Cubs, Cards To Stage Greatest Two Club Pennant War In Loop History

By GEORGE KIRKSEY United Press Staff Correspondent (Copyright, 1936, United Press) NEW YORK, April 9. (UP)—The Chicago Cubs, champions of 1935, and the St. Louis Cardinals, champions of 1934, will stage one of the greatest two-club pennant battles in National League history...

Four of the seven managers voting in the poll picked the Cardinals. The other three picked the Cubs. Bill Terry, Giants' manager who refused to vote, saying "picking teams is silly business," named the Cubs as the team to beat...

Frankie Frisch, manager of the Cardinals, said: "If we can finish ahead of the Cubs, St. Louis will win the pennant."

The Cubs were picked to run second by three managers and third by the other two. The Cards were named second by two pilots and dropped as low as fourth by one manager...

EXPERTS SAY MAX WON'T LAST A ROUND WITH JOE

Former Manager Says Schmeling Is A Set-Up

NEW YORK, April 9.—Paul Demaki, the former Berlin promoter who played an important part in bringing out Max Schmeling into the ring, says that the German will last a round with Joe Louis at the Yankee Stadium in June...

A great majority of boxing men have an idea that Schmeling won't go much farther, but that won't stop Michael Strauss Jacobs and the Hearst newspapers prize fight department from collecting $40, the steepest tariff since the Tunney-Dempsey Battle of the Long Count, for 30 or more rows of ringside seats, and grossing close to $1,500,000.

After all, the Black Ulan hasn't won a second since Steve Hannu out-scrambled him in Philadelphia Feb. 13, 1934. Schmeling's 15-round draw with Paulino Uzcudun in Barcelona and his slovenly performance against the battered Basque in Berlin in his last start last July will be thrown out, as the boys say. Much will be made of his knockouts of blood Walter Neusel and Hans in Hamburg...

William Leo McCarney is the first to beat the tom-toms, from force of habit, no doubt. "If Schmeling could fight the first round as he usually does his fifth, and continue from that point, he'd have at least an even chance against Louis," says McCarney, who broke a statuette of Herr Moxie over Joe Jacobs' head when they separated as co-managers of the Ferocious Frankfurter. "Max is a notoriously slow starter, while Louis is dynamite from the first top of the gong."

"Schmeling is strong enough to breathe with any of them, and, having once been a wrestler, knows how to take care of himself when in close. He's always in condition, is as cool as a filled refrigerator, and brave as a lion."

Lineups For Grid Battle

Intra-Squad Game To Be Staged A Week From Today

A bitter struggle is anticipated when the Steers tangle in an intra-squad football game at the stadium here a week from today. Here's how they'll line up for the clash:

Team 1—Backs: Madison, Wood, Bigony and Gibson; ends: Henry and Adams; tackles: Harris and Kasper; guards: E. Wilson and Phillips; center: Raiburn.

Team 2—Backs: Henninger and Trainer; ends: McCullough and Anderson; tackles: Eldredge and Edmondson; guards: J. Wilson and Lockhart; center: Smith, Williams, sub and West, a lineman, will sub for Team No. 2.

U. S.-Mexico Net Winners To Play Australia Team

NEW YORK, April 9. (UP)—Australia's Davis Cup team will meet the United States-Mexico winner at Philadelphia, May 30. Winner 1, for the right to represent the North American zone in European play, the U. S. Lawn Tennis association announced today.

By virtue of Cuba's withdrawal from competition, the Australians automatically entered the North American zone final round. Australia originally was to have played Cuba in the first round with the winner meeting the United States-Mexico victor.

BIG SPRING RIFLE AND PISTOL CLUB STARTED

P. W. Malone, President H. B. Reagan, Vice-Prexy

The Big Spring Rifle and Pistol club came into actual existence this week in a meeting held at the Douglas hotel. Constitution and by-laws were adopted and the following officers elected: Dr. P. W. Malone, president; H. B. Reagan, vice president; Kit Carson, secretary-treasurer; Boyd J. McDaniel, range officer.

The following constitute the board of directors: Dr. P. W. Malone, H. B. Reagan, H. C. Carson, R. J. McDaniel, R. W. Baker, J. Allan Hull, Frank Cowart, M. M. Elton Taylor, and Neal Barnaby.

Full control of the club and its policies is vested in the board of directors, while control of all activities on the range is vested in the range officer.

Work is progressing rapidly on the rifle range five miles southeast of the city on section 17 where the new city water wells are located. Tentative plans call for a shoot on Sunday, April 13.

The following entries in the senior boys' senior singles events of the district five interscholastic league tournament, beginning Friday, have been received:

NEW COTTON BENEFITS TO BE AT ABOUT THE FORMER RATE

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Secretary Wallace said Wednesday that the dollar benefit payments to sugar producers were a thing of the past because under the new soil conservation program they will receive only about one-fifth of what they got under the old AAA.

Talking to reporters, he said cotton subsidy payments would be at about the same rate as the old payments while wheat benefits would not be greatly changed.

At the same time he made public another letter to Chairman Smith (D-SC) of the senate agriculture committee in which he corrected a figure given last week as the largest amount paid under one wheat contract. Wallace said the largest amount should have been $74,634 instead of $29,293 as previously reported.

