Land Bank Reaches $ Billion In Loans

Ernest Kerr, Manager of the Federal Land Bank Association of Muleshoe, announced today that the Federal Land Bank of Houston reached a Billion Dollars in loans to Texas farmers and ranchers on November 27, 1974. This represents a milestone in service by the Federal Land Bank System to Texas agriculture, and is a 48% increase in mortgage loans outstanding during the past two years. The Bank has provided long-term credit to farmers and ranchers of the state since 1917.

In making this announcement, Kerr stated, "The capital requirements of farmers and ranchers have increased substantially in recent years and is expected to continue." He also emphasized the importance of providing credit to farmers and ranchers with the critical world needs for food and fiber.

The Federal Land Bank Association of Muleshoe has 546 loans outstanding to Bailey and Parmer County farmers and ranchers.

The Federal Land Bank of Houston makes farm and ranch loans throughout Texas through 66 Federal Land Bank Associations, and the Billion Dollars in loans out-standing is to over 35,000 farmers and ranchers. The local Association makes and services loans in Bailey and Parmer counties. Officers and directors of the Association are Gordon Duncan, President, Morris Douglass, Vice-President, James B. Glaze, Jim Claunch, and Arlin L. Hartzer.

Commissioners Court Set

USDA Proposes Increase In Stamp Purchase Requirement

Food stamp recipients would pay a standard 30 percent of net income for their food stamp allotment, effective March 1, under an amendment to food stamp regulations proposed today by the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

The intention to propose this increase was announced in President Ford's Budget Message of November 26.

The proposal would mean an increased purchase requirement for all households except (1) certain households of eight or more persons, which have been paying 30 percent of income and (2) those entitled to free food stamps under the law (one and two person households with net monthly income of less than $20 and all other households with income of less than $30).

For example, a four-person household with a monthly net income of $150 after allowable deductions (e.g., taxes withheld shelter costs over 30 percent of income, medical expenses over $10, and child care expenses) now pays $41 for $150 in food stamps. Under the proposed formula, that household would pay $45 for its food stamp allotment.

The proposal is in line with the provision of the Food Stamp Act specifying that the amount a household pays for its food stamps should represent a reasonable investment on the part of the household, not to exceed 30 percent of the household's income. Current purchase requirements vary widely in percentage of income. Today's proposal is designed to remove the differentials in percentage of income paid for the food stamp

Library Qualifies For Membership

A total of 23 libraries in the 29 county area for which Lubbock serves as the Major Resource Center have qualified for membership in the Lubbock Resource Libraries System organized under provisions of the Texas Library Systems Act.

"Some 83 percent of all Texans are served by the 232 libraries that are members of the ten library systems," said Dr. Dorman H. Winfrey, director of the Texas State Library, the agency that administers the Systems Act.

Like the people of Texas, library resources are unevenly distributed. In fact, forty percent of all Texans are served by the ten largest libraries. Grants made to the systems assist in giving all Texans access to materials and staff expertise that would otherwise be available only to users of the large libraries.

The Lubbock Resource Libraries System will receive a $37,049 grant. This includes $3,473.75 in State funds from the $50,000 appropriated by the legislature in 1973 allocated on a per capita basis and $33,575.25 in federal Library Services and Construction Act funds being used to demonstrate how systems can improve library service in Texas.

The Major Resource Center Library for the Lubbock Resource Libraries System is the George and Helen Mahon Library at Lubbock. Area libraries are Howard County Library at Big Spring, Midland County Public Library at Midland, Ector County Library at Odessa.

TEC Is Seeking Occupational Data

In a time when government and private sources spend billions of dollars for educational and occupational training, the Texas Employment Commission has launched a data-gathering effort which will have practical application.

TEC, with the assistance of employers, is gathering data which will permit accurate projections of the future worker-skill requirements of Texas industries, and permit a study of the occupational composition of industries in this state.

