

Parking Meters Not To Return

Parking meters will not be restored to downtown Pampa streets—at least for the foreseeable future.

City commission members today concurred in a recommendation by City Manager Jim White to continue without the meters which were removed last August.

After a five-month trial period, the city manager stated, police traffic control officers and city staffers reached a decision that the public was happier with just the 2-hour time limit on downtown parking.

White said traffic fines under the new system were about the same. However, he said, there had been about a $20,000 loss in parking meter revenue.

"This does not mean that we will just go on forever without parking meters," White said. "The time may come in five or ten years, or even sooner, when Pampans would want them put back."

The city manager said the poles from which the meter-heads were removed will be taken out and both the meters and poles will be sold.

The city manager also said the only exception to the standard 2-hour parking limit will be the 15-minute zone at the Pampa post office.

Pampa Puts Ban On Coin-Vending Service Stations

Legislation prohibiting installation of unattended coin-operated gasoline service stations in Pampa was approved on first reading today by the city commission.

The ordinance was approved after City Manager Jim White said it was a precautionary measure against what could be possible fire hazards.

The city manager said coin-operated stations could be installed under the legislation, but only if an attendant is on duty at all times the station is in operation.

Final action will be taken on the ordinance at the next regular council meeting in two weeks.

The council passed on final reading an ordinance declaring the necessity of paving approximately 100 blocks of city streets in the city's 1968 spring and summer paving program.

An ordinance approving plans and specifications for the paving program was given first reading and will get final passage at a called meeting of the commission at 11:45 a.m. tomorrow.

This second phase of Pampa's overall street improvement program will be in addition to the 140 city blocks paved in 1967. In other business today the commission approved for payment December city bills totaling $23,127.68 and library bills of $771.65; approved a $10,000 bond for Aubrey Jones, city tax assessor-collector, and approved release of $1,778.60 in paving escrow funds to Texas Securities Corp.

Gorton Chosen New Australian Prime Minister

CANBERRA (UPI)—Former fighter pilot John G. Gorton won the prime ministership of Australia today and vowed to keep his nation with America in the fighting against the Communists in Vietnam.

"We must show them aggression doesn't pay. We lived through an era some years back where we let it exist and look what happened," said the tall, ruggedly handsome orange grower chosen by the governing Liberal party to replace Harold Holt, who was lost while swimming last month.

His election came on the second ballot and put an American into the prime minister's residence. His petite wife, the former Bettina Brown of Bangor, Me., who has never taken Australian citizenship, said, "When I go to the U.S., I'm always happy to be back home." Mrs. Gorton said, however, she considers herself a "de facto Australian."

Australian First Gorton, 56, quickly moved to assure his countrymen that although he fully supports his nation's growing alliance with America he is Australian first and last. He mentioned Holt's triumphant election slogan, "All the way with LBJ."

"I don't believe Holt ever said Australia would automatically follow anything the Americans did. I wouldn't say that myself, we can't give a blank check to the future," he said. But clearly, Gorton was a man in the Holt mold. He stands to the right of many younger members of his party but to the left of fellow Liberals his own age. Like Holt, he has a reputation for wading into political fights and loving it.

Respected by contemporaries He is a dawn-to-midnight worker. He is more respected than loved in parliament, where he transfers from his senate majority leader's seat to the lower, more powerful federal house.

Gorton defeated Paul Hasluck, the external affairs minister, on the second ballot for the party leadership that brings the prime ministership with it because the Liberals are the senior partners in the ruling coalition government. He will replace caretaker Prime Minister John McEwen, who played host to President Johnson and other world leaders last month at memorial services for Holt.

Lord Casey, the governor general, was scheduled to swear in Gorton Wednesday.

Sweden Gives Asylum To US Defectors

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Neutral Sweden today granted political asylum to four American sailors who deserted from the aircraft carrier U.S.S. Intrepid to protest what they called the "immoral" war in Vietnam.

The action was taken by the Aliens Commission after a week of study. The commission's decision was almost a foregone conclusion since an advisory committee had recommended unanimously asylum be granted.

The advisory group urged asylum for "humanitarian reasons."

The sailors are Richard Bailey, 19, of Jacksonville, Fla.; John Barilla, 20, of Catonsville, Md.; Michael Lindner, 19, of Mount Pocono, Pa.; and Craig Anderson, 20, of San Jose, Calif. They left the aircraft carrier Intrepid in Yokosuka, Japan, Oct. 23 and made their way to Moscow. They arrived in Sweden Dec. 29, asking for asylum.

Humphrey Praises US Viet Stand In Nairobi Speech

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said today Americans will one day be glad they fought in Vietnam rather than falling victim to the kind of "weakness and appeasement" that led to World War II.

The vice president, preparing to leave for Tunisia and the last stop on a nine-nation African tour, told a gathering of 2,000 members of the American community that he feared the United States had gained a reputation as "a warrior nation: This is not true."

He recalled a speech by the late President John F. Kennedy in which he said peace was not for the weak, but for the strong. A stand must be made against aggression in Vietnam, he said, and Americans would be grateful later when history would record the contrast between "our stand now against weakness and appeasement which brought on the Second World War."

Communist Casualties Reach Record High In War

"HI-MOM" FROM SAIGON, VIETNAM — Mrs. Ruth Russell, left, 217 E. Kingmill, tells a friend about winning one of two "Hi-Mom" calls to her son, Pfc. Glen Russell, who is stationed in Saigon, Vietnam. Mrs. Odesa Steddum, of 821 N. Gray, listens. The Pampa 6128 unit of Communication workers of America sponsored 10 telephone calls from the Panhandle area to servicemen overseas. Pfc. Russell entered the service Nov. 8, 1966 and has been in Saigon about a month and a half. Mrs. Roy Free, 203 E. Tuke, the other Pampans to win a "Hi-Mom" call, telephoned her son, Spec. 4 Claudie G. Campaign Starts For Registration Of Texas Voters

This week marks the opening of a statewide campaign organized by Secretary of State John L. Hill to promote voter registration in Texas. One feature of the registration drive is the publication of an application form which voters may cut out and mail to the county tax assessor-collector, who acts as the registrar of voters. The form is printed on page 8 of today's paper. Jan. 31 is the deadline for registration.

Hill has organized the registration drive in his capacity as chief election officer of the state, a title which the Texas legislature conferred on the Secretary of State last year, along with placing upon him important new responsibilities in the administration of the state's election laws. In commenting on the drive, Hill said that one of his purposes is to publicize new laws affecting voting rights, which otherwise might go unnoticed by the average citizen. On of the new laws enacted in 1967 makes registration necessary for the first time in Texas history, for persons over 60 years old who live in rural communities and towns under ten thousand population. Heretofore, persons over 60 were required to register only if they lived in a city having more than ten thousand inhabitants. Many tax assessor-collectors have expressed a fear that lack of information concerning this new requirement will bring about disfranchisement of many elderly voters through their failure to register.

FINACE E. DYER ... to succeed Winborne

Dyer Appointed City Fire Chief

Pampa's new fire chief when Chief Ernest Winborne retires April 1 will be 47-year-old Finace E. Dyer, a fire department captain. The city commission today approved Dyer's appointment as assistant chief, effective Jan. 16. He will serve as an assistant chief until Chief Winborne's retirement, when he will become chief. Until April 1 the city will (See DYER, Page 3)

Texas Now Number Two In Defense Contracts

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson's home state of Texas, which only a few years ago ranked seventh among the states getting prime defense contracts, now has nosed out New York for No. 2 spot, Pentagon figures showed today.

California still holds a long lead in first place, but its percentage of total contracts awards during the fiscal year that ended last June 30 now has slipped to 17.9. Texas got 9.5 per cent of the contracts and New York 8.7 per cent.

During fiscal 1966, the percentages were California 18.3, New York 8.9 and Texas 7.2. And as recently as 1962, the percentages for the three were: California 23.9, New York 10.7 and Texas 4.0, with Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey and Ohio ahead of Texas that year.

