Congress Jolt Talk Plans

By LOREN JENKINS
PARIS (UPI)—Hopes that the expanded Paris talks on Vietnam would develop into full-scale peace negotiations received a double jolt today. There was growing doubt they could begin Wednesday as scheduled.

The first blow came from a five-foot woman Communist guerrilla who led the Viet Cong delegation into Paris today and promptly stated the Vietnam War could be settled only on Viet Cong terms.

The second blow came in Saigon when President Nguyen Van Thieu reaffirmed his refusal to enter peace talks which include the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, and said "nobody can force us to do that."

"Thanks to the heroic struggle and the great victories scored in all fields by the 31 million Vietnamese, and thanks to the firm demands of the peoples throughout the world and of the American people, the U.S. government had to stop unconditionally the bombing of the whole territory of the Democratic Republic of (North) Vietnam," the 41-year-old woman proclaimed.

For the first time the U.S. delegation today indicated its plans were being affected by the Saigon government boycott of the talks.

"We're not aware of any change from Wednesday. But that doesn't rule out the possibility of a change," said Mark Sheehan, deputy news secretary of the U.S. delegation. The Communists scorned the Saigon boycott. Hanoi's newspaper Nhan Dan, in an editorial broadcast from the North Vietnamese capital, said Saigon's boycott was "ridiculous. No acts or deeds by the puppet clique (Saigon regime) to give a pretense of opposition to their master can deceive anybody. Sooner or later, the puppet clique will be shut by their American bosses in a ready-made cage."

Diplomatic sources said the South Vietnam boycott may delay the start of the expanded talks.

For the first time the American delegation was admitting that Thieu's adamant stand could change U.S. plans for the meeting. The rift could even grow wider—South Vietnam called a major demonstration for Tuesday to "stress the nation's self-determination in political affairs."

Wooden barricades were placed around the U.S. Embassy in Saigon and American soldiers were ordered to stay out of downtown Saigon as a precaution against anti-American outbreaks.

The Viet Cong delegation to Paris was led by Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, whose first words on arrival was a threat to continue the guerrilla war until

230 Guerrillas Killed In Numerous Clashes

By ALVIN B. WEBB Jr.
SAIGON (UPI)—Allied forces killed at least 230 guerrillas in light but numerous clashes throughout South Vietnam, military spokesmen said today. In one fight a U.S. Marine jet accidentally bombed American positions, killing six Leathernecks and wounding eight others.

Military officials described the South Vietnamese fighting as generally calm with no large scale fighting reported.

Saigon's attention centered on government plans for a 6,000 person rally to support President Nguyen Van Thieu's refusal to allow South Vietnam's participation in expanded peace talks in Paris, despite U.S. urging. American spokesmen said they saw "no trouble" from the rally but said the Marine guard at the U.S. Embassy here was "increased slightly" the past few days.

Concentrate On South

The killing of the 230 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese came Sunday up and down the country. Airplanes and warships, no longer allowed to strike North Vietnam, joined the attack in the south. The battleship New Jersey, fresh from hitting North Vietnam, sent one ton shells crashing into a North Vietnamese camp near Da Nang, 360 miles north of Saigon.

About 20 miles southwest of Da Nang, a Marine F4 Phantom dropped its bombs on Leathernecks charging toward a North Vietnamese trench nest, causing the American casualties. The accident was being investigated.

Further down the coast, the destroyer Weller blasted a Viet Cong camp near Phan Thiet, 100 miles east of Saigon. Some of the dazed guerrillas came so close to an American forward sputter on shore that "they left muddy footprints on my poncho," he later reported.

Small Fights Erupt

American and South Vietnamese troops killed Communists in small groups from the Mekong Delta to near the North Vietnam border.

Despite a lack of major combat, American warplanes continued to search out and bomb suspected guerrilla positions and supply dumps in the South.

According to U.S. military sources, the halt in bombing North Vietnam may result in the withdrawal from the war zone of two of the three aircraft carriers the 7th Fleet used in bombarding North Vietnam.

The Viet Cong, although shying from major action over the weekend, used terror tactics Sunday. Guerrillas killed five persons in mortaring a town 30 miles south of Saigon.

Commandos Attack Loyal Troops of King Hussein

Jordan Also Facing Arab-Israel Tension

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI)—A Syrian-backed commando group p.m. broadcast said the Al Nasr angered at King Hussein's commando organization was alleged "soft" stand against Israel opened fire today against his loyal troops. The dawn, but officials said it would commandos used women and be an exaggeration to call it an children as human shields to attempt to overthrow the Hussein government.

Hussein has been the target of several assassination attempts by extremists over the years and there have been several instances of fighting between his loyal troops and the more militant anti-Israel factions whose raids into Israel have brought sharp retaliation from the Israeli army and air force.

Jordanian sources said the commandos were restive because of Hussein's reported desire to bring them under firmer control in order to prevent any future Israeli retaliation which could damage his country's shaky economic and political struggle still further.

Top News In Brief

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Retired Gen. Curtis LeMay, here for a $25-a-plate breakfast early today, has expressed doubt about the worth of the U.S. bombing halt over North Vietnam.

"I can't believe the North Vietnamese are serious," LeMay said Sunday. "I understand the pessimism of the South Vietnamese. More tonnage is being moved from North to south than ever before."

SEOUL (UPI)—South Korean troops killed 11 North Koreans Sunday in clashes along the truce front and the western coastline, military authorities said today.

South Korean Premier Chung Il-Kwon held an emergency meeting today with his top security aides to discuss North Korea's increasing provocations in the wake of Communist mortar attacks on South Korean front line positions Sunday.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There is "absolutely no evidence whatever" House members were involved in illegal "ghost voting" during the final session of the 90th Congress, according to the House Ethics Committee. The panel issued a report during the weekend on charges that several members were recorded as voting when they were out of town.

MANILA (UPI)—A rolling earthquake swayed buildings in Manila today but no damage was reported. The Weather Bureau said the quake's intensity was two on the Rossi-Ferial scale of nine and its center was 90 miles from Manila.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Street disorders flared in the nation's capital during the weekend after a white policeman wounded two Negro women with his pistol. Police used tear gas to restore order.

Authorities said the shooting occurred after one of the women allegedly threatened the policeman with a butcher knife.

Weather broke clear and cool over Texas today and it was expected to stay that way for at least two days.

Early morning temperatures were in the low 40s and upper 30s with Fort Worth recording a 44, Abilene a 38 and Wichita Falls an even 40.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—The Texas American Independent Party Sunday requested an investigation of Dr. Billy Graham and his Evangelical Association, saying Graham solicited funds for a televised crusade and used the TV time to extol Richard Nixon.

UNUSUAL INTEREST IN RACES

Record Balloting Expected At County Polls Tomorrow

All records may be broken in a Gray County turn-out of voters in tomorrow's presidential election.

Political observers base the prediction on the record-breaking absentee vote of approximately 1,800 ballots and the unusual interest in this year's balloting for president.

Interest is also expected to be intense in the hotly contested county attorney race between Republican Ben Sturgeon and Democrat John Warner.

Nearly 500 more absentee and limited presidential election ballots have been cast this year than in the previous record year of 1964, when 1,013 absentee votes were cast.

Voter registration in Gray County is also heavier this year than it has been in other years. There are 13,790 registered voters this year as compared to slightly over 10,000 in 1964.

The figure does not include cast already, some of which are by persons who are qualified to vote only in the limited presidential balloting and whose names were not recorded during the regular voter registration period.

In addition to the county attorney race, on which most attention is expected to be focused, other contested races pit incumbent Congressman Bob Price against Dick Brown for

Lenning to Make Appointment For Vacant Position

County Judge S. R. Lenning Jr., who returned to office today after a month's leave of absence because of illness, said he would make an appointment later this week to fill out the term of the late county commissioner of Pct. 2, Clyde Organ, who died Saturday afternoon of an apparent heart attack.

Mr. Organ, who had served as a county commissioner for six years, was re-elected to office in 1966. His successor will be appointed by the county judge to fill out the remaining two years of his term.

All court house offices closed today at noon for the funeral of Mr. Organ.

Election 'Too Close to Call,' Pollsters Say the Day Before

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Major polls indicated today Hubert H. Humphrey was on the verge of overtaking Richard M. Nixon with only one day left in the 1968 campaign.

More than 70 million voters are expected to ballot Tuesday to climax one of the most uncertain campaigns in years' modern history.

