

Television In Review

By ROBERT MUSEL (The Yippies and all others responsible for scenes that can do the image of America only harm at home and abroad?) ABC-TV put on the horror film as part of its decision to carry standard programming as well as convention coverage. CBS-TV and NBC-TV turned their cameras and reporters on the convention and the streets of the city for more than 12 hours. And a far more chilling tale they had to tell. As television it made absorbing viewing. As an example of the democratic process it felt somewhere between farce and tragedy. The merciless cameras are. But what excuse have politicians who lost with overwrought ch bad grace, the police who on an occasion when the attracted to provocation from country needs its clearest

One woman delegate broke down sobbing when the convention adopted a Vietnam plank which did not call for an immediate halt to the bombing as supporters of Sen. Eugene McCarthy had urged. The New York delegation rendered an emotional version of "We Shall Overcome" and were joined by hundreds of others. The majority had spoken but the minority clearly hadn't accepted it and all through the day network reporters picked up moves and rumors of moves to adjourn the convention and force its transfer to another city because of what was frequently called "police brutality" in the streets. Since more than 10 policemen were injured there must have been some "Yippie brutality" around as well and NBC caught one of the demonstrators in the act of throwing a punch at a policeman. But the enduring impression was of helmeted police dragging demonstrators to police trucks sometimes spurring them with a club across the backside. The networks filmed these under difficulties mindful that a record number of cameramen and reporters of all media have been involved in incidents with police. There is bound to be discussion in the weeks to come of how much of what happened was due to the presence of television. Since most other delegates had gone to dinner, would the New York delegation mixed choir have continued singing and swaying as long as they did in the emptying amphitheatre if the cameras had stopped? Do some TV reporters create stories by asking delegates about rumors on camera? Should they check the rumors first and conduct interviews only when they are known to have substance, to avoid giving false reports wide circulation? All the anchor men made sharp comments on Wednesday's proceedings. Walter Cronkite of CBS pointed out the telephone strike, which prevented the networks from covering the headquarters of the various presidential candidates, was settled only an hour after adoption of the platform made it certain nothing could stop Hubert Humphrey's nomination Wednesday night. "A really quite amazing coincidence", said Cronkite dryly.

By United Press International CHICAGO — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, accepting the Democratic presidential nomination: "With the help of the vast, unfrightened majority of Americans, I am ready to lead our country." CHICAGO — Vice President Humphrey, pledging to search for peace in Vietnam: "If there is one lesson we should have learned, it is that the policies of tomorrow need not be limited by the policies of yesterday." CHICAGO—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, eulogizing his slain brother, Robert, in a closed circuit television address to the Democratic National Convention: "We should not hate but love one another."

The man assaulted said the attack was completely unprovoked and that he intended to file charges. The vandalism was reported to police yesterday but is believed to have occurred Wednesday night. Kidnaped (Continued From Page 1) vehicle. He was treated at returned to St. Mary's nursery where he was examined by Dr. Douglas J. Thompson and pronounced in good health. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell G. Reese, of nearby Port Neches, saw their baby shortly after his recovery. McBride said he feels the baby's quick return was due to the help of many witnesses who helped establish a positive identification of the suspected abductor. McBride said the investigation was continuing with the aid of artists for the Texas Department of Public Safety, who compiled a composite drawing of the woman from descriptions by workers at the hospital. The suspect was seen by a nurse on her way to check the four babies in St. Mary's nursery. The infant was missing at 2:09 a.m. and apparently was taken in a five minute period during a shift change.

Care with handle Texas gets 1/2 Gallon The James B. Beam Distilling Company is introducing the new Jim Beam half-gallon in more and more states. Outside of its impressive size, the Jim Beam half-gallon bottle is notable because it has such convenient features as a built-in pouring spout and a handy handle. They call it "Care with handle." But the handle, of course, isn't really that important. It's the care that counts. Six Generations of Care The care that Jacob Beam exercised in perfecting his formula back in 1795. A formula that's been kept secret in the Beam family for six generations. The care that went into the selection of the location in north central Kentucky at which the Beam distillery was built and the care that served by the distillation of the fertile white oak wood barrels. The care that went into every step of the distilling process, to insure that the famous quality of Jim Beam never varies, always lives up to its reputation. All that care is good reason for the Jim Beam half-gallon, the one with the handy handle.

