

Mrs. Ferguson Signs State Crude Oil Tax Howard County To Become Part Of 70th Judicial District

Signature Of Governor Is Put On Bill

C. L. Klapproth Judge, W. R. Smith, Jr., District Attorney

Next term of district court in Howard county will be held by Judge Charles L. Klapproth as judge of the seventeenth judicial district of Texas.

Governor Ferguson has signed the bill by Senator Collier revising the thirty-second, seventeenth and hundred and ninth judicial districts.

Members of the local bar understand that the new law will become effective insofar as Howard county is concerned on September 1 and that a term of seventeenth district court will be opened here the Soviets

Our delegates to the London conference have been told identically to treat the Russians just as if they weren't Red. We are to make no point of the fact that diplomatic relations will not be established by the time the conference sits down.

That order has caused some of the State Department officials to buzz about the way former State Secretary Stimson put the Russians in what he thought was their place at Geneva.

The Soviet delegate M. Litvinoff sent word to Stimson that he would like to call. Stimson sent back word that if Litvinoff wanted to talk to him it would have to be done through third parties. Thereafter M. Radek and Hugh Gibson did all the talking for Stimson and Litvinoff.

One day Premier MacDonald was walking in Geneva with the wife of a prominent American official. He met Litvinoff and stopped to chat. The lady walked on.

Sweets

The sugar lobbyists have slipped the world around among themselves that the man to see in the administration on that subject is a Charles W. Taussig.

He does not hold a government job, but apparently has more influence than if he did. At least he maintains the appearance of influence and gets credit for it whether he has any or not. His latest acquisition is a desk in the office of Prof. Moley. Everyone knows that means something because Moley sits at the right hand of the source of all power.

Taussig's headquarters are a suite in the most expensive hotel in town. Cabinet members have been known to drop in there for lunch. He is young (about 35) wealthy and president of the American Molasses Company, a Cuban concern.

Beer

All this talk about phenomenal beer revenues is mostly foam. Those who have pecked at the government's private books say the monthly Federal income is running around eight million. The experts expected twelve million. That does not throw budget calculations askew. More states are authorizing beer each week. The

Court Grants Three Weeks To Allow For Attorneys' Briefs In Action Of Legion Post For Title To Lot Here

Three weeks extension has been granted by Judge A. S. Mauley of the 32nd district court in the case of William Frank Martin Post of the American Legion vs. Big Spring Veterans Inc., to allow attorneys to prepare briefs before a decision is made.

The case, one of the most complicated to come to trial here in years, was heard during the last three days of the court term which ended Saturday.

The plaintiff seeks title to property on Main between Fourth and Fifth streets, the defense contending that the property was legally conveyed to the veterans corporation and that the legion now has no claim to it.

The case is all the more involved because of no record of a similar case.

Senator Would Use Public Works Fund To Retire Acreage

Fight For Lower Gas Rates Nearing An End

FORT WORTH, (UP)—The fight for Texas cities for lower gas rates will near an end here May 29 when the Texas Railroad Commission meets in what may be the last session of its inquiry into the fairness of gas rates charged by the Lone Star Gas company.

While attorneys for the utility and state studied volumes of testimony, the United States Supreme Court unexpectedly announced a decision that may have far-reaching consequences for the householders who burn gas in his home next winter.

The high court approved the California Railroad Commission's ruling which cut $30,000,000 from the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation's rate base.

The rate base reductions ordered by the California commission and those sought by the Texas commission are strikingly similar.

The California commission cut off charges of $9,228,667 for "going concern" value of development of business; $2,500,000 for promoters' remuneration; and $5,921,470 for financing by a holding company.

In an effort to secure lower gas rates for the bricklayer and banker, and all other consumers, Texas seeks to prove the Lone Star rate base should be reduced $7,499,077 for "going concern"; $4,499,935 for preliminary organization and development (promotion); and approximately $3,000,000 for financing and management charges by the Lone Star Gas Corporation, the parent concern.

Attorneys for the utility will cross-examine state witnesses when the Railroad Commission resumes the inquiry here May 29.

Davis Gives Nations New U S Position

Traditional Policy Of Isolation Abandoned By Action

GENEVA, (UP)—President Roosevelt's peace message was translated into a program of action at the disarmament conference Monday when the United States offered virtually to abandon its traditional isolation policy.

Norman H. Davis, American ambassador-at-large, told the nations of the world his government would consult with them when peace is menaced if the United States agrees with other countries concerning identity of an aggressor nation.

He promised Washington will refrain from any action of a nature to hinder collective efforts to restore peace.

This doctrine was taken to mean that when nations take punitive measures against an aggressor the United States, if it agrees as to identity of the aggressor, will not insist upon her rights of neutrality.

ROME, (UP)—Four big powers of western Europe are "responsible for peace or war in Europe and the world" Under-Secretary Surwich told the Chamber of Deputies Monday in discussing Mussolini's four-power peace pact.

