

Violence in Chicago Streets Amounted to a 'Police Riot,' Report Says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The violence millions of Americans witnessed by television in Chicago streets outside the Democratic convention was "overwhelmingly" on the side of police and amounted to a "police riot," according to investigators for the National Commission on Violence.

violence was overwhelmingly on the side of police." The stage was set for a breakdown in police control, the report said, by actions of Mayor Richard J. Daley and other city officials which conditioned police to expect that violence against demonstrators would be condoned.

The nature of the provocations listed by the report included sticks, bathroom tiles and even human excrement hurled at the police by protesters.

what can only be called a police riot." While only a minority of the city's 12,000-man police force was engaged in unwarranted violence, "There has been no public condemnation of these violators of sound police procedures and common decency by either their commanding officers or city officials."

U.S. Troops Repel Attack Near Saigon

SAIGON (UPI)—Firing machineguns and hurling grenades at Communists only eight feet away, U.S. troops smashed a 600-man North Vietnamese attack near Saigon, military spokesmen said today.

North Vietnam, U.S. Diplomats To Discuss Talks

PARIS (UPI)—American and North Vietnamese diplomats will meet within 48 hours to arrange the opening of full Vietnam war settlement talks, high U.S. sources said today.

Today U.S. officials warned talks may be "tough." The prediction was no surprise. The North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong guerrillas on one side and the South Vietnamese on the other have indicated they will fight to gain procedure and protocol points. These issues chiefly were Saigon's refusal to recognize the Viet Cong as anything but part of Hanoi's delegation and the North Vietnamese demand for equal status of the Viet Cong.

machinegun in Sunday's battle of Ben Cat. Sgt. David C. Evasco of Lincoln, Neb., battling beside a flaming ammunition bunker in the 1st Infantry Division camp, looked through the explosions and saw "three enemy stick their heads up and stare. I wiped all three out with a hand grenade."

The 800 U.S. defenders killed at least 44 of the North Vietnamese. The Communists raced back into the jungle. The U.S. camp suffered one American killed and 36 others wounded.

At the same time Sunday, a U.S. Marine force walked into a Communist trap 15 miles south of Da Nang. UPI photographer Kent Potter, with the Leathernecks, said the Americans figured hours of U.S. air and artillery bombardment had wiped out the 150 Communists cornered in a series of jungle bunkers. The Marines advanced.

Nothing happened until the Marines were in the middle of the bunker area. The Communists rose and fired. Machine-gun fire raked into the Marine positions. For three hours the Leathernecks battled to save themselves. Pierre Isot, a UPI movie cameraman who suffered a leg wound in the fighting, said the Communist fire was so heavy that Marine ambulances reach the U.S. wounded, but the helicopter were unable to reach the U.S. wounded. But e Marines finally battled out, killing at least seven Communists. The Marines suffered 28 men wounded.

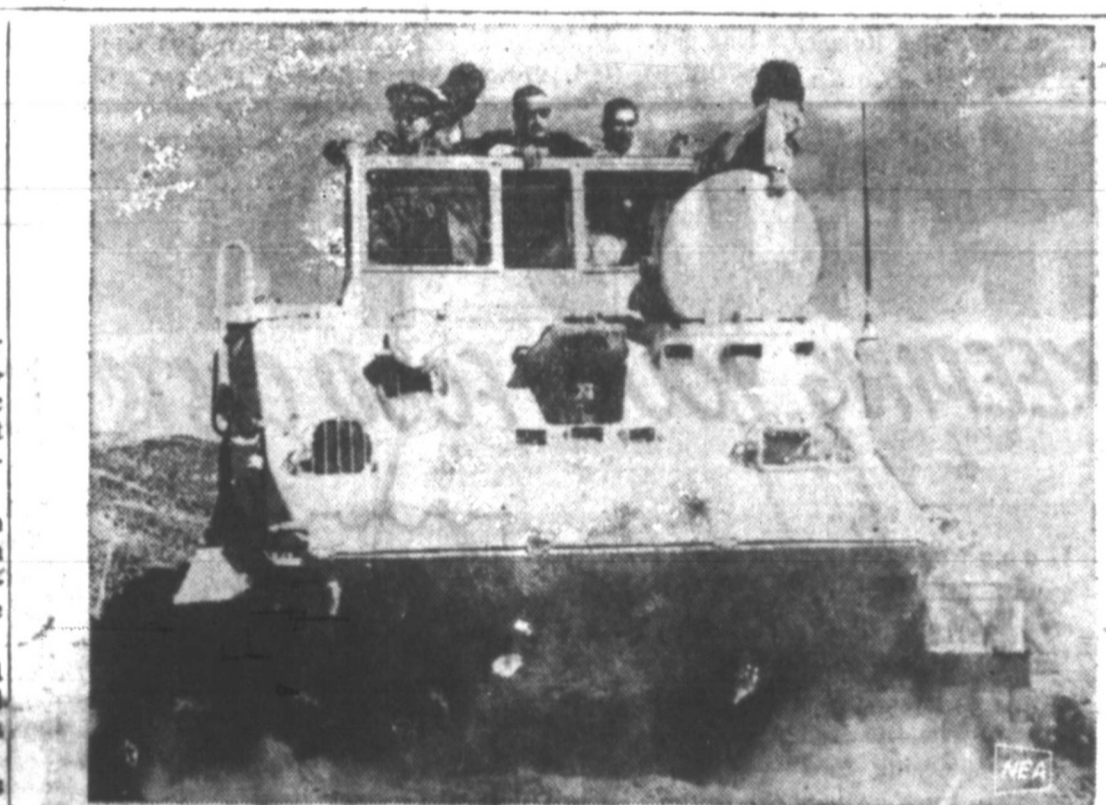

Nixon Sending Scranton On Tour of Middle East

Czechs Feeling Economic Pinch From Invasion

PRAGUE (UPI)—From color television to pork chops, Czechs today felt an economic pinch that came with the Soviet bloc invasion in August. Industry officials said.

They said this occupied nation is being forced to accept an inferior system of color television because it is the kind the Soviets chose for themselves. Shortly before the Aug. 21 invasion, the Czechoslovaks had decided on a West German color television system.

The officials also said this nation—so fond of pork—is eating less meat because the invasion upset farm production. The manager of a major meat packing plant, interviewed on Czechoslovakia television, said there is a good supply of meat but that it was not as great as it would normally be at this time of year.

Tensions between the Arab countries, including Egypt, and Israel have increased with the outbreak of new fighting.

Israeli Fighter Planes Strike City and Bridges Inside Jordan

United Press International Israeli fighter planes today raided near Irbid, Jordan's second largest city. Amman Radio said Israel's forces Sunday night shelled Irbid and blew up two vital bridges in a hit-and-run strike deep inside Jordanian territory.

minutes. Irbid is in Northern Jordan about 18 miles southeast of the Sea of Galilee. The Jordanian radio said two soldiers were killed and a third wounded by the Israeli air raid. Amman Radio said two civilians were wounded and a house damaged by the Israeli artillery fire against Irbid Sunday night. It said more fighting erupted later today and reported Israeli tanks exchanged fire with Jordanian forces in the Northern Jordan Valley. The broadcast said no Jordanians were injured but two Israelis were hit in the valley exchange.