But Texas has moved up steadily since Johnson moved into the White House, thanks in large part to the controversial F-117 fighter-bomber (formerly the TFX). Nearly a third of the contracts Texas received during fiscal 1967—just under $1.2 billion worth—were for the F-117, which is being produced by General Dynamics Corp. at Fort Worth. California retained its lead with a total of $2.1 billion in missile and space contracts during the year. Texas had only $90.3 million or 2 per cent of the money awards in this category. In orders for military aircraft, however, Texas was far ahead with contracts totaling $1.8 billion, compared to $695 million for California.

McCarthy To Go to California To Warm Up His Cool Campaign

By United Press International Peace candidate Eugene S. McCarthy, his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination chilled by indifferent party professionals and a cold shoulder from Bobby Kennedy, prepared today to warm up with a swing through some of California's pacifist university centers.

At the end of a trying day Monday, the Minnesota senator announced he would leave Washington Thursday on a six-day campaign tour of California, to include speeches at Stanford University and the University of Southern California. He plans to run in the state's June 4 primary. McCarthy earlier received disappointing news that Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., does not at this point plan to endorse him although their views on Vietnam are the same. Kennedy told a Manhattan community college audience in New York that "my judgment is at the moment that I don't further the cause" of peace by supporting McCarthy.

But he still believes McCarthy's peace candidacy is "healthy for the party," Kennedy said, adding he also remained prepared to support whomever the party nominates in August. Presumably that will be President Johnson, and new public opinion polls indicate his popularity has surged upwards

Flu Near Epidemic Stage in Pampa; Absenteeism Up But Schools Open

Pampa has the flu in near-epidemic stage, according to latest reports received by The News today. About 40 cases have been admitted to the two Pampa hospitals, officials reported today. Most flu patients are confined to their homes.

One Pampa doctor stated, "about half of the patients we are seeing have it. It's all over town in epidemic stages and has been for about two weeks.

Pampa Youth Is Killed In Vietnam

(See Photograph, Page 3) Sgt. Robert Dale Pullen, 23, son of Mrs. Ocie Lyles, 425 S. Barnes, was reported killed in action Saturday in Vietnam. Funeral arrangements are pending notification of when the body will be brought to Pampa.

A 1963 graduate of Pampa High School, Sgt. Pullen was killed two days after his 23rd birthday. No details on the death of the young infantryman were available.

Mrs. Lyles received word of her son's death from his wife, the former Pamela K. Redmond of Pampa, now living in Dallas. Sgt. Pullen was born in Levelland Jan. 4, 1945. After graduation from high school, he was employed by Toyle's Tile Co. here and for five months was with the Texaco Co. in Amarillo. He returned to work for the Pampa tile company before he entered the Army Oct. 12, 1966. A member of Company C, 152 Bn., 198 Infantry Brigade, he had been stationed in Vietnam only since October, 1967.

He was a member of First Baptist Church and was married July 2, 1965, to Pamela Redmond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Redmond Jr., 1137 Juniper. Survivors besides his wife, mother and stepfather are a sister, Mrs. Franklin Hankins, Selfridge, Mich., and a grandfather, Fred Conner of Pampa.

Red Offensive Still Continues in South

SAIGON (UPI) — American and allied troops killed a record 2,868 Communists in South Vietnam last week, military spokesmen said today. The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese perished in unprecedented numbers in a vain New Year's offensive that included a bloody 36-hour truce that opened 1968.

Government spokesmen credited U.S. soldiers with killing most of the Communists in battles northwest of Saigon, near the Cambodian border and in the Que Son valley, a hideout for the North Vietnam 2nd division 360 miles up the coast from Saigon.

The Communists offensive sputtered on. Today, 19 miles south of Saigon, GIs routed the third major Viet Cong strike at the capital area in four days. American casualties, expected to be as usual far lighter than the Communists last week, were not scheduled for release until Thursday when weekly losses are regularly reported.

According to U.S. officials, the highest previous Communist toll in one week was 2,783 men killed. That was in the week ending March 25, 1967.

Government spokesmen said that last week 263 South Vietnamese troops were killed. That was higher than the previous week but below the 320 government soldiers killed the week ending Dec. 9.

In Saigon's southern backyard, troops of the U.S. Army 9th Infantry Division swept through mangrove trees and rice paddies on foot and in helicopters in search of the 600-man Viet Cong force they battled during the night. The Americans suffered 17 men killed and 27 wounded. The Communists fled, leaving at least 26 bodies behind. U.S. officers said the Communists apparently were within hours of springing a major attack when a 9th Division platoon ran into a guerrilla force.

"What started out as a platoon against an enemy platoon skirmish wound up during the night as a near full scale brigade battle," a U.S. spokesman said. The Viet Cong fell back, avoiding being trapped by American reinforcements pouring in.

The Communists shot down three American helicopters, one of them carrying wounded GIs, a spokesman said.

Saturday the Viet Cong threw a 600-700 man force into the northern suburbs, terrorizing the town of Tan Uyen where they burned 110 houses. Monday the guerrillas hit Kham Cuong, the capital of Hau Nghia Province on the west of the capital, killing at least 26 persons and wounding more than 100, mostly civilians.

Surveyor Rocket Zeroing in For Soft Landing

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—Surveyor 7, America's last and most sophisticated unmanned moon probe, unerringly zeroed in today on its target in the rugged highlands near the lunar south pole.

Surveyor 7's course was so accurate that scientists at Jet Propulsion Laboratory here canceled a second midcourse maneuver which had been scheduled Monday night. If all continues to go well, the instrument-laden spacecraft was to soft-land on the moon today. The landing was scheduled at 8:05 p.m. EST.

The objective of Surveyor 7 was a 12.5-mile wide landing zone in a mountainous region 18 miles north of the rim of the Tycho crater. The lunar surface in the region was described by a project spokesman as "damned rough" and a computer gave the spacecraft only a two out of five chance of landing unscathed.

Crammed aboard Surveyor 7 were an array of scientific devices to photograph and analyze the lunar terrain.

Surveyor 7 was the 28th and last unmanned moon probe launched from Cape Kennedy before Apollo astronauts fly to the moon. The mission of the six previous spacecraft in the Surveyor series was to investigate possible Apollo landing sites across the moon's midsection. This final mission will conduct purely scientific experiments to answer fundamental questions of how the moon was formed.

Democrats Are Optimistic On November Vote

Law Brings Big Raise In Social Security

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The new Social Security legislation provides for the largest increase in total cash benefits in the history of the program.

In the first full calendar year of operation, the new law will pay $3.7 billion (16 per cent) more than the old law. Every beneficiary will get an increase of at least 13 per cent. The minimum benefit for workers retiring at 65 is increased from $44 to $55.

The new law provides even more substantial increases for people who become entitled to them in the future on the basis of average earnings higher than $6,600, the maximum amount counted for Social Security purposes under the old law.

If you are receiving monthly Social Security benefits, the amount you get will be increased by at least 13 per cent beginning with the check due early in March. You do not have to do anything to get this increase. It will come to you automatically.

For example, the monthly benefit of a worker whose average monthly earnings are $300 will be increased from $112.40 to $127.10, and the benefit for a worker whose average monthly earnings are $400 will be increased from $135.90 to $153.60.

As I said earlier, the amendments will in many cases increase future cash benefits even more than present benefits. They will do this by increasing the amount of earnings that can be counted toward benefits in a year from $6,600 to $7,800.

In future years, when a worker's average earnings covered by the law can reach $7,800, a retired or disabled worker will get as much as $218 per month, and family benefits can be as much as $494.40.

Counting $7,800 a year for benefit purposes can quickly make a difference. Consider, for instance, a man aged 60 in 1968 who earns $7,800 a year. If his earnings continue at this level until he retires at age 65, he will get a monthly retirement benefit of $188.80—an increase of $33.80 over the old law, or 21.8 per cent.

