Letters and muffins sustain local Marine during Gulf combat

By BEAR MILLS

Staff Writer

A United States Marine from Pampa said he survived seven months in the Middle East, including front line combat against Iraq, on letters from home and blueberry muffins from Danny's Market. Pfc. Shawn Harris, 20, son of Danny and Donna Harris, operated a small-range 81mm mortar, also more than 30 confirmed "kills" to their credit.

Thursday night Harris recounted his adventures to a Desert Storm Support Group meeting at Briarwood Full Gospel Church.

"There were times when the mail was slow and all we heard from were these school kids from Pennsylvania," Harris said. While he wondered at first why total strangers were writing to him, it soon became apparent such letters and packages were an outgrowth of the largest civilian support of a military action since World War II. "If it wasn't for all the letters I got, I don't know if I would have made it," Harris said. "My mom knew I liked blueberry muffins me two coffee cans full, along with some other stuff. could have anything in the box - out. I don't think we knocked out cookies, candy or whatever - but not those blueberry muffins." Harris said he often received students at Lamar Elementary and Pampa Middle School. "Everybody from home was great," Harris told the Support Group. "There were so many people in Hawaii at the airport when we landed, and they had a parade for us. I've been in three parades now and I'm almost paraded out.

"But I keep thinking how all you people remembered me when I was over there and I appreciate it so much."

Harris said prayer and reading write us and keep writing. That the Bible also helped him survive the boredom on the first few

"A lot of people were good to go with the Bible," he stated. "I believe God kept us from having a lot more people killed. We didn't really have a church. But we had Bible study and it would help.'

Harris said he was told by several Iraqis who spoke English that families otherwise.

"But he didn't take care of his people," the Marine said. "You would see them in such bad shape, like this one guy whose glands all over his body were all swollen up really had. Our medics had to to care of him.

"They just wanted to go to Saudi Arabia and get away from

Harris said as the allied forces moved into Kuwait, thousands of Iraqis would surrender, waving "toilet paper, their shorts or whatever they had that was white."

"At night the ground would known as a tank killer. His unit had shake from all the bombing," he said. "In Kuwait, all the cities were iust rubble.'

> "If it wasn't for all the letters I got, I don't know if I would have made it,"

> > Pfc. Shawn Harris

Harris said he was in the battle for Khafji, the only real offensive launched by Iraq.

"I thought, 'Saddam is crazy to attack us," he said. "But when we would take POW's, they thought we were even more crazy and they called us devils because of the way we fought and our technology." Harris remains unconvinced that Saddam's time as a world from Danny's Market, so she sent threat is over.

"He is very smart," the Marine stated. "He did a lot of things our "I told the other guys they intelligence forces couldn't figure as much as they say we did."

Now that he is stateside, Harris is working to put images of dead, letters from Pampans, including torn bodies he saw in Kuwait out

> Instead, he is focusing on lessons learned in war, including lessons about the war on racism.

> "Some of us would get letters from people we didn't know and we'd write back and tell them we were black, but they would keep on writing to us," he said. "There were people (in the Marines) who had never really talked to white people because they grew up in an inner city, but white people would > was a trip." Harris described Saudi Arabia as a "living hell" that was either too hot or too cold, and where there was no escaping the sun because of a lack of trees.

> "There were guys over there who were 18 and they went through so much they looked like they were 30," he said.

He said as troops return home, the only reason they fought was however, the warm receptions are because Saddam would kill their helping re-acclimate them to a 'civilized life."

> "In Los Angeles the Pizza Hut gave us all the free pizza we could eat and it made us know how much we were appreciated," he said.

McLean ISD hires new superintendent

By J. ALAN BRZYS Staff Writer

McLEAN - Stanley Lamb, an educator with 29 years experience in Oklahoma school systems, has been hired as superintendent of the McLean Independent School District effective July 1.

Lamb's appointment, following an extensive search and interviewing process, was announced Thursday by the McLean ISD board of

"We're really excited about Lamb joining the school system," said Thacker Haynes, a MISD trustee, in a Thursday telephone interview. "We are impressed with his credentials and experience.

