

Police Save Sock Victim

NEW YORK (UPI)—The first time James Barthold saw the tall man with the pistol and his sandy-haired partner with the knife, they cracked him on the head, stuffed socks in his mouth and left him for dead under his hotel bed.

The next time he saw them, Barthold admitted he was "a little up tight about the whole thing." So he called police and saved a man near death.

After a tussle and "a chop on the jaw," three detectives Thursday night ended the caper of the two "vicious and very sick" sock robbers they said preyed on out-of-town businessmen at a faded hotel rising 43 stories above midtown Manhattan's garment district.

When the cops found a key to a 15-floor room on one of the suspects, they rushed upstairs, burst into the room and found a California man on the floor.

"He was unconscious and turning blue—dying as we looked at him," said detective Albert Cutler. "They had stuffed socks down his throat to keep him from hollering and then bound his hands and feet with ties."

"If he had been alone in that room much longer, we are sure he would be dead," said Cutler, who with Detectives Edward Fitzgibbons and Robert Scully gave Charles Howard, 44, of San Fernando, Calif., artificial respiration and saved his life.

Howard, like Barthold, had been ambushed and mugged in the crooked hallways of the New Yorker Hotel. Howard, who was in good condition and "quite comfortable" at St. Clare's Hospital today was mugged Thursday night, Barthold the night before with two other out-of-town businessmen.

Arrested and charged with attempted murder were James A. King, 25, and Edward Keclan, 23, both of Jersey City, N.J.

"I knew that I'd know them if I saw them again," said Barthold, 23, of the Philadelphia suburb of Drexel Hill. "I couldn't believe it was them when I saw them in the hotel lobby last (Thursday) night. It was pure chance that I happened to be in the lobby to see them. It was tactical error on their part to be there."

Cutler said one of the suspects drew a .22-caliber pistol from his belt when the detectives cornered them in the lobby lined with potted palms. The other suspect carried a knife.

"We had quite a little tussle there but between the three of us we got the two of them under control with no gun play," Cutler said.

The detective said the sock robbers preyed on hotel guests waiting on an upper floor or riding an elevator with a single person, then following the man into his room where they beat and gagged him with socks and neckties then robbed him.

Barthold, who started work Thursday for a New York advertising firm, said they followed him to his 29th-floor room and hit him with a gun.

Barthold said the robbers took $100 in cash and credit cards, stuffed him under a bed and left. Shortly afterward, he freed himself and called police.

Apollo 7 Thunders Into Orbit On 11-Day Mission

'It's Like A Dream' Astronauts Report

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Apollo 7 thundered into orbit today, carrying three astronauts on an 11-day earth-circling trial for a future trip around the moon.

"She's riding like a dream," radioed veteran astronaut Walter Schirra as Apollo 7 took him and his crewmen, Don Eisele and Walter Cunningham, into space at 17,420 miles an hour.

The nation's first manned space venture in nearly two years reached orbit at 10:14 a.m. CDT, 11 minutes after blastoff.

It was the first of a planned 163 orbits in a shakedown run for a possible flight into moon orbit and back at Christmas-time by their successors in Apollo 8.

"You are right on the old button," the control center radioed the astronauts as they arched majestically over the Atlantic, spouting orange flame against the pale blue sky.

A mile over the ocean, Apollo 7 hurtled through the sound barrier, sending a wave of thunder rolling over the beaches.

The moonship carried its single-engined second stage into orbit.

On its second orbit, over the Pacific ocean, the astronauts will jettison the stage, then flip around and stage a make-believe hookup with it—practicing for docking maneuvers with a lunar landing craft aboard later flights.

The astronauts will also photograph the 58-foot long stage.

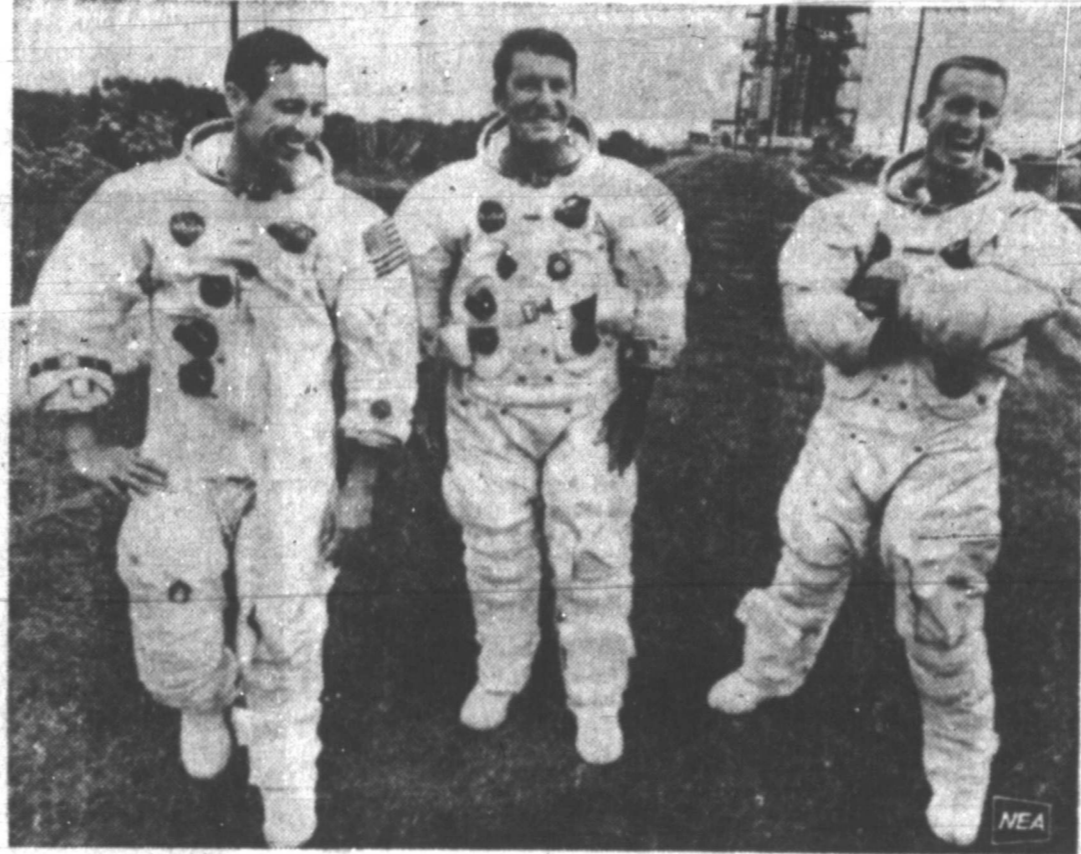

The first stage dropped away two and a half minutes after launch and Schirra reported the second stage was up to full thrust.

"All beautiful," he said. Schirra was qualifying as perhaps the nation's coolest astronaut—at least in terms of heartbeat. Mission Control reported the commander's heart was beating 87 times a minute at liftoff—the lowest by several beats ever recorded at that point.

It reached its high point—100 beats per minute—when the first stage fell away.

The Apollo 7 went into an orbit ranging from 140 to 174 miles high—a near perfect orbit. The planned orbit had been from 142 to 176 miles.

The eight booster engines of the 22-story Saturn 1B rocket lifted the 16-ton spacecraft, heaviest in the world, majesti-

Democrats Open Headquarters and Launch Campaign

Democrats kicked off their Gray County election campaign in earnest last night with an official ribbon-cutting and opening of headquarters at 123 W. Kingsmill.

Congressional candidate Dick Brown of Hartley cut the red, white and blue streamers across the entrance at 7:30 p.m. and the crowd waiting outside was admitted to the gaily-decorated quarters inside.

Also in attendance—from out of town was district committee-man J. D. Helm of Spearman. Local Democratic candidates attended in force.

Wylie Reynolds, Gray County Democratic chairman, welcomed the visitors and announced the headquarters would be open daily from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. except Sunday.

There was special musical entertainment by a combo made up of members of the Pampa High School stage band, a political skit, and Tim Doke, winner of the Optimist International oratorical contest, gave the speech that won him the honors and a $1,000 scholarship.

Next Tuesday the Democrats will reach one of the highlights of the campaign opening days with an area-wide rally and barbecue at 6:30 p.m. in the Pampa Youth and Community Center.

The Democratic Party's top office seekers will be in Pampa for that affair and they will include Lt.-Gov. Preston Smith, candidate for the governor's office; Ben Barnes, candidate for lieutenant governor; Crawford Martin, candidate for attorney general, and J. R. (Dick) Brown, candidate for Congress from the 18th District. A spokesman from Hubert Humphrey headquarters and local Democratic candidates also will attend the rally, according to Chairman Reynolds.

Court Convicts Nine Peaceniks

BALTIMORE (UPI)—A spectator rose in the courtroom and shouted...

"Ladies and gentlemen of the jury, you have just found Jesus Christ guilty."

The nine defendants, all Roman Catholics convicted of burning draft board records, stood listening to the verdict, then broke softly into song.

"We shall overcome, we shall overcome, we shall overcome some day, so-ome day..."

The defendants, known as the "Catonsville nine," were found guilty Thursday in federal court of all charges stemming from the burning of draft records last May in the Selective Service office at suburban Catonsville in a protest over the Vietnam war.

The government said it was a "crime" against the state.

The jury decided for the prosecution.

Each of the nine faces a prison term of up to 18 years, and a fine of as much as $2,000.

Judge Roszel Thomson set bail for seven of them at $5,000 each and said he would impose sentence Nov. 8.

The judge ordered the seven to appear before him today to outline terms of freedom on bail.

Soviets To Pull Bloc Of Troops From Prague

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union has agreed to withdraw all but about 23,500 of its occupation forces from Czechoslovakia by Oct. 28, diplomatic sources said today.

Oct. 28 is the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Czechoslovak republic which was invaded by armies of five Warsaw Pact powers the night of Aug. 21-22.

The diplomatic sources said the occupying forces are estimated at 235,000 men and that 90 per cent would be withdrawn before the Czechoslovak holiday, leaving about 23,500 indefinitely.

The 23,500 will have to remain until the Russians are satisfied that conditions in Czechoslovakia are "normalized" and the country has only one "guiding force"—the Communist party.

Diplomatic sources said the withdrawal agreement was reached Oct. 4 during a Kremlin visit by a Czechoslovak delegation led by First Secretary Alexander Dubcek.

