Coalition Is Able To Call Own Shots

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP) - The House today voted to end price controls on virtually all consumer goods. The vote was subject to reconsideration.

By a vote of 146 to 88, the House decided there should be no price controls on items which are not rationed or

Controls also would be lifted on items which have been selling at below ceiling prices for at least three months. At present no goods are rationed, and only a few metals are being allocated. The effect of the amendment, if it remains in the bill, would be to remove just about all price controls or force the Office of Price Stabilization to order rationing of things it wants kept under price ceilngs.

A series of test votes yesterday established that a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats could call their own shots and back them up with votes. President Truman's lieutenants admitted they do not now have the power to prevent (1) an amendment telling Truman he should use the Taft-Hartley Law in the steel strike, or (2) a companion move to strip the Wage Stabilization Fifty-two men are in the initial class, which started its train-

After 24 Years, The Herald Still Feels It Has Service Obligation

The time comes today to change volume numbers on the Daily Herald. This means that 24 years have passed since the late Thomas E. Jordan "went daily" with his newspaper not only to stay abreast of rapid development but to be in a position to supply some leadership as well.

This step was taken at considerable expense by Mr. Jordan, and it was, as the "starvation period" which followed in the transition period, proved somewhat of a gamble. While not oblivious to necessity of profitable operatios, he nevertheless sensed the special obligation of a newspaper to its community

Comparatively speaking, a handful of employes wrestled with this big problem of issuing a daily newspaper. Today there are more than 50 regular employes, backed up by 43 newsboy route carriers. The company has an annual payroll of $160 .-000. Last year it published approximately 5,000 pages on 350 tons of newsprint that went into something like 8,200 homes.

While this growth has made The Herald an economic factor of some consequence. we hope that it has better equipped us to meet the responsibilities of service to this

Through the years we have attemptedsometime feebly and ineffectively sometime with determination and forceto go beyond the mere function of printing the news.

Moves for betterment of the community -parks, the city hall and auditorium, water development, state and VA hospital campaigns, paving, establishment of a college, more and better schools, support of the chamber of commerce, the community chest, encouragement of cultural affairs and broader recreational facilities as well as highways and other transport developments have found The Herald in

This is not to say that our record is perfect; far from it. But because our basic purposes have been in the right direction. we hope that our community enjoys conditions, things and advantages which it might not have had as soon or as abundantly without the efforts of The Herald, And as other volume numbers are changed from year to year, we trust that our progress may be chartered not so much in the balance sheet as in the character

Glenn Lewis Has Qualifications To Recommend Him For Court Post

The name of Glenn R. Lewis, San Angelo, will appear on the Democratic primary ballot as a candidate for justice of the Supreme Court of Texas place No.

Mr. Lewis has much to recommend him as No. 1 in balloting, too, for his record as an attorney and as a citizen have earned him sound respect.

Just now reaching his prime, Mr. Lewis has 27 years of experience to his credit. He can look back on three years as a district attorney, four as a city attorney. three as an assistant attorney general of Texas, as well as nearly two decades of varied and distinguished private practice. None of the other candidates for this place can approach him on this score.

Despite this breadth of legal activity, Mr. Lewis has not been a reculse from the firing line of church and civic activities. On the contrary, he has been active in his church, has taught Sunday school chases; has been a Boy Scout worker: has served on his community's board of city development; has served his country in World War II three years in the Navy. This, with his professional responsibilities, has given him a balance of character and outlook which are reflected in a sound judicial temperament. He combines at once a deep-anchored knowledge of the law and human understanding. The fact that he is a West Texan only adds to the other advantages which it seems to us be possesses pre-eminently over the field.

Taft Forces Direct Strategy At The Uncommitted Delegates

When the Taft men broke all the precedents by their choice of MacArthur and Hallanan, they meant to give the impression that they are already in control of the convention. They executed a bold maneuver, and, as Eisenhower is now conducting his campaign, it might prove to have been a shrewd one.