This information was given voluntarily at about the same time as the senate committee approved a resolution calling on the agriculture secretary to report all benefit payments of $10,000 or more.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), author of the resolution, made a vain effort to call it up in the senate.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas

the majority leader, blocked immediate consideration by observing that a number of senators wished to speak on it.

On the house side, Representative Hull (Prog-Wis) introduced a bill to limit payments and grants under the soil conservation act to $1,000 each.

Wallace said, in explaining the wheat checks, that a California company received $29,508 instead of $29,398 and in addition separate checks totaling $49,125 were paid to 50 tenants who rented lands from this company. All the payments were made under the same joint contract.

Wallace said a recheck also had revealed three other contracts where the combined payments to landlords and tenants exceeded $10,000.

Asked if he believed politics were involved in demands for publication of the large benefit payments, Wallace laughed and countered with the question:

"Do you know anyone who doesn't?"

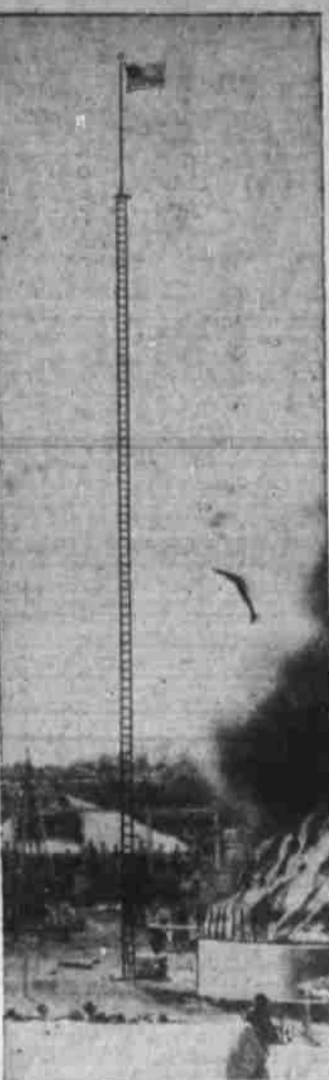

Wallace said he thought it would be a "very good plan" to make public large payments under the soil conservation program after a considerable lapse of time. He expressed the opinion that publication of the list of large AAA payments would have no effect on farmers cooperation in the soil conservation movement.

38,610 SQUARE MILES CAPTURED BY ITALY

ROME, April 9 (UP)—Italy has conquered 38,610 square miles of northern Ethiopia since the start of the war, it was announced today on the basis of detailed reports from Marshal Pietro Badoglio, Italian commander-in-chief.

Badoglio estimated that the Italian victory at Lake Aschangi added 23,166 square miles, which is included in the above figure. The Italian advanced positions are 185 miles from the "old" Eritrean border, he reported. The columns advanced on a front 375 miles long.

Storm Death Toll At 520

More Than 5,000 Homes Destroyed Throughout Five States

WASHINGTON, April 9. (UP)—The American Red Cross today reported the southern tornado death toll had reached 520 in five states with more than 5,000 homes destroyed.

The toll by states as reported to the Red Cross:

Alabama, 12; Georgia, 250; Mississippi, 294; North Carolina, 12; Tennessee, 12.

The fatality list included a report of 15 dead from Auburn, Miss., of which no previous word had been received by the Red Cross.

National disaster workers advised headquarters that never in 20 years experience had they seen so complete and appalling tornado devastation as that in Gainesville, Ga., and Tupelo, Miss.

The Red Cross relief fund reached $5,589,038 today including $30,000 contribution by the U. S. Steel Corporation.

Relief Allotments Made By WPA Administrator

WASHINGTON, April 9. (UP)—Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins yesterday made two tornado relief allotments of $1,000,000 each to Mississippi and Georgia.

Using the $2,500,000 set aside for storm reconstruction work by President Roosevelt, Hopkins also allotted $200,000 for South Carolina and $100,000 each for Alabama, Arkansas and Tennessee.

WPA administrators in the stricken states, Hopkins said, "have already been notified of the sums placed at their disposal and are proceeding without delay to render every assistance possible in clearing away wreckage, cleaning and testing water supplies, and ministering to the wounded and homeless."

Eleven Lands Contribute To U. S. Congress

More Than 20 In Senate And House Born In Europe

WASHINGTON, April 9. (UP)—At least eleven European countries contributed from their native-born population to the membership of the present congress, a United States survey disclosed today.

Birth records of members show that more than 20 came here from abroad and that virtually every section of Europe produced one or more.

Germany, Italy, Great Britain, France and Russia were the birthplaces of at least two or more members, while Spain, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Sweden, Denmark, and Scotland produced one member each. Poland, Norway, Finland and Switzerland are believed to have been birthplaces of others, although the official records do not show it. At least two members in their official biographies made special mention of the fact that they came of French blood, although they were born in the United States.

Canada Supplies One

Canada is the only other country contributing directly from its national blood to members of congress. Many countries contributed indirectly in members born in the United States of first or second generation removed from residence abroad.

Germany was the birthplace of E. O. Robert Wagner, D. N. Y., of Rep. Leonard William Schuetz, Chicago, and B. J. Gehrmann, Wisconsin.