The presence of the small force would be legalized by a treaty which Premier Oldrich Cernik is to sign shortly. It was galling for the Czechoslovaks to "legalize" the occupation force through a treaty, but the sting was partly removed by the stipulation all the troops would be removed eventually.

As consideration for the withdrawal Dubcek pledged to "take every measure to ensure the fulfillment of the Moscow agreement." The document concluded Aug. 26 and reaffirmed Oct. 4 provided for measures to place all the media party control of the political life in Czechoslovakia and particularly "to take the necessary measures to place all the media of mass information at the service of socialism."

just those who sustain direct losses from fire.

Those were the remarks of Fire Chief F. E. Dyer yesterday as he appealed for citizens to exercise vigilance in preventing fire.

"We have the third best key rate in the state for towns of 20-60,000, and the seventh best rate for Texas cities regardless of size," Dyer said.

"We should pick up more credit this year if we don't have any major fires."

Dyer explained that the key rate for fire insurance was determined by the quality of the fire department and its fire-fighting equipment.

"What it all means is that the better your fire department is, the less money you have to pay for fire insurance," he said.

He explained that the key rate could be further reduced by "credit."

"Right now, Pampans are paying 95 cents on the dollar for fire insurance because of the 'credit' we have," he said.

"If we don't have any major fires this year, that figure will be 90 cents on the dollar."

Chief Dyer defined "credit" as a ratio between premiums paid for fire protection and actual losses sustained through fire.

That figure for the five year period from 1963-67 was 45 per cent. Premiums paid through those five years amounted to $790,696 while fire losses amounted to only $359,600.

If the premiums paid to fire loss ratio falls into the 45 to 38 per cent category next year, the "credit" rating will be 10 per cent—or 90 cents paid for every dollar's worth of insurance.

The amount of insured loss through the end of September was estimated at $50,000 by the Fire Department, with the uninsured losses running to $2,200.

The Fire Department has answered 196 alarms so far this year, with a major portion of them being for residential and for fire insurance because of

Five Russians Get Banished In Trial

MOSCOW (UPI)—A guarded court today convicted five Russians of defaming the Soviet Union by demonstrating in Red Square against the invasion of Czechoslovakia. They sentenced them to banishment from Moscow or terms in labor camps.

About 100 uniformed police surrounded the courthouse where Dr. Pavel Litvinov, 28-year-old grandson of the late Foreign Minister Maxim Litvinov, and four others were convicted and sentenced after a three day trial.

Litvinov was sentenced to five years banishment from Moscow. Mrs. Larissa Daniel, wife of imprisoned dissident writer Yuli Daniel, was sent into the "internal exile" for four years. Literary critic Konstantin Babitsky got three years banishment.

Laborer Vladimir Dremluga, 27, who had joined the waving banner's reading "Shame on the Invaders," was given three years in a labor camp. The court sentenced ex-student Vadim Delone, 21, to two years and 10 months in a labor camp.

The sentences mirrored prosecution demands for punishment. Besides defaming the nation, the five were convicted of disturbing the peace.

About 200 persons, many of them supporters of the five, waited in snow flurries outside the courthouse for the verdict. They hugged the few close relatives allowed to witness the trial in the small courtroom.

Humphrey Could Carry State And Bloc Of Electoral Votes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Statistically, it is possible for Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey to carry a state and its entire bloc of electoral votes by polling 33.4 per cent of the ballots in that state.

This improbable event would occur if Richard M. Nixon, the Republican presidential nominee, and George C. Wallace, the American Independent Party candidate, each polled 33.3 per cent in the same state.

Managers of both political parties are clearly aware of this possibility, although they may not be thinking of such narrow voting margins.

Nixon, now in front in the presidential race, began his campaign by ignoring Wallace. But the Wallace candidacy worried GOP professionals, who saw him as a threat to Nixon's chances of carrying Southern and border states.

The Republican candidate himself recently began giving more attention to Wallace.

Thus he asked Wallace backers in the industrial city of Flint, Mich., this week if they merely wanted to register a protest or if they wanted to vote for a change.

The Republican line toward Wallace has been that a vote for him is a throw-away or a vote for Humphrey because Wallace has no chance of winning the election.

In a later statement this week through the American Conservative Union, Nixon said without qualification that a clear majority of the American people now is opposed to the Democratic Party and the Johnson administration. But, he said, the opposition is split two ways—between him and Wallace.

"The more evenly the protest vote is split," he said, "the more likely is the Democratic Party to win a bare plurality and remain in power despite its new minority status."

Democratic Party managers are keeping their own spirits up with visions of Humphrey carrying pivotal states and their winner-take-all blocks of electoral votes by polling small pluralities in those states. Such victories can be more important than winning several small states, each with few electoral votes.

The winner needs 270 of the 538 electoral votes cast by the states and the District of Columbia.

A thought for the day—English literary critic John Churton Collins once said: "Mistrust a subordinate who never finds fault with his superior."

A&M Professor Claims Continent's First

A Texas A&M University geographer feels that figure should be multiplied by 10 to make it more accurate and he recently discovered some artifacts in his own backyard which may substantiate his claim.

Dr. George F. Carter discovered a collection of some 60 petrified tools fashioned out of petrified wood on the outskirts of the Bryan-College Station vicinity. These specimens which to the untrained eye may look like God's gift to a rock garden, date back at least 75,000 years, Carter estimates.

Carter, who holds the title of distinguished professor of geography at A&M, contends man came to this continent before the last interglacial period which for non-Geologists is over 100,000 years ago.

Split With Grain
These latest finds of Carter's were split with the grain and edges flaked in only one direction suggesting workmanship of the Southeast Asian lower Paleolithic era, according to Carter.

Carter has teamed with Peter Hammond, a British student, to relate the Bryan discovery in a paper called "A Lithic Industry from Central Texas."

During the past 30 years, Carter has conducted detailed studies in his native Southern California, centering around La Jolla where fragments of skeletons were discovered about 1929 in cross-bedded grady sand.

After a long study of the area's ancient sea levels and coast lines as they relate to glaciers, the A&M professor concluded the bones dated back to this same last interglacial period over 100,000 years ago.

The La Jolla and Bryan finds appear to be about the same age, although they bear little obvious resemblance, Carter notes. A detailed analysis, however, showed they were made in the same fashion. An Ancient Weapon

In the development of equipment he explains, most anthropologists agree that bows and arrows appeared in America about the time of Christ. Such weapons, it is generally agreed, were preceded by dart points, which date back 10,000 to 12,000 years.

The question then is: Were the finds in Bryan and La Jolla made before or after the dart points?

Judging by the crude workmanship, Dr. Carter is convinced they came before.

"Everyone agrees that man didn't originate here," the professor points out, "so he had to come here."

Most everyone also goes along with the theory the first arrivals came across from Siberia.