Nixon still appeared to be the man to beat, but Humphrey's hopes were lifted by his late surge in public opinion polls and a widespread belief among Democrats he would benefit from President Johnson's decision to stop the bombing of North Vietnam.

The final Gallup and Harris polls published today both showed Nixon leading Humphrey 42 to 49 per cent, indicating Humphrey had closed the wide deficit with which he started the campaign. George C. Wallace's share of the vote was indicated at 14 per cent in the Gallup poll and 12 per cent in the Harris poll with the balance undecided.

Nixon's biggest leads over Humphrey at any time during the campaign came in late September in the Gallup survey with a 15 per cent spread, and in the Harris poll at the middle of that month with an 8 per cent difference.

Hard To Predict

Lawrence F. O'Brien, Humphrey's campaign manager, said professional pollsters agree that a two-point margin "makes the election too close to call."

However, the pollsters also agree that their margin of error works both ways and that a two-point difference could in fact mean a spread of 8 to 10 points.

The Albert D. Sindlinger polling firm of Norwood, Pa., reported that its current survey showed Humphrey had moved ahead of Nixon for the first time during the campaign. It gave Humphrey 34.4 per cent, Nixon 33.8 and Wallace 14.1, with the balance divided among people who preferred other candidates, refused to tell their choice, or said they still were undecided.

"Clearly anything can happen by the time the polls open on Tuesday," Sindlinger said.

A New York Times survey published today showed Nixon ahead in 30 states with 299 electoral votes, 29 more than the 270 majority needed to win. Humphrey was in front in eight states and the District of Columbia with 77 electoral votes and Wallace in five states with 45. Seven states with 117 electoral votes were undecided.

Major Flooding Strikes Northern Parts of Italy

BIELLA, Italy (UPI)—Officials said today the death toll was almost sure to climb in the flooding that burst dams, buckled bridges and swept away homes and factories of northern Italy's industrial heartland.

At least 79 persons were known dead and scores were missing and injured from the flooding Strona Creek, police said. It was the nation's worst flood since the 1966 disaster that ruined many art treasures in Florence.

St. Marks Square in Venice, known by tourists throughout the world, lay beneath five feet of water, the worst flooding in the city of canals in 100 years. But the city's art treasures were spared.

"It looks like somebody smashed us between two big rocks," one survivor told rescue workers in the mountain villages.

"Conditions are so terrible we can't even find out who is missing where," a police spokesman said. "We are afraid it is much worse than we suspect."

The 72-hour non stop rain left hundreds of square miles of northern Italy under as much as 6.5 feet of water.

The worst was in the Mosso Valley region 36 miles northeast of Turin where the Strona Creek swept everything in its path.

The torrents of rain came with the first big storm of the season, which also flooded parts of England and left as much as 20 inches of snow in parts of northern Scotland.

A British Navy submarine, picked up survivors of a Liberian tanker which broke in two in heavy seas off Spain.

An earthquake smashed a school, a church and many homes Sunday on Yugoslavia's southern coast.

Commissioners To Award Bids On Containers

City commissioners at their semi-monthly meeting Tuesday in City Hall will consider a recommendation for awarding bids on the purchase of ten more refuse containers for commercial use throughout the city. The first purchase of some 70 boxes now are in the process of shipments.

The new containers, according to City Manager Charles Hill, will replace Dempster dumpster containers now in use.

Consideration also will be given to a recommendation for closing the last remaining runway at the old Reeves Air Force Base, east of the city, in order to use the caliche paving material for repair of city streets and alleys.

Other matters for consideration on Tuesday's agenda will include:

Transfer of $70,000 from the Sewer & Water Fund to the General Fund for fiscal 1968-69.

Recommendation of the city staff concerning removal of old trash barrels from alleys.

Staff recommendation concerning extension of sewer service to a residence outside the city limits.

Approval of routine salary changes of city employees for October and the payment of monthly bills.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Indicator Digest feels that current market fluctuations are due to "indecisiveness and normal profit-taking rather than to apprehension about the election or the peace situation. A victory by either candidate, the company believes, "should, at least theoretically, have an immediate beneficial effect upon the stock market," although not necessarily be bullish over the long-term.

"Because of the necessity to seek some extra protection in an uncertain environment," Vandenberg, Lieber & Co. notes a responsible analysis of the support to be expected in basic industrial stocks should depend on factors of demand and price flexibility. If the economy heads downward, the firm says, the contrast between next year's and this year's recovery profit margins may not be attractive. But if the economy does not slow down as expected, "basic industrials may yet prove to have sustained earnings growth."

W.E. Hutton & Co. says in an economy and a world situation "so complicated and fluid, as is today's any man who is President of the United States, has to feel his way along rather than stick to hard and fast philosophies of government." Market responses to the election will be emotional rather than fundamental, it adds.

Band and Choir Continue Sales For LA Project

Pampa High School band and choir students and Band Booster Club have sold about 1,000 fruit cakes to help finance the band and choir students' Los Angeles '68 Project. The sale continues through Nov. 13.

The two music groups will perform a 10-minute halftime Christmas show during the Dec. 15 National Football League game between Los Angeles Rams and Baltimore Colts. The game will be televised live coast-to-coast and locally on KPDA-TV Channel 10 CBS Station.

In the first week of the sales campaign, several members sold as many as 25 fruit cakes to reach the goal of one fruit cake in every home, or at least the sale of 5,000 fruit cakes. Newt Secrest, committee chairman, said. Anyone interested in buying a fruit cake from any band or choir member may contact them or telephone MO 4-4604 or MO 4-2227.

Secrest added, "Purchase of fruit cake during this fund raising sale serves two purposes. It gives the buyer an opportunity to contribute to the Los Angeles '68 tip and at the same time enjoy a nationally famous product usually available only by mail."

You, Your Child and School

By DAVID NYDICK UPI Education Specialist

Too many parents are more concerned about themselves than the real welfare of their children. Although this self-concern is not consciously intended to harm their children, it is unfortunately the result in many cases.

The desire for prestige is probably the most common reason for decisions which are in reality selfish. In any decision regarding a child's welfare, extreme care must be taken to reach the proper conclusion without allowing the parent's pride to become the basis for such a decision.

How would you react to a recommendation by the school that your child be retained in his present grade? I have listened to many parents object on the grounds that the grandparents would be disappointed. Other parents are concerned with how it will be explained to neighbors and other relatives. Obviously, these are not concerns related to the child but rather to parental embarrassment. Few parents express the concern of how the child will explain being left back to his friends.

Why do so many parents pressure their children to attend prestige colleges? Unfortunately, it is not always because the particular college is well suited to the ability, ambitions and needs of the child. Too often it is so that the parent can brag to friends and relatives.

There is certainly nothing wrong with pride and pleasure from a child's accomplishments. The problem is when decisions are made on this basis rather than a realistic evaluation of the child's needs.

Parents rarely intend to bring harm to their children. The harm is often the result of poor decisions based upon emotion rather than facts and logic.

As a matter of fact, the right decisions will more likely lead

Negro Votes Very Important In the South on Election Day

By HENRY P. LEIFERMANN ATLANTA (UPI)—The southern Negro vote Tuesday may elect Dixie's only black congressman, give South Carolina and Mississippi to Hubert H. Humphrey and put some of 204 Negro candidates into office.

More than 3,112,000 Negroes are registered this year. While the number is not dramatically up for the South at large, in spots such as Mississippi, South Carolina and Alabama's 5th District around Birmingham black voters swing plenty of "clout."

The Rev. William McKinley Branch, a Negro, faces five white men in Alabama's 5th District, a newly reapportioned area including Bessemer, Tuscaloosa, and part of Birmingham.

Nearly 40 per cent of the district's voters are Negroes. A splintered white vote and a heavy and solid turnout for Branch could put him in office.

Former Dixiecrat Strom Thurmond, South Carolina's Republican senator, put his prestige on the line for Richard M. Nixon this fall in stump speeches and television advertisements in his home state.

But Thomas Chadwick, Humphrey's South Carolina manager, is counting on 200,778 Negro voters, 23 per cent of the total, to go solidly for the Democratic ticket. With 20 per cent of the white vote, Chadwick predicts, Humphrey can carry South Carolina.

The hope is that Nixon and George C. Wallace will evenly split 80 per cent of South Carolina's white vote.

The same strategy applies to Mississippi, where Negro voters have greater strength this year than any of the other 10 states of the old Confederacy.

Four years ago only 5 per cent of Mississippi's voters were Negroes. Today 26 per cent of the registered vote is black.

