City officials vote to close parks nightly

Final decision in two weeks

By BEAR MILLS
Staff Writer

Following verbal jousting with frequent critic Ray Velasquez, city commissioners approved on first reading an ordinance closing city parks 11 p.m. to 5 a.m. in an attempt to reduce crime and noise late at night.

Admitting he had neither read the proposed ordinance nor taken part in a citywide poll on the measure, Velasquez accused the city of a "knee-jerk reaction to something that hasn't even happened yet."

"We are losing our freedom little by little," Velasquez said.

Velasquez told Commissioner Ray Hupp he hadn't taken part in the survey because, "It wouldn't have made any difference because you all already had your mind made up what you are going to do."

That drew a strong reaction from commissioners, who said they "wouldn't have wasted taxpayer money on this survey if we didn't care what people thought."

"Do you know what the majority opinion was on this?" asked Hupp.

"Are you suggesting we ignore the majority opinion? I thought you favored majority rule?"

Velasquez said, "The majority isn't always right," and said he hoped commissioners would give the measure serious consideration before passage.

Mayor Richard Peet informed Velasquez the matter had been under consideration for months and long preceded the Los Angeles riots.

Officials have attempted to head off a recurrence of racially-sparked conflicts last summer on the south side, as well as something similar to a recent racial clash at Lake McClellan.

A 42 percent increase in violent crime in Pampa, as well as a constant problem with alleged drug dealing and abuse in the parks also have been cited by authorities as reasons for the ordinance.

Velasquez objected to stipulations in the ordinance holding parents liable for their minor children if they continually violate the park closings.

"You can't know where your kids are all the time," he said. "They may tell you they are going one place and end up somewhere else. You can't hold the parents responsible for that."

Peet told him, "I beg your pardon. I know where my boys are at all times and they have been trained to call and tell me where they are going and to tell the truth."

Velasquez snapped, "Well, I guess you're the perfect parent," before returning to the gallery.

No other objections were voiced during the meeting.

Hupp, who has searched for months for another way to curb crime and noise in the parks without going to a closures ordinance, made the motion to pass the issue, which was unanimously approved.

A second reading for final approval is scheduled for two weeks.

The ordinance also forbids congregating between 11 p.m. and 5 a.m. on streets adjoining city parks unless those congregating live on the street and are not violating any other ordinance or law.

City Attorney Don Lane assured those attending the meeting it does not forbid people from using those streets for transit, either by foot or in a vehicle, during the closure hours.

Mae Williams, director of Southside Senior Citizens Center, told commissioners that including the streets around the parks was necessary to make sure those loitering in parks late at night didn't simply move into the roadways at 11 p.m.

Commissioners acknowledged that the ordinance may not completely solve the problem, but said it is one step in attempting to make Pampa a safer place to live.

Copies of the ordinance are available at City Hall and Peet said he will also distribute it through the schools.

In other action, commissioners approved permitting city staff to negotiate with Baker-Shifflet engineering firm for work on a new landfill permit, joining a regional project to assess the city's compliance with the Americans With Disabilities Act, and a resolution on accrued employee vacation leave.

Also approved was the sale of three tax properties at 605 Sloan, 115 S. Hobart and 541 Elm.

A bid of $85,243 was accepted for the budgeted purchase of computer hardware and software from NCS.

No action was taken after an executive session called to discuss a pending federal civil rights lawsuit against the city.

Decker guilty of burglary

By BETH MILLER
Staff Writer

WHEELER — A 40-year-old man pleaded guilty Tuesday to the first-degree felony of burglary of a building in Roberts County, said District Attorney John Mann.

Ronnie Gene Decker is scheduled to be sentenced to 40 years in the state penitentiary next Monday in accordance with the plea bargain arrangement, Mann said. The sentencing by 31st District Judge M. Kent Sims did not take place Monday because a required pre-sentence report had not been completed.

Decker had resided in Roberts County prior to his arrest. He also had listed Abilene and Amarillo as his residences.

He was convicted Monday of burglarizing the Randy Day residence east of the Red Schoolhouse on Feb. 17. In the burglary, a .25-caliber automatic pistol was stolen along with some old coins, three pair of boots, an air compressor, costume jewelry and $3,500 worth of diamond rings, Roberts County Sheriff Bill Britton had said when Decker was arrested.

A second burglary allegedly committed by Decker in Roberts County was considered an admitted but unadjudicated offense and then dismissed.

Decker waived venue and pleaded guilty in Wheeler County.

Mann said that a 40-year sentence was not too long for Decker.

"He's got a bad record and it's my policy when people's homes are broken into I'm going to require stiff sentences," Mann said.

Decker was on probation out of Fector County on a burglary of a habitation conviction. He has been sent to the state penitentiary two times, both in the 1970s, Mann said.

Some of the items stolen by Decker in the burglary have been recovered, the district attorney said.

In an unrelated sentencing hearing Monday, Kurt Damon Duhamell, 33, Phoenix, Ariz., was sentenced to 10 years in the state penitentiary by Judge Sims.

Duhamell pleaded guilty to an April 22, 1990, charge of possession of a controlled substance (methamphetamine), a second-degree felony.

Mann said Duhamell had skipped out on his bond and it has taken a while to get him back to Wheeler County for sentencing on the charge.

Amarillo man faces felony drug charge

An Amarillo man was arrested about 7:30 p.m. Tuesday as he allegedly drove 42 rocks of crack cocaine into the city.

Department of Public Safety Trooper Johnny Carter reportedly clocked 22-year-old Garrie Samuels driving 67 mph in a 50 mph zone as he entered the city on Highway 60.

As he turned to pursue Samuels' 1983 Honda Accord, Carter said he saw a white packet fly out of the window and radioed J.T. Walker of the Gray County Sheriff's Department asking him to look for the package as he stopped the car.

Following confiscation of the alleged cocaine, Samuels was charged with felony possession of a controlled substance and booked into Gray County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

He also was charged with driving with no license and speeding.

In addition to confiscating the vehicle, authorities also found $281 in cash, both of which they will attempt to seize for the state, Carter said.

He said the street value of the cocaine is roughly $1,600.

A passenger in the car was released by authorities following questioning of both men and testimony by Samuels that the second man didn't know the package was in the car. — Bear Mills

Bush, Clinton still dogged by token challenges

By JILL LAWRENCE
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush was weighing riot-inspired urban aid plans and Bill Clinton's mind already was on running mates when voters handed them overwhelming primary victories in Nebraska and West Virginia.

Each man is still dogged by a token challenger. But "this is the time to put together your fall plans," said Mary Matalin, the Bush campaign's political director.

Tuesday's lopsided primary results seemed inevitable. Bush locked up his party nomination earlier this month, while Clinton now has 1,782 delegates — more than 80 percent of those needed to clinch the Democratic nomination, according to The Associated Press delegate count.

In final returns from Nebraska, Clinton had 48 percent of the vote to 22 percent for Brown. In West Virginia, Clinton had 74 percent of the vote to 12 percent for Brown.

Among Republicans, Bush had 84 percent in Nebraska to 15 percent for Buchanan. In West Virginia, it was Bush 81 percent and Buchanan 15 percent.

The president today was headed to a medical center and high school in Baltimore. He toured a troubled Philadelphia neighborhood on Monday and huddled with congressional leaders Tuesday on emergency aid to cities.

Clinton was campaigning today and Thursday in Oregon — where 47 delegates are at stake in next week's primary — and in California, which will close out the primary season June 2 with five other states.

Although the remaining primaries are sparking little interest — even the candidates have been campaigning sparingly — Clinton insisted Tuesday that voters are still eager to hear their arguments.

"I think for most people that it's just beginning," he said. "We're only now beginning to get into a phase where you can raise voter interest."

The Arkansas governor briefly referred to the Los Angeles violence at a Minneapolis rally Tuesday night, ridiculing Bush administration claims that 1960s programs led to the unrest. "They have been in too long when they have to go back 25 years for somebody to blame," Clinton said.

Texas billionaire Ross Perot, meanwhile, headed ever closer to an independent presidential run. Volunteers in 20 states say they have more than enough signatures to get him on general election ballots this fall. As of Tuesday he was certified in Delaware, Tennessee and Utah.

Perot called for unity Tuesday night in a speech in New York City to the American Jewish Committee and denounced "hard core haters" whom he said traffic in racism and anti-Semitism. He said last month he was resigning from two Dallas clubs that exclude blacks and Jews.

Clinton is still facing competition from former California Gov. Jerry Brown, who is making a strong pitch to Oregon environmentalists and also hopes to give Clinton a run for his money in Brown's home state. California sends 348 delegates to the July Democratic national convention.

Brown, campaigning today in Ohio, said the votes he has been getting may force the party to incorporate some elements of his own platform.

"People are climbing on the Clinton bandwagon, even though they're biting their tongue in the process," he said in an appearance at the Youngstown City Hall. "But if you get 20 or 25 percent of the vote, that's a significant constituency in anybody's market, and it's a constituency that's organized and mobilized."

Conservative Republican Patrick Buchanan is focusing on California, accusing Bush of "not doing his job" to enforce immigration laws and proposing his own plan to secure the border with Mexico.

Buchanan also assailed Bush's decision to attend a U.N. Earth Summit next month in Rio de Janeiro, saying the president caved in to conference organizers who want to impose "new stringent global regulations on American business."

Bush has said he will sign a treaty on global warming but will not commit the United States to specific pollution reductions.

In Oregon, Clinton is abandoning a two-week strategy of staying off television and launched an ad campaign to stave off any surprise from Brown.

Brown has been campaigning as a champion of the threatened northern spotted owl and the old-growth forests it needs to survive. Last week he tempered his message, saying it is possible for owls and loggers to co-exist.

Clinton has been trouncing Brown weekly since the New York primary April 7.

Clinton on Tuesday named a vice presidential search committee headed by a former undersecretary of state, Warren Christopher. But he was also thinking about the remaining primary contests, sending top aides to California to shore up what some there consider a weak organization.

Clinton had a slight edge over Brown among likely Democratic voters surveyed in a California Poll released Tuesday. The Arkansas governor was favored by 49 percent to Brown's 42 percent, with 9 percent undecided. The survey had a 4.6 percentage point margin of error.

