WASHINGTON By Ray Tucker

Deadlock—

The new NRA advisory board doesn't ooze confidence over the proposition of negotiating private agreements with industry for preservation of code hours, wages etc.

Conferees continue but so does the deadlock. Industry asks the right to enter into price agreements. The Federal Trade Commission will supervise these voluntary arrangements but it cannot guarantee immunity from prosecution by the Department of Justice. Industry agrees to check chieftains by imposing damages, but the NRA-ers shudder at turning this destructive power over to private policemen. Labor's members on the board are not convinced that certain industries will carry out promises on hours and wages.

Four departments now exercise fragments of the authority once centralized in NRA—Justice, Federal Trade, Labor and the new advisory board. Industry's representatives don't know where to turn or whom to trust. Insiders admit that additional legislation is necessary to untie their hands.

Trades—

Most industrialists have exhibited a cooperative spirit. Others have sought to drive hard bargains in a polite way.

The Cotton Textile Institute, for instance, presented an unconditional demand. It agreed to "try to" maintain code wages and hours. In return it wanted an export subsidy to finance foreign sales, an embargo on Japanese textiles and abandonment of the processing tax. President G. H. Dorr delivered this ultimatum to Secretary Wallace at an executive meeting of the sub-cabinet committee investigating textile troubles.

Mr. Wallace kept a straight face, even though the demands ran counter to his theories of foreign and domestic commerce. "Now," he began, "you say that if we accept this trade..." He got no further. Mr. Dorr hastily explained that he wasn't trying to "make a trade." But they all are, and it explains why no voluntary agreements have been negotiated.

Why?—

Senator Glass' sub-committee was not hitting at Secretary Morgenthau when they threw him off the Federal Reserve Board in their revised banking bill. They were showing their teeth to President Roosevelt himself, who insisted that his prime minister of finance be kept on the banking body.

Administration spokesmen privately make light of the rebuffs administered by the elderly senator from Virginia. They insist that the treasury will continue to dominate the banks under present circumstances. Its financial operations, they say, determine money rates at home, and its stabilization fund maintains the dollar abroad. The Federal Reserve Board, according to this idea, is only an annex.

It makes an imposing argument. But if so-called administration control of the reserve system meant so little Mr. Glass wishes somebody would explain why the White House staged such a last-ditch fight for its theories. Nobody answers that one.

Schoolboys—

Soreness over personal and political slights lies behind the house revolt against President Roosevelt on holding company, TVA and other "must" legislation.

The house has stood by the president all session, rushing through his measures without examining them. Then the senate changed them and threatened to kill them unless the house backed down. At presidential urging his faithful servants surrendered time and again. Worse still, they have gone without patronage while Messrs. Farley and Hurja broke Senate deadlocks by promising jobs and work relief projects. Now the house is trying the senate's hold-up game—and succeeding fairly well.

Brain Truster Corcoran's methods irritate the members. Besides writing these measures he has lobbied for them. They say he has treated objectors like ignorant schoolboys who don't know what's good for them. Some think that he reflects the presidential attitude, and they don't like it any-how.

Foresight—

Secretary Hull recently submitted to the senate agricultural committee one of the harvest documents ever read on Capitol Hill.

Ethiopia's Appeal To U. S. Reaches Secretary Hull

Attitude Of Italy Said To Be Unaffected

Secretary Hull Declines To Comment On Appeal To Save Ethiopia

(By Associated Press)

Ethiopia's appeal to the United States to find a way to keep peace in East Africa under the Kellogg-Brand pact, reached Secretary Hull Friday. He declined to comment.

Emperor Haile Selassie in a statement to the Associated Press Friday, asserted Ethiopia will collaborate with any nation for peace long as her independence and integrity is not threatened.

A spokesman for the Italian government asserted in Rome the appeal will not change in any way Italy's attitude toward her border controversy with Ethiopia.

ADDIS ABABA (AP)—Ethiopia chose America's Independence Day to ask the United States to find some way to make Italy observe her obligations under the Kellogg pact, by which she renounced war as an instrument of national policy.

A five-page note delivered to William Perry George, United States charge d'affaires here, outlined the development of the Italo-Ethiopian controversy and asserted Ethiopia's contention that Italy has warlike intentions aimed at the conquest of the African empire.

The massing of men and munitions in Italy's African colonies, the note contended, indicates that Ethiopia's independence is threatened.

Emperor Haile Selassie's oft-expressed determination to defend the political independence of his territory efforts toward peaceful settlement of issues involved was reiterated in the communication.

Under the Kellogg-Brand pact, properly called "the general pact for the renunciation of war," the United States, Germany, Belgium, France, Great Britain and her dominions, Ireland, Italy, Japan, Poland and Czechoslovakia renounced war as an instrument of national policy and agreed that disputes among them should be settled by pacific means. It was signed at Paris, August 27, 1928.

Delivery of the note to the American representative came shortly after the emperor, in a statement to the Associated Press, insisted that Ethiopia did not want war with Italy but would do her duty in case of armed conflict.

A rumored battle between Italian and Ethiopian frontier forces, in which casualties were reported to have been heavy, remained without confirmation.

Authorities here said Ethiopia was having trouble getting munitions from European exporters. Belgium assertedly has embargoed 7,500,000 cartridges after 2,500,000 of an order for 10,000,000 had been shipped.

The great Skida works of Czechoslovakia also refused to deliver artillery after accepting orders from Addis Ababa, it was said, while French manufacturers likewise were deaf to appeals from this country.

Fourth Of July Fatalities 201

Big Spring spent a safe and sane Fourth.

A check with hospitals and police revealed no accidents of consequence, a minimum of boisterous celebration, and only one fire resulting from fireworks.

Firemen quickly extinguished a blaze which broke out on the roof of A. M. Runyan's home at 311 Gollard street.

A small patch in the roof burnt out after a rocket, discharged in the neighborhood, settled on the house top.

There were no casualties reported from explosion of fireworks, although their use was far more widespread than in years. Giant crackers boomed away until after midnight Thursday and rockets streaked the sky occasionally over all parts of the city.