Italy was the birthplace of Rep. Vincent L. Palmisano, Maryland, and Peter A. Cavicchia, Newark, N. J. Palmisano lists Termini, Italy, as his birthplace. Cavicchia does not mention the exact place of his birth. Numerous other persons of Italian name are found in congress, but they were born in America.

England and Scotland are countries which produced Rep. George Burpham, California; Frank Crowther, New York, and Robert Crosser, Ohio. Burnham was born in London, Crowther in Liverpool, and Crosser at Holytown, Lanarkshire, Scotland.

Delegate Born in Spain

Luigi Iglesias, delegate to congress from Puerto Rico. He was born at Coruna in 1872 and learned the trade of cabinetmaker before becoming prominent in labor organization work.

Russia was the original land of Rep. Herman P. Kopplemann, Connecticut, and Samuel Dickstein, New York. Kopplemann was born at Odessa. Dickstein does not reveal his birthplace.

Austria sent to congress Karl Stefan, Nevada, a one-time newspaper writer.

Czechoslovakia provided Adolph J. Sabath, once a judge in Chicago and now one of two members of congress to serve the longest of present members.

Sweden was the birthplace of Rep. Pehr G. Holmes, Massachusetts. He became an alderman in Dorchester, Mass., and then a member of the Governor's council, before election to congress.

Nevadan From Denmark
Denmark was the birthplace of Rep. Charles G. Binderup, Nevada. He was born at Horsens, Denmark, and came with pioneer parents to America at the age of six months. He worked his way upward through the gemery business.

mercantile and agricultural pursuits. Ireland was the birthplace of William B. Barry, representative from Queens county, N. Y., and of Michael J. Staek, Philadelphia. Barry was born in County Mayo in 1902, the son of Thomas J. Barry and Catherine J. Heston Barry. He reached congress through the profession of law. Staek is a decorated World War veteran.

Brownwood Votes Utility Franchise

BROWNWOOD, April 8.—By almost a three to one majority, Brownwood Tuesday voted to grant a franchise to the Brownwood Public Service company, owned by R. O. Matthews to erect, construct, maintain and operate an electric light plant in the city of Brownwood. The vote for was 2,773, and against 757.

Matthews started construction of his plant more than a year ago, but injunctions brought by the Texas Power & Light company, which has been serving this city the past 24 years, had blocked construction.

In 47 varieties of palm- and ball-bottom ones, with flowered prints or startling Mother Goose designs. They spend hours maneuvering themselves or wondering whether the boys back home are still pitching horseshoes down by the postoffice.

Usually they arrive at the Music Hall around 1 p. m. After checking in at the stage door registration booth, they wander upstairs, take some light preliminary exercises, apply make-up, change to the opening costumes, and await their cues.

Once they check in they seldom leave until the last show at night. Recreation rooms with pianos and all sorts of games—plus cafeterias and quick lunch counters, easily accessible in the building, make it unnecessary for them even to don street clothes until the going-home hour arrives.

Occasionally, however, they seize the rather long interval between the late afternoon and dinner shows to snatch a glimpse of "life."

Often it's an exciting glimpse. They go out the stage door, second around the block, enter through the front door and settle down for a thrilling movie.

They're crazy about the movies.

Trial Is Reversed For The Third Time

AUSTIN, April 9 (UP)—For the third time the court of criminal appeals yesterday reversed the conviction of Charles S. Richardson, former mayor of Olney, in the killing of his son, Elga, while the boy was home for a college vacation.

The defense was that the shooting was an accident.

On first trial, Richardson was given a life sentence. The second verdict against him was 99 years. The last trial was held in Wilbarger county on a change of venue. The verdict was 10 years.

Richardson's son, Elga, had returned home for the Christmas-New Year's holidays. There was a scuffle during a dispute on Jan. 1, 1934, at the home. It was at that time the boy received a fatal wound.

Reversal this time was because a defense witness was asked if the witness had been indicted on a murder charge 12 years before. The witness had been acquitted in that case and defense attorneys had asked that the state be instructed not to make inquiry about an incident so remote. The witness testified to Richardson's reported statement that the shooting was accidental.

Trouble With Crew Revealed As Ship Repeats ITS Port

JERSEY CITY, N. J., April 9 (UP)—Trouble on the high seas with an insubordinate crew of 144 men was revealed today as the Dollar liner President Garfield docked from the coast.

Capt. Gregory Cullen blamed most of the trouble on Ben Polanski, said to have been a delegate of the International Seaman's Union. He said Polanski made frequent threats of trouble. The captain regarded Polanski as responsible for the walkout of the crew at Naples.

Cullen put two men in the brig but they were released by the American consul general at Naples. Cullen complained that "in port today things are different."

Ernest A. Fleischer of East Orange, N. J., said the crew included the "rottenest bunch of red agitators I've ever seen." He said when he boarded the ship at Bombay the dining room steward told him: "You are certainly on a tough ship, mister. The captain is no good and the service is rotten." Fleischer said the description fit the steward's service.

Pecos Women Elected To Head Eighth District Of T. F. W. C.

Local Delegates Return With News About Convention Held In Abilene And Awards To Clubs

Delegates from the local clubs to the district federation meeting at Abilene have returned with enthusiastic accounts of the sessions they attended. The delegates were: Mrs. G. A. Woodward, representing the 1930 Hyperion club; Mrs. William Fahrenkamp, representing the Hyperions; Mrs. Thomas J. Coffee, the Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority.

