Adoption Off Beat

Sandra said an estimated 90 percent of the Romanian babies have been damaged by the birth mother's drinking of alcohol during the pregnancy. She explained that there are two things that are abundant in restaurants in Romania - alcohol and coffee - although food is many times not to be found.

Julianna is lighter colored than some Romanian babies because her birth father is Hungarian, a lighterskinned people than the Romanians. "I liked her coloring. I wanted her to blend in," Sandra said.

Ildiko Simon, the young Romanian woman who translated for Sandra, helped her get through the legal system. Simon is currently on a month-long visit in Pampa and is staying with the Schunemans.

Of Julianna's birth parents, Sandra said, "They were excited she was being taken by someone who wanted her and who could take care of her.'

Simon said, "They had no house, no milk. They were a very poor family. They were pleased (with the adoption).'

Julianna is named after her 26year-old birth mother, whose birthday happens to be the same day as Sandra's.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Judge not by skin, but by character

The celebration of Martin Luther King Day has become a national day of reflection on civil rights in America. The best criterion for judging progress in civil rights remains Dr. King's call for a "nation where (people) will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character." In one area, this ideal has been taken far: the military. Some 21 percent of our military is black, Gen. Colin Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, being the most visible example.

Just imagine: The military does not employ quotas, goals, or any other euphemism for racial preference. Blacks are promoted, or not promoted, solely on their merit. Blacks fly jetfighters, fight in crack assault units, translate foreign language signals, and do everything else their white countrymen do. Anyone who thinks that blacks are somehow inferior – or that any other racial or ethnic group is inferior – should look at the performance of our multi-ethnic military.

Unfortunately, the same government that advances a meritocracy in the military is trying to impose its opposite, sharp racial divisions on civilian society. This year Congress might pass a new version of last year's "Civil Rights" bill. This is the most ambitious attempt yet to impose quotas and other schemes that depend on political manipulation and the worship of abstract numbers - that is, racial quotas and "goals."

Last year President Bush vetoed the bill, but the new Congress may have the votes to override the veto this time. The bill also is being rewritten in an attempt to eliminate the sections that the president said referred to racial quotas. But Mr. Bush should veto the bill, no matter what euphemism is found for "quotas."

Whatever the final wording, the 1991 bill will retain the most odious part of last year's bill: a shifting of the burden of proof to businesses charged with discrimination. These businesses will be guilty until proven innocent, initiating a feeding frenzy for lawyers. Any business charged with violating the quotas (or "goals," or whatever new euphemism is cooked up) will have to prove not only that it is innocent of discrimination, but that it has met the labyrinthine requirements of government bureaucrats. A business could be an exemplary employer and promoter of minorities, yet still be found guilty of "discrimination."

Presumably, if he meant what he said about being judged only by the content of one's character, this is just the sort of thing that Martin Luther King would have used his immense prestige and rhetoric to oppose, had he not been felled by an assassin's bullet almost 23 years ago. The best memorial we can give him in 1991 is to defeat the torturously named "Civil Rights" bill, under which people will be judged by the color of their skin.

Capital gains tax helps no one

Jude Wanniski, Director of Polyeconomics, in Morristown, N.J., states a premise I don't want to believe about my fellow Americans: "Economic policies that benefit everyone should not be undertaken if, in the process, a few benefit excessively." This says Americans would reject any policy which would, say, double all incomes because a millionaire would benefit more than some guy earning $20,000 a year.

Michael Milken, of "junk bond" fame, earned a hefty 1987 income of $550 million by speculating on the potential of risky entrepreneurs who couldn't borrow a dime from established banks. A few of these entrepreneurs became extremely wealthy in the process; but were they the only beneficiaries of speculative ventures?

No, they were the very people who created almost all the 20 million new jobs of the 1980s. Here's my problem. I don't want to believe Wanniski's premise that my fellow Americans to place risky loans if there's a high "junk bond" interest rate? But not to worry. The keepers-of-fairness message to risky entrepreneurs is this: "If you cannot qualify for loans and capital investments on the same terms as AT&T, or get a Small Business Administration handout, forget about it."

