Anti-Prohibitionists Divided On Plans In State Convention

Delegation May Be Made Much Larger

Four Times Usual Number To National Meet Is Proposed

HOUSTON, (AP)—The state Democratic committee Monday decided to recommend sending of four times the usual number of delegates to the national convention in Chicago next month, in order to boost John Garner as much as possible for the presidential nomination. Each delegate would have one-fourth vote.

HOUSTON, (AP)—Immediate repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment was asked Monday by the Texas Democratic association, an organization of young men of the party.

HOUSTON, (AP)—The prohibition question appeared certain to be the paramount issue before the state Democratic convention here Tuesday as delegates gathered in preliminary conferences.

Friends of John Garner, who will receive Texas votes for the presidential nomination at the Chicago convention next month, were fearful that prohibition agitation would detract from an otherwise solid lineup for Garner.

The situation was without parallel in Texas politics, since the division over prohibition this time is almost wholly confined to anti-prohibitionists. The majority of those holding out against the convention making any declaration on the subject believe that the eighteenth amendment should be repealed but want Tuesday's convention to be for Garner throughout.

Congressman Sam Rayburn, director of the Garner national campaign, was doing his best to keep from taking sides and refused to commit himself on the question.

It was apparent he was hopeful that the matter might be disposed of outside the convention in the interest of harmony.

On the other side of the controversy Steve Pinckney, Houston; A. J. Wirtz, Austin and others were determined that this should not be what they term a "pusyfooting convention" while laying plans for a fight on the floor.

MINERAL WELLS (AP)—U. S. Goen, El Paso, was chosen in a preliminary meeting here Monday as temporary chairman of the Republican state convention Tuesday. Charley Beck, Hillboro, was named sergeant at arms.

CITIZEN OF BIG SPRING

JOHN CLIFFORD HURT

When Cliff attended the School of Pharmacy at Galveston his college mates nicknamed him "Effie" the Alley Kat because he was so fond of cross cuts that he sometimes used the alley instead of the street to go to his classes. His nickname here is "Mr. Blues."

That's not exactly a nickname but it is what he is most often called when he isn't called Cliff. He has been the pharmacist for J. D. Blues for so long that many neighbors, always seeing his face in the store, think the place belongs to him.

Cliff and "Shine" Phillips are the two veteran druggists in town; their acquaintance with the ins and outs of the drug business began before they reached the "teen-age." On one occasion they both worked for J. L. Ward, who then occupied the corner now a mass of burned brick and timbers.

In those days Cliff and Shine had to go to this express office to bring up the drugs, for express wasn't delivered. Sometimes the express would be a gallon jug of mineral water and they would carry it by supporting it on a strong stick. But

She Hopped Over The Ocean

Amelia Earhart Peinam became the second person to fly across the Atlantic ocean alone when she landed her ship in a farmer's field in County Londonderry, Ireland, Saturday morning. Col Lindbergh is the only other person who has flown solo from America to the other side of the water. Mrs. Peinam is shown above as she prepared to take off from Teeterboro airport, New Jersey, on the first leg of her flight. She flew from Harbor Grace, New Foundland.

More Interest Shown In Results Of Beef-Feeding Tests Conducted At Government Experiment Farm

Greatly gratified by the interest shown by farmers, stockmen, business men and a large number of farm boys, Fred Keating, superintendent of the government experiment farm here, has issued and has on hand a number of copies of the preliminary report of the cooperative beef cattle feeding investigations carried on at the farm this year.

The tests were concluded Friday, May 20, at the second annual Feeders Day Meeting, at the farm. A number of visiting members of the staff of the Agricultural Experiment Stations of the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college, as well as representatives of packers and others, attended the program.

The tests were carried on this year for the second time by the United States Department of Agriculture and the Agricultural Experiment Station of the state A. & M. College.

The 190-day feeding period ended May 20. Four lots of Hereford steer calves which graded good to choice at the time of entering the feed lots were fed.

Compare Feeds
The object of the test was to compare (1) unground threshed milo; (2) ground threshed milo; (3) unground milo heads, and (4) ground milo heads—each, when fed with cotton seed meal and chopped Sumac (Red Top) fodder.

Three hogs were placed in each lot at the beginning of the test for the purpose of utilizing undigested grain. Additional hogs were placed in the lots receiving unground grain as the grain portions of the steer rations were increased. No additional feed other than one-third of a pound of a mixture of equal parts of tankage and cottonseed meal per head daily was fed to the hogs.

The four lots were fed as follows: Lot 1, unground threshed milo, cotton seed meal, Sumac fodder; lot 2, ground threshed milo, cotton seed meal, Sumac fodder; lot 3, unground milo heads, cotton seed meal, Sumac fodder; lot 4, ground milo heads, cotton seed meal, Sumac fodder.

Initial Weights
Number of steers in each lot at the end of the feeding period was 15, except for lot one, where one steer died May 6.

Average initial weight, November 20, by lots:
Lot 1—470.8 pounds.
Lot 2—467.6 pounds.
Lot 3—468.3 pounds.
Lot 4—468.1 pounds.
Average final weight, May 18:
Lot 1—768.3 pounds.
Lot 2—821.7 pounds.
Lot 3—782.6 lbs.
Lot 4—829.3 pounds.

Average gain per head (feed lot weight):
Lot 1—315.6 pounds.
Lot 2—364.1 pounds.
Lot 3—314.3 pounds.
Lot 4—371.3 pounds.

Average daily gain per head (feed lot weight):
Lot 1—1.75 pounds.
Lot 2—2.02 pounds.
Lot 3—1.75 pounds.
Lot 4—2.00 pounds.