Called the Occupational Employment Statistics program, it has the sanction of the Governor's Office, the Texas Education Agency and all concerned groups involved in the development and expansion of human resources.

"This project", says TEC chairman and Executive Director Harold K. Dudley, "will assist both public and private educational and training programs including vocational training programs, to become responsive to the manpower needs of industry."

The Commission, cooperating with the U.S. Department of Labor, is asking a sample of Texas employers for statistical information about their work force. The information, to be held confidential, will yield valuable data which decision makers can use to assure the proper design and funding of training programs.

TEC's Manpower Data Analysis and Research Department, directed by Horace N. Goodson, is conducting the data-gathering effort.

Employers selected at random within each industry size group are mailed a questionnaire asking for the number of employees and apprentices in each occupation within their particular industry.

This is the first time the Texas Employment Commission has gathered occupational employment data on a statewide basis. Success of the effort depends on rapid response rates from same employers. The employer may or may not be queried at the one-year intervals.

The OES program is designed to:

--Provide accurate profiles of occupational resources by industry, and trends in the number of workers employed by occupation.

--Identify the areas where people with various skills are located.

--Help determine future worker requirements by industry and occupation.

--Identify emerging and disappearing occupations.

The data thus gathered will be essential in planning and developing educational training programs which will more closely provide persons with the skills that are needed by Texas Employers.

Long range occupational demand projections may also be made from this data.

Skill levels by industry will be available so that a firm may compare its own occupational profile with that of the industry of which it is a part. No individual firm data will be available.

The OES program will collect data on different industrial segments of the Texas labor force over a three-year cycle. Some 5,500 questionnaires were mailed for the first sample.

Fall Is Right Time For Peach Tree Borer

For the local homeowners with peach trees, fall is the best time to treat for one of the most destructive of all peach tree pests, the peach tree borer. A sure sign of the pest, says county Extension agent Spencer Tanksley, is the gum oozing down the trunk or branches of the tree.

"The adult moth looks like a royal blue swan with orange bands on its abdomen," Tanksley explains. "Its destructive larval form feeds within the cambian layer of the tree at the soil line."

Actually, two borers commonly attack peach trees, he adds. The peach tree borer larva's feeding habitat is within the tree's cambian layer from six inches above the soil line to six inches below. The lesser peach tree borer's feeding habitat is within the cambian layer of the upper peach tree borer's feeding habitat is within the cambian layer of the upper portion of the tree's trunk and larger branches. The approach to controlling these pests is basically the same, that is, with fumigants, but the method of application differs.

Two fumigants generally used for peach tree borer control are paradichloro-benzene (PDB) crystals or ethylene dichloride in the liquid form.

PDB is available as moth crystals, and for the job of killing peach tree borers, the small granules and flakes are best.

Ethylene dichloride is available in borer control solutions under a variety of trade names. The user should read the active ingredient statement to be sure it contains ethylene dichloride.

There are also borer control solutions containing dieldrin and other insecticides that are effective when painted or sprayed on the bark for the control of adult moths during the summer, but they are of little value in the fall, Tanksley says.

"Using fumigants around peach trees is a delicate operation and should be done with great care and precision. Over-treatment can damage the tree. The crystals, when applied to warm soil, quickly volatilize into a heavy gas which penetrates through soil crevices into burrows of borers and kills them. Crystals should only be applied when the soil is dry and the temperature is 55 degrees or above.

"When using PDB for peach tree borer control," Tanksley recommends, "weeds should be removed from around the base of the tree and the soil leveled one foot from the tree trunk. PDB crystals should be placed in a narrow groove encircling the tree about two inches from the tree trunk. Care should be taken to keep crystals from directly contacting the tree. Clean soil should be placed over the crystals to form a cone-shaped pile about six to eight inches high around the base of the tree. This soil should be removed from the base of the tree in late March or early April."

Tanksley adds that the amount of PDB to use is determined by age and size of the tree.

