Lindbergh Suspects Establish Innocence

Maid, Suicide, And Friend In Latest Angle

Companions Of Couple Night Of Crime Talk To Police

ALPINE, N. J. (AP)—The police theory which sought to link Violet Sharpe, Morrow waitress who committed suicide, and Ernest Brinkert, erstwhile convict, with the Lindbergh kidnaping, apparently had collapsed Saturday night.

And Edward Miller, Miss Catherine Minners told police that they were Miss Sharpe's companions on a ride the night the baby was kidnaped. Their statements, coupled with an alibi from Brinkert, tended to clear him and Miss Sharpe of suspicion.

Surveillance over Brinkert relaxed immediately, but police indicated they might question him further. Brinkert said he felt he had convinced authorities of his innocence.

ALPINE, N. J. (AP)—Ernest Brinkert, whom Violet Sharpe, maid in the home of Mrs. Dwight Morrow at Englewood said, before taking poison Friday, had spent the evening with her the night the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped, came here Saturday after his arrest at New Rochelle, N. Y.

Brinkert denied he was with Miss Sharpe the evening of March 1. He said he was with his wife in Bridgeport, Conn.

Klause W. Needy, Mamaronock, New York, disclosed that Brinkert worked for him as a butler, vacating the job March 1, the day the baby was stolen. He expressed the opinion the latter used in the kidnaping was a "driven man."

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Immigration records here revealed that Emily Sharpe, sister of Violet Sharpe, for Morrow maid who committed suicide Friday, applied for permission to visit England the day the Lindbergh baby was stolen. She sailed four days after the $50,000 ransom was paid by John F. Condon, New York.

From Stonebridge, England, Emily Sharpe denied knowledge of the kidnaping. She said her sister was equally innocent but that police had "driven her crazy."

Emily said she worked for Mrs. MacDow of Englewood, before the kidnaping.

Superintendent Schwarzkopf of the New Jersey state police said an autopsy showed the baby went into England the night of March 1 when their baby was kidnaped.

Saturday afternoon, February 27, Mrs. Lindbergh and the baby went from Englewood and the baby went to Englewood and the baby went to Englewood after a three weeks absence. They had stayed at the Morrow home on the two previous week-ends and expected to return there Tuesday March 1. Colonel Lindbergh reached Hopewell late Saturday.

Developed Cold

In the evening the baby developed a cold, which grew worse the next two days. Ollie Wheatley, the Hopewell butler, was sent to a drug store for medicine and chatted with the clerk, who said he had a similar illness home. Later Wheatley went to the store to buy a thermometer, telling whoever waited on him it was to take a child's temperature.

Tuesday morning March 1, when the cold still lingered, Mrs. Lindbergh announced the nursemaid, Betty Gow, from Englewood and revealed the family's plans to return there. Miss Gow arrived about 1:30 p. m.

Police inquiry established that Violet Sharpe, Morrow waitress, who committed suicide Friday, telephoned Ernest Brinkert, an ex-convict, of White Plains, New York, about 1 p. m. after she learned of the change in the Lindbergh plans.

The baby was stolen from his crib at the Hopewell estate between 8 and 10:30 p. m. that night.

Wind, Rains, Hail Damage County Crop

Ackerly And Knott Section Hardest Hit Friday Night

Rain, with heavy bombardment of hail, wrought extensive damage to Howard county crops Friday evening. High winds, accompanying the downpour, also aided in beating young crop stiff to pieces, a county-wide check revealed here Saturday.

Ackerly registered two inches in less than two hours with a slight amount of hail intermingled. A gale, however, laid low all young feed stuff and cotton. Many farmers will be forced to replant. The Herald was advised from Ackerly. A gin roof was blown off and several other roofs damaged at Ackerly.

At Knott enough rain fell to send the lake east of the town five feet higher than it has ever been before. The lake was already standing high enough to make highway 9 detour necessary. Crops around and near Knott were badly damaged.

Hail and washing wrought most of the ruin. At one farm the entire crop was destroyed and a large portion of the field put under water within thirty minutes time.

At Lomax only a small amount of rain fell and no damage was effected. The storm lessened in intensity to the south and east, Big Spring getting only .88 of an inch during the entire night. Wind reached a velocity of 54 miles per hour here at 9:45 p. m. Hail battered flowers and trees in the city and killed many birds.

Saturday the same storm hit Ft. Worth and Dallas but with little or no effect. Transportation was not harmed.

Automobile owners in Howard county have paid $43,934.79 highway tax through the license plate medium since the beginning of the year. Tax Collector Loy Acuff announced yesterday. All proceeds from this tax go to the county until the fifty thousand mark is reached. Then it is divided on a fifty-fifty basis with the state. County occupation taxes have

Governor Opens Campaign For Re-Election In Waco

WACO—Gov. Ross B. Sterling set out the issue of his campaign for a second term in his opening speech here Saturday evening: "Shall honest government—responsible government—businesslike government be continued in Texas?"

Texas, he pointed out, is far out ahead of other states and the federal government, in that its threatened $11,390,000 deficit has been headed off and practically wiped out.

Governor Sterling traced economy measures of his first administration—savings, checking of waste and dissipation of public money, and pledged his fullest efforts, in continued cooperation with the legislature, to bring about greater savings.

Bills will be ready for the next legislature to abolish the whole vicious fee-grabbing system of paying local officials, and to put all public officials on a reasonable salary basis. Gov. Sterling declared. He said the legislative fee committee has worked out the measures, and predicted enthusiastic public support for it.

Lighten Taxes

During his first term, Gov. Sterling reported to the voters, the first definite move has been taken to lighten tax burdens on homes, farms and ranches. This is in submitting the $3,000 homestead exemption from state taxes, which he favors, and which he asked the people to adopt.

Split tax-payment was authorized during his administration.

"I have driven," Gov. Sterling said, "and shall continue to strive in every possible way to encourage home ownership in Texas. I shall always be proud that under my administration, the forward step of homestead exemption was taken in lightening the tax burdens on Texas homes."