New Decor Is People Oriented To Contribute to Better Living

By AILEEN SNODDY
NEA Home Editor
NEW YORK (NEA) — Getting people in the right mood to work, to eat and to sleep well occupies more time and increases the bank accounts of more architects and designers than ever before.

The men and women in the business of creating what they like to call "pleasing total environments," though, are minor beneficiaries of a job well-done. The real winners are people working in offices where 50 or 60 share a common room, eating in restaurants or living in homes for the elderly.

POLLY POINTERS

DEAR POLLY—My Pointer is for families with a crippled child who enjoys going to the beach. We were told not to take our son's wheel chair in the sand, so we invested in a flying saucer children use for sledding. Now we wheel Steve to the edge of the sand, put him on the saucer and pull him to the water's edge. Since the saucer is not really comfortable, we lift him out on the beach. After doing this we cover the saucer with a towel because the sun on the metal would make it so hot it would be impossible to put him back on it without danger of burns.

HAZEL
DEAR POLLY—I would like some good ideas for paper presents to take to a first wedding anniversary party. Any passed my way that would be useful and clever would be most appreciated.

A concern for the individual, however, runs through the projects.

Sy Miller, head of a design firm, has come a long way since dressing window displays. He estimates his firm does approximately $10 million in business with emphasis on offices, for example, of Wall Street-oriented firms.

His theory is that surroundings must have beauty although his own new office was a chaos of unfinished concrete floors, open walls and debris. "What has happened to me in remodeling," he groaned, "thank God, has never happened to a client or I would not be in business."

Miller believes that mechanized methods of today's business world would prove totally demoralizing to a company's staff if something weren't done to make work surroundings decorative. "Everything must be part of our 'now involvement.'"

For example, he wants employees involved with everything. A textured wall breaks up flat, sterile desk and floor surfaces.

"The American eye is adjusted," he says, "to see the reflection of an individual in art on the wall. A man may show sailboats or golf pictures to indicate his hobbies. Yet, many businessmen have no taste at all in color or are afraid to say what they like or they admit they don't know what they like."

Capitalizing on this, Miller's staff pops off to Europe to buy art objects for offices. He also urges companies to select original graphics and use color to break up monotony.

"What is most lacking is visual excitement. There must be something to treat the eye. And, he warns, "we guide executives to avoid combining all the great design ideas they see around town. Put together they can be disastrous."

Contributing to better and more pleasing office environments are breakthroughs in materials. Different materials in modular forms and adhesives to secure them are major innovations in certain projects of John Maurer.

Maurer has a small firm whose design jobs range from the elegant Maisonette at the St. Regis Hotel to hospitals and homes for the elderly.

He, especially, is excited with what is happening in decor of housing for the aged. His first assignment was The Booth Memorial Hospital for the Salvation Army. With no prior experience in this specialized area, Maurer traveled to many nursing homes and hospitals to see what was being done.

"I felt most have been neglected for years in decor, furniture and equipment."—The result: Maurer helped design chairs for the elderly with the right pitch to the back seats and without welts to cut off circulation, also a special commode.

"Many items older persons were forced to live with helped to deteriorate their bodies," he says.

