Opinion

Congress does it to taxpayers again

Congress slithered out of Washington, D.C., about two weeks ago. But its members just gave themselves a 3.2 percent raise. How? Last year's pay raise tied congressional pay to the cost-of-living index. Last week the U.S. government calculated 1992's inflation rate at 3.2 percent. Voila! — Congress got a 3.2 percent raise, without an unpopular vote under public scrutiny.

That boosts pay by a hefty $6,000 a year, from $129,500 to $135,644. Not bad for a gang that has ruined the economy. This bunch of freeloaders has insulated itself from the damage it has done to the United States. No matter how many workers have been fired or how many have suffered pay cuts, congressional pay has kept rolling upward.

Really, isn't it funny that this Congress, in which the House banking scandal exploded, now has been rewarded?

Why should one of the House's biggest spenders, Rep. Barbara Boxer, who bounced 143 checks at the House bank despite getting $129,500 in salary, be rewarded with a $6,000 raise should voters dump her into the Senate? She should join a Big-Spenders' Anonymous 12-step program, not the Senate.

And remember how many hypocritical congressmen denounced the hefty salaries given to top executives at GM, Ford, Chrysler, IBM, and so on? At least you don't have to buy such companies' products. And if such companies do poorly, they can go broke. Not so with Congress. You can't avoid its "products." And Congress can't go broke; it just keeps raising taxes to pay for its folly.

What about the 180 or so representatives who will be departing disreputable halls of Congress after the election? Despite their over-arching incompetence, leading many of them to defeat in primary elections, the departing wizards also will cash in. Their pension funds are tied to the current pay of congressmen.

And let's not forget the many extra goodies congressmen - an ex-congressmen — "earn": cheap haircuts, subsidized food, topline health care, exercise facilities, franking (free — taxpayer-paid - mailing), junkets, parties with lobbyists, and lucrative post-congressional careers as lobbyists themselves. These freeloaders have it better than Kublai Khan in his fabled pleasure palace.

Americans across the land are moaning in agony from our economic problems. Congress exacerbated the problems with the high taxation and new regulations imposed over the past two years.

Sure, President Bush foolishly signed the legislation; nobody forced him. But Congress passed it in the first place, larding 200pound sacks of pork onto the backs of the American taxpayer, vast amounts of waste unheard of in the annals of representative — or, should we say, misrepresentative - government.

Congress left town boldly unashamed of the $350 billion deficit and the $4 trillion debt it left behind, eager only to hoodwink the voters once more. How much longer will voters put up with that?

Things people forget to think about

What if the white Los Angeles police officers who beat Rodney King are retried and found guilty? Will you be happy? I won't unless the judge's jury instructions go like this: "If you find that the defendants used excessive force, and as such violated Rodney King's civil rights, you must find the defendants guilty. However, if you reach a guilty verdict and if it's your studied opinion that such a verdict will cause white people, particularly white cops, to riot, you are hereby instructed to find the defendants not guilty."

ous rioting tools. When black people riot, we just what would happen if people like George Bush and Dick Cheney demonstrated their outrage at what they considered an unfair verdict for those Los Angeles police officers? Saddam Hussein will tell you about getting Cheney and Bush outrages. So if consider whether it's wiser to let sleeping dogs lie criminal element of the black community.

Then there's the accusation that some men, tion would be, "Excuse me for disturbing you; may should be banned by Congress.

I worry about white people rioting, because there including yours truly, get from their wives: are a lot more of them, and they have more danger- "You're using me!" When my wife tells me that, I say, "Of course, honey, I'm using you. If I didn't throw Molotov cocktails. When white people riot, have a use for you, I wouldn't have married you in they throw hand grenades and mortar shells. Just the first place and remained so for 32 years." Think look at the mayhem caused by white people rioting about it. Would anybody marry a person that he or in what was formerly Yugoslavia. Can you imagine she found useless? That's the problem of many mateless persons: They can't find someone to use (employ) them. They are unemployed love-wise. When people gripe about being used, it's probably just a complaint about the terms of exchange.

Then there are a lot of strange statements that an "unfavorable" verdict on the Rodney King cops bother me. Here I am, in my office, and a student will cause white people to riot, we might wish to or colleague knocks on my office door and says, "Do you mind if I disturb you?" It seems as and forget about championing the rights of the though he has already disturbed me, nothing can be done about that and a more appropriate ques-

I disturb you further by asking you such and such?" Even stranger and more troubling statements come out of the environmental Chicken Littlism that's plagueing the nation. The "worst" nuclear accident in U.S. history, Three Mile Island, released about 1 millirem of radiation in the surrounding area and 80 to 100 millirems within the plant. Flying from Los Angeles to New York exposes you to 5 millirems of radiation, and living just about anywhere in the United States exposes you to 350 millirems per year. How can the Three Mile Island accident qualify for the term "disaster"? I bet you think DDT is a carcinogen, never breaks down and causes bird eggs to be soft-shelled. According to the National Cancer Institute,

