FOR PAMPA'S FUTURE

Comprehensive Plan Launched

The city commission today set Thursday, June 20, for the first of a series of meetings to reach decisions on a new Comprehensive Plan for Pampa.

Marvin Springer, Dallas consultant engineer on city planning, met with the commission this morning and outlined preliminary plans his organization already has made and explained steps that he said need to be taken for incorporation into a new city planning and zoning ordinance.

Springer suggested that combined meetings of the city commission and the city planning and zoning board be held to build the framework for the projected growth planning.

Springer said he would meet with the combined groups and suggested the first three sessions be held at two-week intervals and then be followed by monthly meetings. Members of other organizations, selected by the city commission, also should be invited to the meetings, Springer told commissioners.

The planning consultant stated the planning setup should be ready for a public hearing by Labor Day and be in a complete stage of development by March or April of 1969.

The first thing to be resolved, Springer stated, is the setting of a population growth target. In this respect, he told commissioners that in projecting future population growth the fact needs to be taken into consideration that there is a changing situation in population all over the country.

He pointed to trends of births in Gray County, stating that they number about one-half of what they were five years ago.

"Where there were 500 more births than deaths in Gray County five years ago," Springer said.

'Scorpion' I Sought In Atlantic

By DONALD H. MAY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Long-range Navy hunter planes flew low across the gale-lashed Atlantic today joining warships and submarines in the search for the nuclear-powered submarine Scorpion and her 99 men. Flights of P2 and P3 all-weather submarine hunter planes took off shortly after daybreak from Norfolk, Va., and Patuxent, Md., Naval air stations to search for the Scorpion, which has been overdue at Norfolk since midday Monday.

A late spring storm packing winds of up to 50 miles an hour whipped up heavy seas off the Virginia cape where the search for the sub was centered. The Scorpion was making a 2,100-mile run from the Azores to Norfolk.

A U.S. Weather Bureau spokesman said visibility in the search area was generally "very poor" with rain squalls hampering aerial operations.

"Naturally I am concerned," said Adm. Thomas H. Moore, chief of naval operations, at a news conference following an announcement that the Scorpion had not made port. But he stressed that the navy considered the vessel "overdue," not "missing."

625 To 725 Will Die On Weekend

CHICAGO (UPI)—The National Safety Council today estimated that 625 to 725 persons would die in traffic accidents over the long four-day Memorial Day weekend.

The Safety Council estimated that another 27,000 to 32,000 persons would be injured and disabled during the counting period from 6 p.m. local time Wednesday to midnight Sunday.

The council said about 580 persons would be injured and 26,000 injured in traffic accidents during a four day non-holiday period. A total of 604 persons died on the nation's roads over the four-day Memorial Day weekend last year that began at 6 p.m. on a Friday and ended at midnight the following Tuesday. The Safety Council had estimated 650 to 750 deaths would be recorded during that long holiday.

President's Daughters Tour HemisFair

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Luci Nugent and Lynda Robb, otherwise known as the daughters of President Lyndon Johnson, made the best of a sunny Monday without their husbands by taking a trip to San Antonio's HemisFair '68.

After driving from Austin in a heavy thunderstorm, the young ladies drove around the 92-acre site in a golf cart, accompanied by several friends from the Texas capital and HemisFair dignitaries.

Stringent Curfew Enforced In Louisville After Monday Violence

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—National Guardsmen and state and local police restored order early today in the city's West End, where roving bands of Negroes looted, burned cars and hurled rocks and bottles at police.

Mayor Kenneth Schmied blamed the disturbance, which he said was "well planned," on outsiders.

day said Luci was her usual exuberant self, while sister Lynda appeared more subdued, wearing sunglasses and a large hat.

After eating lunch at Pierre's Interlude French Restaurant, the girls were guests of honor at the Spanish pavilion, where they were entertained by a troupe of Flamenco dancers. They ate dinner Monday evening in the revolving restaurant at the pinnacle of HemisFair's 622-foot Tower of the Americas.

Minister Resigns In France

By GEORGE SIBERA

PARIS (KPI)—Education Minister Alain Peyrefitte resigned today because of his handling of the student crisis. It was this student unrest which triggered the nationwide social upheaval in which 10 million workers left their jobs.

The situation was so chaotic government leaders including President Charles de Gaulle have warned of the threat of civil war. Today police arrested scores of persons and seized piles of arms including guns, homemade bombs, Molotov cocktails and clubs in a nationwide crackdown on extremists.

The political situation also deteriorated and leftwing leader Francois Mitterrand called for the ouster of De Gaulle and formation of a leftist coalition government that would include Communists. The Communists have led many of the striking unions.

Premier Georges Pompidou took over the education ministry on a temporary basis following the resignation of Peyrefitte, a former conformation minister and long-time Gaullist. It was the first crack in the Gaullist cabinet although resignations and a shakeup had been expected.

Peyrefitte, 42, is a product of the top French schools and a graduate of the elite Ecole Normale Supérieure. He holds degrees in literature, law and philosophy.

Students charged Peyrefitte did not recognize the depth of their discontent with the French educational system. In a television appearance two days after students struck the Sorbonne classes, Peyrefitte played down the situation and said it would evaporate because the moderate students would refuse to listen to the radical leaders.

Instead the situation grew steadily worse until the entire nation was paralyzed by a series of strikes. Even unprecedented concessions to the workers by government and management failed to ease the situation. Workers simply rejected terms of the settlement as too little, too late.

The loudest sounds during the roll call of 324 graduating seniors Monday night was the click of cameras as flash bulbs snapped to record the commencement ceremony of Pampa High School.

With the green and gold Harvard banner hanging from the PHS fieldhouse ceiling, seniors and a standing room only audience heard talks by Stephen Craig Wells, salutatorian; Beau Bond, Senior Class president; and Nell Ann Duncan, valedictorian.

Walls described the 12 years of education as "years of building — character, personality and minds," and said, "A ny building is only as strong as its weakest beam. Strength of character will determine how long our structures will stand. Everyone we have come in contact with has contributed to building our character. Experiences add another beam to the structure."

He explained since "we are still young and inexperienced, bad timber and good timber looks the same. It has been the job of our teachers and other adults to show us the best timber, the sound ideas and beliefs. We need your help in maintaining this structure. I challenge you, the adults and leaders, to give part of yourselves to this structure. I challenge you to build a stronger, young America."

Miss Duncan compared the years after graduation as an "ocean of opportunity," and said, "we are standing on the pier. Before us lies college, careers and building a home of our own. Our success depends on us and on our preparation. From the faculty we have received knowledge of sincerity, understanding and responsibility."

She advised her classmates to not be like the man who "cast his fate to the wind" for this man "had no purpose, no direction to his life. Those who seek the easy way will have a useless life, and we will be the same, unless we hold high a purpose and goal in our lives."

Bond said he had written his speech seven times, but "because I know all of you and want to say something to all of you, it is not easy to say. We" (See SENIORS, Page 3)

GI Tells Of Capture, Escape

"I crawled and I kept on crawling"

By RICHARD V. OLIVER

SAIGON (UPI)—The 47-day ordeal of Spec. 5 William E. Taylor began and ended in fire.

His tiny scout plane crashed and burned in a Mekong Delta jungle March 20, leaving him a broken leg and a prisoner of the Viet Cong.