The spoiler for the Democrats in Mississippi, however, is that Gov. John Bell Williams and state party officials campaigned for Wallace.

There are 204 Negro candidates across the South this year, far more than ever before, including 91 in Alabama on the splinter ticket of the national Democratic party of Alabama, the ticket Branch hopes to win on.

Most of the Negro candidates seek state House offices—32 in Georgia and 14 each in Tennessee and Arkansas.

The percentage of registered Negro voters in the southern states this year, according to figures from the southern regional council in Atlanta: Alabama 20 per cent, Arkansas 17 per cent, Florida 12 per cent, Georgia 18 per cent, Louisiana 21 per cent, Mississippi 16 per cent, South Carolina 23 per cent, Tennessee 14 per cent, Texas 13 per cent, and Virginia 17 per cent.

The council estimates there are nearly 19 million registered voters in the 11 southern states, nearly 17 per cent of them Negroes.

Don't Like the Leaders? - Then Vote for a Pig, Tiny Tim or Pogo

By ELIZABETH WHARTON WASHINGTON (UPI)—Americans who don't want to vote for any of the three major presidential candidates will have their pick of four or five minor party candidates plus a pig, two comic strip characters and two comedians.

Not all of them will be on all ballots, but most states allow a voter to write in the name of anyone he pleases. Some officials don't bother to count the write-ins, but some do and the partial results can even be found in dusty archives.

During the primary elections last summer, for instance, a genuine American cowboy—and you can't find many of them in these days of mechanized round-ups and computerized farming—with the story-book name of Americus Liberator acquired nearly 2,000 votes on the Republican presidential ballot in Nebraska.

Yippie Candidate

The pig—a 400-pound well-scrubbed swine named Pigasus—is the candidate of the Yippies, members of the Youth International Party, who brought him to Chicago in a vain attempt to have him proposed for nomination as the Democratic presidential candidate.

Convention officials were not amused. The pig was banished, and his promoters were among those arrested as demonstrators during the nationally-televised confrontations in Grant Park.

Days later the Yippies proudly proclaimed that "Pigasus

Lives," and have since toted him around the country for "campaign" appearances in protest against the established system. He's certain to get a share of write-in presidential votes.

Several minor parties will have candidates on the ballots of some states. None of them will be on more than two or three, because most states discourage the splinter party vote and make it quite difficult to run for president.

The minority parties include Socialist Labor, Socialist Worker, Prohibitionists, and Communists. There are two new minor parties this year—the Peace and Freedom Party and the Freedom and Peace Party—which consider themselves all part of the same group and, indeed, in some states share the same vice presidential names.

The two presidential candidates of this party (these parties) are both black militants: Comedian Dick Gregory and civil rights activist Eldridge Cleaver.

Two other comedians are self-proclaimed candidates: Pat Paulsen, a regular on the Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour, and Tiny Tim, a ready falsetto who has appeared on Rowan and Martin's laugh-in and other TV shows.

The comic strip candidates are Pogo—a possum who lives in Okefenokee swamp—and Linus, one of the "Peanuts" gang who becomes distraught when robbed of his security blanket. Neither of these "candidates" really wants to be president—Pogo, in fact, ran away from home when his friends told him he had been drafted for the job.

HEART MAN IMPROVES

SYDNEY (UPI)—Doctors at St. Vincent's Hospital said Saturday that Richard Pye, Australia's first heart transplant patient, was continuing to make good progress 10 days after his operation. Pye, 57, received the heart of a 28-year-old sailor Oct. 23. Doctors said there had been no sign of rejection of Pye's new heart.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—It is a curious thing, but in a way Tuesday's presidential election is an almost anti-climactic television event for this year.

The reason is that it has been preceded in 1968 by other momentous historical happenings, some of shocking emotional impact.

And these are more likely as video events, to implant themselves in our memory than an orderly, scheduled election—unless there is a tremendous upset at the polls.

Presidents, for example, are of course elected every four years, and we have seen that before on television. But how often does one see, on the home screen, the withdrawal of a president from an election race—as we saw earlier this year when Lyndon Johnson withdrew.

More Memorable Events

Naturally we will remember 1968 as an election year, but television more likely will retain longer the memories of two assassinations—of Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King—and the lengthy video coverage of each, including their funerals.

For television specifically, the death of these two national figures had a particular kind of impact, aside from the tragedy of the killings themselves.

The murder of King brought the nation's racial conflict to a head on the home tube, and hastened the presentation of a number of series this past summer dealing with white-black relationships.

The assassination of Kennedy, preceded as it was by the King killing, brought an uproar and an outcry against violence on television.

In short, the truly major television story of 1968, even throughout the election campaigns, was the forcible imposition on video of inevitable historic issues—in short, of reality.

View Political Process

This was emphasized again during the summer by the disgraceful, televised shambles of the violence and controversy at the Democratic convention in Chicago, another story perhaps more memorable than the election.

Although the three-party election competition was dramatic in its own way, much of the drama was denied viewers because of the failure to suspend the equal time broadcasting arrangement.

As a result, voters who watched television were once again subjected to an endless series of one-sided, superficial paid political broadcasts by party propagandists.

The epitome of this kind of programming will take place tonight, election eve, when the three parties and their candidates monopolize network prime time with bought-and-paid-for broadcasts emphasizing that each nominee is simply the greatest—to his own party.

MOSCOW (UPI)—Cuban Foreign Trade Minister Marcelo Fernandes Font arrived in Moscow Saturday for talks with Soviet leaders, the Tass news agency reported. BEN STURGEON For County Attorney

The Ben Sturgeon Family; Ben, Britt, Sandra and John

WRITERS NOTE: Recently Ben Sturgeon, Republican candidate for Gray County Attorney and his wife Sandra were interviewed in their home about the active door-to-door personal campaign they have carried to all the citizens of the county.

Concerning the hours spent and the miles walked, Sturgeon stated, "Sandra and I have walked through the streets of Alanreed, Lefors, McLean, and Pampa knocking on the doors of all registered voters. We have visited people on the farms and ranches of Gray County. It is and has been our desire to take our campaign to the people to help make them aware of the importance of the County Attorney's race.

"Our experiences have been wonderful, and we want to take this opportunity to thank the fine people of the County that have listened to us and encouraged us and allowed us to visit in their homes and in their businesses. We are only sorry that in our calling we found several families away from their homes as we would have liked to visit and meet each and every voter."

In order that the people of Gray County may realize the scope of the Sturgeon Campaign and may understand what Ben Sturgeon stands for and believes in, the following is a summary of many of the highlights of his efforts to serve the people of Gray County as County Attorney.

In over 25 speeches to better than 1,800 interested and concerned citizens of the Panhandle of Texas during the last four months, Ben L. Sturgeon, candidate for Gray County Attorney, has continually called for the "protection of the citizen and his property" as he has pleaded time and time again. "We must call for and demand a return to law and order in America. Our cities and towns must again be safe for all our citizens — men, women and children."

Sturgeon, a graduate of Pampa High School, became the Republican candidate for County Attorney when he filed for the office in January of this year. Since that time, Ben and his wife Sandra, have carried a campaign to all sections of the county, visiting with registered voters in Lefors, McLean, Laketon, Grandview, Alanreed, Pampa, and on the farms and ranches surrounding these towns.

While in Pampa High School, Sturgeon was President of the Student Council and was a member of the Harvester football team. He attended Woodrow Wilson Elementary School and Pampa Junior High School. His parents moved to Pampa in 1934 from Paris, Texas. His grandfather, B.

E. Sturgeon, served as a State Senator. His late uncle, John F. Sturgeon and his father formed a law practice in Pampa, which now continues under the title Sturgeon, McGuire, and Sturgeon.

PAMPA HIGH GRADUATE

Following his graduation from Pampa High School, Ben attended TCU and studied law at the SMU Law School in Dallas. He married the former Sandra Hartman of Amarillo before entering the U. S. Navy, where he served in the Judge Advocate General's Staff for three years, handling cases ranging from minor traffic violations to capital punishment crimes against the United States of America.

Ben Sturgeon and his wife have two young sons, Britt age 2 and one-year-old John. Following his release from active duty with the Navy in the spring of 1966, Sturgeon and his family returned to Pampa where he continued his law practice. Since that time, Sturgeon has been active in Pampa civic affairs and serves on the boards of directors of the Salvation Army, the Pampa Youth and Community Center, the Gray County Cancer Society, the District Committee of the Boy Scouts, and his church. He's a past secretary-treasurer of the Pampa Rotary Club and is active in the Pampa United Fund and the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

Beginning with his initial speech before the 150 members and guests of the Pampa Lion's Club in July, Sturgeon asserted "A minority of the people have created the violence that has spread across our country. It's time the majority of the American people say 'Not Guilty' to these crimes and demand a return to law and order in our society. Citizen protection is a primary concern of yours and mine and we must act now to insure it."