DDT is not a carcinogen. It breaks down within two weeks. Bird eggshells were getting soft before DDT came into widespread use. By the way, how many Alar-sprayed apples would you have to eat to get cancer? Twenty-eight thousand pounds per day for 70 years. The watermelons (environmentalists who show green on the outside and are red on the inside) and their news media supporters have us coming and going, panicked and afraid of everything. It won't be long before environmentalists do a study reaching the conclusion that since so many people die during their sleep, sleep is hazardous to our health and

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Oct. 25, the 299th day of 1992. There are 67 days left in the year. Daylight-saving time ended at 2 a.m. locally; clocks should have been moved back one hour.

Today's Highlight in History: Thirty years ago, on Oct. 25, 1962, U.S. ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson demanded before the U.N. Security Council that Soviet delegate Valerian A. Zorin confirm or deny the existence of Soviet missile bases in Cuba, saying he was "prepared to wait for my answer until hell freezes over." Stevenson then presented reconnaissance photos of the bases to the council.

ATLANTA - Anybody who would move baseball indoors would keep a puppy in a cage, step on a rose, or put a veil on Kim Basinger.

In Minneapolis they play this delightful game, which is more American than George Bush and Bill Clinton combined, inside a Hefty bag filled with air. In Houston they play it inside a cavernous mausoleum.

In Toronto, they play baseball in a building that includes a hotel. Once, during a Blue Jays game, a couple made love in a room visible to certain portions of the spectators who came for baseball and got Mickey Rourke and Kim Basinger in "9 1/2 Weeks." Bat night. Ball night. Cap Night. Sex Night. It had to happen.

Baseball screams to be played where it can breathe. Where a fly ball could soar undisturbed all the way to the North Star shining.

And it should be played on grass grown out of the good earth, not upon some synthetic fabric somebody said on the radio. developed in the laboratory by damp, pale people who have never read a box score, are unfamiliar with bats that crack, and the subsequent resounding grass? In this weather, I nearly expect to see Georroar of a sunbathed or star-enclosed crowd.

Dick Allen, a former first baseman, once said, "I don't want to play on anything a mule can't eat."

But now I give you the Atlanta Fulton County Stadium, an outdoor arena. It's an hour before the Atlanta Braves are to play the Pittsburgh Pirates in Game One of the National League Championship Series. Sportswriters call it the NCLS. It sounds like a bank. I'm calling it "Us Against Them."

It's 7:28, more than an hour before the first pitch.

Put this indoors? Let a computer turn on climate control?

It's an early October chill. August is gone and the dragon humidity is a whimpering poodle with a ribbon it its hair.

It could be in the '40s before this thing is over, Sweatshirts, not tank-tops, is the dress. Are those the Pirates and the Braves on the red clay and real gia and Auburn in helmet and pads.

A guy sang, "This just isn't like last year." How could it be? Miracles don't come back to back. But the dipping temperatures blend with the noise, the anxious crowd (and they're playing "Achy-Breaky Heart" on the sound system), and

"They ain't doin' this in Russia tonight, are they?" a friend said, as we motor to the stadium.

The sky was blue as Tommy Lasorda's blood, and then the darkness fell. I looked up and saw three birds, two sets of balloons and a Goodyear blimp selling tires from the heavens.

You can't have this and have baseball indoors. Pavoratti was better outdoors at Hyde Park in London, even in rain, than he was inside Lincoln Center. Willie Nelson was better in the back yard of Jimmy Carter's White House in 1977 than he was inside Atlanta's Omni. They moved pro football inside in Atlanta. Let 'em. If the Falcons are the same ol' Falcons maybe the roof over the Georgia Dome will keep the odor from spreading.

But never let us give in to moving baseballin' Atlanta under anything that doesn't cloud up and rain occasionally. Some idiot may come along one of these days and suggest it, and we could go the way of Minneapolis and the others.

It's getting cooler. The players have been introduced. The crowd booed the Pirates trainers. The Brave who got the loudest cheer was catcher Greg Olson and his broken leg.

And now, they are tomahawkin'. The chop chop is right. No Native American protestors are in sight and, because of all the celebrities in Ted Turner's box, I can't even if it doesn't have the almost frightening elecsee if Jane Fonda is doing a single or double chop. tricity of a post season ago, it's still as good a place The Braves take the field at 8:39.

I like my baseball outdoors and my sex in private.

Crime: The cause and the cure to be as any other on the planet at this moment.

An oft-repeated liberal doctrine says that crime, even violent crime, is caused by poverty. Having less than others somehow compels otherwise civilized citizens to go out and whack people on the head while relieving them of their valuables. Far from being guilty, these unfortunate, povertystricken souls are themselves victims, driven to crime by a cruel society that allows them to grow up without the niceties of life. There's only one problem with this hypothesis — there's absolutely no evidence to support it.

