Heavy Fighting In Saigon Area

By JACK WALSH
SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. troops hacked their way through heavy jungle in the face of rockets and tear gas today, and killed at least 116 Viet Cong threatening allied bases near Saigon.

Military spokesmen said American bombers kept a curtain of 500-pound bombs exploding 100 yards in front of the advancing GIs. The U.S. forces overran a series of bitterly defended guerrilla positions threatening the Long Binh-Hien Hoa base complex north of the capital.

In the air, American jets struck North Vietnam's southern panhandle Thursday with the most massive raid of the year—145 missions. Despite clouds that limited visibility to 2,000 feet, the pilots pounded supply dumps, troop centers, roadways and bridges under the 19th parallel, the farthest north allowed under the curtailed bombing program to get Hanoi to the conference table.

But disaster struck two Army helicopters 60 miles south of the South Vietnamese coastal city of Qui Nhon. They collided today and crashed, killing all eight American crewmen and the 18 Montagnard mountain tribal warriors they were ferrying, spokesmen said.

Near the former imperial city of Hue, 400 miles above Saigon, U.S. paratroopers closed in on three hamlets vacated by civilians but housing about 300 North Vietnamese. U.S. jets dropping napalm and artillery barrages burned each hamlet.

UPI correspondent Rayford Wilkinson reported 11 North Vietnamese killed in the first part of Paratrooper sweep into the ruins.

their round-the-clock pounding of the A Shau Valley, the key supply route feeding five Communist divisions in South Vietnam's northern provinces.

American Casualties
In the jungle fighting less than 30 miles above Saigon, first reports put American losses at eight men killed and 18 wounded.

Lt. Col. Kenneth W. Hall of Columbus, Ga., led up to 1,500 men of the Army 199th Light Infantry Brigade into the 150-foot-high jungle against the Viet Cong rocket bases threatening the allied bases. The push began Thursday. It roared today.

Reconsideration Asked In Paving Assessments

A request for reconsideration of paving assessments in Pampa's overall 1968 street improvement program was made today at a public hearing on the project by the Fort Worth & Denver Ry. Co.

The railroad's attorney, Jim Sanders of Amarillo, made a 45-minute plea to members of the city commission urging "a change of mind" on paying assessments against the company and charged if the present assessment schedule should be months of this year at a net loss of $2,500 a month.

"I am calling it to the attention of commission members as good businessmen that it is easy to see operation in this direction cannot long continue," Sanders said. "So far this year the railroad's net loss has been $10,000."

Sanders also told the commission that property along the streets to be paved and leased by the railroad bring in only a small income from each of the renters totaling only from $150 to $200 a year.

BULLETIN
With the possibility existing that Pampa's entire 1968 paving program could be placed in jeopardy by an appeal to the courts from the Fort Worth & Denver Ry., the city commission adjourned today's public hearing on the project at 12:15 o'clock this noon. In the meantime City Atty. Bob Gordon and railroad attorneys were attempting to reach a tax assessment compromise that would forestall any such possibility.

carried through it would amount to confiscation of property.

Sanders listed street by street where paving is proposed along property owned by the railroad and said "when the value conferred upon the property by the street improvements is added to the value of the property itself it does not come close to the amount of assessments made."

Sanders told the commission the railroad presently has been operating for the first four

Ky Is Said Fired From Spy Project
WASHINGTON (UPI)—South Vietnam's Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky once was fired from a spy operation sponsored by the Central Intelligence Agency because he used it as a cover for smuggling opium into Saigon, according to a letter released by a Senate subcommittee.

The letter, from an unnamed American, charged that Ky, then in the South Vietnamese air force, took advantage of the CIA cover to fly the opium in from Laos.

The letter was released by the Senate foreign expenditures (See SPY PROJECT, Page 3)

Jordan Claims Defeat Of Two Israeli Patrols
By United Press International
Jordan said today it beat back two attempts by Israeli patrols to cross into its territory Thursday night.

A military spokesman in Amman said Jordanian and Israeli forces fought a two-hour battle in the Manshiya area at the northern end of the Jordan Valley. He said another 50-minute exchange took place shortly afterwards near the Sheikh Hussein bridge.

It was the second time this week Jordan had charged Israel with attempting to infiltrate Jordanian territory. The first incident was reported Tuesday.

In Cairo Arab sources said United Nations peace envoy Gunnar Jarring had failed to make progress toward a Middle East peace settlement and would take his mission back to New York.

Hassan El Zayat, a spokesman for the United Arab Republic said Jarring's mission was back at "point zero." The Swedish diplomat met earlier in the week with the U.A.R. Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad.

Hanoi Says US-Proposed Sites For Talks Are Unfair To Them

Mammoth Problem!
STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Police today said a woman filled a theft complaint against Fatima, a 21-year-old elephant in the Stockholm Skansen Zoo.

The woman said Fatima used her trunk to snatch the woman's purse and swallowed it, money, driver's license, compact and all.

Police said they are studying what to do.

'Requiem' Is Slated By Oratorio Choir Sunday

In Harvester Field House

Dr. Richard P. Condie will direct the Pampa Oratorio Chorus in its presentation of Brahms' German "Requiem" in English at 3 p.m. Sunday in Pampa High School's Harvester Field House.

Dr. Condie, conductor of the Mormon Tabernacle Choir, Salt Lake City, Utah, directed a 200 voice chorus in its presentation of Handel's "Messiah" here in 1967.

The 120-voice oratorio chorus this year includes singers from Pampa area church choirs and the PHS A Cappella Choir, accompanied by 36 musicians from Pampa High School orchestra and the Amarillo Symphony orchestra.

Dr. Condie will rehearse the chorus and orchestra at 7 p.m. today at First Christian Church and at 2 p.m. Saturday at First Baptist Church.

The presentation is sponsored by the Fine Arts Association's music committee, with Curt Beck as chairman.

In May, Dr. Condie will conduct the All-State High School Choir at Missoula, Mont. and will do a sacred music service sponsored by the American Guild of Organists at Akron, Ohio.

Since Sept. 15, 1957 Dr. Condie has been director of the 375-voice Mormon Tabernacle Choir, succeeding J. Spencer Cornwall. Dr. Condie has been soloist with, and assistant director of the choir since 1937.

Little Girl Dies After Shooting
DEL RIO, Tex. (UPI)—Doctors fought for more than five hours Thursday to save a 2-year-old Mexican girl left for dead three days ago when four members of her family were killed. The efforts were in vain.

Leticia Arellano, 2, died in a hospital at Sonora, north of Del Rio, Thursday despite a futile effort by doctors to save her life by pumping oxygen into her lungs. She had been shot in the head and left for dead three days ago when four members of her family were killed.

She lived since sometime Tuesday with a bullet in her brain. Three members of her family and another relative were killed in the same incident. Another brother was in serious condition in a San Antonio hospital.

A nationwide bulletin was issued Thursday for a sandy-haired, freckle-faced man, with a rash on his neck, seen Tuesday with the family of Mexican Nationals.

"This is the biggest lead we have had so far," Texas Ranger Alfred Allee said.

The victim's bodies were found scattered in a field on the Lee Whitehead Ranch about 58 miles north of Del Rio Wednesday. They were 18-month-old Edward Arellano; Rosa Elia Santos Arellano, 21; her brother, Manuel Arellano Sr., about 30; and Arellano's wife, Monica del la Lopez Arellano, 24.

Choir Director — Dr. Richard P. Condie is shown here directing the Mormon Tabernacle Choir in Salt Lake City, Utah. Dr. Condie will direct the Pampa Oratorio Chorus in its presentation of Brahms' "Requiem" Sunday at 3 p.m. Dr. Condie will be directing the choir in rehearsal sessions tonight and Saturday night.

'Voice With Smile' Little Harrassed But Service OK Despite Phone Strike

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The "voice with a smile" sounded a little harressed today, but to most Americans there was little outward evidence of the first cross-country telephone strike in 21 years.