A U.S. helicopter gunship attack on his jungle prison opened the door to freedom May 6 but it almost killed him. Taylor, one of the few GIs to have fallen into guerrilla hands and escaped, told about it today.

Taylor was the observer aboard an Army Al Birdog reconnaissance plane piloted by Lt. Leslie B. Sayre near the Cambodian border. They spotted a suspicious trail. Sayre dropped the plane to treetop level.

Plane Crashed

"I don't know what happened. But we suddenly nosed down and crashed," Taylor said. The Hamilton and Tarboro, N.C., soldier was stunned. He focused his eyes and saw Sayre slumped forward, possibly dead. Taylor's leg exploded in pain it was broken.

"I had to get the lieutenant out. But since the plane was on its side I couldn't open the door." The wreckage burst into flame. Taylor pulled himself out of the top of the cockpit. His flight suit burned. He rolled in grass, smothering the fire, and looked up to find himself surrounded by Viet Cong.

Days passed. Taylor lost track of time. The burns healed. But his crooked leg left him crippled. The morning of May 6 he heard helicopters.

Rocket Hits Hut

"I heard rockets exploding real close. I started to get up but was told to lie down. I got down just in time. A rocket destroyed the hut I was in but I didn't care."

The rocket blast felled several of his captors. The others ran out the hut's back door. "I made it for the front door, crawling as fast as I could. I crawled and kept on crawling until I saw blue sky above me. Then there it was, that funny looking helicopter."

It was a K.S. Army 1st Air Cavalry Division Cobra helicopter, Capt. Rodric Storrs at the controls. He was about to fire another rocket when Lt. Walter Bammann, in another Cobra, saw the red bearded Taylor and radioed: "Hold it. It looks like a white man."

Despite heavy automatic fire from the Communists, a helicopter whirled down and hauled a grinning Taylor aboard.

Project Is Nearly Successful; 50 Die

By JACK WALSH

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnam troops tried to wipe out an entire South Vietnam village Monday. They almost did it, killing at least 50 civilians and smashing 300 homes. At last report today the fey defenders were hanging on, aided by American aircraft.

Military spokesmen said a major North Vietnamese force attacked Hau Duc, 330 miles up the coast from Saigon, with blitzkrieg force. They pumped about 200 82mm mortar shells into the village, setting it afire. The North Vietnamese ground troops poured in for the final kill.

But a handful of local South Vietnam troops stood and fought in the burning village.

U.S. helicopter gunships roared in. The village lies 18 miles southwest of the great allied coastal bastion of Tam Ky.

Communications Cut

The military spokesmen said they had only sketchy data from Hau Duc because communications with the village defenders had been cut.

The ordeal of Hau Duc fitted the recent Communist pattern of ravaging outposts and terrorizing cities. The North Vietnamese-Viet Cong aim appeared to be to make as great a show of power as possible during the jockeying for position at the current Paris talks between the United States and North Vietnam observers said.

Freeman said in a curt letter to Rep. Carl Perkins, D-Ky., chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee which asked him to comment on the CBS program.

In a separate letter to CBS President Frank Stanton, the secretary called the documentary a "biased, one-sided dishonest presentation of a serious national problem."

Freeman released texts of the letters at a Monday news conference. Freeman told Stanton the network made no effort to present a balanced story and even suppressed known evidence.

In New York, Richard S. Salant, president of CBS News, said Freeman's letter had not been received. But he expressed "every confidence in the accuracy and responsibility of the CBS News personnel who worked many months on 'Hunger in America,' of which we are all very proud."

Freeman's department was again the target Monday of demonstrations by residents of Resurrection City, home base of those participating in the Poor People's campaign.

The Poor People's complaints are in contrast to the frequent charge by some farm groups that Freeman's department follows a "cheap food policy" which benefits consumers by keeping grocery prices low at 1 hurts farmers by also keeping farm prices down.

Texas University Has Number Of 'Common-Law Marriages'

By United Press International

There are a number of common law marriages among students at the University of Texas in Austin and a survey indicates that more liberal housing regulations probably make the number greater than at other universities in the state.

The question of unmarried coeds and ten students living together gained national attention recently when a Barnard College coed in New York successfully defied the school administration's challenge of her right to live unmarried off campus with a male student.

"There are a number of such cases at Austin, but it is not possible to determine exactly how many. This does not include coeds and men students sleeping together, but living apart, about which a student counselor in a co-educational residence says:

A Private Affair
"Certainly not a majority of students sleep together, but many, many do. Students sleeping together is no longer a topic for gossip. It remains a private matter even though everybody knows about it. It's much harder to find a couple who actually go out and get an apartment together."

There is a normal amount of sex relations between men and women students at other universities in Texas but the common law marriage aspect of campus life appears to be much less than at UT-Austin.

A student at North Texas State University in Denton notes that unmarried coeds must live in dormitories, regardless of age. If they undertook to live in an off campus apartment they would have to invent a story to tell the university and one to tell their parents.

"This makes it pretty hard for a coed to live with a man off campus," this student says.

Experiment at SMU
Southern Methodist University in Dallas is experimenting with a policy to help coeds "mature" by letting junior and senior girls live off campus with permission of their parents and the dean of women.

Permission to live off campus is not granted unless a coed has another woman as a roommate. Any kind of disciplinary action involving a coed—or man student—who lives off campus automatically revokes the privilege of living off campus.

Val Carl, student and band leader at Pan American College at Edinburg, says the difference between Pan American and Barnard is that Pan American is "just about as hometown" as a college can get. About 90 per cent of the student body lives within 60 miles of the campus.

"It (common law marriage) is just no big thing down here," says Carl. "There was a couple from Ohio who tried it last year, but they're gone this year."

Large 'Radical' Group
Besides more liberal housing regulations at the University of Texas, it has 29,000 students—more than any other university in the state—and has a larger "radical" student group.

Students say, however, that common law marriages are by no means confined to radicals and some students believe it is more common among fraternity and sorority types than radicals. Having money may make it easier.

"One way the affluent get by is to have two apartments—one nice and one mediocre one—just to have separate mailing addresses and a place to go when mama and daddy come to town," says a student.

Some use friends' homes for school records and mailing addresses and live somewhere else. At least one couple listed the same address for school records and the student telephone directory.

Parents of many suspect and a few are said to approve of the children's living arrangements. More students take elaborate precautions to keep their mothers and fathers from finding out before they move in together.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Alexander Hamilton Institute says divergent trends in the three Dow-Jones averages indicate continued marked vacillation for the next few weeks. The investment service says the Industrials have been in a moderate downswing, the rails have been moving upward and the utilities have been more or less moving sideways. It adds that until two of these groups move up in unison, the market can be expected to make little headway.

Harris, Upman & Co. says alert traders may find good buying opportunities between now and the start of the traditional summer rally. But the company points out that with "so many clouds on the horizon," a certain amount of liquidity seems advisable for the longer-term investor.

Over Half Of Federal Food Grant Will Go For Salaries And Costs

By KENNETH R. CLARK
EDINBURG, Tex. (UPI) — Hildago County today has a $70,000 federal grant to feed the poor, but more than half of it will go for recruitment costs.

