Reds Planning Holiday Attack

By JACK WALSH
SAIGON (UPI)—The Communists have stepped up activity around Saigon and allied forces killed at least 200 of them in weekend battling, military spokesmen said today.

Military officials said the Communists may be planning a dramatic strike against the capital to coincide with South Vietnam's Nov. 1 independence day holiday.

In the latest heavy fighting, U.S. Army 9th Infantry Division troops killed 31 guerrillas Sunday 15 miles south of Saigon. South Vietnamese troops killed another 32 about 24 miles to the north.

Among smaller actions South Vietnamese troops killed seven guerrillas today on a river below Saigon where the Communists were caught trying to run boatloads of smuggled Russian rifles. The allied troops seized the weapons.

These and other actions reflected the resurgence of guerrilla activity near Saigon which had been in a recent comparative lull. In Washington, U.S. intelligence warned of a possible major Red drive, but the officials here said they felt the Communists were still unprepared for such a strike.

U.S. aircraft struck the Communists supply lines in South Vietnam. Over North Vietnam, U.S. jets Sunday flew 125 missions against the main supply routes running along the southern panhandle.

Communist gunfire downed an Air Force F105 Thunderchief during one of the missions. The plane fell near Dong Hoi, just above the South Vietnam border. The pilot was listed as missing. It was the 913th U.S. plane lost in 50 months of bombing, according to official records.

In the Saigon area fighting, two Americans suffered wounds Sunday as the 9th Division helicopter-borne force struck the guerrillas in a two-hour battle.

U.S. military spokesmen said today an American soldier for unknown reasons detonated a mine or a similar explosive device Sunday in a servicemen's club at 25th Infantry Division base camp at Cu Chi, 19 miles northwest of Saigon.

Three soldiers were killed and another 27 were injured. The soldier who set off the explosion was injured critically, the spokesmen said. An investigation was underway.

Today, in the Gia Dinh suburb of Saigon, a Communist terrorist hurled a two-pound explosive charge into the home of a government office. Four girls in the house were wounded in the blast.

U.S. officials today denied North Vietnamese claims that Hanoi's coastal gunners had scored direct hits on the battleship New Jersey. Hanoi radio said the ship suffered a "damaging blow" Saturday while firing off the southern tip of North Vietnam. The U.S. spokesmen said that 10 to 12 Red coastal artillery shells fell 500 yards short of the big ship.

NIDRION, Greece (UPI)—Carloads of Greeks today observed the anniversary of the 1940 Italian invasion by starting at the rainswept yacht of Aristotle and Jacqueline Onassis who conquered them 23 years after Mussolini.

Greece marks the unusual holiday of the Italian invasion through Albania with parades of military might, church services, patriotic speeches and out-of-town vacation trips.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., said Sunday Hubert Humphrey's swing through Texas last week drew record-breaking crowds and had "all the fervor of the old time campaign."

Yarborough addressed a county-wide rally in San Antonio sponsored by the Democratic Women of Bexar County.

By United Press International

A high pressure cool front moved through the state early today and brought more clear skies and cooler temperatures that were expected to last into Tuesday.

The air in the front was dry and no rain was expected.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., said Sunday in a broadcast interview he was "not a candidate for a cabinet position" in a Richard Nixon administration.

Tower appeared in the interview (Issues and Answers—ABC) with former Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton, a top foreign affairs adviser to Nixon. Scranton said he also did not want a cabinet post in a Nixon administration.

Candidates Enter Final Week

By United Press International
The presidential election campaign roared into its final week today with partisan appeals from two White House occupants, one current and one former, and a flurry of charges and countercharges from the candidates.

From a sickbed in Washington, former President Eisenhower wrote to GOP candidate Richard M. Nixon that the country needs a leader to unite it, deal with crime and other foreign problems and decentralize a federal power structure which is "the heritage of years of Democratic rule."

"You, better than any other political figure I have seen or heard, are equipped to do these things," the 77-year-old general told his one-time vice president.

A few hours before on Sunday, President Johnson on a quick trip to a New York Democratic luncheon called Nixon and the Republican party "apostles of inaction," and predicted "Hubert Humphrey is going to wake up the morning of Nov. 6 as the president-elect of the United States."

He reminded his listeners Russia was threatening to bury America at the time Eisenhower left office, there was danger of a Communist takeover in the Congo and a projected Eisenhower visit to Japan had to be canceled because of student disturbances.

Johnson said he mentioned those things "lest we forget the shape of the world the last time Richard Nixon held high public office."

Nixon meantime said during questioning on a television show that he did not believe Johnson would use the Paris talks on Vietnam for political purposes, but he indicated there were others in the administration who might.

Humphrey immediately said in a statement that if Nixon has evidence any member of the administration "is playing politics with the peace negotiations, I call on him to spell it out now—openly."

In a national radio broadcast Sunday, Nixon said the administration, by underestimating the Communists in Vietnam, had "frittered away" the chance for a "swift decisive stroke" to end the war. He said including the Communists in a coalition government in South Vietnam would amount to a "thinly disguised surrender."

In remarks for an Akron, Ohio, rally today, Humphrey said the public could expect

Soviets Fail to Use Arms Against Crowd

By JAMES O. JACKSON
PRAGUE (UPI)—Thousands of Czechoslovak students paraded through Prague today with shouts of "Russians go home" and "Long live freedom" but the Russians failed to use the tanks and troops they had threatened to use in such an outbreak.

The youths' number swelled to about 4,000 as they gathered in Prague's old town square at the end of a miles-long march during which they shouted anti-Soviet slogans and repeatedly sang the national anthem. Russian armored cars kept them under close surveillance.

The occasion was the 50th anniversary of the birth of the Czechoslovak Republic. Before they ended their rally the students marched on Hradcany Castle for a demonstration at a time when all of the government and party leaders were gathered with foreign dignitaries for the anniversary celebrations.

Communist party sources said it was just such student action that the Czechoslovak leaders had tried to avoid, warning it might trigger massive retaliation by the Russian armies that invaded this nation Aug. 21.

Radio-equipped Soviet Army staff cars rumbled the side-streets along the students' route. The staff cars and the troops inside did not interfere.

But Czechoslovak police in patrol cruisers and trucks raced to the side of the marching students and with loudspeakers repeatedly warned:

"This demonstration has not been reported and must be considered to be unauthorized."

But the students, perhaps charged with the emotion of today's 50th anniversary of the Czechoslovak Republic, marched up to the rococo castle that is the seat of government.