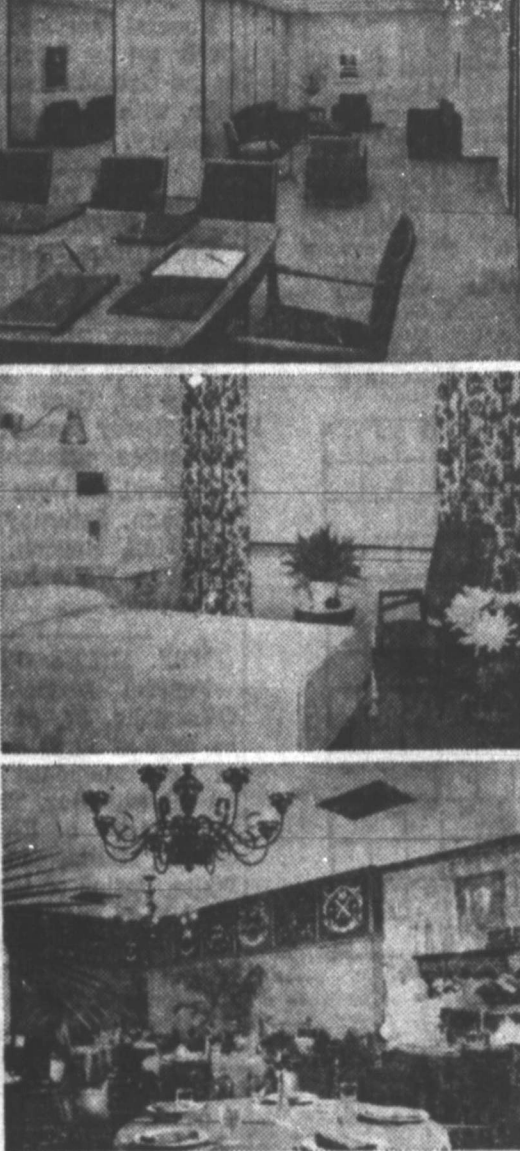

Because of maintenance, Maurer uses washable materials for shirred curtains and vinyls for upholstery. All this brought up a housekeeping problem which he had to solve. With different colors and designs in scores of rooms the laundry would get mixed up. "I had to set up a key code for all the rooms so each item went back to the right area."

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

(FOR SATURDAY, AUGUST 31)
GENERAL TENDENCIES: A daily morning is very good for studies and for really living instead of just mousing. Later you find you are able to get in touch with some pretty influential persons and get them to go along with your fundest outside aims as well as have satisfactory health treatments.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20) — If you don't take any risks in a.m., you find later you get on the good side of a powerful individual, easily. Be of service to the right person. Gain the adulation that is rightfully yours.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) — Some new idea could lead you right down the primrose path during a.m., but then new friends bring happiness you had not expected. Dig into that new material that brings knowledge you should have. Grow, do not follow intuition in a.m. or you get in deep Dutch. Later you can think and act most constructively. Be very analytical. Don't have that talk with loved one today and all works out O.K.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — If you show appreciation to associates for the work you are doing, with their good help, you find you can later sit down to your correspondence and get it out easily. Don't forget to write to that rich aunt, uncle, Be wise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Find a better system for adding to present income and show others you know the meaning of security. A monetary mogul gives fine suggestions. If you make a point to ask him, Remember that property starts with a state of mind.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Show persons who can be relied on in time of trouble that you are most grateful and "winterize" them "lavishly" tonight. You have to use that smile more if you are to get the right results. Make others happy and increase own happiness.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — If you plan now for a more prosperous future, you find you can have just that, provided you apply yourself. Also, if you have promised to assist others, be sure you do so. Don't judge on a right premise—be ethical.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) — Go after persons you like and convince them to go along with your ideas, whether in business or socially. Your ideas for entertainment are fine, so carry through with them tonight. Show that you have taste and imagination.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, . . . he, or she will be one of those interesting young people who, early in life find it hard to adapt to atmosphere, current conditions. But if you have patience, you can help your progeny to get into the proper groove. There is much organizational ability here and the education should be slanted along such lines as a career.

Activities nicely mapped out for yourself. Morning may be rather slow, but then tempo picks up.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) — Don't upset present set-up in a.m. because you feel tired. Get out and have a little fun at whatever pleases you most. Evening is fine for showing mate that you really care by some fancy gift, etc.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — If you show real thoughtfulness to those who live with you, you find everything becomes so harmonious it will be a delight from now on. Also, plan how to get along better with co-workers. You do not have to do all the work, you know.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — If you show appreciation to associates for the work you are doing, with their good help, you find you can later sit down to your correspondence and get it out easily. Don't forget to write to that rich aunt, uncle, Be wise.