Dale Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Smith, had his holiday spoiled when thrown from a horse at the Dickinson ranch, 25 miles northwest of here. He sustained a broken leg in the fall.

City and county officers reported a total of four drunks arrested Thursday. A greater number were jailed for intoxication the night before.

(By Associated Press)

The nation counted at least 201 including twelve in Texas, dead Friday with a thousand more injured, as the cost of celebrating its 159th birthday.

Total accidental deaths Thursday compared with 177 recorded last year, the fewest in six years, and 488 killed the Fourth of July in 1923, the costliest holiday.

The midwest with seventy-nine deaths yesterday led other sections of the country.

The Associated Press survey showed two deaths were directly attributed to fireworks; automobiles killed eighty-two, and seventy-seven were drowned.

Long Denies Bills To Be Far-Reaching

Would Give Long Control Of Officers Not Elected By People

BATON ROUGE (AP)—With Senator Huey Long at the helm, the house ways and means committee Friday gave speedy approval to twenty-six new and, in many respects, the most stringent 'dictator' bills he has yet conceived.

One of two bills revealed was interpreted to give Long administrative control of all municipal, parochial or state officers not elected by the people. But Long denied it was that far reaching.

San Angelo Traffic Cop Shoots Man

Unidentified Man Strikes Cop With Gun Late Thursday Night

SAN ANGELO—An unidentified man, about 24 years old, was shot and killed by W. H. Alexander, traffic officer, doing special duty at Casino Park, near the entrance to the park shortly before 11 o'clock Thursday night. He died while being rushed to a local hospital.

Alexander, suffering a severe gash in his head and from the loss of blood, was taken to his home after being given treatment in a hospital.

A young girl about 20 years old, who gave her home as Bangs, was being held in the county jail this morning for questioning. Officers arrested her in a car, believed to have been driven to the park by the man, shortly before the shooting. She said she did not know the man.

Struck Officer With Gun

The traffic officer was one of several stationed at the park by Police Chief Sam Haynes and Constable Nolan Butt to prevent piling up of automobiles. Butt and Deputy Constable Fred Gerber were both the park.

Mr. Alexander said he had been watching the man for several minutes and that as he walked up to the man and attempted to arrest him, the man whirled and struck the officer over the head with a .38 calibre double-action pistol. The officer said the man had been in several cars.

Alexander fired as the man struck him. He fired again several times with three bullets being effective. The fatal bullet entered the body on the left side, just below the arm pit, and struck the heart. One bullet struck the left leg, and a third in the lower part of the body.

Thought Shots Firecrackers

Fellow officers at the park at first thought the pistol reports were firecrackers being set off by Fourth of July celebrants.

The man's pistol is believed to have fired as Alexander was struck in the head and also one other time since the chamber contained two empty shells and four loaded cartridges.

The girl gave officers a name and said her father was a farmer living in Bangs. She said she did not know the man since he had picked her up in his car on the Ballinger-Coleman highway yesterday afternoon.

Fingerprints Are Taken

She said he told her he was coming to San Angelo and that a friend of her's in Coleman had asked that he pick her up. Police were endeavoring to contact her father early this morning.

The girl arrived here about 4 or 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, she said, and went to a tourist camp here, after going to a place and drinking some beer and then to the Casino.

Fingerprints of the youth were obtained this morning in an attempt to make identification. Several of the officers viewed the body last night but were unable to give the man's name. The body is being held at Johnson Funeral Home.

Characterized Step Toward Labor's Peace

Measure Guarantees Labor Right To Bargain Collectively

WASHINGTON (AP)—Signing of the Wagner labor bill, President Roosevelt Friday described it as "an important step toward achievement of just and peaceful labor regulations in industry."

Among other things the measure guarantees labor the right to bargain collectively, gives a labor organization chosen by a majority of employees in a plant the right to speak for all employees, and forbids employers from interfering with self-organization of employees.

In an accompanying statement the president explained the new national labor relations board legislation is provided to serve purely as a quasi-judicial body.

District Cotton Meeting Slated For Big Spring

There will be a district cotton meeting here in the near future, it became known Friday.

The meeting, which will draw county agents and their assistants from over a large number of West Texas counties, will be for the primary purpose of explaining regulations for the 1935 cotton program.

T. E. Wood, district agent for the Texas extension service, will preside over the meeting. In all probability a representative of the agriculture department will be here from Washington to take part in the meeting.

Dale Smith Gets Broken Leg When Thrown From Horse

Dale, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Smith, sustained a broken left leg Thursday morning when thrown from a horse.

The mishap occurred on the Ebb Dickson ranch near Tarzan in Martin county.

Dale had gone with a companion to round up a few head of cattle before quitting for the remainder of the day to observe the Fourth of July. Riding the same horse he had ridden for the past month, he was thrown when the animal, minus a saddle, began to pitch.

He lay in the pasture until a car could be brought. Then he was rushed over rough country roads to Stanton and Big Spring. J. C. Dickson, who was with Dale at the time he broke his leg, said he never complained despite the painful journey.

The member had been set and Dale was resting at the Big Spring hospital Friday.

Cotton Certificate Exchange To Close Out Here July 13th

Distribution of cotton tax exemption certificates will cease here July 12, M. Weaver, adjustment assistant, said Friday.

Cotton producers who have old exemption certificates may exchange them for new usable certificates before that time he said. The producers also have an option of pooling their certificates.

A vast majority of farmers who had checks for the remaining portion of their certificates sold to a government pool have called for their checks.

More than was expected decided to repool their unsold tags due to late plantings, blow outs, and threatened worm menace which they fear will prevent them making a bumper yield. Others, confident of a bountiful harvest, had new tags issued to them.

COWBOYS GAIN EVEN BREAK WITH SHEEP HERDERS

COWHANDS TAKE THE OPENER, 4-3

Loose Playing Gives San Angelo Second Game, 9 To 6 The Big Spring Cowboys gained an even break in the Independence Day doubleheader with the San Angelo Shepherders here, taking the first 4-3, and dropping the second 9-6.