Some $38,000 is earmarked to pay the persons who run the program and to recruit hungry people for the county's regular surplus commodities program. The intended distribution of the Office of Economic Opportunity grant was revealed last week by Alfredo Flores, director of the county's War on Poverty Agency. The news drew a scattering of fire from the agency's board of directors, some of whom charged the program was "top heavy" with administration.

Flores defended the channel-administration as part of a grant co-ordinator and an "out-reach" supervises each of cy's board of directors, some of whom charged the program was "top heavy" with administration.

Flores defended the channeling of part of the grant into administration as part of a long-range plan aimed at the ultimate feeding of "all who can qualify for aid."

He said the federal money has been earmarked to expand the county's existing food program — not just by $70,000 worth of additional food.

Specifies Salaries
He said he will hire a program co-ordinator and an "out-reach" supervisor each of whom will be paid $400 a month for six months. In addition, they will be given an operating budget and a staff of three outreach workers, each of whom will draw $300 a month.

He said their job will be to round up people who are eligible for county aid, but who never have been informed of the fact.

He estimated that some 1,860 families, of less than $2,000 a year in income, now live in the county's 12 "colonias" — broken down shanty towns occupied primarily by Mexican-American migrant workers "who are ignorant of the food distribution program."

Flores said Mrs. Mary Virginia Mercer, of Mission, would be named director of the six-month program, and that her assistant probably would be drawn from the ranks of former county OEO workers led by the recent closing of day care centers.

Help From Colonias
Outreach workers — those whose job it will be to spread the word of the program through the colonias — will be hired from the populations of the colonias themselves.

Flores said the remainder of the grant—$31,967—will be distributed in the form of food vouchers, redeemable at any grocery store. He said they will be specifically for baby food, milk, and special diet foods not covered by the regular county program, and that the fund "probably will be depleted within two months."

He said $5,000 of the federal grant will be used to re-imburse the county for increased costs which it will incur as its own food program is expanded, and that $10,000 will go to reinstate a number of poor children who have been dropped from the

All Three Demo Candidates Pick Up Delegates

By United Press International
All three candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination picked up new convention delegate support during the weekend, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy leading the way with 32.

As Kennedy and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy rounded out their campaigns for the Tuesday Oregon primary, state party conventions in Iowa and Vermont settled delegate commitments for the national convention in August.

While Kennedy outscored both opponents numerically, his backers were disappointed with results in Vermont, where 10 of the 22 delegates went to Humphrey, seven to the New Yorker and five to McCarthy. With 46 delegate votes at stake in Iowa, Kennedy forces captured 25, Humphrey 9 1/2 and McCarthy 5, with 6 1/2 publicly uncommitted.

As the campaigns neared their end, both the Kennedy and McCarthy camps were predicting a close vote Tuesday.

Humphrey is not on the Oregon ballot. But a big vote for President Johnson, whose name is still on the ballot despite his withdrawal, was being billed as backing for Humphrey.

Richard M. Nixon is the only unpredictable primary although California Gov. Ronald Reagan's name is on the ballot and his Oregon supporters have done some campaigning for him.

Also, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's backers initiated a late-starting write-in campaign on his behalf.

In other political developments:

Polls — Newsweek Magazine said Sunday that Humphrey now has either solidly committed or leaning toward him all but 32 1/2 delegate votes needed to win the nomination. The Gallup poll said more Americans currently would like to see a Republican in the White House instead of a Democrat.

Gov. Ronald Reagan — The California governor said Sunday he is convinced that an "open" Republican National Convention would consider all candidates — including him — and pick a nominee based on "winability."

Richard M. Nixon — Oregon Gov. Tom McCall, a strong backer of Rockefeller, said he would "work and fight" at the GOP convention for the winner of the Oregon primary. Nixon, confident of victory, hailed McCall's statement as "added insurance" that he will win the nomination in August.

 "GET HIM OUTTA THERE—THIS IS SUPPOSED TO BE A POOR PEOPLE'S MARCH!"

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Few contenders in this year's presidential race indicate they have much grasp of how to use television to present themselves at their most attractive.

This is a special contemporary art. It has little to do with qualifications to run the country, or with executive ability of philosophy or inner character. It is simply the mastering of necessary technique.

Curiously, although the new candidates should be more polished than their predecessors, some of the past presidents seemed to understand more than the newcomers how to put their best foot forward on the video.

It is pretty generally conceded that no one in politics had a firmer command of television technique than the late John Kennedy. He and the medium seemed to be born for each other, politics aside.

Uniquely, former President Dwight Eisenhower, despite his occasional problems in speaking off the cuff, had some sort of personal magic—a common touch, if you will—and video caught it and transmitted it.

Truman Does Well
 Another former President, Harry Truman, also surprised the experts by registering forcefully and succinctly on television, although he came from an older time.

And Barry Goldwater, although he lost the presidential race, came across—even to many of those who disagreed with him—with considerable impact.

What seems strange, in fact, is that President Johnson, who defeated Goldwater, is much less forceful on television than the Arizona Republican. In fact, Johnson—and it is no secret—has hardly ever been effective on the home screen, and, knowing it, has used it only when necessary.

The new candidates might do well to bone up on how to improve their techniques on television. We know that they all project some very good and effective impressions on video—but television campaigning requires near-perfection. And so, setting aside personal politics and individual ability, here are their problems as video personalities—at least to this viewer: Kennedy, Humphrey Repetitious

Both Robert Kennedy and Hubert Humphrey occasionally tend to be a bit repetitious, and sometimes speak too much at length in reply to questions. They would be wise to rely more on brevity, as did the late President Kennedy. Maybe it's the American western tradition, but the man of a few well-chosen words seems to have the most impact on television.

Eugene McCarthy is well known for his somewhat professional approach, and considering video's mass audience it seems doubtful that many persons without academic orientation will be fired up by his oratory manner.

Nelson Rockefeller, at least in this campaign, has left a television impression of vagueness—and needs to take some forthright video action. Richard Nixon is very businesslike and matter-of-fact, and perhaps to much so, because a personal flair is necessary for the home screen.

It is probably no surprise to anyone that the contender with the most television know-how is former actor Ronald Reagan. You may be for him or against him, but there is no doubt that video is an important significant asset to his career.

MADE TO ORDER
 AALTEN, Holland (UPI) — Mrs. B.G. Buessink hung her bikini up to dry on a nail on the cabin at her swimming pool. A pair of wrens came along and built a nest in the bikini bra.

Supplemental Food Is Received By Texans

AUSTIN (UPI) — Almost 200,000 Texans receive supplemental food through food stamp and commodity distribution programs, the director of the commodity distribution division of the State Welfare Department reports.

William G. Herndon said 21,198 persons receive coupons for supplemental food purchases through food stamp programs in 10 Texas counties, and another 172,316 people receive surplus commodities through the commodity distribution system.

Under the commodity system, eligible families receive surplus food from the Department of Agriculture at local distribution centers.

Herndon said there are currently 14 items of surplus food available to families who qualify for the program.

Based on income — He said participation in both programs is based on the amount of total family income and the number of persons in a family.

There are presently about 120 commodity distribution centers in the state, Herndon said they are "fairly well scattered" throughout the state, but he noted a concentration of centers in Lower Rio Grande Valley counties.