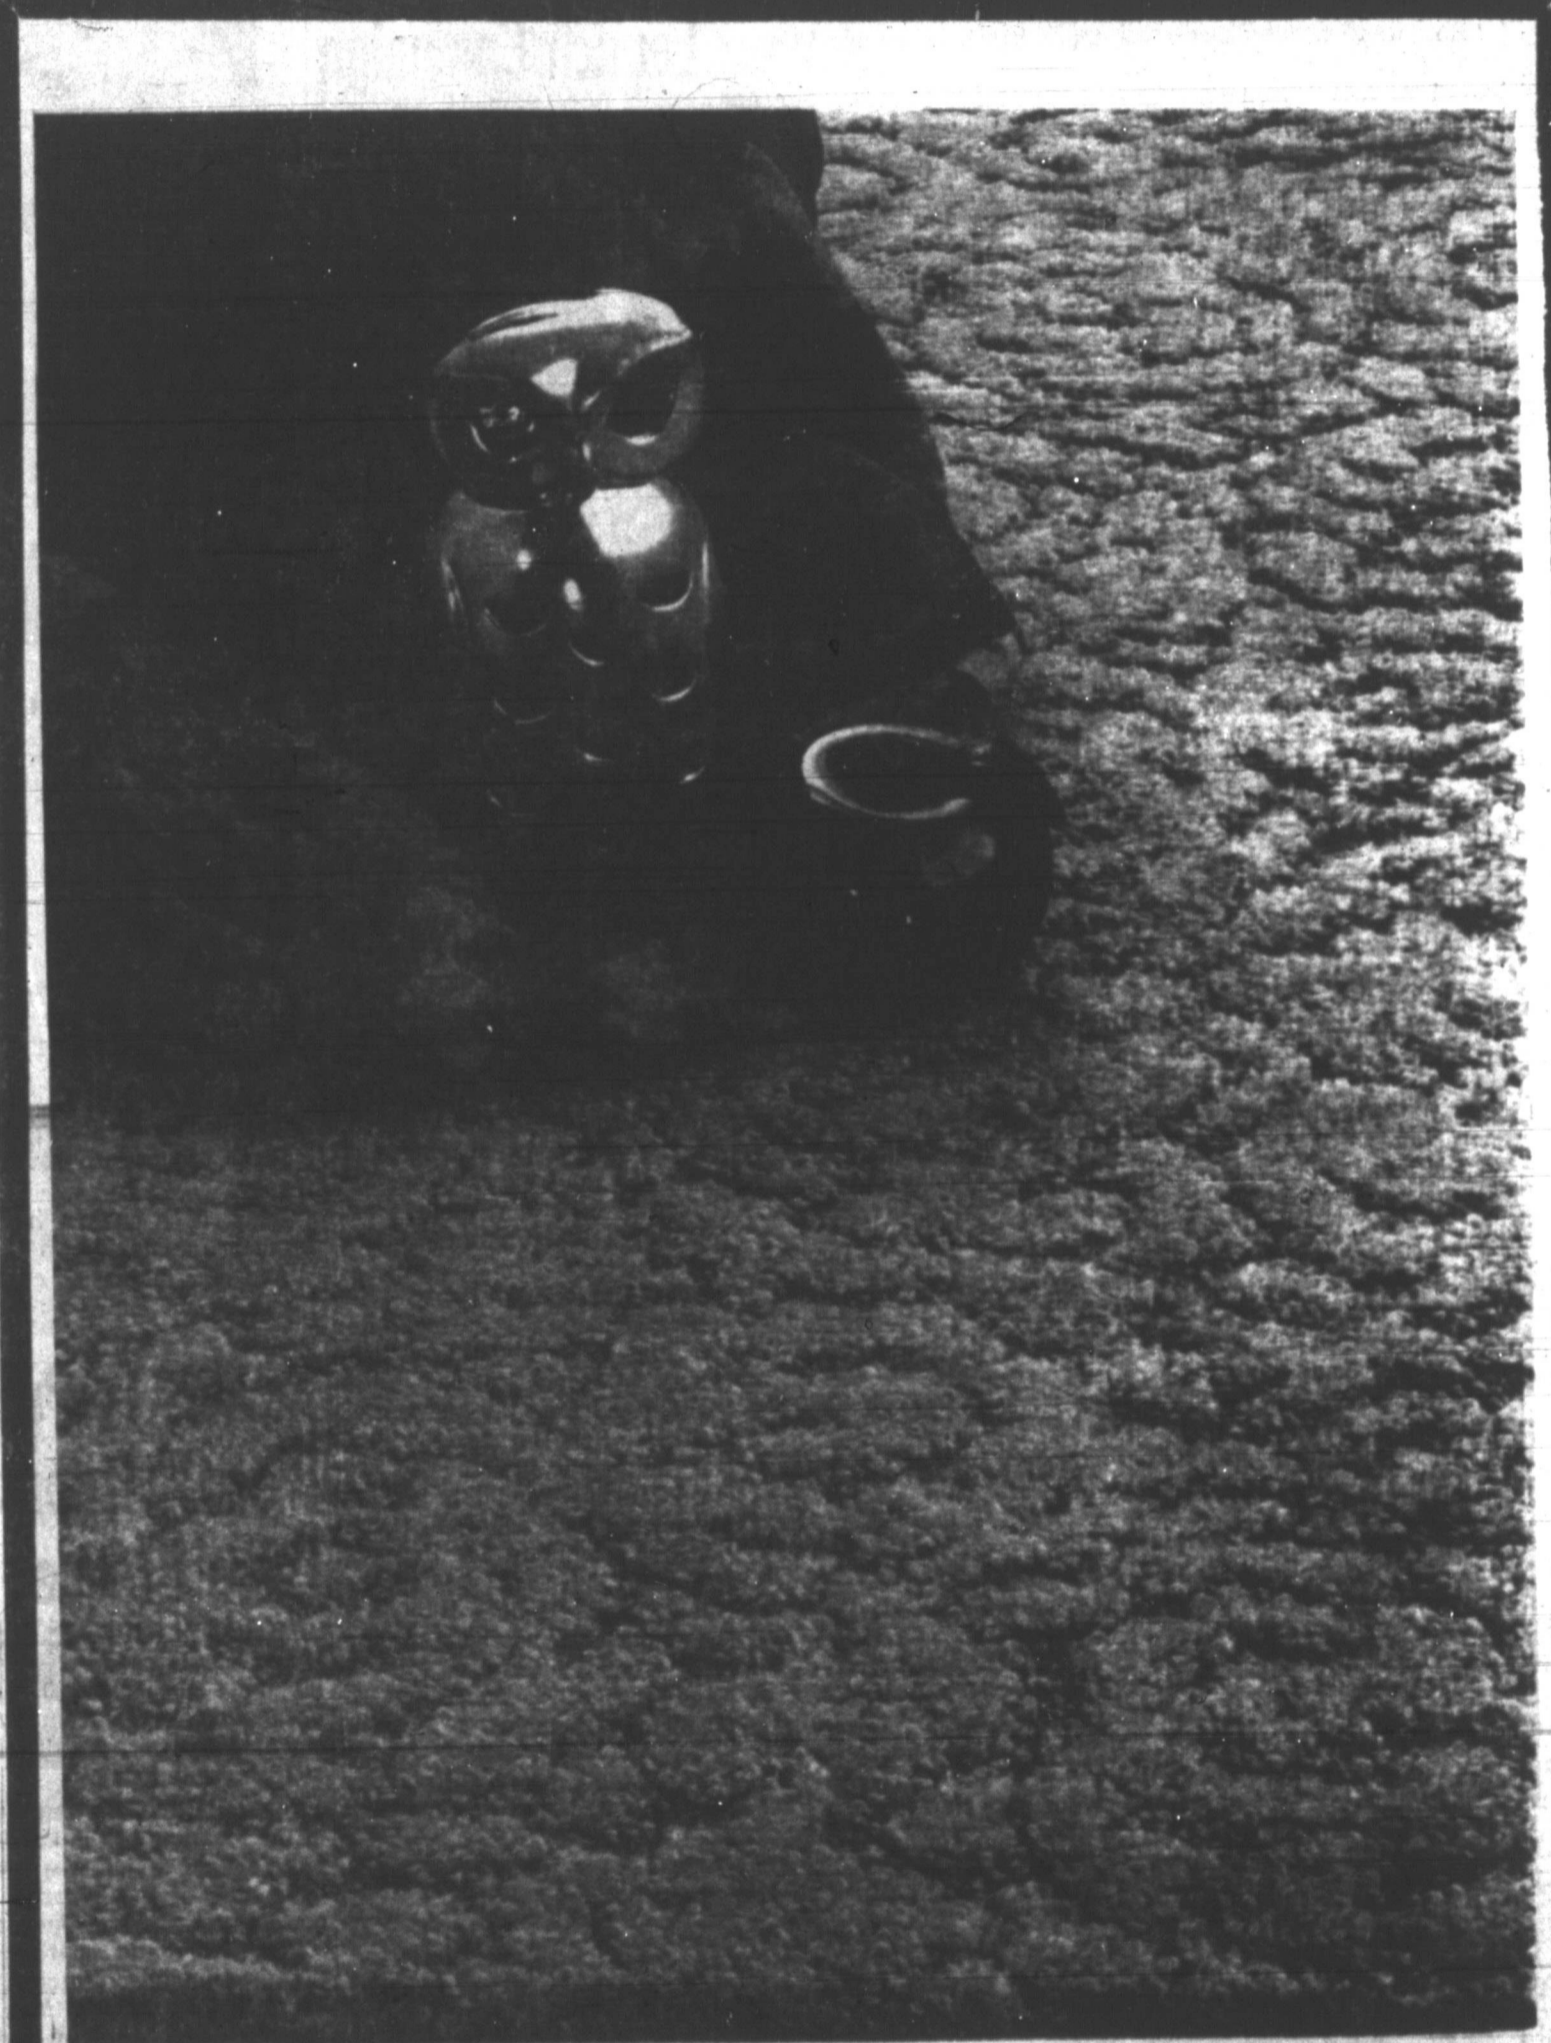

"Right about there," Carter says, "all agreement ends."

Theologian Offers Reasons For Personal Belief in God

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
A noted theologian has set down in simple and eloquent language the reasons why he believes in God.

NAMED TO BOARD — Miss Joyce Hill of Canadian was recently named to the United Methodist Board of Missions. Miss Hill will serve as executive secretary in the World Division for Argentina, Bolivia, Chile, Peru, Uruguay, Ecuador and Cuba. She has been a missionary since 1952 and is currently serving in Chile.

zine, is a refreshing change from the strident iconoclasm of much contemporary theological writing.

"Today there are some who say that 'God is dead,'" Pittenger observes. "Well, some 'gods' are dead because they never existed in the first place."

"Take the notion of a despotic ruler, a sort of oriental sultan who determines everything in the world and leaves his creatures no freedom. I see no reason to think that such a 'god' is anything other than a projection of man's desire to have somebody take over control of his life and preserve him from the need to make responsible decisions."

Moral Dictator — "Or take the idea of a 'ruthless moral dictator' who demands utter obedience to laws set up without regard to what the subject is like...that sadistic deity exists, so far as I can see, only in the frustrations of jaundiced moralists."

The God in whom Pittenger believes is "the active and loving God about whom the Bible speaks."

"That God is no despotic ruler, no ruthless moralist, no supporter of human prejudice. He is the living, dynamic personal love who is ever at work to establish in the world more love and goodness, hence more justice and righteousness."

What evidence is there for the existence of this "cosmic lover?"

Pittenger finds testimony to God in the kind of world we live in.

"There is chance, there is risk, there is error, there is recalcitrance. Yet goodness is known, truth is obtainable, beauty is present within that world—and above all, love is experienced there. God is not the only explanation of it, since there is a radical freedom in the world, straight down to the minutest bit of energy and straight up to man's capacity to accept or refuse the best that is available to him; hence creaturely yes and creaturely no play their part in explaining how things are. But chief among all the decisions is the decision made by the 'pure unbounded love' which is God."

World Shows Pattern — "The world DOES show a pattern; and as scientists increasingly affirm the pattern is one of ceaselessly renewed and ever more integrated occasions for the expressions of good."

Pittenger believes the hand of God also can be discerned in the long-range direction of human history.

"There is an 'increasing purpose' running through history," he said. However bumpy men and nations may be, something seems to be "forcing us to live together in justice and charity, in ever large communities, so that we may share the good things available to us."

Pittenger finds further evidence of God in the overriding importance of love as "the integrative force in human life."

There is much wisdom in the popular song lyric, "You're nobody till somebody loves you," he says.

The awareness of being loved—not just by our fellow men but also by something deep in the cosmos itself—is a persisting and indestructible element in human life.

Finally, Pittenger says, "God is known through Jesus Christ and through all who live in his spirit."

Old Testament Edition To Have Nude Pictures

By WILLIAM F. WRIGHT
LONDON (UPI) — Britain's Oxford University Press has given the Old Testament a new look with earthy, explicit illustrations, including one of a nude couple making love.

Christians regard the Bible as a record of revelations that lie at the basis of their faith.

Some might judge the new five-volume Oxford University Press edition of the Old Testament published Friday to be revealing.

The drawing of a couple having sex illustrates the Song of Solomon.

Another of a naked girl with a sunflower illustrates the Biblical proverb: "man that is born of woman... he cometh forth like a flower, and is cut down."

The three daughters of Job are shown naked.

A modern-day business executive wearing horned-rim glasses is shown contemplating a half-naked woman in black tights. Beneath is the proverb: "To deliver thee from the strange woman, even from the stranger which flattereth with her words."

Raises Eyebrows — The book raised the bushy eyebrows of the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey, who toured an exhibition of the drawings Friday.

The Archbishop, 63, clerical leader of the Anglican Church, walked quickly by the drawing of the couple making love and tried unsuccessfully to persuade photographers not to take his picture with the daughters of Job.

But after recovering from his initial shock, Dr. Ramsey said the "result is really rather exciting" and a "service to religion and art."