Jack Dean, in rare form on the mound, guided his mates to victory with an eight-hit performance. Dean whiffed three of the visitors and did not allow a safe blow until the fourth stanza.

Horace Wallin, brilliant first sacker, put Dean out in front in the first inning when he belted out a tremendous home run in the first inning of Oscar Peoples. Wallin proved troublesome to the visiting flinger throughout the game, coaxing two free passes and beating out an infield hit in four trips to the plate.

The Shepherders managed to touch Dean for a base hit each, but the Big Spring twirler kept the Angelenos away from the plate until the sixth.

The Angeleno flinger put the Cowhands down without any trouble in the third but the Harris forces rose again to score what proved to be the winning run in the following stanza.

White tallied for the Herders on a bouncer by Peters to break the tie in the seventh and the visitors offered a real threat in the ninth by loading the bases, but the Dean had once again pulled through with smart bit of ball playing.

In the nightcap the visitors put the game on ice in the first three innings by scoring nine runs on as many hits off "Pop" Payne, the Big Spring starter, and an epidemic of errors that even saw Horace Wallin, the flashy first-sacker, take a hand in the deluge of wild throws.

JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD'S "RED BLOOD OF COURAGE" FINE PICTURE MATERIAL!

Picture devotees who demand melodramatic action by a star who can act as well as fight, a screen headliner who is capable, when the occasion demands, of the tenderest moments, in a screen hurricane splendidly rendered against the pictorially beautiful background of the piney north woods, should turn their steps towards the Lyric theatre, where dynamic Kermit Maynard is holding forth in James Oliver Curwood's glorious saga of Canadian gallantry and romance, "Red Blood of Courage." This film is showing Friday and Saturday.

"Red Blood of Courage" is not just another Curwood picture. It is Curwood, from its cyclonic beginning to its gigantic climax, when thrill follows thrill with breath-taking speed.

This remarkable picture, the keynote of which is action, is an Ambassador Pictures, Inc., production, produced jointly by Sig Neufeld and Maurice Conn.

Seeking a colleague in the Canadian Mounted Police, missing in action against a band of notorious criminals, Kermit Maynard as "Jim Sullivan," is taken into a gang where he falls in love with Ann Sheridan, "Beth Henry," niece of the guerrilla leader, Reginald Barlow, portraying the role of Mark Henry, which incurs the enmity of Ben Hendricks, Jr., who, as Earl Slinger leaves no stone unturned to injure the young Mountie. Slinger is anxious to marry Beth himself, to secure, by fair means or foul, the land on which the Henry cabin stands. Mark Henry is shot and Jim is accused of the crime and held prisoner by the gang, whereupon Beth offers to sign away her inheritance rights if Jim is set free.

Unknown to Beth, Jim makes a break from the attic in which he is held, but is recaptured, but not before he has put in a phone call to Mountie headquarters for help. As the rescuers put in their appearance Bart sets fire to the cabin, leaving Jim to be buried alive, while he and his henchmen attempt their escape, taking Beth with them. Jim is rescued from the burning structure by Mark Henry, whom Jim believed he had killed. Bart and his men are captured by Jim, who now learns that the real Mark Henry has also been held prisoner, in order that Bart might secure possession of the former's land, containing a vast store of oil.

The cast of "Red Blood of Courage" acquits itself nobly, under the sure direction of Jack English. The photography by Arthur Reed, A. S. C., is a distinct contribution to the art of the cinema camera.

For a real good show see "Red Blood of Courage" tonight at the Lyric theatre.

Mrs. J. D. Biles has as a guest her cousin, Mrs. Nell McNeely of Fort Worth.

Sailors, Spies, Suspense Mark Naval Mystery

'Murder in The Fleet' An Excellent Thriller With A Novel Twist

Mysterious crimes, an amazing feat of detective work, and a crowd of bewilderingly mangle with hilarious comedy in a unique blend in "Murder in the Fleet," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new story of crime on a cruiser, playing at the Ritz theatre, Saturday only.

Thrills blend into laughs and vice versa, as a naval lieutenant follows a criminal amid a crowd of civilian visitors and a ship's crew, impounded on a suspicion-laden ship. A sensational fight with a murderer and an astounding climax in which the criminal is disclosed after practically every soul on board has been under suspicion, mark high spots in excitement in the fast moving play.

Little Jean Parker, heroine of "Squola," has her most ambitious role to date as the sweetheart of Robert Taylor, the young officer who solves the crime tangle. Taylor, who recently scored in "Times Square Lady" and "Society Doctor," gives an outstanding performance.

Veteran Jean Harsholt plays the principal character role as the government inspector, and comedy interludes are in the skilled hands of Nat Pendleton, Ted Healy, Una Merkel and Mary Moran. Arthur Byron, Frank Shields, Donald Cook, Mische Auer, Tom Dugan, Tony Hughes, Raymond Hatton, Ward Bond, Richard Tucker, John Hyams, Lella McIntyre and others of note are in the cast.

Edward Sedgwick, director of "Death on the Diamond" and other thrillers with comedy, blended the mixture of laughs and thrills, from a story by himself. Lieutenant Commander Frank Wead and Joe Sherman wrote the screen play.

For Many A Gay And Jolly Reason - Summer Is The Sandwich Season!

The Sandwich Season, which deserves capital letters because it is both popular and important, is upon us! Picnics, porch suppers, afternoon parties, hikes, lazy-days, warm weather, beach "feeds", and late-night snacks, all are part and parcel of the good old summertime and every blessed event among them calls for sandwiches!

Queen of the sandwich idea of course, is Mother, self-appointed filler of the two slices of bread. Like the original ruler in the fable she too can wear a beautiful smile, if she has some tempting new ideas for sandwich fillings. Cleverest of these ideas are the fillings made with bananas for these blende beauties give a brand new flavor to such regulation standbys as ham, cheese or bacon, and also combine with other fruits to make the sweet fillings so necessary to the well-sandwiched picnic.

