Pampa school board candidates give views during PCTA forum Thursday

Candidates for Place 5 on the Pampa public school board squared off during a Pampa Classroom Teachers Association forum Thursday afternoon at the Pampa Middle School library.

Incumbent Joe VanZandt told a crowd of almost 50 people, mostly educators, that he understood but disagreed with opponent James Frugé's claim that a school tax increase is not necessary this year.

"I have been there — determined not to raise taxes," VanZandt said. "Now, I consider myself pro-education. If it were possible to provide better teacher benefits without raising taxes, we would already have done so. But 75 to 80 percent of our expenses are for salaries."

He said Frugé's claims that the PISD can do more with less is "unlikely."

However, Frugé, who said his experience includes managing multi-million dollar budgets at Hoechst Celanese, suggested VanZandt is behind the times in his thinking.

"I've concentrated the last five years of my life on ... doing more with less," Frugé said of his work as a team leader for high-technology production.

"As the quality of a process goes up, the cost comes down," Frugé explained. "That defies traditional logic, and at some point you just have to believe it and then see it happen."

"If we've done all we can do (to save money), I'll vote for a tax increase," Frugé said. "But the city is an example of an organization that is expanding programs without a tax increase and doing more with less."

VanZandt said the uncertain future of education funding and consolidation means an experienced school board member is a must.

"I add balance to the board with my rural background," said VanZandt, a County Extension agent and graduate of Wheeler High School. "Serving for two years as board president also gives me valuable experience."

Frugé said he is a "traditional, family values" candidate who is pleased with public schools in Pampa, but believes new input on the board is a must.

He also promised to involve larger numbers of industry experts in the classroom if he is elected.

"The school board should not just be reactionary," Frugé said. "It should be on top of what's going on. The basic role of the school board is leadership. We should set boundaries in which teachers have the freedom to operate."

VanZandt said the PISD has saved over $300,000 by budget cutting, but that the $3,609 per pupil the system spends is still very low.

"Get more with less?" he said. "I don't think so. When we see that we are spending less per pupil than other districts, that is an indication our students are also getting less."

VanZandt said he was instrumental in the district's Pampa 2000 strategic planning.

"School personnel who have been around more than five years have noticed a difference in communications (with administrators)," VanZandt said. "We have not been afraid to spend money on consultants from time to time. One of those consultants is now our superintendent of schools."

Frugé and VanZandt both said they favor more parental involvement in public education.

"Why, when a child turns five or six, should parents back out of the educational picture?" Frugé asked.

Attorney Phil Vanderpool, who is unopposed for Place 4, joked that his primary qualification is the lack of an opponent.

Place 4 incumbent Colleen Hamilton is not seeking another term on the board.

Vanderpool said, "The public is not a bottomless pit. You can't tax the heck out of people just to get where you want to go."

Frugé and Vanderpool both pledged their willingness to disagree with other board members when necessary.

VanZandt has said he was proud of the degree of cooperation on the board and a willingness to not bicker in public.

School board voting will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the choir room in the Music Building at Pampa High School on Saturday.

Cinco de Mayo party scheduled Sunday in Central Park

By BEAR MILLS
Staff Writer

A Cinco de Mayo party is scheduled for Pampa's Central Park at 1 p.m. Sunday, with a crowd of 250 to 300 people expected.

Eunice Moreno, publicity chairperson for United Hispanics (Hispanos Unidos), a cultural study group, said Cinco de Mayo celebrates the battle of May 5, 1863, between Ignacio Zaragoza's 4,000 Mexican guerrilla forces and 6,000 French soldiers who were assisting the Spanish and British in denying Mexico independence.

Zaragoza's forces were armed with 50-year-old guns from the Battle of Waterloo that had been bought in 1825 from the British.

"To show his contempt for that rag-tag army, the French commander called for a charge up the middle of the Mexican defenses at Zaragoza's most strongly fortified position," Moreno said. "The charge carried his cavalry through soggy ditches, over a crumbling adobe wall and up the steep slopes of the Cerro de Guadalupe."

"But their drive petered out before reaching its objective and over 1,000 Frenchmen were left dead or dying," Moreno said the Battle of Puebla, as the fight is known, was the first defeat of the French in any battle for 50 years and signaled the beginning of Mexican independence.

The French, however, continued their occupation of Mexico for another four years, leaving in 1867.

Those with an interest in Latin culture, whether Mexican or Anglo, are invited to attend the Sunday event, Moreno said.

A covered-dish luncheon will begin at 1 p.m., along with a variety of games and activities.

In addition, Hispanos Unidos T-shirts and Mexican food will be on sale to the public.

Goodbye, 'Dallas' — TV's prime-time soap limps into the sunset tonight

By DEBORAH HASTINGS
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The series that made television history will be history as of tonight.

After 13 seasons, Dallas limps into the sunset on CBS with a two-hour finale and a fraction of the popularity that transformed a Texas soap opera into the world's most talked about television show.

In its boom days, the saga of lust and treachery amid oil rigs and sprawling cattle ranches was America's No. 1 prime-time show.

Viewers in 85 countries considered Dallas a more valued American export than blue jeans. In 1980, Turkey recessed Parliament so representatives could find out who shot J.R.

Over the years ratings plummeted; cast members quit; story lines grew old and just plain preposterous — the infamous 1986 shower scene in which Bobby rose from the dead created an outcry from critics and viewers that it ranked as a new low in lame plot developments.

But all those rich Ewings down on the Southfork range left an indelible mark on TV history with all their fussin' and feudin' and lyin' and dyin' and sleeping with half the population of the Lone Star state.

Viewers around the globe were obsessed with patriarch Jock Ewing (played by Jim Davis, who died in 1981) and matriarch Miss Ellie (played by Barbara Bel Geddes except during the 1984-85 season when Donna Reed filled the role).

Each week, evil son and oil magnate J.R. (Larry Hagman) and handsome and scrupulous younger brother Bobby (Patrick Duffy) sat down to dinner with cousins, wives and siblings at Southfork.

TV audiences found it comforting that even the rich had problems, and big ones at that.

The series took cliffhanger endings to new heights, created one spinoff (the still-running Knots Landing) and spawned nighttime imitators including Dynasty, Fleming Road and Secrets of Midland Heights.

The "Who shot J.R.?" episode created so much speculation that the Nevada Gaming Control Board halted Las Vegas betting. It also ranks as the second-most popular show in TV history (behind the last episode of M-A-S-H).

White House staff gives Bush travel policy recommendations

By RITA BEAMISH
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House legal staff has made its recommendations to President Bush on whether to change travel policy for top officials, as Chief of Staff John Sununu prepares to release more details on his use of military planes, an administration official said today.

President Bush underscored his defense of his chief of staff by telling reporters he hopes Sununu remains on the job.

"Everything's fine," Bush said when asked about Sununu's job security. Asked if Sununu would stay on for the next two years, Bush told reporters traveling to St. Louis with him on Air Force One, "I hope so. I hope he will. He has my full support."

White House counsel Boyden Gray on Thursday gave Bush the results of his review conducted after disclosures of Sununu's use of government planes for personal and political travel, said the source, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

"He's got the options. He's got to review it" before making decisions on whether to change the policy directing that Sununu and the national security adviser should travel on government aircraft at all times.

The official said Sununu gave Gray a detailed accounting of how his non-official travel was reimbursed, and that will be made public next week. Previously the White House had released a list showing only the amount that was reimbursed to the government for the trips, without saying what organization or individual made the payment.

In addition to the policy review, "Sununu asked Gray to check all the material" regarding Sununu's travel, the official said, "just to make 100 percent sure and to double check that everything was according to policy."

As the controversy over use of government aircraft increased, the White House on Thursday leaped to the defense of Vice President Dan Quayle, who flew on a military jet for an overnight golf trip to Georgia last week just hours after President Bush asked his legal staff to review the policy covering Sununu's travel.

Quayle, like Bush, uses military aircraft for all personal, political and official travel, due to security and communications requirements, White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said.

"The American people do not ask their elected officials to give up their lives to take these positions," Fitzwater said when asked if Quayle's travel was appropriate. "The American people don't ask them to live like hermits."

CBS News said Quayle's golf outing, with Transportation Secretary Sam Skinner along as a guest, cost taxpayers $27,000, including housing and feeding the plane's flight crew and Secret Service detail.

David Beckwith, the vice president's spokesman, called the $27,000 figure "a blind estimate, nothing more."

"It was a guess. I don't have any cost estimates, but if they had said twice what they said or half that, it would have been the same to me," Beckwith said in an interview late Thursday.

Fitzwater said the review of the policy covering Sununu's use of military jets was expanded from looking at the policy itself to probing the accuracy of the records Sununu submitted on reimbursement of the government for non-official travel.

Sununu requested the expanded inquiry by White House counsel Boyden Gray, said Fitzwater.

Skellytown residents welcome soldiers home

By BEAR MILLS
Staff Writer

SKELLYTOWN — Spec. 4 Jon Roe of the United States Army and Lance Cpl. Bryan Thurmond of the Marine Corps were welcomed home Thursday with a citywide parade that began at the city limits and proceeded to their respective homes.

Both Skellytown natives served in the Persian Gulf during Operation Desert Storm.

For Thurmond, Desert Storm was a return engagement in the Gulf region, where he had lived during his childhood.

His father, Roy Thurmond, was employed by Getty Oil in Kuwait when Bryan was 12.

The elder Thurmond said Bryan had not liked the Middle East as a young man.

As a 22-year-old, he was not much more fond of the climate or society.

Thurmond said he was stationed on the USS Iwo Jima for eight months.

"Waiting was the hardest part," he said. "We'd get word we were going to do this or that and then it would all change. It got real scary when we realized we could die in this."

A boiler explosion on the Iwo Jima forced the ship to dock in Bahrain, where Thurmond said he first became aware of the massive support in the United States for Desert Storm.

"We heard a little about it, but I didn't expect all this," he said, motioning to the 60-plus Skellytown residents who showed up to welcome him home.

Roe, a member of the Army's legendary Big Red One, was also greeted with the large welcome, as sirens from police, fire, sheriff's department vehicles wailed and children waved flags and banners.

June Thurman of the Desert Storm Support Group in Pampa said a reception is planned for the two Skellytown GI's, along with Army Pfc. Christopher Evans of Pampa, on Sunday at the Pampa Mall.

Thurman said the event will begin at 2 p.m., with the three men being chauffeured from Memorial Park to the mall in a convertible.

Twists besides the shower scene:

• In the 1980 season, ranch foreman Ray Krebbs learns that Lucy Ewing is actually his niece. (No one mentions they were courtin' and sparkin' in the first season).

