Former Gray County Sheriff Rufe Jordan dies

By DEE DEE LARAMORE News Editor

My husband called and gave me the news Tuesday evening. I couldn't believe it. I called the funeral home to confirm what I had heard.

"Is it true?" I asked Doug Carmichael.

"Yes, it's true," he answered, sadness tinging his words.

I didn't have to say anymore. Neither did he. Rufe Jordan, sheriff of Gray County for 38 years, died in his sleep Tuesday, June 18, 1991. Always a man who was bigger than life, who somehow had become a legend even while still in office, Jordan had received what the song writer had acclaimed as "the most you could hope for." Jordan's lengthy obituary, on Page 2, details a full life and a strong commitment to this community and to law enforcement that encompassed almost four

But this only describes a part of Rufe Jordan.

Well over six feet tall, and many times weighing more than 300 pounds, he was a commanding presence wherever he went. His voice, which defies description but was something like a bullfrog in a gravel pit, carried across the room, turning the few heads that had somehow missed his entrance.

As a newspaper reporter, I had often had occasion to come in contact with Rufe. Many times, I would go to his office to check on a news story and would end up sitting there for as much as three hours, listening to marvelous tales of Pampa's past. When he finished, he would apologize profusely for taking up my time with what he thought were an old man's silly ramblings. I never begrudged one moment of that time. I knew I was witnessing the end of an era and considered myself quite fortunate, indeed.

His memory of names and places could hardly be matched. The first time I saw Rufe Jordan was in the he called his deputies in and told them in no uncertain Pampa Post Office where I watched in amazement as he greeted what seemed to be 20 people by name, asking about their families – also by name.

In a position that could not help but inspire enmity, Jordan managed to command respect - not only from the people he worked with, but also from the people he arrested.

The legends abounded about Jordan – about a leadweighted glove, about the sheriff's office elevator, about anyone who might want to run against him for

I would ask him about those legends and he'd lean back in his oak office chair, his Irish blue eyes dancing with devilment. He never gave me a straight answer.

Once Jordan did say that if his deputies should be attacked by a prisoner that he would allow them whatever force was necessary to defend themselves. Jordan allowed the rumors to remain because they served his purpose as an intimidating factor, I believe. kept in his old green Ford, if he felt such a thing was Usually, he could round up a suspect with a telephone call. Just like he knew the names of all those people in the post office, he also had an uncanny way of knowing where the county's criminals abided.

wouldn't come in with just a phone call, Jordan once can't imagine.

Friends, officials recall memories of the legendary Sheriff Jordan

"When he went in as sheriff, I went in as court reporter and we've been friends ever since," Baker said today. "He only had about three deputies then," he recalled.

Jordan lived on the fourth floor of the courthouse, where he had an apartment next to the county jail. There are many stories of Jordan and of how he operated his office. Baker remembers one of those stories and related it this morning. The sheriff had a little poodle named Honey that went everywhere with him. A couple of transients had come through the county and the man had gotten himself arrested on some sort of misdemeanor charge men worked across the hall from and was thrown in the county jail.

Baker said the woman who had courthouse. been traveling with the man kept trying to get her boyfriend out of jail and she begged the sheriff, who kept telling her the man would not be released that evening. He told her that the boyfriend would have to be arraigned the next day and would be kept in jail until that time.

Baker said the woman kept say ing she'd "do anything" to get her boyfriend out of jail, but Jordan stubbornly told her it just was not going to happen.

Getting ready to go up to his apartment, and tired of listening to the woman, Jordan said in the woman's presence, "Well, let's go to bed, Honey.

The woman, thinking the sheriff was talking to her said, "Well, if that's what it takes.'

To which Jordan replied, "Little Lady, I wasn't talking to you, I was talking to my dog.

County Auditor A.C. Malone, who went into office in 1973, said he and Jordan were good friends and attended Lions Club together. Malone also served as a pallbearer at Mrs. Jordan's funeral in 1983. "We've had a lot of good visits through the years," Malone said. "I'd take a lot of my troubles to him. He's been a real good personal friend all of these years. I've always felt real close to Rufe and I have good memories of him.

Malone said Jordan was one of the members of the "courthouse family" and he would really miss him.

