Viet City Under Attack

By JACK WALSH
SAIGON (UPI) — A force of 1,000 Viet Cong striking from bases within Cambodia attacked Tay Ninh city northwest of Saigon today and overran suburbs east, west and south of the town. Heavy fighting raged tonight in the midst of a torrential monsoon downpour.

The second attack on Tay Ninh in three weeks appeared to be a determined one. South Vietnamese defenders aided by U.S. jets threw the Communists back from the city limits but were unable to keep them out of the suburbs.

Tay Ninh is 55 miles northwest of Saigon and controls invasion routes to the capital. It has been the site of repeated Communist defeats. Last month the Communists lost 1,000 men in trying to capture the city.

V.C. Entrenched
UPI correspondent Nat Gibson reported from Tay Ninh that by 7 p.m. the Viet Cong remained entrenched in three hamlets 700 yards west of downtown Tay Ninh, a city of 80,000, after beating back three assaults by region force and popular force troops.

Other Viet Cong units were holding out on the southeast and northeast fringes of the city but they were giving ground. UPI correspondent Ray Wilkinson reported meanwhile from Da Nang that construction of the so-called McNamara line had all but been abandoned. The barrier across a 40-mile stretch of Vietnam just below the Demilitarized Zone was proposed last fall by then Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara to halt North Vietnamese infiltration.

Wilkinson said instead of an elaborate barbed wire barrier with mines, and electronic warning devices the line had

School Board Slates Meet At Carver

For the first time, Pampa school trustees will have a regular board meeting in the Carver Educational Service Center. Trustees will meet there at 9:30 a.m. Thursday instead of in Pampa Junior High School library. Dr. James F. Malone, superintendent has announced. The board will review and officially approve the 1968-69 school budget, consider resignations and employment of school personnel, and authorize payment of due bills.

In August, the board approved changing the Carver facilities into an educational services center which provides space for a general conference room, display area for school equipment, storage for supplies and equipment and several administrative offices.

Children who formerly attended the school are enrolled in Baker and Lamar Elementary Schools. The teachers were transferred to other Pampa schools. James C. Randall, former principal of Carver, is director of the educational services center.

degenerated into a series of outposts. Tay Ninh would be vital to a third Communist offensive against Saigon.

Surround Communists
A U.S. spokesman reported by afternoon that "the situation is pretty much under control," with allied forces moving to surround the occupied areas and planes softening them with bombs and rockets.

Fortas Is Asked To Appear For Senate Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Justice Department officials told the Senate Judiciary Committee today they had relayed a request for Justice Abe Fortas to appear again before the committee but did not know if he would comply.

However, informed sources said it was highly unlikely that Fortas would agree to appear again before the committee, which is considering his controversial nomination by President Johnson to be chief justice.

Committee Clerk John Holloman told reporters that Deputy Atty. Gen. Warren Christopher had spoken with Fortas, who was in Connecticut, by telephone at 10 a.m. today.

Holloman said Christopher read the committee's telegraphed invitation to Fortas and quoted Christopher as saying, "Fortas will be back in Washington tonight and has no response to the request at this time."

Holloman said Christopher "indicated" to him there would be no reply until Fortas returned, but that Christopher did not say this positively.

Meanwhile, reliable sources told United Press International that Fortas was unlikely to change his mind about answering questions relating to previous Supreme Court decisions, pending cases or future decisions.

When Fortas appeared before the committee in July, he invoked the doctrine of separation of powers—that it would be constitutionally improper for a sitting justice to answer for his judgment in any forum other than the court itself.

The committee invited Fortas to return to discuss decisions involving pornography. But also wants to question him about his connections with White House activities.

Reporters Called In Tavern Hearing

AUSTIN (UPI) — Rep. R. H. Cory of Victoria, chairman of a committee taking a close look at charges vending machine companies have taken over tavern control, said Tuesday reporters will be called to testify at the committee's first hearing. Cory said Amarillo, Dallas and Austin newsmen "who have gone into this matter" will be witnesses at a hearing in Austin Sept. 16.

He said Coke Stevenson Jr., former chief of the Texas Liquor Control Board, also will be asked to testify about his charges that the Mafia has made inroads in the liquor industry.

attack on Tay Ninh City in a month. Viet Cong hordes penetrated the city for one day in mid-August but were cleared out by allied forces who reported killing about 1,000 Communists.

Tay Ninh City sits astride the lowland jungle trails that comprise, for the Communists, a direct slide door strike channeled into Saigon.

In related moves apparently designed to pin down nearby American troops and cut off allied reinforcement approaches, one Communist unit attacked a U.S. Infantry outpost a few miles east of Tay Ninh while a second cut ditches in a highway leading to Tay Ninh.

Troops at the U.S. outpost reported killing 99 of the attackers. Other troops quickly cleared the highways and repaired them. Two battalions of South Vietnamese paratroopers reached Tay Ninh in Saigon by early afternoon while U.S. infantrymen were airlifted in for a counterstrike.

While the networks have indicated the debates would be strictly two-way confrontations between Nixon and Humphrey, they have assured Congress Wallace would be given comparable time.

Humphrey has spoken in favor of the bill permitting the debates and Nixon has indicated in general terms he would be willing to take part in a 1968 version of his 1960 "great debates" with John F. Kennedy.

But according to several congressmen, neither Humphrey nor Nixon has pressed forcefully for the legislation. Its future fate could hinge upon the efforts of Humphrey and Nixon.

The bill would free the networks from the requirement that broadcasters afford equal air time to all declared candidates for the same office—including candidates such as those of the Prohibition party and Nudist party.

The annual reception for teachers in the Pampa School System is scheduled for Monday night, Sept. 23, in Central Park.

The event, which will get underway at 6:30 p.m., is sponsored by the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, the City Council (See RECEPTION, Page 3)

The committee and all persons interested in the "Los Angeles '68" project are to attend another meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in PHS cafeteria, Brinson said.

Cletus Mitchell, chairman of Band Boosters, is committee chairman. Committee members are Superintendent Dr. James F. Malone, Cameron Marsh, Weldon Trice, Tom Dunham, Mrs. Melvin Stephens, John Heasley, Mrs. Dewey Wheat, Canara Carruth, Dr. Foster Elder, Vernon Watkins, Brinson,

Czechs Say Occupation Force Is 'On The Move'

By JAMES O. JACKSON
PRAGUE (UPI)—Czechoslovak Communist party sources said today half of the 600,000 Warsaw Pact occupation troops "are on the move in Czechoslovakia" but that they did not know if the forces were leaving the country.

Moscow laid down a stiff series of demands on the government of party leader Alexander Dubcek as the price of withdrawing the troops—except for a force along the West German border. This included a return to total Communist rule and an end to the liberalization program.

The latest move to how to these terms came Tuesday when the hesitant Czechoslovaks bound their economy irrevocably to Russia for seven years. Czechoslovaks were still trying to decide whether to flee the country before it is too late or to see how severe the Communist crackdown will be.

The Czechoslovak Communist sources said the approximately 300,000 troops, most of them Russians, may either be headed for "second stage" withdrawal positions along the western borders, or they may be headed for the Soviet Union, Poland or East Germany.

A further possibility, they said, is that they will move to concentration points to bivouac until the next stage of their pullout from Czechoslovakia.

Bill Approves TV Debate Between Hubert, Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Commerce Committee today approved a bill paving the way for televised debates this fall between Hubert H. Humphrey and Richard M. Nixon. The Senate already has passed the measure.

The surprise vote approving suspension of the "equal time" requirement was 16-14.

Thirteen Democrats and three Republicans voted to suspend the regulation for major party presidential and vice presidential candidates during the 1968 election campaign. Ten Republicans and four Democrats voted against it.

The measure, which enables the networks to televise debates between Nixon and Humphrey without giving equal time to minor party candidates for the presidency, makes no mention of the independent campaign of George C. Wallace.

While the networks have indicated the debates would be strictly two-way confrontations between Nixon and Humphrey, they have assured Congress Wallace would be given comparable time.

Humphrey has spoken in favor of the bill permitting the debates and Nixon has indicated in general terms he would be willing to take part in a 1968 version of his 1960 "great debates" with John F. Kennedy.

But according to several congressmen, neither Humphrey nor Nixon has pressed forcefully for the legislation. Its future fate could hinge upon the efforts of Humphrey and Nixon.

The bill would free the networks from the requirement that broadcasters afford equal air time to all declared candidates for the same office—including candidates such as those of the Prohibition party and Nudist party.

Egyptians Fire At Israeli Troops

By United Press International
Egyptian gunners fired two salvos at Israeli troops across the Suez Canal today, an Israeli communique reported.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser returned to Cairo to assume personal command of his government's showdown with Israel.

The Israeli announcement in Jerusalem said Egyptian batteries opened fire on Israeli positions at Port Tewfik on the southern outlet of the canal at 8:40 a.m. and 8:50 a.m. The Israeli communique said its troops withheld return fire and suffered no casualties.

Egypt later denied its troops had opened fire. An information department spokesman described the report as "completely unfounded."

Egyptian officials, for their part, charged that an Israeli aircraft tried to fly over Suez City and was driven off by antiaircraft batteries.

agreement reached shortly after the invasion of Aug. 20-21 called for a three-stage departure from Czechoslovakia to be completed possibly as early as Oct. 28, the 50th anniversary of the founding of the republic.

