NEW YORK (AP) — Eastman Kodak Co. will pay $8 million and sink tens of millions more into its Rochester manufacturing plant to settle allegations it mishandled hazardous wastes.

The Environmental Protection Agency had found that sewer lines at the plant, many of them more than 40 years old, were deteriorating and may have been leaking such wastes as methylene chloride, xylene and toluene.

The 2,200-acre complex employs more than 20,000 people in 400 buildings. Among other things, it makes photographic products and food supplements.

Under the agreement, announced Friday, Kodak must upgrade 31 miles of sewers and correct various environmental violations.

The EPA said the settlement will improve the water in the Genesee River and the air in northwestern New York. Kodak has been at the site for 104 years.

"The environmental technology just wasn't available in the '30s, '40s, '50s and '60s," Kodak spokesman Charlie Smith said.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A man who prosecutors say used incest and abuse to hold iron-fisted control over three generations of his family was convicted of ordering his son-in-law's murder.

"We got him," Velva Beeson, aunt of victim Joel Good, said after a murder verdict was returned Thursday against Eddie Lee Sexton Sr.

She and other relatives who sat through the weeklong trial wore buttons showing a photograph of the slain man.

Defendant doesn't want female judge

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - A capital murder defendant who says he doesn't believe that women should be allowed to hold positions of authority will ask a female judge to step down from presiding at his trial.

Ricky Eugene Kerr, 35, was to appear in court today to tell District Judge Sharon MacRae he believes she has no right to be a judge.

Defense lawyer Michael Granados filed a motion Thursday seeking to have the judge removed from the based solely because of her gender.

"The defendant holds and espouses long-standing, notorious views based upon moral and religious grounds

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) - Kuwaiti leaders met in an emergency session today after Saddam Hussein reportedly mobilized elite Iraqi troops along the border.

A leading Iraqi dissident said the move followed the suppression of an uprising in the Iraqi armed forces against Saddam.

Reports from the Iraq-Kuwait border, however, did not suggest a buildup. "We don't have any information about massing troops at the border," said Besselin Kostov, a spokesman for the U.N. observer mission at the border.

Kuwait's Cabinet held an emergency session today, the Muslim sabbath, to discuss the situation.

The ambassadors of the five permanent Security Council members were summoned to the Foreign Ministry to discuss the "seriousness" of the situation, KUNA said.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) - An overcrowded wooden boat believed to be carrying illegal immigrants to Puerto Rico caught fire and sank today off the Dominican Republic. Four people died and 26 were missing.

The boat appeared to be a "yola," a sailing vessel commonly used to ferry people illegally to Puerto Rico, said Christopher Haley, a Coast Guard spokesman in San Juan.

The Guard said all 117 aboard the 38-foot wooden boat that sank off Point Nisibon this morning were Dominicans.

It's cattle shipping day in Miami

MIAMI - It was 53 degrees and rain clouds hung in the east keeping the sun from rising today as Jim Smith, Susan Holman and Ken Gill gathered cattle for Bill Stockstill in Roberts County.

Stockstill was shipping 260 head today from shipping pens just south of Miami to Bar G Feedyard in Hereford.

"These cattle came from Mexico," Stockstill said, as he drove the feed wagon across the pasture leading the herd to the shipping pens like a pied piper. "They have some good cattle. They have some sorry cattle. Just like we have good cattle and sorry cattle."

Stockstill indicated he had sold about half the cattle and would retain ownership of the rest and feed them out, depending upon what the cattle market does.

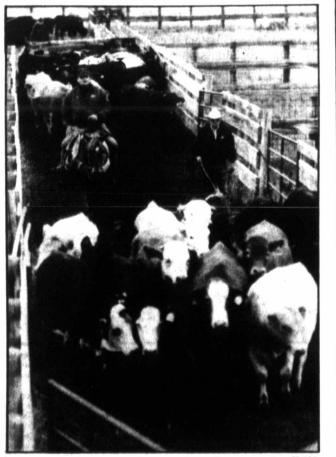

The price of cattle going into feedlots were a dollar to two dollars lower this week across the country, reflecting lower fed cattle prices, according to Jim Gill, economist with the Texas Cattle Feeders Association in Amarillo.

Gill said the price drop of cattle coming out of the feedlots for slaughter was working its way back through the production chain to the stocker operator and cowcalf producer.

Medium and large frame No.1 feeder cattle in San Angelo Thursday were 200-300 lb., $100.00-$102.00; 300-400 lb., $88.00-$93.00; 400-500 lb., $78.00-$89.00; 500-600 lb., $68.00-$76.00, $80.00-$85.00; 600-700 lb., $66.00-$72.00; 700-800 lb., $64.00-$70.00.

Texas Panhandle and western Oklahoma feedlots confirmed 17,900 head sold Thursday with trade fairly active in the Panhandle area. Slaughter steers and heifers prices were steady.

Feedlots reported good interest from buyers. Sales were reported on 11,200 slaughter steers and 6,700 heifers, with 88,300 head confirmed for the week through Thursday which includes 18,300 head of formulated cattle and 2,800 contracts to be shipped this week. Slaughter steers, mixed select and choice 2-3 1150-1250 lbs., were $65.50 per cwt.