TO CURE A COLD
Britain's Common Cold Research Center pooh-poohs the hot-lemon-juice-for-Vitamin-C approach to curing a cold. They say it does not work. They suggest relaxing in a hot bath, taking aspirin, going to bed and keeping warm.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am an 18-year-old girl, and my problem is my mother. She does not like some of the boys I go around with because they have beards. They aren't big, shaggy dirty-looking beards—but small, neatly trimmed, clean-looking beards and I think they look sharp.

My mother calls these bearded friends of mine "hoods, beatniks and hippies." She says they look like a bunch of buns who will never amount to anything.

How can I convince her she is wrong?
LIKES BEARDS
DEAR LIKES: Remind her of the Smith Brothers. They coughed up a fortune.

DEAR ABBY: I've been told that in Old China, a professional medic was paid only IF the patient improved and survived. If the patient died, or did not improve, the medic received nothing. (No tickets, no wash-ee.) This strikes me as a bit of all right. How does it strike you? Only suckers pay for goods they do not receive.

THINKER
DEAR THINKER: Think again. Your tale of "Old China" sounds like a lot of chop suey to me. Furthermore, a doctor is entitled to be paid for "professional services rendered," regardless of the outcome.

DEAR ABBY: I am 14, and 5 years ago I was in a car accident. After many operations and much therapy I was able to walk again—but with a noticeable limp.

In that accident we lost my little sister, so my mother, not wanting me to be an "only child," adopted a little girl who had been deaf since birth.

What I'm getting at is this: You've seen comedians on TV and the stage lipping, stuttering, stumbling, falling and "playing deaf and mute," and they get laughs that bring down the house.

I don't see anything funny about this, and it's not that I am overly sensitive because I felt the same way before my accident.

I have seen handicapped people at the rehabilitation center stumbling and falling and doing the same things the comedians do for laughs, and believe me, it is heartbreaking.

My little sister spends hours with a speech therapist trying to form words, and when she sees someone on TV who makes the same sounds as she, and the people laughing about it, she runs to her room in tears. (She is only 5.)

Is something missing in my sense of humor? Or do others feel the same as I?

NOT LAUGHING
DEAR NOT: Many others agree with you. I, for one. And I thank you for your wonderful letter.

Supply and Demand Law Causes Food Prices to Climb Higher

By GAY PAULEY
NEW YORK (UPI)—You notice the trend when a can of tomatoes goes up from 19 to 21 cents, when the box of frozen peas and onions is marked 33 instead of the 31 you were paying six months ago, when the pound of ground chuck is 69 cents instead of 65.

each week the total at the market checkout counter is just a little more on much the same items as you bought three or six months ago.

For all of 1968, food retail prices will average 3.5 per cent to four above 1967.

expenditures covered in the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) reports. Food at home is up 15 per cent above the 1957-59 index; all other items are up 19.9.

much food for an hour of work today as in 1916, the year that the self-service idea was introduced. And the trend should continue, for wages have been rising more rapidly than food prices even in recent years.

A new concept in makeup for glossy young moderns who like the natural look for fall includes sheer foundation that flows on so lightly that your beauty shines through, a new sleek-as-silk lipstick that gives the mouth a luscious finish and frosted nail polish that is topped with a new type of coating that gives the nails a velvety, matte finish. A miniature square, gold-plated compact holds sheer translucent pressed powder to finish off the natural look for fall.

POLLY'S POINTERS

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Tell Mr. and Mrs. M. to antique their old scarred piano. My brother did this and his looks beautiful. Sand or use paint remover to clear it of wax and polish. Follow the directions on one of the kits for antiquing furniture. These come in a variety of colors.

MRS. C. A. H.
DEAR POLLY—I am a piano technician, better known as a piano tuner and repair man, and I want to advise Mr. and Mrs. M. on refinishing their piano. The satisfying results will be well-worth the hard work. Remove the top of an upright. There are pins at the back where the hinges are. Remove the top frame where the music rests and the shelf and fall board. This will expose the keys, number them with a pencil and remove so they can be put back in proper order. The keys are removed so they will not be damaged with the paint remover or the new finish. Take the piano apart as much as possible and after it is stripped, vacuum and blow all the dirt out.