Do They Peck?
Children are certain to take quick pecks at four fillings hidden beneath the lettuce leaf; and woe betide the scorned and uninteresting fillings, left to languish in the grasses. There'll be no disappointed lookers with some of these new combinations, for bananas are as popular as wading in the creek with the young things. Some of the combinations given below will seem "different" to you. They are—and delicious!

Liverwurst and Bananas
Use a fourth-pound of liverwurst sausage, one large banana and three or four tablespoons of catsup or chili sauce. Salt to taste. Spread the liverwurst on slices of buttered bread, place slices of banana on top. Spread unbuttered slices of bread with catsup or chili sauce and put sandwiches together. This amount makes six to eight sandwiches. Bran or gluten bread is a good base with this particular combination.

Little Devils
Use a number two-and-a-half can deviled ham, add two and a half sliced bananas. Spread ham between buttered slices of bread. Place slices of banana on ham. Put sandwiches together with or without lettuce leaves. This amount makes six to eight sandwiches. A little mayonnaise may be added, if a more liquid consistency is desired.

Sliced ham is quite as good with bananas as the deviled ham. In making sliced ham-banana sandwiches, lay the ham on the slice of buttered bread, cover with rounds

Battered Broccoli
Rolls
Chiffonade Salad
Lemon Orange Sherbet
Angel Food Cake
Coffee
Shrimp Cocktail
1 pound cooked shrimps, 1-8 tsp. salt, 3 tbsps. lemon juice.
Carefully clean shrimps. Add rest of ingredients. Chill. Arrange portions in glass cups lined with cilic lettuce. Top with sauce.

Cooked Sausage (For Shell Fish)
1-2 cup catsup, 1-4 cup chili sauce, 2 tbsps. grated horseradish, 2 tbsps. lemon juice, 1-4 cup finely chopped celery, 1 tbsps. Worcestershire sauce, 1-4 tsp. salt, 1-4 tsp. paprika.

Mix ingredients with fork. Chill. Sweet Potato Souffle Dixie
3 cups mashed sweet potatoes, 3 egg yolks, 1-3 cup cream, 1-2 tsp. salt, 1-4 tsp. paprika, 2 egg whites beaten, 1-2 cup crushed pineapple, 8 marshmallows.

Mix potatoes, yolks, cream, salt and paprika. Beat well. Fold in whites, mixing lightly. Roughly pile in buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with pineapple and dot with marshmallows. Bake 20 minutes in moderate oven. Serve.

Chiffonade Salad
2 cups sliced cucumbers, 1-4 cup finely sliced onions, 1 cup cooked asparagus, 1-4 cup chopped pickle relish, 1-4 cup chopped green peppers, 1-3 cup French dressing, 1-4 tsp. salt.

Mix and chill ingredients. Serve on crisp lettuce and top with more French dressing.

When preparing apples, a quick method is to cut in quarters, remove core and then peel and cut into slices as desired. This saves time and apple.

of banana; add sweet pickle cut in lengthwise slices and enough mayonnaise to moisten.

A and B Sandwiches
Crisp four slices of bacon and chop into bits. Mix with 1-2 sliced bananas and 1 sliced apple. Salt if necessary. Put sandwich together with lettuce leaves spread between buttered slices of bread. Makes six to eight sandwiches. The banana and bacon combination is especially appropriate for picnics when the food is to be cooked in the open. Wrap two slices of bacon around each peeled banana and skewer with toothpicks or twigs. Stick on the end of a green branch and broil over campfire until bacon is crisp.

Good Bread Helps
A good homemade sandwich bread helps make any sandwich better. If the bread is of the "fancy" variety, little or no filling except butter is needed. Here's a delicious one:

Orange Date Bread
1-2 cups white flour, 6 tbsps. baking powder, 1-2 tbsps. salt, 1-2 cups graham flour, 1 cup pasteurized dates, sliced, 1-2 cup candied orange peel, 1 egg, 1-2 cups milk, 1-2 cup sugar.

Sift the white flour, baking powder and salt together. Add graham flour and sugar. Mix the dates and orange peel through the flour with the finger tips. Beat the egg; add the milk; and stir liquid into the dry ingredients. Pour mixture into a well oiled loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven (325 F.) for one hour. One large loaf.

For the Sweet-Toothed
Fruit sandwiches make a good contrast when you are taking several varieties, and are particularly wholesome for children. Nuts, dates and bananas are a good fruit combination. mix a half-cup pasteurized dates (chopped), a half-cup chopped nuts and salt to taste. Spread date mixture between slices of buttered bread. Place slices of bananas on date mixture (about one and a half bananas will be sufficient). Add mayonnaise if desired.

Sandwich-Making Tips
Do not use bread that is too fresh for making sandwiches. Remember that a sharp knife is the sandwich-maker's friend. Children like sandwiches cut in "fingers" instead of the usual halves. When sliced bananas are to be used in open faced sandwiches, sprinkle them lightly with pineapple juice, lemon, orange or grapefruit juice before using. Waxed paper or the waxed paper envelopes keep sandwiches fresh and tidy.

Of the 16,000 occupational deaths in 1934, about 4,400 occurred in agriculture, 3,800 in trade and service industries, 2,300 in construction, 2,000 in transportation and public utilities, 1,900 in manufacturing and 1,600 in mines, quarries and similar industries.

ENEMY'S KISS

Chapter 43 NEW THREAT

"Be quiet!" Rede put his hand suddenly and roughly across Allison's mouth. "I'll not allow you to say such things!"

Allison tore herself free, pushing him away.

"I don't care what you say!" she cried. "If you want to run into a trap, I'm not going to, that's all! And you can't make me!"

He turned, apologizing. "I don't know what's come over her!"

Daphne stood in her bedroom door, drawing on her gloves.

"It's that man."

"Lumley?" he look startled.

"Yes. She's seen him this morning. She probably slept at his house last night." Daphne stated it calmly.

"Allison!" He swung round on her accusing. "Have you been to that man's house?"

"Yes. I've been there this morn-

"I tell you, my dear, this is why I was afraid," Daphne's tone was meek. But she had moved to the outer door, was barring it with her body.