Efficient and economical methods have been introduced, through concerted action of the state government, for conduct of the state's business, curbing extravagance and waste, reducing evasions of commercial taxes, lightening the cost of running state institutions and otherwise saving the state money.

The way for greater savings will be pointed out by the joint committee on organization and economy, working in line with principles advocated by his administration from its beginning.

He pledged whole-hearted support to adoption by the legislature of these recommendations, and believes the public will as strongly support them.

Budget Law

A further step toward saving money and getting more for the tax dollar was the uniform budget law adopted last year, under which the governor is made the chief budget officer. "Under this authority," Gov. Sterling said, "I shall exert every effort to keep down expenditures. Utmost economy and retrenchment has been and shall continue the abiding purpose of this administration."

The state's prison system has been bettered every way, including the restoration of hope, encouragement and morale to the prisoners. Efficiency has been pointed out in public schools and higher educational institutions. "Elementary hospitals and homes have been improved and at the same time are showing economies to the extent of $500,000 so far this year on their appropriation. A saving of $200,000 on free textbooks is being made, cutting the cost of textbooks far below half that of Mrs. Ferguson's administration."

Gov. Sterling reiterated his stand that the state should assume the bonds voted on homes and farms for state highways. He will do all in his power to give counties their relief in a constitutional way.

"In view of existing economic conditions," he declared, "I am optimistic."

Terry, creator of the comic strip carried daily in the Herald under "Scorchy's" name, is driving back to his home office after spending seven months in California awaiting material.

Mr. Terry, brother of Paul Terry who for many years animated the Acme's fables and now is engaged in making Terrytoons, is a stocky, amiable fellow; wears a tweed suit, rimless glasses, and speaks with a decidedly northern brogue.

It didn't make any difference to him, he could talk as well on politics or cars as on Scorchy.

Mayor Takes Gun From Pair Of Hi-Jackers

Mayor J. B. Pickle last night frustrated an attempt of two hi-jackers to hold him up, and in a scuffle that followed, seized a gun from the pair.

Coming to town about 9 o'clock Mr. Pickle stopped to give the pair a ride. They pointed a gun at him and forced him to drive south, taking him for "a little ride."

Near scenic Mountain drive the pair, who were car-bound, over-heated and the car was stopped. A scuffle ensued and Mayor Pickle snatched the pistol from one of the abductors. He snapped the gun at one of the two but it failed to fire. He continued to snap the weapon as the pair fled to the mountains. Pickle suffered a slight scratch over the eye when he stopped the car against the orders of the two.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS FOR COMING WEEK

'The Miracle Man' Opening Today At R & R Ritz Theatre

Film Classic Boasts Cast Of Brilliance

Picture Represents Fourth Phase Of Metamorphosis Of Show World

Boasting one of the most distinguished all-star casts of the current season of cinema manufacture, "The Miracle Man," classic American play, moves into the Ritz Theatre today for a three day run.

"The Miracle Man" thus appears in the fourth phase of a metamorphosis which is more the rule than the exception in these days of harking back to the old stand-bys for new thrills in the amusement world. It first saw the light of a fascinated reader's eye when it was published as a novel; next it became a successful Broadway play; thereafter a silent movie in 1919 and now—a talkie. No doubt it will one day enter a fifth transformation and become a television production, "telly" to you, but for the present it serves well the discriminating needs of America's theatre-going millions.

The cast of "The Miracle Man" is an important one. Sylvia Sidney and Chester Morris play the leading romantic roles, as the girl-friend and the dapper young confidence crook. These were the roles play by Betty Compson and Thomas Meighan in "The Hobart Bosworth" play, the central role as the faith-healer patriarch John Wray, plays the part of the fake paralytic, "The Frog"—the part which made Lon Chaney famous on the screen 13 years ago.

Others who are prominently cast are Irving Pichel, Robert Coogan, Boris Karloff, Ned A. Sparks, Lloyd Hughes, Virginia Bruce, and Edie Kilder.

The story deals with the reformation of a gang of crooks by a faith-healer, known as the Patriarch in the vicinity where he lives. Chester Morris plans to exploit the Patriarch for the benefit of the film.

Sylvia Sidney, Morris' girl, is to impose herself upon the Patriarch, as his granddaughter, while John Wray, known as the Frog, a supple-jointed faker, is to pretend a marvelous cure by the faith-healer and rise from the ground before the astonished crowd. Sylvia is then to collect the shower of money which is always abundant after a spectacular healing.

The plan works admirably, but to the astonishment of the gang, Robert Coogan, a truly crippled boy, is cured at the same gathering. The gang is so impressed by the miracle and by the simple goodness of the Patriarch, that they refuse to continue their deception. All except Morris, who, still in love with Sylvia, determines to kill Lloyd Hughes, who, he thinks, has stolen Sylvia's love. When he finds the latter tells Morris that Sylvia has refused to marry him because she still loves Morris.

Delighted and softened, Morris hastens to the home of the Patriarch, who is evidently approaching death. All the gang is much affected and Sylvia starts to confess their deception, but the Patriarch interrupts and tells them he had known it from the start. His head falls in death. Morris takes Sylvia in his arms, and the gang decides to go straight thereafter.

'Dirigible' At Ritz Theatre For Two Days

Capra Directs Stirring Human Drama—Holt Stars

"Dirigible," a Columbia Picture enjoying the stellar services of Jack Holt and Ralph Graves, will open an engagement at the Ritz theatre next Friday. It is an air special, with a background of human drama, directed by Frank Capra.

Fay Wray plays the leading feminine role and others of importance in the cast are Hobart Bosworth, Roscoe Karns and Clarence Muse. The principal characters, Jack Bradon and "Frisky" Pierce, are played by Holt and Graves. Bradon is the commander of a huge Navy dirigible and Pierce is the Navy's foremost flying ace—a daredevil for whom no risk is too great. Miss Wray plays the role of Pierce's wife.