Average daily rations, in pounds:
Lot 1—20.00
Lot 2—20.00
Lot 3—20.00
Lot 4—20.00

Building Of Road Cut-Off Is Enjoined

Mineral Wells Continues Fight Against Project

PALO PINTO (AP)—A temporary injunction restraining the Texas Highway Commission from letting contracts for the building of the proposed cutoff from the Bankhead highway at a point near Weatherford to a point about 3 miles south of Strawn was granted here by District Judge Sam M. Russell of Stephenville. Hearing to determine if the writ shall be made permanent was set for June 6.

Mayor O. M. Hurst of Strawn headed the petitioners who sought the injunction. W. R. Ely, chairman of the highway commission, and other members of that body were named as defendants.

Filing of the suit is another step in a long fight led by Mineral Wells in opposing building the cutoff which would shorten the distance from Weatherford to Ranger, Eastland and other points in that section of the state.

Construction of the cutoff would be a breach of promises on the part of the state highway officials, the petition charges. When the Palo Pinto road district voted $1,000,000 in bonds for the building of the present Bankhead-highway in that section state officials promised it would be the main east and west thoroughfare, the petitioners charge. Construction of the cutoff would lessen the importance of the present road, the plaintiff claimed.

Retail Merchants Association Gets 11,800 Calls In '32

In 118 working days this year the Retail Merchants Association of Big Spring has cleared an average of 100 calls per day, a total of 11,800.

In last week's bulletin, issued by Manager L. A. Eubanks, are listed items totaling $392.20 recovered during the past four months for merchants by the association.

Amounts from $1 to $91 were recovered for 53 merchants and professional men.

In the bulletin each week, issued for members only, changes of addresses in the city, warnings of swindlers reported operating in this section, and other matters related to credit are listed.

Seniors And Parents Invited To Reception At School This Evening

Teachers of the entire public school system will be hosts and hostesses this evening at 8:15 o'clock in the reading room of the high school building to members of the 1932 graduating class and their parents.

Particular attention was called to the fact that parents are invited with their senior children. Members of the school board also will attend.

Lady Gregory, 83, Dies In Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, (AP)—Augusta, Lady Gregory, 73, Irish dramatic director of the Abbey theatre of Dublin, died Monday. She was the widow of Sir William Gregory, former governor of Ceylon. She was one of the best known woman writers in Ireland and author of numerous plays.

Fort Worth Pair Dies From Bullet Wounds

MAN KILLS WIFE AND SELF

FORT WORTH (AP)—C. M. Hamm, 59, building contractor, and his wife, 40, died in a hospital an hour after being found unconscious in their apartment last midnight by Oscar Williams, Mrs. Hamm's son.

Each was wounded by a pistol bullet through the base of the nose. Justice of the Peace Walter Fritchard returned a verdict Monday morning that Hamm shot his wife and then himself.

Reason for the shooting was not disclosed. The couple had been married 13 years and neighbors had no knowledge of domestic troubles between them.

Hoover Calls Publishers

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Hoover has invited a number of newspaper publishers to discuss with him at the White House Wednesday night suggestions for aid in the current economic and legislative situations.

In the president's view the conference will be along the same lines as plays he has held with representatives of other industries and professions. His aim is to gain support of the publishers in shaping public opinion in their communities.

Composition of the group will be strictly non-partisan.

Missionary Baptist Congregation Plans A Revival Meeting

Services at the Missionary Baptist Church were well attended in all departments Sunday, with 175 in Bible school and twelve additions to his membership of the church by letter and baptism. The church will go into a revival campaign beginning Wednesday night of this week which will last for 30 days. Rev. Jasper Massie of Abilene will open the services Wednesday night but the preacher for the meeting will be announced later.

Al Jennings, Once A Bandit, Visits Here

Al Jennings, notorious bandit of the early days in the southwest, stopped an hour Sunday at Pock Inn, West highway. He was enroute from Washington, D. C. to his home in Los Angeles. He changed his role of bandit to that of a respectable, law-abiding citizen years ago. He had been in Washington seeking to obtain a federal pardon for a friend.

M. L. Copeland, manager of the Inn, declared Jennings was a very interesting conversationalist. Copeland was particularly interested in Jennings' visit because of his knowledge of his old record, gained while he was connected with the American Bankers Association as a detective.

Webster H. Smith, manager of Firestone Service Stores, Inc., here, returned from a business trip to Dallas.

was not reported in Sunday's paper as giving free tickets to the matinee. Mr. Mellinger announced Saturday he would have plenty of tickets to give purchasers. Other firms who will give a free ticket with each purchase of $1 or more are: Hokus Pokus, Dudley's, J. D. Blues, Montgomery Ward & Co., Maurice Shopp's, J. & W. Fisher, L. C. Burr & Co., Barrow Furniture Co., Wilson & Clark, Josephine Shop, Collins Bros., Cut-rate Drugs (all three stores), Austin-Jones Fire Safe Store, Hollywood Shop, Albert M. Fisher Co., J. C. Penney Co., The Fashion, Cunningham & Phillips (four stores), Elmo Wason, and United Dry Goods Store.

A complete list of stores giving free tickets will be given in Tuesday's paper.

Home From Convention

Mrs. Louise Horton, superintendent at the Big Spring Hospital, has returned from Abilene, where she attended the Texas Hospital Managers' association's annual convention.

CURTIS GOES TO JAIL FOR HOAX

John Hughes Curtis, who confessed his tale of negotiations with the Lindbergh kidnapers was a hoax, is shown here arriving at the Flemington, N. J., jail where he was held on charge of obstructing justice. He is preceded by a New Jersey state trooper.

Rule Set Down By Apostle Still Greatest Guide In Science Of Life, Dr. Spann Tells High School Class

"Prove all things; hold fast that which is good."
—I Thessalonians 5:21.