The first stage was a withdrawal from cities and towns to encampments around the country. There has been some evidence that the first stage began several days ago.

The second stage called for concentrations to "protect" the country's frontiers with West Germany and Austria. The third stage was for a pullout of most troops from the country. There was some question whether the border troops and some anti-aircraft units would remain after the largest part of the withdrawal.

Tuesday the government appealed to them not to leave. It warned those who already had fled that they faced possible prosecution if they turned critical of their homeland and then decided to return.

Ex-Pampa Marine Is War Victim

Pfc. William H. Smock, 19, U.S. Marine Corps, formerly of Pampa, was killed in action in South Vietnam on Aug. 30. Funeral services are pending in Marlow, Okla.

Smock, a member of Company H, 2nd Battalion, 27th Marine Regiment, was on patrol at the time of his death. He suffered fragmentation wounds to the head as the result of a hostile explosive device in Quang Nam province in South Vietnam.

Smock lived in Pampa with his family from about 1956 to 1963. He attended local schools from the second to ninth grades, before moving to Arkansas. He joined the Marines in September, 1967.

Smock was the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Randall, 520 N. Hazel.

Survivors include his mother, Irene Simpkins; a sister, Rosanna, and a brother, Jerry, all of Okema, Okla.; and his father, Haskell Smock, Oklahoma City.

Non-Violent Upbringing Gets Blame

DALLAS (UPI) — Raymond Stanley Houston Sr., said Tuesday his brilliant 23-year-old son, arrested Saturday for failing to report for Army induction, may have been raised too non-violently.

Houston said he fought in both the Normandy invasion and in the Pacific in World War II and when he came home he was "pretty damn sick of war."

"I guess we raised him to be nonviolent, too much nonviolent," the father said. "I don't think he ever had a fight in his life. I'll tell you one thing now. After the way my oldest son turned out, I'll never raise another non-violent one."

FBI agents arrested 23-year-old Raymond Stanley Houston Jr., in a public library. He was arraigned before a U.S. commissioner and held in lieu of $10,000 bond.

The boy was the city's top mathematics student when he was graduated from Bryan Adams High School in 1963. He refused to attend graduation ceremonies.

The son entered the University of Texas and was graduated in 1966. He won $1,000 prize on a thesis he wrote on mathematics. (See TROOPS, Page 3)

Stormy Seas In Area Of Rescue Attempts

NICE, France (UPI) — An Air France Caravelle jet with one engine in flames encountered a sudden storm on a flight from Corsica today and plunged into the Mediterranean 11 minutes out of Nice, killing all 95 persons aboard.

It was the worst disaster since a South African Airways Boeing 707 crashed at Windhoek, South West Africa, last April 20, killing 123 persons. A search party found pieces of the twin engine plane 12 miles out to sea near Cap d'Antibes and a company spokesman said there were no survivors. Rescue craft reported stormy seas in the area.

It was not known immediately if any Americans were aboard but the plane was reported laden with tourists. Authorities said 13 of the 89 passengers were children. There were six crew members.

The plane, the latest model Caravelle, was only recently put into service. But the pilot radioed shortly before the crash one of the engines attached alongside the tail was on fire. Then there was silence.

It was the seventh fatal Caravelle crash and brought to nearly 400 the number of persons who have lost their lives in the crashes.

The Caravelle, one of the world's first medium-range jets to go into active service, was designed and built by the French Sud-Aviation company and was used on virtually every airline in Europe. It first entered service with Air France in mid-1959.

The Caravelle left the Corsica airport at 10:05 a.m. local time and was due to land in Nice 30 minutes later. Nice was the final destination of the flight, No. 1611.

Boats and helicopters searched the area for the missing plane which had landed in Ajaccio at 9:15 a.m. from Marseilles and picked up a load of Nice-bound passengers.

It was believed that many of the passengers may have been planning to make connections for other flights at Nice, France's second largest airport. The first models did not have reverse thrust engines and the plane was equipped with a drag (See STORMY, Page 3)

Civil Air Patrol Cadets Meet In Library Tonight

Pampa area Civil Air Patrol Cadets will meet at 7:30 p.m. today in Lovett Memorial Library for their second and final organizational program this season.

Youths interested in aviation, and their parents are asked to attend the meeting. Charles A. Duenkel, commander of Pampa Cadet Squadron, said.

The Cadets study aviation and aerospace training by classroom work, religious and social activities, and practice in citizenship training, he said.

"As a CAP Cadet, young people 14-18 years old will participate in the Aviation Education Program, finding out what makes an airplane fly, visit airports, weather stations and radar installations, learn to 'talk the language' of pilots, navigators and communications experts, and, in general, discover aerospace," Duenkel said.

Wearing the uniform of the United States Air Force is a requirement in Cadets. Civil Air Patrol is the civilian auxiliary of the Air Force and all CAP members are authorized to wear the USAF uniform with distinctive CAP insignia. Cadets are under no obligation to join the Air Force or any other branch of the service.

Cadets may spend two weeks of summer vacation living on one of Uncle Sam's Air Force bases, as did three of Pampa's Cadets this summer. Cadets Terry Duenkel, Gary Jenkins, and Rocky Hills attended the CAP Cadet encampment at Amarillo Air Force Base in July.

CAP teenagers assist senior members during search and rescue missions and other emergencies. Although not permitted to fly on these assignments, cadets prove they can take responsibility as ground rescue, first aid and communications specialists. Pampa's Cadets also take an active part in the annual Air Show at Perry Lefors Field," he said.

All flying is with permission of the parents and does not begin until the end of phase one. In national and wing training programs, cadets learn to fly and obtain either their private certificates or solo wings.

A TOAST
ASHLEY, England (UPI)—For years, Dr. Harry Ellis was a member of a club which met every Sunday at a local pub to have a drinking session. Not long ago, he died.
His will made public Monday. He had left 50 pounds ($120) to his pals, "so they can drink my health when I'm gone."

Television In Review

By RICK DUBROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The eternal production problem of television entertainment is that shows about fads are often old hat by the time they finally get on the air.
That was the chief hangup of Monday night's half-hour ABC-TV special, "What Gap?" in which Wally Cox—in various mod comedy sequences—portrayed a square 40-year-old trying to bridge the generations.
I don't think anyone really expected much of this half-hour. Yet there was a very clever sequence near the end: a party emphasizing how times were, indeed, changing, with men making a big thing about their clothes and hair, and women delving into worldly affairs more than before. With several quick strokes, the sketch illustrated the new attitudes of the sexes.
This, in fact, would be an excellent topic for a full-scale special. But Monday's show, despite its occasional nice moments, unfortunately sounded—probably because of the production to air time delay—like a rehash of shows about the contemporary scene.
There were all those overworked expressions like "where it's at," "what's happening," "get with it" and "groovy." And there were all those people who go around saying "fantastic" and "you're beautiful" until their listeners are driven to the point of nausea.
So much of this attitude is so tired by now that it was hard to work up much enthusiasm upon hearing it again. The hippies, for instance, came in for some attention Monday night, yet the hippie movement by now is a weary one, on its way out.
Instead of sticking to solid content—as in the mal-female party scene—there was too much reliance on the mod, mod-trick photography that generally adds up to nothing but time-filling. A little of Marshall McLuhan goes a very long way. When it came to visual matters, Mack Sennett's instinctive understanding was a good number of years ahead.
Individual and special talent was given a chance to emerge. His female sidekick on the show—the new-style girl—was Ann Prentiss. And like her sister, Paula Pentiss, she has a marvelous speaking voice and striking appeal.
As for the half-hour, there were several lessons. First, there has to be a way to get very contemporary shows on the air more quickly than is possible now, if they are to be protected for timeliness. Second, there have to be television line executives who aren't afraid to say, "so what if it appeals to the young generation? It's all that counts."

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There are a lot of big trees near the press parking area on the grounds of the U.S. Capitol and a couple of years ago my 1959 compact developed Dutch elm disease.
I had it sprayed several times with an arsenic solution, but the fungus kept spreading. Last week it developed terminal complications. Not even a transmission transplant could save it.
The sorrow I felt over the loss of a car was mitigated somewhat by the satisfaction I derived from seeing West's law of automotive dynamics upheld once again.

This law, more commonly known as "Detroit roulette," states that if you buy two new tires and spend $135 having the brakes repaired on a nine-year-old car, it will break down completely within two weeks.
Old Acquaintance
Another compensating factor stemming from the collapse of the compact was the opportunity it afforded to renew my association with used car dealers.
It had been so long since I had visited a used car lot, I had almost forgotten what princely fellows car salesmen are. One salesman is as cheerfully impoverishing himself on my behalf. "You probably have a wife and family to support," I said.
"Don't worry about it," he said. "I'm actually independently wealthy and only work here as my way of serving humanity."

The car he had picked out as "expressing the real you" must have been left over from one of those "cars of tomorrow" shows. At any rate, it had several features I didn't recognize.
"What are these platforms along the sides for?" I asked.
"Innovation," he said.
"We call those running boards," he said. The make

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Reynolds & Co. sees an end to the summer doldrums in the vigorous post-Labor Day rally.