But California Democratic chairman Phil Angelides predicted Brown would not get much beyond a solid 35 percent base, despite some skepticism about Clinton.

"Everyone is whining and complaining, saying 'I wish God was running.' They ought to quit their whining and look at the big picture," Angelides said.

Three astronauts to attempt 'go-for-broke' space catch

By SUSAN HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Endeavour's astronauts got final instructions for history's first three-man spacewalk, a go-for-broke effort today to bring in a wayward satellite.

"We're ready to hit it running today," said shuttle commander Daniel Brandenstein. Overnight, Mission Control set up more than 20 pages of instructions for the capture attempt this afternoon.

The workers at the Kennedy Space Center, where Endeavour was launched last Thursday, asked that a recording of "God Bless America" be sent to the crew.

Mission Control said that the Kate Smith recording, used as today's wake-up music, had become a rallying cry for Florida technicians in the year that the new shuttle was being prepared for this its maiden voyage. Today, those hopes focused on the risky satellite rescue attempt.

"I have my toes, my fingers and my eyes crossed waiting for the mission," NASA Administrator Daniel S. Goldin told the crew Tuesday. "The one thing I ask you all to keep in mind is crew safety has got to be our first objective."

Never have three people walked in space together; spacewalkers usually go in pairs for safety. Spacewalking astronauts risk puncturing their spacesuits, which in the vacuum of space can be fatal.

Astronauts Thomas Akers and Richard Hieb were to help crewmate Pierre Thuot try to capture a $157 million Intelsat-6 satellite that was left in a uselessly low orbit by a miswired rocket two years ago.

On Sunday and Monday, Thuot failed to snare the slowly revolving satellite with a 15-foot tool called a capture bar. His efforts caused the 17-by-12-foot, 4.5-ton communications satellite to wobble dangerously close to the shuttle.

Today, on the count of three, each spacewalker was to grab onto canistered projections on the side of the satellite and help wrestle it to a halt. Then Thuot and Hieb were to try to lock on the capture bar.

The operation was expected to take six to eight hours.

The satellite will be a total loss unless the astronauts retrieve it, attach a rocket motor and release it, boosting it to a working orbit 22,300 miles high. The shuttle does not have enough fuel for a fourth rescue attempt.

Randy Stone, NASA mission operations director, said the manual attempt became necessary because planners misjudged the satellite's sensitivity to the small amount of pressure applied in using the capture bar.

"It is probably still less than the optimum way to do it, but based on the previous two experiences, we felt like that we ought to go try something different," he said.

Astronauts have captured satellites by hand all three times they have tried — twice in 1984 and once in 1985.

NASA chose Thuot, Hieb and Akers after finding they could squeeze into the shuttle's airlock, a closet-sized compartment that separates the cabin from space.

Those three and Kathryn Thornton, the only woman among Endeavour's seven astronauts, had trained for months to walk in space, and each has a spacesuit aboard.

"I think since we're going to be manhandling the satellite we'll go with Tom, Rick and Pierre," Brandenstein told Mission Control.

Intelsat, a Washington-based consortium of 122 countries, paid NASA $93 million for the rescue attempt, one-quarter of the flight's cost. There were no money-back guarantees.

Endeavour is scheduled to return to Earth on Friday, eight days after liftoff. The flight was extended one day to allow the third rescue attempt.

Richards makes midnight raids on two Houston nursing homes

HOUSTON (AP) — Gov. Ann Richards today blasted conditions at one nursing home and complimented another after she made surprise visits to the homes after midnight.

A visibly shaken Richards used words like "queasy" and "emotionally undone" after the late-night visit to the Montrose Care Center.

"The urine odor is really pretty incredible and that's the first thing that really struck me," she told reporters outside the center.

With her voice cracking and with pauses to gain composure, the governor went on, "I guess what's really hard for me to see is these people raised families and they're going to end their lives this way and they deserve more than that. They deserve more from the state that they pay taxes to."

She said she was especially touched by "one young woman who was paralyzed from the neck down. (She) was incredibly cheerful. She should be turned in her bed every two hours. She couldn't remember the last time she had been turned."

Patients told the governor that employees frequently did not change their rubber gloves between patients, some of whom are HIV positive. Richards said she recognized that part of the problem at many homes involves staff who are underpaid, undertrained and overworked.

But at a second nursing home, Manor Care-Sharpview, Richards said she found the staff more professional.

These volunteers were recently recognized by Coronado Nursing Center and Beverly Enterprises officials for their work at the local nursing home. From left: Norman Rushing, pastor of Central Baptist Church, Robert Yarbrough, area manager of Beverly Enterprises, Billy Stedman and Julie Pence of Spirit of Truth Church, and Maxine Smith. Central Baptist Church received the Community Group Volunteer of the Year Award. Volunteers from Central Baptist have engaged in an active ministry at the nursing home since 1975. Maxine Smith, a volunteer since 1975 also, received the Individual Volunteer of the Year Award; and the youth group at Spirit of Truth Church earned the Community Group Youth Volunteer of the Year Award. Yarbrough of Amarillo traveled to Coronado Nursing Home recently to present certificates to the volunteer award winners. CIA documents portray fearful Oswald

WASHINGTON (AP) — Newly declassified CIA documents on the Kennedy assassination portray Lee Harvey Oswald as an arrogant defector who came home from the Soviet Union in 1961 only when assured he wouldn't be imprisoned.

The 110-page Oswald file containing documents collected before the Nov. 22, 1963, assassination of President John F. Kennedy illustrate the government's intense interest in defectors and uphold the picture of Oswald as an aloof and abrasive ideologue.

The strange biography of Oswald, identified by the Warren Commission as the lone gunman who killed Kennedy, has long been a cottage industry for assassination aficionados.

Among the many questions surrounding his life are whether his pro-Communist contacts were a motive in the shooting; how was he able to return to the United States so easily after defecting and marrying a Soviet woman; was he a U.S. government agent who got mixed up in a plot to kill the president?

Part of the CIA file includes communications between the State Department and the U.S. Embassy in Moscow in 1961 when Oswald, two years after defecting to the Soviet Union, announced he wanted to return home.

Oswald demanded "full guarantees that I shall not, under any circumstances, be prosecuted for any act pertaining to this case." The State Department gave no guarantees but told Oswald, a former Marine, that there appeared to be no impending prosecution.

CIA Director Robert Gates, who turned over the file to the Senate Government Affairs Committee on Tuesday, said the documents represented the beginning of a concerted agency effort to allow public access to the 300,000-page Oswald file. He said they will be open to public review at the National Archives within a matter of days.

"I believe that maximum disclosure will discredit the theory that CIA had anything to do with the murder of John F. Kennedy," Gates told the committee.

But one assassination expert isn't so sure the Oswald file contains anything new that hasn't already been obtained through Freedom of Information Act lawsuits.

"At first glance, it looks pretty familiar," said attorney James Lesar, director of the private Assassination Archives and Research Center. The CIA and other Bush administration agencies, Lesar said, "are making a public relations gesture to show how open they are."

Lesar said the CIA file does touch on areas of interest to assassination researchers.

An October 1963 CIA memo discusses the visit to the Soviet embassy in Mexico City of a man identifying himself as "Lee Oswald." It describes the person as being 6 feet tall with an athletic build, not a description that matched Oswald's slight physique.

Wal-Mart presented Altrusa International of Pampa a Matching Funds Grant in the amount of $1,857. These funds will be used in their many civic projects, including Tralee Crisis Center, Nursing Home Christmas shopping spree, Adult Vocational Scholarship, Pampa Learning Center-Day Care and Senior Citizens Center. Altrusa is an international, volunteer service organization of business and professional leaders, classified by occupation, dedicated to improving their communities by personal service. Through their local Altrusa Clubs, members unite their varied talents in service to others, achieving as a group what individuals cannot do alone. Altrusa Clubs develop and fund specific service projects to meet community needs. Altrusa is recognized nationally and internationally for the significant contributions of its clubs and members.

Health care largest local employer

By LINDA HAYNES
Willow Communications

With more than 750 people drawing paychecks from health care-related businesses in Pampa, the industry is the largest employer in town.

The industry - hospital, physician's offices, nursing homes, home health agencies, pharmacies, and dentists - generates about a $14 million payroll, according to Coronado Hospital's administrator Bruce W. Reinhardt.

"Putting together the numbers from a recent survey of health care businesses in Pampa, we were surprised at the number of people who make their living in health care," he said.

According to the survey results, Coronado Hospital is the biggest single employer in the industry with 250 employees. The three home-health agencies employ another 180 people. The two nursing homes have about 130 employees.

Physicians' offices employ another 68 people, with the local dentists using 40 employees. Pharmacies have about 35 workers. The other employees are from other parts of the health care industry, such as durable medical good stores.

There are 28 physicians, with three of those hospital-based. Although hospital-based physicians Dr. P.C. Avendano (radiologist), Dr. James Kendall (anesthesiologist), and Dr. Joe Lowry (pathologist) do not have office practices, they bill separately from the hospital, so they employ people to do that. The other 25 physicians maintain full office staffs, employing from two to 11 people in their offices.

Eight dentists have practices in Pampa, and employ from two to 12 employees in each office.

"Each time we recruit a physician to Pampa, we're bringing in a business that will employ several people and generate from $500,000 to $1 million or more in revenue,"

Reinhardt said.

He added that the hospital is currently recruiting seven more physicians.

"Most of our physicians are very busy. We want to bring in more primary care physicians, and two pediatricians, which we don't have now. We're also hoping that we can bring in a third obstetrician/gynecologist to help our busy physicians," he said.

Also, Coronado Hospital will add several health care employees to work in the clinic at the Rufe Jordan Prison when it opens.

"We know that a prison will have a very positive impact on Pampa. The employees of the prison will simply add to the number of people who need health care services," he said.

Man found dead in burning auto

LONGVIEW (AP) - Gregg County Sheriff's investigators are awaiting autopsy results today to help identify a man found dead in the back seat of a burning car.

Longview fire crews and sheriff's deputies responded to the scene about 4:45 a.m. Tuesday. A passing truck driver had seen the vehicle deep in a ravine just north of Farm-to-Market 1844 and Judson Schools.

Investigators believe foul play was involved, said Lt. Ken Hartley, sheriff's spokesman.

