County to dip into reserves to help fund 1992 budget

By BETH MILLER
Staff Writer

Gray County Commissioners unanimously voted Tuesday to dip into dwindling county reserves to help fund the 1992 budget, rather than raise the tax rate high enough to be subject to a tax rollback.

The Commissioners Court, on a 4-1 vote, also approved a $50 per month raise for full-time county employees, effective Jan. 1. Precinct 2 Commissioner Jim Greene voted against the motion.

The $50 pay raise per month excludes the juvenile board and those employees whose salaries are adjusted by other officeholders. Those employees who are less than full-time will have their raises prorated and employees who have only a percentage of their salaries paid by the county will also have their raises prorated, based on the county supplement.

An estimated $600,000 of the proposed $5.1 million 1992 budget will be funded through the Highland General Hospital fund, which will have about $1 million remaining after $3.5 million for the new jail and sheriff's office is paid.

The proposed tax rate for 1992 is 30.294 cents per $100 valuation, an increase of 2.904 cents per $100 valuation or a 10.6 percent increase above last year's tax rate of 27.39 cents per $100 valuation. The county has a tax base of a little more than $1 billion, which will bring in an estimated $3.1 million in revenue under the proposed rate.

Anything above the proposed 30.294 tax rate would be subject to a rollback by the registered voters of the county.

A public hearing on the proposed tax rate increase is scheduled for 11 a.m. Sept. 3 in the second floor courtroom of the Gray County Courthouse.

Commissioners struggled during budget meetings on whether to propose an increase in the tax rate to about 36 cents per $100 valuation and be subject to a possible tax rollback, or to dip into the county reserves to fund the proposed 1992 budget, which is about $375,000 higher than the 1991 budget. The majority of the proposed budget increase is to staff and operate the new county jail and sheriff's office, which is expected to be on line in 1992.

Greene expressed his concern that if the county dips into the Highland General Hospital fund much more, it will be depleted.

Precinct 4 Commissioner Ted Simmons pointed out during discussions that if the commissioners voted for a pay increase for county employees and raised taxes enough to be subject to a rollback, he believed there would be a petition started for a rollback. Simmons said he would be in favor of pay increases if the money came from the reserve funds.

In a related budget matter, the Commissioners Court on a 3-2 vote, approved a salary adjustment for Precinct 2 Constable Chris Lockridge. His salary will increase, effective Jan. 1, to that of a deputy sheriff. Lockridge's current salary is $1,307 per month and a deputy sheriff's is $1,857.90. If the budget is approved, a deputy's and Lockridge's salaries will be $1,907.90 per month effective Jan. 1.

Precinct 1 Commissioner Joe Wheeley and Greene voted against raising the salary. Greene said he would expect Precinct 1 Constable Jerry Williams and Precinct 4 Constable Jim McDonald to also request salary increases.

County Judge Carl Kennedy, however, said that Lockridge was working the constable position as a full-time job and putting in more than 40 hours per week. Kennedy said he did not think it would be right to "deny a constable, who's out in the line of duty, a livable wage."

Simmons said he would explain the difference in the job Lockridge is doing and that of the other two constables if the question arose.

Greene said, "Look how many others are going above and beyond the call of duty. What are we going to do when the rest of them start coming in who deserve a raise?"

The Commissioners Court also voted 3-2 against allowing 3, 2 and 1 percent discounts to people who pay their taxes in October, November and December, respectively. Simmons and Greene voted against the motion and said they wanted the tax breaks, which cost the county an estimated $45,000 in revenue, to remain in place.

Kennedy said he voted against giving the discounts because he was looking at it from a business standpoint. "If we're raising the tax rate, then I don't think I'd turn around and offer a discount ... If you don't have the money and can't give the gifts, you don't do it."

On Tuesday, Precinct 3 Commissioner Gerald Wright again brought MOSCOW (AP) — Mikhail S. Gorbachev was said to be returning to Moscow today as the coup against him by hard-liners crumbled. Military units deployed after the takeover were withdrawing from the capital and the coup's leaders reportedly fled.

In further signs of the coup's collapse, press restrictions were lifted and Gorbachev's foreign minister resurfaced at a news conference and denounced the coup, as did the national legislature and the Communist Party.

Outside the Russian Parliament, which served as the headquarters for Boris Yeltsin, leader of the resistance to the eight hard-liners who staged the coup on Monday, rejoicing crowds cheered and waved flags. Soldiers, their tanks strewn with flowers, waved at television cameras.

Leaders of the national legislature invalidated all decrees made by the coup leaders, national lawmaker Yuri Karyatkin told the Russian legislature. He gave no details about the vote.

In the United States, President Bush hailed the coup's apparent end. He said the coup leaders "underestimated the power of the people, underestimated what a taste of freedom and democracy brings."

Word of Gorbachev's imminent return came from Lev Y. Sukhanov, a long-time Yeltsin deputy. He said Gorbachev would fly from his vacation retreat in the Crimea to the Soviet capital with Vladimir Ivashko, the deputy general secretary of the Communist Party and other aides. The report could not be independently confirmed, however.

A delegation of European ambassadors and top diplomats, including the U.S. charge d'affaires, had assembled at a Moscow airport in hope of flying to the Crimea to meet with Gorbachev, who was at his vacation home in the south when he was overthrown on Monday.

If the coup has failed, it could deal a fatal blow to organized, high-level efforts to thwart reform drives in the Soviet Union by Gorbachev and Yeltsin and significantly alter the balance of power that has characterized Soviet power for the six-year Gorbachev era.

The country's future course depends, however, on who remains in power. Although Yeltsin supported Gorbachev during the coup, the two men maintain different approaches to Soviet reforms.

The news of the coup leaders' departure followed a series of dramatic developments pointing to the disintegration of the takeover, one of the most tumultuous events in recent Soviet history.

With the coup's apparent demise, the Communist Party moved to salvage its own credibility. It called the takeover unconstitutional and demanded a meeting with Gorbachev, the party chief, the official news agency Tass said. The party renounced any connection with the coup leaders.

Tass also reported that the Soviet Defense Ministry decided to withdraw the hundreds of tanks and troops that had poured into Moscow to enforce emergency decrees after the takeover Monday.

Tanks and armored personnel carriers were seen moving away from the Russian Parliament, and one lawmaker said: "The coup is collapsing."

A 2 1/2-mile-long column of about 180 tanks and 60 trucks was heading out of Moscow, kicking up huge clouds of dust. The soldiers on board said they were returning to their base.

Radio and television broadcasts that were banned during the takeover reappeared on the air, and Tass said a decree shutting independent publications was being lifted as of today.

Even before the announcement that the ban was being lifted, state-run media dropped the previous official line on the 3-day-old takeover and began reporting the unfolding events.

An announcer on Soviet television broke into a broad smile after reading a report calling the coup leaders dangerous. "I'm sorry comrades, but I'm very excited!" he said.

Thousands of people kept up their vigil at the Russian Parliament building following overnight clashes with Soviet troops that left at least four dead.

They roared with approval when the announcement of the coup committee's departure came over a loudspeaker.

The plane reportedly carrying the coup leaders was heading to the city of Bishkek, formerly called Frunze, the capital of Kirgizia, 2,100 miles southeast of Moscow, according to Radio Russia. The station speaks for Yeltsin, the president of the Russian Federation.

It was not immediately known why the coup leaders would travel to Kirgizia.

The radio said officials of the Russian republic know the plane number and its destination and would try to intercept it and have its passengers arrested.

But sources at the airport told The Associated Press that only KGB chief Vladimir Kryuchkov was on a plane, and that was headed to the Crimea, where Gorbachev reportedly had been placed under house arrest. He reportedly was accompanied by Communist Party No. 2 leader Vladimir Ivashko.

The republic-run Russian Information Agency said Vice President Gennady Yanayev, the nominal head of the coup committee, was still in his Kremlin office. The report could not be independently confirmed, and the discrepancies could not immediately be clarified.

Bush, in Maine, told a news conference that Yeltsin told him in a telephone call that he believed that five of the coup leaders left Moscow and that one of them, Prime Minister Valentin Pavlov, was in the hospital.

Earlier in the day, the Russian Parliament voted to send a Russian delegation, headed by its prime minister, to the Crimea to meet with Gorbachev.

The German Foreign Ministry said representatives from Germany, the United States, France and Great Britain were also to travel to the Crimea to see Gorbachev.

Bush told a news conference that the Russian delegation wanted Gorbachev "back in power. He was constitutionally put into office and they want to have the law fully observed."

Despite the force brought to bear by the coup leaders, they were unable to dislodge Yeltsin from the Russian Parliament, where he rallied the opposition, to enforce the curfew, or prevent large demonstrations nationwide.

The state of emergency was declared after hard-line elements in the military and Communist Party ousted Gorbachev, declaring he was ill. Few believed it.

The junta had seemed unable to cope with

School trustees approve preliminary budget

By BEAR MILLS
Staff Writer

Pampa public school trustees approved a preliminary budget during their Tuesday meeting that is $100,000 higher than last year's proposed budget, but $7,700 less than the final 1990-91 amended budget.

Board member James Frugé, elected on a promise to carefully monitor district expenditures, said he was pleased with the $15.8 million budget, even though Orr indicated it will mean a tax increase of around 11 cents.

"Despite some uncertainty as to the final County Education District tax rate, I am predicting that a combined tax rate between $1.16 and $1.18 will provide the revenue necessary to fund this budget," Orr said in a letter to trustees. "I emphasize this is an estimate."

Frugé declined to comment on the tax increase, saying, "I don't speculate about things that are not certain. I've been warned against that."

Local taxes will account for $9.757 million of the district's estimated $15.8 million in revenue, with $5.65 million coming from the state and another $406,000 coming from federal funds.

However, Orr acknowledged that if the state again shorts the district by $300,000, as they did in 1990-91, that will substantially reduce its contribution.

"Without a doubt, what is happening is that the burden of funding education is being shifted away from the state and onto the local taxpayer," Orr said.

Board President Keith Teague joined trustees Frugé, Lonny Richardson and John Curry in commending Pampa teachers and administrators for the budget.

"I'm particularly pleased that spending was held at the same level as last year," Frugé said. "The administration was able to absorb $300,000 in increased salaries to our teachers as well as $50,000 less income due to lower interest rates on our investments, as well as an increase of approximately $50,000 in our workers' compensation premiums. That's $400,000 that was absorbed without any major cuts in the performance of the district."

Frugé said, "We need the same amount of money to operate that we needed last year, but due to changes in funding caused by the state Legislature, we will have a substantial increase (in local taxes)."

Orr said when he first presented each campus with the amount of money they could spend, one principal told him, "There is no way."

"He came back with money left over and wanted to spend it, but I told him we weren't doing that," Orr said.

While complimenting administrators on the lean budget, some board members said the community is beginning to seek capital improvements at schools that will mean additional taxes.

"Several people at sixth grade orientation asked for air conditioning at the middle school," Curry reported. "Our budget may seem big, but Plainview (Independent School District) has a budget of $26 million. We are shirking some of our duties to our students."

"If we are ever forced to go to year-round school, we will have some serious situations (due to no air conditioning at several campuses)."

Frugé added, "It's hard for learning to go on in that kind of oppressively hot atmosphere."

Orr promised to investigate the costs of adding air conditioning around the district.

New Texas Education Commissioner Lionel "Skip" Meno has said year-round school is a distinct possibility in Texas.

However, school officials have reported that the temperature in Pampa High School often exceeds 100 degrees in parts of the building during the summer.

Orr said once County Education District 14 sets its tax rate, which is scheduled to occur Aug. 28, the PSD will declare its intention to set a tax rate on Sept. 5.

A public hearing is then scheduled for Sept. 17, with an 8 a.m. meeting on Sept. 23 set to adopt the tax increase.

"When we publicize the tax rate, we need to remind people how much less per student we spend than our surrounding school districts of comparable size and remind them how we are working to save money," Richardson told the board.

In other business, trustees approved a recommendation by a teacher committee on benefits that raises premiums on insurance.

Correction

In an article Tuesday concerning the CED 14 meeting, it was incorrectly reported that Monte Lusby of Canadian did not vote for a motion he submitted concerning contracting with tax collectors for collection of CED taxes. The vote was 13 for and 3 against, with Lusby supporting the motion he had made. We regret any inconvenience this error may have caused.

tens of thousands of people who erected barricades around Yeltsin's river-front stronghold in the Parliament.

There were also huge anti-coup demonstrations in Moscow, Leningrad, Kishinev and other cities, as well as strikes by coal miners in Siberia.

