leonard, and Marsh.

After the open meeting on possible juvenile problems and cooperative solutions, the board will go into an executive session with Dr. Kenneth Laycock, of West Texas State University, to consider applications for the job of Pampa's school superintendent.

Dr. Laycock, dean of teacher education at WTSU, was employed by the board to assist in screening applicants. The board is expected to consider 30 applicants.

Unnamed Americans Buy London Bridge

LONDON (UPI)—First it was the Queen Mary. Then the Queen Elizabeth. Now, mates, the Yanks 'ave bought the bleeding London Bridge itself.

The City of London said Tuesday the 136-year-old successor to the original "London Bridge is falling-down" was sold to a group of unnamed Americans who will move it to an unannounced site in the United States.

Britons shook their heads in dismay.

"Why don't the Americans just make us the 51st state and that way they can have the whole lot without having to haul it across the Atlantic," said one Londoner.

In recent years they watched the "brain drain" of top scientists and saw pubs, Beatles, miniskirts and double decker buses shipped off to prosper in America.

Britain's proudest ocean liners, the Queens Mary and Elizabeth, went to U.S. entrepreneurs in Long Beach, Calif., and Philadelphia who will make them into hotels.

The announcement Tuesday did not mention a price or give any hint of who the purchasers were. Officials said details would be announced Thursday in London and New York.

The 130,000-ton bridge is, in truth, falling down.

More precisely it is sinking at the rate of eight inches a year into the muddy bottom of the River Thames and engineers could not stop it.

London's solution was to sell the span's 10,000 tons of outer blocks on the condition it be kept intact and not parceled out as souvenirs. Officials said they had 40 serious offers including the successful U.S. bid.

The bridge will be replaced in London with a wider structure to handle busy traffic.

Daley's "Get-tough" stand. Daley himself said his "shoot-to-kill" order was "misunderstood and blown out of proportion." He told a meeting of railway executives Tuesday night the "shoot-to-kill" order referred only to obvious arsonists.

In Obvious Cases

"If they are burning the building down they should be shot," Daley also ordered police to "shoot to maim or cripple" looters when they were spotted.

New York's Mayor John V. Lindsay was most outspoken in criticizing the Daley order.

"In times of trouble we're going to respect human life. We're not going to turn disorder into chaos. In short, we're not going to shoot children in New York City."

Lindsay, vice chairman of the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, cited the commission's report which cautioned against "over-re-sponding" to urban disorders.

Detroit Mayor Jerome P.

Cavanagh, whose city was disrupted by urban violence last year in which 43 persons were killed, said police should use "what force is necessary—hopefully, minimum force—to apprehend that person."

No Blanket Rule

"People caught in the act of arson are felons and are apprehended (in Detroit) pursuant to the law. But to make a blanket statement that you are going to fire into crowds of looters or crowds of arsonists, is a very difficult and impossible thing to say or to do and I don't intend to say it or do it."

At the same time Daley's orders were issued last Monday, Chicago Police Supt. James Conlisk Jr. reminded officers they would need authorization from police officials of captain or higher rank to fire at crowds.

Mayor Joseph Barr of Pittsburgh, Pa., said police restraint kept damages and injuries "to a minimum" during recent disorders in his city.

"We had no deaths. To my knowledge only one person was shot by police. Our experience seems to fly in the face of Mayor Daley's position."

He said Pittsburgh police had "the option to shoot" but "because police kept cool and used restraint we were able to keep damage and injuries to a minimum."

In the nation's capital, Gilbert Gimble, a spokesman for Mayor Walter Washington, said "The police are asked to use their good judgment and not to be indiscriminately shooting people."

He said the 1954 police regulation proved adequate during riots in Washington. "Basically, it says the police service revolver should never be used because of a suspicion of a serious crime but only when the gravity of the situation would justify death or serious injury. And that means we're not shooting kids who are stealing some shoes out of a store window."

HERE ARE THE CONVICTIONS

THAT LED TO

OUR BELIEF IN A UNIVERSAL SINGLE STANDARD OF RIGHT

Open To Challenge

Before stating our belief in a universal single standard of right we want to make it clear that we invite questions on this belief. And, if we cannot answer without evasion or contradictions, we are not worthy of your confidence and will admit our error and change our belief.

Want Information

We believe that most of our political trouble comes from putting confidence in persons who continue to advocate government economic planning even though they can neither rationally answer questions about what they advocate, nor find anyone who can.

We know of no better way to learn and develop, and thus be able to be useful, than have our convictions questioned either privately or publicly.

The Pampa Daily News believes in a system of universal natural law.

It is our belief that every fact of existence—if it is a fact—is immutable, irrevocable and eternal.

That is — we believe that moral facts are no less concrete and timeless than physical facts. The law of gravity does not change with seasons; atomic behavior is not subject to the good intentions of man. For physical facts are not capable of change; else they would not be facts.

And so we believe it is with moral facts, which stem from the same source as physical laws.

Let's take two facts, one physical and one moral.

1. Water seeks its level.
2. Stealing is wrong.

It is commonly accepted that the first fact is not subject to amendment. A change in political administration, a vote of the people, a petition of the Society of Learned Mathematicians of the World cannot change it. It exists as a fact.

The second law, we believe, is no more subject to amendment than the first. The majority might wink at it, try to reconcile it with some base or unsound conviction. But that does not affect the law — only the people who must live by it. Jumping out of a five-story building to flout the law of gravity will hardly bring about a suspension of that law. Neither will disregarding moral law bring about its abolition.

Guide To Morality

Now, we have outlined our convictions in fundamental moral law, or fact.

Next, it is incumbent upon us to state a single universal law or fact as we believe it:

Persons, groups and governments ought not threaten to initiate force or use it to attain their ends. This would certainly mean, Thou shalt not steal individually or collectively. If no person or group stole, there would be no murder, no false witness, no adultery.

To express the belief positively, all individuals or groups should get what they get in a manner that would be profitable to all. Then all would respect the private property of others 100%. That would be true liberty and voluntarism.

That is our interpretation of the Declaration of Independence. This is the universal single standard of right we use as our measuring device of morality — a yardstick of ethics.

Thus we believe:

1. That every man is born with equal unalienable rights to take moral action to make more secure his property which includes first his life, then his liberty and all he produces.
2. That these rights are the endowment of the Creator and not the gift of any government.

Since we believe these facts are expressed in this guide of human conduct, we do not believe any man has the moral right to curtail the rights of his brother. That is, no man has the right to initiate force against his brother. Every man, to be sure, has the right to resist the initiation of force, but should not initiate it.

In all of recorded history, men have banded together for certain reasons — to hunt, to play, to trade, to build. In a voluntary association, such as the one that publishes this newspaper, each man exercises his rights through the group. BUT, simply because each man is the member of a group, he cannot morally assume rights he did not possess as an individual. And, neither does the group possess rights which the individuals in that group do not possess as individuals.

An example—John Doe is a shoe salesman. He does not have a right to sell shoes at gunpoint. Even, if 10,000 John Does in the shoe business form an organization, that organization does not have the right to sell shoes at gunpoint.

Rights and morality are individual matters. These moral laws do not make exceptions for groups. They do not say, "Thou shalt not steal except at the desire of the majority." They say, "Thou shalt not steal." Period. And a man's association with a group does not relieve him of the burden of these laws.

We believe, therefore, in a single standard of conduct. Thomas Jefferson stated the matter. He wrote: "I know of but one code of morality, whether it be for men or for nations."

Immanuel Kant, another great student of morals, in his "Metaphysics of Morals" wrote: "... I ask myself only: Can I will that my maxim become a universal law?"

Single Standard of Conduct

Our belief in a single standard of conduct, and in the existence of individual rights, and in the fact of universal natural law, brings us to oppose all things in which an individual or group seeks to initiate force — that is, curtail the rights of any other individual or group.

We must oppose each brand of socialism, whether it is called Communism, Fascism, Fabian Socialism, New Dealism or New Frontiersism.

We oppose socialism in factories, schools, churches and in the market place.

We do not believe there is any such animal as "good political socialism," either on a local, national or international scale. We do not believe in initiating force for any reason, even though the cause is a "good" one.

We believe it is violating the rights of the individual to force him to support a school, church, industry, business or profession if he does not choose to do so.

Two men out of a hundred have no moral right to force the 98 to support a school or church. Neither do the 98 have the moral right to force the remaining two men to support that school or church.

If that belief is contrary to the above standards we want to be convinced. Repeatedly we have offered as much as $1,000 to prominent persons who advocate using collective initiated force to examine publicly the morality of using such force where each person would agree to answer questions as he would before a court. We earnestly seek to be shown any errors in our reasoning.

If six, 26 or 6,000,000 individuals voluntarily get together to establish a church, school, business or club—and if those people do not curtail the rights of anyone inside or outside their own group — we have no argument with them.

The majority cannot write moral law. Neither can the minority. But, neither does the majority enjoy any moral advantages denied the minority, or the individual.

We believe, therefore, in a voluntary supported government. The state, at best, exercises those powers which the individuals in that state voluntarily have turned over to the state for administration. An example: We prefer a private police force because we'd rather support a police force than wear a gun. But if some do not want to support a police force, they should not be forced to do so. Nor should they receive its services. The police force should have no powers denied any individual, and neither should the existence of a police force abridge the right of any citizen to defend himself.

We do not believe the state has any rights simply because it is a state.

Governments should exist only to try to protect the rights of EVERY individual — not to redistribute the property, manipulate the economy or establish the pattern of a society.

These are the basic elements in our belief and of our editorial convictions.

Regrettably, we do not always follow this principle. We fall into error. Our humility perhaps, is not sufficient to the effort. But it is our belief to the degree a universal single standard of right is followed you will have a deeper understanding of your religion, greater freedom and security and more happiness and a higher standard of living. This belief will also benefit every person in the community, the state, the nation and the world. That is the reason it is our belief.

SALUTE TO RECRUITER — Another award for Sgt. IC Bill Blackburn, Pampa Recruiter, is presented by Sgt. Charles Grona of the Amarillo Main Recruiting Station. Blackburn is one of 40 Army recruiters who have been honored in the Fourth Army area (Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and New Mexico) in the Commander's "500 Club" for enlisting 534 men into the service of the country.