• In 1984, while Bel Geddes was recuperating from surgery, not one person at Southfork screamed "J.R., get in here! Miss Ellie looks exactly like Donna Reed."

Besides weird turns in story lines, Dallas also experienced defections from its stars. Linda Gray, who played J.R.'s boozy wife, Sue Ellen, left in 1989. Principal left in 1987. Bel Geddes did not return for the last season.

But the worst time in Dallas history came when Davis died 10 years ago, Katzman said.

"When Jim died, that was a terrible time for everyone," he said. "That was a disastrous time. After that, they came in steps — Victoria leaving, Barbara leaving ... all those departures eroded the shows."

Tonight, fans will see current and former series stars head off for the great TV roundup with a fantasy episode spun from It's a Wonderful Life.

Joel Grey plays a visiting angel who gives a despairing J.R. a view of what life would be like had he never been born.

"People who haven't seen the show in five years won't have to worry," said executive producer Leonard Katzman. "There are no story lines to pick up."

That was not the case when Katzman returned to Dallas (with Duffy) in 1986 after a one-year absence.

Duffy's Bobby Ewing had been run over by a maniacal driver the previous season (because Duffy emphatically said he was leaving the show and never coming back).

Duffy did come back. And Katzman was faced with the thankless task of resurrecting a dead character. "I was just sitting there and all of a sudden it came to me," Katzman said.

"It" was the much-ridiculed scene in which Pam (Victoria Principal) opens the shower door and sees her dead husband lathering up. The whole previous season had been a dream.

Throughout its 13 seasons, logic and reason never stopped a Dallas script. Among its more bizarre plot twists besides the shower scene:

• All we were ever trying to do was entertain the audience. There was never any real deep meaning to it. We weren't trying to do a documentary every week."

WHEELER — A homecoming reception for Sgt. Richard Anderson of the United States Army and Cpl. Stephen Meadows of the Marine Corps was hosted here Tuesday evening.

Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Anderson of Sayre, Okla., and grandson of Dorothy Hink of Wheeler, was welcomed home during a noon luncheon at First National Bank, where his sister, Patti Wheeler, is employed.

In the afternoon, Anderson, 27, went to Wheeler School and visited children who had corresponded with him while he was on duty in Saudi Arabia during Operation Desert Storm.

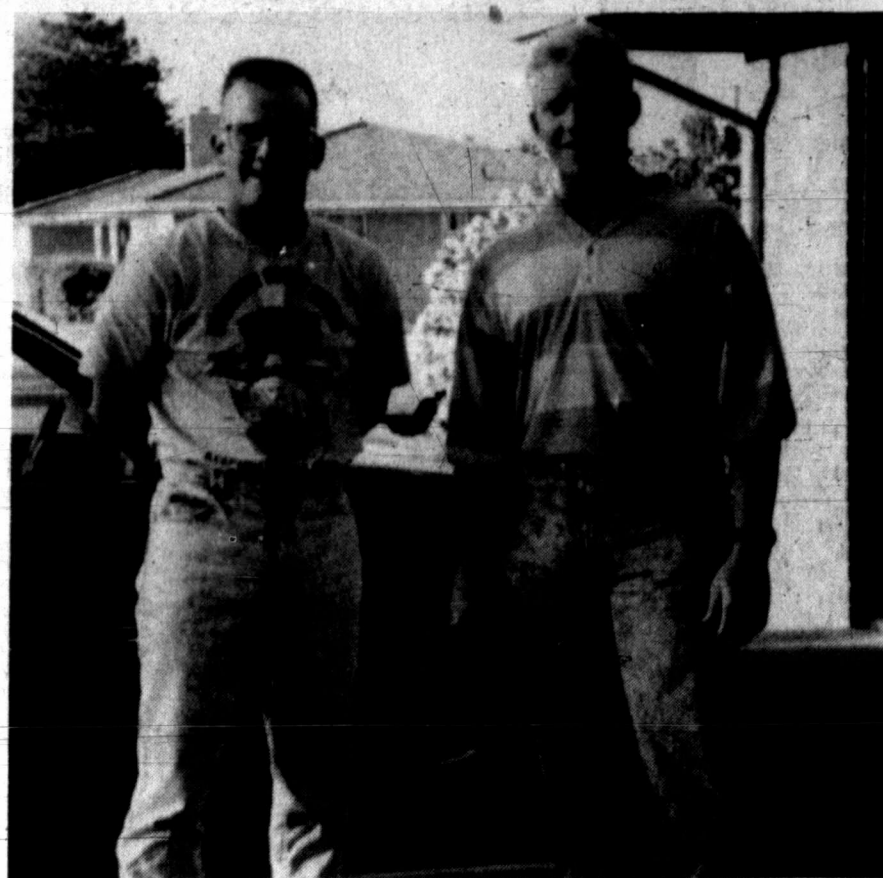

A school assembly was also held in his honor during the last period and Anderson signed about 50 autographs.

Anderson was sent to the Middle East on Oct. 15, 1990. He is an ammunition team chief for the M109 Alpha 3 Howitzer, a 155mm cannon.

His 1st Cavalry division fired 3,956 rounds of the 100 pound ammunition.

A mid-afternoon cloudburst Thursday brought to the area the first appreciable rainfall in several months. Runoff quickly filled gullies and gutters throughout the city, including those on North Hobart in front of Coronado Center, making driving difficult at times. Yet, when it was over, only 0.01 inch was officially recorded for the city.

Jennie Haesle, left, accepts a letter of notification from Mike Keagy, president of the Pampa Area Chamber of Commerce, informing her that she is the 1991 recipient of the McCarley Foundation Scholarship.

Jennie Haesle awarded McCarley Scholarship

Jennie Haesle, daughter of Mary Young and John Haesle of Pampa, has been selected as the McCarley Foundation Scholarship recipient for 1991.

Haesle will be awarded $2,000 per semester while meeting the standards of the McCarley Foundation Scholarship after being chosen from a field of 54 applicants. She graduated from Pampa High School in 1989, ranking 14 from a class of 226 students. She worked 15-20 hours per week during her senior year at PHS.

She had accumulated 56 college hours at the end of the fall semester with a grade point average of 3.854. She has commuted to West Texas State University for each semester.

With a 4.0 GPA in her major of accounting, Haesle plans to become a certified public accountant.

Mike Keagy, representing the Pampa Area Chamber of Commerce as its president, congratulated Haesle on her excellent academic record and thanked the McCarley Foundation for the generous gift to a PHS graduate's future education.

Crime Stoppers

This week Crime Stoppers needs your help in solving the burglary of a motor vehicle at 2232 Chestnut occurring on or between Friday, March 29, and Sunday, March 31, 1991.

The vehicle, a 1990 Pontiac Sunbird, was parked in the driveway of the residence. The vehicle was unlocked, with entry being made through the right rear door. Taken in the burglary were a Honeywell brand lap-top computer, serial number HBXA-PL01365, and a battery pack. Total loss was $2,438.

Due to anonymous tips received through Crime Stoppers, the Pampa Police Department has been able to clear a significant number of offenses and recover an appreciable amount of stolen property and illicit drugs. Citizens may witness all or part of a crime without being aware of what they have seen. Consequently, they may unknowingly possess key information that could aid the police in solving the crime.

In some cases, citizens do not contact police with information out of fear of retaliation by the criminal if their identity were revealed. In most instances, these citizens will not come forward with information unless they can be assured that they will be provided complete anonymity by the police.

Also, citizens who do wish to help may not be sure who to contact or what procedure to follow to give information of this nature. Crime

Stoppers is the answer.

Cash rewards of up to $1,000 are available for information leading to the arrest and indictment of persons committing crimes in Pampa.

The board of directors of Crime Stoppers urges citizen involvement in reporting crimes in our community. Crime Stoppers does not want your name; all it wants is your information, which is kept strictly confidential. You do not have to appear in court.

Recycling bill clears Senate

AUSTIN (AP) - A bill to significantly reduce waste by recycling was approved by the Senate.

The goal of the comprehensive effort is to recycle 40 percent of the state's total municipal solid waste by 1994.

Bill sponsor Carl Parker said if Texas makes a commitment to recycling, "there are at least four major companies that will put recycling facilities in this state. This will mean economic development and jobs for Texas."

Parker's bill was sent to the House on voice vote Thursday after a procedural motion carried 25-2.

The bill would create campaigns to raise the public's awareness of recycling and a marketing study to determine the potential benefits and costs.

The measure would restrict the dumping of yard waste such as leaves and grass clippings, at certain landfills, and would require state standards for household hazardous waste.

The bill states that recycling of paper products, including old news-

Sidewalk/Garage Sale Saturday in Wheeler

WHEELER - The Wheeler Chamber of Commerce will be having its City-Wide Sidewalk and Garage Sale on Saturday.

Various booths will be set up in the downtown area, with garage sales held both downtown and in other locations in the city.

The Chamber will have a food booth, selling hamburgers and soft drinks.

papers, is vital to Texas' economy and preserving the environment, and sets goals for recycled newspaper of 10 percent by the end of 1993, 20 percent by 1997 and 30 percent by 2000.

The state would give preference to purchasing products made of recycled materials, and state and local agencies would establish programs to separate and collect recyclable materials generated by the agencies.

A $2 fee would be imposed for each new tire sold, which would be used in part to clean up used tire dumps and conduct research for using rubber from scrap tires.

"We have a horrendous situation in Texas with dangerous and unsightly piles of old used tires," said Parker, D-Port Arthur. He said the health department already is requiring tires to be quartered before they can be disposed of at land sites.

The bill also would:

- Give preference to highway bids utilizing rubberized asphalt paving made from scrap tires.
- Prohibit the deposit of lead-acid batteries in any landfill.
- Provide programs to explain to the public benefits of recycling oil, and offer grants to local governments to encourage recycling of used oil.

Pampa High School's Harvester Band members pose with the various awards and trophies they have accumulated this year in competitions.

Harvester Band gains UIL, festival honors

Pampa High School Symphonic and Concert Bands, directed by Charles Johnson, gained Sweepstakes honors in the University Interscholastic League competition recently in Pampa.

To receive this award, the bands must earn a Division I rating in marching, concert and sightreading. This is the ninth consecutive year the PHS Symphonic Band has achieved this award.

On Saturday, April 27, both PHS bands traveled to Phoenix, Ariz., to compete in the Heritage Music Festival. The Concert Band won a Silver Award and second place in Class A. The Symphonic Band won a Gold Award and first place in Class AA, Outstanding Instrumental Group, and the Adjudicator Award.

In order to receive the Adjudicator Award, the band must score 95 or higher and must be the highest scoring entry in the Festival. According to contest officials, this award is rarely given and is quite an honor to receive.