Congress Would Finance Public Works Issue With New Levies

WASHINGTON, (UP)—On a 13 to 9 vote the house ways and means committee Monday approved a program increasing income and gasoline taxes and making corporate dividends subject to income tax rates.

The program was devised to finance the three billion three hundred million dollar public works employment bond issue.

It would lift the normal tax rates from four to six per cent on incomes of $4,000 net and less and from 8 to 10 per cent on all above four thousand.

C-C Directors To Hear WTCC Report

Directors of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce will meet Tuesday evening at 7:45 o'clock to hear report of E. J. Mary and Carl Hornsfield, co-chairmen of general arrangements for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention.

They will submit a complete financial report of the convention.

Several minor matters also are due to be brought up. A report on membership has been called for by the president for submission at this meeting.

All directors are urged to be on time. The meeting will be brief.

Highway Department Representative To Be Here For Tuesday Meet

After having postponed a meeting scheduled here for Friday afternoon, Earl Beavers, state highway department representative, will meet with the chamber of commerce roads committee Tuesday to discuss means of obtaining right of way through Glasscock county on highway No. 2.

Several property owners have already signed deeds offering to donate right of way if a paved road is constructed within the next five years. Condemnation proceedings have been instituted against one large property owner who failed to reach agreement as to price for his land.

CHAPTER XVII

Her voice over the telephone sounded small and clear. "It's Monnie, Dan." She could almost hear the intake of breath at the other end of the line.

"Monnie! That's great! But you said you wouldn't!"

"I know I did. She bit her lip to keep it from trembling. How absurd it was to behave like this! "I changed my mind. I want to see you, Dan."

There was no hesitation now on his part. He said heartily, "Sure. Glad you decided to. When and where?"

"Tonight," the girl told him. "It's important."

There was the barest pause and then Dan said, "Of course. I've got a date - but I'll break it. Shall I call for you around 7?"

It was arranged then. How simple it had been! Monnie hung up the receiver with fingers that shook a little. Sandra did not know how right she had been when she had advised Monnie to play a waiting game with Dan Cardigan. The very fact that she had held him at arm's length for a month had awakened his interest anew. Now she determined with all her heart to fight for him.

Sandra had once said with her air of knowing all about it, "A woman can have any man she wants if she really sets her mind on it." Of course when Sandra had said that she had been thinking only of herself. She had not meant the words to apply to anyone else.

Monnie felt more than unusually self-conscious when she explained to her mother that she had an engagement with Dan Cardigan that night.

"But I thought..." Mrs. O'Dare had the evening paper in her hand, folded back to Miss Antioch's social column. The words leaped at Monnie:

"Among this evening's guests will be Mr. Charles Eustace, Mr. Daniel Cardigan, Jr..."

"He was invited to that party," Monnie said lightly. "He's just not going."

"Not?" Mrs. O'Dare's pretty, anxious face looked up, looked away. "Oh, I see!"

A moment later she said gently, "I'm glad you're having a little fun, love. You've been so quiet lately. It isn't quite fair - your not having a good time when the rest of those girls do. Her gesture embraced Sandra and all Sandra's crowd.

"Don't you worry about me," Monnie's voice was gay. Indeed she felt singularly light-hearted. "I'm all right."

"But you're young," fretted the mother. "You need your chance, Monnie. Don't think I don't know what working in that store all day means - helping to run this house - everything. It's not exactly a girl's job. It's too much for you." She bent over the paper to hide the sudden rush of moisture that had sprung to her eyes.

Monnie laid her smooth young hand over the word one. "You're not to worry, I said. Everything's fine. Everything's splendid!"

She sang as she dressed, little snatches of dance tunes. It was enough tonight to be young, to be alive, to have a brief glimpse of that elusive thing, happiness. When at 7 a motor horn sounded and she heard Dan's deep voice an instant later, conferring with Mark on the veranda, she could have wept for sheer joy.

"Sandra's going to eat me alive for this," Dan told her, helping her into the car.

"She's for what?" Monnie pre-empted utter innocence. Her candid eyes implored him to share the secret.

"Oh, that big racket she's throwing tonight," Dan said carelessly. "They'll be one man short, that's all."

"Oh, really?" Monnie frowned thoughtfully.

"Doesn't matter a bit," Dan grinned down at her. "To me, that is. I had Frear, at Dad's office, call her up and say I was yanked out of town - on important business. Good joke. With her free hand she shook a cigarette from the paper packet and some how managed to light it."

"She'll be awfully mad at me," Monnie informed him. "If she finds out..." Her eyes were limpid, guileless.

"Nuts!" said Dan inelegantly. "She can't run me. Let her be mad. Tell you what, Monnie, she's too bossy for me. No matter what Mother says..."

"That's what I wanted to talk to you about, Dan," said Monnie in the gentlest voice imaginable. "I think it's about time we came to some decision about our - our affairs. There's a good deal of talk around town..."