Ken Gill, on horseback, and Bill Stockstill move cattle down the alley of loading pens in southern Roberts County early today. Stockstill's cattle were being loaded on trucks and shipped to a Hereford feedyard. (Pampa News photo by David Bowser) that women must respect and obey men and cannot judge, direct or even address men without permission, Granados wrote in his court motion. "Defendant further believes that no woman may hold a position of authority." Kerr is charged with capital murder in the Aug. 31 shooting deaths of his landlord and her son. Elizabeth "Betty Jean" McDaniel, 62, and Garry Lawrence Barbier, 42, were killed after Kerr was served with an eviction notice and his water shut off at a home he was renting from Mrs. McDaniel.

The defense lawyer says he wants Kerr tried in another court because it would be impossible for MacRae to be fair once she learns how Kerr feels about women.

"Judge MacRae holds diametrically opposing views on women in professions and has had to overcome views such as defendant's at all stages of her career," Granados said in the motion.

District Attorney Steve Hilbig and prosecutor Mark Luitjen ridiculed the motion.

"I can't believe Mr. Granados filed it," Hilbig said. "I think we should treat it with all the time it deserves, however long it takes to check the box "denied."

After reading the motion, the judge said it is improper for a judge to comment on a pending case.

But Rosa Cabezas-Gil, president of the Bexar County Women's Bar Association, didn't hold back her comment. She laughed, but said she knew there still are men out there who believe women have no place in the work

United Way drive hits 35% of goal

Collections for the current Pampa United Way drive totaled $104,857.37 after Thursday's check-in meeting at the Pampa Community Building.

United Way Executive Administrator Katrina Bigham said that represents 35 percent of the $300,000 goal set for this year's fund-raising campaign.

Again taking the prize for the most money reported was Hoechst Celanese Chemical Group's Pampa Plant. Coming in second was Coronado Hospital. Door prize went to Bob Smith.

Bigham said the total fell approximately $45,000 short of the goal of $150,000 set for the third checkin meeting, the halfway point of the drive. She earlier had challenged United Way volunteer campaign workers to bring in $50,000 each week of the sixweek drive.

She encouraged volunteers to work their cards before next week's check-in. "We just need everybody's help," she said.

After Thursday's check-in, totals collected for each division were: Major Firms, $47,279; Professional, $9,951; Public, $13,384; Special Gifts, $10,750; Individual, $8,789; Matching Funds, $13,221; and Commercial, $1,483.

Bigham said the Commercial division "is slow coming in this year," again encouraging volunteers to get out and work their cards. She also noted that a number of the major firms still have not reported the complete results from their drives.

She reminded residents who are thinking about making contributions to remember that the United Way campaign furnishes one major fund-raising campaign opportunity for donations instead of deal-ing with 16 fund drives by the agencies receiving funding from United Way.

WASHINGTON (AP) - A proposal to create the largest wilderness area outside of Alaska has cleared the House but is running against the clock in the Senate where opponents threaten to delay or block it.

Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine said Thursday he was prepared to keep the Senate in session until the California desert protection legislation can come up for a vote – even this weekend, if necessary.

The House passed the bill at 2:09 a.m. today by a voice vote after its strongest critics - the Republican lawmakers from the desert region - agreed not to press for a rollcall vote. Earlier in the week, the same lawmakers had forced 12 roll-calls, most of them on procedural matters, sponsor, accused opponents of holding the bill to stall the bill for nearly six hours.

'Obviously we have some problems, but those problems aren't going to be resolved by a vote this evening," Rep. Jerry Lewis, R-Calif., told his colleagues. Lewis has led opposition to the legislation all year, but knew he Republican Rep. Michael Huffington. couldn't stop it from getting to the Senate.

The bill would create 6.6 million acres of federally protected desert wilderness and federal parkland in the southeastern corner of California. Within the protected areas would be two new national parks at Death Valley and Joshua Tree and a federal preserve under the National Park Service in the East Mojave region.

The legislation has had wide support in both the House and Senate. A procedural move setting up the House's final voice vote cleared 242-140.

But the bill, which could become the only major environmental bill to emerge from the 103rd Congress, also Protection as monuments. has been caught up in election year politics.

Recently, Sen. Dianne Feinstein, D-Calif., its chief next month's election on an issue that is popular across much of her state.

Shot fired at anti-abortion demonstrator

By LESLIE ZGANJAR Associated Press Writer

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) - First there was an argument between an anti-abortion demonstrator and a man picking up his wife from a clinic. Then there was a scuffle and a shot was fired - but not by a protester.

Ernest Robertson Jr. was charged with attempted murder Thursday for allegedly firing one shot at a demonstrator who had yelled "You're killing your baby" at him and his wife.

"I said I felt sorry for him. That set him off," said the protester, Richard Mahoney, who was not hurt. "He swung at me. Then he went and got his gun and started shooting at me.'

Robertson, 22, was jailed in lieu of $75,000 bond. He faces a maximum 50 years in prison if convicted. No trial date was set.

The incident came one day after Paul Hill, who is charged with killing an abortion doctor and an escort outside a Pensacola, Fla., abortion clinic, was convicted in the first trial using a new law guaranteeing access to clinics.

The Freedom of Access to Clinic Entrances Act took effect in May. It was prompted by the killing of abortion doctor David Gunn as he arrived at a Pensacola clinic and increasingly volatile demonstrations at clinics nationwide.

Environmentalists have argued for years that the desert area needs to be protected from creeping urbanization, commercial development, mining and off-road vehicle users. The wilderness areas would continue to allow grazing and limited mining activities.