One need not think on the implications of Wanniski's premise for long before exposing it as cruel nonsense. For example, a policy of removing fungus from vegetables benefits everyone; however, those with strong allergies to fungus would benefit excessively. How about it?

Building more libraries would benefit everyone, but faster and more intelligent readers would reap disproportionate benefits. How about eliminating magnetic resonance machines because not everyone would benefit equally? I think most Americans would find these proposals not only stupid but

Lowering the capital gains tax and allowing the development of high-risk capital markets will benefit all of us. Because of the politics of envy, doing what's good for most of us won't get done because the rich benefit too. That's why I'm in search of a

A ticket to tighter security

I drove up to the Orlando airport to pick up a passenger. I was in my new car I had driven down.

My passenger wasn't at the curbside. I parked my new car and went inside to look for her.

"The plane's late," the man at Delta said. So I went back out to the curb to sit in my car and wait. I had been gone for five minutes, tops.

Two Orlando policemen and two airport security guards and one guy in a tow truck were there to

"This your car?" one of the policemen asked

I said it was.

"Can't you read?" he asked.

"University of Georgia, ABJ," I answered. "I said, 'Can't you read?' " the policeman asked

The policeman went on, "The sign says you can't leave your car unattended. We were about to guards were standing behind my new car. "Where's your tag?" the other policeman asked

"I just got the car yesterday," I said, "and drove it down from Atlanta. I don't have a tag yet."

He asked for my driver's license and proof I had just bought the car yesterday. The driver's license, I had. The proof, I couldn't find amongst all the documents in the glove compartment of my

'You're in violation of Florida law," the second policeman said. "I'm going to run a check on you." There I stood.

'Why are you wearing those sunglasses?" one of the airport security people asked me. "It's eight o'clock at night. Most people don't wear their sunglasses at night."

I explained I had driven from the golf course – then it hit me.

"This got to do with the war?" I asked.

"We're under strict orders," said the security person. "You can't be too careful at an airport in these times.'

I had heard about it on Orlando television. Because of Disney World and all those tourists baits, the area had been deemed a possible target for terrorists in the wake of the war with Iraq.

'My God," I said to the security person, "you don't think I'm a terrorist, do you?"

He squinted at me and didn't answer. "Can I call a lawyer?" I asked next.

Before he could answer the policeman running the check came back. "What we could do," he said, "is impound your

The policeman looked at me funny. The airport security man was still squinting. I took off my glasses, got back in my new car and drove away. A free man again. My passenger could take a cab.

The city commission has shown little interest and even less concern about the plight of non-smokers in Pampa. We are angered and dismayed at their pathetic To the editor: excuses for not taking action.

We issue a call to the citizens of Pampa from all walks of life to right this wrong. Where are those who will stand for right? Where are our youth leaders? Where are the teachers of children? Where are the coaches who promote sound bodies and good health? Where are our scout masters? Where are our school officials? Where are our service organizations who strive to build a better Pampa? Where are our pastors who preach that our bodies are the temples of God? Are we timid rabbits who hide in our holes? Who will stand up and be counted?

Science technology threatens to make textbooks obsolete

By BEAR MILLS Staff Writer

Textbook officials with the Texas Education Agency are giving Pampa teachers the opportunity to take sciclassroom relics, alongside ink wells and slide rulers.

A new science curriculum from Optical Data Corp. has been approved by the TEA that does not use a book.

Instead, the material is all contained on laser videodiscs that are shown to the class

Teachers, working off a script provided by ODC, then lead students through the assigned material.

A second science curriculum company, Silver Burdett and Ginn, including the PISD, to instead purchase their material.

It includes a standard textbook that is supplemented by a videodisc similar to that offered by ODC.

ODC said in the traditional texting skills have the chance to succeed.

Jane Steele, assistant superintendent in Pampa, said there is merit to the ODC argument.

"We know that students learn in ence books out of the classroom and a variety of ways and so the more put them in the museum of ancient ways we can present the materials, the better the chance the most number of students will be helped," she

Of videodiscs' merits, she commented, "It's much better than just seeing a picture in a book and trying to imagine what it looks like when the thing is moving. It gets us away from worksheets.

Lee Carter, district technology director, said videodiscs operate off the "a picture is worth a thousand words" principle.