Paul, the greatest scientist in the art of living that ever lived, save one, gave humanity and scientists of all ages to come the best rule that can be followed, with his words chronicled in the twenty-first verse of the fifth chapter of the second epistle to the Thessalonians, declared Dr. J. Richard Spann, pastor of the First Methodist church, in his address of Sunday evening at baccalaureate services for the 1932 graduating class of Big Spring High School.

The services were held in the First Methodist church. Many minutes before 8 o'clock, the time for the program, the church auditorium was filled and hundreds had to turn back at the doors.

Dr. W. C. Eiankschop, superintendent of the Big Spring school system, presided. All members of the faculty sat with the seniors, clad in academic robes to which they were respectively, entitled.

This year's service was made much more impressive by singing of the High School Glee and Choral clubs under direction of Mrs. Bruce Frazier. These students, vested, occupied the choir loft and fully merited the praise shown in their singing by the congregation.

Dr. Spann issued, in the words of the Apostle, the injunction "young men and women, hold fast that which is good."

He pointed out that no test ever made in any laboratory for study of physical sciences had ever been made except for the purpose of learning the truth about the subject.

"In life as in the laboratory principles are tested out," he declared. "Tests are made to prove things and, once proven, science holds fast to them."

Four ways of gaining knowledge were reviewed: (1) by consulting authority; (2) by drawing logical conclusions by comparison; (3) by experimentation; (4) by intuition.

"Where reliable authority exists experimentation is not needed," the minister said. "Where reputable authorities on a given subject have fully proven principles we need not test them ourselves. We have learned, because someone else tested it out, that four times nine equals 36, that H₂O is water and that strichnine is poisonous."

"Things equal to the same thing and equal to each other," he continued, "and by this unending rule of logic we may draw sound conclusions."

"Some things we never learn by authority. We must experiment. But, young people, there are some things with which you do not have to experiment or with which it is wise to experiment."

"That sense of truth—intuition—that gives the musician, the poet knowledge that makes possible his works is the fourth method by which we learn."

Miss Ramsey Victim; Sister Badly Injured

Car Demolished In Abilene By T. & P. Passenger Train No. 16

ABILENE—Miss Norma Ramsey, 25, was killed instantly, and her sister, Miss Nena Kate Ramsey was injured this morning when their automobile was struck and demolished at the Victoria street crossing here by eastbound Texas & Pacific passenger train No. 16.

Miss Ramsey's body was found five feet from the track and thirty feet from where the car had been thrown 16 feet aside by the locomotive.

X-ray examination showed that Nena Kate Ramsey suffered no fractures. She received a bad gash in the back of the head and a severe sprain to the left leg.

A. F. "Tony" Weeg, of Big Spring was the engineer and Tom Brigrance conductor of the train which was due at 9:05 a. m. It was running four or five minutes late and about a half mile from the station when the accident occurred.

The Victoria street crossing is "wide open" in parlance of trainmen, there being no obstruction nearby to prevent full view of the track in both directions.

Norma Ramsey was a daughter of Dr. H. H. Ramsey, pioneer retired dentist and landowner of Calahan county. The family moved here from Baird about 1 year ago. She was a sister to Dr. W. V. Ramsey, local physician and Dr. Milton T. Ramsey, local dentist. She was graduated from the College of Industrial Arts, Denton, after having finished Abilene high school and attended Simmons university.

Two years ago, with her sister, Nena Kate, she traveled and studied in Europe. She was familiarly known as "Kink."

The many friends of A. F. "Tony" Weeg, who has been an engineer on the Texas & Pacific since 1901, declared upon learning of the Abilene accident that he was surely the "hard luck" member of the group of veteran locomotive engineers of this division.

Mr. Weeg, one of the finest engineers on the entire system, has had the misfortune of having been at the throttle several times during his 31-year service, when accidents that could not be avoided by himself cost lives of motorists and pedestrians at grade crossings.

Recently Dr. Bailey of Clyde was killed there when his automobile was struck by a locomotive of which Mr. Weeg was engineer.

The Other Side of The Looking Glass

THERE is something distinctly refreshing in the fact that the English-speaking world is holding a celebration because a busy man took time to write a fairy tale for a little girl 97 years ago. Mrs. Alice Hargreaves, who is the Alice in Wonderland, has come to America to take part in Columbia University's celebration of the 100th anniversary of the author's birth.

It seems timely that this event should take place when material depression has dimmed so much of the outward glory of life. There is comfort in the knowledge that the spell of the imaginary hasn't quilted lost its hold on grown-up hearts.

We are remembering that the old story was a normal part of childhood. It belonged to that gay, glad period when life was tuned to a pipe's song, and nobody had discovered that the melody came out of a box where a hardy gurdy played around the corner. Every road went some place then.

Anything might happen at the road's turning. There was laughter in the book, gaiety and adventure. We stepped through a looking-glass into a world where a rabbit and a small girl went exploring.

queens played croquet, and a turtle sobbed. Unconsciously child readers put away the illusions to keep.

By calling attention again to his make-believe page from childhood we realize more fully that the only things in life that are real and lasting the the unseen things—faith, love, loyalty. It isn't possible to eat a magic cake, and grow small, as Alice did on an unforgettable day, but we are discovering that, under the bric-a-brac of the years, old dreams are as fragrant as ever.

The fact that a prosaic, business-depressed world will take time off to celebrate the birthday of a man who wrote an enchanted tale proves that it still believes in fairies. That it hasn't forgotten that anything may happen on the other side of the looking-glass.

'A Flying Start'

AL SMITH has placed himself solidly in agreement with the bitter critics of himself and John J. Raskob in his suggestion that the democratic party pay off the "mortgage" the latter holds on the party. Smith, in a recent speech in New Jersey, declared the party should pay back the $20,000 it owes Raskob so that it can be free of obligation to any individual.