Under the legislation the Joshua Tree and Death Valley monuments would be expanded to 2.8 million acres and the East Mojave area would come under the protection of the National Park Service, although only as a preserve where hunting would be allowed. About 1.3 million acres of the parkland already are under Park Service

East Mojave would become a national park, but the House refused to a hunting ban. In addition, some 3.75 hostage" to deprive her of a legislative victory prior to million acres of wilderness would be scattered across the vast desert area that stretches across the southeastern region of California.

Critics, including the lawmakers representing the Agriculture Department.

desert, have argue that the wilderness designation would deprive residents of the region use of their land. It's "the largest government heist of land in the lower 48 states," complained Rep. David Dreier, R-Calif.

Also late Thursday and early today, Congress approved and sent to President Clinton for his signature legislation to:

- Raise the threshold for the so-called "nanny tax." Household employers, starting this tax year, will have to pay Social Security and Medicare taxes on any worker earning at least $1,000 a year, up from the current $50 a quarter. Teenage baby sitters would be exempt.

Streamline the bankruptcy process. The bill will Feinstein originally had hoped the 1.5 million-acre allow individuals to avoid selling their assets by working out payment plans. It also requires parents to continue paying child support even after declaring bankruptcy.

Bullock rests from campaign

AUSTIN (AP) – After Republican challenger Tex Lezar raised questions about Democratic Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock's health, the 65-year-old incumbent responded by canceling atl campaign events and vowing to ignore Lezar through the November election.

"I am hereby officially ignoring my opponent for the rest of the campaign. No joint appearances, no debates, no nothing," said Bullock, who is recovering from heart bypass surgery on Sept. 16.

"I am also canceling all campaign events between now and November. I will follow my doctors' orders and rest so that I fully recuperate."

Lezar responded, "Bob Bullock must be seriously ill for him to refuse to face the voters of Texas. The people of Texas have a right to know if he is physically incapacitated. I urge (the release of) ... his full medical records so the public will know his true physical condition." Bullock's campaign said no medical records will be released. Although Bullock won't be seen stumping across the state, he will be all over the television screen. Bullock already is running his third ad and will air at least two more before the election, according to campaign spokesman Jim Warren.

"You'll see him," said Warren, adding that Bullock may air as many as four new ads.

The furor began Wednesday after The Associated Press reported that Bullock was planning to have state Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, stand in for him in a debate with Lezar that was scheduled to be taped by KERA-TV in Dallas on Oct. 17. Lezar said the substitution raised questions about Bullock's ability to serve and called on him to turn over his health records.

"If he is physically unable to debate, then he must be physically unable to do any campaigning or to perform the job as lieutenant governor," Lezar said.

revoked because of dirty conditions. Mahoney was demonstrating with three others when he approached Robertson and his wife. Mahoney and Robertson exchanged words and began pushing and shoving each other, Kelly said.

"Mahoney was saying, 'You're killing your baby." said clinic owner L.T. Brinkley.

Robertson got a 9 millimeter pistol from his car and fired one shot at Mahoney before the gun jammed, Kelly said. Robertson and his wife drove away, and Robertson surrendered an hour later.

Nine die in house fire

DEVILS LAKE, N.D. (AP) - A house fire early today killed nine people believed to be members of the same family, authorities said.

"All the victims were overcome by smoke," said Fire Chief William Oehlke said.

Police Chief Bruce Kemmet said the victims were believed to be members of the same family, though firefighters were trying to verify their names.

Most people take breathing for granted. But, for the thousands of Americans who suffer from breathing problems, every breath is a major accomplishment. Those who suffer from breathing problems include:

-People with chronic lung problems, such as asthma, bronchitis, and emphysema. -Heart attack and accident victims.

-Premature infants.

-People with cystic fibrosis, lung cancer, AIDS, or TB.

-Those who suffer from sleep disorders.

In each case, the patients are most likely to receive treatment from one of the more than 100,000 respiratory care practitioners who:

-Evaluate, treat, and care for patients with breathing disorders.

The Dallas Morning News on defensive driving:

Crime should not pay. But it does for many bad Texas drivers. Texas Insurance Commissioner J. Robert Hunter is right to want to stop it.

Here's how bad driving may have the perverse effect of saving a Texan money by significantly lowering the cost of his automobile insurance:

A driver (we'll call him Joe Leadfoot) is ticketed for speeding. He has three choices: pay the fine, appeal the ticket or take a state-approved defensive driving course.

If he opts for the course, Mr. Leadfoot will not have to pay the fine. And he will have the infraction dropped from his driving record. Which means that his insurer will not know about it. Which means that his automobile insurance rates will not rise.

Furthermore, because Mr. Leadfoot has taken the driving course, his insurer is obligated by Texas law to give him a 10 percent discount on his collision, liability, medical and personal injury coverage.

Fair? Right? Not. ..

Mr. Hunter says eliminating the discount for bad drivers would reduce "overall base rates" by 1.2 percent. It would lower prices for good drivers while "raising prices 10 percent for those people who take defensive driving to dismiss a ticket.'

Good idea, Mr. Hunter. Go for it. This distortion of the insurance market, this bizarre reward for bad driving should cease. The Legislature should support Mr. Hunter. Mr. Leadfoot and others like him should know that speeding does not pay.

Austin American-Statesman on No-pass, No-play:

Public schools have always been about more than the three Rs. Schools provide an environment in which social and academic benefits constantly overlap.

