When the Historian Gibbon wrote his "Decline and Fall," he remarked that society no longer faced that kind of danger.

Our danger, that is to say, is not that we shall be overwhelmed by external enemies or turned over by the downward masses.

IF WE FAIL IT WILL BE OUR OWN FAULT.

Acting Secretary Of State Finds Numerous New Stamps For Son

WASHINGTON, (UP)—It is profitable for a stamp collector youngster to be the son of acting secretary of state, William Phillips—who picks up choice and expensive covers every now and again without even turning his hand. All such philatelic windfalls go to Phillip Jr.

Last such piece of luck for Phillips' young son came when J. Errol Boyd flew from H&H to Washington. He brought five letters addressed to President Roosevelt, and four other administration leaders, including Phillips.

The latter let his letter stay in his mail box for days. State department stamp collectors eyed it hungrily. One of them couldn't stand it any longer. He informed Acting Secretary Phillips his Hallinan letter was worth $750 cash. It vanished immediately from Phillips' box to blossom in his son's stamp album.

When a proposal for a government summer white house was made in Congress several years ago, Calvin Coolidge, then president, rejected it. He said each president had his own ideas about getting away from Washington heat and that few of his successors probably would care to use an official summer place.

Coolidge used the Yacht Mayflower. Hoover spent almost every week-end at Rapidan camp. Under Roosevelt the camp has been deserted until one week-end when Secretary of Navy Swanson took a party there. Roosevelt likes a Potomac cruise.

As head of the research division of NRA, he must have information at his finger tips. So he keeps it in alphabetical order on the top of his desk. The desk is so full of neatly arranged documents that Dr. Sachs must use another desk when he has work to do.

DIGNITY OF LABOR

"It is time," President Roosevelt said in a radio talk to the members of the Civilian Conservation Corps Monday night, "for each and every one of us to cast away self-destroying, nation-destroying efforts to get something for nothing and to appreciate that satisfying reward and safe reward come only through honest work."

That, he added, must be the new spirit of the American future.

The president sees in the 300,000 C. C. men "a fine group of strong young men, clean living, willing and proud to work for the joy of working."

He insists that these young men are doing a useful and profitable work, and that they earn their $30-a-month and keep. Twenty-five dollars of the monthly wage goes to the homelocks, leaving the C. C. men $5 for himself. And the men really hit the ball. The hours of labor are short, in keeping with the spirit of the times; but every man is expected to do a day's work in return for his wage and keep.

Not every one of us has an opportunity to work. That is the chief concern of our national leaders just now. It is useless to preach of the dignity of labor and deny a man the chance to exercise his dignity. Slowly but surely opportunities are being given, and as they develop millions of Americans will return to work and find joy in a self-sustaining existence.

Johnson Stops Oil Quarrel And Informs Battling Leaders He Will Frame Code For Presentation Soon

WASHINGTON (UP)—Confronted with the apparently impossible task of reconciling widely divergent views of factions of the oil world over controlling production and refining, Hugh S. Johnson, the industrial administrator, Wednesday decided federal officials should write their own program for the oil business.

His decision was announced to spokesmen for the quarreling interests in the petroleum world in concluding a three days hearing on proposed trade practice plans, one submitted by a group that met under the auspices of the American Petroleum Institute, and the other advocated by a number of independents led by Jack Blalock of Marshall, Texas.

Special Committee
 Johnson set up a special committee representing the divergent groups to work out with administration officials rules to govern the marketing and distribution of petroleum products and said he hoped them.

"I think we should have a proposition to present rather than work on what has been presented," Johnson said.

He said his decision resulted from "the highly controversial questions that have arisen on production and refining," and that after the federal plan was ready he would ask that a committee authorized to speak for the petroleum factions be set up to help write a final binding draft.

Johnson said he could not see "any insuperable difficulties in the marketing question," as the administration had been dealing with merchandising in other codes but that production and refining presented something new and a subject to which the administration already had given considerable attention in advance of the oil hearing.