The statement should find hearty response with all classes of the party's followers, despite the criticism which might be leveled at Smith for his tardiness in recognizing the situation.

"We must wipe out the deficit," Smith said, "and send the party off with a flying start. We must not owe Mr. Raskob anything. We must be a party with nation-wide connections and on our own feet."

That suggestion must be followed if the party is to flourish. A shadow will be cast over the Chicago convention if it opens while one man still holds such a mortgage on a supposedly independent political organization.

SPORTS ON PARADE
 By CURTIS BISHOP

The Lamesa golfers retained first place in the Band Belt Golfing Association Sunday by defeating the Big Spring niblick wielders by a score of 28 to 18, which is very bad, but which might have been worse. Shirley Robbins salvaged a bit of glory for the home cause by beating E. C. Nix, the black-haired youth who is ranking No. 1 of the Lamesa forces, 4 up and 2 to play. In doing so Robbins played very excellent golf. His score for the fifteen holes of play was one over par for a total of 61.

Leach, Reed, and Perry are other veterans.

Park and Hirstow, then, will be in much the same boat. Literally speaking, of course, for it will take a fair-sized ship to keep from capsizing once the two "freshmen" coaches of District 4, or 3, get together.

The new eligibility rules enabled Parks to keep Barnett at home. He was, we are sure, approached by several schools and convinced, or rather it was pointed out by those institutions' spokesmen, of the advantages of their respective alma maters. However, we will not mention names for fear of a verbal outburst of uncompromising phrases from Hondy Cross.

Tuesday afternoon the high school baseball team (unofficially so) will meet the Tigers on the sand lot just the other side of the west viaduct and to the left. Lyman Harris will probably hurl for the Steers, with either Pritchard, Subia, Yans or Payne on the mound for the Tigers. Harris, we are informed, is one versatile baseball player, but is better on the mound for the simple reason that a man shows up better there.

Texas Topics

AUSTIN—Gov. Ross S. Sterling's brief reannouncement for office meant a great deal more, this late in the season, than merely one man's political ambitions.

It fenced the rest of the political pasture. It defined the field and made its divisions so clear that voters may now get into their respective groups.

It took out the doubt and uncertainty which have been disturbing elements so far.

And it killed the flourishing crop of rumors, all tending, if not designed, to break his supporters into as many cross-current groups as possible. It removed further cause of building up straw-man candidates out of the Sterling following.

Tom F. Hunter of Wichita Falls is busily campaigning. Some other candidates have said they are in the race. Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson and Gov. Sterling, the candidates between whom naturally the keenest competition and the greatest degree of interest will be, have now taken charge of the principal sides of campaign opposition.

There remained a slight chance that Lieut. Gov. Edgar Witt may prefer running now against this line-up than to wait until this coming two-year term has been served. Atty. Gen. James V. Alfred was already out of the governorship race. Sen. Cliff C. Small indicated he will not oppose Mr. Sterling and Sen. Walter C. Woodward's staying out was assured.

Don Moody is considered certain, would have made the race had Mr. Sterling been unable to give his time and effort to another campaign and another two-year term in office. Mr. Moody will support Gov. Sterling to the limit. The chief joy that "Fighting Dan" linksmen played their match. The Midland course is at present under water and the match was transferred. Mr. Hanks honored his friends, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Morgan and family, with a short, informal visit.

Reverend D. R. Lindley will not clutter up the local course any more for the next two weeks. He left this afternoon to conduct a revival in North Texas.

The Mexican Tigers, with a rubber-armed fellow named Payne doing some nice relief pitching behind great support, turned back a visiting Abilene team by a score of 7 to 5 yesterday. In the sixth inning the first three Tigers up singled. The fourth man struck out and the side was retired without a run. No doubt this unusual incident caused Manager Julian Vega to utter loud and spontaneous phrases. Two of the runners were thrown out rounding second base after succeeding singles.

Incidentally we can offer a cure for the non-attendance ailments of professional baseball. Transfer the rest of activities to a vacant, sanjay lot between a cypress and a railroad shop, throw away your bleachers, and depend entirely upon contributions. There were more people, we dare say, at the Tigera-Abilene game yesterday than ever attended a West Texas League game.

McCamey, we learn via the grape-vine telegraph, is to have a much better club than it did last year, and the statement is indirectly traced to Bill Collins, the McCamey press agent.

Clyde Park does not have the best backfield material in the world, but he is blessed with a wealth of linemen. Homer Barnett is back, and no doubt most everyone will agree that Homer Smalley, Leo Barnett, Bids will be opened this month on a bridge over the San Saba river between Mason and Brady. The sooner the better. This week the writer saw scores of cars tied up on each side of the concrete slab over the bottom of this river, with two feet of water holding them back. He saw several cars driven into the water two of them narrowly escaping being washed off the road.

Then, from Brady west, and from Brady north, he learned the roads were impassable, so that, if one wanted to get to the good roads of Tom Green, Runnels, Taylor and Nolan counties, he would have to turn back to Fredericksburg and go around by Kerrville and far to the southwest, or try unpaved roads up toward San Saba, or go back to Austin and north-west.

Two or three 30-mile sections of gravel surfacing on highways already there and two or three bridges, instead of those costly and atrocious bottom-of-the-river concrete slabs across streams, would connect the highway system of Central Texas, leading from East and Southwest Texas, with all the fine highways of West Texas.

It is to be hoped that the highway commission will put some gravel there and a couple of small bridges before it spends all its available money on the magnificent permanent concrete highways which are such a luxurious pleasure to replace passable roads elsewhere. And finally make the middle section as good as the fine highway on both sides.

The Age of Selection is here

Our times are marked by one vast advantage over all past history—freedom of choice for the average person.