"He's just the right man to continue the programs that have been started here in the past few years," Haynes said. "It seems like he has a genuine concern and a real under-

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Opinion

To have fairness, reduce all taxes

It took a year, but Sen. Daniel Moynihan's idea to cut the payroll tax seems to be catching on among Democrats on Capitol Hill. Senate Majority Leader George J. Mitchell has embraced the idea, though House Majority Leader Thomas Foley still holds out against it. Unfortunately, Mitchell used the tax cut as part of the Democrats' ongoing attempt to start a class war against President Bush, who mistakenly still opposes the cut.

Mitchell contends that the president's favorite tax cut idea, slicing the capital gains tax from 28 percent to 15 percent, would favor the rich. He misreasons, "If taxes are going to be cut, they ought to be cut for those in the middle class and the working class, as opposed to those whose incomes exceed $200,000 a year." But the capital gains tax cut would help everyone, especially in the middle class and the working class - which in America are pretty much the same thing, despite Mitchell's leftist rhetoric.

Take Joe Citizen, of the middle class. He bought a small business for $100,000 in 1970, but now wants to sell it for $300,000. earning a $200,000 profit to be put in the bank for retirement. Joe is "rich," according to Mitchell, and would have to pay a tax of $56,000 just on the capital "gain" – even though most of that gain really came from the inflation caused since the 1970s by Mitchell and his easy-money cohorts in Congress. Bush's capital-gains tax cut would take only $30,000 from Joe. And a capital gains tax cut would also help Joe's brother, Charlie Citizen, by spurring investment in the company he works for, increasing sales and securing

Despite the bounty a capital gains tax cut would give Joe Citizen, Mitchell's class-warfare rhetoric may rule the day. That's one reason why Bush should up the ante on Mitchell by embracing the payroll tax cut. Bush could say, "My capital gains tax cut would help everybody, not just the rich. And let's also cut the payroll tax to help the middle class even more."

It's unclear what form a payroll tax cut would take. The Democratic leadership indicated it wants to increase Social Security taxes on those with high incomes and reduce the tax on those with middle incomes. That, at least, Bush would oppose; such a tax increase would only return us to the stagflation of the 1970s, before the Reagan tax cuts, when the wealthy were taxed so much they couldn't invest in our country. If a tax cut is good – and a payroll tax cut is very good – it is good for

The payroll tax cut would best be taken from the so-called "Trust Fund," which is supposed to pay for the baby boomers' Social Security, but which is raided each year to pay for ballooning pork-barrel programs. It isn't a "Trust Fund" at all, and the money taken, some $55 billion per year, should be refunded 100 percent to taxpayers. Mitchell says the issue is "tax fairness." He's right. But the only "tax fairness" is a tax cut – for everyone.

Time to liberate our streets

WASHINGTON – One hundred thousand. The figure is large enough to make a stunning impression; it is small enough to be vividly understood. Last year 100,000 women were raped in the United States. Those were the reported cases. Police estimate the actual number is closer to 1 million.

Something has gone dreadfully wrong in our country. Crimes of violence are increasing at a pace well beyond the increase in population. In many large cities, teenaged gangs have taken over whole neighborhoods. Even in small cities, people are afraid to leave their homes at night.

The people are especially outraged about one recent crime of violence. And what was that crime? There is a marvelous irony here. The people and the press are especially outraged about a case of police brutality in Los Angeles.

Granted, the conduct of police officers in the case of Rodney King cannot be condoned. It was inexcusable, intolerable, unwarranted, unpardonable - all of that. The offending officers must be suitably punished as a deterrent to their fellow officers. Let us condemn the incident absolutely.

But if the beating of Rodney King cannot be excused, I wonder if it may credibly be explained. Can we fully comprehend the level of frustration that police officers must endure?

Day after day they see a maddening story repeated: They make an arrest, often at danger to themselves. They round up evidence sufficient to suspects released on little or no bail. Criminals routinely go free to repeat their crimes. In only 5 percent or 6 percent of all crimes of violence will an arrest lead at last to a significant time behind bars.

We simply must do better. In his message to Congress of March 11, President Bush made some useful recommendations. I don't mean to criticize, but his Comprehensive Violent Crime Control Act of 1991 is not comprehensive and it will not do much toward crime control. There is not much that but these weapons rarely figure in street crime. Congress and the president can do, for the control and punishment of violent crime is not their primary responsibility.