"There has not been one code that has not had the unanimous approval of the connected interests," Johnson said, "but that looks like a pretty tough proposition here."

To numerous persons clamoring in the hearing room for representation on the marketing committee on the ground their interests might be tricked, Johnson said:

"Somebody may put something over on us for a little while but not for very long."

The committee he accepted, follows:

C. E. Arnott, of the Socony Vacuum corporation of New York and Roy B. Jones, of the Panhandle Refining company of Texas, nominated by Axtell J. Byles, president of the American Petroleum Institute.

C. R. Starnes of Dallas and F. C. Hart, of New York, nominated by Jack Blalock, leader of an independent faction.

C. L. Suhr and S. Messer, both of Oil City, Pa., proposed by the Pennsylvania Grade Crude Association, Russell Williams for the independent and individually branded Petroleum Makers Association; Frank B. Bateman, of the Eastern States Independent Oil Dealers' association, and Tom Glasgow, for the Motor Equipment Wholesalers association.

Request That Oil Practices Code Prohibit Price Discriminations Between Fields Filed By Allred

WASHINGTON—A request that a trade practice code for the oil industry prohibit discrimination between fields for oil of equal quality was laid formally before the industrial recovery administration Wednesday by James V. Allred, attorney general of Texas.

In a statement accompanying the proposed rule, Allred set forth that buyers of petroleum in West Texas had been paying 40 per cent. less since 1926 for that oil than for oil of like quality and quantity from other pools.

Allred explained to the administration that oil from the West Texas fields, a large share of which comes from state lands and goes to the state public school fund and to the University of Texas, was of higher quality than East Texas oil, but posted prices were much lower.

The difference, he said, was too great to be justified, on the ground of increased transportation costs to market.

He estimated that royalty owners had lost at least $14,000,000 in the last ten years because of prices in West Texas being held down by major company buyers and that this did not take into account losses to independent producers with a total production in the field in ten years of 568,000,000 barrels.

 WASHINGTON (UP)—Congressional demands for immediate investigation of last week's spectacular deflation of the Roosevelt bull market was coupled with proposals for legislative action to prevent abnormal market fluctuations.

The administration was refusing to meddle in the stock market situation for the time being at least, although it was taking stern action to stabilize the grain markets. Capitol Hill was concerned over both.

Senator Steiwer, Rep. Ore., proclaimed an open season on bears. He accompanied his statement with a telegram to Ferdinand Pecora, senate stock market investigation counsel, urging immediate check-up of the factors involved in last week's market break. Steiwer is a member of the investigation committee.

"Further bear raiding must be checked," Steiwer said. "The past week's shrinkage of commodities and securities on the various exchanges, whether due to over-speculation, bear raiding, or all three interfere seriously with the national efforts to restore confidence and to increase wages and commodity prices."

Steiwer proposed a legislative plan to prevent some measure abnormal market movements such as that of last week and of the autumn of 1929. It was as follows:

1. Use by all corporations reporting income to the treasury of a simplified form which would enable the reader to determine approximately the liquidating value of all classes of securities outstanding against the corporation.
2. Control to reduce short selling.
3. Prohibition against directors or any corporation increasing, decreasing or suspending dividends from stockholders.

When hearings were recessed for the summer Chairman Fletcher of the senate investigating committee asked Pecora to keep constantly in touch with the Roosevelt mar-

Local Labor To Be Given Preference On Road Projects

WASHINGTON — A $19,851,648 allotment of public works funds to create more jobs, including $6,971,648 for federal buildings, was announced by secretary Ickes.

It brought total allotments from the $3,300,000,000 public works appropriations to $773,802,836 since the law's enactment a little over a month ago.

The public building money went to 14 post offices in nine states. The rest of the distribution included:

- Six million dollars for 23 war department ordinance establishments which Ickes said would retain 7,122 employees on the payroll.
- Five million dollars for soil erosion work under the agriculture department, to be allotted to states in proportion to their cultivated areas as shown by the 1930 census.
- Three hundred twenty five thousand dollars for the Panama canal zone.