"Don't worry, Allison's coming with us," Robert's tone was grim.

"I'm not," Allison moved back against the mantelpiece, hold on it defensively. "You can tell any lies you like but whatever you say, I'm going to stay here till he comes!"

Robert started forward but Daphne checked him quickly.

"Are you?" she said. "Then you'll wait a long time, that's all."

"What do you mean?" gasped Allison.

Daphne laughed coolly.

"I mean that he's probably under arrest," she said. "You see, I went round to Scotland Yard early this morning and told them all about your Dr. Lumley and his visit to Warty!"

"You told—Scotland Yard!" Allison was whiter than the paint-

IN NEW CALL TO THE COLORS

To bring its quota up to the new figure of 165,000, the United States army has started enlisting 46,000 men. Some of the recruits in the second area—New York, New Jersey and Delaware—are shown as they were examined by Capt. Paul I. Robinson in New York. (Associated Press Photo)

We can get married by the Consul at Calais!"

"Hullo? Is that Scotland Yard?" Who did one ask for, Allison wondered. "Hullo? Yes, I want to speak."

"Click! The receiver fell back across its stand as Daphne's hand closed like a vise upon her wrist; in spite of herself, Allison screamed for the pain was sharp and sudden.

"Leave go! You're hurting my wrist!" the girl gasped. Her father's arm was round her waist now, he was holding her kindly but very firmly. Daphne's hand slid up to Allison's elbow, gripping it just above the joint, as she shook her head.

"Let go of me!" Allison tried to writhe free but Robert had her fast. He pushed her gently down into a chair as Daphne let go.

"No! Sit down!" he ordered, as she tried to leap up.

"Bob, shall I fetch the maid? Or give her something—sal volatile—wait!" Daphne ran to the door.

"No!" Allison's head dropped on her knees. "Leave me alone!"

With a tremendous effort, she checked her sobs, raised her head and spoke with all the earnestness that she could summon, forcing him to listen.

"Father! Please do try and understand! She's accused him—Guy—of murder! Don't you see, if I go away now, don't say anything, they'll think he did it! Surely even you must see that!"

Robert looked up at Daphne. "It might be best!" he muttered. "Perhaps she's get quieted down if we go round—"

"No! If you give way now, Bob, she'll go on playing up like this the whole time!"

"Don't you see!" Allison wailed, clutching at her father's arm. "Oh, can't you see she wants him to be hanged? He knows too much!"

"Wait, Bob, I'll fetch the maid. Leave her to us. We'll get her quiet. Honestly, you're only making her worse."

"All right," he yielded, shrugging his shoulders.

She was gone in an instant, running out to the car.

"Father!" Allison raised a swollen, tear-blotched face. "Won't you please just let me stay at home? I promise I'll do what you want—rest, do anything you like—if you'll just leave me behind!"

Haggard, nervous and unhappy, he met her appeal with silence, looked towards the door.

"Oh, please!" she begged.

He could not face her, turned away and stooped to pat the little dog. For a second Allison's eyes measured the distance to the telephone—but he was too near the table, had picked up the box of chocolates and was untying the ribbon shakily.

"Father?" She started from her chair.

He looked at her miserably, the open chocolate box between his hands, the little dog sitting up and begging at his feet. "Father, won't you let me stay?"

And he answered hurriedly, shamefacedly, conscious of being unfair. "No—no, really, dear, you must be reasonable."