Social Security provides protection to younger workers and their families as well as to retired persons. Nearly 30 per cent of Social Security contributions are used to pay benefits either to survivors or to the disabled and their families.

More than 23 1/2 million Americans—one in every nine—currently get monthly cash benefits under Social Security because they are retired or disabled, or are dependents or survivors of retired or disabled workers.

Moreover, the improvements are of value, here and now, to the 86 million workers now contributing to the program. They provide these working Americans, many of them young workers with young families, increased insurance protection against the risks of death or disability—hazards faced by workers of all ages.

The amendments of 1967 raise the face value of the total survivorship protection of the program over $200 billion, from $730 billion to $940 billion—a sum roughly equivalent to all the private life insurance protection now in force in the United States.

Theater Chain Founder Dies

LUBBOCK (UPI)—Wallace B. Blankenship, founder of the Wallace theater chain in West Texas, fell down a flight of stairs at a hospital and suffered fatal head injuries today.

Blankenship, 66, at one time operated as many as 30 theaters throughout West Texas. Many of them were called the "Wallace," his first name, or the "Rose," his wife's name.

Hospital officials said Blankenship apparently got out of his bed and started down the stairs between the seventh and eighth floors. He fell about eight steps.

He was the chairman of the board of Blankenship Development, Inc., which owned and built the Town and Country Shopping Center in Lubbock.

He had been retired from active participating in the theaters in recent years, leaving that to his son, Wesley Blankenship.

STEADY PROGRESS
SINGAPORE (UPI)—Medical specialists in Singapore are making steady progress toward eventual transplantation of the human heart, the newspaper Malay Mail said Saturday. The specialists agreed with Dr. Christian Barnard, the South African heart transplant specialist, that the hearts of apes and pigs might be suitable for transplanting into humans.

CHICAGO (UPI)—Members of the Democratic National Committee met today with an optimistic message from their chairman, John M. Bailey, that "we will win" next November.

Bailey told the committee, meeting in perfunctory session in the city where the party's national convention will be held next August, that the Republicans are "heading downhill" and the Democrats, and President Johnson, "are on the upgrade."

Bailey, in his address to the meeting, alluded to factionalism within the Republican ranks. He said of the Democrats, "We got the big end of our intra-party fighting out of the way last year."

Sunday, Bailey rejected a request from Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., to attend the meeting.

McCarthy, who has announced he wants the Democratic presidential nomination, had asked permission to tell the committee members his views.

Bailey had said Sunday he wouldn't even answer McCarthy's request to present his views on Vietnam because today's meeting was held only to make plans for the national convention Aug. 26.

Bailey preferred to talk about Republican dissent. "I'm happy to be able to say Republicans still have their bloody ingighting to look forward to," he said.

Israel, Jordan Fight at Border

By United Press International
Israeli and Jordanian machineguns, tanks, mortars and artillery fought a blazing battle across the River Jordan today in a serious flareup.

Before the three-hour fight an Israeli soldier was killed and four wounded when an Israeli border patrol jeep struck a mine planted in a dirt road near the Geshar settlement. Another mine damaged an army half-track in the Gaza Strip but caused no casualties.

Each side accused the other of starting today's shooting.

The Jordanians said the Israelis opened fire first with machineguns; the Israelis said the Jordanians started it by firing at civilians working on land south of Bet-Shean.

The exchange continued intermittently until 2:20 p.m. when the Israelis said the Jordanians opened up with artillery fire and the Israelis responded with tank and artillery fire.

Casualties were not reported.

a year. Formerly, a voter was totally disfranchised for a six-month period following removal to another county unless the county from which he moved was in the same congressional, legislative or judicial district as the county to which he moved. A constitutional amendment adopted in 1966 authorized enactment of the new legislation.

The Texas Election Code enumerates "idiots and lunatics, and all persons convicted of any felony except those restored to full citizenship and right of suffrage or pardoned" as classes of persons who are not qualified to vote.

Texas voters must register annually. The 1968 voting year will begin on March 1, 1968, and will end on Feb. 28, 1969. The registration period for the 1968 voting year began last Oct. 1 and will end on Jan. 31. Any citizen of Texas who now possesses the necessary qualifications for voting or who will attain them by Feb. 28, 1969, may register during the current registration period.

Except for three limited classes of voters, all persons wishing to vote at any time during the 1968 voting year must register by the Jan. 31 deadline, even though they may not yet possess full qualifications for voting. The only registration permitted after Jan. 31 is (1) by persons who move into Texas after Oct. 1, 1967, (2) by persons who become 21 years of age after Jan. 31, 1968, and (3) by former aliens who are naturalized after Jan. 31, 1968. The first and second classes may also register during the regular period. Registration certificates issued to persons not yet qualified to vote are marked to show the date on which they will become qualified.

TOPS QUEEN — Mrs. Jeanne Conway puts the crown on Mrs. Ron Cross, 1967 queen of the Pampa Pound Pirates in ceremonies Monday night. At right is Ellen Hamlin who was the club's princess for 1967. Mrs. Cross led the club in total weight loss for the year with 55½ pounds. Mrs. Conway is president of the club.

Winsome Class Has Skellytown Meeting
SKELLYTOWN (Sp1) — The Lynda Stephenson, Gaye Allen, Butch Rogers, Benny Weaver, Jimmy Fox, Nancy Mathews, Lana Sue Brown, Billie Price, Edna Dunivin, attended a supper in the church Fellowship Hall recently.

The long table was covered with a white cloth with tall red tapers in crystal holders placed in the center of the table. In the center of the table, a gold vocation was given by Rev. Murie Rogers, pastor of the church. Attending were Ruth Geisler, Now you can get a wall panel with the raised, textured surface of fine fabric. Textured tapestry is green, gold and red. The 16" x 8" planks, ¼" thick, can be applied with wallboard adhesive directly over existing walls or new framing.

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for exactly one month. The other night I discovered that my wife uses MAYONNAISE on her hair before she goes to bed. She has the preposterous idea that it makes her hair grow faster. She claims that lots of women use it.

I have never heard of this before, have you? I would like to find out if what she says is true, as I don't care to smell mayonnaise all night.

NEW HUSBAND
DEAR NEW: I am informed by my hair-raising experts that mayonnaise contains a protein property which is beneficial to the hair. But there are hair conditions on the market which are more effective, and smell better. Tell your wife that when you go to bed with a tomato you prefer to do without the mayonnaise.

DEAR ABBY: When my mother-in-law baby sits with my children, I always find later that she has done some "house-cleaning." Scrubbing the kitchen and bathroom floors, cleaning out cupboards and closets, or something of that nature.

The problem is, my husband and I take different views on how I should react to this. Regardless of how good her intentions may be, I am irritated and resentful because I think she is trying to tell me that I am not a very good housekeeper. Abby, I may not be the world's greatest, but believe me, I am clean and neat, and nobody is to help me.

Now, whenever I know that she is coming to baby sit, I feel compelled to clean extensively before she arrives. And even then she always finds some "work" to do.

My husband says that I am wrong—that anyone else would be delighted to have such a mother-in-law. I know I can't change her, but I would like your point of view.

IRRITATED
DEAR IRRITATED: It is bad manners to "house clean" another's home under these circumstances. You may not be able to "change" his mother, but either you, or your husband, could ask her to change her ways in this regard.

DEAR ABBY: My heart went out to that mother who wrote to say that her husband's constant criticism of their two small boys at the dinner table upset them so terribly they could scarcely eat, and often left the table in tears.

My husband was a fine man in many ways, but he too insisted upon making the dinner hour the time for criticizing our son. Today, at the age of 20, our son is suffering from stomach ulcers—probably from long years of bickering at the dinner table. He is a fine young man, and he and his Dad really love each other. I realize that my husband was only trying to teach the boy, but how much better it would have been had he chosen another time.