Local Recruiter Is Cited For Work Here

The top U.S. Army recruiter in a five-state area, who has been in Pampa since 1962, has added another feather to the plummage in his cap with an award for outstanding service presented yesterday.

The man is Sgt. IC Bill Blackburn, who received his award along with two others yesterday from Sgt. Major Charles Grona of the Amarillo Main Recruiting Station.

Blackburn, who is bound for Vietnam in July; is one of only 40 recruiters who have ever made the Commander's "500 Club," which means that Blackburn has enlisted 500 men in the Pampa area since his arrival in 1962.

It is unusual for a recruiter to stay for more than two or three years in one area, but Blackburn has and evidently has pleased the commander, because he has a stake of awards for his work here.

A personable young man, Blackburn spoke modestly of his achievements yesterday at presentation ceremonies at the Recruiting Office in Pampa. He was the top recruiter in the Fourth Army area, which takes in all of Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas and New Mexico, for the year of 1967. During one month in 1965 Blackburn enlisted 33 men into the service of the country.

Blackburn has enlisted 534 men and expects to have 540 by the time of his departure from Pampa next Monday.

The 34-year-old veteran will be going to Ft. Rucker, Ala., for training as an automatic controller and then will be sent to Bien Hoa, Vietnam, for a tour of duty in one of the most active areas of the war zone. Bien Hoa is 11 miles from Saigon. He will be first-headquarters company of the First Aviation Brigade at Bien Hoa.

Sgt. Blackburn's wife, Charlene, and two sons, Scott, nine, and Neal, 11, will remain here while he is in Vietnam for the 12 months stay. Mrs. Blackburn is employed at Cabot.

Survivors include one brother, Dee Lard, Taft; three sisters, Mrs. Altha Tolbert, Miami; Mrs. Bonnie Maulsby, Truth or Consequences, N.M.; and Mrs. Ina Crowe, Wembery.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday at First Christian Church of Miami with Rev. Thurman Boswell, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Miami Cemetery directed by Carmichael-Whalley Funeral Directors.

Ballbearers will be Elmo Gill, Jim Philpott, Rusty Fitzgerald, Cecil Fitzgerald, Frand Talley and Joe Cunningham.

A spokesman said 19 Marines were killed and 56 were wounded when the patrol ran into a heavily-fortified Communist complex southwest of Khe Sanh in the jungled mountains above the recaptured outpost of Lang Vei. Another 14 Leathernecks were missing.

Pickup 2nd pgh: The eight eight-engine bombers flew 10 missions in the massive raid, hitting at least five Communist troop concentrations in the jungle valley 375 miles north of Saigon, the American spokesman said.

The planes also struck eight weapons bases including an anti-aircraft battery the Communists erected to defend the flow of men and arms from North Vietnam.

Man Indicted In Strangulation Of Pampan's Sister

LUBBOCK (Sp.) — Cecil Carl Thraikill, 46, of 2303 Ave. H, Lubbock, was indicted in the March 18th strangulation slaying of Miss Carryle Shelton, 69, at a local motor court.

The indictment was one of 41 cases considered by the 99th District Court Grand Jury here yesterday. The jury returned 36 true-bills.

Miss Shelton's body was found about 11:30 a.m. March 18th, lying partially across a bed in her room. Thraikill reportedly lived at the same motel for several months.

Police said pieces of a towel which had been ripped apart and knotted to a gas pipe were found in the room. Another portion of the towel was found by police on the bed beside the victim.

Miss Shelton was the sister of J. G. Shelton, 1108 Terrace, Pampa.

"Almost surely we will need to supply additional military assistance to South Korea, to build up her strength vis-a-vis North Korea," he said.

The comments took on special significance in the light of President Johnson's meeting today in Honolulu with South Korean President Park Chung Hee.

McNamara said the Pueblo was scouting North Korean radar defenses by cruising the coastline, outside the 12-mile territorial limit. Censored testimony indicated that the mission had been requested by field commanders and had been reviewed and approved by McNamara and other top strategists here.

'Clean-Up Drive' Discussed Here

Representatives of the city and the Chamber of Commerce's fire prevention and safety committee met today to discuss the annual Spring paint-up, clean-up and fix-up campaign.

Conclusion Of Testimony In Case Expected

Testimony is expected to conclude today in the civil case of Texas Pipeline Co., Inc. vs. Shaw Tank Cleaning Co., Inc. Texas Pipeline Co. filed the suit in 1961, alleging that Shaw Tank Cleaning Company's negligence resulted in a fire and explosion which destroyed a crude oil storage tank near LeFors. The pipeline company has asked for $91,631 in damages.

Three criminal cases on the docket for the current court session are expected to get underway tomorrow.

The criminal cases to be heard are Jim Lee Bradshaw and Homer E. Beard, each indicted on four counts of burglary, and Thomas J. Malone, indicted for theft by false pretext.

Judge Grainger W. McIlhenny is presiding.

10-Year Sentence Assessed Pampan

Editor's Note: The following story was scheduled to appear in the Sunday edition of the Pampa News but was inadvertently lost.

Jackey Lee Mears, 18, of Pampa, was given a 10-year sentence in the state penitentiary Friday in 31st Judicial District Court on a charge of fondling.

Judge Grainger W. McIlhenny sentenced Mears after he pleaded guilty and waived his rights to a trial by jury.

He was charged with the assault of a five-year-old girl on Feb. 18.

Candidate For Congress Charges Lack Of Aggressive Representation

Dick Brown, Democratic candidate for 18th District congressman, charged here last night that "the district does not have an aggressive representative to fight for the Panhandle."

Brown, speaking at a meeting of the Gray County Democratic Club in Coronado Inn, criticized what he called a "lack of positive thinking in Congress."

He cited as an example the reduction in freight rates in South Texas which drastically affected the Panhandle area. "If someone had stood up in Congress and taken a strong stand for the Panhandle's rights and privileges, it could have been prevented," Brown said.

The candidate from Hartley also touched on the Columbia River water project for which he said former congressman Walter Rogers worked so hard for many years to have the Panhandle included.

"Texas has been dropped from the project simply because we do not now have an aggressive representative to fight for the Panhandle," Brown said.

Methodists Set Layman Banquet

The Pampa District of the Methodist Church will have a Layman's Banquet at 7 p.m. today in Fellowship Hall of First Methodist Church here.

Don Lane, district lay leader, said the guest speaker for the banquet will be Dr. Alsie Carleton of the Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, and special music will be presented by Fred Watkins, director of music and education at First Methodist in Pampa.

Lane said laymen will be coming from approximately 32 churches which make-up the Pampa District.

Gem, Mineral Society To Have Show

The Canadian River Gem & Mineral Society will hold its 8th Annual Rock Show April 27 and 28 at the National Guard Armory in Pampa.

There will be special exhibits consisting of polished clocks, alabaster carvings, spheres, and agatized dinosaur bones. There also will be a fluorescent display. Exhibits from Kansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, and Texas will consist of hand-crafted jewelry, gemstone carvings, minerals, artifacts, and cut and polished gemstones.

Dealers at the show will display a variety of gemstone materials, sea shells, jewelry, equipment, books, and lapidary supplies.

A door prize will be given each hour on both days of the show. Prizes were made by club members. On Sunday evening a grand prize will be given and it is not necessary to be present to win the grand prize, — a set of bookends of polished petrified wood.

An illustrated slide show on the history of Alibates Quarry will be presented by a club member. The slides are a part of the Texas Federation Mineral Society program library.

A rock hunt is scheduled from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., Sunday April 28 in the Plum Creek area.

There will be exhibits of cutting, grinding, polishing, fac-

Television In Review Televised Basketball

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The recently televised Houston-UCLA basketball game drew such a substantial audience that it inspired heated bidding for future video rights to the NCAA championship tournament.

With the networks heretofore generally minimizing the great popularity of college basketball around the nation, and overlooking the superior quality of modern players, the sport had been given second-class treatment.

Shrewdly, Sports Network Inc. had grabbed off the rights to the tournament and scored a coup by syndicating the classic UCLA-Houston rematch that featured Lew Alcindor against Elvin Hayes.

The major networks finally got the message after the big publicity that attended the contest. And, in fact, even though there are only three major networks—ABC, CBS and NBC—there were seven bidders recently for the future rights to the NCAA tournament.

The winning bid, a little over $1 million, was submitted by NBC-TV, which will broadcast the tournament for the next two years. Network recognition of college basketball's popularity is long overdue. Actually, CBS-TV has been broadcasting the National Invitation Tournament. But particularly in recent years, the NCAA playoffs have come to be recognized as the closest thing to determining a true national champion.

The only surprising thing in the latest bidding, at least to this viewer, is that a network didn't have the push to try to schedule a weekly, nationally-televised college basketball game, the way it's done with college football. No one is claiming audience size would be comparable, but there are many persons who would be interested in watching, and television has a remarkable way of promoting a sport with potential.

According to Carl Lindemann Jr., vice president, NEC sports NBC-TV will broadcast four rounds of the tournament next March—including afternoon doubleheaders on three Saturdays, and a semifinal round that will be televised on a Thursday night in prime time.

It's a start, anyway.

Washington Window

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Backstairs at the White House: As the contest for the presidency warms up, this might be an appropriate time to examine what it is—a $150,000 job with some interesting prerequisites, a lonely man-crusher or an honor that makes the troubles more than worthwhile?

Without attempting all-wise answers, it is possible to point out several myths. One has to do with the presidency being a lonely job.

The presidency is about as lonely as a state fair on Saturday night with free fireworks. In fact, the non-lonely nature of the job may be one of its principal drawbacks.

A President is seldom alone. Much more often than not, there are guests for lunch, guests for dinner.

Sole Responsibility
What is lonely about the job involves the solitary nature of responsibility for final decisions. This truly is what presidents are talking about when they speak mournfully of their lonely position.

While the responsibilities are incredibly heavy and working hours terribly long, many Americans forget that a modern president is relieved of many tedious chores which annoy and tire ordinary citizens.

Also, there are certain aspects of presidential life which are not shared by any millionaire.

As for everyday tedium, a president has us all beat. He never has to worry about carrying a wallet, keys, charge plates, credit cards or loose cash.

He never goes to places where he would have to pay his way. He needs no identification cards, not even a passport, when he travels abroad.