The young man interrupted her, frowning deeply.

"About what?"

Monnie tucked in a vagrant curl. Her expression was still sweetly untroubled.

"About you and Sandra," she said. "They all say you're going to marry her. She put up her hand to ward off Dan's torrent of explanation. "I don't know how true it is and honestly, Dan, I don't care." She paused to let that sink in. "But what I wanted to say was - I completely release you from the agreement we had last autumn. I want you to feel perfectly free to go ahead, to do as you like. After all," said Monnie in dulcet tones. "We were pretty much kids last year. Perhaps we've grown up, both of us. Perhaps we're seeing things in their true light."

"I don't know what you mean by that," Dan muttered sullenly.

"It wasn't really an engagement anyway," Monnie pursued earnestly. "We just - well, sort of pledged ourselves to each other in a boy and girl way. You gave me this, and her curling fingers opened to disclose a seal ring. "Mind you," she went on softly, "I'm not saying it wasn't really - awfully sweet and precious. I was thrilled over it. But I've come to realize just as you have, Dan dear, that we're not exactly suited to each other."

He broke in. "Who says we're not?"

She gave her slender shoulders a tiny shrug. "Your people and mine."

"I thought your mother liked me," Dan began, injured.

"She does," Monnie told him quickly. "She thinks you're a splendid boy - that you have wonderful possibilities. But what Mother says is this, she wants me to have the best. She doesn't like to think I'd be snubbed and looked down upon just because we happen to have lost our money. Mother feels we can hold our heads with the best of them. She's not willing to let me in for unpleasant situations. After all, Dan, I'm not being critical but you know your family hasn't been particularly nice to me."

thought," said Dan sullenly, "what the deuce? But now..." He stared down at her and the girl had to strip herself to keep from trembling at the intensity of that gaze. "Now I'm not so sure I want to call it a day. See? I'm not so sure some other chap hasn't been mulling in. What's happened, Monnie? Is there somebody else?"

She flicked her lashes downward deliberately before choosing words to answer him.

"What makes you think that?"

Those strong brown hands gripped her slender one. She smelt the fragrance of cigars and shaving soap and fresh linen. Blue eyes stared into dark ones for one long moment.

"Dan Cardigan, let me go," Monnie commanded. "You've no right..."

"Haven't, eh?" growled her captor masterfully. "You're my girl. You're going to tell me here and now what's changed you or I'll know the reason why!"

Under her struggle for composure Monnie was conscious of a deep and secret flash of triumph. Things seemed to be working out her way, after all.

America's Naval Reduction Hopes Appear In Vain

PARIS, (UP)—American hopes for reduction of naval armaments before 1936, when existing agreements expire, appeared futile in view of naval building activity throughout the world.

A United Press survey revealed that France, Britain, Germany and Russia were speeding up their building programs, while Italy was renovating her fleet.

This activity in Europe coincides with the authorization of a huge naval program in Japan and the U. S. navy department's proposal strength.

The French super-cruiser Dunkerque, upon which work is going forward at Brest, is the most formidable unit in the 1933 program of any nation.

It will displace 20,000 tons, have a speed of 6 knots and fire a broadside of nine 13-inch guns. The vessel is designed to be the most efficient fighting ship afloat.

TWO FAMILIES

THE ARENS FAMILY, 7125 N. PAULINA ST., CHICAGO, ILL.

THINGS are looking up for the Arens family. Mr. Arens' new bottle-cap is selling fast. And out at the curb is the new Standard Plymouth. Is there a thrill in that? The boys and Mrs. Arens are both keen as they can be about it.

Standard Plymouth Six, Four-Door Sedan...108-inch wheelbase...$510 F.O.B.

THE OAKES FAMILY, 9 W. MELROSE ST., CHEVY CHASE, MD.

MARGARET OAKES is learning to drive. She'll want Plymouth. The heavy car makes Mrs. Oakes nervous. She likes Plymouth, too. But Mr. Oakes drives to his office. Plymouth gets him around faster and easier. Question: Who gets the car? It doesn't take long to convert a "heavy car" owner to the De Luxe Plymouth. It's the biggest six in the low-priced field. Free Wheeling is one thrill. Floating Power smoothness is another. Transmission is all silent and automatic clutch is only $8 extra. Springs never need oiling...valves go 30,000 miles without grinding...windshields are Duplate Safety plate glass. Plymouth has the edge on other sixes in 30 places! It would be smart to see it today!

"KING KONG"

NO. 2

What a queer world is this! A fifty foot ape carrying off a white girl! And now the crew of the Adventure hurrying to rescue Ann finds monster reptiles from prehistoric ages—monsters believed non-existing for millions of years! Boats making no dent on the dinosaur's horned hide, they use gas bombs.

Another prehistoric reptile—the Bristosaurus, astounds Denham, Driscoll and members of the crew fighting their way through jungle and swamps to rescue Ann. The monster overturns their raft, catches men between its teeth and shakes them as a terrier shakes rats. Camera equipment, precious gas bombs and lives are lost.