The maneuver consists in trying to stampede the uncommitted delegates by making it appear that Taft is in such full control that he does not any longer need to pay attention to the Eisenhower

The key to the nomination is not in the contested delegates from Texas and Louisiana. The key is in the uncommitted delegates. They will decide the result. The delegates pledged to Taft plus the contested delegates, even if the Taft machine seizes them all, are not enough to nominate Taft. He cannot, therefore, "steal" the nomination. What he is hoping to do is to make a sufficient number of the uncommitted delegates believe that he is irresistible, having demonstrated as spectacularly as possible that he can impose MacArthur over Eisenhower and that he is too strong to be frightened by the outcries about Texas and Louisiana. These are shock tactics, intended to make a five-spot, by playing it boldly enoug1, do the work of an ace.

Taft controls the Committee on Arrangements, not the convention. He controls the committee not because he won the control in any contest with Eisenl ower but because he has been dealing with that committee for years-long before Elsenhower was a candidate.

The control of the committee is a very considerable power. It could be decisive, however, only if the nomination turns on the contested delegates. That is not now the case. It could become the case if in the next few weeks the Taft managers can make the uncommitted delegates think that the steam-roller is a bandwag-

The Taft managers would not have risked the maneuver had they not come to the conclusion that the Eisenhower campaign got off to a poor start. They think that Eisenhower has failed to attract the kind of popular feeling which would make it dangerous for them to deal roughly with him and his supporters. The choice of MacArthur was a calculated affront to the Eisenhower movement, meant to show that the returning hero's popularity is not so hot, that it is in fact rather lukewarm. The idea is to make Eisenhower shirvel into innocence and confusion by contrast with the self-confident, purpose-

In all of this there is a gamble which Sen. Taft and his managers must be taking carefully into account. They have adopted the line that the unity of the party is not of primary importance, that their own victory is more important than harmony. This is an invitation to the Eisenhower forces to use their own shock tactics, to point out the quite evident fact that they will be imable to promise that the Eisenhower masses could be induced to vote for Taft.

ful iron machinery of the Taft organiza-

The Taft theory is, it appears, that they can reduce the danger of disaffection by keeping Eisenhower off balance for the rest of the campaign. The potential Eisenhower strength in the country is enormous. It is quite sufficient to elect him triumphantly if it can be rallied. But since it consists of progressive Republicans, a great mass of independents and many Democrats, it can be rallied into a popular movement only if Eisenhower is able to make himself what the people who wish to follow him are looking for.

Irrigation Pushed By Red Chinese

HONG KONG UM-The Chinese Reds have 1,400,000 workers busy on a giant irrigation project to control the Yi river in Northern Kiangsu, the Communist newspaper Shanghai News reports

The project, expected to be 65 per cent complete this year, eventually will provide irrigation for some 4,300,000 acres, the News says. It was described as calling for several giant sluices and water locks, "a giant water conservancy system," and embankments along the sea coast and certain sections of the Yangtze and Yi

County Manager Government Is Realm Of Future Possibility

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Heraid.—Editor's Note.

One of the big city papers recently revived talk about a county manager form of government-a system whereby a county functions as a single unit on the same pattern as cities such as Big Spring. The system is designed to unify city and county governments, and likely would work very well in metropolitan areas where one city covers practically an entire county.

In time, a modified system of that sort may be developed for counties where smaller cities are located. Anyway, under Texas law, it is now possible for a county manager system of government to be es-As for Howard County, prospects for better working conditions, which should mean simultaneous improvement and efficiency in county government, are encouraging since contracts were awarded for a new Courthouse. There is not much around the old building to stimulate efficiency. In fact, the general condition of the ancient struc-

primary elections. In Howard County, the costs of conducting two primary elections is expected to be between $1,600 and $1,700. However, these things apparently vary sharply among the various counties, We notice that one North Texas county expects to spend approximately $4,000 for the Democratic primaries. Of course the cost must be based partially upon the number of voting boxes in the county, since the Democratic Executive Committee mos provide an adequate staff for each box. Some of the more populous counties must spend thousands of dollars every time an election is held.