"If a student misses it the first is asking school districts in Texas, time, the videodisc can be backed up, slowed down and the frame frozen," Carter said. "Very few kids can spot cell division through a microscope. Here it would be pointed out and you can all see it and dis-it will be necessary to purchase yideodisc players.

Officials with ODC have attempted to sweeten their offer of discs by offering to sell Panasonic players for only $199 each. Carter said most players will run around $400, and that televisions must also be purchased to show the images on. While budget crunches make such capital outlay a touchy subject, Steele pointed out the current curriculum adoption period will carry the district into the last years of the 20th century.

"What we choose now will have to last six to eight years," Steele

She pointed out that a third option for teachers includes adopting textbooks offered by Scott Foresman Co.

They have no videodiscs offered with their material, thus maintaining the status quo.

In that case, Steele said, it is possible the district would later buy videodiscs, players and TVs to supplement the texts.

If videodiscs are purchased now, however, they will be paid for out of state textbook monies. The only cost to the district will be for players and televisions.

Another point teachers will have to weigh is that Silver Burdett videodiscs are only currently offered for grades 3-6.

Coon said the first and second grade videodiscs to accompany their book will be ready in a year.

Teacher recommendations on the matter are scheduled for Thursday night's school board meeting at

"Many college teachers and professors who live in other parts of the country, like a lot of outsiders, have the wrong idea about our area.

"We get bad press about our weather from regional and national media, even though climate is one of our major assets. We are often branded as a cultural desert and, especially at the college level, an educational wasteland.

"While none of this is true, a lot of people 'out there' don't know that. And, what they don't know, does hurt us.

Oak Ridge Conference approves first detector for super collider

By TOM SHARP Associated Press Writer

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP) – A multi-national group of scientists has approved the first particle detector for the federal government's proposed $8.2 billion superconducting super collider.

The Solenoidal Detector Collaboration, a group of about 650 physicists and engineers from around the world, held a technical conference last week at the Oak Ridge National Laboratory. ORNL is providing technical support to this and one other detector

The Solenoidal Detector is a huge machine designed to look for tiny particles inside the SSC and when completed will be the largest particle accelerator in the world, scientists say.

"The Solenoidal Detector is essentially discovering all of the physics for which the SSC is being constructed, trying to solve all the puzzles set out for it," said Gil Gilchriese, technical manager for the detector group and a physics professor at the University of California at Berkeley.

"We've tried to cover as many of the physics bases as is technically feasible with a single device, so we can both explore what we can predict today, as well as be capable of discovering things we just cannot predict today, things that are outside our present theoretical expectations.'

The group is headed by Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory in California and includes scientists affiliated with more than 100 universities, national laboratories and other research centers.

SWC enjoys clean recruiting season

An AP Sports Analysis By DENNE H. FREEMAN

AP Sports Writer DALLAS (AP) — In past seasons, the Southwest Conference would still be trying to scrub away the grime of another greasy schoolboy recruit signing season. Instead, most SWC schools are counting the blue chips they signed and praising the restraint of their of the generally recognized top 100 players in the state. neighbors.

It was perhaps the cleanest recruiting period in memory in a league that in the '80s dug below the cellar to find new depths of skullduggery as every Texas SWC school save Rice and Baylor found itself under the NCAA investigation microscope.

Who can forget Bill Clements, who later became the SMU board of regents for a slush fund payoff to Mustang players?

Bo Carter, information director for the SWC, said this year's was a wonderfully quiet recruiting season.

"To our knowledge there were no reports of wrong doing," Carter said. "It was clean and we're happy

There was still some sniping about "negative" recruiting but, there has never been nor will there ever be a recruiting campaign without such gossip. Such knocks as: "How could you live in College Station?" or "You'll get lost Texas is so big" will always be a part of the recruiting process.

Perhaps the NCAA judicial lash has finally taught the SWC brethren how to behave on the recruiting stump. Also, there is evidence that Texas kids are deciding to stay in Texas, also lessening the alumni inducement

In fact, there have been reverse defections. Rice got two players who were disenchanted at UCLA and Texas A&M coach R.C. Slocum and Texas coach David McWilliams were leaving open scholarships for home-

SWC schools, including Arkansas, signed 68 per cent There were some good ones who left for Notre Dame, Oklahoma, and Oklahoma State but, for the most part, the hosses stayed in the Lone Star corral.