Columns of tanks and armored personnel carriers had moved around central Moscow early today. One patrol of the armored vehicles was trapped by furious demonstrators just after midnight as it tried to break through a barricade.

Two people were confirmed shot or crushed to death as the vehicles tried to fight their way through, and witnesses said a third person was killed. A Russian republic official, Col. Viktor Samailov, told the independent news agency Interfax that four people were shot or crushed to death in the clash.

There were unconfirmed reports of more deaths elsewhere in the city. Demonstrators disregarded a nighttime curfew in Moscow. Coal miners struck in Siberia and hundreds of thousands of people demonstrated in Moscow, Leningrad and Kiev.

Hearing set to discuss drug, youth problems

By BEAR MILLS
 Staff Writer

A groundswell effort to retake southside streets from drug dealers and violence has resulted in a public hearing at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Southside Senior Citizens Center, 438 W. Crawford.

Community Services Director Bill Hildebrandt said the meeting is part of a citywide attempt to deal with drugs and other factors that destroy neighborhoods.

"There has been a lot of concern brought to our attention from residents of Prairie Village," Hildebrandt said. "We're not just looking at problems. We know what needs to be addressed. What we will deal with Thursday night is solutions to the problems."

Hildebrandt stressed the situation is a citywide problem because people from all over Pampa come to Prairie Village during the evening hours.

He also pointed out Prairie Village residents were eager to show that they do not live on "the bad side of town," but are honestly facing problems in order to overcome them.

"We need to find out what the community will support in terms of programs, enforcement and Prairie Village Park," Hildebrandt said.

He pointed out that calls for a curfew to take children and youth off the streets at "a decent hour" would affect the entire city and not just Prairie Village.

Residents of the southside have stated, "There are problems on 'the drag,' too. But people can turn their back on those. That doesn't mean they aren't problems, so this is a citywide situation."

"If we close the parks, it will be throughout the city, or we would just be moving the problems to other parks," Hildebrandt said. "We need to look at the primary problem; which is the congregation of a large number of people at the park."

Many residents of Prairie Village have told the city they believe the primary problem is a lack of parental supervision.

Hildebrandt and City Manager Glen Hackler said the meeting will include police and public school officials.

"I will be there as an interested party to see what the appropriate role would be for the school to play in helping our youth be more successful," said Superintendent Dr. Dawson Orr. "The environment outside the school does carry over. But we are strictly going to be there to listen and learn."

City faces loss of bank franchise taxes

By BEAR MILLS
 Staff Writer

Pampa City Manager Glen Hackler said today the Texas Municipal League has found that the new Texas state budget will commandeer the bank franchise tax from cities, meaning a $50,000 loss in revenue for Pampa.

"The bank franchise tax, which has historically been remitted back to cities for revenue purposes, will now be kept by the state for their revenue enhancement," Hackler said.

"It's based on the amount of deposits in the bank. When you have the number and strength of banks that you find in Pampa, that franchise tax equates to a fairly large sum of money."

City administrators had budgeted a $58,000 surplus in the 1991-92 fiscal budget, which will now be cut to only $8,000 by the state move.

"That's tight," Hackler said. "This comes very late in the process of planning and preparing a budget."

The latest Texas Municipal League Legislative Update complains that lawmakers took the bank franchise tax away from cities after a series of "behind-closed-door meetings."

Two men arrested on drug charges

By BEAR MILLS
 Staff Writer

PANHANDLE — Two former Pampa residents were arrested at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday after they were found carrying 22 rocks of what was believed to be crack cocaine and $400 in cash.

Police Chief Chuck Flemins said the pair were arrested after Pampa police notified them of a reckless driver heading west on Hwy. 60.

"One of the officers on the evening shift saw the driver wasn't wearing a seatbelt and Pampa had just put out a report on a reckless driver," Flemins said. "It was the same vehicle."

Arrested following a search of the car were driver Patrick Jackson, 18, and his cousin, Timothy Jackson, 17.

"The Legislature continued its recently initiated practice of voting on bills before they are read," the TML newsletter complained. It also accused lawmakers of passing some bills before they had even been written, though no specific examples were given.

TML has also accused legislators of passing bills before "any affected parties could determine the bills' impacts."

"This is significant," Hackler said. "It may not be the equivalent of someone cutting off your arm, but it is certainly losing a finger or two. It is the equivalent of nearly 1.5 cents on our tax rate. In light of that, it is very significant."

"The biggest concern I have is that this gives the appearance that the state is helping their revenue problem by giving cities revenue problems."

Hackler said it would be up to the City Commission what, if any, complaint is filed with state officials over the measure.

Taxpayers' lawsuit against CED 14 to have court hearing

MIAMI — The Roberts County Courthouse will be the setting Thursday morning for a hearing requested by eight county taxpayers who seek to have County Education District 14 enjoined from taking any action.

The hearing in 31st District Court is set for 9 a.m. before 31st District Judge Kent Sims.

The lawsuit, filed by the eight taxpayers in Roberts County, also seeks to have Senate Bill 351, the new school finance reform law, declared unconstitutional.

Attorneys from the Texas Education Agency and Attorney General's office are scheduled to be at the hearing to defend the law. Attorney Richard Roach of Miami is representing the eight taxpayers — Bill Tolbert, Royce E. Bailey, Ken Gill, Pat Peirce, Raymond Bryant, Dixie Topper, Melinda Allemand and Tom Henderson.

CED 14 is made up of 16 school districts in Gray, Roberts, Hemphill, Lipscomb, Ochiltree and Hutchinson counties.

New computer hardware for the high school choir department, which had already been budgeted, was approved at a cost of "less than $3,000."

Board members also set early dismissal days for students on Sept. 4 and 5, Oct. 21, Nov. 27 and Feb. 12.

Orr said one early release day will be reserved for "weather-related needs."

Teachers will work a full schedule on four of the five early dismissal days, Orr noted.

No early release will be granted to begin the Christmas holiday on Friday, Dec. 20, school officials said.

County

up his proposal to transfer eight county employees to the sheriff's office to train as the four jailers and four dispatchers that will be needed when the new facility opens.

"What are we going to do next year and the year after that? In the end, it's going to be more drastic than if we don't do something now," Wright said. "I'm willing to sacrifice if it will help the county. I don't like this idea, but until anybody can come up with a way to save $160,000, you just can't kick it out the door."

In other business, the Commissioners Court unanimously approved authorization for Precinct 4 to trade in a motor grader for a new one.

That expense is expected to be about $14,500, and Wright said he would help Simmons come up with the money for the trade if Simmons needed the help.

Senate OKs license revocation, McDonnell Douglas, Texas Stadium bills

By SCOTT ROTHCHILD
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill that would allow law officers to confiscate the driver's license of motorists suspected of driving drunk will save lives and money, the Senate sponsor said.

The Senate approved the bill on a voice vote Tuesday, sending it to the House for consideration.

In other action, the Senate sent to the House measures that would:

— Establish a nonprofit corporation to issue revenue bonds for a proposed McDonnell Douglas Corp. jet manufacturing plant.

— Allow alcohol sales inside Irving's Texas Stadium, home of the Dallas Cowboys.

Judith Zaffirini, D-Laredo, said her license revocation bill would "save lives because it sends the strong message to drunk drivers that punishment is swift." The bill is supported by Mothers Against Drunk Driving, and Gov. Ann Richards opened the agenda of the session for lawmakers to consider the plan.

The proposal died in the House after opponents said that taking a suspect's license before being found guilty was unconstitutional.

But Ms. Zaffirini said the license revocation plan has passed legal challenges in several of the 29 states where it has been established.

"Nowhere in the constitution is it written that anyone has a right to drive," she said.

Zaffirini said the bill annually would save 150 lives and $400 million in medical and legal costs. It would also entitle the state to an extra $16 million in federal funds over the next five years, she said.

The bill would allow law officers to take the driver's license of a motorist who fails or refuses to take a blood-alcohol test.

The officer would give the person a temporary permit to drive until an administrative hearing is held to determine whether the license should be suspended. A person without any prior drug or alcohol offenses over the past 5 years faces a 90-day driver's license suspension. Repeat offenders would face a 1-year suspension.

In addition, those losing their license would have to pay $100 to get it back after the suspension.

On a 28-3 vote, the Senate adopted a bill by Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, that is aimed at trying to land the McDonnell Douglas jet plant.

Alliance Airport at Fort Worth and Ellington Field at Houston are among eight sites nationwide under consideration by St. Louis-based McDonnell Douglas.

The Senate measure would allow the Department of Commerce to create the Texas Major Employer Development Corp., which could issue revenue bonds to attract new businesses to the state and help existing businesses expand.

Glasgow said the state would not be liable for the bonds. McDonnell Douglas would be responsible for paying the bonds back, he said.

"All the other states that are major competitors are passing state revenue bonds and putting together very attractive packages. Texas would like to do that ... financially now we just are not able to do so," Glasgow said.

Former gubernatorial candidate Tom Luce, attorney for Alliance developer H. Ross Perot, said other states offer numerous financial incentives for the $1.4 billion plant.

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock said of the bond proposal, "It's frankly throwing a little crumb out here to get them to come. Whatever can be offered to them at this time may be better than they are getting anywhere else."

State, brewery agree on 'Bud Man' promotion

By SUSAN HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Anheuser-Busch Co. has pledged to donate $250,000 to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department as part of an agreement to end a dispute over a "Bud Man" promotion that alcohol regulators said violated state law.

Officials from the brewery and the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission reached an agreement Tuesday that both sides said effectively ends the "Search for Bud Man" promotion in Texas.

Joe Darnall, TABC general counsel, said Anheuser-Busch agreed to put disclaimer stickers on each beer package advertising the "Bud Man" promotion. The stickers will say that purchasing the beer will not garner a prize for the consumer or the parks department, Darnall said.

In addition, Anheuser-Busch announced it will make the donation to the parks department no matter how many Texans participate. The beer company already made a $100,000 contribution to the agency to start the program.

The promotion features certificates bearing the likeness of the caped Bud Man character. Customers may find the certificates in 12- and 24-packs of Budweiser products.

For each certificate a Texas customer mailed to the brewer's St. Louis headquarters, Anheuser-Busch agreed to make a $1,000 donation to the Texas parks department, up to $250,000.

In other states, consumers who find Bud Man are eligible to collect prizes, but that is illegal in Texas.

"The new sticker does make it clear that buying this package of beer is not going to bring the consumer a prize, or bring anybody else a prize," Darnall said. "We sort of short-circuited it by saying, 'Forget the search. We're going to give Parks and Wildlife the money anyhow.'"

Patrick Stokes, Anheuser-Busch president, said the stickers would be printed this week and supplied to all wholesalers before the weekend, who will attach them to packages still on sale in Texas.

"We are confident that this agreement will resolve any misconceptions among consumers about the promotion," Stokes said. "And we are delighted that the program will result in a significant contribution to Texas Parks and Wildlife."

Darnall said the TABC intended to file notice Wednesday setting an administrative hearing for Sept. 3 — the day after Labor Day — to determine whether Anheuser-Busch had complied with the agreement.

If the company has not put the stickers in place by then, its license to sell beer in the state could be suspended until it complies with state regulations, Darnall said.

The "Bud Man" promotion, which began Memorial Day, was scheduled to end Labor Day.

The problem with the promotion was that the beer company didn't always provide an alternative way to enter the sweepstakes without buying beer, Darnall said.

Meanwhile, in San Antonio, the Pearl Brewing Co. cited the TABC agreement in dropping a request for a temporary injunction to stop the "Bud Man" promotion. Pearl last week filed suit against regional rival Anheuser-Busch over the contest, and a hearing on the injunction was held Tuesday.

However, Vince Hightower, an attorney for Pearl, said the company still could seek damages for any sales lost because of the campaign.

Jo Scoggin, Pampa Middle School secretary/bookkeeper.

Sunday reception to honor Jo Scoggin

A reception honoring Jo Scoggin, secretary/bookkeeper at Pampa Middle School, has been set for 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 25, at the middle school library. The public is invited to attend.

Mrs. Scoggin, who has been employed with the Pampa school district for 28 years, officially retired on July 31. Her duties at Pampa Middle School included all enrolling and withdrawing of students, all correspondence, all reports to Carver Center and the Texas Education Agency, all purchase orders and payroll.

Also during her years with Pampa ISD, she has worked at Pampa High School and the former Pampa Junior High School.

She attended North Texas State University, where she met her future husband, Pernal Scoggin. They married in 1947 and came to Pampa, where her husband had accepted a job as coach. Mr. Scoggin died in 1983.