RIGHT TO OWN ARMS

"The right to own and bear arms is a constitutional right, and we must protect that right." Sturgeon pleaded before the members of the McLean Lions Club on July 16, concerning the pending Gun Control Bill then before the U.S. Congress. "What the world does not know, and what few Americans stop to realize, is that the majority of us have never seen a gun pulled in anger, much less fired one personally in passion."

Following a trip to Houston to represent the Gray County Bar Association as a delegate of the Resolutions Committee of the Texas State Bar Association, Sturgeon spoke to the Pampa Kiwanis Club and declared "This nation was founded on the principle of Rule by Law, not by man. The rioting, looting and violence across our country is nothing more or less than criminal behavior and should be punished as such."

Continually Sturgeon urged his audiences to get active in political and civic affairs as he did in speeches to the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Pampa Evening Lion's Club, the Pampa Optimist Club, and the Top-O-Texas Republican's Women's Club.

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS

"Our Supreme Court has handed down decision after decision which has tended to breakdown the machinery of adequate law enforcement." Sturgeon advised the Business and Professional Women's Organization.

To the Top-O Texas Kiwanians, Sturgeon stated, "If destroying an individual's private property is a legitimate exercise of free speech, then those people are not reading the same Constitution I read."

Throughout his speeches, including talks in Dumas, Amarillo, McLean, Lefors, Ben Sturgeon states, "Our world and country will be a better place for all people if we will put service above self and try to be active in our church and civic responsibilities."

Delivering the keynote address to the fall training conference of the Key Clubs in Div. Six, Sturgeon told the more than 200 high school boys, "I believe that all men are created equal in the sight that all men will stay equal. We must work to give all men equal opportunity, but not to give them equal results. Individual freedom gives each of us the guaranteed right to be unequal—to rise as high as we, as individuals, are capable of going."

ON BIG GOVERNMENT

With his campaign in full swing, Sturgeon spoke to the American Business Women's Association, the Pampa Rotary Club, and the Lefors Lion's Club, saying "Government can give you nothing but what it takes from someone else. A government big enough to give people everything they want is big enough to take everything they have, including their freedom."

During his active campaign, Sturgeon took time off to explain the proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution to several organizations including the 20th Century Cottilian Club, the La Cultura Club, and the Kiwanis Club.

Thursday evenings found Sturgeon assisting the Business and Professional Women's Organization in conducting their course of "Practical Politics." Sturgeon discussed the "Realistic Effects of the New Open Housing Law" with the Pampa Board of Realtors.

DEAR ABBY: Our son, who is 25, has been going with a young lady of 24 for the last 2 years. They seem to get along very well (same religion), and he asked her to marry him. She accepted, but here's the problem. Our son wants his girl friend to be examined by a doctor to find out if she is a virgin. He says he wants to be sure she is before the wedding because if he finds out she isn't after the wedding, he will leave her at once.

The girl refuses to submit to this kind of examination, and our son says if she will not do so within the next 30 days he will drop her. All wedding plans are at a standstill now, and we don't know what to do. Is our son out of line, or is the girl?

MOTHER OF THE MAN
DEAR MOTHER: I would say your son is out of line. Like way out! His request is insulting, and if I were the girl I would have dropped him in 30 seconds.

DEAR ABBY: I am 21 and have always had a very good mother-daughter relationship but we are now having our differences over a young man I have started dating and like very much.

First, let me explain that he is a very nice person, polite and all. I think I am lucky to be dating him. Well, last night my mother said, "How can you stand 'J'—his hands and fingernails are always filthy?"

Abby, "J" is mechanically inclined and he works on his car a lot, so naturally his hands and fingernails are going to get dirty and greasy. But my mother refuses to accept that.

I don't think a fellow's fingernails are all that important, and I don't think it is my place to tell a 23-year-old man that his fingernails are dirty, do you? Please help me. I think a whole lot of this guy.

NEEDS HELP

DEAR NEEDS: If you "think a whole lot of this guy," tell him that there are soaps on the market that will dissolve grease and grime from hands and fingernails. If he's the right kind of fellow, he'll appreciate it.

DEAR ABBY: I know you've heard about people who have lied about their ages because they wanted to be "younger," but how about those who lied about their ages because they wanted to be older?

It all started when I lied about my age to get a job. I was 14 and said I was 18. Now it's on all kinds of records that I am 4 years older than I really am.

I didn't mind so much when I was younger, but now I'd like to get straightened out. I would hate to tell you how many places and records have the wrong year of my birth on them. It's sure a mess. How do I get things back to normal?

LIAR

DEAR LIAR: The ONE document that bears your accurate birth date is your birth certificate. Get a copy from the bureau of vital statistics in the city of your birth. Then send copies to those "places" where you'd like the date corrected.

DEAR ABBY: Boy, did you ever give ST. LOUIS the right answer about twin beds? No man knows how rough it is to have seven kids in 9 years. I am ready for twin BEDROOMS—never mind twin beds.

I love my husband, but enough is enough.

TUESDAY, NOV. 5.

Your birthday today: In the coming year you will take on responsibilities which exceed all expectations. No choice but to tackle the work on hand at once, without shortcuts or delays. Secret deals are to be avoided at all costs if success is to be achieved. Your main effort should be to consolidate resources. Today's natives have very strong opinions.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Controversy marks the day. Keep your own counsel; do what seems right without quibble or hesitation. Your power now depends directly on your knowledge rather than anybody's help.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Stay out of the china shop today, if you can. Anything you do may be expressed a little more strongly than people are ready to accept. Take the time to vote, in any case.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Expect mixed signals, and follow your intention through the confusion. Hasty and nervous responses are the most destructive factors. Make your choices early, and register them clearly.

CANCER (June 21-July 22):

Dwelling on minor issues comes too easy today. Keep your eye on the main ideas! And express yourself calmly. Be sure to vote.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): There are too many details to handle at once; take the more important first. You may be called on to help keep peace this evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Let somebody else provide transportation today. Exercise great care in your own travels. Restrain the urge to speculate on what seem to be great opportunities. Know what you vote for.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Today will bring some levy on your available cash. Money-making schemes are tempting but too risky. Group resources remain unsettled. Vote.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your information lacks many pertinent details; try to estimate what the rest of the story is before you take action. Confer with friends, but don't mix money deals with their projects. Vote.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Expect some peculiar and very interesting business. Much can be learned from quiet observation, if you will simply watch closely. Take time out to vote.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Travel is not likely to be comfortable or convenient. Test your ideas for practicality before committing your full resources to them. Make voting part of your schedule.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Marital resources require careful attention. There is more to the situation than meets the eye. Don't jump to conclusions; possibly stay with those you already reached. Vote.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): If you want your cash spent with care do it yourself instead of delegating the responsibility. Some of today's decisions will not hold. To vote is your prerogative.

PUBSTERS PROTEST

ROSSET, Wales (UPI)—Customers at a local Welsh pub have staged their version of a tavern protest—an "inn-in."

They staged a sit-in at the bar to protest laws which prevent pubs from opening on Sundays in some Welsh counties. Despite the manager's plea of "time, gentlemen, please," customers remained seated in the tavern from closing time until early Sunday—an "inn-in" of about four hours.

Foreign News Commentary

By BILL MULLINS
United Press International

Lockheed Missile & Space Co. is a stranger to the oil industry, but it has developed an unusual new concept for offshore oil storage.

No company is using it, but Harold F. Plank, a Lockheed scientist, says the idea could save offshore producers millions of dollars.

The idea involves using a nuclear device to blast a cavity under the ocean floor.

"The simplest approach would be to use a ship to drill small-diameter holes to the desired storage depth in an offshore field," Plank said.

"A small nuclear charge could be lowered through one of the holes and when detonated would create a cavity perhaps 300 feet wide and 500 feet deep."

The concept calls for two sets of lines to be run through other drilled holes. Oil lines would feed into the top of the cavity and water lines into the bottom.

This arrangement would allow oil piped to the platform from nearby wells to flow into the top of the cavity, but the sea water at the bottom would continually force the oil upwards. This would make it easy to draw out the oil for shipping.