"It's turning around," Slocum said. "I have players calling me all the time from other schools. There have been so many we don't have scholarships for them all. I think it's good kids are staying in Texas. I told one governor of Texas, giving his OK as the head of the recruit that if he didn't sign with us I hoped he would stay at home and sign with another conference school."

Patrick Bates, who likely will be Texas A&M's starting strong safety this fall, came back home after an unhappy union with UCLA.

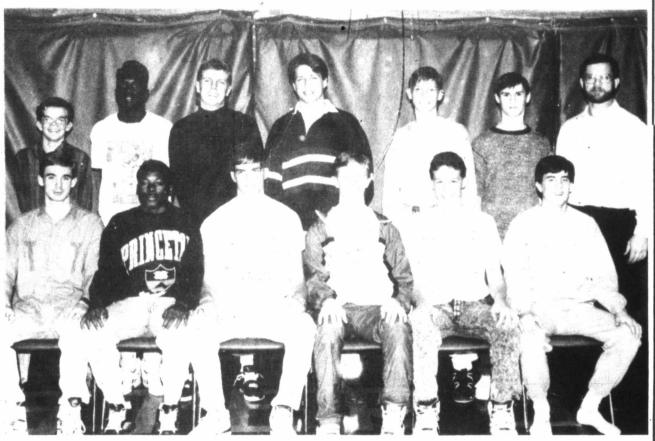

Baylor coach Grant Teaff said it's a definite trend. Teaff had a starter on his team last year who left Okla-

'We're keeping most of the top players," said Teaff, who beat back Colorado's bid to land the top running back in the state, Waco High's Louis Fite. Texas A&M did the same thing, signing Groveton's super running back, Rodney Thomas, with Louisiana State on the bridesmaid's door. Texas outhustled Oklahoma for McKinney running back James Thornton. SWC teams aren't signing as many players outside of Texas with the native sons deciding to stay put.

Longhorns drop collegiate baseball game

Ehmann's two-out RBI single in the ninth inning gave Arizona State a 4-3 victory over Texas in a nonconference game Friday night.

The Sun Devils (9-4) trailed 3-2 entering the ninth but tied the score when Mike Kelly opened the inning with his third home run of the season off Longhorns reliever Roger Luce (0-1).

Todd Steverson drew a walk off Luce and after Dave Robson flied out, Mike Scialo was hit by a pitch from reliever Brian Toronto. Clark Rea flied out before Ehmann's sin-

Warm welcomes abound

Peeking at Pampa By Katie

Unusual spring weather interrupted winter's span for at least a brief encounter. Trees are getting ready to bud wide open. Friends and neighbors are enjoying shirt sleeve weather as they go about their daily routines. Why don't we look in on

A warm Pampa "Welcome!!!" to one of Pampa's newest citizens, Julianna Rebecca Schuneman, six month old daughter of Sandra and Jim. Julie and her new mom arrived in the U. S. a few days ago after spending seven weeks getting acquainted in Julie's native Rumania. Although the little one with her sunny disposition, bright, big brown eyes, and smiles to give away, causes quite a stir everywhere she goies, Jim is the one who bears watching as he and Sandra introdue her around town. He is very much the proud, loving new daddy, willing and eager to keep her comfortable and happy 24 hours a day.

Another warm Pampa "Welcome!!" to a new business Dobson Cellular Systems, located in Plaza 21. Employees are Mary Alice Roberts, marketing director, Kelly Lane, relative of Jerry and Don Lane and Josephine Lawson, and Misty G. McDonald.

"Welcome home!!!" is in order for at least three people. Charlie, Jeannie Walker and their six-monthold son Jerrod recently moved to Pampa. Jim completed a tour of duty in Connecticut in the U.S. Navy as a gunner's mate.

James and Kim Walker and 10month-old daughter Kimberly moved to North Carolina a few months ago, became homesick and recently returned to Pampa.