Jack Back, who served as Gray County tax assessor/collector for 51 years, said Jordan made "a good sheriff and a good man." The two each other for many years in the

Jordan

Jack Back, who served as Gray County tax assessor/collector for 51 years, said Jordan made "a good sheriff and a good man." The two men worked across the hall from each other for many years in the courthouse.

Former 223rd District Judge Don Cain said of Jordan: "I think Rufe Jordan was one of the most outstanding sheriffs in the state of Texas. As county attorney a number of years ago, I worked closely with the sheriff on a number of cases. As county judge and district judge I continued that relationship. He's a man of his word, a man of his bond, he's honest and hard-working. He was just a great man."

District Attorney Harold Comer said that next to his own father, he respected Jordan more than any other man.

'Rufe considered the people of Gray County as part of his family," Comer said. "He cared about us. He cried when we cried. He laughed when we laughed. He was always there to extend a hand of friendship if we needed advice. He was also quick to use his authority if he felt we were abusing each other."

The district attorney said that anyone who knew Jordan knew how he would react to any crime against his Gray County family. He said the former sheriff had a special interest in the young people of the county and if there was any way possible, he would save them from having a criminal record by sending them home or by just talking to them. He said Jordan is a part of history and a part of "each of us who knew and respected him."

County Clerk Wanda Carter said this morning, "I have 38 years of memories. He was here when I got here. There are so many stories that could be told about him. He took care of so many things before a problem occurred. He looked after the courthouse family. A lot of people cared for him.'

Former 31st District Judge Grainger McIlhany said Jordan was an old friend. "I've known him back when I was in the Legislature. Rufe has had all sorts of honors from peace officers. He had a great career."

'He had his own way of doing things, but it worked.

He was the best law enforcement officer I ever knew. He had friends all over the state.'

Ken Kieth

McIlhany said he can remember being surprised many times by Jordan's ability to catch criminals. "He had the ability to get any kind of small lead and keep following the case until he got it together. He produced several peace officers."

Doug Davis, a deputy under Jor- missed."

dan for 12 years, said he remembers most Jordan's kindness toward all people and his dedication to Gray County. "He's got a hundred and one million qualities," Davis said.

Herman Kieth, former Precinct 2 constable of the county, said he had known Jordan for 30 years. "He's the best lawman I ever saw and I think the world of him. What I liked best about him was the way he handled children. He could tell them to do something and could get their attention pretty quit."

Kieth's son, Ken Kieth, worked for Jordan for about 16 years and in the later years of Jordan's reign was his chief deputy. "Kenneth worshipped that guy. He treated him just like his son," Herman Kieth

Ken Kieth said this morning, "It was a big shock to me. I talked to him about 8 p.m. Monday night and it seemed like he was doing fine.

Hutchison says state income tax is not a good idea for budget ills

By MICHAEL HOLMES Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) - Treasurer Kay Bailey Hutchison, arguing that state government will have enough money over the next two years if it's spent wisely, says an income tax isn't a good idea.

Ms. Hutchison said such a levy would slow the economic recovery. scare away new business and strip the state of a key advantage in the competition for new jobs.

'The mere mention of an income tax probably has scared off some businesses considering a move to Texas. It's time to halt this runaway train before it does irreparable damage," she said.

'The fact that Texas has no state income tax is one of the few state policies that sets us apart. It's our major drawing card in the area of economic development. Let's not give it away," she said.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither leense nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Opinion

There's a better way for nation's health

Many Americans wheeze through life with inadequate health care. Unfortunately, almost all the solutions being offered would crimp the patients' oxygen tubes. For example, in the May issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, editor-in-chief George Lundberg backed a broad proposal for a comprehensive, governmentimposed system of national health care. The doctor's main complaint: Because of "long-standing, systematic, institutionalized racial discrimination," health insurance is provided to 81 percent of whites and 69 percent of Cuban-Americans, but to only 58 percent of blacks, 54 percent of Mexican-Americans and 51 percent of Puerto Ricans.

Lundberg seems to be condemning the capitalistic manner in which health care is delivered. If that is so, his condemnation is misplaced. Capitalism does not discriminate on a basis of race. It does indeed discrimate on the basis of ability to pay, and if socialized health care is instituted, the ability to pay will surely discriminate against all participants.

