1948 Left Many Loose Ends Dangling, Writer Says

It's a Fur Cry

It's a fur cry from the sunny beaches of Florida to the wintry blasts up north, but this outfit is good both places. Dee Genter, "Miss Caracul of 1949," wears a caracul jacket over a caracul bathing suit.

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON — Has 1948 left you with a feeling of unfinished business?
The year 1948 has left an awful lot of loose ends dangling.
First, of course, there were the Russians, and Berlin, and the Marshall Plan; all unfinished business.
By mid-year the Russians, who had been getting tougher by the minute, got very tough and threw a land blockade around Berlin.
We had to begin shipping supplies by air, a very expensive job. And we're still doing that. No one knows how it will end.
And in the United Nations the Russians screamed and called names and got names screamed back at them.
But at least at year's end the U. N. is still in existence, although looking pale.
And the Marshall Plan got started. The 80th Congress voted billions for it to help Western Europe recover and stop communism.
The plan is reported to be doing some good. But it will have to go on for maybe three more years or longer.
And here at home, looking back, 1948 seemed to be a year of endlesse war between President Truman and the 80th Congress, run by Republicans.
The "Do-nothing Congress," he called it. He made that a slogan in his fight for election to a full four-year term in the White House.
And he won, much to the embarrassment of Washington's political experts and the nation's politickers who said he didn't have a chance.
This startling victory alone forced everyone to realize that 1948 truly was a year of unfinished business because—
With the Democrats back in control of Congress in 1949, they'll have a chance to do what they said in 1948 they'd do if they got elected.
And what they promised was really a promise to revive and carry on the New Deal which had gone into a coma before President Roosevelt died in 1945.
And there was a little more business because but not finished in 1948: the draft, to build up the armed forces.
Since the reason for the draft in the first place—worry about Russia—is still unfinished business, the draft is still on the books and the armed forces still want plenty of power in 1949.
And there was the spy case. That's really unfinished business. A federal grand jury indicted Alger Hiss, former State Department official, on a perjury charge in this case.
Now a new grand jury has picked up where the old one left off. It will be looking into spying in 1949.
So will the House Un-American Activities Committee, which dug into spying in 1948 but is rather quiet right now, getting ready its report on the year's work. In 1949 it will pick up where it left off.

Chile Asks Action By All Americas

SANTIAGO, Chile — Chile seeks cooperation of American governments to check revolts and revolt plots such as have troubled Latin America throughout 1948.
A statement by the foreign ministry expressed gratification at consultations initiated by the United States "with the object of adopting necessary measures and threats against democratic and representative regimes on the American continent."
Military coups have unseated the governments of Costa Rica, Paraguay, Peru, Venezuela and El Salvador this year. Bolivia, Chile and Colombia were among the targets of subversive plots which failed.

George Raft Said Ready To Retire

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — In more ways than one, George Raft is the screen's most retiring star. Here's his admission:
"I'm going to retire to a house in the south of France and give up Hollywood unless a particularly good role comes along."
"I've based my whole career on playing quiet tough guys. The real tough guys are gentlemanly and quiet. It's the noisy type you don't have to worry about."
This retirement talk of the "Boss Raft" is something we've got to get used to. He's been bringing it up, but then studios keep announcing pictures for him.
Raft's retirement talk stems from his philosophy. Said he: "I'm a sentimental guy. People say of an older actor, 'He was once a big star. I don't want to have that happen to me. I went through it once as a dancer. It hurts.'"
He admits he's no actor, so there's no point in seeing his work to improve his craft. He also cited Ethel Barrymore's crack about why she never sees her pictures: "Why should I? I've never seen myself on the stage," and he added casually, "I don't like my face."

However, he now declares that after he finishes his current picture, he'll head for the quiet life in Southern France.
Oh, yes—he'll also produce and act in a picture over there. It's called "Incident in Cairo" and he plans to film it in Cairo, Tunisia and France. It will be done first-class, he said.