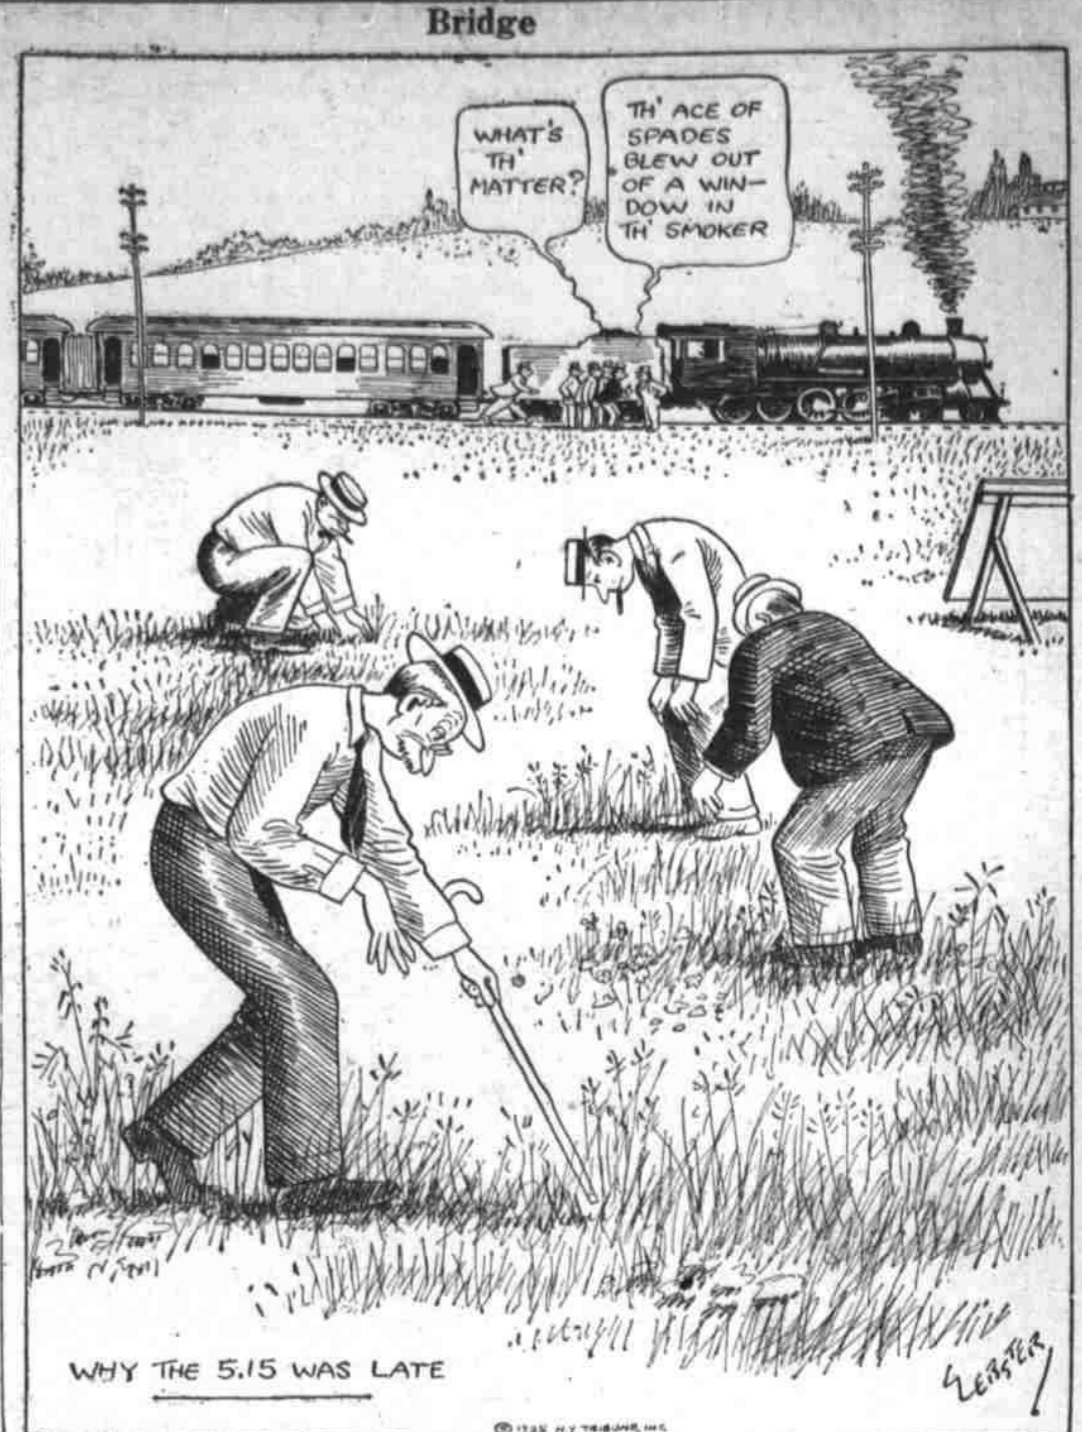

Outside, Allison could hear Daphne and the nurse coming—they were at the door.

Rede turned to Allison, full of contempt.

ing." Allison admitted it proudly. "I suppose it's no good my saying that she's lying about last night—you wouldn't believe me. But if you want to know, Guy and I are engaged."

Daphne's tone was sober, almost solemn, as she said aloud, "I tell you, he's hypnotized her!"

"So that's it!" He turned to Allison, full of contempt and anger. "All right, my child! It just shows that you're not fit to be left here alone!"

work behind her. "Then you were cheating me! You tried to make me promise and you knew all the time."

"I had to keep your quiet," retorted Daphne.

"You hold me because I said I'd go for the police," Allison was dangerously quiet now. "You've lied to me and you've lied to father—well, you won't put this one over!" She darted to the telephone, snatched it from its rest.

"What're you doing?" Daphne jumped forward, tried to wrest the receiver from her hand but she held on tight.

"I'm going to ring up Scotland Yard!"

"Allison!" Her father joined in now, was on the other side of her. "Put that down at once!"

"I won't!"

She held the telephone with her right hand, with her left flipped over the pages of the book feverishly.

Here it was—New Scotland Yard, Whitehall 1202. As her fingers found the dial, she heard Daphne whisper behind her. "Get her to the train, Bob. She'll be all right then!"

SPORT SLANTS

A year, generally speaking, is no great length of time in the development of athletic material but the heavyweight boxing situation has developed two miracles in that period. First there was the case of Jim Braddock. In less than a year Braddock came back from the ranks of fistie discards to win the world's heavyweight championship from Max Baer. And now comes Joe Louis. On July 4th Louis celebrated the anniversary of his first professional ring appearance with the acclaim of the experts still ringing in his ears for the complete and masterful way in which he disposed of the giant Primo Carnera in six rounds. Many rate Louis the greatest heavyweight fighter of the generation, others go a step further and compare him with the greatest of all time. A year ago he was just another amateur champion with an ambition to make a mark in the "pro" ranks. His two-year amateur record shows 43 knockouts, seven victo-ies on points and four athletes 54 bouts. Eleven months of professional boxing added 13 knockouts to his list in 23 hours without a single loss to mar his record. Thus 62 knockouts for career which embraces 77 bouts—that's the story of Joe Louis punch! A MASTER BOXER, TOO! His smashing victory over Carnera did more than prove Louis a great puncher—it showed him to be a masterful boxer with a high punch-proof defense. Many expected Carnera to outbox his experienced opponent but Louis brushed aside Primo's ponderous left handed thrusts, moved inside and out just as he pleased. Most fight followers will readily name Louis the perfect fighting machine as soon as the news is convinced that he can "take it" as well as he deals out punishment. If he continues to demolish his opponents with his crushing punch, and at the same time offering an impenetrable defense, he won't have to take a great amount of punishment. Until he shows that he cannot take it he should be entitled to the benefit of the doubt. Just to prove that being shot of his title hasn't changed Mike Baer any the former champion came through with a nifty whoop asked at ringside what he thought of Louis' exhibition against Carnera. "He's truly a great fighter, but I'll make him jump out of the ring," said Max. "Get that fellow for me." Just like the Max Baer of old. But Promoter Mike Jacobs' offer of a September bout with Louis was not snapped up by Max readily as his remark would indicate. ONE MAX OR ANOTHER? Baer's manager, Anell Hoffman told the promoter that Baer could accept no matches until he was certain that his hands would be in shape for a battle. The former titleholder's hands are in bad shape. One physician recommended an operation on the right hand while another suggested that both hands be placed in cast for several weeks. Hoffman seemed to think there was little chance of Baer putting on the gloves again this year, let alone in a couple of months. In the event that Baer will be unable to meet Louis in the fall, it is highly probable that Promoter Jacobs will try to bring Mike Schmeling over here for the bout. The $325,000 gate of the Louis-Carnera bout sold Mike Jacobs of promoting heavyweight bouts. His good friend, the late Tex Rickard always felt that there was only one real championship spectacle—and that between a pair of big boys. Now Jacobs is convinced. Twenty prisoners were electrocuted for capital crimes in North Carolina in 1934, the largest number for any year in the state's history. In Switzerland, where amateur aviation is making substantial progress, not a single amateur flier was the victim of a fatal accident last year.