In 1990, Mrs. Scoggin was named Beta Sigma Phi Woman of the Year for her volunteer and charitable work, including serving as an active member of the American Cancer Society and a Sunday school teacher at First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Scoggin and her late husband have two children, Selena Proctor of Fort Worth and Terry Scoggin of Pampa, and five grandchildren.

Rape victim wins negligence lawsuit

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — A rape victim awarded nearly $17.1 million in a negligence suit was more concerned that she make a statement about the rights of victimized women than about money, her attorney said.

Judge Mike Westergren of the 214th District Court in Nueces County entered the judgment Tuesday in favor of Juli Bliske, who was raped in her apartment after her assailant stole the keys to her home.

"While she's pleased with the money, that is not the important part of it to her. The important part is the statement she made," said Bill Edwards, Ms. Bliske's attorney.

"She has taken the lead in seeking additional legislation in Austin that would result in better security for apartment dwellers and other resident tenants," Edwards said. "She is a believer in standing forward for the rights of people who have been raped."

Bliske filed suit in 1987 against Berry Property Management Inc., the management company of the townhome where she was raped in October of that same year.

Annette Berry, the owner of the management company, said she had not been notified of Tuesday's ruling and would not comment.

"I will have no comment because I haven't heard from anybody," she said. "I have not been notified of anything."

In the suit, Bliske contended that the company was negligent in refusing to give her the deadbolt lock she requested and in the way keys and files were kept.

The rapist, who has been convicted and sentenced to a 99-year prison term, broke into the apartment leasing office, searched through leases to find single women and stole a key to Bliske's condominium.

"He took the key, used the key to enter her apartment, found her asleep in bed and proceeded to rape her, sack her apartment, and take her jewelry and money," Edwards said.

Afterwards, the assailant dragged Bliske to a nearby automatic teller machine, where he forced her to withdraw all her money, the attorney said in a telephone interview.

Groundwater Districts Tour gets under way tonight

AMARILLO — The Texas Groundwater Conservation Districts Association is sponsoring a Groundwater Districts Tour today through Friday.

The event gets under way with a reception at 6 p.m. today at the Harvey Hotel in Amarillo.

On Thursday, the buses will leave from the hotel at 8 a.m. to travel to the North Plains Under-ground Water Conservation District office at 603 E. 1st St. in Dumas.

During the stop at the North Plains office, the district's programs will be demonstrated. These programs include well permitting, well logs and record keeping, the Water Depletion Program, the Water Quality Program, and demonstrations of the different field equipment used.

Following lunch at the North Plains Research Field, the group will tour the research field and Wick Farms.

Thursday's activities will conclude with a trip either to Palo Duro Canyon to view the musical TEXAS, or to the Big Texan Steak Ranch for the dinner theater production of Deadwood Dick.

On Friday, the Texas Groundwater Conservation Districts will hold their quarterly business meeting, beginning at 10 a.m.

The event will be attended by representatives of the Texas Water Commission, Texas Water Development Board, Texas A&M University, USDA Soil Conservation Service and members of the Texas Legislature, as well as several board members, managers and staff from water conservation districts around the state.

The tour and TGCA meeting is being hosted by the Panhandle Ground Water Conservation District No. 3 and North Plains Under-ground Water Conservation District No. 2.

Provo and Orem, Utah, rated best places to live

NEW YORK (AP) — Provo, Utah, and sister city Orem form the heart of the metropolitan area that Money magazine rates the best place to live in America.

Provo and Orem, with a combined population of more than 125,000, topped Money's fifth annual survey of the nation's 300 largest metropolitan areas.

Last year's leader, Bremerton, Wash., slipped to second place.

Most of the top 10 in the 1991 rankings are in the West, the Midwest and Texas, and nine are new to the top 10.

Following Provo-Orem and Bremerton are: Bryan, Texas; Boise, Idaho; Lubbock, Texas; Billings, Mont.; Fayetteville, Ark.; Madison, Wis.; Austin, Texas; and Lincoln, Neb.

Money extols Provo-Orem as "an area known for unabashed fertility — of its farmland, its Mormon inhabitants, and more recently its industrial development."

The area is the home of WordPerfect, the computer software manufacturer, and more than 80 other software companies.

More than 5,000 people have moved to the area since 1988. They were lured by jobs, easy commuting and affordable housing — a typical three-bedroom house costs $81,000, 18 percent below the median price of an American home.

Money describes the bottom five on the list as "a battered cadre of New England cities grievously wounded by the collapse of manufacturing, real estate and financial services."

They are: Manchester, N.H.; Fall River, Mass.; Pawtucket, R.I.; New Britain, Conn.; and dead last at No. 300, Waterbury, Conn.

Terre Haute, Ind., made the biggest jump since 1990, rising from No. 288 to No. 70.

In ranking the metropolitan areas, Money asked 252 subscribers (median age: 46; median household income: $61,000) what they valued in a place to live.

Their top priorities were clean water, low crime, clean air, abundant medical services and strong local government.

The magazine then collected information on the 300 largest metro areas and fed it into a computer.

Finally, Money reporters visited the top five sites and the bottom five.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Censuring Cranston is good thing to do

Some of Jesse Helms's Senate colleagues are steamed because he rocked their tranquil, self-satisfied boat. A member of the Senate Ethnic Committee, he wearied of that panel's foot-dragging in its probe of the senators known as the "Keating Five" for their coziness to go-go banker Charles Keating. He recently released a special counsel's report that singles out Sen. Alan Cranston for special blame and calls on the full Senate to censure him for "reprehensible" conduct.

For all the hullabaloo he's stirred up, you'd think it was Sen. Helms who was under investigation. In fact, he's done a service by focusing attention once again on Alan Cranston, who seemed to be having some success in recent weeks in his campaign to wiggle off the hook.

Really, there's nothing in the counsel's report not already clear to anyone familiar with the Keating case. Of the massaging that went on between Sen. Cranston and Keating, we're told the senator "knowingly and willingly engages in an impermissible pattern of conduct..." that was "clearly and unequivocally unethical."

No news there. The question isn't whether California's senior senator deserves censure — he clearly does — but whether he ought to leave the Senate now, not later. In our view, his early departure would be fitting and proper. Whether laws were broken, we don't know. But standards higher than mere criminal statutes ought to count for something. Surely some basic principles of virtue are not too much to demand from people who style themselves "public servants."

The polls certainly show that Sen. Cranston, by violating their trust, has lost the confidence of the people who elected him. Is it unreasonable to ask a politician in such self-made straits to step aside? There's no ambiguity about the facts. Keating passed at least $1 million to Cranston. As those dollars were falling on him, our senator was feverishly pressing regulators to lay off Keating's now failed S&L.

What about Cranston's argument, in so many words, that influence-auctioning is common in Congress? Well, it's true that money talks on Capitol Hill, but the amount of cash funneled Cranston's way was so spectacular that the transactions can't be dismissed as business as usual. Among the victims in the fall of the House of Keating were thousands of people who had bought the now-worthless bonds hawked by the S&L. They didn't have the resources to buy Cranston's energetic service.

"Everybody does it" is the rhetoric of institutional decadence, crippling cynicism, moral poverty. To accept it as a rationale for slapping Cranston's wrist instead of kicking his behind would be to buy into a degrading mindset. He has dishonored a high calling and a public trust. Dishonor should be his reward.

Berry's World

Democrats face Unbeatable

WASHINGTON — August in Washington seems an odd time for a hot-stove league, but that's the only game in town. We sit around talking about Tom Harkin and Doug Wilder, and Bill Clinton and Mario Cuomo. Whatever became of Jesse Jackson? Could Jimmy Carter be resurrected?

Everything about the 1992 campaign seems a little odd. Here we are in the middle of August. The Iowa caucuses and Super Tuesday are just a few months in the distance, but at this writing the only announced Democratic candidate is — Paul Tsongas. Paul who? He's a former senator from Massachusetts.

By this time in other years, the hotel and barber shops of Davenport, Ames and Des Moines would be swarming with advance men, reporters, spin doctors, political prognosticators and other lower forms of life. By this time half a dozen candidates in each party would be raising money, issuing position papers and explaining why the Iowa caucuses aren't really that important.

This year's inactivity is eerie. The Democrats' problem is that no one of stature is wildly excited about taking on George Bush. The Republican's problem can be summed up in a single word: overconfidence. It may prove to be the more difficult problem to deal with.

In the past few weeks the Democrats have been building a platform against Bush, but this is a platform made of rough planks. No one can stand on it without getting splinters. The gist of it is that Bush has neglected domestic leadership in his concentration of foreign affairs. He would rather help the Kurds in Iraq than the mill hands of South Carolina. He's an abominable no-man — no to abortion, no to highway projects, no to civil rights, no to everything here at home.

There's just enough meat in this old cow for demagogues to feed on. Bush may respond defensively that he sent up his crime bill a long time ago, and Congress has yet to complete action. His transportation bill is just idling along. On Jan. 29 Bush asked Congress to ban contributions from political action committees as a part of election reform. The reply from Congress: Drop dead. Sen. Bob Dole introduced Bush's civil rights bill in March. Nothing doing.

Since the first of the year the president has talked about education, space technology and a national energy strategy. He has talked about banking reform, housing reform and investment in enterprise zones. He has talked of "new health initiatives." He has asked Congress to fuse various grant programs in order to give the states more discretion. Talk, talk, talk. But he hasn't really pushed for much of anything. He's barely even nudged. He's been out of town.

There are targets here, but who among the Democrats is capable of shooting effectively at them? The big guns are silent: Sam Nunn of Georgia, George Mitchell of Maine, Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, Dick Gephardt of Missouri — all of them have run out of powder. Sen. Jay Rockefeller just dropped out.

The names that figure in our drowsy conversations are not names to make the heart go pitty-pat. Iowa's Sen. Harkin is generally regarded as a blowhard. Arkansas' Gov. Clinton is highly esteemed by political sophisticates, but so what? Virginia's Gov. Wilder fumbled horribly in suggesting that Judge Clarence Thomas, if sent to the Supreme Court, would let his Catholic upbringing control his vote on abortion.

Who else? Mario Cuomo, of course, but Prince Hamlet of Albany remains engrossed in self-examination: To run or not to run? That is the question. Cuomo's supporters ask us to remember 1952. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois had won only 1.2 percent of the vote in primaries that spring, but he wowed the Chicago convention and walked off with the nomination. Well, Cuomo is the party's best orator — better, even, than the vanishing Jesse Jackson — and the convention will be held in Madison Square Garden.

Meanwhile, Republicans are as comfy as a cat on a pillow. Too comfy. One is reminded of the story Plutarch told about Aristides the Just. A vote was being taken on which statesman to exile. A country bumpkin met the great lawgiver on the street but failed to recognize him. The redneck remarked that he was going to vote to expel Aristides. The statesman asked, has he done you any wrong? No, said the countryman, I'm just tired of hearing him called "The Just."

The president is riding high in the public opinion polls, but these can be deceptive. Many a maverick voter may be weary of hearing about Bush the Unbeatable. It's something for the White House to keep in mind.

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, Aug. 21, the 233rd day of 1991. There are 132 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Aug. 21, 1878, a group of lawyers, judges and law professors founded the American Bar Association at the Saratoga, N.Y., town hall.

On this date:

In 1680, Pueblo Indians took possession of Santa Fe, N.M., after driving out the Spanish.

In 1831, former slave Nat Turner led a violent insurrection in Virginia. (He was later executed.)

In 1940, Communist revolutionary Leon Trotsky, whose clashes with Josef Stalin had led to his exile from the Soviet Union, died in Mexico City of wounds inflicted the day before by an assailant.

In 1944, the United States, Britain, the Soviet Union and China opened talks at Dumbarton Oaks in Washington that helped pave the way for establishment of the United Nations.

In 1945, President Truman ended the Lend-Lease program that had shipped some $50 billion in aid to America's allies during World War II.

In 1959, Hawaiian statehood took effect as President Eisenhower signed an executive order proclaiming Hawaii the 50th state of the union.

Business seeks greener pastures

Thirty years ago U.S. companies located in big cities began to ask themselves why. Why pay $50 a square foot for office rent and $11 an hour for someone to sweep floors?

Seeking a more cost-compatible environment for themselves and their employees, industries began to move out of town.

From 1960 to 1990, two-thirds of the Fortune 500 corporations headquartered in New York City left town. There was similar emigration in Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit and San Francisco.

They move first to the suburbs.

Soon corporate boom towns borders our principal cities. Until these suburbs became so virile, so vigorous, so crowded — and so expensive — that the benefits that motivate the exodus were diminished.