In 1950, the poverty rate was 32 percent; today it is 13.5 percent. By liberal logic, there should have been more crime in the 1950s. But no - crime rates were much lower then than they are today.

Again, during the Great Depression, when more than half of the nation's population lived in poverty, the country should have suffered from a crime wave of epic proportions. It didn't. Crime was a fraction of what it is today.

with the worst poverty in America today should be schools) come from broken homes. uncontrollable pockets of anarchy where criminals prey on the innocent with impunity. Again, this is not direct correlation between the proportion of singlethe case: Some of the country's poorest communities and neighborhoods have relatively low crime rates. Others, more well-to-do, have higher crime rates. The upshot - poverty can hardly be blamed for crime.

Edwin Feulner

How then do we explain it? A growing body of evidence points to the breakdown of families as the leading factor in determining whether young people will grow up to become criminals. The data show, for example, that children from single-parent homes use drugs more heavily and commit more crimes throughout their lives than children from two-parent homes. Most of the nation's gang members and 70 percent of the delinquents on juvenile And, if poverty causes crime, then those places detention centers (what we used to call reform

> Indeed, one exhaustive study on crime showed a parent households in an area and the incidence of violent crime. Poverty was irrelevant. Race was irrelevant. Only the lack of two parents had any statistically significant relationship to crime rates.

In light of this reality, it is clear that liberal solutions to crime — such as yanking money away from police departments and giving it to welfare programs (in an attempt to attack the "root cause" of criminal behavior) — will do nothing to solve the problem. Reduced spending on law enforcement and prisons means only one thing: more criminals on the streets. And increased spending on failed "Great Society" welfare programs perpetuates the family breakup that contributes to the increase in crime.

Our misplaced law-enforcement priorities have their costs. Already, convicted criminals will serve only 37 percent of their sentences, according to U.S. Attorney General William Barr. The average sentence for rape in this country is eight years; the average sentence served is only three years.

The money spent to lock up criminals is well worth it. Not only is public safety better protected, but it is actually far cheaper to keep criminals in prison, where they can do no harm, than to let them roam free.

Most violent crime is committed by a very small group of chronic offenders. A 1980 study tracked 240 criminals and found that in an 11-year period they committed more than 500,000 crimes — an average of 190 crimes per criminal each year. The police generally know who these people are. It is simply a matter of catching them and putting them in a cell until they are too old to harm anyone again.

Endorses Moody for position

To the editor:

Our county commissioners badly need a person with a background in purchasing and negotiating contracts for large amounts of money. A good example of why would be our new jail. The present commissioners paid $210,000 more for the property on which to build the jail than what it was appraised for. A person with purchasing experience would have at least obtained another appraisal before being so generous with taxpayers'

When the commissioners negotiated the architect's contract, they neglected to require him to post a bond. This would have been a routine requirement for a person with experience in negotiating large contracts. This oversight cost taxpayers of Gray County several months of having our jail sit empty and several thousands of dollars to hire the same person to do the job when he transferred to another firm after his went into bankruptcy.

Research done by a person skilled and trained in purchasing would have resulted in learning that Gray County could have received some matching funds for building the jail because we intended to house prisoners from other areas. We did not need to nearly deplete the Highland General Hospital Fund to build the jail.

Garry Moody, who is in charge of purchasing for Coronado Hospital, has 15 years combined experience in purchasing, contracting, budget development, buying procedures and heavy equipment. He has the training and experience to help our county get more for its money. Garry Moody will get input from the people of Gray County as well as experts in the field as he puts his talent, training and experience to work for us.

I intend to vote for Garry Moody for county commissioner of Precinct 1. We need someone with his background as a county commissioner.

Diann Birdsell Pampa

Editor's note: County Judge Carl Kennedy, when contacted, said statements made in this letter concerning the Commissioners Court do not accurately reflect actions taken by the board. Kennedy invites residents to attend any Commissioners Court meeting at which the group would be more than willing to discuss the matter in open session. Garry Moody's opponent in the election was not on the board when the jail property was

Use power of vote

To the editor:

If it was within your power to save the lives of a thousand of babies by picking up your pen and voting, even if you'd be voting for something less than what you think you'd like, would you do it?

If you could save the life of 100 by voting, would you do it?

If you could save the life of 10, would you do it? If you could save the life of one baby by voting, would you vote?

How much is a life worth?

Is it worth as much as "your desires", or wants; is it worth as much as money: as economy? Just how much is a life worth?

It is within your power to save the life, not only of a 1,000, but tens of thousands of lives by voting for life not death. Read again the Republican platform and the Democrat platform.