Plank explains that the top of an offshore cavity would be about 1,200 feet beneath the ocean floor and that there would be virtually no danger of nuclear contamination leaking into the ocean or atmosphere.

He thinks the concept could be used to deal with what petroleum producers consider a major problem: the danger of production rates outstripping storage and transportation capabilities. A nuclear cavity could hold half a million barrels or more.

Though there would be some radioactive material in the cavity, Plank said this can be dealt with quickly.

"Since we don't have oil in the cavity to start with, we can condition the cavity to remove the radioactivity before we put the oil in it or use only that part of the cavity that doesn't have much radioactivity to start with," he said.

About 90 percent of the radioactivity would end up frozen in a glass puddle at the bottom of the cavity following the explosion.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Blair & economic growth in the year ahead.

Co. forecasts "a further period of market uncertainty in the weeks immediately ahead," pending clarification of the prevailing uncertainties. Over the longer term, the firm does not expect any "extended market decline," since investment policy "generally has been geared" to a reduced rate of growth.

The firm also thinks variations of the basic offshore concept could make nuclear cavity storage even more effective. One possibility is linking a platform with both the cavity and the petroleum formation, thus enabling the platform to work in both production and storage phases.

Plank said the idea was developed because the concepts for floating oil storage vessels appear useful mainly for smaller quantities of oil and the use of conventional explosives or mining techniques would be too expensive.

816 Receive Vaccinations

More than 800 children between one and ten years old received measles immunization shots yesterday afternoon at the free medical clinics conducted by the Pampa Medical Society at Pampa Junior High and Baker Elementary schools.

"We feel the drive was very successful," Dr. E. S. Williams, chairman, said today.

Parents of children from Pampa, White Deer, Lefors and Skellytown brought their children to receive the free vaccine.

Pampa doctors contributed their time to administer the shots and were kept busy with a steady stream of parents and children from 2 to 5 p.m. Shots were given to 816 children.

Dr. Williams urged parents of children who were unable to attend the clinic yesterday to take them to their family physicians for the measles shot as soon as possible.

Salvation Army to Dedicate New Corps Building Sunday

The Salvation Army and members of the Advisory Board announced formal dedication of the Army's new Corps Building at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 10, at 700 S. Cuyler St.

The Salvation Army

territorial commander, Commissioner Glenn Ryan from Atlanta, Ga., and Colonel and Mrs. Paul Thronburg, Texas divisional commander, will be in Pampa for the dedication.

J. Kirk Duncan, chairman of the local Salvation Army Advisory Board, will preside and Rev. Dan Cameron of First Baptist Church will give the invocation.

The Salvation Army Jr. Songsters will present a special musical selection entitled "Bless This House."

George B. Cree Jr., Chamber of Commerce president, and David Tucker, United Fund president, will bring greetings at the dedication ceremony.

Commissioner Ryan will give the dedicatory address and Colonel Thronburg will offer the dedicatory prayer. Rev. Martin Hager, First Presbyterian Church pastor, will pronounce the benediction.

An invitation to the dedicatory ceremony has been extended to the public by the Salvation Army Advisory Board.

Price Knocks Inflation In Government

The American businessman and his employees are being harmed by excessive government spending to the point that it has become totally intolerable, Congressman Bob Price told a group of Panhandle businessmen today.

Price, speaking to a district-wide meeting of the National Federation of Independent Business at Amarillo's YWCA, told his audience, including a Pampa delegation, that the irresponsible fiscal policies of the government had robbed Americans at the rate of 4 1/2 per cent per year for three years.

"If the American businessman ran his affairs with similar irresponsibility, we would all be in the poor-house," Price said.

"And when government spending sends inflation to higher- and higher levels," he said, "the government is making it harder and harder for the independent businessmen to stay in business or to garner a respectable, let alone equitable profit from goods and services."

"At the same time the businessman's employe is being robbed of the purchasing power of his dollar through the same inflation."

"Crippling interest rates, some of the highest in one hundred years, prevent millions of Americans from buying homes and small businesses and farmers from obtaining the loans they need," he claimed.

"In the past seven years, the national debt has risen from about $290 billion to more than $350 billion and in that seven year period, there have been seven operating deficits totalling more than $54 billion."

Inflation, Price stated, has added over $100 billion to the cost of living in the past seven years; has taken $32 billion from savings accounts; has diluted checking accounts by $10 billion; has drained $17 billion out of pension fund reserves; has eaten a $13 billion hole in life insurance reserves and has devalued government bonds and other bonds by $13 billion.

Inflation has cost $1,000 per individual citizen during this seven year period, the congressman said, and with this

White Deer Legion Seeking Members

WHITE DEER (Spl) — The local American Legion Post No. 548 has announced plans for an all-out membership drive, due to the needed manpower for projects the post is undertaking this year.

To be eligible for membership in the post, veterans must have been honorably discharged after serving in one of the armed services some time during the following dates: April 6, 1917 to Nov. 11, 1918; Dec. 7, 1941 to Sept. 2, 1945; June 25, 1950 to July 27, 1953; and Aug. 5, 1954 to date yet to be determined for veterans of Vietnam.

Veterans are urged to join the local post, and a special invitation is extended to local Vietnam veterans.

Serving on the membership committee to contact for applications are Don Davis, Joel Sewell, Vernon Van Bibber, Mark Wadill and Felix Ryals.

$500 Bond Set

A bond of $500 was set by justice of peace E. L. Anderson for Loyd Ray Appleton, 34, Brownwood, on a charge of aggravated assault on a police officer.

According to a Pampa police report Appleton was arrested at Short's Lounge and while being placed in a police car swung at officer Stanley Brown.

Brown said the man then hit him several times outside the police station before the officer could subdue him.

Commandos

(Continued From Page 1) coincided with demonstrations by a group of 1,000 students in their support. There also were demonstrations Sunday and on Saturday when a mob of about 20,000 stormed the U.S. Embassy. No Americans were hurt.

happening, the businessman faces a rather bleak outlook even though, in many cases, the gross income figures are at high levels.

"In the first quarter of this year, the cash convertible assets in this country took a $9 billion nose dive," Price told his audience.

Inflation in 1968, he said, will take a bigger bite out of Americans' purchasing power than the Federal income tax.

Viet Cong

"Long live Ho" (Ho Chi Minh, president of North Vietnam), shouted the crowd that welcomed Mrs. Binh and the other delegates of the Viet Cong's political branch, the National Liberation Front (NLF).

Camerasmen knocked down her bodyguards and La Bourget airport police in a surge to photograph the grim, short-brunette who spoke for the guerrillas attacking the South Vietnam government.

Woe Californians Nixon, Humphrey and the vice president's running mate, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, all were spending the final day of the campaign in California, which has a prized bloc of 40 electoral votes.

Democratic campaign managers had virtually written off California. The presence of both Humphrey and Muskie there today indicated a lingering, desperate hope the nation's second largest bloc of electoral votes could be saved for the Democratic ticket.

The Democrats still had no realistic hope of carrying another pivotal state, Illinois, with 26 electoral votes. The final Chicago Sun-Times poll for Illinois indicated Nixon would receive 46.96 per cent of the state's vote, Humphrey 39.64 and Wallace 13.5.

Humphrey's chances depend largely on the populous states of the East—four of the New England states, New York and other middle Atlantic states, Ohio and Michigan.

A series of unforeseen events filed this election campaign with uncertainty and made predictions of its outcome perilous.

Local Teacher Is Attending PESO Session

Mrs. Wilsam Hill, Pampa schools' PESO Panhandle Organization) reading teacher is attending planning sessions in Amarillo this week to discuss federal programs offered in 1969-70 for Panhandle area schools.

Dr. James F. Malone, school superintendent, said the district has been in the program since 1965, and will continue to emphasize reading programs in its federal budgeted items.

During the planning session, representatives will review the National Defense Education Act's budget for next school year and discuss the programs to be offered in this area, he said.

This year, Pampa District is using $94,424 in a Federal Assistance Package offered through the Texas Education Agency.

The federal money pays for salaries for eight reading teachers, buys all reading equipment, tapes and supplies. An itemized breakdown of the federal money being used this year includes $69,736 for Title I, PESO Reading; $5,117 Title II Library; $7,917, Titles III and IV, matching funds, and $10,380 Vocational Education.

1,980 Served Sausage Dinner

WHITE DEER — An estimated 1,980 people were served at the 10th annual Polish Sausage Festival held here yesterday at the Parish Hall of the Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

Dinners were served from noon until 2 p.m. and from 5 to 8 p.m.