Oftentimes, it's the fun and personal rewards of extracurricular activities that keep students interested in attending school.

Critics of the state's no-pass, no-play law say that's a reality that is lost in the current policy. As a result, they fear that some students who fail to meet eligibility requirements to participate say can you see? Of course

No, madam, I will not wipe that smile off my face. After all, nobody has been killed - though that might not go on forever. I mean, every now and then people get killed in grand opera, so maybe it'll happen in opera bouffe.

President Clinton faces a few problems. The first is of course the decompression of rhetoric. George Bush had that problem not very long ago. In the course of describing to the world the horror of Saddam Hussein, he let drop that doing business with him was on the order of doing business with Hitler. That is what we call, in the rhetoric business, going all the way.

It is a postulate in the grammar of Rhetoric that you CANNOT do business with Hitler, which means that any effort to do this is misguided and bound to fail

Now Clinton didn't use the H-word in speaking of Haitian Gen. Raoul Cedras, but it was the only word he didn't use. Someone reported that White House press secretary Dee Dee Myers was asked, after one press conference at which the heat on Cedras burned at 10,000 degrees Centigrade, why the boss hadn't referred to Cedras' Hitlerism. She reportedly blushed and said that to be "like" Hitler simply had to mean that the person you were describing had at least "a teensy bitsy bit of planes landed that were already in flight! power."

Hitler had his Panzer divisions, and Saddam's Carter sounded from indoors. army had swept into Kuwait, was threatening Saudi Arabia, and had a half-million men up front, each one of them a world-class athlete with machine-gun barrels growing out of their fingertips. The questioner let it go.

The Son of Sam was everything awful a human being could be, but to have called him a "Hitler" when his entire armory consisted of one razor blade would have been too much. The Haitian military is made up of two jeeps and one Boston every member, so far as records are kept, of the whaler and that, as Ms. Myers put it, "de-Nazified General Cedras.

But certainly the general would have qualified if tive to a general amnesty? he had been a nuclear power. So the problem got tougher and tougher that Sunday when Jimmy Carter just hung in there and sent Colin Powell and Sam Nunn back from time to time to try to pacify the White House.

The whole point, of course, was to put an end to Cedras right there and then, before the American one who had raped all the women, slain all the children, murdered all the men, pillaged all the resources? What would happen to him? Hang him!

Vengeance is mine, saith the Lord, and Brother Colin and Brother Sam lowered their heads just a little.

But what about all Cedras' confederates? After all, one Hitlerite general, or, more exactly, Hitlerite-manque general can rape only so many women in 24 months; there have to have been others, many others, engaged in such crimes?

Oh, yes, said Jimmy Carter, moisture visible in one eye. Yes, "everybody" done it. Everybody?

Yes. Every member of the Haitian army, and Haitian civil service, was guilty of one larceny, or one rape, or one murder. So what was the alterna-

When - it was getting late that Sunday - the message reached the White House, put exactly that way, the president decided he would live up to the highest standards of his office.

Quick notice was given to the standby Marine Band, the doors of the portico overlooking the Rose Garden were opened, and the president declared ... a great victory for democracy, a tribute to the leadership of our armed services, to the high ideals and training of our fighting troops, and to the patient diplomatic skills of the team I sent over there to - to ...

Data on the effect of the no-pass, no-play law - which requires students to make passing grades to be eligible for sports, band and other extracurricular activities - is inconclusive. Overall, it appears that the law is working. But given the concern from a cross section of educators and others that the policy may be driving students at risk of failing out of school, it is time to consider changes to the decade-old policy. ...

El Paso Times on Haiti:

Looting, rioting and violence will not cease in Haiti until Lt. Gen. Raoul Cedras and his military junta leave the country.

As long as they remain, those who helped them control the country through a siege of terror will continue brutalizing panicked citizens. Cedras and his people must not be allowed to stay a day after Oct. 15, the deadline for them to step down from power. They must go to any country that will admit them, even if U.S. forces are used to escort them out. ...

In 1963, President Kennedy signed the documents of ratification for a nuclear test ban treaty with Britain and the Soviet Union.

It's never too late for Leonard

Leonard Japp was a so-so shoe salesman in Chicago, but he had a wife who could really cook.

Back in 1927, cooking ware more plain than fancy, but Mrs. Japp had a knack for making potato chips that were thinner and lighter and stayed crunchier longer than anybody's.

So, Mr. Japp put $5 down on a used truck and $20 into larger utensils, and he began selling Mrs. Japp's potato chips to individuals. Then, he sold them to restaurants and grocery stores.

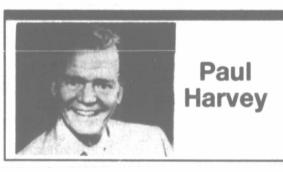

Then came the depression. Potato chips were a luxury few could afford.

So Leonard Japp drove a truck, washed windows and took whatever other work he could find for the duration.

One day, Leonard Japp had a hunch on a longshot horse and borrowed $10 from a friend. His horse came in at 100 to 1.

With those winnings, he had enough to make a fresh start in the potato-chip business.

In 1930, the continuous fryer was developed and production quantities could be vastly expanded, so

Mrs. Japp's potato chips were on their way to becoming a big business.

Then came Pearl Harbor. The word "jap" became an anathema. And though the Japp family name was spelled with two p's, it was still unacceptable in the marketplace. The product's name was first shortened to "Mrs. J's Potato Chips." Then, it was changed to just "Jays Potato Chips."