"You see, I think we've suffered in the past from the painters of the Old Testament," he said. "They tried to be realistic and so often this has resulted in drawings that are purely sentimental and sometimes nauseating."

About People — "We have to realize that the Old Testament really is about people, the actual world in which we live. It gives a very down-to-earth picture of human life—human life in all its crudity."

A spokesman for Oxford University Press said, "We don't consider these illustrations in any way shocking. All are done by artists of worth who are perfectly sincere. The Bible does deal with people. It's not an abstract document."

The drawings were done by British artists John Bratby, Cyril Reason, Carol Annand, Peter Blake, David Hockney and Edward Burra.

The publishers said the new edition will be a limited print of 7,000 copies of each volume and will also be on sale in the United States. A spokesman said there are plans for similar treatment of the New Testament.

DEADLINE — Due to the problems of meeting the deadline, all articles for use on Friday's church page must be turned in by NOON on Thursday. This supercedes the former deadline of 1 p.m.

Articles turned in later than noon can not be used.

Creation Drama To Be Sermon For Rev. Hager

"The Drama of Creation" will be the sermon topic for Rev. Martin Hager, First Presbyterian Church pastor, for this Sunday at the 8:30 and 11 a.m. worship services.

The Old Testament reading will be taken from Genesis 1 and the New Testament reading will be taken from John 1. Ruling Elder Curt Beck will be the pulpit assistant for both worship services.

The Church Choir, under the direction of Mrs. J. Stanley Hill, will present the Anthem, "Give Ear Unto My Prayer" by Arcodell. Mrs. Fidelia Yoder, church organist, will present as the Offertory, "In the Cross of Christ, I Glory" by Conkey.

Junior and Senior High Fellowship will meet Sunday evening at their regular time. The Women's Wednesday Bible Study group will meet this Wednesday at 9 a.m. in the home of Mrs. Nick Kadingo, 1201 Charies.

The Elders and Deacons of the Church will meet at 6:30 p.m. at Furr's cafeteria 'nis Wednesday.

Hi-Land Christian Youth Taking Census of City Religious Needs

Youth members of the Hi-Land Christian Church are conducting a census of homes to determine the religious needs of the community.

According to Blythe Robinson, minister, the purpose of the census is to enable the church to become better acquainted with the community and to learn how to serve these needs.

Eight youths have aided in the two surveys the last two weekends. The first day the youth contacted about 600 homes near the church to inform them of the census. Last week they started the actual census and will continue the canvassing of homes tomorrow.

"During the first part of the program, the census will be centered on the homes in the vicinity of Hi-Land Christian. Later, however, the youth hope to take a census of the entire community."

In conjunction with the census, a series of objective, non-denominational visualized Bible correspondence courses are being offered free. The course will use film strips and records to study the Bible. A written course is also available.

The youth group at the church tries to have at least one activity a month outside of the regular classes, Robinson said. On Sept. 29, the youth took a bus of church members to attend the rally of Panhandle Christian churches at Dumas. The Pampa delegation had the largest attendance and received a banner, now hanging in the church.

A tape of a discussion between an editor of Playboy magazine and a Church of Christ minister will be played at 5:30 p.m. Sunday at the church. The public, particularly the youth, are invited to hear the tape.

The tape is two-hours long and will be heard at two separate sessions, the first one being Sunday. The discussion is between the religion editor of Playboy and a former Lubbock minister.

The discussion centers on the "new morality" expounded by the magazine. Many questions currently asked by youth will be brought out during the discussion.

The church has slated a community revival meeting starting Oct. 20 and lasting at least a week. Services will be held at 7 p.m. daily, with R.C. McCord of Crowell, Tex., conducting the meetings.

Scientists To Study Death, Disease, Sin

"The law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death."

This verse from Romans is the Golden Text of the lesson-lesson titled, "Are Sin, Disease and Death Real?" that will be read this Sunday at the 11 a.m. service at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 901 N. Frost.

Among related passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is: "Be watchful, sober and vigilant. The way is straight and narrow, which leads to the understanding that God is the only Life. It is a warfare with the flesh, in which we must conquer sin, sickness and death, either here or hereafter—certainly before we can reach the goal of Spirit, or life in God."

Pueblo Crew May Be Released Today

SEOUL (UPI)—A Seoul newspaper today reported the 82 crewmen of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo might be released from North Korea today.

There was no official confirmation of the report.

The report in Kyung Hyang Shinmoon was attributed to "informed sources." A spokesman for the U.N. Command refused to comment on the report.

In 1958, U.S. Supreme Court Justice Harold Burton retired after 13 years due to poor health.

Witnesses Slate Discussion On False Religions

A two-part discussion entitled "Separate Yourself from False Religion and All Its Customs" will be given at the public talk at 10 a.m. this Sunday at the Jehovah's Witnesses congregation, 17th and Coffee Sts.

Conducting the discussion will be Doug Collings and Charles Regal.

The regular study of the Watchtower magazine will follow at 11 a.m., with study of the geography of Biblical lands.

"We heard much about this land area during the Israeli-Arab conflicts, but a study from a Biblical viewpoint will enhance our appreciation of the scriptures," Regal, presiding minister, said.

THE SAVIOR IN AMERICA — One of the most distinctive paintings commissioned for display at the recent San Antonio's HemisFair is this one illustrating Jesus Christ as He appeared in the western hemisphere shortly after His crucifixion. This belief is unique to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) and the painting was displayed in its pavilion. Created by the noted American illustrator, John W. Scott, of Ridgefield, Conn., the scene is recorded in the Book of Mormon which Latter-day Saints accept as the inspired scriptural history of the pre-Columbian inhabitants of North and South America who migrated to the new world from the holy land.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

Bishop Robert A. Wood

The Churches of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints

"Let him who is without sin first cast a stone at her."

When the Savior spoke those words he put all mankind on notice that none is perfect, not one.

But he also taught that we have no right to expose the weaknesses of another by maliciously pointing a finger of scorn and denunciation.

Who can judge his fellow man?