Participants in the program can get items such as flour, corn, meal, rice, beans, cheese, butter, dry milk and rolled wheat through the commodities program.

No Fresh Fruit — "It is not intended to supply the total diet, either quantitatively or nutritionally," Herndon said. "There is no fresh fruit or fresh meat included in the commodities."

He said Harris County distributes commodities to the greatest number of people, with 19,917 participants. Dallas county has more than 16,000 persons receiving the surplus food, while Bexar County has more than 12,000 and Webb County 10,230.

Only counties which the U.S. Department of Agriculture has designated as eligible can receive the surplus commodities, Herndon said. The criteria for eligibility is average family income.

Some to Schools — Commodities also are distributed to private and public schools, institutions, day care centers, summer camps, and to counties for distribution, Herndon said.

Only 10 counties, all of them in West Texas, participate in the food stamp program.

Under that plan, eligible families can buy food stamps, which are redeemable for any edible food item at grocery stores.

Herndon said, for example, a family of five with total income of $200 per month could buy $102 in food coupons for $72 under the food stamp plan.

WILD GOOSE

CIPPENHAM, England (UPI) — Mrs. Gladys Langton reported her 12-year-old goose stopped laying eggs last week and is now developing multicolored male plumage.

"We have no doubt that Freda has simply changed her sex," Mrs. Langton said, announcing the bird is now called Fred.

FRAGRANT FARMING

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — The St. Louis County counselor's office has filed suit against farmer Louis Theiss Jr., for violating county air pollution laws.

WANTED BY THE FBI

JAMES EARL RAY, also known as Eric Starvo Galt, Harvey Lowmyer, John Willard, James McBride, James Walton, W. C. Herron and James O'Conner.

James Earl Ray, a Missouri prison escapee, sought under the alias Eric Starvo Galt in connection with the gunshot slaying of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. is one of the FBI's "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives." FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover ordered the special addition of Ray to the "Top Ten" list to insure widespread dissemination of Ray's photograph and description to speed his location.

Ray has been intensively sought since the murder of Dr. King on April 4, 1968, as he stood on the balcony of a Memphis, Tennessee, motel. An exhaustive FBI fingerprint search, comparing latent fingerprints uncovered in the Dr. King case against fingerprints of over 53,000 persons on whom wanted notices were posted, determined that Galt and Ray are identical.

A Federal warrant, issued at Birmingham, Alabama, on April 17, 1968, charges Ray, under the alias of Galt, with conspiring to interfere with a Constitutional Right of a citizen. Ray, who escaped on April 23, 1967, from the Missouri State Penitentiary, is also sought for unlawful flight to avoid confinement for robbery. His long criminal record also includes convictions for burglary and forging U.S. Postal Money Orders.

A white American, born in Alton, Illinois, on March 10, 1928, Ray is 5'10" tall, weighs 165 to 174 pounds, has blue eyes and short brown hair. He has a nervous habit of surging at an ear lobe and his left ear protrudes noticeably. Known as a "loner" and "drifter," Ray has worked as a baker, laborer and color matcher. He has taken dancing lessons and completed a course at a school of bartending.

Consider Ray armed and extremely dangerous. Report any information concerning him to the nearest FBI office.

Student Officers Are Named At Area School

WHITE DEER (Sp) During recent elections at White Deer High School, Miss Earlette Alexander was chosen as the 1968-69 student body president. She served as junior class president this year, and defeated Stan Bush and Johnny Slagle in the race for ST president.

Sophomore junior, and senior class officers and cheerleaders were also chosen after campaign speeches and try-outs were held at a student and teacher rally Monday morning.

David Grayson, principal, announced as senior class president Cindy Richardson; vice president, Chadd Smith; secretary, Sandra Cubertson; treasurer, Lynda Stephenson, reporter, Barbara Sellers; student council members, Doug Hinton, LaDonna Russell, Debbie Taylor, and Billie Woodward; and cheerleader, Cindy Dykes.

Junior class president, Stan Beck; vice president, Jenny Hawpe; secretary, Kathy Kelp; treasurer, Randy Warminski; reporter, C. W. Freeman; student council member, Mike Banks, Mary Beth Peters, Billie Adams and Peggy Cornelison; and cheerleader, Kathy Kelp, who will be head cheerleader in 1969-70.

Freshman class cheerleader, Beth Galley. Class officers and student council members will be chosen during the first week of the fall semester when the freshmen attend one week of orientation.

PARIS (UPI)—The French student revolt has erupted on the country's political scene with the same explosive force as the Algiers settlers' and army officers' revolt just 10 years ago.

No one had expected the students to challenge directly government authority, just as no one believed that the Algiers colonists and the army top brass would rise against the legally-elected Paris government.

Worst Crisis
As it happened, the rebellion of students in France's Sorbonne and 16 other schools is confronting President Charles de Gaulle with the worst single crisis since the days of the 1954-62 Algerian war.

For the first time in his long political career, De Gaulle seems to have failed to detect in advance the gathering clouds of the student storm. Since the conclusion of the bloody Algerian conflict six years ago, the 77-year-old French leader had to face two serious confrontations with his opponents. In 1962, his political opponents managed to topple his cabinet, but were defeated in subsequent parliamentary elections over a constitutional issue. In 1963 De Gaulle had to maneuver skillfully to overcome a serious crisis arising from widespread strikes in the coal mining district.

For the first time since his return to power 10 years ago, De Gaulle now is pitted against both the intellectuals and the working class.

Sinews Evident
The sinews of the student revolt have long been evident. For years young-minded professors, assistant professors and students alike in all faculties have been urging far-reaching

ROBERT HOGAN JR. Mobeetie Senior Gets Scholarship

Robert Hogan Jr., of Mobeetie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert (Chuck) Hogan, has been named recipient of a freshman scholarship in petroleum engineering at the University of Texas at Austin.

The scholarship may be extended if a "B" average is maintained. Robert is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Orr and Mrs. Minnie Hogan, all of Pampa. He plans to enter the University of Texas in September.

Reforms to adapt courses and examinations in the university establishments to modern time requirements. Although the Fourth Republic and the Gaullist regime that replaced it in 1958 had carried out partial reforms, the French universities are resting on foundations laid by Emperor Napoleon 160 years ago.

Through petitions and then scattered, sparsely attended strikes, students, backed most of the time by teachers, had urged reforms to bring the university abreast with modern times. The Gaullist regime has changed education ministers, but rarely teaching methods, until its adamant stand bred extremist student groups bent on overthrowing not only teaching methods but the country's social structure as well.

Off The Top

By WES DUMONT
Pampa News Sports Editor

Films of the intra-squad football game between selected Pampa high school teams were shown at the Optimist club meeting Monday night. The films were more educational than watching the game itself.

Aubra Nooncaster, a teacher, took the films and they seemed to indicate the following about the 1968-69 Harvester football team:

1. This early, the team is in good physical condition.
2. The squad lacks speed but is aggressive.
3. A more balanced attack with the quarterback calling on the other backs more frequently seems desirable.
4. Over the summer months, it behooves the Pampa high school players to keep in shape and, in some instances, lose weight so they can return to Pampa high school in top physical condition. (A good idea for any student, incidentally.)
5. If there is a weakness on the Pampa high school team, it is the one usually directed at prep teams—the lack of good hard, low tackling.