More than 200,000 Bell Telephone system and Western Electric Co. workers were called out at midday Thursday in a strike for higher wages.

Actually, the Communications Workers of America AFL-CIO called the strike in only nine states and the District of Columbia, where wage opener clauses in local contracts had expired. But the union asked its members to quit work in sympathy with striking Western Electric Co. workers wherever Western Electric has plants.

A spokesman said this meant that some, but not all, CWA members were out in "about 40" states. But only about half of the CWA's total membership of 440,000 was called out immediately.

The effects of the walkout were noticed chiefly by those trying to make calls that required a telephone operator's assistance — collect, person-to-person, credit card or international calls.

Dial telephone operators were not halted, but CWA President Joseph A. Beirne said they would be affected as the automated equipment begins to break down.

"The $30 billion computer they call the Bell Telephone system is the most spectacular achievement of automation—but without the skills of our members, who repair and keep it running, that computer will eventually become an enormous pile of junk," the union leader has said.

Beirne plainly was banking on the fact that despite extra-long working hours supervisory personnel would not be able to give the complex dial equipment the servicing it needs. This a breakdown in the equipment might lead to widespread telephone disruptions and pressure on the company for a settlement.

Senate has approved a 10 per cent income tax surcharge, but the measure has yet to clear a conference committee and go to the House floor, where approval is anything but certain.

The last increase in the Fed's discount rate came just five weeks ago on March 15.

Earlier Thursday Arthur Okun, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, told the National Press Club. "The time to stop our economic overindulgence is now."

Reds Blast New 'Condition' By US

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet press quoted "Hanoi circles" today as saying the 10 negotiations sites proposed by the United States would give the Americans an unfair advantage.

A dispatch from Hanoi by the Soviet news agency Tass said these circles called the U.S. proposal "far from constructive" and repeated North Vietnam demands that the initial contacts take place in Phnom Penh or Warsaw.

The dispatch castigated American's desire that U.S. allies in the Vietnam War attend the talks.

"In the opinion of Hanoi observers," Tass said, "this new American condition is aimed at delaying contacts with the Democratic Republic of Vietnam."

It was the third time that an American overture on a venue for the talks was answered by Tass in an officially-inspired story from Hanoi. Despite open American irritation at this practice, both the Soviets and the North Vietnamese appeared willing to continue using Tass as a channel of communication.

Another Tass dispatch from Hanoi earlier today quoted the Hanoi newspaper, Nhan Dan, as saying the Johnson administration has failed to show good will by rejecting Phnom Penh or Warsaw as a site for the contacts.

The new U.S. proposals "are far from being constructive, it is believed in Hanoi circles," Tass said tonight.

"It is said here (Hanoi) that in none of the 10 countries named yesterday by U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, is the Vietnam side likely to have equal conditions compared with the American side," it said.

It pointed out that the United States rejected Phnom Penh because there is no U.S. embassy there.

"At the same time," it said, "North Vietnam has no relation with the countries suggested by Dean Rusk and no means of communications needed for the Vietnamese side."

The United States stated its opposition to Warsaw because Poland is not a neutral nation, Tass said.

But "many of the U.S.-suggested 10 countries are not neutral and... some of them, far from being neutral, actively support the United States in its war of aggression in Vietnam — for instance, Japan and Malaysia," it said.

"Phnom Penh and Warsaw are seen here as convenient sites for contacts with the American side," the Tass dispatch concluded.

It was noted that the Tass dispatch did not categorically reject any of the 10 nations suggested by Rusk. But there was no sign North Vietnam will be more eager to accept any of these 10 nations than Washington is to agree on Phnom Penh or Warsaw.

Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper, accused the United States of "pursuing its previous tactics—delay" in the exchanges over the site of the talks.

FBI Reportedly Has Informer In Death Of King
BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—The FBI reportedly has an informer—apparently the conspirator of fugitive Eric Starvo Galt—in their nationwide search for the assassin of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

A tip from the alleged informer led the FBI to believe it could arrest the mysterious Galt in California Wednesday.

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON (UPI)—William McChesney Martin Jr., chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, said today the United States is "in the midst of the worst financial crisis we've had since 1931."

This belief led federal authorities to rapidly obtain conspiracy warrant against Galt, Memphis, Tenn., officials swore out a murder warrant.

But the tip either was wrong or Galt eluded authorities, sources close to the investigation disclosed Thursday. A good part of the investigation apparently still centers in California, where Galt attended a bartending school in February and March.

The FBI in its warrant charged Galt and his "alleged brother" with conspiring to harm King, shot to death by a white sniper in Memphis April 4. The conspirator was not charged in the federal warrant, or in the murder warrant.

The FBI in Washington said it "has no one in custody in connection with Dr. King's slaying," but a reliable source said agents either were in communication with or questioning Galt's "alleged brother."

The informer, according to sources, had rejected a $245 Remington rifle purchased by Galt in Birmingham as "not the gun we need." Galt returned to a sporting goods store and exchanged the gun for a 30-06 Remington pump rifle March 30. Such a gun was found abandoned near the Memphis flophouse from which King was shot. It was traced through the Remington firm to the Birmingham store and Galt.

The FBI has traced Galt's activities to Birmingham, Memphis, Atlanta and Los Angeles. He lived in a south Birmingham rooming house before the King murder and agents have questioned numerous landlords in Birmingham, apparently on the theory Galt may have returned to Alabama after the killing.

Federal Reserve Board Ups Discount Rate Again

NEW YORK (UPI)—Commercial banks began boosting their prime interest rates — those charged favored clients — today following the Federal Reserve Board's second discount rate increase in slightly more than a month.

Large corporate borrowers are the first to be affected, but the action is expected eventually to reach all the way down to the consumer, directly through higher interest rates on mortgages and installment credit, and indirectly through the effects of tight money on the firms that supply him with goods and services.

Four New York Banks were the first to up their rates.

Bankers Trust Co. led off the prime rate boost, to 6 1/2 per cent from 6 per cent, followed quickly by Irving Trust Co., Chemical Bank New York Trust Co. and First National City Bank of New York. Others were expected to follow along.

The rate boosts followed the half-point increase in the Federal Reserve discount rate to 5 1/2 per cent, highest since the 6 per cent top in effect for a short time before the 1929 stock market crash. The Fed discount rate is that charged on loans to commercial banks.

The Fed said it took the action to "restrain inflationary pressures and to strengthen the position of the dollar at home and abroad."

It appeared the Fed's rate increase was motivated in part by Congress' delay in dealing with President Johnson's long-sought income tax hike. The Senate has approved a 10 per cent income tax surcharge, but the measure has yet to clear a conference committee and go to the House floor, where approval is anything but certain.

The last increase in the Fed's discount rate came just five weeks ago on March 15.

Earlier Thursday Arthur Okun, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, told the National Press Club. "The time to stop our economic overindulgence is now."

On Wednesday, the Commerce Department reported prices rose at a 4 per cent annual rate in the first quarter of 1968—0.5 per cent above the annual rate of increase predicted by economists last fall.

Rapid gains were also reported in the gross national product, employment and payroll levels.

The home building industry was expected to be the hardest hit by the latest discount rate increase. When Federal Reserve money is costly to obtain, most commercial banks are unwilling to tie up scarce loan funds in long-term obligations like housing construction when they need elbow room for short-term, high yield loans.

Besides raising the discount rate, the Fed and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation increased the interest rate which banks can pay large depositors of cash for certificates of deposit on notes of $100,000 or more.

Internal Peace Prevails In East Africa States

By PETER LYNCH

Swaziland, still under British rule, is to become independent in September.

It is in Eastern Africa that some of the strongest national leaders have emerged—and with them has come domestic peace if not economic paradise.

Leading any such list must be Kenya's President Jomo Kenyatta, who emerged from the Mau Mau uprisings to become the symbol and substance of his country's stability and economic progress.