"The action of the heavy industry segment seems to indicate that the market no longer fears a recession caused by the tax surcharge and believes a satisfactory settlement eventually will be negotiated in Vietnam by either of the major presidential candidates," the company notes.
E.F. Hutton & Co. sees signs of renewed speculative activity in the steady increase in the ratio of American Stock Exchange volume to Big Board volume, and the fact that last Friday's volume was the highest in the foreshortened week.
The Dines Letter predicts a further advance in the short term, "particularly since the odd-letters are now selling into the advance...and are selling short at an unusually low rate."
There is more reason to be concerned about specific situations than about the general market, the Dines letter said.

The occasion was an interview with the Knight Newspapers and the senator seemed to be saying that those who had enlisted in his crusade against the war in Vietnam now could never expect anything good to come from the established political system.

Could Ease Pain

But there are those in the camp of Hubert Humphrey who believe McCarthy could have done a lot to ease the pain of Chicago for his young followers, and perhaps to keep them working effectively within the system instead of railing and demonstrating against it from the outside.

They are selfishly aware, of course, that such action by McCarthy would have helped the vice president immeasurably in his effort to pull together his battered party for the November battle against Republican Richard M. Nixon.

But these Humphrey men also believe sincerely that McCarthy scored a lot of important points in his first foray into presidential politics and that it would have been the kinder thing for him to underscore some of the triumphs and not merely his failure to win nomination.

Among these victories they listed elimination of the controversial unit rule, despite the bitter opposition of Gov. John Connally of Texas, under which a state previously could bind its entire delegation to vote for the candidate favored by a majority.

This means it no longer will be possible for the majority of a state delegation to gag the minority. Humphrey came out for abolition of the unit rule, of course. But it was McCarthy who created the issue through his delegate stealing charges against the vice president.

Involved Semantics

True, McCarthy lost out in his bid to substitute a dovish Vietnam plank for the stronger language approved by the convention. But President Johnson didn't get all he wanted either. And there are those who say the final battle involved semantics more than principle.

These Humphrey men consider these to be not inconsequential achievements for a group of political amateurs who started out with little real hope of doing more than dramatizing Vietnam and who wound up persuading Johnson he should not seek reelection.

Air Safety Project Due Across State

AUSTIN (UPI)—The Texas Aeronautics Commission (TAC) has announced a new program for Southwest airports aimed at improving attitudes toward air safety and reducing the aircraft accident rate.

The commission said a review of accident types and causes had indicated that a reduction of hazards in the general aviation environment could readily prevent most aircraft mishaps.

"Many accidents are the results of unfavorable attitudes toward safety, unnecessary flight hazards at the operating locations."

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I went on a blind date with this fellow who was recommended by a friend. He was very nice looking and his manners were good, but you can't tell anything these days by looking. Well, he took me to a drive-in movie and he was just too fast for me, so I asked him to take me right home after the movie ended, but he had other ideas.

Well, luckily he slowed up for a stop sign and I jumped out of the car. He didn't even try to stop me. He just drove off and left me. I was about 10 miles from home, and I didn't have any money with me so I thumbed a ride with a truck driver who was nice enough to take me to my door.

When I got home my father was raving mad. He said I took a terrible chance thumbing a ride home with a stranger. Yet I couldn't have walked all that way, and I wanted to get away from the guy. Was I wrong?

DEAR SEVENTEEN: No girl should leave the house without at least a dime with which to make a telephone call. If you haven't a mother or father to call in case you need transportation, call a friend or relative. Or even the police department. Young ladies should not "thumb" rides with strangers, neither should they be walking alone at night. Play safe. Always carry enough money for transportation home.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is retired now, and most of his crochets are either dead or too sick to be any company to him. He used to be quite the "man about town" and I spent many evenings alone and heavy-hearted, wondering when he would come home.

Now do you know what? I can't get him out of the house. I actually have to look for things for him to do. "Go to the grocery store! Go to the drug store! Go to the hardware store!"

I can't stand the sight of him anymore. I get nauseated when I hear his key in the door. After he reads the morning paper, he starts to follow me around like a puppy, supervising the cooking, housekeeping etc.

If I have an acquaintance in for a cup of tea, he moves right in and monopolizes the conversation. Dear God, I am so sick of him, death would be a welcome release.

SINCERELY, WEARY
DEAR WEARY: Yours or his? The quality of a marriage is only as good as the materials used by the builders. The "lumber of life" is caring, sharing, patience, forgiveness and understanding. One can't expect to spend his twilight years in a cathedral when he's accumulated only enough "lumber" for a shack.

DEAR ABBY: Please answer yes or no as this is a very important question to me. Do you think a 60-year-old man can really fall in love?

BUTTERFLIES IN STOMACH
DEAR BUTTERFLIES: Yes! Cupid never consults the calendar.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "Depressed" in Worthington: Failure is not a sign of weakness. On the contrary, it can be a sign of strength. It means you've tried.

Work To Start Soon On The 'New' Richard Nixon 2-City Regional Airport

GRAPEVINE, Tex. (UPI) — Working under the "If at first you don't succeed" adage, work is "hopefully" scheduled to begin on one more Dallas-Fort Worth regional airport sometime in November.

However, the delays and the bickering between the two cities, according to an unofficial source, have resulted in a severe blow to the economy of the two cities as they lost the opportunity to have the supersonic jet transport station located here.

The airport is scheduled to be completed "hopefully" in 1972, Thomas Sullivan, the executive director of the new airport said today.

Once upon a time, another airport was built and designed as a regional airport for the two cities only 30 miles apart. Fort Worth residents said Dallas' Love Field airport was too far away to serve them adequately and that it could not accommodate what was then referred to as the possibility of commercial jet aircraft.

Dallas Dislikes It
So in 1952 the Greater Southwestern Regional Airport was built amidst much hoopla and ceremony. The people of Dallas, however, did not take a shine to the new airport and continued to promote their own Love Field.

As a result, the Greater Southwestern Airport or, as it is sometimes called by Fort Worth partisans, Amon Carter Field, is currently only a shell of an airport.

The new regional airport's runways will be located only two miles north of the runways of the Greater Southwestern.

The question is why the agreement for this regional airport after the squabble over the last one.

Dallas Gets Seven

The two cities, according to Sullivan, established a regional airport board composed of four members from Fort Worth and seven from Dallas. This representation was based on the latest population figures of the two cities.

"These men just sat down like gentlemen and agreed to agree," said Sullivan.

But there's more to it than that. Mistakes in the first regional airport came almost from the time plans for it were announced. Its original name of the Greater Fort Worth International Airport did not endear it to Dallasites.

Equal Distances
The airport opened April 25, 1953, and according to a "Facts and Figures" sheet issued by this same publicity office, the facility was located "17 miles from the downtown business sections of both Fort Worth and Dallas" and was meant to serve the needs of both cities.

But Dallas decided to work on improving Love Field. It lengthened one runway much to the dismay of nearby residents who fought the measure all the way to the Supreme Court.

The Civil Aeronautics Board finally told the two cities, on April 7, 1964, they would have to create a regional airport. The two cities tried to get together, applied for extensions of their deadline which were granted and finally established the Regional Airport Board May 1.

At first glance, it would seem if any victor could be declared in the dispute, it would have to be Dallas. After all, Dallas still kept Love Field and its traffic continually mounts every year.

Unsound Operation
The Fort Worth airport never really got off the ground. And just last week Continental and Frontier airlines said it was economically unsound for them to continue servicing the Greater Southwestern Airport.

Sullivan said Friday that, once the new regional airport is completed, no commercial flights will service Carter Field and he does not know what the field will be used for.

On the basis of surface economics, therefore, Dallas came out on top.

But, according to unconfirmed reports, both cities lost and lost drastically. If the two cities had agreed to use a regional airport when the dispute first arose, this airport would have been used for the new super-Sonic Transports (SST) that will soon be servicing major countries over the world.

These SST's could have flown up to 700 passengers on one flight from Paris to the Dallas-Fort Worth area in three hours. Then regular commercial jets would connect the regional fields to the nation's other major airports.

Will Reap Benefits

Now, according to unofficial sources, Las Vegas and Howard Hughes will reap the benefits from the Texas squabble. According to this source, Hughes has been buying land around Las Vegas for just this purpose — so he can capitalize on it when the SST airport is located there.

This source also said Hughes is secretly developing an SST of his own and plans to unveil it before Boeing submits its plans for the giant jet airliner. It may turn out therefore, the "If a first you don't succeed" adage evolved into the "Cutting off the nose to spite the face" cliché.

The 'New' Richard Nixon

By MERRIMAN SMITH
CHICAGO (UPI) — Indeed there is a new Richard M. Nixon who is charm itself on television. Light and bantering one moment, as serious as an Army recruiting poster the next.

The Republican presidential nominee's ease on camera, an ability to joke publicly about himself—all this and a great deal of substantive comment was displayed here last week night in the same TV studio where eight years ago Nixon had his first of four famous campaign debates with the late John F. Kennedy.

In 1960, Nixon was sweaty and irritable as he stood across a sound stage from Kennedy in Studio One of Station WBBM-TV. He complained then about his makeup, the air conditioning and lighting.

Before a studio audience of 300 persons Wednesday night, Nixon spent an hour deftly fielding questions from a panel of eight persons selected by the state Republican committee. The live telecast was carried over 11 stations covering Illinois, Missouri and part of Indiana.