Howard County might reduce the cost of its elections slightly by abolishing some voting boxes which serve only a few voters each. However, there may be a greater need for shifting boundaries of some of the boxes.

At present there are 15 polling places in Howard County but some of the larger ones in Big Spring are growing too large, while a few in the rural areas are faced with diminishing lists of voters. A plan to "even-up" the load is going to be needed soon if the voters are to be

Stevenson Domestic Problems Create A Political Obstacle

WASHINGTON. - A lot has been said about the reasons why able Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois does not want to run for President. Probably the most cogent reason is his family.

Wives have played an Important part in the lives of American Presidents and presidential candidates, from the days of Thomas Jefferson through Abraham Lincoln who was never happy with his wife, to the late great Arthur Vandenberg who never really wanted to run for President because of a former friendship with a lady diplomat. There is nothing secret or unusual about Governor Stevenson's domestic problems. They are no discredit to him. He was unhappily married for many years is now divorced, and is reported to be in love with Miss Dorothy Fosdick, daughter of the noted Baptist clergyman, Harry Emerson Fosdick. Miss Fosdick is now a member of the State Department's Policy and Planning Board, one of the top diplomatic jobs in the nation.

But politics is a cruel business. And a man who runs for President virtually has to sacrifice children and marital happiness, to say nothing of facing the opposition of those church leaders who do not believe in divorce. Governor Stevenson's wife was Ellen Borden of Chicago, daughter of a Chicago lawyer and no relation to the Borden milk family. Mrs. Stevenson, however, always seemed to look down her nose just a hit at marrying a boy from the corn belt, even though Adlai was the grandson of a vice president of the United States.

She didn't particularly like living in downstate Bloomington, where Adlal owns an interest in the Pantagraph, of which he was once assistant editor. In Chicago she was happier. There she used to write sonnets, was considered a better than average poetess, and had a fairly good play, in verse, produced by a college

Came the election of Franklin Roosevelt in 1932 and Adlai went to Washington special counsel to Henry Wallace's AAA, returning to Chicago after a year to practice law, then going back to Washington just before Pearl Harbor as assistant to Frank Knox, a Republican, whom FDR had made Secretary of the Ellen Stevenson scoffed at returning to Washington. She complained that Adlai's friends always talked politics or economics. They didn't understand art. In fact, they didn't even know the difference between a sonnet and a canto.

She also complained that Adlai was al-"assistant to somebody." He always played second fiddle. He was assistant to the Secretary of the Navy, later assistant to the U.S. delegation on establishing the United Nations. But he was never top

Mrs. Stevenson did however, like England. Adlai went to London with the U.S. economic mission toward the end of the war, and there Ellen found congenial people. They appreciated literature and she

Finally, the day came when Adlal was no longer assistant to somebody, no longer played second fiddle. He became governor of Illinois. But that didn't seem to make her much happier. On the day Adlai was inaugurated in Springfield, Mrs. Stevenson started out quite bravely. She was polite and gay. But before the day was over, she drooped. She was obviously bored and inclined to insult the people who trooped over her lawn and the politicians on whose co-operation her busband's career depended. There followed dull, bleak meals at the executive mansion. Friends noticed that Adlai excused himself after dinner, retired to his study to work. Eventually, Mrs. Stevenson proposed divorce.

What the governor is reported disliking most about a presidential campaign is the effect it might have on his two boys, There's also the fact that a divorced President has never yet occupied the W hite House. Finally, there's the political pos-sibility that the Catholic vote, though tolerant of an unmarried divorcee, might not be so tolerant if the Governor remarried -especially if his new wife was the daughter of Harry Emerson Fosdick, an outstanding Protestant cleric. These are some of the things that have weighed heavily on the mind of the man who still remains the top choice of most Democratic leaders and who has been the best governor of Illinois in many, many

Beliefs About A Praying Mantis

It is hard to think of an insect saying a prayer, but there are some which take a posture which suggests that. I am thinking of "praying mantises."