In general, one-half (1/2) ounce of crystals should be used for two to three year-old trees, three-fourths (3/4) ounce for four to five-year old trees, and one ounce for mature trees. When using ethylene dichloride, the manufacturer's rates and application procedure should be followed.

Tanksley says that PDB can also be used to treat peach trees infested by the lesser peach tree borer. Affected areas, recognized by masses of gum mixed with frass and sawdust running down the surface of the trunk and branches, should be treated after the leaves fall from the peach trees. A mixture of two pounds of PDB in one gallon of miscible oil diluted in two gallons of water or a smaller amount at the same proportions should be prepared. The mixture should be painted on the wounds and damaged areas, without encircling the trunk or limb.

For the homeowner with peach trees infested with either the peach tree borer or the lesser peach tree borer, "Tanksley concludes, "control measures should greatly lengthen the life of the trees."

Further information on control of the peach tree borer is available at the county Extension agent's office.

Home Maintenance Can Reduce Heating Bill

COLLEGE STATION-- With the prospect of energy shortages plus higher utility bills this winter, homeowners can take some action to reduce their heating bills, says an agricultural engineer for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Your home should be adequately insulated to reduce heat loss," says Bill Allen. "Tight-fitting storm windows and doors or double-glazed windows can cut heat loss in half. Use of weather-stripping on loose-fitting window and door frames provides additional insulation, and caulking helps minimize heat loss from loose-fitting window panes."

Fashion
This is the season when many sleeveless dresses can get a new look by sewing in long sleeves of a different fabric or color. The layer look of the past season has made this a good style.

A pair of plaid sleeves and a collar of the same will give a new look to that solid color dress.

inflation have not all made themselves known yet. But, two areas in which the threat is clear and immediate are in the ability of middle-income Americans to own their own homes and send their children to college.

The homebuilding industry is in a depression, and the soaring costs of higher education are pricing middle-income families out of the market. What do we do about it? I recently introduced legislation which would pump up to $9 billion of sorely needed money into the nation's housing industry even as it helps some 15 million families save money for their children's education.

PLAN BENEFITS MIDDLE-INCOME AMERICANS. It offers immediate relief for the economically-stricken homebuilding industry. And, it provides long-term benefits for middle-income Americans seeking to meet their family's educational needs.

Its effects will be far-reaching. Basically, I am proposing a $100 tax credit to a family that saves at least $500 a year in a special educational savings plan for two children.

Between 1962 and 1972, the cost of tuition, room and board at public universities and colleges increased 58 percent compared to a 38 percent rise in the consumer price index. Similar costs at private institutions climbed 80 percent and vocational education programs also became increasingly expensive.

Those who have suffered most from all this are middle-income families, those forgotten Americans who are neither very rich nor very poor, who cannot fully meet the high cost of tuition nor quality for total scholarship assistance.

By Treasury Department

imates, over 15 million families--33 million students--would take advantage of my proposal. Their money would go into special educational savings plans at institutions that invest at least 50 percent of their holdings in the housing industry.

HOUSING INDUSTRY GETS BOOST-

Unemployment for construction workers is over double the national rate, with more than 567,000 persons out of work. Housing starts are down from 2.5 million to 1 million over the last two years. Homebuilders are filing for bankruptcy. Carpenters, plumbers and cement finishers have turned to unemployment compensation.

The homebuilding industry, which has suffered seven recessions since World War II, is in a state of virtual depression today. My legislation would help assure it of a stable source of financing to prevent these recurrent periods of instability. It would mean as many as 300,000 new housing starts a year.

It would mean jobs for construction workers and a new lease on life for many contractors. But it would mean more than this. It would mean homes.

It would help end the housing shortage that is preventing a growing number of Americans from owning their own homes.

The Treasury estimates my proposal would mean a yearly tax loss to the government of $1.7 billion. This loss, however, would be more than made up in other ways.

It would be made up through taxes on increased homebuilding wages and profits. It would be made up through decreased payments for unemployment compensation.