The plot swings into action when Rondelle, an English explorer, who has attempted several times to reach the South Pole over the ice, conceives the idea, at a Navy Day celebration, of making the trip by dirigible. Bradon is to pilot the expedition and Pierce is to accompany them. Helen, Pierce's wife, appeals to Bradon, who secretly loves her, to prevent Pierce's participation.

Left behind, Pierce nurses a grudge and when the dirigible fails to accomplish its purpose he persuades Rondelle to permit him to fly alone over the Pole in his plane. Reshaping the pole their plane crashes and rescue is eventually made by Bradon in a new and improved type of dirigible—Bradon being the agent in bringing together again Pierce and his woman both love for a dramatic climax.

Jack Holt and Fay Wray appear together in "Dirigible," a stirring Columbia picture, booked for the R & R Ritz theatre Thursday of this week.

Novel Picture Coming Here

'East Of Borneo' Partly Filmed In Jungle Of Sumatra

Perhaps the most novel motion picture to be shown in Big Spring this season has just been booked by Manager Robb of the Queen Theatre.

"This remarkable photoplay is "East of Borneo," produced by Universal and filmed partly in the picturesque jungles of Sumatra and the Malay Peninsula, among ancient ruins which form the setting for the action of the drama. It will be shown at the Ritz Thursday only.

For this picture, it is announced, is in no sense a travelogue, but a dramatic story which is filled with suspense and exciting action. The film tells the story of an American doctor who has literally buried himself in this wild region where he, the only white man in the entire countryside, is the personal physician of an Oriental rajah who rules his people from a ruined castle. In this desolate spot comes the divorced wife of the doctor, her reckless love causing her to follow him half way around the world. It is when her late husband spurns her and the rajah casts covetous eyes on the beautiful white woman that the drama reaches its climax, while the thunderous eruption of a nearby volcano adds terror to the scene.

The cast of "East of Borneo" is headed by Rose Hobart and Charles Penner, and also includes Georges Renavent, Lupita Tovar, Niala Johnson and many hundreds of native Malays. This remarkable production was directed by Gen. Melford.

Harry Carey Film Billed At Queen

Kane Richmond, star of Universal's famous "Leather Pusher" series, is featured by Weiss Brothers Pictures Corporation in "Cavalier of the West," the new Harry Carey special production, which will be seen for the first time locally at the Queen Theatre Friday.

Richmond's part in this production that of a young dissolute who wants in the U. S. Cavalry is said to be one of the most difficult roles he has ever essayed.

Richmond is a comparatively newcomer to Hollywood, but he has already established himself among the most prominent younger leading men of the talking screen. Among his recent pictures are several for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, including "Stepping Out," "Politics," "West of Broadway," and Norma Shearer's "Strangers May Kiss."

"Cavalier of the West" is a dramatic story of the pioneer days of the Southwest.

Truck Driver Seeks Hand Of Phone Beauty

Norman Foster And June Clyde In 'In Steady Company'

"Steady Company," Universal's romantic film of flying flats and fluttering hearts will show today, Monday and Tuesday at the Queen, with Norman Foster and June Clyde appearing in the featured leads.

Hollywood has just seen it at the preview and gives it a remarkable rating.

Concerning a virile young truck driver who falls in love with a pretty blonde telephone operator and who immediately determines to court fame and fortune for her via the prizefight ring, the picture is heralded as one of the most engaging of the boxing-glove romances.

The girl thinks her hero has been going to night school to become a great surgeon and when he surprises her with a handful of newspaper clippings that laud him in his first prize fight he receives rebuke instead of enthusiasm.

Henry Armetta, popular Italian comedian of a score of hits, plays one of the most important parts in "Steady Company" and even-walcome Zasu Pitts is prominent among the cast which also includes J. Farrell Macdonald, Walter Miller and Jack Perry.

Edward Ludwig directed the photoplay and Earl Snell is credited with its screen translation.

American System Of Government Facing Greatest Test In Elections This Year Says United Press Leader

NEW YORK (UP)—The American system of government is facing its greatest test in the elections this year, European statesmen believe, Karl A. Bickel, president of the United Press, said following his return from a trip abroad.

Continental observers, Bickel said, feel a tremendous opportunity for world-wide economic and political leadership confronts the United States. "If we have the brains and managing capacity to grasp it," interest in the national party conventions is the greatest in Europe since 1918, Bickel reported.

"Europeans," he said, "are not particularly interested in personalities involved in the conventions, but they are curious to know whether these great gatherings of Americans will indicate a power of decision and a sense of reality in meeting grave fiscal problems ahead."

"Very frequently in important governmental circles you will hear the opinion that, after the inauguration of a new president, if not sooner, the chief executive will constitute his cabinet on entirely non-political lines and, in effect, administer the government on a national coalition basis, thus securing the administrative power of the best minds in America."

The average European business leader regards the United States as the world's most favored nation, Bickel said. He also paid a high tribute to Ambassador Walter R. Edge who negotiated the new commercial agreement with France. "This achievement," Bickel asserted, "will save American trade several million dollars a year."

 AUSTIN—Texas has within itself the means of greatly improving the value, sale ability and demand for its county and district bonds, issued but unpaid, financial authorities have shown.

When the state takes up the 70,000,000 or more county and district bonds applied to the highway system, it will first prove to investors that the bonds are completely sound; and second will release other investment money for the purchase of other bonds.

THE PEOPLE OF TEXAS MUST DECIDE THE FATE OF TEXAS RAILROADS

● THE WELFARE of Texas and Texans has gone and will always go hand in hand with the welfare of Texas railroads. Their dependency upon each other is absolute.

In 1929 Texas railroads gave employment to 82,956 employees, to whom they paid annually $126,674,543 in salaries and wages. In 1930 this number decreased to 70,739 while the payroll declined to $109,892,226. In 1931 the number of employees fell to 57,098 and the payroll to $89,505,918.