All he has to do about taxes is sign his return, which is prepared by others. He never has to look at his checkbook if he lacks the time or inclination. This is kept up-to-date for him by a personal staff.

It is estimated that about 400,000 new settlers cross California's borders each year.

Parental Thoughts Are Turning Toward Children's Summer Camps

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI)—By the time the first crocus croaks, parental thoughts bend toward summer camps—including those specializing in fat, thin, athletic, scientific, musical and you-name-it children.

What this era needs, however, is specialized camps for parents.

To keep in step with structured society, camps for parents must have a major. You minor in everything from apple-bobbing to yo-yo and yoga, but you select your camp especially for its therapeutic specialty. Samples of camps for parents:

—Overbearing Parent Ridge. Reachable only by slow snowshoe, this camp features nearest thing to solitary confinement, spiced with great discussions about merits of holding one's tongue. Elective, with no credit: Graduate courses in Silence One and Silence Two.

—Permissive Parent Ranch. Camp is structured to encourage parents to make decisions and give orders. Debates on this topic: Children don't always know what's best. Discussions on experience-proved truth in child-raising arena, starting with "spare the rod and . . ."

—Camp Hair-Turning-to-Silver. This is full of peace and quiet, interrupted by oratorical contests on this topic: "Is it really true that when your hair starts to whiten, you're running up the white flag strand by strand?"

—Camp for Parents of Demanding Children. This camp is famous for therapeutic sitting-still exercises, followed by contemplation of merits of 11-month school year and how to achieve it the nonviolent way.

—Camps for Parents who Also are Teachers. Slumber Notch, 500 miles from nearest child. That claim is accompanied by money back guarantee. Get there only on muleback. For emergency exit, arrangements can be made to fly out to nearest children's camp 1,000 miles away.

—Communications Gap Camp. Courses center on the gentle art of listening; the lost art of conversation when the television's off; methodology of making time to listen while child one practices drums, cat chases dog, child two practices debate speech, child three rants about ravings of latest rock group, and child four tells you you're wanted on phone.

CHALICE STOLEN
ABERDEEN, Scotland (UPI)—Thieves broke into the 15th Century St. Machar's Cathedral and stole the Darnig Chalice, one of the "treasures of Scotland," police said today.

The thieves also made off with a variety of other silver articles. The chalice dated back to 1620.

LEGION BOMBED
PARIS (UPI)—A bomb exploded early today in the front door of the Paris headquarters of the American Legion. The blast broke glass in the door but no injuries were reported. Police said the time-bomb had apparently been placed before the office closed Monday night.

GIRLS DRAFTED
TEHRAN, Iran (UPI)—All unmarried Iranian girls under 30 would be required to perform a "national service" for two years under a conscription law before parliament today. The service would involve teaching and medical work.

—Camp for Parents of Embryonic Musicians: Practice in wearing ear plugs.

—Camps for Parents of Overly Active Children. This is open only to those a split-hair away from a nervous breakdown. The schedule: Hammock One and Two, mornings; contemplating a snail, afternoons; practice in getting lizards and frogs out of one's bed before getting in, evenings.

Groom Slates 'Appreciation Day' For Pioneer Osteopath, Dr. John Witt

GROOM (Sp) — Appreciation day for Dr. John L. Witt of Groom now has a thirty-two bed hospital built with Hill-Burton funds and donations from citizens of the area. Dr. Witt has been joined by Drs. Robert E. Clayton, Richard M. Hall, and David Levy and the four men have one of the most widely known medical centers in the area.

Master of ceremonies for the appreciation program will be C. L. Culver, pioneer banker of Groom, who has been a resident since 1929.

Dr. John L. Witt arrived in Groom in 1935 "fresh out of college" and took up practice following the illness of the late Dr. Robert Foster. His training as an osteopathic physician and surgeon brought patients from a wide area of the Texas Panhandle and Oklahoma.

In 1946 he was joined in his practice here by his cousin, the late Dr. John V. London, and the two doctors opened a clinic which soon was well known over the state. The City

Comedian Jack Carter Has Plenty Of Luck Alright, But It's All Bad!

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — If comedian Jack Carter appears furious with the world most of the time, it's because he is.

If he bought a suit with two pairs of pants he'd burn a hole in the coat.

If a meteorite landed on someone's head, it would be his.

If he looked through a keyhole Jack Carter would see another eye.

If it weren't for bad luck, Carter wouldn't have any luck at all.

This accounts for Jack's outrage on stage, his fury, pique, displeasure, umbrage, not to mention acerbity. It's a wonder he doesn't spray Mace in the face of his audience just to get even.

Man Against the World "Don't talk to me about luck," he snarled at lunch. "I am naturally an angry man. All the traffic lights are against me—always red. Inanimate objects wait to get me. Corks stick in wine bottles. My caddy dropped a cigarette in my golf bag and set it afire. Then he threw it in a lake to put out the blaze."

A fiendish light shone in Carter's eyes.

"Luck! Hah My car ran out of gasoline just as we pulled up for a premiere in front of a theater.

"And every time I open in New York there's a strike. So far there have been five—the musicians, cabs, subways, garbage, and waiters. Once I opened in a club and there was a newspaper strike going on.

"Think that's bad? I opened in a play titled 'Mr. Wonderful' with Sammy Davis on Broadway. That same night another little musical opened. It was 'My Fair Lady.' How do you like that for timing?"

Carter regarded his lunch with disdain.

"But I shouldn't complain. I'm a very bright man. I was offered the title role in 'The Music Man' on Broadway and turned it down. Instead I starred in 'The Carefree Heart' which closed in four minutes."

Close to Tears Carter appeared to be on the verge of tears. Plainly, his lunch was ruined.

"You think I'm kidding? Forget it, I bought a home in Beverly Hills, big beautiful place. The first night it rained the whole roof fell in. Now I'm in a law suit.

"Still don't believe me? When I opened at a Puerto Rico hotel this year an oil tanker ran aground and spilled oil all over our beach—so everybody moved out and ruined business.

"Then I insulted some big shots at a table who were heckling me. They sued me for slander and I discovered one week before I canceled my insurance against slander."

Carter's face was red, his hands trembling. It was time to leave.

PROFESSORS SUSPENDED
WARSAW (UPI)—Two professors at universities in Krakow were suspended and expelled from the Communist party, the Polish news agency PAP said today. They were Dr. Edward Lukawer of the Krakow University's school of economics and Asst. Prof. Andrzej Reiter of Jagiellonian University's philosophy department. PAP failed to say whether the action against the two was connected with student unrest.

RFK Worker's Threat: 'Political Vengeance'

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The governor's office says a campaign worker for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., threatened "political vengeance" because state police were not assigned to the senator's motorcade during a tour of southern West Virginia last weekend.

Paul Crabtree, executive assistant to Gov. Hulett C. Smith, made public a series of communications between local and national Kennedy workers in a letter to William P. Thaw, Kennedy's campaign chairman in Charleston.

Crabtree wrote: "There is a clear inference that Mr. Don Dell proposed that Col. (T. A.) Welty and I violate the laws of the state of West Virginia in order to accommodate Sen. Kennedy and his party."

"There is equally inherent in his statement the threat that we, or others, might be subjected to political vengeance if we did not accede to his requests."

"Finally, his attitude certainly brings no credit to Sen. Kennedy and his campaign for the presidency."

Dell was identified in the letter as a national staff member. Welty is head of the state police.

Crabtree quoted Dell as saying, "I'll bet they (police) will be out doing everything they can when Vice President Hubert Humphrey gets here." Humphrey is to visit Huntington, W. Va., this month.

Crabtree said he advised Dell that "state police would be available to do anything possible to assist the Secret Service in security arrangements for Mr. Humphrey, since he is an incumbent vice president."

"I was then advised by Mr. Dell: 'Well, maybe he's not going to be an incumbent very much longer, and if that happens, you and some of these people down in West Virginia aren't going to be too happy with how you are treated then.'

"I regard this as high impropriety; a threat of reprisal against me, the state police and other unnamed individuals in West Virginia... a slur against the courtesy and hospitality of our people, and a personal insult," Crabtree wrote.

In the letter, Crabtree said Welty "could not arrange for state police vehicles to lead the motorcade or to take steps to provide high-speed transit to the various stops on the senator's visit, since this clearly might be interpreted a political activity," Crabtree wrote.

Crabtree said uniformed officers were on hand and plainclothesmen were interspersed throughout crowds at each town Kennedy visited.

Connally Looms Big As Possible Vice President

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The name of Texas Gov. John Connally loomed large today among some of the nation's Democratic governors as a vice presidential candidate.

But Connally said earlier, "I don't want it."

However, Connally refused to rule out the possibility that he would accept if the No. 2 spot on the ticket were offered to him by the Democratic presidential nominee.

Sources said Missouri Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and "two or three" other governors—none of them from the South—spoke in favor of Connally as a vice presidential nominee at a three-hour closed door session of 17 of the 24 democratic governors.

Connally said last week he would accept the vice presidential nomination but Monday said he would not go beyond the statement he did not aspire to the office.

Hearnes, the host governor, said he made a speech during which "I said it would strengthen the ticket to have a governor on the ticket. I won't embarrass Gov. Connally by going any further."

But he said when pressed, "Gov. Connally is a favorite amongst the governors."

Hazlewood Says Justices Should Reduce Volume Of Published Matter

Jack Hazlewood, Amarillo, candidate for associate justice of the Court of Civil Appeals, 7th Supreme Judicial District, was the speaker yesterday at the noon meeting of the Pampa Jaycees.

Hazlewood spoke on the subject, "The Function of the Court of Civil Appeals in the Texas Court System."

Following the address, Hazlewood made the following statement to The Pampa News: "There are fourteen Courts of Civil Appeals in Texas, one Court of Criminal Appeals and the Texas Supreme Court, all of them publishing opinions. The vast output of the Texas legal system is proliferating at an alarming rate. Many opinions are fifteen pages long and longer. The appellate judges of Texas must make some effort to reduce the sheer quantity of published matter found in their opinions because the problem of retrieval confronting the bench and bar is becoming so difficult that the value of the opinions of these courts as useful precedent is being diluted.

"The problem is analogous to the one now confronting American science. Important and valuable scientific articles published in technical journals are sometimes obscured and hidden for years by the tremendous array of technical writings currently being published.