The record number of rapes is not likely to be reduced by an amendment extending the death penalty to those who take hostages. Murder rates will not be affected by a tightening of habeas corpresident recommends sensible restrictions on the from a scream in the night.

The frustration that is felt by police extends assist in the construction of state prisons. convict. And then what? Day after day they see across the whole spectrum of criminal law. A House subcommittee has been holding hearings on the cops, suppose we redirect our sense of outrage to a Brady bill, so designated as a tribute to Jim Brady, better purpose. 1981. The bill would mandate a seven-day waiting period before a licensed gun dealer could complete the sale of a handgun to a customer.

It now seems likely that the Brady bill will pass. If I were in Congress I would vote for it, but I would have no illusions that the waiting period would contribute toward crime control. Even under present law, criminals rarely buy handguns from licensed dealers. A criminal would have to be stupid beyond belief to buy a gun under the Brady bill, knowing that his criminal record would be searched.

Other gun control bills are likely to be as futile. The president asks for mandatory prison terms for the use of firearms in drug offenses. He would ban the kind of gun clips and magazines that turn semiautomatic weapons into 15-round machine guns,

A great part of Bush's omnibus bill amounts to creating new federal rules of evidence that would be models to the states. In these sections he recognizes that finally it is up to the states and localities to redouble their efforts.

Within limitations, wholly apart from the president's bill, the federal government can help. Wherevpus proceedings in federal courts of appeal. PRETEND

Living in a dream world all his own, he picks the times and heroes that he has heard so much about. Who among us hasn't lived in the wonderful world of make believe? Such times are fun and help stimulate our imagination. Then there are the more serious times. The times when we think seriously of religion, and God who is real. God who has done so much for us.

"In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth."

Take your family to church and honor the Lord in his holy temple.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush has proclaimed April 5-7 as "National Days of Thanksgiving" for the liberation of Kuwait, the "remarkable unity of our people" and "blessings of peace and liberty for our troops" and the nation.

He also asked prayers for "the innocent men, women and children who have suffered" as a result of the war.

Several Christian and Jewish leaders have urged participation in the observance.

Bush asked that flags be flown on all government buildings, that all Americans display flags and that church bells be rung at 3 p.m.

EDT Sunday. In his proclamation, he said: "We prayed for a swift and decisive victory and for the safety of our troops. Clearly, the United States and our coalition partners have been blessed with both. We thank the Lord for his favor. ..." He urged prayer for "God's help and guidance on the way that lies ahead and for "reconciliation with all peoples.'

Sen. Hatfield's halo beginning to tarnish

By JILL LAWRENCE Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Mark Hatfield's unshakable stands against war, abortion and the death politics.

But the moral high ground under the Oregon Republican known as the conscience of the Senate may be eroding with revelations that he failed to report $9,300 in gifts from a school seeking federal funds, and helped channel millions to another school that admitted his daughter under a special procedure.

"There's no doubt that he's projected an image as something request. other than your common politician. But these revelations are an indication that he isn't any different," said Paddy McGuire, executive director of the Oregon Democratic Party.

Hatfield waged an uncharacteristically nasty campaign last year to beat back an aggressive and nearly fatal challenge. But he was back in sader during the Gulf War debate.

He was the only senator who voted against authorizing force to get Iraq out of Kuwait and an alternative that authorized defensive force only. As recently as last Tuesday he was out on his quixotic limb once again, a lone vote against a the war.

"I've always said if you ask me a question I'll give you my answer. I'm not going to ask you to agree be embarrassing.' with me but don't ask me if you're expecting an answer that you want," Hatfield said several weeks years in elective office.

Despite Hatfield's vaunted integrity, a number of ethical questions have come up during those years. Among them:

The reputation as a politician above president said this month, when it came to light, that there was no political motivation.

Hatfield has said he did not know that the gifts from the university president, a family friend, were worth more than $100 apiece and needed to be reported. He has also strenuously denied any connection between his actions and those of the two universities. In fact, he said, he led a drive to trim USC's

The senior Republican on the Senate Appropriations Committee, Hatfield is described in Congressional Quarterly's Politics in America as an "unorthodox combination of moral indignation and pork-barrel politics."