President Bush has vetoed many an abortion bill and he will veto the "Freedom of Choice Act" that is a death bill. Clinton says he will sign it immediately. It would mean the death of untold thousands, with no restrictions from conception through the ninth month, for any reason.

Your decision will have eternal consequences.

Are you willing to share the guilt in that many murders? Or would you rather share the joy of those beautiful babies, made in the likeness and image of God?

What will your answer be?

Thoughts of God

To the editor:

The following is a quotation from a letter that I received in the mail:

"A friend of mine, along with other guests, was having dinner with Dr. Billy Graham. During the dinner my friend asked Billy Graham, 'What is the future of America?' Billy Graham looked straight into my friend's eyes and said, 'America is doomed to hell!" My blood runs cold as I too must confess that if God does not judge

America, He must apologize to Sodom and Gomorrah. As much as I love my country, I must speak candidly about why America is headed rapidly toward judgment.

For the first time college enrollments are down considerably. It isn't that the youth are not going to college today, but there are not as many youth to

Over the past 20 years this country has slaughtered over 30 million of our babies that would have been college students today.

We call it abortion. God calls it murder. In Los Angeles 17,000 fetuses soaked in 55 gallon drums behind an abortion clinic. A group of compassionate people asked for permission to give these babies a respectable burial. The courts said 'No ... that would be giving them human status.'

My Bible says, 'John the Baptist was called and filled with the Holy Ghost while in his mother's womb.

We pass laws to protect lizards and rats in our deserts ... and then kill our babies. Think of it. We pass laws to kill our unborn babies. God will not tolerate this much longer.

Russia is pleading for us to come and bring Bibles and preach the gospel to their people. At the same time, in our country the new Supreme Court has re-affirmed:

a. No Bible reading in public schools.

b. No prayers in public schools.

c. No prayers at graduation exercises. How do you explain it ... a godless Soviet Union is pleading for Bibles, while in America our Bible cannot be read in school?

One of the designers of the ERA said, 'By the year 2000, we will have the very thought of God out of the minds of our children."

Supports Republican Party

Well, the first debate is over. The winner was the candidate of the party of be in the remaining "debates."

By happenstance, "Slick Willie" Clinton will win by being elected by the Democratic House of Representatives. Perot will very likely prevent a clear majority of the three candidates, in the general election, making the selection of a President up to the House.

It is possible to turn this election around if enough people (which is unlikely) will look at the issues and decide, "an economy nurtured by a competitive-entrepreneurial capitalist system is better than an economy controlled by government spending and regulations." It is important to keep in mind jobs created by capital involvement by the private sector increase the GNP. Spending by the government always has a negative effect on the

GNP and the nations wealth by siphoning off capital from the private sector. Therefore I recommend, "Vote Republican For a Stronger America."

Politics are 'dirty, crooked'

To the editor:

These letters are supposed to be one subject only, but I am not sure I can

I just watched another debate and I wonder how many other people have had enough. I sincerely hope the American people will not put Bill Clinton in the chief executive's chair. If they do, "we ain't seen nothing yet." Other than that it won't be President Bill Clinton, it will be President Hillary Clinton.

All three candidates stood on that podium and told what they would do for the American people. The fact remains that none of them, unless it's Ross Perot, can or will do anything so long as we have a Democratic Congress. It has been years since be have had a president other than "name and title only." Congress runs this country. Until we put others in there that's the way it will stay. Congressmen write hot checks and get a slap on the wrist. If I did, I would find myself in our new jail with no hot water. Congress gave themselves a $435 a year raise in pay. Social Security recipients will get 3 percent and they already live below the poverty level.

Politics is a dirty, crooked business from federal, state, and city down. Here we sit in Texas with an 8.5 percent tax on the dollar. When I came here there was no tax, state or otherwise. I was told the tax on beer and liquor took care of the schools. Who in the world would locate a business in

Sides with Bush

To the editor:

It's time some changes were made. At the rate things are going our country could become a dictator state. It could happen if one party has total control of the country. An example, the Panama Canal give-away threatens our freedom and weakens our country's defense. Bentsen's star — Goldwater's regret.

The national debt seems to be the liberals favorite campaign issue. Bush inherited the largest national debt in history, over 80 percent of it is built-in. it increases billions of dollars every year over which the president has no control: Interest on the debt, the military, government employees' salaries including the congressional midnight secret pay raise, retirement pensions with Secret Service security to three generations, funding election campaigns, pornographic art, etc., etc. to name a few.

Clinton blames Bush for the recession, instead of the Democrats who the individual's choice. I doubt if any opinions were changed nor will there defeated every attempt he made to improve it. The downfall of the economy was started when Carter/Mondale passed the "Windfall Profits Tax" on oil, crippling the oil business causing the highest unemployment in history. Taxes were so high producers could not afford to drill wells at a loss of thousands of dollars. When Carter/Mondale left office interest was 21 percent, inflation 13 percent, national growth 0.