Pampa Middle School Patriot Band gained Sweepstakes honors at the University Interscholastic League competition in Pampa on April 24. To achieve this award, the band must earn a Division I rating in marching, concert and sightreading. PMS Patriot Band is one of the few middle school-level bands in the state that marches, and is therefore eligible for a Sweepstakes Award. PMS Concert Band also earned a first division in sightreading.

The Patriot Band, directed by Bruce Collins, and the PMS Concert Band, directed by Jeff Hogan, are to travel to Amarillo on Saturday to participate in the Greater Southwest Music Festival.

State Senate approves East Texas Oil Field legislation

AUSTIN (AP) - The Senate approved a bill that would specifically authorize the Railroad Commission to regulate oil and gas production in the large East Texas Field.

The bill by Sen. Bill Ratliff was sent to the House on an 18-8 vote Thursday.

Ratliff, R-Mount Pleasant, said the bill is needed because five lawsuits have challenged the commission's practice of setting the production rate of the East Texas Field at 86 percent, and most other fields at 100 percent.

Those who favor the lower rate argue that it will conserve oil in a reservoir that is Texas' largest, underlying portions of Cherokee, Gregg, Rusk and Smith counties. Others claim the lower rate is discriminatory. Ratliff was asked if his bill treated the East Texas Field differently than other oil fields in Texas.

He replied that commission has treated the field differently for 20 years because of the field's fragile nature and because of the possibility of saltwater encroachment.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Opinion

$1.45 trillion is a capital crime

Reach for your wallet — Congressional Democrats are putting final touches on a new budget bill amounting to a whopping $1.45 trillion — or 25 percent of the entire U.S. economy, a larger proportion than has been taken from Americans in any year since World War II. Of course, Congress is not entirely to blame. President Bush shares the blame for this unprecedented burden on the economy because he agreed to the amount. But under our form of government, it is still Congress that passes all appropriations and spending bills, and so it must be held primarily accountable.

Unfortunately for us, the House recently derailed a budget proposal offered by Ohio Rep. Dennis Kucinich that would have marginally reduced the rifling of taxpayers' pockets. His proposal, a $1.2 trillion budget for 1992, fell by a House vote of 302-114.

While Kucinich's proposal itself set spending authority at obscene levels, it at least offered some relief — reduced foreign aid and a reduction in the capital gains tax. Rep. Tom DeLay, R-Texas, called Kucinich's plan "the only real spending restraint that we have before us." He also seems to have the public pulse: "There is a brewing tax revolt out there," he said. May his words prove correct.

The House budget approved by a 261-161 margin calls for no new taxes. How gracious! But last fall's budget agreement already increased spending by 12.6 percent and taxes by $140 billion. Right now, Congress is like a boa constrictor that has devoured many taxpayers, is engaged and must digest its prey before devouring more. And this year's Oct. 1 budget deadline comes just too close to next year's presidential campaigns. But come 1993, Congress' digestive system will have cleared, and Congress will be ravenous for more taxpayers to squeeze and swallow.

Congress is also bloated by an increase in its own budget. It now costs taxpayers $2.5 billion per year just to run Congress — including the redundant 20 committees and 87 subcommittees in the Senate and the 27 committees and 155 subcommittees in the House. That comes to an average of $4.67 million for each congressman. At a time of recession, when most American families and businesses are paring their budgets, Congress has raised its budget by 14.2 percent over 1990 — far exceeding the 5 to 6 percent inflation rate, and exceeding even the 12.6 percent increase in overall federal spending.

We have come far from the days of the citizen-legislator, who sacrificed a few years of his life as a businessman or local official to work hard in Washington — in those days a town of spartan accommodations. One action above all would return Congress to some sense of proportion: term limits. Allow each senator to serve only two terms (12 years), and each representative only five terms (10 years), and government of decent proportions, truly representative of the people, just might have a chance to grow again in our land.

Tonkin Gulf: The true story

WASHINGTON — On Aug. 7, 1964, barely 72 hours after the famed "incident" in the Tonkin Gulf, Congress reacted. It adopted an historic resolution authorizing President Johnson to go to war in Vietnam. There were doubts about the incident at the time, but with publication of an astounding novel those doubts today have been resolved.

Most readers will remember the fateful affair. Tensions between the United States and North Vietnam had been mounting rapidly. Then came word that North Vietnam had made a night attack on two U.S. destroyers. At least three torpedoes reportedly had been fired. None of them reached their targets. Captains of the two ships reported "a confusing picture." Something had happened. What was it?

Now we know what really happened, and we know who was responsible. It was William F. Buckley Jr., the author of Tucker's Last Stand. In his latest book, published in March by Random House, Buckley confesses his crucial role. Using the code name of "Blackford Oakes," one of several names Buckley has been known to use, he stage-managed a fake attack on the two destroyers. The incident provided all the provocation the president required.

Tucker's Last Stand purports to be a novel, and by certain criteria it may be so described. The work is tightly plotted. The principal character, Tucker Montana, is artfully drawn. There is a modicum of sex and vast deal of dialogue, though sometimes the sex does not fit the dialogue, and when Oakes speaks to his lady love as "an academic sciolist," sometimes the dialogue does not fit the sex. Never mind. These are familiar elements of the Buckley novel.

The book achieves its high level of fascination not as fiction, but as barely concealed autobiography.

James J. Kilpatrick

Think about it. What do we really know of William F. Buckley Jr.? Only this much: born in 1925, graduated from Yale in 1950, founded National Review in 1955, a syndicated columnist since 1962.

There emerges from Tucker's Last Stand a startling truth. Are you ready? Bill Buckley has led two lives. Ostensibly he is Buckley the public figure. Secretly he is not Buckley but Blackie, top agent of the CIA.

The illusion has been maintained in part by the use of a double. Such a stratagem is not unusual. We know, for example, that there are two Jesse Jacksons, for it is impossible for one Jesse Jackson to be photographed at 10 o'clock with the queen in London and for the same Jesse Jackson to be photographed at 10:05 with the pope in Rome. This happened two years ago when the Jackson doubles team mixed up their schedules and lost in straight sets. But I digress.

Consider the sheer volume of Buckley's work, or as he might say, his oeuvre. We are asked to believe that one man could edit a magazine, make speeches, produce a TV show, play the harpsichord, write 23 books, sail the seven seas, and maintain a voluminous correspondence with the rich and famous. It is too much. In fabricating a public cover for the covert Buckley, the agency has overdone it. Clearly a look-alike is involved.

On examination, mysterious gaps appear in the record. We have been led to believe that Buckley spends every winter in Switzerland, and we have seen a photograph that shows the author with what appears to be an Alp in the background. But is it really Buckley? Is it really an Alp? It is hard to say.

Again, we are told that Buckley is an inveterate yachtsman. In the summer of 1964, supposedly this urbane sophisticate, or as he might say, this bon vivant, was sailing the waters of Polynesia. Some handsome fellow in dark glasses was photographed with a grass-skirted girl in Tahiti, and the photo caption said it was Buckley. Now we may say with certainty that the real Buckley, the secret Buckley, was operating a motor launch in the Gulf of Tonkin.

We may now surmise that using CIA resources, Buckley invented an electronic transmitter no larger than a freckle. A friendly dentist, who was in truth an agent of the CIA, in 1964 inserted the device into a filling in one of Lyndon Johnson's bicusps. We have reason to believe it was the second bicuspid on the left after passing a canine, but this is not disclosed. Buckley thus became privy to Johnson's most private conversations. The transmitter remained in place until it was dislodged by a chewy candy bar in August of 1971.

The public Buckley, of course, may be expected to deny everything. This is the way of the CIA. But let me encourage every lover of conspiracy to read this engaging and absorbing yarn. There is much more here than meets the reader's eye.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, May 3, the 123rd day of 1991. There are 242 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On May 3, 1802, Washington D.C. was incorporated as a city, with the mayor to be appointed by the president, and the council elected by property owners.

On this date:
In 1654, a bridge in Rowley, Mass., was permitted to charge a toll for animals, while people crossed for free.