The district was divided at this meeting, Big Spring going into the newly created district to be called the eighth.

Elected to head the sixth district was a recent visitor in Big Spring—Miss Ethel Foster of Sterling City, who was a guest of the Hyperion club at the tea given in honor of the state and district presidents last month.

The parliamentarian of that district is also known here—Mrs. William Reagan of Cisco, a sister of Mr. and Mrs. R. Reagan, an ex-president and a prominent club worker in the district.

Eighth District
Mrs. T. Y. Casey of Pecos, well known to many local club women, was voted in as president of the new district. Mrs. Joseph M. Pertion activities and each will receive a prize. Junior Thursday club of Eastland had the best yearbook; Sigma Lambda Kappa of McMurry college, Abilene, the best scrapbook, and the Junior Twentieth Century club of Pecos the best essay.

San Angelo 32 club and the Brownwood city federation were given honorable mention by Mrs. J. M. F. Gill, district health chairman, for public health projects. There are no prizes offered in this field.

A State Chairman
Miss Foster, president-elect of sixth district, is serving as state chairman of ethical training, a new chairmanship in the general federation. She is a charter member of the Wimodaughis club of Sterling City, federated in 1912, and has been president of the club for six years.

Mrs. Casey, well known West Texas club woman, is second vice president of the original sixth district.

The new presidents will succeed Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins of Eastland, who presided for the three-day convention here.

Outstanding speakers on the Wednesday afternoon program were Mrs. Robert N. Molloy of Corsicana, who gave an illustrated talk on "Birds and Flowers," and Miss Hazel H. Beckham of Austin, who spoke on "Needs of the Adult Blind." Mrs. Molloy is state chairman of birds, flowers and wild life, and Miss Beckham is a member of the state commission of the blind.

Flowers, Birds Shown
Showing many beautiful lantern slides of Texas wild flowers and birds, Mrs. Molloy explained how the flowers and shrubs may be adapted to garden planting and thereby attract birds to the home setting. The speaker and her sister made the pictures in or near Corsicana. Mrs. Molloy drove to Abilene Wednesday morning especially to give the address.

Miss Beckham told of the work which the commission for the blind is doing in an effort to locate blind adults in Texas, learn their needs and make them self supporting. There are, she said, nearly 3,000 blind persons above the age of 21 years in Texas. The state has established five training centers—known as lighthouses for the blind—where from 30 to 150 individuals are given training annually.

While Texas has an appropriation of only $5,000 a year for this program, considerable progress has been made since the commission was established in 1921, Miss Beckham said. Achievements are small, however, as compared to those in Missouri, where $240,000 is appropriated annually for prevention of blindness and rehabilitation of the blind, she said.

Oil Exhibits Open May 16

Industry's Progress To Be Depicted At Tulsa Exposition

TULSA, Okla., April 9 (UP)—Electrification of the oil industry will be stressed at the ninth annual International Petroleum exposition which will be held in Tulsa May 16 to 23.

The exposition will be the largest meeting of any oil group during 1936. More than 500 oil firms have bought space for exhibits.

Featured at the exposition will be displays of oil well drilling equipment showing the recent trend toward electrification in many of the newly-developed oil fields.

The Tulsa exposition is the only display of its kind in the world and is held once every two years. It attracts visitors from many foreign countries as well as oil men from all over the United States.

The National Gasoline association of America, the American Petroleum Institute, the Independent Petroleum association, the National Stripper Well association of America, and the Institute of Petroleum Technologists with headquarters in London, England, will hold conventions in Tulsa in connection with the exposition.

Five new buildings have been built at the exposition grounds and nearly 200,000 cubic feet of exhibit space is provided. Total value of the exhibits, which will cover all phases of producing, refining and marketing oil and oil products, will aggregate more than $10,000,000.

The exposition was organized in

King's English Gains Importance In Britain; Dignity Is The Radio Rule

LONDON, April 8. (UP)—The Britanic broad-A dignity at the studios of the British Broadcasting company has been restored and "that shocking American accent" has been silenced.

The accent belonged to Robert Bowman, a young Canadian who announced for the Olympic ice-hockey games in Garmisch.

He had all the gusto and scolding excitement of the American announcer, replete with "here we are, folks, huddled right down in front in the clear, brick cold waiting for . . . oh boy, what a shot! What a shot! I wish you could have seen it, folks!"

It was shocking to the powers of the B. B. C. The next day a flood of letters came to Broadcasting House complaining about the American accent.

Must Be Pontifical

So Bowman, an announcer for 18 months, was gently put off the air, and it was announced that hereafter all broadcasters will maintain the official B. B. C. manner of speaking—pontifical and superior to the sway of any emotion.

But Bowman's departure failed to settle domestic quarrels as to correct pronunciation.

As long as a town with a name like Trottscliffe is pronounced like "Trottsly," and the natives of Alderwasley call their head "Alderlee," the tongue-twisting announcers of the British Broadcasting corporation are going to have their troubles.

Every time some announcer calls Dulwich by its simple name of Dulwich a lot of infuriated listeners write to ask why he talks like "some bloomin' foreigner" and why doesn't he call it "Dullidge" as it should be known.