"Appellate judges must make concerted efforts to be brief in their opinions. There will be no corresponding sacrifice because with brevity comes clarity and precision. A concise judicial opinion is much more valuable as a precedent than a long rambling discourse on various points of law involved in a case."

SHORT SNORTS

J. Overby Smith has resigned as chairman of the State Industrial Accident Board, effective May 4, to become hearing examiner for the Social Security Administration in Dallas.

Attorney General Martin named Asst. Atty. Gen. Robert C. Flowers as head of his enforcement division which represents the state whenever the constitutionality of a state statute is challenged in the federal courts.

Gov. Connally reappointed Marvin Shurbet of Petersburg and Milton T. Potts of Livingston to the Texas Water Development Board for terms extending to Dec. 30, 1973.

A two-year demonstration project in the field of adult probation will be carried out in Travis, Hays, Comal, Fayette, Caldwell and Austin Counties with Reps. Ralph Scoggins of El Paso, Vernon Stewart of Wichita Falls and Lamoine Holland of San Antonio serving as advisors.

Texas City Explosion Remembered

TEXAS CITY, Tex. (UPI)—A sailor, taking a casual smoke aboard the French ship Grandcamp, threw his cigarette stub away before going back to work during the morning of April 16, 1947, 21 years ago yesterday.

A small fire started aboard the ship and led to a series of explosions which killed an estimated 561 persons, seriously injured 3,000 others and caused $32 million in property damage.

The fire found its way to 16 cases of small-arms ammunition, which immediately exploded. The resulting explosions set other ships on fire and destroyed a $19 million chemical plant, sending towers of orange flames shooting into the air.

"I was running blood in my nose and my ears, and I couldn't feel whether I had my arms and legs," one witness to the Grandcamp explosion said.

"I looked around and all those men I had been talking to were just scattered out on the ground. They weren't moving none at all."

"Birds began falling dead out of the sky, and great big chunks of things on fire were shooting off like skyrocket. The smoke was enough to stifle a man, and jumping clean to Heaven. That French ship wasn't there anymore."

In Galveston, 11 miles away, windows were smashed ceilings fell and people were knocked down in their tracks. The earth quivered from the blast 100

Flight Control System May Have Been The Cause Of F-111 A Crashes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Air Force believes it has discovered what led to the crash of a controversial F111A fighter-bomber in Thailand last month, according to "informed sources."

The supersonic, swingwing plane, formerly called the TFX, was one of six sent to the war zone March 17 for "combat evaluation." It crashed on its way to bomb a target in North Vietnam March 30; its two-man crew parachuted and were rescued.

Sources have reported that a test flight re-enactment of the mission indicated the trouble was in the flight control system—not in the plane's revolutionary "terrain-following radar," as first suspected.

In the re-enactment, pilots produced a similar loss of control and as a result changes were made in the flight control mechanism.

Still unexplained, however, was the loss of a second F111A, reported "overdue" on a mission against North Vietnam in the first three days of combat.

The Communists claimed they shot down the plane in Ha Tinh province, but U.S. sources said it was unlikely that the aircraft ever reached North Vietnam.

It is believed to have taken off from Thailand and flown across Laos to a point near the North Vietnamese border, miles away in Port Arthur and Orange.

There, without ever entering North Vietnam airspace, it evidently aborted its mission and headed back to Thailand.

It is believed, to have crashed somewhere in the jungle. The pilots have not been found and officials can only guess what happened.

The F111A's "terrain following radar" permits it to fly at supersonic speeds close to the ground, following the contour of the terrain, thus allowing it to slip in under the field of enemy radar.

Those fitted out for South Asia, however, were capable of low-level radar-controlled flight only at subsonic speeds.

The loss of the second F111A caused the controversial warplanes to be grounded temporarily. They returned to action over the weekend with strikes against targets in North Vietnam.

Africa's Hope Unfulfilled But Not Extinguished

By PETER LYNCH
United Press International
From the seaport of Dakar in Senegal where international intrigue flourished during World War II, to fabled Timbuctoo in Mali to the secessionist Biafra section of Nigeria—Western Africa presents a portrait of hopes unfulfilled but not extinguished.

The 13 countries the United Nations has placed in that geographical grouping to encourage regional economic cooperation range in size from the Gambia, smaller than Connecticut, to Mali, almost twice the size of Texas.

Despite their struggles, there has been only some talk among them—and little action—on forming a West African common market.

The group designated as West Africa—those that have become independent since 1957—are the countries of Dahomey, the Gambia, Ghana, Guinea, Ivory Coast, Mali, Mauritania, Niger, Nigeria, Senegal, Sierra Leone, Togo and Upper Volta.

Lack Of Success
Western Africa includes two nations for which the brightest hopes were held when they became independent—and therefore their lack of success is most glaring.

These are Nigeria and Ghana. Nigeria's troubles stem from traditional African woes—tribal enmity. The British civil service system and the government it left in office proved a veneer to cover what actually was a federation of three tribal areas with the Hausa-Fulani in the north the Yoruba in the south and the Ibo in the east.

After lesser upheavals, which brought to power the military government of northern Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon, last May another military man, Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, led an Ibo secession movement which proclaimed the Independent Republic of Biafra in the east.

Gowon sent in federal troops, civil war was on in July and all efforts by the organization of African unity to end the fighting have failed.

Country Bankrupt
Ghana's problems are the legacy left behind by former President Kwame Nkrumah, deposed in 1966 and living in exile in Conakry, Guinea.

The country is bankrupt and struggling to meet interest payments on more than $400 million in foreign debts. An economic commission is grappling with the fiscal problems of a nation which had foreign reserves of about $560 million when the British withdrew.

The Ivory Coast presents a success story. It is politically stable under President Felix Houphouet-Boigny, and economically booming despite the agricultural limits of its trade. It is the world's third largest coffee producer and one of the foremost cocoa sources.

Mauritania also is doing well, boasting a balanced budget and a favorable trade balance, with possibly the world's richest copper and phosphate fields barely exploited and rich fishing grounds not fully tapped.

Countries still struggling, but with a hopeful prognosis, include Guinea, Mali, Niger, Senegal and Sierra Leone.

President Sekou Toure has kept Guinea politically calm inside its one-party system. Guinea's problems stem from the abrupt French pull-out in 1958, in which all aid was cut off and 4,000 French administrators were withdrawn, leaving the new nation to fend for itself without adequate preparation. It promises to thrive economically when it successfully exploits its iron ore, bauxite and diamond deposits, and step-up agricultural exports.

Senegal's president, Leopold Senghor, scholastically re-elected, proved himself politically tough when he defeated the only coup attempted against him. At present Senegal's main export is peanuts, but phosphate mining is on the upgrade and offshore exploration for oil is under way.

Niger is a land of potential, rather than present, prosperity, with possible vast water resources beneath its northern semi-deserts that could transform those lands, home to nomadic cattle herders, into fertile ranchland. Niger also holds known rich deposits of copper, tin, wolfram, uranium, cobalt, iron ore and manganese, unexploited because of total lack of railroads and all-weather roads.

Mali Landlocked
Geography is the enemy of Mali, formerly the French Sudan, handicapped because it is landlocked. The country is politically peaceful under President Modibo Keita.

He is a tough politician who makes decisions only after full cabinet consultation. His government and its control of agriculture—the nation's lone asset—are modeled after Israeli socialist practices.

The future of Sierra Leone, which has a viable economy based on diamond production, iron ore and agriculture, rests not on economic but political management.

The country recently has known political turmoil, but the military regime that took power in March 1967, under Col. Andrew Juxon-Smith, now is making efforts to return the country to constitutional rule.

Togo has been plagued with political turbulence since the assassination of its first president, Sylvanus Olympio, a man of great potential. Its basically agricultural economy has not presented a happy picture, either, but minerals now are being discovered there that may retouch the scene.

Bleak Picture
Neighboring Dahomey presents a bleak picture economically and politically. It became independent in 1960, then between 1963 and 1967 the former French colony slightly larger than Kentucky underwent four military coups—three engineered by the same man, Gen. Christophe Soglo, and the fourth ousting him.

Dahomey has practically no natural resources, exports peanuts, palm oil and kernels and some coconuts and is dependent on foreign aid.

Prospects are not good for Upper Volta, either, unless its prospectors discover the diamonds, gold and manganese for which they now are searching. Its farmers wrest their living from poorly irrigated, eroded and unproductive soil, with thousands of the dominant Moasi tribesmen migrating to more productive countries.

The Gambia's main reason for existence is its pride, and it has remained stubbornly cool to suggestions of federation with either Senegal or Sierra Leone, despite the fact that its economy is maintained only by peanut exports and $4.2 million a year in British aid to its former colony.

For Western Africa today, there are nations with problems to be solved, and problem nations who must look outside for help. Domestic tranquility and regional economic unity seem to be the answers.

Woman Writes Book Concerning Being A Widow

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—The statistic is grim. Some eight million women belong to its often lonely, often tragic, often pessimistic group. They're the ones who either give up to grief or struggle to regain the human race.

They're the widows of the U.S.A. Books on widowhood and adjustment to it and the one-parent role have been written before, some of them by persons with little or no acquaintance with loss in their own lives.

But now, a widow tells it like it is, in a forthright and heartening account, tells it in terms of her strong religious faith that helped her through the first difficult months, tells it with candor and often, amazingly, with humor.

Feature Writer
The book is "When You're a Widow" (Concordia, St. Louis) and its author is Clarissa Start, a columnist and feature writer for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. "Nobody understands but another widow," says the author. But her writings should help others understand the widow's reactions from the initial shock and grief until the day she realizes that once more she has to become part of the world around her.

"If there were no other message for widows in the experience of one of our vast number, this would be the paramount one: I would like to pass on," she says.

"You can surmount your grief. You can rejoin the human race. You may even be a better member of the human race because of your sorrows. You will—eventually—even sense a certain pity for those whose lives have not been touched by grief, for they have not lived life to the fullest."

Heart Attack Victim
Miss Start, a writer for more than 30 years, was widowed after 29 years of marriage to E. Gary Davidson, a prominent political and civic figure in Missouri. He was the victim of a heart attack, leaving his widow to bring up their teen-aged son.