This represents a decrease of more than $37,000,000 in purchasing power in Texas communities. There has been a corresponding decrease in purchase of materials and supplies by Texas railroads. The ability to have maintained railroad payrolls and purchases would have been a very important factor in overcoming the present trying economic condition.

The decline in railroad payrolls and purchases is due only in part to economic conditions. The revenues of the railroads have been affected not only by business conditions but to a very large extent by loss of traffic to trucks and buses using the public highways in competition with the railroads.

● The time has come when the people of Texas must decide whether the traffic of this state can best be carried by the railroads, using facilities which they built and maintain at their own expense, or by trucks and buses using the highways built and maintained at the taxpayers' expense.

THE TEXAS RAILROADS

will also be to put more of the revenue of Texas tax collections behind other issues; and to convince investors that the good faith of Texas is behind its obligations.

Forced sale of the road bonds will be at an end, since the state will not compel localities to put their securities on the market under the old requirements that actual cash had to be contributed to highway projects.

One of the dominant political figures in Texas political affairs of a by-gone day passed in the death of former Sen. D. A. Paulus of Hallettsville last Sunday.

His long life was an active one in public and political affairs. He held state office as long as he wanted it; and after he retired from the senate, he had an important share in guiding the political and public affairs of his section.

When the legislature last year adopted new rules for the "classified" long session the rules resulted in side-tracking general legislation and of giving a great advantage to those seeking to push local and special legislation through.

Undoubtedly, there will be demands next January that will assure disposition of the appropriation bills and general matters, rather than to let hundreds of important bills die unconsidered because game and fee bills and road bills had taken up time of the session.

AUSTIN—Mail of Monday, June 6, will contain the final applications of candidates for state office to get upon the democratic primary election ballot.

In each district and county the number of candidates will vary, but probably the average will reach 100 names on the ballot. More than 40 candidates for congressmen-at-large; candidates for congress in all districts; candidates for state senator in over half the counties; for representatives in all counties; and for county and precinct offices.

Two races all will escape this year are the United States senator and county superintendents.

The school people put through a law extending the county officials' terms to four years. This is the six-year by-time in the senatorial races, with Sen. Morris Sheppard, author of the 18th amendment, up for re-election two years hence.

Texas in 1931 committed 3139 men and 67 women to federal and state prisons and reformatories, according to the U. S. census bureau. In 1930 it sent 2541 men and 65 women to these institutions, and in 1929 it sent 2463 men and 57 women. This showed a steady gain over the three years.

For 44 states and the District of Columbia, courts in 1931 sent 70,966 people to prison and reformatories, as compared with 66,013 in 1930, and 58,906 in 1929. This showed an increase of 7.5 per cent for 1931 over 1930.

In 1931 Texas prisons and reformatories discharged 3213 inmates, in 1930 they discharged 3017, and in 1929 they discharged 2636. Of these, in 1931, 442 were paroled, and 2152 were released because of expiration of sentence.

Concerning a World Economic Conference

There can be little doubt that no nation can hope for a full recovery from the depression unless a large number of problems are solved by international action. Even the United States, which is the most nearly self-contained of the great powers, is dependent not for existence but certainly for anything which Americans would call prosperity upon a revival of world trade. The foundation of such a revival can hardly be laid unless the political debts are liquidated, unless the tariff war now raging in the world is stopped, unless a considerable part of the inflated private debts are reorganized, unless the exchanges are stabilized, and unless there is enough of a rise in the prices of commodities to make at least the efficient producers solvent again.

Merely to list a few of the matters which have to be dealt with, and to realize their complexity, is a complicated agency that it succeeds best when it has to do only very simple things. For in a general conference the nations which have to be conciliated are many and, therefore, the chances of decisive action are poor. Moreover, a general conference these days is never a conference of principals to raise an act. The delegates who attend are the prisoners of the politicians at home.

Thus the Washington Arms Conference was a success; it was really a conference of three powers and it dealt with a simple thing—battleships. The London Naval Conference was only a partial success; it failed to bring five powers into agreement on the more complex question of auxiliary vessels. The Geneva Conference now in session contains about fifty nations dealing with all types of armament, and if any effective limitation comes out of that conference it will be a very small limitation indeed. The lesson is rather plain: as you multiply the members of an international conference and the number of questions to be settled, the conference becomes more of a debating forum and less of an executive body.

It is extremely doubtful whether at this stage of the world depression it is wise to take the risk of failure which a general conference dealing with many complicated questions certainly involves. The confidence of men everywhere is greatly shaken. Anxiety has made them the prey of suspicious. The statesmen ought to think twice before they raise any hopes which they are reasonably sure to realize; they should consider deeply whether a special conference could contain representatives who had the power to reach decisions; they should ask themselves whether the solution of these vital questions is likely to be advanced in the confusion of international publicity and the maneuvering of the myriad interests involved.

Therefore, it seems to me clear that a general conference is the wrong way to go about doing things which urgently need to be done, that the chances of success are too small and the costs of a failure too great, and that in fact such a general conference would confuse, distract, and delay the effort to settle these questions.

What, then, is the right way, the way which offers the best promise of success? It is to proceed to reach agreements on specific questions by direct negotiations among those most concerned. That is the theory of the administration's policy toward the reparations discussion at Lausanne, and in the present phase of the problem it is undoubtedly the wisest policy. For what is the reparations problem today? It is a political problem between France and Germany. There is no longer any possibility of obtaining from Germany payments which would cover the Allied debts to the United States.

The whole question is whether France and Germany can agree upon a political formula, which will suspend and terminate reparations payments. Since Germany cannot pay much and almost certainly will not pay anything, reparations is not any longer a question between creditors and debtors; it is not a financial question at all. No real money is at stake. It is only phantom money that will be discussed at Lausanne; the sums that may be mentioned will symbolize the diplomatic ambitions of France and Germany.