But It Gets Worse

It's even worse than that. When an announcer is talking about the section of Greater London he safely can call it Bromley, just as it is spelled. But if he's talking about Bromley in Kent it's "Bromly." It's the same way with Romford, Kent, and Romford, Essex. One is "Romford," the other "Rumford."

In an effort to standardize pronunciations of place names the B. B. C., after months of research, has issued a little book called "Broadcast English." A special commission of linguists worked months in its preparation.

Heading the commission was the literary wag and "leg puller," George Bernard Shaw, who ordinarily might be expected to go out of his way to give the wrong pronunciation to a name.

Huxley Also Served

Others on the commission included Julian Huxley, Lord David Cecil, Prof. Lascelles Abercrombie and representatives of the British Academy, the Royal Society of Literature and the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art.

The place-name guide is based on the theory that every town should be known as it is to the residents, and it is admitted that there isn't a man to be found in the whole United Kingdom who could pronounce correctly half of the town names.

If there are any to contest the assertion, let them try out their tongues on Ugham, Garboldisham, Haslemere, Haslemere, Piddicott, Punchknoll, or

Jack Haley Comedy Features Program At Ritz Theatre

A comedy relating the adventures of a boy who wanted to be a "G man" but couldn't quite make the grade in the picture, "F Man," which plays at the Ritz Thursday with Jack Haley in the leading role and a cast headed by Grace Bradley, William Frawley, Adrienne Marden and Onslow Stevens supporting him.

"F Man" deals with the fate of a country boy who goes to the city to make good as a department of justice operative. Thrown out of that organization's office every time he appears, he finally gets himself a job as a soda-fountain clerk but meanwhile continues to make regular visits to the office of the department. He makes such a pest of himself that a minor official finally decides to do something about it.

"The something" consists of first subjecting the victim to a series of "phony" physical tests, which he passes with flying colors, and then the announcement that as a novice, he has to become an "F Man" for a probationary period before graduating to become a "G Man."

But ultimately—and in spite of himself—he does assist in the cap-

ALASKAN FERRY USED DURING GOLD RUSH GOES INTO DISCARD

JUNEAU, Alaska, April 8 (UP)—After 48 years of consecutive service without a mishap, during which time its boats travelled 1,122,000 times across Gastineau channel between Douglas and Juneau, the Juneau Ferry & Navigation company has gone out of existence.

Abolition of the ferry service was due to recent completion of the $250,000 bridge across the channel. The ferry company's last boat, the Teddy, will be sold.

Many tales of the early Alaskan days were recalled with the passing of the ferry, such as in the season of 1887, when Capt. John Martin, who launched the company, went about the saloons of Juneau blowing a fish horn when the ferry was ready to leave.

During the gold rush, thousands of miners used the ferry, often pulling out their "poker" on deck to engage in games of blackjack at $10 a chip.

By ADELAIDE KERR

NEW YORK, (UP)—Easter bonnets for 1936 feature the most widely varied designs the fashion world has launched in years.

It's a case of "find your type and fit it" this year for almost "anything goes," provided it is smart and suited to the wearer's personality.

The designs range all the way from flower toques reminiscent of England's queen to mannish designs borrowed from the "more male's" wardrobe. Boyish caps with visors finished with a flat tailored bow in front, part sailors rimmed with veils and Chinese chapeaux with peaked pagoda-like crowns are shown to wear with suits. Persian toques with softly rolled chiffon bandings and quilts thrust aslant through the crown, and flower trimmed hats appear with dressier clothes.

Sally Victor's "May basket" hat, latest edition from the fashion presses, is one of the most striking models. She modeled it over the lid of a glue can only four inches across, making the crown no bigger than that and less than an inch high. The six-inch brim slopes down like an inverted May basket rimmed at the top with tiny flowers or marked by an impudent taffeta bow.

The same designer shows a new puff-brim hat whose double brim is puffed on the sides and pinched in front below a little band of flowers. Besides these she has launched a galaxy of geometrical hats with square brims—wide or narrow—and very shallow crowns.

In addition to the great variety in spring hats two other noticeable trends are seen—(1) the return of "millinery made" models and (2) the vogue for flowers and veils.

The old blocked headgear trimmed simply with a grosgrain band has given way to hats which only an expert can make, models made of tiny handings of straw, tucked folds or draped chiffon. Navy-blue is the favorite hue.

Flowers are seen everywhere. Colorful anemones run down the side of a sailor. Poppies rim a crown. Daisies cluster at the front of a shovel brimmed straw and nasturtiums perch under a wide brim.

Veils are equally prominent in the pageant of Easter bonnets. Brief nose veils trim a sailor, and regular veils trim toques and tendalure.

HE ALWAYS GETS HIS BUG!

WHEN YOU SHOOT MOTHS WITH GULFSPRAY THEY STAY DEAD!

Gulf Spray runs down any bug smaller than a bee! And they stay down!

For Gulf Spray is sudden death to moths, mosquitoes, flies, roaches, etc. Harmless to pets. Won't stain upholstery, curtains or even the most fragile fabrics and has a mild, pleasant odor.

It goes farther, too. A generous pint can cost only 49c—at your neighborhood or department store or at Good Gulf Dealers. Keep a supply in your house, spray it on all household pests—and you will live in peace!