So far he has kept his country calm despite tribalism; he is fighting rising unemployment and declining exports of the disease-struck tea and coffee crops that face increased competitiveness with the devaluation of the British pound.

Slogan Shaken

His slogan of "harambee" (let us all pull together) has been shaken by recent job discrimination against the 480,000 Asians in Kenya, but basically he has joined the more than 9 million black people, the Asian minority and the 43,000 whites into a working community.

Malawi has leadership, as does Kenya, but it lacks the economic potential. President Hastings Kamuzu Banda took what other African leaders called a giant step into "neocolonialism" last year by opening diplomatic relations with South Africa, the "bete noir" for Black Africans.

Banda's explanation was that South Africa was a reality and must be recognized as such, and that his beautiful but poor, mountainous and land-locked country needed help, not heroes.

Economically, Tanzania seems solidly behind its staunchly socialist President Julius Nyerere and his program of nationalization, austerity and self-help. Political troubles lurk, however, on the island of Zanzibar.

"Africa's Cuba"

Zanzibar has been called "Africa's Cuba," with its militant left wing revolutionary party and considerable Chinese Communist influence.

The mainland capital of Dar Es Salaam, which means "Haven of Peace," has belied its name by becoming a center of intrigue and haven of dissident Africans of various nations, and nationalists hoping to overthrow white governments in Southern Africa and Mozambique.

An other African leader of stature, President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia, has kept his country stable despite bitter tribal rivalries, political discontent and antagonism between the more than 3 million black Zambians and 70,000 whites.

Zambia's troubles stem from its landlocked position and sanctions imposed against Rhodesia that boomeranged against it by cutting the country off from its Rhodesian rail link to southern ports.

Uganda, after five years of unrest, appears on the threshold of political stability under President Milton Obote—but at the price of his almost dictatorial powers.

The economy boasts a favorable balance of trade and growing industrialization, but Uganda may hit a snag and be forced to devalue its sterling-backed currency, a move it resisted when Britain devalued.

The Somali Republic has been a trouble-maker among its neighbors, with its territorial claims against Kenya and Ethiopia causing border wars which ran for years and cost the three countries millions.

In mid-1967, after a series of meetings with Kenya and Ethiopia, Somalia's new young Prime Minister Ibrahim Egal, backed by President Abdilrasid

Ali Shermarke, dropped Somalia's territorial aspirations.

The Malagasy Republic consists of the island of Madagascar, fifth largest island in the world, and smaller islands nearby. Its population is a mixture of Bantu tribesmen, Melanesians, Polynesians, Malays, Indonesians, Arabs and Persians.

President Philibert Tsiranana presides over a country that exports coffee, vanilla, rice, sugar and tobacco and boasts deposits of precious stones, mica, uranium and graphite.

Botswana and Lesotho both are surrounded by the white-ruled countries of Southern Africa, although Botswana does have a few miles of common border with Zambia. Lesotho, called Africa's Tibet, is completely surrounded by South Africa. Otherwise their problems are entirely different.

In Botswana, formerly the British colony of Bechuanaland, the traditional greeting between tribesmen is "pula," which means "let there be rain," and the annual rainfall, or its lack, can mean life or death for the cattle herders of the nine major tribes.

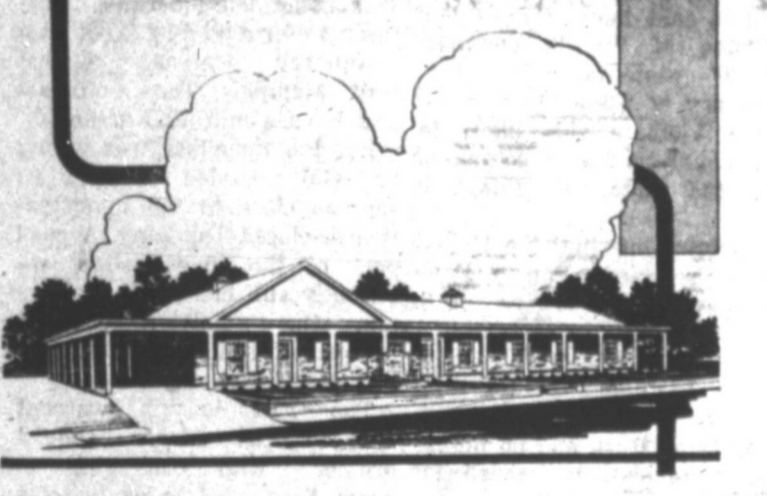

Lesotho, on the other hand, is a mountainous land and the source of many major rivers. The hope of its prime minister, Leabua Jonathan, is to dam the rivers to supply both water and hydro-electric power to South Africa.

Ego-Soothing 'Emmys'

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—I think I have suggested before that when television's Emmy Awards show attempts to act dignified, it comes off something like an elephant trying to do a high-wire act. The monstrous conglomeration of nominations announced this week indicates that ego-soothing is still as important as merit to the awards people.

The Emmy Awards have been a terrible, and instantly forgettable, splurge of trivia for years now, with the good nominations demeaned by the excess of junk. The endless categories crazily mixing nominees that should be considered separately resulted in a system in which the public can hardly ever remember who won what.

Well, anyway, there are among the kinder remarks I'm making about the Emmy system for some years now. So you can imagine how amazed I was recently when I received a letter inviting me to be a "blue-ribbon panelist" for the awards, joining with others to judge the news and documentary nominees.

In the end, I had to decline.

Aggie Muster Is Slated Saturday

SACRAMENTO, Calif.—Gov. Ronald Reagan, telling a news conference Tuesday of reports he has "grass roots" backing for the GOP presidential nomination:

"I'm certainly not going to run away and pretend it isn't happening. Obviously I am going to try to make an assessment."

A&M men, this will be their last Muster.

The ceremony is the same in every location. Aggies pay respects to those who are absent. When the names of honored dead are called from Muster rolls, a friend of the deceased answers, "Here."

The program ends with a poem:

"Softly call the Muster
Let comrade answer: Here.
Their spirits hover 'round us
as if to bring us cheer
Mark them present in our hearts,
We'll meet some other day
There is no death, but life
eterna
For old friends such as they."

Approximately 75-100 law enforcement officers from Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and New Mexico are expected to attend.

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I haven't been able to sleep very well lately. You see, I cheated a little on my income tax. (Deductions.) Any suggestions?

SOL
DEAR SOL: Send the internal revenue department a check for $100. And if you still can't sleep, send the balance.

DEAR ABBY: I just finished crying my eyes out over something that is not my fault. A very nice boy from school started dating me and I was on cloud nine. I was never popular, and he was like an answer to my prayers.

Well, he just called me up and told me he couldn't date me anymore because his parents have forbidden him to. The reason was they heard that my older sister had a baby out of wedlock. (She did, but Abby, I have never done one thing out of the way, so why should I have to suffer for something my sister did? I have even had girl friends tell me they couldn't go around with me anymore because of my sister's reputation.

I am not like my sister, and don't see why people should hold this against me. How can I prove that I am a "nice" girl when I have this against me? "MARKED" IN SCRANTON
DEAR MARKED: Don't try to prove anything. People who are not willing to judge you on your own record are not worth having as friends.

DEAR ABBY: Some new neighbors moved into our area, and we share a 2-party line. Abby, this woman speaks as good English as I, because I have heard her, but when she talks on the phone she always speaks a foreign language. I consider this an insult to me. What do you think of a neighbor like that?

BURNED UP
Members weighing in were Mmes. Evelyn Brobst, Odell Hassler, Madge Kile, Opal Gray, Ernestine Campbell, Dorothy Horner, Fannie Coleman and Sadie Lane.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to say something to "A Father," who thinks children ought to be fed first so he and his wife can have a nice quiet dinner after he has put in a hard day's work.

Who, may I ask, is going to prepare 2 meals—one for the children and another one, later for the Lord and Master? The cook? Sorry, we don't have one. And who is going to look after the children while father and mother are enjoying their peaceful meal without children fighting and screaming? The nursemaid? Sorry, we don't have one of those either. Beside if the kids are by themselves, Mother will probably have to get up and referee.