That being the case, the more directly France and Germany are left to deal with each other at Lausanne the more likelihood there will be of a settlement. The intervention of other powers, not merely of the United States, which is, of course, not possible, but of Great Britain and Italy as well, is more likely to complicate than to facilitate a settlement. For such an intervention would either stiffen Germany or put France under a kind of pressure that would stiffen her.

Now if we examine some of the other questions which a general conference might discuss, we shall find, I believe, that the same principle of procedure applies. Let us take, first, the question of tariffs. What, beyond a pious resolution could a general conference do about tariffs which everybody could accept? It is not evident that what the nations will have to come to is a series of tariff agreements among those who are particularly interdependent one with another? Does it not follow that for us the most important question is to find a way of adjusting our tariffs with those which may now be set up by the British Commonwealth of Nations at Ottawa? Certainly unless that adjustment is made first, there is no particular point in an academic discussion with a whole collection of other powers.

Talk, then, the question of currencies. At this moment Great Britain is supporting the dollar as last year we supported the pound sterling. Now the dollar and sterling are the two great international currencies, and to stabilize them in relation to each other, most important thing to do. That does not require an international conference. That can be done far better by close co-operation between the Treasuries and the cen-

House Bill 335, Governing Trucks Upheld By Court

HOUSTON, (UP)—State house bill 335 placing trucks using state highways under the jurisdiction of the state railroad commission was upheld by a three judge federal court which refused to make permanent an injunction granted while the constitutionality of the law was being tested.

Federal Judge Hutcheson, Kennedy and West refused to grant J. H. Stephenson and intervenors an injunction preventing Sheriff Binford of Harris county and other Texas sheriffs from interfering with trucks operated contrary to law.

Judge Kennedy last year granted the temporary injunction while the law was being tested.

Do You Call One Doctor... and Owe Another?

No law can force you to trade continuously with any merchant. Neither should you be or can you be compelled to call repeatedly on any one doctor.

You have the right to change as frequently as you please or as often as you feel that a change is desirable.

But the smallest trick to which we can stoop is to change from one doctor to another to avoid paying a bill.

Both doctors know what is going on. Both the one you left and the one you went to know why you changed. They have seen it happen before.

Of course honest folks don't do it—until they have paid the first doctor in full, or at least have honestly told him why they couldn't—and honest folks have the courage to explain.

Honest folks do not resort to tricks or subterfuge. They do not switch doctors to avoid paying.

Your physician comes at your call—day or night. In many instances if he demanded cash, he could get it—many times his modest fee. But he trusts humanity and hurries to your aid when he is needed. Not for the paltry few dollars. No indeed! It's because of the honor of the profession that he answers the call of the unknown nat 2 A. M.

Be square, straightforward and courageous with your physician. Pay him promptly if you can. If you cannot—tell him so frankly. He will remain your friend and may help you when you are in sore need of his aid.

If you still owe your physician and can pay him, why not call and do so. Pay him today. You'll both feel better about it.

SPORTS ON PARADE

By CURTIS BISHOP

Out of a field of a hundred or so golfers today found the West Texas championship golf tournament narrowed to two contestants. In the quarterfinals Charles Qualls, the man whom sports experts as this writer said could not play championship golf on grass greens, will meet Dr. H. E. Arvin of Brownwood. Mr. Qualls won his first match over Olin Blanks of San Angelo 5 up and 3 to play and defeated Jack Laxon of Brownwood 4 up and 3 to play. In other words such sports experts as this writer should have said nothing about Mr. Qualls' ability to play on grass greens.

Dr. Arvin beat Obie Bristol, who qualified with a neat 79, in the second round 2 up. The Big Spring coach, by no means in perfect shape, won over Ed Hobbs of San Angelo 1 up in the morning match. Shirley Robbins, barely in the championship flight with 85, fell before Stayton Banner of Wichita Falls 4 up and 3 to play. Theron Hicks of Big Spring, the left-hander, advanced into the third round of third flight play, beating W. D. Holcomb Jr. of San Angelo 2 up and 1 to play and Jack Vickery of San Angelo 5 up and 4. Hicks qualified with 92.

Jack Satterwhite, Texas youth, displayed championship form to reach the quarterfinals. Qualifying with an 81 Satterwhite won over Bob Ingram of San Angelo 4 up and 3 to play and then beat Frank Rose, the Lamesa star, 2 up.

Today we will predict that Qualls defeated Arvin, Satterwhite beat Hollingsworth, Phillips defeated Bell, and Joe Clarke won from W. A. Conrief. Should the Texas youth win from Hollingsworth we think he has an opportunity, an excellent one, to reach the finals. As the tourney now stands we pick Jimmy Phillips as the West Texas champion. But then don't take our predictions seriously.

Julian Vega has advised that the Mexican Tigers will not participate in the Carnival of Values baseball jamboree here June 29, July 1 and 2. Vega, however, challenges the winner to a contest Sunday afternoon on their diamond north of the tracks.

Bill Tate advises that the Foran nine may or may not be an entry. It would be exceedingly hard, Tate said, for them to leave the job for two days at a stretch, but that if possible they would be on hand for one day at least. Charlie Ferguson is the skipper of the Others. Leaving, we suppose, only Lois Madison's city club, perhaps Ackerly, surely Coahoma and one or two others to be on hand.

Tony Antelia has been traded from El Paso, and the fans are not at all tickled about it. Antelia, it seems, has made a host of friends in the border city, and at the time he was traded was batting .386.

A month ago it was considered doubtful if Gus Moreland of Dallas would be beaten in state competition this year. Goldth has since been tumbled twice. David Goldman was the latest to do it, beating both Moreland and Lavender in the Dallas Country Club tournament.

Bulldog Gray of Abilene Christian College stepped the half-mile in 1:53.2 to break the National Intercollegiate record at Chicago. Gray, however, was competing as a freshman since the Intercollegiate competition is open for only three years. His feat, however, did qualify him for the Olympic final tryouts. Other Texans to qualify were A. Schiller of the University of Texas in the same event, and D. Dunkin of Kansas University, formerly of Brownwood, who finished second to Schiller in the third heat.