Local Labor

"The board adopted a resolution" the secretary said, "that it was the sense of the board that in local projects local labor be used as far as possible, and that as far as possible building material stones and so forth of that state and area be used."

"The board also resolved that no projects approved by the reconstruction finance corporation can come before this board until the R. F. C. has rescinded its approval, and then the projects must be submitted to the state boards."

Regarding the use of local labor and materials, Ickes said clauses probably would be written into contracts stating this to be in government's policy, but that the price factor would enter into its application.

"The board directed that the $6,000,000 soil erosion program be completed by November 1, 1934."

In Wednesday's San Angelo Times we note the following jumble of words: "J. E. Payne announces Odessa of the Tri-county league is to be entered in the all-West Texas baseball tournament here August 20. Payne is president of the Big Spring club and is one of the tournament officials."

"Of course we know that Blundy's story of Odessa being in the Tri-county league was an accident, in fact, we already know his ally, Payne, who has been ill of late, informs us that he did say Odessa MIGHT come into the tournament but said nothing about Odessa being in the Tri-county league."

Leonard Hill, head coach elect at the McCaney high school, returned to his stomping grounds the past week with a very sad tale, yes, a very sad one, as the head man is none too optimistic over the pigskin prospects this fall. Having mostly green material, he will start drilling the 30 or 40 candidates early in order to have them in shape by the first of October.

Hill has been spending the past several weeks at North Texas State Teachers College at Denton brushing up on history in an effort to learn the various angles to District 3 so as not to be marooned in the Badger country this fall.

As well as we are able to remember, Hill only has two letters to start with, but maybe we shouldn't say anything.

In yesterday's mail we received a note from Earl Reid of the Conshoba Bulldogs asking that we call a meeting in the near future to discuss letting Stanton finish the second half of the Tri-county league in the place of Ackerly.

Thinking such a move a good idea, we request a representative or representatives of each team be present in the lobby of the Settles Hotel at 5 p. m. Saturday evening. Also, we would like to have a Stanton delegation present.

When daisy pressmen go golfing, especially red-headed ones, its time to quit. But "Foot Machine" McMahon and "Kick-Tin-Up" Glenn had another one of those kick-when-you-can matches, with fair results.

The so-called pressmen slipped a bit on his latest victory, talking a bit on the seventeenth hole, which has a par five. Glenn came out on the short end with a 54, while McMahon battered his way to a 53 win.

Linotype operators, especially those named Pendleton, are as bad, if not worse than pressmen. Pendleton mixed yesterday's story on golfing results in such a daisy condition we haven't been able to separate the results yet. He shaved Harris McMahon, a brother to this daisy red-headed one, 49 to 56 yesterday. Harris reiterated with the statement that it was only his third game. While the pressman was flogging the Mexican Tigers ball club Wednesday afternoon, Pendleton was digging up the fairway and greens in a more stubborn attempt.

For golfing alibia, see us, we are receiving a collection day by day.

The Tigers and Giants broke even yesterday with the Kittens taking the latest fall 6 to 4 in a nine inning brawl. Tuesday, in a scheduled seven inning game, the Tigers went

Farley Believes Victor Entitled To Spoils But Dispenses Jobs So As To Place Good Men In Offices

By RAYMOND CLAPPER United Press Staff Correspondent (Copyright, 1933, by United Press)

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sunny Jim Farley, postmaster general, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, chairman of the New York State Democratic central committee, chief patronage dispenser at Washington and the most prominent political figure in the Roosevelt administration, is being recognized here as a new kind of politician.

His job is to reward the faithful who delivered in nominating and electing Mr. Roosevelt and to build up an organization for the re-election fight. He has set himself to that task in a way distinctly new in politics.

When Farley was appointed Postmaster General, it was generally accepted among politicians and by the public that he would deal out jobs to democrats as fast as he could. Senators, congressmen, national committeemen and original Roosevelt men rubbed their hands and looked expectant. They mobbed his office. Jim called through the tenth frame before humbling the big boys 1 to 6. The initial downfall was attributed to the loss of the swaying influence of Joe Duke.