But he and his dad missed running their business. They never went to a grocery store without checking out snack foods and comparing brands and prices.

The Japp family had grieved to see their company get less attention and less promotion as it languished in the hands of an impersonal conglomerate.

One day, they heard Borden might be willing to sell Jays Potato Chips, and they were determine to make it a family business again. Their offer was accepted.

And Leonard Japp is delighted to have his family business back where it belongs.

If his son and grandson tend to corporate operations, it's the senior Leonard Japp, remaining much involved as they start the family business all over again, who is having the most fun. Now, says wouldn't be permitted to take a congressman to only between the political parties but also between confidence in Congress," Perot lectured at a reform lunch could funnel $5,000 into his campaign through a political action committee.

WASHINGTON - This was supposed to be the reform Congress, the one that would clean up the act, streamline the system, loosen the grip of big money on politics, list lobbyists and limit their favors. About all that's left of that agenda is lobbying, the easiest target of all.

"It's clearer than ever that Americans still want to seniority. change the way Washington works," President Clinton said. "And they should."

"Reform" has been the buzzword since this Congress began, with more than 20 percent of its members new to the Capitol. It had helped to elect them after a season of institutional scandals and individual ethics cases.

"Now we run the risk that this Congress will adjourn being known as the no-reforms Congress, except for a few largely cosmetic actions," Sen. David Boren, one of the Democrats leaving after this session, said when a campaign finance bill was blocked by Senate Republicans.

What reform is, after all, depends on who is defining it. Sen. Bob Dole, the Republican leader, said the campaign finance bill was for spending restraints and campaign subsidies that would have stacked the deck for the Democratic majorities.

"It's only human nature to try to hold on to what you do not want to give up and, in all candor, if Republicans controlled Congress, we would probably be doing the same thing," Dole said.

That's about what happened to the reform move-

Even that comes with a quirk: The lobbyist who ment when it collided with competing interests, not the House and Senate, and between generations, as hearing early in 1993. "The White House must do newcomers grasped for the powers guarded by the same.'

> Even committee interests got involved as when Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., said he was against an internal reform proposal because it would have done away with the Joint Committee on the Library, where he is vice chairman and where his father served as a congressman in the 1920s. More substantively, that measure sought two-year appropriations bills, and another Democrat, Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, wasn't going to let his Appropriations Committee yield that much power. The proposal to streamline operations and cut payrolls foundered, and attempts to revive it were locked in the waning days of the session.

One vestige that may survive is a politically popular provision requiring Congress to comply with workplace safety, job discrimination, wage and hour rules, along with a half-dozen other laws governing private employers.

"That's just common sense, and it's only fair," Clinton said, on a point that has been a political issue since the 1992 campaign. That's when the inside reform effort began; Congress voted unanimously to set up bipartisan panel on reorganization. but in our posturing."

Nobody was arguing so soon after episodes like the overdraft checks drawn on the old House bank, now abolished. Nor was there much argument about reform after the election of 110 House newcomers, and the 19 percent vote Ross Perot got for president.

"You must eliminate all of the perks and practices that have caused the American people to lose

That way, the reformers' theory went, sagging confidence could be revived as the voters saw Congress dealing with its flaws and the dollar-hungry campaign process.

But the campaign finance bill was hung up for a year in a dispute between the branches, since House Democrats wanted to keep the political action committee funding that helps them run. By the time the Democrats settled that, the calendar was almost out, and there wasn't enough backing to come up with the 60 votes to get the bill past Republican foes in the Senate. So much for that reform.

That leaves the lobbyist bill, which Clinton said will go a long way toward taking the government out of the hands of the influence industry" by forbidding gifts and favors and requiring disclosure of who they work for and what they're paid, beginning in 1996. That's up to the Senate; the House has passed it.

Clinton called it tough. Rep. Bob Michel, the retiring House Republican leader, called it self-flagellation.

"Our faults," Michel said, "lie not in our period

DEAR ABBY: Recently, my husband and I moved to my husband's homeland to be with his mother who has been diagnosed with emphysema and deteriorating lungs. Last March, the doctor's prognosis was that she would die within a matter of months. We decided to be with her and the family in this time of crisis.

oxygen as often as she should. She is constantly wheezing and short of breath. After many years of working, her doctor told her to quit her job, so now she's home all day, and all she talks about is dying. Abby, if she is so worried about dying, why is she still smoking?

band and I would like her to be around when we have children. I feel like I'm hitting my head against a brick wall whenever I try to talk to her and give her words of encouragement. She refuses to go to another doctor for a second opinion.

Abby, what can the family and I do to help her see the light? Hopefully if she reads this letter in the paper, she will understand what we are going through.

CONCERNED DAUGHTER-IN-LAW

DEAR CONCERNED DAUGHTER-IN-LAW: Your mother-in-law has probably not stop smoking because she is hopelessly addicted to cigarettes and feels that because she is terminal, it's useless to fight a battle she has been told she will lose soon anyway. Smoking is an addiction — not a character flaw.

Your suggestion that she seek a second opinion was excellent. No one should accept a death sentence without seeking a second opinion or even a third. Your husband and the other members of the family should schedule an appointment for "Mom," and insist that she keep it.

Our problem is that she is still smoking cigarettes and is not using her

Community Bible Study: common focus draws multi-denominational group

By VALERIA GODINES Corpus Christi Caller-Times

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas --- At a Community Bible Study meeting on a Thursday night, a group of women from various denominations and backgrounds sat around a table with study questions in hand.