Cliff Sutter of Tulane, Intercollegiate champion in 1930 and favorite to win this year after twelve months' absence from the Intercollegiate ranks, is not such a sure bet after all. Bryan Grant eliminated the New Orleans player in the national clay courts tournaments 6-4, 6-4, 6-1. Grant is a student in North Carolina University.

Wets Almost Control Says Rep. Blanton

Texas Tells House Congress Practically Wet During Debate

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Rep. Blanton, Dem., Texas, prominent house prohibitionist, said in a speech he was convinced "the wets almost control congress."

The Texas made this statement when asked by Rep. Keller, Dem., N. Y., for an opinion of recent prohibition developments, including the Florida and North Carolina primaries where anti-prohibitionists gained victories.

"How did the gentleman find out that the former president was going to do that—from his wet organization?" Rep. Blanton asked.

"That is not a subject of argument," Keller said. "I will tell the gentleman that I have it from a reliable source and on good authority."

"The gentleman ought not to prognosticate this far in advance of the July issue of the cosmopolitan," Blanton replied.

"The gentleman need not worry about Mr. Coolidge's statement," Keller answered.

Just previously, Blanton had spoken from the floor, saying anti-prohibitionist "almost" controlled congress.

Commenting on the recent defection of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., from the dry cause, Blanton said he attached no particular significance to this "because he is just one of 124,000,000."

Then, becoming excited, Blanton charged that the "wets" had "bought up the radio, the newspapers, and almost control congress."

411 Million Bushels Wheat Yield Forecast

WASHINGTON (UP)—The department of agriculture today forecast a winter wheat crop of 411,000,000 bushels from the 22,277,000 acres expected to be harvested. It estimated the 1932 rye production at 28,700,000 bushels.

In addition to grain forecasts, the department also predicted the country would raise 48,900,000 bushels of peaches and 21,800,000 bushels of pears this year. Both forecasts were based on June 1 conditions. Last year the total peach crop was 77,700,000 bushels, the pear crop 23,000,000 bushels.

Though no forecast was made of the 1932 spring wheat crop, the department reported its condition at 84.5 per cent of normal as compared to a 67.9 per cent condition of spring wheat last June 1 and to a 10-year average, 1919 through 1928, of 86.8 per cent.

THE RIGHT MOTOR OIL... may be either Mid-continent or Pennsylvania... but it's sure to be Sinclair

WHETHER you should use a Mid-continent or a pure Pennsylvania grade motor oil is a matter for your engine to decide. The important thing is to get the finest oil in these classes that money will buy.

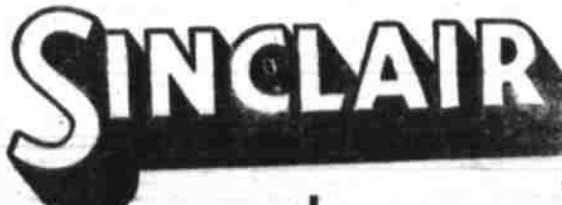

Sinclair Opaline Motor Oil is a scientific blend of the oldest Mid-continent crudes mellowed and filtered for an average of 80 million years. Included in this blend is the famous Cambro-Ordovician crude taken from a mile and a quarter below the surface in Oklahoma.

Sinclair Pennsylvania Motor Oil could not be better, for it is made 100% from the costliest Pennsylvania grade crude oil—the famous Bradford-Alleghany crude which was formed in the Devonian

Age more than a hundred million years ago. Mellowed and filtered in its earthy bed for successive ages—ages which saw the rise and fall of life in strange forms—Bradford-Alleghany crude has no superior among Pennsylvania crudes for sheer lubricating quality.

Sinclair not only de-waxes Sinclair Pennsylvania and Sinclair Opaline in the refining process—it goes one step further and takes out the non-lubricating petroleum jelly by chilling the oil down to as low as 60° F. below zero.

Note how Sinclair Pennsylvania or Sinclair Opaline stands up in the heat of hard, fast driving. Note especially at draining time how little oil has been used up—positive, visible proof of protection for the last mile as well as the first!

"SPAWN OF THE NORTH" By Barrett Willoughby (Houghton Mifflin Co.)

Although the scene of this book is laid many thousands of miles to the northward, Westerners will find much in common with the people of Alaska, who still live adventurous and colorful lives.

The story of the novel is centered around the daughter, Dian, of a wealthy salmon packer. She has gone from her adopted California home to spend a few weeks in Alaska.

She reaches there during the spawning season of the salmon. At a time when nature, human as well as fish, seems to go a little mad with love, Dian, already engaged to a Californian, meets an enemy's son and the age-old battle of love is on.

The story is told with gripping scenes that picture the Northland extravagantly. The author knows her Alaska. Her father was, she says, a happy-go-lucky Irishman who knew the west; she grew up with the sort of people she has written about.

For people who like racy dialogue, scenes of nature described with a lavish hand, a beautiful heroine and a manly hero against a background they know only thru hearsay, this novel will be enthralling.

It also has the advantage of being accessible. It is on the shelves of the public library.

Miss Leola Short, of Whitewright is visiting her brother, Lester Short.

Artist Draws Big Spring Scene Of Once Famous Spring Painted By Brother Of Carl Blomsheld And Now On Display

If you were an artist, what country would you select for your home?

John Blomsheld, brother of Carl and a world traveler, prefers Japan.

The reason is not far to seek. In spite of the fact that life in Japan was constantly one shoe-removing episode after another, Mr. Blomsheld found the country as artistic as his own drawings—which have long been considered the final word in design.

In the rooms of a Japanese home, one and only one drawing, something exquisite, hung on the walls; on a table was a vase with a single perfect flower; throughout the house was an immaculate cleanliness that was beyond description and explanation. The decorative factors were few but impressive; possibly a single lacquered tray, or a dainty little lady with olive skin as clear as alabaster and varnished hair. It was a land of a quaint and irresistible charm, he declared.