A praying mantis has six legs, but it uses only four of them for standing or walking. The other two, in front, are folded, and it seems as though the insect might be offering a prayer.

If the mantis does pray (and we doubt that) it must pray for a meal! Its folded arms are in a position to grasp. As it steals close to another insect, it makes ready to act with lightning speed. At the proper moment it will close its so-called 'arms" around the victim.

Moslems have called the mantis holy, and have spread a myth that it faces the city of Mecca when it prays. Mecca is honored as the birthplace of Mohammed, and good Moslems face that way while praying. Another queer belief is that a mantis "sees an angel while it kneels." The very name "mantis" has the meaning of "prophet." It came from the Greek language. You and I may smile about strange stories regarding the mantis, but we must admit that it is amazing in certain ways. It can twist its head around and look over its own back! Do you know of any other insect which can do such a thing?

sects, but there are about 20 kinds in the United States, chiefly in southern parts. Rarely they are seen in Indiana and a few other northern states.

Canada seems to be without these in-

The length of a mantis in the United States usually is between two and three inches. It has large eyes, and its body is fitted with two pairs of wings. When it is stalking prey it keeps its wings closely folded, and they are hard to observe.

Hundreds of kinds of mantises, live in the tropics. Some of these match closely with leaves, both in color and form.

The mantis is as sharp a fighter as we may find in the insect world. Members of the family fight among themselves and a struggle may bring about loss of eyes, legs, even heads.

The word covet is defined in the dictionary as "to desire, to long for, to crave, especially something belonging to another person." Almost everyone is occasionally assailed by this feeling of envy of another. Local Girl To Play Lead In McMurry Film Officers' Wives Meet At Lounge

ABILENE - Barbara Duglass, outstanding dramatics student at McMurry College, will play the leading role in a movie which the McMurry College Film Society is making this summer.

Miss Douglass is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale A. Douglass of Big Spring.

The movie, "Medea," will be the first Greek tragedy ever filmed by any group in the United States, and this will be the second time that a non-professional group has attempted a full-color sound movie, Miss Douglass played the lead in "Medea" when the College Theatre presented the stage production. Cattle Prices Dip In New Mexico Area

CLOVIS, N. M., June 20 M-New Mexico stockmen are mystified as to the cause of a sharp drop in cattle prices.

A committe of prominent cattlemen was formed yesterday to search for the reason behind the slump which has knocked prices $1 to $4 on the Clovis market during the past week.

Even sharper declines were re ported from other cattle centers across the country.

"I'd blame the situation on the drouth if they weren't having the same trouble in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma where feed is plenti-ful," said Clyde Rayl, co-owner of the Clovis Cattle Commission Co.

Recall Catcher

MIDLAND - The Midland Indians have recalled Ed Menaboro of the Georgia State League. Menapace was optioned to the Class D team several weeks ago, subject to 48-hour recall.

At the time of the recall, Menapace was hitting .331. The Statesboro team has risen from eighth to sixth place after Menapace had joined it.

Menapace is due here Saturday.

BROCKTON, Mass. June 20 08-Louis B. Conley of Amarillo, Tex., testified yesterday he took his eight-year-old daughter, Lynette, from her Boston home because she was in a pitiful condition.

Conley is on trial here on charges of kidnaping his daughter and assault with a dangerous

Conley, in jail here for more than a year for contempt of a court order, said Lynette's eyes were dull, her lips almost purple and her body emaclated when he ook her to Texas. He said he told the child's mother, from what e was separated and his motherin-law, Mrs. Bertha LaCroix, that be was taking the child where she could get proper treatment and medical care.

Earlier Conley denied on the stand accusations that he struck either of the women with brase