Six Mules Named To All-District

Six Make All District

The students of MHS are very proud of the Mighty Mules for their fine effort and determination throughout the 1974 football season. The Mules didn't have a very successful season this year but they never quit trying and they never once gave up, on or off the field. This could very well be described as one of the most outstanding football teams Muleshoe has ever had. This fact is reinforced by the fact that six of the Mules were mentioned on the All-District teams.

orable mention are Carey Sudduth, Junior quarterback; Rickey Grogan, a Junior defensive back and Rene Torres, a Junior defensive middle line backer. We would like to salute these players for their fine efforts, and we also would like to congratulate the other Mighty Mules and their coaches for their fine performance during the '74 season.

Juniors Order Senior Rings

The Junior Class ordered their Senior rings Friday, November 22. Mr. Gene Bates of Star Engraving Company was present to explain prices of the different metals of the rings, the different types of stones, the weight of each type of ring and the Bi-Centennial style ring. The Class of 1976 ordered a platinum metal ring which is silver in color. The Juniors chose a garnet (maroon in color) smooth stone. On the top of the stone there will be encrusted a silver Old-English "M". On the sides of the ring, the Juniors chose the traditional mule head through the Muleshoe and the Bicentennial emblem on the opposite side. The Bicentennial emblem is three marching patriots; one with a rifle, one with a drum, and one carrying the American flag. Those ordering rings were required to pay a $15.00 deposit with the balance due when the rings arrive.

Choir Discusses Christmas Party

The choir officers met last week to discuss the choir Christmas party. It was decided to go Christmas caroling around homes of Muleshoe and afterwards meet at Sheryl Rasco's house for the party. Friday, December 13. Refreshments of sandwiches, chips, dips, cokes or hot chocolate will be served.

Game, League Rules Must Be Obeyed

Athletic officials deserve courteous treatment. Most officiate games for enjoyment because they are usually ex-athletes or coaches. The money they spend and the physical work required. They are verbally abused by the fans, players, and sometimes by the coaches. It would seem that a dedicated group like officials would receive greater respect.

Many times, fans and players are not fully educated on the rules of the game and the league rules. Also, many school personnel are not aware of their responsibility to maintain sportsmanlike behavior at all athletic contests. Actions and inactions of administration, teachers, and especially the coach, can do much to affect the behavior of fans, students and players toward an official.

As members of the Inter-scholastic League, schools must follow an athletic code which partially states that they must accept decisions of officials without protest. The school administration is responsible for the conduct of its fans, players and coaches. League rules are designed to be a guide so that schools may compete in an equal, fair manner. They are to protect the administrator who insists on placing educational values first against the ones who believe in building winning athletic teams at any cost. League rules can be made effective only when the member schools use their efforts to encourage strict adherence and enforcement.

Alcoholism: Neglected Problem

The disease of alcoholism has been called the most neglected public health problem facing the nation today.

It is a killer illness that is attained in most cases through progression over a period of years. It is neglected because of ignorance. Most victims fight against admitting they are alcoholics.

Non-sufferers often do not recognize identifying signs of the progression. Too many citizens do not know that the alcoholic can be helped if aid is asked soon enough.

In an effort to help victims or their friends, family or employers determine if drinking problem exists, the Muleshoe Journal is publishing a series of articles, of which this is one.

The most recent discussion pinpointed such warnings during the pre-alcoholism stage as black-outs, sneaking drinks, drinking before "wet" parties, gulping and avoidance of talk about drinking problems.

Other signs, furnished by the Central Plains MH/MR are easily recognizable.

Solitary drinking is a potent indicator and occurs when drinking no longer is a social function for an individual. This does not cover the abuser of alcohol who frequents bars alone.

It focuses on the person who goes into seclusion (hotel, flophouse, or his own home) where he can remain undisturbed in a state of intoxication for days or sometimes weeks.

"Hiding out" to drink is the first drastic and dramatic example of the isolation urge. It will be repeated many times with rapidly increasing frequency.