Spokesmen said 3,285 pounds of Polish sausage, 400 pounds of cole slaw, 175 pounds of beans, 500 pounds of potato salad and 350 pies were served.

Persons attended from as far distant as Oklahoma City, Hereford, Dalhart, Wellington and Spur, a spokesman said.

DWI Sentence Set

Leo Keller of Pampa appeared for sentencing Friday afternoon before special County Judge Harold Comer on a charge of driving while intoxicated after waiving his rights to a trial by jury and was fined $50 and court costs sentenced to three days in jail and given a six months probation after pleading nolo contendere.

Woman Treated After Accident

Judy Kay Russell, 18, of 1519 N. Russell, was treated at Highland General Hospital Saturday for injuries sustained in a two-car accident.

According to investigating officer G.E. Hendricks, Miss Russell's car was in collision with a vehicle driven by Mary Boydston Adkin, 50, of Box 1191 Pampa.

According to the officer's report the Adkin vehicle was traveling south on Hobart street and stopped at a stoplight when the Russell car struck the rear of the Adkin car.

Damage to the Adkin vehicle was estimated at $75 and to the Russell vehicle at $250.

The Russell woman was issued a citation for following too closely.

300 Attend Turkey Shoot

About 300 spectators and contestants attended the Top of Texans Citizens Band Radio Club turkey shoot Sunday at the Pampa Gun and Skeet Club east of Pampa.

Proceeds from the shoot will be given to the Pampa High School Band's Los Angeles '68 project — their trip to Los Angeles Dec. 15 to perform for the halftime at Los Angeles, Rams-Baltimore Colts football game.

High scores in the 85 shoots were Dale Prouse, eight shoots; Ken Flaherty, seven, and Jerry Coley, five.

Another shoot is scheduled Dec. 8, according to Perry Nichols, club president.

Contestants of all ages shot at clay pigeons in wet dressed and frozen turkeys, hams, and other prizes, he said.

The bar while on routine patrol about 1:50 a.m. today.

A total of 63 bottles of beer was taken.

AUSTIN RUNS — Coronado's Jerry Austin knocks people down and shows it takes three or four people to bring him down when he carries the ball as he dived Friday night.

KING ON THE GO — Scotty King (25) is about to be brought down by a Coronado defensiva man in the Mustangs' 33-14 victory Friday night. King again was Pampa's leading ball carrier.

Bears Stun Pack

By United Press International
Mac Percival used to be almost as obscure as the National Football League's free kick rule.

But Percival, an assistant high school coach discovered last year by the Dallas Cowboys utilized the little known rule Sunday to make himself one of the most talked about players in pro football.

Percival kicked a 43-yard free kick field goal with 23 seconds left Sunday to give the Chicago Bears a stunning 13-10 upset of Green Bay that was a staggering blow to the Packer hopes for a record fourth straight NFL title.

Percival's kick came after Donny Anderson got off only a 28-yarder into the wind and rookie Cecil Turner called a fair catch on the Packer 43. Under NFL rules, the Bears have their choice of how to put the ball play. They chose the free kick—with no linemen able to rush the kicker—and Percival booted it through the uprights just like a kickoff.

Chicago, Minnesota Tied
That left Chicago and Minnesota, a 27-14 victor over Washington, tied for the Central Division lead at 4-4 while Green Bay and Detroit, a 10-7 loser to Los Angeles were behind with 3-4-1 records.

Form prevailed in the majority of the rest of the contests. Baltimore, a 26-0 victor over New York, remained tied with Los Angeles at 7-1 for the Coastal Division lead while Dallas, 17-3 winner over New Orleans, is still tops in the Capitol Division at 7-3.

St. Louis, a 45-17 winner over Philadelphia, and Cleveland, a surprise, 33-21 winner over San Francisco, remained tied for the Century Division lead at 5-3-37-18.

In the other game, Pittsburgh won its second straight by routing Atlanta, 41-21.

Percival, who beat Minnesota last week with a field goal with three seconds left, said, "I felt less pressure on that kick than on a normal field goal. Sure, everything was riding on it but I didn't have to worry about any Packer linemen coming in on me." Percival was released by the Cowboys during the 1967 exhibition season when he missed two field goal attempts against Green Bay—and Chicago picked him up.

Joe Kapp tossed two touchdowns passes to Gene Washington as the Vikings romped past Washington to tie Chicago for the Central Division lead.

The Rams' Bruce Gossett kicked a 37-yard field goal that gave them a 10-7 lead on Detroit in the second period. That's the way it ended as both teams played tenacious defense. Lem Barney ran the opening kickoff back 98 yards for the Lions' only TD.

Don Meredith, playing with a broken nose, tossed two touchdowns passes to Bob Hayes as Dallas beat New Orleans before 84,728 fans in New Orleans—the largest pro crowd this year.

Jim Hart scored twice on quarterback sneaks and tossed a 40-yard TD pass to pace St. Louis past the Eagles while Don Cockcroft kicked four field goals and Bill Nelson flipped two TD passes as Cleveland stunned the Forty Niners.

Roy Jefferson became the first NFL player in five years to catch five TD passes in a game as the Steelers routed Atlanta.

Among his guesses were Mississippi over LSU and Oregon St. over Stanford.

Two staffers, Chico Rameriz and Jim Casey missed only two games.

Wheeler Eyes Clarendon in 2-A Contest

If Wheeler ever had any pressure put on its football team then Friday night is the night for the Mustangs.

Clarendon, unbeaten and untied, meets the Mustangs in a District 2-A contest important for three teams, Clarendon, Wheeler and McLean.

A Wheeler victory would put them back in the running for the 2-A title. Clarendon and McLean are tied for the lead with 3-0 records while Wheeler is 2-1.

Clarendon still has McLean to play and the Tigers aren't out of the woods yet since they meet Silverton (1-2) Friday night in Silverton.

Another rip-snorter is on tap in Groom where the Tigers host Lefors in an important District 1-B battle for both teams.

Booker leads the district with a 2-0 reading while Groom is 1-0 and Lefors, 1-1.

Lefors beat Textline, 41-16 Friday night and Groom opened the district with a 55-0 decision over the same team.

Harvesters Host Berger Here Friday

All Monterey has to do to win the North Zone title outright is beat Caprock Friday night at Lubbock but the story is different in the South Zone.

Monterey is 3-0 for north zone play and the 'Horns have won once in three tries and Friday night's game will end zone action for both schools.

The south zone was thrown into at least a three-way battle and even four teams have a shot at the crown.

Plainview upset Palo Duro, 7-3 Saturday night and now Tascosa and Plainview are 2-1 while Palo Duro is 2-1-1 and Lubbock Coronado is 1-1-1.

All Palo Duro can do now is sit on the sidelines and see what happens Friday and Saturday.

Plainview plays last place Lubbock Thursday in Lubbock while Tascosa hosts Coronado Friday night. The Dons play a non-zone battle with Amarillo Saturday.

A tie in conference play counts as a half-game won and lost so if Tascosa gets by Coronado and Plainview puts it to Lubbock a tie is assured.

Pampa will try again to break its eight-game winning streak and win its first conference game when the Berger Bulldogs visit Friday night in the last league game for the Harvesters.

Should Pampa lose they probably will host the south zone Lubbock Westerners Nov 15 but a victory over Berger would result in a coin flip.

Borger is 1-2 in league action and 3-5 for the season.

Jets Win, Chiefs Lose Crucial Game

By United Press International
Web Ewbank doesn't seem to mind Joe Namath's inability to find an end-zone scoring target—the New York Jets' coach gets his kicks from the talented toe of Jim Turner.

Ewbank watched Turner boot a record-equalling six field goals Sunday that beat the Buffalo Bills, 25-21, and increased New York's lead in the American Football League Eastern Division to 2½ games.

Namath was stymied for the fifth straight game. He couldn't be blamed for his shutout in the contest, however, as he was classically careful to avoid a repetition of the Buffalo disaster on Sept. 29 when the Bills intercepted him five times and ran back three of the thefts for touchdowns.

Limits Passing Game
The New York quarterback was intercepted only once this time as he completed 10 of 28 passes for 164 yards. Namath studiously avoided the pass as an offensive weapon in the second half, preferring to travel on the ground and capitalize on his strong defense which set up several of Turner's field goals.

Turner tied a mark set by Boston's Gino Capponetti against Denver in 1964 when he kicked field goals from the 32-yard line twice, another pair from the 27 and two more from 9 and 35 yards out.