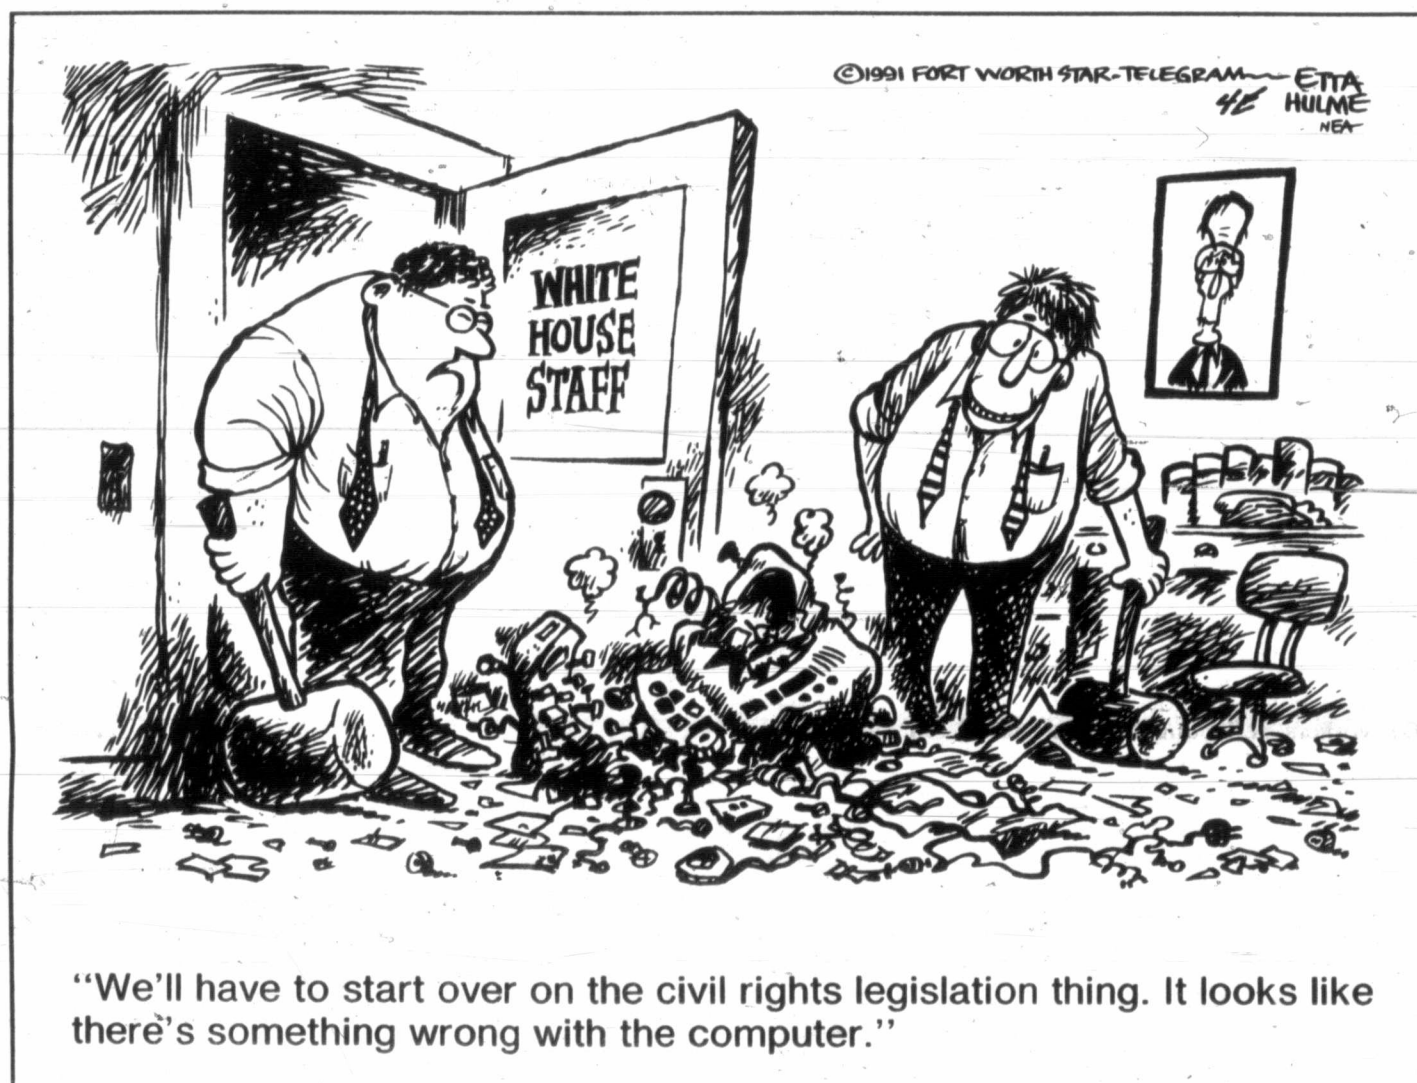

In 1916, Irish nationalist Padraic Pearse and two others were executed by the British for their roles in the Easter Rising.

In 1921, West Virginia imposed the first state sales tax.

In 1933, Nellie T. Ross became the first female director of the U.S. Mint.

In 1937, Margaret Mitchell won a Pulitzer Prize for her novel, Gone With the Wind.

In 1948, Pulitzer Prizes were awarded to playwright Tennessee Williams for A Streetcar Named Desire and to novelist James Michener for Tales of the South Pacific.

"We'll have to start over on the civil rights legislation thing. It looks like there's something wrong with the computer."

There's a new way to go now

A car race with no smelly fumes. A car race during which we spectators could smell only orange blossoms.

In Phoenix, Ariz., in mid-April two dozen cars circled the raceway, some at speeds exceeding 100 m.p.h. — yet, all of these cars were powered only by electricity and/or by sunlight.

I have driven an efficient electric car and you are next.

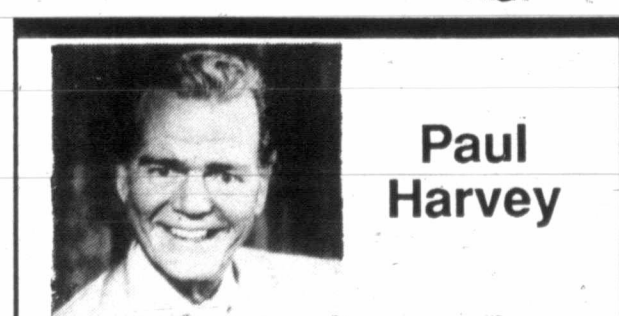

These are not just souped-up golf carts; these are handsome, streamlined, comfortable.

The concept is not new. Parking lots in Switzerland are equipped with outlets for reaching the computer cars of Swiss workers. We are that far behind.

Arizona, for all its sunlight, has only 13,000 electric vehicles — and most are fleet vehicles — because Arizona has no solar stations for consumer use. We are that far behind!

But nothing can hold back the evolution I witnessed at the Phoenix Raceway.

More efficient storage batteries represent the breakthrough technology for which the automotive world has been waiting.

Audit the advantages:

- Electric cars require no oil change, no antifreeze, no water pumps, carburetor, tune-up or smog test.

- It now costs 3 cents a mile to operate an electric car compared to 8 cents a mile for gas and oil.

- Electric vehicles reduce pollutant emission by 97 percent — and this includes the electric plants necessary to produce the electricity.

- Replace even 1 percent of our nation's cars and you'd reduce pollution by 160,000 tons a year!

This is the new "way to go."

General Motors is right now retooling a factory in Lansing, Mich., to mass-produce electric cars.

You will be able to buy the GM Impact for $15,000 to $25,000 within 24 months.

The Japanese are building a prototype air-conditioned electric car said to be capable of 112 m.p.h. and 350 miles on a single charge and they promise a public demonstration by September.

California gets credit for putting the spurs to this new technology with tough new laws requiring a percentage of zero-emission cars.

Already Solar-Electric of Santa Rosa, Calif., is converting five to 10 cars a month.

At the Phoenix Raceway we learned that the zinc-air is at present the best battery ...

That we have electric cars capable of highway speeds for hundreds of miles without recharging ... now!

And that we have batteries which can be recharged in 10 minutes ... now!

Our country is engaged in competition that it dares not lose.

To be young, black and forgotten

By CHUCK STONE

Reading about the Senate hearings on the endangered status of young black males in America, I realized that my son, Charlie, and I have beaten the odds twice. We haven't been brutalized by a police officer trained in the Daryl F. Gates method. And we have had reasonably successful careers.

My father, Charles Sr., didn't beat the odds. The first black man to graduate with honors from Springfield College, he later became a successful business executive before becoming a statistic embalmed in a perpetual alcoholic haze.

Statistics can do wonders. They alibi legislative impotence and provide a catharsis of satisfaction to senators. Listen to the litany if ills faced by males who are young, black and forgotten:

- Twice the unemployment rate of young white males.
- Triple the narcotics arrest rate for white males.
- Quadruple the chances of being murdered compared to white males.

"The crisis of black males has been one of the enduring facts in the history of America," Samuel L. Meyers, head of the University of Maryland's Afro-American Studies program, mournfully informed the senators. "Why an Afro-American male summit now?"

"Now" because two circumstances collided to lay bare the crisis: the horrible nationally televised beating by white cops of an unresisting black man, and the murder in Detroit of a black veteran of the Persian Gulf War.

At this point, I am constrained to recall the young black minister who was fire-and-brimstoning. As he checked off each deadly sin, members of the congregation counterpointed like a Greek chorus: "Preach, Reverend, preach."

The young minister then looked dolefully out at his congregation and thundered, "And now, I'm going to talk about the affairs of some of ya'll been having with each other." To which an elderly sister replied, "He done stopped preachin' and gone to meddlin'."

I am about to meddle.

It is easy to condemn the self-destructiveness of young black males or denounce the systematic violence of Los Angeles' white cops. But neither exists in a vacuum. Black men in this society grow up oppressed by the cumulative effects of racist insults and humiliations.

Most white people don't believe this. But in Beverly Hills, Washington, D.C., and my hometown, Hartford, I have been stopped by white policemen and asked, "What are you doing in this neighborhood?" In many cities, it's standard operating procedure for white cops to harass young black males.

The pattern is legitimized by a racial mindset that is fostered by eminently respectable opinion-molders such as George Will and Charles Krauthammer, both of whom subconsciously lump all black males together and futher ghettoize them.

Last July, for example, Will indicted only black male rap singers in 2 Live Crew and the accused rapists of the Central Park Jogger as the progenitors of what he called "America's slide into the sewer." It doesn't stretch credulity to suggest that it's just sort of "us vs. them" mindset that leads white cops to abuse black citizens.

That same month, Krauthammer denounced an array of black heroes such as Malcolm X, the Rev. George Stallings Jr. and the Rev. Benjamin Hooks as "black rejectionists." This wholesale nullification of black thinkers leaves young black males with entertainers, sports figures and dope dealers as their only role models.

Yet, I do not despair. The same passionate faith in America handed down by my father to me has been passed on to my son.

I still suffer from one syndrome. It's the congenital hope for a reciprocity of civility. And after 66 years, I am still dedicated to convincing young black males that their future can be as lovely as my past has been productive.

Major's local Conservatives trounced; early national elections unlikely now

By MAUREEN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — In a bruising electoral debut for Prime Minister John Major, opposition parties trounced his governing Conservatives in local elections, results indicated today.

The drubbing in the town halls of England and Wales during Thursday's election virtually ended speculation that Major, who succeeded Margaret Thatcher after she was ousted in November, will call a general election this summer. That would be a year before the government's five-year term expires.

Instead, the 47-year-old Major was expected to wait until the autumn in the hope that falling interest rates and the prospect of economic recovery will bring voters back to the party.

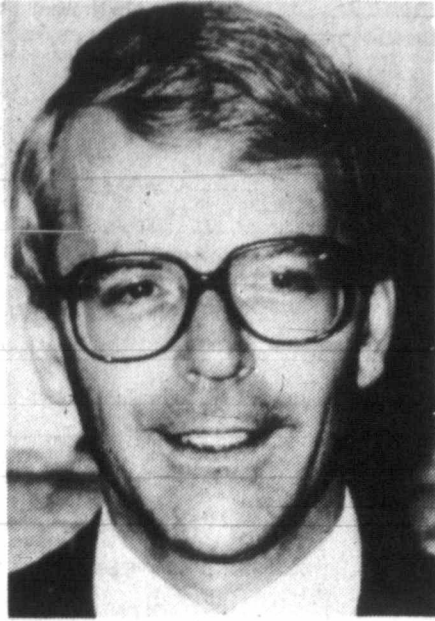

"The Tories will not want a general election now, but our country desperately needs one," declared John Cunningham, the main opposition Labor Party's campaign manager.

Cunningham told a news conference a similar showing for Labor in a general election "would propel (Labor leader) Neil Kinnock into Downing Street at the head of a majority Labor government."

The Labor Party rolled up votes in Conservative enclaves of northern and central England, while centrist Liberal Democrats inflicted major losses in the prosperous Tory heartlands of southern England.

Paddy Ashdown, leader of the Liberal Democrats, said on British Broadcasting Corp. television, "It's been a stunning night for us."

Tory chairman Chris Patten called his party's results "very disappointing."