> In 1977 they passed a Social Security amendment reducing benefit payments for people born after 1916, a lifetime injustice.

Clinton says he will cut Social Security payments to help pay for his administration if necessary. He brags about his success as governor, balancing budgets, taxes, getting industry to come to Arkansas for low labor costs. His people say Arkansas has the lowest salaries, $2.38 an hour below the national average and the lowest standard of living of any state in the Union.

Clinton could not join the military or get a federal job — he could not pass security. Is he the man for commander-in-chief of our country? Think about it ...

Veterans beware

It's been awhile since my last letter and there are several things that need mentioning. I need to first alert the people of Gray County that there has been a solicitation letter reaching numerous homes here locally from a group calling itself "Help Hospitalized Veterans." Needless to say, that is a very heartstring-tugging name, however the problem is I can find no one who can verify this organization. I have contacted the regional office of the VA in Waco, the state headquarters for the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Amarillo VA Hospital and none of these groups have ever heard of this organization. Not to say there is no such group, it's just that no one in these parts has ever heard of them.

If you feel inclined to give to a hospitalized veteran, the VA hospital in Amarillo has a special fund that is specifically set up to aid veterans receiving treatment at their facility. You would then be assured where your money was going and at the same time be helping local veterans.

The boys in Washington have finally succeeded in breaking their word to the veterans of this nation. Effective late last summer, the VA hospitals stopped treating veterans with incomes over $20,000 per year. This was done under the guise of running out of funds toward the end of the fiscal year. However, fiscal 1993 started Oct. 1, and guess who is still not eligible to be treated at the VA hospital - you got it!

Remember being told that for serving your country, you would always have the VA hospital to fall back on. That was a promise from your government. At this time, there is less than 15 percent of those serving in the Congress that ever served in the military. With welfare and foreign aid taking center stage, take a wild guess which budget is being cut each year some $3.7 billion from 1991 through 1996 according to a Disabled American Veterans publication.

On Tuesday night, VFW Post 1657 will have one of the most important meetings in its history. One of the main subjects of the meeting will be the fate of Gray County Veteran's Building located at 123 W. Foster (current home of the Veterans Service Office). We will make the decision as to whether we get involved in saving the building or just letting it pass from the scene. I sincerely hope all the members of the post will make an effort to attend this meeting as we need maximum input in making this far reaching decision. Please plan to attend, your ideas are important and you vote could make the difference.

John L. Tripplehorn Gray County Veterans Service Officer

Supports Democratic Party

The last presidential debate probably brought out some of the significant differences between Gov. Bill Clinton and the president.

The president accuses Mr. Clinton of being a "tax and spend Democrat." The truth is that Arkansas is 49th in the country in taxes its people pay to the state and last in government spending.

The president talks about a balanced budget but has never submitted one. In fact, the last budget he submitted called for nearly a $400 billion deficit, an all-time record. The Congress, which the president blames for all the spending, cut it back by about $10 billion. Mr. Clinton has balanced 12 budgets in a row in accordance with Arkansas law.

The president claims to be concerned about the national debt which threatens to bankrupt the country. During the last 12 years the Republican administrations have managed to add $3 trillion to the national debt, three times as much as all the rest of the presidents in history put together. It would have been more, but the Democratic Congress cut down the president's spending requests in 10 of the last 12 years. The president claims he can reduce spending by $300 billion. If so, why is he waiting until next year instead of doing it now? Why should we add this much more to our debt if it is not necessary? Why won't he do as Mr. Clinton has done and spell out his plan instead of telling us he will give us to do what is right. We can vote right — vote for Jim Free.

the details next year? Mr. Clinton has proposed a tax increase for families who make more than $200,000 per year and a tax cut for families who make less than $60,000 per year. This would help even out the tax burden for rich families whose income has gone up during the last 12 years while their taxes have gone down. It would provide tax relief for middle income families whose income has gone down during the last 12 years while their taxes have gone up. The president proposes a cut in capital gains taxes to help the rich even more. Giving the rich tax breaks has not caused income to trickle down in the last 12 years, why does he continue to urge another tax break for the rich? Haven't we been trickled on enough?

In 1986 a Republican candidate for governor promised Texas a secret plan not to raise taxes. Thirty days after he was elected he signed the argest tax increase in the history of our state. Four years ago the Republican candidate for president promised, "Read my lips. No now taxes." Two years later he lobbied for and signed into law the second largest tax increase in the history of our country. (Another Republican president holds the record.) Now the Republican president promises not to do it again. Does the elephant think the American people have forgotten? Didn't the resident say less than a year ago that he would do "whatever it takes to be re-elected?

We cannot stand four more years of trickle down economics which 12 years ago our current president correctly described as "voodoo economics." We must have the courage to change. Our country has gone from being the number one nation in the world in wages to number 13 and falling. One example is that German workers now make 20 percent more than their American counterparts.

