Advertisements Seek Manpower

Plenty Of Jobs Available Here

"Jobs are available in Pampa, Texas—where the living is good."

This is the theme of an extensive advertising campaign now being conducted in some twenty-five area newspapers in towns and cities between Amarillo and Oklahoma City by the Pampa Industrial Foundation and the Industrial Committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

The advertisements point out that Pampa has a critical need for both skilled labor and trainees as well as professional people in almost every area of endeavor. Listed is the need for welders, electricians, automobile mechanics, industrial machinists, assemblers, nurses, plumbers, clerical workers, sales personnel, service station attendants and many, many more. Also needed are several categories of engineers and other professional people.

In addition the advertisements stress the fact that Pampa is a fine place in which to live. Good wages, moderate living conditions, equitable taxes, adequate housing, balanced climate, good churches, schools, retail stores, recreational facilities and other conveniences all reflect the pride of the people of Pampa.

The advertising campaign came about as the result of a manpower availability survey conducted jointly by the Industrial Foundation and the Chamber of Commerce.

Earlier this month questionnaires were mailed to local employers to determine the type of jobs available, the number of male or female employees needed and the approximate salary range of the jobs.

"We're convinced that on the basis of returns from the questionnaires that Pampa has a definite void in the manpower supply in practically all kinds of labor," Bill Power, chairman of the committee said.

He added that some three to four hundred jobs could be filled almost immediately, were the manpower available.

Bill Ragsdale, manager of the local office of the Texas Employment Commission, stated that Pampa's unemployment rate in April stood at 1.4 per cent, which is about one-half of one per cent lower than the state average.

"We can't begin to fill the job requests of local business and industry," he said.

"Area residents can help fill the manpower gap in Pampa by writing to their friends and relatives in other towns and cities," Power said. "Tell them about the fine job opportunities here and of the wonderful facilities that make Pampa a good community in which to live."

For further information concerning job opportunities in the Pampa area, write Texas Employment Commission, William J. Ragsdale, Manager, P. O. Box 1982, or call MO 4-3385.

MOSCOW (UPI)—An American jetliner, with a second close behind it, landed at Moscow's Sheremetyevo Airport today to establish regular commercial service between the Soviet capital and New York.

The first Pan American Boeing 707, carrying VIPs and journalists, landed at 2:42 p.m. (7:42 a.m. EDT) well over an hour behind schedule.

DALLAS (UPI)—State and national leaders paid tribute Monday to the short, stocky congressman from Texas whose willingness to defy the judiciary in favor of what he thought were the rights and responsibilities of Congress won him national headlines.

All recognized Rep. Joe Pool, D-Tex., as a fighter and a strong anti-Communist.

Pool, 57, died Sunday of heart failure while waiting to board a plane at a concourse in Hobby International Airport in Houston.

PAPEETE, Tahiti (UPI)—France tested a "medium-powered" nuclear weapon Monday, the French Bastille Day, at its Mururoa Atoll Pacific test range 800 miles from Tahiti.

The blast, second in a series that is to end in late August with detonation of France's first hydrogen weapon, caused bitterness in Tahiti, where there is strong anti-nuclear sentiment.

PARIS (UPI)—Cyrus R. Vance, deputy chief U.S. delegate to the Vietnam War talks with North Vietnam, flew home today to brief President Johnson on their deadlock.

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The district attorney's office plans to seek the death penalty for Sirhan B. Sirhan although investigators have not ruled out a conspiracy in the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Kill 193 Communists

Troops Invade Viet 'Rat's Nest'

SAIGON (UPI)—Allied troops flushed out Communist soldiers with a "people sniffer," invaded their "rat's nest" hideout and killed 193 on the southern approaches to Saigon in battling that ended today, U.S. spokesmen said.

Three fights, one of them only 16 miles from the center of Saigon, flared throughout the night and into today in the first battles near the capital in nearly two weeks despite persistent reports the Communists were mustering for an offensive.

An American ambush patrol discovered the Communists southwest of the city and called in a scent-detecting "people sniffer" to determine how many there were. There were plenty, all of them infesting the banks of the Vam Co Dong River, known by U.S. soldiers as the "rat's nest."

Helicopters quickly brought in reinforcements and pinned the Communists against the river bank. In 20 hours of fighting, 77 guerrillas were killed, spokesmen said, while U.S. losses were eight killed and 24 wounded.

"We encircled them and then pounded them with artillery," said Col. Henry E. Emmerson of Milford, Pa., commander of

Palomino Club Of Vernon Will Ride In Parade

The Santa Rosa Palomino Club of Vernon will be in Pampa for the big Top O' Texas Rodeo parade on July 24, according to Holly Gray, parade chairman.

The Palomino Club will also head the grand entry and do their famous flag drill on the opening night of the rodeo.

All organizations and business concerns of the city are invited to have an entry in the parade, Top O' Texas Rodeo Association officials said.

The Santa Rosa Palomino Club, sometimes called Vernon's Ambassadors on Horseback, was founded in the year 1949. A small group of 14 men head the riding club.

The purpose of the club was to foster a better friendship and closer cooperation among its members and develop a riding club unique in color, glamour, and background.

From Czechoslovakia Russians Slow In Withdrawal

By GERD KRIWANEK

PRAGUE (UPI)—Replacing the sword with the pen, the Russians today sent a letter to its former Czech satellite and slowly went on withdrawing Soviet forces from this country.

Czech Communist reform leaders endured in public silence the ordeal of cutting their apron strings to Moscow. But a woman interviewed on Prague television spoke of the ordeal Czech newspapers call the war of nerves with Moscow.

"Every minute the Soviet troops are overstayng their welcome probably costs them the friendship of 100,000 Czechoslovakians," she said.

Message To Czechs
To Alexander Dubcek and his fellow reformers came the letter written in Warsaw Monday at a meeting of Soviet leaders and their closest allies from East Germany, Poland, Hungary and Bulgaria. They did not make the letter public. But the message appeared in an official Polish news report of Warsaw's Sunday-Monday gathering of the Kremlin clan.

"The representatives of the fraternal parties and governments paid particular attention to the activation of the aggressive imperialist forces, aiming by means of subversion to undermine the socialist structure in some countries and to weaken the ideological and fraternal ties linking the socialist countries."

In other words in Soviet eyes the Czech drive for more freedom at home is the work of Western subversion despite Dubcek's repeated pledges of loyalty to the Soviet Union.

Many here had feared the Soviets would use force to keep the Czechs in line. The fear (See RUSSIANS, Page 3)

A Black Early Morning Sky Turned White

Nuclear Age Born 23 Years Ago Today

By GAYLAND BRYANT

TRINITY SITE, N.M. (UPI)—The black early morning sky turned white. The surrounding mountains were bathed in an incredible burst of light. A sudden shock made the ground tremble. The thunderous roar echoed for 50 miles in the still morning air.

July 16, 1945—23 years ago—the birth of the nuclear age. Today, pitted concrete piers stand in silent testimony to the power of that birth. And the tower that stood in the desert near Alamogordo, N.M., before 5:30 a.m., is replaced by a stone monument.

The rain that had been spattering the site that summer morning stopped but the scientists decided to delay the test from 4 a.m. until an hour and a half later. The bomb stood atop its 100 foot tower, armed and waiting.

Dr. Edward Teller warned of possible sunburn and lotion was passed around in the pitch darkness. Soldiers with seismographs awakened a restaurant owner in the village of San Antonio, N.M.

"If you come out in front of your store now," they told Jose Miera, "you'll see something the world has never seen before."

He sleepily walked outside and stared south. The horizon was dark.

Minus 45 seconds: Joe McKibben tripped a switch and the automatic timer took over. The test was out of man's control. Minus 30 seconds: Fred Reines, a former Los Alamos physicist, waited with I. I. Rabi. The Voice of America burst forth on short wave with the "Star Spangled Banner" as if anticipating a momentous event.

"Aren't you nervous?" Rabi asked Kenneth Griesen, head of the detonator crew.

"Nope," Griesen said. Minus 10 seconds: Griesen changed his mind. "Now I'm scared," he said.

Then, as a world slept, and citizens of two cities named Nagasaki and Hiroshima went (See NUCLEAR, Page 3)

Senate Hearing Court Nominee's Testimony

By ROY MCGHEE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas, in an historic appearance before Congress, testified today he participated in some of President Johnson's top level strategy sessions on the Vietnam War and riots in the nation's cities.

Fortas, the first nominee for chief justice in the history of the nation to be called before a Senate committee, stunned the hearing room with testimony that he had participated in White House policy meetings while serving on the Supreme Court.

"There have been stages . . . about the fantastically difficult decisions involving the war in Vietnam in which I have participated," Fortas told the Senate Judiciary Committee.

"I am not an expert on Vietnam. The President seems to think I can serve a function by stating the views of others in summary."

Called On Last

"My role has been one solely of sitting in meetings while other people expressed their views," Fortas said. "The President expects me to summarize. He always calls on me last."

The small hearing room on Capitol Hill was packed when Fortas, wearing a dark gray business suit, entered, accompanied by Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn.

Fortas nodded to a few friends and sat down momentarily at the witness table before Gore escorted him into an inner chamber to meet other members of the Judiciary Committee.

Gore, on presenting Fortas to the committee, noted that Fortas if confirmed will be the 15th chief justice of the United States.

"None of his predecessors appeared or were asked to appear before a Senate committee. He is the only nominee to be asked," Gore said.

Gore said that Fortas "welcomes the precedent" of appearing, but cautioned the committee to be aware of limitations on its questions because of the independent character of the judiciary in the federal system.

Just as a senator may not be required to justify a vote on a bill, Gore said, neither may a justice be compelled to answer questions about Supreme Court cases.

The Judiciary Committee must approve Fortas elevation to chief justice before it goes to the full Senate for confirmation.

Johnson drew censure, mainly from a band of Senate Republicans, for presuming to fill the chief justice seat late in the final year of his last term—a so-called "lame duck" appointment, in their terminology.

Attorney General Seeks Original Texas Boundary

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin believes Texas still owns all the land it did in 1845—when the Lone Star was added to the Stars and Stripes. And he asked the United States Supreme Court to agree with him Monday.

The court granted Texas ownership of the oil-rich Gulf Coast tidelands three marine leagues—10.3 miles—into the ocean from the 1845 shoreline in a decree last December. Federal and state officials were ordered to work out location of the boundaries.

But Martin said the Interior Department discovered Texas would get more land than expected under the decree because of the erosion that has taken place during the last 123 years.

So federal officials are trying to get the court to use the existing shoreline.