The students had witnessed the past week the dumping, under Soviet pressure, of major reforms wrought by the Czechoslovak Communist regime led by party first secretary Alexander Dubcek.

At the bottom of the hill there had been only about 500 students, but the column swelled as it pushed up the hill. Students snatched red, white and blue national banners that had been hung on street poles to mark today's anniversary.

The Communist Czechoslovak leaders had gathered in the castle and delivered speeches on the anniversary and on the federal laws passed Sunday.

TO HALT BOMBING

Kosygin Asks Japan To Persuade U.S.

By United Press International
Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin said today Vietnam talks "have reached a very complicated stage." He asked the Japanese government to do all it can to persuade the United States to call an unconditional halt in U.S. bombing.

Kosygin's statements were released by Japanese sources in Moscow following a 90-minute conversation between Kosygin and Japanese Transport Minister Yaburo Nakasone who had asked the Soviet leader to use his good offices towards peace in Vietnam.

"The Vietnamese talks have reached a very complicated stage and I suggest the Japanese government do all it can to persuade the U.S. to give up bombing North Vietnam unconditionally," Kosygin was quoted by the Japanese sources.

"I shall relay your suggestion to our premier (Eisaku Sato) and I am sure Japan will do all it can for the cause of peace," Nakasone responded.

Price Denounces Freedom Abuse

BORGER (SpI)—Congressman Bob Price in a speech before a luncheon meeting at the Sands Motel in Borger today said that the abuse of freedom by the lawless element in America has gone too far.

The congressman said that crime—both in the streets and individually perpetrated—remains this country's number one domestic problem.

"Our federal courts have gone so far in protecting the rights of criminals that they have lost sight of the rights of the victims of criminals," he stated.

"I believe it is obvious even to the President now," Price said, "that while welfare programs for the poor and deprived are undoubtedly needed, there must be an end to this false assumption that there would be no crime or riots or disorder if everybody had a good job, a good home and good health."

"The only way to move against crime and violence is to move—not simply to wait until all the so-called social or racial inequities are removed," he added.

Price, seeking reelection to a second term, is a member of the Republican Task Force on Crime.

He demanded that the emergency in this matter demands meaningful and appropriate federal assistance for state and local enforcement agencies, but stated care must be taken to prevent the crisis from being used as a vehicle to place federal control over state and local police administrations, or to lay the foundation for a centralized federal police force.

More Soldiers To Be Tried For Disobedience

FT. HOOD, Tex. (UPI)—Five more Ft. Hood soldiers were to appear before a general court martial today on charges of disobeying the orders of a superior officer.

Today's trial was the second in a series of general court-martials. A series of special court-martials heard the cases of 22 soldiers, all Negroes, who protested at Ft. Hood after hearing rumors they were to be sent to Chicago for possible riot control duty during the Democratic National Convention.

The maximum penalty that can be given by a general court-martial is a dishonorable discharge, forfeiture of all pay and allowances and confinement at hard-labor for five years.

The five that were to be tried today are Pvt. Thomas J. Troyan, 23, of Chicago, Pfc. Frank H. Walton, 20, of Cleveland, Pfc. Rufus T. Belcher, 21, of Little Rock, Ark., Pvt. Norman O. Clanton, 21, of Ardmore, Pa., and Spec. 4 James T. Wilcoxon, 22, of Newman, Ga.

Six soldiers were tried Friday at Ft. Hood in the first of the general court-martials. Four were convicted and two were found innocent. Some 20 soldiers were scheduled to be tried in the general court-martials.

One soldier was reported to have deserted Ft. Hood, leaving eight more to be tried after today.

The 42 men were charged after a midnight protest on the military installation on the eve of the Democratic National Convention.

Many of those charged were Vietnam veterans who claimed they protested the possible movement to Chicago because they did not want to raise their bayonets against other Negroes.

Liquor Control Finally Selects An Administrator

AUSTIN (UPI)—The Texas Liquor Control Board today named O. N. Humphreys Jr. permanent administrator of the agency and called for a public hearing on stiff new regulations for private clubs.

Tom Gordon, TUCB chairman, cited the new agency chief for "the many changes and improvements in the agency's operations that have been put into effect since Mr. Humphreys took over its direction in very difficult times."

The announcement ended an eight-month delay in naming a permanent replacement for Coke Stevenson Jr., who resigned in February after 18 years in the top post amid charges of influence peddling and administrative irregularities.

Humphreys, a former official of the Department of Public Safety, has been acting administrator since February.

The new regulations Humphreys proposed to board members today would require private clubs to keep members' liquor in lockers, have 25 or more members and put up a $2,000 surety bond.

Bunker, Thieu Meet To Discuss Policies

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam met twice today, presumably discussing peace policy toward Hanoi.

The meetings were the eighth and ninth by the men in the past 13 days.

The first talk lasted 45 minutes and the second ran two hours.

Prime Minister Tran Van Huong of South Vietnam said in remarks reported today by the Vietnam press agency, the "main obstacle" to peace was a North Vietnamese demand that representatives of the National Liberation Front (NLF), the political arm of the Viet Cong, be included in negotiations.

Huong said the Saigon government's position is that the NLF is "only a tool of Communist North Vietnam."

"The NLF can appear at the

London Police Hold Against Protestors

By SCOTT E. BRUNS
LONDON (UPI)—Supporters called it the greatest anti-American demonstration in British history. But police said the march on the U.S. Embassy was almost a dud.

Of the 100,000 protesters predicted by march leaders, about 3,000 showed up in London streets Sunday. Of these about 30,000 showed up in the U.S. Embassy to chant "Ho Ho Chi Minh" and shove against about 600 police on foot and 50 on horseback. The police held firm.

The big march suffered when anarchists got lost between platoons of the National Lunacy Front and the supporters of Mao Tse-Tung kept skipping ahead of irate parade leaders. The Maoists produced a U.S. flag to burn but could not find a match.

Brief scuffles outside the embassy injured eight policemen. Police arrested 41 persons. Demonstrators said the 40 doctors and nurses they brought along for the "anti-American Armageddon" found 50 marchers to treat for minor injuries.

Tech Freshmen Jumps to Death

LUBBOCK (UPI)—A Texas Tech freshman arts and sciences major from Eunice, N.M., leaped to his death late Sunday from the seventh floor of a partly constructed science building on the Lubbock campus.

Ronald K. Collom, 18, was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCros.