Separate meals may work in somebody else's house, but not in ours. We all eat together. It's not always quiet and peaceful, but somehow we'll manage to live through it.

Club Has Meeting On News Reports

The American Business Women's Association heard Warren Hasse as guest speaker at their monthly dinner meeting in Furr's Cafeteria. Hasse, owner and president of a Pampa radio station is also a sportscaster in this area.

Hasse read a portion of the speech President Johnson made to the press in Chicago recently. He told ABWA members "Democracy is as strong as our wisdom makes it, and also explained radio is the quickest on the scene media for news reports."

The annual Red Stocking Revue, directed by Jud Davis of New York, will be presented at 8 p.m. April 26 and 27 at Pampa High School Auditorium.

The Miss Dogpatch candidates will be included in a production number around the "Sadie-Hawkins" theme, Davis said.

The Ways and Means project was discussed to raise funds for the Scholarship Fund. The Scholarship Committee includes Mrs. Vernon Graham, Miss Maxine Nabors, and Mrs. Ed Wylie. Recipient of the Scholarship will be announced at the May meeting.

Mrs. J. A. Mills' name was drawn from the Rocket Fund. Mrs. T. A. Mastin was elected by secret ballot as the Pampa Charter Chapter's 1968-69 Woman of the year.

Religion in America

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

"God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain."

Those words from the Book of Revelation voice one of the main themes of the New Testament—the promise that God someday will bring about here on earth a "new creation" in which men will live together in peace and justice and love.

The early Christians associated the promised transformation with the return of Christ, and lived in daily expectation of it. As centuries passed without the anticipated "second coming" and without any discernible change in the amount of evil and suffering in the world, the Christian hope gradually came to be postponed to a future life in heaven.

Movement Developing

A movement is now developing in European and American theological circles to restore the New Testament vision of a better world to its original place at the heart of Christian faith.

Its leader is Dr. Jurgen Moltmann, a distinguished German scholar currently teaching in the United States as a visiting professor at Duke University.

Moltmann's book, "The Theology of Hope," now available in an English translation (Harper Row), is not easy reading for laymen. It's the kind of book that a minister should study and interpret for his congregation.

Moltmann finds no scriptural warrant for assuming that Christian hope will be fulfilled only in eternity. The Bible is "full to the brim" with promises that God will "make all things new" in this world of space and time.

An impatient young reformer told the church this week that the "most radical contribution" it can make to modern society is a recovery of the "essential Christianity" that motivates unselfish behavior.

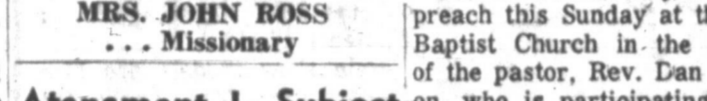

This counsel might have sounded familiar had it come from a conservative Evangelical. But it came from the Rev. Stephen C. Rose, founder of a Presbyterian minister who was leading the church to get into

Congo Missionary To Be Speaker Sunday At First Christian Church

Mrs. John E. Ross, a missionary who has been stationed in the Congo, will speak at morning worship services at the First Christian Church this Sunday.

Mrs. Ross and her husband, Dr. John Ross, both serve as missionaries in the Congo and are stationed in Lotumbe, a settlement of approximately 1,000 Congolese situated 800 miles east of the mouth of the Congo River.

Dr. and Mrs. Ross, who arrived in Lotumbe in 1950 and have continued to serve there since, are missionaries with the United Christian Missionary Society.

Atonement Is Subject Of Lesson-Sermon For Christian Scientists

The Lesson-Sermon to be read this Sunday in all Christian Science churches is titled "Doctrine of Atonement." It includes this verse from John: "For God sent not his son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved."

Among passages to be read from the denominational textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is the following: "Every pang of repentance and suffering, every effort for reform every good thought and deed, will help us to understand Jesus' atonement for sin and aid efficacy; but if the sinner continues to pray and repent, sin and be sorry, he has little part in the atonement, -- in the atonement with God, -- for he lacks the practical repentance, which reforms the heart and enables man to do the will of wisdom."

Services at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 901 N. Frost, begin at 11 a.m.

The public is invited to attend.

World of Religion

By DAVID POLING
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

We are in a period when the patterns of the Christian church are being shaped for decades to come. The roc k'n' roll period of the "God is dead" school has almost been silenced by these new events. The death and decline of leading conservatives, the emergence of significant reforms from Vatican II and the hot pursuit of laymen eager for an active role are just some of the reasons for dramatic change in the church.

Several factors now should be clear to even those outside of the theological fray:

—The sharpest, most cutting criticism of the Christian church has come from determined, yet faithful, reformers firmly committed to the fellowship of Jesus Christ. They are Protestant and Roman Catholic. They work freely across denominational lines and are in constant communication with each other. Their loyalty to Christ has given them confidence and trust in each other. This mood and emotion has not been felt between Catholics and Protestants for centuries!

—The exhortations, arguments and demands for renewal and reunion come from the most popular and articulate scholars in the church. Men like Michael Novak, Harvey Cox, Robert McAfee Brown and Hans Kung now dominate the theological scene. Conservatives in Catholicism and Protestantism have no vigorous champions and are left with the sarcastic humor of a William Buckley or the frowning throat-clearings of Cardinal McIntyre.

—Denominational loyalties and geographic localities no longer govern the boundaries of Christian fellowship. Calvinist Paul Tournier of Geneva, Switzerland, has close and vital friendships in San Antonio, Tex. Hans Kung of Tubingen, Germany, moves easily in the discussions of Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., or those of Morningside Heights, N. Y. Albert Outler of Southern Methodist University discovers that his books are read by studious Jesuits in South America and Spain.

First Presbyterian Announces Schedule Of Church Activities

"Believing the Invisible" will be the sermon topic of the Rev. Martin Hager, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, this Sunday at both the 8:30 and 11 a.m. worship hours.

Ruling Elder Ray Kuhn will serve as the pulpit assistant for both worship hours. At the 11 a.m. worship service, the Chancel Choir will present the Anthem, "God So Loved the World" by Stainer. The Choir is under the direction of Mrs. J. Stanley Hill and is accompanied by Mrs. Fidelia Yoder, church organist. Mrs. Yoder will present the offertory selection "Prayer" by Guilman, as well as the prelude and postlude selections.

The Junior High Fellowship will meet at 5 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rogers, 1226 E. Harvester. The Senior High's will meet in the Youth Lounge of the Church at 5:30 p.m.

At 7:30 p.m., the second in the series of discussions will take place in the Youth Lounge with Sister Alice, Principal of St. Vincent's Catholic School, as the guest speaker.

Square Roundly Defends God, Country

By TOM TIEDE
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — (NEA) — James V. Smith of Oklahoma just doesn't fit into the "now" society.

He's a farmer by trade, if you can imagine. Actually digs in the dirt and steps in manure. He owns 960 acres near some place called Chickasha, and isn't that a funny name for a town?

Barley. He raises barley. He plants seeds or something and then waits around for months and months. And that's not all. He raises oats too.

Presumably, he even has chickens and that sort of thing.

He's something else, really. He actually supports the American troops in Vietnam. He's also opposed to Communist aggression and terrorism. In fact, here the man is, a U.S. representative and he wants to win the war.

Well, what can you expect from anybody who doesn't smoke or drink? The tipoff is the man is 42 years old already and he's only been married once.

He has several other peculiarities, also. He gets his hair cut on a regular basis — not even in a salon, but a shop. His suit trousers have cuffs on them. He does wear a handkerchief in his breast pocket...but it's white!

And here's the clincher: he's religious.

Not just headnodding religious, either. He's all out. He's an elder in the Chickasha Church of Christ and he's taught Sunday School down there 15 years. And not only does he read the Bible, he remembers it.