"There are no rules for widows," she says. "She must make her own. (But) the wise widow would, I should think, confine her social life to men who are marriageable and whom she'd want to marry—even if she doesn't think (now) that she'll ever want to marry." And there is sublimation of both grief and the longing in service to others—"there is much to be gained from thinking of others rather than yourself."

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Within the last half dozen years, a string of British-ruled islands in the Caribbean have achieved total independence or internal self-rule. Most of them have Negro governments—and, except for a few isolated instances, this new independence has been achieved without the violence affecting so many other parts of the world.

Fully independent and jealous of their new status are such as Jamaica, Barbados and Trinidad-Tobago.

Holding associated statehood under which the British handle only foreign affairs and defense are Grenada, St. Lucia, Antigua and Dominica.

Others with self-rule lie among the scattered islands of the Windwards, the Leewards, the British Virgin Islands, the Caymans, Turks and Caicos.

Of Special Interest

Moving closer to independence as result of new elections is another crown colony which, because of its strategic location and a huge American investment, is of special interest to the United States.

These are the Bahamas Islands, stretching from a point some 90 miles off the coast of Florida, 700 miles southeastward toward the Caribbean.

There a black government headed by Prime Minister

Lynden O. Pindling won a landslide victory which apparently broke forever the political power of the "Bay Street Boys," a small group of white elite families whose power traditionally had been unquestioned.

Their campaign slogan had been "Don't turn your back on the Union Jack."

Pindling who took over a year ago in January with a majority of one in the assembly and boosted it this year to 29 out of 38 seats, denies he is turning his back on the British Union Jack, but will seek total internal self-constitutional advance."

Wide Control

This would include control of police, a voice in the appointment of the British governor and deprive the governor of his right to appoint a majority of the senate. The senate's power is limited but it can delay legislation approved by the assembly.

(Strategically, the U.S. Navy maintains an anti-submarine missile center on Andros Island and has stations on San Salvador, Eleuthere and Grand Turk.

American investment in the islands are close to a billion dollars.

The islands, with a population of around 150,000, have no natural resources beyond their magnificent climate. The tourist trade alone is enough to make them totally solvent.

Big time casino gambling also helps. Part of the "Bay Street Boys" campaign against Pindling was based on a claim that an all-Negro government would frighten tourists away. But the American firm which took over the Paradise Island interests of Huntington Hartford is said to have thrown its support behind Pindling.

And so far there has been no flight of capital nor a shortage of tourists.

MADE THEIR POINT

HOUSTON (UPI) — Vocational nurses at Ben Taub, who had called in sick over the weekend, returned to work Monday, having made their point. Administrator W. G. Forster said he sympathizes with their demands and will do what he can in their behalf.

CITY GETS LOAN

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (UPI)—The city of San Marcos was approved Monday for a $1.4 million loan for water and sewage improvements and a $955,100 grant for the same projects, by the Housing and Urban Development Department.

Start with an Audit

Advertising is a serious investment... art, engraving, typography and copy are costly. All are planned carefully to attract readers who are prospects for the merchandise or service.

No business can afford to waste any part of this investment in any medium that cannot guarantee definite circulation and readership.

"Waste basket circulation" in post offices, and so called throw-aways that usually travel to the incinerator are of little or no value to the advertiser.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: This is for that person who wrote in to say that anyone who gives others free rides to and from work on a regular basis is a "sucker" if he doesn't charge for the service.

According to my insurance man, a person who drives a car and carries regular type insurance should never accept any money from his riders for transportation, because then he can be considered a "commercial carrier," and in case of an accident the driver's liability is increased greatly.

DEAR WISER: My insurance experts tell me that if a driver accepts money from his riders on a "share-expenses" basis only, and NOT for profit, his liability to his riders is not increased. However, policies differ in different states, so better check yours out with your insurance man, and be sure you understand it. And if you're not satisfied, ask your lawyer to look at it to be sure you are adequately covered.

DEAR ABBY: I howled when I read your column about padded fannies. Women of today who use the various artifices are lucky they weren't born 200 years ago. The following is an excerpt of an Act of Parliament, passed in 1770:

"That all women, of whatever age, rank, profession or degree, whether virgins, maids or widows, that shall from and after such act, impose upon, seduce, and betray into matrimony any of His Majesty's subjects by the scents, paints, cosmetic washes, artificial teeth, false hair, Spanish wool, iron stays, hoops, high-heeled shoes, bolstered hips, shall incur the penalty of the law in force against witchcraft and like misdemeanors and that the marriage, upon conviction, shall stand null and void."

So you see, Dear Abby, there is nothing new under the sun; it pays to be a "researcher."

Astrological Forecast

By CARROL RIGHTER
Treasurer, April 18, 1968

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A very confusing sort of a day. Fortunately you have much intelligence now to handle whatever does arise to cause you confusion with a very good chance to let all about see that you are endowed with good common sense that can bring you some unusually good chances to show you are aware of how to do your job.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Higher-ups are studying your method of doing your work, so be efficient, since they are not interested in your ideas or family life. Find some way to improve real estate you own. Be economical but not cheap.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) — A good day to discuss with right persons your ideas and aims, but be diplomatic about it. You can then get rid of those stumbling blocks in the path of your progress. Do so tactfully.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Forget the limelight now and get into the specific work that awaits you efficiently, thoroughly, clear of that old pal who likes to talk up a storm. Work will all evening, if necessary. Get all completed.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) — A good pal can be instrumental in helping you to really get ahead. Stop being hampered by a fearful employer. You are capable of doing more than you are now doing, so get busy advancing.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) — You have some interesting business matter on hand and if you double over backwards to please higher-ups, you can turn failure into success. Get into that civic duty that is important. Show your ability.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) — You have just the right ideas now that are practical so that your creative outlet can be lucrative, successful. Some new contact has right answers for which you have been seeking. Get them.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21) — Use that fine intuition that you possess to know what is expected of you from higher-ups, and then follow through in a most conscientious way. Be courteous and thoughtful with male. Then you have that ideal support you desire.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) — Control your temper so that you do not argue with a good associate — use good reasoning instead. Impulsiveness could keep you a good partner. Find some better system so that all is more harmonious.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — You are highly enthused to get your work done and should do just that. Get an early start. Show supervisors that you are right on the beam, especially with clever ideas, and much is accomplished.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Once you have completed duties well, you can get into very fascinating pleasure outlets with congenial, charming others. It is relatively easy. Out in some delightful place with loved one in p.m.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 18) — Things are not going very well at home so be sure you are controlled and more understanding of everyone there. Do not get into rough arguments that could be detrimental to your health and well-being. Use reason.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20) — Contacts that associate with whom you can work out some fine agreement for better success. It's important that you become more efficient, though for best results, get your health improved, dental care attended to.

Team Has Ten Lettermen Today

Coach Eural Ramsey announced the 10 lettermen for the 1968 Pampa High School golf team which finished in a blazing fury last week in the final round in Amarillo in District 3-AAAA.

The lettermen include seniors: Steve Grady, three-year letterman; Tommy Rose, three-year letterman; Tim New, two-year letterman; Steve Walls, two-year letterman and Greg Gunter, two-year letterman.

The juniors are Harry Aurell, first year letterman; Kris Gambelin, first year letterman; Lee Waters, first year letterman; and sophomores Sherwin Cox and Jackie Gindorf.

"I'd like to emphasize that I'm real proud of their final showing," Ramsey stated.

Curtis Conks South African

By MICHAEL RABUN
DALLAS (UPI) — Welterweight champion Curtis Cokes, after lashing challenger Willie Ludick into submission in the fifth round Tuesday night, said he had hit Ludick so hard early in the final round that after the mandatory eight count, Ludick did not know where he was.

"I thought that eight count was never going to end," said Cokes, who was left unmarked by his abbreviated battle with the South African.

"But when it did I went to him meaning to land meaningful punches and not just swing."

Cokes opened two cuts over Ludick's right eye, and they were bleeding so badly after the fight trainer Angelo Dundee asked that stitches be taken.

Ludick said if he had it to do hospital, where the cuts were sewn up.

"He hits a pretty good shot," said Ludick after the bout. "He definitely deserves the championship."

Ludick said if he had it to do again, he would move around more and "crowd him more."

Cokes declined to call it an easy fight, but said instead Ludick hit him hard on a few occasions.

"They did not hurt though, I was in good enough condition to take what he threw," said Cokes.

Cokes said he found out quickly Ludick was able to take a punch.

"After hitting him and opening up a cut on his eye, he came right back with a good right and I said gosh, I had better watch out for this guy."

"This guy is tough, and you have to fight him to set him up. You don't want him to land one in there."

"But I don't think he could have gone 5 rounds the way I hit him."

Cokes said he planned to take a little time off to see HemisFair and then catch the Jimmy Ellis-Jerry Quarry heavyweight championship fight. He did not mention when he wanted to fight again, but his manager, Doug Lord, said he hoped to have a title fight for Cokes as early as June.

Cokes said there was little else to do but counter-punch during the early part of the fight.

"I would jab and he could come right in, so I would throw some more jabs," Cokes said, describing the punches which wrapped up the early rounds.

Palmer Joins Ruidoso Team

RUIDOSA DOWNS, N. M. (Spl) — Veteran racing official, Murph Palmer of Las Vegas, Nevada, has recently joined the 1968 racing staff at Ruidosa Downs, according to General Manager, Tex Barron.

The 44-year-old Palmer brings to Ruidosa Downs a distinguished and experienced career in racing circles, having spent over twenty years working both "on the backside" as well as in official capacity at many of the leading race meets throughout the country.

Spurs Close To Getting Big League Team

FORT WORTH (UPI) — Tommy Mercer, a general partner in the Dallas-Fort Worth Spurs organization, said Tuesday the area was "as close as it will ever get to landing a major league franchise."

Mercer and his partner Lamar Hunt have been trying to get an expansion franchise in the National League.

"Our No. 1 problem is in Houston," Mercer told a Chamber of Commerce sports committee luncheon. "But I don't think the Judge (Houston Astros owner Judge Roy Hofheinz) will stand in our way when the time comes to make the decision."

"I still say our chances are excellent."