On the first point, it was stated that the team seems in good condition. This is indicated by the aggressive play and ability of the players once knocked down to get up fast. This was revealed by the film.

The squad lacks speed. You didn't need a film to know this but the running sequences vividly pointed this out.

Quarterback Gary Parrish carried the ball a total of 24 times including ones in which he was thrown for a loss while trying to throw a pass.

Since the squad has some excellent running backs, it might be well for the quarterback to vary the plays to a larger degree, thus keeping the defense off guard and resting himself while doing so.

An opposing coach, when one player carries the ball to a large degree, will tell his defense to always watch that player and the element of surprise is lost.

The film didn't show it but the players themselves know it. If they expect a bigger year in '68, they are going to have to pay the price—keeping in shape this summer.

It is hoped that many of them will work on farms or do other physical heavy tasks so they can return to high school fall practice without having to sweat out the first days of the practice sessions.

There is no need to say more about the tackling. It is easy for the average fan (and sport's writer) to remember the touchdowns, the long gains, the spectacular pass plays.

Many games are won by the defense, however. That little extra effort by the linemen in making a tackle will probably go unnoticed in the sport's writeup and many fans will overlook it.

But, one key tackle can mean the difference between a win and a loss.

In passing, it is noted if we appear to have become a "downtown quarterback" please forgive our trespasses. There are probably many fans here who have different observations on the intra-squad game.

If you do, please feel free to write a letter. If we think it is constructive and well-written, we'll print it.

Outnumbered Turbines Said Big Threat In Indianapolis

By KURT FREUDENTHAL
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—The Ford and Offenhauser engines will have the numerical edge but the turbines are the big threat in Thursday's 500-mile auto race.

Time trials for the annual holiday chase for a $750,000 payoff ended late Monday, 24 hours behind schedule, with the 33-car starting lineup, averaging a record of nearly 165 miles per hour.

Meanwhile, a three-hour period today was set aside for final carteration test following briefing for drivers, mechanics and car owners. The traditional drivers meeting is Wednesday.

The rain plagued qualifications were extended for the first time since 1952 and every car in the lineup got one chance to make the grade.

Seven Added
Only the fastest seven Sunday and Monday broke into the lineup—seven instead of eight as previously announced because the Ford-powered car of Ronnie Bucknum of Lancaster, Calif., one of six rookies in the field, was reinstated by embarrassed United States Auto Club officials.

The field averaged speeds of 164.958 m.p.h. compared with last year's previous record of 164.173 m.p.h. and it would have been higher still had it not been for adverse weather conditions most of the time trial period.

New Qualifiers
The other late successful qualifiers, in order of their speed, were Carl Williams, Grandview, Mo., 162.233; George Snider, Bakersfield, Calif., 162.264; Jim Hurtubise, North Tonawanda, N.Y., 162.191; rookie Sam Sessions, Nashville, Mich., 162.118; Arnie Knepfer, Belleville, Ill., 161.900; and Larry Dickson, Marietta, Ohio, 161.124.

Other rookies who qualified earlier were Tony Bettenhouse, Tinley Park, Ill., and Bill Vukovich, Fresno, Calif., sons of former racing greats who crashed to their deaths at the Speedway, and Jim Malloy, Denver, Colo.

Bucknum's car owned by Sidney Weinberger, Utica, Mich., was reinstated when two state inspectors skinned by Weinberger found that the scales used by USAC to weigh each car were faulty. USAC said that they had been damaged.

USAC earlier banned the car on the grounds it was 20 pounds below the minimum weight of 1,350 pounds.

NEW JETS
NEW YORK (UPI)—Rookie linemen Tom Nysinski of Maryland and Tom Blotta of Adams State Monday signed pro contracts with the New York Jets of the American Football League.

Nysinski, a 6-foot-2, 240-pound offensive guard, was the Jets' 13th draft choice while Blotta, a 6-0, 254-pound defensive end, was their 16th pick.

Frogs Dominate Southwest Conference Baseball Selections

By United Press International
Texas Christian University's Horned Frogs dominated the 1968 United Press International all-Southwest Conference baseball team which was composed of only three seniors and 10 underclassmen.

The Frogs, who finished second to Texas in the rain-marred conference sports publicity dical team picked for UPI by the season, placed five players on the first team compared on two each for Texas, third-place Texas A&M and fourth-place Baylor and one each for Texas Tech and Southern Methodist.

The Aggies' outfielder Bob Long, who also was all-conference in football, was the only unanimous choice on the mythic selectors. He was one of five juniors on the team.

Sophomore pitcher James Street of Texas, who was voted player of the year, pitcher James Bevil of Baylor and outfielder Dave Elmendorf of A&M, the lone freshman to make the team, lacked only one vote of being unanimous.

SURGERY PLANNED
PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Shortstop Bobby Wine of the Philadelphia Phillies will undergo surgery Wednesday on a ruptured disc in his lower back that threatens his career.

Doctors say Wine will not play again this season and his rate of recovery will determine whether he'll play next year.

The sure-handed Wine, 29, has suffered pain from the injury for the past three years, and it has kept him out of the starting lineup since May 12.

Irwin, who crashed his Ford prototype in practice runs for the May 19 sports car race at Nuerburging, was not reported out of danger yet, but it was the first time doctors had spoken of an improvement in his condition.

Meredith Thinks Proposed Fee Of $500 Per Game Is 'Too High'

By ED FITE
UPI Sports Writer
DALLAS (UPI)—Don Meredith, who just signed a new three-year pact with the Dallas Cowboys estimated to bring him upwards of $175,000 as one of the National Football League's highest paid quarterbacks, has mixed emotions about the NFL Players' Association battle plans.

With Cowboys President Tex Schramm listening in, Meredith said he thought some of the association's proposals had merit, but that he was "on the surface" opposed to unions and that he thought there should be a "better way to solve the problems" than a strike.

"I think our profession is still a game and I hate to see the players destroy it," Meredith said. "I think a union could do just that. I think a strike would hurt the players much more than the league."

Meredith was quick to admit that he feels, like more other veteran pro players, that the pre-season situation has "gotten out of hand" and that veteran players are being required to "play too much" because of the public-inspired desire to win these games instead of to use them as testing grounds for new personnel as they were originally intended.

"The pre-season, since I've been with Dallas (1960), has grown tremendously," he said. "There's been an increased emphasis on winning, so that all the top players have to play."

"But I think $500 (per game) as proposed by the players group is a little too high. With a squad of 60, that's $30,000 and I'm not sure a team's share of the gate is much more than that a lot of times."

Schramm waited until Meredith had spoken his thoughts on the subject and then added that he did not feel there would be a strike by the players.

"Today's pro football player is by and large a sophisticated young businessman," he said. "He has an understanding of economics of business. I think as soon as the players become aware of the facts, the economic facts surrounding the operation of a pro football team there will be an understanding."

ENDS RETIREMENT.
PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Dick Cherry returned to professional hockey after a one-year retirement Monday by signing a three-year contract with the Philadelphia Flyers of the National Hockey League.

The 31-year-old Cherry was the Flyers' ninth draft choice in 1967 but decided to quit hockey and become principal at a high school near Kingston, Ont.