A young man now has a hundred interesting careers to consider. His grandfather had ten. Many paths are open to the scientist, writer, teacher, athlete, business man. When we travel, we often chose between rail and bus and car and plane. Every last thing we buy is one of many offered.

This is the Age of Selection. For advertising keeps us informed. Tells us the special benefits of this, the new features of that. Shows us how to build houses and how to make muffins. Explains why and where and when and how much.

As we read we learn how to discriminate, to recognize worth, to be sure of value received. Before we buy a car or refrigerator or a can of beans, we know what it is and what it offers. Advertising teaches us how to live by this year's rules.

We read advertisements in this paper. They bring you up to date in This Age of Selection.

Lamesa Wins Links Matches There Sunday

26 To 18 Victory Firmly Fixes Team At Top Of League

Local golfers received their first setback of the season when the Lamesa linkmen captured a 26 to 18-lamea Sunday afternoon on the Lamesa course.

The victory firmly established the Dawson County team in first place with 112 points. Big Spring has a season's total of 100.

Obie Bristow swamped White, Lamesa, 5 up and 5 to play in the first match, and E. Coffey defeated Brock 2 up and 1 to account for seven of the local points.

Cemetery Association Committee Renews Appeal For Financial Aid

The committee of the Big Spring Cemetery Association appointed to raise funds for maintenance of the property last week issued a letter expressing appreciation for work done in the cemetery under supervision of the Salvation Army and renewing appeal to the public for subscriptions to maintain the burial grounds in proper condition.

John Wolcott, chairman of the committee and to whom subscriptions should be sent, issued the letter. C. W. Cunningham and Dr. E. O. Ellington, the other committeemen, also signed the letter. It follows:

"The Salvation Army is doing a wonderful piece of work out at our cemetery. I wish you would drive out there and take a look at what is being done. Weeds are being cut, the graves cleaned and the monuments fixed up nicely.

and we will promise you that we will do our best to keep our plot clean and in good shape.

"We have collected $70 this year and you know the cemetery, like all institutions, has to have money to take care of the loved ones that have gone on before, who used to care for you and I and now, why forget them?

"We want to raise enough money to drill one or two wells at the cemetery so that you can have water to take care of flowers and shrubbery that you may plant out there. If you do not wish your donations published in the paper just tell us and we will not do so.

"If some of you idle men here in town wish to donate a day or so labor just notify the Salvation Army headquarters and it will be arranged for you to get out there and I will see that you have plenty to eat delivered out there.

mittee does not like to ask for money and you should not let them.

"Mrs. Nettie, Mrs. Corrika and Uncle Bill Fleher have been caring for your loved ones and mine for the past 24 years and getting by the best they could. Now let's you and I do our part and not impose upon them any more but fix up that plot so that we and all who pass along will be proud of our cemetery. Let's keep it that way in the future.

"Committee To Raise Funds,
John Wolcott, Chairman.
C. W. Cunningham.

Naomi Boswell Of El Paso To Be Married In June
Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Boswell, of El Paso, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Naomi Ruth, to Richard Erwin Whitmire, of Fort Worth. The marriage will take place June 11.

Mrs. Boswell and her daughter, Eleanor, announced the approaching nuptials at a lovely tea at their home in El Paso Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Chas. Koberg, of this city, was a guest in the Boswell home for the occasion.

Mrs. Boswell is the sister of Rhine Phillips of this city and Mr. Boswell is the brother of Mrs. B. F. Wills. Their daughters have been very popular visitors here.

Cheerful Helpers Meet To Elect Its Officers
The Cheerful Helpers of the East Fourth Street Baptist Church met at the church Saturday afternoon at 4:30 for a business meeting and election of officers.

The following were chosen to direct the Cheerful Helpers for the coming year: Amada Lee Nelson, president; Opal Ely, vice-president; Donald Nelson, secretary; Eldred Ely, flower girl; Mabelle Ely, treasurer.

Delicious refreshments were served to the new officers and the following members: Ruth, Ruby and Mary Barrington, Juanita Coler, Marguerite Atkins, Norma Lee Atkins and Edith Caiger.

Ralph and Stanley Young left Saturday night for Fort Worth to join their mother, Mrs. G. M. Young. They plan to spend the summer in California.

Youngsters Entertained On Presbyterian Lawn

The primary, beginners and cradle roll departments of the First Presbyterian Sunday School were entertained by their teachers with a jolly picnic on the church lawn.

Ice cream in Dixie cups and wafers were served at the refreshment hour.

Those present were Jimmie Day, Tamatt, Robert Carroll, Delbridge, Willie Joe Allison, Billie Jean Mims, Patsy Mims, Mary Joyce Mims, Gill Alfred Barnett, Jr., Jessie Allison, Billie Jean Anderson, Melba Dean Anderson, Howard Mims, Marie Boatler, James Edward Brooks, Lorena Blanche Brooks, Misses Lella Bell and Naomi Day, Mmes. the MAN HUNTERS BY MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY
SUSAN CAREY, 30 and beautiful, is in love with BOB DUNBAR, son of a millionaire. Although she is engaged to ERNEST HEATH, her former employer, she believes Bob is engaged to DENISE ACKROYD, a society girl. BEN LAMPMEAN, former admirer of Susan's, shoots at Heath and wounds himself. After his recovery Heath urges an early wedding. He arranges for Susan's aunt, who has been ill, to go south. JACK WARING advises Susan not to go through with the marriage stressing the difference in her age and Heath's. At a masked ball Susan meets Bob and her love for him flares up again. Denise intervenes. Bob finds Susan at her home and urges her to elope with him. Heath overhears.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLIV

This was the letter Heath had written to Susan:

My Dear: I hope you are going to understand what I am trying to say. It may seem at the eleventh hour an absurd gesture on my part. But after giving the matter a great deal of thought I have decided this marriage of ours is not wise. I am asking you to release me, feeling a quiet certainty that the release will actually be yours. Susan dear, you are much too young for me. I knew it from the start, but I deluded myself into thinking we could surmount that obstacle. Now I have come to the conclusion it is too serious to be taken lightly. I am afraid I have been selfish through all this. I have been trying to recapture my own youth through your eyes, and that is neither natural nor fair.