Sand Used To Stretch Lead Supply

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEY

NEW YORK — (AP) — Sand is now plugging one of the biggest leaks in America's shortage of lead.
Lead is one of America's strategic war minerals. It gives extra power to gasoline and juice to batteries. The nation is using more than a million tons annually but supplies only two-thirds of this.
The first free public bath in this country was established in Chicago in 1904.

This paint lead has been taking about 7 percent of the annual supply.
For making the same amount and same quality of paint, the National Lead discovery cuts the lead down to one-third. Two new factories will be in operation in 1949 making this new raw material.
Formerly paint was made with solid lead particles mixed with the oils. The new way uses particles of sand that are completely coated with lead.
The scientific reason is that all the good effects of lead in paint are due to the surface of the metal. National Lead made particles of metal finer and finer, thus getting more surface. But the inside of each little bit of lead was still more than its outside, and all the inside was idle.
The drug is aureomycin. It belongs to the family that produced streptomycin.

General's Invitation Immediately Accepted

SINGAPORE — (AP) — There's at least one man here who believes in rushing to the door when opportunity knocks. When Major-General L. H. Cox, retiring G. O. C. of Singapore District, made his farewell broadcast recently, he warmly invited anyone from Malaya going to England to visit him at his home there.
Scarcely had the broadcast ended when Radio Malaya got a phone call. "I wonder if you could give Major-General Cox's home address?" the caller asked. "I plan to accept his invitation."

New York Garment Center Eyes New Racket Threat

GARMENT CENTER—Midtown Manhattan, heart of the billion-dollar garment industry, looks like this at noonday. Workers stand along the curb, where a lot of business is transacted and where violence against pickets has brought union charges that gangsters are trying to start a new "protection" racket.

By S. BURTON HEATH
NEW YORK — (NEA) — District Attorney Frank S. Hogan is moving fast to see that organized racketeering does not get another foothold in New York, like it had before Thomas E. Dewey and William O'Dwyer won national fame by cleaning it out.

GUARD — Police stand guard outside garment center buildings to nip violence in the bud.

That is the real reason why Hogan's staff is giving so much attention to relatively minor violence that has accompanied an organizing drive by the International Ladies Garment Workers Union.

Hogan served under Dewey, who personally approved him as his successor when the racket-busting New York County district attorney went on to the governorship and toward the presidency. He was elected with bi-partisan endorsement. He is determined that the organized racketeering he helped to squelch shall not build up again.

There is no firm legal evidence thus far of an organized racketeering ring. The felons mentioned up to now are small potatoes compared with those Dewey and O'Dwyer convicted in their pre-war cleanups.

But Louis Buchalter and Jacob Shapiro, the notorious "Lepke" and "Gurrah," started their 12-year racket reign in a small way. They built up a multi-million dollar business in the garment, fur, leather and trucking trades, with profitable sidelines in murder and mayhem.

And it is in the garment and trucking fields that Julius Hochman, manager of the ILGWU's Joint Dress Board, claims a new racket is being organized. His story is that about a dozen truckers with criminal records have collected strong-arm gangs and are selling their services to chiseling dress jobbers.

The truckers, he says, agree to protect non-union jobbers against union attempts to organize their shops. Also they provide non-union contractors, here and outside the city, to do the sewing that most jobbers have to farm out in their busy season. The jobber doesn't even know, often, who is doing his sewing. The trucker carries away the cut cloth, and later brings back the completed dresses.

This, says Hochman, is a variation on the Lepke-Gurrah approach. They would "muscle in" on businesses and unions by first selling strong-arm services. They would provide thugs to protect a firm against union organizers, or to protect a union's ruling clique against rebellious members. Then they would demand a regular split on profits or dues. Any objection to this cut would be handled by "schlamming."

Schlamming might mean a brutal beating up, or strangling, or stabbing or shooting. It might mean destruction of clothing with acids, or the burning of a plant. It never was pleasant.