Jerry and Sonja Moore, D. J. and Nicky, recently moved to Pampa after Jerry completed a tour of military duty in Germany and a 20 year career in the U. S. Army. Jerry is a computer expert. Jerry is the son of J. R. Moore and sister of Charlotte Belated anniversaary wishes to J. R. and Thelma Moore, who recently celebrated their first wedding anniversary. Their courtship began at Pampa Senior Center.

The Pampa Senior Center is buzzing with all kinds of activities. W. C. and Betty Epperson and Willine Fox are helping from 5 to 18 people with their tax returns through the tax season on Tuesday andFriday from 9-3 p.m. under AARP's tax preparation program. Carl Hill is instructor/counselor and Phyllis Laralmore is local coordinator. Rosemary Flake, IRS rep, spoke to the AARP group and was highly complimentary of the loca lworkers. The local program has a 96.7% rating by IRS.

Retirees of Skelly, Getty and Texaco, shortened to SGT meet at PSC every fourth Thursday at 1 p.m. for a variety of activities, a party, games, program, visitation. Officers are Jake Smith, president, Phyllis Laramore, vice-president, Mickey Sue Johnson, secretary treasurer and Lawrence Ebenkamp, assistant secretary treasurer.

A mature driving course with lots of good pointers and information will be given February 25-26 from 6-10 p.m. through AARP. Instructor for her 39th class will be Phyllis Laramore, who has graduated 660 people. Excellent record. Excellent program.

Belated birthday wishes to Bob McKernan! Jeannie brought a big pretty birthday cake to the center for an impromptu birthday party.

Fred Genett and Nola Dalton, frequently seen together at PSC, are enjoying sharing hours and friendship together. Did you know that the gray house that was torn down to make way for an added arking lot at PSC was home for many years to Loraine Fite and Pauline Quible when their last name was Noel? The girls took a last long tour through the house before it was torn down.

Members of the Christian Men's Fellowship of First Christian Church honored the ladies last Sunday with a Sweetheart Banquet. The men prepared the food and decorated the tables. Jack Gindorf was credited with frying the chicken to perfection. Other cooks were Steve Phillips, Jack Hood, president, Dr. John Tate, minister, and Duane Cash. The young people served the meal in style. J. C. Hopkins baked a double heart cake and decorated it with pretty flowers framing it.

Max Presnell emceed the program. A quartet of Fred Mays, Charles Vance, Mike Clark and Jim Crossman sang a love song or two in true barbershop style. Back to the cakes and pies. Jack Gindorf and Scott White, in stuffed (?) warm up suits, named Blob and Slob, provided entertainment while auctioning pies and cakes. More than 150 enjoyed the meal and fun. The young people of First United Methodist Church held their Sweeheart Banquet last Sunday at noon with Jack Bailey serving as capable emcee. Candidates were presented with funny skits and lots of fanfare. Little Ann Carmichael, escorted by her proud grandfather Bob, was name queen.

After an extended trip to Mexico that began in December, Peggy Baker brought back lots of pretty weather with her. The trip, her first time ever to be away from home on Christmas, covered several points, as in Mexican Christms celebrations, plural, Acapulco on New Year's Day, two weddings and much more. Bob stayed home, Alicia, of Amarillo. worked and batched.

Mike Keagy spend a few days visiting family in Dallas.

W. J. "Bill" and Pauline Houghton, Lloyd and Phyllis Laramore spent several days at their cabins at Lake Kemp near Vernon.

Betty Dunbar's three nieces, Betty Ann Cain, Carol Johnson from Ames, Iowa, and Dot Stowers surprised her with a lovely luncheon recently at the Pampa Country Club on her 89th birthday. Alice Smith and Vivian Ruff were guests. Betty is quite a lady and a fun loving person who is admired by all.

Ruth Ann Holland and Betty Krause had a birthday party recently at Ruth Ann's home for Martin Riphahn and Billie Jean James. Ice cream, cake and party hats with oodles of fun made for a good time by all. Ruth Ann, a lovely hostess, has quite a reputation for impromptu parties, several in the past few months. Ruth Ann also surprised Polly and E. C. Sidwell with an anniversary gift. Belated congratulations, Polly and Gene!