GULFSPRAY INSECT KILLER

One thing they all agree on

Ever been in Singapore? ... Constantinople? ... Buenos Aires? ... Well, Budweiser has. No matter where people have gone, they have been unable to find a beer like Budweiser with its matchless character, bouquet and flavor. People who know beer have made Budweiser the biggest-selling bottled beer in history. For your own enjoyment, include in your circle of friends the beer that has circled the globe!

How old is beer? As old as civilization. "Zythum", ancient Egyptian word for "beer", is one of the last words in the dictionary... but everybody who drinks Budweiser knows that Budweiser is the last word in beer.

The Mayflower brought Pilgrims—and beer! And how they complained when it was gone! They sent word back to England for more. (See Young's "Chronicles of the Pilgrims".) You need not worry about not getting your Budweiser because Budweiser is everywhere.

UNAVOIDABLE? NEVER

It was not until the people became convinced that three-fourths or more of their fire losses were from preventable causes that any headway was made toward reduction of the tremendous waste due to the destruction of property by fire.

As a usual rule, an automobile accident which is described in the press and on the police reports as "unavoidable" is one in which the responsibility is not readily identified, or is shared equally by all parties interested.

If we are to reduce our automobile accident costs, therefore, we must learn to identify the causes of accidents, and to prevent them by removing the causes.

Since these original causes of accidents are contributed by a bevy of the millions of persons operating motor cars, improvement in the situation can come about only through the cooperative action of all the millions acting as individuals.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK — One of the rackets employed by some portrait studios to gain business is this: Mr. Doax of Pittsburgh comes to New York, checks into his hotel, and is happily shaving when the telephone rings.

"We are anxious to have your photograph for our files, Mr. Doax—no obligation to you at all."

His objections overruled, Mr. Doax is photographed and sent on his way, secretly pleased to have been so promptly singled out.

And that's all—until Professor Doax returns to Pittsburgh. There, awaiting him, is a nice large photograph of himself, and with it a printed folder on which the price is very prettily listed.

It is estimated that 85 per cent of people thus photographed are bowled over by personal vanity. The diminutive redhead (she does the telephoning in that oh, so winning voice) of one studio tells me that men between 40 and 50 invariably capitulate.

Meet Frank Black, general musical director for one of the great broadcasting companies—

Frank had more aliases in his younger days than are to be found in a police morning line-up. But it was all on the level.

Remember the old player pianos with their rolls of recorded tunes—the perforated ones that made the ivory keys jump up and down? Well, Frank was the man behind that mushroom craze.

Frank's idea was to give his public a wide range in artistic talent, so every week he secured a new artist to record the rolls. That is—a new name appeared on the box, but that was just Frank's idea of salesmanship.

What makes his story, at least to me, so interesting is that he is one of few men to build up a money-making enterprise and then get out before it reached the end of its usefulness. That shows nice timing.

At the psychological moment he cashed in his holdings and moved on to other fields. Shortly thereafter the player piano craze moved into limbo!

The manager of an ultra-ultra bar tells me that gin has leaped into an almost unprecedented demand—for this time of year. Usually it is most favored in hotter months when tall frosted drinks are the order, but for some unknown reason the beverage crowd has jumped the gun on the really terrific season.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW FEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Last year, for the first time in many years, the president of the United States refused to address the annual meeting of the United States chamber of commerce.

It was all fixed up at a luncheon between Harper Sibley, president of the chamber, and a mutual friend of Sibley and Secretary of Commerce Dan Roper.

"It's rather a bitter pill for him," the friend said. "On one hand he's being attacked for being too friendly to business, and on the other, business gives him the cold shoulder."

Sibley expressed sympathy with Roper but pointed out that he, Sibley, was in a tough spot. "I'm in the middle between two camps," he explained. "One group, the ultra-hard shell Tories, are opposed to any overtures to the administration. The other, made up chiefly of small business men, are on the whole for friendly relations."

"Yes," replied the friend, "but they don't want to overlook one thing. If Roosevelt is re-elected, their thumbing their noses at him like a gang of peevish schoolboys is going to do them no good in his next four years. He'll crack down on business with a real vengeance."

Sibley was strongly impressed by this argument, promised to see what he could do about securing an invitation for Roper.

A few days later the secretary of commerce got a formal bid. But his first enthusiasm turned somewhat sour when he learned what he had been asked to discuss.

The chamber moguls, apparently irked when the president, in his recent message to congress, rebuked industry for not creating more employment, assigned Roper the subject: "How industry can put more men to work."

Some of Roper's assistants advise him to turn the tables on the chamber with an outspoken demand that business men either re-employ the idle or quit complaining about federal relief expenditures.

Presidential Cockroaches: The White House, mecca of every house-keeping woman in the land, has cockroaches. Despite its $9,990 modern kitchen, despite a retinue of servants, a cockroach hunt takes place after every presidential inauguration.

P. F. Harris is the official cockroach cleaner. After Harding moved out, his harvest filled one tall sack can.

"The cockroaches," he reminisces, shaking his head, "were something terrible, especially in the kitchen and pantry. It took 100 pounds of exterminator to do the job."

In 1933, after the Hoovers moved out, only 20 pounds were necessary. Harris claims that the Roosevelt administration discriminates against American-made cockroach powder and are using a brand "Made in Japan."

Henry Wallace says he would have nothing to worry about if every dust storm would cancel out the effect of every flood, as in the case of a Kansas farmer who was hit.