Warm Reception
Warmed by the largest, most enthusiastic reception he has received in this political year when he came into Chicago Wednesday afternoon, and highly pleased by the results of his telecast, Nixon resumed his jet campaign today with another "battleground" state on his schedule.

Nixon was bound for San Francisco and a speech tonight at Santa Clara University.

He was to leave at about 9 a.m., EDT.

The nominee's television performance was that of a polished professional. In the dark recesses of the studio where the audience filled U-shaped bleachers, a woman leaned to her husband and whispered, "He's as good as Ed Sullivan."

There is a certain inner conflict in the nominee about the advantages of admitting "newness" since he obviously does not want to admit the old version was inferior. Here is how he handled the matter after a questioner asked about the charge "that Nixon's views are based this year on expediency."

Revised Version
"I suppose what you're referring to is, in the vernacular, is there a new Nixon or an old one and I suppose I could say which Humphrey should we listen to today.

"But I do want to say this—there certainly is a new Nixon. I don't mean that I'm not growing older. My wife tells me that my hair is going back and there, and I realize, too, that in terms of what has happened over the years, as a man gets older, he learns something."

"And if I haven't learned something, I'm not worth anything in public life. But we live in a new world; half the nations in the world were born since World War II; half the people living in the world today were born since World War II."

Views Updated

"The problems are different and I think I have had the good sense and intelligence to travel the world since I left the office of vice president and to bring my views up to date to deal with the new world in which we live."

"I think, however, my principles are consistent. I believe very deeply in the American system. I believe very deeply in what is needed to be done to defend that system at home and abroad. I think I have some ideas as to how we can promote peace—ideas that are different

Surprised NATO:

Nato, badly shaken by Russia's surprise move toward the West German border during the Czechoslovak crisis, is considering plans for a speedier move of allied reinforcements into Germany in an emergency, according to military sources in London. One suggestion is for the United States to advance the date of the practice airlift to Europe originally planned for next summer.

More Czech Fallout:
Diplomatic observers in Moscow say the suspension of American-Soviet cultural exchange will remain a casualty of the Soviet-Czechoslovak crisis from what they were eight years ago, not because I have changed, but because the problem has changed.

"And so my answer is—yes, there is a new Nixon, if you're talking in terms of new ideas for the new world and the new America we live in. In terms of what I believe in about America—my view of the American dream—I think I am what I was just eight years ago."

for the foreseeable future. Students in Moscow on an exchange program will remain but exchanges of performing artists and exhibitions are out.

No Romanian Invasion:
Fears of a possible Soviet invasion of Romania appear in Moscow to have been allayed. The reports about heavy Soviet and Bulgarian troop concentrations on Romanian frontiers have not been supported by expert intelligence.

More Women Are To Become Physicians

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI)—Does it make any difference to you whether the doctor's a female? Or, is your attitude like that of some men asked about women doctors during a survey. These responded:

"Women MD's irk me, though some are good doctors."
—"Women were created to be wives."

"I'm glad my daughter isn't neurotic enough to want to become a doctor."

Women Gaining
If that's the case, better change your mind. While only 7.7 per cent of medical students are women, many signs point to women as a more important factor on the nation's medical scene.

Charles E. Phelps, of the University of Chicago, reporting in "The Journal of Medical Education," cites two factors which have contributed to "the somewhat grudging admission" of woman into schools of medicine and into medical practice.

"First there is a very obvious difference between the proportion of female doctors in this country and the proportion in many other countries throughout the world," he said.

"This has stirred considerable interest in the possibilities for women in medicine."

A second factor: Realization that a vast source of talent was remaining untapped.

Surveys of national merit schools, the top 10,000 high school graduates in America each year, show that of those interested in medicine as a career one third are girls. Yet, three years later, when these students are of an age and educational level to apply to medical school, only a relatively few of the young women apply.

Other Countries
In other countries Phelps said the proportion of female doctors is as follows:

—Germany, three of 10 are women; Netherlands, 20 per cent female; in England, 15 per cent; Russia, 75 per cent.

In one study, this profile of the American female doctor emerged: 57 per cent are married and have, on the average, 1.8 children; 51 per cent of the married are married to a doctor; a large number practice on a fixed-hours position.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—House-Senate conferees have approved compromise legislation to authorize establishment of a 58,000-acre Redwood National Park in northern California.

Estimates are that the park will cost $100 million or more for land acquisition and development. Only final action by the two houses is needed to send the measure to President Johnson.

Swede Praises Goal Line Stand By Pampa Team

Swede Lee, head football coach for Pampa High School, showed a film of the recent scrimmage between Tulla and Pampa at a meeting of the Harvester Club Tuesday night.

Before the showing of the film Lee gave a brief talk in which he praised the goal line stand by the Harvesters in the second half of the scrimmage.

Tulla had the ball deep in Pampa territory on the six yard line with first down to go. On the fourth down, Pampa's defensive line held Tulla within the one yard line.

"A goal line stand like that one really gives a team a big lift," Lee said.

Lee also said games are won by kicking referring, of course, to John Stokes' 22-yard field goal as the gun sounded to give the Pampa team the 17-14 win.

"That 15 yard penalty really helped," Lee said. (There was a 15 yard penalty which immediately preceded the field goal.)

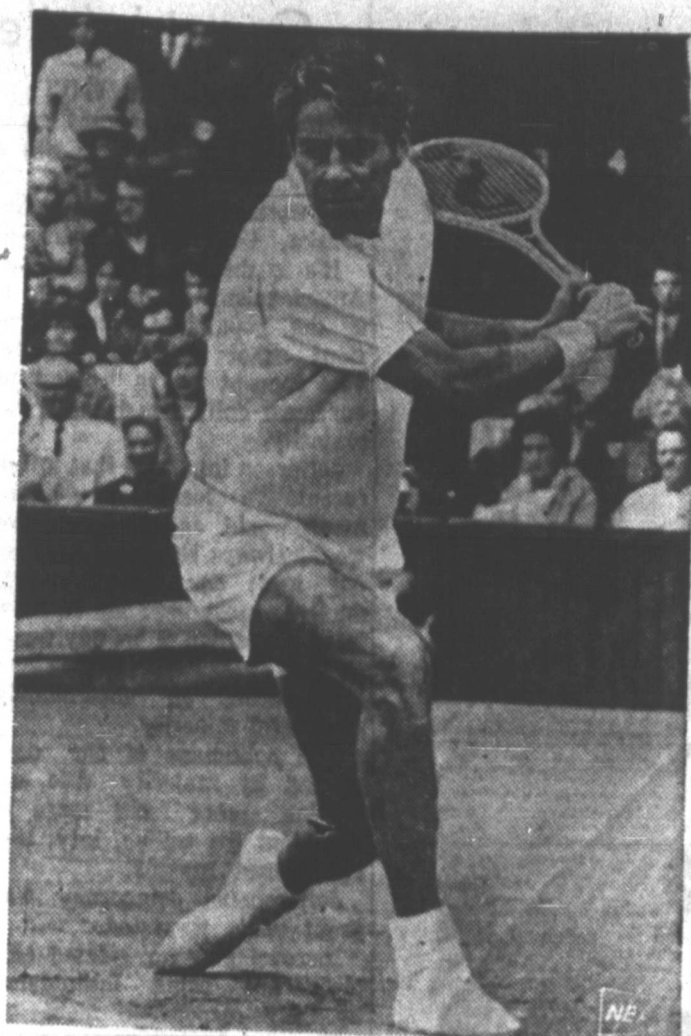

The Harvester Club funds were reported to be $1,565.15 including over $100 collected by the concession stand at the scrimmage on Saturday.

Lee said Hereford was better than Tulla.

A number of reserved tickets are available for the Hereford-Pampa football game at Hereford Friday night and may be bought from Homer Craig, Pampa business manager.

Lee also praised the blocking of Mike Albus and Mike Heiskell which helped pave the way for John Jenkins' long run for a touchdown in the first half.

Matson Places 3rd In Shot Put Event

By JOE SARGIS
UPI Sports Writer

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (UPI)—Jim Hines had his birthday present today and an illuminating prediction for United States chance in the Olympic track and field competition next month.

"I predict the U.S. will finish one-two-three in the 100 meter dash," said Hines moments after he had shaded friendly rivals Charlie Greene and Mel Pender in the classic century dash at the trials here Tuesday.

"We have a lot of power and I think we can do it." Hines celebrated his 22nd birthday with his victory at the final Olympic trials in what many observers thought was the greatest 100 field ever gathered.

Hines, darting out of the blocks through slanting shadows on the 7,377-foot high Echo Summit track, burst into a narrow lead after 60 meters and then hung on to nip Greene, who was clocked in 10.1 seconds.

Hines' time of 10 flat tied the recognized world record he shares with six others. Jim Greene and Smith have a pending 9.9 mark achieved at the national AAU championships last June.

Dave Maggard finished second to George Woods and just ahead of world record holder Randy Matson in the shot put.

Woods, who as a collegian, lost to Matson, then a high schooler, back in 1963, beat both Maggard and Randy this time with a heave of 68 feet, 1/4 inch. It was the best throw of his career.

High School Football Unveils Friday Night

By United Press International

That mammoth sporting project that dominates small and large towns alike from mid-September to Thanksgiving—high school football—begins another run this week.

This year's lineup includes wholesale revisions in the "big city" AAAA classification and minor adjustments elsewhere, but the football will be the same. And there will be lots of it.