What chance has pigmy man against the huge, fantastic beasts of this nightmare "Skull Island"? An injured Triceratops on one bank. Great, hungry crawling things beneath. On the other bank "King Kong" shaking the tree until the men fall to a hideous death in a precipice. Driscoll and Denham, escaping to opposite cliffs, watch the tragedy helplessly.

Unable to move from his narrow ledge on the cliff, Driscoll stabs furiously at the great paw of "King Kong" who has discovered him. But his knife makes no more impression than the scratch of a pin on a man's hand. A scream from Ann draws "King Kong's" attention to a new enemy.

Attendance From Wide Area
Many citizens of Best, Traan, McCamey, Crane, Wink, Odessa, Pennwell, Foran and other oil field towns, from Midland, Big Spring and other operating centers, geologists, land men, scouts, casinghead gasoline plant operators, supply and equipment men, drillers, tool pushers, pipe liners, tank builders, in fact, representatives of all divisions and lines of work in the oil industry in West Texas—are expected to attend the celebration. Former West Texans whose work has sent them to the East Texas field, the Gulf coast, New Mexico and elsewhere will provide a large contingent.

Post card invitations that are being mailed bear the likeness of W. D. (Lefty) Holcombe, the oil mayor of San Angelo. He has a bundle of papers under his left arm and in his right is an "Extra. Santa Rita No. 1 Blows In! May 28, 1923." His invitation below reads:

"Come On Boys! San Angelo is throwing a Big Birthday Party Saturday and Sunday, May 27-28, honoring you and Old Santa Rita No. 1."

Ector Gains One Oil Test

Moran No. 1 Smith Two And One-Half Hiles From Stanolind Cowden

Active Ector county oil operations, increased to four with the scheduled spudding Friday of Moran Drilling Co.'s No. 1 R. W. Smith, will include D. D. Thomas, R. L. York and James L. Green's No. 1 J. W. Edwards this week.

D. D. Thomas announced here Saturday that a 5-8 inch casing was being trucked from Albany to No. 1 Edwards, which has been shut down for about three months at 2,238 feet in anhydrite. The cementing of 8 1/4 inch casing at 1978 feet early in the year did not hold. It was intended to shut off upper water. The wildcard had a long fishing job at 3,200 feet, which finally was cleaned up.

The contract provides for drilling to production of sulphur water in the lime or to 4,500 feet. Location is 330 feet from the south line and 2,310 feet from the east line of section 24, block 43, township 3 south, T. P. Ry. Co. survey, about 10 miles south of L. C. Harrison and others' No. 1 P. V. Addis estate, No. 1 Addis east half opened Ector county's third pool.

Moran No. 1 Smith, scheduled to have been spudded Friday, is 230 feet out of the northwest corner of section 12, block 43, township 1 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey. It is 2 1/2 miles southeast of Stanolind Oil & Gas Co.'s No. 2 Dick Cowden, farthest south of two producers in northern Ector county.
Landreth-Texas No. 1 Holt, north-west of the Stanolind Cowden well, and in section 16, block 43, township 1 north, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, was standing with 8 1/4 inch casing cemented with 20 sacks at the total depth 3,994 feet in lime.
A. W. Chery and others' No. 1 Johnson, in section 41, block 43, township 1 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, was shut down at 3,100 feet in redrock and sand for 6 5/8 inch casing.
Fred Turner and others' No. 1-A Addis, in section 33, block 43, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, was standing with 8 1/4 inch casing cemented with 20 sacks at 1,022 feet. Total depth was 1,720 feet in salt.
Stanolind No. 1 E. F. Cowden, north offset to Harrison and others' No. 1 Addis, was rigging up cable tools to clean out. It was drilled to 4,042 feet with rotary. After being shut down for 48 hours it flowed 127 barrels of oil last Monday and the next day made 66 barrels. The well may be shot.

McKee Bows Out

Joseph V. McKee, the man who served temporarily as mayor of New York after Jimmy Walker's resignation, has quit politics for good and gone into business.

In announcing that he was becoming head of a title guarantee and trust company, Mr. McKee said that "this step marks complete elimination of myself from politics and governmental office."

He went on to say that leadership in politics is hemmed in by party limitations.

Just how futile leadership can be was discovered by Mr. McKee during his brief tenure of office. He headed the Tammany organization and succeeded in effecting considerable economy in the administration of the city's affairs. A good many party prerogatives were taken away from the faithful. Some of the party bosses lost their city-owned limousines.

In spite of his good work along that line, however, McKee could not win his party's nomination and was frozen out. The fact that tens of thousands of New Yorkers wrote his name on the ballot meant nothing in a practical way; Tammany triumphed, as usual, in spite of defections from the ranks. It is perhaps as strongly entrenched today as ever.