Wedding versus soccer: readers kick get in kicks

DEAR READERS: I recently ran a letter from a woman who wrote: "Our 8-year-old son is scheduled to be the ring bearer in my brother's wedding. My husband is the coach of our son's soccer team, and it turns out that our championship playoff game is on the same day as the wedding. I say my husband can miss the wedding to coach the team, but our son absolutely must be the ring bearer in the wedding. My husband says our son's commitment is to his team. Neither one of us will budge.

They sought my help. It was not an easy choice, but I replied: think your son should fulfill his commitment to be the ring bearer at your brother's wedding, and your husband should also attend the family wedding, which will be remembered long after the soccer game has been forgotten.'

should have stopped there, but I stuck my neck out and added, "I'm betting that all my male readers will say I'm wrong, and the women will say I'm right."

DEAR ABBY: I was a varsity wrestler in college. My best friend was getting married on the same day we were scheduled to wrestle an outof-state team. My coach said if I went to the wedding, I'd never wrestle on his team again. I buckled under and wrestled. Not only did I lose the match, I nearly lost my best friend,

DEAR ABBY: You lost your bet. I, too, am the coach of my 8-year-old son's soccer team. I love soccer, but no game at that level should take precedence over a family wedding. This isn't the World Cup! McDonald Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Horace McDonald are celebrating their 50th anniversary today, Feb. 17, with a reception in the Quitaque Community Center, 2-4 p.m. Hosts for the event are their children, Lynn and Doris McDonald of Lubbock, Lee and Katie McDonald of Pampa, Lonnie and Roberta McDonald of Abernathy, and Gerry and Patsy McDonald Hilbers of Idalou. The couple's nine grandchildren are serving as hosts and hostesses also.

Horace McDonald married the former Elizabeth Reed on Feb. 22, 1941 in Quitaque, and have lived in the area most of their lives.

Breakfast for good start

By JANE WESTON WILSON.

Good intentions to keep up exercise and sound eating habits can start right at breakfast. It is recommended that we get a third of our nutrients in the morning. This doesn't mean that we have to pile in entirely, but we do need to figure a lot of food the moment we wake

We can make a natural powder drink in a minute loaded with vitamins and minerals; or enjoy a baked apple or poached pear from last night's dessert; or fresh fruit eaten out of hand. Then off to some light exercise or a brisk walk.

Midmorning, try a second breakfast, say one of those quick cooking grains, such as cous cous or bulghar with fruits and nuts or even a shredded carrot thrown in for extra vitamin A and beta cartone and a slice of six-grain bread.

run or need energy fuel to run favorites that satisfy us in nutrients smoothly, we can pack a muffin and and pleasure. a container of low-fat yogurt. Or pack a wedge of polenta pie with tomatoes and some low-fat mozzalla

These choices are so much more advantageous than premixed storebought cereals, muffins and drinks that often are less balanced and contain more fat, sugar and additives — usually at stiffer prices.

And now that the usual breakfasts we grew up with are being downpedaled: eggs because of cholesterol, bacon and sausage because of nitrites, and cheeses because of fat, we don't have to give up on them out better ways to have them.

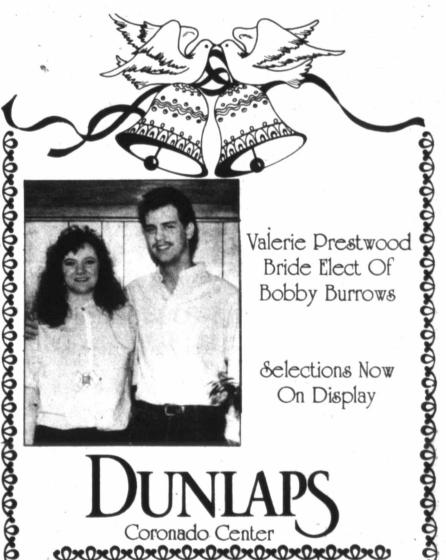

For instance, eggs on weekends in fritatas, omelets or french toast are fine, and we can always use two egg whites to one whole egg to cut down on cholesterol.

I must admit that toast with strawberry jam and crumbled bacon was my all time childhood favorite and I do treat myself to it about twice a year. We all tend to stay on target for good health when we allow ourselves a few splurges!