These lonely sessions fail always to provide the comfort and self-consolation the drinker thought he would find. He comes back to family, friends and co-workers embarrassed and ashamed.

Others now have guessed his secret and the solitary binge has settled no problems.

He had expected to escape into a world of euphoria where life's problems cannot penetrate. Each attempt at finding such "bliss" is futile and painfully unrewarding.

Yet, he continues to go back in search of that something, his hopes always new and fresh. This is but another manifestation of the tightening grip which alcohol is exerting upon him.

But to the drinker in the pre-alcoholic stage he has a long way to go in the horrors of solitary guzzling. As the song said, "You ain't seen nothing yet."

By the acute stage this kind of boozing is insufferable.

In the drinker's progression, the occasional blackout he used to shudder over now descends to haunt him. They may happen three times in every ten drinking bouts.

Concern mounts in the man because lost days and weeks create all sorts of problems in the person's social, business and domestic life.

In fishing for clues to assure him that he did complete a task he has no recollection of even confronting, he always betrays his astounding confusion.

His business, social and family days may be numbered. He is tabbed as unreliable. Realization of this can send him to only one situation—a lonely, living grave in isolation.

The pattern of progression toward acute and chronic alcoholism usually includes the beginning of daytime drinking. For a great many weeks and years the heavy drinker refrains from starting before evening.

He is determined to wait until he is through with his work—usually so that he can eagerly "get at his drinking" at a time when there will be no interference from the demands of conducting the details of his job. Drinking truly is a welcome release from the cares of a troubled existence.

It is the common boast of practically every alcoholic that drinking rarely, if ever, interfered with his work. He does shrug off the inefficiencies resulting from brutal handovers. They also may have made him sometimes late, but he always reported in.

Once the individual is motivated toward the morning "jolt" to start the day, he is slipping from pre-alcoholism into the acute stage, which will come under study in the next article of this series.

There are no time standards to help in identification of drinking problem in the pre-alcoholism period. It may be only five or six months or ten many years. Progression depends on the mental stability, physical stamina and spiritual resources of the individual as well as the degree of social responsibility which he has previously achieved.

The high price of oil has resulted in yet another benefit, in addition to a feverish drilling activity worldwide; finding much larger amounts of oil in one of the most familiar places of oil—in reservoirs discovered years ago. The huge jump in oil prices, plus much more advanced recovery techniques, could very well double U.S. reserves.

In the early days of the oil business, oil was pumped to the surface or just permitted to flow, pushed up by the underground gas and water pressures which drove the oil to the surface. This procedure usually recovered only 20% of the available oil. Waterflooding came into popular use in the 1930's as oilmen pumped water down one well in order to flush oil up an adjacent well. This is known as Secondary recovery and increased the average yield to 34%. Waterflooding now accounts for half of the nation's oil production.

The third stage of production, called Tertiary, has been only an experiment because the high cost of chemicals and gases made production prohibitive in cost, that is until $11 per barrel oil came along. That new price changed the economics of Tertiary recovery and the techniques for this recovery method have moved out of the laboratory and into the field for comprehensive testing.

The potential is enormous. Oilmen have discovered almost 500 billion barrels of crude oil in the U. S. Only about one third of that oil has been recovered using conventional production methods. The remaining two thirds, equal to eight times the nation's currently recoverable reserves, is presently in the ground just waiting for an effective means to get to up to the surface. Oilmen estimate that, with efficient Tertiary methods, the average recovery rate might be increased by as much as 13%. That would add between 30-billion barrels of oil to the nation's recoverable reserves.

CREATION...

ISN'T IT AMAZING
... Scientists say that there are no two snowflakes alike! How many snowflakes do you suppose there have been since the beginning of time? Billions? It staggers the imagination when one thinks of all the things that God has created from nothing.

Genesis, the first book in the bible means beginning. It tells of many of God's more major creations, and how He created all these things for the benefit of man. Attend church, study God's word and learn more of God's plan for man.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