Lepke ended his career in the electric chair at Sing Sing. Gurrah died in the hospital at that institution. So far as is known their gang is permanently broken up. But because the garment industry is a set-up for such practices, Hogan has been watching it closely. It was while checking on racketeers who he thought might have an eye on the garment trade that Hogan accidentally stumbled onto last year's boxing scandals.

There is evidence that some racketeering does exist—that this is not just a sensational propaganda play by the union, to promote its organization drive—though unquestionably the ILGWU is taking full advantage of its possibilities.

The ILGWU has long been known as "a good union," working well with employers. It has organized 2536 jobbers, manufacturers and contractors in the dress industry in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, employing around 82,000 workers. It estimates there are about 150 shops, employing perhaps 12,000 not unionized.

These constitute about a third of the ladies garment workers in the ILGWU in the New York area. Last year they made 98 million dresses, worn by about seven out of every ten American women. A drive to get some of the unorganized shops was scheduled. The union brought in William Ross, a crack organizer. That afternoon five men walked into his office.

"What's your name, Buster?" asked one. When Ross answered he was slugged. Charles Kaminetsky has been indicted for this beating. Under his own name and that of Charles Duke, Kaminetsky has a record of six arrests since 1931 on charges including felonious assault, burglary and carrying concealed weapons, and one conviction. He was sent to Sing Sing in 1939 for sending money and instructions how to avoid the police, to one of two men later caught and electrocuted for killing a Brooklyn poultry dealer. The poultry trade then was racket-ridden.

He was sent to Sing Sing in 1939 for sending money and instructions how to avoid the police, to one of two men later caught and electrocuted for killing a Brooklyn poultry dealer. The poultry trade then was racket-ridden.

Marvin Fink, 34, has been indicted for using "a blunt weapon," brass knuckles, on a seaman who was picketing for the ILGWU. Fink was convicted twice as a juvenile delinquent, the second time on a charge reduced from assault and robbery. He was sent to the reformatory for carrying concealed weapons and conspiracy, and later was fined for book-making. He was discharged on a robbery charge, and the records do not show what happened to a vagrancy charge last year after he walked into a hospital with gunshot wounds he refused to explain.

There is a 13-state alarm out for Kaminetsky and Fink. And in New York's garment center, where a lot of the day's business is done on the sidewalk, Hogan's police are keeping a sharp watch.

The next year he was sent to Sing Sing for carrying concealed weapons. In 1933 the FBI picked him up for questioning about the getaway car used in the "Kansas City massacre," in which the notorious Chicago gangster Frank Nash was killed and four policemen lost their lives. He was released without charges.

That is the extent of the identification of individuals with police records alleged to have been involved in what the ILGWU calls the racket. Hogan's staff is examining the records of dress jobbers to determine whether they have been paying money to unsavory

Opinion Outlines Bond Issue Limits

AUSTIN — (AP) — Nueces County does not have authority to issue bonds to secure funds for construction of public buildings for horticultural and agricultural purposes, or branch office buildings in Robstown and Bishop, the attorney general was ruled.

Assistant Attorney General Burnett Waldrep, author of the opinion, said he found no statutory or Constitutional authority for the issuance of bonds for such purposes.

The opinion was sought by County Attorney James C. Martin of Corpus Christi.

tributed $1,000,000 worth of scholarships to our war orphans.

Bridge players of the nation started War Orphan Scholarships, Inc., and now the generous cooperation of organizations like the Central Schools Association assures our war orphans of an education.

It is remarkable how complicated a thing can look when we have little or no knowledge of the subject. At the American Television Institute in Chicago, which is operated by Mr. Sanabria and Mr. Cole, I looked with complete bewilderment at the television sets that the students were building.

It seemed funny when Mr. Cole said to me, "You can learn contract bidding pretty well out of a book, but how do you master the play of the cards?" Here was a master mind of television acknowledging that the play of a hand at contract is complicated. Well, it is not complicated unless you make it so, and today's hand demonstrates that.

To count a hand down seems difficult to the average player. But when East showed out on the second round of diamonds, and West followed to three rounds of hearts and three rounds of clubs, it simply meant that West could have only one spade.