To Discuss Solutions Of Arab-Israeli War

NEW YORK (UPI) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon dispatched one of his key foreign policy advisors on a nine-day fact-finding trip to the Middle East today. Former Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton's tour will take him to six nations in the troubled region where Nixon believes Soviet expansionist ideals have increased already high tensions and made war likely.

first and spend two days in Israel before flying back to New York Dec. 11 to report his findings to Nixon. Meets With Advisers The president-elect, meantime, scheduled more meetings with advisers today to work out the programs and personnel for his new administration.

An aide said Nixon would not make public his cabinet choices until sometime after he returns from a two-day trip to California on Dec. 7. But he is expected to name several more assistants and advisers during the coming week.

One of his first selections probably will be a budget director. Nixon must present a budget funding his programs to Congress shortly after assuming office Jan. 20 and costs, of course, will be a chief factor in establishing priorities and limits on his plans. Maurice Stans, director of the Bureau of the Budget during the Eisenhower administration, has been advising Nixon on budgetary matters during the transition period.

Thieu Orders Cease-fire

SAIGON (UPI) — President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam tonight ordered a 24-hour Christmas cease-fire in a low-keyed announcement that caught the U.S. Embassy by surprise.

It was seen by some observers as an attempt to deny the Viet Cong a propaganda victory at the Paris peace talks. The Viet Cong, portraying themselves as the true peace seekers, scored a propaganda victory in late November by being the first to announce a Christmas cease-fire.

forces also would observe the holiday war pause. The spokesman said the cease-fire, the 12th since 1961, would run from 6 p.m. Christmas Eve until 24 hours later. He said it would be in honor of both Christmas and New Year's, appearing to rule out separate cease-fires for each holiday.

Scouting Scoops

By Mrs. G. J. Boyd

Cadette Troop 22 has been active since its organization. A. C. J. Welch, leader, has been involved in Scouting for several years and has the troop's activities planned well in advance. The troop has been earning their My Government badge with the assistance of Howard Graham, history teacher at Pampa High School. Mr. Graham was guest speaker for Troop 22 and their guest troop, Troop 125, for a program held recently at the Girl Scout Little House.

Members of both troops attended juvenile court and toured City Hall and the Pampa police station with Judge John Warner.

Those attending the My Government program were Troop 22 members: Kathleen Fitzgerald, Marcell McPherson, Terry Morris, Elaine Odom, Kathy O'Neal, Debra Terry, Pam Welch and Susie Welch. Guest Troop 125 members were Marsha Crouch, Gretchen Skelly, Cindy McDonald, Marilyn Miller, Carol New, Dawn Newman, Sherry Whiteley and Teresa Akst.

Other activities of Troop 22 have been the Cadette Camporee, a Halloween party, weekend at Camp Mel Davis, baby clothes gathered for Vietnamese orphans, phone calls to remind people to vote, a Christmas box mailed to the troop's "big brother" Lt. Shaun Hills in Viet Nam and a float to appear in the Christmas parade.

Junior Troop 41 held its Rededication Ceremony recently. A candlelight ceremony and Scout's Own were enacted by members with the troop's favorite song "Barges" as opening and closing for the occasion. Paula Kretzmeier was awarded the Sign of the Arrow.

The troop decorated and delivered a Thanksgiving Basket. A Halloween slumber party and a weekend at Camp Mel Davis has kept this troop busy. The Camp Mel Davis overnight allowed the troop to complete the Troop Camper badge and requirements on Gypsy and Observer were met. Troop leader is Mrs. E.B. Jackson.

Troop 18 recently held an Investiture and Rededication Ceremony. Invested were Brenda Terrell and Terri Coffman. Pledging their rededication to Scouting were: Viki Craddock, Alison Davis, Linda Hensley, Erenda Hoskins,

Pampa Sorority Attends Program On Floor Covers

During the meeting, the City Council scholarship fund was discussed and various projects were considered to help raise money for this year's scholarship.

Beta Sigma Phi will sponsor a float in this year's Christmas

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Larry and I are high school sophomores. We have been going steady for a year and plan to marry when we graduate.

Larry heard about a very good book on sex and marriage, and he wants to get it so we can study it together. It's not dirty, Abby. It was written by a doctor, and is supposed to have a lot of good stuff about the importance of sex as it relates to married life.

The reason I'm writing is because I have always told my mother everything, and for some reason I have not told her about this. I hate to sneak. What do you think?

LARRY'S GIRL: I think you haven't told your mother

Parade and plans for this float were also discussed.

A program on carpets, tiles and other floor coverings was presented by Mrs. Don Hufstler and Mrs. Harold Taylor. Hostesses, Mrs. Jim Brashears and Mrs. Ronnie Atkinson served refreshments to Mmes. Gary Clark, Gary Epperson, Charles Hoskins, Don Hufstler, Calvin McConnell, Jackie Narrell, Carroll Russell, Jim Simpson, Harold Taylor, Jerry Wright, Alfred Cross and Miss Pam Noe.

because deep down you know it is wrong. "Studying" a subject is sure to stimulate one's curiosity and interest. And there is no point in "studying" the violin if you have to wait 2 years to practice.

DEAR ABBY: I answer the telephone for a rather large concern. We have these two nice young fellows who do a real good job. But they could do better if their wives would quit calling them at work so much.

I can understand emergency calls, but these wives call up to ask, "Are you planning to work late?" Or, "We got a letter from Joe today." Or, "The baby cut a tooth." Abby, I know both these wives and I wouldn't hurt their feelings for the world, and I certainly wouldn't say anything to the fellows, but if you print this, they may get the hint. Besides, it's not fair to call a person at work to just gab about nothing on company time.

TELEPHONE GIRL: Your point is well taken. And may I add that when a man comes home after work and asks his wife "What's new?" it will give them something to talk about.

DEAR ABBY: I just finished

a best-selling book on child rearing. The author said that when a child and his parents visit people, the burden of responsibility for the child's behavior is left with the child and the host! In other words, a child is more apt to obey an outsider than his own parents.