Stephenson wins guild prize

Bryan Stephenson, Pampa High School band member and son of Randy and Donna Stephenson, won first place in the wind/percussion section of the Amarillo Symphony Guild Young Performers' Competition on March 30 at Amarillo College.

Stephenson performed "Concerto #2: Recitative and Polacca" by Carl Maria von Weber, on the B flat clarinet. He was accompanied by Ms. Jen-

Stephenson, with the three other winners in piano, string, and voice categories, will perform in an April 12 concert at Northern Hall which will feature the Randel Chamber Orchestra, the Harrington String Quartet, and the Youth Orchestra.

Tri-state literary contest rules

Contest rules for the Tri-State Literary Contests are now available, prepared by Marianne McNeil and Helen Luecke, literary superintendents for the Tri-State Fair.

For a copy of the contest rules, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to Marianne McNeil, 7003 Amarillo Blvd., E., Amarillo, 79107, or to Helen Luecke, 2921 S. Dallas, Amarillo, 79103. If the young writers' rules are needed, one must ask specifically for them.

Five categories will be featured in prose as well as poetry for adult writers. The Young Writers' Contest now has one age level, 12-17. Prose and poetry divisions have three categories each.

The Tri-State Literary Contests were organized to promote the writers of the Panhandle area, to give them an opportunity to participate in an areasponsored contest. Beginning and experienced writers are encouraged to enter. Members of the writing groups presenting the Best of Show Awards are all eligible to participate.

The deadline is August 1. For more information, call Marianne McNeil (806) 372-5032, or Helen Luecke (806) 376-9671.

Scouts show skills Saturday

The Santa Fe District Scout Skill Show is set for Saturday, April 6, at the Pampa Youth and Community Center, 12:30-5 p.m. This year's theme is "Scouting... A Bridge to the Future."

The skill show gives area Scouts the opportunity to demonstrate Scouting skills to the public. Beginning at 2 p.m., Cub Scout Pinewood Derby races will begin indoors. Pushmobile relay races begin at 2 p.m. outdoors. Boy Scouts are planning action booths outside the Pampa Youth and Community Center where children may try Scout skills for themselves.

Tickets are available by calling Mike Albus at 665-4774.

Funeral director defends his profession's 'way of death'

DEAR ABBY: As a funeral direclisted tor for 26 years, I had to reply to your recent column on the high cost of funerals and the American tradition of viewing the body

One of the privileges of living in a free country is the right to make one's feelings known, as Jessica Mitford has done for years on the subject of funerals and funeral directors. Concerning the "bizarre ritual" of viewing the deceased — funeral directors did not originate that tradition; the families of the deceased did.

Instead of writing to a memorial society for information on "dignified, low-cost funerals," as you suggested, why not call your local funeral director and tell him what you want? He will gladly go over your options and discuss price with you.

As for people going into debt to provide lavish, expensive funerals as an indication of the value they placed on the deceased — I am proud to say that I do not know of one funeral director who would try to take advantage of anyone.
DAVID B. RICHARDSON,

LYNN, MASS. DEAR MR. RICHARDSON: Thank you for writing. I am pleased to give funeral directors equal time.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I just received what at first appeared to be a formal invitation to attend the graduation ceremonies of a young man whose father was "immensely proud of his son's record. Actually, it was not an invitation; it was more like an apology. It stated: Since there is limited seating in the auditorium, there is no room for you, but we want you to know that our son is graduating from this fine old Virginia prep school." Then a "few" of the boy's accomplishments were

How do you size this up, Abby?

DEAR APPALLED: Please don't blame the boy. His father was so prideful, he wanted you to know that even though "there was no room for you," his son was being graduated from a fine old Virginia prep school.

I would give the father an A for good intentions, and a D minus for taste.

DEAR ABBY: AIDS has reached epidemic proportions, horrifying numbers of crack babies are being born, abusive parents are slaughtering their children, tens of thousands of teen-agers are getting pregnant, homeless people crowd our streets, adolescent alcoholism plagues our schools, our elderly are sadly neglected, our mentally ill are vegetating because treatment is unaffordable, our banks are failing, our planet is badly polluted, our prisons are overcrowded and crime is rampant.