Justice of the Peace B.H. Jameson ordered the badly burned body sent to Lufkin for an autopsy, Hartley said.

Airport meeting set for May 21

Airports and aviation needs of communities in Carson, Gray, Hemphill, Roberts and Wheeler counties will be discussed at 10 a.m. May 21 in the Chamber of Commerce meeting room, 200 N. Ballard.

Representatives of the Texas Department of Transportation's Division of Aviation will conduct the meeting.

Discussion will focus on current needs identified in Texas Aeronautical Facilities Plan, preservation and development of local airport facilities, availability of state and federal funds, and community goals and objectives.

"This is an opportunity for anyone interested in aviation and airport improvements to step forward and let us know how we can help them," said Karen Wideman, manager of grant administration.

Elected officials, airport board members and airport managers also will be present.

Mathis were awarded scholarships.

Lefors senior Patricia A. Lawrence, daughter of Robert and Deborah Lawrence, was also awarded a scholarship.

Phillips this year awarded 66 scholarships and named 30 alternates, in accordance with the rules and regulations of the company's scholarship fund. Winners were selected by a committee of educators and business people who have no connection with Phillips. This independent committee awarded scholarships on the basis of scholastic record, future promise and financial need.

Each winner will receive a $1,500 award renewable yearly based on scholastic achievement for a four-year scholarship of $6,000. More than 476 students applied for scholarships this year.

The educational fund was established in 1939 to aid children of employees of Phillips and its subsidiaries in obtaining higher educations. Since then, more than 2,748 young people have received college educations from scholarships totalling $6.6 million. Phillips annual scholarship contribution totals $396,000.

Qualifying students who did not receive scholarships can apply for low-interest loans to help finance their college educations from a separate Phillips educational fund.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more; no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Justice loses in King verdict

The shocking acquittal of four Los Angeles Police Department officers charged with the brutal beating of motorist Rodney King illustrates the fact that our criminal justice system doesn't always deliver justice.

The jury's verdict asks us to believe that the four white officers did not use excessive force on King, who is black. If the jury's verdict is to be believed, none of what we've all seen on the amateur videotape actually occurred. Are we to believe we didn't see the officers beat King with metal batons and didn't see them kick him? Are we to believe we didn't see his bloodied face and the graphic details of his injuries?

The American criminal system is supposedly blind to outside influences and judgements based on anything except the evidence and the law. In the great majority of cases that is how it works. However, the system is imperfect. It makes room for courtroom antics, legal obfuscation and maneuvering that result in miscarriages such as this.

The King verdict defies reason. It's likely that a random poll of Americans wouldn't produce one in 10 who believed the police officers are innocent.

The verdict also reminds us that the criminal justice system sometimes fails to treat all citizens equally and fairly. Blacks and other minorities find it more difficult than whites to see justice done in the courtroom. That fact points out that racism remains an unsettling force in this nation.

Clearly race relations have improved dramatically in the last four decades and our society is more open and more equitable - not perfect, but better. Still, there remain disturbing elements of racism that defy explanation. As the King episode shows, fairness still may depend on the color of skin.

Equal opportunity and equal justice under the law are still elusive goals in America. In the wake of Wednesday's jury verdict, the challenge to all Americans is to redouble our efforts to eliminate racism.

The insolence of office

This is a story about John A. Strain of Junction City, Kan. The story is not yet complete - we are waiting to see if Strain gets hit with $10,500 in lawyers' fees - but the story is far enough along to merit your attention.

Strain is a certified public accountant - that fact is important to the story - but more to the point, he is an ordinary fed-up taxpayer. So are we all. He thought his local school district was recommending an unwarranted increase of 38 mills in the school levy for 1990-91. He complained about it. And he ran into what Hamlet termed "the insolence of office."

Dick Snider, a columnist for the Topeka Capital-Journal, picked up the story last month. Strain lives in School District 475. Until a few years ago, he actually served as auditor for the district, so that when he showed up at a school board meeting two years ago, he came with first-rate credentials.

He had come to state a grievance. He accused the board of using two sets of figures on enrollment. For one purpose the board claimed 6,732 pupils in average daily attendance; for another purpose the board claimed only 6,712 - a small difference, he said, but it caused the resulting tax levy to be nearly $100,000 larger than was necessary.

That was the least part of his protest. Strain charged that the board also had engaged in other forms of creative accounting. Specifically, the board had carefully omitted federal impact aid, amounting to more than $3 million, in its statement of anticipated revenues. This is the money District 475 receives to pay for children from nearby Fort Riley.

By neglecting to disclose this aid, the district was able to demand more from local taxpayers. Strain wondered aloud if any tax increase could be justified. His figures indicated that the district had amassed millions of dollars in funds invested in certificates of deposit.

One of the board members asked, "What's wrong with a school district having some CDs?"

Strain asked, "What's wrong with letting the taxpayer keep the money not needed and have some CDs of his own?"

Evidently that impertinence was more than the board could bear. Though Strain's figures were backed up by another CPA and by other taxpayers, the board ruled that except for one minor point he was out of order. And take your seat.

Now comes the remarkable part. Strain appealed the district's ruling to the State Board of Tax Appeals, known as "BOTA." Last October he had his hearing. Columnist Snider reported that he got hit with a double whammy.

"First, the BOTA branded his complaint as frivolous. Then came the real shocker. The BOTA suggested to the school board that it might want to ask the BOTA to assess Strain for the attorneys' fees it had incurred in defending against his complaint."

The local school board found this a perfectly splendid idea. It accordingly asked BOTA to impose a civil penalty on Strain of $10,500, representing 105 hours of an attorney's time at $100 an hour. On April 3 BOTA heard the motion. As of last week, it had not acted. Strain and his own lawyer, Doug Thompson of Abilene, are waiting for the shoe to drop.

The school board and BOTA may have bitten off more than they can chew. The Constitution protects not only freedom of speech. More to the point, it guarantees "a right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances." The constitution of Kansas contains almost identical language.

If BOTA carries its arrogance to the point of actually imposing so outrageous a penalty, Strain will have plenty of help in suing everybody's socks off. The school board's legal fees in squelching this articulate pest may be only just beginning.

Implicit in the bizarre affair is the notion that the bureaucracy has power to punish a taxpayer for bringing a "frivolous" complaint. Bureaucrats cannot waste their precious time on frivolity. So audacious a taxpayer must be punished! Punished, do you hear! Fine him, penalize him, shut him up! Who will rid BOTA of this troublesome CPA?

In effect, the Kansas Board of Tax Appeals is claiming a power to punish for what it regards as contempt. In the hands of judges, such a power is awesome. In the hands of unbridled bureaucrats, it is terrifying. Shakespeare's Cassius asked the probing question: Upon what meat do these our Caesars feed that they have grown so great?

Today in history

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, May 13, the 134th day of 1992. There are 232 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On May 13, 1981, Pope John Paul II was shot and seriously wounded in St. Peter's Square by Turkish assailant Mehmet Ali Agca.

On this date:
In 1607, the English colony at Jamestown, Va., was settled.

In 1846, the United States declared that a state of war already existed against Mexico.

In 1914, boxing champion Joe Louis was born in Lafayette, Ala.

In 1918, the first U.S. airmail stamps, featuring a picture of an airplane, were introduced. (On some of the stamps, the airplane was printed upside-down, making them collector's items.)

In 1985, a confrontation between Philadelphia police and the radical group MOVE ended as police dropped an explosive onto the group's headquarters. Eleven people died in the resulting fire.

Beware hot air

Rarely a week goes by but what some researcher tries to scare us or trick us out of more research money by claiming that the sky is falling.

With the willing complicity of headline-hungry media, the current crisis of the month has to do with "global warming."

"An ozone hole is opening up over the United States," we are told, "the effects of which are already measurable in an increasing incidence of skin cancer."

On the contrary... The ozone-destroying chlorine around the polar vortex has been declining since January.

A major objective of our last shuttle mission was to determine the scope and scale of "the ozone hole." Silence since has been deafening from those whose livelihood depends on creating crises.

Recent data from the Upper Atmospheric Research Satellite affirms that any problem is less, not greater.

Ozone levels fluctuate all the time, partly because of volcanic activity and solar flares.

Paul Harvey

Following volcanic eruptions in 1982 and 1985 there was an abrupt drop in ozone levels.

Recent volcanic eruptions - Pinatubo and Etna - ejected millions of tons of minute particles into the upper atmosphere.

Chicago Sun Times' Daniel John Sobieski wrote: "The only global warming that is occurring is from the hot air generated by inept environmentalists."

MIT's Technology Review has made an exhaustive study of worldwide ocean temperatures since 1850, recently to conclude that, "There appears to have been little or no global warming over the past century."

(In fact, the net rise in world surface temperature during the last century, about 1 degree, almost all occurred before 1940 - before aerosols - and has since reversed!)

Recently former NASA chief Robert Jastrow, former Scripps director William Nierenberg and past president of the American Academy of Sciences Fredrick Seitz all concurred in a scathing rebuke to those who make money by predicting global warming.

Sobieski says, "If we allow ourselves to be influenced by 'science by press release,' we could spend a trillion dollars over the next decade destroying what's left of the American economy in an utterly unnecessary attempt to repeal the Industrial Revolution."

Scare-mongering can exact another price we cannot afford. Enough false alarms, and Americans may become cynically indifferent to all alarms.

The right lesson from the tragedy

The immediate tragedy in Los Angeles is over. What happens next?

It might get worse. The calamity may be compounded if we draw the wrong lessons from it. We won't get the lessons right if we get the facts wrong. That sequence, alas, played out once before. Will we ever learn?

There is, however, something working in America's favor: politics in an election year. The events in Los Angeles will likely become - and properly so - the defining symbol of this election.

Politics tend to rank the major problems in priority. We were told the issues were jobs, jobs, and jobs. More important, though, is values, values, values.

Since Los Angeles, the essence of the public dialogue has been about racism, police brutality and lack of aid to the hopeless poor in the cities. We are supposed to build lessons from that. But the facts don't support such a foundation.

There is still racism in America, but much less than previously. (Remember that we've been arguing in this country about reverse discrimination.) There is still police brutality in America but much less than previously. (The primacy of civil liberties allowed four brutal policemen to temporarily save themselves from justice.)