Anyway, to get on with it, Congressman James V. Smith of Oklahoma was in town the other day for a look around. He said it was his first trip to Manhattan. He called it "the big city." Honest to Betsy he did.

He lunched with some people on East 56th and it was too much.

Right away he got to talking against something he thought evil and he said "heck." Then he paused. Then said he wished he hadn't sworn like that. He apologized.

After that he ordered some lobster-beef soup and the waiter came around with a bottle. The congressman asked the waiter what was in it and the waiter said, "Cognac for your soup." The congressman turned red and waved it away.

Well, nobody said anything. Probably they wanted to but, after all, even though he is only a first-term Republican, you can't just laugh in his face.

Finally he ate the soup. By the time the main course was served (the congressman ordered something common. It didn't even have a French name) the man was in deep

The language mass, designed for the deaf, received papal approval in 1965 and was officially sanctioned by the church in 1966 after a conference of U.S. and Canadian bishops. Uniform hand signs had to be adopted and some new ones created for such words as "archangel" and "substance." These photos by Larry Mulvehill show the Rev. Martin Hall conducting a mass for deaf mutes at St. Patrick's Church, Bay Shore, L.I. To Father Hall the special service came naturally enough; he is the son of deaf-mute parents and has known the sign language for many years.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

REV. WESLEY E. POLLET, Pastor
Lamar Full Gospel Assembly

'As The Church Goes So Goes The World'

MARK 8:36 "FOR WHAT SHALL IT PROFIT A MAN IF HE SHALL GAIN THE WORLD AND LOSE HIS OWN SOUL?"
ON A TABLET IN A LARGE CHURCH, THIS INSCRIPTION WAS PLACED IN MEMORY OF JOHN GEDDIE, THE "father" of presbyterian missions in the South Seas: "When he landed in 1848 there were no christians here, when he left in 1872 there were no heathens."

As we approached the coming Day of the outpouring of the Holy Spirit on the day of pentecost, incandescent men are needed. It was on the day of Pentecost, that the flame of the living God became the flame of the human heart to that glorious company. The church began with these men in the upper room agonizing — and today it is ending with men in the supper room organizing. It began in revival and we are ending in rituals. We started virile; we are ending sterile. We need men today who will be pillars of fire — God guided men to lead a mis-guided people. The cry of the minister today should be, "Blow the trumpet in Zion, sanctify a last call a solemn assembly, let the priests, the ministers of the Lord weep!" (Joel 2:15-17)

Inspired men are desperately needed. Believers with Spirit-generated souls are indispensable to this degenerate generation. False religion and lukewarm Christianity is lashing the world. We need God to help the nations, ruined with "man-made religion, cursed with "Man-made" cults, and doomed with "man-made doctrine! The world has never faced such an evil hour. Reiterated effort is the price we have to pay for progress.

As the church goes so goes the world. If the watchmen are asleep the enemy takes the city! Life begets life and inspired men inspire.
Note: what should be a stepping stone has become a stumbling block. "Blind unbelief is sure to err and scan God's work in vain." Think of it! For forty years the children of Israel wandered in the unbelief. They suffered droughts, death, darkness. All because of unbelief.

Today the cry is, God is dead, miracles are past, and God no longer deals with man but the world is going to become better and better until we reach a "utopia." Let me ask you a question, is the Lord's arm shortened that he cannot save? Shall we consider God as a God of the past, the God of the future and yet, not the God of the present?

In this land of ours torn with strife and problems such as our nation has not known I am reminded of the passionate words spoken by Patrick Henry before the Virginia Convention in March of 1775, "Is life so dear or peace so sweet as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it, Almighty God! I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty — or give me death!" May I translate for a little while? Granted, we see the bondage, slavery and the ever threatening movement of powers which are seeking to remove everything which we as a free people hold dear and yet there is a place more real and a horror that defies human description, a place where all unrepentant people go, a place of eternal separation from God, a place which Jesus described as "where the worm dieth not and the fire is not quenched." Perhaps we could paraphrase Patrick Henry's message this way, "Is life so dear and are home comforts so engrossing as to be purchased with my unfaithfulness and dry-eyed prayerlessness? At the final bar of God, shall the perishing millions accuse you and I of materialism coated with a few scripture verses? Will these few excuses excuse you from your responsibility to your church, your pastor, your obligation to God and to that next door neighbor?

Forbid it, Almighty God! I know not what course others may take; but as for me, GIVE ME REVIVAL in my soul and in my church and in my nation — or GIVE ME DEATH!"

Electrical Justice

Efforts to cut costs in any area of government activity are admirable, and welcome. But we want to register a strong dissent on one effort at allegedly saving money, currently being pushed on both coasts. That is the business of replacing the court reporter with tape recording devices. Poor economy and poor justice are too apt to result.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not harm anyone.)

QUESTION: What do Freedom Newspapers mean by a moral absolute?

ANSWER: A moral absolute is a statement of universal truth concerning how man ought to behave so as to have the best possible life for himself.

In human relationships, moral absolutes have the same effect as do natural laws in the physical world.

Concepts or understanding of moral absolutes, by individuals, by groups and governments, may change, but moral absolutes do not. Just as our understanding of the operation of the physical world changes, but the way it actually operates does not.

Thou Shalt Not Steal is a moral absolute. Stealing is the taking of an individual's property without his consent whether by force, threat of force, by fraud, or without his knowledge.

As a corollary to Thou Shalt Not Steal, a further absolute can be stated that no individual, group, or government has any right to initiate force against any other group or government or individual, to coerce them to pay for anything they do not want to use.

That's what Freedom Newspapers mean by a moral absolute. It is because so few people believe in moral absolutes that we are in the predicament we are in today.

It is because so few people believe in moral absolutes that we are in the predicament we are in today. If no individual or group or government initiated force, we would have goodwill among all mankind.

Clearing House

Articles for this column are preferred to be 700 words or less in length. However, longer articles may be printed. All letters must be signed.

Editor: At the age of 63 a man can realize that the influence of Father and Mother has wrought some changes in his life.

One thing these two have never taught me is not to be nosy. Now you take the changes that have occurred so fast, it leaves me with a lot of problems on my hands.

For example, Mr. Grady is no longer on the school board; Jim White is leaving Pampa; Romney got out of the presidential race; add to this L.B.J. is now high and dry out of politics.

All these changes are too fast for one as slow as I am on the uptake, over the years, other changes have occurred that puzzle me.

For example, what ever became of Fels Naptha? That was the soap of some 50 years ago, that was advertised in the Illustrated Companion.

Then at the end of March, the President's coupling of a renunciation of a second term with a cutback in the bombing of North Vietnam resulted in the shattering of a 39-year-old record in number of shares traded.

Unlike that "Black Tuesday" of 1929, however, stock prices were climbing not plummeting. Even this new record was shortly surpassed when Hanoi made a favorable response to the peace overture, and yet a third record was set within a week.

It may be the peculiar nature of the Vietnam War, which is not only unpopular and divisive but is having all sorts of adverse effects on this nation's monetary strength abroad and orderly economic and social progress at home.

Or it may be that the world has matured a little and that business simply has more important business than war.

Hanoi Lays Down the Ground Rules

Branch Head Bill Says:

by BILL KENNEDY

I don't know what kind of a deal the President made with Bobby Kennedy. I don't suppose most of us will ever know. Because he obviously paid up in full—and that means win, lose or draw, Bobby ain't supposed to tell. All we have is maybes. (Maybe the trade was made four years ago, or five.)

(Maybe it was money; they are both millionaires—one by inheritance and one by way of politics. (Or else by exploiting Negroes on his wife's plantation in Alabama. Your guess is as good as mine.) And how many millionaires another millionaire can buy is something beyond comprehension to most of us.

Maybe it was because of the love and devotion for the man whose brother was about to drop Lyndon out of sight—had he lived for another election—with urging and insistence from his Attorney General. I don't know about that, but I am dubious.