The revenue bonds, tax abatement and zoning changes that had first helped suburban industry relocate and prosper gave way to congested traffic, overflowing landfills, and the once-superior suburban schools fast became as troubled as any.

Some tried to fight back with malls and modifications — and failed.

Where to next?

Paul Harvey

David Heenan, in a new book call The New Corporate Frontier, has traced the next big move. Today's farsighted corporations are leap-frogging the megapolitans and landing in the grass roots of small towns. Some very small.

The new corporation migration is toward semi-rural areas — where they enjoy more space, affordable housing, less congestion, less pollution, less crime and better schools.

George Gallup's pollsters report that "more than half of American adults would, if they could, move to towns of fewer than 10,000 inhabitants."

Now, with fax machines, they can! Telecommunication has facilitated the new relocation.

The new American pioneers are working for L.L. Bean in Freeport, Me.; for Dow Chemical in Midland, Mich.; for Maytag in Newton, Iowa; for Smucker in Orrville, Ohio.

Half a dozen new industries have recently moved to Pueblo, Colo.

The country is going country. Stand in front of any newsstand — 10 of the newest home magazines have the word "country" in their title. No magazine is increasing in circulation faster than Country Living.

Idaho is not just for potatoes any more. One of our nation's biggest companies — Boise Cascade — is headquartered in Boise!

Kimberly-Clark has sunk roots in Neenah, Wis. Today the world's largest retailer, Wal-Mart, is home-based in Bentonville, Ark.

And the cities? The growth rates in cities like Los Angeles are slowing down. The cities are dinosaurs — choking on pollution, congestion and charity-related debt.

And, as Joel Oppenheimer wrote, "with the words 'born to lose' written with paint cans on their shabby walls."

Witch hunters thriving in Florida

By CHUCK STONE

In a state where witch hunters continue to torch the First Amendment, the residents of Florida might well consider postponing the celebration of this year's 200th anniversary of the Bill of Rights. Floridians may not have any less respect for the First Amendment than the residents of other states; they just seem to abuse it more often and more capriciously.

It is not mere coincidence when a single state's law enforcement agencies are responsible for so many actions that subvert at worst and weaken at best the First and Sixth Amendments.

First, the sheriff's office in Broward County arrested the rock group 2 Live Crew for an allegedly obscene performance, but turned the other cheek when there were equally obscene performances by white entertainers. 2 Live Crew was found not guilty.

Second, Palm Beach law-enforcement officers, aided and abetted by a salivating media and a constitutionally questionable law, have gutted the Sixth Amendment rights of William Kennedy Smith to a fair trial.

Third comes the arrest of Pee-wee Herman, a popular star with children, for allegedly masturbating in a porno theater whose only raison d'etre is to show dirty movies.

Many critics raised questions about the racial selectivity factor in the arrest of 2 Live Crew by Broward County sheriff officers. White rock groups were singing equally salacious lyrics, but were ignored by the Broward County sheriff's office.

The case of William Kennedy Smith disturbed many civil libertarians because of the circus-like atmosphere in which the investigation and arrest were made. It totally negated the common-law canon innocent until proved guilty. And a constitutionally suspect state law permits the introduction into evidence of other crimes, in the case of Smith, crimes for which he was never charged!

The arrest of Pee-wee Herman is especially troubling and sad for little children to whom it must — and should — be explained why he is no longer on television. Coping with a truth can be traumatic for children, and explaining can be difficult for parents since what Herman was arrested for is something that when done privately is not a misdemeanor. But honesty and affection can strengthen them against the idiocies of adults.

So why was Herman arrested? Well, apparently, the police officers in Sarasota County have nothing better to do, are bored or have latent emotional tendencies that are not totally alien to some of the impulses of the miscreants.

In an interview with Philadelphia Daily News columnist Dan Geringer, a spokesman for the Sarasota County sheriff's office confessed that undercover porno work is "something we do when we have no high crimes to keep the officers busy."

This is the state, mind you, that has the most inmates on death row. One can't help thinking that the citizens of Sarasota County would feel safer if their bored police officers started patrolling the streets.

But the candor of the sheriff's office spokesman may explain why one of his detectives completely disrobed with two prostitutes (as reported in the Sarasota Herald-Tribune) and allowed one of them to touch him in an orally sexual manner in order, he claims (don't laugh, now), to arrest her!

Let's hope that Florida eventually acquires some of the consensual civility that governs most of the nation and learns to balance the equities of the First Amendment's protection of free speech and the Sixth Amendment's guarantee of a fair trial. But in the meantime, we will sadly watch this happy-go-lucky, sun-splashed vacation paradise of witch hunters methodically destroy the reputations of the accused with little regard for whether they are guilty or innocent.

Coronado Hospital's birthday also 65th anniversary of Pampa hospitals

By LINDA HAYNES
Special to the News

When Dr. Malcolm Brown and Dr. R.W. Pieratt decided to build a small, 18-bed hospital in Pampa 65 years ago, they began a tradition of compassionate care for the people of the area. That legacy is being celebrated this week with the 10th birthday of Coronado Hospital.

The two-day celebration includes a formal dinner Friday night for the medical staff, management, long-time employees, and county and city dignitaries.

Saturday morning a circus tent behind the hospital will be the site for a cake and ice cream party for children born at the facility from 1981 to 1991. Children are invited to bring a copy of their birth certificate to receive a free t-shirt as long as supplies last, officials said.

The festivities will conclude with two events for employees. A catered barbecue picnic for employees and their families will be in the circus tent Saturday afternoon, and a dance will be held at the Chamber of Commerce building Saturday night.

The tenth birthday celebration coincides with the 65th anniversary of hospitals in Pampa.

In 1926, when the first Pampa hospital, called Pampa Jarrett, opened its doors, the city had been incorporated for just 14 years, although settlers had been in the area since the 1890s. Model-T Fords clogged the dirt streets of Pampa as the city tried to accommodate the huge surge in population brought on by the discovery of oil in Gray County the year before.

Drs. Brown and Pieratt built a two-story brick building that featured huge covered porches on each side. The basement housed the dining room and kitchen, the first floor accommodated the business office and patient rooms, and the second floor was the obstetric area, nursery, and surgery.

To reach the second floor, patients were placed in an elevator which was raised by ropes and pulleys. Some patients even remembered that the elevator clanged against the wall on its way up.

Shortly after the hospital opened, a flu epidemic, so bad that several patients were hospitalized, hit the young town.

When the hospital opened, the county seat of Gray county was still located in Lefors, and many in Pampa were not sure which town would become the dominant town of the county.

As the oil boom continued, the population continued to grow. In 1931, Dr. J.C. McKean, a 39-year-old physician who had so distinguished himself in research on the typhus germ that he was knighted by King George, came to Pampa. Dr. McKean had done medical research in Africa and Greece following his service in World War I.

With financial backing from Mrs. Phebe Worley, he opened a 40-bed clinic which later became known as the Worley Hospital. Dr. R.M. Bellamy, Dr. H.L. Wilder, and Dr. D.C. Hunter all practiced at the elegant hospital in the early days.

In 1933, the hospital was leased to Dr. M.C. Overton who operated it for many years.

The Worley Hospital was known for its elegance in those early years. An expensively landscaped exterior ornamented the three-story brick building. The downstairs waiting rooms had plush carpet and overstuffed chairs. Patients used a third-floor solarium as part of their therapy.

In 1948, when the Gray County commissioners decided to building Highland General Hospital, both the earlier hospitals were still in operation. The Pampa Jarrett Hospital closed in 1950, but the Worley Hospital continued in operation until 1974.

Highland General opened its doors in February 1950 with 90 beds. In 1957, the capacity was expanded to 126 beds.

From 1950 until 1979, Highland General was owned and operated by Gray County. A rapidly changing health care climate caused many hospitals in smaller towns to close during the 1970s. The Commissioners Court, like others throughout the country, struggled with the problems of owning a hospital in the face of increasing losses.

In April 1979, after months of controversy, the Gray County Commissioners signed a lease agreement with Hospital Corporation of America, giving HCA full control of both Highland General and McLean hospitals, which the county also owned.

In August 1981, HCA fulfilled their promise to Gray County by closing Highland General, and opening a 102,000-square foot, $13 million hospital, named Coronado Community Hospital.

The new three-story hospital, located on the north edge of Pampa, opened with 126-bed capacity, including a state-of-the-art eight-bed intensive care unit. The first floor houses the ancillary services, including lab, x-ray, physical therapy, surgery, respiratory therapy, pharmacy, business office, cafeteria, and administrative offices. A 24-hour emergency room is located on the south side of the first floor.

The second floor houses the ICU unit, the Extended Care Unit (ECU), the outpatient surgery rooms, and several offices.

Third floor is the home for the obstetrics unit and the medical/surgical patient unit.

In the 10 years of Coronado's history, many changes have taken place at the hospital. In 1985, the name was changed to HCA Coronado Hospital. In September 1988, HCA divested 104 smaller hospitals to form a new company called HealthTrust. Coronado Hospital became part of that young company which was an Employee Stock Ownership Plan (ESOP) company.

Norman Knox served as the administrator for the facility from the time it opened until September 1990.

During his tenure, he pushed constant innovation and improvement with the addition of a dedicated mammography room, a birthing room, a heart catheterization lab, a CT scanner, and an Extended Care Unit.

When Knox retired, Bruce W. Reinhardt took the reins of the hospital. In the year since his arrival, the hospital has added an Magnetic Resonance Imaging (MRI) mobile unit, a mobile lithotripsy unit, and cholecystectomy laparoscopy equipment for gall bladder surgery. Also, a new state-of-the-art Nuclear Medicine camera is expected to arrive later this month.

The hospital is planning an extensive renovation of the lobby area of the hospital to begin in September.

The renovation will add a more comfortable waiting area for family members of surgery patients and improve the efficiency of the admitting process, Reinhardt said.

HealthTrust recently announced plans to "go public" with its stock in September because of the strong performance of the new company.

Reinhardt said that in the 10 years of Coronado Hospital's existence, more than $6 million in new equipment has been added by the parent company in an effort to keep the facility at the leading edge of technology. Hospital officials expect more than $1 million in capital improvements at the hospital during the next year.

Crime Stoppers

This week Crime Stoppers of Pampa needs your help in solving the burglary of a business and an attempted robbery.

Sometime during the late night hours of Aug. 2 or the early morning hours of Aug. 3, the front window of Personal Touch, 113 N. Cuyler, was broken out. Taken from the store in the burglary were assorted ladies clothing in mixed colors and styles, sizes 6 through 12, valued at $20,000.

In the attempted robbery case, a black male came up to an individual at the Gas and Go in the 300 block of West Brown on Aug. 10 and asked the victim for his wallet. When the victim said he did not have a wallet, the black male hit him on the leg with a baseball bat twice and then ran west and south from the location. The suspect is described as a black male, about six feet tall and weighing about 180 pounds.

Due to anonymous tips received through Crime Stoppers, the Pampa Police Department has been able to clear a significant number of offenses and recover an appreciable amount of stolen property and illicit drugs.

Citizens may witness all or part of a crime without being aware of what they have seen. Consequently, they may unknowingly possess key information that could aid the police in solving the case.

In some instances, citizens do not contact police with information out of fear of retaliation by the criminal if their identity were revealed. In most instances, these citizens will not come forward with information unless they can be assured that they will be provided with complete anonymity by the police.

Also, citizens who do wish to help may not be sure who to contact or what procedure to follow to give information of this nature. Crime Stoppers is the answer.

Cash rewards of up to $1,000 are available for information leading to the arrest and indictment of persons committing crimes in Pampa.

The board of directors of Crime Stoppers urges citizen involvement in reporting crimes in our community.

Crime Stoppers does not want your name; all it wants is your information, which is kept strictly confidential. You do not have to appear in court. Remember - Crime doesn't pay, but Crime Stoppers does.

Citizens can remain anonymous and earn rewards for reporting crimes in this community by calling 669-2222.

Help us spot and prevent gas pipeline emergencies!

We transport natural gas along thousands of miles of underground steel pipelines. And we take great care to install and maintain our system in the safest manner possible. That's because we're committed to protecting everyone who lives and works along our pipeline route.

But despite all our safeguards, emergencies occur, primarily through outside forces, such as natural disasters and damage by persons working near our lines. We need your help to spot and report pipeline emergencies so we can react promptly. Better yet, we need everyone's cooperation to prevent accidents from taking place.