Witnesses, some of them were his roommates, said Collom went to bed only to get up a few minutes later, dress and rush out of his Wells Hall dormitory room.

"He left saying, 'You will be surprised at the headlines you will see in the papers tomorrow. The boys followed him and arrived at the building in time to watch his plunge.'"

Police said they were still questioning the "seven or eight" witnesses of the jump but had already agreed Collom died by suicide.

Reds Return Unmanned Rocket

By HENRY SHAPIRO
MOSCOW (UPI)—Russia brought back from space today the unmanned half of its two-vehicle space probe. Cosmonaut Georgy Beregovoi continued to ride his Soyuz 3 space ship in orbit around the earth, Tass said.

The Soviet news agency said Soyuz 2, an unmanned space capsule which preceded Beregovoi's capsule into space, made a "soft landing" using a parachute. It landed in the Soviet Union.

The agency said Beregovoi, a 47-year-old war hero, continued his flight in the two-room Soyuz 3 into its third day. Sunday Beregovoi had made a series of approaches to the unmanned sister vehicle in what a Soviet scientist said were experiments to develop docking systems of spacecraft in orbit.

Tass said the docking maneuvers were "fully carried out."

Soviet news media reports raised speculation Beregovoi's vehicle might be joined in orbit by another manned space craft.

Soyuz 2 went into orbit Friday about 24 hours before Beregovoi's craft was placed in orbit. The mission was considered an important step in the Soviets race with the United States to put men on the moon.

News reports said Beregovoi's space craft has two rooms with a bedroom separate from the capsule control compartment. The cosmonaut told television viewers his sleeping compartment was fitted out with "a locker desk, everything for resting."

Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported the two spacecraft "extensively maneuvered" for 90 minutes Sunday. Beregovoi also took photographs of Soyuz 2 from the porthole of his ship, appeared several times on television transmissions and carried out scientific research chores.

It was the first manned Soviet flight since the first Soyuz model crashed 18 months ago, killing Col. Vladimir Komarov.

JEANE DIXON

FOR TUESDAY, OCT. 23, 1968
Your birthday today: The coming year marks the end of long cycle in your life. Your existence becomes readily amenable to simplicity. Fundamental changes are achieved without disturbing the placid exterior. Today's natives are tireless workers with lasting interests.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Your friends continue to be active, and the temptation to mix money and personalities is strong. Learn something further about health care today.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Finish old matters if you can. Consolidate the better features of your ventures to make them permanent. Be prepared for another test of your patience!

GEMINI (May 21-June 21): This is still not the day to make drastic moves. Wait a bit longer; meanwhile take into account the realities of the situation. It remains for older people to eventually have some very good counsel.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): New proposals may sound attractive but decisions are liable to be tricky. Follow the tested path that paid off before. Give people time to react to your moods.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): This is a normal day in which you have a bit of success. Settle any open questions with relatives and-in-laws this evening—with as calm an approach as you can muster.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): What seems desperately important today is almost certain to be minor tomorrow. You attract short tempers so moderate a bit. Attention to fine details comes naturally.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): What you buy today for sheer surface beauty turns out to be dearly bought. Your share of resources increases. Some nagging worry will lessen. Spend time in meditation this evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Signals are mixed (and those extra words confuse everybody). Try to close out belated transactions. Your stewardship turns out to be important.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Give your deeper spiritual nature a chance to manifest itself in coping with stress between yourself and others. If you concentrate on solving each problem as you go along, you can be free!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Cling to earlier decisions rather than start an untried course today. Continue conservatively. Your advice on the affairs of other people is needed; offer it if you are asked, but do not try to impose.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Feel free to use unconventional methods, but in doing so, stick with affairs that are already going well.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): The pitfall of today is to take somebody for granted; if you slip on this one, it will require quite some time before you regain your ground. Haste is to be avoided.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My neighbor (I'll call her "Mrs. X") is divorcing her husband, and she is looking for proof of adultery. Knowing Mr. X, I'm sure she will have no trouble, as I have seen many strange cars parked in front of their house all night when Mrs. X has been out of town.

Mrs. X has asked me some leading questions which indicate that she knows that her husband has been playing around—and with whom! My problem is this: 2 years ago, my husband I were having some difficulties, and I foolishly had a brief affair with Mr. X. I had never been unfaithful before, and I'd never do it again. I have a jewel for a husband, and I think he could forgive me if he ever found out, but it would hurt him deeply and I don't want to do that. But if the truth is going to come out in my neighbor's divorce, I'd rather have my husband hear it from me than in a courtroom.

Should I help the wife in her search for evidence? And what should I do about my own guilty conscience?

DEAR WORRIED: Keep your mouth shut and don't contribute any "evidence" in this case. And if you've never prayed before, pray now. With luck you can spare your husband (and yourself) a heap of unhappiness.

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to a guy who enjoys playing cards, and he plays for money—just to make it "interesting." Personally, I don't care much for cards, but I can play a fairly decent game if I have to.

All of Joe's relatives play cards night and day and they think it's terrible that I don't go crazy over cards the way they do.

Abby, I love this guy, and I have really tried to like cards, but there is no use fooling myself. It's boring. Besides, some of Joe's "interesting" evenings have cost him more than he can afford to lose.

Now I am being told (by Joe's relatives) "If you intend to marry Joe, you had better learn to like cards."

Don't misunderstand me. I think it is all right to play once in a while. But all week-end, and every night?

WORRIED
DEAR WORRIED: You mention Joe's relatives, but how does Joe feel about it? Gambling can become just as serious as "addiction" to booze, tobacco, and other undesirable habits. Take a second look at Joe just to be sure the joker isn't too wild.

DEAR ABBY: We hear so much about the "rudeness" of guests who arrive late, but how about guests who arrive EARLY? Isn't that rude, too?

We know a certain couple whom we invite for 7:30 if we want them there at 7. The 30 minutes before guests are scheduled to arrive are probably the most hectic (and important) to the hostess, and it just burns me up to have to drop everything and entertain these early birds. Besides, it puts me in a very bad mood. What do you say, Abby?

GLADYS
DEAR GLADYS: I say, you said it all—and very well, to which I can only add, "Amen."

DEAR ABBY: How come when you gave all that advice on what to do about obscene telephone calls you didn't mention the one trick that works like magic? Get a real loud whistle like those used by policemen and gym teachers. Keep it near the telephone, and at the first hint of an obscene or annoying phone call blow the whistle right into the mouthpiece as loud as you can. It will give the nut on the other end such an earache he will never bother you again.