The truth is that no one leader can do anything with a situation of that kind. Nor can half a dozen leaders accomplish much. It is a case calling for the united effort of all the better elements in the citizenship, regardless of party affiliation.

List Of New Juveniles At Library

A splendid list of new juveniles has been received and will be placed on the shelf of the Public Library by the time school is out, announces Mrs. B. T. Cardwell, librarian.

These juveniles range from picture books to teen-age fiction. They include the Oz books, The Tarzan series and other well known series. All of them are the wholesome, attractive type of story favored by parents and juvenile authorities.

These books were purchased by the Maypole fund which was sponsored by the Child Study Club and will be made an annual affair. In this way the juvenile department of the library will be increased from summer to summer until it becomes strong enough to meet the demand.

With the end of school the 25-cent summer membership for school children will go into effect. This membership is for all school children regardless of age. It was very popular last summer and will probably be much more popular this summer.

Mrs. Cardwell announces that the adult books comprising the May list will soon be arriving and will be put on the shelves immediately.

Following are the new juveniles:
Draper Girls Go to College, Elizabeth Corbett.
Penrod, His Complete Story, Booth Tarkington.
The Princess and the Goblins, George McDonald.
Johnny Goes to the Fair, Lois Lenak.
Little Black Sambo, Altemus.
Ozma of Oz.
Dorothy and the Wizard of Oz.

San Angelo Invites Oil Men And Families To Party In Celebration Of 10th Birthday Of Santa Rita No. 1