How to prevent a pipeline accident:

- Call BEFORE you dig, drill or doze.
- Watch for our signs at road, railroad and river crossings, at fence lines, ditches and other sites.
- For no-cost location of ALL underground facilities, call the Texas Excavation Safety System (TESS) at 1-800-DIG-TESS. Please call 48 hours in advance.

Prevent an accident—
call "TESS,"
1-800-DIG-TESS

Signs of a pipeline emergency:

- Hissing or shrill SOUND.
- Unusual BLOWING dirt or dust.
- Persistent BUBBLES in water.
- DYING PLANTS amid healthy ones.
- FIRE or EXPLOSION near pipeline.

How to report a pipeline emergency:

- Phone our 24-hour lines:
Natural Gas Pipeline at 1-800-733-2490 (TOLL-FREE).
Palo Duro Pipeline at 1-713-729-9710 (Call COLLECT).

How to respond to a pipeline emergency:

- Evacuate the area immediately.
- Avoid potential ignition sources.
- Warn others to stay away.

(AP photo) Turkey breast tenderloin steaks—Service these attractive turkey spirals with zucchini or carrots sliced into fancy vegetable ribbons.

Stuff turkey roll is topped with orange-pineapple sauce

By NANCY BYAL, Food Editor
Better Homes and Gardens Magazine

Fancy vegetable ribbons add an elegant touch to stuffed turkey rolls. And they're very easy to make. Use a vegetable peeler to remove thin lengthwise slices from zucchini or carrots. For ease in slicing, soften the vegetables by steaming them for a few minutes until they're tender.

Turkey Spirals

- With Fruit Stuffing:
- 1/2 teaspoon instant chicken bouillon granules
  - 1/3rd cup hot water
  - 2 tablespoons mixed dried fruit bits or raisins
  - 2 turkey breast tenderloin steaks (about 8 ounces total)
  - 1/4 teaspoon onion salt
  - 1/4 teaspoon paprika
  - Dash ground cinnamon
  - 1 cup dry raisin bread cubes (2 slices)
  - 1/2 cup orange-pineapple juice
  - 1 1/4 teaspoons cornstarch
  - 1 teaspoon honey
- For stuffing, in a medium mixing bowl dissolve bouillon granules in the hot water; add dried fruit or raisins. Let stand for 5 minutes.

Meanwhile, halve the turkey steaks lengthwise. If necessary, use a meat mallet to pound each turkey piece between 2 sheets of clear plastic wrap to 1/4-inch thickness.

Stir onion salt, paprika and cinnamon into fruit mixture. Add bread cubes; toss to moisten. Spread one-fourth of the stuffing on one side of each turkey piece. Loosely roll up the turkey steaks around the filling. Secure each roll-up with a toothpick, if necessary. Arrange the roll-ups, spiral side up, in a greased 8-by-4-by-2-inch loaf pan. Cover pan with foil. Bake in a 325-degree F oven for 35 to 40 minutes or until the turkey is tender and no pink remains.

Meanwhile, in a small saucepan stir together the orange-pineapple juice, cornstarch and honey. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture is thickened and bubbly. Cook and stir for 2 minutes more. Serve sauce over turkey rolls. Makes 2 servings.

Saving green stuff at the grocery

By NANCY BYAL, Food Editor
Better Homes and Gardens Magazine

A penny saved in the supermarket adds up to more than a penny earned, considering the amount of grocery shopping you do in a month or a year. Try these tips to polish your money-saving skills every time you shop:

- When buying canned goods, think about how you're going to serve them. If you're adding them to a mixture where shape, uniformity in size, and color don't matter, then use the thinnest form. For example, for tuna sandwiches, you could easily buy the least-expensive tuna and save the more costly chunk white tuna for a showy salad.
- Learn to compare prices. A store will often take a loss on certain items, such as canned soup, hoping you'll pick up other items that are not on sale.
- Buy non-fat dry milk for cooking and baking. Or, for drinking, mix equal parts of regular fluid milk and prepared non-fat dry milk. Remember, non-fat dry milk keeps for months in a cool, dry place. Evaporated milk is another economical choice. Substitute evaporated milk for regular milk in cooking by combining equal amounts of evaporated milk and water.
- Compare domestic and imported cheeses for the best value. Wedges or blocks will usually be less expensive than packaged cheeses that are sliced or shredded.
- Remember that margarine in a tub costs more than stick margarine; but both generally cost less than butter. When only butter will do, buy it in pound blocks.
- Clip and save coupons, and take them to the grocery store. It helps to have them organized by category.
- Compare the cost of foods by their unit price, such as per ounce or pound. Particularly check foods you use regularly to see if the "large economy size" is the best buy. Sometimes the unit price is posted on the shelves by the product. If not, you can figure the unit price by dividing the price by the number of units (ounces, pounds, or the like)

Bacon mushroom chicken is quick to fix fancy dish

By NANCY BYAL
Better Homes and Gardens Magazine
Food Editor

Want something special AND quick? These rolled chicken breasts cook in a microwave oven in half the time they normally take in a conventional oven — yet they have just as much flavor. To give them the golden color of conventional baking, brush the tops with a little melted butter, soy sauce or Worcestershire sauce before putting them in the microwave.

BACON MUSHROOM CHICKEN

- 2 whole large chicken breasts, skinned, boned and halved lengthwise
- 1/2 cup finely chopped mushrooms
- 1 tablespoon finely snipped parsley
- 2 tablespoons margarine or butter, softened
- 6 slices Canadian-style bacon, halved
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped green onion
- 1 tablespoon margarine or butter
- 1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
- Dash pepper
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup shredded Cheddar or American cheese (2 ounces)
- 4 slices rye bread

Rinse chicken; pat dry. Place one chicken breast half, boned side up, between 2 pieces of clear plastic wrap. Working from center to edges, pound lightly with the flat side of a meat mallet to form a rectangle

Low-fat rice takes place of high-fat nuts in this side dish

By NANCY BYAL, Food Editor
Better Homes and Gardens Magazine

Lightly browning the rice for this Italian-style risotto creates a pleasant nutty flavor, and takes the place of nuts, which are high in fat. For a tangy cheesy taste, this rich and creamy side dish relies on low-fat Parmesan cheese.

Pea and Pepper Risotto

- 1/4 cup finely chopped onion
  - 1 tablespoon margarine or butter
  - 3/4 cup long-grain rice, uncooked
  - 1/4 cup dry white wine
  - 1/4 teaspoon dried thyme, crushed
  - 1/8 teaspoon ground black pepper
  - 2 cups chicken broth
  - 1 cup loose-pack frozen peas, thawed
  - 1/2 cup chopped red sweet pepper
  - 1/3rd cup shredded Parmesan cheese
  - Shredded Parmesan cheese (optional)
- In a 2-quart saucepan cook onion in hot margarine or butter until tender but not brown. Add uncooked rice; cook and stir over medium-about 1/4 inch thick. Remove plastic wrap. Repeat with remaining chicken.

In a small mixing bowl combine mushrooms, parsley and the 2 tablespoons margarine or butter.

Place three bacon slice halves on top of each chicken breast half. Spoon one-fourth of the mushroom mixture over the bacon on each breast half. Fold in sides and roll up each breast half, starting with a narrow end. Secure with wooden toothpicks or non-metal skewers.

Arrange chicken rolls, seam side down, in a microwave-safe 8-inch round baking dish. Cover with microwave-safe plastic wrap; turn back one corner to vent. Cook on 100 percent power (high) for 6 to 8 minutes (low-wattage ovens: 7 to 9 minutes) or until chicken is tender and no pink remains, giving the dish a half-turn and rearranging the rolls after 4 minutes. Remove toothpicks. Cover to keep warm.

For sauce, in a 2-cup glass measure combine green onion and the 1 tablespoon margarine or butter. Cook, uncovered, on high for 30 to 40 seconds or until the margarine is melted. Stir in the flour and pepper. Stir in the milk. Cook, uncovered, on high for 2 to 3 minutes or until thickened and bubbly, stirring after every minute until sauce starts to thicken, then stirring every 30 seconds. Stir in cheese; cook, uncovered, on high for 30 seconds or until cheese melts, stirring once.

Slice each chicken roll crosswise and place on top of a slice of rye bread. Serve sauce over chicken. Makes 4 servings.

(AP photo) Forget the ketchup and mustard! Grilled frankfurters can be served with a variety of toppings, including garden crunch topping, coney island topping and southwestern topping. These barbecued bites can also be served on a taco shell, instead of the traditional bun.

Top dog toppings for those barbecued frankfurters

By The Associated Press

about 2 cups.

What's Labor Day without a picnic or backyard barbecue? Pile the table high with mounds of potato salad! Pitchers of icy cold lemonade! But don't forget the hot dogs!

There's no trick to grilling frankfurters. Just put them on the grid over medium coals. Grill 8 to 10 minutes, turning occasionally.

For a change of taste, serve the frankfurters on a taco shell instead of bun. And although ketchup and mustard are Americans' top dog toppings, how about Garden Crunch Topping, Coney Island Topping or Southwestern Topping? All are quick and easy to make.

Garden Crunch Topping: Combine 2 tablespoons sugar and 2 tablespoons white vinegar. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Add 1/2 cup very thinly sliced cucumber, 1/2 cup thinly sliced radish, 1 tablespoon minced onion and 1/8 teaspoon crushed red pepper flakes. Stir to coat. Allow vegetable mixture to stand at least 10 minutes. Drain liquid from vegetable mixture. Top each frank with an equal amount of vegetable mixture. Makes about 2 cups.

Coney Island Topping: Cook 1/2 pound ground beef and 1/2 cup chopped onion in a frying pan over medium-high heat until beef loses its pink color, stirring frequently. Pour off drippings. Stir in 2-3rds cup prepared barbecue sauce and cook until slightly thickened, about 2 to 3 minutes. Top each frank with an equal amount of barbecue beef sauce; sprinkle with an equal amount of 1/2 cup chopped onion. Makes about 2 cups.

Southwestern Topping: Combine 1/2 cup chopped cucumber, one 4-ounce can chopped green chilies, 1 medium tomato, chopped, and 1/2 teaspoon ground cumin. Place 1 tablespoon of the mixture in eight to 10 taco shells. Top with a grilled frankfurter. Cut 1/2 avocado into eight to 10 wedges. Place one avocado slice on one side of each frankfurter; top with an additional tablespoon of the mixture. Makes about 1 cup.

Texas Department of Health stresses rule changes for childhood immunizations

The Texas Department of Health wants to remind all parents and school or day care administrators that immunization rules for Texas children recently have been changed. In efforts to stop recent resurgences of so-called childhood diseases, the Texas Board of Health, in both 1990 and 1991, modified existing immunization requirements.

TDH urges parents to ensure that their children's immunization records comply with those rules. Physicians and local health departments can supply detailed information about the requirements. Low-cost or free back-to-school immunizations are offered throughout the year in many Texas communities.

One of the newest immunization rule changes eases restrictions against persons other than a child's parents who seek vaccinations for children in their care. Now, parents and legal guardians may formally delegate authority for signing immunization consent forms to other adults, such as a child's grandparent.

Other recent rule changes include a mandatory second dose of measles vaccine for all Texas school children by age 12. Also, children who are younger than 5 must be vaccinated against Haemophilus influenzae type b (Hib disease), a common cause of meningitis in children, and pertussis (whooping cough).

Wes Hodgson, epidemiology coordinator for the TDH immunization division, said, "The continuing measles outbreaks which began in 1988 underscores the tragic results of incomplete vaccinations. In recent years, some parents failed to protect their children against vaccine-preventable diseases, while some school and day care operators failed to keep adequate records so that inadequately immunized children went unnoticed. The result has been a growing number of insufficiently immunized children and young adults—all of whom are now vulnerable to infection."

Hodgson said that state law requires all children entering Texas schools or day care to show proof of immunization at certain ages against polio, tetanus, measles, rubella (German or three day measles), mumps and diphtheria. Younger children must also give proof of immunity to whooping cough and Hib disease.

"The law allows for some exceptions to these requirements," Hodgson added, "but each case must be considered individually."

He stressed that since a child's age and medical history are factors in which vaccines and "boosters" the child needs, parents should consult their family physicians about the required immunizations for each child.

Hodgson said that, beginning in 1992, college students enrolled in health related courses and medical and dental schools will be required to have certain immunizations against rubella, mumps, measles, tetanus, diphtheria, and hepatitis B. Veterinary students will need current vaccinations against rabies.

Educational program offered by Multiple Sclerosis Society

The Panhandle chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society is holding its annual educational program on Saturday, Sept. 21 at the Amarillo Garden Center, located at the Harrington Regional Medical Center off Wallace Blvd., Amarillo.