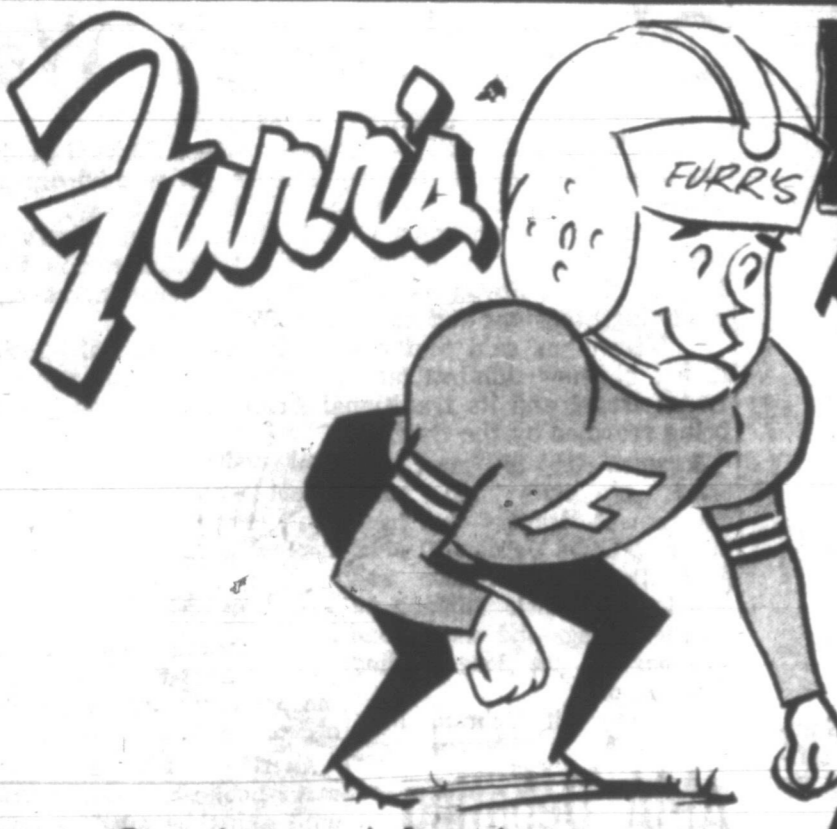

This really upset me, Abby. When parents come to visit me and bring their children along, I don't think it's MY place to discipline their children. Can't parents see a child walking on the sofa? Why should I have to tell somebody else's child how to behave when his own mother is sitting right there? What is your idea?

MRS. G. W.: Same as yours. Some of the theories in child rearing books make fascinating reading, but unless they "work" they aren't much good. Don't believe everything you read.

DEAR ABBY: Tell "FLAT IN ATLANTA" not to feel so sorry for herself. If it weren't for US, those gorgeous full-bloomed gals would not look so good.

Talks

(Continued From Page 1) pullout — marked a trend toward realism by the North Vietnamese. In Washington, Secretary of State Dean Rusk Sunday urged the Soviet Union to use its influence on Hanoi to get progress in the Paris talks. Rusk said the United States had met the Soviet condition of stopping bombing of North Vietnam. In Paris, Hanoi party disagreed. North Vietnamese spokesmen said they have complained to the United States about alleged American bombing of North Vietnam last week. Because of the then lack of contacts with American officials here, they said they mailed the protest.

Meningitis Type In Area Death Not Infectious

Gray County Health Officer Dr. Joe Gates said Monday that the type of spinal meningitis from which a two-year-old Skellytown boy died Saturday was not the epidemic type. Gates answered questions about the case after the Pampa News received phone calls from worried parents Monday. Ronald Wayne Cade, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie L. Cade, died about 12:10 a.m. Saturday at Highland General Hospital. Funeral services for the youngster were held Monday in First Baptist Church of Skellytown. The boy died of pneumococcus, a type of meningitis that is not the epidemic type, Gates said. "There is no reason for panic or anything like that because this is an isolated type of meningitis," the doctor said.

But air samples from the mine showed "the atmosphere inside was lethal. Sensitive microphones dropped through ten bore holes heard only falling rocks and dripping water. An undetermined amount of cash was reported taken sometime Saturday or Sunday from two soft drink machines in the Mayfair Beauty Salon, 1815 N. Hobart. Nightwatchman George Jay told police he discovered the burglary. Officers Stan Belt and George Hendricks investigated and found entrance to the building had been gained by removing the lower portion of a bathroom window. The burglars then took coin boxes from the two machines and rifled the cash register. accidentally discharged, striking the woman just above the left knee.

In the Saigon area, U.S. and South Vietnamese forces killed 92 Communists in three engagements in which one American was killed. In one of the battles U.S. B52 bombers by coincidence broke up an attack by 400 Communists on the U.S. 1st Infantry Division night camp 28 miles north of Saigon. U.S. military officials reported Sunday that a test apparently had proved a South Vietnamese Army division can fight just as effectively without its American military advisers. Over a six-month period the number of Americans working with the South Vietnamese 22nd division was cut from 100 to 62 and their status changed from advisers to liaison officers.

City, County Officials Discuss Revision of Fire Contract Costs

By JEFF HOLLADAY
Pampa News Staff Writer
City officials today proposed a revision of the city-county fire contract which would more than double costs presently paid by the county. The proposal was made at a regular meeting of the Gray County commissioners court today and was taken under advisement by the commissioners. Mayor Jim Nation, City Manager Charles Hill and Fire Chief F. E. Dyer represented the city at the meeting. The city-county fire contract is a long-standing document which provides fire protection for citizens outside of the Pampa city limits. The city officials proposed a three-stage plan which would increase the county's proportionate share from about $5,000 a year to $18,000 a year by 1971. "These contracts have been renewed automatically year after year but costs have skyrocketed in the past couple of years," Mayor Nation said. Hill said costs have increased four and one half times since 1963. But he pointed out the proportionate increase in costs has not been borne by the county. "County payments to the city for out-of-Pampa fire coverage has decreased from 6 1/2 per cent of our budget in 1953 to a present figure of two per cent," Hill said. He estimated that the Fire Department makes an average of 50 fire calls outside of Pampa city limits each year — about 17 per cent of the total runs. "This has amounted to about $5,000 a year payment from the county since 1963," Hill said. The city manager pointed out that 17 per cent of the Fire Department's budget — for 17

$1,000 Bond Set On Rutledge for Assault Charge

Bond of $1,000 was set by Justice of Peace E.L. Anderson Sunday on Billy Paul Rutledge, 38, of 1033 Charles, for a charge of aggravated assault. According to a Pampa police report Rutledge was arrested Sunday morning at the home of his former wife. The report states police received a call from a local lawyer who said Rutledge was trying to break in the front door of his wife's house at 1129 Seneca. Mrs. Rutledge, 36, according to the report, told police Rutledge threatened to kick in the door and threatened to shoot her and her children and then fired a shot through the door. Police officer John Thomas investigated the incident. After the shot was fired, according to Mrs. Rutledge, she took the children and fled out the back door of her home to a neighbor's house.

Ralph Nader Criticizes Use Of Substandard Auto Tires

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Auto critic Ralph Nader charged Saturday that some tire manufacturers are not meeting federal tire safety standards and the government is doing little or nothing about it.

Nader wrote Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., author of pending tire safety legislation, asking for a congressional investigation to "get to the root of this inaction" on compliance with standards issued under the 1966 tire safety act.

In addition to selling substandard tires, Nader said, these tire makers, including most of the major ones, have public about these tires," he added.

The auto critic said federal tire safety standards issued a year ago under the 1966 law "were nominal enough to incur full tire industry approval." But he said "dozens" of tires had failed to pass tests for compliance with the standards.

Nader said both the manufacturers and the Rubber Manufacturers Association were aware of the substandard tires, but had remained silent.

RECORD CRIME

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Mexico City district attorney's investigators said Saturday that the city's crime rate for the past two months reached a 12-year record level.

The investigators said there were 146 homicides reported in Mexico City during the period, 90 per cent of which had alcohol as the apparent determining factor.

Eighty-four persons were killed by gunfire—five of them by accident—in the first seven days of October alone. At least 12 killings were attributed to persons under the effect of marijuana.