Therefore, South did not have to guess the spade. By counting the hand down, he knew that all he had to do was to lead a small spade to the king and then take the spade finesse for the needed 12th trick.

One of the most amusing of feminine battles is the one that goes on between clerk and customer when the customer knows she is "just looking" at clothes she can't afford and the clerk suspects it.

"Just what exactly did you have in mind?" the clerk asks in a voice that suggests she would like to add "if anything."

The customer goes vague, then, allowing herself enough leeway so that she can edge out finally without buying anything.

TROTS 'EM OUT
So the clerk starts trotting out clothes. The customer, of course, has to find something wrong with everything.

The clerk has a set answer for each objection. The color "is very good this season." The material is "imported." "My dear, it's a so-and-so," the clerk says, naming a designer's name reverently.

All the while, of course, the customer has been taking a furtive look at the price tags. And the clerk is satisfied that it's the price tags that are wrong and not the clothes.

So condescendingly she finally says: "Perhaps you'd like to try our budget shop. They have some very nice clothes."

That ends the battle. It's a draw actually. But both women feel they've won. The customer has gotten out of the place without buying anything, but having satisfied her feminine urge to "look." And the clerk has had the satisfaction of putting the customer in her place.

The Ross goose was named for Bernard R. Ross, a correspondent of the Smithsonian Institute and a factor of the Hudson Bay Co., who sent out the first specimens from the Great Slave Lake regions. It is the smallest of all geese.

Reading Specialist Recommends Patience With Slow Readers

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
AP Newsfeatures

A well known specialist in reading problems tells me that parents very often fail to realize that learning to read is like learning to talk. It is a slow process which is influenced by a sense of need on the child's part. Junior will learn to talk because he needs to communicate with others. He will learn to read when he has a sufficiently keen desire to obtain the pleasure and information contained in books.

According to Professor Ruth Strang of Teachers College, Columbia University, the mother who tells a friend with melancholy pride, "Johnny has a reading problem," is very probably reinforcing Johnny's difficulty.

Often children who are having trouble mastering the elements of reading are plunged into deeper discouragement by unwitting parents who try to spur them on by comparing them with their little friends or by deploring their inability in front of other people.

"Primarily the child who is a poor reader needs the security and confidence which comes from knowing that his parents value him for himself alone and not for his accomplishments," Dr. Strang says. "With this as a point of departure, ordinary reading difficulties frequently can be overcome through three-way parent, child and teacher cooperation."

Parents should not force reading upon children, according to Dr. Strang, but they should take advantage of simple opportunities to encourage interest in reading at an early age level. For example, there is no particular worth in having an alphabet before he goes to school. However, if at home Johnny asks, "What does that say," pointing to the label on a can, this is mother's chance to explain that these letters say "peaches" and have a personal meaning for him. Subsequent opportunities to reinforce this experience may come in connection with signs in the buses or headlines in the newspapers.

The excitement and enjoyment in books can be made apparent to children if their parents will take time out to read stories to them, Dr. Strang feels. She cautions, however, against too much parental reading when schooling has begun as this may tend to make junior lazy in bestirring himself to learn how to read.

"Children who have a good oral vocabulary usually learn to read more easily," Dr. Strang points out. "Therefore, it is important for parents to help their children to build vocabulary by talking clearly, using words accurately and choosing an understandable variety of them. When the child gets to school, he will recognize the words in his reading lessons and feel at home with them."

A plentiful supply of attractive literature on his present reading level is advocated by Dr. Strang for the boy and girl who is having trouble progressing in reading. Parents who are embarrassed because their fifth grader can read only second grade material fall into the error of supplying books that are too hard in the hope that junior will be spurred to greater efforts. Just the reverse occurs and the child becomes more discouraged and frustrated than ever, she says.