In the U.S. Congress, within the next few weeks Majority Leader George Mitchell will resuscitate a plan to force employers to give coverage to every employee or pay a tax for government insurance for the employees. This would jack up hiring costs, especially for small companies, forcing massive layoffs and business bankruptcies. The lower middle class, who hold jobs in such firms, would be hit especially hard.

There's a better way. We should harness the immense power of the private sector. Here's a five-point plan that could be grasped by our congressmen and pushed into law:

1. For persons, grant tax deductions for all medical expenses. Current tax policy allows such deductions only if they exceed 7.5 percent of adjusted gross income.

2. For companies, double the current deduction allowed for business payments for employees' health insurance premiums.

3. Privatize Medicare and Medicaid. Sign up recipients to private firms, possibly styled after HMOs, that would compete to provide the best service at the lowest cost. As things now stand, prices and services are set by a centralized bureaucracy in Washington. But, as with all price controls, the services are distorted in two ways. First, care is rationed. Second, the "maximum" price tends to become a minimum. For example, in 1991 a new federal law forces drug companies to charge government recipients the same price as charged to the lowest private customer. The effect: Prices have been raised for both private and government prices.

4. Reduce the power of the Food and Drug Administration – or, better yet, eliminate it. The FDA's labyrinthine bureaucracy delays the introduction of life-saving drugs and increases the cost of the production and distribution of even common drugs.

5. Eliminate the capital gains tax for all medical and biotechnology research firms. This ax causes delays in the discovery of new medical techniques, costing lives.

Socialized medicine, to the extent we now have it, is a blood clot leading to a national health coronary. Private solutions are the blood thinning to speed recovery.

Nightmare justice in Vermont

WASHINGTON - Vermont enjoys a kind of postcard image: honest Yankee tradesmen, perfect maple syrup, pink-cheeked skaters in a landscape by Grandma Moses. Given that wholesome picture, it may be difficult to imagine a criminal justice system that is altogether rotten, but that's the way it is in Vermont.

That observation comes from a reading of depositions and trial transcripts in the outrageous cases of Susan Sweetser and Sue Kremelberg. The two young women have been doubly raped - first by a criminal named Robert L. Percy, and second by the system.

After serving as a truck driver in Vietnam and getting discharged for drug abuse, Percy returned to Vermont. In 1972 he raped a college student in Montpelier. His sentence was light - only six to 12 years in prison - but a public defender got him out Woodruff, warned at the time that Percy was a "very dangerous man" who probably would rape again. The warning went unheeded.

Shortly after his release, on Dec. 7, 1980, Percy abducted Susan Sweetser at gunpoint, beat her, choked her, forced her to engage in oral sex and raped her repeatedly. She was 21, three months' pregnant with her first child. Percy was arrested 10 days later, and released on bail of only $5,000. Vermont is friendly to felons.

On Jan. 16, 1981, while free on this token bail, Percy abducted Sue Kremelberg, taped her hands with electrician's tape, raped her again and again, and drove her into Connecticut. After nine hours of terror she escaped at a traffic light in Brookfield. Police caught him.

James J. Kilpatrick

trial for the rape of Susan Sweetser in October 1981. His primary defense was insanity by reason of "post-Vietnam trauma." A jury found him guilty and the judge sentenced him to 16 to 20 years in prison. State-appointed defense lawyers appealed.

It wasn't until January 1986 that Vermont's in 1980. A forensic psychiatrist, Dr. William Supreme Court reversed the conviction on a legal technicality having nothing whatever to do with the issue of guilt or innocence. Two more years went by. Percy was tried again, found guilty again, and this time sentenced to 18 to 20 years.

> Two more years went by while the second conviction was appealed. Last October this second conviction was affirmed, but Perry's lawyers moved for reargument. Not until May 15, 1991, just a few weeks ago, did the court get around to denying the motion. Thus ended the Sweetser case, 10 years and five months after it began.

The Kremelberg case followed the same maddening course of trial, conviction, appeal, reversal and retrial. Percy's second appeal is pending in the state Supreme Court, but oral argument is not expected until next year. Under Vermont law, a pub-Now we get to the rotten part. Percy went on lic defender may demand endless, exhausting, emotionally draining depositions. The two young women have been compelled to testify again and again to their brutal and degrading experience. Defense counsel have raised one legalistic objection after another. At one point, having participated in the delays, defense lawyers moved for a dismissal for want of a speedy trial. The motion was denied.