The investigators blamed the ease with which one can obtain sidearms for the rise in the city's crime rate.

Reporter on Assignment Caught Shoplifting, Gains Police Approval

POTTSTOWN, Pa. (UPI)—A city editor sent a reporter out to deliberately shoplift—with police approval. The reporter got away with so much loot some merchants wanted to punch the editor in the nose.

One item was so big—card table in a carton—that a store clerk offered to help him carry it to his car.

Police assigned a plainclothesman to watch the reporter, but the reporter managed to lose the "tail."

Bob Boyle, city editor of the Pottstown Mercury, told his reporter: "Go downtown, get caught shoplifting, and write a story about it."

"The idea was to have our man write about what it feels like to be caught," he said.

The reporter lifted more than $250 worth of merchandise in seven department stores in even hours and found it wasn't even a challenge, despite television, cameras, mirrors, guards and trained employees.

He had to go out of his way to get caught. When he picked up the card table, a friendly clerk offered to help him carry it to his car.

Realizing it had no sales slip attached, the clerk held the reporter for the store police who let him go after he showed his press card.

"Ninety per cent of the merchants were in favor of the story we printed," Boyle said. "But the rest wanted to punch me in the nose."

The loot included a three foot high Spanish-type candelabra, a ship's clock, a large snow shovel, a heavy adding machine, an expensive camera, flashlight, trousers, sweater, shirts, and a book of Mother Goose rhymes.

SPEED READING COURSE SET FOR PAMPA

Arrangements have been made to conduct a 27 hour SPEED READING course, to be taught in PAMPA, in night classes. The spokesman said, "The course is guaranteed to triple the reading speed of anyone, with an improvement in comprehension." He also said, "The guarantee, however, is a bare minimum, because the average person will increase TEN-TIMES FASTER with a marked improvement in comprehension." The average person today reads about 250 words per minute and has about a 50 per cent comprehension level and after taking this course can expect to read 2,000 to 2,500 words per minute, with an 80 per cent comprehension level. This means after taking this course a person should be able to read any book, of average length, in 45 minutes to an hour and understand and enjoy it better than ever. Those who enroll in this course will be required to attend ONE CLASS PER WEEK for nine weeks and will receive a diploma upon completion.

For those who may be interested in further details about the course or how to enroll, a series of one hour orientation lectures have been scheduled. A person may attend one of these orientations without any obligation to enroll in the course. At these meetings the course will be explained in detail including the class schedule, and the special introductory tuition which will be offered, this time only. These free orientation meetings will be conducted in the "EMERALD ROOM" of the CORONADO INN, 1110 N. Hobart, Pampa, Tex. The Emerald Room is on the ground floor near the lobby. They will be conducted at the following times: MONDAY, DEC. 2, at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m.; TUESDAY, DEC. 3, at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m. and for the late comers — WEDNESDAY, DEC. 4, at 7:30 p.m. This course offered by AC CELEBRATED EDUCATION SCHOOLS, with locations in Dallas, Ft. Worth, Denton, Amarillo, and other cities, was created by Dr. Wade E. Cutler, of Dallas, a Ph. D. in Psychology. It has been offered to Texans for the past five years with over 5,000 graduates, including 150 in Amarillo. There is no obligation by attending one of these meetings so if you are a college bound high school student or a college student or a professional person with more to read than you can handle, be sure to come to one of the above meetings and find out about this fabulous course. HISTORICAL SOCIETY MEETS

The Laketon Story was reviewed by Mrs. Alma Totty Seitz of Miami for members and guests of the Pampa Genealogical and Historical Society last Sunday afternoon in Lovett Library Auditorium. . . Mrs. Seitz interwove the history of the community with that of its earliest pioneer families. . . Mrs. Minnie Jones, mother of Miss Florence Jones, the Society's archivist, is credited with naming Laketon for the many lakes in the area, and was appointed the first Postmaster on 13 of Aug., 1907. . . before that time, however, there were many families in the neighborhood, some coming as early as the late 1870's. . . the Henrys, Stumps, Parises, Bowers, Seitzs, Tottys, Renners, Jahns, Sohns, Hoffers, Huffmans, Turcottes, Grays, Byrums, McLaughlins, Jones, Gatlines, and others were among the first. . . Among those attending the meeting was Mrs. Frances Bowers (G. M.) Walls, who taught the last school classes held at Laketon in the term of 1941-1942. . . she also taught the last classes held at Farrington School 1942-1943 (Farrington School was later purchased by Immanuel Temple Church and moved into Pampa). . . in the audience also was Lawton Hoffer who served with Ben Lockhart and Floyd McLaughlin as the last Board of Trustees for Laketon School. . . Mrs. Dave Keehn (nee Annie Pamey) of Miami, was presented with a certificate honoring her late husband who served with the first group of men from Gray County to be mustered into the Armed Forces during World War I. . . the Society and the Gray County Historical Survey Committee made this joint presentation. . . Mrs. Keehn is the aunt of Mrs. Marian Jameson of Pampa. . . Mrs. Grady Harris, chairman of the Wheeler County

Survey Committee, announced that the long awaited history of Wheeler County is expected from the publisher within the next two weeks and copies will then be available for purchase. . . this was good news to hear, for Wheeler is our "Grandparent" County, as Roberts is our "Parent" County, since Gray was at one time attached to both for judicial purposes prior to our own organization in 1902. . . our congratulations to the Wheeler County Committee also for their numerous historical markers. . . they plan another big celebration in February and many of us are counting on being present.

In addition to members guests attending included Mrs. Alfred Hill, Mrs. Arlie Jeffus, Mrs. Ann Trimble, Emmett Gatlin, of Mobeetie; Mr. and Mrs. Lawton Hoffer, Mrs. G. M. Keehn, of Miami; Mrs. Willie Ruth Hathaway, Miss Edna Daughetee, Miss Alice Gordon, Mrs. Joe Carlton, Mrs. Chrystie Crow, Mrs. Tom Eller, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Martin, John S. Skelly, Jr. and Harry Nelson, of Pampa.

MUSICAL PRESIDENTS

At the same time the delegates to the state meeting of the Texas State Historical Survey Committee were being addressed at the Institute of Texas Cultures by Gov. John Connally, (on Fri., Nov. 1) across San Antonio at the Municipal Auditorium Richard Nixon, not yet elected President, was addressing a throng of some 7,000 persons whom he invited to stand and sing with gusto. "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You"! Now this is nothing unusual at a Texas political rally, but what WAS unusual was that Nixon sat down at the piano and accompanied the singing. . . this was repeated at a later appearance in Austin.

The presidents of the United States have been examined, dissected, documented and quoted with reference to their convictions and attitudes concerning political philosophy, the teachings and impact of history upon our national life, the functions of Congress and the Supreme Court, education, the tariff, religion, foreign relations and agriculture. . . but with the prospect of a performing President in the White House again (the last was Harry Truman) we began to wonder about the musical attitudes and capacities of our other chief executives.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — My daughter is a freshman this year at one of those backward colleges where the students apparently spend most of their time attending classes.

She has been enrolled for almost three months and has yet to take part in a single riot, hunger strike or campus sit-in. When she came home last week for the Thanksgiving holidays I decided it was time I had a talk with her.