John Major

"It was not our night," he told BBC radio.

With results declared in 330 of the 369 local councils at stake, a tally by Press Association, the British domestic news agency, showed the Tories lost a hefty 1,027 seats it previously held.

The party won 226 seats, making a net loss of 801 seats. Labor had a net gain of 447 seats and the Liberal Democrats 451.

Labor gained 17 new councils, giving the party control of a total of 127 councils.

The Tories lost more than 30 of their 119 councils and the Liberal Democrats won control of at least 17 councils. No party won overall control in dozens of others.

Patten acknowledged the Conservatives "had a very steep hill to climb."

But he recalled that last year, when Mrs. Thatcher was becoming increasingly unpopular and the recession took hold, the Tories were often 20 points behind in opinion polls.

"We have pulled back ... we are now on our way and better economic times are ahead," said Patten. Now, the Tories are on average in opinion polls just one point ahead of Labor.

Labor's most stunning gain was the southwest England port of Plymouth, Tory territory for 25 years. Labor also took Blackpool, a north England coastal resort, from the Tories, and won in Cardiff where no party had overall control previously.

Analysts noted, however, that the 6.5 percent swing to Labor since the councils were last contested in 1987 would have been insufficient to give any party an overall majority in Parliament, had the election been for lawmakers' seats.

But it would have been enough to rob the Tories, in power with huge majorities for nearly 13 years, of control of the government.

Rising unemployment and a continuing recession helped drain Tory votes. But there were also signs that Major was hurt by the so-called poll tax, an unpopular new government tax that he hastily abandoned after winning power.

"We gained control because of national politics," said Ivan Taylor, the new Labor head of the city of Blackpool.

Mrs. Thatcher called a general election in June 1987, a year early, after doing well in the council elections that year. But at the time she had been well ahead in opinion polls.

Bookmakers Ladbroke made Labor 4-5 favorites to win the next general election. The Conservatives are priced at evens, with the Liberal Democrats at 100-1. Other bookmakers had the Tories as favorites, but with lengthening odds.

U.S. unemployment falls to 6.6% in April

By KAREN BALL
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's jobless rate fell to 6.6 percent in April, an unexpected improvement that marked the first decline in unemployment in nearly a year, the government reported today.

The 0.2 percentage point decline in the civilian jobless rate, down from March's rate of 6.8 percent, was the first decrease in unemployment since last May, when the rate fell from 5.4 percent to 5.3 percent, the Labor Department said.

The number of unemployed Americans decreased by 300,000 in April, the agency said. However, the government noted that at 8.3 million, the ranks of the jobless still number more than 1.4 million higher than last July, when the current recession began.

Though unemployment fell in April, today's report also provided a bit of bleak economic news — U.S. businesses continued to cut jobs last month as non-farm payrolls fell by 125,000.

The number of unemployed and the job loss number can differ because they are derived from different surveys. In addition, the total number of the jobless can decrease because people quit looking for work and drop out of the labor force.

Today's report also said that while the number of people working in April grew, about half of the increase was in self-employment, which would not show up in the payroll survey that showed jobs falling by 125,000.

The 125,000-job loss for April was considerably less than the declines of the previous six months, the Labor Department said. It was also a much more moderate drop than analysts had been bracing for. Most private economists had been predicting that unemployment would shoot up as high as 7 percent in April and jobs would drop by as much as 200,000.

The decline in the unemployment rate to 6.6 percent in April followed steep increases of the previous two months. The jobless rate now stands 1.1 percentage point higher than last July.

The payroll numbers showed that about 40,000 of the jobs that were lost came in manufacturing, which has been in a tailspin for more than two years. However, that 40,000-loss was considerably less than the average of 115,000 in the previous five months, the Labor Department said.

The auto industry added nearly 15,000 workers, reflecting resumed production at some plants following inventory control shutdowns, the government said.

Construction employment was down by 20,000 in April, as hiring fell short of seasonal expectations for the second straight month, the Labor Department said. This industry has lost a half-million jobs since last May, the agency said.

The weakness hit service industries, too. Retail trade jobs fell by 40,000 in April, to bring losses in that sector to 220,000 over the past three months.

Health services, which has been about the only sector booming during the recession, added 40,000 jobs in April.

Labor costs, which are frequently blamed for worsening the nation's inflation problems, rose in April as hourly earnings rose to $10.29, a 0.5 percent increase over the $10.24 the average hourly worker earned in March. However, analysts noted that last month's hourly earnings figures included a jolt from the minimum wage increase on April 1, when the wage base went from $3.85 an hour to $4.25.

The average manufacturing work week rose slightly in April, up to 40.2 hours per week, rather than the 40.1 hours per week recorded in March. Manufacturing overtime increased slightly, too, inching up to 3.3 hours, rather than the 3.2 hours in March.

Buckle up - it's the law - and just plain sense

In The Church Of Your Choice

EMPTY BOWL

This little girl is holding a hollow, empty bowl. In the days when the Bible was being written, a bowl was also a large drinking cup, and many were the references to a cup full and running over, or a cup being empty, or the cup of God's wrath.

In speaking of the restoration of Israel, Zechariah prophesies, "The Lord of hosts shall defend them and they shall devour; and they shall drink, and make a noise as through wine; and they shall be filled like bowls and as the corners of the altar." Zech. 9:15.

He also promises, "In that day shall there be upon the bells of the horses, HOLINESS UNTO THE LORD; and the pots in the Lord's house shall be like the bowls before the altar."

And this day, if we follow Him, he promises that we will be filled like bowls with blessings and with His Spirit. We will also find that even a seemingly dry (and they never are, really) sermon heard in the house of the Lord, will bear fruit in us eventually, just as though it had been uttered from the very mouth of God in the Holiest of Holies.

We earnestly invite you to attend church this week. A blessing full and wonderful awaits the seeking soul!

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Christians, Jews back Kurds and Arab-Israeli peace

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Although they had disagreed about the war to get Iraq out of Kuwait, U.S. Jewish and mainline Christian leaders have joined in pressing for an Arab-Israeli accord and in aiding the harried Kurds.

As the religious groups hoisted a mounting stream of relief to the displaced Kurds, supplementing U.S. supplies, concerted backing came for renewed efforts for Arab-Israeli peace.

An unusual joint statement by leaders of the National Council of Churches and the Union of American Hebrew Congregations said they saw "new opportunities for peace in the region."

Although they had held "divergent opinions regarding the Persian Gulf crisis" — (mainline church leaders opposed the use of force and Jewish leaders supported it) — they said many issues "bind us together powerfully."

These, they said, include grief for the war's civilian deaths, the bereaved, the economic dislocations, the thousands made homeless. Both Christian and Jewish groups dispatched help in goods and funds.

Regarding a solution to the long, smoldering Mideast hostility in which most Arab countries have been in a state of declared war against Israel for 42 years, the Jewish-Christian appeal said:

"We pray that Israel's neighbors will recognize her legitimate right to exist within peaceful and internationally recognized borders, and enter into state-to-state negotiations under appropriate auspices."

"We pray that the Palestinian people will be able soon to enter into earnest negotiations for peace," that they "be afforded the opportunity to freely and responsibly choose their representatives" and "be assured of their full human rights."

U.S. Secretary of State James A. Baker III has been pressing for Arab-Israeli talks, making little headway so far.

The plight of the Kurds, whose origins reach back to biblical times, got growing assistance both from government and religious agencies.

Yet their ordeal intensified, with the United Nations estimating up to 800,000 refugees along the Iraq-Turkey border, and another million seeking asylum in Iran. Estimated deaths of refugees was doubled to 2,000 daily.

The history of the Kurds stretches back 4,000 years in a region once known as Mesopotamia. A close-knit, fervently independent tribal people, they possibly descended from the Medes of the Old Testament, whose empire fell in 550 B.C.

Darius, Median king of Persia in the time of the prophet Daniel, may have been a Kurd. At one time, many Kurds followed a Persian form of Zoroastrianism. Most now are Sunni Muslims, converted to Islam in the seventh century.

They lost control of their homeland, Kurdistan, when it was carved up after World War I among Turkey, northeastern Iraq and northwestern Iran (formerly Persia). Forces of Iraq's Saddam Hussein crushed the Kurds' latest struggle for independence, driving their families into the mountains to hunger and freezing temperatures.

An ancient Kurdish axiom goes, "The Kurds have no friends."

With camps now getting started for the refugees in northern Iraq, and Saddam's troops pulling back as U.N. forces moved into the area, religious and other private relief agencies augmented government efforts.

Church World Service, relief arm of the U.S. National Council of Churches, dispatched airlifts of blankets and heavy clothing, and also forwarded $300,000 in aid to the Middle East Council of Churches.

It is coordinating interchurch relief efforts in the border area, along with the Turkish Red Crescent.

The initial CWS airlifts of 46,800 woolen blankets, 7,800 baby blankets and 53,000 pounds of men's and women's heavy clothing went to a Turkish air base to be trucked into the border area.

CWS officials said European ecumenical groups also have sent tents, blankets, mattresses, health kits, high protein biscuits, plus personnel and vehicles to transport supplies to border camps.

WHITE SETTLEMENT (AP) — When the sun shines, the church's formerly plain walls are splashed with colorful images. And the Rev. Odell Snow is responsible.

Some can't believe it, but Snow, pastor of Terrace Acres Baptist Church, did the stained-glass windows himself — and with no experience.

"I bought some glass and did a small stained-glass picture to see if I could do it," Snow said. "It looked pretty good for an amateur, so I went ahead with the windows."

Now he has done eight, each containing 300 to 325 pieces of glass precisely cut and leaded into place.

A recent visitor thought Snow was joking when he told her the windows were his work. "Who really did them?" he said the woman asked.

The windows are of the birth of Jesus; his baptism; Jesus knocking at a door; Jesus as the Good Shepherd; Jesus praying at Gethsemane; symbols of the Lord's supper; Christ bearing his cross; and his ascension.

Snow said one of his biggest thrills came when he first saw the effect of the sun shining through the first stained-glass window installed in the sanctuary.

"A certain way the light was shining through the red glass, it looked like a thousand sparkling diamonds," he said.

No paint was used on the windows. The faces and folds of the garments are done with different shades of stained glass.

"I love them," said church member Yvonne Loter. "We've watched the windows go up one by one. The first window was of Jesus as the Good Shepherd. It's always been my favorite."

The windows, each 62 inches long and 52 inches wide and costing $200, were paid for by donations.

Windows are dedicated to original members of the church, which was founded in 1947. Two more windows are being completed for the front of the church, covering all majors windows of the sanctuary with stained glass.