Even the comic books are not shunned by Dr. Strang if they can serve as a springboard in developing enthusiasm for reading. For children just beginning to read, Dr. Strang feels that the making of a scrapbook with colorful pictures very simply labeled is helpful. With mother or father as a companion in this undertaking, the child begins to understand that the letters which spell "rabbit" may mean a big rabbit, a small rabbit or a sleeping rabbit. The understanding that the written word is a symbol is a fundamental concept in reading. Older children may enjoy dramatizing simple plays by reading the lines with their parents.

If the teen-ager has some special interest such as baseball or stamp collecting, parents may help by selecting books which deal with this subject, thus making reading seem less of a chore, she says.

Dr. Strang urges parents not to show disapproval or disappointment if their child's progress in reading seems slow. Since reading is part of a child's total growth, his success and happiness in all aspects of his life are important and she urges parents not to overlook a secure and loving home atmosphere as a vital factor in retarding achievement.

Duggan Gets Clean Bill

NEW YORK —(AP)— A member of the House Un-American Activities Committee has given the late Laurence Duggan a clean bill of health in connection with spying activities.

Rep. Richard M. Nixon (R-Calif.) said on a television broadcast from Washington that recent developments had cleared the former State Department expert in "this espionage case."

His statement came as a New York City medical examiner reported that an autopsy showed "no evidence of criminality" in Duggan's fatal 16-story fall from a Manhattan office Monday night.

"We may never know exactly what happened," said Dr. Thomas A. Gonzales, the examiner. "He could have been pushed. We do know he was not assaulted, nor beaten, nor strangled."

Incomes Hit Record High

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Consumer incomes smashed through to another record high in October, the Commerce Department said. Also, a report on employment in November gave indication that total earnings are continuing at high tide.

The Commerce Department's Business Economics Office said that consumer incomes attained an annual rate of $215,600,000 in October, a $900 million rise over the previous records of August and September.

A Census Bureau report, meanwhile, put November employment at a record total of 59,859,000 for that month, topping November of last year by 1,298,000.

These showings of a heavy flow of cash to consumers made the November and early December lag in department store sales below last year's records seem strange indeed — unless:

(1) Price resistance by American shoppers has become the strongest influence in the sales picture — or (2) shoppers are going back this year to the pre-war habit of buying at the "last minute."

A pickup in Christmas buying in the latest reported period — the first half of this week — pushed sales then up to about last year's level. This may indicate a weakening in buyer resistance that will continue in the four shopping days remaining.

Program Held At Canadian

CANADIAN —(Special)— The Canadian High School and Junior High enjoyed a Christmas program last Thursday in the High School Auditorium under the direction of Mrs. Natalie Sanders.

The program opened with "O, Come All Ye Faithful," sung by the 8th Grade Chorus; "Wildcat Troubadours" (High School boys' chorus), and the High School girls chorus.

The girls then sang "O Holy Night"; boys sang "Winter Song" and "Stouthearted Men," and the 8th Grade "Here Comes Santa Claus."

Miss Peggy Ramp gave a short talk on Christmas customs in other lands; and the Rev. Harvey Parker, minister of the Presbyterian Church, spoke on Christmas, reading the story of the birth of Christ, and explaining the discovery of the poinsettia, and how it came to be the Christmas flower. The girls chorus then sang "Away in a Manger," featuring Toni Ingwersen as soloist, and the 8th grade quintet sang "Christmas Island."

Sandra Wilkinson gave a reading "Twelve the Night Before Christmas."

The whole group then sang "White Christmas," "Santa Claus is coming to Town," "Jingle Bells," and "Silent Night."

Gifts were presented to coaches Orl Mangold and Larry Sanders, and to band-master, James Galt. School was dismissed until Jan.

Four Mesquite Officials Resign

DALLAS —(AP)— A total of four city officials have stepped out of office at Mesquite, Dallas County.

Mrs. Belle G. Mickel, Mesquite city secretary, resigned yesterday. Three of Mesquite's five aldermen resigned Monday night after a threatening crowd kept them cornered in the Municipal Building for two and a half hours.

The aldermen had met as a tax equalization board before the resignations took place.