There is still poverty in America, but less than previously. There has been more spending on poor people, even in the 1980s. There is some urban hopelessness, but it flies in the face of big urban facts: blacks moving to the suburbs, blacks moving up the occupational ladder, near-parity of blacks and whites in high-school graduation rates. (Read about it all in the Census.)

Racism, brutality and poverty are not the principal ailments of the black community. The criminality that terrorizes law-abiding and hard-working blacks (the vast majority) is not caused by racism. Police brutality is not what creates families without husbands, which is the root cause of American poverty.

There is a values problem driving these conditions, in all of America, but most intensely in the black community. "Values" is another way of saying the problems are mostly caused from the inside, not from the outside.

There is hope. Before Los Angeles, a consensus was forming about internal causes. The Values Issue is old stuff among conservatives and Republicans, but we heard about it recently, with passion and intelligence, from liberal Democrats like Sen. Bill Bradley and Sen. John Kerrey. And from Jesse Jackson, too. Most important, Gov. Bill Clinton made "responsibility" (read: "values") a principal theme.

Such thinking is now in jeopardy. In a moment of crisis, it is politically tempting to play the blame-game. When you hear that riots are caused (externally) by "12 years of Reagan-Bush" - you are hearing that at length, you will soon thereafter hear of one more big Democratic defeat.

So, the Democrats must show rhetorical discipline. They must show they can focus on the problem, even when the climate gets tense, and even when special interests demand rhetorical payment.

If Americans agree that values are the central problem, we may have some rewarding political debates and decisions about how to encourage values.

There are good ideas in the air, from both parties. These include: educational standards, enterprise zones, tenant ownership, home ownership, "boot camps," educational choice and welfare reform. The Republican notions are more market-oriented; the Democratic ones more government-oriented. But all are intended to stimulate responsible individual behavior in a society that has been too lax about it.

In another riot-torn moment we had a chance to go down that wise road once before, and we blew it. In the early 1960s, segregation had been outlawed and government programs had been started. Yet in 1968, the Kerner commission ignored facts and offered lessons rooted in external causes ("white racism"), recommending still more external cures, in law and in programs.

Black and liberal leaders became preoccupied with blame and victimization. Children got only a diluted version of a central lesson: Once the doors are open, upward mobility in America will come only from individual effort and discipline.

This time we owe the kids the right lesson.

FBI raids five Indian casinos

By WILLIAM F. RAWSON
Associated Press Writer

FORT McDOWELL INDIAN RESERVATION, Ariz. (AP) — Indians held dozens of federal agents inside a casino during a gambling raid, but released them after eight hours when officials agreed to a 10-day cooling-off period.

About 100 Yavapai Indians used cars, trucks and heavy equipment Tuesday to block the road leading to a reservation casino, trapping between 25 and 50 heavily armed FBI agents and federal marshals.

The agents were trying to seize more than 300 video gambling machines that violate new federal rules on Indian gambling.

The machines were among at least 700 seized during early-morning raids at five Arizona reservations. The Fort McDowell reservation, 20 miles northeast of Phoenix, was the only place agents met opposition.

Gilbert Jones, the tribe's vice chairman, said the machines were worth about $3 million. He said the gaming operations at Fort McDowell brought in some $19 million between Oct. 1 and March 31, the first half of the tribe's fiscal year.

The center provides jobs for more than 100 members of the tribe and supports many of its social services, including its senior citizens center and preschool programs, Jones said.

"We're not just talking about machines," Jones said. "We're talking about a viable economic development that is desperately needed here."

Under the compromise negotiated by Gov. Fife Symington and Clinton Pattee, the Fort McDowell tribal chairman, the machines were left inside locked truck trailers in the casino parking lot, where they'll stay for 10 days.

Indians on the blockade said they would set up a symbolic encampment or powwow at the casino during that period.

It was unclear what would be accomplished during the cooling-off period, which the Republican governor said had been approved by Linda Akers, the U.S. attorney for Arizona.

Pam Gullet, a spokeswoman for Akers, refused to say whether the Indians who trapped the agents would be prosecuted.

Federal law allows bingo on reservations without limits and permits casino-style gambling on reservations in states where similar gambling is permitted off the reservation, but only if the tribes and the state negotiate a compact allowing the games.

Rules that took effect this week made electronic games illegal unless a compact covering them is negotiated.

Jack Moortel, Symington's chief Indian-gaming negotiator, said negotiations held with the Fort McDowell Indians in January and February were not fruitful.

Tribes in five states have challenged the rules in federal court.

MOVE bombing survivor vows to overturn U.S. government

By KELLY P. KISSEL
Associated Press Writer

MUNCY, Pa. (AP) — A woman who survived the 1985 Philadelphia police attack on the radical group MOVE's headquarters was released from prison today after refusing parole for 5 1/2 years.

Ramona Africa served her full seven-year sentence so that she could rejoin MOVE after her release. She planned to head for a MOVE home in Philadelphia.

"All I want to say is, release all MOVE political prisoners," Africa said through the sun roof of a limousine that picked her up at a state prison in Muncy, about three hours' drive from Philadelphia.

Since September 1986, she'd given up two chances for parole because the state board demanded that she denounce MOVE and stay away from its members, said Darlene Zelazny, spokeswoman for the Pennsylvania Board of Probation and Parole.

Bill Davol, a spokesman for the Philadelphia district attorney's office, said he hadn't heard of any concern about Africa's plans. "We wish her well," he said.

Members of MOVE, whose name does not stand for anything in particular, championed back-to-nature rituals, refused to send their children to school and openly disobeyed health and safety laws. All took the surname Africa, after the group's founder, John Africa.

Complaints by neighbors about noise and unsanitary conditions led police to try to evict the group on May 13, 1985, and a gunbattle ensued. Finally, police dropped a bomb on the group's rowhouse, setting off a fire that killed 11 people, including five children and John Africa, and destroyed 61 homes.

Ramona Africa and a 13-year-old boy were the only survivors. The boy has since denounced the group.

MOVE members who weren't at the headquarters that day now live in a different Philadelphia neighborhood. Their new neighbors say the group hasn't caused problems like those in 1985.

"Their relationship with me has been a friendly, cordial one," said Adam Goldman, 28, who lives two doors down from MOVE's new house. "They're very friendly, intelligent and communicative."

He acknowledged there are fears the peace and quiet may end.

Africa has said she plans to work to free the dozen other MOVE members who remain behind bars, most for a 1978 confrontation that left a Philadelphia police officer dead.

In a March letter, she wrote that MOVE remained committed to overturning the U.S. government and starting a new society.

"MOVE ain't acceptin this insanity, we've demonstrated our commitment to fitting (fighting) this rotten system on any level we have to," she wrote.

Report says Carson, Rivers still feuding

NEW YORK (AP) — Joan Rivers has prepared a tribute to Johnny Carson for her syndicated daytime TV show — without any help from the man she credits for her first big break, a newspaper reported today.

Carson's representatives refused to let Rivers use film clips of her 1965 appearances on NBC's "The Tonight Show," the Daily News reported.

"It's like I'm (Josef) Stalin," she said Monday during taping of a "Joan Rivers" show that will be a tribute to Carson's 30-year reign. The show will first air Monday.

"It's like a purge thing. They wouldn't even let me show a clip of my first appearance on the show. They said, 'We'll sue you,'" Rivers said. "It's like I was never even on the show or had any connection with it."

NBC had no comment. Carson and Rivers have not spoken since 1986, when Rivers quit as permanent guest host of "The Tonight Show" to host her own show for the Fox network.

Hawaiian's Maui Cream Pie wins grand prize honors in national competition

A native Hawaiian creating a pie with ingredients from her island paradise and a mother and son concocting crispy peanut butter cookies decorated with home-made peanut brittle, were the choices of the blue-ribbon panels of judges selecting the winners for the Academy Awards of stretch baking in the 1991-1992 Crisco American Baking Celebration.

Marion Ching of Hawaii, finalist from the Western Region in the recent Crisco American Baking Celebration National Competition, baked up her "Maui Pine Cream Pie" to win the coveted "Crisse," the silver-plated rolling pin that symbolizes her title as Crisco's fifth Grand Prize Winner in the pie category.

This luscious multi-layer open face cream pie combining creamy pineapple layers and a crust crunchy with toasted macadamia nuts was baked at the "Good Housekeeping" kitchens. The grand champion pie baker's total prize package is worth $15,000.

Reserve remaining 1/3 cup pineapple for cream cheese layer. Combine egg yolks and water in small bowl. Stir with fork to blend. Stir in cornstarch. Combine sugar, salt, milk and one cup drained pineapple in medium saucepan. Cook and stir on medium heat (will appear curdled for a time) until mixture almost comes to a boil. Reduce heat to low. Add egg yolk mixture slowly, stirring constantly. Cook and stir until thickened. Add butter and vanilla. Remove from heat. Cover pan with waxed paper. Refrigerate 30 minutes or longer, stirring once or twice.

For crust, combine flour, granulated sugar and salt in medium bowl. Cut in Butter Flavor Crisco using pastry blender (or 2 knives) until all flour is blended in to form pea-size chunks. Add nuts and lemon peel.

Add milk. Toss lightly with fork until dough will form a ball. Press between hands to form 5 to 6-inch "pancake". Wrap in waxed paper. Refrigerate 15 minutes.

Heat oven to 350 degrees F.

Flour rolling surface and rolling pin lightly. Roll dough into circle one inch larger all around than upside-down 9-inch pie plate. Loosen dough carefully. Fold into quarters. Unfold and press into pie plate. Fold edge under. Prick bottom and sides thoroughly with fork (50 times) to prevent shrinkage. Bake at 350 degrees F for 15 to 20 minutes or until golden brown. Cool completely.

For cream cheese filling, combine cream cheese and confectioners sugar in medium bowl. Beat with fork until well blended and smooth. Add vanilla. Add nuts and reserved 1/3 cup drained pineapple. Mix well.

Spread cream cheese filling over bottom of cooled baked pie shell. Cover with pineapple filling.

For topping, spread with whipped cream. Toss lemon peel with confectioners sugar. Sprinkle lemon peel and nuts over whipped cream.

For optional garnish, place pineapple slice in center of topping. Sprinkle crushed pineapple pieces among lemon peel and nuts.