Starting at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, Big Spring raquet wielders will start competing for city singles and doubles honors. Only thirty-five cents will be charged to enter which will be used to reward the winners with trophies. Each player will furnish one ball per match, therefore, the losers will not have to pay so much. Those who continue to advance will keep playing by the same rule.

All ages and sexes are invited to compete. The drawing will be held at seven o'clock Friday evening. Entrants will then be told the time to play Saturday. Drawing will be held on the High school courts.

Davis, Smith and Jones are the favorites to cop the singles crown, while Joe Galbraith and Dr. Bivings are expected to make the top two in the doubles crown. Seven o'clock Friday evening is the deadline for all entrants.

His rule of favoring those originally for Mr. Roosevelt has operated thus far against even powerful Tammany Hall. Relations have been cool since John F. Curry opposed Mr. Roosevelt's nomination, although some believe that an end of this armed truce is in prospect.

Two Places Broken Into During Night

Sheriff Jess Slaughter was called early Thursday morning to investigate two burglaries that took place during Wednesday night.

Henry Machine Shop, near the Benton Street viaduct, was broken into, and a pair of overalls and a large sledge hammer taken.

Miss Nell Hatch left Wednesday night for Dallas, where she will join her sister, Mrs. H. B. Robb, and continue to Chicago, where they will attend A. Century of Progress exposition.

'Dad' Joiner, Discoverer Of Great East Texas Field, Still Active And Not Broke, He Tells Dallas Friends

DALLAS (UP)—One of the most difficult tasks facing Gen. Hugh S. Johnson of the National Recovery Administration is to establish order in the oil industry whose largest producing field lies within 125 miles of Dallas.

The law of the jungle has prevailed in the big East Texas field, discovered by C. M. "Dad" Joiner, a persistent, hard-working man's middle age who drove his discovery well near Henderson, at the eastern edge of the field, while some folks wagged their heads and said anybody would know no oil would be found in East Texas.

Now, with production of that vast field established by law, with production greater than the demands of the United States, no dime a barrel oil the quoted price of seven months ago, Gen. Johnson and Secretary of Interior Ickes are attempting orderly control of the industry.

Recently a United Press dispatch from Washington said Joiner was considered by many as the man who shouldered Gen. Johnson with the oil troubles. And Joiner, said the dispatch, when last heard of was broke.

That amused Joiner, a medium sized man whose hair is turning from black to grey and who is slightly heavier than when he worked among drilling crews. When he sunk the Joiner well near Henderson, many considered him an "old man." He was "Old Dad" Joiner. Today he closely guards his age, recently refusing to disclose to a judge his exact age.

From Tennessee Tennesseeans who recall the days when "Bob" Taylor was governor and Carmack's name was on every lip can guess. Joiner was a representative then from Lawrenceburg just west of his Texas Oklahoma was Indian territory, East Texas hadn't thought of crude oil.

Joiner left Tennessee for Oklahoma in 1897 to manage some property for some relatives. In 1913 he began prowling and Oklahoma for oil. He made some good strikes, tried for more and missed finding the big Seminole field by not drilling a well 400 feet deeper.

When he came to East Texas in 1927 well meaning persons said oil was not to be found there. The deeper he drilled the more was said. While his drills cut "esper" a convention of geologists meeting at Henderson passed resolutions declaring no oil would be found at his lease.

One day oil was struck. By nightfall the flow was gauged at 100 barrels a day. And Joiner was rich and famous.

A few months later he sold part his interests at a reputed $1,250,000; kept much land under lease and drew royalty checks from 300 other wells which paid him as much as $12,000 per month at times. The pool he tapped was the greatest in the United States. Wells sprouted like weeds, several thousand a year until the total today is more than 10,000. This activity changed the tone of news from East Texas. Market news, drilling operations and martial law was news. Thus "Dad" Joiner was for-