Mrs. Mickel is the daughter of E. F. Galloway, mayor of Mesquite for 16 years before 1941. Yesterday she locked the City Hall after asking City Auditor David Stanley to make a check of the city's records.

Tojo's Hanging Received With Mixed Feelings Here

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The hanging of former Japanese Premier Tojo and six other warlord conspirators against humanity is being received in America with mixed feelings.

My contacts indicate that the reactions range from extreme satisfaction to some uneasiness. On one point everybody seems agreed: If anyone should suffer the death penalty, these seven certainly should.

Of course there is a very large group which is against capital punishment on religious grounds. That viewpoint is pungently expressed in a letter I have received from a Philadelphia boy who says Americans believing in God and Holy Writ are 100 percent against such executions. He further writes:

"I am just a high school Senior who has read history. I think the executions in Japan are inhuman. We are going back 5,000 years. Our leaders won't learn from history that blood shed upon the battlefield is soon grown over, but blood shed on the scaffold seldom dries. In 100 years the statues of Tojo will be all over Japan."

Apart from religious opposition, a good many people are concerned over the fact that these and similar trials have been held under rules laid down since the war by the victors. Everybody agrees that aggressive war is just as much a crime against humanity as the atrocities which may grow out of it. However, a lot of folk—most of all the high military—want to know just how you are going to assess responsibility for the crimes.

You know the top man is guilty. That's Tojo. But are his ministers and the high commands of his fighting forces equally responsible with him? They have to take his orders or be charged with disloyalty to their country. And if they are equally responsible, how far down the line does responsibility go for an order issued at the top? Does it reach down to the rank and file?

I think most of the concern is over whether possibly a precedent is being set for carrying out "justice of the victor."

There are many who believe that this situation can be satisfactorily met only by the creation of international laws by the United Nations, covering all aspects of war. The U. N. already has made a start in that direction by outlawing genocide—the mass destruction of racial, religious or national groups. It still remains to put teeth in this convention by designation punishment.

So far as Tojo and his evil colleagues are concerned, having failed their Emperor by not winning the war they should have committed hari-kari, according to the Japanese code of honor. As a matter of fact Tojo did try but didn't quite succeed. The Allied tribunal has done a better job.

Market Briefs

WALL STREET
NEW YORK, Dec. 28—(AP)—A sudden expansion in selling pressure forced the stock market lower today. Final prices were down fractions to more than 2 points. Signs of a come-back developed in the last few minutes of business. Trading volume expanded on the way down. Turnover was at the rate of around 1,600,000 shares, which would be the highest since more than 2,000,000 shares changed hands on Nov. 10. Most brokers saw nothing special in the news to account for the unexpected decline. American Broadcasting went off on a tangent of its own, reaching a new high for the year at one time. Rumors persisted that the company's stock is still on for purchase of the company by Twentieth Century-Fox. Mahoning Coal Railroad, one of the highest priced stocks traded in the exchange, plunged 1 1/2 points to 49 1/2, low price for the year.

CHICAGO GRAIN
CHICAGO, Dec. 28—(AP)—Purchase of part of her first quarter of flour allocation by Italy rallied wheat prices from the day's low. The Italian government took 900,000 hundred-weight of flour today. Prospect of heavy snow fall over the winter wheat section had weakened new crop deliveries; however, through today's Board of Trade session, the May delivery, however, had shown some strength on commercial buying. Corn was fairly steady during the greater part of the session. Country bookings were placed at only 45,000 bushels. The Commodity Credit Corporation advanced its purchase 1 cent at Atlantic seaboard. There was considerable selling on soybeans. Oats, however, resisted selling on other futures. At the close wheat was 1/2 higher, May $2.24 1/2. Corn was 1/2 lower to 1/2 higher, May $1.99 1/2. Oats were 1/2 higher to 1/2 lower, May $1.78 1/2. Soybeans were 1/2 higher, May $1.72 1/2. Soybean meal was 1/2 lower, March $2.11 1/2. Lard was 1/2 cent to 1/2 cent higher, January $16.90.