You may find the appellate opinions from beginning to end, and find scarcely a single sentence in which the courts of Vermont have expressed concern for the two women.

A woman's right not to be raped is not a right that seems to be taken very seriously by the judges of Vermont. Precisely the same thing may be said, of course, of Justices Marshall, Blackmun and Stevens of the U.S. Supreme Court. They are endlessly, coldly, impersonally obsessed with the rights of a criminal to the exclusion of the rights of the victims.

The people of Vermont cannot escape responsibility for the ordeal the victims have suffered. Vermonters have elected a state legislature that is complaisantly agreeable to the demands of defense lawyers. Bills to reform bail procedures and to limit depositions have been tabled. The tightwad voters have refused to create an intermediate court of appeals, with the result that the state Supreme Court is hopelessly mired in a swamp of long-pending cases.

Susan Sweetser took a law degree in the midst of these proceedings. She has lobbied hard for reform of the system, but her efforts have gone nowhere. "The worst part of this entire nightmare," she says, "is that the system which allowed my case to languish for 10 years and Sue's for 10-plus years is still in place, intact, virtually unchanged."

So it goes in Vermont, so it goes.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Americans spent some $40 billion to $50 billion on illicit drugs last year, the nation's drug policy chief said today in the government's first effort to put a price tag on retail sales of illegal drugs.

The report estimates "the amount of money America's users actually took out of their pockets, or took out of other people's pockets, to purchase drugs," said Bob Martinez, director of the Office of National Drug Con-

MANILA, Philippines (AP) -Foreign flights out of the capital's crippled airport resumed today for the first time since Mount Pinatubo's series of weekend erup-

Still, scientists said Pinatubo was steadily calming and they reduced the danger zone from a radius of 18 to 12 miles. That still encompasses Clark, which is 10 miles east of the volcano.

Food and clean drinking water were running low in central and southwestern portions of Luzon island, which includes the volcano and Manila. Thousands of homes were buried in ash and hundreds of thousands of people are homeless.

Foreign ministers begin East-West talks

By LARRY THORSON Associated Press Writer

BERLIN (AP) - European and North American foreign ministers including Secretary of State James A. Baker III met today in the old German Reichstag to discuss ways to expand Western cooperation with eastern Europe.

The two-day meeting of the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe is expected addressed issues of economic aid and investment as well as the turmoil in Yugoslavia and strategies for defusing conflicts.

In the first order of business, the foreign ministers unanimously accepted Albania's application, returning the organization to 35 members as it had been until East Germany merged with West Germany in October.

Amid applause, Albanian Foreign Minister Muhamet Kaplani moved from an observer's seat and took his place at the eight-sided table in the conference hall. His had been the only European country not a member of the CSCE.

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) Abortion-rights activists rushed to get a court order blocking the nation's strictest state abortion law today after the Legislature enacted it in a historic override of Gov. Buddy Roemer's veto.

The law bans most abortions and jails doctors who perform illegal ones.

Hard-liners in the Legislature. said they would press to make the law even tougher today by suspending sections that allow abortions in cases of rape or incest.

At least one clinic immediately suspended all abortions.

Both sides expect a long legal battle. Abortion opponents said the law is styled as a direct challenge to the Supreme Court's 1973 Roe vs. Wade decision recognizing the right to an abortion.

Louisiana is among several states that have toughened their abortion laws since a 1989 Supreme Court ruling gave states greater latitude to do so.

The new law carries up to 10 years in prison and a $100,000 fine for doctors who perform an illegal abortion. The woman would not be punished.

It allows abortion to save the mother's life and in cases of rape and incest, but only in the first 13 weeks of pregnancy. Rape and incest victims must report the crime within a week and seek medical attention within five days.

"It is really a truly wonderful occasion for women in Louisiana and for unborn children," said Sharon Fontenot of the National Right to Life Committee in Louisiana.

Roemer became the first Louisiana governor this century to have a veto overridden when the House voted 76-25 Tuesday night. The Senate voted 29-9 for the override earlier Tuesday. ACLU lawyer Bill Rittenberg said U.S. District Judge Adrian Duplantier of New Orleans, a former state senator, refused to block the law Tuesday night but called for a meeting of both sides today.

"America has tried making abortions illegal once before and the reason that abortion is legal today is because we tried it the other way and it doesn't work," said Terri Bartlett of Planned Parenthood of Louisiana.