They exchanged pleasantries and offered support to each other in the form of a squeeze of an arm or a pat on a hand.

This atmosphere --- intense study, friendship and support - is what members say drew them to join the international interdenominational and educational organization.

it is for the community, and it is for anybody who wants to participate in Bible study," said Nancy Mapes, a teaching director.

Members say the Community Bible Study classes have wide appeal because they focus on the Bible, not a specific church. The classes in the Corpus Christi area have about 200 members from 64 churches. The churches represented in local classes include: Baptist, Methodist, Episcopal, Presbyterian, Roman Catholic, Church of Christ, Assembly of God, Lutheran, Disciples of Christ, Evangelical Free Church, Pentecostal, nondenominational and interdenominational.

"It's a different type of study," said Virginia Freeman, group Thursday night at the Gateway Baptist Church.

GROOM - Groom may be without leading rusher Seth Ritter when the Tigers host Booker tonight in the annual homecoming game. Ritter, a 145-pound senior, suffered a broken thumb in Groom's 31-0 loss to Kress last Friday.

Ritter will undergo a final medical exam to see if he will be able to play, according to Groom head coach Steve Lott. Ritter has rushed for 620 yards and six touchdowns.

Two other Groom starters, Bart Britten and Tye Lambert, will be back in action tonight after being sidelined last week. Britten had a sprained ankle and Lambert had a hyperextended knee.

Tonight's game is also a District 1-1A opener for both teams.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

MIAMI (AP) - Florida State coach Bobby Bowden vividly remembers the first time Charlie Ward faced the Miami Hurricanes.

"He got sacked four times in the first half," Bowden said.

Such is the challenge of playing quarterback in the Florida State-Miami game. Few college football assignments carry a higher profile.

The teams renew their rivalry Saturday night in the Orange Bowl. The third-ranked Seminoles are 4-0; No. 13 Miami is 3-1.

In each of the past two years, the game's winning quarterback has gone on to the Heisman Trophy. It was Ward in 1993 and Miami's Gino Torretta in 1992.

The impact can be just as dramatic for the losing guarterback. After Florida State beat Miami 28-10 last year, Hurricanes quarterback Frank Costa lost his starting job for the rest of the season.

"I have a lot of bad memories about last year's game," Costa said. "I took a lot of blame for that loss, and a lot of people looked down on me after that game. I'm not going to complain. It goes with the position."

Which means Ward's successor, Dan Kanell, faces plenty of pressure too. This will be the junior's first start against the Hurricanes.

"Usually when you go into Miami to play for the first time, there's another element of learning that goes on," Bowden said. "It's like going to the big leagues from the minors, and suddenly you're hitting a fastball at 90 mph instead of 80 mph.

"Danny is going to go through another learning process in this game."

Kanell, who grew up 45 minutes from the Orange Bowl in Fort Lauderdale, anticipates a slow start against the speedy Hurricanes.

"The important thing is to keep my composure, because things might not go so hot the first series," he said. "We'll make adjustments as quickly as we can.'

No one can quarrel with Kanell's results thus far. He has thrown for 1,179 yards and nine touchdowns, and Florida State leads the nation in pass

BC goes for another upset

BOSTON (AP) - Exuberant Boston College fans celebrated David Gordon's field goal that shook up college football by tearing down a goalpost and delivering it to his apartment.

Nearly 11 months later, the fever is still high as the Eagles try for another upset of Notre Dame on Saturday.

There is a huge demand for tickets to the sold-out game. Priced at $10 for students and $25 for everyone else, lastminute shoppers should be prepared to pay far more.

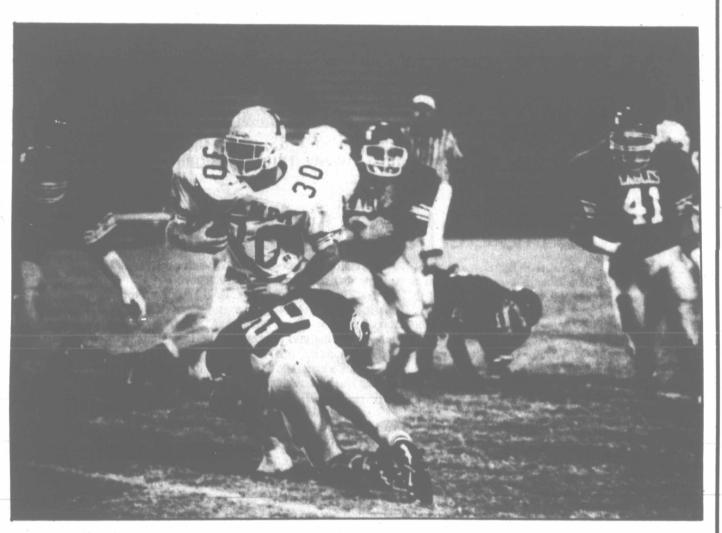

BC coach Dan Henning said he got a phone call seeking two tickets from someone who "would hire a private plane and fly from Denver, Colo., to Boston, Mass., for the game.

All because Gordon kicked a last-play, 41-yard field goal at Notre Dame Stadium last Nov. 20. It gave the Eagles a 41-39 win, ruined the Fighting Irish's perfect season and dashed their national title hopes.