"I remind you that it takes a lot of money to send a kid to college these days," I said. "Your mother and I are happy to make the financial sacrifices necessary for you to continue your schooling, but only if you take advantage of the opportunity it provides.

"Frankie Pribiloff down the street went off to college the same time you did and he has already been arrested twice." "Well, it's easier for boys to get arrested than it is for girls," my daughter said. "A lot of police discriminate against girls."

"That may be true" I said, "But I get the impression from you letters that you have a bad attitude. You have mentioned several times you were pretty well satisfied with the curriculum, the professors and the administration.

"You're never going to get put on probation as long as you feel that way." My daughter's mother came into the room about that time and began sticking up for her. "I think you're being too hard on her," she said. "After all, she's only a freshman."

"I'm aware of that," I said, "and I don't expect her to become maladjusted overnight. But if she doesn't begin to develop some disrespect for authority in her freshman year, she'll have trouble becoming alienated as an upperclassman."

My wife said, "Oh, you're just jealous of the Pribiloffs because their son helped kidnap the dean."

"It's unfair for you to keep comparing me with him," my daughter said. "All of us can't be militants."

"Believe me, I'm not trying to make you feel bad," I said. "It's natural for a kid to want to learn a little something in college. I'm only saying you shouldn't let studying interfere with your education."

But I'm not sure I got through to her. It's difficult to communicate across the generation gap.

by my former orchestration professor, E. Clyde Whitlock, some 30 years ago while I was a student at Texas Christian University, I called my former teacher, who was for years music critic of the Ft. Worth Star-Telegram and asked permission to quote from it. . . he enthusiastically consented and we think it of unusual interest. . .

GEORGE WASHINGTON:

As a member of the cultivated patrician gentry of Virginia, Washington had an understanding toward music. He had some technique on the flute and violin. When Francis Hopkinson, a "singer" and the earliest American composer of music in the classical tradition, dedicated a set of secular songs to Washington, the General in acknowledging the dedication wrote that though he lacked the education fully to evaluate the songs, he prized the inscription.

JOHN ADAMS:

Adams in general placed music, along with horses and dogs, as a nuisance. It was during his administration that Joseph Hopkinson, son of Francis, wrote the text for "Hail, Columbia!" A bit of history which is not always remembered: Both Adams and Thomas Jefferson died on July 4, 1826, the day that Stephen Collins Foster was born.

THOMAS JEFFERSON:

Probably by far the most cultivated musically of all the presidents. He owned one of the earliest Cremonese violins in America, and used to play duets with Patrick Henry and John Tyler. He made suggestions to Francis Hopkins which led to the latter's invention of improvements in the harpsichord, a keyboard for the playing of Benjamin Franklin's glass harmonica and a chromometer which preceded Maelzel's metronome by 30 years.

JAMES MADISON:

Though not personally interested in music, his wife, Dolley, introduced White House musicales. Madison used the Marine Band for White House functions.

JAMES MONROE:

There is scant information regarding his musical interests. He replaced the White House piano, which had been burned by the British during the War of 1812, with an Erard instrument that cost $440 and had four pedals and a tambourine attachment. . . to be continued.

HERE ARE THE CONVICTIONS THAT LED TO

OUR BELIEF IN A UNIVERSAL SINGLE STANDARD OF RIGHT

Open To Challenge

Before stating our belief in a universal single standard of right we want to make it clear that we invite questions on this belief. And, if we cannot answer without evasion or contradictions, we are not worthy of your confidence and will admit our error and change our belief.

Want Information

We believe that most of our political trouble comes from putting confidence in persons who continue to advocate government economic planning even though they can neither rationally answer questions about what they advocate, nor find anyone who can.

We know of no better way to learn and develop, and thus be able to be useful, than have our convictions questioned either privately or publicly.

The Pampa Daily News believes in a system of universal natural law.

It is our belief that every fact of existence—if it is a fact—is immutable, irrevocable and eternal.

That is — we believe that moral facts are no less concrete and timeless than physical facts. The law of gravity does not change with seasons; atomic behavior is not subject to the good intentions of man. For physical facts are not capable of change; else they would not be facts.

And so we believe it is with moral facts, which stem from the same source as physical laws.

Let's take two facts, one physical and one moral.

1. Water seeks its level.
2. Stealing is wrong.

It is commonly accepted that the first fact is not subject to amendment. A change in political administration, a vote of the people, a petition of the Society of Learned Mathematicians of the World cannot change it. It exists as a fact.

The second law, we believe, is no more subject to amendment than the first. The majority might wink at it, try to reconcile it with some base or unsound conviction. But that does not affect the law — only the people who must live by it. Jumping out of a five-story building to flout the law of gravity will hardly bring about a suspension of that law. Neither will disregarding moral law bring about its abolition.

Guide To Morality

Now, we have outlined our convictions in fundamental moral law, or fact.

Next, it is incumbent upon us to state a single universal law or fact as we believe it:

Persons, groups and governments ought not threaten to initiate force or use it to attain their ends. This would certainly mean, "Thou shalt not steal individually or collectively. If no person or group stole, there would be no murder, no false witness, no adultery.

To express the belief positively, all individuals or groups should get what they get in a manner that would be profitable to all. Then all would respect the private property of others 100%. That would be true liberty and voluntarism.

That is our interpretation of the Declaration of Independence. This is the universal single standard of right we use as our measuring device of morality — a yardstick of ethics.

Thus we believe:

1. That every man is born with equal unalienable rights to take moral action to make more secure his property which includes first his life, then his liberty and all he produces.
2. That these rights are the endowment of the Creator and not the gift of any government.

Since we believe these facts are expressed in this guide of human conduct, we do not believe any man has the moral right to curtail the rights of his brother. That is, no man has the right to initiate force against his brother. Every man, to be sure, has the right to resist the initiation of force, but should not initiate it.

In all of recorded history, men have banded together for certain reasons — to hunt, to play, to trade, to build. In a voluntary association, such as the one that publishes this newspaper, each man exercises his rights through the group. BUT, simply because each man is the member of a group, he cannot morally assume rights he did not possess as an individual. And, neither does the group possess rights which the individuals in that group do not possess as individuals.

An example—John Doe is a shoe salesman. He does not have a right to sell shoes at gunpoint. Even, if 10,000 John Does in the shoe business form an organization, that organization does not have the right to sell shoes at gunpoint.

Rights and morality are individual matters. These moral laws do not make exceptions for groups. They do not say, "Thou shalt not steal except at the desire of the majority." They say, "Thou shalt not steal." Period. And a man's association with a group does not relieve him of the burden of these laws.

We believe, therefore, in a single standard of conduct. Thomas Jefferson stated the matter. He wrote: "I know of but one code of morality, whether it be for men or for nations."

Immanuel Kant, another great student of morals, in his "Metaphysics of Morals" wrote: "... I ask myself only: Can I will that my maxim become a universal law?"

Single Standard of Conduct

Our belief in a single standard of conduct, and in the existence of individual rights, and in the fact of universal natural law, brings us to oppose all things in which an individual or group seeks to initiate force — that is, curtail the rights of any other individual or group.