This year's program is entitled "MS 1991: The Emotional Aspects of MS...A New Challenge." There will be workshops for people with MS, and their family and friends. Professionals attending the program will receive 10 CEU's through Amarillo College.

Guest speakers, sponsored by the Clay Dine Fund at High Plains Baptist Hospital, will be Dr. Jack Petajan and Dr. Eve Sanford, husband and wife team, from Salt Lake City, Utah. Dr. Petajan, a neurologist, is the founder and director of the MS clinic at the University of Utah School of Medicine. He is a member of the medical advisory committee of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society. Dr. Sanford is psychologist and a consultant to the MS chapter in Utah.

Drs. Petajan and Sanford are co-authors of the book, Multiple Sclerosis and Your Emotions. The book discusses dealing with the stresses that MS creates, both for those diagnosed and families and friends.

Dr. Petajan will speak at the MS chapter's annual meeting, Sept. 20, discussing advances in research into the cause and cure of MS and sharing the national society's goals for the 1990's.

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

Man still mama's boy even after her death

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Abby is on a two-week vacation. Following is a selection of some of her favorite past letters.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a 55-year-old woman with a problem I've never seen in your column.

I have been going with this man for six years. He is 43, and he says he can't marry me because he promised his mama before she died three years ago that he wouldn't get married until his daddy got married, as she didn't want his daddy to be left all alone. His daddy hasn't got anybody to marry, and he isn't even looking.

Abby, I am no spring chicken, and I need to know how I can get this man either to let me quit him or marry me.

NO SPRING CHICKEN
IN ADA, OKLA.

DEAR NO: Only a dumb cluck would coop herself up waiting for her boyfriend's daddy to marry. Get another rooster on the roster.

DEAR ABBY: I have been living with Don for two years. I am 22 and he is 25.

I hear girls at the office talking about bringing covered dishes to family gatherings, going to his folks' or hers for dinner, or for the weekend or the holidays, and I get more heartsick every day.

I've begun to realize what marriage is all about. It's really belonging to someone who loves you enough to want to make you a member of his family.

Don is always telling me what a wonderful arrangement we have and how much he loves me.

The past several months, I've been asking myself: "If it's so wonderful and he loves me so much, why do we lie, sneak around and let people assume we are married?"

Why doesn't he ask me to marry him and become a member of his family? They don't even know I exist.

DEAR HEARTSICK: Because he doesn't want a legal commitment. And if he is able to get all the benefits of marriage with none of the responsibilities, who can blame him? I am assuming he didn't kidnap you. You agreed to live with him without marriage. You walked into it of your own free will, and you're free to walk out. Why don't you? I think you're ready.

DEAR ABBY: When I first heard about topless swimsuits for girls, I thought it was just a lot of talk, but yesterday I actually saw one for sale in a store!

If women would consider wearing a topless swimsuit in public, we have reached a new low in our civilization — even lower than the decadence that preceded the fall of the Roman empire.

Topless swimsuits? Have we lost all sense of decency? Who cares if we are bombed back to the Stone Age? What's left to save?

MOTHER OF GIRLS

DEAR MOTHER: The bottoms.

Miami Volunteer Emergency Service receives foundation grant for newer ambulance

The Miami Volunteer Emergency Medical Service is the recipient of a $15,000 grant from the Amarillo Area Foundation with funds from its supporting organization, The Don and Lybil Harrington Foundation.

According to a press release from the group, the funds are to be used to purchase another ambulance and the Miami Volunteer EMS has agreed to purchase a 1984, type III ambulance that is basic life support equipped. The ambulance service expects it to be ready for service during August 1991.

The Miami Volunteer EMS is a volunteer, non-profit service which seeks to provide emergency medical care and basic life support transport to nearby hospitals. They are the only ambulance service in Roberts County within 25 miles of Pampa or Canadian.

The Foundation granted the money upon realizing the need the Miami Volunteer EMS had for a second and newer ambulance so they could provide Miami and Roberts County with 24 hour service, according to information released by the ambulance service. An average run to Pampa or Canadian leaves the city of Miami without ambulance service for two hours. With the purchase of a new ambulance this will be corrected.

No need to fear bad breath

By NYU SCHOOL OF MEDICINE
For AP Newsfeatures

small air pockets in the gums trap food and bacteria and become infected.

Do you cause flowers to wilt by breathing on them? Do your friends stand five feet away to talk to you?

Don't just pop mints in your mouth and hope that no one notices. While everyone has had breath at some time, knowing what causes bad breath can help prevent it.

"Bad breath, known as 'halitosis,' in itself is not a disease," said Dr. Stuart J. Froum, an associate professor of periodontics at New York University's Kraser Dental Center. "Bad breath is a sign of an underlying problem."

About 90 percent of the problems which can cause bad breath come from inside the mouth. The main causes are gum disease, cavities or poor-fitting restorations.

When bacteria in food breaks down and decays in the mouth it releases volatile sulfur compounds, causing the offensive odor. This odor can often be eliminated by brushing and flossing your teeth and gums.

Froum also advises brushing your tongue, especially the back where bacteria can accumulate.

Basic dental work can often eliminate persistent bad breath. If you have a cavity that goes unfilled or an incorrectly fitted restoration, food may remain trapped after brushing in the small holes in the tooth.

Neglecting your dental hygiene may lead to gingivitis, an inflammation of the gums which may produce a sulfur smell. This is more often the case with periodontitis, where Another simple prevention for bad breath is to drink a lot of fluids which will increase the saliva in the mouth. Saliva is a natural cleanser, and anything that causes the mouth to be dry such as vigorous exercise, diet, smoking, certain medications or alcohol consumption will also cause the saliva to decrease.

"In most cases bad breath occurs in the morning because the salivary flow slows as a person sleeps," commented Froum.

If these precautions have been taken and the odor persists it may be a sign of another condition.

During the menstrual cycle women will usually have a natural increase in sulfur compounds in their mouths which often causes an objectionable breath odor.

Other more serious causes include diabetes, hypoglycemia, renal disease or liver disease, which all have a characteristic odor. Froum said some dentists have been able to detect underlying diseases by the scent of a patient's breath.

Of course, your bad breath may just be caused by eating garlic which can linger in the body for up to 44 hours after it is consumed.

Froum added that mouthwash and breath mints should not be relied on as self cures because they only cover the problem for a short time, like perfume.

In some cases, they may even exacerbate it because they contain alcohol and salt compounds.

Marino inks mega-buck deal

5-year pact reported at $25-million

MIAMI (AP) — Dan Marino, the golden-armed quarterback of the Miami Dolphins, cashed in Tuesday when he agreed to perhaps the richest contract in NFL history.

Neither Dolphins management nor Marino would release details of the contract other than it was a 5-year extension of his current pact which will pay him $1.6 million this year.

Several newspapers reported Tuesday that Marino and his agent Marvin Demoff negotiated a contract for $25 million, including a $3 million signing bonus.

"This gives security for my family," said Marino, 29, who has three sons ages 2 to 5. "As a dad you always want that for your kids. The biggest thing for me is getting paid a lot of money for doing what I love to do."

Dolphin president Tim Robbie wouldn't discuss the numbers, but he heaped praise on his star quarterback.

"We feel Dan is one of the best players in the history of the NFL and the contract reflects that," Robbie said. "As long as we have number 13 on the field, we have a shot at the Super Bowl."

Marino, entering his ninth season, was a first-round draft choice from the University of Pittsburgh. He led Miami to the 1984 Super Bowl as a second-year quarterback, where he was outduelled by Joe Montana and the San Francisco 49ers, 38-16.

If reports on Marino's contract prove true, it will have pushed him past Montana's $3.5 million per year to make him the highest-paid player in the NFL.

"Montana's a great quarterback," Marino said, dodging the comparison.

son at a news conference at Joe Robbie Stadium. "I just want to get one of his Super Bowl rings."

Don Shula, Marino's only pro coach, said the quarterback proved his worth last year despite compiling lesser numbers than in past seasons.

"When you think about Dan's numbers, 1984 was mind-boggling," said Shula, of the year Marino threw for 48 touchdowns and 5,084 yards. "But even though his numbers didn't reflect it, I thought he had his best year last year with his leadership on the field and in the locker room."

Marino, the second-highest rated quarterback of all time behind Joe Montana, completed 306 of 531 passes for 3,563 yards and 21 touchdowns last year. Also in 1990, Marino reached the 30,000-yard career mark in his 114th game, the quickest any quarterback had ever achieved it.

The Dolphins relied on the running game more in 1990 and went 12-4, their first trip to the playoffs since 1985.

"I've coached a lot of great quarterbacks," said Shula, who joked about his own all-time high player's contract of $9,750. "Johnny Unitas and Earl Morrall with Baltimore and Bob Griese — all top players, top individuals. Then we drafted Dan. The first thing I remember is he made practice exciting."

Marino is coming off one of his worst statistical games ever, hitting just nine of 27 in Monday night's 21-13 exhibition loss to Denver.

"I was 1 of 18 in a high school game," Marino said. "I promise we'll do a lot better than we did last night."

Ewing commits to Olympic play

Knicks star joins Magic

By The Associated Press

Patrick Ewing has joined Magic Johnson in committing to the U.S. Olympic basketball team, leaving the selection committee with as many as nine more NBA players to be sought for the 1992 Barcelona Games.

The commitment of Ewing was confirmed Tuesday by Ted Ewan-ciw, a spokesman for Pro Serv, the agency that represents the New York Knicks' center.

"Patrick has said he's enthusiastic about playing," Ewan-ciw said. Johnson said earlier this month that he wanted to play and was hoping to convince Michael Jordan to join him.

Ewing and Johnson are just two of the NBA players being sought to play for the U.S. Olympic team. Others being wooed by the committee, in addition to Jordan, on what USA Today has described as a wish list of players are Karl Malone and John Stockton of Utah, David Robinson of San Antonio, Charles Barkley of Philadelphia, Larry Bird of Boston, Chris Mullin of Golden State, and Jordan's teammate Scottie Pippen.

Craig Miller, a media spokesman for USA Basketball, said the Ewing commitment was news to him. But he said a list of those who will play won't be released until Sept. 21.

"What has been happening is that committee members have been making contact with NBA players explaining time commitments and going over the scenario and inquiring about interest," Miller said from his office in Colorado Springs, Colo. "I don't think official invitations have been extended, but I'm not in a position to know who is on this wish list."

Miller said the 12-man team will be composed of up to 11 NBA players. They would not be asked to try out, and a commitment would guarantee a spot on the team, which will be coached by Chuck Daly of the Detroit Pistons.

"Whoever they name on the 21st will play unless that person becomes injured or withdraws," Miller said. "Then the selections would come from a list of college players."

Johnson is eager to play. "I've talked to Chuck Daly and we're all set," Johnson said. "Missing out on the Olympics as an amateur leaves something incomplete in my basketball career."

Johnson said pros are needed for the United States to regain a position of prominence in international basketball. The U.S. has not won a major international event since the 1986 World Championships.

A team composed entirely of amateurs lost last week to Puerto Rico in the Pan American Games.

"Our amateur teams have been struggling in recent years," Johnson said. "Times have changed. The job is too tough for college boys now because other countries are using their pros."

As for his effort to entice Jordan — a 1984 Olympian — Johnson has had no luck despite dangling a lucrative carrot.

"I even told him I'd give him a million dollars if he'd do it," Johnson said. "But so far he hasn't changed his mind."

Twins' Erickson ups record to 16-5

By The Associated Press

Scott Erickson became the major leagues' first 16-game winner with a little help from his friends. Mark Langston might have 16 wins, too — if he had Erickson's friends.

Erickson, struggling to find the form he had before straining his right elbow in June, gave up five runs, three earned, in 5 1-3 innings against Seattle. But he got more than enough offensive support to improve to 16-5 as Minnesota beat the Mariners 10-5 on Tuesday night.

Langston, pitching on his 31st birthday, was much sharper than Erickson, allowing only five hits in eight innings. But an error led to a pair of third-inning runs and the California left-hander took the loss in Oakland's 3-2 victory.

Erickson (16-5) and the Twins both say he's healthy, even though he has a 6.88 ERA in his eight starts since coming off the disabled list.

"That's the best arm speed he's had since the All-Star break," pitching coach Dick Such said. "I shouldn't have to answer any more questions about his health."

Luckily for Erickson, the Twins have scored 51 runs in those eight starts since his return, enabling him to go 4-2. He's allowed 13 earned runs in his last nine innings, but didn't seem concerned about his struggles against the Mariners.