The president says that he does not want the country to be like Arkansas. During the past 12 years Arkansas has attracted private sector jobs at a rate 10 times greater than the national average. Compare that to the fact that three million more Americans are unemployed now than when the president took over four years ago. Mr. Clinton has devoted 70 percent of his budget in Arkansas to education. As a result high school graduates in Arkansas who attend college have increased from 38 percent to 51 percent. This administration's own figures show that Arkansas is better off now than it was four years ago. How many other states can say

Mr. Clinton currently has a 15-point margin or more in the polls and leads in the polls in 40 of the 50 states. He has spelled out his plan for America in detail so that when elected the Congress will know that he has the backing of the American people. Mr. Clinton can end the gridlock between the presidency and the Congress with the support of the American people. Otherwise we will have four more years of fingerpointing and excuses and four more years of the same policies which have already failed.

Vote Democratic for a change. John W. Warner

Psychologist: Shooting suspect incompetent to stand trial on attempted murder charges

HOUSTON (AP) - A man accused of storming a Houston elementary school last month believed he was on a special mission for God when he shot two police officers, a psychologist said.

Psychologist Edward Silverman said Calvin Bell is not competent to But State District Judge Lupe

Salinas on Friday ordered another study of Bell's mental state be completed before he rules on whether Bell is able to stand trial on attempted capital murder charges.

Bell, 44, is accused of taking an arsenal of weapons to Piney Point Elementary just before school started Sept. 18 when he apparently became distressed about the possibility that his 7-year-old might be demoted back to the first grade.

After shouting at office personnel, Bell is accused of shooting through the school office window. Police say he began a trek through the school and shot Lowell Neinast, an officer who was there to give an anti-drug lecture. The suspect later shot officer David Dungan as he walked by a portable classroom building where Bell was hiding.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Top spas around the country serve fabulous desserts of angel food cake and meringue because they're low in fat, low in calories-and simply delicious. Top with elegant "sauces" of fresh fruit and sorbet.

Why do fresh-baked cookies stick to the baking sheet? Usually, it's because they've been allowed to cool too long. Pop the pan back into the oven for just a moment, then remove cookies promptly.

Get double the pleasure from your ack o'lantern. Scoop out lots of the meaty flesh of the pumpkin and cut into 1-inch chunks. Microwave in a covered dish (with 2 Tbs. water) on nigh for 5 minutes or until tender. Drain, puree in processor, then make pumpkin pie.

Store eggs in their carton on a refrigerator shelf, not the door. As the door opens and shuts, foods undergo temperature changes

The very best papaya is at least half yellow and feels somewhat soft when you press it. The skin should be smooth, not scarred. Let ripen at room temperature until yellow. Chill a plastic bag up to a week.

Pork, politics and predictions

Politics, Pork and Predictions

Unless you've been held captive in your basement by aliens from outer space, you know it's an election year. The candidates are making charges and counter charges and both camp's have muddy hands. Workers are wearying, campaign managers hope they are cresting and election coverage crews are gearing up for a long night on Tuesday, Nov. 3rd.

I seldom make predictions on political matters, but I'm making an exception in this column. I'm going to make four predictions and I want you to remember where you read them. They won't appear in Rush Limbaugh's newsletter, George Will's column or William F. Buckley's commentary. Remember, you read them first in this newspaper, in the Minding Your Own Business column. From the crystal ball

My first prediction is that one candidate will win. My second prediction is that it will be a close race. The third is that if the Democratic candidate is elected, it will have an adverse effect on small businesses. The final prediction is that when the election is over, the majority of Americans will not have even cared enough

My first prediction is a certainty. The second a little more risky, but I still make it with confidence. The third is a frightening scenario for small business owners, because it would give the Democrats majority control of both the Congress and the White

Please bear in mind that I too, own my own business. Remember also that I hold the opinion that small businesses make up the economic engine that propels this great nation of ours. Therefore, I am concerned that having one-party dominance in both the legislative and executive branches would mean we're in for tough times in the business world.

The "tax and spend" party has dominated our House and Senate for nearly 3 decades. Under their leadership we've seen record government growth, deficit spending and increased regulations. These "pork barrel" policies have forced millions of small business owners to call it quits.