I hope that mother can persuade her husband to keep meal time a pleasant, relaxing occasion, and to save his criticism for later.

Are Lethal Drivers Emotionally Upset?

AUSTIN (UPI) — The Texas Association for Mental Health would like to find out how much truth there is in the assertion that emotionally upset drivers are killers.

The association is trying to get some research started in Texas to analyze the relationship between psychological factors and accidents. The Department of Public Safety and the Hogg Foundation for Mental Health also are interested.

Fred Bell, executive director of the Mental Health Association, said psychologists are convinced that emotional factors are involved in many wrecks, but he said there is little research to back up that belief.

Lack Research Funds
The DPS would like to know more about emotional factors in accidents, but has neither the manpower nor money to make the kind of detailed accident studies that would be required, a spokesman said.

The Mental Health Association is interested in everything from the driver with suicidal impulses to those who are just nervous or upset.

Bell said "psychologists and safety experts are more and more stressing the suicide impulse as the real cause of one car accidents, as well as accident-proneness in a driver who has repeated wrecks. Too often these drivers really want to die."

"But what we fail to realize is that people without continuing psychological problems can be tripped up by their emotions and have wrecks too."

Simple Things Blamed
Something as simple as a car full of noisy children can upset the driver and cause an accident, he said.

Bell said it is difficult for a driver to know when he may be a victim of emotional upset because he often is not conscious of it. "The only sign we may have of the internal warfare that is going on inside ourselves is a vague emptiness of depression," he said.

"That's why it's an awfully good idea to watch for these danger signals so we don't take out our grudges against our bosses and our wives against some unsuspecting motorist," he added.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Tessell, aturick & Ostrau says that although the stock market may see wide fluctuations during this year, the chances of heavy liquidation and a prolonged decline have been considerably reduced. The analyst says glamor and growth issues apparently will remain in the spotlight with a number of individual gains taking place among issues of computer and electronics firms.

Spea & Staff says that with many portfolios "fat with gains" it foresees an active trading market in 1968. But for the average investor, the company says, buying top quality stocks and avoiding speculative issues will be the safest policy.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Recent polls indicate that President Johnson's popularity rating, which was in a slump during most of 1967, is on the rise again.

To the average confused layman the reason for the upsurge may not be readily apparent. It even baffles some laymen who are not average or confused.

Most laymen assume that Johnson fared badly in the polls last summer because people were disenchanted with his policies.

If that were true, it would take a major change in those policies, or a major change in the people, to create a major change in the polls.

Policies, People Unchanged
The last time I checked, however, Johnson's policies were basically the same. And as far as I can tell the people aren't much different either.

How, then, does one account for the higher ratings? Well, to a clearheaded political analyst like myself, the answer is fairly obvious.

It stems primarily from Johnson's decision to recommend Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara for a new position as head of the World Bank. This was a masterful political stroke.

Last summer there was great public concern that Johnson might name the wrong type of man for the World Bank job—like maybe a banker.

The average confused layman probably was not even aware of all this concern. Nevertheless, it existed.

Surveys show that between 86 and 87 per cent of the American people have deeply rooted anxiety complex about the World Bank. Whether they know it or not.

Ready Answer
They are haunted by the fear that they might someday be asked to identify the president of the World Bank. As in a charades game, a crossword puzzle, or a trivia quiz.

When McNamara takes over, the World Bank for the first time will have a president everyone can remember. At least for the first couple of weeks.

Johnson, of course, has no interest in political polls himself. But if someone should happen to call the recent polls to his attention he might start coming around for other job changes that might improve his rating.

I'm not trying to start any rumors, you understand. But if you can't find McNamara's name in the Yellow Pages, remember you can't have first.

Television In Review

By RICK DUBROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)NBC-TV's one-hour weekend documentary, "Dr. Barnard's Heart Transplant Operations," showed what dynamism is added to television prime time when it presents timely material in human terms.

The physician—Dr. Christian Barnard, by now a name known around the world—had already been interviewed on American video, and effectively. Put here was an intense, dramatic documentary Saturday with fascinating background material and perspective. And no matter what past interviews there may have been, it cannot be minimized that this hour was, above all, in prime time—which is the page one of television. The impact, the greater number of viewers reached, cannot be denied.

There had been for a time a general lack of many timely subjects in prime time. Now there seems to be a bit of a revival, to wit:

More Human Element
CBS-TV is putting greater emphasis on the human element in its public affairs hour, and justified itself last year with such programs as the conversation with longshoreman-author Eric Hoffer, and the four-part examination of the Warren Commission report on President Kennedy's assassination. NBC-TV has scored some journalistic coups. And ABC-TV at least has its weekly series about Vietnam, with specific subjects explored.

There was controversy about the competition for network coverage of the Barnard story, but this is nothing new. The drama of the timeliness recalled the impact of three other NBC-TV documentaries also wrapped in controversy and immediacy: "The Tunnel," about the escape of East Germans through an underground passage; an hour about Nikita Khrushchev in virtual exile at home; and a program concerning New Orleans district attorney Jim Garrison's investigation of the Kennedy assassination.

Efficient Production
Each of these programs was handled with visual potency, and so was the Barnard hour. With indefatigable Lucy Jarvis producing—she previously did "Who Shall Live?" about the life-saving artificial kidney machine—and with Sidney Lazard handling reporting chores with welcome informality, the broadcast was crisp, businesslike and memorable.

The first half was virtually an interview with Barnard, a fascinating video subject. Much of the rest of the hour consisted of the exclusive "inside" material that undoubtedly caused something of a furor. It was, nevertheless, handled fairly enough, and added up to a powerful visual record that historians will consult.

Sunday night, ABC-TV offered a colorful, reasonable efficient but overlong two-and-a-half hour version of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." It wasn't scary or tragic enough, however, because Jack Palance, in the dual role, tended to overplay and perhaps also because it was mostly plot, with little character depth, so that one could care little about the entrapped doctor. You've got to do more in two-and-a-half hours than kill and change faces.

Russ Admits Guilt As Paid Informer

MOSCOW (UPI)—An underground campaigner for freedom of expression in Russia admitted to a Soviet Court today he acted as a paid informer for a Munich-based anti-Soviet emigre group that has figured in several subversion cases.

He was Alexei Dobrovolsky, 28, a bookbinder who went on trial today with three other persons on charges of "agitation" against the Soviet Union. Relatives outside shouted protests as the trial opened with one person pleading innocent and the others admitting complete or partial guilt.

Dobrovolsky told the court he distributed anti-Soviet material inside Russia and passed on rubles and dollars from the emigre group to the other three defendants.

Singer Says Cops Worked Him Over

Dobrovolsky and Vera Lashkova, a 22-year-old typist, both "fully admitted guilt" today. Alex Ginzburg, 31, a free lance journalist, told the court, "I do not admit guilty." The fourth defendant, 29-year-old museum clerk Yuri Galanskov pleaded "partially guilty."

Prosecutor Gennady Tereshkov said the defendants accepted anti-Soviet assignments, money, a secret writing kit and mimeograph equipment from the N.T.S. (peoples union of labor), an emigre group.

He said the defendants received at least 2,000 rubles ($2,222.22) and an unspecified number of dollars which he charged them with exchanging illegally on the black market.

Rodgers has said he cannot remember anything about the incident, other than that he was pulled off the freeway by a car with blinding headlights.

Tereshkov also hinted that the three men and the girl were linked with the American Central Intelligence Agency through their N.T.S. work, according to reports from the courtroom.

The singer is far from satisfied, however, with the police version of what took place after he halted his car on a side street in the Granada Hills area shortly after 4 a.m. "I think I was worked over," Rodgers was quoted as saying.

The defendants are liable to as many as seven years in prison.

Doctors said the singer apparently was injured in a fall, not by a blow, but Rodgers said:

"One doctor told me that to suffer this injury, I'd have had to have fallen six or seven feet, right on my head, on something hard."