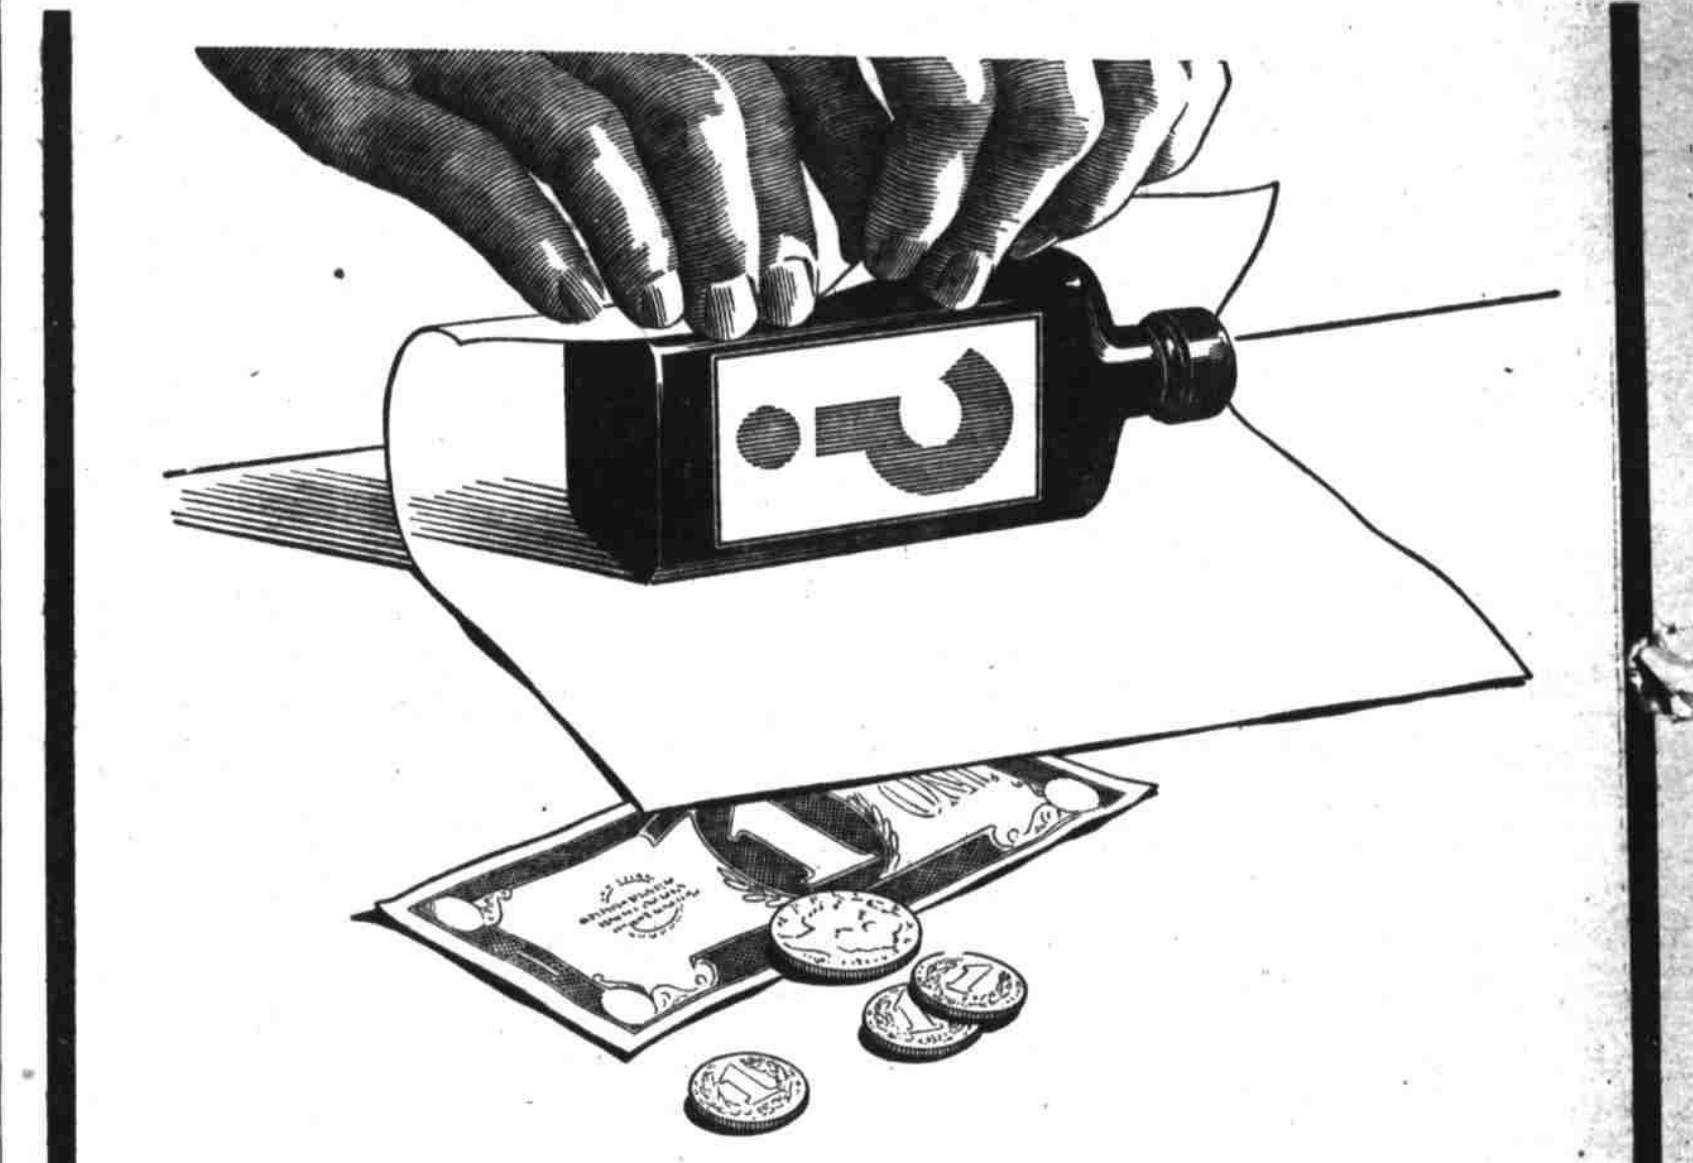

SAN ANGELO—Acceptances of invitations to the celebration here May 27 and 28, commemorating the tenth anniversary of the drilling in of the Reagan county discovery Santa Rita well on May 28, 1923, indicate that hundreds of oil men who have participated in the petroleum development of West Texas as past and present, and their families will be San Angelo's guests this week-end. The program has been completed by the Board of City Development.

Realizing that it will be impossible to place personal invitations in the hands of all who now are or have been connected with the oil business in West Texas, committees in charge have issued a blanket invitation through the press and trade journals. A badge issued upon registration will admit the oil men and members of their families to all entertainment free. There will be no registration fees for the golf tournament or any other events on the program. The party will be for San Angelians connected with the oil business as well as for visitors.

A Monument of Progress
The Santa Rita led to the development of the Big Lake oil pool, the Permian Basin's first major oil field, which, with the opening of other fields, moved the Orient rail road from abandonment, started a royalty fund that is making the University of Texas one of the wealthiest in the nation and in transforming much of West Texas almost tripled San Angelo's population within six years. San Angelo will manifest its appreciation of these things in giving the birthday party.

Attendance from the Big Lake field will be large. Charles E. Beyer of Texon, vice-president and general manager of the Big Lake Oil Co., has announced that all work possible will be suspended next Saturday in order that employees may come to San Angelo. A shut-down to a similar extent is expected at Rita Santa, field headquarters of the Texon Oil & Land Co., of which J. Ed Warren is district superintendent. The Texon Oil & Land Co. drilled the discovery Santa Rita well and that company and the Big Lake Oil Co. control all the production in the Big Lake field.

ARE YOU PAYING GOOD MONEY FOR "FALSE BARGAINS"?

Whenever outstanding quality makes any packaged product popular with you and other shoppers, somebody soon offers you something "just as good" at a "bargain" price.

Before you even think of buying it, look at the label. When the brand is unfamiliar—when you know nothing of the maker's reputation—isn't it folly to take a chance on unknown quality just to "save" a few cents?