"If the present shoreline was accepted, the area of ownership would constantly be in a state of litigation, with ownership constantly changing hands" because of continuing erosion, Martin said.

He called on the Supreme Court to set the boundary at the shoreline as it existed Dec. 29, 1845—the date Texas entered the Union.

Martin said the original boundary gives Texas "considerably more acreage" than measuring from the present shoreline.

Youths Caught After Foot Chase Admit Burglaries

Two juveniles apprehended by police after an attempted burglary this morning have admitted a string of 13 burglaries here and implicated two other youths.

The two 14-year-olds were caught after a three-hour block chase by uniformed Pampa police.

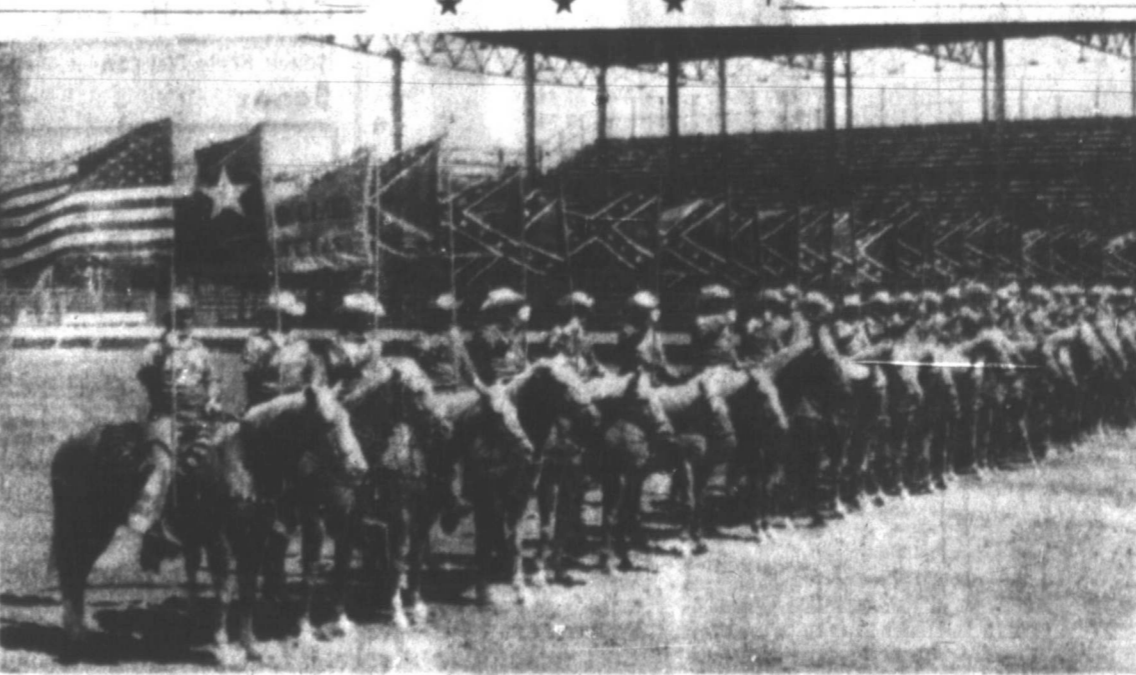

One other youth who was involved in the attempted burglary had not been identified by noon. He was taken by police to be hiding out.

It all started when a person telephoned police at 6:17 a.m. to report that she thought there was an attempted burglary at Floyd's Kwik Stop drive-in grocery, 407 N. Gayler.

Officers Gene Aufleger, Sgt. Fred Brown and Bobby Dyer converged on the scene in patrol cars.

They saw two youths running down a nearby alley and gave chase—on foot.

Dyer chased one of the swift youths, but lost him several blocks later. Sgt. Brown and Aufleger lost the second youth (See BURGLARS, Page 3)

PALOMINO CLUB—The Santa Rosa Palomino Club of Vernon will be in Pampa for the Top O' Texas Rodeo Parade July 24 and will head the grand entry for that night's first performance of the annual show, where they will do a flag drill. The parade will be one of the highlights of Western Week in Pampa, when citizens of the community have been urged to dress western to set the mood for the rodeo.

Santa's Post Office May Be Closed For Lack Of Funds

By United Press International
 Santa's post office probably will be closed this year. Kids can thank a green giant who is not so jolly—money.
 The announcement recently by Postmaster General Marvin Watson that 347 small town post offices will be closed by the end of August has touched off a cry of protest that will reach Congress, a United Press International survey shows.

Watson said the closing of 250 fourth class post offices on Aug. 2, and of 97 on Aug. 30 was made necessary by Congress' orders to cut Post Office Department employment to the level of June 30, 1966. This meant 63,238 positions would have to be eliminated.

"Watson said the closings could be stopped only by Congress rescinding its order to economize. The department also is curtailing weekend service in cities this summer, and plans to eliminate Saturday city home deliveries in the fall.

Postmasters and postmistresses of small town post office are up in arms about the closings.

Take Santa, Idaho, where Watson is being cast as Scrooge.

It would be easy to take Santa—there are only 50 persons to his name. But millions of children in 60 years have mailed their Christmas requests from across the nation to Santa.

Mrs. William Freda, the Santa postmistress, called Watson's order a "tragedy."

Last Christmas Mrs. Freda worked nights answering children and telling them to behave. Every postmaster before her has done the same. Helpers from town have written letters.

"I intend to write Postmaster

Income in 1965 and 1968 Necessary to Equal 1949 Purchasing Power

Soaring prices and taxes have reduced the value of the dollar so that in order to maintain the same purchasing power, a man who earned $5,000 in 1949 would now have to earn more than 50% again as much, according to the National Consumer Finance Association. Since 1949, prices have increased by 44%; social security tax has increased from 1% on a maximum of $3,000 ($30) to 4.4% on a maximum of $7,000 ($343.20); and the new income tax surcharge will draw off still more of the wage earner's income.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Alexander Hamilton Institute says it expects no "consistent" market strength even though the summer rally is at hand. It says it expects trading to be erratic through the rest of the month and advises the cautious investors to hold off new purchases until most second quarter reports are made public.

Sherson, Hamill & Co. observes that the change is emphasis toward good quality issues in the market probably has been brought on by "peace hopes," pointing out that a number of encouraging factors have bolstered the "already prevalent peace psychology." The investment analyst says it thinks the odds favor a continuation of this climate provided the Paris peace talks do not collapse.

The Wiesenberger Investment Report says psychological factors remain a strong stimulus to the market but fundamental and monetary considerations are becoming less favorable. It says investment strategy should combine a willingness to accept profits in exploited issues together with confining new commitments to reasonably appraised stocks with well-defined earnings prospects.

Sturgeon Urges Citizens To Get Involved In Enforcement Of Law

MELEAN — "We as a country, are not guilty for the violence in our cities. But we are guilty for failing to become actively involved with law enforcement," Ben Sturgeon, Pampa attorney told the members of the McLean's Lion's Club at the regular luncheon today in the First Methodist Church.

Sturgeon stressed the need for protection of the property rights of all citizens and declared, "We are permitting, for political reasons, laws necessary for citizen protection to be glossed over and lightly regarded when you and I both know it is not right or just."

Following a review of the current trend of violence and crime in the country, Sturgeon made an appeal for all law abiding citizens to act now to protect and preserve their property rights. "What the world does not know, and what few Americans stop to realize, is that the majority of us have never seen a gun pulled in anger, much less fired one personally in passion.

Russians

(Continued From Page 1) centered on the infantry and task forces sent into Czechoslovakia last month for East Bloc maneuvers. The Soviet forces did not leave June 30 when the war games ended. They stayed, they promised to go, they stayed, they promised to go, they stayed, some went.

Prague television said Monday night the pullout that began Saturday and which the Soviets had said would take three days now will stretch out until at least Sunday.

Night Departure

Marshal Ivan I. Yakubovskiy, the Soviet commander of Warsaw Pact forces, came back from Warsaw Monday and said his forces would pullout only at night. The night travel possibly was designed to further torture the Czechs. Possibly the marshal wanted to give his troops as little chance as possible of seeing the "Soviets, go home" again daubed on Czech walls.

In the Soviet-Czech Crisis:

—In Moscow, UPI correspondent Henry Shapiro reported the Kremlin appears to have decided against using force to check liberalization of communism in Czechoslovakia. He said the Soviets have other weapons in the crisis. One weapon is economic: it would cost the Czechs dearly if their highly developed industry lost its supply of Soviet raw material.

—In Bucharest, Romanian strongman Nicolae Ceausescu, an earlier maverick from the Kremlin line, told the Russians not to meddle in the Czechs' internal affairs. Quoted by his Agerpress news agency, Ceausescu said: "Not for a moment and never has anybody conceived that the Warsaw Pact can justify an interference in the internal affairs of other states."

—In Belgrade, the Yugoslav press followed President Tito in attacking any Soviet interference in what is going on in Czechoslovakia.

—In Bonn, one of the moves that angers the Russians, the West Germans reported the beginning of a political beachhead in Czechoslovakia. Bonn officials were in Prague during the weekend, apparently sounding out Dubcek's aides on closer relations.

Fortas

Ervin, one of a handful of Southerners to join ranks with the GOP opposition bloc, opened the battle last week with the argument the chief justice seat is not really vacant since its present occupant, Earl Warren, resigned at Johnson's pleasure and Johnson accepted the resignation upon "the qualification of a successor."

Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark told the committee there was ample precedent for this arrangement, and dismissed the notion there was any impediment to naming and confirming a new chief justice under it.

That matter was let stand, and Ervin, a lawyer and former judge himself, spent the weekend boning up on legal points and philosophy he wanted Fortas to testify on for the record.

Claims Senators Pressured Sen. Robert Griffin, Mich., leader of the Republican opposition, meantime told a news conference he had heard of White House pressure on some senators to vote to close off debate if the nominations are filibustered.

He also said there were rumors that Johnson was willing to back down on his insistence on strong gun control laws in trade for support of Fortas and Thornberry.

But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, who is strongly behind the nominations, said the President was as firmly behind strong gun control laws as ever.

Griffin claims 19 or 20 Republicans are lined up in opposition to the nominations—to the point of filibustering, if necessary. He also claims 16 or 17 Democrats would join them in voting against cloture (cutting off debate), which requires a two-thirds majority.

Horse Show Underway For 4-H'ers

A total of 143 youths from 16 Panhandle counties in Texas are competing here today for top honors in the District 1 4-H Horse Show being held at the rodeo grounds in Recreation Park.