Connally Expresses Concern on Crime

SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—Gov. John Connally said today he believes there is now enough public concern over the rising crime and disorder incidents in this country "to see that something now must be done."

Pampa, Other Cities Oppose College Plan

AUSTIN (UPI)—The junior college segment of the College Board's master plan for Texas higher education encountered its first serious opposition today.

The chambers of commerce or economic development committees from Liberty, Pampa and Sweetwater objected to the way the coordinating board has divided the state into 52 areas which it considers capable of supporting junior colleges by 1965.

Leaders from these three communities feared their towns would not get a junior college under the board's plan.

On the other hand, representatives from Hereford, Fredericksburg, Spring Branch and Haskell commended the plan. Each of these towns would have a good chance of getting a two-year school under the plan.

Dr. J. K. Williams, commissioner of higher education, said the 52 areas "are flexible and will be subject to change at such time as change seems reasonable and practicable." He said the areas are not intended to be tax districts and there would be no restriction against a student attending a junior college outside his own area.

Well, It May Sound A Little Nutty, But...

CLOUDCROFT, N.M. (UPI)—Skiing nuts feel right at home here. They ski on pecan shells. Ski Cloudcroft, the nation's southernmost skiing slope, has been praised by professional racing skiers and Olympic stars alike for its unique snow substitute — a mulch of pecan hulls.

Former Olympic star C. C. (Bud) Skinner, who came up with the idea and operates the ski run year-round, says the "Snowran" slope is short—300 feet long—but the best.

"A friend of mine, Max Morro of Aspen, Colo., who is now on the professional racing circuit, skied on it in August and said it's the best snow substitute he's ever seen," Skinner said. He said it costs about one-tenth as much as other snow substitutes such as carpeting and silicon mixtures.

Skinner and C. W. Ritter, who owns the runs, opened their pecan hull slope July 9 for Sunday skiing after Skinner hit upon the idea while preparing a pecan-hull mulch for his flower garden.

"I put the mulch down on my hillside garden and skied down it through the flowers," he said.

"It's great for beginners — using my special 'natural' approach to skiing and shorter skis. I can have a novice skiing in four hours," he said. "It (Snowran) is geared more to novice and intermediate skiing. We're competitive with other ski areas because we're closest to metropolitan Texas (80 miles north of El Paso), but we don't have the big mountains like other ski areas do."

"We also have the largest snow-making system in New Mexico and boy, when you get a quarter-inch of snow over the pecans, it's terrific skiing," he was seen in regular skiing.

Vietnam Police Arrest 160 Peasants in Raid on Market

DA NANG, Vietnam (UPI)—Police raided the farmers market today and arrested about 160 peasants accused of conducting an anti-American whispering campaign.

An American security official warned that this former hotbed of anti-Saigon government sentiment is rumbling again with discontent.

Vietnamese police and a U.S. Public Safety adviser said the peasants were protesting U.S. bombing in North and South Vietnam, the American presence in Vietnam and the continued detention of Buddhists arrested during the anti-government Buddhist-led campaign of 1966.

Those arrested today included women and children and six elderly men.

A. Wilson Edwards of Louisville, Ky., an American civilian adviser to the Da Nang police chief, warned "We're due for a lot more of this for the next months," adding that "small, dissident elements" among the Buddhists and the Viet Cong were behind the campaign.

The peasants were taken to the local headquarters of the national police and put into barbed-wire enclosures. Edwards said they would be questioned.

In Saigon, meantime, the Vietnamese Roman Catholic Council of Bishops issued a communique today calling for an end to the bombing and fighting in Vietnam.

The communique also asked for a halt of infiltration of war material by the Communists into South Vietnam and reflected Pope Paul VI's recent appeal.

The communique was carefully worded and went no further than the Pope's recent appeal. But it was considered a significant shift by Catholics who generally have taken an

Randy Voted Top State Amateur

DALLAS—Randy Matson the world's champion shot putter Tuesday was voted Texas Amateur Athlete of the year for 1967 in close voting by the Texas Sports Writer's Association.

Matson, who shattered his own world record with a toss of 71 feet 5 1/2 inches on Randy Matson Day at Texas A&M last spring, polled 25 of the 62 first place votes to nose out University of Houston All-America basketball star Elvin Hayes and the 1966 winner of the award, Texas footballer Chris Gilbert.

Hayes received 23 first place ballots and Gilbert 13, but in the preferential balloting — in which points are totaled in reverse order of the ballot ranking—Matson received 177 points, Hayes 184 and Gilbert 189. Texas Southern sprinter Jim Hines received 213 points and Texas Arlington swimmer Doug Russell got 249 points.

Matson and other award winners will be feted at the association's annual honors dinner at Dallas next month. Previously announced winners include coaches Gene Stallings, Texas A&M Tom Sewell of San Jacinto and Wally Lemm of the Houston Oilers. Matson, referred to by many as 'Superman' because of his outstanding feats in track field placed second in the last Olympics and is just back from a tour of Europe. He will compete in the 1968 Olympics where he is considered by many as a sure bet to pick up a gold medal.

UCLA Hogs First Place in Ratings

NEW YORK (UPI)—High and mighty UCLA regained unanimous college basketball supremacy today when the nation's coaches gave the unbeaten Bruins every first place vote for the fifth time this season to again easily outdistance Houston in the 16th weekly ratings for 1967-68.

Coach Johnny Wooden's invincible forces, who are 10-0 this season and are currently riding a 44-game win string, the second longest in the history of the collegiate game, were named to the top spot on every ballot cast by United Press International's 35-member Board of Coaches to roll up a perfect 350 points. A week ago the Uclans received 34 first place votes and 34 points when upstart Oklahoma City landed the other vote.

Houston, rolling along with a 15-0 mark, retained second place for the sixth week in a row by receiving all but two second place votes. The Cougars thereby cut the Uclans lead from 43 to 39 points.

But after the top two, losses by Vanderbilt, ranked third last week, and Oklahoma City, No. 8 a week ago, set off a chain reaction that altered the next seven spots.

In the balloting based on games played through Jan. 6, North Carolina, Kentucky, and Tennessee each moved up a notch, all three leapfrogging past Vanderbilt, which dropped to sixth after falling before Kentucky 94-78.

Utah dropped from a tie for sixth to seventh, and was followed by New Mexico and St. Bonaventure, the top 10's two new entries who soared from deep in the second 10 a week ago to the eighth and ninth spots respectively. Davidson remained 10th.

UCLA opened its Pacific Eight campaign by crushing Washington and Washington State last week, and Houston was just as convincing in thumping Michigan by 25 points and Centenary by 30 as the two giants move toward their head-to-head clash at the Astrodome on Jan. 20.

North Carolina (9-1) received a majority of the third place votes after whipping Wake Forest and Duke, the Tar Heels' major Atlantic Coast Conference rival.

Kentucky (9-1), made its only game of the week a big one by downing Vandy and receiving 241 points for its efforts—98 more than a week ago. Tennessee (7-1) broke its tie for sixth with Utah by moving into fifth with 115 points, 48 more than the Vols had last week.

Three points back came the Commodores (10-2) who had been comfortably lodged in third place for five straight weeks before their loss to Kentucky. Vanderbilt received less than half their 244-vote total of last week.

Utah won its one game of the week, topping American University, and received 97 points, 30 more than last week.

New Mexico (13-0) moved up from a tie for 15th a week ago by garnering 76 points after downing arch-rival New Mexico State 71-64 Saturday night.

St. Bonaventure, unbeaten in 11 outings, more than quadrupled its point total for 119 to 63 after whipping Kent State and Niagara in their two games of the week, enabling the Bonnies to shoot up from 17th place.

Davidson, in an up and down week, was beaten by last week's 12th ranked team, Duke, but came back to clip St. John's, previously ranked No. 11.