Snow, 53, designed the windows and cut the glass for the first one, which took more than a month to complete. Now, with the help of volunteers, he can finish a window in about a week.

Archie Renneburg, 57, is one of Snow's assistants.

"He has a real skill in cutting," Snow said. "He does it in half the time it takes me."

Renneburg is a retired tile mason who helped do the large colorful tile mosaics on several store buildings for Sanger-Harris, now Foley's.

Religion roundup

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish leaders joined in the recent dedication of the newly built Camp David Chapel at the presidential retreat in Maryland.

Constructed with private funds from Jews and Christians, the chapel is designed for use by all faiths as well as a place of worship and study for the president, his family, official guests and camp personnel.

The project was led by Kenneth H. Plummer, a United Methodist layman of Chambersburg, Pa.

GENEVA (AP) — A report of a commission of the World Council of Churches says that over half of the world's 15 million refugees are children.

CLEVELAND (AP) — A recent broad survey of religious affiliation in the United States left out a founding American church, the spiritual heirs of early pilgrims, the Puritans.

A confusion of names apparently caused it.

"To make such an error is shocking," said Beverly Chain, communication director of the 1.6 million-member United Church of Christ, a 1957 merger including Congregationalists who originated with the pilgrims.

Death toll nearing 100,000 in Bangladesh, officials say

By FARID HOSSAIN
Associated Press Writer

DHAKA, Bangladesh (AP) — The death toll from a disastrous cyclone rose today to nearly 100,000, relief officials said, and special prayers of mourning were said as thousands of bodies washed ashore.

The first foreign flights began arriving with aid for millions of people whose homes were destroyed in Tuesday's storm, which ravaged the southeast coast with 145 mph winds and floods.

The United States, Japan and European nations quickly pledged millions of dollars in aid in response to the government's appeals for assistance, but the money was far short of the aid Bangladesh said was needed.

Officials of the Red Crescent Society relief organization said today their casualty figure was 99,256, making it the Bay of Bengal's second deadliest storm this century. A 1970 cyclone in the same area claimed 500,000 lives.

The officials said 55,000 of the latest deaths were in the district around the east coast port city of Chittagong and 29,000 people died in the southern district of Cox's Bazaar near the Burmese border.

Hishamuddin Ahmed, a Relief Ministry official, said the government death toll had more than doubled since Thursday, when it was set at more than 37,000. He could not give a precise figure or breakdown of the deaths in each district.

Muslims today said special prayers of mourning in mosques nationwide for the storm victims, and Prime Minister Khaleda Zia declared Saturday a national day of mourning.

The storm raised 20-foot waves along the southeastern coast of Bangladesh and flooded scores of low-lying islands. Tens of thousands were missing.

Luftar Rahman Khan, the relief minister, said at least 10 million people out of the country of 110 million lived in the region hit by the storm. At least 90 percent of them lost their homes, and many sought refuge in relief camps where water and food were scarce, he said.

Bangladeshi officials were struggling to supply food, water, clothing and medicines to the millions of survivors.

Pope John Paul II today urged a "generous and effective" international relief effort for victims of the disastrous cyclone in Bangladesh.

Emergency aid promised as of today totaled $18.2 million, said Hashamul Shamsul Huda, director of the Association of Development Agencies in Bangladesh. The association is an umbrella group of Bangladesh relief agencies.

A Saudi Arabian C-130 cargo plane carrying tents and blankets arrived late Thursday, and another flew in today.

Relief operations were hampered by a shortage of helicopters and speedboats able to reach remote areas. The government has asked for 20 helicopters from the United States to reinforce Bangladesh's 12 overburdened choppers.

Mrs. Zia, who took office six weeks ago, said at least $56 million was needed for immediate relief. The government's preliminary damage estimate was $1.42 billion.

Relief officials have not been able to reach at least half the 65 islands affected by the storm, the government said.

Waterborne diseases and starvation also threatened to raise the death toll by thousands. National newspapers said today that the toll may reach 300,000.

"Many more people are likely to die if food and water is not rushed to the affected areas," the government-owned newspaper Dainik Bangla newspaper said today.

The areas hit by the cyclone were already ravaged by an epidemic of gastroenteritis that killed about 1,000 people and affected more than 80,000 in the past month.

Sandwip, an island near the port city of Chittagong with 300,000 residents, took the full force of the storm and was completely submerged under sea water.

"We have unofficial information from Sandwip that the death toll in that island alone reached 20,000," said Hossain of the Red Crescent.

Relief workers and journalists who visited the region said thousands of bodies of men, women and children were being brought in by the tides. Survivors searched for missing relatives among corpses washed up on beaches.

Americans, though financially pressed, continue to give to disaster relief

By MARIANN CAPRINO
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite rising unemployment, dwindling savings and other signs of a stubborn recession, Americans are showing generosity to disaster victims overseas.

"People are feeling pinched," said Hope Rosenberg, spokeswoman for CARE. "But it seems it's when they are feeling pinched that they understand a little better what it means to be in need. They dig a little deeper."

At the same time, however, relief experts say an inordinately large number of disasters compete for attention, spreading America's charitable donations thinner. The relief community "is strapped right now," said Ann Stingle, an American Red Cross spokeswoman.

In the last two weeks, earthquakes ravaged Costa Rica, Panama and Soviet Georgia, and a cyclone killed tens of thousands in Bangladesh. The war in Iraq left thousands of Kurdish refugees and famine is worsening in Africa.

"I don't remember there being a time when there were so many things afoot at once," said Steve Norman of AmeriCares, a private relief organization in New Canaan, Conn.

The fear is that Americans will develop what relief experts call "compassion fatigue," in which donors get overwhelmed by pleas for help, become paralyzed and stop giving.

For now, the overall level of giving is up, said Barry Nickelsberg, executive director of The Funding Center in Alexandria, Va. "What's happening is there is a broader base — more people giving smaller contributions."

So far millions of dollars have been raised for Kurdish refugees. AmeriCare has airlifted about $6 million in food and medicine to refugee camps and CARE has raised more than $400,000 for the Kurds. Most people in the relief community cite television's ability to transmit powerful images that drive people to dig into their wallets.

But when those images fade, so do the donations. Nickelsberg says he "doesn't agree with it," but he thinks Americans sympathize more with Kurds than other groups because Kurds are "round-eyed ... good-looking people. They wear Rolexes, they are professionals. They have two cars in their garages."

Aid to Bangladesh is just beginning to trickle in as Americans see reports from the cyclone-torn country. But many other spots of chronic suffering have failed to evoke national sympathy.

A cholera epidemic in Peru has spread; cancer rates rise in Chernobyl; drought and famine in Africa are reaching new heights of devastation.

But Nickelsberg predicted these crises will fail to attract much money, particularly in Bangladesh and Africa, where the people simply "don't look like us."

Interest in Africa has waned considerably even though famine persists. Today, with starvation in Ethiopia and Sudan worsening, world attention is turned elsewhere.

"It's been very hard to get attention focused on Africa recently," said Lisa Mullins, an officer of Interaction, an umbrella group for 130 relief organizations.

The relief organization Africare expects to raise less than $9 million this year, about $3 million less than in 1990, The Chronicle of Philanthropy reported.

"Until the film crews come back from Africa with those graphic images of the dying, of starving skin-and-bones babies," Mullins said, "we won't be able to mobilize the resources necessary to save those potentially hundreds of thousands of lives."

Secret documents taken during fire at U.S. embassy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The losses from the fire at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow five weeks ago are greater than initially thought, as the State Department says some Soviet firefighters walked off with U.S. government secrets.

A preliminary inspection showed that computer disks with classified information were stolen as well as items from open safes that were abandoned in the chaos that occurred after the fire erupted, officials said Thursday.

State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler indicated that no highly sensitive material was purloined.

U.S. Ambassador John Matlock "has strongly protested efforts to misuse this tragic event," she said. "It is a shame that the real courage shown by some Soviet firefighters in battling this serious blaze has been blemished by such actions."

The spokeswoman denied reports that coding devices were taken from the building.

The March 28 fire in the embassy's main building damaged the central section of the top floors. The blaze is believed to have started in a section of the embassy where American welders were working with torches.

Ms. Tutwiler gave this account of what happened after the fire broke out at 10:15 a.m.:

Soviet firemen rushed to the scene and had unescorted access to the embassy for a time. Embassy Marine guards were issued respirators and assigned to escort firemen in the building.

After about 30 minutes, the Marines were forced to withdraw because the respirators were depleted and the heat and heavy smoke posed a serious health risk.

Sometimes minister's reward should be given on earth

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a minister who has performed many weddings over the years. Some couples have been generous. Others have not. Other than the few times he has received absolutely no compensation, the following incident is the worst slap in the face I can remember:

The couple were in their 40s and it was a second marriage for both of them. Both were well-paid professionals. My husband met with them for counseling and he helped them plan their wedding. The bride did not like the traditional marital vows, so she asked my husband to rewrite them. He did, and she seemed very pleased.

The wedding was beautiful. They paid the organist, vocalist, florist and caterer. Immediately following the ceremony, they presented my husband with a check for $10 — made out to the church! (At least my husband has never received a stuffed owl as one of his colleagues did!).

Even after many disappointments, my husband still refuses to "set a price" for performing a marriage ceremony.

Your opinion, please.

PREACHER'S WIFE
IN GEORGIA

DEAR WIFE: I think a clergyman, on being asked to officiate at any kind of ceremony, should state his or her fee. This would eliminate the awkwardness of asking, "How much do you charge?" Some well-paid ministers of prosperous churches do not accept fees for services — but most are overworked and underpaid and would welcome a generous check.

DEAR ABBY: Forty years ago, when I married my wife, she had a 22-inch waist. Now it's about 39 inches. She's 30 pounds overweight, smokes like a diesel truck and wears sloppy, ugly sweats.

I have absolutely no desire to make love to her. I roam the malls, lusting after the slender maidens in tight jeans. I haven't fallen yet, but fear it's only a matter of time and opportunity.

What's a slim, attractive, successful, moral, virile, sensuous grandpa to do?

A LUSTING GUY IN INDY

DEAR LUSTING: Obviously, your wife has let herself go, but if you were a quality man and truly loved her, you would have made every effort to try to rehabilitate her instead of using her sloppiness and bad habits as excuses for lusting after more attractive women.