Top 20 contestants from each of the district shows being held across the state will be eligible to compete in the State 4-H Horse Show slated for August 8-10 in Fort Worth. State finalists will be selected on the basis of points earned.

Registration of entries in the district show began at 8 o'clock this morning. Judging of halter classes started at 9 o'clock and was followed by performance classes in western pleasure, reining, pole bending and barrel racing.

John Trimmer of Hale Center is judge of the show. Foster Whaley, Gray County agriculture agent, is show superintendent. He is being assisted by Jesse Hoermann, assistant agent, and Alvin Reeves, a local 4-H adult leader.

Fifteen Gray County youths are competing at the show. They were named at the county elimination contest held here July 8.

Obituaries

R. H. KITCHINGS

Funeral services for R. H. (Doc) Kitchings, 71, of 701 E. Francis, will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday in Duenkel Funeral Home Chapel with Rev. H. DeWitt Seago, pastor of First Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

Pallbearers will be Charles Glisson, Clyde Rodecape, Ben Anderson, W. B. Jackson, Bill Taylor and Terry Duenkel. All barbers are asked to be honorary pallbearers.

Mr. Kitchings was born July 31, 1896 at Cache, Okla., near Ardmore and started barbering while in his teens. He moved from Oklahoma to Wyoming where he owned a mercantile store, and later moved to Pampa in 1926.

Nuclear

(Continued From Page 1) about their wartime business. Sam Allison cried, "Now!!" The world entered the atomic age. It was 5:29:45 a.m. Mountain War Time.

A rancher between Alamo and the barren stretch of ground called Trinity Site was jolted awake. "I thought a plane had crashed in the yard," he said.

The light was seen 250 miles away and even pierced the darkness of a blind girl riding in a car near Albuquerque.

Joe McKibben, in charge of the timing of the instruments, recalled several people "sort of hoped it wouldn't work, but we had to make a sincere effort because if it did work, we wanted to have it first."

And Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, director of the project, was even surprised at the magnitude of the explosion. He had bet a co-worker $10 it would not work.

FLAMING DESCENT? No, the smoke is from a canister attached to the heel of a member of "The Falcons," the Royal Air Force's parachute team. Smoke helps spectators trace maneuvers by the skydivers.

Burglars

The would-be burglars, had broken the glass on the rear door and torn off its handle, but the timely arrival of police apparently scared them off and no entry was gained.

Police units put a dragnet on the area and kept flushing the youths out. But the pair, who later split up, jumped fences, cut through back yards, hid for a while, later would run again—and proved to be very elusive for policemen in their patrol cars.

One youth was caught about 8:50, the other was picked up at his home about 10 or 15 minutes later.

Taken to the police station, the youths admitted committing 13 burglaries—including several last night and early this morning. They included break-ins at a service station in the 200 block of W. Brown, the First Presbyterian Church and the First Baptist Church. The youths admitted to a number of vending machine burglaries recently and told police that one other youth had participated in at least one of the burglaries and that another had participated in several. Police Chief Jim Conner said.

GENEVA (UPI)—President Johnson said today the United States and Soviet Union "will shortly reach a decision" on where and when to open negotiations on mutually limiting and then reducing nuclear missiles.

In Wheeler, Shamrock Two Agri-Business Courses Scheduled

Two area short-courses in agri-business will be conducted tonight, Wednesday and Thursday in Wheeler County by a specialist from the Texas Agriculture Extension Service of Texas A&M University.

The courses, which involve principles of selling, buying, customer relations and making loans, are aimed primarily at businessmen in rural areas. "The short course for businessmen is a new educational service for the off-farm segment of rural areas," Max Hatter, Wheeler County agriculture agent, said.

"It's designed to help businessmen improve their techniques and thus work for the mutual benefit of themselves and farmers in their trade area."

The courses are being sponsored by the Extension service, the Canadian Production Credit Association (PCA) and Shamrock Chamber of Commerce.

There is no charge for the course. Hatter said. The meetings are open to the public and area residents are invited to attend. The county agent added.

First of the courses is slated tonight in the new Canadian PCA building in Wheeler. The meeting will last from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.

A six-hour course in two parts will be conducted from 7:10 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday nights in the Shamrock High School cafeteria.

The courses will be taught by Kenneth Wolf, a retired Air Force colonel who began work for the Texas Agriculture Extension Service after receiving a Ph. D. in agriculture economics from Texas A&M University.

Course topics include: (1) "Smart Buyers"—the principles and proven techniques of buying for retail selling; (2) "The Art of Selling"—an outline of fundamentals of successful selling; (3) "Selling Service"—a discussion of key points in selling a service; (4) "Credit and the Customer"—a discussion of the advantages and disadvantages of granting credit, including information on how to maximize advantages when credit is granted.

District Governor Slates Address At Rotary Club

Dr. Jack Rodgers of Odessa, governor of District 573 of Rotary International, will be the featured speaker at the Pampa Rotary Club's weekly luncheon meeting tomorrow at the Coronado Inn.

President of Odessa College since 1960, Dr. Rodgers has a total of 39 years of educational work in Texas school systems. Thirty-two of these have been in Odessa, with 13 years in the public schools and 19 years at Odessa College as dean, vice-president and president.

He has been listed in "Who's Who in America," and "American College Presidents and Deans."

'Rat's Nest'

South Vietnamese infantrymen, reinforced by American soldiers, air strikes and artillery bombardments, killed 116 Communists in fighting that tapered off just after midnight, a U.S. spokesman said.

Allied casualties were not announced.

American B32 Stratofortresses, meantime, chalked up four raids on the northwestern side of the city, hitting guerrilla hideouts and infiltration routes 40 miles northwest of Saigon, not far from Cambodia, the war communique said.

Despite the full-scale attack alert, U.S. Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford maintained a tight schedule of top-level military and embassy briefings. Early today, he conferred with President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam, sounding out the government leader before his meeting with President Johnson in Honolulu later this week.

Three Incidents Are Reported To Police

In local police news yesterday and last night, a woman called police to report that her husband was beating her. She phoned she had given the wrong address, and told police to "forget" the whole thing.

A Pampa youth reported that his wallet containing about $20 had been stolen while he was in the south part of town. The youth and another, both under 21, admitted to police that they were trying to illicitly purchase liquor.

Several cases of malicious mischief were reported, including the partial destruction of a garden hose in the 1600 block of N. Russell, and a rock thrown through the window of a firm at 620 S. Russell.

400 Reservations Made For GOP Dinner Friday

AMARILLO (UPI)—More than 400 reservations have been made for the Republican fund raising dinner in Amarillo Friday, officials said Monday.

The dinner at which Calif. Gov. Ronald Reagan is scheduled to speak, is in honor of Rep. Bob Price of Pampa and will be held in the tri-State Fairgrounds Coliseum.

Horace Scott, ticket chairman, said Amarillo businessmen have purchased 300 tickets which will be distributed to students. Scott said tickets are available from $5 to $100.

Auto Insurance Rates Going Up

AUSTIN (UPI)—Texas auto owners face a 7 per cent hike in collision and comprehensive insurance rates Aug. 15.

State insurance board chairman George Cowden said Monday the board approved the rate increase July 3. Cowden will sign the order Wednesday.

Although industry representatives had asked the board to approve an average rate increase of 4.9 per cent, the actual overall hike will come to only 2.8 per cent, due to a drop in liability insurance rates.

Private passenger car liability rates will go down an average of 7 per cent.

Palomino

(Continued From Page 1) can boast of winnings like theirs. There are over 200 trophies in the trophy cases in the Wilbarger County Auditorium that the club has won in parade competition, most of which are first-place trophies.

Trips have been made to Colorado Springs Pikes Peak or Bust Rodeo; Albuquerque and Santa Fe, New Mexico; Memphis, Tennessee; Oklahoma City, Ardmore, Altus, Elk City, and Lawton, Okla.; Amarillo, Fort Worth, Dallas, Waco, Wichita Falls, Tyler, Lubbock, Plainview, Huntsville, Pampa, and San Angelo, Texas. . . to name only a few. In 1964 the club appeared on national television in the Cotton Bowl Parade in Dallas.

It was named Outstanding Riding Club in the Nation for 1966 by the American Association of Sheriffs, Poses and Riding Clubs.

At the present time there are 42 members in the club. They are bankers, business men, farmers, ranchers, etc., and are a self-supporting organization with each member paying for his own horse, equipment, and expenses.

Look into a Chevrolet pickup

See more truck for the money!

Start with the Chevy pickup's frame. If the gauge of the steel seems extra heavy—it is. To make it truck-tough. And notice the solid, tight double walls of the cab.

Next: take a look at the truck-designed coil springs at all four wheels. A Chevrolet exclusive. And the independent front suspension for a ride that's just like a car's.

See how the fender liners are smooth as soup bowls inside. Road splash and dirt run right out.

And check the engine compartment. Power plants go all the way up to 310 horsepower. And Six or V8, they all use regular gas.

Pickups built this strong ought to be looked into. Your Chevrolet dealer's the man to see—today.

Television In Review

By RICK Du BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Regis Philbin who emotionally walked off ABC-TV's Joey Bishop show last week before millions of viewers because he believed the network was unhappy with him, returns to the series tonight.
 Bishop stood by his 35-year-old announcer-sidekick during the fuss and spent the weekend coaxing him to come back. At the final friendly persuasion, at a meeting in Bishop's home Monday, resulted in Philbin agreeing to resume his duties.
 On tonight's show, taped Monday evening, Bishop says: "I've had a very difficult week, ladies and gentlemen. The vice president of the United States canceled out on me twice, and Regis canceled on me once. But all's well that ends well."
 He then introduces Philbin, who gets a rousing reception as the band plays "when Irish Eyes are Smiling"—and after some kidding about the squabble, the show goes on.
Defends Network
 At his home, before the Monday taping, Bishop said he did not believe it was ABC-TV or the network's new president, Elton Rule, that made Philbin feel the television organization was down on him.
 "There's always one guy who's trying to prove himself a big man—make a name," said Bishop. "Underlings get to Regis—and to me too. But I've gone through 25 years of nightclubs, and I let it go off my back."
 Before Philbin decided to return, Bishop said he had spoken to Rule and explained that if his sidekick did come back he would have to kid the situation because it was the way he—as a comedian—works. Bishop said the network president "was terrific about it" and quoted him as saying: "If you want to kid Elton Rule, you can certainly kid him."
 Waiting for Philbin to arrive at his home Monday, Bishop said wires and telephone calls since the flareup last Wednesday were very favorable to the announcer. He described his spoken attitude to Philbin in the following manner: "It's on this basis: All right, some guy doesn't like you. I love you. And I'm paying you."
Matter of Priorities
 Bishop also noted that he has artistic control over the show. In his on-the-air resignation, Philbin expressed the belief that Bishop had protected him from network executives who wanted to get rid of him. He explained he did not want to hurt Bishop's chances with the show. The two are friends.
 ABC-TV said Philbin's statements were "unwarranted and have no basis in fact." However, it also has been suggested that some network officials, rather than wanting to fire Philbin, wished to reduce his contributions to the show, including his opening byplay with Bishop.
 Pointing to his program's achievements, Bishop responded: "If anyone at the network thinks a few minutes of the show—the thing Regis and I do—could make the difference between success and failure, then we're in real trouble."