Maybe it was because Lady Lustrated Companion, a monthly kind of magazine. It was filled with heart throbbing love stories about Lord Smellfoes and Lady so and so. Poisoning, killings, and many tragedies happened, you waited one month to find out what was up, and then was left "cliff hanging".

Back to the soap, it was guaranteed that father could get up at seven, do the family wash for mother, and be at his office at nine. We knew nothing about offices except those in the County Court House.

Whatever became of Grandpa's pine tar soap? It smelled so good I guess it didn't kill germs. Maybe it died away because no movie stars would endorse it.

Where, pray, is the pridelful old Studebaker Wagon? The Georgia Kelly Stock? The four-horse Middle Buster, the shiny buggy with the warm lap robe, which covered up hanky-panky kids holding hands with the girl friend, on the way home from Church?

Back to the Illustrated Companion — it advertised a cure for smoking, absolutely guaranteed to stop you. The trouble was that the remedies were often sure to completely stop the heart from beating. We still need the old fashioned cough remedy called Pinex. You bought the essentials and mixed it up with hot water.

What became of Musterote salve, guaranteed to draw the cold out of your chest, and it could have doubly guaranteed to raise a skin blister when it was applied.

By the way, what ever became of the Illustrated Companion, and that spicy little publication "Captain Whizbang"? Wonder what ever became of the reporter of the defunct Dallas Dispatch, News, who, after a raid by Dallas County Sheriff Smoot Schmidt, on a house of ill repute, the reporter headlined — "SMOOT" SCHMIDT SMITES SMUT."

The good old days are gone forever.

Uncivil Disorders

The flurry has died down a bit now, but the report of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders lives on. Those unlucky enough not to be familiar with the Report — at least those of the younger generation — will learn all about it soon. We see by the papers that it is being used in the schools as a textbook.

The children who dutifully study Report textbook will learn just why caused last summer's riots: the "white majority." They will discover that this guilty majority has a very short time in which to improve Negro income, education and housing. The all de facto school segregation — North and South — must end quickly, with the persuasive help of federal aid to education. And that if this is not all done immediately, there will be more riots. Once again, of course, the riots will be the fault of the white, law-abiding citizens.

All of which adds up to a rather clear call for mob blackmail. Those individuals and — or instigators who feel the urge to burn up a city block or two now have the justification to do so — unless, of course, that guilty majority comes up with about 32 billion dollars a year as a pay-off.

Trouble is, the blackmail money might not be enough to keep the riots from erupting. For the Commission concedes that: "no new policies could possibly alter basic ghetto conditions. And the announcement of new programs... would immediately generate new expectations. Expectations inevitably increase faster than performances. In the short run, they might even increase the level of frustration." In other words, when you promise heaven, and heaven somehow does not materialize, all hell is likely to break loose.

Congressman George Mahon of Texas, Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, estimates that federal taxes would have to be doubled in order to activate the Commission's numerous proposals. There can be no doubt that the taxpayers of America would object rather strenuously to such a move. And in light of the overall tone of the Commission's Report, might not the overburdened taxpayers organize a violent revolt?

If mob destruction and violence is an acceptable and successful method for obtaining government action, is that method limited to those who used it last summer? Would irate taxpayers reap the reward of lower assessments if they took to the streets with Molotov cocktails and bucks?

Maybe I have gone completely nuts. I hope so. Because if I haven't, this country is in a mess, for lack of leadership. These rhetorical questions are

Pull Up A Chair

By FRANK J. MARKEY

Have you noticed how a lot of "weasel words" have weaseled their way into our everyday vocabulary in recent years? Lexicographers gave them that term because they have new meanings for old words. One that you'll be reading and hearing a lot this Presidential Election year will be "moderate," which originally meant "tending toward the mean or average," but now means almost anyone or anything that is on the Left. An "extremist" is one who is conservative. The Civil Rights movement gave us "sit-ins," and other similar social demonstrations coined "teach-ins," "Road-based" in relation to taxes means a levy that hits everybody. And the youngster who flunks a subject in school is no longer "a dumb cluck" (which was slang) but an "under-achiever." Those are only a few examples of the many you hear and read every day.

Today's smile: A used car salesman said: "This is an unusual car. You don't get a chance to buy one like this very often so you should take advantage of the opportunity." "It certainly is a good opportunity," said the customer, "I can hear it knocking."

Only five of our 36 Presidents are depicted on U.S. coins. The Lincoln penny appeared in 1909 and the Washington quarter in 1932, commemorating the 200th anniversary of his birth. The Jefferson five-cent piece was issued in 1938 and the Franklin D. Roosevelt dime in 1946. The John F. Kennedy half-dollar was coined soon after his assassination and has become one of the most sought-after coins in our currency.

Thoughts while shaving: Campers and outdoorsmen in the future will not have to carry a bulky blanket roll, thanks to research in connection with this country's space program. One of the problems scientists encountered was to make a new kind of lightweight cloth that would be compact and at the same time give warmth at the sub-zero temperatures at night on the moon. They came up with something resembling aluminum foil. It has been tested from the Andes to Alaska and has been enthusiastically endorsed. They'll soon be on the market. There are about 75 news clipping bureaus in the U.S. that serve business firms, celebrities, universities, organizations and government agencies that want to find out what the press and their competitors are saying about them. Send your boy to West Point if you want him to grow up and become President of the U.S. Eleven of our chief executives were generals. Economists say that reduction of the 40-hour work week wouldn't help unemployment very much because not enough skilled workers are available in most fields to spread the work evenly and a shorter work week would reduce efficiency and increase production costs. A noted ornithologist tells us that many birds eat half their weight in food every day and young birds frequently consume more than their weight every day. The Miami (Fla.) HERALD headlined a story about Billy Sol Estes: "Billy Sol Doing A Good Job. Warden Lauds Swindler." Maybe the warden is being conned.

Country Editor speaking: "Better illuminated highways might cut traffic accidents, but so would the number of motorists who are lit up."

H. L. Hunt Writes

HANDOUTS OR SELF-RESPECT

Self-respecting U. S. citizens dislike handouts. They prefer to make their own way in life, finding self-fulfillment in doing the best they can. The War on Poverty directly attacks this desire, attempting to convince people that government assistance is a prerequisite for success and happiness. People who respect themselves reject attempts by the bureaucracy to control their lives.

Recently a farmer in Vermont was approached by an agent of the Office of Economic Opportunity, which directs the War on Poverty. The farmer was not wealthy, and apparently the poverty official thought that the government should step into his life.

When he found out what the man wanted, the farmer told him, "I have a family of seven kids. We all eat and we don't have a grocery bill. We all have shoes for everyday as well as Sunday and other clothes we need, yes, and soap and water to clean up in. We're doing our best to see that they get an education. We pay our bills and our taxes from what we earn farming."

The farmer was self-sufficient and proud of it, even though the poverty official may have thought that his income was inadequate. The farmer may not have been rich in material goods, but he was immeasurably wealthy in far more important items: individualism and self-respect.

Anyone who thinks that the government owes him a living and any bureaucrat who thinks that people are better off if the government is allowed to run their lives should learn a much-needed lesson from the farmer in Vermont.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Twice the United States has had three presidents within the same calendar year, notes The World Almanac. On March 4, 1841, Van Buren was succeeded by William Henry Harrison, who died a month later, whereupon John Tyler became president. Rutherford B. Hayes was succeeded on March 4, 1861, by James A. Garfield, who died Sept. 19, 1881, and Chester A. Arthur became president that day.

Extra Comfort for Traveler

As travelers know, some of these ultra-modern motels are so fancy it's almost necessary to take an engineering course to learn how to operate the gadgets in the motel room.

Bedside operation of the television set... multi-effect lighting... central aircon-ops, weather control — and other spaceage gimmicks. Very confusing.

But one comforting touch of tradition remains—the Gideon Bible.

Have you ever wondered how many Bibles and Testaments have been placed in hotels, motels, inns, schools, jails and other public places by Gideons International over the years? Seventy-five million!