Houston moved into second place by clipping Cincinnati, 27-17, while Boston was dropping a 35-14 decision to Denver. The race in the Western Division tightened as Oakland knocked off first-place Kansas City, 38-21, and San Diego remained tied with the Raiders in second place at a half-game back by beating Miami, 34-28.

Don-Trull threw scoring passes of four yards to Al Reed and nine to Max Haik as Houston pinned Cincinnati with its seventh loss in nine games. Hoyle Granger crashed over from the one and Wayne Walker kicked field goals of 27 and 41 yards for the Oilers' other scores.

Lee is 5-2 and has won five straight games. Pampa seventh is 3-1-1 and beat Lee 8-6 earlier this season.

Eighth grade teams play a Saturday contest beginning at 7:30 p.m. in Harvester Stadium.

The Pampa Shockers will be in Amarillo Thursday trying to keep alive the momentum that saw them break a seven game losing streak last week.

Lee (4-3) and Pampa ninth (1-5-1) battle at 7:30 p.m. Thursday on Harvester Field.

Lee has dropped two in a row and Pampa broke a five game losing streak by tying Borger Austin 6-6.

Some Election Eve Observations

Tomorrow is the day of effective for his district and its people.

Americans will go to the polls and elect public officials all the way from President down to the local governmental level.

The News has made no endorsements for President of the United States.

We feel that voters should have enough intelligence to make their own choices without having to rely on someone else to tell them for whom they should vote for president.

About the only thing we have to offer is a bit of speculation that the voters will speak out loudly tomorrow and say on the national scene that they have had enough.

We're speaking about the presidency. We suspect American voters will tell the current crop of Wonderful Wizards of Washington that they are not in favor of four more years of the same.

As a political prognosticator, we probably rank with the world's worst—but right now that's the way it stacks up.

Getting closer to home, we hope that 18th Congressional District voters will send Bob Price back to the House of Representatives. We believe he deserves another term. It seems to us he has earned the respect of his constituents as an independent and consistent champion of the individual and his rights, and that in his first two years as a freshman congressman he has worked hard in the interest of the people whom he represents. With two years of experience in the House behind him, he should be even more

Interviewing the Silent Majority

It's the Silent Majority which will elect the next president, we have all read repeatedly on every side.

Exclusive: In still another journalistic scoop, I have managed for the first time to interview a member of the Silent Majority.

It wasn't easy. As we all know, the Silent Majority is the Big Factor. All candidates have defined the Big Factor. Each candidate has stated that people who speak out for other candidates are only the Vocal Minority. Everybody else, of course, is obviously the Silent Majority.

And members of the Silent Majority, by further definition, only do their talking when the curtains are closed in the Voting Booth. Consequently, nobody has ever interviewed one.

However, I managed to get a member of the Silent Majority to grant me an interview by coaxing him into a Voting Booth. (They had the voting Booths out of the warehouse briefly for a regular pre-election checkup to make doubly sure the directions made no sense.)

"How long, Mr. Y, have you been a member of the Silent Majority?" I asked. (His real name is not Y.)

He looked at me silently. "O h," I said, closing the curtains in the booth.

"That's better," he said. "This is the only time I talk, you know."

"I know, I know. How long have..."

"Since I was 21," he said. "That's why I favor lowering the voting age to 18—it will shut up a lot of these loud-mouthed kids three years earlier, once they get into the Silent Majority."

"Where are you from?" "Hustings," he said. "But I grew up in Grass Roots."

"Don't you find it difficult?" I asked. "Being silent in this campaign?"

"Well," he said, "Of course, it's tough being a member of any majority these days. But when you've been a member of the Silent Majority as long as I have, you learn not to give yourself away."

"What do you think of Wallace?" I snapped quickly, trying to catch him off guard.

"You know," he said "I asked my wife that just the other day. 'Desires Clara,' I said. 'What do you think of Wallace?'"

"What did she think?" I asked.

"Damned if I know," he said. "She won't argue about politics, religion or anything." "So how I trapped you? Ask me what I think about Nixon."

He puffed on his pipe and said, "Well, I can tell you this for sure—these public opinion polls just better remember it's the public they're dealing with and not a lot of decimal points. No matter what you say—people are people!"

"Huh?" I said. "I didn't..."

He snickered. "You're a pushover, kid—us Silent Majority types get you on the defensive and we don't have to say anything. Ask me about Humphrey."

"Mr. Y," I said. "What do you think about Humphrey?"

"Well," he said, "I asked my wife just the other day. 'No fair!' I said. 'You used that on Wallace. Now give me a clear-cut answer: What do you think about Humphrey?'"

"Don't be irritable," he said. "You sound like Lawrence Spivak. What do I think about Humphrey? Well, it's like my old Daddy used to say," at this point Mr. Y took a straw out of his pocket and chewed on it philosophically. "Yessir, Sonny," he continued in a homespun drawl. "If hit wald for the mountains, how seldom the valleys would be!"

I snapped, "C'mon, Y. That doesn't make any sense."

"It doesn't?" he said. "Hm. That's funny. I've already sold it three times to Reader's Digest."

"Quit stalling," I said. "Let's not waste any more time. As a member of the Silent Majority who are you going to vote for?"

He drew himself up on outrage. "You dare to ask me that?"

"You're the Silent Majority everybody keeps yapping about," I said. "Come across. Who are you voting for?"

"Don't you know anything, conscience and choice in the have you no ethics?" he cried angrily. "As a citizen of this great country, I don't express

MODERN MUTINY (Industrial Bulletin)

The so-called right of dissent is giving rise to a sick syndrome in this country—what with riots, hecklers, and attacks upon police—and now, to top it all off, dissent in the armed forces!

A recent news dispatch from Da-Nang, South Vietnam, made reference to some 100 Negro servicemen from the Army, Navy and Marine Corps marching as a "group" to discuss grievances with an officer. In this connection, the Negroes had earlier held a series of meetings in an abandoned storage dump to beef among themselves about what they considered mistreatment. Their gripes included allegations of discrimination in requests for promotion, transfers, and in selection for hazardous duty. After one such "camp meeting," a crowd of Negroes "disarmed and beat up" two Navy guards.

We are aware of the contribution Negro servicemen have made to our war effort. We also know that their military has gone to the greatest possible length to bring about total integration. If, however, any wrongs need to be redressed, massive misconduct by troops is not the way to do it. In another era, such dissent would have been called "mutiny."

The disgraceful boorishness displayed by a few of our Negro athletes in award ceremonies at the Olympics in Mexico City is still a fresh and rankling memory. Now to learn that Negro troops are dissenting in a military theater of operations, almost in the presence of the enemy, is shocking beyond belief.

The existence of a credibility gap regarding official Washington pronouncements makes us wonder to what extent racial controversy has actually reared its ugly head in South Vietnam. In short, how much of this sort of thing has been censored out of the war coverage there? To the Negro soldier, fighting and dying for his country, we can't think of any greater derelict than fellow Negroes can render him than to sully the uniform he wears. When servicemen ignore established channels of communications and resort to mob action to adjust grievances, fancied or real, they are eroding our first line of defense in a world beset with enemies.

Campus activists disrupting the educational processes of great universities, demonstrators who deny a citizen the use of public streets, and bearded boos and boos who shout down speakers, aren't merely dissenters. They are any opinion—except in the sacred precincts of an American alone which his conscience confines of a Voting Booth!

"You're in a Voting Booth!" "Oops, that's right," he said, deflating. "Do I have to tell you?"

"I certainly would like to know."

"Actually," he said, blushing and hanging his head, "I never could remember to register."

anarchists disturbing the peace and depriving decent people of their Constitutional rights.

We've reached the saturation point of dissenters—black or white—bringing humiliation and disgrace to their communities and to their nation, including its system of government. After all, these are our communities, our system of government. This new species of Dissenters has been tolerated too long. This modern mutiny must be stopped now.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION — Why are college and university administrators afraid of their students, to the point where they are actually negotiating with them after buildings have been taken over and professors kidnapped. Why don't these administrators expel anyone who breaks the school's rules and get on with their work? Why this preoccupation with this fascination by this willingness to be destroyed by the rebels?

ANSWER: We do not pretend to know why other people act and think as they do. We can only suppose it is because the school officials are fearful that they will be considered guilty of violating "academic freedom."