How's Business?

Capital Expenditures By Business Firm

By The Babson Staff
One of the pillars of strength sustaining the protracted business upturn since early 1961 has been the accompanying advance in business expenditures for new plant and equipment. Even though the recession at the start of this decade did trigger off a cutback in business capital expenditures from mid-1960 thru mid-1961, there has been no significant setback in this important phase of economic activity since the third quarter of 1961. There have been occasional pauses on the way up, but the predominant trend has definitely been upward.

Foreign News Commentary

By WILLIAM H. GORISHEK
PANAMA CITY (UPI)—You ask a Panama City shopkeeper "How's business?" these days and he replies: "Not so hot. It's this political thing."

This "political thing" is the apparently unfinished presidential election of last May 12. It affects everyone, from merchants to diplomats.

The winner 66-year-old Dr. Arnulfo Arias, who has been president twice before—and ousted from office both times, and the loser, former Finance Minister David Samudio, are vying for a decision from the Electoral Tribunal, which, when it comes, will be completely academic and not alter the future. Arias will take office Oct. 1, regardless of the tribunal's ruling. The national guard will see to that.

Largest Margin
Samudio lost by over 41,500 votes, the largest margin in Panamanian history. But he cited fraud and petitioned the count along with Arias' credentials.

The tribunal, which was stacked in favor of Samudio, never ruled on his petition and last week one of the pro-Samudio tribunal justices resigned, making the choice of a third justice crucial.

The Supreme Court bogged down on naming the deadlock-breaking third tribunal magistrate.

The court chose a replacement—the appeals section overruled the court and picked another. No "final" decision has been reached.

The ultimate—and unwilling—arbiter may once again be Brig. Gen. Bolivar Vallarino, head of Panama's National guard.

Accepts Count
Vallarino has accepted the vote count of the National Election Board, a subordinate body to the electoral tribunal but one which represents each of Panama's 10 political parties.

That move put Vallarino in Arias' corner because Arias' five-party coalition held a one-vote edge over Samudio's four-party coalition whenever a dispute arose in counting the votes.

Many political experts in both camps think there is a good chance the "political thing" may never be completely resolved. Each day it becomes more tangled in Panama's loose-jointed electoral statutes. But they agree that Arias will be president in October and probably not until then will life return to normal in Panama.

But it would be well not to expect a new upsurge in business capital spending. High money rates, rising commodity prices, and the toll of the tax increase upon corporate liquidity, plus the increase in unutilized productive capacity, could restrain business capital spending.

Indeed, during the period from the spring of 1963 through the end of 1966 there was a remarkable and unanticipated climb in new plant and equipment expenditures. Over this span of time, nonfarm American business enterprises lifted their capital expenditures from a seasonally adjusted annual rate of nearly $37 billion in the first quarter of 1963 to a rate of $62.8 billion in the fourth quarter of 1966.

The mini-recession which occurred in the first half of 1967 placed a temporary roadblock to the advance. Thus, during the first three quarters of 1967, business capital expenditures eased slightly. In the fourth quarter of 1967 and is the first quarter of 1968, however, the rate of business capital outlays snapped back nicely, achieving a new record level of $64.9 billion last winter.

Preliminary estimates indicate that there was a slight downdrift in the second quarter of 1968 but this may be adjusted upward later on when revised statistics are released. The surprising feature, however, is an estimated further increase in business capital expenditures for second-half 1968. This implies that economic activity should receive a degree of support from new plant and equipment outlays.

But it would be well not to expect a new upsurge in business capital spending. High money rates, rising commodity prices, and the toll of the tax increase upon corporate liquidity, plus the increase in unutilized productive capacity, could restrain business capital spending.

Washington Window News from Hollywood

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs at the White House: Violence this year which took the lives of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has led some students of the presidency to have new fears for the safety of chief executives.

Such fears certainly are not confined to academic theorists, but shared for more practical reasons by men with responsibility in this depressing specialty, experts of the U.S. Secret Service and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Definitive Solution
And the more presidential safety is studied, the more a truly definitive solution seems to lie with the chief executive, himself. Professional security experts say this is a matter to which the new president must address himself and preferably, ever before he gets to the White House.

An interesting mathematical projection was published recently by a physicist and one-time operations research specialist for the U.S. Navy, Dr. Thomas E. Phipps, Jr.

In a special article for the Washington Post, Dr. Phipps used a series of analytical formulas based largely on past history and population growth to show "by the present calculations, the number of presidential assassinations will by the year 2014 reach one on the average of every four years."

Makes Point
While the president who takes office next January would not have to be concerned personally with Dr. Phipps' calculations for 2014, the physicist did make a point that appeared to stand firmly independent of his far-out calculations.

The point was this: Assuming that morality remains about what it has been on the average since the founding of this country, security of future chief executives will depend in large measure on whether they "wake up quickly to their personal danger."

Without being physicists, experts in calculus or professors, agents of the Secret Service have known for years that the final test of any presidential security arrangement always comes down to the chief executive and the extent to which he accepts the dismal facts of danger.

After the most recent Kennedy shooting, President Johnson assigned extensive federal protection to all presidential candidates. All accepted, but not without a few grumbles from some of the recipients.

'Billy The Kid' And 'Tex' Turn In Their Guns

BOSTON (UPI) — "Tex" turned in his gun. So did "Billy the Kid" and a few of their friends. And when it was finished the arsenal included water pistols, cap pistols and one air rifle.

It was part of a gun turn-in on Boston Common recently in which youngsters from 3 to 12 gave up their prize possessions to show their elders the issue is important.

And for giving up their weapons, the children were rewarded with a certificate for a "non-violent toy" to be provided later.

The turn-in was sponsored by the Boston Bridge of Friends, a fellowship of men and women pledged to nonviolence.

Teenagers Still Are Eager To Be Movie Stars

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Teenagers are as eager to become movie stars as were their parents and grandparents before them despite sit-ins and general rebellion against the arthritis generation.

Proof that youngsters dig the glamor scene can be found best in casting offices in Hollywood where thousands of kids try to crash the celluloid bag.

Most of them, however, mistakenly show up for an interview looking like Theda Bara, Valentino or Brando. Wrong.

What movies, televisions and even commercials are looking for are young people who can pass for young people.

The best advice comes from Jennifer Shull, a comely blonde, who is a casting director for EUE-Screen Gems. Her specialty is finding clean-cut kids for commercials.

"More than ever before sponsors and agencies are looking for young people to sell their products in commercials," Miss Shull said. "The important age bracket is between 13 and 20."

"We're not looking for sophistication. There's plenty of that around Hollywood as it is."

"What we look for in teen-age prospects is vitality, sparkle and animation. Beauty or good looks aren't essential. It's the feeling and excitement of youth that counts."

In some respects the television commercial can act as a screen test.

A producer or director watching a show at home frequently notes an interesting face or a spark of talent and seeks out the novice performer.

Miss Shull interviews between a dozen and 20 hopefuls a day. Toughest of all are the children accompanied by their mothers. Most little kids don't want to act, but arm-twisting mamas sock it to 'em if they don't come on like Shirley Temple. "That's the most pitiful sight of all," she concluded.

HOT CAMPAIGN

MANILA (UPI)—A Filipino congressman warned Monday the 1969 Philippine elections may erupt into a "free-for-all shooting affair." Said Rep. Salipada K. Pendatun: "All over the country today, many people are buying arms in preparation for the 1969 elections."

UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — How does a producer go about landing Sean Connery (the No. 1 boxoffice star) to co-star with Brigitte Bardot in the same movie?

Answer: By perspiring blood. The producer in case is Euan Lloyd. The picture, "Shalako." It took Lloyd four years, drove him into debt, forced him to sell his wife's mink coat, but the Englishman persevered and finally completed his film.

He had optioned the story from author Louis L'Amour, so Lloyd had one of three elements necessary to produce a movie these days, the property. Now all he needed was money and the stars. In order to get the money he first needed the stars and a director.

Stars Set Terms

Lloyd managed to interest director Edward Dmytryk early in the going. Then he set out for a star of this Western-to-be-filmed-in-Spain.

"I got Sean through desperation," Lloyd recalled in a precise English accent. "I sold my wife's mink for plane fare to Hollywood to show Dmytryk a list of the top ten boxoffice stars. He picked Connery." Connery finally approved the deal providing Lloyd came up with an all-star cast. Bardot came to Lloyd's mind. Connery approved.

Lloyd then flew to St. Tropez and talked to Brigitte who said she would not work with anyone she didn't like. Lloyd managed to get Dmytryk together with Bardot. Brigitte liked the director. So far, so good.

Mutual Admiration Society
The producer arranged a Connery-Bardot weekend meeting on neutral ground, Deauville, France. They liked each other.

Now Lloyd had financing from the British banks. He also signed Stephen Boyd, a most professional actor who couldn't care less whether he liked anybody so long as the picture was good.

It developed that Boyd did indeed like Brigitte.

Finally, "Shalako" was completed. The stars were happy, the bankers were happy, Dmytryk was happy. Bardot was ecstatic, Boyd was grinning and Connery appeared satisfied. Was it all worth it? Producer Euan Lloyd won't know until "Shalako" is released. For the time being, at least, Mrs. Lloyd has a new mink coat.

Barber Charges $12 To Trim Hippies' Hair

DALLAS (UPI) — Hair stylist Joe Dixey, better known as Mr. Joseph of New York City, told the Texas Hair Stylists and Barbers Association Sunday the flower power children can mean cash power for barbers.

"When a hippie walks in with long hair, the kind of fellow you only see around the shop every six months, I sock it to him for $12 just to touch his hair," Dixey said at a meeting in the Baker Hotel.

The barber, who talked as he performed a $20 hair-straightening job, said the public does not mind paying $6 a week for styling. "What's $6?" he asked. You'd spend that on a couple of drinks in a bar or bet it on a baseball game anyhow."