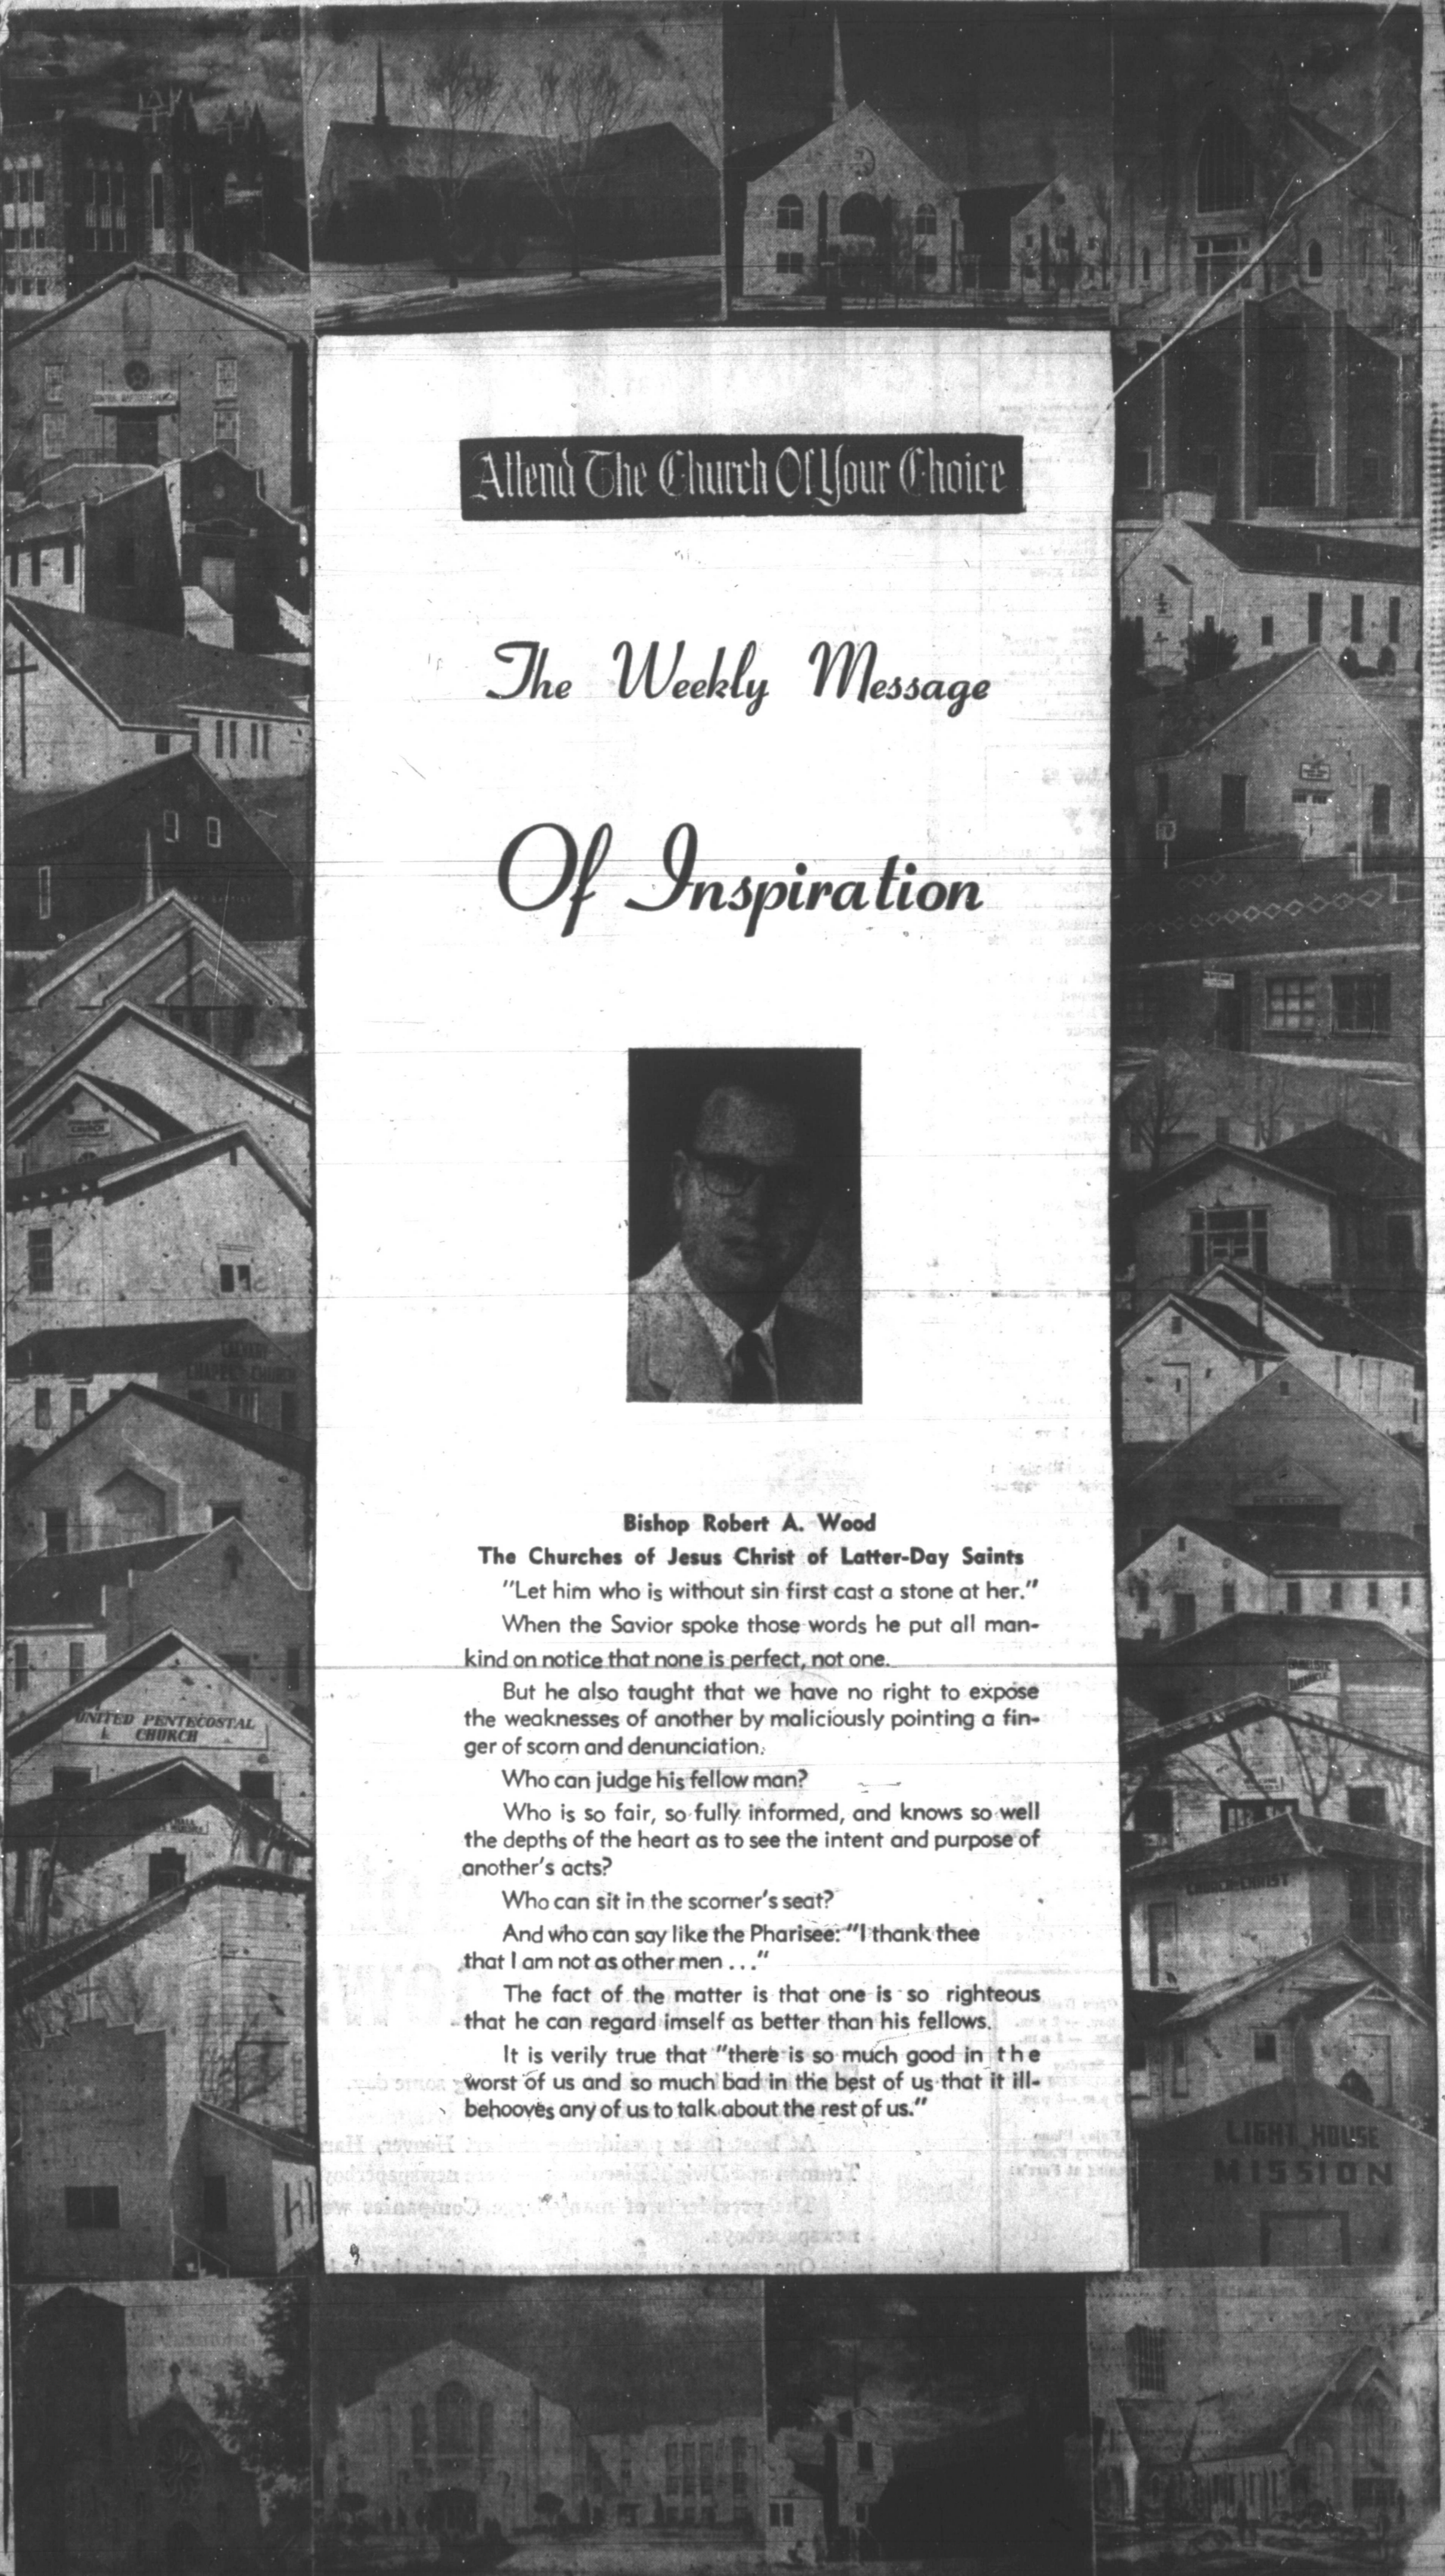

Who is so fair, so fully informed, and knows so well the depths of the heart as to see the intent and purpose of another's acts?

Who can sit in the scorners' seat?

And who can say like the Pharisee: "I thank thee that I am not as other men..."

The fact of the matter is that one is so righteous that he can regard himself as better than his fellows.

It is verily true that "there is so much good in the worst of us and so much bad in the best of us that it behooves any of us to talk about the rest of us."

Vote for him International Newspaperboy Day October 12, 1968

ELECTION

Man of the Hour: Your newspaperboy

This boy will be president of something some day. Maybe even of the United States.

At least three presidents—Herbert Hoover, Harry Truman and Dwight Eisenhower—were newspaperboys. The presidents of many large Companies were newspaperboys.

One reason a newspaperboy goes so far is that he has a unique opportunity to operate a successful business of his own, buying newspapers at wholesale and delivering and selling them to you at retail.

In the process, and under the guidance of men trained to work with boys, he develops self-discipline, courtesy, and dependability and learns how to keep books and make a profit.

Nowadays there isn't any other place left where a boy can supplement his "book-learning" with such worthwhile part time business training.

It is a little too early for you to vote for your newspaperboy as President today—but you can help us celebrate International Newspaperboy Day—by taking a moment this week to give him your "Vote of Confidence" by a word of encouragement and appreciation for his service. Do it!

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst

In the nearly three years since the break-away government of Premier Ian Smith declared Rhodesia's independence from Britain, it has stood steadfastly on one principle: Continued domination of Rhodesia's 4 million blacks by 250,000 whites.

In that same period Britain's Labor government led by Prime Minister Harold Wilson, has been equally steadfast in its stand that it could not recognize Rhodesian independence except under a constitution providing eventually for majority black rule.

In between have been various steps to bring Rhodesia economically to its knees, including a United Nations Security Council resolution last May imposing a total international embargo on all imports from and exports to Rhodesia.

None of this has changed. If anything, the lines have hardened.

On March 6, 1968, three

Africans convicted of murder were hanged in Salisbury, Rhodesia, in defiance of the British Privy Council and an order from the queen commuting the sentences to life imprisonment.

The break with the British legal system seemed to make establishment of Rhodesia as an independent republic the next natural step.

The Gibraltar meeting between Smith and Wilson, therefore, would seem to be an unnecessary exercise in futility.

Yet there are other elements which could lead both sides to make one more try at agreement.

In December, 1966, Smith and Wilson met aboard the British cruiser Tiger off Gibraltar in the Mediterranean and reached tentative agreement on a six-point program of principles which could have led to eventual majority rule in Rhodesia.

It broke down under pressure from hard-lining right wingers in Smith's own Rhodesian Front party.

Since then there have been other developments.

A proposed new Rhodesian constitution has rejected apartheid, strict segregation of the races, and declared that Rhodesia's future lies in a non-racial state.

Smith no longer is dependent upon the extreme right wing for support and defections of right wingers actually have increased the strength of his leadership.