For a second choice Mr. Blomsheld would take the Friendly Islands of the South Seas as a place to live. There life still flows on like an idyllic dream.

For his third, he prefers Oslo. That is because of his Scandinavian blood.

Seeing the World

The Nordic Mr. Blomsheld stopped off at various points along the Equator but, being born in Michigan of Norwegian and Swedish descent, he did not like the tropics. Life, he said, was too easy there. By there he referred to Ceylon or Bali or Singapore or even to Venezuela.

Mr. Blomsheld began his wanderings from two points. The first port of departure was Haiti. From there he went to South America and wandered up and down its long length escaping many a political intrigue by the very skin of his teeth and having a gloriously good time painting.

Out of Paris, where he had studied art on and off for years, there are roads leading to Italy and Italy leads to—well to all the romantic places of the world, if one has the money. Having it, Mr. Blomsheld has circled the globe a number of times.

The one country that he does not know is Soviet Russia. He knew Russia in its less strenuous days and hopes to see it again, he said, when its patriotic fervor has somewhat abated.

New York Home

Woodstock, N. Y. has been Mr. Blomsheld's home for the last decade or more. He first went there when it was an unspoiled artist's colony, too far to drive by horse and buggy from New York and off the railroad. It is now becoming a showplace for tourists and his interest is waning.

In those early days Woodstock offered the artist all he could desire. It was Mr. and Mrs. John Blomsheld's privilege, at one time to put on an art exhibition that was absolutely different. They invited all their artists friends to bring over their compositions, pieces of sculpture, fine photography, paintings of various schools. These were placed in the lovely Blomsheld home at their best advantage with more regard to their affinity for groupings, than to their schools. Writers joined the artists during the exhibitions. New York critics came out and took notice. It was one of the things that many an artist longs to do but seldom has the opportunity.

Mr. Blomsheld's first love is drawing and his second is writing. He is a regular contributor to "The Arts" and often writes book reviews on books about art for the New York papers.

One of his friends is Earnest Hemingway, the famous novelist. A pencil sketch drawn by Mr. Blomsheld of this writer was used for the book cover of one of his best novels, "The Sun Also Rises." The original hangs framed in Mrs. Carl's living room.

One of the nicest things that Mr. Blomsheld has done—an act of courtesy that visiting artists seldom take time for—has been to paint an attractive spot in this vicinity.

Big Spring Painting

The spot is just above the big spring and the painting is done in a more or less conventional manner. It is a picture of springtime, springtime in rocky West Texas. It is being exhibited in a window of the Texas Electric Service Co., and is something that no lover of West Texas should miss seeing.

Another painting by Mr. Blomsheld, hangs in the Carl Blomsheld living room. It is a landscape, a scene from the upper Andes of South America. It is more modern in treatment than the big spring and a charming example of modernism in its most appealing form.

Since it is hard to carry an artist's painting paraphernalia to all corners of the world, Mr. Blomsheld usually travels with a few portfolios, containing pencil and ink sketches and a few clippings. He can do a pencil sketch anywhere. At present he is working on some of the twin sons of his brother; the pictures are interesting in their revelation of the differences between the two boys.

SEEKS NEW TRIAL

BOSTON, Texas (AP)—William Beech Bell, 68, farmer, who was convicted in the Bowie county district court for the murder of his nephew, Virgil Bell, and who was sentenced to eight years imprisonment, filed a motion for a new trial yesterday.

Bell was accused of the shooting of his nephew near DeKalb last November in a dispute over the possession of a piece of farm machinery.

The Rev. Woodie W. Smith and son, Charles, left Saturday morning for DeKalb, Okla., where they will spend Sunday. They will return Monday.

Methodist Women Meet To Discuss 18th Amendment

There was a meeting at the First Methodist church Friday afternoon in support of the 18th Amendment, at which all church women of the city were invited.

In the absence of the chairman, Mrs. C. T. Thomas, Mrs. Geo. W. Davis, presided over the meeting. Mrs. Watson gave the devotional, reading the 101 Psalm. Mrs. Zinn led in prayer.

A round table discussion occupied the hour, on resubmission of the 18th Amendment and its repeal, after which a stand was made unanimously against repeal. To avoid splitting the dry vote it was suggested that all dry voters concentrate on one dry candidate for each of the offices.

Mrs. Davis read an original poem, "A Call to Service", which was enthusiastically received.

The following were present: Mmes. C. E. Talbot, G. S. Trus, G. A. Hartman, W. R. Settles, J. M. Manuel, V. H. Flewellen, R. H. Zinn, C. T. Watson, Hayes Stripling, D. F. Painter, C. C. Coffee, Una Covert, Geo. W. Davis, W. A. Miller, Pete Johnson and J. C. Walts, Sr.

BODIES NOT FOUND

DALLAS (AP)—Searchers reported that they had been unable to recover the bodies of James C. Case, of Dallas, and A. J. Watson, Stephenville, who were drowned in Lake Dallog Wednesday night.

It was feared for a time that four other men, seen in a boat on the lake, might have lost their lives, but they have been located.

Bailey's former home, Dallas, Fort Worth, Paris, Bonham, Denton, Sherman, Denison, Kaufman, Waxahatchie and other cities have promised to attend.

Numerous followers of Senator Bailey and younger democrats who endorse his son's principles have written the candidate that they are with him in the current campaign.

Mr. Bailey has been besieged with requests to fill speaking engagements all over the state. The Dallas attorney has announced that he will comply with as many of these requests as possible. His itinerary has not yet been arranged.

Delta Han Aroun' Club Members Enjoy Nice Party

A beautiful pink and green party was tendered the members and guests of the Delta Han Aroun' Bridge Club Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lancel McKee.

Mrs. Foothes made club high score and received bath powder. Mrs. Yarbro made visitors' high and received a crystal vase.

Pink ice cream moulded to represent roses and pink-iced cakes were served at the refreshment hour with nogays for favors.