BOLD STRIPES OF RICH CHOCOLATE come from the Jeanne Durrell collection by Kohen-Ligon-Folz. Cleverly cut in Arnel tricot and nylon, the ensemble (left) travels without a wrinkle. Texas Shows HemisFair Fashions With International Designs, Fabrics

By HELEN HENESSY
NEA Women's Editor
SAN ANTONIO — (NEA) — There's an international flavor in Texas these days that carries right through to fashion.

With HemisFair providing inspiration, the designers from the Texas Fashion Creators Association have captured the spirit of the first world's fair to be held in the Southwest and translated it into fashions for Summer '68.

To reflect the international emphasis of HemisFair, designers borrowed from the historical costumes of other countries. From Spain they took the elaborate dress of the matador and it ruffled shirt, billowing cape and fitted bolero. Bright-colored dirndl skirts trimmed with embroidered ribbon suggest Alpine shepherdesses. The mandarin collar was imported from the Orient; Empress Josephine's daring necklines and high waists reappear from France and England contributes the Gibson Girl collar.

The site of HemisFair, its buildings and landscape comes alive in the patterns of Texas sportswear. Its gardens blossoms on bright, ruffled pantresses. The ornate ironwork of its historic buildings is printed on slack sets. Strong, angular patterns imitate the modern architecture found in exhibit buildings and the gentle San Antonio river can be seen in soft, shady designs.

When HemisFair opened in April, San Antonio began a six-month fiesta. Designers took this cue in creating a group of the most extravagant evening clothes shown in years. They tied tiers of sheer organza with satin, ruffled creamy crepe with layers of lace and lavished jewels on heavy satin.

In contrast to the ornate look for evening, the designers worked on getting women to the fair. Realizing the rush of travel and hotel living involved, they concentrated on easy-care fabrics and trim styling.

They designed sophisticated suits and ensembles for flying into San Antonio. They used polyester knits and permanent-press fabrics for living out of a suitcase.

The largest bi-lingual city in the United States, San Antonio exhibits a strong Latin-American feeling. This has strengthened the return of femininity in Texas fashions. Clothes follow the shape of the body. The waist, back in fashion now, is defined with belts, inserts or seams. Lower necklines are softened with ruffles and skirts swing in gores, pleats or the drap.

The sex appeal of the '30s turns up in at-home clothes with the Bonnie and Clyde look.

Baking soda can be used to remove odors on a chopping board, from cooking utensils or hands. Use enough water to dampen a paper towel, sprinkle the towel with soda, and rub the board or utensils. Rinse.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I feel like a prisoner. I've been married for 11 years, have 10 children, and I'm not yet 30. I thought I was in love when I got married, but all that is changed now because my husband has changed. He made sure I had a baby every year so I wouldn't "run around." Abby, I never was the run-around type, and he knows it.

He is so jealous I can't take it anymore. I have consulted professionals about this, and they all tell me I should leave him, but he has threatened to kill me if I do. I have already informed the police about this, but what good will that do if he makes good his threat? Then our children will have no one.

I'm so nervous I can hardly write this. I could take my children to my Daddy's farm, but I'm afraid my husband would follow us.

If I knew someone who would take 10 children, I would end my misery tomorrow with a bullet. Sign me.

"A 28-YEAR-OLD PRISONER"

DEAR "PRISONER": Your husband sounds like a very sick man. If he refuses to get professional help, add my name to those who advise you to leave him. You are doing yourself and your children a grave injustice by living with a man who is cruel, unpredictable, and possibly a mental case. If you remain, you are a willing "prisoner."

DEAR ABBY: I have been dating this young man for two months quite steadily, and he hasn't even asked to kiss me good night yet.

I wait patiently by the door after thanking him for the lovely evening, and he does not do anything about it.

Don't tell me to grab him by the lapels as he wears nothing but turtlenecks.

NO KISSES

DEAR NO: He has all the earmarks of a real turtle. So grab him by his turtleneck!

DEAR ABBY: I read "Concerned's" letter and had to write. "Concerned" had a fit because her brother's widow took up motorcycle riding at the age of 61. I say more power to the widow. It's a lot better than sitting in a bar some place.

I am a woman who is 69 and I've been riding a motorcycle for years.

It keeps me in good health to get sailing through the air out of doors. I'll bet "Concerned" is just jealous because she hasn't got the get-up-and-go. Or perhaps her get-up-and-go has got up and went.

Sign my name if you wish.
Margaret Keppel,
BREMERTON, WASH.

DEAR ABBY: Maybe YOU think it's all right for a husband to give his wife an electric toaster or mixer for Mother's day, but if my husband ever showed up with a gift to remind me that I was kitchen help, I'd probably strangle him with the cord.

What kind of Mother's day present does your husband give you, Abby? And what do you give him for Father's Day?

NOSY IN PITTSBURGH
DEAR NOSY: Every Mother's day my husband gives me the kids. And every Father's day I give 'em back.

FOR WEDNESDAY, JULY 17

GENERAL TENDENCIES: All sorts of ideas for some new ways to do things that are much more well rounded than have been in effect in bygone days come to light to help you to get ahead but the old, the outworn, the outdated, the hazy, the should be avoided and no attention paid to some fretting you want to do about legal matters.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) — Forget something in the past that keeps you all worked up and find a more productive way of operating by yourself! Being exact where sensitive plans are concerned bring the right results. A good habit to acquire, always.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Get to the amendments that afford you an opportunity to show some fine talent that you possess and bring happiness to others as well as yourself. Forget any anxieties that you may have be wise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) — Let the amendments that afford you an opportunity to show some fine talent that you possess and bring happiness to others as well as yourself. Forget any anxieties that you may have be wise.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 23) — Get right down to financial matters instead of waiting time trying to figure out emotional matters. Doing something about making your property look more modern and charming is wise now. It won't cost too much.

SILVER (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) — Forget about trying to make radical changes where your work routine is concerned. More profitable by being practical. Get to the social in p.m. and get ideas from good friends. Forget all that intuition business now.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — That contacting associate could give you the wrong advice now, so rely on your own judgment where important personal or business matters is concerned. That outsider should be listened to instead of your own.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23) — A good friend can be helpful in whatever aim is yours right now, so don't endeavor to force some fellow worker to do the work for you. Your intuition isn't working just right now. Improve social plans in p.m.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24 to Dec. 23) — Forget that dull amusement today and do what you can to bring more record where it counts the most. Come right out with what you have on your mind where an associate is concerned. That will be the only way to get his respect, support.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 24 to Jan. 20) — Some new friend you have made is ok, though you may be giving you a hard time where he, or she is concerned. Use your own best judgment. Being optimistic gains you much just at this time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Be careful to come through with promises to both the intimate and commercial all chances in your life is most vital now. However, don't act so hastily and nervously. Get those reports out though they are a bore.

Scouting

Scoops

By Mrs. G. J. Boyd

The summer months provide an excellent opportunity for troops to plan extra Scouting activities. The weekly troop meeting held during the school term may be supplemented with activities and projects requiring more time than is available during the regular meetings. Many troops keep in touch during the summer with a monthly meeting to discuss badge requirements completed and to plan service projects. Many badge requirements may be completed by the individual troop member away from troop meetings.

Books, Collector and My Camera badges lend themselves well into vacation plans. Housekeeper, My Home and Needlecraft badges help fill in the "What can I do now?" hours. Water Fun, Cyclist and Backyard Fun fit in with summer activities.

"Cadette Troop 1 is having quite an interesting summer this year." In the last meeting during the school year we discussed doing something to help pass summer hours. Mrs. W.J. Felter, leader of the troop, is quite handy when it comes to doing things with her hands. Starting May 30, the troop started meeting every other Thursday to make anything from sugar eggs to paper mache articles. The girls call it "The Summer Arts and Crafts Workshop."

Packers Bid For Fourth Title In Row

By WILLIAM VERIGAN
UPI Sports Writer
The Green Bay Packers already are in high gear in their bid for an unprecedented fourth straight National Football League title.

All but six veterans were in camp and ready to begin training Monday just hours after an agreement ending a short strike, was signed by the NFL Players Association with the club owners.

"I think we settled this thing too quickly," moaned veteran linebacker Lee Roy Caffey of the Packers as he suffered through the tough drills in nearly 90 degree temperatures at Green Bay.

Most of the Packers veterans had been training on their own at a local Green Bay high school so they would be ready to begin practice as soon as the agreement between the owners and players was signed.

The Detroit Lions, San Francisco Forty-niners and New Orleans Saints also began workouts for veterans Monday, but many players failed to show up.

The Saints, training at San Diego, Calif., had a turnout of 17 veterans and Coach Tom Fears said, "The veterans are in tremendous shape. I wish the rookies had been in such good condition."

John Gordy, the president of the NFL Players Association, was among the veterans missing from the Detroit Lions camp, but he said the delay wouldn't hurt preparations for pre-season games.

"I look forward to probably the best season in NFL history because the players are happy," said Gordy, who was in New York until early Monday morning ironing out details of the new agreement with the owners.

Dick Butkus, Jack Concannon and Jack Johnson were the only seasoned players on hand at Rensselaer, Ind., for the start of the Chicago Bears' camp, and they worked out with about 20 rookies and free agents.

"Obviously, the reason more veterans did not report was the player trouble was not settled until eight o'clock Sunday night," the spokesman said.

Quarterback Johnny Unitas and defensive back Henry Carr, who was obtained from the New York Giants, showed up early at the Baltimore Colts camp at Westminster, Md. Most of the veterans are not due to arrive until Wednesday.

Sixteen veterans and seven members of last year's reserve squad joined 14 rookies at the Los Angeles Rams camp at Fullerton, Calif., and Coach George Allen said starting quarterback Roman Gabriel showed up in "tip top physical condition."

Quarterback Don Meredith and several other veterans began workouts at the Dallas Cowboys camp at Thousand Oaks, Calif., and 38 rookies and free agents were on hand at Johnson City, Tenn., for the opening of the Atlanta Falcons camp. Atlanta Coach Norb Hecker said the first group of Falcon veterans are scheduled to arrive Wednesday night.

Allen, whose fitful moods led to the firing of Gene Mauch as manager of the Philadelphia Phillies on June 15, has been a dynamic hitter since Skinner took over the team. He's batted .333, hit 19 homers and driven in 25 runs as the Phillies won 16 of 28 games and rose from seventh place to third during that period.

The hitch is that the Cardinals have zoomed along at a .769 pace—20 victories in 26 games—during the same period and have lengthened their lead over the Phillies from 5½ games to 11 games.