Court Jury Declares

Clyde Gilbreth Insane

CLARENDON, Tex. (UPI)—A district court jury took six hours Wednesday to decide Clyde Gilbreth, 56, is insane and requires commitment to a "mental hospital for his own welfare and the protection of others."

Gilbreth is charged in the July 22 shooting death of Clarendon Dist. Atty. John R. Gillham outside Gillham's office on the courthouse square.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The late actor Charles Coburn, a Georgia gentleman, always maintained "The Star-Spangled Banner" was impossible to sing, and that "Dixie" should be the national anthem.

At least, he would say. "Dixie" gave a fellow a chance to sing with rousing fervor, and sounded like a national anthem should sound.

Old Charlie undoubtedly had a point about "The Star-Spangled Banner" being difficult to sing. But tough as it may be, the national anthem has probably never been manhandled as crudely as during two major television events in recent months.

On both occasions, the song has been given the new "soul" treatment. And it just goes to show that soul music can be every bit as bad as any other kind when its use is misjudged.

Wrong Note

The first occasion was the opening of the Democratic National Convention in Chicago, and the singer was Aretha Franklin, and the result was positively excruciating. As I recall, the words were also fouled up, but this was nothing compared to the soul treatment.

The most recent occasion in which "The Star-Spangled Banner" was decapitated was before a World Series game the other day in Detroit. This time the singer was Jose Feliciano, who, like Miss Franklin, is very talented—but who also rendered a highly embarrassing rendition of the national anthem. That is, it occasionally sounded like "The Star-Spangled Banner"—but you couldn't be sure.

And of course there were all those spectators who normally like to join in the singing of the anthem and who were left speechless in their attempt to keep up with the soul versions.

Actually, anyone who watches the World Series and other sports events regularly gets to be an expert on "The Star-Spangled Banner" and how it is done best and worst.

Lombardo Touch Missing

For example, one of the side benefits of the New York

Yankees dropping out of pennant contention in recent years is that we no longer have to hear Guy Lombardo and his band play the national anthem in the World Series.

Everything Lombardo plays somehow sounds like "Auld Lang Syne," and since World Series games from the East always start during morning hours here on the West Coast, I began to get the shakes as the music created the image of a nightmarish procession of New Year's Eve hangovers.

You may have noticed, by the way, that the national anthem before Thursday's final game was sung by the wife of Red Schoendienst, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals. As I remember, she also sang it last year, and the Cardinals won. This time they lost. It just goes to show that you can't count on anything any more.

Rev. Doke To Have Sermon On Maturity

The Rev. J. W. Doke will fill the pulpit at 10:30 a.m. Sunday for the worship service at First Christian Church. His topic will be "Maturity in Christ," with scriptures from Gen. 2:5.

He will be assisted at the lectern by the Rev. Carlton S. Downing, The Sanctuary Choir, under the direction of Miss Rosemary Lawlor and accompanied by Mrs. John Gill, will present the Anthem.

Rev. Doke will be starting a Pastor's Class for the church membership in the near future. A definite date will be announced later.

An organizational meeting for Christian Men's Fellowship will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday. All men of the church who are interested in the organization are asked to meet in the Fellowship Hall.

A delegation from the First Christian Church of Pampa will attend the District 1 convention Oct. 20 in Borger. The sessions will start at 3 p.m. at the First Christian Church in Borger.

Lefors Church Class Selects Officers

LEFORS (SpI)—The Mary bara Harper, vice president, Martha Class of the First Mrs. Paula Pool, secretary Baptist Church met in the home of Mrs. Eva Maples as flow- er chairman. Those attending was Mrs. Gearldine McPherson, Shirley Eudey, Barbara Harper, Irene Moxon, Betty Hammon, Betty Jackson, Karen Reeves, Eva Maples, Paula Pool, and Lola Hix, hostess. The meeting is a monthly social, but was held as an office election meeting to elect officers for the new year beginning in October. Those elected were Mrs. Shirley Eudey, president, Mrs. Bar-

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By JEANE DIXON

FOR SATURDAY, OCT. 12

Your birthday today: The coming year will contain just enough opposition to force you to put forth a full effort. If you take the trouble, a dream can come true during this period. Today's natives tend to be so intense that they must create, in order to find fulfillment.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19):—Yesterday's pressure drops a little. Still, your plans run into little snags. This gives you a chance to think what you are about.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20):—The early part of the day is rather productive. Disagreement comes all too easily as odd circumstances pop all day. This is not a day to make any serious financial commitment!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20):—You may find yourself spending more time and money than you had foreseen. Your family and close associates all have different interests, so it's a test of your forbearance to keep the peace.

CANCER (June 21-July 22):—Changes may seem suddenly unavoidable today. Give yourself and others a little time in which to feel out the emotion and the reality of the situation. Let your intuition work; listen to your inner wishes.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22):—Large purchases and snap decisions are tempting, but risky. There is more information available than usual, but not much of it can be applied today. Light diversion this evening gives you a chance to digest recent adjustments.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22):—Prepare for an unexpected event; have alternate courses under consideration. Fatigue is to be avoided if your circumstances permit. Some of the unplanned parts of the day can be quite profitable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22):—Some expense may pop up outside your expectations. Possibly your peace of mind will be improved. Haste in decisions is not advisable.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21):—Complex financial maneuvers are not productive today. There are too many people who expect participation but your friends are very helpful socially.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21):—Your strength and energy are fully in use. Everything's going at top speed. Enjoy your friends, but do not get them involved in your crisis of the moment. Not the time for signing contracts of any kind!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19):—The urge to gamble can be sublimated; the returns are not certain in the long run. Newcomers tend to upset existing relationships. Fact is seldom more urgently needed than now.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18):—If you can hold a steady schedule, do so. Your associates may be all for quick changes; resist, get them to explain their reasons.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20):—Stick with your previous promises. Discussions, particularly of money, get out of hand. Keep life simple by not participating in squabbles.

Slacks are no longer uninteresting. They are shaped at the waist and wide through the leg and include: Harlow pants (very wide leg), stovepipes (straight legs) cuffed pants and boot pant (cut square across the front of the shoe and longer in the back)

Compared to Paris, Dior-New York Knits Have Vested Interests in Style

By HELEN HENNESSY

NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — Henry Sherman, president of Christian Dior-New York, sat across the lunch table at posh La Grenouille and made a startling statement.

"I want to correct the image Dior-New York has among American women. They shrink away from us because the name Dior makes them think we are terrible expensive. We're not."

After a quick gulp I asked, "You want me to say that Dior-New York is cheap?"

But gay repartee dispensed with, what he did mean was clear. Although a dress from the New York company can be had for $225 and a suit for about $350 (not exorbitant for couture clothes), the hallowed name of Dior scares women away because the Paris house would have a $1,000 starting price range.

"It's hard to believe," Sherman said. "For some reason even people who can afford couture designs won't buy Dior in their home cities of Cleveland or Rochester. But when they go to Palm Beach on vacation, they do shop for our clothes. It is a luxury image all in the mind.

The history of Dior-New York is an interesting one—because among the people who work there the spirit of Christian Dior is still very much alive.

When Dior started the New York firm, he came here twice a year for a few months each time to design and make the collections. This proved too much for him since he had the Paris collections to do as well and so he started making the New York clothes in Paris. The models from here were sent over for fittings. After Dior's death the collections were again made here. And it speaks well for the craftsmanship and creativeness of their designers that now, on the 20th anniversary of the New York house, Guy Duvier and Gaston Berthelot have been the only two designers.

"Along with Norell, I think," Sherman said, "we are the best suit and costume makers in the country. I don't believe anyone else is making a quality suit in our price range."

"Sometimes I am tempted to look at the production of a line from a businessman's point of view—to cut a little something here or there that would save time and money and hardly be detected by our customers. But I give up the thought quickly. People here still say, 'Dior would not do it this way.' They have a great deal of respect for this man's memory. We are still part of the French company and Dior's presence is still very much felt by the whole organization."

The New York firm is trying to reach the woman who cares about how she looks, who wants something a little different without having to spend anywhere from $1,000 up for it.

Christian Dior's design creed in his ready-to-wear lines was to give women the luxury of wearing something that is beautiful, done in a beautiful fabric and cut to make a young woman look beautiful and a beautiful woman look young. And this is what Gaston Berthelot is doing right now.

To sum it up, if you operate on an average budget for clothes, as the majority of us do, don't bother to ask for Dior. But if you can afford couture clothes, don't let the hallowed name make you run scared. You can probably afford what's asked. And it's a right nice label to show off.

FROM THE CHRISTIAN DIOR-New York fall-winter collection comes the brown, yellow and white tweed three-piece suit (left). It includes a jersey ottoman tuck-in blouse. Camel satin gabardine wool daytime dress (right) has slit pockets and long sleeves. All accessories are also by Dior-New York.

Area High School Graduate Attends Mexico University

SKELLYTOWN (SpI)—Miss Elizabeth Ann Thoms, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Thoms, White Deer, is enrolled at the University of the Americas located in Mexico City, Mexico.

Miss Thoms, a 1968 White Deer High School graduate, is a Comanche Apache Indian and was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Thoms in her childhood.

She has attended the Ballot Folklorica, viewed bull-fights, visited Aztec remains and art exhibits and listened to folk music and symphony concerts.

"The University of Americas plays a distinctive role in intercultural and international education, enrolling students from more than 40 countries. It is accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and has a larger enrollment of American students than any other liberal arts school abroad," she said.

"Classes are taught in English by an internationally trained faculty but practically all students learn Spanish not only in the classroom but through

AUSTIN, TEXAS

CREATING

"The only security for all is in the free press," so wrote Thomas Jefferson more than 200 years ago to the Marquis de Lafayette. "The success of public opinion cannot be resisted when permitted freely to be expressed. The agitation it produces must be submitted to. It is necessary to keep the water pure."

These opinions are as sound today as when they were written.

October 22, 1968, has been designated as "National Newspaperboy Day" in tribute to the thousands of loyal, efficient young men who serve the public early and late in delivering the newspapers upon which all of us depend. To these young men must go much credit for the dissemination of the news to the peoples of our nation. It was while serving in these honorable roles thousands of our business, civic, professional and religious leaders received their first training in the principles of free enterprise.

It is fitting that the citizens of Texas express their deep gratitude of the day-by-day service rendered by their friendly newspaper carrier-soldiers and for the training these boys are receiving.