Serve or refrigerate until ready to serve. Refrigerate leftovers.

* Substitute toasted finely chopped pecans or walnuts if toasted finely chopped macadamia nuts are unavailable. To toast nuts, place about 1/2 cup chopped nuts in baking pan in 350 degree F oven. Stir every 2 minutes until browned. Cool before using.

 Substitute 1 envelope (1.3 ounces) whipped topping mix prepared according to package directions (1/2 cup milk, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla) for whipped cream, if desired.

It's a peach of a torte baked in microwave

By NANCY BYAL, Food Editor
Better Homes and Gardens
Magazine

Any doubts about the quality of a homemade cake from the microwave oven will disappear after you make this nutty torte. Once the cake is cool, split it in half horizontally to make two thin layers, then into two semicircles, making four layers in all. To assemble, stack the cake pieces with layers of sliced fruit and whipped cream. You can chill the torte for up to two hours before serving.

Peach-Walnut Torte

- 3/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/4 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup packed brown sugar
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup finely crushed vanilla wafers (11 wafers)
- 1/4 cup ground walnuts (about 1 ounce)

- 1 cup whipping cream
- 2 medium fresh peaches or nectarines, or 1 cup frozen unsweetened peach slices (thawed), or 8 3/4-ounce can peach slices (juice pack)
- Lemon juice

Grease the bottom of an 8-by-11 1/2-inch round baking dish. Line with waxed paper. Set aside.

In a small mixing bowl stir together flour, baking soda and salt. In a large mixer bowl beat butter or margarine with an electric mixer on medium speed for 30 seconds. Add brown sugar; beat until mixed. Add egg; beat well. Alternately add flour mixture and milk to egg mixture, beating until combined. Add vanilla wafers and ground nuts; stir until mixed.

Spread the batter in the prepared dish. Cook, uncovered, on 50 percent power (medium) for 10 minutes or until done, giving the dish a quarter-turn every 3 minutes. (To see if the cake is done, scratch the slightly wet surface near the center of the cake with a wooden toothpick. If done, you'll find a cooked texture underneath.) If the cake is not done, cook on 100 percent power (high) for 30 seconds to 2 minutes or until the surface is nearly dry. Cool on a wire rack for 5 minutes. Loosen edges; invert the cake onto the rack. Remove waxed paper. Cool thoroughly.

Chill a mixing bowl and the beaters of an electric mixer. In the chilled bowl beat whipping cream with chilled beaters until soft peaks form. Slice fresh peaches or nectarines; brush cut edges with lemon juice. (Or, drain thawed or canned fruit.)

To assemble, split the cake in half horizontally. Halve each layer crosswise, making four thin half-circles. Place one half-circle of cake on a platter. Spread with one-fourth of the whipped cream. Top with a second cake layer. Spread with another one-fourth of the whipped cream. Arrange half of the fruit on top. Repeat with remaining cake layers and whipped cream. Cover and chill for up to 2 hours. Before serving, top with remaining peach slices. Makes 6 servings.

Maui Cream Pie

- Pineapple cream filling
- 1 can (20 ounces) crushed pineapple (juice pack or light syrup), drained and divided
- 4 egg yolks, lightly beaten
- 1 tablespoon water
- 1/3 cup firmly packed corn starch
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups milk
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Crust

- 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
 - 2 tablespoons granulated sugar
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 cup Butter Flavor Crisco
 - 2 tablespoons toasted finely chopped unsalted macadamia nuts*
 - 2 teaspoons grated lemon peel or zest
 - 3 to 4 tablespoons cold milk
- Cream Cheese Filling
- 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
 - 1/2 cup confectioners sugar
 - 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
 - 1/3 cup toasted finely chopped unsalted macadamia nuts*
 - Reserved 1/3 cup drained, crushed pineapple

Topping

- 1 cup whipping cream, whipped
 - or 2 cups prepared whipped topping mix
 - 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel or zest
 - 1/4 spoon confectioners sugar
 - Toasted finely chopped unsalted macadamia nuts*
- Garnish
- 1 slice canned pineapple, drained
 - Additional crushed pineapple, drained
- For pineapple cream filling, measure one cup drained pineapple.

Welcome spring with garden salad

By NANCY BYAL, Food Editor
Better Homes and Gardens
Magazine

Crown spring's tender, crisp greens with a cool-as-a-cucumber dressing that's low in fat, too. Cucumber, dill and chives bring spring-fresh flavor to this creamy combo of yogurt and reduced-calorie salad dressing. Another low-fat flavor secret: crumbled Melba toast substitutes for buttery croutons.

Garden Salad

- 1-3rd cup plain low-fat yogurt
- 1/4 cup chopped cucumber
- 1 tablespoon snipped chives or sliced green onion
- 1 tablespoon reduced-calorie

mayonnaise or salad dressing

- 1 1/2 teaspoons snipped fresh dill
- or 1/2 teaspoon dried dillweed
- 1/4 teaspoon seasoned salt
- 4 cups torn salad greens
- 1 large green or red sweet pepper, coarsely chopped
- 1/2 cup sliced radishes
- 10 Melba toast rounds, broken into small pieces

For dressing, in a small mixing bowl stir together yogurt, cucumber, chives or green onion, mayonnaise or salad dressing, dill and seasoned salt. Mix well.

In a salad bowl combine greens, green or red pepper, and radishes; toss gently to mix.

Add dressing; toss until greens are coated. Sprinkle with Melba toast pieces. Makes 4 servings.

Quilts provide documentation of culture

By COUNTRY HOME
For AP Special Features

The bride's quilt has evolved from a necessary bedcovering to an important kind of cultural documentation of our American heritage and social attitudes. As a symbolic artifact, it was a precious possession to be cherished and passed from one generation to the next.

Among the old-world customs that crossed the Atlantic with our ancestors was the legendary bridal dowry of quilts. Tradition required every young woman to sew 12 quilt tops and plan a 13th — her bridal quilt — by the time she was engaged. But more often, brides were satisfied with a half-dozen quilts, and some pioneer girls cherished a single patchwork bedcover for their "setting out."

Styles in wedding quilts changed with the times. In colonial days, bedrugs, glazed linsey-woolseys (calamancos), and whole-cloth chintz and calico spreads were made for the dowry chest. In the early 19th century, the most prevalent bridal coverlets were white work and appliqued chintz bedcovers (broderie perse) followed by midcentury appliqued quilts such as Rose of Sharon designs, and album and friendship quilts.

In the last two decades of the 19th century, the Victorian crazy quilt was trendy, succeeded by the pieced-work Double Wedding Ring pattern in the early 20th century.

Although the popularity of these styles reflected the cultural influences of each period; bridal quilts continued to be as varied as the quilt-makers themselves.

Perhaps most interesting are the personalized quilts with pictorial themes, often documented with names, places, and dates. Such a quilt was created by Edith Seaman of Long Island, N.Y., around 1870. It includes marriage motifs, plus a hunting scene with men on horseback, dogs, and a lamp.

Of all bridal quilts, those known as white work are among the most highly prized by collectors. Introduced in the late 18th century, they became extremely popular before 1830, especially in the South. The central medallions of these elegant textiles were composed of stitched urns of flowers, roped swags, floral wreaths, feathered whorls, and cornucopias.

By the mid-19th century, album, friendship, and signature quilts had become the latest trend among quilters. Designed in blocks by friends and relatives, they often were presented to brides as well as ministers, departing friends, or even young men reaching adulthood.

Occasionally, the appliqued or pieced blocks depicted scenes of the bride's past and future life, with perhaps symbols representative of the groom's profession.

Keepsake quilts to record the happy event were assembled from fabric scraps remaining from the bridal gown, the attendant's dresses, and the cravat or vest of the bridegroom. Mementos from the parents would be included, such as a mother's handkerchief or a father's necktie.

Whatever the style, certain ancient symbols for wedded love played an important role in bridal quilt design: hearts and arrows, lovebirds, the lyre, crossed keys, love knots, diamonds, linked rings, and flowers (symbolizing love or purity).

Other motifs seen on the quilts were the pomgranate, pinecone, fig, and sycamore (life, conjugal love, and fertility); the tree of life, cornucopia, fruit, and eggs (abundance and fruitfulness); pine and linden trees, ivy, and dogs (fidelity); bird nests, wreaths, and laurel (good luck and eternity); acorns and winding vines (longevity and courage).

Money is standing between man and teeth

DEAR ABBY: Will wonders never cease? First they tell me Santa Claus is a phony, then Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy was a liar, then the Soviet Union is gone. Now the cruelest cut of all is that Dear Abby is off her rocker.

Just because I have a couple of gaps where I used to have teeth has nothing to do with neglect, ignorance or lack of pride. It could be that I am poor, have always been poor, and probably will always be poor, unless I hit the lottery.

When I had teeth, I took care of them (no neglect); when they got cavities and needed fillings, it was cheaper to have them pulled — so it wasn't ignorance; it was lack of money. Pride? What is pride — combing your hair to cover a bald spot? Having silicone implants to make your breasts bigger?

Bull. If God wants me to have teeth, he will make them grow back. Or maybe you will send my dentist the $1,000 he wants upfront to make me a bridge.

I am 68 and can eat what I want and have been married for 33 years, so I am not looking for a new girlfriend. True, I would probably look better when I smile if I had more teeth, but be assured that it is the lack of money — not lack of pride — that's standing in my way.

ROY L. PARK, SEATTLE

DEAR ROY: I just received your letter and got back on my rocker. Call your dentist and ask

Hologram heros come to candy

By 3-2-1 CONTACT Magazine
For AP Special Features

Holy holograms, Batman! Superheroes aren't just in comics. They're now popping up in holograms — that you can eat!

What's more, they're a sweet treat. A food company in Boston has found a way to put holograms on chocolate and hard candy.

The candy is poured into a mold that has a pattern of ridges a few hundred-thousandths of an inch deep. The candy picks up this pattern as it hardens in the mold.

When light hits the ridges on the candy's surface, it bounces off and creates a rainbow of colors. These colors create a 3-D picture.

Up to 30 different scenes can be put on a hard candy surface. So the image can move or change color, depending on the angle.

The company is working on "candy stories." As you eat through a layer, the picture changes. (For example, when you bite into a new layer, two superheroes clash.)