They have been distributed in 77 countries throughout the world. Who are these Gideons? They are interdenominational businessmen dedicated to spreading the word of God in public places. They form a missionary organization with camps in each state and many foreign countries. The organization was formed in 1899 by three traveling men, and was later enlarged to include businessmen.

The first Bible placement was made in 1906 when 25 copies were left at Iron Mountain, Mont. Now, 60 years later, the Gideon Bible has become so integral a part of inkeeping tradition that a number of major motel chains in this country insist on having Gideon Bibles available for their guests before they will open for business. Do guests appreciate the service?

Well, one Bible in a motel room in Bristol, Tenn., contains the names of 30 guests — each of whom has taken the time to write a word of gratitude in the back of the book.

The Gideon Bible is a thoughtful touch in a world too often thoughtless. Thank you, Gideons, for providing it.

Accidental Chuckles

The National Safety Council whom we usually hear from in connection with dismal statistics of deaths and injuries, gleefully reports a lighter side to the accident picture in 1967.

Consider the shock of a locomotive engineer in Dimmocks Cote, England, when a strange, frantic face peered in his windshield. The train had smashed into a truck at a grade crossing 300 yards back, wrapping the truck's cab around the front of the engine. The driver, only slightly injured, had climbed up onto the engine.

Then there was the woman in Moline, Ill., who tried to help a neighbor push a small foreign car. She jammed her leg too into the tailpipe. Firemen cut her loose from the car but it required doctors at a hospital to free her toe from the pipe.

Peace Possibility Galvanizes Stocks

If it has done nothing else, the Vietnam war has knocked into a cocked hat the theory that the stock market loves war.

From January through most of March, a period when U.S. fortunes in Vietnam seemed to have reached their lowest ebb and the conflict looked likely to go on forever, the Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell by some 75 points.

A chart of the market shows a fairly steady decline, beginning with the Communist buildup below the Demilitarized Zone and accelerated by the USS Pueblo (yes, that happened way back in January). Modest attempts of stocks to recover were consistently beaten back by each succeeding piece of bad news, such as the announcement that 10,500 more

By WILLIAM THEIS WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson said it as simply and clearly as it might be said: "I shall not seek and will not accept the nomination."

Then he said a little later his decision to forego another term in the White House was irrevocable.

But somehow there are still a few disbelievers. Strangely enough, they include an occasional politician.

They might be excused for thinking, "This has been an anything-can-happen year." But every other yardstick, they would know better.

First, there is Ladybird. By every account, the First Lady did not and does not want Lyndon Baines Johnson to submit to the punishment of another four years as President.

Second, there is the weight of history. Scratch a President and you find a man who has undergone an awesome change with the oath-taking on inauguration day.

No longer may he use the old blurred benchmarks for personal and official behavior.

Third, there is that matter of the credibility gap. Whether it ever was anything more than a clever phrase, the gap would become a chasm if President Johnson nullified his March 31 pledge not to accept renomination.

And finally, that kind of reverse would hand the Republican party a ready-made issue.

Even if the President succumbed to a "draft" by acclamation at the Democratic convention, Republicans might charge that he used the March disunity crisis and his pledge as a device to promote Democratic unity and his own reelection.

Unlike General Sherman, Lyndon Johnson looked millions of Americans in the eye via television when he made his pledge.

They included his old friend and Vietnam critic, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., who was in Mexico City and close to tears.

EDITOR'S NOTE

The following is the text of an address given this forenoon by 18th District congressman Bob Price before the student body of West Texas State University at Canyon. We think parents, college students and high school students will find the congressman's remarks interesting and beneficial.

Recent events in Memphis, Washington and other cities have left a pallor of gloom, apprehension and fear over the nation.

Having seen what happened in Washington, D.C., after the failure of those in authority to act decisively, I can say only that the breakdown of law and order and the wanton looting, destruction and violence that followed was a national shame and disgrace regardless of any direct or underlying causes.

But I came here intending to speak of something positive in spite of the sickness of our cities and the assault on law and order by a small but dangerous, violent and vociferous few.

In his farewell address, George Washington said that it is substantially true that virtue or morality is a necessary spring of popular government. "The rule indeed," he said, "extends with more or less force to every species of free government. Who, that is a sincere friend to it, can look with indifference upon attempts to share the foundation of the fabric?"

"Promote then, as an object of primary importance, institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge. In proportion as the structure of a government gives force to public opinion, it is essential that public opinion should be enlightened."

One of the bright spots in shadows of gloom that hung over the country was the good sense and restraint of the law-abiding citizens of the Panhandle and Texas. Texans know that social progress cannot survive under anarchy.

And I know, as you do, that there is in a responsible American a sincere desire to correct what inequities that still exist. And that progress will not be achieved by the militants but by those Americans who abide by the laws of the land in at-change.

But in spite of the threats of tainting social progress or violence at home and abroad and our many other domestic and foreign problems, I would like to mention a more positive outlook — one with which you are already involved as one of an entirely new group of Americans who will soon be our leaders. The United States is the youngest nation in the Free World with more than half of our entire population under age 25.

We should take pride in the fact that the vast majority of these young people do not take dope, nor do they grow beards, or stage riots. Most are quietly preparing for community leadership with diligence and honesty. Most have a deep sense of morality and citizenship.

Thousands of young Americans have given their lives in Vietnam. Other thousands are returning from duty in Vietnam and certainly our young soldiers will know the price of protecting freedom.

On the whole, this generation is better informed, more articulate, and better educated than any group in the past.

Admittedly, however, some have questioned whether today's young generation has any real sense of obligation to society. Perhaps the actions of a few have shown this attitude to be justified.

Recently, I came across the following quotation that may express your own sentiments regarding young people: "Our young people have been corrupted by luxury, their manners are bad and they are contemptuous of authority. They no longer rise when their elders enter the room. They contradict their parents, chatter in the presence of guests, wolf their food, and tyrannize their teachers."

Unfortunately, you should not be consoled by these sentiments because they were written by Socrates in the 5th Century, B.C. I suppose it's true that, at least in the eyes of some elders, the younger generation has been in terrible shape for 2500 years.

However, I believe it is a mistake to judge an entire generation by the irresponsible acts of a few radical beatniks. When we allow such undesirables to

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Goodbody & Co. notes that since the recent buying surge stemmed from Vietnam peace hopes, "the market would likely prove vulnerable to any serious setbacks in Vietnam negotiations," adding that developments in the talks "probably hold the key to the market's next move."

The analyst says that the Dow Jones industrial average could fall back 20 to 30 points in view of its recent sharp advance but says such a reaction "would probably not be particularly damaging to investment confidence."

Bache & Co. says agreement on a site for talks between the United States and Vietnam "will probably be the major near term market factor."

The market could show renewed strength if an agreement is reached quickly, according to the company, but with a prolonged delay "some caution is likely to develop in the attitude of the investment community."

Wolfe & Co. says the recent "buying stampede" can be regarded as the "typical early symptom of an intermediate uptrend phase" likely to continue throughout the spring.

At the same time, the company says the recent pace of the advance "is virtually certain to slacken very soon," leaving the market "vulnerable" to "minor trend reactions."

New Grid Coach Is Lee's Friend

By CURTIS MONTGOMERY
Daily News Sports Editor

Pampa's new football coach, Marvin Lay, has coached with head football coach, Swede Lee, twice before coming to work as Lee's assistant.

Lay worked as an assistant when Lee was an assistant at Texas High in Texarkana, where Lay's home is located. The 33-year old coach worked under Lee at Galveston Ball High when Lee was head man there.

Lay speaks highly of Lee, the new athletic director of Pampa school system. "Coach Lee had an offer to coach at several big colleges and came to Pampa instead."

Lay's opinion of Lee is high, but perhaps not as high as the man who "brought him into the fold," Weldon Trice, vice-principal and former AD at PHS.