Put newspapers on the floor all around the piano for protection. Use a good varnish remover and then scrape off the old finish with a dull blade. Remove all varnish with paint-thinner and make a smooth finish. Wipe with a cloth. Sand any rough spots with sandpaper wrapped around a brick. Stain wood to the desired color, apply a good brand of varnish or paint if you prefer.

PIANO TUNER
DEAR READERS—Several readers wrote to say they had been advised by piano tuners and repair men NOT to paint a piano as that would ruin the tone. I was advised by a technician at one of the world's greatest piano factories that painting DOES NOT effect the sound but that the sound board and interior should never be painted. Lacquer is most often used as a professional finish. Be sure to remove all hinges so they can be polished with steel wool and lacquered, and the finished job, with varnish paint, will not look as if done by loving hands at home.

POLLY'S PROBLEM
DEAR POLLY—Can anyone tell me how to remove a piece of bubble gum the size of a half dollar that is really imbedded in my little girl's knitted dress?
VIRGINIA

DEAR POLLY—My Pointer is about bubble gum on clothes. Instead of rubbing with an icecube I put the dress, blouse or whatever in the freezer and let it freeze. (Polly's note—Protect with a plastic cleaner's bag.) After it is frozen the gum can be picked right off. If some bits are left I apply a little household cleaner, throw in the wash and it all comes off.

Many People Now Wondering About 'Free-Loading' Church

By Louis Cassels
United Press International
One of America's wealthiest property-holders is getting a free tax ride, and some people wonder if it's fair, right and proper.
The free-loader is organized religion.
U.S. churches and synagogues own about $90 billion worth of real estate and $30 billion worth of stocks and bonds. Their total wealth exceeds the combined assets of the nation's 10 largest industrial corporations.
Special Benefits
Along with many other types of non-profit institutions, including hospitals, colleges, social welfare agencies, fraternal organizations and scientific societies, churches enjoy special benefits under the tax laws.
The most important is that the government encourages voluntary contributions to such organizations by making them deductible from the contributor's income tax. This has proved to be a very significant stimulus to philanthropy.

Organizations eligible for tax-deductible contributions do not have to pay income taxes on any revenues derived from their regular activities. But most of them do have to pay taxes on "unrelated business income"—that is, revenue earned from the publication of a magazine or operation of a business which is not directly related to the organization's primary purpose.
Churches, however, do not even have to pay taxes on "unrelated business income." Thanks to a loophole which Congress wrote into the tax laws in 1950, religious organizations can and do own all kinds of business enterprises, ranging from a baseball stadium to a chain of hamburger stands, whose profit are entirely tax exempt.
No Property Tax
Income tax exemptions are important at the federal and state levels. On the local level, schools, hospitals and most other non-profit civic activities are exempt in most communities from property taxes.

The constitutionality of the property tax exemption was challenged in the Maryland courts in 1966 by militant atheist Madelyn Murray. The state's highest court rejected her claim that it violates church-state separation for religious bodies to be free of taxes on their real estate. The U.S. Supreme Court refused to review that ruling.
But Alfred Balk points out in his new book, "The Religion Business" John Knox Press, that property tax exemptions for churches and other non-profit institutions raise serious questions of public policy, even if there is no constitutional problem.
Large Increase
"Three decades ago," says Balk, "only about 12 per cent of the real estate in the United States was tax exempt. Today the figure has risen to 30 per cent, with values of more than $325 billion."
A substantial hunk of this exempt property actually is owned by various echelons of government—for use as post offices, parks, libraries, public schools, etc. But one fourth of the total is church property.

Scientists Slate 'Christ Jesus' Lesson-Sermon

"Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall be done also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father."
This passage from the gospel of John is part of the responsive reading in this week's lesson sermon on "Christ Jesus" to be read at the 11 a.m. service Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 901 N. Frost.
Related passage from the denominational textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, includes:
"His consummate example was for the salvation of us all, but only through doing the works which he did and taught others to do. His purpose in healing was not alone to restore health, but to demonstrate his divine Principle. He was inspired by God, by Truth and Love in all that he said and did."