Almost a thousand high school teams will be at it this year from the king-sized metropolis schools to the six-man clubs in tiny towns.

One of last year's four major champion's, Class AA titleholder er plano, has moved up a notch to Class AAA, but the other three defending champions are back with good clubs that conceivably go all the way again.

Of those, Brownwood (AAA), is considered the most likely to repeat.

Hirschi Tough
The Lions, however, will find tough competition in their own district from Wichita Falls Hirschi and from around the state in Perryton, Dumas and Waco Moore.

Defending AAAA champion Abilene Cooper and last year's Class A winner, Tidehaven, will both have fine clubs back. But it could be a matter of just too many other good clubs.

The 100 and shot put were the only finals on Tuesday's schedule. Today, though, there will be finals in the discus, 400 meter hurdles and the 800 meter run.

High School Football Unveils Friday Night

Cooper has lost their all-anything quarterback, Jack Mildren, but might still win their extremely tough district against a quality Odessa Permian team.

Once in the playoffs, if they make it, the Cougars will probably run into one of the teams picked to take the crown this year, Amarillo Tascosa.

Over in Class A, Tidehaven is a good bet to win its district, but from there on it will find plenty of trouble in such expected powerhouses as Poth and Sonora.

Building Boom
The high school building boom in Texas' larger cities forced coaches to make a decision last year. They had to either create a new classification (AAAAA), or expand Class AAAA from 16 to 32 districts. They chose the latter. That means the city of Houston will have four districts, San Antonio will have three and Dallas, Fort Worth and El Paso will have two each.

Class AAA remains in its 16-division format, necessitating formation of zones in some of those districts.

District 3-AAA, however, consists of 11 teams and is not divided up into zones. Therefore, when the first night of action comes up this Friday night, members of that district will be playing for keeps with no non-district games on their schedule.

MARTIN NAMED

MONTREAL (UPI) — Lou Martin was appointed presidential administrative assistant by the Montreal Expos Tuesday. Martin, who will be the club's liaison man with the city in planning the construction of a temporary stadium.

Off The Top

By WES DUMONT
Pampa News Sports Editor

What can be said to be the highlights of the sport season in Pampa?

In baseball, Pampa's Harvesters won narrowly over Tascosa late in the season and had a late game winning streak at the end of the season.

In Babe Ruth tournament action, the talk was on the semifinal battle between Plainview and Pampa with the winner earning the right to meet Dumas in the finals. Pampa won the long ball game, and many fans stayed until near midnight to see the two young teams battle for what proved to be second place.

In softball, there was increasing interest in the fast-growing sport and some belief among players that the city should do more to finance the sport.

The rodeo, of course, drew well and provided the very entertaining country music of Judy Lynn who complimented Texans on their clean, well-groomed cities and appearance. A lack of hippies was noted by Miss Lynn.

The clowns were some of the country's best and nightly risked life and limb so the other rodeo contestants might escape injury.

The spring football game provided a warmup for the Pampa Harvesters, who are relegated to the cellar this year but determined to better last year's season of 0-10.

A revamped offense coached by an almost entire new football staff were working hard to prove the Pampa can be proud of its football team as well as its basketball squad, long a winner here in the Lone Star state.

The American Legion baseball team provided one of the highlights in the life of right-hander Al Gomez, whose banner head proclaimed that he had pitched that greatest of all pitching victories, a "no-hit" game.

On the national scene, the Detroit Tigers and the St. Louis Cardinals were almost mathematical winners in the American and National leagues respectively.

The Green Bay Packers, despite early exhibition losses, were installed favorites for the NFL football championship.

Major league members were fired and hired at a rate which jarred many baseball men.

A number of coaches left Pampa high school including Terry Culley, veteran basketball mentor; Eural Ramsey, ex-football coach and Bill Brown, ex-assistant basketball coach.

Included those running a different kind of race were an ex-substitute football player named Nixon and an ex-boxer named Wallace.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS

TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Airlines Need Freedom

Economists and others who have recognized the superiority of the market place over government when it comes to problem solving have often pointed out the obvious wisdom of letting the same system—the market place—which builds automobiles also build and operate the streets, roads and highways to run them on.

The suggestion certainly has merit. For, what could be more reasonable and calculated to produce an efficient street, road and highway network than an arrangement whereby the profits of one segment of the economy—the automotive industry in this instance—were directly tied to and dependent upon the existence of streets, roads and highways capable of absorbing the product, the automobile? The profit motive, itself, would act to insure that the nation enjoyed at any given time the optimum in efficient street, road and highway travel.

But it has not been permitted to work out that way. Suffering under the ancient illusion that the government must control traffic arteries, the country has been forced to continue under an archaic arrangement by which the vehicles are produced in the market place and the roadways to run them on have been controlled by the bureaucracy which, depending upon the tax man rather than satisfied customers, is notoriously inefficient. As a result, the nation's traffic problem has grown yearly until it now approaches chaotic conditions.

The error, as is becoming more evident every day, is being repeated in the area of air travel. Modern planes, manufactured in the market place are reaching a pinnacle of efficiency, being capable of whisk-

Step Up For Hard-Core Jobless

Following the riots in Detroit last summer, the automobile companies opened employment centers in the inner city. In less than a year, a total of 12,000 residents of the ghetto were hired. But a great many others were found who simply couldn't be put to work.

Here is the experience of one company: "I thought I knew what 'hard core' meant, until we became involved in this area," says Chrysler Corporation president Virgil E. Boyd. "I was wrong. Hard core refers not to those without steady jobs but to those not equipped for any job. Not the unemployed but the unemployable—those unable to fill out even a simple job application."

Working with the federal government, Chrysler launched a two-year experimental program to take some 750 of these people and give them whatever training necessary to make them employable.

This does not involve instruction in operating a lathe or a drilling tool. It means teaching them to read such elementary words as "in" and "out" on a door. It means teaching them to spell the names of colors so they can read the instruction card that tells them to put a blue or a green steering wheel on a car as it comes down the assembly line. It means teaching them simple addition so that they can count boxes of parts as they take them off a supplier's truck.

Unfortunately, a lot of the people enrolled in the program failed to show up, and many of those who did report were very late.

Company officials nodded their heads. This certainly proved what they had known all along: People who aren't working just don't want to work. But the company began investigating, and what it learned was a revelation. It found that these people were isolated in a veritable backwater of society. Many of them had no Social Security number, had never been counted in a census, had never registered to vote, belonged to no organization. In most of the accepted senses, they didn't even exist.

It found that many who showed up late had never owned an alarm clock and had never had to be at any particular place at any particular time.

It found that one in five of the unemployables was rejected for physical reasons and that 40 per cent of those were rejected because of poor vision.

It found that many of them suffered from fear, resentment, hostility and a history of failure. It also found that, despite their lack of education, the majority of them fell within a very acceptable I.Q. range.

So they were taught and treated and fitted with glasses and taken into the plants and shown people just like themselves who owned cars and clothes and houses because they worked and showed up for work on time every day.

In 12 weeks, the first 44 hard-core unemployables were on the job. At a recent date, only one had been lost. This is far better than the company's walk-in employment record.

"We have made an important discovery," says Boyd. "We have recognized that it is not only possible but definitely to our advantage to help the chronically unemployed and that with a lot of help, and some patience, they will help themselves."

Moscow Is Trapped In Its Own Lies

(Chicago Tribune)

The moment Soviet troops moved into Czechoslovakia, it was clear that the brief reawakening of freedom in that country was doomed. Its doom has been sealed, for the foreseeable future, in the so-called "agreement" obviously dictated to the Czech leaders in Moscow under duress, as so many "agreements" are in the communist world.

But there is one conspicuous thing that Russia wanted and did not get, and that is the replacement of the Dubcek regime. The fact that Russia allowed Messrs. Dubcek and Cernik to resume their offices, after having arrogantly arrested and kidnapped them, shows the extent to which the Russians were misled by their own lies.

The chief lies were that the Dubcek regime represented a reactionary minority backed by unidentified foreign imperialists and that unnamed Czech "leaders" had appealed to Russia for military help. The fact that the Soviet leaders even fooled themselves with these lies shows how little they know or care about public opinion in the "peoples' democracies." When the Russian soldiers showed up in Prague, they were visibly unnerved upon finding nobody to "save" and upon discovering how universally their presence was detested.

Meanwhile higher Soviet authorities were scrambling desperately to create a puppet government thru which they could assure the U.N. that everybody was happy. The unity and loyalty of the Czechs was such that not even the most pro-Moscow members of the party presidium could be talked into becoming a Czech quisling. There were simply no willing traitors, as there were in Hungary 1956 or at the U.N. was useless; Russia finally decided it had no choice but to let the Dubcek regime stay in power—with a gun at its head.

It will probably be a long time before the Czechs regain the freedom they have lost, or the Soviet Union recovers from a venture which has so dramatically proved its short-sightedness, its imperialism, its fear and its inhumanity, all at once.

The 'Black Behemoth' has at last rolled off the line. It is a specially constructed Lincoln that weighs six tons and cost $500,000. It is the rolling fortress in which Elbee Jay will ride.