And "Mrs. Springer in Mesa" is completely pushed out of shape because five years ago, a clerk in a small business establishment asked what her first name was, and her priest called her "Sherri."

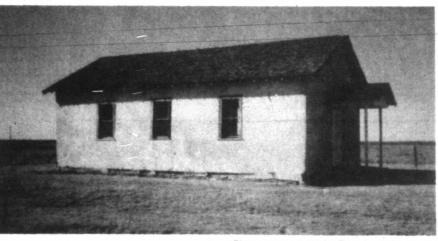

Tell her to lighten up, Abby. And thanks for the best laugh I've had in a very long time FED UP IN LEHIGH VALLEY, PA.

Pearson excited about new role

DALLAS (AP) — Drew Pearson is trying to act like A Football Coach.

He wears a Football Coach Face a hard, steely, glint in his eyes and a scowl instead of a smile, so that he looks a lot like a linebacker with rabies.

He tries to use Football Coach Speak — gang-tackling questions with cliches, euphemisms, and banalities, so he can give an answer that doesn't mean anything at all.

But the former Cowboys receiver, the new coach of the Arena Football League Dallas Texans, is having a hard time with the role.

His enthusiasm for his new job, his first as a head coach, is no act. It keeps getting in the way of his game face, and he punctuates the air with clenched fists when he talks about the upcoming season.

Pearson holds up his end of a conversation with forceful, measured replies and doesn't once say he has to look at the films before he can make a decision.

"The last 18 years have been a constant experience of proving that I belonged," Pearson says. "First, in making the Cowboys, and then in playing 11 years, and then in adjusting to life after football. Now I have this opportunity to prove that I can coach.'

Drew Pearson has never been easy to pigeonhole. Signed as a free agent out of the University of Tulsa, he became the most productive wide receiver in Cowboys history, with 7,822 yards, a figure since passed by Tony Hill.

A's may not be best in the West this season

Major League baseball preview

By BEN WALKER

AP Baseball Writer

There are those who, in trying to analyze Oakland's miserable failure in the World Series, now believe the Athletics weren't so hot, that they were full of holes all along.

As if four games should cast doubt on everything that led up to Cincinnati's stunning sweep. Well, Rickey Henderson, Dave Stewart, Dennis Eckersley and the A's were that good last season.

But they may not be good enough to win the American League West this Oakland has pretty much had its way in winning three straight division titles. They've been able to overcome injuries, fill in for departed free agents and withstand the challenges from new-and-improved teams.

This year, though, as the Athletics try to become the first club to win four consecutive championships since they did it from 1971-75, all of the above may get in their way.

Carney Lansford's snowmobiling accident will cost them dearly. Scott Sanderson was far from the ace of the staff, but was better than Storm Davis the year before, and will be better than his replacement this season. The Chicago White Sox, who led the West the week before the all-star break, will defy the odds and not fall back into the pack. The Kansas City Royals will avoid a terrible start and stay closer. Then there's California. The nice, pleasant, little Angels. Until this year.

The Angels may win the West. They filled their gaps with trades and free agents and are poised to spring back into contention.

Seattle will finally emerge and enjoy its first winning season. Texas is worth watching as long as it has Nolan Ryan, while Minnesota seems

California Angels

The Angels have never gone to the World Series, and after last season's 11-game dip to a disappointing 80-82, it would've been hard to imagine them doing much of anything this year.

But rather than sit back and hope for things to get better, the Angels did something about it. Because their third basemen made 34 errors, they aggressively pursued and signed free agent Gary Gaetti (85 RBIs). He made only 18 errors and started 33 double plays, most in the majors. The Angels needed a left-handed power hitter, so they traded Dante

Bichette to Milwaukee this month for Dave Parker (.289, 21 HR, 92 RBIs). He's averaged 96 RBIs for seven years and, despite turning 39 last June, played in 157 games, most ever by an ALer his age. California wanted to add offense, so it got OF Junior Felix (15 HR, 65 RBIs) and 2B Luis Sojo, a Triple-A all-star, in a trade that sent Devon White and Willie Fraser to Toronto. Dave Winfield (.267, 21 HR, 78 RBIs) bounced back from back surgery and will benefit from a calm, full season away from New York. Wally Joyner (.268) missed half the season and returns to bat third and Luis Polonia (.336) leads off. Plus, there's Lance Parrish (24 HR, 70 RBIs). He led major league catchers in homers and, more importantly, by throwing out 47 percent of potential basestealers. California pitchers had a 3.47 ERA with Parrish catching; it was a 4.88 ERA without him.