Cherry, a defenseman, has eight years of pro hockey experience.

Staub, Wynn Lead Astros to Victory

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer
Eddie Mathews, baseball's vagabond slugger without a home, continued his nomadic climb in the record books Monday night.

Mathews' traveling act stopped in Anaheim where he hit the 511th and 512th homers of his career to surpass Mel Ott, and become the sixth best home run hitter in the history of the game.

As usual, the fans had to be told about the event they had just witnessed.

The place where Mathews is—or was—a hero (Milwaukee) doesn't even have a team now and Mathews' exploits have received little of the fanfare that was lavished on Willie Mays and Mickey Mantle when they achieved similar milestones.

"They announced it," Mathews remembers when he hit his 500th homer for Houston in San Francisco.

They didn't even do that in Anaheim Monday night for Mathews, who now wears a Detroit uniform and saw the two homers go for naught as the Tigers suffered a 7-6 loss to the California Angels in 12 innings. It also was somewhat typical that after hitting back-to-back homers he was taken out of the game and didn't have a shot at a third straight.

When Matherw hit his 511th homer in the fifth to tie Ott, there was no announcement and the fans treated it like just another homer by a visiting player.

When he came to bat in the seventh, the notice was finally flashed on the scoreboard to inform the fans that he had tied Ott on his previous time at bat. The fans then gave him a hand—and the small crowd of 8,712 gave him quite an ovation when he immediately slammed his 512th. Both came off Sammy Ellis, another former National Leaguer.

There have been few ovations for Mathews since the halcyon days in Milwaukee. Mathews knew the best of those hysterical days since he came up with the Braves in 1952 when the club was in Boston. But up with the Braves in 1952 when the club was in Boston. When it all ended when the Braves were shifted to Atlanta. He was then traded to Houston before being shipped to Detroit late last season.

Mathews' homer in the fifth narrowed the Tiger deficit to 3-2 and his homer leading off the seventh narrowed it to 5-4. Later in the seventh, Norm Cash hit a two-run pinch homer to put Detroit ahead 6-5. Since Detroit had the lead, Cash was left in the game at first base for defensive purposes and to 3-1.

Mathews was lifted. But Bubba Morton singled in the tying run in the bottom of the seventh and Tom Fatriano doubled in the winning run in the 12th off reliever Daryl Patterson.

The loss cut Detroit's lead to one-half game over idle Baltimore.

Elsewhere in the only other three games played in the majors, Houston drubbed Los Angeles 10-1, Cleveland nipped Minnesota 3-1 and Boston topped Oakland 3-2.

Jim Wynn and Rusty Staub each collected three hits and drove in three runs to lead Houston past Los Angeles. Staub's hits enabled him to boost his average to .337, second in the National League. Don Wilson pitched an eight-hitter to get the victory.

With a runner on third and two out in the seventh inning, the Twins decided to walk Larry Brown to pitch to pitcher Stan Williams. But the move backfired as Brown stole second and Williams singled in two runs to snap a 1-1 tie and give Cleveland the triumph.

Elston Howard's sacrifice fly in the seventh inning scored Joe Foy with an unearned run as Boston edged Oakland. Gary Bell went the route for the third straight time to boost his mark for defensive purposes and to 3-1.

National League Adds Montreal, San Diego

By ED SAINSBURY
UPI Sports Writer
CHICAGO (UPI)—San Diego and Montreal were added to the National League today to complete a 12-team circuit which will begin competition in 1969.

The two teams were announced Monday night after more than 10 hours of almost steady deliberation by the league and study of the applications of five cities for membership.

Acceptance of San Diego and Montreal gave their franchise holders the opportunity to pay $10 million for the franchise and 30 baseball players to be drafted from the 10 established teams. Each of the established teams will be permitted to protect 15 players and each can lose a maximum of six in the draft by the two new teams.

Bidders from Milwaukee, Buffalo and Dallas-Fort Worth were turned down in favor of the two new teams, although President Warren Giles said

"all five of the applicants are great groups."

Bavasi Manager
Jean Louis Levesque will be head of a group of eight which will hold the Montreal franchise, while C. Arnold Smith, Doug Giddings, and Buzzy Bavasi, now general manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers, will be the principal stockholders of the San Diego team and Bavasi will be its general manager.

San Diego will play in its new 45,000 seat stadium while Montreal will play in the Expo '67 stadium, which will be expanded immediately to 40,000 seats, until a new domed stadium seating 55,000 is completed.

Selection of the two new teams, the second time in six seasons that the NL has added a pair of new franchises, completed a course which was set a month ago when the league voted in favor of expansion for 1969 if there could be unanimous agreement on the two new members.

Process of Elimination
Roy Hofheinz of Houston was believed to have opposed the Dallas-Fort Worth bid and the Atlanta Braves were believed to have opposed Milwaukee. Opposition to Buffalo had been anticipated from Bob Carpenter of Philadelphia.

Expansion of the National League was triggered by an earlier American League decision to add Kansas City and Seattle to its membership for 1969. The American League also has gone on record favoring separation into divisions for competition in 1969 and was to meet today to settle which teams will be in each division as well as to adopt the type of schedule it will play.

National League owners discussed schedules for 12 team leagues, but it was known that several owners objected to divisional play. The two leagues were to meet jointly today and Giles said schedules and divisional play would be major topics.

Boys Invited To Register In Golf Here

Junior high boys in the eighth and ninth grades wishing to participate in the summer golf program are invited to register Monday, June 3, at the film room at the high school. Time for registration is 9 a.m.

Boys desiring to pre-register should call Eural Ramsey, MO 5-4577.

Ramsey will head the summer golf program and already competition between the boys in golf is being planned. The boys will practice at the Pampa country club golf course.

Ramsey emphasized that the program was a "school sponsored program."

The Reuther-Meany Split

It looks as if the split between George Meany's AFL-CIO union and Walter Reuther's United Auto Workers branch is becoming a reality. Only the formality of a letter of suspension from the parent union remains to accomplish the break. Reuther has been threatening to take his auto and aerospace workers on a "walk" from the big union collective after this year's political election for some time and has refused to pay dues to the AFL-CIO. Now the AFL-CIO is talking back. The executive committee of the AFL-CIO has voted to tell the UAW to start paying its back dues or face automatic suspension. Meany was quoted as saying the loss of a million dollars a year in UAW dues would not hurt the federation financially. Reuther's union has been demanding a special convention so it can air its complaints that the AFL-CIO has failed to push "progressive programs." The UAW has said it would put its dues payments in escrow until it got its way. But Reuther should know that unions don't work that way. For instance, some of his own UAW members in the aerospace industry objected to an arbitrary increase in their dues to finance a strike fund for automobile workers. Some of them even wanted to put the dues in escrow until a convention or a vote of members was called. But Reuther would hear none of it.