"Dear Sir: Several years ago I was the happy and contented possessor of a profitable little farming enterprise, but the cruel ravages of the Missouri river during a flood destroyed my peaceable outlook on life when it washed away the vital soil."

"The other morning, I awoke, and imagine my surprise when I stepped out to get the morning mail and there was my farm, back again just where a Kansas storm had blown it."

"I should like to prevent a recurrence of this, and would appreciate any booklets or information on the subject."

Senator Bob Reynolds admits the laugh is on him. The hard-working North Carolinian is a filibustering foe of the Kerr-Coolidge bill, which would modify the deportation laws to give the secretary of labor discretionary power in meritorious cases of illegal entry.

There are over 3,000 such cases now pending, involving several thousand American families which would be broken up if the fathers were deported. Secretary Perkins, immigration officials and welfare organizations throughout the country strongly favor the Kerr-Coolidge proposal as a humane measure.

Chapter Seven
SURPRISE

"No," said Iris. "It's labeled, as neatly as Aunt Ella always does, Jean's other things. Of course it may be just mine and Owen's baby clothes."

"Owen's?"

"I had a brother who died when he was five and I was a year and two months old, about the time Mother died. I wish I remembered her."

Morgan rose and pulled down his thick dark blue sweater. "Come on, Iris, I'll do your Boy Scout deed."

They gained the enormous attic, smelling delightfully like apples and clothes and dry wood. Morgan them," she said again, bewildered, and dug deeper.

Morgan, also exploring, dragged up a couple of photographs. "Who are these?" he asked. "Cousins?"

She took them from him, and they both stared down at them.

"They're my mother," she said, "but it doesn't make sense."

Miss Ella spoke as if all she had done was entirely right, even noble. Morgan, remembering the bad woolly pictures, patient overworked William Lanning, shabby vivid dutiful Iris, could only stare.

She finished quietly. "I came to tell you that it's time for you to set the table," and went down the stairs again.

Iris stood in the middle of the attic floor, flushed, tragic, beautiful. "And I'm helpless!" she said. "Poor old Uncle William's helpless. We all are, because we haven't any money. I have a brother somewhere in the world, and I'm chained here, making place-cards and teaching little girls singing, instead of finding him! Even if I save and save, it will be months and months before I have enough to hire detectives and do all the things people have to do. And you say that money's nothing but trouble."

Suddenly Morgan felt happy, alive, as he had not since his world had crashed around him. Here was something he could do; here was a real trouble, a real need. Here was a girl, honest, helpless; here was something—in a tangled, tricky world, that he could put straight.

"Leave it to me, Iris," he said. "If your brother is anywhere in the civilized world I'll find him for you."

Her lovely, moody face lighted to a dazzling happiness. She threw her arms round him; Morgan felt her grateful impulsive kiss on his lips.

"Why, I never had her," declared Iris.

gan followed Iris across the sound- ing boards, far back under the eaves till they both had to kneel. Under a half dozen boxes and a broken rocker was the trunk.

One movement of Morgan's strong brown hands wrenched the hinges off and Iris dipped avidly in, lifting out a large tissue-paper wrapped bundle that lay by a large flat green pasteboard box. She opened it.

"A doll!" she said. "A big beautiful French doll, perfectly new. Why, I never had her, I swear I never did!"

"That's queer. Try the box," Morgan said. She opened it.

"This is queerer still. It must be my dress. But it's never been worn, either—none of these things have. She tossed them over. Exquisitely made, of exquisite material, the trunk held the summer and winter wardrobes of a girl from two to five years old. "I know I never had eight. Of Iris, no sign.

"They died when he was five. But they're alive in that picture, and he's eight. Morgan, what does it mean?" she demanded.

Before he could answer they heard quick footsteps on the stairs. Miss Ella ran over to them, her face white and angry.

"What are you doing in that trunk?" she demanded harshly.

"Aunt Ella, where are my mother and little brother? Where did all these things come from?"

"Your mother's dead, I told you. Iris stood over her aunt reluctantly.

"Is my brother dead too? If my mother's dead, how did all these presents I never got come to be in this trunk?"

"He doesn't know anything about you, or want you, or he'd have looked you up. Miss Ella was suddenly transformed from the mouse of a woman Morgan had known to a fiery vindictive creature.

"That woman, Josie Ross, has him. Your mother left your father, and took both of you. She went to that creature, her sister. We got you back; they hadn't any money then, they couldn't fight. Your father didn't want you told. So of course I didn't tell you."

"You've done this to me all these years I thought you loved me!" Iris said passionately. "I've loved and trusted you and Uncle William; and you've kept me from knowing I had a brother, you kept me from my mother. How do I know you're telling the truth?"

"You can look in my scrapbook. Her death notice is in that," said Miss Ella sullenly.

"Let me see it!" Iris demanded.

"It's in the Sberaton desk in the dining room, the locked drawer. Here's the key."

Iris quieted a little. Her aunt wouldn't say this if it weren't true.

"I'm astonished at the way you're taking it," said Miss Ella with incredible reproving anger. "As for William, it was all his fault. He got tangled up with Josie Ross. Of course they couldn't marry, because your father needed your un-

Farmers Save Interest By Refinancing

Rate Reduced On Average Of 2 Pct. Through U. S. Agencies

WASHINGTON, April 9—Texas farmers saved more than $3,500,000 a year on interest by refinancing debts with the farm credit administration since its organization in May, 1933, according to an analysis made public today by the farm credit administration.