Please don't sign my name. Some nut might call to see if I have a whistle, and I don't. I have never had an obscene phone call, but you can bet if I ever did, I would get myself a whistle after the first call.

Bond Is Set For Two Youths In Burglaries

Bond was set at $2,000 each today for two 18-year-old youths charged with burglary by the Gray County Sheriff's office and the Pampa police Department.

They were arraigned before Justice of the Peace E.L. Anderson.

Warrants for their arrest were issued Thursday by the district attorney's office.

Obie Rex Walden, who gave his address as 831 W. Kingsmill, turned himself in to law officers Sunday night, and Chris Kelley, whose address was listed as Rt. 2, Box 63, Pampa, was arrested today by Pampa police.

The two were part of a burglary ring of six youths who have so far admitted committing four burglaries over the past two months.

Four of the youths involved are juveniles, ranging in ages from 14-16.

The juveniles admitted under questioning that they committed the burglaries. They later implicated the two 18-year-old youths.

The juveniles are expected to be turned over to juvenile authorities for action.

St. Vincent's Dedicated With Formal Ceremonies

Some 750 persons attended formal dedication ceremonies yesterday afternoon for the new St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church, 2300 N. Perryton Parkway.

Blessing the new church and celebrant of a High Mass of Christ the King was His Excellency, Most Reverend Lawrence M. DeFalco, D.D., Bishop of Amarillo.

Former pastors of the Parish served as concelebrants, including Rev. Joseph Wonderly, Rev. William J. Stack, C.M., Rev. Myles Moynihan, C.M., Rev. Edward J. Cashman, C.M.

Also assisting were Very Rev. Msgr. A.M. Bottoms, J.C.D., Rt. Rev. Antonio Rodriguez and Very Rev. Maurice J. Hymel, C.M.

Pastor of St. Vincent's William V. Brennan, C.M., was commentator and assistant pastor Rev. Francis J. Hynes, C.M., was master of ceremonies.

A dedication dinner for parishioners and guests in the school gymnasium followed the Mass.

Sunday's ceremonies marked the completion of St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church and School's eleven-year million-dollar building program.

The final phase, construction of the new church, was begun in the spring of 1967. It is located between the school and rectory on a 17-acre church-school tract.

First phase of the building program was completed Sept. 27, 1959, when the Most Rev. John L. Morkovsky, St. D., then Bishop of Amarillo, blessed the church-school complex.

Previous to August of that year, St. Vincent's was known as Holy Souls parish and was located between West and Ward streets.

The overall plant, in addition to the new church, includes a ten-classroom school with library, cafeteria, gymnasium and other facilities, an eleven-room convent; and an eight-room, two-story rectory.

County Attorney

DUTIES, QUALIFICATIONS LISTED FOR VITAL POST

John W. Warner, Democratic candidate for County Attorney, was interviewed recently about the duties and responsibilities of Gray County Attorney.

"The County Attorney is the prosecuting officer in the County Court and in the four Justices of the Peace courts on misdemeanor cases," Warner said. Warner has been a criminal defense attorney for more than six years and has presided over more than 300 contested misdemeanor trials during his five years as Pampa's Corporation Court Judge. He is an honor graduate of Texas A&M and a graduate of the University of Texas Law School. He is also a national award winning speaker having been named among the six top Jaycee speakers in the nation out of 300,000 U.S. Jaycees.

"I believe one of the most important duties of the County Attorney is his role as prosecutor in the Juvenile Court," Warner said. Warner has personally investigated the backgrounds and supervised the probation of more than 180 minors placed on probation in the Corporation Court. He originated Teen-Age Court in Pampa where teen-agers are required to appear with their parents when they are charged with traffic offenses. His unique idea of permitting teen-agers to write themes on their first traffic offense has been credited with a 22% reduction in the percentage of teen-agers involved in accidents since he took office.

Warner served as Jaycee chairman for the Career Clinic and the College Day Workshop held at Pampa High School this year and has been named as the 1969 chairman. He has taught high school Sunday School class for six years in the Methodist

The game will get underway at 4 p.m. on Harvester Field.

Hollis Wins Staff Picks
A novice as far as picking football games was the second week of the Pampa News Staff selections.
Larry Hollis, new News Editor of the paper, started off on the right foot by guessing 15 of the 20 games correctly to nudge Bill Heckathorn by one game.
Hollis picked such upsets as Michigan State over Notre Dame, Auburn over Miami, Florida, and Baltimore's stunning upset of Los Angeles.
Heckathorn missed the LA-Baltimore tilt to finish 14-6 for the week and in second place.
The first week's top readers, Bill Power and Chico Ramirez like the rest of us, were hit by the upset bug.
Power finished 10-10, Ramirez, 12-8; Ron Cross, 9-12; Tex DeWeese, 9-11; Gary Myers, 13-7; Jeff Holladay, 12-8; Jim Casey, 10-10 and David Webster, 10-10.
For the season Ramirez and Myers lead with identical 28-9 records, then come Holladay, 27-10; Power, 26-11; Webster, 25-12; Heckathorn and Casey, 23-14; DeWeese, 22-15 and Cross, 21-16.

FERRARI FIRST
ROME (UPI)—Ernesto "Tino" Brambilla of Italy drove his Dino Ferrari to victory over Italian Andrea de Adamich's Dino Ferrari Sunday in the 20th Grand Prix of Rome.
Jean Pierre Beltoise of France, who already has clinched the European Formula two championship, was fourth in Matra behind Briton Peter Gethin, who missed taking second place by two seconds in the 154.7-mile race in his Brabham.

Colts Do It Without Unitas, 27-10

By United Press International
So who needs Johnny Unitas? Certainly not the Baltimore Colts, who played without their ailing leader Sunday but didn't even miss him as they came up with a stirring performance to shock the Los Angeles Rams, 27-10.

Earl Morrall performed capably in Unitas' absence but it was the Colt defensive unit which turned the game around. The defense recovered a fumble and intercepted a pass and Morrall quickly turned them into touchdowns as the Colts zoomed to a 20-3 lead early in the second period.

The Los Angeles loss, snapping the Rams' 14-game regular season winning streak, left the Dallas Cowboys—who meet Green Bay tonight in a nationally televised game—as the only unbeaten team in the NFL.
Green Bay, meanwhile, is still in good shape despite its 2-3-1 mark. Detroit, the Central Division leader, was beaten by San Francisco, 14-7 while the Chicago Bears edged the Minnesota Vikings, 26-24. That left Detroit at 3-3-1 with both Minnesota and Chicago at 3-4.