The Free Market Twins

A press release tells of stepped-up consumer information plans proposed by a major food retailer's association. This is heartening news. The food chains, and mass retail distribution in other fields, are a direct result of the mass-production system that has evolved over the last half century. Without the two, we could not have the abundance we enjoy. The two go together, and the two operate on one basic principle—the movement of a high volume of goods at minimum prices. One all-important fact which many seem to overlook is that both mass distribution and mass production can thrive only in an economic and political system which protects and encourages the free market principle—in other words, a market in which supply and demand and consumer choice are the balance wheels of a competitive, private enterprise economy. The current drive of the more extreme consumer protection crusaders might well carry us far beyond the normal umpire-type regulation. It is pointed toward federal control and federal management of production and distribution. This kind of consumerism embodies a political, as well as an economic, philosophy for the simple reason that it envisions government domination over the lives of the people in a way contrary to our form of self-government wherein the private citizen makes most of the decisions either in the marketplace or in the polling booth. It is highly important for consumers to understand the story of our free market, economic system. No better illustration of benefits to the consumers from this system may be found than in the evolutionary development of retail mass distribution. An understanding of the supermarket and the manner in which it functions on a profit of a cent or less of each dollar of sales has become imperative. Efforts of retail distributors to help carry the story of mass distribution to the public deserve commendation. Present-day consumerism may wear no political label, but its goal is nonetheless revolutionary.

A Credit to Credit Men

Nothing works wonders like a little adverse publicity. A number of stories awhile back charged the credit industry with becoming a mile too nosy in the odd facts and tidbits it collects—and files—about people's private lives and habits in the course of credit investigation. The matter was brought up at a recent meeting in Chicago of the Associated Credit Bureaus of America, Inc. The ACEofA, with headquarters in Houston, represents some 2,100 credit-bureaus all over the country. It was decided to set up an advisory committee which will make a thorough and continuing re-evaluation of consumer protection of privacy practices by local credit bureaus. "The purpose of this entire project," said John L. Spafford, executive vice president of the ACEofA, "is to give the consumer the benefits of the use of credit in our economy and still protect." said John L. Spafford, recognized during these meetings that changes must be made. "It's a good goal, and a good start toward it."

PINE TREE FEATURES

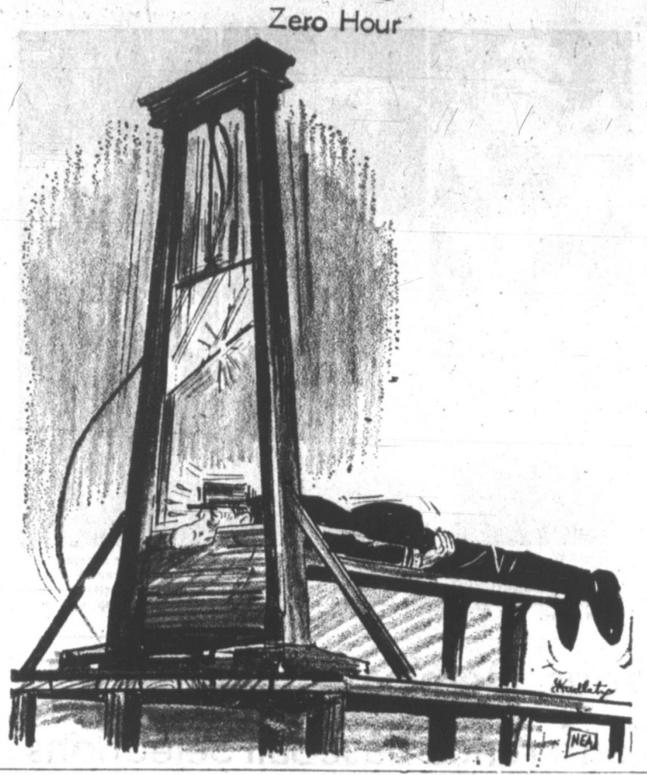

LET THE FEDS HAVE IT

This writer is normally not one to advocate the extension of the power of the federal government in any field, but there is one conservation issue that gives cause for serious reflection. The federal government claims jurisdiction over game animals and other wildlife on federal lands. This concept is being contested by representatives of state fish and game departments and the sportsmen that support them. Their friends in the U.S. Congress have introduced several bills spelling out the states' authority to regulate and administer wildlife on all lands. In this country the states have long controlled all wild game except migratory waterfowl which, the states have conceded, should be under federal control because of their habits of crossing state and international boundaries. This system has unavoidably led to many conflicts. The most important part of game management is the management or control of plant growth to improve game habitat and forage. But only the landowner can do this. So the state's "game management" practices are reduced largely to the regulation of hunting seasons and the licensing of hunters. The game depends upon the land for its support, but the landowner has no rights to it. He has little incentive to improve game habitat, because he usually gets little or no return from it. Sportsmen who pay a separate state game license fee for almost every animal they hunt, naturally resist paying another fee to the landowner for the privilege of hunting on his land. The state game departments have built up large empires on the basis of this inherent conflict.

But now along comes the federal government to threaten the foundations of the empires they have built. The feds claim jurisdiction over game animals on federal lands. The states fear that a precedent would be set that could eventually erode their authority to issue game licenses and regulate hunting. If the federal government can set hunting regulations on residential wildlife on land towns, then other landowners could claim the same right. The defeat of the bills giving the states power to regulate game on federal lands would be a blow for private enterprise and for better conservation of wildlife resources. Under a system wherein the landowner controls all aspects of game management, the state game departments would be abolished, without the requirement of state licenses, the sportsmen would be more able and willing to pay the landowner for hunting privileges. A new source of income would be opened to the landowner. He could then invest time and money to improve wildlife on land it owns, create his game populations, prove game habitat and to improve. For, contrary to popular opinion, the profit motive is the greatest of all incentives toward better conservation. With the increased freedom of the property owner to make the necessary management decisions for his own lands, overall game populations would be improved, better hunting provided for the sportsman, and conflict would be largely eliminated through free market.

So let's assure the federal government of its power to administer wildlife on its lands. Then let's transfer those federal lands into private ownership—or we will have herds of federal employees regulating "he game on the public domain. That was proposed by Assistant Attorney General Fred Vinson, head of the Criminal Division, following an exhaustive investigation by a squad of FBI agents and a federal grand jury. Attorney General Clark took these findings directly to the President, with whom he discussed them at length several times. Insiders attribute the block on action entirely to the President. Washington.— Attorney General Ramsey Clark is uneasily trying to decide what to do about preceding and during the Viostokly Carmichael for "inciting to riot." Basis for this possible charge is the fiery, revolution-threatening SNCC leader's activities and fulminations immediately fires that ravaged large sections of Washington early last month. Carmichael's reputed turbulent behavior was vehemently denounced in Congress with demands that he be prosecuted. Attorney General Clark directed the FBI to make an exhaustive investigation. Scores of individuals were interrogated on what Carmichael said and did. The FBI submitted a detailed report to Clark. From White House sources it is understood he has discussed these findings with President Johnson. What if anything will be done about instituting legal proceedings against Carmichael remains to be seen. Neither the White House nor the Justice Department will comment on the prospects.

The capital is explosively rife with alarming tensions and strains—A veritable tinderbox of potential renewed racial outbreaks. Several thousand so-called "poor people" marchers already are encamped here and engaging in demonstrations, with more thousands enroute in preparation for staging a loudly proclaimed huge mass demonstration Thursday — Memorial Day. Scores of robberies and attacks on bus drivers, culminating in the slaying of one and resulting widely disrupted night service, have further intensified the atmosphere of fear and apprehension. Authorities admittedly are profoundly worried about new violence. For this reason they are treading warily in resorting to forceful measures. To what extent this is affecting a crackdown on Carmichael is conjectural.