Notre Dame fell from first to fourth in the rankings. And a goalpost 780 miles away fell to the ground and resurfaced at the hero's home.

As for Notre Dame coach Lou Holtz, "I really can't remember" what he did after the game.

This time, the Eagles have the full house on their side in expanded Alumni Stadium, which has 12,500 new seats

ing. "Things have gone pretty smoothly so far," Kanell said.

"He's a very accurate thrower with a pro-type game," Miami coach Dennis Erickson said. "I'm sure when he's done playing, he'll be a very high draft choice."

Costa has thrown for 988 yards and eight touchdowns, and his statistical rating is slightly higher than Kanell's. But when the Hurricanes lost to Washington on Sept. 24, Costa's many critics resurfaced.

Some 450 miles away in Tallahassee, even Kanell noticed the bashing.

"The media down there is pretty rough," Kanell said. "You can't put the blame on one person, That's not real fair. He's doing the best he can."

But to detractors, it matters not that Miami won last year at Boston College and Colorado - both ranked teams — with Costa at quarterback. They contend he can't win the big game.

"With a year under his belt now, he has the tools, the arm, the head and the body to be another outstanding Miami quarterback," Bowden said.

A loss would stamp Costa as the Hurricanes' first bust at quarterback since the 1970s. A victory, on the other hand, would bolster his image — and his self-image.

"If we win, that will erase a lot of what happened last year," Costa said. "I'll be able to deal with last year a lot better because I'll always be able to say I beat Florida State."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former professional baseball player Bill Tuttle says he is lucky to be alive after 40 years of chewing tobacco left him with a malignant tumor in his mouth.

"I was one of the lucky ones that had this cancer and survived it," said Tuttle, who picked up the habit in the early 1950s when he started with the Detroit Tigers. "After 40 years, it had caused cancer. Most of the time it don't take that long."

Last year, he was diagnosed with oral cancer and underwent a 13-hour operation to remove the golfball-size tumor in his mouth. Despite subsequent reconstructive surgery, Tuttle's face remains disfigured. He hopes the swelling in his gums will go down so his dentist can fit him with false teeth.

Tuttle told his story Thursday at a press conference with Hall of Famers Henry Aaron and Mickey Mantle and player and broadcaster Joe Garagiola, who announced a national campaign against smokeless tobacco.

The baseball greats said they hope to counter the familiar and powerful image of baseball players who chew tobacco - an image they said threatens young people who look up to sports heroes and often try to emulate them.

Garagiola said the choice between smoking and smokeless tobacco is like "a guy going to the electric chair and you say to him, 'Do you want AC or DC?' I mean, you're going to get it in the end. It's terrible, tobacco is terrible.

U.S. Surgeon General Joycelyn Elders accused the tobacco industry of targeting young people by taking advantage of the association with professional athletes.

"If we don't reverse this trend, we can assure you that, in 20 to 30 years, we will see an epidemic of oral cancer," Elders said.

and a capacity of 44,500. But they are just 1-2 and struggling offensively. Notre Dame is 4-1 and ranked eighth. Another upset is even more improbable. Boston College tight end Pete Mitchell doesn't understand that thinking. "The win last year put our program in the limelight and people should expect us to win games like this," he said. The Eagles haven't had many games like this. In fact, they've never played Notre Dame on their campus.

"Let me put to rest right now (that) this is just not another game," Henning said. "This is a big game. Anybody that plays against Notre Dame or has in the last 65 years has to feel they're playing a game against a legendary, mythological program and that's the way it is. That's the way it will always be.'

Henning's hyperbole is matched by Holtz's understatement. To Holtz, one of the biggest games in Boston College history is just another obstacle in a season filled with them.

"If we hope to entertain any chance to finish very high in the country, every game is important to us," Holtz said. "Everybody expects BC to duplicate the feat they did last year by beating us and our football team will treat it as another game.'

He claims there's no added incentive to beat a team that destroyed the hopes of Notre Dame fans from coast to coast and put a blemish on the school's rich football tradition.

Authorities arrest fifth person in Texas kidnapping

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) – A fifth man arrest-ed in the kidnapping of slain Texas teenager Lisa to Texas to buy $5,000 of marijuana and that Dr. Frank J. Peretti, associate medical examiner Rene was being held at an undisclosed location.

arrested Thursday in Pine Bluff on a warrant issued in Texas for conspiracy to commit kidnapping, according to FBI Agent Robert Satkowski.

Holloway appeared before U.S. Magistrate John Forster Jr. in Little Rock, an FBI news release said. But the release didn't say where Eubank testified. Holloway was taken after his court appearance, and inquiries of the FBI and the U.S. Marshal Service proved fruitless.

The FBI also declined to provide details of law enforcement officials believe Holloway was a not say whether he knew of the alleged plot to kidprincipal in the kidnapping, but did not refer to Holloway as a suspect in Miss Rene's slaying.

After Thursday's hearing, Forster said he wanted to study the law before deciding whether Holloway should be held without bond and taken to Fort Worth by federal marshals or released from custody and allowed to make the trip on his own.

In the hearing, FBI agent Oscar Taylor Eubank testified that Holloway told authorities he drove of a wildlife preserve at Pine Bluff, about 45 miles Orlando Hall and Webster from Pine Bluff to the Little Rock Airport on separate occasions and tified Tuesday, and authorities said she was slain later picked up Hall at the airport when he returned to Arkansas.

