

White and Dark

BY WILLIAM IRISH

THIS STORY
 Times, 1930. Place, New Orleans
 Well-to-do. Louis Durand came on a correspondence course with a Miss Julia Russell, whom he had never seen. When she finally came from St. Louis to marry him, he was amazed to find her so different from what he had been led to expect.
 Certain behavior of hers puzzled him from the first but not until a letter arrived from her supposed sister—Miss Russell's sister—did he realize the woman he married was an impostor. She had been her with it, she disappeared with $50,000, withdrawn from her bank account. The Durand advised him to go to St. Louis to see what he could find out. He did so, called on Julia Russell's sister. Comparing notes, they realized something must have happened to Julia Russell on the trip to New Orleans. They call in Walter Downer, private investigator. At Downer's suggestion, he and Durand take the same boat back to New Orleans. Although they were a few days late, they were in a very little while.
 Downer is convinced that the woman he saw was Durand that he was his late wife's day.

XX
 MAY again. May of '31 now.
 A year since the marriage.
 The train from New Orleans came into Biloxi late in the afternoon. The sky was porcelain fresh from the kitchen, a little steam seeping from it here and there, those were clouds. The tree tops were shimmering with delicious new leaf. And in the distance, like a deposit of sapphires, the waters of the Gulf. It was a lovely place to come to, a lovely sight to behold. And he was old and bitter now, too old to love.
 He was the last one down from the steps of the railroad coach.
 He climbed down leadenly, grudingly, as though it were all one to him whether he alighted here or elsewhere on the next place. It was. To rest, to forget awhile, that was all he wanted. To let the healing process continue, the scars harden into their ugly crust. New

Article Says Law Is Lax on Sex Offenders

Most serious sex offenses could be prevented if society would insist upon the enactment of laws permitting the confinement of potential offenders, according to psychiatrists who have investigated the problem.
 The problem—and the psychiatrists' proposed solution of it—is presented by David G. Wittels in "What Can Be Done About Sex Crimes?" in the current Saturday Evening Post.
 Most of the 24,000 sex cases officially reported last year were committed by constitutional psychopathic inferiors, according to the article. A constitutional psychopathic inferior is a person who was born a moral cripple. He is unable to control and censor his impulses as normal people do.
 "Psychopathic personalities can easily be detected early in life by any psychiatrist," Dr. Matthew T. Moore, of Philadelphia, is quoted as saying. "But our laws make no provision for the commitment or strict supervision of such people. It is practically inevitable that, under suggestion or in certain cases of circumstances, they will commit some serious crime."
 Dr. Moore, defense psychiatrist in the case of George Neill, of Philadelphia, who was sentenced to die in the electric chair for the murder of his 11-year-old niece, points out that Neill was twice pronounced a psychopathic inferior, once when he was 16 and again when he was discharged from the Marine Corps. "There was ample warning that he was a potential killer, likely to commit any sort of dreadful crime," he says. "But each time he was let loose, because our laws make no provision for the commitment or strict supervision of such people."
 "The law in Pennsylvania, as in practically all other states, (makes) absolutely no provision for such cases," Wittels writes. "Not being insane in the legal sense, (Neill) could not be committed to an institution."
 Bruno Hauptmann, who kidnaped and killed the Lindberghs, probably was a constitutional psychopathic inferior, according to the author. So was Robert L. Coombes, of Malden, Mass., who is serving life imprisonment for the murder of an 11-year-old girl. Other such creatures were Jackie Dills, from the Great Smoky Mountain region of Tennessee, and Alexander T. Meyers, both arrested in rape-and-murder cases. More notorious was William Heirens, who killed three people, including Suzanne Degnan, 6, of Chicago, before he was apprehended.
 Since there is no known cure for such people, Dr. Moore suggests they be segregated in colonies with their own rules, government and activities. Wittels says. Kept away from most forms of opportunity and suggestion for crime, and kept occupied at jobs which interested them, many of them might live their lives without going berserk.
 "At least," Dr. Moore says in the Post, "if such cases did go berserk they could harm only each other, and not innocent children."
 Dr. William Healy and Dr. Augusto F. Brouwer, after a long study of juvenile delinquents, handled at the Judge Baker Guidance Center in Boston, report in part:
 "The net results of all this (attempts at curing constitutional psychopathic inferiors) are so meager that once again we insist that society offers little, even for its own protection, by way of effective treatment for this