Chuck Finley (18-9, 2.40 ERA) and Kirk McCaskill (12-11, 3.25), along with Oakland's Bob Welch, are the only three AL starters to be among the league's top 10 ERA leaders for two straight years. Mark Langston (10-17, 4.40 ERA) combined with Mike Witt on a no-hitter in his Anaheim Stadium debut, but did not win again at home until August. He'll be better and so might Jim Abbott (10-14), who has never lost more than two consecu-

Bert Blyleven (8-7) hoped to be possibly the last 300-game winner. Injuries stopped him at 287, maybe for good. Rookie Scott Lewis (13-11 at Edmonton) is ready to fill out the rotation. Bryan Harvey (25 saves) is the stopper with Mark Eichhorn (13 saves) in the setup role.

Defense and depth could catch up to California. The Angels made 46 more errors last year than they did in 1989; no team had made a bigger jump since San Diego in 1977.

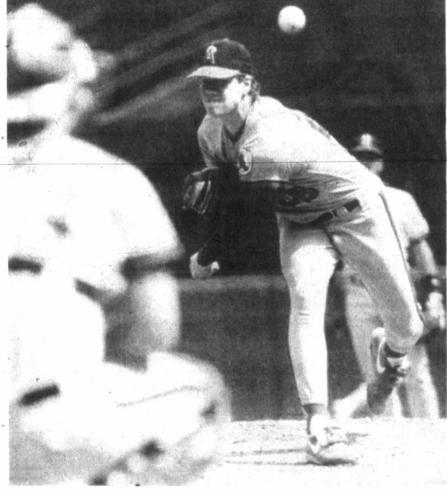

Oakland Athletics

Dave Stewart says Oakland was a better team than Cincinnati, and Rickey Henderson says he should be paid more money. What's the problem here - that they're wrong, or that we're just tired of hearing it?

Henderson (.325, 28 HR, 61 RBIs) won the MVP, deservedly. He also became the first player to lead the AL in stolen bases (65), runs (119) and on-base percentage (.439) in the same season. Whatever commotion he may create, any team would pay almost anything to the best leadoff hitter

Jose Canseco, however, is a little different, depending on his back. Canseco (37 HR, 101 RBIs) hit only three homers in 45 games after Aug. 3 and, after misplaying a fly ball in the World Series, did not start the finale.

Mark McGwire (39 HR, 108 RBIs) is the only major leaguer to hit 30 homers in his first four seasons. Harold Baines (.284, 16 HR, 65 RBIs) is with the A's from the start, and Dave Henderson (20 HR) and SS Walt Weiss seem healthy. Mike Gallego isn't a big hitter, but was asked to sacrifice in 17 situations by manager Tony LaRussa and was successful on all of them. Lansford (.268) slumped at the plate, but led AL third basemen in fielding for the third time in four years. Vance Law, back from Japan, and Ernest Riles, acquired from San Francisco, may have a hard time matching Lansford.

Stewart (22-11, 2.56 ERA) is trying for his fifth straight 20-win season; Catfish Hunter was the last to do it, from 1971-75. If Stewart could pitch against Roger Clemens in April all the time, he'd win 20 easily — he's won eight straight head-to-head matchups with Clemens, and has won 14 consecutive April decisions, that after losing 12 straight.

Bob Welch won the Cy Young with 27 victories, most since Denny McLain's 31 in 1968. But Mike Moore (13-15, 4.65 ERA) saw his strikeout ratio drop by 49 percent last year, the biggest decrease ever for a pitcher with 30 starts. Free agent Eric Show (6-8, 5.76 ERA) will try to replace Sanderson and will benefit by pitching for the A's, maybe.

Dennis Eckersley (48 saves in 50 chances) had an 0.61 ERA, the best in major league history among pitchers with at least 25 innings. He has unintentionally walked only three batters in each of the last two years, the two best walks-to-innings ratios in history.