Trice said yesterday, "I have interviewed most of the people in and out of this athletic department since I came here, and I've never had anyone come so highly praised and recommended by so many people as Lee."

"The day Lee was packing his bags to come to Pampa — and Lee is taking a cut in pay from selling a million dollars of insurance in one month — he received an offer to be head defensive line coach at the University of Pittsburgh. Another college tried to get him in December."

Hawkins Leads Pipers in ABA

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Konnie Hawkins of the Pittsburgh Pipers lives up to his reputation as the American Basketball Association's most valuable player and high scorer.

The sharpshooting Hawkins poured in 39 points, 28 of them in the second half, to pace the Pipers to a 120-112 victory Thursday night over the New Orleans Buccaneers in the opening game of a best-of-seven league championship playoff series at the Civic Arena here.

Teammate Charlie Williams dumped in 26 points, 22 of them in the first half while Pittsburgh built up a 60-50 halftime lead. The game saw-sawed through the first quarter but a layup by Williams as the period ended gave the Pipers a 25-24 lead. They stayed ahead after that and held their biggest margin at 106-92 with seven minutes remaining in the game.

Hawkins sat out the last nine minutes of the first half because of foul trouble.

Austin (Red) Robbins of New Orleans took game scoring honors with 41 points while Doug Moe followed with 30.

The victory was the eighth in nine playoff games for the Pipers, who downed Indiana and Minnesota to sweep Eastern Division honors.

The second game in the title series will be played Saturday night.

Brundage Faces Rough Weekend

By MIKE HUGHES

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (UPI)—Avery Brundage was due to arrive here from Johannesburg today to face probably the most critical weekend of his years as president of the International Olympic Committee (IOC).

Brundage and the eight men on the IOC's Executive Committee meet here Saturday and Sunday in emergency session following threats of a mass walkout from October's Mexico City Olympics because of South Africa's participation.

The IOC president agreed to call the meeting last month after 15 hours of secret discussions with representatives of the host nation. Mexico is against South Africa taking part, even with a multi-racial team.

The IOC, however, has been under fire since Feb. 15 when the result of a postal ballot, conducted among the 72 voting members, came out in favor of South Africa being re-admitted to the Games for Mexico City only. The voting figures have been kept secret.

The Supreme Council for African Sports, representing 32 nations, met in Brazzaville shortly after the Grenoble decision and announced they would boycott the games since then other nations have joined them, including Russia, and now over 40 nations have stated in public they'll absent themselves from Mexico if South Africa is represented.

IOC Secretary General John Westerhoff, however, says he has only received 19 withdrawal letters, and this number does not include one from Russia.

South Africa's troubles started in 1963 when they were banned from taking part in the games because of an apparent lack of effort by officials to persuade the government to sanction the fielding of a multi-racial team. Since then guarantees have been given that a multi-racial team, picked by a mixed selection board, will travel together to Mexico to compete and to live together.

Bob Price Says 'Militants' Are Cause Of Riots

(Editor's Note: Below are some excerpts from the remarks of Congressman Bob Price of Pampa, speaking at "Town Hall" meetings throughout the 18th Congressional District. The talks are being given by Price during a tour of the district he is making while Congress is in recess.

"Having seen what happened in Washington, D. C. after the failure of those in authority, to act decisively, I can say only that the breakdown of law and order and the wanton looting, destruction and violence that followed was a national shame and disgrace regardless of any direct or underlying causes.

"Dr. Martin Luther King's death was as senseless as the burning and looting in downtown Washington and other cities. He was a non-violent man but violence followed in his footsteps.

"But I do not believe that the rioting and burning, looting and murder that followed Dr. King's death can be blamed on this one act. Insurrection over the country has been brewing and needed only that or some other ingredient to erupt. The militants of Washington, Detroit, Chicago, Newark and other cities had already done their planning and were organized and ready.

"Stokely Carmichael led the first gangs that went into the streets of Washington. He had made Washington his headquarters after returning from his tour of Communist capitals last year cursing the United States.

"Last August after riots in Newark, Detroit and other cities, the President issued a plea "upon all our people, black and white alike, in all our cities to join in a determined program to maintain law and order.

"But at the same time the Rap Browns and Stokely Carmichaels were urging Negroes to shoot and loot — kill Whitey, Brown said then at a Washington, D. C. rally: "Lyndon Johnson is my enemy. . . . Washington, D. C. doesn't come around, Washington, D.C. should be burned down."

"The Founding Fathers established the District of Columbia as a Federal city in the first place to afford protection for Congress and the president. After the State had failed to offer protection to the Continental Congress from a mutinous mob of soldiers gathered before the State House in Philadelphia, the assembly was forced to adjourn and reconvene elsewhere.

"It is ironic to note that the President in a recent message to Congress on the District of Columbia praised the reorganized District Government headed by a Presidentially appointed mayor and again called on Congress for prompt achievement of what he called the "city's goal of self-government." Under home rule, which civil rights leaders have been demanding, the Congress might have to move again — if it survives another such senseless uprising.

"Our President and the Congress must now take a firm stand and not be coerced into hasty acts that would only encourage more violence. If the President and Congress yield to a violent and lawless but small segment of our society, we have failed the majority of Americans who are now depending on us.

"If we fail in this duty and allow some to decide which laws they will obey, more violence is sure to follow. Federal, State and local governments must act now and as forcefully as required to restore and maintain law and order."

Oil Allowable In Texas Lowered

AUSTIN (UPI) — The Texas Railroad Commission today lowered the Texas crude oil allowable for May to 45.7 per cent potential.

Last month the commission based the April allowable on a 46.7 per cent allowable factor.

The May allowable amounts to 3,476,972 barrels a day, a decrease of 54,764 barrels a day from the April allowable.

The allowable in April was reduced from March because of a drop in demand and production requests, and because of ample stocks on hand.

Estimates of crude oil stocks in Texas today totaled 101.9 million barrels, down 1.7 million barrels from the same time last year.

'Mistake' Caused Death Of Fifteen

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Police today said they mistook exploding firecrackers for gunfire and that is why 11 farmers and four policemen were killed in a village celebration that ended in a gunbattle.

The bloodshed came in the central Mexico village of Ixmiquilpan where the Independent Farmers Federation, a far-left group, was having a party Monday.

The farmers claimed the police came to shoot them.

But police said they were only there to guard the celebrations and that they erred in believing the fireworks were shots being fired by farmers at them. When police began shooting, the farmers fired back.

London Bridge Is Coming To U.S.

LAKE HAVASU CITY, Ariz. (UPI)—London Bridge, sinking ment 240 miles east of Phoenix, slowly into the Thames under the weight of 20th century traffic, will be moved block by block to a new home on a man-made lake on the Arizona desert, it was announced today.

McCulloch Oil Corp. paid $2,240,000 to become the latest American buyer of outmoded British treasures.

It will be rebuilt in its original form to span a mile-long channel on the edge of Lake Havasu, a resort development 240 miles east of Phoenix, near the Arizona-California border. The deal marked the third block to a new home on a man-made lake on the Arizona desert, it was announced today.

McCulloch Oil Corp. paid $2,240,000 to become the latest American buyer of outmoded British treasures.

It will be rebuilt in its original form to span a mile-long channel on the edge of ence and will be shipped to Long Beach, Calif., for trucking to Lake Havasu City.

A spokesman for McCulloch said the reconstructed bridge will span a channel flowing from the lake into a bay. A complex of hotels, ships and restaurants styled with a British motif will be built along the waterway and under the outer spans of the bridge.

The current London Bridge is the latest in a series of bridges that have spanned the Thames in approximately the same spot since the days of the Roman conquerors. And most of them have fallen down because of the unstable river bottom. The present version, now 136-years old, is too narrow and weak for modern traffic.

Lake Havasu City, developed by McCulloch Corp. in 1964, border the 45-mile-long lake formed by construction of Parker Dam on the lower Colorado River. The present population is about 3,000.