PRICE INCREASE
CINCINNATI (UPI) — This summer's $27,500 Concord Open at Kiamasha Lake, N.Y., will be the richest tournament in the history of women's golf. It was announced Monday by the Ladies Professional Golf Association.

The tournament, which will be played Aug. 10-12, will carry an LPGA record first prize of $4,125.

Is A Jockey an Athlete? How About Racing Driver?

By STEVE SNIDER
UPI Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UPI)—Is a jockey an athlete? Is an auto driver? A golfer?

"Those questions keep coming up all the time," says Murray Goodman, who runs the annual "Professional Athlete of the Year" election for the Hickok sports magazine.

"To clarify matters, I conducted a survey among our voters and the early response indicates they definitely are athletes with a high degree of skill, conditioning and heart."

Competitors in every pro sport from bowling to tennis have been eligible for the previous 18 Hickok awards but the winners have been confined to the baseball (11), boxing (3), football (2) and golf (2).

"Golfers finally gained acceptance as athletes but even today there are a few voters who won't cast ballots for a golf pro," says Goodman.

"And lately we've been getting a few comments about auto drivers, jockeys, bowlers and certain other pros. In my opinion, they're all athletes but we wanted to make sure a majority of our jury of voting experts felt the same way. Obviously, they do."

Last year, noted Goodman, one voter said he thought jockey Angel Cordero was the No. 1 professional on the nation's sports pages but didn't cast a vote for Angel on the theory maybe a jockey was not an athlete.

"Among the survey comments on jockeys was a letter from a voter who said he couldn't think of a finer conditioned group than jockeys or a band of men engaged in a more hazardous job," Goodman said. "But the same man questioned bowlers."

Another insisted bowlers should be included without hesitancy.

One wrote: "Conditioning means the most in track and field and the least in baseball. Between these poles are many sports including all types of racing."

"A pro is a pro is a pro," another wrote, paraphrasing Gertrude Stein's famous poem.

About golf: "They are conditioned to win and that's an art in itself."

Auto racers: "Stamina for long distance driving, nerve in the face of death and a fierce desire to get there first."

In general: "Anyone who shows muscle, coordination and some brainy finesse should be eligible regardless of the sport."

Also: "The scope of professional sports has widened tremendously but they all must have the skill, heart and combativeness to excel."

Ben Hogan broke the ice for golfers about a dozen years ago with his comeback after a near-fatal auto accident but there were plenty of knocks against the fairway brigade before that.

"Until Hogan won the belt, I guess our voters had been looking at too many 'fat golfers,'" Goodman said. "You don't see any fat jockeys and not many fat auto racers but acceptance as athletes has been slow. Now it's speeding up."

And about time, too.

Vince Gambles Again

NEW YORK (UPI)—Vince Lombardi, in his first major deal since he gave up his coaching duties with the world champion Green Bay Packers to concentrate on the role of general manager, has decided to gamble on a promising but still untried offensive tackle named Francis Peay.

Lombardi dealt two of his reserves, linebacker Tommy Crutcher and offensive tackle Steve Wright, to the New York Giants Tuesday for Peay.

Peay, the Giants' No. 1 draft choice in 1966, has been plagued with injuries in his first two seasons and has yet to live up to his potential. However, the former University of Missouri standout has looked good in games against the Packers and Lombardi obviously feels he may be an eventual replacement for one of his talented but aging tackles.

NAIA To Set Meet Nearby

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) will hold its track and field championships here May 31 and June 1, the Chamber of Commerce revealed today.

Some 350-400 athletes from throughout the country are expected to participate in the event.

Joe Axelson, assistant executive secretary of the NAIA in Kansas City, met briefly Tuesday with the sports committee of the Chamber of Commerce to discuss plans for the two-day event.

Miss Haynie moved in front this week in the money-winning standings of the Ladies Professional Golf Association (LPGA) although she has yet to win a tournament this year.

Miss Haynie has collected $3,908 in the four LPGA tournaments this season, compared with $3,837 for second-place Kathy Whitworth.

Mickey Wright, who has won both of the tournaments in which she competed this year, relinquished the earnings lead when she did not play in the O'Sullivan tournament at Winchester, Va., last weekend. Miss Wright dropped into fourth place behind Marilyn Smith, winner of the O'Sullivan tournament.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Joe Pepitone of the New York Yankees had his left arm placed in a light cast Monday after suffering a hairline fracture of the left elbow on Sunday.

The centerfielder will be out for at least three weeks.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Betty Rosenquest Pratt of Maitland, Fla., was named Monday by the United States Lawn Tennis Association to captain the U.S. Federation Cup and Wightman Cup teams.

Old Men From Boston Braced

BOSTON (UPI)—The aging Boston Celtics still were teetering on the verge of front porch rocking chairs today as they braced with a revised lineup for another game with the powerful Philadelphia 76ers.

The two teams were scheduled to meet at Boston Garden in the sixth game of the best-of-seven series for the Eastern playoff championship and the right to play for a National Basketball Association title.

Even the fact that a sixth game was necessary came as a slight shock after the defending champion 76ers had taken a commanding 31 lead in the series that included two wins on Boston's home court.

But the Celtics, ripping a page from the 76er book, won twice at Philadelphia to extend the playoffs. Even so, the Boston squad was aware that no team has ever fallen behind, 3-1 in a seven game NEA series and wound up on top.

The Panama News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Cars of the Future

Now that the United States has almost a hundred million cars, trucks and buses registered, a lot of people are beginning to think that maybe the industry got off on the wrong foot as far back as the Gay Nineties.

Indications of this keep appearing in the public prints. One prime target is the internal combustion engine, which some think has to go. Many of these critics feel we could find inspiration for a new engine in the admirable Stanley Steamer of grandpa's era. In the next year, or so a fortune is going to be spent in new experiments with a steam-driven engine.

Others are convinced that what we really ought to have is a 1968 version of the smooth-running electric that were often seen in the better neighborhoods a half century ago.

The internal combustion engine has been brought to a peak of perfection, and it is a highly efficient mechanism. But there has always been a strong feeling in some quarters that if half the effort expended on behalf of the gasoline engine had been used to improve the steam type we would be better off. Certainly, these enthusiasts say, a steamer would not pollute the air as much as a gasoline-driven car does.

Electric car buffs use the same argument. In fact several manufacturers, including Ford and General Motors are now thinking electrically. One three-way project has the University of Pennsylvania, General Motors and the Federal Government tied up in a deal which has produced a car which runs with a battery-driven motor in combination with a gasoline engine.

The nation's growing death toll is naturally causing great concern and this is reflected in mandatory car safety features of various kinds. Some, such as seat belts and harness are excellent—if people can be persuaded to use them. Others are questionable at best. In the latter category is a recent government brainstorm which suggested that cars be equipped with a device that would honk the horn and cause lights to flash if the car reached certain excessive speeds. The industry, understandably, expressed no enthusiasm for this idea.

Detroit, being experienced in these matters, still believes that the biggest safety problem lies in the nut positioned at the wheel. Steam, electric, or gasoline, that will remain a basic problem.

Relishing 'Pie in the Sky'

Nimbus 11, the weather satellite launched May 15, 1966, has turned out to be an international "common man's" space probe.

Amateur meteorologists and radio enthusiasts all over the world have sent fan letters and copies of photographs they have received from Nimbus on home-built equipment to the experts at General Electric's Valley Forge (Pa.) Space Technology Center.

One weather student in Scotland has been receiving daily pictures from the satellite as it passes overhead. "I can confidently tell my wife to go ahead and do her washing, even though it's pouring rain just now, because it will clear following the passage of a cold front in the next hour or so," he wrote.

Some of the satellite watchers are would-be astronauts. Others, too old for manned space flight, have been following it just for the joy of vicarious participation in the adventure of space exploration. People of developing nations, motivated by the ability to get pictures of their local area from space, are learning how to build and use space-age electronic equipment, thanks to Nimbus.

It's a far cry from the days of cat whiskers and crystal sets, but many individuals have built their own picture-receiving equipment for a couple hundred dollars or less, says GE. In fact, National Aeronautics and Space Administration encourages amateurs and has even published a manual giving exact details of construction and operation.

For most of us, a satellite is a pretty remote and rather mysterious thing. Not so to another fan, who wrote: "Nimbus 11 has been a teacher and a good friend. When it finally ceases its powerful signal and when it has sent its last picture, I for one will be sorry... It's the greatest!"

Question to CAB

The Civil Aeronautics Board has ruled that airlines must charge passengers for drinks and movies in flight. It reasoned that non-drinkers or those who were not moving picture fans shouldn't have to pay for the liquid refreshment or entertainment of others.

Aside from the fact that most airlines do charge more for drinks and other services by higher class fares, there remains another question:

If it's wrong to force airline passengers to pay for services they do not need or want, how about forcing individuals to pay through taxes for government services they don't need or want? Or is that a fair question?

BERRY'S WORLD

I believe, however, that Prime Minister Papadopoulos and his group have every intention of restoring the King to his throne, and re-establishing a constitutional monarchy, along with freedom of the press.

The new government has made mistakes and will make more. But the biggest mistake the government made was to turn loose Andreas Papandreu to recontaminate his Communist and "liberal" friends in the United States. A Christian gentleman like Ian Smith, Prime Minister of Rhodesia, can't even get into the United States, remember?

On his way to the States and presumably a professorship in California, Papandreu told the French press, "All I want to do is fight for democracy." (Which in Red jargon means Communism.)

But just because Papandreu talks like a Red and acts just like a Red, don't get the wrong idea about him, folks—he is a Red.

Straight Talk

By TOM ANDERSON

ATHENS, Greece — As I was saying, my wife and I came over here on account of Spencer Bird talking against foreign travel so much that we couldn't resist. Also, we felt that we just had to see Europe once more, before the Europeans find out about Urban Renewal. Just imagine, Lisbon, once it becomes a "Model City."

When a friend once asked my brother, "Bill, have I told you about my trip to Europe?" Bill replied: "No, and I sure do appreciate it."

Possibly the reason I am subjecting you to this travelogue is because I, too, hate travelogues. My psychiatrist could probably explain that to me if he ever gets out of that mental hospital he's been locked in since our last interview. And, speaking of psychiatrists, I heard about a fellow who was having his last psychiatric visit after being treated for a long period of years. "Since this is our last session I'm now cured," he told the psychiatrist, "kiss me goodbye."