We must oppose each brand of socialism, whether it is called Communism, Fascism, Fabian Socialism, New Dealism or New Frontierism.

We oppose socialism in factories, schools, churches and in the market place.

We do not believe there is any such animal as "good political socialism," either on a local, national or international scale. We do not believe in initiating force for any reason, even though the cause is a "good" one.

We believe it is violating the rights of the individual to force him to support a school, church, industry, business or profession if he does not choose to do so.

Two men out of a hundred have no moral right to force the 98 to support a school or church. Neither do the 98 have the moral right to force the remaining two men to support that school or church.

If that belief is contrary to the above standards we want to be convinced. Repeatedly we have offered as much as $1,000 to prominent persons who advocate using collective initiated force to examine publicly the morality of using such force where each person would agree to answer questions as he would before a court. We earnestly seek to be shown any errors in our reasoning.

If six, 26 or 6,000,000 individuals voluntarily get together to establish a church, school, business or club—and if those people do not curtail the rights of anyone inside or outside their own group — we have no argument with them.

The majority cannot write moral law. Neither can the minority. But, neither does the majority enjoy any moral advantages denied the minority, or the individual.

We believe, therefore, in a voluntary supported government. The state, at best, exercises those powers which the individuals in that state voluntarily have turned over to the state for administration. An example: We prefer a private police force because we'd rather support a police force than wear a gun. But if some do not want to support a police force, they should not be forced to do so. Nor should they receive its services. The police force should have no powers denied any individual, and neither should the existence of a police force abridge the right of any citizen to defend himself.

We do not believe the state has any rights simply because it is a state.

Governments should exist only to try to protect the rights of EVERY individual — not to redistribute the property, manipulate the economy or establish the pattern of a society.

These are the basic elements in our belief and of our editorial convictions.

Regrettably, we do not always follow this principle. We fall into error. Our humility perhaps, is not sufficient to the effort. But it is our belief to the degree a universal single standard of right is followed you will have a deeper understanding of your religion, greater freedom and security and more happiness and a higher standard of living. This belief will also benefit every person in the community, the state, the nation and the world. That is the reason it is our belief.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Agonizing Look At Authority

The race of man is suffering an agonizing reappraisal of the role of authority in human affairs, and here in the United States the pain is sharp and the dilemma unique. We are a nation founded in bloody revolution against constituted authority; we are, by tradition, against the fuzzi; we are, by training resentful of authority. We have maintained the attitude that authority is the servant not the master and we have built into our civil structure complicated and often controversial "checks and balances" created to draw a perimeter around the area of government.

And now, quite suddenly, comes the reappraisal.

Is there anything worse than authority? Perhaps the absolute lack of it. Is there anything worse than oppression of the minority? Perhaps oppression of the majority. Is there anything worse than a police state? Perhaps the absence of the police. Is there anything worse than repression? Perhaps riot. Is there anything worse than a bigging and harassing enforcement of petty ordinances? Perhaps arson and rape and insurrection.

These are the terrible alternatives which appear to many Americans today. Must the answer to violence consist of a police state?

In Czechoslovakia, the violence is for a lessening of authority. The brave young men of Czechoslovakia riot for freedom—a pale and unappetizing variety of freedom, to be sure, but something more than the Soviets are prepared to permit. In our own country, there are no riots for freedom, only for a change in the direction of authority. The violent men left in the United States is not demanding to be freed from demopstrable oppression but to have the machinery and the power of authority twisted, contorted and employed to give them unearned pleasures. They are not demanding, as they say, equal opportunity; they demand special consideration simply because they are there, because they are of a certain race, creed, color or ethnic origin.

It is this disparity between the real and the apparent goals of the new violence that has set so many Americans into the dangerous habit of yearning for still more government. To ask for new and additional government is akin to burning the house to get rid of the rats. There is nothing more fearsome, as George Washington pointed out, than government grown too big and too powerful.

The revolt against authority is a problem to the international Roman Catholic Church. But the church is a voluntary association, and it might be pointed out that those disenchanted with basic policy of any church are free to go, and even to form their own church, as did the German monks.

Still, there is the seething unrest which cannot be denied, both in civil and church affairs. In Romans we read that the powers that be are ordained (permitted) of God. Could this mean the government of Russia is godly? What, in precise and unequivocal terms, is the role of obedience in the welfare of the world?

Students want to run the schools they attend; laymen want to instruct the clergy; the state undertakes to lay down ground rules for every area of human conduct. Even reasonable rules are suspect; there is contempt not for law but for the idea of any sort of contract among men to define the conditions of their relationship.

It is frightening to contemplate the easiest refuge from our present fear and unrest—more and greater government, more and sterner rules, more and "expedited" drumhead justice. We must hope the American people will not see this alternative. A corrupt solution to a foul disease will not improve our condition.

And Why Not?

State Department press officer Carl Barch has told newsmen, "obviously we couldn't give any private individual authority to negotiate on behalf of the U.S. government." The statement was made in answer to newsmen's questions regarding the efforts of attorney Carl McAfee of Norton, Va., who has been asked by several groups to negotiate the release of the 82-crew members of the USS Pueblo now held by North Korea. Barch, when asked if this meant that it would be impossible for anyone outside of the U.S. government to become involved in seeking the crew's release, said "Yes."

He told members of the press that the only proper channel for talks on the Pueblo was via the continuing talks at Panmunjom. We have been talking at Panmunjom for more than a decade and so far as the communists are concerned, the Korean War is not ended. A truce was agreed to back in 1957, but no armistice has ever been signed.

It seems rather foolish that this country would continue to have any faith in the Panmunjom talks after so many years of frustration. Yet, this is the policy presently followed by this country.

Mr. McAfee defended former U-3 pilot Francis Gary Powers whose spy plane was shot down over the Soviet Union in 1960. Powers was released to the U.S. in a swap for the Russian master spy Col. Rudolf Abel in 1962.

It gives cause to wonder why it was right and proper for the U.S. State Department to allow McAfee to work for the release of Powers between 1960 and 1962 and why it is not just as proper for him to do the same for the men of the Pueblo. We fail to see why it is "obviously" improper to use any resources at our command to effect the release of American men, whether incarcerated in Russia or in North Korea or for that matter in Communist China.

McAfee told reporters in Washington that his services had been obtained by "a very prominent national organization with clubs and civic organizations throughout the world." He declined to name the organization.

Surely, any help in releasing the 82-man crew of the Pueblo should be welcomed in the Capitol. However, the services of this prominent attorney have been rejected by the State Department. If he was benefit in obtaining the release of Gary Powers in 1962 and has been denied the opportunity to do what he can to arrange the release of the Pueblo crewmen, we wonder what's wrong with the "patriots" in the State Department. Why do they reject an offer made in good faith? Why not do anything and everything possible to get the men of the Pueblo back?

Barch has stated that "obviously we couldn't give any private individual the authority to negotiate. . . ." Our question is: And why not?

Pull Up A Chair

By JOHN KEASLER

The White House Dog
 Regardless of where Blanco, the Lame Duck Collie, ends up living, he has brought into sharp focus one of the major faults of our political system. The lack of a career White House Dog.

America is torn with enough uncertainty without having our White House dogs ridden with politics and being changed around all the time.