Pampa Eyes Tie For League Title

LUBBOCK — Pampa's Harvesters rolled into town in quest of their seventh District 3-A victory and hoped to nail down at least a tie for the district title by beating Lubbock Coronado tonight.

The Harvesters were expecting a tough battle from the Mustangs who have been beaten only twice this season on their home court.

Pampa is 6-0 in league play compared to Coronado's 2-4 mark and the Harvesters carry a 16-2 season record compared to the Mustangs 10-3 reading.

A victory would give Pampa a two game lead in the district race with only two games left in the first half of play. The Harvesters host Berger Friday and can probably wrap up the first half title.

Astros Plan Experiments With Wynn, Davis in 1968

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Houston Astros, who will have much more room to move up than down in the National League standings next season, definitely plan to try heavy-hitting Jim Wynn in left field instead of center.

At least, that's one of the firm statements issued by Manager Grady Hatton in an optimistic 1968 preview he has composed to promote season ticket sales for the Astrodome occupants.

"One of our spring experiments will be to move Ron Davis to center and Wynn to left," Hatton said, adding that it is his feeling that "Wynn will be able to concentrate more on his hitting with this shift plus the fact that Davis showed remarkable defensive abilities last year."

Wynn stayed in contention for the league's home run and runs batted in titles up to the fag end of the season. Teamed with Rusty Staub, who contended for the batting crown against Orlando Cepeda until the final weeks when he slipped to .333, they form a potent pair.

"Staub, who can become one of the great hitters in baseball, is a fixture in right field," Hatton said. "Ivan Murrell, up from a fine season at Oklahoma City, may break into the starting lineup or will be used as a reserve outfielder with Aaron Pointer and Norm Miller."

Hatton warned that "it's always easy to become optimistic during the off-season," but said he sincerely felt more confident "than I have of any team since I took over the managerial reins in 1966."

last season, said the club's biggest problems then was "inconsistent pitching and weak defensive play, particularly in key situations."

He said he believed the club has made moves to correct this.

"Our pitching could be the best in baseball," he said. "Mike Cuellar, Denny Lemaster, Larry Dietker, Don Wilson, Wade Eisingame and Dave Giusti are all proven winners as starting pitchers."

"If each would equal his best previous record it would mean 86 victories for us. Cuellar and Wilson gave us a good game almost every time they took the mound last season and there is no reason they shouldn't get better."

Dierker missed most of last season due to Army service. Hatton said Blasingame and Giusti would battle for the fifth starting slot and that Giusti might wind up as the keystone of the bullpen, "which was one of our big failures last year."

Hatton indicated the catcher's slot was wide open, but was high in his hopes of 23-year-old Hal King, up from Asheville, among the five he will take to spring camp. Veterans John Bateman and Ron Brand, whose versatility at second and third base and left field make him a prime prospect, will return.

Hatton said only shortstop remained un-set on the outfield with Doug Rader at first, Joe Morgan at second and Bo Aspromonte at third.

He said Hector Torres and newly-acquired Denis Menke (from the Braves) would battle for shortstop. Torres question mark, Hatton said, was hit bat-work.

Pack Eyeing Super Payoff

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI)—The time for talking is over and the Green Bay Packers and Oakland Raiders closed the gates to their practice fields today and went to work on their plans for settling the second Super Bowl game.

The only visible gremlin was the flu bug of Oakland's Daryle Lamonica, but Coach John Rauch fully expected his quarterback to work out with the team and be ready for the Sunday game in Miami's Orange Bowl.

Both teams planned hard practices today and Wednesday, the 14-points favored packers at the New York Yankees spring training grounds here and the Raiders 15 miles north at a boys prep school in Boca Raton. The workouts of both teams will be closed from now on.

Lamonica rested in his room Monday when the Raiders put on their uniforms in the afternoon for press pictures and interviews. He had the flu before the team left California Sunday to fly to Florida, but the team arrived reporting the bug was whipped.

Foreign Aid Blackmail

The moment of truth is at hand for the economic cooks in Washington and peering desperately into the murky, swirling depths of the stew they have concocted, they like not what they see.

For, with foreign aid, with which they hoped to manipulate and control the economies of other countries (a tactic successful to a degree while our gold stocks lasted), they have put into the hands of foreign governments the instrument of blackmail.

To terminate foreign aid now would, without a doubt, set off a run on the gold hoard (if any remaining in Fort Knox. And, with far more dollars (for which they can demand and get gold under present law) in the hands of foreigners than the U.S. government has gold, such a run would expose the government's bankrupt condition to the American people and the world.

The administration knows this, the heads of foreign governments know it, and both sides are perfectly aware that the other side knows it. So, in effect, foreigners are saying to the wheelers and dealers in Washington: "Continue the foreign aid goodies, paid for with the sweat of American taxpayers, or we will expose you for the frauds you are."

Terminate foreign aid? Unthinkable! So must run the thoughts in Washington these days. Yet, for every day that foreign aid continues, the problem grows worse and the final solution more catastrophic. Clearly, foreign aid which, more than any other factor, is responsible for the flight of gold from this country, MUST be terminated and SOON.

Moral Foundation of Money

The public finally is becoming concerned over the rising cost of living, and the loss of gold, which accompany inflation. One of our readers forwarded to us an article from the California Mining Journal by the Rev. Rousas J. Rushdoony, who is known by many in Santa Ana.

Entitled "Moral Foundations of Money," the Rushdoony piece contributes additional thought to this pressing issue of the day. By permission of the California Mining Journal, we reprint below Mr. Rushdoony's comments, which are excerpted from a longer article by the same title.

"Paper money and debased coinage drives good money out of circulation, since people refuse to exchange good money for bad money. Money is debased and corrupted in three ways, basically. The first, referred to by Isaiah, is debasing the coinage-replacing gold and silver coins with coins of either lesser precious content or an entirely debased metallic content. The second method is by creating new bank credits on the basis of an increasing public debt. But debt, either public or private, is forbidden by Scripture except for emergency reasons. The third means of corrupting money is a modern one, issuing paper money in excess of gold and silver reserves.

Sensing The News By THURMAN SENSING

The Vital Issues While no one can tell what surprises are in store for the American people in 1968, there are certain key issues that surely will engage the attention of the public.

Perhaps the No. 1 domestic issue is that of law and order. The year 1967 was a disaster year in terms of lawlessness. Mobs in Newark, Detroit and other cities destroyed millions of dollars worth of property and turned fine communities into an inferno.

The American people, for all their extreme tolerance, surely will not tolerate another long, hot summer of civil insurrection fanned by professional agitators and their apologists. A tough police crackdown, such as has been ordered in Miami, Florida, is likely to be the national pattern. The major confrontation between the lawless and the forces of law and order may come in Chicago, where civil disobedience groups threaten to engulf the city when the Democrats hold their presidential nominating convention.

On the international front, the war in Vietnam will continue to be the subject of top concern. The "doves" are hard at work, trying to force an American withdrawal so that Ho Chi Minh can have an easy peace. The public has to watch that nervous men in Washington don't yield to the pressure from the demonstrators who represent only a tiny element in American life. The majority of citizens are likely to be angry if the McNamara "no win" policies aren't scrapped when Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara leaves office this year.

The Vietnam war is taking on a new dimension, with the communists making greatly increased use of privileged sanctuaries in Cambodia and Laos. Communist ships are unloading vast quantities of supplies on the Cambodian coast. But Mr. McNamara denies permission to the U.S. service chiefs to order bombing of the Cambodian supply points. Equally outrageous is the fact that U.S. units commanders are not permitted to follow communist troops when they cross into Cambodia for refuge.