I am hoping you will marry soon, someone of your own age or thereabouts. Be sure the man you choose is worthy of you. No, I take that back. Be sure you love him enough. Everything else will follow. I don't mean, my dear, to sound like a fatuous old dotard but perhaps you will forgive me for offering you all this advice.

There's another thing. It was on my account that you left gainful occupation. It may be difficult for you to find interesting and well-paid work just now. For that reason I am asking you to accept in good part the arrangements I have made through my lawyer. A trust fund which will pay you a modest weekly income has been placed in your aunt's name. You see, I have been so sure that you would try to refuse this that I have tied it up hard and fast. You can do nothing about it. It is, anyhow, a small favor to grant me.

You may explain this in any way you like to those who have known our plans. I am sailing the day after tomorrow. If I were not sure this was the wisest course, believe me, I should not be acting as I am. I wish you, as always, the very best life has to offer. Ernest Heath.

Susan read the letter through again, dazed. Then she folded it mechanically and put it beside her plate. Mrs. Milton burst in.

"That coffee's cold, child," she said chidingly. "Let me get you a fresh cup."

Susan heard the words as in a dream. She sipped the steaming liquid, grateful for the burning sensation it afforded her. She felt numb.

"What's the matter child? Don't you feel well?"

"Yes, perfectly. Only I've just remembered I have an errand to do." She flung on her hat and coat and tore out of the house. There was a pay station at the corner drug store. She fumbled the pages of the telephone book and called a number.

"Mr. Dunbar?"

A shadow of disappointment flitted over her face. "No, thanks, no message. I'll call him later." Susan paused, irresolute, at the stand where the telephone directories were kept and rifled the pages again. There was a change Bob might be at his father's office.

Again she was doomed to disappointment. Young Mr. Dunbar was not in the office, she had no idea when he might be. He would come to the office on Saturdays. There was just a chance that someone might find him at the country club. Did modern know the number? If she would wait a minute it could be found for her. Susan held the receiver, the blood pounding in her ears. After a long wait the operator's mechanical voice came back over the wire. Mr. Dunbar would not be at the club today. The operator had just learned Mr. Dunbar was leaving on the Century for New York.

Susan thanked her and stumbled out of the booth. So he had meant what he said yesterday about leaving town. She had thought it the lightest sort of threat. Bob had spoken recklessly about shipping on a tramp steamer to Central America. Oh, she must stop him before it was too late!

The Twentieth Century leaves at 12:40 for mts. LaSalle Street station, doesn't it?"

The clerk behind the counter stammered. "I'm sure I don't know, Miss

The huge clock in the corner testified to the fact it was 10 minutes past 10. Susan had not realized that breakfast had been so late. She flew back to the house.

"I'm going down town," she told Mrs. Milton. "I don't know when I'll be back."

"What time is it your aunt gets in?"

"Tonight at eight." The girl laughed aloud. She had completely forgotten about Aunt Jessie. Well, that was all right. She would have plenty of time for that later. The thing to do now was to catch Bob at the station. She changed her clothes and dressed with meticulous care. The fawn-colored suit hanging in the closet tempted her but she ignored it. Instead she put on her old blue coat with the beaver collar. It was a cold, damp day and the moisture brought out the waviness in her cloudy dark hair. She smiled at herself in the glass, not ill pleased at the reflection. She was shabby, it is true, but some how it didn't seem to matter. She was conscious of a deep surge of happiness within her.

She was dressed and ready with time to spare, but in spite of the fact she became horribly nervous as the trolley jerked and dawdled its way down town. What if she should miss Bob? What if he should change his plans and leave from another station? She paled at the thought. It was not quite 12 o'clock when Susan reached the station. All at once her errand seemed undignified and foolish. He might be traveling with other people. He might not want to see her after their quarrel yesterday. Her face grew hot and her palms lay. The wait seemed interminable. The big station with its rows of wooden benches, its gloomy reaches of space, oppressed her. She would be remote and cool to her watched, fascinated, a little group of foreigners who had alighted from an eastern train and now stood, ill at ease and restless, waiting for faddy relatives. One of the women wore a yellow scarf tied around her graying hair, gypsy fashion. Susan was interested in them for a few minutes but soon her nervousness was uppermost again. She had an almost overwhelming desire to run away. She had come on a fool's errand. With fast beating heart she assured herself that Bob would be remote and cool to her back and forth. The minutes lagged. It was cold and draughty here. Several well-dressed couples passed briskly with laden porters in their wake. A rakish looking man in a romantic, wide-brimmed hat swung by, carrying a brief case. There was the hustle and subdued excitement attendant to the departure of the crack train.

Twelve-twenty. Twelve-thirty. Twelve-thirty-five. Susan's heart was like lead in her breast. She had lost him—she had lost him! Trainmen began to shout orders. Last-minute stragglers hurried through the gates, impatient at the delay over tickets.

Her eyes reeled the crowd. No tall young man in a dark overcoat. No fair head, or stern jawed profile in sight. The clock's hands crawled inexorably ahead. Then all at once she saw him. He was striding as rapidly as his long legs would carry him through the swinging doors. A livid chauffeur was at his heels, a blue ticket in his fingers. The girl stood frozen, immobile. "All aboard!" came the call. Just as Bob Dunbar came abreast of the gate, intent on the business

Forsan Troop Of Boy Scouts Given Badges

Charter Presented In Services Sunday At Union Church

Boys of the Forsan community in the Howard-Glascock county oil field who, under guidance of Rev. John Thorne, Presbyterian minister who preaches for the Forsan Union church have started Boy Scout work, Sunday afternoon received their tenderfoot badges and the Union church was presented with a charter authorizing it to operate Troop 15 of the Buffalo Trail Area Council.

