One Proposal For Military Shouted Down

Armed Forces To Be Out Almost Two Billions

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. (AP) - The 102 member House - Senate budgetary committee today rejected a proposal to keep army and navy funds intact and agreed to decide later whether to work toward an overall federal budget slash of $6,000,000,000 or $4,150,-000,000.

The compromise figure was ofered by Senator Gurney (R-SD) of the Senate Armed Services committee, who was leading a drive to prevent cuts in military funds which he contends would jeopardize the nation's security.

The committee shouted down a proposal by Rep. Dingell (D-Mich) that would have prevented any slashes of Army-Navy funds. Gurney said his compromise would allow only "token cuts" of the armed forces of about $200,-000,000 each for the Army and Navy.

WAC Officer Wards Off Attack Attempt

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 14. (P) Deputy Sheriff J. Dailey said today that Capt. Kay Summersby, who was a driver and secretary for General Dwight B. Eisenhower during the war, was the WAC officer whom a former Hamilton Field janitor attempted to criminally attack at the army air base Wednesday morning.

The Marin county deputy sheriff said Capt. Summersby was choked but escaped further mistreatment when the screams of another WAC frightened her Negro assailant away. The incident occurred in the WAC barracks, according to a report made by Deputy Sheriff Joseph Williams.

The former janitor is Marion Bryant, 21, of Marin City, who, Marin County Sheriff Walter B. Sellmer says, signed a statement admitting he had raped two women and attempted to commit similar assaults on three others.

Proposed Floor Under Local Debt

An amendment to the state constitution has been proposed by Rep. George Parkhouse to provide that in the issuance of bends by local governmental units that be valid only when 30 per cent or more of the qualified voters cast ballots.

This proposal, which is apt to go unnoticed, is far-reaching. It would curb the creating of indebtedness by minorities.

It has sufficient merit to warrant close analysis, for while it would impose certain limitations, it might bestow equal benefits.

About the most that might be said against the amendment is that it would impose undue limitations in that the theory of our democratic process calls for majority and two-thirds margins. Under the current system there is one stipulation in voting for bonds - and that is that the voter must be a property holder in the city, district or county affected as well as being otherwise qualified to vote. Certainly the opportunity is open to all who meet these requirements to cast ballots.

Too frequently it has been the history of bond elections that there is general publicapathy in the creation of debt which the people must pay. In arriving at a decision on the Parkhouse amendment, it is well to distinguish between two attitudes: 1) That silence gives approval, or that 2) it is not wise to burden a people with debt unless at least 30 per cent of the people see sufficient need or lack of need to vote.

Progress, But Victory Uncertain

The fight for legislative redistricting has progressed one notch with committee approval of the bill by Rep. Harley Sadler. Another bill, a slight variation by Rep. Isaacks of El Paso, to sub-committee. The Sadler bill gives 45 seats to metropolitan centers and apportions the balance of the state somewhat similarly to the Isaacks measure.

Although favorable committee action is encouraging, it is by no means assurance that the legislature will buckle down to this task; overdue since the 1930 decennial census. In fact the vote was 10-7 in the committee, indicating sharp division on the floor of the House, where the bill now will be considered.

Essence of the Sadler bill, aside from more representation for metropolitan centers (with Dallas and Harris counties getting seven seats each and Bexar six) is reducing the representation in the old established agricultural areas of the state to give relief to portions of West Texas and the Panhandle and particularly to South Texas.

And this is the practical point upon which the whole thing is apt to be snagged. There is apparently nothing but conscience to compel representatives from areas having more than their just num-·ber of representatives to comply with the constitution in effecting redistricting. The record in the past is that the flesh of certain representatives has been weak in voting themselves out of a seat. It may yet take a minor miracle of justice to get the bill through the House, but if it gets over that hurdle, there may be genuine cause for hope. In the meantime, keep your fingers crossed.

WASHINGTON. (AP) - Sen. Styles Bridges' week-end assault on David E. Lilienthal's nomination as chairman of the atomic energy commission stems from a source other than Bridges himself.

In an informal Friday afternoon caucus of a small coterie of GOP senators, the Ohioan let his views be known, winding up with the observation, "and we might as well begin on Lilfenthal "

There followed some discussion as to who would be the first to object to the former TVA chieftain's appointment to the atomic energy body.

It was a quiet, sleep session of the House Judiciary Subcommittee sitting on the Gwynne bill which would ban all claims for portal-to-portal pay. On the spur of the moment Richter threw aside his carefully typed statement. Tired of hearing labor constantly on the defensive, he took the offensive. Drawing upon his experience as onetime economist for the labor department's wage and hour division, he said:

"Congressman Gwynne, you refer to the employers' complaint that the law has been unfairly enforced by the administrator and by the courts. If you are interested in 'hardships' and 'serious inequities' you are looking in the wrong direction."

Messersmith who so recently Hurrying lest he be interruptreturned to our No. 1 Pan Amered, Richter accused the wage

"And where fines were assessed," he continued, "they were so ridiculously low that chiselers were encouraged to violate the law because they were sure to profit in the long run."

Richter read from trade journals telling employers how to violate the law by claiming their workers were "independent contractors." And as the three congressmen listened in astonished silence. Richter went on to expose sweatshop conditions still existing in many parts of the

All states provide religious liberty to a greater or less degree. But government is not completely cut off from religion.

Almost every state constitution points out that the people look to a "supreme being" for guidance.

Legislatures usually open with a prayer, Official documents are dated "In The Year Of Our Lord." Sunday "Blue" laws have been passed and upheld.

I'd arranged to meet her at Grand Central. Since she noted in her letter she'd never been in New York before, I started checking over in my mind my supply of warm clothes, for I envisioned lengthy treks to Grant's Tomb, the Statue of Liberty and Chinatown, and figured I'd have to break the news gently to her that the Aquarium is no more. Having mentally arranged all the traditional tourist locations and transportation facilities so that I would not look like a fool getting lost while shunting my venerable Aunty about the burg, I met the nice old gal and got ready for my guided tour. . . .

She bounced off the train, commandeering every available red cap, and met me with all the bright dignity of the Queen Elizabeth landing at noon. She had a skimmer atop her head which would have done splendid justice to Lilly Dache, Walter Florell or any of the fancy skypiece tailors. Her coat was a smartly cut Persian Lamb which must have been every bit of three months old. Somehow or other it didn't seem to be the same old Aunty.

American plans for military cooperation creates in effect an English-speaking entente for defense of a 10,000-mile arc across the North Atlantic, Arctic and Pacific from London to Tokyo.

Considering British installations along her "lifeline" to Australia, New Zealand and Hong Kong, the Anglo-Saxon periphery extends roughly around the world. On her side Britain is having trouble in Egypt, the Sudan, Palestine, Iran, India, and at other points, but in the western hemisphere the line, while attenuated, is not involved in political troubles, except insofar as Iceland and Denmark's Greenland play the role of innocent bystanders. Arms standardization agreements in Latin-America are expected soon to make the western hemisphere a solid bloc for defense.

This does not mean that a Canadian-American force is taking up positions, bayonets fixed, that air forces are flying patrol actions and warships scouting the seas on the alert. Merely that arms will be standardized, "tests runs" made and strategy worked out in the light of lessons learned

Whether or not a formal announcement is made of a similar agreement with the British, this is all merely a part of a natural trend which has been a bad place ever since US industry became the hub of Englishspeaking military strength.

Although many people fear military coalitions of any sort, and the Russians will consider it a further act of "western encirclement," the Ottawa-Washington statement stresses that nothing is to be done in conflict with United Nations policy, which dominates the entire