Kansas City Royals

Sure won't be the same without Bo, but Brett & Bret must carry on. The Royals lost 16 of their first 22 games last season. After that, they were around .500, but it didn't matter by then. Whatever happens this year, it will be without Bo Jackson, who was cut because of a bad hip and later signed with the White Sox.

George Brett's year summed up Kansas City's plight. He was hitting .266 and trailing league leader Ken Griffey Jr. by 71 points on July 4, but righted himself and won his third batting title. He won his first one 14 years ago; Ted Williams set the record with 17 years in-between. Brett was helped with credit for two singles on balls that hit runners, the most by any batter Saberhagen's weird odd-even pattern continued. He was injured and went 5-9, making him 36-48 in even-numbered years and 61-22 in odd ones. Mark Gubicza (4-7, 4.50 ERA) also was hurt and starts the season on the 15-day disabled list; Tom Gordon (12-11, 3.73 ERA) can do better, while rookie Kevin Appier (12-8, 2.76 ERA) excelled and so did free agent Mike Boddicker (17-8 with Boston).

Free agent Kirk Gibson (.260, 8 HR, 38 RBIs) has played only 160 games in two years.

Chicago White Sox

In the past, this trend is pretty prevalent: teams that make big jumps in one season tend to fall back the next.

The White Sox went from 69-92 in 1989 to 94-68 last season under manager of the year Jeff Torborg. If there's a reason why Chicago might not drop back, it's because they had the youngest team in the majors and could get better. Also, there's Tim Raines and the excitement about a new ballpark. Plus, Chicago could become Bo's Sox.

"Amarillo High scored in the first half, but we were able to shut them down the second half. We had a couple of scoring opportunites in the second half when we had the wind at our backs, but we just couldn't get the ball in. I was real pleased with our effort, however," Flynn said.

Pampa (1-1) defeated Caprock, 2-0, in the first match of the season.

DARREL BLADES OF CANYON had entered his first tournament. His fishing partner was A.K. RODEN OF MEMPHIS...his mother-in-law! After six freezing hours in their first bass tournament...no fish, and not even a nibble. Suddenly, their luck took a Darrel had been reading in Honey Hole magazine that a Stanley jig and an Uncle Josh No.1 jumbo porkfrog would catch big bass. He rigged it on 10 pound line (yes, 10 pound) and promptly caught his first bass on a jig and pig. Well, at first he thought he was hung up on the bottom, until his line moved off to the side. A quick hook set, a little luck, and a great deal of coaching by his mother-in-law netted the biggest bass that either angler had ever seen...10 pounds.

Did I mention that his big motor was acting up and had earlier refused to start? Now it did start, and they raced off to the official scales before anything could

Rose finishes stay at halfway house

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pete Rose ended his threemonth stay in a halfway house today, closing the final phase of his detention on federal tax offenses.

Rose was smiling and joked with reporters as he walked out of Talbert House and drove away at 8:15

The former Cincinnati Reds manager still must complete a court-ordered 1,000 hours of community service — also part of his sentence.

Rose, 49, was sentenced last July to five months in prison and three months in the halfway house after he pleaded guilty to failing to report income on his taxes. U.S. District Judge S. Arthur Spiegel also fined him $50,000 and ordered him to work off the community service at five inner-city elementary schools.

Rose, who started as a volunteer gym teacher's aide in the Cincinnati Public Schools in January, is scheduled to work today at Heberle Elementary School. Later in the day, he is to make a paid personal appearance in Birmingham, Ala., said Cal Levy, one of his business managers. Rose has made paid appearances at baseball card shows in Connecticut and New York since leaving a federal prison camp in Marion, Ill., in January. Levy declined to say what he was paid for the appearances. After the school year ends June 7, Rose is to finish his community service at a youth club in a lowincome neighborhood. If he maintains his current 40hour work weeks, he will finish his sentence by mid-

Rose has sold his homes in Cincinnati and has said he plans to move to Boca Raton, Fla., when his sentence ends. He has said he might go into the restaurant business or broadcasting.

Rose, baseball's all-time hits leader, was banned from the sport in August 1989 for gambling. He has received counseling for a compulsive gambling disorder. He is eligible to apply for reinstatement, but has not said when he will do so.