India Making Great Strides In Relieving Unfortunates

Leaves From a Correspondent's Life Note Book

By GEORGE TUCKER (For Hal Boyle)
 NEW YORK (AP)—In those fateful days of 1943 when the Libyan desert was a graveyard for military reputations, there was a British heavy ack-ack detachment stationed at nearby Wadi Tamet.
 It was my fortune to know its commander, a Colonel Haxworth, who had headed the anti-aircraft defenses of London in 1940 and had come now to help chase Rommel out of Africa.
 Haxworth, a pipe smoker, was a big man with a square face. He was the best rifle shot I ever saw. At a time when the Army was living on canned stew it was worth nothing that his table had plenty of wild desert turkey and gazelle.
 The bird Haxworth called a turkey was actually a bustard, an elongated Old World fowl. Gazelles are a form of antelope with small recurved horns and large liquid eyes. They resemble tiny deer.
 I had been in the desert for weeks and had seen nothing alive except men and dogs.
 It was at that wasteland for hundreds of miles there wasn't a single drop of water. Not a river, not a creek, nor a spring was to be found. And there was absolutely no cover.
 "How can they hide, and how can they live without water?" "Maybe they live on dew," Haxworth said. "But they are there and they can hide. I'll show you."
 Early next morning we got into a truck and, with the colonel's orderly driving, started off. We were moving at about 30 miles an hour and had traveled about ten miles when the colonel nudged me.
 "There's a bustard. Take him." I fired and missed, undershooting it by two feet. When I fired again it bounced into the air but settled down again, unharmed. After I had missed the third time Haxworth gently took the rifle and shot away its head.
 At 200 yards.
 Presently a band of gazelles jumped up ahead of us. When we drew within range we were traveling at 45 miles an hour. We singled out a buck and the colonel took him neatly with the second shot. In the next hour Haxworth killed four others, all bucks, and he wasted few shots.
 Then it was my turn. But when we jumped the next pair we had difficulty in overtaking them. The rocks and the depressions in the desert floor caused the car to bounce erratically, so that it was almost impossible to hood the sights on that fleeing beautiful animal. I can not remember how long this gazelle maintained—that heartbreaking speed of 45 miles an hour. I emptied the gun at him, but at the end of the chase it was still on its feet. He had stopped running because he couldn't go any further. He just stood there, about 25 yards away, looking at me.
 If I had not killed him then he would have died anyway. Gazelles never stop running until they break their hearts. Later, many were run down by soldiers in jeeps and captured, but they all class of cases. They certainly require long-time segregation in properly adapted colonies with experimental methods of re-educative therapy.

Voices of Men Who Made History Now on Records

By JAMES MARLOW
 WASHINGTON (AP)—If you were lucky enough to be around when the words were spoken, and had a recording machine handy, what voices of history would you want to put on wax for the future?
 "Columbia records has just come out with an album called 'I Can Hear It Now'—that covers what the radio picked up in the 13 years from 1932 to 1945. The five records take 45 minutes to play.
 Edward R. Murrow cuts in from time to time to pull the pieces together.
 But all the other voices are those of the men who helped make history between the depths of the great depression and the end of World War II, or had something to say about it.
 The first voice after Murrow's opening is Will Rogers, trying in 1932 to cheer America a bit with "We claim the distinction of being the only nation in the history of the world that went to the poorhouse in an automobile."
 Next comes Franklin D. Roosevelt, with his first inaugural in 1933, at which "The only thing we have to fear is fear itself."
 A lot of people and a lot of events are crowded into the five records:
 Senator Huey P. Long putting praying for civilization and the safety of the superfortress Enola Gay before it set out from Tinian Island with the first atomic bomb dropped on mankind; and the Japanese surrender.

 This is not a full list of the events and voices on the records but together they make a stirring story.
 Murrow worked with Fred W. Friendly in putting the album together. They say they worked for two years and have so much material left over they may put out more albums, on D-day, the New Deal, Munich.

Soap was a highly expensive item until 1800 when a French scientist discovered soda could be made from common salt and by research made soap available to common people.

What To Do For A Cold

At the first sign of a cold, you should obey three simple rules:
 1. Keep warm and get as much rest as possible.
 2. Drink lots of water and fruit juices.
 3. Take a CALOTAB.
 Calotabs are a thorough dependable laxative, intestinal antiseptic and diuretic. They clean out your entire intestinal tract and flush your kidneys, thereby ridding your system of poisonous toxins. They help nature throw off a cold.
 Remember! At the first sign of a bad cold—REST—LIQUIDS—CALOTABS. It's so simple. Follow label directions.