MORE PUSSYFOOTING — As disclosed in this column last week, President Johnson has stalled for more than a month a Justice Department recommendation that former Representative Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., be prosecuted for misuse of federal funds. That was proposed by Assistant Attorney General Fred Vinson, head of the Criminal Division, following an exhaustive investigation by a squad of FBI agents and a federal grand jury. Attorney General Clark took these findings directly to the President, with whom he discussed them at length several times. Insiders attribute the block on action entirely to the President. PAUL SCOTT

Involved are the four former employees of Senator Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., who stole thousands of personal and official records from his files, publication of which led to his being censured by the Senate. In recommending that the bipartisan Ethics Committee in a supplementary report, titled "Unauthorized Removal of Documents from Senator Dodd's Office," castigated the ex-employees and directed that their "reprehensible" conduct be referred to the Justice Department for prosecution. That was last May, and nothing more has been heard of it. Assistant Attorney General Vinson, asked the reason for this protracted delay, replied, "Inquiries of this kind often take a year or longer." Beyond that he testily refused to comment.

The Ethics Committee in its findings declared, "The unauthorized removal of papers from a senator's office by employees and former employees is reprehensible and constitutes a breach of the relationship of trust between a senator and his staff, and is an invasion of what must be considered privileged communications between a senator and his correspondents, and is a threat to the orderly conduct of business of a public office." RUN NOW, PAY LATER — The Senate Ethics Committee may have a thorny case right in its own ranks. Senator Eugene McCarthy, a committee member, is accumulating a mounting deficit in his primary campaigns for the Democratic presidential nomination, and the committee may have to rule on whether these debts can be paid off by fund-raising affairs. There is sharply divided opinion on whether that can be done under the code of ethics recently adopted. The touchy question was raised by Senator Edward Brooke, R-Mass., on the propriety of holding a $100-a-plate luncheon to "pay off some $15,000 still owing from his 1966 election. The ethics code is silent on this specific matter. But during the Senate debate on the code Senator John Stennis, D-Miss., committee chairman, expressed the view that such fund-raising affairs are barred. Said Stennis, "My interpretation is that the language of the code does not permit the payment of prior debts." To settle the issue, Eroeke has asked the committee for an advisory opinion. It could have far-reaching import—particularly for McCarthy.

The Minnesota has left a trail of red ink in every state primary he has contested. The amounts are unknown even to McCarthy's staff. They attribute that to delayed and incomplete reports from state leaders

Opium Trade Helps Pay For Reds' Southeast Asia Wars

2-24 Opium trade By RAY CROMLEY Washington Correspondent VIENTIANE, LAOS (NEA)—Mao Tse-tung and Ho Chi Minh are adept at making their wars in South Vietnam, Laos and Thailand self-supporting. Take opium as one highly profitable example. Imaginative, effective American and Allied suppression of the opium trade in Southeast Asia would cut back Red revenue appreciably and thus help slow down the Communist drive both in Laos and Vietnam and hamper the underground buildup in Thailand. Opium control would also reduce sharply the funds available for corrupting officials, whether these funds are Communists or not. "Yes," the North Vietnamese captain and former Communist political commissar in Northern Laos told this reporter, "We collected opium, shipped it to Communist China to pay for arms they supplied us. The Doctor Says:

By DR. W. G. BRANSTADT No Treatment Required For Most Endometriosis Q.—Please explain these terms: adenomyosis and endometriosis of the myometrium. A.—Adenomyosis is a benign invasion by the endometrial cells lining the inside of the uterus into the muscular tissues of that organ, accompanied by a thickening of muscular layer. This is also called internal endometriosis or endometriosis of the myometrium. External endometriosis is an extension of endometrial cells into the pelvic cavity, here they may cover loops of intestine or the urinary bladder. Q.—How is endometriosis diagnosed? What caused it? How prevalent is it? Is it malignant? How can it be cured? A.—Endometriosis is suspected when the severity of menstrual cramps coupled with menstrual irregularity gradually increases. The uterus becomes enlarged and just preceding a menstrual period it is tender to pressure over the pelvis. The cause is not known. The condition has always existed but it was not recognized until recent years. Its prevalence appears to be increasing chiefly because more doctors now consider the possibility of its presence than did in earlier times. Although this is a type of tumor it is not malignant. The treatment must be individualized. In many victims the condition is so mild no treatment is required. In some, female hormones give relief. In the severer cases an operation to remove the tumors in the pelvic cavity is necessary. This is usually followed by a course of treatment with hormones for two or three years. If this does not effect a cure, or if the uterine musculature is involved, complete removal of the uterus and tubes may be necessary. Q.—While visiting in the north I had a severe attack of arthritis. A local doctor prescribed Butazolidine. When I returned home the druggist would not refill the prescription. What are the harmful effects of this drug? A.—Since phenylbutazone (Butazolidine) is a prescription drug no pharmacist can dispense it without a new prescription. ALH THIS IS A POWERFUL anti-rheumatic drug, it should be taken only under medical supervision. This includes a complete blood count before starting the drug and a recheck of the blood count every week or 10 days thereafter. The toxic effects include anemia, skin rash, fever, and hepatitis. out of the car three blocks back! Motorists — So that's it. I thought I'd gone stone deaf for a minute. No doubt this would present quite an added problem for the make-up men who already have their hands full trying to create an angel-like image starting not only from scratch but with hardly anything at all to build on. Of course, the chicken-breasted might conceal their sunken conditions by hanging strands of beads in the cleavages. They could present a platform based on the saying, "Man cannot live by beads alone." Who could argue with that?

'Poor People's' Spirits Dampened

By RICHARD LERNER
WASHINGTON (UPI)—A cold rain fell steadily on Resurrection City today, turning the nearly dried out campground of antipoverty campaigners back into a muddy bog.

Leaders of the Poor People's March considered evacuating residents for the second time in four days.

The morale of the 2,400 persons in the hill village near the Lincoln Memorial sagged noticeably. A brisk wind swept the 50-degree chill into the plywood-and-canvas shanties, and the inhabitants huddled in blankets to try to keep warm.

The Rev. David Abernathy, the march leader who has been staying at a motel three miles away, arrived at the encampment at midmorning and immediately went into consultation with top aides.

The Rev. Andrew Young, executive vice president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), told reporters the setting was called to decide "what to do about all this." He waved his hand toward the slithery mud.

Some mothers and children were evacuated to temporary shelter in churches last Friday when a heavy rain turned the camp into a quagmire. But the sun came out over the weekend, drying out the mud considerably and permitting construction of a boardwalk down the so-called main street.

The mud at midmorning was not as deep as Friday but was getting worse.

One of the likely early targets as the campaign picks up pace this week is the office of Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman, from whom the marchers already have won a commitment for more surplus food distribution.

The Rev. James Bevel, a key official of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said Sunday that the campaigners "just may sit in (on Freeman) until we persuade him to go with us to Congress and demand their legislation of a policy to close the gap between surplus and starvation in this country."

Bevel said at a Sunday prayer meeting at Resurrection City, USA, "We want to get the whole camp mobilized behind our food drive."

The campaign leadership also pledged Sunday to follow members of Congress home if they fail to meet demands before adjournment.