A 3-D "flick" is also in the works: Hold the candy up the light and you'll see a miniature motion picture!

Explorer post sets meeting for tonight

Careers in firefighting, emergency medicine or law enforcement will be explored by members of Pampa Fire Department Explorer Post 2407, according to Battalion Chief Dan Rose.

The post has set its next meeting for 7:30 p.m., tonight, at Fire Station #1, 203 W. Foster. Rose said that boys and girls between the ages of 14 and 18, along with their parents, are invited to attend the meeting.

For more information call Rose at 669-5800.

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

if he would consider accepting his fee in several more affordable installments. It's worth a try. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Anonymous Merchant," who complained about thoughtless people who walk into his store and don't even say hello, reminded me of my situation.

I am a woman who uses a wheelchair, and I would like to remind people that I am still a person! Some suggestions:

1. Please, say hello to me. I am not just a wheelchair.
2. Make sure I can get through your door. Many times, I would like to cross your threshold, but your door is heavier than I can open. (The current standards: 8.5 pounds pressure for an outside door; 5 pounds for an inside door.)
3. Please remember that merchandise placed on shelves out of my reach limits my choices.
4. Please provide a dressing room

Dr. N.G. Kadingo
Podiatrist
(Foot Specialist)
819 W. Francis 665-5682

that my wheelchair can enter. Almost every store has one spacious dressing room that is the favorite of nearly all your customers.

5. Please talk to me, not to the person who is with me. A typical experience: At a recent visit to a resort hotel, we entered one of the shops and the salesperson asked my husband, "Is your wife looking for something?" And on a plane, the flight attendant asked my husband, "And what will the lady have?"

6. Please do not try to "help me" without asking, "May I assist you?"

Thank you, Abby, for listening to me and all the other persons in the U.S.A. and Canada who use wheelchairs.

First time painters can make old furniture appealing

By MIDWEST LIVING
For AP Special Features

A client asked Maribeth Devine, a Wisconsin artist and furniture painter, to "do something colorful" with a hand-me-down kitchen table and chairs. She obliged with a sunny garden-vegetable theme so appealing it provokes good-natured dinnertime squabbles: "You had the tomato chair last night," and "It's my turn to sit in the pepper chair."

The kitchen set makeover began with Maribeth stripping and repairing the pieces, then applying two coats of primer-sealer and a coat of latex paint. She used crayon-bright acrylic paint for the veggies that spill playfully from colanders and entwine chair backs and table legs. Finally, she protected each piece with three coats of polyurethane.

Following is Maribeth's advice for first-time painters:

— Pick an element from a wallpaper or fabric pattern and repeat it on a piece of furniture in the same room.

— Skip the drudgery and get right to the fun by having a professional do the stripping and sanding.

— Use multiple finish coats on furniture that gets hard use; for decorative pieces, try the new self-sealing enamels.

— Look for paints and brushes, how-to books, helpful advice and information about evening or weekend painting classes at hardware stores, art-supply dealers or hobby shops.

— Visit arts-and-crafts fairs.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Where your career is concerned today, don't place too much dependence on individuals who are usually around to back you up. To gratify their own self-interests, they may have to oppose you. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you understand what to do to make the relationship work. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'll be a productive performer today, provided you're permitted to think for yourself and do things at your own pace. Excessive outside interference could slow you down to a crawl.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your judgment is likely to be better today than the advice of a well-intentioned friend. Listen to what this individual has to say, just don't be overwhelmed by it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Try not to put off important assignments until the last minute today. Your probabilities for success are best early in the day, when you're not only more productive but luckier.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A prudent course of action today would be to guard your own interests before trying to handle things for others. This can't be done without being selfish, too.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There is no valid reason to share your good fortune today with those who had no hand in it. However, be generous with those who did.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your power to evaluate correctly might not be as effective for you today as your luck will. Try to operate in the area where you have the greatest strength.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today could be profitable for you — so long as you don't feel the need to fix what isn't broken. One of the ways to ensure failure is to make impulsive, last-minute changes.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you can organize your priorities in a methodical manner today, success is likely. If you can't, then you might end up with the other "also rans."

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Guard against doing things today in a way where you take two steps forward and one step back. This procedure could deny you the achievement of important objectives.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your first thoughts are likely to be your best ones today, but, unfortunately, you may put more stock in less accurate revisions.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The stretch in your commercial dealings could have definite limitations today. Holding out for extra concessions might be all that's needed to snap the rubber band.

IN THE ROUGH

BY RICK CLARK

It's time to dust those clubs off

If you haven't pulled those dusty golf clubs out of the closet this year, it's time to do so.

With the weather getting better and the grass getting greener, golfers are out in force for pleasure rounds and scrambles.

The Hidden Hills Senior Golf Association held a straight handicap tournament last week. Winning gross honors was Bob McGinnis, followed by Buddy Epperson and Bob Swope. Low-net went to Harvey Malone, second to Jim Maher and third to Bob Brandon. Way to go, seniors!

In the Hidden Hills Thursday Night Scramble, first place went to the team of Mike Handley, John Tarvin, Paul Adair and Bill Harwood. Second went to Bud Murdock, Brian Frost, Joe Jeffers and Greg Vanderlinden.

The Friday Night Scramble at the Pampa Country Club saw three teams tied for the top spot with 30's. After a scorecard playoff, the team of Buddy Lamberson, Rick Swope, Dic Henley and Ava Warren came out on top. Second went to Deck Woldt, Danny Strawn, Bob Lake and Elaine Langley. Third went to Merle Terrell, Tommy Hill, J.C. Beyer and Gwen Tidwell. Fourth place went to Don Babcock, Jerry Simpson, Alma Lamberson and Barbara Rogers with a 31. Congratulations to all the scramble winners!

Last evening, the PCC Ladies Golf Association held its opening four-person scramble. Coming out on top was the team of Joyce Rasco, Johnnie Marx, Susan Covillard and Fran Wilson with a 35. Congratulations to a bunch of nice ladies.

TOURNAMENT SCHEDULE...

The 40th annual API Scholarship Tournament is set for Saturday at The Pampa Country Club. For details on this tournament, contact "Bebo" Terry at 669-3319.

The Pampa Partnership will be held May 30 and 31. First round play will be at Hidden Hills and second round play at The Pampa Country Club. Entry fee is $60 per person with the cart being extra. The tournament will be limited to the first 74 paid teams. You will get a feed at the Country Club on Sunday. To enter, call either David at Hidden Hills, or Mickey at The Pampa Country Club. This is a real fun tournament, but you had better hurry because it's filling up fast.

ATTENTION JUNIOR GOLFERS!!!

Now is the time to join the Northern Texas PGA Junior Golf Foundation. For the small fee of $20 you can choose from more than 80 tournaments to play in this summer for only $5 per tournament. Non-members pay $10.

When you join, you receive a players card, players handbook and a bag tag. Inside the handbook, you will find the phone numbers of all the courses, entry forms and scholarship applications. One of the scholarships goes to a West Texas area junior golfer. These are not small scholarships, you can receive $1,000 per semester for four years.

Two local tournaments will be played in Pampa, starting June 9 at the Pampa Country Club, and July 10 at Hidden Hills. If you're going to play in these tournaments, it would be worth your while to join.

For more details, contact Mickey Piersall at PCC, or David Toichmann at Hidden Hills.

GOLFING FEATS ...

HIDDEN HILLS ... Harvey Malone shot a 40 on the front nine, his best ever. He contributes this to a new driver. Jack Albracht had an 89, his best ever. Michael Lewis had a Hole-In-One on number eight. Good shot Michael!!!

PAMPA COUNTRY CLUB ... Fred Simmons had an eagle-3 on number eighteen. Jim Tripplehorn had a birdie-3 on number three, and an eagle-2 on number fifteen in the same round. He ended up shooting his age which is 81. He also had an eagle-2 on number three in an earlier round. Way to go Jim!!! Jerry Dorman had an eagle-2 on number two. Congratulations to all the golfers for their super rounds and shots!!!

I understand Joe Cree has found a new way to play number fourteen. You hit a perfect drive, putting it in excellent position, drive up to your ball, check the wind direction, pick the right club for your second shot, make a good swing that sends your ball straight at the pin which is on the front of the green. Your ball then hits a BULL SNAKE, that turns around and gently strikes the ball, putting it in perfect position to chip up and make par. All right, Joe!

Until next week, SEE YA' IN THE ROUGH.

Harvester golfers work on short game in preparing for 4A meet

Jay Earp tees off in a practice round Tuesday

The Pampa Harvesters will have to make some adjustments before they finish the first round in the Class 4A golf tournament Thursday in Austin.

Those adjustments, however, shouldn't be anything major.

"We've been working a lot on our short game because the greens at Morris Williams are going to be a little different than what we're used to playing on. The grass is bermuda, which makes the greens a little slower," said Pampa coach Frank McCullough. "I really don't see any problems adjusting because it's easier to adjust to slower greens than faster greens."

Pampa joins the other state qualifiers — Andrews, Dallas Highland Park, Sulphur Springs, Jacksonville, A&M Consolidated, Gregory-Portland and San Antonio Heights — for a practice round on Wednesday. Pampa's practice time is set for 4:15 p.m.

The 36-hole tournament finishes up on Friday.

"Our guys have been working so hard they're almost burned out. They're ready to go play now," McCullough said.

The Harvesters won the District 1-4A title this season, beating out second-place Borger by 21 strokes. Pampa's Cory Stone had a five-round total of 383 to finish second to Borger's Cory Reneau (373) in the medalist race. Stone's teammate, Jay Earp, was third with a 384.

In the regional tournament,

Pampa went from fifth to second in the second round to qualify for the state meet. Earp, the only senior on the team, led the Harvesters with a two-round total of 156.

"Earp has been our No. 1 man all year long, but in my books we have five team members. We win as a team and that's done by taking the top four scores. I put our guys where they feel the most comfortable and try not to get caught up in who's No. 1 or No. 2 and so forth," McCullough said. "We just want to go out and and play the best we can at whatever position the player is in."

Other Pampa team members include Brandon Brashears, Mark Largin and Ryan Handley.

McCullough said Morris Williams is a hilly course with the back nine holes considered tougher than the front nine.