Eisenhower Had A Word For It

General Eisenhower, in his history of the war, "Crusades in Europe," describes a conversation he once had with a top Russian officer.

The general was unable to convince his Russian counterpart, who seemed thoroughly sold on government by dictation and had only contempt for free institutions.

Throughout his book, General Eisenhower speaks of certain almost unique qualities which the American soldier possessed.

It is not by chance that we have become the leader of the free nations of the world.

HOOVER FINDINGS by Peter Edson

WASHINGTON (AP)—At long last, something is apparently going to be done about the vast duplication of effort by U. S. Army Corps of Engineers and Department of Reclamation.

news behind the news

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary Marshall has never shown such discouragement over prospective solution of foreign problems, especially relations with Russia.

STALEMATE — The bitter and realistic fact is that the United States and Russia, as Mr. Marshall reluctantly admits, have reached a stalemate in which future negotiations seem useless.

LOAN — Poland wants a loan from the World Bank to develop her coal mines and increase production.

DANGER — Such a situation, as Mr. Marshall realizes, offers no hope for a final or even a temporary settlement of controversies involving Europe, Palestine and China.

STABILITY — "My own view is, and it is the view of my associates and advisers, that when we have achieved a little more of a feeling of security, when we have achieved particularly a little more economic stability in the world, these suspicions will be moderated."

Success Secrets by ELMER WHEELER

Have you "got rhythm" in your work? When I was a boy I spent one summer in a lumber camp.

I asked one of these old veterans what the secret was. "Well son," he said, "it's not that we've got so much more energy or strength than you have. But we've learned how to recover after each stroke. After you pull the saw through, let go, and let the other fellow pull it back. You'll do all right when you get the rhythm."

These German Youngsters Can Go to Blazes—And They Do

Since 1931, youngsters in Freising, Germany, have been playing fireman, with the approval and co-operation of the city's fire marshal. The marshal started the project with three boys. Now the junior fire fighters have their own uniforms and equipment, and four of the regular firemen are alumni of the youth fire brigade. At left, two of the youngest show their skill on a ladder. Below, they swiftly connect a hose and wet down a threatened shed. Right, they man an old-fashioned hand pump. (Photos by NEA-Acme Staff Correspondent Gerhard P. Seelig.)

The steer cost the Yoders, commercial stock raisers, only $175 last year. (NEA Telephoto.)

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service
Several of us dropped in recently at one of New York's the Old Knickerbocker Music Hall. One finds a great many interesting characters there. Prof. Curly Green would remind you of Monty Woolley. Years ago he wrote several songs with Billy Jerome. The professor told me that when George M. Cohan prepared his world-famous song, "Over There," he was the one who jotted it down.

The atmosphere of the Old Knickerbocker Music Hall is different from the average night club. The only thing we objected to was the checkered tablecloths, because we could not write our bridge hands on them. But the boys just spread out the white napkins and wrote their hands on them.

Here is a hand that came in for some interesting discussion as to whether it always pays to signal when you hold a high card. West opened the deuce of clubs, East won with the king and cashed the ace of clubs right now made the mistake of signaling with the nine of diamonds.

East continued with the jack of clubs and West trumped with the six of spades. Then he exited with the nine of spades.

Declarer realized that if either of the defenders was long in hearts, it would be West. So he cashed the balance of the spades and on the last spade West was in bad shape. He had discarded one heart, then he had to discard the five and six of diamonds in order to protect the hearts.

Declarer knew that West's signal showed the king of diamonds, so he did not bother to take the finesse. He simply cashed the ace of diamonds, and of course he king dropped. The queen of diamonds gave South his tenth trick.

D. Mills.

Dorcas Class to Have Christmas Party

The Dorcas Class of the Central Baptist Church will have a Christmas Party Thursday at 6:30 p. m. in the home of Mrs. Kate Hunter, 518 N. Starkweather.

The party will be a buffet supper. All members and members in service are urged to come. There will be no exchange of gifts, but a love offering for a missionary will be taken.

If you aren't sure fried chicken is done, cut through the thick leg muscle to the bone; if the meat cuts easily and there isn't any trace of red at the bone the chicken's well cooked.

Tests made at the Mellon Institute indicate that cutting, shaving or singeing do not make the hair grow faster or thicker.

Cranberry Twist Coffee Cake

Twists of sweet yeast dough bridge the cranberry filling of this coffee cake. Extra glamour is added by the drift of confectioners sugar icing.

Cranberry twist coffee cake is one of those appealing hot breads which are almost too attractive to eat. But just break away one of the lattice-like sections and taste the wonderful combination of tart cranberries and sweet yeast dough.