A Standoff
In a battle of futility, winless Pittsburgh and Philadelphia met and neither team could score a touchdown. But Pittsburgh won, 6-3, on Booth Lusteg's 15-yard field goal with 17 seconds left—after the Eagles went for a first down on a fourth-and-one play on their own nine with 49 seconds left.
In the other three games Sunday, Cleveland routed Atlanta, 30-7, New York edged Washington, 13-10, and St. Louis beat New Orleans, 31-17.

The Baltimore defense showed its mettle in the three minutes when the Rams recovered a blocked punt on the Colt 17—but had to settle for a 19-yard field goal by Bruce Gossett. The rest of the way it was all the Colts.
After Tom Matte ran 40-yards with a swing pass from Morrall, Jerry Hill scored the first Colt TD on a plunge. Fred Miller then pounced on a Willie Ellison fumble on the 30 and scampered to the four and Morrall scored three plays later to make it 13-3. After Rick Volk intercepted a Roman Gabriel pass on play before the end of the first period, Jimmy Orr caught a 44-yard touchdown pass from Morrall to make it 20-3.

Dick Witcher scooped up a fumble from teammate Gary Lewis and dashed 12 yards for the fourth period TD that gave San Francisco the win over Detroit. Lewis had caught a 37-yard pass from John Brodie before fumbling on the 12.
Mac Percival's fourth field goal—a 47-yarder with three seconds left—gave Chicago the wild victory over Minnesota. It came after the Vikings took a 24-23 lead on Joe Kapp's 25-yard TD pass to Gene Washington with 66 seconds left.
Bill Nelsen passed for 196 yards and Leroy Kelly rushed for 199 yards in 19 carries as Cleveland routed Atlanta.

The victory left the Browns tied for the Century Division lead at 4-3 with St. Louis, which beat New Orleans with a 21-point fourth period explosion. Jim Hart ran for one TD and tossed a 53-yard pass to Dave Williams for another to highlight the final period surge.
New York drove 80 yards for a fourth period TD with rookie Bobby Duhan collecting 56 of the yards on eight runs and three pass receptions in the 19-play drive. Tucker Frederickson banged over from the one for the score. Charley Gogolak missed a 42-yard field goal which would have tied the score with 14 seconds left.

The New York Jets retained first place in the Eastern Division as reserve running back Billy Joe Rompford for three touchdowns and Matt Snell scored twice against the hapless Patriots.
The Jets' defense intercepted Mike Talleferro, who used to be Joe Namath's understudy, five times and recovered three Boston fumbles.
Lamonica Connects
Daryle Lamonica passed for three touchdowns as the Raiders whipped the fledgling Bengals. He hit flanker Fred Biletnikoff for two scores and substitute halfback Roger Harberg for the third.
The Oakland defense held Cincinnati to just eight first downs and slipped only once when Paul Robinson scored on an electrifying 87-yard TD run for the Bengals.

Houston quarterback Don Trull fired two touchdown passes to Alvin Reed and Wayne Walker kicked three field goals to push the Oilers past Buffalo.
Substitute quarterback Martin Briscoe sparked a second half Denver rally, in which he scored two touchdowns, to get the Broncos past Miami.
Briscoe, a 5-10, 177-pound rookie, scored the winning touchdown with just 1:55 to go in the game on a quarterback sneak from the Dolphin 10.

Gruver-Bucks Contest May Decide 1-A Champ

Gruver plays host to White Deer Friday and the winner will probably go on to win the District 1-A title.
Both stand 2-0 in district play and the Bucks have won three in a row but Gruver has proved the toughest team in the district thus far.

Other district games find Canadian at San-Fritch trying to break a four game losing streak and Stratford, 1-1, hosting Sunray.
McLean will get something of a rest this week after upsetting Wheeler Friday by playing host to last place Claude in a District 2-A battle.
The Tigers and Clarendon are deadlocked for the district lead, both with 2-0 marks. Clarendon is 6-0 for the season and McLean is 5-2.
Wheeler gets another tough assignment, taking on Happy on the Cowboys home field and Clarendon plays at Silverton.

COSTA MESA, Calif. (UPI)—A more confident and well-rewarded Bob Dickson looked towards the $100,000 Lucky International Open at San Francisco today as his next rich opportunity after picking up first money of $33,000 in the Haig National Open.
The 24-year-old Dickson scored his first PGA tour victory in the $110,000 Haig Open on his 15th tournament appearance as a pro. The victory exceeded the young Tulsa, Okla. pro's greatest ambition prior to his victory.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Longer School Year Under Study

Like a lot of other traditional things, the traditional nine-month school year is coming under scrutiny in these fast-changing times.

Eighty or more school districts around the country, 22 of them in New York State alone, are seriously considering moving to a longer school year, reports the National Education Association.

This is still a tiny number but could be indicative of a trend, for the same factors influencing officials in these districts operate everywhere—the rising cost of building and maintaining school plants, growing enrollments, the demand for better educational opportunities for children and teachers' demands for improved economic and professional status.

The arguments in favor of a full-year school year are numerous. For one thing, it is certainly wasteful for costly facilities and equipment to be locked up during the summer months.

If existing school buildings were fully utilized, fewer new ones would need to be constructed, it is said.

Another argument for the longer school year is the need to keep youths busy and off the streets during the summer months.

"The picture of a vacation lad wending his way to the fishing hole no longer portrays life in our urban society," says the NEA. "Today's youth more often faces steaming asphalt streets at worst, or two weeks at summer camp at best. Proponents believe that summer attendance at school should substantially reduce juvenile delinquency."

Allied to this is something called "pupil acceleration," which means graduating students a year earlier than at present—thus helping the taxpayer get more miles per gallon out of existing schools and teachers.

It can't be denied that today's youths need to learn a lot more than their parents had to yet it is this very argument that may give many parents pause.

Toward what or into what are today's already accelerated children to be accelerated? It somehow smacks of the same kind of adult thinking that can't leave kids to themselves to play pick-up baseball in an empty lot. Instead, they have to be put into uniforms and supervised, professionalized and ulcerated ahead of their time.

It may be true that the vacation lad wending his way to the fishing hole is a picture of a world that no longer exists. But could it possibly be that what we really need are more fishing holes?