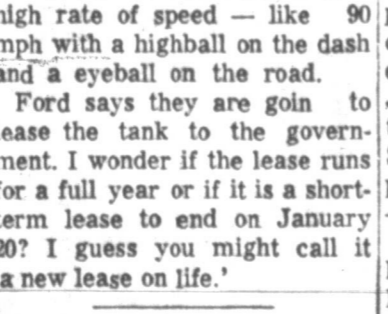

Once inside, Elbee Jay will be safe from bullets, bottles and beads. It is covered with 2 tons of armor plate. Has got bullet proof window glass and a plastic canopy of the same kind used in fighter planes.

Of course, it wouldn't be complete if there wasn't some way for him to talk, so there is a public address system and speeches can be made to the loving crowds of people without getting out to see how loving they really are.

This stylized army tank has got heavy-duty truck tires to carry the load. Inside the tires are some steel wheels. That's so, even if Elbee Jay has a blowout he can still travel at a high rate of speed—like 90 mph with a highball on the dash and an eyeball on the road.

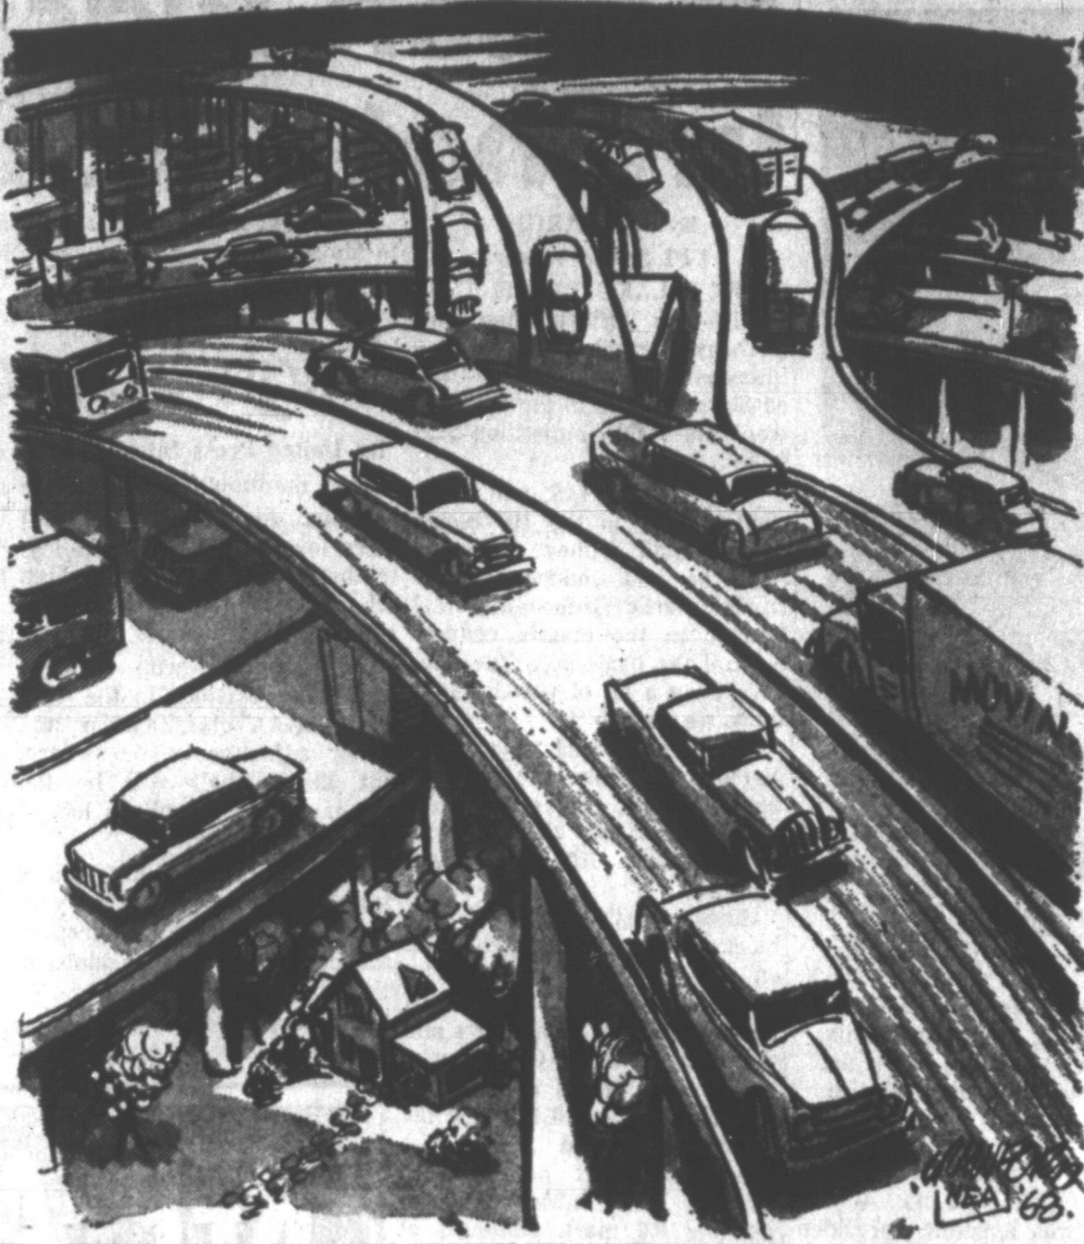

Ford says they are going to lease the tank to the government. I wonder if the lease runs for a full year or if it is a short-term lease to end on January 20? I guess you might call it a new lease on life.

Humphrey Relying on Wallace-Nixon Split Of Conservative White Vote to Score in South

ROBERT ALLEN

JOHN GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Never mind the "old politics" or the "new politics," Vice President Humphrey is relying on the "old mathematics" in his campaign for the electoral vote of Southern states.

Basically, the Humphrey presidential campaign is being shaped to fit the traditional Democratic pattern of the recent past, with heavy concentration in the big industrial states. The Vice President is not giving up on the South, however, even with the third party candidacy of former Governor Alabama George Wallace.

Humphrey is simply including Wallace in his Southern calculations. That is where the "old mathematics" comes in. It is a matter of dividing by three rather than by two.

In strategy talks Humphrey aides list these states as the major Humphrey battle grounds: Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Texas and California.

Except, perhaps, for Minnesota—if convention wounds can be healed—the aides are not very high on Humphrey's chances in the rest of the Midwest. The major farm states in their view, will be tough for the Democrats to crack this time.

That early appraisal of the farm belt jibes with the current views of GOP strategists.

For example, Republican farm experts say the corn crop is excellent. Indications are, however, that the prices paid to farmers for their corn will have them mumbling to themselves—and blaming the incumbent Democrats.

That could be bad news for the Humphrey-Muskie ticket, not only in the farm states but also in the rural, southern portion of pivotal Illinois.

ever, Humphrey will be no less a critic of crime in the streets than his two opponents, and the trio may seem to be outbidding one another at times in their eager support of domestic tranquility.

Humphrey's aim will be to neutralize the law and order issue and thus eliminate it as much as possible as a factor in a voter's choice. That will help in the Southern states.

It will be even more important in the North, however, where Wallace's tough-talking attack on civil disorders has a special appeal among the blue-collar residents of the big cities. Defections in those communities would cut traditional Democratic margins in industrial centers.

MIDWEST HOPES DIM — In that connection, Humphrey aides list these states as the major Humphrey battle grounds: Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Texas and California.

Except, perhaps, for Minnesota—if convention wounds can be healed—the aides are not very high on Humphrey's chances in the rest of the Midwest. The major farm states in their view, will be tough for the Democrats to crack this time.

Q—Three years ago I had a bleeding duodenal ulcer. It is advisable to have an annual X-ray examination to see whether it has come back? Is intestinal or stomach gas related to or caused by a peptic ulcer?

A—Unless you have failed to eliminate the cause of your ulcer or unless you have a return of your ulcer symptoms, I would not advise an X-ray examination. Time enough to do this when you get the ulcer type of distress.

Most intestinal and stomach gas is swallowed air. Some is the result of fermentation of the food you eat. Neither is related to or caused by an ulcer.

Q—What is meant by the term "ruptured ulcer with dynamic ileus"? A—When a peptic ulcer ruptures, this is a surgical emergency. One result of the rupture may be a cessation of all peristaltic waves in your intestines. This is adynamic ileus.

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G. BRANDSTADT

Commonest Ulcers Occur in Duodenum

Q—What are the symptoms of a stomach ulcer? Are X rays necessary for the diagnosis?

A—The commonest peptic ulcers are located just beyond the outlet of the stomach in the duodenum. The symptoms vary but, in most persons, the ulcer causes a gnawing sensation that is located with the tip of one finger in the midline between the lower end of the breast bone (sternum) and the navel. This distress usually comes on two or three hours after a meal and is relieved by drinking milk or taking an antacid.

When the ulcer is located in the stomach itself the symptoms are not so clear-cut. Most victims don't have any symptoms and some have nausea or cramping pains that are more diffuse than those of a duodenal ulcer. Taking food, instead of relieving the pain, may aggravate it. The diagnosis is not always easy to make and X rays, taken after swallowing a barium meal, are usually requested to help confirm the diagnosis.

Q—I was operated on for a duodenal ulcer. My doctor says that, if I need to take aspirin for a headache, I should take Maalox or baking soda at the same time. What do you think?

A—Since aspirin irritates the stomach and duodenum it would be better to use one of the pain relievers that does not contain aspirin.