Yet another major issue in 1968 will be the fate of the dollar. The European bankers who in the last year looked so suspiciously on the British pound have begun to ask tough questions about the U.S. dollar. The European bankers apparently believe that the Johnson administration has a credibility gap when it comes to announced measures to protect the dollar. The business world is aware of America's great balance of payments deficit and is alarmed with reason. To prove that it intends to protect the dollar, the administration is going to have to reverse its policies and change its attitudes, and slash foreign aid. U.S. business also needs a real assist in selling abroad.

Other governments give their manufacturers a tremendous assist in marketing goods overseas. The U.S. government is perhaps the only government in the world that seems more interested in developing the economies of foreign states than it is in aiding its own business enterprises. Nineteen sixty-eight should be the year in which the U.S. government starts thinking about the needs and opportunities of U.S. industry facing foreign competition.

The United States is grossly over-dependent on foreign imports in many lines, ranging from steel products to textiles. It is essential, therefore, that Congress take some action this year to deal with the flood of imports that destroy jobs and take away profits. Still another vital issue for 1968 is the attitude of the unions toward wage increases. Every one wants a higher wage or salary, but in the modern business world such increases have to come about through improvements in labor productivity. What is worst about Big Unionism is its attitude toward plant modernization. Many, many unions bitterly resent the introduction of new, labor-saving machinery. Yet this machinery is the real hope of the American economy faced with competition from foreign sources. Unions are dead wrong to try to force industry to work with antiquated equipment or to continue work practices which are rooted in the technologies of yesterday.

The Headless Horseman

Pull Up A Chair By FRANK JAY MARKEY

If you find fault with the standard brands of coffee as so many do these days, why not switch to the kind produced in Hawaii? Kona coffee is one of the rarest and most delicious brands in the world. In fact, it's so good gourmets call it "the champagne of coffees" and for a good reason since it can only be produced in limited amounts each year, due to special climate and soil conditions found only in the Kona area of the 50th state. Ask your grocer for it and you'll find it has a distinctive flavor, great strength and pleasing aroma. Curiously enough, few mainlanders know about it, but the Hawaiians have been growing it since 1828.

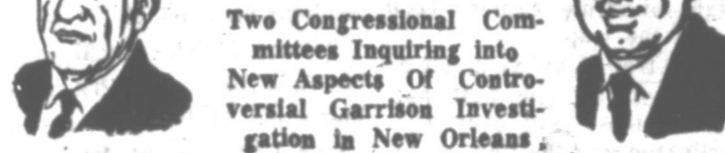

Today's smile: Our favorite teen-ager asks: "What would your nose be if it were 12 inches long?" We didn't know, but she did. She said "A foot." Oh brother!

Groucho Marx says today's comedians don't have to be funny because a sound track of laughter is dubbed in whenever it's thought necessary on the canned TV shows. He should know, but we think it is due mainly to a lack of comic talent. The only show we watch that makes an effort to give you belly laughs is the Jackie Gleason extravaganza when he's teamed with Art Carney. The rest of the so-called comics are simply wisecrackers reciting smart jokes and gags written by their handymen.

Thoughts while shaving: It just occurred to us that we can't recall when our parents employed a "baby-sitter" when we were young. Maybe in those days a mother was simply a mother and didn't have to go dashing off to a movie or a bowling alley in the evening hours to prove she was "with it." Can't recall either that any of our friends ever mentioned a "baby-sitter" either when we were growing up. Guess things were different in those days. One of the reasons for coin hoarding is the increase in the price of silver to $2 an ounce. At that rate a pre-1965 quarter contains about 36 cents worth of silver. And, although it's illegal to melt U.S. coins to obtain the silver, we suspect there are some who do it. And speaking of coins reminds us that you don't receive many half-dollars in your change these days. They have colleges for almost everything now. The latest is an 80-acre campus between Dallas and Fort Worth, Tex., where they train airline personnel. It will be operating at capacity for a union to accept new machinery and then demand that players be paid at the same rate as highly skilled workers on other types of machines.

These, then, are some of the vital issues of 1968. On their successful resolution depends the security, happiness and economic well-being of the American people.

Backstage Washington Two Congressional Committees Inquiring Into New Aspects Of Controversial Garrison Investigation in New Orleans

WASHINGTON — District Attorney Jim Garrison's controversial New Orleans investigation of the Kennedy assassination is beginning to attract some belated congressional attention. Staffs of the House Committee on Un-American Activities and the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee are quietly checking into Garrison's wide-ranging inquiry to determine exactly what he is now up to. At present, the attention of these congressional probers centers around Garrison's interest in and handling of (1) an official of the Ku Klux Klan and (2) a former congressional committee employe, who has given secret testimony before the New Orleans grand jury.

Significantly, both of these persons were reluctant witnesses in past congressional investigations not related to the Kennedy assassination. The KKK official involved in Garrison's investigation is Jack M. Helm, the former exalted cyclops of the New Orleans, Louisiana, unit of the United Klans of America. He is now head of an independent KKK group which he organized. Summoned before the House Un-American Activities Committee in Jan. 1966 during the committee's probe of the KKK, he was an uncooperative witness.

Helm, an operations manager of a New Orleans construction company, invoked the fifth, first, fourth and fourteenth amendments of the Constitution in refusing to answer any of the questions put to him by committee members. The transcript of the committee hearings shows that one of the questions Helm refused to answer concerned his appearance on a speakers platform with three persons who were arrested in connection with the slaying in Philadelphia, Mississippi, of three civil rights workers. Testimony was presented during this year and you'll hear more of it as "the largest airline personnel training center in the world." These press preview pictures of the new British-French Concorde airplane will carry upwards of 500 passengers on a single flight made us wonder what happened to the giant flying boat Howard Hughes built years ago. It cost millions, but we've never heard very much about it since its single flight. Somehow we think if it was practicable Hughes would have stuck with it. The Chicago (Ill.) TRIBUNE reported in a story: "The package is likely to get crushed in the course of normal postal handling." Indubitably.

Country Editor speaking: "Nothing can replace the bikini swimsuit and no doubt in time it will.

ing the hearing by a committee investigator that "At the rally Helm stated, 'No congressional investigation will ever deteriorate this (KKK) organization. We'll still be here when they are dead and buried — and I hope it will be soon.'"

HUNT FOR TRUTH

By H. L. HUNT THE ALTERNATIVES OF VICTORY The history of war fails to reveal a single instance in which one nation has defeated another without either invasion or strategic bombardment of the losing country. Before the advent of modern airpower, invasion or threat of invasion was an absolute necessity. In the War Between the States, for instance, it was not the battlefield defeat of Lee's forces at Gettysburg that broke the will and capacity of the South to support the war effort; it was Sherman's march through Georgia. In World War I, the German nation was willing to support a war effort on multiple fronts, until the battle moved to the German heartland. The imminent threat of invasion destroyed their will to resist. With the United States' development of strategic bombing came the only alternative to invasion for achieving victory. Japan capitulated to the awesome destruction wrought by American airpower, rather than the fear of an invasion she was well-prepared to meet. And Emperor Hirohito's decision to save his nation from destruction came months before the first atomic bomb was dropped, so non-nuclear airpower was the margin of victory — as it was in Germany, according to Herbert Hoover's postwar survey. In the Korean War, when the enemy was granted a privileged sanctuary in Manchuria, immune from invasion or bombing, United States forces suffered their first stalemate in history. It is unwise for any nation to ignore the lessons of history, and assuredly history prompts us to ponder: Is it ever possible to win a war if an enemy nation's homeland is allowed to be a sanctuary from which attacks may be launched?