Where is the statesman with sufficient vision to propose a bill that the job of White House Dog be put under Civil Service? That would be True Unity.

The job, appointive, one assumes, would of necessity be handed down from generation to generation, so the incumbent dog of any particular era would look the same. That would be o.k.; countries with royalty do that with people, and their generations don't even look the same.

We are familiar, of course, with the current situation about Blanco, President Johnson's dog. At this writing he tentatively was thinking of offering the dog to Richard Nixon because he gets nervous and bightring in Texas. (Blanco, I am speaking of. At least in this case.)

Blanco, five-year-old white collie, simply gets terribly jumpy in the wide open spaces. (A lot of Washington newspapermen are also like that. Get them out of the Press Club and into the open air and they become unglued and resemble Chicken Little.)

"I'll have to speak to Mr. Nixon about this," President Johnson said at one point, although by now I am sure dog-lovers of America have, or will any moment, offer at least six million homes to Blanco.

I am equally sure before this is over that the usual percentage of the populace which does everything backward will have leaped into the breach and sent LBJ even more Collies. There are always bemused citizens who do this. (I think they are they are the ones always listed in polls as "undecided." Boy, are they.)

Blanco looks like a nice dog. For a Democrat, I wish him luck. I say "he" tentatively—a lot went out of me; when I learned the Collie who plays "Lassie" is really a male. Certainly he deserves something better than being a holdover from the last administration.

Regardless, it is time we got rid of the ancient, outmoded and shaky governmental procedure of firing every resident dog just because some president comes in second in the voting.

We should take every bit of detailed care called for in choosing a dog initially, but rise above petty politics sufficiently to give him job security.

It is a matter of proven fact that give or take a couple of outstanding exceptions, the most interesting news to come out of Washington decade after decade deals with a Presidential Dog. In fact, during some administrations hardly any other stories came out of Washington.

Therefore, once the citizenry has a dog it knows, loves and, to some extent, trusts, he—or his descendants should be retained permanently.

What kind of a dog? This would take some study. The study could be done by committees. You wouldn't even have to appoint new committees. Washington is full of committees which have completely forgotten what they are supposed to be studying—the dog problem would give them a new lease on life. After dog nomination, some sort of referendum or contest could be held.

Certain basic qualifications are, of course, necessary. A Permanent Presidential Dog, if not actually born in a log cabin should have been poor as a puppy and, preferably, had a paper route; worked his way through Obedience School waiting on tables, and so on.

Obviously, he should be a mixed breed. We cannot afford to offend any race, breed or color. Surely the committees will have no trouble coming up with something mixed-up and colorless; a strain that will hold up well administration after administration for eras and eras to come.

So let's get on with it. Ship of State. What to call the dog? He knows the old saying: "Beware of Texans hearing gifts."

WASHINGTON:

Nixon Maps Four-Pronged Attack On Ghetto Issues

By RAY CROMLEY

Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—In his campaign, candidate Richard Nixon made little attempt to win the Negro vote. But if plans being worked on by President-elect's men are carried out, the Negro will get a much better deal than many black leaders have predicted.

HOUSING—The men in the new administration want to radically change regulations that require FHA (Federal Housing Administration) mortgages to be "safe." They want the FHA to take greater risks, move firmly into Negro slum-area homes.

Ways are being sought to encourage federal and state banking authorities to give technical and capital aid for new black-controlled banks that would help finance Negro homes and Negro businesses.

These two financing programs would be combined with a strong enforcement of fair housing programs.

N-GRO-DOWNED BUSINESS—The "Nixon thesis" here is that if black capitalism is successful, ghettos will gradually disappear.

Nixon men now working on the Negro's problems favor a Domestic Development Bank which would, as part of its function, give preference to businesses with whole or part slum-resident ownership. They favor giving tax incentives to successful firms which train Negroes in business management. The Small Business Administration's loan program would be expanded with Negro business in mind. Over-all loan guarantee programs and reinsurance programs would be expanded to cover the greater risks inherent in backing Negro slum business ventures. As mentioned above, aid would be given to establishing new Negro banks.

EDUCATION—Nixon aides see the need of a "paid volunteer" National Student Teacher Corps modeled after the New York City Homework Helpers program in which supervised high school seniors tutor fourth-, fifth- and sixth-grade students. The Nixon administration plan, as now seen, would include both high school and college students as tutors and concentrate in slum areas.

To attract better teachers to the slums, the Nixon men favor higher pay commensurate with the difficulties the teacher faces on the job. They also are seeking ways to attract more Negro teachers into the slum school systems. They are studying school local control concepts being tried out in several large cities to see if they offer possible guides for action. They favor a priority expansion of preschool slum programs for

'Spies Wild' As Nations Gamble

By LEON DENNEN

Foreign News Analyst
NEW YORK (NEA)—Spies are in the news again. The current series of espionage cases and epidemic of mysterious murders and suicides in West Germany is another reminder that Russia's net of secret agents has grown to mammoth proportions.

Technology has created unprecedented possibilities for espionage. But even in the age of electronics, computers and spy-satellites, no replacement has yet been found for the man who, for idealistic or purely mercenary reasons, continues to play the hazardous cloak-and-dagger trade.

In fact, like tax evasion, espionage is almost becoming a gentleman's crime. Sweden's Col. Wennerstrom, who spied for Moscow, and Russia's Col. Oleg Penkovskiy, who performed similar chores for the United States, were highly respected officers and members of their countries' elite.

But none was more respected than West Germany's Rear Adm. Herman Luedke, who was found shot to death on Oct. 8. Until a month before his mysterious murder he was deputy chief of logistics at NATO's supreme military headquarters in Europe.

Luedke knew the secret location of NATO's 16,000 nuclear warheads. He not only knew but largely decided the location of NATO's food and ammunition dumps, spare parts and other logistical resources that would back up the West's forces in war.

Since there is hardly any doubt that the admiral was a Soviet spy, there is not much about the military layout of the Western defense system that the Russians don't know.

Luedke's murder was preceded and followed by the suicide of five West German Federal employees, including the deputy chief of Bonn's intelligence service.

Ever since a number of Czechoslovak senior intelligence officers escaped to the West, not a day has passed in the Bonn-Federal Republic without disclosures of espionage cases. It's the Czechoslovakian defectors, embittered by Russia's invasion of their country, who are mainly responsible for the current intensified hunt for the Kremlin's secret agents in the West.

Some of the spy incidents are bizarre with comic opera overtones. Such was the revelation by the Bonn authorities that they had at last solved the mysterious disappearance of an American "Sidewinder" missile from a NATO depot in West Germany.

Stolen about a year ago, the 163-pound missile, it turns out, was simply loaded by three men on a wheelbarrow, dismantled in a passenger car and shipped to Moscow by air freight.

After the disclosure, a West German cartoonist depicted Soviet intelligence agents in Moscow, opening up an air freight crate and discovering Bonn's defense minister, Gerhard Schroeder, inside. Clak-and-daggers have

Berlin Fears Sharpened By Czech Jitters, New Pressures

ROBERT ALLEN

JOHN GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON—While Russia is trying to cool the screws on the Berlin economy and the Berliners' way of life. It is clearly a long-term campaign.