"I'm sorry," replied the psychiatrist, "I can't kiss you. We really shouldn't even be lying here on the couch together."

Well, anyhow, though we really shouldn't be doing this, here we are spending American dollars in Europe.

"Liberal" columnists such as Evans and Novak urge that the U.S.A. should underwrite an overthrow of the "Junta." One U.P.I. reporter on assignment in Greece reportedly resigned because his editors refused to print his material as he sent it: it was objective and therefore favorable to the new military regime. And I confess I lost my usually stolid objectivity too. With such enemies at the Washington "Post," Drew Pearson, Bobby Kennedy, Senator Fulbright and the New York "Times," I decided the new military government must be good.

The Greek people hate Communists, yet the Left would have won the scheduled election in May. To form a government, Papandreu's Center Union (equal to our Democrat Party) would have had to align itself with Communists.

The Greek military government will release all of the less than 2,000 remaining prisoners (practically all Communists) merely on the prisoner's word that he will henceforth make no effort to overthrow the government by force. Fair enough? Too fair I think. I wish the United States government would imprison the 20,000 or more American Communists and anarchists who are dedicated to overthrowing our government by force, although I don't know what our universities would then do for guest speakers.

"When it has realized its objectives: sound economic and educational principles, principles of individual freedom and liberty which also mean respect for the freedom of your neighbor, then this revolution will step back into history and will not become a political party." Prime Minister Papadopoulos promises. Of course, there is always the possibility that once the leaders of the National Revolution Greek Government have breathed deeply of the heady fumes of power, they will not want to relinquish it. "Power tends to corrupt and absolute power corrupts absolutely." (Most people can stand adversity; few people can stand power.)

I believe, however, that Prime Minister Papadopoulos and his group have every intention of restoring the King to his throne, and re-establishing a constitutional monarchy, along with freedom of the press.

The new government has made mistakes and will make more. But the biggest mistake the government made was to turn loose Andreas Papandreu to recontaminate his Communist and "liberal" friends in the United States. ## Backstage Washington

Red Line for 1968 Outlined in Recent Issue of Political Affairs

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — If you want to get a faint idea of what is going on in America today, read two publications.

The first is the February 1968 edition of Political Affairs, the theoretical journal of the Communist Party, USA, which was published one month before the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders made their report.

The second is Bishop Fulton J. Sheen's book, "Communism and Conscience of the West," written in 1948, or 20 years ago. Bishop Sheen is now in Rochester, N. Y. and one of the great spiritual leaders of our times.

Both must be read carefully to grasp the magnitude of the events lighting up America's landscape today and to see where the current whirlwinds of history are carrying our great country.

Titled "The Battle for Black Liberation," the special issue of Political Affairs lays down the Communist party's line for 1968, calling for the creation of a new "Peoples Party."

Significantly, the new party is to be built on the same type of political coalition which Senator Robert Kennedy, D-N. Y., was trying to build with Dr. Martin Luther King before the latter's assassination in Memphis last week.

This powerful political coalition is to consist of anti-war, Negro, student, and civil rights groups, the newly organized poor, and radical liberals from the present Democrat and Republican parties.

As outlined for party leaders in a series of articles published in their official journal in February, the new party is to be built upon the radical crisis now consuming parts of America.

"The coming to power of such a new party is a prerequisite to basically change our foreign policy, eliminate the ultra-right danger and begin the reconstruction of our economic and social life," the party's publication states. "It's the condition for making some radical changes in the Negro's position in our society. A government based on the rule of a new people's party must of necessity be anti-monopoly in its policy and must be prepared to take all the necessary measures to curb the power of big business over the life of the country."

MOBILIZING BLACK POWER — The important role of Negroes in the new party is spelled out by the Communist party's journal, as follows: "The objective should be to unite the black communities politically, and to make the full use of their strategic position in our cities. From such positions of strength they can, in alliance with other minorities and progressive sections of the white population, struggle effectively for unprecedented new levels of Negro representation and, therefore, drastically alter political relationships in the country.

"Through united action, an effective fight can be waged for black control of black communities, for federal, state and city responsibility to provide billions for the reconstruction and rehabilitation of the black communities, placing them on a par with the rest of the nation.

"To inspire the struggles of today, black communities should be united in commemorating our black heroes, among them Dr. W.E.B. DuBois (an admitted Communist) and former New York City Councilman Benjamin J. Davis.

"But even with all these changes, the Negro will not be truly free and equal. This will require a new system which not only restricts monopoly but does away with capitalism as such."

As if the party's brain-trust had an advance copy of the report prepared by the President's Commission on Civil Disorders, their own journal (appearing a month before the commission's report was released) charged that white racism was the main cause of the present big city crisis. It states: "This central problem, and the main challenge for us, is the task of winning greater number of white Americans to the struggle for Negro freedom, the task of burning out the influence of racism amongst white Americans.

"The winning of this struggle is key to Negro-white unity. We can achieve such unity only to the extent that we accomplish this task."

INSPIRING MASS MILITANCY — Red party leaders are being instructed to caution black militants not to touch off "armed uprisings" in cities on their own unless their actions are coupled to follow-up programs of social action.

The Communist party journal warns: "Armed uprisings for such objectives cannot be undertaken successfully by the black communities alone. They require power allies in the ranks of the working class—white and black."

"We believe that conspiratorial, terroristic actions which are not based upon a program aimed at improving the conditions of life for the masses, and which do not receive the support of the people, are adventurous, provocative and politically irresponsible, inviting reprisals against the black community."

"Whether the right to violence should be exercised is determined by time, place and circumstances and by a sober estimate of the concrete situation which prevails at the moment."

PICKING THEIR TARGETS — The two main targets singled out for attack by the Communist party are Congress and the White House. "In a chapter titled, 'The Real Instigators of Violence,' the party's hate-filled publication charges:

Pull Up A Chair

By FRANK J. MARKEY

Space technology affects our daily lives although it is unlikely that many of us will ever travel to the moon or anywhere else in outer space. Take for example the new high-speed dentist drill. It's much more effective than the older models, significantly reduces any sense of vibration or grinding. This drill resulted from the development of tiny ball bearings that could withstand high rotational speeds for extensive periods and yet hold the drill in firm position. The ball bearings were initially developed for use in satellites.

Today's smile: A motorcycle cop flagged down a pretty young thing who was exceeding the speed limit. He said: "I've had my eye on you for sometime, miss." She replied: "Really? I thought you were chasing me for speeding."

Harvard University makes much of adhering to tradition, which recalls that one of the regulations at the Cambridge institution reads as follows: "No scholar shall go out of his chamber without coat, gown or cloak and everyone, everywhere shall wear modest and sober habit without strange and ruffianlike, or new-fangled fashions, without all lavish dress or excess of apparel whatsoever. Neither shall it be lawful for any to wear long hair, locks or forelocks, nor to use curling, crimping, parting or powdering their hair." That rule was issued in 1655, but it's not being enforced on the hippies you find around the Harvard Yard these days. April, the month when trees unfold and the womb of Nature opens with young life, was so named from the Latin word "Aprerie," meaning to open. The ancient Dutch called it "Grass-maand" (grass-ter) month, (meaning paschal month); the old Saxons "Eas-Germinal," (budding.)

Thoughts while shaving: One of the most flourishing crimes these days is bank robbery. And today's practitioners would make Jessie James, John Dillinger and the other bandits of yesteryear look like rank amateurs. Today's bank robbers do not generally use guns, although they carry them. Instead they rely upon split-second precision to get into the bank and out with the loot in less than three minutes. The FBI says there were 1730 bank robberies in this country last year, which averages out to about seven per banking day. That's six times as many as there were in 1967, just 10 years ago. The government has been using "scramble telephones" for years to prevent eavesdropping on important phone conversations. Now they're available to business offices through a new scrambler called "Code-Phone." It's a battery-powered; four pound box in which a conventional telephone can be placed. Turning a switch scrambles the conversation so that it becomes unintelligible to anyone listening in. The Philadelphia (Pa.) BULLETIN reported in a story: "Beethoven was a great musician. He had 10 children and practiced on a spinster in the attic." Really?

Country Editor speaking: "There's an old saying that an apple a day keeps the doctor away, but at today's prices a box of apples costs more than the doctor."

H. L. Hunt Writes

DEMONSTRATIONS AGAINST U.S. POLICY

The communists have a great deal to gain by arousing feelings throughout the World against United States policy in Vietnam. If enough pressure is brought to bear against the U.S., Moscow believes that our government might be forced to negotiate with the North Vietnamese on their terms.

For these reasons, Moscow directed from proles have staged world-wide protest demonstrations against our position.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation obtained evidence that Russian communists financed and directed the anti-American activities of the World Congress for Peace and the International Institute of Peace. Instructions from the Communist Party in Moscow directed these so-called peace organizations to exploit the concern of non-communists about the Vietnamese War, to create an impression that anti-United States feeling was widespread in foreign countries as well as in the U.S. itself.

Plans for these demonstrations were formulated last spring at a Moscow meeting of the executive committee of the Soviet Communist Central Committee. Then at a "Viet Nam Conference" in Stockholm in July, delegates from "peace" groups heard details of the plans from a Russian member of the World Congress of Peace.

Among the protests carried out by communist front groups were demonstrations in Grosvenor Square in London, a round of pre-Christmas world-wide international protest meetings on the anniversary of the founding of South Vietnam's National Liberation Front, and attacks on U.S. embassies and personnel.

Our government must not succumb to this communist-inspired pressure. No matter how many demonstrations the communists organize, we must continue to plan for freedom in the world.

The task ahead is: how to make the most effective use of every position gained, how to exert the utmost skill in rallying to our struggle and in isolating our enemies (Congress, the White House, and all anti-Communists). It is in this spirit that the question of armed struggle should be soberly considered.

THE UNITED FRONT — All Communist party authorities and their hidden agents are being urged to advocate, help organize, and take important positions in a massive united front.

The objective of this united drive, according to the Red journal, is to drastically change the nation's priorities from the Vietnam war to social action programs in the U.S. It contends:

"More and more Americans, white as well as Negro, have come to recognize the interrelation of three crises: The ghetto, our cities, and the war in Vietnam. An irresistible force can be brought into being by uniting the mass of Americans to fight for the resolution of all three crises. It is toward the development of this irresistible force that black and white progressives, especially revolutionaries, should bend their efforts. That requires the speedy ending of the war in Vietnam.