Making good use of the cooperative facilities of their already-established national farm loan associations, Texas farmers refinanced over $138,970,000 of farm debts, carrying average interest rates of seven per cent a year, with long-term federal land bank and land bank commissioner loans bearing interest rates of five per cent a year or less.

National farm loan associations in Texas have not only guaranteed thousands of first mortgage loans to the federal land bank of Houston but have also acted as agents of the land bank commissioner in making loans on second as well as first mortgage security—to refinance old debts, to redeem farms lost through foreclosures, to finance the purchase of farms, and for other general agricultural purposes.

29,500 Loans

From May, 1933, to the end of last year, 29,500 Texas farmers obtained $123,749,100 from the land bank and commissioner for the specific purpose of refinancing old debts. This was about 93.5 per cent of the total amount of loans made by the land bank and commissioner in the state.

The federal land bank made 17,100 first mortgage loans and the land bank commissioner 29,300 loans. Many of the commissioner loans were made on second mortgage security to farmers who also obtained first mortgage loans. Most land bank loans are endorsed by associations and advanced from funds obtained by selling farm loan bonds. The commissioner lends from funds provided by the federal government.

Making loans only on first mortgage security, as in the past, the federal land bank lends in amounts up to about one-half the appraised normal value of the farm property, while the commissioner, lending on second as well as first mortgage security, may make loans in amounts up to 75 per cent of the value. The largest amount of commissioner's loans to one farmer is $7,500.

Interest rates on all federal land bank loans—old and new—were temporarily reduced by an act of congress last summer. Where land bank loans are made through national farm loan associations. The rate is 3.5 per cent for all interest payable in the year ending June 30, 1936, and four per cent for the two years following. This temporary reduction of interest rates on all federal land bank loans is paid for by the United States government which reimburses the banks for what otherwise would be a loss to them.

Favorable investment market conditions when the federal land banks sold their last issue of bonds has enabled the banks to offer new loans, for the present, at the interest rate of four per cent a year. This is the lowest rate at which the banks have ever lent money in the 19 years of their history, and since the low rate went into effect, over 30,000 farmers have swapped the opportunity to refinance their debts, realizing that where loans are made now at four per cent, the borrower will not have to pay a higher rate during the entire term of the loan, which may be made for a period as long as 30-year.

UNIVERSITY MUSEUM WILL BE HOUSED IN MODERN BUILDING

AUSTIN, April 9—Modern in every respect, the Texas Memorial museum which will be erected on the campus at the University of Texas with state and federal funds and from proceeds derived from the sale of Texas centennial half-dollars, will offer many late innovations in the building world. It has been announced here by H. J. Lathier Stark, chairman of the board of museum directors.

The building will be practically windowless. All heating, ventilation and lighting will be mechanically accomplished. The only windows in the building will be for ornamental purposes.

The very latest methods obtainable in the construction of museums will be employed in the erection of the building, ground for which will be broken on June 7, as one of the features of the opening of the University Centennial exposition here.

Machine Gun Law Is Before Court

AUSTIN, April 9 (UP)—Validity of the state's anti-machine gun law was at stake in the court of criminal appeals here today. The test is in a case from Bexar county where H. S. Lebnan is a gun repairman. He received by express a weapon that did not violate the law.

With changes made as directed, it is contended the gun became a "machine gun" capable of firing 500 shots a minute.

Validity of the law was unchallenged on numerous grounds. One was violation of the constitutional right to bear arms. The law prohibits possession of a weapon that fires more than five times by one action of the firing device. Defense attorneys said such a description is too vague—the law should have said trigger. The law does not prohibit manufacture. It was contended that in changing the gun Lebnan really manufactured. The court was told that under strict federal enforcement of the act a gunsmith could not repair a machine gun for a sheriff or other person legally entitled to possess such a weapon.

ELECTED STUDENT PREXY, ELIGIBILITY IS UNDER QUESTION

AUSTIN, April 9. (UP)—Jimmie Brinkley, Houston, held most votes today for president of the students association of the University of Texas, but will not know until later if he can serve. His eligibility has been questioned. He is a law student and lacks one hour of the required number for a student officer. An amendment making the requirements more liberal for law students, is being considered. Unless protest against the change is received by April 17, Brinkley can serve. If there is protest, decision will wait a faculty meeting in May.

Brinkley, an independent, won an election in which the fraternities and independents split the offices.

Other successful candidates were: L. T. Cummins, San Antonio, Margaret Gray, Austin, John Bradshaw, Bellville, Ed Syers, San Antonio, Bob Eckhardt, Austin, Vance Muse, Jr., Houston, Ed Hodge, Jr., El Paso, and Jack Lewis, San Angelo.

MOISTURE CONTROL

The most important single attribute of cigarettes, other than the tobacco itself, is moisture content. To its influence we owe the ability to make uniform cigarettes, to control combustion, and to govern quality of smoke. Excessive moisture interferes with proper combustion, and makes cigarette smoke unpalatable. Insufficient moisture permits dry, dusty cigarette smoke to impinge upon the delicate mucous membrane of the smoker.