That is the somber picture brought back by U.S. lawmakers who met with European counterparts in Brussels last month. They attended an annual meeting of NATO legislators to discuss the status of the North Atlantic Alliance.

New concerns about Berlin, long the focal point of cold-war tensions, were widely expressed by European parliamentarians, according to U.S. participants in the conference. The new apprehensions involve a new set of Communist tactics.

European experts are now predicting that the East German Communists will seek to avoid direct confrontations with the Allied powers in Berlin. The Berlin government and civilian Berliners are now the target, according to these reports.

In some of its dealings, the East German government is taking the legalistic position that occupation guarantees apply only to the occupation powers and not to the residents of Berlin and their government.

With a variety of increasingly burdensome regulations—tariffs, taxes, inspection procedures and the like—the Communists apparently hope to put the screws on the Berlin economy and the Berliners' way of life. It is clearly a long-term campaign.

The objective, however, is the same as the objective of the unsuccessful military blockade: destroy the economic aviality of West Berlin and let it wither on the vine.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA JITTERS—From their talks with NATO legislative leaders U.S. lawmakers got the impression that the Kremlin was surprised, and disconcerted, by the violent reaction to the invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., a participant in the Brussels sessions, thinks "the invasion of Czechoslovakia has frightened Europeans to an extent well beyond what any of the European politicians could have expected. The Russians are conscious of this now."

"To top it off, Europeans view it as incredible that the Russians would then lay down the 'socialist common wealth doctrine' asserting that Russia must determine whether a sister Communist state has faithfully complied with the teachings of Marx and Lenin."

"There is," says Jackson, "a feeling in Europe that the Russians are trying to 'cool it' in the hope that, if the situation can be calmed down quickly, European nations will not fulfill their new commitments for a strengthening of NATO."

Jackson's recital of the Brussels mood coincides closely, and rather ominously, with predictions made here in the immediate aftermath of the move into Czechoslovakia by Russia and its Warsaw pact allies. Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, predicted a cooling-off period, but took no solace from such a development.

"The Russians are not fools," said Russell in mid-September. "They have moved into Czechoslovakia and are awaiting world reaction to that. After everything has simmered down, about 12 or 18 months thereafter, they will move into Rumania. They would not cross both borders at the same time, feeling that would trigger some kind of war."

U. S. WARNINGS—U.S. participants in the Brussels sessions, held during the week of November 11, attracted headlines abroad with their own appraisals of the NATO status, but their comments were generally buried in press accounts published here.

Jackson, who has led the fight against cutting the six-division U.S. force assigned to NATO, told the allied legislators that it has been a tough battle to maintain an effective U.S. combat force in Europe.

"To many Americans it has seemed that a prosperous Western Europe was not making a reasonably proportionate contribution to the common defense effort," Jackson declared.

A similar statement was made by Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., who noted that the U.S. has maintained its force in Europe since 1951 even though it has been engaged in a "major war" in Asia. Cooper made his comments as chairman, or rapporteur, of the North Atlantic Assembly's military committee.

Cooper, unlike Jackson, has not been considered a hard-liner on Russia and has recently taken the lead in the congressional drive to delay the U.S. AEM (antiballistic missile) defense line. He told the Brussels gathering, however, that Russia's move into Czechoslovakia has upset the power balance in Europe.

He offered U.S. data to show that Russian forces in Eastern Europe increased from 22 to 33 divisions, as a result of the military revolution which led to the Czech invasion. He reported that 10 reserve divisions in the Soviet Union were upgraded to fill the resulting gap.

In 1964 an estimated 2.5 million persons greeted Pope Paul as he visited Bombay, India.

In 1965 the United States unemployment rate dropped to 4.2 percent of the labor force—lowest in 8 years.

With Some Reservation

When it comes to putting forth their convictions, women are the best swimmers. Mrs. Klarsfeld swung on Mr. Klarsfeld over in Berlin and gave him a shiner that flashed like a beacon in the night.

Here was this leader of the Nazi party, now called the Christian Democratic party, stand there before the telyev cameras signing autographs with his bare face hanging out. When he turned around and faced Mrs. Klarsfeld—Fow!

"I say that broad, grinning face," says she, "and I says to myself, O.K., let him have it." And she did. During World War II, Klarsinger was in the foreign ministry propaganda section under Hitler.

Like all over politicians, he can't seem to find decent work on the outside. He's been pushing propaganda for the party ever since, war or no war. No matter who won, he ain't quitting.

Of course, instead of giving this little wife a medal, they hauled her off to the pokey and within hours had sentenced her to prison. You just can't clout a politician and get away with it no matter what party they belong to.

But like a true individualist, to belong. Mrs. Klarsfeld said, "I shall serve my sentence with a sense of honor." Well, she sure did give the Nazi party a black eye, anyhow.

existed even before Joshua sent his agents into Jericho. The current spy scare is seeping not only West Germany but Italy, France, Britain, Austria and the United Nations as well.

Nor is spying a one-way street. For each spy who works for the Russians, there is at least one or more who spy for the West.

No doubt, divided Germany is a particularly happy hunting ground for Communist spies. East and West Germans speak the same language and are generally undistinguishable. About 20 million West Germans have relatives in the east and some of them are blackmailed into spying for Russia.

It's estimated that the Communists have about 5,000 agents operating in the Bonn Federal Republic. Helmut Schmidt, the Social Democratic parliamentary leader, complained recently that West Germany has become an "at Dorado" for spies.

SAVING MILK

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—A Mexican invention called "chlorine dioxide" for conserving milk "for days" without refrigeration could be the solution to the high rate of infant mortality in the underdeveloped world, a Mexican scientist said Saturday.

Dr. Jesus Gomez Pagola, chief of infectology and antimicrobiology of the State Social Security Institute (ISSSTE), said tests he conducted on various kinds of milk showed the addition of chlorine dioxide kept the milk in perfect condition with-

The chemical, which neither changes the color or taste of milk, was invented by Dr. Moises Ladrón de Guevara. Dubbed "the poorman's refrigerator," chlorine dioxide could resolve Mexico's milk problems," Dr. Gomez Pagola said.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Miss Ann-Margret has been trying so hard to prove how sexy she is that she usually overlooks a facet of her ability that could help her movie career a great deal.

I am talking about her comedy talent. I doubt that many film fans realized she had any such ability, but it was precisely this talent that gave a few moments of warmth and charm to her CBS-TV special Sunday night, and transformed her from a tough-looking, distant lady to a young woman who was good company.

member the satirized films and performers with affection and warmth. If Miss Margret persists in her motorcycle-girl image, it is not likely that performers or viewers 20 or 30 years from now will recall her with warmth and affection.

There were times Sunday night when I felt like grabbing a wash cloth and wiping off the supposedly sexy makeup that dominated Miss Margret's face. In her few moments of comedy, in a lively sequence shot in Sweden, and in her commercials for Canada Dry, she looked so healthy, radiant and beautiful that it seemed criminal to have her appear so drowned by makeup in the other

Miss Margret has learned a lot about show business. She works hard to sock across her musical routines, and some of them are very effective. I personally cannot take her to become a sex symbol. It's better when it just happens.