In spite of its intricate appearance, the coffee cake is easy to make and can be duplicated as often as the family demands. Even the end of the cranberry season need not put this recipe out of circulation, for canned whole cranberry sauces may be used as filling.

In food value, coffee cake is always in season. In its yeast dough base is enriched flour, a basic food which provides B-vitamins, iron, protein and food energy. Flour is so versatile and economical that it should be used generously.

Serve cranberry twist coffee cake as breakfast bread, mid-afternoon treat or supper dessert. It shapes up into some of the best eating you've had.

CRANBERRY TWIST COFFEE CAKE
2 packages yeast, compressed or dry granular
1/2 cup lukewarm water
1/4 cup milk
1/4 cup shortening
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1 cup sifted enriched flour (about)
Cranberry Filling

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk. Add shortening, sugar, and salt. Cool to lukewarm. Add two cups flour, beating well. Add softened yeast and beaten eggs. Mix well. Add remaining flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until smooth and satiny. Place in greased bowl, cover and let rise until doubled in bulk (about two hours). When dough is rising, make filling. When dough is light, punch down. Divide into two equal portions. Cover and let rest 10 minutes. Roll each portion into a rectangular sheet about 10 inches long and 15 inches wide. Cover half the sheet of dough with Cranberry Filling. Cut the other half of the sheet of dough into even number of strips three-fourths inch wide, cutting to the edge of the filling. Twist two adjoining strips together, and lay twisted over filling. Fasten ends of twisted strips by tucking them under the edge of coffee cake. Place on greased baking sheet and let rise until doubled in bulk (about one hour). Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Makes two coffee cakes.

CRANBERRY FILLING
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup water
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup water
2 teaspoons grated orange rind

Cook cranberries in water until the skins burst. Mix sugar and cornstarch. Add to cranberries and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and add orange rind. Mix thoroughly. Cool before using.

Merten HD Club Has Yule Party, Installs Leaders

Merten Home Demonstration Club met at 2 p. m. yesterday in the home of Mrs. D. A. Caldwell for the installation of 1948 officers and annual Christmas party.

Mrs. V. Smith was in charge of the entertainment. The Christmas devotional was given by Mrs. S. E. Waters, who read from the second chapter of St. Luke.

Mrs. C. A. Jones sang "Star of the East," accompanied by Mrs. C. L. Cudney. Groups were formed to play charades and Mrs. Clyde Edmundson's group, representing "Growing Santa's Beard" won first prize.

After a short business session conducted by Mrs. H. H. Threault, Mrs. W. E. Melton, vice president of District I, installed the following officers and committee chairmen:

Mrs. Cudney, president; Mrs. A. M. Nash, vice president; Mrs. C. A. Jones, secretary; Mrs. J. B. Mitchell, treasurer; Mrs. C. A. Edmundson, delegate; Mrs. John Brandon, alternate delegate; Mrs. Threault, reporter; Mrs. D. A. Rife, education; and expansion; Mrs. V. Smith, yearbook; Mrs. Caldwell, yard demonstrator; Mrs. V. S. Day, parliamentarian; Mrs. S. E. Waters, living room demonstrator; and Mrs. Frank Bailey, community service.

A gift from the club was presented to Mrs. Threault, retiring president, and also to Mrs. Rife, who was selected as the year's outstanding member.

Etta Frances Hancy, club's adopted daughter and Mrs. Melton also were presented gifts.

Refreshments were served to the above mentioned and Mrs. A. Swafford, Mrs. W. E. Coop, Sammy Waters, Mrs. Re Don Cudney, Kinds Day and Eddie Caldwell.

Doctor Predicts Revolt Over Plan

BOSTON—(AP)—A noted physician predicted a revolt in the medical profession against the American Medical Association's plan to raise $3,500,000 to fight President Truman's proposed national health insurance program.

Dr. Channing Frothingham, twice president of the Massachusetts Medical Society and chairman of the Committee for the Nation's Health, contended the AMA's House of Delegates, which announced a $25 levy on doctors, is not representative of the association's 140,000 members.

Its action, he said, "is likely to precipitate a grass roots rebellion among the ranks of American doctors."

Dr. Frothingham said the Committee for the Nation's Health,

In Birmingham Palace Road she stepped it—and a double-decker bus squelched over a pound of butter, a pound of tea, a pineapple and a dozen eggs.

which he described as a national nonpartisan organization of doctors and laymen, will "wholeheartedly support the administration's proposals for a sound, workable, national health insurance program."