Women die. Women will not stop getting abortions. They will get illegal abortions. Poor women and young women."

Roemer, a Democrat-turned-Republican, has said he opposes abortion but wanted more liberal exceptions in cases of rape and incest and wanted abortion allowed when the fetus is severely deformed. He had vetoed the measure Friday.

"It's going to be expensive to litigate, impossible to implement, totally unfair to women who have been brutalized and raped," he said. The Hope Medical Group in Shreveport postponed all five of its scheduled abortions, said director Robin Rothrock. "It's our understanding that because of the lack of clarity as to when the law went into effect that we should not put our physicians at risk," Rothrock said.

The bill's author, Rep. Sam Theriot, D-Abbeville, said the law would take effect as soon as it is assigned a statute number. But the state attorney general's spokesman, Steve Watsky, said it would take effect 60 days after the legislative session ends. The session can end no later than July 8.

Rep. Woody Jenkins, D-Baton Rouge, leader of a hard-line antiabortion faction, said he would introduce a resolution today to suspend the exemptions for rape and incest. Roemer has no veto over such resolutions.

By PEGGY LOWE Associated Press Writer

DENVER (AP) - City Auditor Wellington Webb was elected Denver's first black mayor after a shoestring - and shoe-leather - cam-

Webb likened himself to Rocky Balboa when he launched his walking campaign in May as a nearly broke underdog. On Tuesday night, he raised his arms Rocky-like as supporters cheered. The "Rocky" theme blared over the packed street.

'We together did the impossible. This is a victory of people over money," Webb said.

'The most important item in this election is taking the influence of big money out of politics," Webb said. "We all have one vote and if we exercise that vote and if we participate we have the capacity to bring about change."

and there was little disagreement on issue because Early is also black. Denver, with a population of about 500,000, is 12 percent black and 20 percent Hispanic.

Shoulder to shoulder, Virginians say feud is fantasy

By JOHN KING

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - They stood shoulder to shoulder, trading smile after smile, and a few playful jabs to boot. The feud, say Virginia Sen. Charles S. Robb and Gov. L. Douglas Wilder, was more fantasy than fact to begin with and in any case is finished for good.

'You're going to need another story," Robb told a mob of reporters and photographers Tuesday as Wilder, a fellow Democrat and fellow aspirant for national office, nodded in agreement.

"We're going to work as hard as we can for Virginia, for our party, for our candidates and cooperate in any way that we can," Robb said after a private one-hour meeting with Wilder that are differences, we'll resolve those personally."

that are good for the state, but as well for the nation," Wilder said.

Analysts had predicted just such a public love fest, and one longtime observer of Virginia politics found it far from believable.

'They just both made a rational decision that they had suffered enough and that it was time to cut their losses," said University of Virginia political scientist Larry Sabato. "It's just not credible. I think the hatchet has been buried for now, but it lies in a very shallow grave.'

The meeting and the animated public session with reporters came 11 days after Wilder disclosed that some of his cellular telephone conversations in 1988 had been intercepted, and a recording of at least one sent to Robb.

Robb then acknowledged his office held the both described as cordial and productive. "If there tape for 2 1/2 years and that it was destroyed recently. The senator said he had ordered his staff Wilder concurred, and said he would no not to make the contents public, and that he "You will see from this point on ... not only He put three top aides on leave last week pending

The FBI and Virginia State Police are investigating the wiretapping.

The episode revived stories of a sometimesbitter rivalry between Wilder and Robb that dates back to the mid-1970s and has been marked by charges that the two or their aides have tried to discredit each other.

The latest eruption came even as Robb tried to deal with a new round of reports about allegations, which he denies, that he attended drug parties while Virginia's governor in the early 1980s and had an extramarital affair with a beauty queen.

The rivalry has taken on added importance because of the national political aspiration of both men. Wilder is mulling a 1992 presidential run; Robb on Tuesday brushed aside such suggestions but often is mentioned as a 1996 White House candidate.

A new survey of Virginia voters offered a mixed picture of the political fallout.

Thirty-nine percent of the registered voters hoped to soon complete an internal investigation interviewed by Mason-Dixon Opinion Research to determine whether that directive was violated. Inc. said they would vote to re-elect Robb in 1994, down from 57 percent in January and 45 percent in May.