Bureaucracy Rolls On

One can only marvel at the seeming serenity with which the Congress countenances the contempt of the bureaucrats in Washington. The arrogance of the bureaucrat was never more pointed than in the closing weeks of the government's fiscal year which ended on June 30. At that date federal agencies had on the payroll a total of 3,026,376 persons. That, according to Congressman George Mahon, chairman of the Joint Committee on Reduction of Federal Expenditures, was "the highest federal civilian employment level since November, 1945."

But an even more stunning figure is the 95,350 employees that were added to the federal employment rolls in the course of just one month. Even as Congress was demanding cut backs in federal spending, according to administration demands to increase taxes and reviewing budget requests for hours on end, the bureaucrats were packing the payroll. The Transportation Department, for example, added 2,959 and the Veterans' Administration recruited 3,604 persons. The Winchester, Va., Evening Star took note of the bureaucracy's response to demands for economy by the Congress. Here is what it said: "Coming at a time when federal officials supposedly were concentrating on holding the line on spending, one can only imagine what the record might have shown if budgetary considerations had played no part in the federal government's hiring plans.

"Or was it an anticipation of a clampdown by Congress on hiring in the new fiscal year that the federal agencies loaded their payrolls in the declining weeks of fiscal 1968? Whatever the excuse, the national administration is not administering its own house.

"Aside from the fact such mismanagement provides ample ammunition for the political opposition it is a sad finale to an administration which has run up the largest peacetime deficit in history." Those are our sentiments, exactly.

Reds Catching Up

We see by the news from Moscow that the Russians are rapidly catching up to the U.S. in a field in which we thought we had a huge lead just a few years ago: The field post office efficiency. The Kremliettes have come up with a typical socialist answer to a typical problem.

The Russians are employing "indoctrination" of the peasants (the U.S. called it education as we recall) to bring about this latest burden on efficiency. The problem seems to be that people in Russia as in the United States, are wanting more mail and sending more junk through the mails than they used to do. Of course, the average Russian postman's maulsack is no doubt loaded down with free mail (propaganda) sent to the millions of peasants across the land at their expense. Like Americans, they probably despise it in the trash barrel and the postman's extra load ends up as the garbage collector's problem—and why not? It is garbage, just as much of what we get crammed into our mailboxes is junk, government and political pamphlets not expected.

Not unlike the U.S. the Soviets find it necessary to build a great new building in Moscow to expedite the mails under the new system. They probably will abandon an older, but still usable building so as to use the new one.

Victor's 'Spoils' Smaller

Even should the American people decide to "throw the rascals out" and throw some new ones in, there will hardly be a mass exodus from Washington come next January. There are 200,000 federal employees in the nation's capital, most of them under Civil Service, which means that their job security is protected against the whims of political change. Only about one in 40 government employees holds a top echelon job, and most of these, too, are experienced, competent career civil servants.

In all, says one source, no more than 2,500 political appointments could change hands under a new administration. But even that, come to think of it, is no mean spoils for the victor.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: A reader asks why we put so much emphasis on the Coveting Commandment instead of, as she says, "the first and greatest commandment 'Thou shalt love thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might!'"

ANSWER: That commandment was recorded by Mark and Luke, and is not one of the original commandments. But it is similar to the first of the Ten Commandments which says, "I am the Lord thy God. Thou shalt have no other gods before me."

Both of these commandments emphasize man's relation to his God and this was given first importance. The rest of the Ten Commandments in Exodus and the second one recorded by Mark and Luke to love thy neighbor as thyself, concern man's relations to his fellow men.

We do not presume upon another man's relations with his God. That is an entirely personal and private thing.

But in regard to man's relations to other men, we can all try to foster a better understanding of God's or nature's laws and to try to help improve man's relation to man and his well-being upon this earth. That is why we emphasize the Coveting Commandment.

We believe that understanding the Coveting Commandment and trying to guide one's conduct by it will benefit all mankind. All actions begin in the mind, and if one didn't covet, he would not steal, he would not bear false witness, he would not murder nor commit adultery nor do any other immoral or unjust thing.

We do not see how anybody can love anybody else if he covets. If he loves someone he certainly will not covet that one's property. If you covet anything that is thy neighbor's, you cannot have a clear conscience or self-respect. You will be ashamed and not love—or respect—yourself. Then when you try to love thy neighbor as thyself, you will only be able to do so to the extent that you love yourself—or have self-respect. And if you covet, that will be very little.

The Doctor Says:

Get Up, Walk in Aisle During Lengthy Flights

A doctor, 42, was on a night flight back to the United States after a vacation in Europe when he was awakened by pains in the chest and shortness of breath. He thought at once that he was having a heart attack and arranged to have himself taken from the plane to a hospital near the airport. At the hospital, the doctors quickly discovered that their colleague was not having a heart attack but had a blood clot in his lungs.

Prompt treatment of this very serious condition saved this doctor's life, but only about 30 per cent of all lung clots are correctly diagnosed before death. They may be mistaken for heart disease, pneumonia, emphysema, pleurisy, chronic bronchitis or asthma. The cause of the clotting in this and many similar cases is impaired circulation to the legs, aggravated by exhaustion after a strenuous vacation and sleeping sitting up in a cramped position. The clot in the legs breaks off and lodges in the lungs.

Lung clots in persons making flights lasting more than two hours can be prevented by taking a short walk in the aisle every 50 or 60 minutes and by frequently wiggling the toes while sitting. Since the same hazard is involved in long auto trips, it is wise to stop frequently and get out of the car for a couple of minutes.

A person who has varicose veins is especially vulnerable. He should not take a long plane trip unless he is wearing individually fitted elastic stockings. Since these stockings may slip down and form a bunch below the knees they should be taped to the skin. Tight girdles, however, may in themselves impede the circulation in persons who sit in a cramped position for a long period.

Q—What does a barium test show?
A—A barium (radiopaque) meal is taken in the fluoroscopic room so that the radiologist can detect structural changes in the esophagus, stomach and duodenum. A barium enema is given to find or rule out such changes in the colon.

Torch of Freedom

Tax-Subsidized Universities
By C. L. DICKINSON

Stanford University received $46 million for government sponsored research last year and had been led to expect nearly as much this year, according to a sympathetic story in the San Francisco Chronicle. The figures do not include the appropriation for the Stanford Linear Accelerator which last year spent more than $29 million of government funds. According to the 1967 Stanford University financial report, "Sponsored projects income was 23 per cent higher (in 1968) than in the previous year. Most was from the federal government for specific research and training projects." There follows a breakdown of research and training projects to indicate the amounts of federal funds used in the several academic fields amounting to a total of $49.3 million.