A. C. Williamson, area executive; Dr. J. B. Dillard, district council chairman; V. O. Hemmer, scoutmaster of Big Spring Troop 1; Walton Morrison, a 10-year scout and now chairman of the Big Spring Court of Honor, and Wendell Bedichek, attended a service at the church, at which Mr. Williamson presented the troop charter and the troop leaders' commissions and Mr. Morrison the scouts' certificates and tenderfoot badges. Mr. Williamson complimented the troop in that its members had organized and passed tenderfoot requirements in less than half the time usually consumed in making those steps.

Dr. Dillard, in a brief talk, welcomed the troop into the district council and stressed that the six troops of Big Spring, and the troop developed at Ochooma under guidance of Rev. Thorne, consider the Forsan boys part of their own organization. The local scoutmaster, Mr. Morrison, said that the two stars, the Eagle, the shield and the scroll and knot could be attached to the tree-foil or in their proper order. The tree-foil, it was pointed out, was the sign of the north on the early mariner's compass. The stars on each side of it represent truth and knowledge, basis of Scout citizenship. The eagle lends the badge American identity and to this is added the stars and stripes on a shield. This constitutes the tenderfoot badge. The scroll bears the motto, "Be Prepared," with a tiny knot of rope as a reminder of the good that each scout is expected to do daily, constitutes the second class badge. When the second class badge is attached to the bottom of the tenderfoot badge it forms the first class badge.

Certificates were presented R. Brown, chairman of the troop committee, and Abe Wilmoth and Oscar Bradham, troop members, and to James B. Chance, scoutmaster, and Clarence Walton, assistant scoutmaster. Scouts who received their tenderfoot badges, were R. L. Wilson, Geo. C. Wilson, J. C. Adams, Donald Alston, Arnold Bradham, Bill H. Campbell, Henry A. Chambers, Thomas E. Chambers, D. Dempsey, Jr., Herschel L. Moody, LaVoy Seudday, James Thomas, Henry J. Wilmoth. Mrs. John Thorne and Mrs. A. Wilmoth also attended the service Sunday.

which knowledge may be gained. Truth of love, most sacred thing in life may be gained only by intuition; experimentation, logic, authority are useless. "It is very foolish for most of you to take many things and say 'I don't believe it' and to believe that you must experiment with them. Through your parents, and the Master Teacher, and through your teachers in the public schools of Big Spring, you have received the results of the experience of all past generations. You ought to be better as well as more brilliant than any young people of the past. You ought to go farther. I hope you won't make the tragic mistake of the world that your elders have in your own time. "Each generation hands down to you the laboratory manual of life, the record of how men have been experimenting through the ages. Tigers Smash Mexican Eagle

Albert Garcia Leads Attack With Four Hits In Five Trips

The Big Spring Tigers, Mexican baseball champions of West Texas, turned back the Abilene Mexican Eagles 7 to 5 in a closely-fought game on the Big Spring diamond Sunday afternoon to win their second straight game over the victors. The locals had previously won a 9 to 0 verdict in Abilene. The visitors bunched their hits in the fifth inning to score four runs and send Sidna to the show, but Payne, veteran of many a baseball battle, held the Abilene club to one run the rest of the way. Brilliant fielding in crucial moments helped Payne out of two or three bad holes. Albert Garcia, slugging third-baseman, led the locals with four hits in five trips to the plate while Hernandez secured three singles. Running catches by Cruz and Martin featured the fielding. The Tigers will meet the Big Spring high school team Tuesday afternoon on their home field, Abilene 609 640 910-3. Batteries: Eagle, Myer, Felt; Tigers, Subis, Payne, and Pardo.

value of one mile of road in Texas every day in the year. The damage amounts to at least a million dollars a year and they do not pay the State one-tenth in taxes of what they destroy.

The big trucks kill or injure somebody on an average of every day in the year. It is a bloody record that these big road hogs are making in Texas, and I boldly proclaim that there is not enough room on our highways for a big truck and the people. It is a fight to extermination.

I am making no fight on the small truck that is no wider or higher or longer than the vehicles used by the people and carries the load of not more than three and one-half tons as now provided by law. Such vehicles are needed for local business of the country. I think the law should be changed to permit the hauling of products of the farm and ranch for the necessity of a permit or a drivers license. I am opposed to the issuance of State Highway bonds.

I want the people to have a right to elect the highway commission. This body spends as much money as all the rest of the government combined and the people certainly ought to have the right to say who shall spend all this money for them. The present highway commission has spent and contracted to spend $200,000,000. (Get it, two hundred million dollars), and if my information is correct, they have become arrogant, disrespectful and dictatorial and as a result of their incompetency and extravagance millions have been wasted. They therefore, ought to be removed from office and I promise to use all the powers of the governor's office to remove them.

I am also in favor of using hand labor whenever possible instead of high-powered and high-priced machinery, bought from foreign factories to take the places of hundreds of laborers who now swell the ranks of the unemployed at home.

My friends the home and, I mean the small home, is the only foundation upon which this country can permanently endure. Nobody ever heard of anybody that ever should have a gun to defend a boarding house. But history is replete with the blood of heroes who died on the altar of homes and freedom. To protect the home from the tax gatherers and the money lender, I want you, the people, to vote for the constitutional amendment to exempt the homestead to the value of $3000 of its assessed value. Don't forget this at the November election.

And again, I urge the same law which I urged in the last campaign to give the owner of the home or other real estate, two years after same has been sold under foreclosure, to redeem same by paying principal and interest to date of redemption, with only two per cent attorney's fee.