The fourth prediction — that the majority of Americans won't even vote — is the most disheartening. How I would love to be wrong on this one. However, records of voter turnout show that the silent majority sit at home while the vocal minority go to the Millions of Americans are not even registered to vote, according to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, 25 percent of American businessmen and women are not registered. Nearly 40 percent of those who were registered, didn't vote in the last election. The high cost of not voting

This election year we can't afford to not vote. The cost of government is skyrocketing and we must regain control. According to U.S. Representative Larry Combest, R-Texas, the cost of government regulations alon is more than $4,100 per household. The U.S. Government gave us more than 67,000 pages of new regula-

In response to this growing glut of paperwork, Combest and Senator Orrin Hatch R-Utah, have proposed legislation that would cap the cost of new regulations. On behalf of all small businesses, I applaud their efforts. We must keep fiscal conservatives in Wash-

If we are not careful to elect men and women who care about these costs, we could be regulated right out of business. Democrat or Republican, we need men and women who will serve us well. Men and women who understand that neither Congress nor the President create jobs; only healthy, profitable businesses offer employment opportunities for our work force.

I urge you to go to the polls on Nov 3, 1992. Cast your vote for individuals who will help us reduce government spending by cutting waste, paring pork and lowering taxes. It can be done, it we care enough to vote.

After oil was discovered in 1925, the Pampa population increased rapidly. By the end of 1926 there were more than 16 employees, and when the post office closed at 6 p.m. there was usually a line of patrons winding around the corner of Cuyler and Foster.

J. N. Duncan went to Washington, D.C. and offered to construct a building to meet U.S. Post Office specifications. The post office moved to 111 W. Kingsmill in November of 1926. As post office business continued to expand, Duncan added 25-foot extensions at two different times.

The population of Pampa increased from 1,000 in 1926 to 10,000 in 1927. In July the post office received a second class rating, and this became first class in 1928. That year the post office began using boxes with combination locks or dials.

In 1929 the carrier service and the free parcel post deliveries began. Virgil Howell made the first parcel post delivery using a 1926 Chevrolet parcel post truck that was still in operation a decade later.

Six-legged critters seek winter home

Insects are beginning to look for a place to spend the winter. Most of the insects are just looking for a place to over-winter and are not establishing permanent residences.

These insects can be a nuisance but most of them do not preset a great danger to the homeowner. However, wasps can be especially bothersome this time of year. Besides, wasp sprays, Sevin is a good insecticide to mix in your sprayer if you have large areas where wasps are a nuisance.

It is not uncommon for insects to enter attics or garages through cracks in the foundation, open windows or spaces around doors.

It's Polish sausage time in White Deer

The Sacred Heart Parish of White Deer has scheduled its annual Polish Sausage Festival for 11 a.m. - 3 p.m. Nov. 1 at the parish hall, one block east of Main Street and the town White Deer, according to Carolyn Rapstine, publicity chairman.

The 1992 festival notes its 54th anniversary. The annual affair dates back to the summer of 1938, when the Rev. Jerome Zienta, a Polish priest, was pastor. The first sausage dinner was held in an open pasture north of White Deer and large black iron caldrons were used to steam the sausage. Other food was prepared by the women in their homes. About 150 were served. Today, Rapstine said, more than 2,000 are served in a modern parish hall equipped with a modern kitchen and barbecue pit.

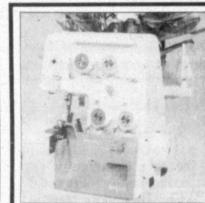

Some 5,000 pounds of Polish sausage links will be made and traditional Polish way. It will be accompanied by crisp slaw, red beans, potato salad and apricots. will be available.

DEAR SPEECHLESS: "Irregardless" is a word - it's a blend of "irrespective" and "regardless." However, it is not used by those who are meticulous about their grammar.

"Ain't" is indeed a word; it's a contraction of "are not," "is not"

and "am not." Although disapproved of by many, and more common in less educated speech, "ain't" is used orally in most parts of the United States.

It's also used for metrical reasons in popular songs: "It Ain't Necessarily So," "Ain't She Sweet?", "The Old Gray Mare, She Ain't What She Used To Be." And lest we forget, "It Ain't Gonna Rain No More, No More" and "I Ain't Got Nobody."

URBAN VILLAGER DEAR VILLAGER: A person living within hearing distance of neighbors has no right to pollute the atmosphere with any kind of sound.

Recently I read where a man shot his neighbor dead because he refused to make his teenaged son stop dribbling his basketball under the neighbor's window. Which brings to mind the long ago sound of my son pitching a baseball at the garage door for hours on end ... Boom! Boom! Boom! Fortunately, we all survived it.

DEAR ABBY: Well, here I am again! I am the widow who wrote to you saying that I had just had a mastectomy and was very apprehensive about getting intimate with a man again. I signed my letter "Inhibited and Embarrassed."

Abby, you filled an entire column with wonderfully reassuring letters from women who had been down the same road — and included one from a loving husband who reaffirmed the fact that it didn't make one speck of difference to him.

Now I am no longer filled with apprehension and am deeply grateful to you for publishing my letter.

Bill Clinton's "national economic strategy" calls for a tax increase of $150 billion, the largest tax increase in American history. Of course he says it will only be imposed on the high-income taxpayers of this country.