"The fairways are pretty wide on the front nine, but the back nine is a little tighter and requires better shot-making," he said. "It's a little longer than our Pampa Country Club course."

This is the Harvesters' first trip to the state tournament since 1989 when they came in fourth. Pampa captured the state championship in 1984.

"Win, lose or draw, it's a great accomplishment to be in the final eight. We're looking forward to it," McCullough added.

Jordan ignites Bulls; Jazz take 3-1 lead

By The Associated Press

Though Michael Jordan took another beating Tuesday night, it was the New York Knicks who left Chicago Stadium hurting.

Jordan scored 26 of his 37 points in the second half, including a clinching three-point play with 35.9 seconds remaining, to lead Chicago to a 96-88 victory over the Knicks and put the defending NBA champion within one victory of advancing to the Eastern Conference finals.

Jordan scored 15 points from the free-throw line — his reward for being repeatedly hammered as he tried to drive for the basket.

"The lane doesn't belong to anybody," Jordan said. "If I'm going to get knocked down, I'm going to the hole."

The Bulls can close out the series Thursday night at New York. A seventh game, if needed, would be played Sunday at Chicago.

In Thursday night's other game, Utah took a 3-1 lead in its Western Conference semifinal series with an 89-83 victory at Seattle.

On Wednesday night, Cleveland hosts Boston in Game 5 of the other Eastern Conference semifinal series. Portland hosts Phoenix in Game 5 of the other Western semifinal series on Thursday night.

NBA playoffs

Jordan called it one of the more physical games of a physical series. "We got some of the calls tonight and we deserved them," he said. "We finally knocked down some free throws."

Knicks coach Pat Riley said his team had its chances but couldn't convert.

"On the road you have to make every play and every free throw count," Riley said. "Michael is a competitor and will take it to the basket. When you play against a guy like him, he tells you how hard he wants to win by how hard he takes it to the basket."

The Bulls went ahead 20-18 in the first quarter and didn't trail again despite being unable to shake the Knicks. New York stayed close until the end, only to be held off by Jordan.

Xavier McDaniel led the Knicks with a playoff-high 26 points and Gerald Wilkins had 19.

Patrick Ewing finished with 14 before fouling out with 3:33 to play and the Bulls leading 84-78. The closest the Knicks came after that was 89-86, and Jordan responded with his decisive three-point play.

Jazz 89, SuperSonics 83

The Jazz got 24 points from Jeff Malone and 22 from Karl Malone to earn their first playoff road victory in more than a year.

In the lowest-scoring game of the series, the Jazz got six crucial free throws from Tyrone Corbin in the final minute.

Utah is one win away from reaching the conference finals for the first time ever. Game 5 will be played Thursday night at the Delta Center, where Utah has lost only four games this season.

Ricky Pierce led Seattle with 21 points.

Utah had lost seven straight playoff games on the road since a 129-90 victory at Phoenix on April 25, 1991.

Celtics-Cavaliers

A quiet, 30-something forward named Larry is playing a key role in the Boston-Cleveland series.

The surprise is that it's Larry Nance, not Larry Bird, who in unassuming fashion is responsible for a lot of excitement in the series that's tied 2-2.

The 33-year-old Nance, a 10-year NBA veteran who played for the Suns before coming to Cleveland in 1988, is shooting 59.7 percent in the series and averaging 22.3 points.

Nance was 13 for 16 from the floor in Sunday's 114-112 overtime win at Boston Garden, while the 35-year-old Bird returned from back problems to score 2 points on 1-for-5 shooting in 17 minutes. Suns-Trail Blazers

The Blazers go for the clincher at home after surviving the highest-scoring playoff game in NBA history on Monday night, a 153-151 victory by Portland at Phoenix in double overtime.

"They're in the grave, but there's no dirt on them yet," Danny Ainge said of the Suns.

The Blazers, 7-0 in playoffs after taking a 2-1 lead, have a 3-1 margin going back to Portland, where they are 37-8 this season.

Nervous Technology joins list of Preakness contenders

By ED SCHUYLER Jr.
AP Racing Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Sonny Hine has been training racehorses too long to engage in wishful thinking.

"I wouldn't come here chasing a dream," said the trainer of Preakness contender Technology.

Hine said he brought the colt to Pimlico because he doesn't believe the nightmare of the Kentucky Derby. He joked that after watching the start of the Derby, he started looking for a high place from which to jump.

"He just blew the start," Hine said Tuesday after watching Technology work a half mile in 47 1-5 seconds. Technology suffered a small bruise of the left front foot, but the trainer said the colt was fine.

Because he had the No. 2 post in the Derby, Technology was loaded early and he got nervous while waiting.

"He lunged at the gate twice while loading," Hine said.

An assistant starter "turned his head to keep him from lunging through the gate," the trainer added. "He wasn't straight when the gate opened."

At the break, Al Sabin on the rail came out on Technology, making jockey Jerry Bailey steady the colt. Then Technology got shut off on the first turn and eventually finished 10th, two places behind favored Arazi.

Technology, winner of the Florida Derby and Tropical Park Derby, was the second betting choice in Kentucky.

In 1991, Bailey finished 10th in the Derby aboard favored Hansel, then won the Preakness and Belmont Stakes with that colt.

"I know that wasn't my horse," Hine said of Technology's Derby performance.

Technology will be one of seven Derby starters in the 1 3-16-mile Preakness Saturday at Pimlico, which was expected to draw a full field of 14 3-year-olds.

The other Derby veterans scheduled to be entered Thursday are winner Lil E. Tee; Casual Lies, Dance Floor, Conte Di Savoya and Pine Bluff, who finished second through fifth, respectively, and My Luck Runs North, who was ninth.

Those who are expected to join the Triple Crown competition in the Preakness are Alydeed, Agincourt, Big Sur, Careful Gesture, Dash For Dotty, Fortune's Gone and Speakerphone.

"He went fine," Hine said of Technology's workout under exercise rider Eileen Dixon. "She said he did it easily."

Hine said he discovered the bruise after the workout because Technology's rear bandages were more worn than usual from the colt putting more weight on his rear legs while favoring his left front.

"That's the foot that he lost the shoe on in the Tropical Park Derby," Hine said. "He's fine. He's sound, and he's walking perfect."

"He must have stepped on a pebble or a rock or something."

As a precaution, Hine decided to change Technology's shoes from three-quarter to full shoes.

Johnson is top NBA rookie

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Larry Johnson didn't plan on being the NBA Rookie of the Year, and when he was late for the Charlotte Hornets' training camp, most people felt he wouldn't have to worry about it anyway.

"I downplayed it all year," said Johnson, who on Tuesday was named the league's top first-year player. "I didn't get serious until the last month when people started telling me I had a chance to win it. That made me think about it."

The Dallas native, who averaged 19.2 points and 11 rebounds a game, got 90.5 of a possible 96 votes in a poll of sportswriters and broadcasters to join such NBA greats as Michael Jordan, Patrick Ewing and Larry Bird, who also were named the league's top rookie.

Lazier hopes to avoid the wall and finish Indianapolis 500 this season

By STEVE HERMAN
AP Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Buddy Lazier's Indianapolis 500 experience consists of a single lap — a 2 1/2-mile, 10-minute jaunt that nonetheless gives him the rank of veteran when he makes his second start on May 24.

As a 23-year-old rookie last year, Lazier spun and hit the wall on the first turn of the first lap of the race. Despite flat tires and front end damage, the car was able to continue around the track and into the pits, giving him credit for one completed lap. His average speed was 14.87 mph.

But that's all it took. His day was over, and the 33rd-place finish meant he no longer was a rookie.

As he sat in the cockpit, disheartened, his crew tried unsuccessfully to fix the car before giving up and pushing it back to its garage on the leader's seventh lap.

"Last year, I learned a lot that I will obviously take to this race. Hopefully I will be able to go the whole 500 miles," said Lazier, who qualified at 222.688 mph for a tentative starting spot on the inside of the ninth row.

Six of the 33 spots remain to be filled on Saturday and Sunday, then any faster qualifiers will bump the slowest cars, one by one, from the lineup. Four rookies already have qualified, with Eric Bachelart of Belgium the fastest among that quartet at 221.549 mph. Another half-dozen first-year drivers hope to get into the field this weekend.

"I learned a lot in terms of entering the first lap and in terms of learning about the car aerodynamically," said Lazier, who did not practice during Tuesday's rain-shortened session. "I'd like to be competitive and obviously run as well as we can and finish as high as we can."

"It's 500 miles, and I want to be around at the end."

For three years, Lazier had trouble staying around at the beginning.

Following the tire treads of his dad, Bob Lazier, who was 19th in his only Indy appearance in 1981, Buddy came to the Speedway in 1989 and crashed on the final day of qualifications.

The next year, still considered a rookie, he passed his driver's test and was the 33rd qualifier on the third day of time trials. A day later, he was bumped from the lineup by John Paul Jr. Last year, still a rookie, he came back, qualified 23rd and was the youngest starter in the race.

"I believe the team spirits have been elevated," said Lazier, driving this year for the Leader Cards team. "I think they're excited, and I'm excited. It's a pretty good team competition."

Besides Bachelart, the other rookies who already have qualified are Philippe Gache of France, Paul Tracy of Canada and American Jim Vasser. The other rookie hopefuls are Lyn St. James, trying to become the second woman driver in the race, along with Jovy Marcelo of the Philippines, Ted Prappas, Brian Bonner, Mark Dismore and Jeff Wood.

Roberto Guerrero, who will start from the pole position, was the fastest among 20 drivers who practiced before a heavy rain closed the track after just two hours on Tuesday. Guerrero's top speed was 230.368 mph in the same car he qualified at a record 232.482 on Saturday.

Michael Andretti had a lap at 229.950 in his backup car.

Most of the other top speeds Tuesday also were turned by drivers already in the tentative field, including 225.575 by Emerson Fittipaldi; 223.953 by Guerrero's teammate, Jim Crawford; and 223.375 by four-time winner Al Unser.

The fastest among the non-qualified entries were Marcelo at 216.534, Didier Theys of Belgium at 216.247, Wood at 215.481, two-time winner Gordon Johncock at 214.859 and Dismore at 213.680. Those were the fast laps of the month for Marcelo, Theys, Johncock and Dismore.