The rains have certainly helped freshen-up all of our gardens and lawns. In visiting with a neighbor last week, I learned that "Wall of Water" has already produced ripe tomatoes in Pampa. In fact, May 30 was when their son picked his first tomato. My tomatoes are going good inside the "Grow Web." However, they have outgrown their cages and I'm going to have to get begger pieces of the product. On other tomato plants, I have already seen symptoms of the Spotted Wilt virus so hopefully the "Grow Web" is helping keep the thrips and other insects off of my "hosed" tomato plants. They look just about like what a large piece of white nylon hose would look like covering a cage full of tomato vines. I'm still hoping to have ripe tomatoes by July 1 and be able to produce all summer without the Spotted Wilt

SICK PLANT CLINIC

Sick Plant Clinic and Pressure Canner Guage Testing will be Thursday, June 20, from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m. in the Pampa Mall.

The Sick Plant Clinic will assist home gardeners by diagnosing sick plants, soil, or insect problems. Anyone with problems relating to diseases, insects, soil fertility, gardening and general landscape plants are invited to bring sick or troubled specimens to the informal clinic. There will be two Texas Agriclutural Extension Service Specialists on hand to assist and counsel homeowners with problems. The specialist will include Dr. Harold Kaufman, Plant Pathologist, and Dr. Carl Patrick, Entomologist.

In addition, persons planning to do home food preservation may bring their pressure canner lids with geared (dial) gauges to be tested by Donna Brauchi, County Extension Agent. The service requires only the canner lid and takes approximately ten minutes maximum. The Extension Service recommends that pressure canner gauges be tested each year for accuracy. Donna will also answer any questions relative to food preservation - canning, freez- cult. ing, jelly making, pickling, or drying. Extension food preservation

CONTROL BAGWORMS NOW

Bagworms are one of the major pests of junipers and other trees and shrubs in Texas. Spring hatch began in May this year. Hatching is usually completed in about three weeks. Insecticide control is most effective in early June when the bagworms are small.

In the spring, bagworm larvae emerge from hatching eggs inside last year's bags and begin feeding on leaves. They soon begin to construct their own protective bag of silk, twigs and leaves making them camouflaged and hard to see. As the larvae and their bags continue to grow, control becomes more diffi-

Bagworms feed throughout the summer months, building their bags

long. In the fall, the bagworms become adults, mate and the females lay eggs inside their bags. Each overwintering female bag on a tree contains from 500 to 1500

Since the bagworm only completed one generation a year and spreads very slowly form plant to plant, picking the bags off infested plants in the winter will help a lot toward controlling this pest. But, if bagworms were present on the plant last year and control measures were not applied, chances are very good that an insecticide will be needed

Insecticides which can be used to control bagworms include sevin, dursban, diazinon, malathion, dylox, and orthene. The biological insecticide Bacillus thuriengensis can also be used. To obtain effective control, thorough coverage of the foliage is important. The addition of a small amount of liquid soap or surfactant to the spray solution will improve control because it helps adhere the insecticide to the treated trees and shrubs. Always read and follow label instructions when applying insecticides.

SHADE TREE LEAF DISEASE

Anthracnose diseases of sycamore, ash and maple are common problems during wet, cool spring weather. Irregularly-shaped, brown lesions which are usually found along the leaf veins are the result of such diseases. Anthracnose diseases are not fatal to trees. Heavy defoliation may occur, which can weaken and stress trees. Use of fungicides is not usually warranted for older established trees. Young or stressed trees may benefit from two or three applications of copper fungicide at 10-14 day intervals, starting when leaves are small.

Office showers run dry when baby adopted

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I adopted a beautiful little boy two years ago. He was 2 years old when we got him. We waited for 2 1/2 years to get him, and when the agency called us to say we could come and get him, I was so thrilled I shared the good news with my co-workers. I worked in an office with 13 other women. In the three years that I worked there, I attended six baby showers and hosted one in my home. Abby, I cannot tell you how heartbroken I was when no one from the office even called to ask how things were going. No shower, no gifts not even a card. I did, however, receive many questions about my son's birth parents. (Did I ever meet them? Were they married? How old was his mother? Does he have any sisters or brothers?) I since have moved on to a new job because I felt so much resentment toward my co-workers. I was invited to two more baby showers before I quit.