It's been proven that raising taxes on the rich isn't such a good idea. Congress passed a socalled "luxury tax" on such things as yachts, and the result was that blue-collar workers who build the boats lost their jobs when the boat business collapsed.

WACO (AP) — In old movies, a person who was hypnotized (usually with a gold watch swinging from a do not lose control. They retain their chain) was completely under the sense of values in their subconscious spell of the hypnotist (often a mad mind.' scientist with evil intentions).

The victim sported a zombie-like expression, stiffly sleep-walking with arms outstretched. Under hypnosis, he would do terrible misdeeds, such as robbing a bank and bringing the loot to the hypnotist.

That image of hypnotism has taken hold with the general public. But, say hypnotherapists, the fictionbased stereotype doesn't even come close to being true.

"There's a whole lot of misunderstanding about hypnotherapy," said Peter Julian, a performance consultant who is also a certified hypnotherapist.

"The term 'hypnosis' ought to be done away with," said the Rev. Charles Harris, a Presbyterian minister and hypnotherapist with Spiritual Reality Counseling. "Most people don't know what it is.'

Hypnosis is a technique used to achieve behavior modification, said Barbara Argabright, one of several certified hypnotists working at the Waco Wellness Center.

Harris said the process uses the subconscious mind — what he says the Bible calls the heart — to erase the power of negative childhood memories or experiences and defeat depression, stress or grief, among other problems.

The power of hypnosis lies in the power of accessing the subconscious you're going to get," Julian said.

"We're merely helping the clients acquaint themselves with a part of themselves that they can't normally contact," Argabright said.

But myths persist. Julian said he's even been criticized by people who believe hypnosis is somehow associated with Satanism. All the hypnotherapists say the practice does not conflict with Christianity since hypnotists must work within their client's system of values and beliefs.

If a person really enjoys smoking, for instance, it is unlikely hypnosis will make him quit. Smokers who want to quit, however, may find success through hypnosis.

Of course, we know how all of this eating got started. The English colony of Plymouth, Massachusetts, decided to give thanks for their first successful year in America and gave a luncheon. Being the thing to do in Plymouth in the 1620s, neighboring Indians were invited. It was a pot luck affair. In fact, if the Indians had not come, the meal would have been a snack, not a luncheon.

Indians taught the pilgrims sound agricultural practices which enabled the immigrants to survive those first struggling years in the frontier wilderness. Lacking iron tools, Indians could not turn heavy sod or brush, the Indian farmers planted pumpkins to smother weeds and later interplanted beans, field peas would hide a small plot of melons

Japanese emperor 'deplores' war

Japanese emperor to visit China, expressed deep regret Friday for his country's aggression against the Chinese before and during World War II, but he did not formally apologize.

He reminded his hosts that the two nations had spent most of their 2,000 years of close cultural ties peacefully.

The emperor's remarks at a banquet given by Chinese President Yang Shangkun were intended to salve anger and heartache over the millions of deaths and widespread destruction that occurred during the war.

"In the long history of relations between our two countries there was an unfortunate period in which my country inflicted great sufferings on the people of China," Akihito said, according to the Japanese Foreign Ministry's official English language translation. "I deeply deplore this."

To a large extent, the success of the emperor's trip hinged on those words, spoken the first night of his six-day visit. Conservatives in the Japanese government opposed the trip partly for fear that the revered emperor would be forced to apologize, something they considered an intolerable blow to the nation's dignity. No sooner had he made the muchanticipated remarks than a debate over how they were translated began.

Akihito, who spoke in Japanese, al "feel sorrow deeply." That lacks the claims.

BEIJING (AP) — Akihito, the first condemnatory connotation of "deplore.

"We believe they mean exactly the same thing," said a ranking Japanese Foreign Ministry official who faced numerous questions over the translation in a news conference afterward. "Japan accepts full responsibility for the translation.'

The official, whose name could not be used under the briefing rules, noted that Emperor Hirohito, Akihito's late father, made the same comment in 1975 during a visit to the United States. It was translated as "deplore" then, too, he said.

The official translation in Chinese used words for the phrase that translate into English as "deeply grieved."

Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesman Wu Jianmin seemed unconcerned.

"It is up to the Japanese side to decide what remarks the emperor will make while in China," he said.

Japan has frequently been accused by China and other Asian neighbors of whitewashing the militarist adventures that led to its humiliating defeat to the Allies in 1945.

Akihito, who was a child when the war ended, has expressed "deep regrets" for the past when he received guests visiting from China, South Korea and other Asian war victims. But he has always started short of apologizing or asking forgiveness.

China's Communist leaders renounced used the phrase "fukaku kanashimi to all claims for reparations when diplomatsuru," which was translated as ic relations were normalized 20 years "deeply deplore," but which would ago, but some Japanese fear a clear-cut normally be rendered in the more liter- apology could lead to renewed reparation