Allen continued his heavy cannonading when he drove in three runs with a two-run homer and a solo homer Monday night to lead the Phillies to a 5-3 victory over the New York Mets. It was the Phillies' seventh straight victory and gave them a two-game hold on third place only 1½ games behind the second-place Atlanta Braves.

Predict Increased Lead
But, oh those Cardinals! The world champions dallied for six innings and then erupted for four runs in the seventh to beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-2. They're 9½ games in front of the pack and were talking in the clubhouse after the game about winning the pennant by 15 or 20 games.

Allen hit his 19th homer of the season after Tony Gonzalez walked with two out in the first inning and connected for No. 20 leading off the fourth inning to give the Phillies a 2-0 lead. Larry Jackson staggered through six innings and then John Booser came on to limit the Mets to one run and three hits over the last three innings.

The Cardinals trailed 2-0 going into the seventh inning and then staged one of their typical game-winning rallies. Orlando Cepeda singled and Mike Shannon, celebrating his 29th birthday, hit his 13th homer of the year to tie the score. Dal Maxwell doubled, pinchhitter Phil Gagliano singled and Lou Brock doubled and presto, the Cardinals were in front 4-2.

Ray Washburn, who went out in favor of Gagliano during the winning rally, received credit for his seventh victory as Mel Nelson protected the lead over the last two innings.

The Braves scored three runs with the help of just two hits in the first inning to beat the San Francisco Giants 4-2 and the Chicago Cubs beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1 in 10 innings in other National League games. Houston at Cincinnati was rained out.

In the American League, the California Angels beat the Detroit Tigers 4-0, the Baltimore Orioles topped the New York Yankees 8-2, the Cleveland Indians defeated the Minnesota Twins 4-2, the Oakland Athletics drubbed the Boston Red Sox 12-5 and the Chicago White Sox shamed the Washington Senators 3-2.

A walk, singles by Joe Torre and Tommie Aaron, a wild pitch by Gaylord Perry and a throwing error by right fielder Dave Marshall gave the Braves three runs in the first inning and Phil Niekro pitched a seven-inning shutout for his ninth win. The loss was Perry's seventh against eight victories.

Randy Hundley was hit by a pitched ball, took second on an infield out and scored on pitcher Ferguson Jenkins' single to give the Cubs their 10-inning triumph which extended the Pirates' losing streak to 10 games. Jenkins pitched a six-inning and struck out six to raise his record to 9-10.

SMOTHERS COMPETES
ELKHART LAKE, Wis. (UPI)—Comedian Dick Smothers and Lou Sell of Fullerton, Calif., the winners of the first two Formula A Open-Wheel Grand Prix races, will compete in the Badger 200 here July 27.

Sell drove an Eagle-Chev to victory in races at Colorado and Oklahoma. Smothers acts as the backup driver for the team.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dr. Fager will carry top weight of 135 pounds while Damascus has been assigned 130 pounds for Saturday's Brooklyn Handicap at Aqueduct.

Dr. Fager defeated Damascus in their only meeting this year in the Suburban on July 4. Damascus will be trying to become only the eighth thoroughbred to reach the $1-million mark in lifetime earnings.

Orioles Win 6 Straight Victories; Climb Into Second Place Position

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer
Earl Weaver apparently hasn't heard yet that the American League race is supposed to be all over.

Weaver, a little-known organization man who vaulted into the spotlight suddenly last week when the Baltimore Orioles named him to replace Hank Bauer at the All-Star break, suddenly has the Orioles charging at the front-running Detroit Tigers.

The Orioles whipped New York 8-2 Monday night to boost their record to 6-0 under Weaver. Meanwhile, the Tigers' record slipped to 1-4 since the All-Star break when they suffered a 4-0 defeat at the hands of the California Angels.

The result is that the Orioles, who were in third place 10½ games back when Weaver took over, are now in second place 6½ games behind. And the Orioles, who've played four less games than the Tigers, are just five games back in the loss column.

The Orioles get their key chance to tighten the race this weekend when they invade

Detroit for a four-game series. Athletics Swamp Sox
Elsewhere in the American League Monday night, Oakland topped Boston 12-5, Cleveland edged Minnesota 4-2 and Chicago nipped Washington 3-2.

In the National League, Philadelphia topped New York 5-3, Atlanta edged San Francisco 4-2, St. Louis beat Los Angeles 4-2, Chicago nipped Pittsburgh 2-1 in 10 innings and the Houston-Cincinnati game was rained out.

Frank Robinson led the Orioles to their victory over the Yankees as he tripled in Don Buford in the first inning for the first Oriole run and then scored on a daring piece of base running when Boog Powell was thrown out trying to bunt. When losing pitcher Fritz Peterson threw to first, Robinson broke for the plate and scored when Mickey Mantle's throw to the plate was high and wide.

Homers Score Four
The Angels picked up only three hits, all off Mickey Lolich who went the first six innings, but two of them were two-run homers. Jim Fregosi brought in Vic Davallilo on his round-tripper and Aurelio Rodriguez scored Chuck Hinton on a home run in the fourth inning. George Brunet pitched a five-hitter to take the victory with three of the hits collected by Kaline. Brunet is 9-6.

Jim Lonborg's shaky pitching again hampered Boston in its effort to move back into the race. The Red Sox are 9½ games out. Lonborg entered the game with the score tied 3-3 in the sixth. He threw only 11 pitches as he walked the first two Oakland batters he faced and the third was safe on an error. Two of the runners scored off reliever Bill Landis. The A's then added four runs off Les Stange and three off Darrell Brandon. Lonborg, 0-3, took the loss.

The White Sox boosted their record to 3-0 under Al Lopez by edging the Senators. Buddy Bradford snapped a 2-2 tie with a fifth inning sacrifice fly after Luis Aparicio doubled and went to third on Tom McCraw's fly.

Duke Sims hit a two-run homer in the third inning and Sonny Siebert won his 10th game as the Indians edged Minnesota.

Colavito Signed By Yankees

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Rocky Colavito, one-time slugger idled of Cleveland's bobby soxers, was signed as a free agent by the New York Yankees Monday and promptly volunteered to try to help the team as a pitcher.

Always noted for his strong throwing arm, the 34-year-old Colavito pitched three innings of relief for the Indians in an American League game in 1958 and has pitched in several exhibition games for Cleveland.

However, Yankee Manager Ralph Houk ruled out the possibility of using Colavito as a pitcher and said that the reason he was picked up was because the Yanks are short of outfielders. Houk added that he doesn't expect to use Colavito as a pinch-hitter, but that he would probably start him on a fairly regular basis depending on how he hits.

Wayne Caswell of Pampa placed first in the 100cc class of the Top of Texas TT scramble motorcycle race held in Pampa Saturday in conjunction with the Jaycee fair.

In the 175 cc class, Johnny Downs of Pampa was third. Other entries from Pampa included Max Patten, Tommy Greenwood, Bill Barnett, Jimmy Pull, Ronnie Mears, Alvin Sharp, Reese Fields and Preston Pull.

A total of 35 entries participated in the race behind the Coronado center.

Servicemen Capture Olympic Team Berths

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—A winner of the Olympic Gold Medal and three other U.S. servicemen shot their way to Olympic team positions Monday in the national rapid fire pistol and three position small bore rifle championships.

Marine Maj. William McMillan of San Diego, Calif., winner of the 1960 Olympic trial in Rome, and Army S. Sgt. James McNally of Seattle, Wash., were named to represent the United States in free pistol. McMillan won the pistol title in San Antonio with a three-day total of 1,772 of a possible 1,800. Lt. John Writer of La Grange, Ill., and Maj. John Foster of Springfield, Ohio, tied for first place in the small bore with 3,438 of a possible 3,600. Both earned positions on the team.

Writer won the national championship in a shootout. Named as alternates on the free pistol team were Air Force T. Sgt. Leslie Foster of San Antonio and S. Sgt. Alfred Richards of North Manchester, Ind.

In small bore, alternates were Army Capt. Margaret Thompson of Topeka, Kan., and Marine W.O. David Boyd of Quantico, Va.

PLAYER STILL UNSIGNED

BAASTAD, Sweden (UPI)—Australian Marty Mulligan, who now resides in Italy, won his second straight Swedish tennis championship Monday by defeating Ion Tiriac of Romania, 6-6, 6-4, 6-4 in the men's singles final.

The Pampa Daily News
61st YEAR THE PAMPA DAILY NEWS TUESDAY, JULY 16, 1968 11

Off The Top

By WES DUMONT
Pampa News Sports Editor

It may be a pitcher's year in the major leagues but it was a hitter's paradise in the Babe Ruth baseball tournament won by Dumas on Saturday night.

Only one game stands out in which a hurler really starred. That was the opening contest when lefthander Bill Hamilton of Dumas threw a no-hit ball game.

Most contests were won at the plate. One-sided contests were true of four games. These included Dumas' 11-0 win over Spearman and 19-1 victory over Olton. Plainview was also involved in two winning games by lopsided scores over Olton, 19-3, and over Muleshoe, 29-9.

Pampa, of course, played in the three most thrilling games of the tournament. In the first Pampa-Plainview game, Joe Foster's bunt won the game for Pampa, 3-2. In the second meeting between Plainview and Pampa, the contest went twelve innings, lasting over five and one-half hours.

In that game, shortstop Randy Marsh tripled to lead-off the twelfth and scored on a throwing error for the deciding run. Marsh, incidentally, is one of the top competitors on the team. He is an excellent fielder and made a number of excellent fielding plays.

Wimbledon Champs Compete At Ft. Worth

FORT WORTH (UPI)—Two Wimbledon tennis champions will participate in "an unprecedented event in sports history" for the Fort Worth area, the chairman of the seventh annual Colonial Invitational said Monday.

Dick Osburn said Rod Laver and Mrs. Billie Jean King will participate in the tournament, Aug. 12-18. Laver and Mrs. King both picked up their third titles earlier this month in history's first open Wimbledon championship.

"The appearance here of Wimbledon champions and the No. 1 players in the world, Rod Laver and Mrs. Billie Jean King, in a single tournament, is an unprecedented event in sports history in this area," Osburn said.

Also competing in the $20,000 event will be Ken Rosewell, Pancho Gonzalez, Andres Gimeno, Fred Stoll, Roy Emerson, Francoise Burr, Rosemary Galsals and Ann Haydon Jones.

TOP LADIES

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Kathy Whitworth maintained her lead in the money winning standings of the Ladies Professional Golf Association but Carol Mann was moving close to the top spot.

Miss Whitworth continued to lead the money winners with $24,290, but the lanky Miss Mann, following her win at the Past Open in Columbus, Ohio worth $4,200, moved still closer to regaining her No. 1 position with a $22,995 total.