Abby, please remind people to treat everyone's new child the same adopted or not. It would mean so much to the new parents. I just had to get this off my chest. Thank you for listening

DEAR ABBY: I am a female, working for a cable television company as a computer operator. Lately, every morning when I sign in on the computer. I find suggestive messages

One message: "Darling, I dreamed about you last night ..." He also had flowers delivered to me at work on Valentine's Day.

I am a single mother and this is starting to get out of hand. I am dating another man and have no interest in this co-worker.

Should I report him to my supervisor? Someone in the office suggested that I file sexual harassment charges. What if I do, and the guy gets canned from work and tries to hurt me or get even?

Phillips will direct fun fishing tourney

Those avid readers of Mel Phillips will continue to see his Southwest Outdoors column published in The Pampa News.

His column will normally be seen in Friday's edition. Sometimes due to a lack of space, his column will run in Sunday's paper.

Phillips, of Amarillo, has been active in promoting fishing and hunting in the Panhandle area for a number of years. His unique catch and release format has really caught on this area, but Phillips credits most of his success to "some great fishermen and loyal sponsors who really care about the sport of fishing.

This Thursday, Phillips will be directing a Fun Fishing Tournament at Lake Meredith's Cedar Canyon. Entry fee is $20 and may be paid at Cedar Canyon, starting at 3:30 p.m. Fishing hours are from 6 p.m. until 9 p.m. and everyone is invited to enter.

Those Fun Fishing Tournaments at Lake Meredith are drawing some big crowds. Since their beginning in August of 1990, the tournaments have paid out over $13,000.

Thursday's tournament will have two categories: Bass and Walleye. Anglers may catch three fish in either or both categories. A luck-ofthe-draw for $50 will be held at weigh-in and all entries (even the ones with no keeper fish) are eligible to win.

Based on 100 entries, first place will pay back $750 with additional cash and prizes awarded the top ten places.

Top-of-the-Line Marine in Borger will host a free cookout for all contestants when the tournament is completed.

Top-of-the-Line Marine, in addition to Anchor Marine, Billy's Boat Ramp and Dick's Pro Style Lures of Garden City, Kan. are sponsoring the tournament. Phillips can be contacted at 806-353-3654 for more information.

Switching sports, Amarillo Dragway will host the first Texas Shootout June 22-23.

Many events are scheduled, including Battle of the Towns, drag racing, a swap meet and car show. There will be over 100 trophy class-

Panhandle Council of Car Clubs and Meals on Wheels are sponsoring the event.

Gates open at 9 a.m. at the Dragway, seven miles south of Amarillo off Claude Highway between Washington and Osage Streets.

Hard-luck Astros lose again in extra innings

Baseball roundup

By JOHN KREISER AP Sports Writer

Montreal manager Tom Runnells would be happy it if his club could produce more offense. His Houston counterpart, Art Howe, would settle for more wins. The Expos were outhit 8-4 by the visiting Astros Tuesday night, but used two key throws by right fielder Dave Martinez in the top of the 12th and Tom Foley's RBI single in the bottom of the inning for a 3-2 victory, Montreal's fifth straight win.

"I'd like to see the offense produce a few more runs," Runnells said after the Expos beat the Astros in extra innings for the second straight night despite getting only half as many hits as the visitors. "But at least the hits are timely."

So were the two throws by Martinez, who gunned down pinch-runner Mark Portugal trying to go from first to third on Craig Biggio's single off Bill Sampen (5-1), then ended the inning by gunning down Biggio at the plate as he tried to score from second on Gerald Young's base hit.

"The first throw was tougher because I had to go to my left and throw across my body," Martinez said. "The second play was a straight two-hopper right at me, so I just came up throwing.

In other NL action, it was Los Angeles 6, Chicago 5 in 13 innings; New York 7, Cincinnati 5; Pittsburgh 3, San Diego 1; St. Louis 3, San Francisco 1; and Philadelphia 8, Atlanta

After Martinez preserved the tie, the Expos won the game in the bottom of the 12th when Chicago's sixth pitcher, took the loss.

Mike Fitzgerald walked, stole second and scored when Tom Foley lined a 2-0 pitch from Jim Corsi (0-4) into right field for Montreal's fourth hit of the game.

"I knew when he fell behind, he'd have to come in and he did," Foley said.