I am not complaining because I could not get the people two years ago to understand what I was trying to do for them, but if I had been elected on that platform, thousands of homes, which are now being inhumanly sold under the slylock hammer, would have been saved for future redemption, which are now gone forever. Mothers, you and the children have felt the sting and the humiliation of this outrageous oppression; many of you have lost your all. Won't you stand with me in this second battle which I am making for the homes and families that are being crushed under the iron heel of selfishness and greed.

Red-blooded men, let me appeal to you. I need but remind you that high interest, high taxes are making high rents, and the daily struggle for existence becomes more serious and desperate. The avaricious hand of corporate wealth is at the throats of the people. Against it all, Fergusonism is making its last stand. It rests with you whether the battle is won or lost. Mothers, fathers, sisters and brothers, I bid you rally around the flag and march with me to victory.

MUSEUM ASS'N TO MEET

The West Texas Memorial Museum Association has decided that it is best not to postpone tonight's meeting since the nominating committee is ready to report on the names of those selected for office for the coming year. The meeting will not be held at the Settles Hotel but at the home of Mrs. Victor Mellinger at 8 o'clock, this evening.

Mrs. Ferguson Opens Race In Waco Speech

Large Crowd Listens To Ex-Governor And Husband

WACO—Miriam A. Ferguson opened her campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor with an address here Saturday before a large crowd. Her husband, James E. Ferguson, also spoke.

Mrs. Ferguson's address follows: Fellow Citizen: I congratulate you upon your presence here today. I am not so vain as to think that you are here to do me any great personal honor. But I take it that you are here because you believe that you ought to be here to do your part in the election of the next governor of Texas.

You believe you ought to be here because the constitution gives the people the right to elect a governor and to fill any vacancy that may occur, and you want to exercise that privilege and perform that duty.

Two years ago I warned the people of the mistake that they were about to make and did make and if I came to you today with no other plea than "I told you so," I would be entitled to your confidence because my prophecy has come true and the people now realize their mistake and they suffer the penalty.

Come back to you not for political honor or glory or to emphasize your mistakes, but as your friend deeply grateful for past honor and favors, I want to give you another Ferguson administration of your state affairs. You are entitled to relief and the governor's office should no longer be kicked around like an orphan child.

If they say that I will take the advice of a husband, I think it will suit you better than if I took the advice of a corporation general. I think you will feel safer with my Jim than you would with their Jake. I think all this talk about men running the State so much better than women has been more or less exploded. If you don't believe it, just let your mind come back for now eight six years with men and then remember the two years with just one woman and then balance the books, and you will be amazed that you ever said anything against any woman.

If you think the last six years was not a fair sample of men, after my administration, then go on back to the six years before my administration.

istration and see if you get any more to brag about. I had to clean up after that six years of Hobby and Neff, and now I have to do the same after two more of the same kind. My my, how much sugar do you men want for a dime anyway.

My friends, I shall ask nobody to vote for me, because I am a woman but I do insist that nobody should vote against me because I am a woman. I appeal to men and women for a square deal and I am not asking for woman suffrage, but I demand equal suffrage. I want my record to be weighed in the balance with other governors and if, in the minds of fair men and women, I am found wanting, then I cannot expect your support. But on the other hand, if the truth shows that I have served you well and faithful, then in these dark days of depression and despair that hovers over you and yours, you should not again experiment with a novice or trust the incompetent.

I may not be the best governor Texas ever had, but in this awful task of recovery, which I will inherit as your next governor, I will have the best governor Texas ever had to help me and with your prayers and God's help, we are ready to take up the struggle and assume the burden for the good of our day and generation.

My friends, I shall not impose upon your patience with a long discussion, but I earnestly call your attention to the platform of ten planks which I have announced to the public press as my covenant with the people as a bill of particulars of what I hope to accomplish as your governor. I ask every voter to read my announcement. I ask that the people read the announcements of every other candidate for governor. Put the platforms side by side; study them well; weigh them in the balance of judgment and understanding. Don't decide too quickly, but as a liberty loving citizen, wanting to do your whole duty to your country in its darkest hour, act carefully and cautiously in making up your decision for who you vote for governor.

But once, reason and justice prompts you to proclaim your choice, then do it fearlessly and promptly and remain faithful to your honest conviction though the heavens fall. It is by this standard that I want the people to decide upon my candidacy and no other.

My friends, I want to do something for the great masses of the people. I want to help those who can't help themselves. As soon as the depression is over, I want to see an old age pension law. I am for those who toil on the farm, in the shop, on the railroad and on the highways, in the factory, in the office, yea, all those who eat bread by the sweat of the brow.

To save this country from revolution and destruction, I want to remove the tax burdens that now afflict the people. Let us meet the tax question boldly and fearlessly. We have too many taxes and they must come down one-half, or the government will fall. Excepting only the school children and our helpless wards, everybody must be told that they must make their part of the sacrifice and reduction of salaries and expense, so that the people can pay and save the government. Let us quit talking so much about the extravagance of the other fellow, and set an example ourselves of how to help the government pay its debts.

Let me take the people into my confidence before the election and tell them that I shall consider their vote for me on my platform as their edict to use the veto power to cut deep into appropriations, if it shall be necessary to suppress extravagance. If I am elected, I want it to be with the understanding that I am to use the powers of the office to reduce taxes, not only by thousands, but by millions. I have no desire to be a two bit economist or a peanut statesman. If I can't bring real relief, then I will disappoint myself and the people, too.

I want to divide the thirty million dollar gasoline tax and give one-third to the schools; one-third to the Highway Department; and one-third to the general revenue and abolish all State ad valorem taxes.

Another important plank in my platform is that I want to keep the big trucks of the highways. The big trucks destroy at least the