After several years of relying on the federal tax collector for funds to expand this once private university, its chief financial officer is complaining about proposed "cuts in federal research grants that may cost the institution as much as $7 million in the current school year." He "hopes that a Senate-House conference committee now meeting in Washington could be persuaded to soften the recommended reductions in federal payments."

In other words, Stanford and nearly all other private educational institutions now must rely on the forceful confiscation of private property by the tax collector to enable them to "carry on the research projects that must have been less attractive to private investors or donors.

This cynical disregard for the free and voluntary market for the exchange of ideas, and for goods and services is hardly conducive to the establishment of the morality and order so necessary for maximum achievement of scholars. If the university trustees and administrators approve of the confiscation of private property by federal tax collectors for support of university research, building expansion and teaching, what can be wrong with the application of student force in taking over university administrative research or teaching facilities? If the university trustees and administrators and faculty make demands on the nation's politicians, who are really the tax payers' trustees, to use government force to take the property of tax payers for the benefit of the university, it hardly seems strange that the Black Student Union makes "demands" on the university's administrators and gives them a time limit of 3 days to meet the demands. Faculty members, singly or in concert, who devise research projects aimed at getting at share of the vast sums of tax loot taken from citizens who don't even have the opportunity to buy or reject their be, expected to know what constitutes freedom of choice, the essential ingredient of liberty.

An assistant director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation once said, "The use of wealth to ruin the system that produced it is a story as old as revolutionary history." This statement may be still more applicable to the use of force by a private institution to obtain wealth that was confiscated from unknowing or unwilling citizens. The trustees, administrators and faculty of Stanford and every other private university should keep ever in mind a 1943 ruling of the Supreme Court: "It is hardly lack of due process for the government to control that which it subsidizes."

The office of education says their "cultural enrichment" projects which are financed by Titles I and III are being questioned. Total investment in the last school year was 80 million berries. No wonder its been questioned.

What this "cultural enrichment" program does is load up a bunch of kids in busses and take them around to art galleries to look at "pitchers." The instructors try to explain them. I wonder why the kids can't look at them in books and understand them just as well, like they used to? Do you reckon its because the kids can't read?

Anyhow, the observers claim this approach to the arts, for some reason, ain't turning the kids on. So, as usual, the projects will throw worse money after bad.

They are funding five projects this fiscal year to try and learn how to evaluate learning in the arts. If they don't know that already then what did they spend 80 million bucks for in the first place? I'll tell you why... because it was there.

The educators are going to try a new method now. They are going to hold "before and after" taped interviews with the kids to find out what they know. By golly, mebbe them educators will learn something yet.

PAUL HARVEY NEWS

After Cigarettes, Booze?

By PAUL HARVEY
So far as I have been able to determine, Dr. Alton Ochsner was alone in his profession—and I in mine—when we reported a relationship between smoking and lung cancer in 1936.

We were mostly alone for almost 15 years, therefore, encouraging each other in the face of much discouraging opposition.

Many of Dr. Ochsner's colleagues berated him; his best friends chided him.

Let the record show that Drs. Cuyler Hammond and Luther Terry, who laughed aloud at Ochsner's report, have since become altogether as vigorous as he in publicizing the hazards of smoking.

Dr. Everts Grafah, who taunted Ochsner mercilessly in 1940, later switched sides so militantly that he, Dr. Graham, would snatch cigarettes from the lips of his colleagues, saying "You, a doctor, of all people, should know better!"

Dr. Graham, perhaps because he was converted tardily, died of lung cancer.

Recently I have reviewed accumulated evidence against alcohol. This evidence is altogether as convincing as that which convicted the cigarette. I am wondering how many doctors who today condone drinking might not soon condemn it.

The surgeon general of the United States issued a detailed report which concluded with a denunciation of the tobacco industry for "encouraging disease and death."

Yet all that he says is altogether as true of equally artful liquor advertising—and liquor may be deadly both to the user and to his victim—yet our government remains silent on this statistically larger menace.

Alcoholism is directly fatal to 11,000 Americans every year. Indirectly it kills many times that many. Drinking by drivers and pedestrians causes 800,000 crashes, kills 25,000 American every year.

Of all private plane crashes or crash landings, 60 per cent result from somebody's drinking.

Alcohol fed the flames during recent rioting.

American industry, because of alcoholism, turnover, tardiness and mistakes by drinking executives, is losing $7½ billion a year.

Even the so-called "social drinker" destroys his own brain cells and reduces his own life expectancy. His death rate from heart and digestive diseases, suicide, homicide and motor vehicle accidents is 2½ times greater than for nondrinkers his age.

What liquor does to the liver is more readily provable than what smoking does to the lungs, yet the U.S. Public Health Service continues to look the other way.

Britain has sought to cork the bottle by requiring roadside sobriety tests for errand motorists with some measurable success.

The French government is campaigning with posters, TV radio billboards and periodicals against drinking, much as our own government is campaigning against smoking.

Our government's antimoking campaign, however, has been less than successful. I see no hope for the "scar" approach.

I'm wondering if our own government's efforts might not better be directed toward awakening a "health consciousness" in Americans.

A generation with pride in its physique would unselfishly abstain from drink, drugs, cigarettes and other dissipation.

President John Kennedy initiated a national fitness awareness. Wouldn't a revival of that be a most splendid monument to him!

Bagging the Rhodesians

It is shocking and almost incredible, but nonetheless true, that even as the nation was in the midst of a presidential election and concerned about ominous new Soviet aggression in Central Europe, the Johnson administration found time and had the desire to engage in new, petty acts of retaliation against Rhodesia, one of the few countries that has offered to send troops to Vietnam to assist embattled Americans.

While the vast majority were concerned about truly serious things, some smart alecks in the U.S. Treasury fired off a letter to Washington banks, ordering them to block the checking accounts of the Rhodesian Information Agency. The two Rhodesians who man this agency found they couldn't pay their rent or buy groceries.

Most Americans surely will feel that the United States is too great a nation to stoop to this kind of petty business. The only effect of it, aside from causing the two Rhodesians inconvenience and personal difficulty, is to cut off the American people from access to information offered by the government of Rhodesia. The blocking of the checking accounts, therefore, really struck at the U.S. public, for it was a crude act of news management.