Q—Three years ago I had a bleeding duodenal ulcer. It is advisable to have an annual X-ray examination to see whether it has come back? Is intestinal or stomach gas related to or caused by a peptic ulcer?

Great While It Lasted

By PAUL HARVEY

Jeffersonian democracy worked best when ours was a mostly agrarian society. It still works best in Kansas, Nebraska, Utah and Mississippi. It's in the big cities that our Americanism is in trouble. It is the population concentrations that the one-man-one-vote concept makes "rulers" of our least enlightened numerical majority.

Jefferson imagined that a representative form of government would ensure that we would always be represented by our most educated, most productive, most capable citizens. The statesmen of his day were, in fact, learned landowners representing an uncommonly successful minority.

The politicians of our day, elected by majority vote, are tending more and more to represent the selfish, lazy, less enlightened masses.

Jeffersonian democracy was great while it lasted. Increasingly, our elected officials are being intimidated by their responsible mob.

You and I used to see newsreels or news pictures of young rioters surging through streets throwing themselves and things against armies of police and troops. From a distance we watched such ugly insurrection in Latin American nations, in the Balkans, in the Orient.

What a shame, we thought to ourselves, that they have no orderly way to redress just grievances. How fortunate that in our country we do have laws limiting everybody's authority over anybody—and the means of amending unjust laws.

Perhaps it was in our well-intentioned efforts to ally and intermingle ourselves with less privileged people in less civilized nations that, instead of teaching our better way of peaceful protest, we imitated their reversion to barbarism. Addressing a Chicago street rally August 26, 1968, during the chaotic political convention in that city, under a black flag of anarchy, a professional troublemaker named Tom Hayden declared an end to peaceful demonstration and said, "Blood will flow from a lot of heads." He told his followers, "Take to the streets; the streets belong to us. Go to your homes and create one, two, three hundred Chicagos!"

Britain's Lord T. B. Macaulay, a hundred years ago, did not believe Jeffersonian democracy could long endure. He felt that government by majority inevitably entrusted decision-making to the poorest and most ignorant. He said men and nations will always have "bad years." If the sufferers are the rulers, they will not be willing patiently to await social and economic adjustment; they will demand and get "immediate improvement—even if it means devouring seed corn."

Then, said Macaulay, "Either liberty or civilization must perish. Either some Caesar or Napoleon will seize the reins of government with a strong hand, or your republic will be as fearfully plundered and laid waste by the barbarians of the 20th century as was the Roman Empire in the fifth—with this difference: the Huns and Vandals who ravaged the Roman empire came from without and your Huns and Vandals will have been engendered within your own country..."

This ominous prognosis suggests two possible remedies. Either Americans must deliver themselves into the hands of a man on horseback and pray that he will be a beneficent dictator. Or else Americans must now reject the concept of one vote for every one man unless he is a tax-paying citizen. We must return the reins of government to responsible hands.

WASHINGTON: If Moscow disallowed these votes, Dubcek's position may become exceedingly shaky in the months ahead. Ousted President Novotny has some strong supporters. Dubcek has other ambitious rivals.

Repression of the press after its brief burst of freedom will create strong pressure against Dubcek. So will any attempt to keep students and the intelligents quiet.

Item—Will Russian advisers continue in key positions in the Czech police and Ministry of the Interior permanently—after Soviet troops withdraw to fixed positions?

Item—Will there be new purges involving key men in Dubcek's reforms?

Item—Will the Czechs stop their efforts to find Western credit to build their faltering industry?

Item—Will the borders with Austria and West Germany be closed as tightly as East Berlin's borders? Will the Czechs abandon moves toward improved trade and political relations with West Germany?

How long the Soviet army stays in Czechoslovakia will be watched by all concerned. Professional Moscow watchers will be even more interested in the items above. They will be a measure of just how successful Moscow's troops were in imposing the Soviet will on Prague.

'Aggies Want Top Rating In Texas

51st
YEAR

THE PAMPA DAILY NEWS
WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1968

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas Aggies, who like the view from the top and who reign as champions until someone proves differently, plan to argue heatedly — on the field this fall — that Texas shouldn't be rated the 1968 title favorite.

There is plenty of ammunition around which Coach Gene Stallings can command during the season-long debate, but despite 18 returning starters there are some weak spots in the framework which must be shored up.

Done at Key Spot

That shoring will have to be done at the key spot, the middle of the offensive line — the men charged with the responsibility of protection of clutch passer Edd Gharrett and the blocking for such running aces as tailback Larry Stegent and fullback Wendell Housley.

Stallings is having to plug both guard and one tackle slot up front and he's having to dig into the sophomore ranks to find the guards and use a lightly-tested junior at tackle.

Run 1-2

Rusty Stallings, a 195-pounder who is no relation to the coach, and stubby Gary Gruben, another soph, are running 1-2 at weak side guard; Jim Parker and soph Ronald Reagan, an Oklahoma import, are in the same status at the strong side spot. Junior Mark Thomas is trying to keep soph Mike Fields starting at the open tackle position.

Sophomores also will fill the only vacancy on the defense — at end where Grady Allen departed. Mike DeNiro, an Ohioan, and Roy Kirkpatrick are the two top contenders.

Elsewhere, Stallings had tried and tested men who were starters on the club which lost its first four games a year ago and then stormed to six straight league triumphs and a startling 20-16 upset of Alabama in the Cotton Bowl.

First and foremost, of course, is Hargett, the scrambling mauler who keyed the victory surge a year ago with his passing and running.

His counterpart on defense is Bill Hobbs, a wide-ranging linebacker who specialized in interceptions (7) last year when he wasn't making tackles.

Stallings Understrud

But, they're not all, by any means, that Stallings keeps in mind when he says:

"I can see why some folks pick us first and I can see why some pick us second."

There is Stegent, flanker Bob Long and doubleduty Tommy Maxwell, who among them snagged 69 passes for a dozen touchdowns. Stegent also was the team's leading rusher with 568 yards, while Maxwell was a safety on defense who switches to a receiver in clutch offensive situations.

Heads Defensive

Then, there is the defense, headed by tackle Rolf Krueger up front and by Curley Hallman, Maxwell and Ross Brubacher, who intercepted five passes, in the secondary.

And, last but not least, there is punter Steve O'Neal with his 42.1-yard average and place of 18 extra points. Kicker Charlie Riggs with eight. It all adds up to almost a out of 10 field goals and 15 out smirking grin on Aggie faces.

the best passing combination in the school's history. But coach Bill Elias predicts the team's aerial attack "could be even better than it was a year ago."

Quarterback Problem

Just who will do the passing and catching is anybody's guess, however. The Middies have no quarterback with any varsity game experience and only tight end Mike Clark is an established receiver. Navy appears more likely to move on the ground with speedy Jeri Balsey heading a strong array of runners.

Navy's real weakness last season was its defense, which allowed three touchdowns a game. Elias promises the defense will be better, but it doesn't figure to improve enough to win the Middies many games.

Joe Yukica takes over the helm of Boston College this year, replacing Jim Miller, and he is counting on some highly-rated sophomores to make the Eagles a winner. The talented sophs are quarterback Frank "Red" Harris, who passed for 990 yards and nine touchdowns in four freshman games, and halfback Fred Willis, who scored six of those touchdowns and caught 18 passes.

Among the other independents, Buffalo and Rutgers both should improve on last year's records while Holy Cross, Villanova, Boston University and Colgate appear to be in for disappointing campaigns.

The return of Dowling and fullback Calvin Hill make Yale the favorite to retain the Ivy league title, but Princeton, Dartmouth and Cornell will all provide formidable opposition.

Massachusetts, with 26 lettermen returning, is favored to retain its Yankee Conference championship and Temple looks like a repeater in the Middle Atlantic Conference.

Tulane University, the opening night football opponent for the University of Houston on Sept. 14, will fly to Houston on Wednesday, Sept. 11, for its final pre-game workouts in the Astrodome. The team will set up headquarters in the Towers Hotel.

The last time Tulane University met a team from Texas was in 1966 when the Green wave beat Texas A&M 21-13. Tulane will open the 1968 collegiate season Sept. 14 against the University met a team from Texas was dome.

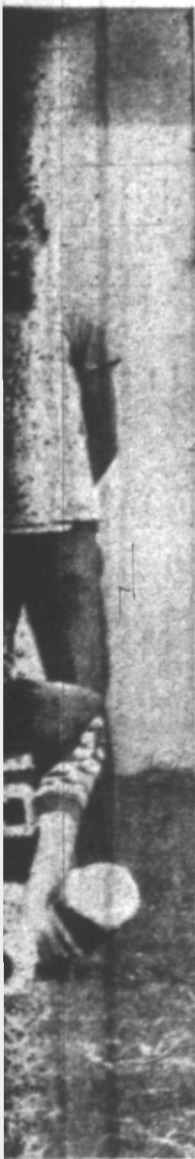

TU or UT? — will be on the minds of University of Houston football fans most of this season. The Cougars will open their season on Sept. 14 against Tulane meet the University of Tulane University in the Astrodome. The next weekend Houston travels to Austin to meet the University of Texas. And, the Cougar homecoming game will be Nov. 23 in the Astrodome against the University of Tulsa.