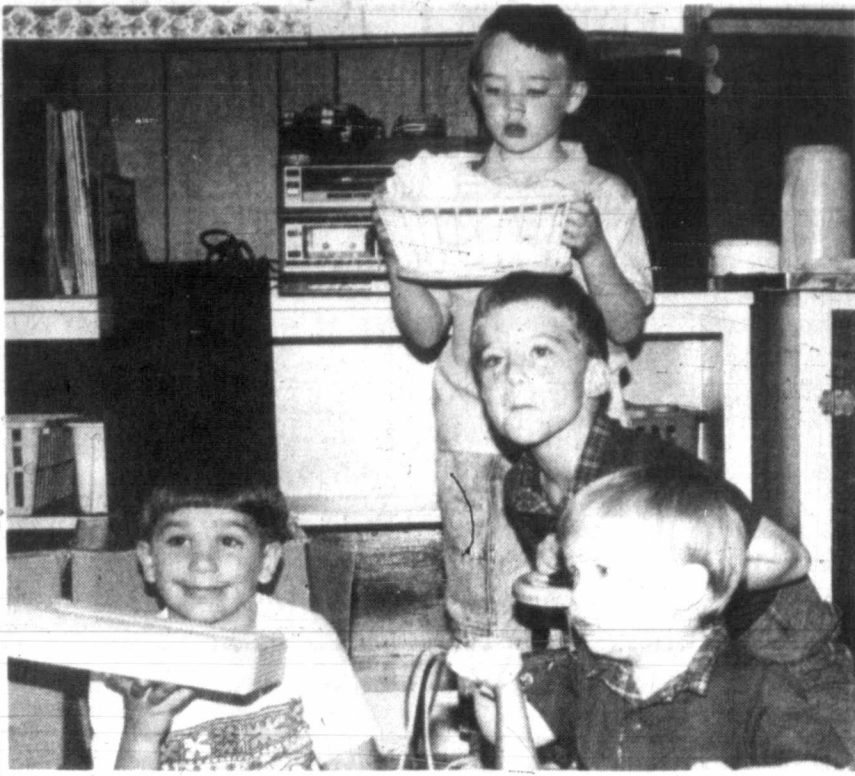

You may be a slim, attractive, successful, virile and sensuous grandfather — but no moral man roams the mall lusting after slender maidens in tight jeans."

CONFIDENTIAL TO MARGO HOWARD: Happy birthday, Granny!

"AUNT PO"

What teen-agers need to know about sex, drugs, AIDS, and getting along with their peers and parents is now in Abby's updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. ### Tucumcari angler defied all the odds

Some dream of winning a spot on the USA Olympics team, racing in the Indy 500, or playing in the World Series. Bass fishermen dream of fishing in the B.A.S.S. Classic. Sure, it's only a dream, because out of several million fishermen, only five 'club' fishermen are selected to compete against the best professional anglers.

Sometimes dreams do come true. Ask MICKEY TROUSDALE of TUCUMCARI. He has defied all the odds and earned an all-expense-paid trip to the 1991 Classic. This dedicated angler has become a legend by winning tournaments on Ute, Conchas and Elephant Butte in a borrowed bass boat, his uncle's rig.

Mickey, who works for the Ford dealership in Tucumcari, is a frequent guest on Southwest Outdoors, my weekly Wednesday evening Talk Radio show on KGNC. He has been our expert on New Mexico lakes and now will be the expert on B.A.S.S.

Win or lose, Mickey Trousdale is a class act, and I can't wait to see him on TV as proof that dreams can come true. Good luck Mickey!

Some lucky person will win a fishing boat during the WEST TEXAS SPORTSMAN'S SHOW at the Fairgrounds in LUBBOCK on May 10, 11, 12. Jim Martin of MARTIN MARINE in Levelland has donated a 14 foot aluminum fishing boat and any one who drops by his display can register. I will draw the name of the lucky winner on Sunday - Mother's Day.

During this outstanding three day sportsman show, enjoy free fishing seminars by bass experts like former Dallas Cowboy RANDY WHITE, DR. LOREN HILL, and TED MILLER. Learn more about trout fishing by attending seminars by TI PIPPER, the author of Fishing New Mexico.

The WEST TEXAS SPORTSMAN SHOW will display the newest in boats from all the boat dealers on the South Plains. See the full line of display of the newest Recreation Vehicles, from the practical fold downs to the magnificent motorhomes. Visit the three casting tanks for seminars and hands-on demonstrations of the newest fishing tackle. Don't miss the INDOOR ARCHERY RANGE or the GUN SHOW.

The cost all this great sportsman's entertainment is only $3.50 for adults, $1.50 for kids.

SPECIAL DEAL FOR MY READERS—Present this copy of my column and save $1.00 off the cost of an adult ticket. Limit one per adult, please. Stop by and visit our SOUTHWEST OUTDOORS booth.

Hawks down Pistons to even series at 2-2

By ED SHEARER
AP Sports Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — It wasn't what the Detroit Pistons expected. "We wanted to avoid Game 5," Detroit's James Edwards said Thursday night after the Atlanta Hawks posted a 123-111 victory that evened the best-of-5 first-round series 2-2.

That forced a decisive game the Pistons must win to keep alive their bid for a third consecutive NBA championship. "Anything can happen in one night," Edwards said. "Now we have to take care of business at home."

The series moves back to The Palace in Auburn Hills, Mich., on Sunday, with the winner advancing to a best-of-7 second-round series against the winner of the Indiana-Boston series. Boston lead 2-1.

The Pistons had erased a 17-point first-half deficit Tuesday night in the third game. They overcame a 13-point first-quarter deficit to lead Thursday night, but couldn't stop 33-year-old Sidney Moncrief down the stretch.

Moncrief scored 12 of his 23 points in the final five minutes and Glenn Rivers scored 34 as the Hawks posted the second highest total on the Pistons this season, bettered only by Indiana's 125-107 victory April 14.

"We played decent, but Atlanta decided to play," Detroit's Dennis Rodman said. "They just killed us on the offensive boards."

"It was unreal. They took over the game. I didn't think they could do that."

"I was worried after the last game that we were going to say that we can't beat them," Atlanta coach Bob Weiss said. "But we were able to come in with a positive frame of mind."

"We almost won strictly on our passing game tonight."

And, he could have added, at the free-throw line.

The Hawks hit 44 of 51 free throws, Detroit only 14 of 22. The Hawks also had a 51-42 edge in rebounding.

Dominique Wilkins added 24 points for the Hawks, who took the lead for good with 59 seconds left in the third quarter when John Battle hit one of two free throws to break an 80-80 tie.

Vinnie Johnson scored 26 points to lead the Pistons, who got 19 each from Edwards and Joe Dumars and 18 from Mark Aguirre.

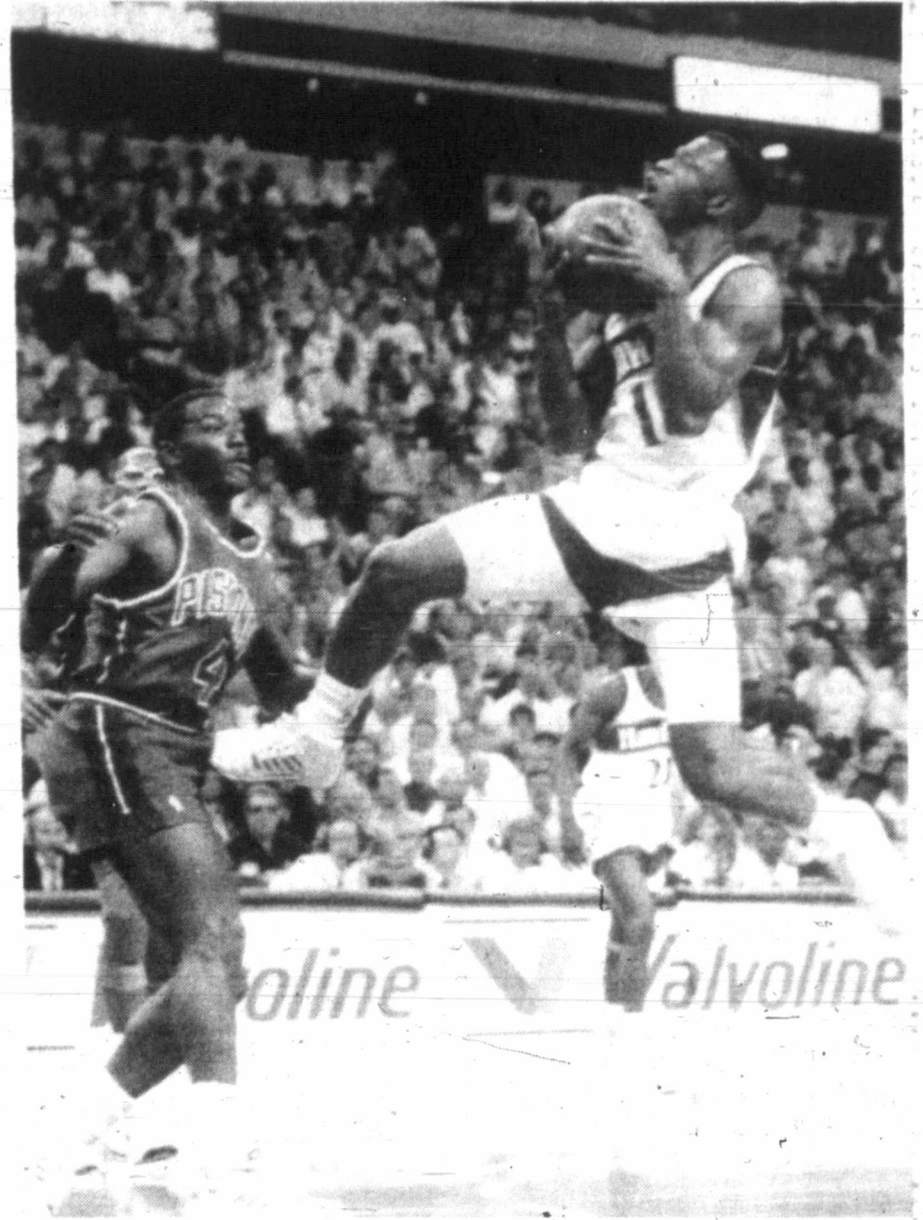

"It's a tribute to our ballclub, we didn't give up," said Moncrief, who came out of a one-year retirement to see if he still could play in the NBA. "We played a good team well."

"When I woke up this morning, I felt energized. I felt confident."

Moncrief made eight of 11 shots, all six free throws, grabbed four rebounds and also had two steals in providing a spark off the bench.

Rivers scored 13 points in the first quarter. He hit 14 of 19 shots and also had nine rebounds and four assists.

"In the other games, I was laid back," Rivers said. "I felt I needed to assert myself."

The Hawks' John Battle goes to the basket against the Pistons' Joe Dumars.

Farina receives outstanding senior scholar-athlete award

Joel Farina, Pampa, has been honored as an outstanding senior scholar-athlete from the 18 NAIA colleges and universities in District 16 (Missouri).