STOCKTON ADVANCES

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (UPI)—Dave Stockton, by virtue of his first place finish in the Greater Milwaukee Open Sunday, jumped into fifth place among pro golf's leading money winners with $95,387.

Billy Casper remains on top with $130,186 but is closely followed by Tom Weiskopf with $129,687. Lee Trevino is third with $96,245 while George Archer holds down fourth place with $88,541.

Press And Bar Conflict

Newspapers across the country are up in arms over attempts to muzzle the press in its function of informing the public about crime and criminal court trials.

As the eyes and ears of the general public, they hope to arouse public concern over the mounting restrictions upon the public's right to know. They believe the public must be aroused or face the unbearable alternative of secret arrests, secret interrogations, and ultimately, secret trials.

At issue is whether there is a conflict between the First and Sixth Amendments to the Constitution. They provide:
Article I — "Congress shall make no law... abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press..."
Article VI — "In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury..."

Our forefathers, who wrote the Constitution, saw no conflict. There is none today. In fact, if the provisions of the First Amendment are impaired, then the Sixth Amendment would be a hollow promise instead of a functional ideal.

In Abilene, law enforcement officials invoked a strict veil of secrecy around a murder case involving a highway patrolman. Physical evidence was hidden from newsmen, and lawmen who whisked the defendant to Austin, refused to confirm or deny whether the suspect had taken a lie test.

In Wisconsin, a judge refused to let newsmen interview a murder suspect although the suspect, and his attorney had requested the interview.

In Tucson, a judge in a murder case muzzled everybody even remotely connected with the case. Photographers were barred from stepping on courthouse grounds and reporters with deadlines to meet were restricted in their movements in and out of the courtroom.

In a Texas murder case withheld from the public the fact that the victim had a weapon in his possession when he was slain. The list could go on and on, but this should be sufficient to show how widespread the threat has become. And the end is not in sight according to Chief Justice Earl Warren, who predicted even more curbs on courtroom press coverage.

How real is the threat to the public's right to know? Listed below are just a few of the many, many instances of censorship which have already occurred in this country in recent months:

1. A federal judge in Del Rio elamped muzzles on attorneys on both sides in a criminal procedure, as well as federal agents and a newsmen.

2. A New Jersey judge has declared that the press has no right to gather news, but merely to print what the courts have cleared by publication.

3. Some judges have banned all types of still cameras, even the small, unobtrusive 35-millimeter types, from the courtroom. Others have refused to permit artists to make sketches of the courtroom scene.

4. A New York Supreme Court justice barred reports and spectators from pre-trial hearing of a criminal case. The courtroom was cleared at the request of a lawyer for a former assistant U.S. attorney charged with manslaughter. The judge also ordered the transcript sealed.

5. In Oklahoma, a judge in a murder trial of a youth charged with killing his father, brother and a friend, ordered all witnesses, jurors, excused jurors, law officers, court personnel, lawyers and courthouse employees not to discuss with anyone information about any matter which might come before the court until a verdict was reached.

6. In Los Angeles, a judge barred the press and the public from proceedings in a murder trial that might take place in the absence of the jury. The judge ordered the jury not to read, listen to or watch anything in the news media but, he said piously, "You have to recognize that jurors are human."

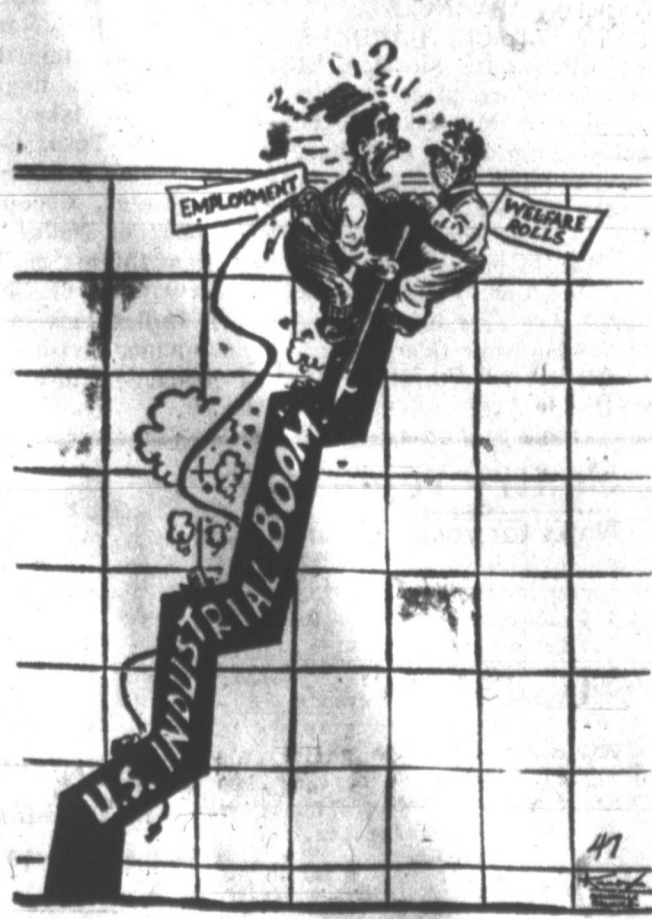

7. In Abilene, law enforcement officials invoked a strict veil of secrecy around a murder case involving a highway patrolman. Physical evidence was hidden from newsmen, and lawmen who whisked the defendant to Austin, refused to confirm or deny whether the suspect had taken a lie test.

8. In Wisconsin, a judge refused to let newsmen interview a murder suspect although the suspect, and his attorney had requested the interview.

9. In Tucson, a judge in a murder case muzzled everybody even remotely connected with the case. Photographers were barred from stepping on courthouse grounds and reporters with deadlines to meet were restricted in their movements in and out of the courtroom.

10. A district attorney in a Texas murder case withheld from the public the fact that the victim had a weapon in his possession when he was slain. The list could go on and on, but this should be sufficient to show how widespread the threat has become. And the end is not in sight according to Chief Justice Earl Warren, who predicted even more curbs on courtroom press coverage.

THE ORGANIZED POOR

I think we may have reached something of a high water mark of political pressure. I noticed the headline in the paper today that the Organized Poor are about to apply economic pressure against the government because the poor people are not getting all the goodies they want.

I am very interested in this area of economic pressure and I should like to know more about it. Since the Organized Poor get their money from the government, I am curious as to just what method the Poor will adopt to apply pressure.

Will the pressure take the form of refusing to spend the money the government hands out? This would be interesting. Un-cashed government checks would be one way of indicating dissatisfaction with the size of the checks. And I suppose this would inconvenience the merchants who are accustomed to doing quite a bit of business with these relief checks. So it would follow that the merchants, not approving of the lack of checks, would in turn petition the government to put out bigger checks. And that would mean that the same merchants would have to be taxed more to supply these bigger checks. But the possibilities for economic pressure here are obviously greater than I had at first thought.

Or it might be that instead of taking the checks and not cashing them, the Organized Poor might turn on the pressure and simply not take the checks at all. That would put heat on the government for certain. There are hundreds of thousands of checks that have to be run through the government computers every month. If one batch didn't get picked up, that would create a significant backlog. And if that backlog were to pile up for two or three months, it is entirely possible that the wheels of government would grind to a halt. The government operates on the assumption that everything it does is NEEDED. And that no one can get along without the help it can give. The whole poverty program is tied to this concept.

The Penton finally scrubbed the F111B last week after the House and Armed Services committee followed the lead of the senate and denied authorization for further work. The withholding action had been recommended by McClellan's subcommittee.

The subcommittee staff was already at work preparing for the wind-up hearings on the F111B. According to subcommittee sources, the hearings will center on two points:

—How much money was wasted in trying to give reality to the dream of former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara — a fighter plane which could be standard for the air force and the navy?

—Who was responsible for pressing the F111B concept, over the strong opposition of military experts?

It will be a real surprise if McNamara, now head of the World Bank, is not the subcommittee's major target. He contended that the plane, serving both services, would save many millions of dollars.

Troubles of the F111A, the air force version of the plane, will also figure in the McClellan subcommittee's inquiry. Members want to find out whether the air force plane is worth the money which has been spent to develop it.

Eight of the F111A fighters have crashed, including a couple of planes from a unit deployed for service in the Vietnam war.

The F111B was envisioned as a major protection for fleet units. It was to mount the newly-developed Phoenix air-to-air missile which is designed to protect against other aircraft and cruise-type missiles.

Also to figure in the subcommittee's inquiry are plans by which the navy hopes to speed a substitute for the TFX through development in two to three years. A new plane, don't cash it.

—Don't accept any more relief checks.
—Go out and work hard to find a job and to keep it.

By this process you'll get what you want in this country, and the whole course of history can be altered by the ORGANIZED POOR.

The whole thing has turned out to be different from what I thought it would be. Why, the Poor have a lot of pressure they could turn on and I hope they do. Here are the steps to be followed:

Pentagon Abandons Ill-Fated F111B Warplanes. Senate Prepares Full Scale Investigation.

JOHN GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON—The F111B, Navy version of the controversial TFX warplane, is gone from Pentagon defense plans but not forgotten by its congressional critics.

The senate investigations subcommittee has begun an inquiry to determine just how much money was spent in the ill-fated attempt to build a common fighter for the navy and air force.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., began investigating the TFX procurement contract as early as 1963. McClellan has been a sharp critic of the navy version of the plane, arguing that prototypes failed to meet aircraft carrier requirements.

The Pentagon finally scrubbed the F111B last week after the House and Armed Services committee followed the lead of the senate and denied authorization for further work. The withholding action had been recommended by McClellan's subcommittee.

How to Balance Income with Outgo

Curtailling American investments abroad may be of some temporary help in balancing income with outgo. But in the long run it will increase our difficulties. What we need is economy, a balanced budget and a drastic slowdown in the printing of new currency.

This would put an end to inflation, would enable American business to compete more successfully for foreign markets, and thus increase our exports. To make a success of this policy, of course, we would need some restraint on the part of unions in jacking up wages every year. This would not be a hardship for labor, as the cost of living would stop rising.

Other essential action is to stop, or at least drastically reduce, the annual wastage of billions of dollars in foreign aid. Whatever justification there is for helping other countries certainly does not hold when our gold reserves and our return from exports are insufficient to enable us to continue making such payments without piling up more deficits in our balance-of-payments problem.