The Astros outhit Montreal 12-6 in a 16inning, 3-2 loss on Monday. They have nothing to show for two long nights despite outhitting the Expos 20-10.

"The problem is you don't win with hit totals," Howe said. "You only win if you get the hits when they count.

The Expos trailed 2-1 before tying the game in the eighth without a hit. Delino DeShields drew a one-out walk off rookie Darryl Kile, stole second and went to third on catcher Carl Nichols' throwing error before scoring on Ivan Calderon's sacrifice fly to center field.

Gerald Young drove in both Houston runs, one with his first homer since April 28, 1990.

Dodgers 6, Cubs 5 Eddie Murray ended a 4-hour, 53-minute marathon, the longest NL game by time this season, with an RBI single in the 13th as the Dodgers outlasted the visiting Cubs.

Chicago went ahead in the 11th on Shawon Dunston's RBI single and again in the 12th on a run-scoring infield hit by Ryne Sandberg, only to have the Dodgers rally each time. Chris Gwynn's RBI triple in the 11th made it 4-4 and Mark Grace's throwing error in the 12th on what would have been the last out of the game tied the score at 5-5.

The Dodgers scored three times in the second, but Sandberg tied the game in the sixth with a three-run homer.

Mike Hartley (1-0) pitched two scoreless innings for the win. Mike Bielecki (8-6),

Royals 12, Rangers 5

George Brett has always seemed to save his best shots for the Texas Rangers.

Brett hit a three-run homer and the Kansas City Royals beat Texas 12-5 Tuesday night, ending the Rangers' seven-game winning Brett hit his 283rd home run, and 31st lifetime against Texas. Brett has homered more against the Rangers than any team, and is second on Texas' all-time opponents list, trailing only Reggie Jackson's 45.

All that means to be is that I've been around a long time," Brett said.

Brett's second home run of the season put Kansas City ahead 8-5 in the fifth inning. He drove in four runs as the Royals won for the sixth time in eight games.

Twins 9, Orioles 2

Scott Erickson won his 11th game and lowered his ERA to 1.51, both best in the majors. as the Minnesota Twins rebounded to beat the Baltimore Orioles 9-2 Tuesday night.

Erickson (11-2) gave up a leadoff single to Mike Devereaux in the first inning and did not allow another hit before being replaced by Carl Willis at the start of the seventh. Erickson walked five and struck out three in winning his franchise-record 11th straight deci-

Pirates 3, Padres 1

Jay Bell's tie-breaking two-run single in the top of the ninth gave the Pirates their second straight win in San Diego.

The draw Tuesday left the 16thseeded McEnroe, a three-time champion who lost in the first round last year, with little to worry about in the first three rounds.

McEnroe plays Jaime Oncins of Brazil in the opening round. If he wins, his next opponent would be a qualifier and the best of his potential third-round opponents is clay-court specialist Horst Skoff.

Edberg, the top seed and defending champ, has a slightly tougher route. His first match is against 6-foot-5 Marc Rosset of Switzerland, a hard server who is ranked 34th worldwide but is more comfortable on clay than the Wimbledon grass. Edberg could face American David Pate in the second round, with good grass-court player Christo Van Rensburg a possible third-round opponent.

The winner of a possible Edberg-McEnroe match could go on to face eighth seed Pete Sampras or No. 10 Goran Ivanisevic. Jimmy Connors, 38, the two-time champion who is a wild-card entry this year, also is in the Sampras-Ivanisevic portion of the Boris Becker, who has won the grass-court Grand Slam three times, is in the opposite half of the draw along with Ivan Lendl and Andre Agassi.

Second seed Becker faces former Davis Cup teammate Carl-Uwe Steeb in the first round and could battle nemesis Brad Gilbert in the fourth round.

"I never look at the draw except for the first round. For the moment I think only of playing Carl-Uwe Steeb on Monday," Becker said.

Parcells joins NBC

By JOHN NELSON AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Bill Parcells, who led the New York Giants to two Super Bowls, will have to wait until 1993 to get to another one.

On Tuesday, NBC announced that Parcells, who resigned as Giants coach May 15, would join its studio team as an NFL analyst. Parcells signed a multi-year contract which he described as "more than one year The assoicated Decision Memo ST. Jude Children's Research Hosand less than 10.'