Editor: Columnist Wm. F. Buckley, Jr., now posing as "the relentlessly reasonable man on the Right" launched a campaign about 1955 to rescue our Republic from the communist conspiracy. If he had emerged from a "poor-boy" background, it was unknown to others. He did solicit and receive help. Dozens of dedicated patriots have made contributions in cash and in other types of assistance to his campaign. Papers which publish his column have called him an outstanding conservative spokesman, but in recent years he has been making virulent attacks against well-known disciples of the truth-side. Buckley's attitudes add innuendoes should be weighed carefully. It could serve a good purpose if it becomes known precisely where he stands, and if he needs the assistance of those who have assisted him in years gone by, now more than ever, to straighten out his philosophies. mittee confidential information. Weisberg, whose latest book carries a foreword by Garrison, has appeared several times before the New Orleans grand jury being used by the district attorney for his inquiry. In his publications Weisberg contends that Lee Harvey Oswald, accused Kennedy assassin, was framed by an impersonator. The congressional probers are now checking Weisberg's long-time contacts in the Central Intelligence Agency and State Department, including several persons who transferred to those agencies from the Office of Strategic Services (OSS) after World War II. FREEZING THE FUNDS — The so-called "Percy fund" may never be spent. Aides of Senator Charles Percy, R-Ill., say that none of the money has been used from the $100,000 fund which a group of wealthy private individuals set up to help the Senator pay some of his office expenses. Supporters of Percy, who believe the GOP freshman senator has a chance of becoming the GOP vice presidential candidate in 1968, are urging him not to use the fund, since it would be soon forgotten if he should make a quick move to discontinue the fund before any of the money is spent. Although Senator Percy has said publicly he sees nothing wrong with the fund, he is giving the suggestion serious private consideration. Until he makes a decision, he has adopted a policy of paying from his own pocket the extra expenses for his office not covered by congressional appropriations.

Whether it is a "progressive-Marxist-liberal" idea to attempt to fix a dollar value on life, we do not know. It seems to us the idea is more regressive than progressive. Slave owners attempted to put a dollar value on life and some collective organizations, such as unions and government may try to fix a dollar value on services. But it seems to us that anyone with a true respect for life would consider life to be without price except to the individual whose life is at stake. A father or mother who gives up his or her life for a child is placing a greater price on the child's life than on his or her own. But no individual other than the person involved can have any right to determine that one shall die that another may live.

Congress has been on vacation again. I wish they would take a permanent vacation and give the country a breather. Some of the fruits they pass in Congress makes me think the biggest knucklehead in Washington ain't been born yet. Congress is something like a nose full of sinuses. You can clean it out about every four years but it fills right back up again. I suppose though we will always have Congressmen — otherwise where would we send the black sheep of the family. To run for Congress you have got to be half native and half witted and the path of civilization is paved with the one who made the grade. The first thing a congressman does when he gets to Washington is look for a house way over in Chevy Chase, Maryland. Its a handy place to park their brains before commuting to work. Besides they have got to live that far away from the capital in order to escape the hot air.

Wit and Whimsy

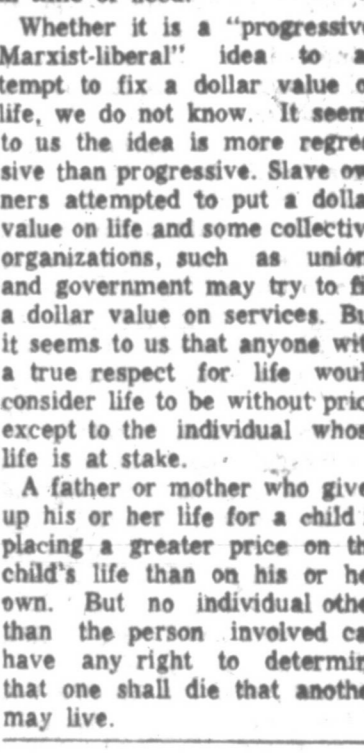

A student was taking his Army physical. Said the doctor. Doctor Lee — I'll whisper a number; if you hear it, repeat it. The physician then bellowed 47! The college boy laughed a minute, then said — 36! Doctor Lee — Close enough. 1-A! Asked about his bride's cooking the sergeant replied, Sergeant-King—I'm the only man on the base that packs a lunch to go home. The harder you work the luckier you get.

Question Box

We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not take more than 100 words.

QUESTION: What is a human life worth? You need not answer in so many dollars, but how does one go about finding the exchange rate between money (the product of man's labor) and life? It seems to me the progressive-Marxist-liberal idea that one life is worth any amount of somebody else's money is causing us some problems. —J.D.T.

ANSWER: We know of no way to determine the value of human life in dollars and cents. Even if one were able to determine the probable future earnings of an individual for the rest of his life, as is attempted in certain legal proceedings, there is no way of fixing the value to one's family that would be attached to that person's life. There are too many imponderables. Each person has an individual personality which will have a different value to him and to those with whom he comes into contact during his lifetime. We doubt if there are many thinking individuals who would attempt to put a price on a smile, a friendly word, a bit of advice, a willingness to listen to a friend or even a helping hand in time of need. Whether it is a "progressive-Marxist-liberal" idea to attempt to fix a dollar value on life, we do not know. It seems to us the idea is more regressive than progressive. Slave owners attempted to put a dollar value on life and some collective organizations, such as unions and government may try to fix a dollar value on services. But it seems to us that anyone with a true respect for life would consider life to be without price except to the individual whose life is at stake. A father or mother who gives up his or her life for a child is placing a greater price on the child's life than on his or her own. But no individual other than the person involved can have any right to determine that one shall die that another may live.

HOW'S BUSINESS? Uncertainties Arise Amidst Optimism

At this initial stage of the new year, there is considerable hope that the upturn in business which commenced last fall can not only make further headway but perhaps evidence a measure of acceleration as well in the first half year. Much of the optimism is based upon the catch-up efforts of Ford in the automobile industry. This is also likely to be supplemented by additional stimulus from strike-hedge accumulation of steel products. The economy already enjoys a strong base in the big backlog of unfilled orders at the manufacturers' level, and defense work should help to bolster business at least for a while longer.

Nevertheless, there are some important clouds which cast shadows of doubt on just how much vigor business can generate. The adverse monetary climate has now been aggravated by the recent credit-tightening measure adopted by the Federal Reserve. Unless Congress enacts the much needed tax legislation, an extremely onerous credit scramble could ensue. Certainly, interest rates are already high enough to exert a potentially dampening influence on the economy, and a further squeeze could prove to be disastrous. At stake are business capital spending, new building and construction, and consumer durable goods demand.

While the fighting in Vietnam still rages, there could be an unexpected, but much desired, cease-fire or at least peace talks in 1968. Should this develop, a new factor would be introduced, namely an uncertain period of transition to a fully peacetime economy. As the year progresses toward its mid-point, concern over business prospects for the second half of 1968 could wield a decisive influence upon business and investment sentiment. The confidence factor could be one of the more vulnerable sectors during 1968, as it faces buffeting by fears of inflation, concern over the dollar, and slim profit margins. Sociological and labor dislocations likewise could adversely affect optimism and hamper business.

Boston Subway Trains Crash

BOSTON (UPI)—Two subway trains crammed with passengers collided just inside a tunnel in zero weather today. At least 20 persons were injured.

One of the trains was derailed. Passengers aboard the four-car Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority (MBTA) trains screamed in terror. Robert Gauthier, a United Press International technician who was aboard one of the trains, said he heard a "loud crash."

"Some of the people screamed but there was no panic," Gauthier said. He was not hurt.

A woman who said she had heart trouble said passengers toppled on one another. The injured were carried out in stretchers. Others walked along the tracks to the nearest station.

The last car of the two trains was just inside the tunnel between Maverick Station and Airport Station. The trains were enroute to Government Center Station, the final stop on the line.

The two trains were proceeding slowly, witnesses said. Temperatures hovering near zero snarled schedules on the line and packed cars with commuters who normally would

CLOSE INN

TAIPEI (UPI)—Police closed the internationally known hot springs resort Literary Inn for one week Monday, after Time Magazine ran a picture showing two naked female employees bathing an American G.I.

Informed sources said the action was a temporary face-saving measure undertaken because of local outcry at the picture.

Boston has received 27 inches of snow in less than two weeks. "There were at least 20 stretcher cases," an META spokesman said.