Cult deaths investigated as murders

By CHRISTOPHER BURNS Associated Press Writer

GRANGES-SUR-SALVAN, Switzerland (AP) - The leader of a cult was at his chalet in Switzerland hours before some of his followers died there in what investigators said today may have been murder, not mass suicide.

An investigating judge said Luc Jouret and another leader of the Order of the Solar Tradition had to get a locksmith to let them into the chalet Tuesday.

Early the next morning, the chalet and three other buildings went up in flames. Forty-eight cult members were found dead in the rubble.

Three more bodies, including that of a child behind a water heater with a plastic bag over his head, were discovered Thursday in a house owned by Jouret north of Montreal. Two charred bodies had been found earlier at the house, which was destroyed in a fire Tuesday.

The fire was set by remote control in the same manner as the fires that the next day razed a farmhouse in Cheiry, Switzerland, and three chalets 45 miles away in Granges-

Webster later traveled to Texas to seek revenge for the Arkansas Crime Laboratory, in an autopsy Marvin T. Holloway, 23, of Pine Bluff, was after the drug deal soured, Eubank testified.

According to Eubank, Holloway told investigators that he saw Miss Rene in a Pine Bluff motel room after picking up Orlando Hall at the airport. Holloway said the girl, who was tied up and had a ping stocking over her head, appeared to be alive, Eubank said Holloway reported that he gave the four men money to rent the motel room and that he lent Orlando Hall his car after seeing Miss Rene.

Under questioning from Ron Nichols, a lawyer Holloway's arrest. The agency's news release said for Holloway, Eubank testified that Holloway did captive. nap Rene before the girl was abducted.

Eubank also testified that he did not know if Holloway was involved in Rene's slaying.

Holloway did not testify during the hearing. Miss Rene was taken from her apartment in Arlington, Texas, on Sept. 24 while she made a panicked 911 phone call. Her body was recovered Sunday from a 4-foot-deep grave in dense woods said. southeast of Little Rock. She was positively idenat the site where her body was found.

The teenager died of "asphyxia due to obstrucreport released Tuesday.

Four men charged earlier in the case are being held in Arlington, Texas, in lieu of $100,000 bond each. Each is charged with aggravated kidnap-

Orlando Hall, 23; his brother, Demetrius Hall, 19, both originally of El Dorado, and Steve Beckley 22, of Irving, Texas, were arrested in El Dorado during the weekend. Bruce C. Webster, 21, of Pine Bluff, was arrested Sept. 30 outside a Pine Bluff motel where Ms. Rene had been held Miss Rene's screams were heard on a 911 tape recorded during her abduction. She spent her last days driving to Arkansas with three of the suspects who then held her hostage at a motel room, Arlington police spokesman Dee Anderson said.

"The three drove the victim to Pine Bluff, Ark. and ended up in a motel there by early Sunday," before a fourth suspect joined them, Anderson

"The victim was held in the motel until sometime Monday morning, at which time the four suspects made the decision to kill the victim," he said. "The victim was driven to a location in Pine Bluff, where the body was eventually recovered.'

Mo. secretary of state impeached

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) -Secretary of State Judi Moriarty she said. Her lawyer said the articlung to her job despite impeachment by the state House and an imminent ouster lawsuit by the still must be convicted in state attorney general.

"I am still secretary of state," Ms. Moriarty declared Thursday night after the House approved three articles of impeachment tied to her conviction for backdating paperwork to help her son's campaign.

"I didn't do anything wrong," cles of impeachment were flawed. The state Constitution says she Supreme Court. No trial date has been set.

Moriarty was convicted last month. She could be fined up to-$1,000 at her sentencing; state law. says she loses her post when sentenced.

sur-Salvan.

Police said they think the first two bodies found in Canada were suicides. The couple was alive when the fire started and doors had been barred to prevent entry to the chalet by rescuers, police said.

But they suspected murder in the deaths of the other three. "We still haven't determined how they died, but we're sure they were murdered," said police Constable Michel Brunet.

Police said they believe the killer then drove the family's car to a nearby airport, where it was found, and then took an international flight, the destination of which was not clear.

It was not known if Jouret, a Belgian doctor, was dead or alive. Officials have issued arrest warrants for him and Joseph di Mambro, the fellow cult leader that visited the chalet here Tuesday.

Another investigator in the case said evidence "clearly" indicates some of the victims in Switzerland were executed. He said 20 victims had bullet wounds in their heads and evidence indicates they could not have shot themselves.

"There was certainly another person who put several bullets into the heads of these victims," investigating judge Andre Piller said Thursday.

However, Piller said the bullets could have been a "coup de grace" intended to finish off victims who were still alive. No weapons were found near the bodies.

Piller said documents also show that there had been a dispute with cult leaders over money.

Still, authorities were not discounting a mass suicide by the cult members, who were believed to be Swiss, French and Canadian. Friends and family members of some of the dead have been adamant that their loved ones would not have killed themselves. One of the victims was found with a letter to her family explaining that she had come to Switzerland to die.

Police said the 25 bodies found in the ruins of the ski chalets in Granges-sur-Salvan showed no signs of violence and appeared to have been "put to sleep.

Some of the 23 victims found in Cheiry had been injected with "a powerful, violent" drug that could have killed them, Piller said.

Some had their hands bound and plastic bags tied around their heads. Police in Geneva detained several cult members for questioning Thursday, and others were being sought. Police said today they had seized bank documents and lists in several houses and apartments of people associated with the cult.