Members of the Mary Willis circle will consult the church bulletin Sunday, for the time and place of their meeting. All circles of the W. M. U. are requested to have a shower next Monday, or as soon thereafter as possible, for the West Texas Baptist hospital, Abilene.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN

Sunday school at 9:45. In the absence of the pastor who is directing the Young People's conference at Fort Stockton, W. T. Strange of the chamber of commerce, will speak at the morning services at 11 o'clock. There will be no young people's meeting, since the director and many of the young people will be in Fort Stockton, and no evening church service.

ST. MARY'S EPISCOPAL

Being the first Sunday of the month, there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion at St. Mary's Episcopal church next Sunday morning at eleven o'clock. The rector will be the celebrant and will also deliver the sermon. The church school will meet as usual at 9:45 a. m. in the Parish house. Victors will receive a cordial welcome at St. Mary's.

Ordination Services To Be Held Sunday

Ordination services will be held Sunday 3 p. m. at the Heartwell Baptist church when Ben Sullivan, Big Spring, will be ordained as a minister. He was recently called by the church as its pastor. The ordination council will be composed of Rev. Charles Bryant, Bethel church; Rev. B. G. Richbourg, Rev. W. S. Garrett, Rev. R. E. Day and Rev. Willis J. Ray of Big Spring. Rev. Day will deliver the ordination sermon.

Two-Fisted Viv

Here's exactly the way young Vivian McGrath, Australian Davis cup flash, hits that much-discussed "two-fisted" backhand shot of his that has had the tennis world puzzling for a couple of seasons. A number of top-ranking players have experimented with the shot since Viv introduced it. Incidentally, McGrath is pronounced "Mc-Grav."

Lomax Residents Hold Celebration

Residents of the Lomax community participated in an old-fashioned Fourth of July picnic Thursday at the Houston ranch headquarters. Approximately 200 attended the affair, bringing well filled baskets to supplement plenty of barbecue prepared for the occasion. A series of games including three-legged races, one leg races, boxing, relays and dominoes kept the crowd entertained during the afternoon. The celebration was held under a large shade grove. Grady Cross donated a yearling and Bland Cross and Mr. Cooper each gave a goat for the barbecue. Joe McIlwain, Sam Cox and Mr. Toll did the barbecuing and won high praise from those taking part in the outing. A large barrel of lemonade satisfied the crowd's thirst during the day. So well was Lewis Lomax pleased with the celebration that he volunteered a yearling for next year's affair.

Worn Text Books Back To State

More than 1,000 volumes of school text books are being banded and shipped to Austin this week by County Superintendent Anne Martin and her assistant, Mrs. Loy Acuff. The books, worn and some dis-

Minnie Bell Williamson has gone to Houston to take dancing lessons under Mr. Abel of that city. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moore spent July 3 and 4 in Stamford, where they attended the cowboy reunion.

Universal Usage Of City Park Is Urged

City Manager E. V. Spence renewed an annual invitation extended by the city proffering the use of the city park to the entire community. Although it is maintained by the city, he said, it is open just as much to people of the county and surrounding communities. He urged the public to enjoy it as often as wished, but he stressed the need for preservation of the property. Thursday the city park and the scenic mountain state park were popular places, many score families taking their lunches to the two places. Alabama claims a short railroad built between Florence and Decatur in 1832 was the first west of the Alleghenies.

WHERE DOES ALL MY MONEY GO?

I wish I had more to spend this summer . . . simply must get white shoes and a new light sweater and those two books and, well, lots of things . . . I'm not extravagant, but where does all my money go? Don't worry too much—the very same sort of problem bothers the folks along Millionaire Row. And you can do something about it, very easily, by learning how to recognize the best things to buy, the best places to buy and the best times to buy.

The advertising columns of this newspaper can help you considerably. Form the habit of watching them closely for news about things you need now or will be needing soon. The facts are all there, waiting to be found. Perhaps you haven't been looking.

Register this fact right now: Advertised products give better service and more solid satisfaction than the things nobody knows. If you want the most for your money, and more money for other things, buy the brand with a reputation. It's a real bargain at its regular price!

His confidential name dealt a death-blow to various industries' demand for subsidies to promote sales of farm and manufactured products abroad. Comparing these export proposals to the "foreign lending policy of the twenties," Mr. Hull said:

"That policy was foredoomed to disaster. If, now, similarly we seek to force exports by subsidizing paid out of public funds, this policy cannot last forever. The public will not continue to pay out money to give foreigners cheap goods. When this policy ends, there will be another collapse and the public is likely, as in 1932, to pour out its wrath upon the party responsible for the policy."

The committee headed Mr. Hull's warning.

Lessons—

New Dealers have discovered that it is a comparatively unknown and old-fashioned "Philadelphia lawyer" who shatters so many of their bright dreams. He is R. L. Golze, general counsel for the general accounting office. He writes most of the opinions for which Controller General McCarl gets the blame.

Inexperienced officials forgot about Mr. McCarl for a long time—until the bills poured in. Some he refused to pay on the ground that the money had been spent for unauthorized purposes. He wrote letters lecturing cabinet members on their accounting forms and methods. He brought suit against disbursing officers' bonds when there was no other way to recover.

Now nobody makes a move without first consulting the firm of McCarl and Golze. It is as hard to escape this pair as it is the supreme court.