To achieve such unity in struggle, it is incumbent upon white progressives and revolutionaries to conduct a consistent and courageous battle against racism in their own communities, shops, offices and schools.

The struggle... faces not only great trials but great opportunities. Both aspects of the present situation have to be grasped. More, they have to be acted upon, and acted upon unidly, in time to make the 1968 elections the arena for great and victorious struggles."

Mr. Gard left the dentist's office in about an hour wearing his new — old temporary tooth.

In about a week or two when the gum heals, the missing tooth will be replaced with a permanent, fixed bridge which will be attached to teeth on either side of the space.

The base of the bridge will be made of gold with porcelain baked onto the surfaces that show. The porcelain will be tinted, stained and shaped to resemble natural teeth.

During the time Mr. Gard's bridge is in the making, his teeth will be protected with a temporary fixed bridge made of plastic which will also be contoured and colored to resemble natural teeth. This will be held in place with temporary cement so that it can be easily removed when the permanent bridge is ready for cementation.

Mr. Gard's dentist reports that his patient won't have to miss any time from his office, or give up any of his social obligations.

EXAM: Upper right front incisor tooth was indeed mobile and tender to percussion. It was slightly elongated and surrounding gum tissue was inflamed, swollen and exuded pus on pressure. There were deep pockets between gum and tooth indicating much bone loss.

X-ray exam: Tooth previously had root canal therapy. There was marked bone loss, especially between the two incisors. At the root end there was a large abscess which communicated with the periodontal (pyorrhea) pocket. Diagnosis: Periodontal abscess.

Treatment: There was so much bone loss and such a large infected area that the tooth had to be extracted. For cosmetic reasons a replacement was made at once. The infected root was cut from the crown which was then hollowed out, filled with white plastic base adjusted to fit against the palatal area just behind the space where the tooth was extracted.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

This Problem, Car Thefts

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The problem, as I understand it, shapes up like this:

The number of auto thefts is rising rapidly, one reason being that many motorists leave their keys in their cars.

Faced with the choice of losing his keys or having his car stolen, the average motorist hardly knows which way to turn. Which may be why the number of accidents on one-way streets is rising.

Keyless Ignition
The obvious solution is for Detroit to bring out a keyless ignition switch. One that can be neither lost nor operated by a car thief.

But Detroit is often slow to seize the initiative, so I am running a few ideas up the flagpole to see if anyone salutes. Or burns an AAA membership card.

For instance, how about an ignition switch that works like a combination lock? To start the car you simply turn the knob 3 R, 10-L, 7-R. Each car having a different combination, of course.

That would foil any car thief who didn't also happen to be a safecracker. There also should be combination locks on the door and trunk. To keep the motorist from losing his door and trunk keys.

I would be less than candid, however, if I didn't point out that this system would have certain drawbacks, chief among them a common mental aberration known as the "number block."

Mental Block
Nearly everyone has experienced it at one time or another. You start to call your wife to tell her you'll be working late at the office and you suddenly find you can't remember your own telephone number.

If that happened when you wanted to start your car—in other words, if you forgot the ignition combination—it would be just as bad as losing the key.

As an alternate method, Detroit might consider a blood type ignition. To start the car you prick your finger and squeeze a drop of blood on the ignition switch. If someone whose blood isn't your type tries it, the car won't start.

Even more foolproof is the fingerprint on it. If the button is pushed by a car thief, the mismatched prints short circuit the wiring.

Okay, Detroit, you take it from there.

Stockholders Of Pioneer Natural Gas In Meeting

AMARILLO (Sp) —The stockholders of Pioneer Natural Gas Co., at the annual meeting held Tuesday at its general offices in Amarillo, reelected the eight present directors and added an additional director to the Board. An amendment to the Articles of Incorporation of Pioneer providing for authorized but unused preferred stock was also approved by the stockholders.

The eight directors returned to the Board were A. F. Cox, George W. Dupree, J. Harvey Herd, M. E. Purnell, B. P. Smith, W. E. Walker, C. I. Wall and K. B. Watson. The new director elected was Laurence R. Jones Jr. of Kansas City, Mo.

C. I. Wall, chairman of the board and president, reviewed the operations of the Company for the year 1967 and commented on new developments in the gas industry. He also reviewed activities in the area served by Pioneer.

The directors, at their annual meeting following the stockholders' meeting, named the following officers: C. I. Wall, chairman of the board and president; B. P. Smith, executive vice president; A. F. Cox, senior vice president; K. B. Watson, senior vice president and general counsel; T. S. Whitis, senior vice president; M. E. Edquist, vice president; C. H. Rainwater, vice president; C. J. Gholson, assistant vice president; R. W. Lewis, assistant vice president; R. R. McCafferty, assistant vice president; J. L. Pratt, assistant vice president and controller; W. N. Lampe, secretary and general attorney; and R. W. Lee, treasurer.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) —The Wiesenberger Investment Report says the current stock market momentum generated by the Vietnam peace overtures could carry further but "it is improbable we are witnessing the birth of a new bull market."

Thus, the firm continues, investment strategy should remain based on a balanced portfolio consisting of individually attractive stocks and defensive issues.

Reynolds & Co. says it is inclined to believe the market will see an all-time high in the Dow Jones industrial average. Still, on the near term, it expects a pullback which "might be useful in shaking out some of the newer members of the bullish contingent."

Goodbody & Co. says that it would maintain some cash reserves against the possibility of adverse developments on the international scene. The analyst says it believes the market now offers good buying opportunities for investors "willing to accept the risks involved at this time of national tension and uncertainty."

Washington Report

By BOB PRICE
1303 LAMONTGATE OFFICE BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D.C. 20004

Events of the last week were of historic, dramatic and tragic importance. The President's decisions concerning his own candidacy for re-election changed the whole complexion of the Presidential campaign.

An apparent overture from Hanoi raised hope of some kind of negotiations or discussions with the Communist North Vietnam regime.

But even as the President prepared to leave for Hawaii, the senseless act at Memphis precipitated another crisis and one that will further test the strength of the nation to avoid domestic violence or even open insurrection. Probably never since the War Between the States, has a President been faced with a more formidable threat to law and order, life and property.

On top of the burdens of fiscal and monetary crisis at home and abroad, and the seemingly bottomless pit of U.S. involvement in Vietnam, the fuse to the powder keg of further and massive racial troubles was lit in Memphis.

Already stirred up by the over-emphasis of "white racism" in the National Advisory Commission Report on riots, militant black power leaders could have asked for nothing more than the murder at Memphis by a crazed hate-monger to encourage the anarchists and rioters.

One of the Presidential primary candidates invaded the South at Nashville to accuse his own party member president of dividing the country and criticized the President for calling for an end to dissent.

"Debate is all we have to prevent past error from leading us down the road to disaster. How else is error to be corrected if not by the informed reason of dissent?"

This is fine rhetoric but not the solution for the double trouble we now face.

Former President Eisenhower is quoted in a Reader's Digest article as saying that he has

Franco-American Relations In Turn For Worse...Again

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — At this month's meeting of the Charles de Gaulle Appreciation Society the other member and I sadly concluded that Franco-American relations have taken a turn for the worse. Again.

"never encountered a situation more depressing" than the present spectacle of an America deeply divided over Vietnam. The title of the article is "Let's Close Ranks on the Home Front."

And whatever may be or may not have been our criticism of President Johnson's policies or actions, never was the need more dire and urgent than now for support of our President in the double crisis of violence and threatened insurrection at home and a complicated, controversial and confusing war in Vietnam.

We MUST now close ranks on the home front.

The latest fly in the ointment, or, if you prefer a more appetizing metaphor, cockroach in the soufflé, is hominy grits.

When I reported last month that a French chef in Chicago had taken this domestic dish and elevated it to gourmet status, little did I dream it would be interpreted as a Gaullist plot.

Yet letters of protest have been coming in from grits-lovers all across the nation.

Strong Reaction
"Keep grits free of foreign entanglements!" "Hands off our grits!" "American grits, si; French grits, no!"—these were but a few of the outcries.

One irate grits fancier likened the chef, Pierre Orsi, to "the boll weevil or a hoard of locusts come to ravage an American institution."

I never realized before that grits eaters were so emotional. You might think from their reaction that America was on the grits standard and the French were trying to force devaluation.

Since the Charles de Gaulle Appreciation Society was founded specifically to deal with situations of this sort, the other member and I moved quickly to try to restore calm.

First we adopted a resolution pointing out that in creating such recipes as "quenelle de grits" and "grits crepes," Orsi was acting on his own and not as an agent of the Fifth Republic.

Finally, since there seemed to be some confusion about the matter, I proposed that the society underwrite a research program to determine the origin of grits and establish whether any country had exclusive claim to them.

All the data isn't in yet, but preliminary findings indicate grits actually were discovered by a Frenchman, Jacques le Griz, on the site of what is now New Orleans.

It further appears that the discovery was made before the Louisiana purchase.

I trust the grits traditionalists will accept this as sufficient evidence to absolve De Gaulle of any charges of tampering.

OUT OF STEAM

WIDNES, England (UPI)—Thirty-six members of the Icel Rugby Club spent the four day holiday weekend at Bourne-mouth, England, during which time they drank their hotel dry, consuming 2,500 pints of beer and 700 bottles of stout. They also played four games of rugby and won three.

"The pub ran out of beer and we didn't have enough to drink," said team captain Derek Speed after the club lost its last match.

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Wednesday, April 17, the 108th day of 1968 with 258 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.

The morning star is Venus.

The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:
In 1521 Martin Luther was excommunicated from the Roman Catholic church after refusing to admit charges of heresy.

In 1917 Sen. William Calder of New York introduced a bill calling for daylight saving time, but it was defeated.

In 1945 British Prime Minister Churchill rose in the House of Commons and said of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, "he died in harness, and we may well say in battle harness."

In 1963 Paul Hornung of the Green Bay Packers and Alex Karras of the Detroit Lions were banned from the National Football League for betting on games. They were reinstated after one year.

A thought for the day: Oliver Wendell Holmes said, "age, like distance, lends a double charm."