"I got a few balls up and they hit them," Erickson said. "My problems are more mechanical now. I've got no pain, no soreness. I'm happy. The velocity is coming back."

Kent Hrbek had a three-run double for the Twins and Mike Pagliarulo singled in the go-ahead run in the fourth off Erik Hanson (7-6) as the Twins moved 4 1/2 games ahead of second-place Chicago in the West.

In other AL games, it was Baltimore 8, Texas 6; Toronto 3, Milwaukee 1; Detroit 5, Chicago 0, and New York 7, Kansas City 3. Cleveland and Boston had a doubleheader postponed by rain.

Athletics 3, Angels 2
Langston was outpitched by Ron Darling, who's found new life since being dealt to Oakland on July 31.

Darling (3-0) allowed six hits and two runs in 7 2-3 innings for his third win in as many starts at the Oakland Coliseum. Rick Honeycutt got the last out in the eighth and Dennis Eckersley pitched the ninth for his 35th save.

Langston, 15-7 overall but 0-3 against Oakland, gave up three runs, one earned, as he lost for the third time in four decisions over his last five starts.

"We've done well against Langston this year, but we haven't hit him hard," Oakland manager Tony La Russa said. "We didn't get many chances — Langston pitched well — but I thought we could have gotten more."

American League

Dave Henderson, 10-for-12 this season against Langston, had an RBI single in a two-run third inning that was set up when second baseman Luis Sojo dropped a throw from shortstop Dick Schofield on a fielder's choice.

"He's done everything we've asked him to do," Angels manager Doug Rader said of Langston. "We didn't sustain any offense tonight. No consecutive hits to get anything going."

Orioles 8, Rangers 6

Glenn Davis, playing in his second game after missing nearly four months with a neck injury, matched his career high with five RBIs as the Orioles won in Texas. Davis doubled in two runs in the first inning and tied the game with a three-run homer in the fifth.

"I've been working pretty hard, trying to get my strength back," Davis said. "I won't tell you it was easy."

Leo Gomez put the Orioles ahead to stay in the sixth with a solo homer off Wayne Rosenthal (1-2). Chris Hoiles added a solo shot in the ninth. Kevin Reimer hit a three-run homer and Brian Downing had a two-run shot in the third for Texas.

Dave Johnson (4-4), who entered the game with an 8.56 ERA, pitched four scoreless innings of relief for the win. Mike Flanagan relieved with the bases loaded in the ninth and got Rafael Palmeiro to hit into a game-ending double play for his second save.

Blue Jays 3, Brewers 1

Todd Stottlemyre pitched seven strong innings to beat Milwaukee for the second straight start as the Blue Jays won before 50,211 at the SkyDome.

Stottlemyre (12-5) allowed seven hits, including B.J. Surhoff's solo homer. Duane Wenck pitched the eighth and Tom Henke worked the ninth for his 29th save in 30 chances.

Toronto got all the runs it needed in the first off Chris Bosio (9-9) on Pat Borders' sacrifice fly and Manuel Lee's RBI single.

Tigers 5, White Sox 0

Walt Terrell pitched a six-hitter for his second shutout in 10 days as the visiting Tigers stayed 2 1/2 games behind Toronto in the East while handing the White Sox their eighth loss in 10 games.

Terrell (9-10), rocked for six runs in 3 1-3 innings by Chicago last Wednesday, walked three and struck out four to win for the fifth time in his last six decisions.

Lloyd Moseby, in his first at-bat since returning from the disabled list, homered in the first inning off Charlie Hough (7-7).

Yankees 7, Royals 3

New York scored four runs in the second, three during a botched double play, to beat slumping Kansas City at Royals Stadium.

The Yankees loaded the bases with none out in the second off Mark Gubicza (7-7). Kevin Maas then hit a sharp grounder to second baseman Terry Shumpert, who opted to try for the double play at second but threw the ball into left field as all three runners scored.

Scott Sanderson (13-8) allowed three runs in five innings to become the first New York pitcher to win as many as 13 games since Andy Hawkins won 15 in 1989.

Clark hits grand slam in Giants win

By The Associated Press

Will Clark had a little incentive against the Astros. He wanted to shut up Houston's fans.

"They were all over me," Clark said. "They had a blast."

Clark had the last blast Tuesday night. He hit a game-tying double in the sixth inning, then broke a 3-3 tie with a grand slam in the seventh as San Francisco won 9-3 and ended a three-game losing streak.

"When I came in after the first inning, they were cursing and I told them to keep it clean," Clark said. "Any time you're at a visiting park you expect some of that, but with kids all around I don't like to hear cursing."

With the score tied at 3, Dave Anderson singled and Jimmy Jones (6-8) walked Kevin Bass and Willie McGee. Rob Mallicoa relieved and Clark hit his second pitch for his third career grand slam. It gave him 23 hits in his last 52 at-bats, a .442 average.

National League

"After I hit the grand slam, they didn't say a word," Clark said. "They just hung their heads."

Kevin Mitchell homered on the next pitch, chasing Mallicoa. It also was the 24th home run for Mitchell.

"They've got a heck of a lineup," Astros manager Art Howe said. "They are always one swing away from changing the outlook of a game."

In other games, Los Angeles beat San Diego 6-4, Philadelphia beat Pittsburgh 6-5, Cincinnati and Atlanta split a doubleheader as the Reds won 8-2 and lost 5-1, and Montreal beat Chicago 4-2. St. Louis' game at New York was postponed by rain.

Kelly Downs (10-4) won his eighth consecutive decision since June 5, pitching one inning of one-hit relief. Jeff Brantley pitched three innings for his 11th save.

Dodgers 6, Padres 4

Ramon Martinez ended his three-game losing streak despite leaving the game with a bruised pitching arm. The Dodgers widened their NL West lead to 2 1/2 games over Atlanta.

Eddie Murray and Darryl Strawberry homered off Greg Harris (4-4) and Kal Daniels celebrated his 28th birthday with a home run off Jose Melendez at Dodger Stadium.

Martinez (15-8) led 5-3 in the sixth when Jack Howell lined a pitch off the bicep of his right arm. Martinez left immediately, having allowed four runs and five hits.

Jay Howell got three outs for his 13th save.

Phillies 6, Pirates 5

Dickie Thon hit a two-out, two-run homer in the ninth as the Phillies snapped the visiting Pirates' four-game winning streak. Pittsburgh's lead was cut to 6 1/2 games over St. Louis in the NL East.

Barry Bonds' RBI single gave Pittsburgh a 5-4 lead in the ninth, but Dale Murphy led off the bottom of the inning with a single off Stan Belinda (3-4) and, two outs later, Thon hit his seventh home run.

Steve Searcy (2-1) pitched two-thirds of an inning for the victory.

Reds 8, Braves 2

John Smoltz pitched a five-hitter and improved to 7-2 since the All-Star break in the second game as the visiting Braves gained a split.

Joe Oliver drove in five runs and Jose Rijo (9-4) allowed two runs and five hits in 7 2-3 innings as Cincinnati won the opener.

Steve Avery (13-7) left the first game with two outs in the four-run fifth inning because of a blister on his pitching hand. He gave up six hits and four runs.

In the second game, Smoltz (9-13) struck out eight and walked two in his fourth complete game. Ron Gant broke 1-1 tie with a two-run double in the eighth off Mo Sanford (1-2). Expos 4, Cubs 2

Rookie Chris Haney (2-4) gave up two runs and six hits in six innings as Montreal beat visiting Chicago for only the third time in 11 games this season.

Andres Galarraga had three hits, breaking a 2-2 tie with an RBI single in the sixth off Bob Scanlon (5-6).

Mel Rojas, the Expos' third pitcher, threw 2 1-3 innings for his first save.

Crenshaw, Azinger capture Meyer Challenge

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Ben Crenshaw sank a 35-foot birdie putt on the second playoff hole Tuesday to give him and teammate Paul Azinger the $100,000 first prize in the Fred Meyer Challenge.

Three teams finished tied at 19-under 125 through the two rounds, forcing the first playoff in the six-year history of the best-ball tournament.

Two teams tied for first in the initial Fred Meyer event, but no playoff was held.

First-round leaders Raymond Floyd and Fred Couples tied for second with Bob Gilder and Mark Calcavecchia. Each second-place team won $37,500.

The tournament carried a $700,000 purse. The last-place finishers were guaranteed $22,500 apiece.

Floyd and Couples had an excellent chance to win the tournament on the first playoff hole, but missed nearly identical 10-foot birdie putts. Gilder and Calcavecchia, who had led most of the final round, bogeyed the first playoff hole and were eliminated.

Floyd also could have won the title on the 18th hole, but he missed a 10-foot eagle attempt. His birdie tap-in and Crenshaw's 3-foot birdie putt moments later forced the playoff.

"When Raymond hits a shot like that he usually finishes it off," Crenshaw said. "He played a gorgeous 3-wood in. I guess when I was looking at him I didn't see his eyes bulge like they usually do. Maybe that's why he missed it."

Crenshaw had birdies on five of the last seven holes, counting the playoff.

"He was unbelievable," Azinger said, "then he made that little bitty guy on 17 to win it."

Crenshaw said he loves the greens at the par-72, 6,632-yard Portland Golf Club course and the long putt he sank to win it on the par-3 17th is the kind he likes.

"It went up over a little bit of a hill and then went a little bit down," he said. "I had a good feel today for the most part. I saw it go out about halfway and thought it looked pretty good and about three-quarters of the way it looked better."

"You know I'm 0-7 in playoffs," Crenshaw said. "But not anymore."

It was almost a four-team playoff. Wayne Levi and Gil Morgan both missed short birdie putts on the 18th that would have left them at 19-under. Levi and Morgan also had a double bogey on the par-4 ninth hole, only the second in the tournament's history. They came back with an eagle by Morgan on the 10th.

Azinger, who hasn't played on the PGA tour for nine weeks because of a shoulder injury, became the first two-time winner at the challenge. He teamed with Bob Tway to win the 1988 event.

"That should be worth a lifetime exemption," Azinger joked.

"You want a lifetime exemption, you've got it," tournament host Peter Jacobsen said.

Gilder, a local favorite from Corvallis, got almost no help from Calcavecchia, who missed six greens on the final nine holes. Gilder, though, had five birdies and an eagle to keep his team in front.

Cowboys cut draft pick; Broncos drop Bratton

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Football Writer

The Miami Dolphins have one first-string quarterback, are perfectly content with him, and are willing to give him the largest financial package in the NFL.

The New York Giants have two first-string quarterbacks and are trying to figure out if they can use them both in the same game.

While the Dolphins were signing Dan Marino to a contract extension expected to pay him $25 million over five years, Giants' coach Ray Handley was once again delaying his announcement on his starter — Phil Simms or Jeff Hostetler. In fact, he said he was considering alternating the two during some games.

In New Jersey, meanwhile, Handley was still mulling over what to do about Simms and Hostetler, each of whom has quarterbacked the Giants to a Super Bowl victory.

Handley, who promised to make a decision after the third exhibition game, met with both quarterbacks and again said he had two first-stringers.

"I didn't want to make the quarterback situation out to be a circus," Handley said. "I'm trying to determine how to come out of this without the perception that there's a loser here."

There were a lot of other losers around the NFL as teams pared down to the 60-player roster limit by the 4 p.m. EDT deadline.

Among the prominent names to go Tuesday were two Broncos — Melvin Bratton, Denver's starting fullback the past two seasons and linebacker Rick Dennison, a 10-year veteran. Atlanta cut another 10-year man, offensive lineman John Scully; Cleveland released 36-year-old Roy Green, once one of the NFL's top receivers, and the Rams cut defensive lineman Doug Reed, an 8-year veteran.

Backup quarterback Steve Pelluer, meanwhile, returned to the Chiefs after walking away a week ago and told coach Marty Schottenheimer he wanted to resume his career.

"I've been dealing with a personal issue, and now I've overcome that," said Pelluer, who will be able to practice with a roster exemption that will keep him from being counted against the 60-player limit.

"Now I'm trying to work it through with Marty. I made a decision to come back and want to see if it's possible."

Aside from Bratton, Dennison and Scully, most of Tuesday's cuts were low draft choices, free agents and marginal veterans.

All-Pro linebacker Lawrence Taylor, who sprained an ankle against the Jets Saturday night — an injury that at first seemed much more serious — returned to practice.

The Giants also finished their cut to 60 players, waiving tight end Ted Popson, their 11th-round draft choice and placing linebacker Chad Thorson on injured reserve.