There are too many genuine bargains today to waste good money on false ones! Prices are down. Many reliable brands, long-known to you through your own experience or by their advertising, now cost far less than they have in years.

Ask for them by name. And insist on getting them. It is the best way to avoid buying merchandise in which quality has been sacrificed to make a low price still lower!

The statute which created the thirty-second district special court, over which Judge James T. Brooks has presided since its inception, ends the life of that court on August 1.

If the Collie bill, which changes Howard from the thirty-second to the seventieth district, had not been passed the regular thirty-second district court, presided over by Judge A. R. Massey of Sweetwater, would have been the only court in force for Howard county after August 1.

The Collie bill not only changes Howard to the seventieth, but takes Andrews county from the seventh and places it in the hundred and ninth district.

Four Counties The thirty-second district will be composed of Scurry, Nolan, Mitchell and Borden counties. The seventieth district will include Howard, Martin, Glasscock, Midland, and Ector counties.

Judge Massey ended the last term of the thirty-second district court here Saturday afternoon. He said that he was very sorry to lose Howard county from his district from a sentimental point of view but that the change would reduce the volume of business in his district about one-third and that, with the passing of the special court provided for by Judge Brooks, he would have been overloaded in comparison with judges of neighboring districts.

Mahon's Regrets George Mahon, thirty-second district attorney, who resides in Colorado, recently expressed, along with Judge Massey, his regret at losing Howard county. He has served as district attorney since his appointment by Governor Moody in 1927 and has never had an opponent. He has made many friends here and is highly regarded by the bar.

Purpose of the bill changing Howard from the thirty-second to the seventieth, according to those who sponsored it, to equalize court time between the various counties according to their population and the volume of court business created annually. They declared that with the passing of the thirty-second district special court, Howard would be greatly discriminated against in amount of court time allotted annually under the statute that created the thirty-second district, and that the judge of the seventieth district could easily handle the Howard county court without being overloaded.

Data compiled in support of the bill showed Howard county had more population and more cases filed than the whole of the seventieth district, although it would have had far less court time than some of the counties in the seventieth. Other counties of the thirty-second district, except Borden, are considerably more populous than those of the seventieth district. This blocked any plan to re-allot court time between the counties already in the thirty-second district.

Midland Native Judge Charles L. Klapproth, who will preside over court here in the future, is serving his seventh year on the seventieth district bench, although he is still in his late thirties. He is a native of Midland county, the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Klapproth. His mother, an early settler, still resides there. He was educated in the Midland schools and in the University of Texas. He was elected in 1926 to succeed Judge Charles Gibbs, who retired to seek a higher judicial office.

The judge is an active church worker, and teaches the Men's Bible class of the First Methodist church at Midland. He is outstanding in a Masonic circles in his community. He is a former Worshipful Master of the Midland Blue Lodge and has held the highest offices in the Chapter and Commandery there, besides serving in various district offices of the order.

Scholar A life-time friend of Mr. Klapproth described him as "a serious-minded, devoutly and consistently religious man who is unusually gifted as a public speaker and who has from boyhood been a clear-thinking scholar."

The new district attorney for Howard county W. R. Smith, Jr., of Odessa, is well-known here. He is the son and namesake of Judge W. R. Smith who served this, the sixteenth district, as congressman for a number of years. He resided in Colorado for a long period before going to El Paso, where he served as judge of the federal court for the western district of Texas, following his retirement from congress. The younger Smith is one of the outstanding young attorneys, and one of the outstanding Democratic party workers of West Texas. He was chairman of the presidential campaign for this congressional district last year and is considered now as one of the most likely appointees to the post of district attorney of the United States district court for the western Texas judge.

State Engineer To Inspect New Highway 1 Route

Gibb Gilchrist, state highway engineer, will be here in the near future to inspect the proposed route of Highway No. 1 through Howard county. A letter from W. A. French, division highway engineer, to County Judge H. R. Debenport, states that Mr. Gilchrist wishes to inspect the proposed route before it is finally decided upon.

Some changes in the route outside of Big Spring are proposed when the highway is reconstructed across the county.

Baccalaureate Sermon At Texas To Be Given By Dallas Minister

AUSTIN—The Rev. Umphrey Lee, pastor of the Highland Park Methodist Church, Dallas, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon to the 1933 graduates of the University of Texas, Sunday, June 4, at 11 o'clock, according to E. C. H. Bantle, faculty chairman of the commencement committee. Special music for the baccalaureate service will be furnished by an orchestra from the Texas School of Fine Arts, under the direction of Mrs. Anita Storrs Gaedcke and by a choir composed of voices from all University churches, under the direction of J. Campbell Wray. Miss Gladys Gruber will be soloist for the occasion.