Waltz into Darkness... BY WILLIAM IRISH... Copyright by William Irish... Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

Hours of searing, lonely pain had gone by. Tortured hours. She was somewhere in the house but she was not beside him.

What a long look. Would she never stop looking? What was she thinking? "You are such a long time dying?" Or, "My own love, are you not any better yet?"

She had entered the room. She was coming toward him. She was bending over him. He could feel the warmth of her breath.

His eyes opened and fixed on her with a strange, melting softness. Like the eyes of a wounded dog, begging its release.

She turned her head, then irresistibly they were drawn back again. "Why are you looking at me like that, my dear? What are you trying to say?"

He motioned to her with one finger to bend closer. She inclined her head a little the better to hear what he had to say.

He reached up falteringly and stroked the true thought which was the true she, and which his false dream of her?

When he awoke the dregs of daylight were settling in the west, like a fine white ash; the day was past. Her hand was still in his, and she was sitting there, her face toward him.

He released her hand. "Bonny," he sighed, agonized. "Get me another of those tonics, now, I am ready for it."

Involutionally, she drew her head back sharply for a moment. "Why do you ask for it now? I haven't offered it."

"I'm in pain," he said simply. "I can't endure much more of it." And turned a little this way, then turned a little that. "If not in kindness, then in charity..."

Nine Japs Sentenced To Hang

YOKOHAMA (AP)—Death on the gallows was decreed for nine Japanese officers, including three generals, for the beheading of 33 American fliers. Seventeen of the airmen were killed after Emperor Hirohito broadcast his surrender speech.

Sixteen other Japanese were assessed prison sentences ranging from five years to life by a U.S. Eighth Army commission. Seven other defendants in the mass trial were acquitted.

Witnesses testified the U.S. airmen were decapitated after they were told their executions were in retaliation for the atomic bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Eight were put to death on Aug. 10, 1945, and 17 were beheaded on Aug. 15 — just four hours after Hirohito broadcast his surrender speech. Many of the 33 were used by the Japanese as archery and sword practice targets, witnesses at the trial testified.

Condemned to be hanged were Lt. Gen. Isamu Tokoyama, commander of the western army; Maj. Gen. Kyusaku Kikusima, assistant chief of staff; Maj. Gen. Shoshin Ito, chief of the western army legal section; Col. Kiyoharu Tomomori, Capt. Yusei Wako, Lt. Hiroji Nakayama, Lt. Kentaro Toji and Probationary Officer Masahiko Marazaki.

Here's how the union shop differs from the closed shop: A closed shop contract prevents the employer from hiring a worker who isn't a member of the union. A union shop contract permits the employer to hire any worker he pleases, but the worker must then join the union or get fired. Under either contract, if a worker quits the union the employer has to fire him.

Jaycee Head Thanks Club

Jim Arndt, retiring president of the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce, closed his last meeting of the year yesterday noon with a short speech of thanks and a list of members who, in his opinion, contributed most to the development of the club and civic projects this year.

All the members of the club deserve recognition for their efforts in furthering the many projects the organization undertook this year, Arndt said, but some merited special thanks.

Those he mentioned were: Murray Sealey, Kirk Duncan, John Garman, Harry Solnick, Don Foster, Parks Brumley, Jack Morgan, Charley Roberts, "Dink" Altman, Wesley Lewis.

Joe Fischer, Zello Osborn, Bill Fannin, Rusty Ward, Willie Boyles, Elmer Francis, and Jack Nimmo.

Arndt announced again that the Jaycee's installation banquet will be held at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday at the Terrace Grill. Following the banquet, officers for the coming year will be installed.

The new officers will be: president, Floyd Watson; first vice president, Frank Fata; secretary, Rusty Ward; treasurer, Roy Taylor.

As his last official act as retiring president, Arndt appointed Jack Nimmo, Bill Nellis, and Travis Lively, Jr., as a standing committee to direct the progress of the Jaycee-sponsored community center.