Fortunately, the brave Rhodesians have good friends in Congress—men who bear in mind that Rhodesia is an anti-communist bastion in Africa and has leadership with plenty of intestinal fortitude. The fund cut-off has produced a barrage of criticism of the Treasury's act.

The U.S. public would do well, however, to think about this mean slap at Rhodesia. It is the latest in a series of absurd measures designed to please the socialist government of Great Britain and the Afro-Asian majority in the United Nations. One of the first things a new administration should do is acknowledge Rhodesia's independence and seek an exchange of ambassadors.

The U.S. should categorize as nonsense the United Nations assertion that Rhodesia is a threat to peace. Nothing could be more absurd. Only hypocrites would accept the U. N. line. It should be noted in this connection that the government of India has been on the vanguard of nations seeking U. N. action against Rhodesia. But when 650,000 Russian soldiers stormed into Czechoslovakia and carted off the Czech leaders to Moscow, India declined to condemn the Russians. It was a sample of the old U.N. double standard, which invariably is applied against civilized elements and nations in Africa.

It is outrageous, in the view of many Americans, that the Johnson administration took far stronger economic measures against Rhodesia than it would take against communist countries. Indeed the without congressional approval or consent, as in the case of a ban on trade with Rhodesia. Ironically, this trade ban resulted in the U.S. buying chrome ore from communist Albania and Russia instead of from the normal source, anti-communist Rhodesia.

While Rhodesia occupies only a small space on the globe, it is full of significance for American foreign relations. Our treatment of the Rhodesian typifies what's wrong in our foreign policy; we treat our friends badly while finding excuses for our enemies.

The United States has few friends on the African continent—few lands where Americans are treated with respect and may move with safety. Few states offer opportunities for legitimate investment—investment that is protected by a constitutional government that keeps its word. Rhodesia and the Republic of South Africa are the two African nations the Americans can trust. But they are the nations that consistently receive ill treatment from the liberal ideologues who have been in charge in Washington for the last eight years.

It is time for a change in U.S. foreign relations. The ad edp sensing news TWO 1 change should involve frank recognition of the nation's real friends and good treatment of them in future. In the case of Rhodesia and the Republic of South Africa, opportunities exist for mutual defense moves against expansion of Soviet and Chinese communism in Africa. Opportunities exist for mutual commercial ties between the United States and Southern Africa, a region that has tremendous economic potential and that should be closely linked to the free world, free enterprise systems.

After January 20, when a new administration takes office, the United States should act again as it is proper for a great Republic to act, with dignity and with a regard for other nations that represent civilized values.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Earlier this month when a vice presidential candidate made a campaign appearance in this area I invited my friend Grinich to accompany me to the rally.

"Count me out," he said. "I saw a vice presidential candidate last month, and when you've seen one you've seen them all."

I was a bit shocked by his reaction.

"You shouldn't say things like that," I said. "I happen to know you are deeply concerned over the plight of vice presidential candidates. But this makes you sound callous and indifferent."

"I didn't mean it the way it sounded," Grinich said. "What I mean is that all vice presidential candidates are essentially in the same boat."

"Rather than make speeches that develop their own views, they are expected to compose variations on the themes of the presidential candidates."

"They must be careful not to upstage their running-mates, though they may be more dynamic campaigners."

"And even if they attract large followings of their own, it does them little good. If a presidential candidate sinks, the vice presidential candidate goes down with him."

"That may be true," I said, "but it is the way our political system operates. Surely you do not mean to teach and advocate the overthrow of the system."

"I'm saying that a system that was adequate for the conditions of yesterday and the day before doesn't necessarily meet the needs of today and tomorrow," Grinich replied.

"The subjugation of vice presidential candidates is a national disgrace that can no longer be tolerated. They should be liberated and allowed to function as co-equals in the campaign."

I said, "but that could create all sorts of confusion. Instead of Humphrey and Muskie running against Nixon and Agnew, we might find Humphrey running against Muskie and Agnew running against Nixon."

"Exactly!" Grinich exclaimed. "We should have a choice of vice presidential candidates as well as presidential candidates."

"Why should a voter be bound by a Humphrey-Muskie, Nixon-Agnew or Wallace-LeMay ticket if he would prefer a Humphrey-Agnew, Nixon-LeMay or Wallace-Muskie ticket?"

I agreed that unleashing the vice presidential candidates might make for a more interesting campaign. But I pointed out that it could result in the election of a president and a vice president who refused to speak to each other.

"So much the better," Grinich said.

Television in Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"The Influence of television in racial unrest" is the title of a study by Fred Casimir, associate professor of speech at Pepperdine College in Los Angeles. Among the points he makes is this:

"Individuals working with the television medium need to become considerably more aware of the ways in which their messages are received, rather than being satisfied with pointing to the intentions of the broadcaster."

Or, as the study also notes, "Meaning is found in the mind and understanding of the receiver, not in the message or the words used."

In assessing television's role as a commercial advertising medium, Casimir writes:

"On one hand, the industry works hard to establish its position as a powerful sales medium for American industry. On the other hand, television seems reluctant to admit the possibility that its commercial messages could be responsible for grave tensions and frustrations among minority groups in our country."

Brings Home Contrast

Concerning this point, the professor offers a statement from a video newsman about the power of television:

"It has brought scenes of American affluence, the good life, dramatically and impressively, into the Negro homes where people sleep four in a room, into the ghettos and the shacks where they don't own washing machines and electric toothbrushes."

"The commercials and the programs day after day have impressed on Negro families that they are the have-nots of our society. Television has helped intensify their yearnings not only for basic dignity and equality but for the material things identified with status."

Concerning several studies of Negro television viewers, Casimir observes that "a heavy preference for serials"—that is, soap operas.

Study Serials

In view of this, another study dealt with 12 daytime serials and one nighttime soap opera which appeared on Los Angeles television last March.

One finding of this study, Casimir writes, was that the five most frequent categories of individuals appearing on these serials were doctors, lawyers, housewives, nurses and students. The professor notes:

"Occupational groups represented ranged at the very lowest from the $8,000-a-year group, and frequently would range up to an income level of probably $50,000 a year."

Writes Casimir: "Findings discussed in this paper strongly suggest that many of the racial disturbances may very likely be much less racial and much more economic in nature, the racial part being vital only because of the disadvantaged position in which the Negro finds himself as a group."