Lady Harvesters take experience into state track meet

Pampa's 400-meter relay team of (l-r) Bridgett Mathis, Nikki Ryan, Shelly Young and Shanna Molitor compete Friday night in the Class 4A state track meet.

Walking into Austin's huge Memorial Stadium on the University of Texas campus for the first time can be a chilling experience for a high school trackster.

But the members of the Pampa 400 and 800-meter girls' relay teams should have those feelings behind them when they take their positions for the state track meet this weekend. They've been there before.

"Experience is something that's going to be in our favor," said Pampa head coach Mike Lopez. "All of our girls have been to the state meet at least once, so they know what to expect. When they walk in and see that big track, they're not going to panic."

Both Pampa relay teams are coming off victories in the regional meet two weeks ago in San Angelo.

The 400 relayers consist of Bridgett Mathis, Nikki Ryan, Shelly Young and Shanna Molitor. The same girls, with the exception of Christy Jones — who takes Ryan's spot on the second leg — make up the 800-relay team. Jones is a junior and Young is a sophomore while the remaining three are seniors.

"We're excited and ready to go," Lopez said. "You can work out for just so long. It's time to run now."

Both the relay events are scheduled for Saturday night with the 400-meter relay event at 7 p.m., followed by the 800-meter relay an hour later.

"It's going to come down to the handoffs, that's how close it's going to be," Lopez said.

Four of the eight state-bound teams, including Pampa, have clocked below 1:43 in the 800-meter relay this year. Tyler Chapel Hill has a 1:42.81, Del Valle, 1:42.34, Pinkston, 1:42.31 and Pampa, 1:42.8. Crowley, Dallas Maceo Smith and Waco Midway are just over the 1:43 mark, making it a compact group.

Dallas South Oak Cliff (46.86) and Dallas Madison (46.91) are ranked 1-2 in the sprint relay. Del Valle comes in with a 47.75. Pampa's 49.0 time ranks ahead of Frenship (49.3), Port Arthur Lincoln (49.12) and Austin Reagan (49.97).

"We've been working hard on getting our handoffs right. If we can do that we've got an excellent chance of getting these girls a medal," Lopez added.

Penguins keep coming up with more weapons in NHL playoffs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Mario Lemieux goes down and Ron Francis scores five goals in two games. Mario Lemieux goes down, and Jaromir Jagr puts on a scoring clinic. Mario Lemieux goes down, and the Penguins go one game up on the New York Rangers.

How do they do it? How does the team that traded four 100-point scorers in the last two years, that has lost two of the NHL's most prolific scorers in Lemieux and Joey Mullen to injuries, keep coming up with more weapons — and more wins?

If you have an answer in the next 24 hours or so, you might want to contact Rangers coach Roger Neilson at 4 Pennsylvania Plaza, Madison Square Garden, New York. He's not figured out the Penguins, either, and he'd like to before Game 6 of the Patrick Division finals Thursday.

"Somebody on our team always seems to step up front and do what they have to do," Penguins left winger Troy Loney said. "We're getting contributions from everybody, and I mean everybody." Remember now, we're talking about the Penguins, the team that had never advanced past the second round of the NHL playoffs until last year. They surprised the hockey world by winning the Stanley Cup, but what they're doing this season is just as remarkable.

They were down 3-1 to the Washington Capitals, who had the NHL's second-best regular-season record, only to sweep the final three games. They lost Lemieux and Mullen to suspicious injuries in Game 2, then lost their best defensive forward, Bob Errey, to another in Game 4, only to take a 3-2 series lead with a 3-2 victory Monday in New York.

"We keep scraping, hanging on," defenseman Larry Murphy said.

Now, the NHL regular-season champion is a game away from elimination by a team whose lineup is loaded with players — Jock Callander, Mike Needham and Dave Michayluk — who've labored in obscurity at Muskegon of the International Hockey League. "We got four real good shifts out of our line from Muskegon," Penguins coach Scotty Bowman said after Game 5.

Even Bowman is a fill-in. The former coach at Montreal, Buffalo and St. Louis, he didn't plan on coaching again, but felt obligated when general manager Craig Patrick asked him to replace Bob Johnson, who was felled by brain cancer last summer.

Bowman was the perfect replacement for this team. When one of the Penguins' stars goes down, they fill in with another. They lose their coach, then replace him with the winningest coach in NHL history.

Despite their seemingly endless talent pool, the Penguins realize how close they are to being down 3-2 in the series — or out. The last three games have been decided by one goal, two in overtime, and it's mostly been the Rangers who have dictated the tempo of play.

"They really took (Game 5) to us and if it weren't for Jaromir, it was just a matter of time, I think, before they took the game," defenseman Larry Murphy said, referring to Jagr's two goals.

Game 6 is at the Civic Arena, but the Penguins have more victories in Madison Square Garden (two) than they do at home (one). They lost Game 3 at home in overtime and rallied three times from two-goal deficits to win Game 4. Don't think the Rangers don't know that.

"I think we're confident we can still do it," Neilson said. "Almost anybody could have won any game. We were able to win in three once and probably should have won both, so the home ice hasn't seemed to mean much in this series. The teams have been pretty much even through five."

But the Penguins do have history on their side — if that's possible considering their mostly awful postseason past.

In their six playoff series the last two seasons, they're 4-0 in Game 6. By contrast, the Rangers have never won any of the previous 14 playoff series in which they faced a 3-2 deficit. They forced a Game 7 just three times, and lost all three.

"We're desperate people," goaltender John Vanbiesbroeck said. "This is not an easy time."

Oilers 3, Canucks 0

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — The Edmonton Oilers won the Smythe Division championship for the eighth time in 10 years, completing a six-game upset of regular-season champion Vancouver by beating the Canucks 3-0 on Tuesday night.

The victory moved the Oilers into the Campbell Conference finals against the Chicago Blackhawks, the Norris Division champions, beginning Saturday night at Chicago Stadium. The Oilers beat the Blackhawks in the conference finals in 1983, 1985 and 1990, the only three times they've met in the playoffs.

Vancouver became the third regular-season division champion to be eliminated in this year's upset-studded playoffs.

Wheeler state qualifiers

Three Wheeler athletes have qualified for the Class 1A state track meet Friday and Saturday in Austin. Ginger Nelson (center), a sophomore, is entered in the discus in the girls' division. Sophomore Todd Baize (left) competes in the high jump and senior Ike Finsterwald in the shot put in the boys' division.

Brewers get past White Sox, 6-2

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Jaime Navarro made the most of a rare first-inning lead.

Navarro pitched eight strong innings and Robin Yount hit a two-run double as the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Chicago White Sox 6-2 Tuesday night.

"I got more confident," Navarro said after the Brewers overcame a 1-0 first-inning deficit by scoring twice in the bottom of the first.

"It was 2-1 and I was going to try to hold those guys as long as I could," said Navarro (3-3), who allowed one run and eight hits, struck out five and walked none. Each of his three defeats this season were by 3-1 scores.

"After the first inning, I tried to get ahead of the batters and that's what I did," Navarro said. "I just threw strikes. I got a lot of ground balls and pop flies. That's what I'm looking for and I got a couple of strikeouts. I had good control and I was moving the ball a lot."

The White Sox got their second run in the ninth when pinch-hitter Mike Huff drew a leadoff walk from Jesse Orosco and scored on Craig Grebeck's two-out double off Doug Henry. Tim Raines followed with a single, but Grebeck was caught in a rundown between third and home for the final out.

It was Milwaukee's second straight victory after seven losses in a row and Chicago's second loss in its last nine games.

Chicago got a run in first when Steve Sax singled, stole second and went to third when catcher Andy Allanson's throw went into center field, then scored on Robin Ventura's double.

But the Brewers got two runs off Greg Hibbard (4-2) in the bottom of the first. Paul Molitor led off with a double and moved to third on Pat Listach's bunt single. Hibbard then batted Molitor home and Listach to second. Listach stole third and scored on Dante Bichette's one-out sacrifice fly to right.

"It was just stupid on my part," Hibbard said of the balk. "I had too many things on my mind. I thought I had a pickoff at first base, then I lifted my leg and I couldn't go home. If I had stood on the mound and acted like nothing happened, I probably would have gotten away with it."

The Brewers extended their lead to 3-1 in the fourth when Kevin Seitzer doubled with one out and Tim McIntosh followed with an RBI single.

Milwaukee put the game away with three runs in the seventh. Molitor and Listach singled with two outs. Listach stole second on the first pitch, putting runners on second and third.

Terry Leach relieved Hibbard with a 2-0 count on Yount, who hit a ground-rule double on Leach's first pitch. Greg Vaughn then singled home Yount with the final run.

"That was a big hit," Brewers manager Phil Garner said of Yount's double. "That broke everything open. As he's done so many times for us, it was another big hit."

Hibbard allowed five runs and 10 hits in 6 2-3 innings.

NOTES: Slumping regulars Franklin Stubbs, B.J. Surhoff and Jim Gantner weren't in the Brewers lineup Tuesday night. Designated hitter Paul Molitor moved to first base in place of Stubbs, who is hitless in his last 23 at-bats, with Tim McIntosh at DH. Andy Allanson was behind the plate in place of Surhoff, whose average has dropped to .140. Gantner, who has 5 hits in his last 36 at-bats to drop his average from .305 to .228, was replaced at second base by Scott Fletcher.

Salazar's sacrifice gives Cubs 3-2 win over Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — Jimmy Jones got his first start since August and what a start it was — he got to end two no-hitters.

First, he beat out a slow roller down the third base line to stop Mike Morgan's no-hit string at 5 1-3 innings Tuesday night.

Then, he hung a curveball to Chicago catcher Joe Girardi, who singled past shortstop to end Jones' no-hit attempt at 7 1-3 innings.

In the end, a ninth-inning sacrifice fly by Luis Salazar was the difference, scoring Andre Dawson and giving Chicago a 3-2 victory. And neither Jones nor Morgan was involved.

"Both those guys had great stuff.

That was one heck of a pitching duel. It doesn't get much better than that," Chicago Cubs manager Jim Lefebvre said.

"I've played in one of Nolan's and (Ken) Forsch's no-hitters, but I've never been in one that went that long both ways," Houston manager Art Howe said.