They do not seem to consider that freedom, whether academic or otherwise, is freedom for all, not just a few students or teachers. They do not seem to give any consideration to the bulk of teachers who want to conduct their classes in a spirit of seeking truth. They also do not consider that if there is freedom, it must include those who are paying the bills.

Probably this attitude is because the government has become totally involved in the schools. Even many private schools are dependent on government subsidies for such things as scholarships and research grants.

When the schools are taken out of the market place, where instruction is designed to satisfy the teachers, the pupils and their parents, they no longer are free institutions; they are controlled by political agencies, whether they are administrators, regents or legislators.

Ultimately, the legislators, who are representatives of the tax payers, are likely to exercise their prerogative of regulating the schools. And voters, who have become concerned, are likely to exercise what little power they have by refusing to pay the bills.

Presently, there are a great many voters who say they will vote against the $250 million in bonds (Proposition 3) Nov. 3, because they are dissatisfied with the way the administrators are operating the state universities and colleges.

Rioting: What the Professors Bargained For

Rioting, law breaking and obscenity on college campuses is a case of reaping what we have sown. A few years ago, during their early formative years, these students were watching violence on the motion picture screen and on their television sets. In our schools they learned little of patriotism and many of them heard their professors speak slightly of the Constitution and of our national heroes. Probably most of them have heard Capitalism condemned and Marxism extolled in the classroom.

M. Stanton Evans, Editor of the Indianapolis Star, has pointed out that attitude surveys in several of our leading colleges and universities indicate that: "The net impact of a modern college education is to break down the student's belief in traditional values."

According to Fred Lowell, vice president of the freshman class at Columbia University, the faculty was a major element in preventing crack-down on the student revolutionaries. The overwhelming majority of law-abiding students at Columbia who opposed the SDS and its rioters, were largely ignored by the faculty while it supported SDS and "harbored many SDS collaborators in its ranks."

Prof. Jeffery Kaplow, as quoted by Vermont Royster in the Wall Street Journal, said he did not condemn "the taking of the buildings" and thought it "a silly piety" for others to do so. Royster also points out that Prof. E. Allen Farnsworth, a professor of law no less, stated that he could not align himself with "the so-called law and order side of the issue."

Prof. F. W. Dupee, according to Royster, saw in the uprising "a passion for justice and truth."

Capitalism and free enterprise have been criticized so much in our universities that one wonders why we still have a large majority of students who believe in them and who condemn collectivism in general and Marxism in particular.

Look into a mirror, and see and feel your lips; stick out your tongue and look at the top, sides and undersurface; inspect the floor of your mouth; pull out your cheeks to better view the mucous membrane lining; carefully examine the gums around your teeth and the ridges under your dentures; feel for rough spots around teeth and bridges, and under dentures.

- Do you find:
1. Swelling, lump or growth anywhere in or about your mouth.
 2. White, scaly patches inside the mouth or on lips.
 3. Any sore that does not heal.
 4. Numbness or pain anywhere in the mouth area.
 5. Bleeding in the mouth without apparent cause.
- If you do, see your dentist at once.

These may be mouth cancer warning signals. Some of them appear slowly and painlessly so that you may not be aware of their presence unless you look for them.

Be your own health detective. This does not mean that you should be your own diagnostician. Seek help from your dentist. He studies hard to become knowledgeable in diagnosis and treatment of oral disease. And, if necessary, he will refer you to the proper specialist for definitive diagnosis and treatment.

Your mouth should be examined at least twice a year. Insist on a MOUTH examination, and not a tooth examination. It's not enough to have your teeth cleaned, X-rayed, and cavities filled.

Early detection and proper treatment of mouth cancer can prevent disfiguring surgery or disabling treatment, and even save your life.

A wise health rule to follow is to be aware of all your body functions and to view with suspicion any change from the norm.

Why take a chance with your life?

The Doctor Says

By DR. W. G. BRANDSTADT

Cure of Stuttering Takes Self-Confidence

Q—My husband, 27, has been stuttering since he was 5. When he is singing, he never stutters. A school nurse told him it was caused by cracked tonsils following a bout of whooping cough. Could this be the reason? Is there any help for him?

A—Because it is characteristic of stutterers that they can sing without stuttering, they should be encouraged to sing. Your husband's stuttering was certainly not caused by whooping cough, bad tonsils or any other organic disease but by a self-consciousness about his speech that was aggravated by having normal slips of the tongue called to his attention by over-solicitous parents or teachers.

Although there is no drug or magic cure for stuttering, much can be done to help your husband. When he is alone and relaxed, he should practice talking aloud to himself. This will help him to see that he can talk without stuttering. When he can feel just as relaxed talking to others, his stuttering will become negligible.

He must also practice "shadowing" — switching on the television and repeating aloud every word as he hears it. This will increase his fluency. He must strive to repeat the words, not mechanically but with feeling. If he stumbles over an occasional word he must ignore it and concentrate on how well he is speaking. He must realize that no one's speech is perfect and that the only difference between himself and the rest of us is that we don't worry about our little slips.

The important point of all is for him to recognize that stuttering is not something that is happening to him but something that he himself is doing because he is trying too hard not to stutter. The more self-confidence he can gain about his speech, the faster he will overcome his difficulty.

Q—My son, 17, is taking Ritalin. What is it given for? Could it cause an acne-like rash on his face?

A — This drug, methylphenidate, is an antidepressant. It may cause a skin rash but, on the other hand, acne is very prevalent among teenagers. The drug should be taken only under medical supervision.

Q—My doctor is giving me Percodan pills for pains in my back. Are they habit forming? A—If taken daily, this pain killer may be habit-forming.

Better Answer To New Left

Not long ago an editorial writer for The Washington Post suggested a remedy for the disorders on U.S. campuses, citing a total of 101 disturbances last year and predicting more. Where did he advise we might find the answers? "We ought to study the sayings of Mao to see if we can find the secret of his felicitous approach to academic problems. Then, unless someone comes up with a better solution (and they may) we ought to embrace his doctrine."

The writer pointed out that American campuses could not match the orderly, tranquil campuses of Red China and since the restive students were mostly from the New Left, we should find what induces tranquility among them. As the item concluded, "Even a Communist may have a good idea once in awhile."

Although the editorial had the ring of seriousness, we have no way of knowing how dedicated to such persuasion the writer might have been. But we do feel that for whatever the book of Mao might be worth to New Left students, the editorialist overlooked one important fact: The greatest number of students are not New Left activists: They are sober-minded young people interested in developing their lives and resultantly benefiting the world around them.

We have a better answer: Learn about freedom, its nature and its benefits. Even New Left students yammer in the name of something they call freedom. Apparently we have missed in teaching our offspring what freedom really is—the state of living one's life peaceably while allowing all others to do the same. Living it fruitfully is an added bonus for everyone.

We have so long talked of the "land of the free," with the connotation that land or country means government, that our dispenser of freedom, "the young people have not learned that only people can act individually in freedom. Government is an apparatus, not an entity. When one masters this principle, he has demonstrated the first step in human rights, and tranquility is on its way, be it in one's own community, the campus or the world.

Youth In Political Arena

Tomorrow may mark the merciful end of the tumult and the shouting but not of campaign 1968 as a subject for analysis and argument.

In the post-mortems, one point which should not be overlooked, and which could emerge as among the most significant of all, is the participation of youth.

We are not thinking of the hecklers or those who took to the streets to add emphasis or violence to an already feverish campaign.

While their antics, sincerely intended or otherwise, may have captured the headlines, their influence has been almost entirely negative and more importantly, their numbers have been very few in comparison with the many young Americans who have labored diligently and to much greater effect at the basic, often grubby, tasks of the political process.

Students and young professionals have devoted endless hours, enthusiasm and

Wit and Whimsy

One fellow to another in line to receive unemployment-compensation check:

John — It frightens me sometimes when I realize that this Administration, with its fiscal irresponsibility, is my sole means of support.

If ignorance is bliss, There must be a lot of happy people.

The hold-up man shoved a note at the bank teller which read: "I've got you covered — hand over all the dough in the cage."

The teller scribbled back: "Kindly go to the next window. I'm on my lunch hour."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

C. Perry Rodgers made the first U.S. coast-to-coast flight in 1911, going in 70 hops from Sheepshead Bay to Pasadena in a biplane followed by a "spare parts" train. The World Almanac says Rodgers' elapsed time was 49 days, but his flying time was three days, 10 hours and four minutes. He lost 11 days because of weather, 13% making repairs and 24% recovering from 15 crashes. On his best days, he covered 231 miles.