Dr. Lee was born in 1893 at Oakland City, Ind. He obtained his bachelor of arts degree from Trinity University in 1914, and his doctor of divinity degree from the same school in 1928. He received the master of arts degree from Southern Methodist University in 1916, and has studied at Columbia University and at Union Theological Seminary, New York. He obtained the doctor of philosophy degree from Columbia in 1931.

He was ordained a minister in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in 1918. He has served as pastor at Cisco, as director of the Wesley Bible Chair, Austin, from 1919 to 1921, as pastor at Ennis, and as pastor of the Highland Park church in Dallas since 1923. He was professor of homiletics at Southern Methodist University from 1927 to 1932.

He is a member of the American Society of Church History, of the Wesley Historical Society of England, of the Civic Federation of Dallas, of which he has served as president, of Delta Sigma Phi. He has written extensively, being the author of a number of religious books, including "Jesus the Pioneer," "Short Sketch of the Life of Christ," "The Lord's Horseman, John Wesley," "The Bible and Business," "Historical Backgrounds of Early Methodist Enthusiasm." He is a contributor to various religious journals, is contributing editor of the Southwest Review and of the Christian Advocate, and is a member of the editorial council of Religion and Life.

Six Cars Of Wool Sent From Uvalde Region

UVALDE (UP)—Six cars of wool aggregating 154,500 pounds were shipped from Uvalde, Catarina and Encinal during the week ending May 11.

In making the announcement, Leslie G. Nunn, secretary-treasurer of the American Mohair Producers' Cooperative Marketing Corporation, the shippers, said checks are being mailed for the balance due on 1932 wools marketed under the unit-marketing plan. The checks will bring payment for the 1932 sales to 100 per cent, netting the growers 7 to 13 cents a pound for last year's clips.

Live Rabid Dog With Ten Victims Filmed

AUSTIN (UP)—Filming a live rabid dog with ten of its victims is expected to reveal important facts regarding the actions of mad dogs and their human victims.

The film was taken by the Pasteur Institute of the Texas State Department of Health, where each month an average of 25 persons receive treatment for rabies.

Contrary to common belief that rabies is a warm weather disease, rabies are more prevalent during the winter months because exposure to cold lowers the resistance of the animal, according to staff members.

In the 30 years of existence of the Pasteur Institute over 14,000 persons have been treated and only nine have died while being treated, these principally by alcoholism, the institute reports. Since 1925 there has not been a death of a patient while taking treatment.

When rabies has developed, however, it is 100 per cent fatal, and due to this, treatment must be started at once.

Cow Trail Soon Will Lead Up To An Observatory

AUSTIN (UP)—The narrow "cow-trail" winding up the side of Mount Locke near famous old Fort Davis in Southwest Texas is to become a broad avenue for noted scientists.

For at the upper extremity of this "cow-trail" 7,791 feet above sea level will be situated the W. J. McDonald Observatory, housing the world's second largest reflecting telescope.

It will be several years, however, in 1938, before the observatory is finished. The observatory is to be owned and operated jointly by the University of Texas and the University of Chicago.

Mount Locke was selected for the observatory after a year's search for a site by Dr. Otto Struve, of the Chicago university Yerkes observatory, who will be joint director of the McDonald and Yerkes observatories.

The site for the observatory is believed to be one of the best in the United States. It is about 10 miles air-route, from Fort Davis. The mountain, until recently unnamed, has been designated Mount Locke to commemorate the name of G. S. Locke, Texas pioneer, founder and former owner of the UP and DOWN ranch on which the peak is located.

Locke's grand daughter, Mrs. Violet Locke McIvor, of Concord, N. H., gave 200 acres of land to the University of Texas for the obvil emergence, however, has been low in this vicinity with practically no flea hopper emergence.

and one-half miles. Work is to begin soon on the roadway to further the building of building material and laboratory equipment up the mountainside. More than two years will be required in making the 30-inch pyrex mirror for the telescope. Nearly a year of that will be required for polishing the surface of the mirror which must be flawless. The telescope for the W. J. McDonald observatory will be built as powerful as the Mount Wilson reflector for the observation of faint nebulae and distant celestial bodies. It will be used primarily in the newer phases of astronomy—astrophysics. Astrophysics deals with the physical nature of celestial bodies as distinguished from astronomy, which treats of the motions, distances and dimensions of these bodies.

125,000 Motor Cars Will Be Taken Out Of Service In State

AUSTIN—Nearly 125,000 Texas motor cars will be taken out of service and not replaced in 1933 unless there is a marked and rapid upturn in business, the Texas Good Roads association figured today on the basis of highway department totals just released for the first four months of the year.

Up to May 1, registrations total 911,904, the department announced. Last year at the same time they exceeded 1,011,000 and in May, 1931, the figure was 1,107,000. An average of 82 1/2 per cent of the car owners register by May 1. Thus it is estimated that total registrations this year will be 1,105,339 cars. The figures mean that during 1932 and 1933, a total of 229,428 Texas motor cars will have been put out of commission, the road association's statement said.