THEREFORE, I, as Governor of Texas, do hereby designate October 22, 1968, as

NEWSPAPERBOY DAY

In Texas, and urge all the people they represent and the customers they serve to diligently to express their appreciation for these unflinching services.

In official recognition whereof, I hereby affix my signature this 20th day of Sept., 1968.

NEW YORK (UPI)—American cooking these days is something else—and the something else may be French, Italian, even Chinese.

The American housewife hasn't given up broiling steaks and pan frying pork chops, but she has ventured into the wonderful world of sauces, garlic and gourmet food.

Julie Childs, television's French chef and author of the apprentice chef's bible, "Mastering the Art of French Cooking," remarked:

"American women are becoming the world's best cooks." Miss Childs was talking about the amateur esoufier, not the professional.

One reason she suggested for the American woman's finesse in menu magic was that while Frenchwomen, for instance, were just learning what it means to manage a home without servants, Americans had passed through the TV dinner stage and on to better things.

The proof of the pudding is in cookbook publishing. Publishers weekly reports that American publishers will put out at least 70 cookbooks between this month and year's end, compared to 48 for the same period last year.

And the number devoted to international cookery has doubled.

This year also will see a practical innovation—large print cookbooks for easy following as the lady of the house leaps nimbly from grating green peppers to sautéing a mirepoix (a vegetable bed for braised meat).

The idea is that any woman who can read also can cook and—within limits—this is true. Of course, you have to do what the instructions tell you and it is sometimes easier read than done.

Any good cook will advise you

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I need your help desperately and I need it now. I am going to be married soon to a very decent and wonderful guy.

I have led him to believe that I am the "nicest" girl he has ever known. I realize I should have told him the truth long before this, but it's too late now. He is looking forward to a pure, untouched wife, and he is not going to have one if he marries me.

In plain English, how can I tell him I am not a virgin.

STUMPED: In plain English. DEAR STUMPED: I hope you will answer an anonymous letter as I'm sure my husband would be very hurt if he knew I wrote to you.

You see, my problem is, after 25 years of marriage, all I feel for my husband is "tolerance."

He wants to spend every minute with me. He goes with me to do all the shopping. He works with me around the house. We go on vacations together, and except for the eight hours we spend at our respective jobs during the day, we are always together.

I do my wifely duties with resentment. I would love to be able to go to a movie without him, or to read a book, or just be left alone. If I don't get a weekend without him I will go crazy.

Our children are grown and living out of state, so we have no strong ties anymore as far as I'm concerned. Please help me. I feel so smothered. I would love to be a "golf-widow" or the like.

"LOOKING FOR RELIEF"

DEAR LOOKING: If you want to be "alone" to read a book or see a movie, quit your job. But that's not really your problem. You "tolerated" your husband when the kids were young and he was necessary to help raise them. Now you're bored with him.

Go see your kids. Take a trip with a friend. But if you don't want to "hurt" your husband, don't let him know how you've cosined him for 25 years.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 17 years and I don't regret a minute of it, but listen to this: I have nine beautiful, wonderful kids (when they're asleep) ranging all the way from a nine-month-old baby to a pair of 16-year-old twins. I am the maid, chief cook and bottle washer, chauffeur, laundress, gardener, bookkeeper, teacher, "nurse referee," and psychiatrist.

And now my husband expects me to be an animal trainer and dog catcher.

He brought home a three-week-old cocker spaniel "for the kids"—and guess who has to train him, feed him, walk him, and clean up after him? (Don't tell me to hit the pup with a rolled-up newspaper. Have you ever looked into the eyes of a three-week-old cocker spaniel and tried to hit him?)

Am I wrong to say to say this dog has got to go?

KEN'S WIFE: DEAR WIFE: If Ken brought the pup home for "the kids"—the kids should take care of him. Every family should have a pet, but the children should be taught to care for him. If yours refuses to learn—out!

CONFIDENTIAL TO BILL M. IN ALBUQUERQUE: Tell the neighbor girls personally that the reason you have a wall around your patio is that you want privacy, and you'd appreciate it if they didn't sit up there and observe you and your guests. If that doesn't work, tell their parents.

POLLY'S POINTERS

By POLLY CRAMER

Odd Earrings Can Make Christmas Ornaments

DEAR POLLY — Mary could make a Christmas tree on a holiday mural and decorate it with her 50-odd earrings. Use white felt as a background and then apply a green felt tree cut out smaller than the white ground. Glue or sew on all these "precious stones" as you would put decorations on a tree. This will be beautiful to have during the holiday season.

ed on to cover the entire frame. A thought for the day—Scottish playwright Robert Louis Stevenson once said: "I am in the habit of looking not so much as to the nature of the gift, as to the spirit in which it is offered."

DEAR POLLY — Mary could use her odd earrings for trimming Christmas tree balls. Use styrofoam balls of many sizes and insert pipe cleaners for hooks. Cover the balls with pretty net, velvet ribbon, etc., then push the earrings into the ball with straight pins. Sequins, beads, etc., could also be worked into the designs. Just let your imagination run riot and you will have some of the most beautiful but inexpensive ornaments imaginable.

Harvesters Test Monterey In 3-4A Zone Game

By RON CROSS Sports Editor
Eight of the 10 District 3-4A football teams engage in zone competition Friday night and Saturday and Pampa is no exception.
Pampa, riddled by injuries that have taken five starters, and not blessed with much experience meet Monterey in Lubbock at 2 p.m. Saturday on Lowery Field.
Radio Station KGRO will cover the game beginning at 1:45. Monterey, as usual, is big, strong and fast, the same strengths they have possessed in the past to always make them a district contender.

The Harvesters will be at their lowest point because of a rash of injuries when they play their first north zone contest of the season.
Sure to miss Saturday's game is wingback John Jenkins, who was also being used as safety on defense. Roddy Porter will be out and Larry Kotara will start at his defensive tackle spot. Ted Knight, Randy Cantrell and Gary Parrish will also be missing from the lineup.

Senior Jay Johnson, who has been starting at end for the Harvesters will start at quarterback and joining the 186 pounder in the backfield will be senior Hal Clabaugh, watching from fullback to wideback, junior Bert Tollison at fullback and Scotty King at tailback.
King leads the Harvesters (1-3) in rushing with 235 yards on 79 carries while Clabaugh has 46 yards on 13 carries.
Linewise, offensively Wyatt Earp will start in Johnson's tight end position and on the other side will be leading receiver Dan Carlton John Stokes will start at weak tackle and Chuck Lanehart at strongside tackle. At guard next to Lanehart will be junior Don Willis and weak guard will be senior Eddie Hopkins. Moss Hampton, a 158 pound junior, will start at center.

Defensively Mike Stephens will start monster, McCarroll and Jay Johnson at ends, Kotara and Mark Watkins at tackles. Clabaugh will be at linebacker, Hopkins at noseguard, Mike Heiskell at linebacker, Denny Johnson at safety and Carlton and Dan Craig at halfbacks.

Monterey has beaten Big Spring, 21-14, Wichita Falls Rider, 26-7, Midland, 21-0 and last week was upset by Lubbock Coronado, 18-13.
Backfield talent abounds in the Monterey camp and quarterback Marc O'Hair, a 165 pound, 6-3 junior, leads his team in rushing. O'Hair has churned for 288 yards on 52 carries and has connected on 20 of 65 passes for 438 yards. Four of his tosses have gone for touchdowns and he has scored twice himself.

And then there is halfback Jan Hood, a 180 pound senior. Hood has gained 244 yards in 54 carries and leads his team in scoring with five touchdowns. He has also caught four passes for 46 yards.
Another junior in the backfield is halfback Bob Lewis, who has carried 49 times for 227 yards and has caught six passes for 100 yards. He can also throw the option play and has hit one of 2 passes for 11 yards and a score.

O'Hair's top receiver is tight end Homer May, a 6-2, 200 pound senior who has caught 10 aerials for 199 yards and two touchdowns. Split end Glen Palmer has caught four passes for 65 yards and two touchdowns.
Starting tackles for the Plainmen are seniors Steve Carter, 215, and Wyatt Warren, 195. Guards include 200 pound senior Mike Autrey and 210 pound senior Vince Freeman. Phil Gamble, a 180 pound senior linebacker has led the Plainmen defense with 86 tackles and left end Kelsey Gonzalez has wracked up 36 tackles. Gamble also does the kicking and has a 24-yard field goal to his credit plus 10 extra points.

In other district action Caprock and Tascosa meet in the only non-conference affair, Saturday in Dick Bivins Stadium. Friday Berger hosts Amarillo, Plainview and Coronado, both unbeaten, meet in Lubbock and Lubbock plays at Palo Duro.

DIVING CATCH — Pampa Shocker back Rickey Harris (on ground) tried vainly to catch this pass by quarterback Doug Thompson but just couldn't quite reach it. Lubbock defenders are John Utley and Mike Jones. The Shocks lost, 18-0.

Shockers Lose, 18-0

Lubbock's B team had too much Mike Parson for the Pampa Shockers to handle Thursday and the Shocks, despite a strong second half lost their fifth game in as many outings.
Parson did all the offensive damage, leading his club in rushing and scored twice to send the visitors to a 18-0 victory.
The 180 pound fullback gained 99 yards on 18 carries and scored on runs of three and 11 yards, both in the second quarter to send Lubbock to the dressing room at halftime with a 12-0 lead.
Rickey Harris paced Pampa ball carriers with 21 yards on 10 carries and alternate quarterback Doug Thompson connected two of six passes for 22 yards. Dewayne Glover had 15 yards on 10 carries and halfback Monroe Woods added 13 yards on seven carries.

Thompson punted three times for a 37 yard average and twice alert Shocker players recovered punts after Lubbock had touched the ball but couldn't pick it up.
The Shockers were forced to punt on their first possession and Thompson got off a 42 yard boot, Lubbock touched the ball and sophomore John McCarroll recovered for Pampa on the 50 yard line.
The teams exchanged fumbles in the fourth quarter when Thompson punted 37 yards to the Lubbock 24 where a Lubbock player fumbled the ball and Keith Coyle recovered for the Shockers.

But three plays later, after Pampa had moved to the 19, its deepest penetration of the night, Woods fumbled and Lubbock recovered.
The Shockers had drive after drive stall. They drove to the Lubbock 26 in the first period only to lose four yards and the ball. They went to Lubbock's 35 in the second period but a fourth down pass fell incomplete and in the third period moved to the WESTERNERS where another final down pass failed to connect.
The Westerners drove 44 yards in 12 plays for their first score, with 7:27 left in the half and then 63 yards in 11 plays as the half ended. The final score came with 5:56 left in the third period when Utley scored from three yards out to cap a 61-yard-12 play drive.