Farina, who plays football at Evangel College in Springfield, Missouri, was first-team all-conference in 1990, first-team all-district 16 and second-team all-conference in 1989.

Farina, a 6-2, 210-pound senior, was also honored as an NAIA Division II All-American Scholarship Athlete and the College Football Preview National Scholar-Athlete.

Farina was a four-year letter winner at Evangel College. He is a management major and carries a 3.68 grade point average.

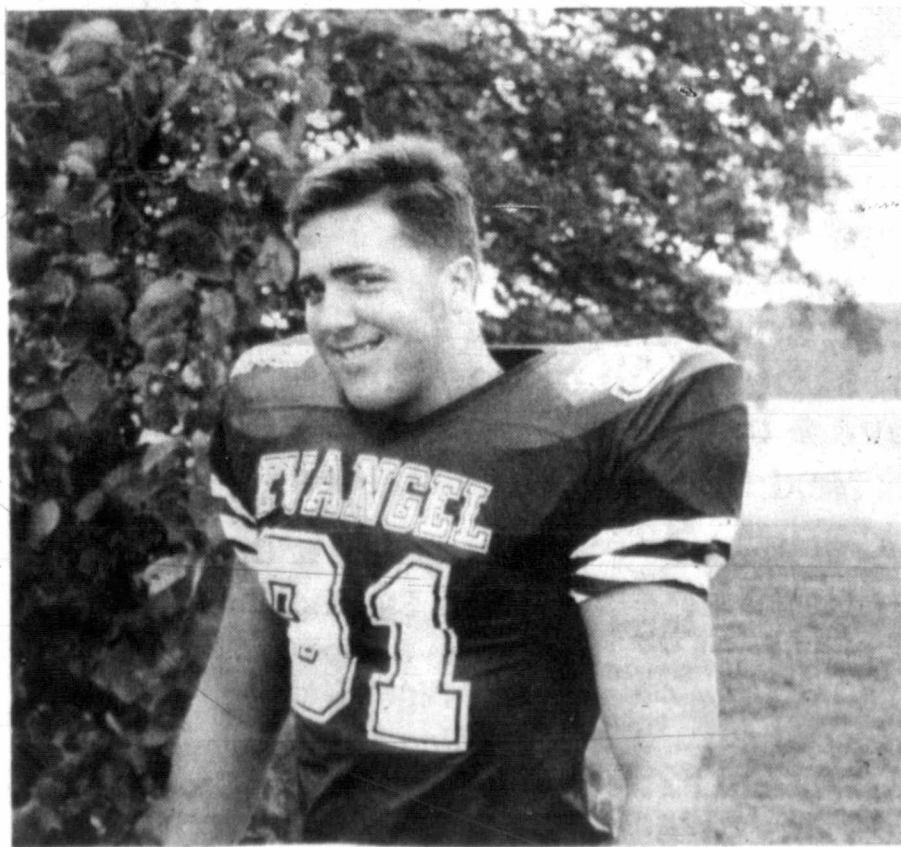

The senior scholar-athlete program was started this year by the NAIA and the Kansas City Life Insurance Company. To be eligible for the program, a student must have a minimum 3.25 GPA on a 4.0 scale and had to have excelled in athletics.

A luncheon was held earlier this month at the Kansas City Club in downtown Kansas City, Mo. to honor the recipients.

Farina was presented with an engraved medallion and Evangel College received a $500 contribution to the general scholarship fund in his honor.

"Our definition of excellence in collegiate athletics goes far beyond the performance in a specific sport," said W.E. Bixby, president and vice-chairman of the board of Kansas City Life Insurance Company. "We want to emphasize to athletes the importance of their educational pursuits."

PROPERTY TAX PROTEST AND APPEAL PROCEDURES

(Information Provided to the Taxpayer by Gray County Appraisal District at 815 N. Sumner, Pampa, Texas (806) 665-0791)

The law gives property owners the right to protest actions concerning their property tax appraisals. You may follow these procedures if you have a concern about:

- * the value placed on your property;
- * exemptions that may apply to you;
- * cancellation of agricultural appraisal;
- * whether your property is taxable;
- * which local governments should be taxing your property; or
- * you think the appraisal district has done something else that adversely affected you.

INFORMAL REVIEW: It is requested that if a taxpayer has any of the concerns listed above that he or she should come by the appraisal district office at 815 N. Sumner, Pampa, Tx 79065, or call 665-0791 and ask to speak to an appraiser concerning your property value, etc.

REVIEW BY THE APPRAISAL REVIEW BOARD: If you can't resolve your problem informally with the appraisal district staff, you may have your case heard by the appraisal review board.

The appraisal review board (ARB) is an independent board of citizens that reviews problems with the appraisals and other concerns listed above. They have the power to order the appraisal district to make the necessary changes to solve problems. If you file a written request for an ARB hearing (called a notice of protest) before the deadline, the ARB will set your case for a hearing. You'll receive written notification of the time, date, and place of the hearing. The hearing will be informal. You and the appraisal district representative will be asked to present evidence about your case. The ARB will make its decision based on the evidence presented. You can get a copy of a protest form from the appraisal district office at 815 N. Sumner, Pampa, Tx 79065.

NOTE: You shouldn't try to contact ARB members outside of the hearing. The law requires you to sign an affidavit saying that you haven't done so before the ARB hears your case.

REVIEW BY THE DISTRICT COURT: After it decides your case, the ARB must send you a copy of its order by certified mail. If you're not satisfied with the decision you have the right to appeal to district court. If you choose to go to court, you must start the process by filing a petition within 45 days of the date you receive the ARB's order.

If the appraisal district has appraised your property at $1,000,000 or more, you must file a notice of appeal with the chief appraiser within 15 days of the date you receive the ARB's order.

MORE INFORMATION: You can get more information by contacting your appraisal district at the Gray County Appraisal District, 815 N. Sumner, Pampa, Tx 79065, (806) 665-0791. You can also get a pamphlet describing how to prepare a protest from the appraisal district or from the State Property Tax Board, 4301 Westbank Drive, Building B, Suite 100, Austin, Tx 78746.

Deadline for filing protests with the ARB

(the deadline is postponed to the next business day if it falls on a weekend or holiday)

Usual deadline: On or before May 31 (or 30 days after a notice of appraised value was mailed to you, whichever is later).

Late protests (if you miss the usual deadline for good cause. Good cause is some reason beyond your control, like a medical emergency. The ARB decides whether you have good cause.) Before the day the appraisal review board approves records for the year. Contact the appraisal district for more information.

Special deadlines:

Change of use (if the appraisal district has informed you that you are losing agricultural appraisal because you changed the use of your land) Before the 30th day after the notice of the determination was mailed to you.

ARB changes (if the ARB has informed you of a change that increases your tax liability and the change didn't result from a protest you filed) Before the 10th day after the notice of the determination was mailed to you.

If you believe the appraisal district or ARB should have sent you a notice and did not, you may file a protest until the day before taxes become delinquent (usually February 1). The ARB decides whether it will hear your case based on evidence about whether a required notice was mailed to you.

Alaska House rejects Exxon oil-spill settlement of $900 million

By BRIAN S. AKRE
Associated Press Writer

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — The Alaska House rejected a deal that would let Exxon Corp. pay $900 million over 11 years to settle the nation's worst oil spill, proposing instead that the company pay $1.2 billion up front.

Gov. Walter J. Hickel isn't bound by the vote, but he has said he would terminate the settlement if the Legislature didn't approve it.

The action late Thursday came one week after a federal judge tossed out the settlement's criminal plea bargain. He said its $100 million fine for Exxon was inadequate punishment for the Exxon Valdez spill.

After more than five hours of debate, the House voted 27-13 to reject the pact agreed to by Exxon, the federal government and other state officials. All 23 Democrats and four of 17 Republicans voted to kill the settlement.

The Senate is to take up the settlement at a future date. But the House appeared unlikely to reverse itself even if the Senate votes in favor.

The House proposed that Exxon pay $700 million within one year — rather than $900 million over 11 years — plus a $500 million criminal fine.

Hickel's spokesman Eric Rehmann said the governor wouldn't comment until after the Senate acts and the House has a chance to reconsider its vote.

Exxon spokesman Joe Tucker in Anchorage said the company would have no immediate comment.

Nearly 11 million gallons of crude oil gushed from the tanker Exxon Valdez after it ran aground on a charted reef in Prince William Sound on March 24, 1989. The disaster killed countless fish, birds and marine mammals. It also disrupted commercial fishing and the lifestyle of native Alaskan fishing villages.

Rep. Terry Martin, a Republican, said the spill was an accident and that too many people wrongly want to see Exxon crippled.

"No oil company is out to deliberately destroy the land," he said.

But Democratic Rep. Niilo Koponen said Exxon contributed to the spill by cutting back on its tanker safety standards.

"This was not a pure act of God, a pure accident," Koponen said. "This spill was waiting to happen."

The settlement would have been the largest involving an environmental damage case in U.S. history.

In addition to the criminal fine, it would have required Exxon to pay $900 million to restore natural resources damaged in Prince William Sound and the Gulf of Alaska. It also would have settled all state civil claims against Exxon and any claims the federal government might have brought.

Because the money would have been paid over 11 years, its real value after inflation would have been far less. An analysis done for The Associated Press showed an annuity for that amount could cost Exxon as little as $486.3 million.

After the agreement was announced in March, Exxon Chairman Lawrence Rawl said it "looks pretty good to us" and would not significantly affect the company's earnings.

Exxon's sales totaled more than $107 billion last year and it reported earnings of more than $5.1 billion. The company already has paid about $2.5 billion to clean up the spill.

Lawmakers recalled Rawl's comment Thursday.

"How arrogant," said Rep. Gene Kubina, a Democrat who represents the spill-affected town of Valdez. "He should be ashamed of himself. He should be replaced and sent to jail."

Lawmakers also complained the settlement would give too much authority to the federal government and wouldn't protect the fishermen who depend on the region's natural resources. Many objected that Exxon and government studies of the spill's effects have been kept secret, and said the agreement could violate the state constitution by dedicating future revenues.

The parties now may try to renegotiate the settlement or go to trial.

Rep. Max Gruenberg, an

Anchorage Democrat, said he was confident Exxon would renegotiate. The company does not want to face an Alaska jury and a potentially huge judgment, he said.

Under the criminal portion of the settlement, Exxon pleaded guilty to four misdemeanor pollution charges and several felonies were dismissed. The record $100 million environmental fine would have been split between the state and federal governments.

U.S. District Judge H. Russell Holland in Anchorage threw out the criminal fine April 24, saying it did not provide enough deterrence. It suggested that "spills are a cost of business that can be absorbed," he said.