Landry Rates Dallas Fourth

By ED FITE
UPI Sports Writer
DALLAS (UPI)—The Dallas Cowboys have played the Green Bay Packers, unsuccessfully, for the National Football League title the past two years, but coach Tom Landry still figures his club probably ranks No. 4 instead of No. 2 in the NFL.

This "low" rating comes despite the fact his club came within inches and seconds of upsetting the Packers both times. The principal reason is the club's inconsistency.

Landry's ratings were made in mid-August and he rated the Los Angeles Rams as the most logical successor to Green Bay's laurels with Baltimore next in line.

"We're No. 4 right now at this stage and must make our move to go ahead of the others," he said.

Five nights later, the Cowboys made one of those "moves" by annihilating the Green Bay came to town and embarrassed the Cowboys 31-27 in a game far more one-sided than the score.

Such ups-and-downs have been a thorny problem for Landry for several seasons and he blames some of it on lack of mental toughness.

The personnel is there to again project the Cowboys into a title contest with the west, whether it be the Packers, the Rams or Baltimore. There has been very little personnel change and maturity should be an added asset.

Much-maligned and oft-injured Don Meredith and Craig Morton—who filled in capably during Meredith's ailing weeks last season—and Jerry Rhome are still waging a week-to-week battle for the No. 2 role.

Bob Hayes, the ever-present bomb threat, and Lance Rentzel, the NFL's No. 6 pass catcher, are back as the wide receivers and should be better with Ray Berry's newly-added coaching. Pete Gent may improve the tight end receiving potential and oust Pettis Norman there.

Don Perkins, and slashing Don Reeves return a great one-two ground punch although Reeves may have trouble keeping Less Shy on the bench rushers, Walt Garrison and Craig Baynham.

Dave Manders, out with an injury all last year, returns with no threat to his No. 1 center role. Ralph Neely, Tony Liscio and John Niland offer savvy and size up front, but Leon Donahue at guard has been slow recuperating from an off-season operation and John Wilbur has been filling in capably.

Defensively, the Cowboys' front four is intact with Bob Lilly, George Andrie, Jethro Pugh and Willie Townes forming the "doomsday defense" which has been one of the best in the league against rushing.

Middle linebacker Lee Roy Jordan and outside men Dave Edwards and Chuck Howley can hold their own with almost anyone, but Landry traded away No. 1 backup man Harold Hays and depth here could prove a real problem.

Landry traded for two veteran linebacks from New Orleans, Dave Simmons and Jackie Burkett, but their worth will stand testing.

Third-year man Mike Johnson still isn't in the same class with his counterpart, Cornell Green, at cornerback, but he's in solid there with sophomore Phil Clark proving an adequate alternate.

Improved Kicking
The Cowboys' sore spot of recent years, kicking, appears to have been solved with a trade for Pittsburgh's Mike Clark as a placekicker and rookie Ron Widby for the punting. Landry would rather have a combination man, but will have to pay the price of carrying two.

Barring injuries, the Cowboys appear, then, to be amply set except for linebacking depth, a bit stronger reserves in the defensive and offensive lines and proven secondary help in case Renfro has persistent injury trouble.

It is just that the team keeps Landry in a quandary as to what to expect from Sunday to Sunday.

Pitt Coach Emphasizes Recruiting

By FRED McMANE
UPI Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UPI)—The day Dave Hart set foot on the University of Pittsburgh campus he swore the Panthers' football future would change radically. Through an elaborate recruiting program, he has kept his word and this year the Panthers will growl again.

Their growl may not be fierce enough to win the Lambert Trophy—symbol of eastern football supremacy—but they are going to frighten a lot of foes and must rank as a sleeper in the race for top eastern football honors.

The reason for optimism at Pitt stems from coach Hart's massive recruiting program, which has netted some of the finest high school football players in the country over the past two years. As many as 15 sophomores could start for the Panthers this season.

It sounds risky to be banking on sophomores to bring a team back to prosperity after two successive 1-9 campaigns, but Hart does not have a group of ordinary sophs.

Among them are linebackers

Ralph Cindrich and Lloyd Weston, two of the most-prized first-year players in the nation. Another is John Stevens, a 238-pound tackle, whom Hart lured away from the clutches of Notre Dame.

Hart knows he mustn't be too optimistic. He has a major task of developing a quarterback and, of course, there is Pitt's rugged schedule, which again includes such powers as UCLA, Notre Dame and Miami (Fla.)

The problem of finding a suitable quarterback faces most of the eastern powers this season. The two best around are Army's Steve Lindel and Yale's Brian Dowling, but after that things get pretty thin.

Penn State Rated High
Penn State, which won the Lambert Trophy last year, ranks on paper as the strongest team in the East and if coach Joe Paterno can come up with a first-rate quarterback, the Nittany Lions could be as good as last year's 8-2 Gator Bowl squad.

The offense returns seven starters, including tight end Ted Kwalick, halfback Charlie Pitman and fullback Don Abbey, and the defense also has seven returnees.

For the first time in over a decade Syracuse will be without an All-America ball carrier, but it shouldn't stop the Orangemen from fielding another strong team.

Coach Ben Schwartzwalder's team retains the bulk of a defensive unit that ranked fourth in the nation last year, so the Orangemen probably won't be scored upon too often. However, the offense was depleted by graduation and thus they probably won't score too much either.

The best offensive backfield in the East belongs to Army with Lindell, fullback Charley Jarvis and halfbacks Lynn Moore and Hank Andrzejczak carrying the hopes of the Cadets.

The Cadets' schedule isn't that imposing, so it's quite likely coach Tom Cahill's squad will come up with another winning season.

Navy is being forced to rebuild its offense following the graduation of quarterback John Cartwright and end Rob Taylor, (See PITT, Page 15)

Change Marks Pampa's Team

The kicking toe of John Stokes, the running of John Jenkins and the passing of Gary Parrish are expected to be important factors in the revamped Pampa Harvester football fortunes for 1968.

Stokes revealed his golden toe when he kicked a 22-yard field goal at a difficult angle near the sideline in the scrimmage contest with Tulia last Saturday. With the score tied at 14-14, Stokes kicked the ball through the uprights for a 17-14 win over Tulia which reversed the outcome last year which saw Tulia win, five touchdowns to one.

Jenkins, a halfback, scored two touchdowns, one a sensational punt return down the sidelines from near his own 40 yard line to put the Harvesters on the scoreboard.

Parrish was the individual star in the spring intra-squad game and connected for good yardage on passes.

Pampa is again predicted for the cellar spot in the district 4-AAAA conference.

Whether they will finish higher is second-guessing. It can be said, however, that one thing is certain: They will do better than last year: In the 1966-67 season, they scored 25 points and had a record of 9-10, including a game which set the most individual points scored against the Harvesters, 69-6, against Dumas.

Coach Swede Lee, ex-Oklahoma University assistant, gives what he terms a "realistic" appraisal of the Harvesters and lists the following evaluation:

1. Lack of experience, size and speed.
2. Reserve strength depends on juniors.
3. Ability to move ball will depend on how passing fares.

Lee was hired as athletic director and head football coach for this season under a three-year contract.

The Harvesters will operate from the 5-2 monster defense used successfully by the University of Arkansas and more recently by the University of Oklahoma.

Small Sophomore To Quarterback Wildcat Eleven

CANADIAN — Five sophomores including quarterback Bill Lynch will play on the Canadian's Wildcat football squad which opens its season Sept. 13 in a home game with Booker.

Lynch, who played on the B team last year, is 130 pounds of dynamite who stands 5-5 for one of the smallest quarterbacks in Texas.

Head coach James Anglin describes Lynch as a back who "can do anything. He's an all-around player and very aggressive. He can hit anything that moves." He won't be used on defense, however.

Anglin took over the reins of the Canadian team this year after serving as assistant coach at Canadian last year.

The other sophomore players were Wayne Flowers, Jodie Wilson, Gary Pursher and Tom Hill.

Anglin lists his starting teams on defense and offense as follows:

Offensive team: Center — Danny Field. Strong guard — Jim Anderson. Strong tackle — Wayne Flowers. Split end — Jodie Wilson. Weak guard — Randy Field. Tight end — Bob Gutierrez. Quarterback — Bill Lynch. Fullback — Rich Barry. Jr. Tailback — Gary Pursher. Sr. Wingback — Tom Hill.

Defensive team: Linemen — Danny Field, Randy Field, Mike Turnage, Bob Gutierrez. Linebackers — Tom Hill, Rich Barry, Jerry Thomas. Quarterback — K.C. Rudy. Glenn Wood. Halfbacks — Dale Spannagel, Gary Pursher.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A flock of termites will take in the rock 'n roll scene Wednesday night as guests of a group of government scientists.

Dr. Trenchard Bowelton, an etymological researcher, said his team plans to study the effects of musical vibrations on the ability of the common North American termite to digest his wood cellulose diet.

"I think the U.S. Department of Agriculture is freaking out," said Steve Miller, blues band leader at the night club where the termites will be taken. "Rock will only turn off square termites."

White Deer Again Rate Favorites

For the fifth straight year, White Deer has been tabbed favorite to win the District 1-A high school football title.

The other two are junior tailback Lonnie Lane and senior wingback Greg Thomas.

Defensive starters are seniors Bruce Locke and James Duke and sophomore Ricky Thurman. Offensive starters are seniors Thomas Martin and Steve Urbanczyk.