Holy Cow! Tigers Win

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The world champion Detroit Tigers' roster of World Series heroes starts with Mickey Lolich.
Of course there were others too, such as Jim Northrup, Al Kaline, Bill Freehan, Mickey Stanley, Norm Cash, and 31-game regular season winner, Denny McLain, who looked like the series goat for awhile.
But without Lolich, it's questionable whether the Tigers would be basking in the glory of their third World Series championship ever and their first in 23 years.
It was Lolich, a left handed pitcher who does everything else right handed, who won the get-even second game to square the series with the St. Louis Cardinals at one victory apiece. It was Lolich who won the fifth game to leave the Tigers trailing at 3 games to 2.

A Real Winner
Then it was Lolich, with only two days rest, who came onto the mound and pitched a five hitter in the deciding seventh game to lead the Tigers to a 4-1 triumph and the title, four victories to three.
He became the eighth pitcher ever to win three games in one World Series, and the feat put him in the record books with such a pitching immortal as Christy Mathewson, the first who did it, and Bob Gibson, the last until Lolich beat him in Gibson's attempt to repeat the same feat.
Lolich expected to get tired, working with only two days rest, and he did. But he yielded only four singles until Mike Shannon belted a home run, with two out in the ninth, to save the Cardinals from a shutout.

Northrup, who hit a grand slam home run in the Tigers' record-tying 10 run third inning Wednesday when McLain won, again delivered the big blow behind Lolich. It came after singles by Cash and Willie Horton with two outs in the seventh inning and it scored both of them, enough runs to give Lolich the win.
Crucial Move
Curt Flood stumbled, it's true, when he started to try to chase down Northrup's drive. Maybe if he hadn't stumbled, he would have caught it. Maybe he wouldn't.

Northrup was on third base, and he scored on Freehan's double. Three singles in the ninth gave Detroit a run they didn't need.
There was no need for Gibson to take his first series loss after seven straight wins with any shame. He gave up eight hits, but ran his streak of complete series games to eight, a record. In addition he struck out eight batters for a series total of 35, another record beating his own mark of 31 in 1964.
It was the first series loss for the Cardinals since 1943 and their first loss ever in a seven game series, in their seventh time in such a collision.
Detroit gained only its third series triumph, and its first since a wartime victory over the Chicago Cubs in 1945, but it was only the third time in 65 World Series that a team has been behind by a 3-1 margin and swept the final three games to win.

McLain Season Star
The Tigers might have made the series without Lolich, who spent the last half of the season in the bullpen, but they certainly would not have been there without McLain, a 31 game winner in the regular season.
McLain, though, lost twice to Gibson as the Tigers were outclassed in the first four series games. Then he made his own personal series comeback with a sixth game 13-1 win over Ray Washburn and the Cards.

Lee Juniors Divide, Pampa 9th, 8th Lose

Lee Junior High split two games with Borger Austin Thursday and Pampa Junior High eighth and ninth lost two games to Dumas.
Lee ninth ran its record to 3-1 by pasting Borger Austin 24-8, behind the running and passing of quarterback Dale Ammons. Lee eighth failed to get in win column for the third straight time, falling to Borger Austin, 32-0.
After a scoreless first quarter Lee ninth got rolling and Ammons passed 35 yards to Tom Watson for the first score and then ran in from two yards out to make it 12-0 at halftime.
John Enloe put the Rebels out front 18-0 with a 10-yard scamper in the third quarter and Ammons finished the scoring with a 15 yard fourth quarter romp to make it 24-8.
Borger had cut Pampa's margin to 18-8 with its only touchdown in the third quarter.
Lee eighth trailed only 6-0 at halftime but Austin put on a second half rally to insure the victory.

Pampa ninth saw its record dip to 1-3 when Dumas jumped to a 14-8 halftime lead, then take advantage of Reaper errors in the third quarter for an insurance score and a 22-6 victory.
After the junior Demons had gone in front 14-0 in the second period Reaper fullback Wade Archibald rambled 67 yards with a kickoff return to put his team back in the ball game.
But in the third period a 15-yard penalty and a pass interference call helped Dumas to its last touchdown.
Archibald besides being the day's leading ground gainer recovered two fumbles and tackled Preston Wallace recovered another. Bob Owens intercepted a pass for Pampa.
Dumas' eighth grade scored all its points in the first quarter and held off Pampa eight for a 14-6 victory, handing Pampa its first loss in four games.

Wingback Allan Keeton brought Pampa back within shooting distance with an eight yard touchdown run in the third quarter. The touchdown was set up by a 50 yard run by tailback Richard Campbell.
Friday afternoon Pampa and Lee seventh grade teams were in action.
Pampa seventh (2-0) played Dumas and Lee seventh (1-2) played Borger Austin.

THE LIGHTER SIDE
Smite the Polacks?

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—For a few hours Monday it appeared that William Shakespeare might become a key issue in the U.S. presidential campaign.

In writing "Hamlet," did the immortal bard mean to say, as the Republicans claim, that King Fortinbras, "Smote the sledged Polacks?"

Or did he mean to say, as the Democrats claim, that Fortinbras "Smote the sledged poleaxe?"

There's the rub.

The controversy began a week or so ago when Democrats were criticizing Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, the GOP vice presidential candidate, for using the word "Polack" in a speech.

Among the Republicans who sprang to Agnew's defense was Rep. Edward J. Derwinski of Illinois. He put out a press release denying that Agnew had insulted Polish-Americans.

In support of his argument that the term "Polack" was not necessarily derogatory, Derwinski quoted the line about Fortinbras smiting "the sledged Polacks on the ice." He said Shakespeare was referring to courageous Polish warriors on ice sleds.

But along came Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., with a challenging statement.

"This is a very false gallop of verses," Reuss said. Or words to that effect.

According to Reuss, those weren't "sledged Polacks" that Fortinbras was smiting. What the king actually was doing was smiting the ice with a "sledged poleaxe," an ancient weapon loaded with lead.

Reuss cited the German scholar Moltke and the earl of Rochester as his authorities for this interpretation of Shakespeare.

All of this may sound like much ado about nothing, but I spent the better part of a day trying to determine how Shakespeare stood on the question. Shakespeare is a hard man to pin down.

In the various scripts of "Hamlet" that Shakespeare may or may not have written, the disputed word is spelled about a half a dozen different ways — sometimes capitalized, sometimes not.

"Nobody knows what Shakespeare meant," the Folger Shakespeare Library told me.

I can only conclude that when Shakespeare wrote "Thy head is full of meat," he must have been referring to politicians.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—E.F. Hutton & Co. says that the stock market may work a bit lower over the near term. If so, the analyst adds, the first line of support in the Dow Jones industrial average would be at the 930-935 zone.

Blair & Co. says the market's background continues to lend itself to further selective improvement in stock valuations where the outlook for the next year or so is "sufficiently bright and where the market's current valuation is reasonable in relation to the earnings anticipations." The company says that during this period selectivity will be of paramount importance.

Tessell, Patrick & Ostrau says that while the market is "overbought and vulnerable to correction," interest of traders is rotating from group to group. While this condition prevails, the firm adds, "the chance of a severe correction appears slim."

In 1962, President Kennedy announced the United States would blockade ships of all nations trying to reach Cuba.

The first successful iron works built in America began operations at Saugus, Mass. about 1646.

Humphrey Has RI

BOSTON (UPI)—The smallest state in the nation is the only New England state safely tucked in Hubert H. Humphrey's vest pocket in a region which solidly shunned the Republicans to support Lyndon Johnson four years ago.

Tiny Rhode Island with its four electoral votes can be recorded as a plus on the vice president's campaign tally sheet. The other five states either can be counted as minuses or as too close to call.

The six state region, the northern half of which is traditionally Republican and the southern tier predominantly Democratic, wholeheartedly gave its 37 electoral votes to President Johnson in 1964, when it refused to embrace the conservatism of Barry M. Goldwater.

Campaign Policy

As part of his over-all campaign policy of taking nothing for granted, Richard M. Nixon is pushing hard for northeastern support and thus far can count on Connecticut, Vermont and New Hampshire.

Massachusetts and Maine still are regarded as tossups, but Maine may go the way the nation currently is leaning despite a senator, Edmund S. Muskie, who is the Democratic vice presidential nominee.

Humphrey forces recently released a poll of several northeastern states indicating the vice president was leading in Massachusetts and Connecticut. But a Humphrey campaign manager in Boston discounted the tally as merely a morale booster for the Democratic troops.

The campaign of George C. Wallace will have a definite impact on the area's 5.2 million registered voters scattered from the craggy coast of Maine to the industrial center of Burlington, Vt., on Lake Champlain and the sculptured marinas along the Connecticut shore. The percentage of his drawing power varies with the state.

The third party presidential candidate is expected to cut into some of the Nixon vote across the Republican northern tier in much the same way as he is believed to have knifed into the GOP presidential nominee's strength in the South. Wallace has not campaigned north of Massachusetts.

Wallace Drain

Humphrey is likely to suffer more from the Wallace drain in more heavily industrialized Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island where the former Alabama governor is expected to invade the traditionally Democratic blue collar area.

The shirital of Democratic strength.

While the Nixon organization is working hard throughout the region, the Humphrey forces hardly have begun to muster a campaign effort truly befitting a presidential election year.

The Massachusetts organization is the only one which has put its shoulder to the grindstone for the vice president, but it is laboring under the burden of insufficient money.

Massachusetts, chalking up the region's biggest bloc of electoral votes with 14, generally is considered too close a call to determine which of the two major presidential contenders will carry it.

While some dissident Democrats have begrudgingly tipped over to Humphrey since his nationwide television speech on Vietnam, the Massachusetts Humphrey group is plagued with the remnants of the organization which captured victory for Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy in the state's presidential primary.

Fourth Party

Estimates are that some 50,000 persons who have shunned the party's presidential nominee either will not vote or will cast ballots in a possible fourth party movement.

The Nixon-Agnew ticket, therefore, can be expected to reap a harvest from the divisions in Massachusetts and to lure some of the one million plus independents into the GOP camp which registers 550,000. Another million plus voters are Democrats.