Other helpful measures could be taken, such as making blocked currencies available to American travelers in countries where such moneys are available as a result of the help we have extended to these countries. I have personally tried to buy such blocked currencies in several countries, but have been told by our embassies that they were not permitted to sell them. My purpose was to save the export of more American dollars. This could be an important way to save dollars and at the same time not resort to restricting American travel. On that subject there is no more reason why Americans should be taxed for travel abroad than to tax them for the consumption of foreign commodities such as coffee, wines, liquor, automobiles, jewelry, furs and other imports. These items increase our unfavorable balance by about $1 billion a year.

Still another way to save dollars would be to suggest to servicemen and other Americans living abroad that they accept part of their pay in dollars which would be retained in this country. Arrangements have been made in some instances for Americans living abroad to cash their checks in American-controlled banks and so keep these dollars in our hands. This arrangement should be extended.

precedent were extended to other government agencies at a time when congress is trying to force a 240,000-man reduction in government payrolls.

After the short discussion in secret session Williams said he would be happy to have the proposal aired in a public hearing. No hearings were scheduled, and Williams said he expects to hear no more of the proposal.

Get Family Together For A Big Reunion On Aug. 11

By PAUL HARVEY
Any excuse for a holiday! There are now so many "special days" set aside for celebration that they are being written into union contracts and Congress is moving to bunch them around weekends thus to minimize the increasing disruption of production. Patriotic holidays, once meant for honoring and parading our Flag, are most often merely an excuse to goof off. Even Christmas is frequently profaned with over-indulgence.

Now along comes another one. Freedoms Foundation and Kiwanis International are co-sponsoring Family Reunion Day Sunday, Aug. 11.

I think this one makes sense. Nationally and locally, our politicians have used proclamations of "special days" as an easy pay off for commercial, ethnic and social groups.

Even hobbyists, if they represent enough votes, are honored with special "days" for stamp collecting and boating. Food faddists have sought and won a national "Eat Yogurt Day," thus making ludicrous what should be an official honor.

Yet, for all the crass commercialization which surrounds them, perhaps the half-dozen days which honor our God, our country, our veterans and mothers and fathers are worthy reminders of what they are supposed to remind us of.

Family Reunion Day will become one of the worthy ones. There are but two regrets in my own half-century of living. As a boy scout, I should have gone on from first class to eagle. The perseverance required would have been an earlier experience in self-discipline.

The other regret is that I did not visit my own mother more often while she lived.

Charlie Tamale is getting slapped in the puss with a beanbag by the department of agriculture. They want to do away with the holy frijole.

The USDA is getting mad cause the school kids are passing up tuney fish on toast. They are going to the Tacos Temples in stead.

And the health, edgocation, & welfare says-frijoles are no good for nourishment, which is a explosive issue. Why, pound for pound the bean will give you more action than a tuney rounding them up, but after they are cooked there ain't any comparison.

Why, the teenagers who are hittin the chilli parlors and filling up on tacos, enchiladas and frijoles are in a 100 percent better shape than the ones who fill up on soft drinks, ice cream, candy and other goodies.

In a race between the running action of a bowl of frijoles and a bowl of tuney fish the beans will win in a blast every time.

If it hadn't been for the bean the pioneers comin across the country would never have made it. And without his beans the cowboy wouldn't have had enough energy to hog-tie a misquito.

So them buaraucrats had better quit tryin to throw a fish-head into the beans. The bean-bush may seem innocent as the flower—but there's a snake under it.

I am in favor of cutting the Great Society Program percent—if we can't not have cake and steak, let's settle for corn bread and beans and be solvent, and our dollar worth a dollar.

I am in favor of declaring war on the Viet Cong. Get with all we have, get a quick unconditional surrender, and a victory settlement, stop their fighting while we are trying to make peace. We do not want 5 more years of "no win war".

I am in favor of putting a strong tax on tourists going abroad. If they are financially able to travel around, they should be able to pay the tax or stay home — "See America First".

I am in favor of industrial apprenticeship; training of personnel, the government allowing credit on income tax for the training expenses.

I am not in favor of the government setting up expensive, bureaucratic, centralized schools for untrained civilians, when the industries will have to retrain them before they can use them.

I am in favor of the government allowing the industries to deduct 75 per cent of their income tax for plant and business expansions in proportion to the amount of new employees needed, plus a reasonable amount of apprentice employees expenses for a stipulated period.

I am for this government to cut expenses, reduce the numbers of bureaus by one half, balance the budget and reduce the national debt. This is a bad tasting medicine, sacrifices will have to be made. Loyalty to our government and our fighting men. We must first put our house in order at home. Sacrifice to conquer the disease of inflation and win the war. Remember the peace talks that did not bring peace. Remember the peace talk and Berlin Wall that didn't bring peace. Remember the McArthur peace with Japan, a victory and a peace that lasted. Why continue fighting Communists abroad when we have Communists at home that need conquering, the Cuban cancer, the riots in the cities and our capitol, the disgraceful demonstrations in our colleges. Why neglect our home work to buy friendship abroad? If we must stop Communism in Asia, why not stop it at home? Elect the right kind of representatives who will represent you, and try to correct some of these evils.

THE LIGHTER SIDE The Football Strike

By DICK WEST WASHINGTON (UPI)—It probably is a good thing that National Football League players called off their threatened strike. A good thing for the players, that is.

The strike might have been effective in Green Bay, Dallas, Baltimore, Cleveland and maybe a couple of other cities. But it is difficult to imagine the Washington Redskins winning a strike.

It is difficult to imagine the Washington Redskins winning anything.

Fundamental to the success of any strike is a strong picket line. There is no reason to suppose the Redskin would have been able to keep anybody from crossing their line.

They also would have been deficient in signs carriers. If the strike had come off, it likely would have marked the first time in the history of the American labor movement that somebody fumbled an "unfair" sign.

It is, however, interesting to note how closely sports are becoming identified with political, social and economic problems of the day.

Pro footballers are now a part of organized labor. The civil rights issue is reflected in the proposed Olympic boycott. And so on.

Next season, I presume, college teams will be starting their own protest movements, bringing on a new wave of campus disturbances that might develop somewhat like this:

EAST SWEATSO, Ill.—Rebellious members of the Cowlick College football team seized control of the locker room today as part of an "athletic freedom" demonstration. Police said the players were holding the trainer, Sam McTendon, as a hostage in the whirlpool habit, pending action on their demands for a greater voice in running the team.

Among other things, the players are seeking the right to create their own blocking assignments, which presently are determined by the coach.

"Why should the coach tell us which men to block on a certain play?" said right tackle Steve Trappe, a spokesman for the group. "That is a direct violation of athletic freedom. It stifles individual initiative and self-expression."

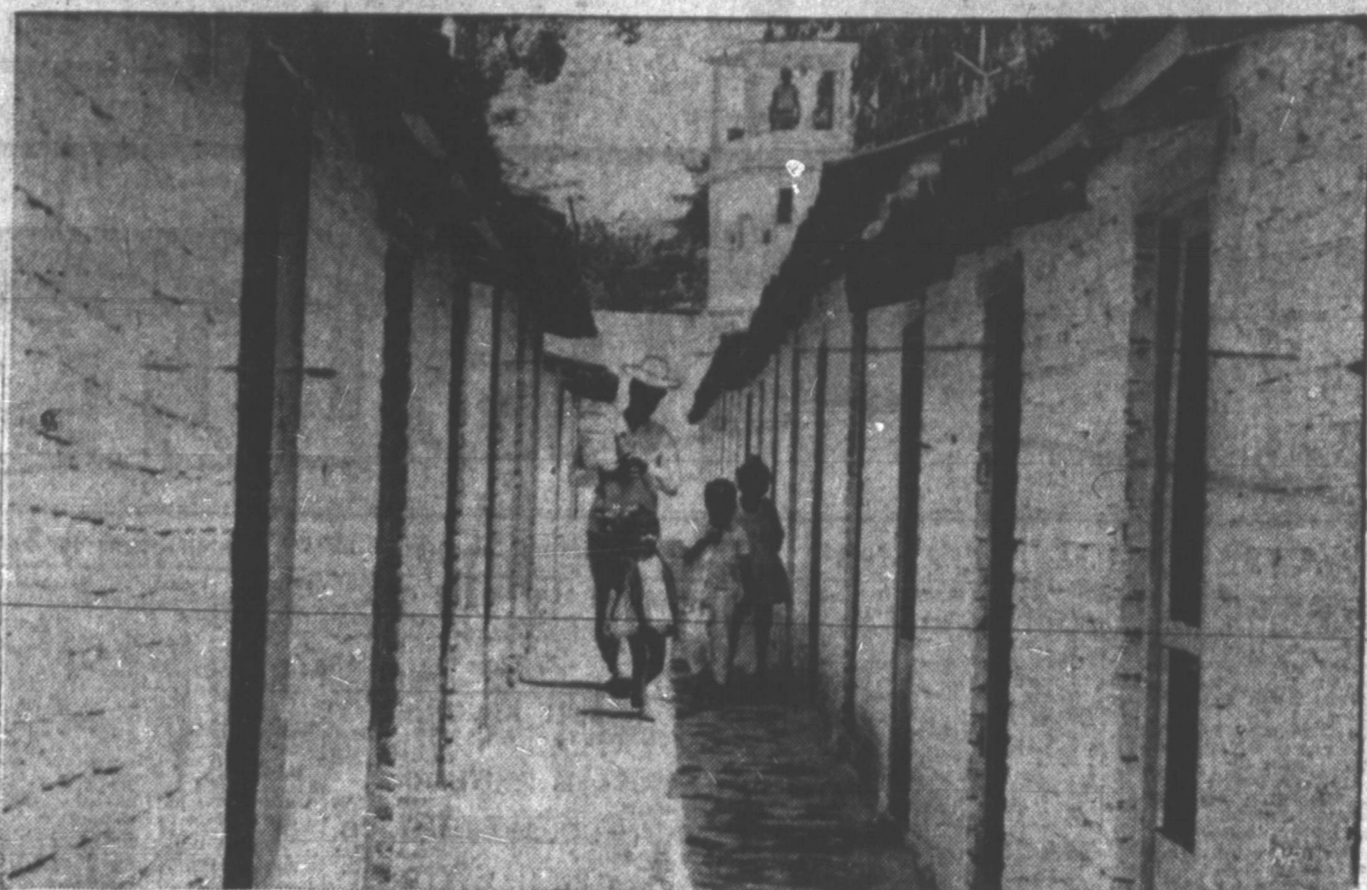

"A player should be free to block anyone he chooses, including a member of his own team, if he feels like it."

He said the demonstrators also were demanding abolition of the huddle, which he described as "an anti-democratic device designed to perpetuate control of the game by the system."