Good—

Attorney General Cummings is slowly convincing some of his subordinates that he knows a thing or two about law.

Recently a jury acquitted the major defendant in an important case. So Mr. Cummings' bright young men recommended dismissal of indictments charging others.

with "aiding and abetting" the principal. It was common sense, they figured, to conclude that they couldn't convict aiders and abettors if the "big guy" got off. But the attorney general had his doubts and instructed his aides to look up the authorities.

They returned to inform their boss that he was right on his law, although a conviction would probably be impossible as a practical matter. In his fatherly way the A. G. squinted at them over his spectacles. "I'm glad you admit I'm a good lawyer," he said. "What amazes me is it took you so long to find out!"

Notes—

Hoover's closest friends do not expect him to burn his bridges behind him—they say he wants to name the next candidate, even if he decides not to try for it himself.... Dr. Tugwell has put his finger on the heart of his problem—how to make a community a going concern after he has created it.... That's what puzzles the TVA bosses, especially if McCarl is to run his cold eye over the expense account.... A deadlock over the new TVA legislation looms up with the house running amuck again.

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

Harvest—

The third extension of the coal strike truce at the last minute remained two elements in the situation that are worth watching. One is the evidence of serious friction between John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins. Organized labor has never forgiven the Perkins appointment. For diplomatic reasons both sides have tried to cover up the mutual antagonism—but the wire is wearing thin. Here was a major strike definitely advertised for July 1 and yet the obvious government intermediary doing nothing to head it off until the strike order was already on the wires.

Labor leaders frankly regard Miss Perkins as a glorified social worker and their antipathy to dealing with her when it can be avoided is likely to breed more serious complications in future. It so happened that Lewis was glad to have an excuse to postpone the strike as long as there's still a chance for passage of the Guffey bill. New York sharp predict that tests to come will find labor in a less receptive mood.

Federation chiefs can't afford to be too pacific with so much unrest in the ranks. Add to that pressure a deep antagonism for labor department policies and you have the seeds for a disturbing harvest. Bill Green needs to play with the administration for reasons of self-preservation—but his hand may be forced.

Maneuver—

The second point underlined by extension of the coal truce was the great importance of miners and operators have been going through the motions of wage conferences—but the negotiators were well aware they were only shadow-boxing. If congress fails to pass the bill this month the lid will be off.

And there's more at stake in the Guffey measure than just the fate of the soft coal industry. The bill has had the White House "must list" since June 15 but not a wheel has turned to bring it closer to enactment. This sort of thing fosters the appetite of discontented laborites for direct political action through a third party. Leading members of the Progressive and Farm Labor groups are joining the Shrewd sources figure the British drift toward Germany and away from France is the fruit of cold-blooded realism on the part of the British admiralty. The navy is a mighty important factor behind the scenes when it chooses to be.

Breach—

The French army will be deficient in both quantity and quality for the next few years. The clause being called to the colors are those born during the World War. The British navy and the French army are no longer on an equal trading basis—so what's the point of going further with such an ally? Inherently England has closer German contacts than France. Moreover, the German agreement to restrict its naval strength to 35 per cent of Britain's is quite a load off the admiralty's mind.

New York experts prophesy the Anglo-French breach will turn out more serious than it yet appears. It would make a lot of difference to Hitler if he could count on England's benevolent neutrality.

Middle—

No wonder Mayor LaGuardia was irritated at Robert Moses' insistence on a formal reappointment as head of the Triborough Bridge Commission. The mayor had no choice but to continue Moses in office. He'd have been in for a fearful razing if he hadn't. But he wanted to do it as quietly as possible so as not to offend his New Deal friends in Washington. It's no fun being the middleman in such a bitter argument.

Unique—

More than 40,000 photographs formed the basis for the selection of pictures in "Eyes of the World"—edited by M. Lincoln Schuster—a new type of photographic record of history during the past two years which was published last week.

PLANT KALE, ENDIVE NOW FOR FALL AND WINTER CROPS

If the public response is sufficiently encouraging this striking volume will be the advance guard of a unique publishing venture of which much will be heard in due course.

Taxes—

New York second thoughts on the President's plan to share-the-wealth by higher income and inheritance levies on large fortunes are surprisingly favorable. Even in Wall Street you find many sources admitting they can see no reasonable objection to cutting down over-crazed nest eggs—provided the capital levy is used to retire debt (as suggested by the President) and not for the government's current running expenses. They claim the latter would be as un sound as an individual spending his capital instead of living within his income.

But insiders doubt that the Treasury would benefit much. Many rich men have anticipated some such move and have put their fortunes in such shape—by setting up trusts and funds of various sorts—that they would hardly be affected at all.

The graduated tax on corporations is another bowl of soup, entirely. Big companies will put up a real fight on that. You will hear plenty about what such "discrimination" would do to wreck employment and purchasing power.

Defensive—

The spectacular trapping of a former Securities Commission employee by J. Edward Jones—all royalty dealer—in the act of accepting a bribe was the curtain raiser for a drama in several acts directed by Mr. Jones and designed to convince the public that the Securities Commission has not been worthy of its trust. Mr. Jones is very much in earnest about his intention to put the Commission out of business.

It's true that the culprit in this case was no longer connected with the Commission. This is likely to be true also of other individuals who will be presented in an unfavorable light.

But the Commission—while it may have a satisfactory explanation for every charge that is brought up—will be placed on the defensive with the public. And that's where Mr. Jones intends to keep it.

New York learns that government agencies are considering adoption of a new safety device as standard equipment on trucks and cars bought by the government and to be required on trucks and buses in interstate commerce. The proposed truck-and-bus act requires the Interstate Commerce Commission to see that safety mechanisms are installed.

The new device is said to keep the operator's feet on the brake instead of the accelerator, so that instinctive reaction to danger is instantaneous brake action and stoppage of gas.

Safety—

Securities Commission officials privately admit that—after all their trouble to compel complete registration statements—they have no evidence that any investor ever reads them. It would seem that investors consider statistical facts as something much too dull to bother about.