IRVING, Texas (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys reduced their roster to 60 players on Tuesday with a number of moves that included the release of ninth-round draft pick Damon Mays, a wide receiver from Missouri who had been impressive in training camp.

The Cowboys cut Mays, running back Paul Frazier, a free agent from Southwestern Louisiana, defensive back Don Smith, a free agent from Liberty College; and linebacker Reggie Cooper, a rookie linebacker and free agent from Nebraska.

Veteran lineman Willie Broughton and Keith Powe, a rookie free agent defensive end from Texas-El Paso, were waived with an injury settlement.

Linebacker Kevin Harris and running back Tony Boles were put on the reserve/non-football injury list.

Running back Keith Jones was placed on the reserve physically unable to perform list.

Free agent safety Michael Brooks and running back Udra Johnson were placed on the injured reserve.

Doctor: NFL steroid use going undetected

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The use of anabolic steroids by NFL players is going undetected because of inaccurate testing for the performance-enhancing drugs, a newspaper reported.

The NFL conducted more than 6,000 tests for steroids last year and only 13 players were reported suspended for drug use.

Dr. Mauro DiPasquale, who has written eight books on steroids and introduced drug testing into international powerlifting in 1981, said the only reason so few players are suspended is they simply don't get caught. "If I wanted, I could have every NFL player up to his eyeballs in steroids and the league would not catch one of them," DiPasquale is quoted as saying in today's edition of The Palm Beach Post.

The tests can be beaten, experts say, by taking steroids that can't be differentiated from hormones found in the body or by taking masking agents to hide the presence of steroids. Also, there are drugs that work like steroids but haven't been banned for use by athletes.

Atlanta Falcons offensive tackle Bill Fralic, who two years ago told a Senate subcommittee that three-of-four NFL players took steroids, said random testing this year has helped decrease the use of the drugs.

But Fralic added, "It hasn't gone away. I still know people who are doing it ... and I don't know of any way to keep them from doing it."

Lyle Alzado, a former defensive lineman, attributes his brain cancer to longtime steroid use. He said recently on "The Larry King Show" that he believes 70 percent of NFL players use steroids.

Pittsburgh Steelers guard Terry Long twice attempted suicide last month after reportedly failing a NFL drug test.

Such publicity has put the NFL on the defensive.

"It doesn't make the NFL look good," Fralic told the Post. "The NFL doesn't want people to think these guys are running around doing drugs; they want to sell another image. But the image is nowhere near the fact."

The NFL says its drug testing is effective and that steroid use is down.

"It's unfair to brand the whole league as a bunch of steroid users," NFL spokesman Greg Aiello said. "It's inaccurate. You have to give our players more credit than that."

The NFL began testing for steroids only two years ago and suspending players who tested positive last year. In November, Congress made the possession and sale of steroids illegal.

In 1989, the league announced 18 players had tested positive. Last year, while no figures were released by the league, 13 players were reported suspended for drug use.

Dr. John Lombardo, director of the NFL's drug program, answered questions from The Palm Beach Post through Aiello.

"We are doing everything possible under the current technology," Lombardo told Aiello. "I don't believe there are a lot of players using steroids."

Lombardo admitted that testing procedures aren't foolproof. The most drastic step taken so far was the NFL's decision to random test this year, with seven players selected by computer each week.

But experts say the tests are routinely beaten.

"Look at the linemen in the NFL," said Dr. Chuck Yesalis, a professor of exercise and sport science at Penn State. "You've got linemen who are 300 and more pounds with body fat in the 10-15 percent range. Frankly, I don't see how they get that big ... without steroids."

Former Pittsburgh Steelers guard Steve Courson says the problem is compounded by the NFL looking the other way as society puts such an emphasis on winning.

Courson, who admits he used steroids over a 15-year period, suffers from dilated cardiomyopathy, an enlarged heart that some doctors say is the result of his years of steroid abuse.

Soviet tennis player is coping

in the Soviet Union was only one of the problems facing Natalia Zvereva at the Virginia Slims of Washington. She also had some more mundane concerns.

"A lot of bad things happened," Zvereva said Tuesday after suffering a mild upset at the hands of Czechoslovakia's Radka Zrubakova.

"I had problems with my hotel reservation in California. When I got off the plane here, by bags didn't arrive. I had to borrow someone else's clothes, and they didn't fit too well," she said.

"Rackets? Thank God I didn't check them through. If I was an American, I'd probably sue Northwest Airlines," she went on. "I didn't have a great day yesterday (Monday)."

Zvereva, ranked 19th in the world, lost the final five games as she fell to Zrubakova 6-4, 7-5.

Like most Soviet citizens abroad, she had other things on her mind that made it "tough to concentrate."

Her father coaches in Hanover, Germany, and both her parents are there, out of danger. But her brother is in her native Minsk, in the Byelorussian Republic, and she has been unable to reach him.

"I couldn't get through. I tried all night and all day, but the circuits were busy," she said.

Unlike countrywoman Leila Meskhi, who said Monday she'd be going home after the U.S. Open, "bad situation or good," Zvereva is unsure about return-

"I don't think so. It won't be safe enough for me," she said. She had no specific reason for fearing for her safety.

"Just things you hear," she said. "I'm not very experienced in these things. I don't know what to do right now. It's probably better not to talk about it now," she said. "I haven't spoken to my father, who has always given me very good advice."

Meskhi, from Soviet Georgia, was home earlier this month and found "everything fine."

Zvereva, who left for the United States 25 days ago, said she was concerned about Soviet political tensions before her departure, but would not elaborate.

One of the few nations to have recognized the group which ousted Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev is Cuba, which crossed Pam Shriver's mind before her Tuesday afternoon match. Shriver, who advanced to the second round with a 6-2, 6-3 win over South Africa's Elna Reinach, returned last week from Havana, where she won three gold medals at the Pan American Games.

"I couldn't help but think about it, having just come back from Cuba. And I thought about how I'd played in Moscow two years ago, and how everything must be so different now," Shriver said.

Irish field new stars

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Rocket Ismail is playing in Canada. Todd Lyght, Chris Zorich and Mike Stonebreaker are in the National Football League.

So Notre Dame coach Lou Holtz is worried about this year. But, then, Holtz is always worried.

"The race does not always go to the swift and the battle does not always go to the strong, but it is the intelligent way to bet," Holtz said.

But don't bet against Notre Dame this season. Despite their losses, the Fighting Irish will field another lineup filled with potential stars and All-Americans.

One of them is quarterback Rick Mirer, who passed for 1,824 yards and eight touchdowns last season as the Irish went 9-3.

"I think Rick Mirer will make enough good plays," Holtz said. "He just needs to eliminate the bad ones."

Rodney Culver, who rushed for 710 yards and five TDs last season, will be the starting tailback. But the Irish also expect big things from sophomore speedster Willie Clark.

"Will Clark is legitimately a game-breaker," Holtz said. "We really need a game-breaker after losing Rocket."

Another sophomore standout is wide receiver Lake Dawson, who grabbed a deflected pass for a 45-yard play in last year's season-opening victory over Michigan.

There's also great expectations for freshman receiver Mike Miller, who is supposedly even faster than the Rocket.

On defense, Holtz promises an improved secondary after last season's crew gave up an average of 277 passing yards per game. But there could be problems with the defensive line, where the lone returning starter, tackle George Williams, may miss the season due to personal problems.

Fortunately, Holtz's problems are limited to the football field. Unlike recent years, he hasn't been distracted by allegations of steroid use on the team, player run-ins with the law, pregame fights or NCAA investigations.

PHS volleyball

PALO DURO — The Pampa High School junior varsity volleyball squad beat Palo Duro Tuesday night, but the PHS vasyity team was not as successful.

The PHS vasyity won the first game 15-2 and lost the second game 12-15. In the tie-breaking third game, Palo Duro won 15-3, according to PHS volleyball coach Denise Reed.

Reed said the vasyity squad started the match with a lot of intensity, but gradually lost momentum and the decisive final game.

High scorers for PHS were LaTonya Jefferey with 10 points, Joy Cambern with 6, and Amber Seaton with 5 points.

The junior varsity team won the first and second games, 15-2 and 15-7 respectively.

New England digs out after hurricane

By ROBERT W. TROTT
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Provincetown teacher Francis Mitchell Jr. couldn't get up the nerve to open his refrigerator a day after Hurricane Bob knocked out power.

"I'm sure most of the stuff in the fridge is gone," said Mitchell, one of hundreds of thousands of New Englanders still without electricity late Tuesday.

Throughout the region, work crews removed gnarled trees from roads — in Warwick, R.I., officials broke out the snowplows — and insurance company representatives met with owners of damaged homes.

At least 16 deaths were blamed on the storm, and 2.1 million businesses and homes lost power. With utility officials predicting it could be days before power is restored in some areas, people lined up to buy ice to keep food fresh.

"We cleared the floor bone dry," said Joe Swift, owner of the East Bay Ice Co. in East Providence, R.I., which makes 135 tons of ice a day. "Just before 2 p.m. there had to be 100 to 150 people out there."

Massachusetts Gov. William Weld estimated damage in his state at $1 billion. Rhode Island Gov. Bruce Sundlun is seeking federal disaster aid, and other states were expected to follow suit.

Connecticut apple growers reported losing as much as 50 percent of their crops, and vegetable farmers were also hard hit, said Connecticut Agriculture Commissioner John Herndon.

Susan Clark of Boston, Mass., stands Tuesday where a 100-foot pine tree crashed through the roof of the camp she was renting, barely missing her and the kitten she is holding. High winds from Hurricane Bob whipping across nearby Sebago Lake caused heavy damage in Sebago, Maine Monday night.

Bay was closed after storm sewers dumped as much as 50 million gallons of untreated sewage into the water. Environmental officials said it would reopen for shellfishing on Tuesday.

The storm struck at the height of the summer vacation season, and officials worried about the loss of tourist dollars.

"People want to leave today," said Ted Morgan, an Edgartown, Mass., selectman on Martha's Vineyard.

Still, officials said Bob appeared to have caused less damage than the last hurricane to hit the Northeast, Gloria in 1985.

"I think our first impression was of great thanks there wasn't far worse damage," said Ed Thomas, an official with the Federal Emergency Management Agency in Rhode Island.

Especially hard hit were the eastern tip of New York's Long Island, Rhode Island, eastern Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine.

After reaching maximum sustained winds of 115 mph Monday, the hurricane was downgraded to a tropical storm Tuesday when it crossed into Canada. By midday its remnants had moved out into the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Prosecutors ask 'scowling, glaring' judge to step down from Smith case

By DAN SEWELL
Associated Press Writer

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Prosecutors and the woman who alleges William Kennedy Smith raped her say the judge is giving their side dirty looks, and they want her off the case.

In a motion filed Tuesday, the prosecution said Circuit Judge Mary Lupo has shown "obvious prejudice."

The prosecutors also said Lupo should step down now to pre-empt any attempt by defense lawyers to seek delays or appeals based on the friendship between Lupo's family and the family of Ellen Roberts, a prosecutor in the case.

Lupo "continually expresses her dislike and prejudice against the state and its prosecution through negative facial expressions, i.e., scowling, glaring and frowning," said the prosecution, led by Moira Lasch.

The 30-year-old woman who says Smith raped her March 30 at the Kennedy family's Palm Beach estate submitted an affidavit in agreement, saying live TV coverage of pretrial hearings has convinced her the judge can't be fair.

"I have observed Judge Lupo make negative facial expressions towards Moira Lasch, as well as her tone of voice and general attitude appear different toward Ms. Lasch, as compared to the defense," said the Jupiter, Fla., woman.

There was no immediate response from Lupo. Prosecutors and Smith's lawyers are under a gag order and cannot discuss the case against the 30-year-old nephew of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

"I don't think it's a good tactical move. I don't believe the judge will disqualify herself," said Joe Minberg, a lawyer for a friend of the alleged victim.

Citing the judge's "tone of voice and demeanor is totally frivolous," Minberg said. He added that the other issues are more properly raised by the defense. Smith's lawyers have not raised them.

Lupo and Lasch have had tense exchanges at several hearings, particularly since the judge granted a defense request to delay the trial from Aug. 5 until Jan. 13. The judge also rejected prosecutors' demands that the trial be moved.

In court papers, the state said Lupo's husband, Edward Ricci, is an old friend and former law partner of Gary Roberts, the prosecutor's husband, and that Lupo's daughter and Ms. Roberts' daughter are "best friends."

Ms. Roberts said Lupo resigned from other cases involving Ms. Roberts.