The members and guests were: Mmes. Graham Foothes, J. S. King, W. E. Yarbro, Lester Short, R. F. Harris, Clyde Walts, Jr.; Misses Helen Keen, of Denver, Thelma Crouch and Leola Short of Whitewright.

Cherry said rather abruptly that she'd look further and return if she found nothing she liked better. She even wrote down the custodian's telephone number, feeling hypocritical as she did so.

Creator

from actual life, a real character. Mr. Terry knew in the hills, Scorchy is a purely fictitious person prompted by nation's admiration for Lindbergh as a "boy" aviator.

Locations Locations give him ideas for his stories. "I brought in New Haven and New Bedford, Mass. because I knew all about those places."

Mr. Terry spends two or three days rambling around looking for ideas, then sits down in his office and sketches out his plans. May be in the middle of a cartoon he will think of a better way in which to turn the order of events, then perhaps a week's work will be for naught. He discards all the previous drawings connected with that particular story and does it all over again.

Mr. Terry keeps ahead some six to seven weeks with his work. On his trip through California he had to pause and catch up on his work. It was the same way while on the boat. A few days of looking around and then he must take out his pen and ink, his drawing board, and go to work.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J. (AP)—An ex-convict was seized as a possible suspect in the kidnaping and brutal murder of the Lindbergh baby as a consequence Friday night of the suicide of a waitress in the Dwight Morrow household here.

The prisoner was Ernest Brinkert, a taxicab operator. He was taken into custody at New Rochelle, N. Y., that Mr. John F. Condon, Lindbergh's intermediary, had identified a picture of Brinkert as the man to whom he paid $50,000 in a New York cemetery April 2.

The White Plains statement, however, was made in the face of another statement by Inspector Harry Walsh of New Jersey authorities that Dr. Condon some time ago had failed to identify a picture of Brinkert.

The waitress' sister, Emily, police said, called for England four days after a $50,000 ransom was paid in a Bronx cemetery by Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafis" in the case. The sister had stayed for some time before the kidnaping at the home of Constance Chilton in Englewood. A cablegram was sent to Scotland Yard immediately asking her apprehension. She also had lived at 620 East 23rd street in New York.

In the general alarm police asked for arrest of Brinkert on sight. They gave the number of his automobile as NY-3V-1953, and said he had a police record for larceny in New York state.

Violet Sharpe had been employed by Mrs. Morrow, the murdered baby's grandmother, a year and a half. She had been questioned repeatedly since the child was stolen the night of March 1.

PATTERN NO. 719

One color above, another below—that's the exciting thing about this frock!

Dots lend lots of dash to the top of the blouse and belt. Plain color is in perfect taste for the frock itself. In fact, this frock was simply created for color, giving you a grand chance to wear your most flattering color right next to your face! If it's blue, wear a blue-and-beige dotted yoke and belt with a beige crepe dress. If it's red, wear a red-and-white dotted linen with a white or blue linen frock. Prints may be combined with plain colors, if preferred. Designed in size 14, 16, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 2 and 7-8 yards of 36-inch fabric or 2 and 3-4 yards of 39-inch material, and 1 yard for top of the dress.

Simplified illustrated instructions for cutting and sewing are included with each pattern. They give complete directions for making these dresses.

ADDRESS

Asks New Term

The attorney general of Texas, James V. Allred of Wichita county, Thursday issued the following statement announcing his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for a second term:

I submit my record during the past eighteen months as my platform for re-election.

Voters will select their officials, not on the basis of fabricated villifications and distortions as easily mouthed by the unprincipled, but on each candidate's personal record. Mine, be it good or bad, is open for all who will read.

Ask office at a time when the legislature, holding the longest session in history, sought a way out of our common difficulties. In this search they ventured into unexplored legislative fields. Acts of that legislature established new precedents, and were followed by an inevitable wave of litigation. The attorney general's department was called upon to defend these laws in dozens of courts, both state and federal. On one law alone, that regulating the use of highways by trucks, more than five hundred separate suits have been successfully defended by this department. More than one hundred and fifty suits were filed affecting various phases of the oil and gas conservation laws.

Hundreds Opinion

It would be an imposition on the press for me to ask them to enumerate as a part of this announcement the flood of lawsuits in which we have participated, and the hundreds of opinions rendered to state and county officers. It has been a source of pride to us to have our efforts commended generally over the state by members of the bar and by the courts in which we have practiced. Without hesitation, I refer anyone who may have kept up with the work of the department to the members of the local bar in their communities or to the judges, trial or appellate, of the courts in which we have appeared.

Likewise, space will only permit a passing reference to the innumerable investigations we have made all over Texas into alleged combinations and law violations; to our cooperation with the State Comptroller in a drive against unfair competition of the gasoline bootlegger, resulting in the collection of more than two hundred thousand dollars in delinquent gasoline and gross production taxes; to the construction by this department of corporation tax laws (a construction subsequently approved by the Supreme Court), which will reading in part as follows:

"In this day of combinations of capital and mergers of industries, the anti-trust laws of Texas have become of multiplied importance. Their enforcement must be looked after more scrupulously than at any time before in the history of our state. I compliment any effort of the Attorney General in reference to this question. The House of Representatives is worthy of congratulations of the people of Texas for passing the $20,000.00 appropriation for the Attorney General's department. I hope that the senate will pass the bill at their earliest convenience. And I pledge to the attorney general the full co-operation of the entire executive department in relation to all activities pertaining to the enforcement of the anti-trust laws."

Pursuant to my campaign promises, my oath of office and this special mandate of the legislature, I conducted these investigations and thereafter filed suit against certain major oil companies for penalties which the law may be imposed upon them. It would be improper to discuss the merits of these pending prosecutions, but I have no apologies to make and will continue to give my very best to the end that they may be determined by the court and jury as the law provides.

Upon my record, I am asking the people to honor me with a second term in its most important office. Due to its pressing duties, I shall not be able to make as active a campaign as I would like and am compelled to leave my interests largely in the hands of loyal friends everywhere.