Witnesses To Hold Bible Series

Case Duggan, an associate minister of the congregation of Berger, will speak on "Blessings from Knowing God" at the 10 a.m. service Sunday at the Jehovah's Witnesses congregation at 17th and Coffee Sts.
This is the first of a series of talks to be given for the next nine weeks.
Speaking on his subject, Duggan asked, "Do you want to live in peace and happiness? Do you desire good health and long life for yourself and your loved ones? Do you long to see wickedness and suffering end? These are just a few of the grand blessings that God has in store for mankind.
"God's own word declares, 'The meek ones themselves will possess the earth, and they delight in the abundance of peace.' (Psalm 37:10-11)." Duggan added.
The Bible lecture will be followed by the weekly Watchtower Bible study at 11 a.m.

Indians Use Peyote In Religious Service

DALLAS — The Huichol Indians of Jalisco, Mexico, called it "flower."
To the Tao, it was "medicine."
Much legend was built around it and when the Hippie Generation arrived in the United States, it gained new national attention.
It's peyote, a plant that causes hallucinations and plays a big part in some religious ceremonies among American Indians.
Out of the cult of peyotism evolved various churches, chiefly the Native American Church, which claims about 200,000 members among many Indian tribes in the United States. The church's one ritual and its chief ceremonial activity revolve around the use of peyote.
The peyote plant is a small and spineless cactus, shaped something like a carrot, that grows in New Mexico, Texas and northern Mexico. Only the rounded crown of the plant appears above ground. That part, cut off and dried, is the "peyote button" that is eaten.
Gilbert McAllister, of Austin, has done academic research on peyote for years.
He also has tried it.
"You put the whole button in your mouth and chew," says McAllister, "First there is nausea and vomiting. Then, presumably if you have enough in you, you have the effects. There is a tremendous feeling of euphoria and well-being. I remember just kind of floating around and thinking, 'What marvelous brotherhood.'"
In the religious, ceremonial use of peyote, the participants sit around, eat peyote and meditate. The rite is carried out in a specially marked area. There is a leader and he often has assistants. The Christian influence is strong (the American Native Church combines Christian ethics and the Christ story in an Indian form). The prayers and songs of the peyote rite may be similar or identical to those of Christian services.
The rituals have local variations. Often the participants smoke before the ceremony. There is a ritual passing of a pipe in some ceremonies; in others it is forbidden. In some, there is a baptismal ritual, in others, painting of the face.
Basically, the advocates of peyotism believe it is a way to elevate the participant to be able to 'communicate with God.

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — An Episcopal convention had to be hurriedly moved to Christ Church Cathedral's Bishop Tuttle Memorial because a Roman Catholic group got to the Sheraton-Jefferson Hotel first. HIDING PLACES

There are a lot of statements made in the world today concerning hiding places. Many of these places are being built and locations have been revealed unto the people of America so that in the time of need they shall know exactly where to hide.

To hide from what? From the wrath of man. Today men are afraid of making one another angry. Individuals fear to make a ruler displeased and the leaders try with the knowledge they have as well as many other resources to bring peace. The fear of the world today is one nation destroying all nations by a nuclear war.

So hiding places have been and are still being made in every community for the protection of the people. But can we rely on these hiding places to be secure? In what time could we reach them? Will people be afraid to avail themselves of these places? Fear has gripped the hearts of men around the world in what to do next. We can see people turning to and fro. For many have tried to escape from the reality of life. Can a man say he would even have enough time to reach such a hiding place.

If a man is so concerned of hiding from the wrath of man, what can man expect from the wrath of the Almighty God? Rev. 6:16 states "And they said to the mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb." So we can realize in its fullness that there is a hiding place in God Almighty. For God forces no one to choose him, but allows every individual to choose for himself what his relationship will be between him and God.

Joshua 24:15 states "Choose you this day whom ye will serve; . . . but as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord." Joshua chose the Lord. Who are you going to choose?