And these days as we are encouraged to eat more food during the day and less at dinner, we can eat For many of us who are on the heartier breakfasts with all-time

> Nothing wrong with a vegetable pie, a breakfast pizza, an open-faced grilled sandwich or a portion of a casserole or hearty soup from the night before.

Investigators say greed, ego contribute to rash of law officers in crime

By The Associated Press

The image of the Texas lawman has taken a beating lately.

Over the past month, three West Texas sheriffs, a Department of Public Safety trooper, a South Texas justice of the peace and the family of a South Texas sheriff have been linked to drug-related

And the rural areas are not the only ones with problems.

In September, Dallas police chief Mack Vines was fired after being indicted on a misdemeanor perjury charge. Vines was acquitted of the charge Friday. In November, Rockwall County sheriff taxes. John David McWhorter was convicted of participating in organized crime.

Investigators say there are a slew of possible motives for peace officers to turn renegade, but two stand out.

"I think it's a combination of greed and ego," said Eastland County District investigators say. Attorney Leslie Vance, who recently DPS trooper Acey Steel.

Gordon Johnson, executive director of the Sheriffs' Association of Texas, Inc., said the recent rash of lawlessness should not be an instant indictment of other peace officers.

"If we read newspapers and watch the TV, you can find people in every walk of life, whether a doctor, minister, nurse or school teacher who are in places of public trust, who for some reason do not adhere to the standards that are expected of them," Johnson said.

"But does that mean all of those professions have gone bad? I don't think er said. "The wrong person with the wrong intentions could mean disaster." Poor rural counties are particularly susceptible to wayward peace officers, "The rural counties with very little tax helped federal authorities in an investiga- base have a terrible problem," said Chilion of former Eastland County sheriff dress County District Attorney David Dee Oselene Hogan and former Eastland McCoy. "The sheriffs often can not get overtime and sometimes make less than their deputies. They may think they are not appreciated and think they deserve Residents who gather in the Coffee Both men refused to comment after Slurper's Club in Childress still are stunned over the arrest last month of Sheriff Claude Lane on drug charges. Lane, an affable 300-pound man who would rather tell a joke than read someone their rights, was indicted by a federal grand jury on 12 counts accusing him of trying to sell 100 pounds of seized marijuana for $10,000. Lane, 54, who has been sheriff for six years, pleaded innocent at an arraignment hearing Feb. 8. He was placed on a paid leave of absence after his arrest Jan. 21 and will likely go to trial in April.

"Well, if he is convicted, then I sill won't believe it," Childress resident Rusty Baker said from his stool in the Slurper's Club. "I can't imagine that for $10,000 he would throw his entire life away. Claude is not that stupid.'

But investigators say money problems may have made Lane desperate.

"Pure and simply he was dead broke," McCoy said. "The facts look pretty bad. He does not fit the description of a guy who would do this. But it just became an easy way to make dollars and cents."

In Rio Grande City, Justice of the in exchange for information about other Peace Hector Perez was arrested Feb. drug offenders in the county," according 9, accused of trying to sell undercover agents 150 pounds of marijuana for $80,000, according to Fred Ball of the the political gain of making several drug U.S. Drug Enforcement Administra-

Perez, 35, has been a Starr County justice for eight years. Prior to that, he was a Starr County deputy sheriff. He has yet to enter a plea.

And last month a federal grand jury indicted three children of Webb County

Sheriff Juan Garza on charges related to the December seizure of 88 pounds of marijuana at a highway checkpoint in Jesse Garza, 19, Cynthia Yvonne Garza, 21, and Juan Garza Jr., 24, were each named in two-count indictments charging them with conspiracy to possess marijuana and possession with intent to distribute marijuana. All three have pleaded innocent. W.G. "Shilo" Gorman, a 23-year veteran peace officer and Comanche County sheriff since 1977, said it's frustrating to see his colleagues as lawbreakers instead of law enforcers. "I wished I knew what caused peace officers to turn bad," Gorman said. "I just can't understand it, because if they phetamine that she claimed for three are smart enough to catch someone committing the same crime, then some-Last month, a jury in federal court one is smart enough to catch them doing

Vance said the recent rash of lawlessness among peace officers is likely not the end of the problem.

"Unfortunately it doesn't seem to be a unique situation," Vance said.
